It should be noted all I want to do is correct the location of Braidlie because I felt it show represent the location of Martin Elliot who lead the Elliot Clan at the time.

It was said that he lived high (up North hyghe in Lyddall) in Liddesdale, and found his locality as such.

The grain (those of the same grouping) of Martin Elliot of Braidley high in Liddesdale (further north near the Hermitage), Simon his son;

The grayne/grain can be as a historian Walter Elliot stated means; branch, which he was referring to as a river.

In the above can see the name Gilbert of Stobs and none above are Gilbert. Gilbert up until Gilbert was of Stobs is not a Redheugh name. Then Gilbert in the line of Gilbert of Stobs becomes gentry Sir Gilbert of Stobs.

In the grain of Martin Elliot of Braidley on finds; Gowan Elliot (Gavin Elliot the clerk, means tutored, and likely the Gavin Elliot of Stobs), Hobbe Elliot his brother (Hobbe-Robert), Arche (Archibald Elliot) his brother, since it has be know that Dand of the Brandley (Andrew of Braidlie) is not the son of Martin Elliot it is likely that Andrew is a brother also.

In order to secure the safe keeping of the pledges, they were sent to various places beyond the Firth. A long list is given in the *Register of the Privy Council*² of their names and where they were placed, from which the following extracts are taken :—

In 1541 you see and Archibald Elwald (Ellot) of Gorrenberry, and a Andrew (Dand Elliot) Elwald of Braidley. It is felt at this time there was a son of Patrick Hepburn, (Boswell), where they were of Boswell near Glasgow, and used an highlander name for what became Braidliehope/Braidlieburn. MacPatrickhope which meant “the son of Boswell (Patrick Hepburn) valley.

Catlie is a type of straw grass, and Dunley, Old and New are at the top of hills in which a fort would be placed. Braidlie is Broadlee which means wide on the lee (eastside). Sundhope means Soundhope, “valley of sound”. These areas in RB Armstrong's book are listed as foresta, which means they have trees, and given wind in “the valley of sound” you would have sound.

Land has a tendency to go through changes. The area above shows what I felt would likely be listed as Braidlie have foundations, which are indicated as covered by alluvial/erosive aggregate/soil, in an area of green which is felt to have supported trees the pass.

The people who lived in these patches of trees, foresta, or elwald where like hunter/Hunter, or forester/Forester where elwald/Elwald.

It is felt that the group may have stemmed for followers of King/St Elwald whos bones are at Hexam Abbey, where the Fairbairn where followers of King Fairbairn, both of Scandinavian-Danish-German nature coming up through Northumbria, near York.

The Fairbairn and others which where of the army which was a strand along the Liddel Water, began after the creation of Scotland by Robert de Bruce, following Alexandir Armystrand, of Mangerton, which a cross, on a bank, near a mill referred to as such the Milnholm Cross. The shield at the top makes it appear like a sword was added near the end of the nineteenth century. The letters IHS are found on this christian cross along with AA Alexandir Armystrand initials are the initials, MA and feel he may have had his wife Maggie Armystrand buried with him.

The people of the elwald/St-king Elwald, are felt to be soldiers of a guardhouse the Armytage (Hermitage). It is felt there were Nycson (son of Santa Claus) in the region, one had a father of the name Sundhopis, meaning of Sundhop, where the people of the elwald lived also.

name or Christian name. William of Gorrenberry (15th C.) recorded as Willielmo Elwaldo in 1484 when he was one of the men directed by the Earl of Angus to infest Robert of Redheugh in the lands of Larriston. In 1489 he was one of the men further directed to infest Robert of Redheugh in other lands, there recorded as Wilielmo elwad de gouinbery. He may also be the William who was witness (along with Ninian, Robert, John and Andrew 'Elwald' and others) to a sasine for the lands of Robet of Redheugh in 1497. He was probably closely related to the Elliots of Redheugh and Larriston, as were the later Elliots of Gorrenberry. William (15th/16th C.) recorded as William Elwalde in 1494/5 when he failed to appear along with 85 other Elliots, Armstrongs, Wighholms, Croziers and others. The English and Scottish Popular Ballads. Part 7. By George Lyman Kittredge.

Blaeu's map near Larriston. Auld Martin Elliot is at Prickenhaugh, and he orders Simmy, his son, to be summoned, and the water-side to be warned (including the Currers and Willie o Gorrenberry, who in the other version, st. 27, are warned as owing fealty to Scott; but an Archibald Elliot is described as "in Gorrenberrie" in 1541,* and Will Elliot of Gorrombye was concerned in the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596, Sim Elliot takes the lead in the pursuit of the marauders which Willie Scott has in the other version, and like him is killed. Martin Elliot of Braidley had among his sons, in 1580, a Sym, an Arche, and a Hob,* and was, during a portion of the second half of the sixteenth century, says Mr Armstrong, perhaps the most important person of his name.† This Martin Elliot would fit very well into our ballad, but that he should be described as of Prickenhaugh, not of Braidley, raises a difficulty.

* R. H. Stodart, Scottish Arms, 1881, II, 277, 276. What is there said of Elliot of Braidley was mostly communicated by Mr. R. B. Armstrong.

Martin of Braidlie is across from Gorrenberry between the Hermitage and Gorrenberry.

Matters, however, appear to have got worse instead of better in that district, and the Privy Council made strong complaints against the Master of Hailes for his failure to rule it properly and get sufficient pledges, even threatening to make him deliver up the Castle of Hermitage, that they might place in it persons who could rule the country. Upon this he went to Liddesdale, whence he writes, July 17, 1518, that he has communed with the countrymen, and has got pledges for the Elliots of Redheugh and their gang, and for the Elliots of the other gang of Gorrumberry,⁴ except so many as dwell in Teviotdale on Mark Ker's lands, and are servants of the Warden, who say they will remain still in Teviotdale and not come in Liddesdale; and also for the Crosiers, Nixons, Hendersons, and Forsters. But he had failed to get pledges for the Armstrongs.⁵

² Dated November 8, 1516.—Ibid. i. 234*, and Armstrong, i. 206. Others got remissions about the same time.

³ In the Treasurer's accounts there is this entry, March 4, 1516: 'Item to ane man that bure ane letter to the Master of Halis for the incumming of the Elwandia, 4s.'—Pitcairn, Criminal Trials, i. 263*.

⁴ This letter furnishes a good example of the uncertainty of spelling. The name is first spelt 'Elwandia,' and in the next line 'Ellotis.'

⁵ Armstrong, Liddesdale, i. 211. The names of the pledges for Redheugh were, 'Rob Thorneles-hop, Dand Elliot, Sondhopis sone, Jok Nyxson, Lang Haryis sone, Gilbert Croser, Adamis sone.'

At the time 1518 there were two gangs. One of the Robert of Redheugh; the Redheugh Gang, and the other of William of Gorrenberry, of the grain of Martin of Braidley which lived in Wm Douglas of the Barony of Cavers.

Above it can be seen that William, Robert, Gavin and Archibald, it is felt that Andrew (Dand) who it was said Buccleuch hid in Baillillie was likely dead by the time of the trial 1565.

William was head of the Horseleyhill family by the first wife, and Gavin was was head of the family of the second wife married to the sister of the judge above. The Scot above where in the prosecution, and the Douglas are trying to defend the Horseleyhill family. It should be noted that in the above Robert Elliot who was not the head of the Horseleyhill family and mother not related to Buccleuch was beheaded 'Fylit-Decollat'. It is also best to my recollect for judge Buccleuch to show no bias James Scot son of Walter Scot of Hassendeen was also executed. This by some was said to be a Elliot/Scot feud as one can see it was not divided between Scot-Ellot lines.

It is felt that the Redheugh Gang went along with Buccleuch, and the Gorrenberry Gang rode against him.

For the “Cowie of Gorrenberry”, as above you can see my family does not believe in witches. “The Cowie of Gorrenberry” existed. He was Andrew (Dand) of Baillillie, who was hid away up north by the Buccleuch family a fugitive which was said to be involved in the slaughter of Hugh Douglas. Who went do to Gorrenberry to visit his younger brother Arche Kene (Archibald Elliot), and his second son Clementis Hob, Robert Elwode (Elwald/Ellot) Clement Crosar (Crozier) of Stobs, sister's son. In other words Clementis (Clement's-Clem) nephew, which he adopted because fugitive Andrew (Dand) Elliot could not take care of second son.

Have a problem being related to Gilbert of born of Redheugh, but felt to be the biological son of Gavin Elliot and Jean Scot first wife of Robert of Redheugh and second wife of the biological father Gavin of Baillillie and Stobs, of the Horseleyhill line.

It is felt that Gilbert is utilizing the seal of Redheugh/Stobs yet is of Horseleyhill. Since Gilbert was not the first son of Redheugh; Gilbert needed tutoring by the literate Horseleyhill family, and felt to receive tutoring from William Elliot head of the family. Even then was lucky as one can see above had a difficult time spelling his name, unlike the abilities of Gavin the clerk, or Archie Keen (the wise) which were from a self tutoring family.

The symbol is that of what they the elwald/Elwald were referred to on occasion especially those of Redheugh of being elwand/Elwand, where and elwand is a wand (rod), and standardized Edinburgh ell in length. One referred to as an elwandis (elwand's) means one belonging to the elwand, which means one based on measurement.

Having worked as an mining engineer and an instructed or math, chemistry, physics and Formula Translation (FORTRAN), computer language, am one of measurement, and teaching in an environment of Navajo second language learners of English, have gained a knowledge of linguistics, and the ability to group language, with topography. Also able to interpret surname origins and migrations, with distribution maps.

Degree in mining engineering is from the University of Utah, which has because of the beliefs of the Later Day Saints, of offering their faith after death to their ancestors, provide the world in Salt Lake City, Utah what would be consider the finest genealogical library in the world.

Doing my research noted that someone was named Champernowne instead of Gilbert, and the Ulster Elliot in the 1630 muster except Londondary did not use the name Gilbert.

Gilbert not being utilized by Redheugh except for first appearance was indicative of an aristocratic bastard being placed as clan chief by relation to the Buccleuch family.

Those of the Horsleyhill family, previously un-noticed, are different. The seal here represented is from the Cavers charter-chest. William Elliot probably made use of his father's seal.

It should be noted that the William of Horsleyhill shield has the stag head on it plus the affiliation with the Caver's (Douglas) family.

seal—a bend between two cotises—correspond to those of the Elliots of Redheugh and Lariston, and are quite unlike those of the Elliots of Horseliehill, which differ entirely from the arms of any other Elliot family.³ This shows that Gilbert did not belong to the Horseliehill family, and furnishes a further argument in favour of his being descended from the house of Lariston.

³ The arms of William Elliot of Horseliehill are figured in Armstrong's History of Liddesdale, i. 178,—a chevron between two mullets in chief and a stag's head in base.

The Ker of Ferniehurst have a crest similar to that of William of Horseliehill.

It is felt that Martin would instead of Elliot would allow reference to his name unlike the English Cumbria Ellwood as Elwood. Clan Elwood have the crest;

As on can see the crest represents the description of the crest of William of Horseleyhill.

Noted that Braidley given the importance to the history of The Elliot Clan, Martin Elliot acting as chief was misplaced on the map. Was informed it by the web administrator that it would be difficult to change an relocate, so created a website myself and called it elwald.com to relocate Braidley to it's proper location between the Hermitage Castle and Gorrenberry.

In the process of working on it found out there is a planned wind farm to be placed on The Hill; Hermitage Hill by Infinis.

Then found out that the husband to the clan chief;

No vote donors caught in wind farm payments row

A COMPANY involving two major donors to the pro-Union Better Together campaign has been accused of trying to shortchange a Highlands community out of millions of pounds.

North British Wind Energy Ltd has been accused of trying to shortchange a Highland community over a 23-turbine wind farm

North British Wind Energy (NBW) part chair Christopher Wilkins

Stratherrick & Foyers Community Trust, on the southern shore of Loch Ness, is angry at North British Wind Energy Ltd (NBW) for offering to pay less than half the industry benchmark in "community benefit" compensation for a 23-turbine wind farm on the Corriegarth Estate.

Corriegarth is the family estate of former Barings Bank stockbroker Andrew Fraser, who was last week revealed as one of the largest donors to Better Together, after giving £200,000. Fraser first entered into an "option agreement and licence" with NBW in 2008.

NBW is chaired by another Better Together donor, Christopher Wilkins, a former soldier with links to MI6, who recently gave £10,000.

Both Fraser and Wilkins are also significant shareholders in NBW.

NBW is offering to pay the Community Trust £2000 per megawatt (MW) to compensate them for the 50MW wind farm, whose turbines will be 120m high. Two neighbouring SSE wind farms will pay the Trust £5000 per MW.

Found out that he has an MI6 links and has the links to the ability to spy on me and even read this writing. It should be said, I sure hopes he reads it.

He also has strong links to a Ker;

The Duke of Roxburghe has angered locals – including the neighbouring Duke of Northumberland – after winning a lengthy planning and legal battle to build 48 turbines, each about 400ft high, on unspoilt moorland in the Scottish borders.

Construction work began about two months ago with the building of a road 10 miles long through previously pristine countryside to reach the wind farm site.

The Duke, who is worth about £100 million, will reportedly earn as much as £2.5 million a year from the deal although a spokesman, who declined to discuss the actual amount, said that figure was not accurate.

One industry expert said a more realistic figure was in the order of £720,000 a year.

In the course of the 25-year lifespan of the wind farm at Fallago Rig that could net the Duke anywhere between £18 million and £62.5 million.

The details of the deal struck with an energy company remain confidential although The Sunday Telegraph understands the Duke's earnings are performance related – in other words the more the wind blows the more money he will make.

One industry expert estimated Fallago Rig could generate about £875 million income over the next quarter of a century for the Duke and his commercial partner North British Windpower.

Half that sum is in the form of a consumer subsidy, introduced by the last Labour government to encourage renewable energy projects, and which is added on to household electricity bills.

The turbines will not be visible from Floors Castle, the Duke's ancestral home about 25 miles away.

in the beginning

Fallago Rig Windfarm was initially developed by NBW Ltd in a planning process that spanned nearly a decade. The initial application submitted in 2005 became a consented reality for 48 WTGs in Nov 2011. EDF Energy Renewables became involved in the development in 2009 and became the new owners in early 2012, taking full ownership and progressing the project through construction and commissioning, achieving this final milestone in early 2013.

The Duke of Roxburghe, a Ker, had assistance from NBW whose director is of Redheugh.

* A list identical with the above, but in a different order, containing a few more names, and bearing date 3 Feb. 31 Hen. VIII., was forwarded by Wharton to the Council on the 3 Dec. 1541. See Hamilton Papers, I. 136.

Solution; It should be noted in 1541 the Croser (Crosier even Clemy of Stobs uncle to Hob Elwald), the Armstrong, and the Elwald (Ellot/Elliott), brought nine Hunters into Hunthill south of Fernihirst Castle of the Ker. It is felt we need new blood to help solve the above.

His predecessor, had a difficulty helping me solve this problem so it is basically helpful to have him take a proper place.

1. Keith Elliot Hunter has been able to trace the beginnings of the Elliot name from a Briton/Breton point of view. Finding that the early name of Elliot was introduced elsewhere besides Liddesdale. He and the community he is from Hawick have been able to make corrections in my work. New in UK research, so was lost in an historical manner, but have strong research experience to be able to follow the father's line further back in line, and the use of surname distribution and process. Keith Elliot Hunter has been a valued individual to his community of Hawick, which really is strong in knowledge of most communities and does not like me want wind turbines on Hermitage Hill.
2. Arthur Elliott father of today's clan chief and grandfather to the future clan chief, has done research way beyond it's time on the Elliot Clan. So major points is that he felt the only possible development, of the name is likely of the christian name Elwald, and through Northumbria, though he felt that at the time 1986 enough information has not been developed. He felt that the St Germain (Breton/Briton) Elliott where of a different group, and those Elliott outside the UK were most likely of Scottish origins. He brings forth the concept that the families are of the borders and maybe we should reach across the broader like we did for the Hunter in 1541.

3. Hawick has an archeological and a Graham, family from the English side is quite well involve and it is felt should be contacted. Though I know there has been some conflict with the Duke of Northumberland, it is felt he also is opposed to wind farms and would feel insulted if you did not ask him for his assistance on repelling this wind farm off the Hermitage Castle.

Sincerely,

Mark Elliott
