Of the Right Reverend Father in God,

GILBERT:

Lord Bishop of Sarum. this Weetlev Prelate, as he's to imitate him

E was descended from the Honourable Family of the BURNETS of Leyes, in the North of Scotland; his Father was a Religious and Learned Gentleman, who was advanced for his Merit to be a Lord of the Session, or Judge, in that Kingdom, and was known by the Title of Lord Crammond. His Mother was of the Noble Family of Johnstown, in the South of Scotland, Sister to that Learned, Noble, and A 2 Religious

Religious Patriot, the Lord Waristown, who was honour'd with the Crown of Martyrdom, for adhering to the Constitution of his Country, in the Reign of King Charles II. So that as this Bishop was happy in his Parentage and Education, he fully answer'd what might have been expected from both; and was not only a Confessor for the Protestant Religion, and the British Liberties, but very Instrumental in the late happy Revolution, under the Glorious King William, and in procuring the present happy Settlement of the Crown on the Royal Family that now wears it, which must be allowed to make a shining Part of his Character.

I am sensible, 'tis almost as hard to describe this Worthy Prelate, as it is to imitate him; but out of that Gratitude and Respect which is due to so Great Merit, I am willing to leave this poor Inscription to his Memory.

He has been long distinguish'd for an Eminence in the Characters of a Scholar, a Preacher, a Christian, a Friend, a Protestant, and a True Briton.

As a Scholar, the World has had uncommon Proofs of his Universal Learning. His clear Way of Explaining the Articles of Faith, his vast Compass of History, his Mastery of Stile in several Languages, his Critical Knowledge in the Holy Scriptures, are Beauties that appear in the many Books that he has publish'd.

As a Preacher, he was almost peculiar in a Way that few or none of his Profession have us'd themselves to; but the Access that he had to the Conscience and Affections of an Audience, was Vindication enough of the Method that he took, as most adapted to Conviction of Men, and what has been most attended with the Bleffing of God. His Sermons were always upon Heads of the greatest Importance; his Language easy and strong, his Manner very ferious and moving, what fhew'd him to be in earnest, and was therefore the best Way to make the People so too. The Crowds that follow'd him, and the particular Awe that engag'd upon the Multitude, when he was in the Pulpit, are a plain Argument, that he loft nothing by his Noble Neglect of Words. had an Eloquence superiour to luscious Phrases, and meafur'd Periods. And his Readiness in the Scriptures made him very happy in one Qualification of a Bishop, that he was apt to Teach. This supplied him with a continual Fund of Matter, and the most proper Variety of Words.

As a Christian, he shew'd himself a Pattern of good Works, ready to distribute, willing to com-communicate. His Charity both in Friendship and Bounty was unconfin'd. He was above the Schismatical Temper of denying those to be Christians whom God himself had made so. He shew'd a Softness to Enemies, which has been frequently abused; and in many Cases, rather suffer'd that his Name should be injur'd, than his Spirit russed; and 'tis notorious, what Kindness he continued both to the Persons and the Relations of such as have loaded him with Falshood and Malice.

As a Friend, his Conversation was always either useful or pleasant. He deliver'd himfelf with an Openness that shew'd he had no Reserves unworthy of a Minister or a Christian; and as none had it more in his Power to entertain a Companion, so his general Affability gave Access to Persons of lower Rank, and different Opinions.

As a Protestant, he had an early Reputation in the Reign of King Charles II. when the Mystery of Iniquity was working fast. Then he publish'd his Noble History of the Reformation, which was a Work of that Extent, both in Argument and Collection, that I must ever be amazed at one thing he told me, That the Second Volume is what he compleated in six Weeks time. A Sermon that he preached at the Rolls, in which he publish'd the Curses that that King James I. entail'd upon all his Pofterity that ever turn'd Papist, set the Fury of the Court against him. Then he fled into Holland, and foreign Countries, and by the Observations he made in his Travels, shew'd that the whole World could be a Library to him; nor did he lose his Learning with his Books.

A Briton he always appear'd to be: hearty in the Interest of his Country, and nearly touch'd when he saw it betrayed, the Gains of War thrown away, and Ravenous Politicians getting Estates by Plundering the Publick. As it was a Happiness to the World, that he finish'd the Third Volume of his History of the Reformation, so he liv'd to see the Clouds that hung over our Religion and Liberties disappear. Nor could he ever more to his own Satisfaction have said, Lord, now lettest thou thy Servant depart in Peace, than when his Eyes had seen this Great Salvation.

His last Sermon was preach'd before the King, and contain'd (what he always expressed in a holy Warmth) a Divine Argument against Persecution. For the Happy Qualities that I have now mentioned, did the Rage of a worthless Party appear in the various Forms of Villany against him; Lampoons, Libels, Sermons, and Private Conversation, were all

ple. He was indeed the Butt of Jacobite Fury, the Jest of Fools, and the Song of Drunkards. But the Reputation he has founded abroad will be another Instance to Foreigners, that if ever England has a Worthy in Church or State, he is sure to be run down by many of their own Clergy. I write in the Consusion of Grief and Hurry, but hope that I may pay this small Tribute to the Dear Memory of a Person, who, as he went about doing Good, so with an easie Calmness resign'd his Spirit unto him that gave it.

GILBERT BURNET. Doctor in Divinity, and Bishop of Salisbury, being of good Health, and perfect and found in my Mind, do make and ordain my Last Will and Testament in Manner and Form following; that is to fay, First, I commend my Soul to my Good and Gracious God, who has bleffed me in the Course of my Life with great and fignal Bleffings, both Spiritual ritual and Temporal, and before whom I have endeavoured to walk with great Integrity and Simplicity of Heart, and have exercised my felf to have always a Conscience void of Offence towards my God, and towards all Men, both in the private Capacity of a Christian, and in the Discharge of the Publick Trusts and Stations to which he has called me, though with many Failings, and great Infirmities, for which I humbly defire (and trust to obtain) Mercy and Pardon by the Merits and Intercession of Jesus Christ, my blesfed Saviour and Redeemer, in whom alone I put my Trust, and by whom I fly to the Mercies of God, hoping he will accept of my fincere Repentance, and forgive all my Sins, and that he will affift me with his Spirit, and guide me through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, and receive me into his Kingdom and Glory.

I live and die a fincere Christian, believing the Truth of that Gospel which for many Years I have preached to others. I am a true Protestant according to the Church of England; full of Affection and Brotherly Love to all who have received the Reformed Religion, tho' in some Points Different from our Constitution.

I die, as I all along lived and professed my self to be, sull of Charity and Tenderness for those among Us who yet Dissent from Us, and heartily pray that God would heal our Breaches, ches, and make us like-minded in all things, that so we might unite our Zeal, and join our Endeavours against Atheism and Insidelity, that have prevailed much; and against Popery, the greatest Enemy to our Church, more to be dreaded than all other Parties whatsoever.
