Historic bibles stolen from Abercorn Church

Historic bibles, thought to be around 200 years old, have been snatched from Abercorn Parish Church in South Queensferry by thieves.

The religious texts, owned by the Hopetoun family, were on loan at Abercorn Parish Church when they vanished from the pulpit area some time between Sunday July 17 and Saturday July 23.

Police are now appealing for information in a bid to return the pair of coveted books to their distraught owners, and track down the criminals who took them.

Speaking on behalf of the Hope family, Lord Hopetoun said: "We are very distressed at the theft of these bibles.

A letter from your editor... This and that.... dust from your editor's head

We're doing some work on our house which began last January with no end in sight.

Along the way, ideas have come thick and fast.

In the process, I suddenly realized I have made a career out of having ideas.

Huh? Yep.

WMOP's Country Club, Hay for Hungry Deer, The Family Tree - just a few of the larger ones.

In the "work on our house" idea box: If you have a room which is painted a color you enjoy...but, the walls have areas which have become scuffed and scratched. (In this case, our stairwell...from the "Airmail" things we toss down the stairs to keep me from having to carry them down.) Those walls looked very ratty. What to do?

Repainting that particular place would be very difficult as it has a high, high ceiling and I am not very tall. A ladder on stairs isn't safe, is it? Nope.

So, I scrounged a bit of discarded drywall from the laundry - which is being worked on, and which is the same yellowy - cream color as the stairwell - and took it to the local paint place...magically, they can scan in the drywall bit and come up with the formula for the exact, precise paint color. They need a color sample about the size of a quarter. Most paint places do this nowadays.

All I had to do was paint over the scuffs, scratches, etc. It looks as if the entire walls were freshly painted!

Ditto for the laundry room and the back hall!

I think the paint was about $3.00. Time? Less than half an hour. This will work anywhere!

The laundry was just too small. We could not move the interior wall as it is full of plumbing things for the master bath which is on the other side of that wall.

So, we've removed the OTHER wall which backed up to a hallway! With the "barn doors" installed and open, all that hallway space will become space in the laundry!

A bonus is that there are now shelves which will hold a whopping sixteen storage bins! There's spaces for the vacuums and color sorting bins, too. We hung a Walmart holder thingie, that was less than $5, to hold the mops/brooms/dusters, etc.

To enlarge the much too small pantry in the kitchen, we removed a bathtub from the hall guest bath...which meant an additional almost three feet of pantry space! (The tub removal was Tom's great idea!)

We installed rope lights and some lights made from wire that cast lovely starry shadows on the walls all around the top of the room. Many shelves make the once too small pantry quite accommodating of many kitchen bits and pieces.

Nothing has fallen on my head in the pantry since it has been completed. Previously, several things each day made ME see stars.

If parts of your home need enlarging or changing to fit your lifestyle better...just think about it awhile...and I'll bet YOU come up with an idea as well.

Combine ideas and Scottish thrift and the sky IS the limit!

Betcha' didn't know that Rocky & Bullwinkle, Dudley Do-Right and Crusader Rabbit were Scottish!

1959 saw the birth of an iconic character brought into the homes and hearts of many, many children, including myself. I'm sure that some of you remember Clan Anderson member, Alexander Hume "Alex" Anderson, Jr., out of California - but, did you know of his history with the infamous Bullwinkle J. Moose and Rocket J. Squirrel, of Frostbite Falls, Minnesota?

Alex Anderson was an American cartoonist who not only brought us the lovable, daffy Moose but his companion Rocket J. Squirrel, Dudley Do-Right and Crusader Rabbit.

He began his career in 1938 at Terrytoons animation studio, where he worked with Jay Ward (a longtime friend), to bring these beloved characters into the burgeoning world of television.

Their work even earned them a place in the Guinness Book of World Records for the first cartoon created for television.

While some will remember him for his many accomplishments, his family and friends will always think of him fondly for his "keen wit, unfailing humor, generosity of time, talent and spirit".

Alexander Hume Anderson, Jr., left behind the mortal world in October of 2010, a World War II naval veteran, a father, friend and husband and a pioneer..

The New Series of Anderson Six Models

DIGNITY, grace, power and comfort developed to an unexpected degree. Custom built by Anderson in the Anderson way, these latest models are worthy successors of the Anderson line—embodying the best of present day thought in automotive engineering in their design, the quality of materials used, their construction and careful workmanship.

Clean-cut lines like the stroke of a master's brush, sweeping from honeycomb radiator to graceful rear; the high cowl, deep cut at the dash, completes the angle of the windshield.

Anderson Sedan. Standard color, Marine green with black top.

Anderson Five-Passenger Touring. Standard color, Brazilian blue.

The studied comfort at the wheel with the instruments in easy reach, the form-fitting seats of genuine leather, French pleated, or of fabrics, rich and durable in texture, over finest curled hair and cushion springs of special make—all contribute to your comfort and satisfaction. The Anderson Six is equipped with the new 7R Red Seal Continental engine, sufficiently powered to carry you over the steepest grades with ease, yet so flexible as to permit drifting through the thickest traffic at slow speeds in "high." The other mechanical units are of equal excellence. The complete chassis is perfectly balanced and fitted with underslung, semi-elliptic springs.

Some desirable territory open for responsible dealers.

“ORIGINS OF THE CLANS”

Ralph A. Bennett, Clan Anderson's We Stand Sure publication.

Identifying one's self with a Clan may come as a new idea to many of you. Scotland, being a small country, formed uneasy alliances between her various tribes and races, but finally these tribes and races were united under one High King, Kenneth MacAlpin, about 850 A.D., when, by some accounts, he married the female successor to the Pictish rulers.

As the Scottish Clans began to emerge around the 13th century, we find some of these Clans representing the older ethnic groupings. For example:

Celtic (Gael): Campbell, MacDonald, Alpin.

Norman: Frazer, Gordon, Sinclair, Stewart.

Pictish: Murray, MacNaughton.

Viking-Norse: MacQueen, Morrison, Gunn, Nicolson.

While having many faults, the Clan system, at its best, was a fine example of benevolent feudalism. The Clansman served his Chief not as a serf but as a relative, entitled to the understanding and care of the relative-Chief.

Society of Antiquaries of Scotland

Dear Society of Scottish Antiquaries Fellows.

It is with great disappointment that I must inform you that the proposed meeting of the Society to be held at the University of Tampa in January next year has had to be cancelled.

This would have been the first meeting of the Society in North America and therefore would have been a historic event in itself.

Support for the event was not there. Only eleven percent of North American members responded to our email and only half of those were positive.

The University of Tampa planned a truly great event and the leadership of the Society in Scotland fully endorsed the proposed meeting. The president himself planned to be one of the speakers.

I would like to personally thank all of those who indicated they would attend, especially those who offered to help with the planning and organizing in some way.

Regards.

Ian Greig

Talk about searching for your roots!

There is a tribe in India that has passed down for generations the art of manipulating tree roots to create a system of "living" bridges.

Did you know these things about Scotland?

* The country's name comes from the Latin name for the Gaels... Scoti. The country name itself is a take on the name Scotia, "land of the Gaels".

* Incidentally, Scotia was actually used first to describe the land of Ireland. Only in the late 11th century, did the world begin to also describe any land north of the River Forth by this ancient Gaelic moniker.

* By the late Middle Ages, the terminology morphed into the modern day, Scots and Scotland.

With thanks to the Clan Anderson publication, We Stand Sure.

Summer in Caithness

So what happens in Caithness in the summer? Rather a lot. First off, there are the pipe band marches down Princes Street in Thurso, every Saturday night in the summer.

You can catch a shinty game. Shinty is a unique Highland game from which ice hockey derived. Note the similar sticks. The Scots fleeing the Highlands after the Clearances who settled in Nova Scotia could not find a field long enough and flat enough for shintyuntil the lakes froze.... and thus came ice hockey.

You could join the Caithness Field Club for a day out hiking. I joined them for a Sunday afternoon at Drum Hollistan, where we hiked across a small part of what is known as the Flow Country, one of the world's largest peat bogs that goes on for miles and miles. We reached the coast by following a small stream to where it disappears over the edge of this waterfall, in front of a sea stack with many nesting seabirds.

On the hike we saw a skylark, kittiwakes, fulmars, shags, razorbills, oystercatchers, a variety of gulls, and puffins !!!!!

Every town in the north has a Gala week, or at least weekend, during the summer. Think of this as being like a US small town Fourth of July celebration.....without the fireworks.....and with every town having theirs on a different week. As one of the larger towns in the north, Thurso has a week long list of activities, including contests, competitions, venter booths, entertainment, a treasure hunt, all sorts of special events, a parade with floats (pirates made a lot of sense around here), highland dancers, and of course.....a pipe band ! This is the Scottish Highlands, for goodness sake !

Clan Bell International

This old West Marche Clan, one of Border clans since the early 1100s, were retainers of the Great House of Douglas and also allied with the best border families through blood and friendship. Their land holdings were extensive, and to survive, they engaged in the "rieving" of the period and participated in many battles against the English.

Declared "unruly" by the Scottish Parliament, many of the Clan emigrated to the Ulster Plantation after 1610.

After William Bell, called Redcloak and Chief of the Clan died in 1628, the chiefship became dormant, and without leadership, the Bells ceased to exist as a viable clan.

Clan Bell International (CBI) in the United States represents Clan Bell world-wide with a coordinated network of 20 International Representatives, each representing the Clan in their own country.

CBI is a charitable organization of Scottish descendants and friends of Family/Clan Bell dedicated to the study of Bell genealogy and Scottish history and the perpetuation of family tradition.

CBI cordially invites membership inquires from persons Named Bell (all spellings), their descendants and friends. Quarterly newsletter published. Tents hosted at major Scottish festivals from coast to coast.

Change the pipe band to a Midwest high school marching band and it could look a lot like any Midwest town fair. Except no funnel cakes, only fairy cakes. Substitute venison burgers for pork chop sandwiches. And do you recognize Candy Floss ?

You can go to the tractor races.

You can go to a highland autocross - an automotive time trial competition held in an open field. This next picture seems to take the place of a Scots event release and waiver.

You can do the town's 3K run. I may not be in bad shape for a 60 year old Hoosier. But I am out of shape compared to folks here, most of whom walk more than they drive.

I did manage to beat the pipe band !

The carnival comes to town, just like every small town in the American Midwest.

As for unusual events, there is the Caithness Viking Festival, celebrating the Viking heritage of the north. For much of the 10th to 13th centuries, Caithness, Orkney and Shetland were ruled by the Norse. Our town, Thurso, derives its name from "Thor's River." It was not until the Battle of Largs in 1263 that King Alexander of Scotland took control of the north from the Norse. That was also supposedly when the Thistle became the flower of Scotland, as supposedly a field of the horrendously

Anyway, to celebrate this Norse heritage we have the Caithness Viking Festival, with an authentic village set up in the park in town

A game of Kubbs. Toss your sticks and knock down opponent's soldiers and then his king.

Viking banquet: Pork belly roasted with apples and honey, roasted root vegetables, hard boiled eggs, some really thick porridge, coarse bread and cheese, fruit and cream for dessert,

The re-enactors were quite interesting. The one below on the left is either Thor, son of Odin, king of the Norse gods, or Hagrid from the Harry Potter movies. The one on the right is either Petriof, slayer of dragons, or some colonial engineering professor. For future reference, fighting your way through a dragon infested valley or a field of Saxon warriors to rescue the beautiful Viking Princess while wearing full chain mail requires you to be in top shape.

Everything is in bloom here. Most of it is green and gold. More shades of green that I could imagine, as shown in the following photos from a walk I took to Big Burn Falls, in Golspie.

And the gold is from the blooming golden gorse that is everywhere in Caithness.

But there are a lot of other colors in bloom as well.

On a pretty day you can hike to a historic monument, like Sinclair Girnigoe Castle. It was built in the 15th century and belonged to the Sinclair/St.Clair clan. My masonic brethren will recognize the St.Clairs as having built, and for centuries protected, Rosslyn Chapel, arguably the most significant Masonic and Templar site in Britain. I've not had time yet, to research if any Masonic connections exist to this northern St.Clair holding.

Or you can walk the seashore.

Or, on a quiet afternoon, I can sit at the table I have in the garden here, amongst our flowers and ferns, and read the Guardian while looking out at the Pentland Firth and Dunnett Head in the distance.

Stand Fast, Craigellachie!

Craigellachie (pronounced Kra-GEL'-a-key) is Gaelic for "rock of alarm." The Clan Grant motto is "Stand Fast, Craigellachie!" Craigellachie is the hill or mountain behind the modern town of Aviemore. It is also the name of a village situated about thirty miles down the River Spey from Aviemore.

Miller brothers dominate throws at GMHG

Brothers Brent and Brady Miller were the top finishers at the 61st annual Grandfather Mountain Highland Games near Linville, North Carolina recently.

The Brothers Miller competed in the professional Scottish heavy athletic competitions in the games, with Brent, 45, finishing first overall and Brady, 47, in third place.

“We do a lot of Olympic lifting and throwing as the bulk of our training,” Brent Miller said. “We threw in college, and I’d called a roommate to go fishing in Florida, who said, “I’ve been doing the Highland Games; you and Brady need to check it out.”

“So, we did, and it went from there.”

The Brothers Miller hail from Tennessee - Brent from Gordonsville and Brady from Lebanon - where they both teach middle school physical education.

“We train together, travel together and throw in a lot of games together,” Brady said. It’s a family thing. I have two high school age boys, and we all throw and train together. They are shot - put and discus throwers, so we are busy at our house.”

“I’ve been to a lot of big games...and this is the most traditional games I’ve ever been to,” Brady said. “It’s more like the Scottish gatherings you read about in books or see on TV.”

Although Brent had been a spectator at the Grandfather Mountain Highland Games before, this was his first year throwing.

It was great,” said Brent, who’s been performing in heavy athletics for about seven years. “I had probably my best day throwing, overall. I like it (at Grandther). It’s just beautiful country, the crowd is big, and it is fun when people cheer for you.”

“They have been on loan from my family to Abercorn Kirk for a long time and recently, the Kirk Session of which I am part, had reluctantly to take the decision to lock the church after a series of antisocial incidents.

“To be confronted now with the theft of these irreplaceable pulpit bibles is deeply sad.

“If anyone has any knowledge of their whereabouts, I would urge them to contact the police as they are of huge value to the Abercorn community.”

The books, which are of a high monetary value, are approximately two feet by one foot in size and are around five inches thick.

Each is bound with red leather and has distinctive brass plating on the corners.

Norman Work, councillor for the nearby Almond ward, said incidents of this nature were concerning for the local community.

He said: “This is very saddening to hear and I will support the police as much as possible.

“The bibles will probably be worth more historically, than monetary, to both the family and the local community.

UNICORN LIMITED

Established 1979

We are working away here at Unicorn, getting lots of new books ready for the fall "season." This week, we have another of our new line of reprints of older family history books, this time a wonderful study of the Armstrongs of Borderland fame.

Because of the age of the originals, these books may have occasional imperfections such as less-than-optimal illustration quality or the occasional marginalia or other markings. We have, however, made certain that there is no missing material.

We hope you will accept a few cosmetic "difficulties" as a fair trade-off for once again having available an older, hard-to-find book at an affordable price. We will check these books carefully before we offer them to you, and we will do our best to find the best copy possible from which to work.

So contact Vicki and tell her your choices and your preferred method of payment, and we'll get your book on its way to you! And, if you prefer, you can order it directly from the website. Happy reading! Renny and Vicki McLeod
