FOREWORD

IN the notable lack of special studies of the various dialects of Scotland, it is not remarkable that the vernacular of Ayrshire has hitherto failed to receive close attention, in spite of its being the native speech of the national poet. This neglect, no doubt, is mainly due to the fact that Burns in his writings made no attempt to reproduce the local dialect in any exact fashion, but unquestioningly adopted the standard which had been set by his predecessors in the field of Scottish poetry. It was well that he did so, for against the endeavour to reproduce in literature, and above all in poetry, the precise details of any dialect even genius itself may strive in vain. Burns wrote for his country and not merely for his native district, and his countrymen have rightly accepted his words in the form he gave to them, and have pronounced them according to their own habits and instincts.

At the same time, Burns could not help being influenced by the speech which he daily heard around him, and the use of which was natural to him. Every now and then, behind the conventional spelling which he had learned from Ramsay and Fergusson, it is possible to detect the real sounds which were in his ears and on his lips. The tell-tale rhyme-words, when carefully considered, frequently reveal what Burns said, in contrast to what he wrote. On the surface, the rhymes in the poetry of Burns are remarkably lax, and many of them cannot be made exact on any fixed system. Many more, however, are loose only in appearance, and become perfectly regular when the words are pronounced as any native of Ayrshire would utter them.

On this account alone, apart from other reasons, it is a matter of literary as well as linguistic interest to know how Burns himself read or recited his poems,—to get as near as possible to the actual sounds he uttered,—and one means of doing so is to study the speech of Ayrshire at the present day. The fruits of such a study are presented in the present work, with sufficient fullness to give a clear idea of the essential features of the dialect. How far some of those features may have developed, or become more marked, since the latter part of the eighteenth century, is a matter for philologists to discuss. Dialects are no more stationary than standard forms of speech, and much may change in the course of a century and a half. But, on the whole, there can be little doubt that Burns spoke very much as good Ayrshire speakers do now, and by this careful investigation Sir James Wilson has done much to bring his countrymen of the present day into closer touch with the native accents of their greatest poet.

W. A. CRAIGIE.

PREFACE

IN my book on Lowland Scotch as Spoken in the Lower Strathearn District of Perthshire, published by the Oxford University Press, I gave an account of my own native dialect, partly in order to help in the compilation of a Scottish Dialect Dictionary, but still more from a love for my mother-tongue. In the present volume I have recorded the result of a similar careful study of the dialect of Central Ayrshire, which I have selected as that which was most familiar to Robert Burns, in the hope that it may not only be of interest to students of language, but that it may also help all admirers of Burns to understand his poems more accurately and to appreciate more fully their humour and pathos.

Robert Burns was born on 25 January 1759 in a thatched cottage in the small hamlet of Alloway (Allowa), two miles south of Ayr, near the river Doon (Din), where his father was a gardener. When Robert was seven years old, his father leased the farm of Mount Oliphant—area 70 acres—within four miles of Ayr, and while residing there Robert went for a short time to the neighbouring school at Dalrymple, five miles from Ayr. When Robert was eighteen years old, his father moved to the farm of Lochlea (Loakhlie)—area 130 acres—in the Parish of Tarbolton (Turbowtun), nine miles from Ayr, and there he died when Robert was twenty-five. Robert and his brother Gilbert then leased the farm of Mossgiel (Musgeel)—area 118 acres, rent £90—one and a half miles from Mauchline (Mawkhlin), and about ten miles north-east of Ayr. In the year 1786, when he was twenty-seven, he married Jean Armour, the daughter of a mason in Mauchline, published his First (Kilmarnock) Edition, and went to Edinburgh. When he was twenty-nine, he took the farm of Ellisland, near Dumfries, but only held it for three and a half years. At the age of thirty-two he settled in Dumfries, and there he died at the age of thirty-seven on 21 July 1796.

Up to the time at which his poems were first published, Burns had spent practically the whole of his life in Central Ayrshire between Ayr and Mauchline, and had written most of them at the farms of Lochlea and Mossgiel, within four miles of the village of Tarbolton, which was his social centre during the greater part of that period. It may be taken as certain that the Scottish dialect which he spoke, and in which he composed many of his early poems, was the dialect then spoken by his relatives, playmates, comrades, and friends resident in that part of Ayrshire. In order therefore to learn what his dialect was, I have made a study of the present speech of old residents of Tarbolton, who have always lived in that neighbourhood and habitually spoken Scotch. My method was to get these old people to talk naturally about old times in their ordinary broad Scotch, and to note, as exactly as I could, what they actually said and their pronunciation of every word. It seems improbable that there can have been any very great change in the ordinary speech of the country-folk since Burns wrote his poems ; and at all events this is the best means now available of arriving at an idea of how he himself spoke and pronounced his Scotch verses.

In the Dictionary part of the book I have given a list of the words in common use in the spoken dialect, each being spelt as it is now pronounced. I have also included in the Dictionary the Scotch words used by Burns, spelt as he spelt them, with a reference to their present pronunciation. An analysis of the system of spelling adopted by him will be found within. He employed a number of words not now in common use, having no doubt got them from old Scotch poems, songs, and ballads, such as those published by Allan Ramsay, Robert Fergusson, and others. Such words I have noted as obsolete or obsolescent.

I have to express my indebtedness for valuable help given me—among others, to Dr. McNaught, the veteran President of the Burns Federation, who has made a lifelong study of Burns's poems and of the Ayrshire dialect; to Professor Craigie of the Oxford English Dictionary; to Mr. William Grant, joint-editor of the Manual of Modern Scots; to Mr. George Watson, author of the Roxburghshire Word-book; to the Rev. Mr. Higgins, Minister of Tarbolton; to Mr. William Baird, whose father was a native of Dalrymple and a relative of Burns; and to my Tarbolton friends, Mrs. Thomson, an intelligent old lady of eighty-four; James Brown, an old ploughman; Adam Dodds, retired mole-catcher; and Mr. and Mrs. Gibson. A photograph of my principal Tarbolton authorities forms the frontispiece.

SPELLING ADOPTED

THE letters I have used to give the pronunciation of words represent the following sounds :

CONSONANTS

The consonants are to be pronounced as they ordinarily are in English, with the following qualifications :

c, k, ck, q	have the sound of k in 'kick'.
g	has the sound of g in 'gag'.
th	has the sound of th in 'thick', 'thin'.
dh	has the sound of th in 'this', 'then'.
hw	has the sound of wh in 'which', 'when', as pronounced in the North of England and Scotland, h being pronounced before w .
r	in Scotch words has a distinct trill.
s	has the sound of the sibilant in 'hiss', 'sister'.
z	has the sound of the sibilant in 'buzz', 'disease'.
sh	has the sound of the sibilant in 'shop', 'dish'.
zh	has the sound of the sibilant in 'measure', 'vision'.
kh	has the sound of the German ch in 'Nacht'.
ch	has the sound of ch in 'church'.

I have retained the use of the letter j, although the sound might be represented by dzh ; of z, where it is pronounced ks ; of c hard before a, o, or u, and of q, which have exactly the same sound as k ; of ch, which might be written tsh, and of the familiar combinations ng, sh, and th, which represent single, not double sounds.

The letters used are those adopted by the International Phonetic Association and the two great English Dictionaries, with the following exceptions :

International		Symbols used in the
	Symbol	New Eng. Dict.	Eng. Dialect Dict.
hw	= ʌ	hw	hw
th	= θ	þ	þ
dh	= ð	ð	ð
sh	= ʃ	ʃ	ʃ
zh	= ʒ	ʒ	ʒ
kh	= ç, x	χ	χ
ng	= ŋ	ŋ	ŋ
y	= j	y	j

I also use the following letters for compound consonants not found in the International table:

ch = tsh (tʃ)
 j = dzh (dʒ)
 x = ks

VOWELS

In Scotch the vowel-sounds are usually simple, single sounds, not a combination of different vowel-sounds, as is often the case in English words in which the vowel is long. Generally speaking, Scotch folk speak more slowly and make their vowel-sounds longer than do most Englishmen, so that to an English ear a Scotch short vowel sounds long, and a Scotch long vowel sounds drawled. Some speakers lengthen their vowels more than others, and the same speaker will alter the length of a vowel according to the rapidity of his utterance. The spelling I have employed is as follows:

Spelling	Sound as in the English words a or aa	calves (caavz), Ah! (aa), far (faar), father (faadher)
ai or ay	maid, sail, day, may aw	all (awl), awe (aw), paw
e	hen, pet, best
ee	feet, deed, see, me (mee) ei	Not found in English, but common in the pronunciation by a Scotchman of such English words as mine (mein), night (neit), tile (teil)
i	pin, mist, mill
ii	i (ii), eye (ii), my (mii), die (dii), five (fiiir)
o	hot, fond, lost
oa	road, go (goa), roll (roal)
oi or oy	oil, boy, moist oo	foot, food, cool, would (wood) ow	our (owr), house (hows), how, cow
u	sun, but, must
ui	Not found in English or in Central Ayrshire; something like the French eu or German ö .

Most of these vowels may be either short or long. When short, the sound is practically the same as the E. short vowel;

when long it is the sound of the first part of the E. long vowel in shouting or singing on a long note.

It is not easy to say when a vowel is short and when it is long, as that greatly depends on the way of speaking of the individual speaker. Except in the case of o and aw, where I have employed o for the short sound and aw for the long sound, as in E. hot, haw, I have not attempted to distinguish between short and long vowels. Almost the only general rules that can be laid down are that:

(1) i, o, and u are always short, as in E. pin, hot, sun.

(2) ay and ee are short at the end of a word of more than one syllable, as in A. winnay (will not), buddēe (body).

But in bawbee, surree (soirée), coamitee, the ee is long.

The spelling I use corresponds as follows with the symbols adopted by the International Phonetic Association and the two great English Dictionaries:

	International Symbol	New Eng. Dict.	Eng. Dialect Dict. a or aa	ɑ, ɑ:	ā	ā
ai or ay	e, e:	ē	ē
aw	ɔ:	ō	ō
e	ɛ	e	e
ee	i, i:	ī	ī
i	ɪ	ĭ	ĭ
o	ɔ	ɔ	o
oa	o, o:	ō	ō
oo	u, u:	ū	u
u	ʌ, ə	ʊ	ʊ, ə
ui	y, ø:	ö	œ

Besides these simple vowel-sounds there are also found in Scotch the following double vowel-sounds:

*International

ei composed of u-ee = eī

ii composed of aa-i = aī

oi composed of oa-i = oī

ow composed of u-oo = ū

PRONUNCIATION

IN making the following comparison between Scotch as now spoken in Central Ayrshire and standard English, I do not mean to suggest that the one is derived from the other, but merely to point out the differences between the words as pronounced in the two forms of speech ; which are really, as regards the words most commonly used, separate developments of the Old English group of dialects. Nor do I suggest that, in every case in which I compare a Scotch word with an English word similar in pronunciation and meaning, the two words have the same etymological origin.

CONSONANTS

Consonant Sounds omitted in Ayrshire.

Many words in Ayrshire omit certain consonant-sounds which are pronounced in standard English, the sounds most commonly omitted being d, especially after n or l, t, especially after k, and l, especially after aw.

d omitted after n :

shoulder	shoaldur	shoodhur

There are, however, a number of exceptions, e. g. awl (oald), bawl (boald), cawl (coald), bowl (boal), fool (foul or fowl).

l is not usually omitted after the vowel-sounds aa, ai, e, ee, ei, i, oa, or u, e. g. waal (well, n.), tail (tail), sell (sell), heel (heel), boil (boil), fill (fool), hoal (hole), ull (ill).

Where in E. l has been dropped, though retained in the spelling, A. drops it also, e. g. hawf for half (haaf), cawf for calf (caaf), sawmun for salmon (saamun).

There is a tendency in A. to omit labial sounds, in comparison with E. In a number of words b is omitted after m :

E.			A.

The labial sound f is omitted in sel for self, twalt for twelfth.

The labial sound w is omitted in oo for wool or woo, oor for woor, oon for wound, koa for quoth, soom for swim, scoop for sweep.

The labial sound p is omitted in taatie for potato.

Other consonant-sounds omitted, as compared with E. are :

Addition of Consonant Sounds.

It is curious how closely the Ayrshire dialect agrees with standard E. in the matter of pronouncing or not pronouncing the sound of h at the beginning of a word, the only words in which there is any difference being:

E.		A.
Written	Spoken
it	it	hit or it us	us	huz or us
owl	owl	hoolut
urchin	urchin	hurchin (hedge-hog)
herb	herb	irb
heritor	heritor	airitur
humour	hyoomur	yoomur

Words which, as spelt in E., begin with wh, and are, in the south of E., pronounced as if they began with w only, are pronounced in A. as if they began with hw, both sounds being breathed :

E.		A.
Written	Spoken

white	wiit	hweit
wheat	weet	hweet
whip	wip	hwup
whisky	wiski	hwuskie
whistle	wissil	hwussul

For E. 'who' (hoo) A. has hwaw, for 'whose' (hooz) hwawz, and for 'whole' (hoal) hail.

In a few words A. has a consonant-sound not found in E. :

Change of Consonant Sounds.

One of the most noticeable differences between E. and A. is that while in E. the present participle and verbal noun end in -ing, in A. (as in almost all local dialects of English) they end in in, and not in the guttural nasal. This is also the case with other E. words ending in ng, except monosyllables, which in A. usually retain the ng.

Monosyllables. Bring, ring, sing, thing, tung (tongue), and yung (young) are pronounced as in E. ; 'king' becomes keeng, 'song' sang, 'wrong' (rong) rang, and 'long' lawng or lang. 'Length' becomes lenth, and 'strength' strenth. Thrang means 'busy'.

'Among' (amung) is umang, and 'nothing' (nuthing) naything. 'Onion' (unyun) becomes ing-un.

In A. the sound r is pronounced much more distinctly than in E., with a marked trill, due to the vibration of the tip of the tongue. It has no such effect on the pronunciation of a preceding vowel as it often has in E.

Another very noticeable difference is that, as compared with E., A. has a liking for guttural sounds, and more especially it retains the aspirated guttural sound kh (usually written ch), which is common in German and in Gaelic, but has been dropped in standard English, though a number of E. words show by their spelling that it was pronounced in old E. :

Other words in which the sound kh is pronounced in A. are :

stakhur (stagger), hawkh (holm), sawkh (willow), clawkht (clutched), shawkhul (shamble), crawnruck (hoar-frost), laikh (low), pekh (pant), stekhie (stiff), dreekh (slow, tedious), screekh (screech), ubeekh (aloof), dikht (wipe), flikhtur (flutter), Mikhulmus (Michaelmas), toakhur (dowry), hyukh (steep hollow), shyukh (ditch, trench).

The guttural sound k (or c) is found in A. where other sounds are found in E. :

E.		A.

k for p	peep	peep	keek
	spill	spill	scail
	chops	chops	chowks

On the other hand 'pocket' becomes pooch.

Similarly the guttural g is found in A. in place of other sounds in E.: for j in rig (ridge), brig (bridge), seg (sedge); for w in geizunt (wizened); for y in gant (yawn).

There is a tendency in A. to have a voiceless consonant in place of a voiced one in E.: k for g in creesh (grease)—ch for j in purrich (porridge)—t for d in -it for -ed, the termination of the past tense and past participle of verbs, e. g. liftit (lifted) and in naikit (naked), raggit (ragged), uyont (beyond), feent (fiend), saicunt (second), revrunt (reverend)—th for dh in siith (scythe), thoa (though), scaith (scathe), haithun (heathen), mooths (mouths), peths (paths)—f for v in neffa (nephew), Steeffin (Stephen)—and s for z in loas (lose) and weis (wise).

Instances to the contrary are: g for k in grávvut (cravat)—d for t in boadum (bottom)—z for s in huz (emphatic form of us), doaz (dose), prizentur (precentor), Dizembur (December).

The following differences are noticeable: dh for d in edhur (adder), ledhur (ladder), idhur (udder), foadhur (fodder), poodhur (powder), shoodhur (shoulder), sowdhur (solder)—dh for t in dhu-day (to-day), dhu-nikht (to-night), dhu-moarn (to-morrow), dhigidhur (together)—th for t in drooth (drought); and on the other hand d for dh in smiddie (smithy), faddum (fathom), and for th in pad (path) and yird (earth)—h for th in hree (three) and hroo (through). The ordinal numbers mostly end in t instead of th, e. g. twalt for 'twelfth'.

Other differences in consonant-sounds are: s for sh in ass or aws (ashes), buss (bush)—sh for s in creesh (grease), fleesh (fleece), shoo (sew), baishun (basin), shin (soon)—zh for z in poozhun (poison), z for s in lowz (loosen)—l for n in chimla (chimney)—n for l in flennun (flannel)—n for r in gartun (garter)—t for n in roazut (rosin)—j for d in jook (duck, v.)—dh for y in dhustreen (yester evening)—y for w in yin (one, num.), yay (one, adj.), yins (once)—y for h in yowl (howl)—y for l in byoo (blue) and pyukh (plough)—ng for nj in sing (singe).

Transposition of Consonant Sounds.

In the following words the consonants are transposed as compared with E.: broad (board), brukh (burgh), brunt (burnt), brust (burst), birs or birsil (bristle), girsul (gristle), crudz (curds), gars (grass), girn (grin), kittul (tickle), kirsun (christen), scart (scratch), waarsul (wrestle), wursut (worsted).

VOWELS

The differences in vowel-sounds between E. and A. are much more numerous than the differences in consonant-sounds, and more important as affecting the general sound of the spoken language.

Aa long.

In a few words the E. long aa is represented in A. by the same sound (generally spelt by me a): ar (are), bark (bark), clark (clerk), hark (hark), mark (mark), markut (market), park (park), stark (stark), last (last), blast (blast), past (past), tartun (tartan).

More commonly, aa becomes aw: maw (ma), paw (pa), bawr (bar), cawr (car), fawr (far), jawr (jar), scawr (scar), stawr (star), dawrk (dark), dawrlin (darling), hawrlie (hardly), bawrn (barn), bawrlay (barley), hawf (half), cawf (calf), cawm (calm), sawm (psalm), sawmun (salmon).

The E. aa becomes ai in airch (arch), mairch (march), airm (arm), airmie (army), airt (art), cairt (cart), pairt (part), pairtie (party), caird (card), gaird (guard), yaird (yard), lairj (large), hairst (harvest), maistur (master), plaistur (plaster), faidhur (father), paitrik (partridge), laivruk (lark), raidhur (rather).

E. aa becomes e in cherm (charm), dert (dart), ferm (farm), fermur (farmer), herm (harm), hert (heart), herth (hearth), rigerd (regard), stert (start), sterv (starve), terrie (tarry).

E. aa becomes u in ur, the slurred form of ar (are).

A short.

The short a, which is so characteristic of standard English, is usually replaced in A. by long aa, aw, ai, or e.

It becomes long aa (generally spelt by me a) in such words as can, man, ran, brat, cat, fat, dhat (that), back, black, pack, stack, bad, mad, dram, lam (lamb), clap, slap, lass, last, cash, hash, hach (hatch), mach (match), lakh (laugh), dans (dance), fansi (fancy), mans (manse), stamp (stamp).

It becomes aw in such words as hawn (hand), lawn (land), stawn (stand), lawd (lad), Sawbuth (Sabbath), cawnul (candle), hawnul (handle).

It is replaced by ai in hay (have), aix (axe), brainsh (branch), naig (nag), cairie (carry), mairie (marry), aipul (apple), paitriut (patriot), paitrunij (patronage), faimli (family); and by e in et (at), cled (clad), gled (glad), bress (brass), gless (glass), hev (have), thenk (thank), breckun (bracken), eftur (after), gedhur (gather), hemmur (hammer), dezzul (dazzle), trevul (travel), edhur (adder), ledhur (ladder), nestay (nasty).

E. a becomes i in hiv (have), hiz (has), hing (hang), and kist (cast), v. pa.; it becomes oa in Joak (Jack).

In a number of short words, when spoken rapidly, E. a becomes u, as in the indefinite article u (a), un (an), and in un (and), dhun (than), ut (that), hud (had), pyoomun (ploughman).

Au or Aw.

In a number of words E. au or aw is represented in A. by the same sound: aw (all), baw (ball), caw (call), faw (fall), gaw (gall), haw (hall), smaw (small), waw (wall), law, claw, raw, saw, wawr (war), wawrn (warn), wawk (walk), stawk (stalk), fawt (fault), scawd (scald), cawz (cause), awfa (awful).

In other words E. aw becomes aa, especially after w, as in waarm (warm), swaarm (swarm), waatur (water), waant (want), dwaarf (dwarf), slaakhtur (slaughter); or oa, as in boakht (bought), broakht (brought), foakht (fought, pa.), noakht (nought), soakht (sought), thoakht (thought), foakhun (fought, pa. p.); or ai, as in stray (straw), braid (broad), hainsh (haunch), painsh (paunch); or ow, as in thow (thaw); or e, as in beld (bald).

Some of these words are often pronounced with a vowel-sound between i and u.

E. i becomes aa in qwat (quit), sax or sex (six); and becomes e in prent (print), stell (still, n.), kennul (kindle), thirteen (thirteen); ei in Upreil (April); and oo in soom (swim).

II.

In a number of words E. ii is represented by the same sound in A., as in Ii (ay=yes), bii (buy), crii (cry), dii (dye), drii (dry), dhii (thy), fii (fie), lii (lie), mii (my), pii (pie), plii (ply), prii (pry), shii (shy), skii (sky), slii (sly), spii (spy), tii (tie), trii (try), rii (wry), biir (byre), fiur (fire), miir (mire), siir (sire), tiird (tired), fiiv (five), priiz (prize), siiz (size), siith (scythe).

More commonly E. ii becomes ei in A., as in hwei (why), breid (bride), preid (pride), reid (ride), seid (side), teid (tide), weid (wide), leif (life), neif (knife), reif (rife), weif (wife), deik (dyke), leik (like), eil (isle), meil (mile), smeil (smile), steil (style), veil (vile), hweil (while), weil (wild), reim (rhyme), teim (time), dein (dine), fein (fine), kein (kind), mein (mine or mind), nein (nine), pein (pine), shein (shine), wein (wine), peint (pint), peip (pipe), reip (ripe), sheir (shire), eis (ice), deis (dice), meis (mice), neis (nice), preis (price), threis (thrice), weis (wise), speit (spite), hweit (white), dreiv (drive), streiv (strive), reiz (rise), beibul (bible), eidul (idle), teitul (title), suseitie (society).

In a few words E. ii becomes ee, as in ee (eye), dee (die), lee (lie), flee (fly), slee (sly), cheel (child), Heelun (Highland), breer (briar), heekh (high), ubleej (oblige); or i, as in bi (by), blin (blind), fin (find), uhin (behind), brikht (bright), frikht (fright), likht (light), slikht (slight), mikht (might), nikht (night), rikht (right), sikht (sight), tikht (tight); or aa, as in A (I), ma (my), masel (myself); or e, as in fekht (fight), hekht (height); or ai, as in aidhur (either), naidhur (neither), qwait (quiet), airn (iron).

O.

E. short o is, as a general rule, rounded into oa in A., as in oa (of), oan (on), noa (not), joab (job), oad (odd), coad (cod), Goad (God), noad (nod), troad (trod), boag (bog), coak (cock), loak (lock), bloak (block), floak (flock), moak (mock), roak (rock), stoak (stock), Joan (John), scoan (scone), shoan (shone), foand (fond), stroang (strong), shoap (shop), stoap (stop), loard (lord), foarm (form), stoarm (storm), coarn (corn), hoarn (horn), scoarn (scorn), thoarn (thorn), hoars (horse), soart (sort), shoart (short), spoart (sport), foarth (forth), noarth (north), loas (loss), moas (moss), toas (toss), coast (cost), froast (frost), loast (lost), shoat (shot), spoot (spot), troat (trot), froath (froth), moath (moth), scoarch (scorch), boax (box), foax (fox), Scoach (Scotch), Scoatlun (Scotland), oafun (often), boanie (bonnie), coalur (collar), coalay (collie), foalay (folly), hoalay (holly), poalish (polish), froalik (frolie), oanist (honest), oanur (honour), roabin (robin), scoalur (scholar), coalij (college), coatij (cottage), coatur (cotter), coanshuns (conscience), coanstunt (constant), coarnur (corner), foarust (forest), foartie (forty), Joardie (Geordie), goasup (gossip), hoarid (horrid), hoach-poach (hotch-potch), moadist (modest), moadul (model), noadul (noddle), toadul (toddle), toadie (toddy), moarnin (morning), dhu-moarn (to-morrow), noansuns (nonsense), oardur (order), oabjik (object), proamus (promise), roazut (rosin), soalum (solemn), coamplimunt (compliment), foartun (fortune), stoakin (stocking).

In a number of words o becomes aa, especially when the vowel-sound is preceded or followed by a labial consonant-sound, as in aff (off), aft (oft), sab (sob), swaan (swan), rang (wrong), tangz (tongs), ulang (along), sang (song), crap (crop), drap (drop), hap (hop), pat (pot), craft (croft), saft (soft), sqwaad (squad), waant (want), waash (wash), swaalla (swallow), qwaarie (quarry), qwaarul (quarrel), waarluk (warlock), qwaantiti (quantity).

E. o becomes aw in lawng (long), mawt (malt), sawt (salt), wawn (wand), wawnur (wander); ai in claith (cloth), laird (lord), gain (gone); e in het (hot); i in wiz (was) and hwit (what); ow in sowdhur (solder); and u in luj (lodge), fur (for), nur (nor), dug (dog), swurd (sword), buddie (body), bunnut (bonnet), lujinz (lodgings), furrin (foreign), furgoat (forgot), purrich (porridge).

Oa.

In a number of words E. oa is represented by the same sound in A., as in floa (flow), koa (quoth), shoa (show), sloa (slow), thoa (though), throa (throw), coach, choak (choke), cloak, foak (folk), joak (joke), poak (poke), yoak (yoke), coal, foal, hoal (hole), poal (pole), roam, droan (drone), boar, doar (door), roar, scoar (score), shoar (shore), snoar (snore), toar (tore), cloas (close), coast, poast (post), boat, coat, float, noat (note), roat (wrote), roav (rove), droav (drove, n.), cloaz (close, v.), noaz (nose), roaz (rose, n.), ufoar (before), coazie (cosy), hoalie (holy), moamunt (moment), noabul (nobul), noatis (notice), noashun (notion), oanlie (only), oapun (open), soajur (soldier), stoarie (story), toakun (token).

E. oa becomes a or aa in na (no), brak (broke), spak (spoke), and at the end of a number of words, such as barra (barrow), elba (elbow), falla (fellow), halla (hallow), talla (tallow), erra (arrow), harra (harrow), hoala (hollow), marra (marrow), nerra (narrow), meena (minnow), soara (sorrow), swaala (swallow), weeda (widow), yella (yellow), pulla (pillow), tubacca (tobacco), Glesca (Glasgow).

E. oa becomes aw in aw (owe), blaw (blow), raw (row, n.), craw (crow), saw (sow, v.), snaw (snow), staw (stole), awl or awld (old), bawl or bawld (bold), cawl or cawld (cold), fawld (fold), hawld (hold, n.), gawn (going), hawd (hold, v.).

E. oa becomes ai or ay in fay (foe), gay (go), may or mair (more), nay (no, adj.), say (so), slay (sloe), tay (toe), way (woe), ain (own, adj.), aith (oath), taid (toad), hail (whole), kail (cole), caim (comb), faim (foam), haim (home), bain (bone), grain (groan), lain or ulain (alone), lainlie (lonely), main (moan), stain (stone), raip (rope), saip (soap), sair (sore), flair (floor), hairs (hoarse), maist (most), baith (both), laith (loath), claiz (clothes), draiv (drove, v.) thraiv (throve), laikh (low), laid (load), laif (loaf), raiz (rose, v.).

E. oa becomes ee in reest (roast), cleedin (clothing); oo in shoo (sew), poor (pour), coors (coarse or course), coort (court), cootur (coulter), shoodhur (shoulder); ow in bow (bow), grow (grow), how (hoe), now (knoll), pow (poll), tow (tow), trow (trow), owr (over), fowur (four), bowl (bowl), sowl (soul), gowd (gold), howp (hope), cowt (colt), smowt (smolt), pownie (pony), bowstur (bolster); i in dinna (don't); and u in murn (mourn).

Oi or Oy.

E. oi or oy generally becomes ei in A., as in eil (oil), beil (boil), keil (coil), meil (moil), speil (spoil), teil (toil), jein (join), kein (coin), jeint (joint), peint (point), veis (voice), keit (quoit), jeinur (joiner). It remains oy in boy, toy—pronounced long like boaay, toaay—becomes ee in heez (hoist), and oo in poozhun (poison).

Oo.

E. oo is, in a few words, represented by the same sound in A., as in oo (woo or wool), bloo (blew), floo (flew), doo (drew), dyoo

(dew), foo (full), fyoo (few), nyoo (new), poo (pull), roo (rue), scroo (screw), troo (true), throo (threw or through), yoo (you), spyoo (spew), vyoo (view), cood (could), cook, took, rool (rule), room, moov (move), soodh (soothe), stoop.

In some other Scotch dialects E. oo becomes a sound like the French eu in peu, generally represented by ui, but this sound does not now exist in Central Ayrshire. There E. oo often becomes simply i, or at the end of a word or before the sound r or z often becomes ay or ai. For example, it becomes i in gid (good), fid (food), mid (mood), rid (rood), shid (should), stid (stood), wid (would), rif (roof), prif (proof), kill (cool), fill (fool), pill (pool), skill (school), still (stool), blim (bloom), Jin (June), min (moon), shin (soon), shin (shoes), spin (spoon), tin (tune), giss (goose), fit (foot), pit (put), rit (root), brit (brute), shit (shoot), sit (soot or suit).

It becomes ay or ai in day (do), tay (to or too), shay (shoe), bray (brew, n.), blay (blue), mair (moor), pair (poor), shair (sure), chaiz (choose), maizik (music), ubaiz (abuse, v.), excaiz (excuse, v.), rifaiz (refuse, v.).

It becomes u in buss (bush), zur (your), yursel (yourself), luk (look), bull (bull), bullut (bullet), full-lie (fully), buchur (butcher), wummun (woman); yu in byuk (book), hyuk (hook), nyuk (nook), shyuk (shook); aw in twaw (two), hwaw (who), hwawz (whose); ee in teeth (tooth)—ei in jeis (juice)—oa in boazum (bosom); and ow in chow (chew), yow (ewe), lows (loose), lowz (loosen).

Ow.

E. ou or ow generally becomes oo in A., as in boo (bow), broo (brow), coo (cow), hoo (how), moo or mooth (mouth), noo (now), ploo (plough), soo (sow), dhoo (thou), voo (vow), cooch (couch), pooch (pouch), crood (crowd), lood (loud), prood (proud), fool (fowl or foul), broon (brown), croon (crown), doon (down), roon (round), soon (sound), toon (town), coont (count), oor (our and hour), coor (cower), floor (flour and flower), poor (power), scoor (scour), soor (sour), shoor (shower), toor (tower), hoos (house), loos (louse), moos (mouse), oot (out), doot (doubt), shoot (shout), cloot (clout), stoot (stout), snoot (snout), spoot (spout), troot (trout), drooth (drought), sooth (south), coonsul (counsel), poodhur (powder), uboot (about), accoont (account), umoont (amount).

E. ou becomes aa in fan (found), and u in pun (pound-weight—‘pound’ in money is pown), clud (cloud), grun (ground).

U.

In many words E. u is represented by the same sound in A., as in tuch (touch), bud, snuff, stuff, hug, jug, snug, tyug (tug), juj (judge), dyuk (duck), dull, cum (come), hum, sum (some), fun, gun, sun (sun and son), brunt (burnt), hunt, dung, hung, strung, stung, sunk, tung (tongue), yung (young), up, cup, fur (furrow), wurd (word), wurk (work v.), wurm (worm), curl, burn, turn, wurrie (worry), curs (curse), nurs (nurse), purs (purse), hurt, wurth (worth), brust (burst), crust, dust, trust, but, hut, buttur (butter), cuntra (country), hung-ur (hunger), luvvur (lover), muckul (much), murdur (murder), smuggul (smuggle), tummul (tumble), unkul (uncle).

E. u becomes aa in umang (among), rash (rush n.), wark (work n.), warst (worst)—aw in wawr (worse), wawrl (world)—ai in yay (one adj.), nain (none), naything (nothing)—i in sic (such), blid (blood), kid (cud), yin (one num.), yins (once), din (done), rin (run), ubin (above), tip (tup), kirk (church), kirn (churn), jist (just), nit (nut), diz (does), dizn (dozen), kizn (cousin), idhur (other or udder), bridhur (brother), midhur (mother), simmur (summer), stibbul (stubble)—oa in coarnul (colonel), oavun (oven)—oo in doo (dove), loo (love), book (bulk), sook (suck), thoom (thumb), ploom (plum), doobul (double), soopul (supple)—and ow in sowp (sup n.).

Indistinct Vowel Sounds.

As in E., there is a strong tendency in A. to shorten the vowel-sound in an unstressed word or syllable, with the result that the sound becomes indistinct, and it is difficult to say whether it is better represented by a short a, e, i, or u. The commonest of these short vowels is u, pronounced as in the E. words ‘sun’, ‘nut’, ‘rub’, which seems to be the vowel-sound which can be pronounced with the least effort of the vocal organs. A number of short words, frequently used, are generally pronounced in rapid speech with the u-sound, though some of them have a different vowel-sound when they are emphasized. Examples:

E.		A.
Written	Spoken	Stressed	Unstressed a	a	u	u
an	an	un	un
and	and	un	un
the	dhe	dhu	dhu
him	him	him	hum, um
her	her	hur	hur, ur
them	dhem	dhaim	dhum
their	dhair	dhair	dhur
there	dhair	dhair	dhur
your	goor	goor	yur
that	dhat	dhat	dhut, ut
then	dhen	dhan	dhun
when	hwen	hwan	hwun
man	man	man	mun
are	ar	ar	ur
know	noa	ken, kain	kin
of	ov	oa	u
kind of	kiind ov	kein oa	kinna

In a number of words some speakers have a tendency to use the short i, and others the short u. Ex. wiz or wuz (was)—hiz or huz (has)—wid or wud (would)—win or wun (wind).

In other words some speakers use i, others e or a sound between the two. Ex. fish or fesh (fish)—dish or desh (dish)—fifteen or feften (fifteen)—fiftie or fettie (fifty)—if or ef (if)—sistur or sestur (sister)—hiv or hev (have)—fit or fet (foot)—dinnur or dennur (dinner)—sax, six, or sex (six).

Many words end in a short vowel-sound, generally spelt by me ie, which is sometimes a short i, but with a tendency to make it either a short ay or a short ee. The difference often becomes noticeable when the vowel is lengthened, as in calling out a name or in singing. The tendency to make it ee is most marked when the preceding vowel-sound is ee. Ex. buddee (body)—Jeenee (Janey)—Teenee (Christina)—Beenee (Robina)—but boanay (pretty)—Chairlay (Charlie)—Joanay (Johnnie)—Wullay (Willy)—Sallay (Sally).

The short negative at the end of a verb, corresponding to the E. n't, is generally pronounced as a short nay, with a tendency among some speakers to pronounce it na. Ex. arnay or arna (aren't)—iznay or izna (isn't)—cannay or canna (can't)—winnay or winna (won't)—munnay or munna (mustn't)—dinnay or dinna (don't).

STRESS ON SYLLABLES

In almost all words in A. the stress (emphasis) comes on the same syllable as in E. Exceptions are:

E.		A.
Written	Spoken
envy	en'vy	envii
cravat	cravát	grávut
mattress	máttress	matréss
April	Aipril	Upreíl mischief	mischif	mischeéf mischievous	mischivus	mischéevus
soirée	swári	surrée
committee	comittee	coámittee
magazine	magazéen	mággizeen massacre	mássacur	masáccur
covenanter	cúvinántur	cuvinántur
comfortable	cúmfúrtubul	cumfórtubul
inventory	iúventuri	invénturie

BURNS'S SYSTEM OF SPELLING

In spelling Scotch words Burns is by no means consistent, as he in some cases spells the same word in two or three different ways. Like other writers of dialect, he bases his spelling on the spelling of the corresponding English word, sometimes leaving the Scotch word exactly as it is spelt in English, although it may be pronounced differently, and sometimes making a change in the English spelling, to indicate that the Scotch pronunciation is different from the English ; for instance, by omitting a letter in the English spelling, and by calling attention to the omission by a mark of elision. His method will be understood from the following examples, taken from the first edition of his Poems printed at Kilmarnock in 1786.

ELISION AND ADDITION OF CONSONANT SOUNDS.

Pronunciation in Ayrshire	Burns's Spelling	English
un	an'—and	and

In the heading of his Glossary Burns says: 'The terminations (of the verb) may be thus known: the participle present, instead of ing, ends in the Scotch dialect in an or in; in an, particularly when the verb is composed of the participle present, and any of the tenses of the auxiliary to be. The past time and participle past are usually made by shortening the ed into 't.' But in Ayrshire at the present day no distinction of sound is made between the termination of the present participle and that of the verbal noun, both ending in in (sometimes in both cases pronounced between that sound and un). Burns himself, in his first edition, does not adhere closely to the above rule. Though he often spells the present participle with the termination an, he as often spells it in or ing. In his later editions he drops the distinction, and spells both the present participle and the verbal noun as ending in in, or in the English ing, although in all Scotch dialects it is pronounced in or un, not ing. Similarly, he spells herrin (herring) 'herrin', moarnin (morn-ing) 'mornin'.

When a word has in A. the aspirated guttural sound kh, and the corresponding E. word is spelt with gh (usually either not pronounced or pronounced as f), Burns gives the word its E. spelling, and leaves it to be understood that the Scotch pronunciation of the gh is the rough aspirate, which I spell kh, to distinguish it from ch, representing the sound ch, as in 'church'. Examples are heekh (high), sikh (sigh), inyukh (enough), rikht (right), brikht (bright), likht (light), mikht (might), nikht (night), sikht (sight), broakht (brought), foakht (fought), noakht (nought), thoakht (thought), lakh (laugh). Where there is no gh in the E. word he spells this sound ch or gh, for example, screekh, B. scriech or scriegh (screech), dreekh, B. driegh (tedious), ubeekh, B. abiegh (aloof), hawkh, B. haugh (holm), sawkh, B. saugh (willow), dikht, B. dight (wipe), toakhur, B. tocher (dowry).

Burns makes no distinction in the spelling of the two different sounds spelt with th in E., such as (1) thick, thin, think, thing, and (2) dhu (the), dhee (thee), dhaim (them), dhis (this), dhan (then).

Curiously enough, although in A. 'one' num. is pronounced yin, 'once' yins, and 'one' adj. yay, Burns spells them 'ane', 'ance', and 'ae'.

SPELLING OF VOWEL SOUNDS.

Aa.

The long vowel-sound aa is much more common in A. than in E. When the corresponding E. word is spelt with the letter a, Burns does not usually alter the E. spelling, although the sound may be greatly altered, e. g. aar (B. are), baak (back), waant (want), waatur (water). Where however a is pronounced ai in E., the attention of the reader being drawn to this pronunciation by the addition in E. of a mute e at the end of the word, then, if the corresponding vowel in A. is pronounced aa, Burns sometimes does, and sometimes does not, mark the change of sound by omitting the mute e, e. g. caam (B. cam or came), maak (B. mak or make), taak (B. tak or take). When a word pronounced in A. with aa is spelt in E. with e, ea, i, y, o, ou, ow, or u, Burns sometimes does, and sometimes does not, mark the change by spelling the word with a, e. g. dhaan (B. than or then), dwaal (B. dwell), twaal (B. twal, E. twelve), waalth (B. wealth), waat (B. wat, E. wet), waast (B. west), hwaalp (B. whalp, E. whelp), faala (B. fellow)—qwaat (B. quat, E. quit), saax (B. sax, E. six)—vurraa (B. vera, E. very)—ma (B. my)—aaf (B. aff, E. off), aaft (B. aft, E. oft), naa (B. na, E. no), raang (B. wrang, E. wrong), laang (B. lang, E. long), saang (B. sang or song), umaang (B. amang, E. among), craap (B. crap, E. crop), paat (B. pat, E. pot), draap (B. drap, E. drop), waark (B. wark, E. work), waarst (B. warst, E. worst), saaft (B. saft, E. soft), braak (B. brak, E. broke), spaak (B. spak, E. spoke), haara (B. harrow), soara (B. sorrow), weeda (B. widow), yella (B. yellow)—faan (B. fan or fand, E. found)—rash (B. rash, E. rush).

Aw.

When a word has in A. the sound aw, and the corresponding word in E. has a similar vowel-sound, spelt with a, au, or aw, Burns usually adheres to the E. spelling of the vowel, e. g. aw (B. a', E. all), baw (B. ba', E. ball), caw (B. ca', E. call), smaw (B. sma', E. small), law (B. law), saw (B. saw), fawr (B. far), stawr (B. star), bawrn (B. barn), hawf (B. half), cawf (B. calf), wawk (B. walk), hawn (B. han' or hand), lawn (B. lan', E. land), lawd (B. lad). Sometimes, however, he spells the sound au, e. g.

dawr (B. daur, E. dare), wawk (B. wauk, E. wake), sawt (B. saut, E. salt).

Where the corresponding E. word is spelt with ai or ay, e, o, or ow, Burns sometimes does, and sometimes does not, mark the change of pronunciation by spelling the A. word with a, au, or aw, e. g. uwaw (B. awa or away), hwaw (B. wha, E. who), twaw (B. twa, E. two), hwawr (B. where), sawnt (B. saunt, E. saint)—blaw (B. blaw, E. blow), craw (B. craw, E. crow), snaw (B. snaw, E. snow), awl or awld (B. auld, E. old), cawl or cawld (B. cauld, E. cold), gawn (B. gaun, E. going), hawd (B. haud, E. hold), wawr (B. waur, E. worse).

Ai or Ay.

When a word pronounced in A. with the vowel-sound ai or ay is similarly pronounced in E. or is spelt in E. with a, ai, or ay, e, ea, ei, or ie, Burns usually adheres to the E. spelling, although the sound in A. may be different from the sound in E., e. g. air, airm (B. arm), cairt (B. cart), pairt (B. part), yaird (B. yard), lairj (B. large), faidhur (B. father), maistur (B. master), aipul (B. apple), day, may, say, naim (B. name), cair (B. care), hair (B. hair or hare), lait (B. late), vairs (B. verse), daith (B. death), airth (B. earth), lairn (B. learn), laizhur (B. leisure), rail (B. real), dail (B. deal), baird (B. beard), chaip (B. cheap), fairs (B. fierce), pairs (B. pierce), daisunt (B. decent), nait (B. neat), sait (B. seat), craitur (B. creature), raizun (B. reason), aidhur (B. either), naidhur (B. neither). Exceptions are: hay (B. hae, E. have), naig (B. naig, E. nag).

When, however, the word is pronounced in A. with ai or ay, and is spelt in E. with o, oe, oa, or au, Burns generally spells it with ae or ai, or a with a mute e after the following consonant, e. g. fay (B. fae or foe), gay (B. gae or go), may (B. mae' or mair, E. more), nay (B. nae, E. no adj.), say (B. sae, E. so), slay (B. slae, E. sloe), way (B. wae, E. woe), aith (B. aith, E. oath), braid (B. braid, E. broad), hail (B. hale, E. whole), faim (B. faem, E. foam), haim (B. hame, E. home), bain (B. banè, E. bone), stain (B. stane, E. stone), raip (B. raep, E. rope), sair (B. sair, E. sore), maist (B. maist, E. most), baith (B. baith, E. both), claiz (B. claes, E. clothes), dhay (B. thae, E. those), yay (B. ae, E. one adj.), nain (B. nane, E. none), naything (B. naething, E. nothing), painsh (B. painch, E. paunch).

When a word pronounced in A. with ai or ay is pronounced in E. with oo, Burns generally follows the E. spelling, e. g. day (B. do), tay (B. to or too), shay (B. shoe), pair (B. poor), mair (B. moor), shair (B. sure), chaiz (B. choose), maizik (B. music), ubaiz (B. abuse v.).

When a word pronounced in A., with the vowel-sound e, is spelt in E. with e, ea, a, ai, or a followed by a mute vowel after a consonant, Burns usually adopts the E. spelling, although it may give no indication of a difference in the pronunciation between A. and E., e. g. fed, led, left, leg, neck, fell, tell, sent, ten, helth (B. health), hedhur (B. heather), ledhur (B. leather), ert (B. art), cherm (B. charm), fermur (B. farmer), hert (B. heart), herth (B. hearth), sterv (B. starve), gled (B. glad), gless (B. glass), bress (B. brass), thenk (B. thank), eftur (B. after), gedhur (B. gather), hemmur (B. hammer), em (B. aim), gem (B. game), feth (B. faith), brek (B. break), dentie (B. dainty), fent (B. faint), leddie (B. lady).

When a word pronounced in A. with the vowel-sound e is spelt in E. with i or o, Burns generally spells it with e, e. g. prent (B. prent, E. print), stell (B. stell, E. still n.), fekht (B. fecht, E. fight), het (B. het, E. hot).

Ee.

When a word pronounced in A. with ee is spelt in E. with ee, ea, e, ey, or ie, Burns generally spells it as in E., although the pronunciation in A. may be different from that in E., e. g. bee, fee, see, three, bee (B. be), hee (B. he), mee (B. me), shee (B. she), see (B. sea), tee (B. tea), deed, greed, weed, beef, been, seen, sheep, sweet, eech (B. each), reech (B. reach), neer (B. near), eet (B. eat), heet (B. heat), breed (B. bread), deed (B. dead), heed (B. head), breest (B. breast), weer (B. wear), sweer (B. swear), kee (B. key), cheef (B. chief), greef (B. grief), pees (B. piece), freen (B. frien, E. friend), dee (B. die), lee (B. lie).

Exceptions are : weel (B. weel, E. well), deel (B. deil, E. devil), ee (B. e'e, E. eye).

When a word pronounced in A. with ee is spelt in E. with a, i, or y, Burns generally spells it with ee, or ie, e. g. bleez (B. bleeze, E. blaze), meer (B. meere, E. mare), neebur (B. neebor, E. neighbour), gee (B. gie, E. give), geen (B. gien, E. given), preen (B. preen, E. pin), usteer (B. asteer, E. astir), dreep (B. dreep, E. drip), slee (B. slee, E. sly), breer (B. brier, E. briar).

Exceptions are: weemin (B. women), keeng (B. king), weeda (B. widow), peetee (B. pity), leev (B. live).

Ei.

The vowel-sound ei, not found in E. as pronounced by educated people in the south of England, is common in A., often taking the place of ii. Where in E. this sound is spelt with i or y followed by a consonant and a mute e, Burns adopts the E. spelling, e. g. breid (B. bride), heid (B. hide), leif (B. life), weif (B. wife), deik (B. dyke), meil (B. mile), teim (B. time), fein (B. fine), mein (B. mine), nein (B. nine), peip (B. pipe), meis (B. mice), weis (B. wise), hweit (B. white), beibul (B. bible).

Where ei in A. occurs in a word spelt in E. with ay, oi, or ui, Burns retains the E. spelling, e. g. ei (B. aye), clei (B. clay), hei (B. hay), pei (B. pay), stei (B. stay), wei (B. way), eil (B. oil), beil (B. boil), meil (B. moil), teil (B. toil), jein (B. join), peint (B. point), veis (B. voice), jeis (B. juice).

I.

When a word pronounced in A. with i is spelt in E. with i or e, Burns follows the E. spelling, e. g. rich, did, kick, thick, chin, thin, ring, sing, thing, think, dip, ship, it, sit, iz (B. is), hiz (B. his), rid (B. red), ivvur (B. ever), nivvur (B. never), ivri (B. ev'ry), binsh (B. bench), tinnunt (B. tenant), blissin (B. blessin), blin (B. blind), brikht (B. bright), likht (light), nikht (B. night), sikht (B. sight).

When a word pronounced in A. with i is spelt in E. with a, o, or u, Burns spells it with i, e. g. hing (B. hing, E. hang), fit (B. fit, E. foot), pit (B. pit, E. put), rin (B. rin, E. run), sic (B. sic, E. such), nit (B. nit, E. nut), kirk (B. kirk, E. church), kirn (B. kirn, E. churn), bridhur (B. brither, E. brother), midhur (B. mither, E. mother), idhur (B. ither, E. other), simmur (B. simmer, E. summer), stibbul (B. stibble, E. stubble), dizn (B. diz'n, E. dozen); but he spells wid as in E. 'would'—yin (E. one), 'ane'; yins (E. once), 'ance'.

When a word pronounced in A. with the sound i represents a word pronounced in E. with the sound oo, or represents a word pronounced in other Scotch dialects with the sound of the French eu in peu (which I spell ui), Burns generally follows the E. spelling or spells it with oo, but sometimes with ui or with u followed by a mute e after a consonant, e. g. mid (B. mood), rid (B. rood), stid (B. stood), min (B. moon), shin (B. soon), gid (B. guid or gude), kist (B. coost, E. cast), kif (B. coof, E. fool), lif (B. loof, E. palm), hil (B. hool, E. skin), clit (B. cloot, E. hoof), tim (B. toom, E. empty), shin (B. shoon, E. shoes), ubin (B. aboon, E. above), tip (B. toop, E. ram). He also spells shid 'should' as in E.

II.

When a word pronounced in A. with ii has the same vowel-sound in E., Burns follows the E. spelling, e. g. Ii (B. I, pron. Ay interj.), bii (B. buy), crii (B. cry), dii (B. dye), drii (B. dry), lii (B. lie), mii (B. my), pii (B. pie), tii (B. tie), trii (B. try), biir (B. byre), fiiir (B. fire), miir (B. mire), tiird (B. tir'd), fiiiv (B. five), siiz (B. size).

O.

In the few words in A. in which the sound o is spelt o in the corresponding word in E., Burns retains the E. spelling of the sound, e. g. or, nor, yon, uyont (B. ayont, E. beyond). The short sound o so common in E. is rarely heard in A., its place being taken by the longer aw, or by the rounded oa sound.

Oa.

When a word pronounced in A. with the sound of oa has the same vowel-sound in E., Burns follows the E. spelling, e. g. fioa (B. flow), koa (B. quo', E. quoth), shoa (B. show), thoa (B. tho'), foak (B. folk), joak (B. joke), yoak (B. yoke), doar (B. door), roar (B. roar), toar (B. tore), boat, noaz (B. nose), oanlie (B. only), oapun (B. open), noashun (B. notion). He also follows the E. spelling in several words containing the letters ought, although the sound in E. is aut and in A. is oakht, e. g. broakht (B. brought), foakht (B. fought), noakht (B. nought), soakht (B. sought), thoakht (B. thought)—and in the many words pronounced with oa in A. and with o in E., e. g. oa (B. o', E. of), oan (B. on), oad (B. odd), Goad (B. God), loak (B. lock), foand (B. fond), coarn (B. corn), hoars (B. horse), soart (B. sort), noarth (B. north), froast

(B. frost), moath (B. moth), roabin (B. robin), coaluj (B. college), foarust (B. forest), moarnin (B. mornin, E. morning), oardur (B. order), proamis (B. promise).

When a word pronounced in A. with oa is spelt in E. with a, Burns generally spells it with ou or o, e. g. loan (B. loan, E. lane), oanie (B. onie, E. any). He spells boanie (E. bonny) 'bonie'.

Oo.

In words which in A. and in E. have the same vowel-sound of oo, Burns generally follows the E. spelling of the vowel-sound, e. g. oo (B. woo', E. wool—or B. woo, E. woo), droo (B. drew), dyoo (B. dew or due), fyoo (B. few), nyoo (B. new), scroo (B. screw), troo (B. true), yoo (B. you), cood (B. could), cook (B. cook), moov (B. move), yooth (B. youth)—but he spells foo (E. full) 'fou' or 'fu', and poo (E. pull) 'pou'.

He generally also follows the E. spelling in the many words which in A. are pronounced with the sound of oo, and in E. with the sound of ou or ow, and so spelt in E., e. g. broo (B. brow), coo (B. cow), hoo (B. how), noo (B. now), ploo (B. plough), soo (B. sow n.), dhoo (B. throu), lood (B. loud), prood (B. proud), broon (B. brown), roon (B. roun' or roon, E. round), soon (B. sound), oor (B. our or hour), floor (B. flower), poor (B. pour or pow'r), soor (B. sour), hoos (B. house), moos (B. mouse), oot (B. out), sooth (B. south), uboot (B. about). But he spells doon (E. down) 'doon', crood (E. crowd) 'crood' or 'croud', and soopul (E. supple) 'souple'.

Ow.

In the few words which in A. are pronounced with the vowel-sound ow, Burns generally spells it with ow or owe, e. g. pow (B. pow, E. poll), now (B. knowe, E. knoll), thow (B. thowe, E. thaw), thowlus (B. thowless, E. thewless), lowp (B. lowp, E. leap), grow (B. grow, E. grow pronounced groa), row (B. rowe, E. roll), tow (B. tow, E. tow pronounced toa), trow (B. trow, E. trow pronounced troa), owr (B. owre, E. over), fowur (B. four, E. four pronounced foar), bowl (B. bowl, E. bowl pronounced boal), sowl (B. soul, E. soul pronounced soal), gowd (B. gowd, E. gold), pownie (B. pownie, E. pony), chow (B. chow, E. chew), yow (B. yowe, E. ewe), lowz (B. lowse, E. loosen), sowp (B. sowp, E. sup).

U.

When a word is pronounced in A. with the vowel-sound u, Burns generally follows the E. spelling, although the sound may be different, e. g. bud, snuff, hug, snug, luck, fun, sun (B. sun or son), dung, up, burn, but, dust, cum (B. come), sum (B. some), wurd (B. word), wurm (B. worm), wurth (B. worth), luvvur (B. lover), tuch (B. touch), tung (B. tongue), yung (B. young), yur (B. your), u (B. a indef. art.), un (B. an' or and), wur (B. were), vurraa (B. vera), trummul (B. tremble), hwun (B. when), dhum (B. them), ull (B. ill), jull (B. gill), hull (B. hill), tull (B. till), mulk (B. milk), um or hum (B. him), durt (B. dirt), sturk (B. stirk), sullur (B. siller, E. silver), wut (B. wit), hwuskay (B. whisky), hwussul (B. whistle), luk (B. look).

He does however spell yull (E. ale) 'yill', munnie (E. many) 'monie', dhur (E. these) 'thir', byuk (E. book) 'beuk', ryuk (E. nook) 'neuk', and pun (E. pound) 'pund'.

GRAMMAR

NOUNS

FORMATION OF NOUNS.

DIMINUTIVES, expressive of smallness, endearment or contempt, are very commonly formed from other nouns by adding the sound i (spelt by me ie) to the original noun, e.g. aantie (aunt), burnie (brooklet), grannie (grandmother), lammie (lamb), lassie (girl), shoapie (shop), yairdie (garden), yowie (ewe), duggie (dog), lawdie (lad). There is a tendency to pronounce this sound like a short ay or ee.

The effect of the diminutive is often enhanced by prefixing wee (little) or wee bit. Ex. A wee lassie (a little girl)—a wee bit shoapie (a tiny shop).

A similar termination added to an adjective means a person or object possessing the quality expressed by the adjective. Ex. daaftie (idiotic person), dummie (dumb person), deefie (deaf person), deerie (darling), sweetie (sweetmeat).

The addition of the sound ur to a verb forms a noun which means a person who does the action implied by the verb. When added to a noun it means a person who has to do with the object implied by the noun. Ex. (1) from verbs: baikur (baker), jeinur (carpenter), leeur (liar), pentur (painter), sheerur (reaper), weevur (weaver), dailur (dealer), speekur (speaker). From shoo (sew) comes shoostur (sempstress); (2) from nouns: fermur (farmer), mullur (miller), haijur (hedger), sailur (sailor), fleshur (butcher), saidlur (saddler). From waab (web) comes waabstur (weaver).

Some nouns are formed from adjectives by the addition of the sound th, t or d, often with a change in the body of the word, to denote the quality expressed by the adjective. Ex. dairth (dearth) from deer (dear), footh (plenty) from foo (full), drooth (drought) from drii (dry), trooth (truth) from troo (true), lenth (length) from lang (long), strenth (strength) from stroang (strong), brinth (breadth) from braid (broad), hekht (height) from heekh (high), eeld (old age) from awl (old).

In some cases no consonant-sound is added. Ex. heet (heat) from het (hot), cawl (cold) noun and adj.

Many nouns have the same form as the verbs with which they are connected. Ex. feer (fear), lakh (laugh), sleep (sleep), stap (step), stoap (stop).

Some nouns are formed from verbs with some change in the consonant or vowel sound or in both. Ex. froast (frost) from freez (freeze), daith (death) from dee (die), thoakht (thought) from think, drakht (draught) from drink.

The verbal noun in in (the same in form as the present participle) is commonly used. The corresponding termination in E. is ing. Ex. Beitin un scartin'z Scoach foak's ooin (Biting and scratching are Scotch people's form of wooing): Spak oa lowpin ovr a linn (Spoke of leaping down a waterfall).

NUMBER.

As in E., the plural is usually formed by adding z or s to the singular; but if the noun ends in a sibilant sound, including ch, j, and x (which might be written tsh, dzh, and ks), the sound added to mark the plural is iz (spelt es in E.).

Nouns ending in a vowel-sound add z for the plural. Ex. bawz (balls), dayz (days), beez (bees), buddiez (bodies), plooz (ploughs), yowz (ewes).

Nouns ending in a voiced non-sibilant consonant-sound (b, m, v, dh, d, n, l, r, g, ng) add z for the plural. Ex. waabz (webs), laamz (lambs), neevz (fists), heedz (heads), henz (hens), heelz (heels), faidhurz (fathers), eggz (eggs), dugz (dogs), thingz (things).

Nouns ending in a sibilant sound (s, z, sh, zh, ch, j, x) add iz for the plural. Ex. bussiz (bushes), glessiz (glasses), noaziz (noses), dishiz (dishes), wuchiz (witches), haijiz (hedges), boaxiz (boxes). Hoos (house) becomes hoosiz—not hooziz.

Nouns ending in a voiceless non-sibilant consonant-sound (p, f, th, t, k, kh) generally add s for the plural. Ex. heeps (heaps), shoaps (shops), munths (months), smiths (smiths), cats (cats), cowts (colts), caiks (cakes), patriks (partridges), screekhs (screeches), daiths (deaths), kifs (fools), weifs (wives), not weivz—shaifs (sheaves), not shaivz.

As in E., one or two nouns form the plural by adding n instead of a sibilant. They are een (eyes) from ee (eye), shin (shoes) from shay (shoe). Owsun (oxen), an old plural of oax (ox), is obsolete.

As in E., a number of nouns have the plural the same as the singular. Ex. fish (fish), coad (cod-fish), herrin (herring), sheep (sheep), deer (deer), hoars (horses), swein (swine), nowt (bullocks, cattle), sawmun (salmon), grows (grouse), teeth (tooth or teeth).

More frequently than in E., nouns denoting number, money, time, weight, length, area or distance, make no change for the plural after a numeral. Ex. Twaw pun Scoats (two Scotch pounds)—Twalpennie-wurth (twelve-pence worth)—Three gless oa hwuskay (three glasses of whisky)—A gid hween munth (a good many months)—Shee'z aikht yeer awl (She's eight years old)—Hee'z uyoant dhe fowur scoar (He's above eighty)—It'll bee fiv aikur un a rid (It will be five acres and a rood)—Hoo munnie yeer is't sin sein? (How many years is it since then?)—It'll bee seevin meil fay heer (It'll be seven miles from here)—Sax bow oa meel (Six bolls of meal)—Twaw dizn eggs (Two dozen eggs).

As in E., some nouns form the plural irregularly. Ex. coo (cow), kii (cows)—soo (sow or pig), swein (swine)—gis (goose), gees (geese)—loos (louse), leis (lice)—moos (mouse), meis (mice)—man (man), men (men)—wummun (woman), weemin (women)—beest (beast), bees (beasts)—fit or fet (foot), feet (feet)—pennie (penny), pins (pence)—claith (cloth), claiz (clothes).

As in E., some nouns are used only, or most commonly, in the plural, or have a special meaning when used in the plural. Ex. belliziz (bellows), tangz (tongs), sheerz (shears or scissors), tawz (a scourge of leather), aas or aws (ashes), speeruts (whisky), claiz (clothes), dudz (rags, old clothes), breeks (trousers), weepurz (signs of mourning), guts (bowels), likhts (lungs), bats (colic), bledhurz (nonsense), haivurz (nonsense), mainnurz (manners), airlz (earnest-money), waijiz (wages), foarbeerz (ancestors), crudz (curds), hoaz (hose), galiziz (men's braces, suspenders), pliiurz (pincers), hairnz (brains), hemz (hames), bawks (balance for weighing), speks (spectacles), peips (bag-pipe), mainz (home-farm), poalisiz (enclosed park round country-seat), plenstainz (pavement), jugz (pillory), pigz (crockery), finninz (smoked had-dock), kippurz (smoked herring), minsh coalups (minced meat), mellinz (crumbs), sappulz (soap-suds), yirninz (rennet), brawz (finery), coats (a woman's skirts), murninz (mourning), harigulz (entrails), hunkurs (bent legs), maizulz (measles), poax (small-pox), shaikurz (staggers), oadz (odds, difference), teenz (tithe), feerz (officially fixed average prices of grain), leinz (lines, certificate of marriage, &c.), gitturz (mud), paiks (a licking).

A number of nouns denoting semi-liquid food are plural: purrich (porridge), kail or broath (broth), broaz (oatmeal with boiling-water), soaunz (a preparation from oat-husks), crudz (curds). Ex. Dhay'r grawn purrich, dhay (Those are fine porridge)—Thur kail ull bee owr cawl, luk sherp un tak dhum (These broth will be too cold, look sharp and take them).

GENDER.

As regards nouns, there is nothing in the sound of the word to indicate the gender. That is determined only by the meaning, nouns being masculine, feminine, common or neuter according as they denote a male, a female, either sex, or a thing without life.

A few words denoting persons or animals have different forms for the masculine and feminine. Ex. man (man), wummun or weif (woman)—men (men), weemin (women)—gidman (husband), gidweif (wife)—lawd (boy), lass (girl)—faidhur (father), midhur (mother)—sun (son), doakhtur (daughter)—bridhur (brother), sestur (sister)—grawnfaidher (grandfather), grannie (grand-mother)—uncul (uncle), antie (aunt)—neffa (nephew), nees (niece)—keeng (king), queen (queen)—loard (lord), leddie (lady)—bull (bull), coo (cow)—stoat (bullock), quei (heifer)—staig (male horse), meer (mare)—cowt (colt), fillie (filly)—boar (boar), soo (sow)—tip (ram), yow (ewe)—wadhur (castrated male sheep), gimmur (ewe in her second year)—draik (drake), dyuk (duck)—coak (cock), hen (hen)—dug (dog), bich (bitch).

As in E., ships, boats, machines, engines, trains, countries, and the like are often personified as feminine, and referred to by the pronoun shee. Ex. Shee'z lait dhu-day (She (i.e. the train) is late to-day)—Un noo shee'z leik tay rin rid-wud uboot hur hwuskay (And now she (i.e. old Scotland) looks likely to run quite mad about her whisky).

CASE.

There are, as in E., three cases—nominative, objective, and possessive. The objective case of a noun is always the same as the nominative.

POSSESSIVE SINGULAR.

The possessive singular is formed (like the regular plural) by adding a sibilant to the nominative, the sibilant being z, iz or s, according to the same rules as determine the sibilant added to make the regular plural; so that, in the case of all nouns which merely add a sibilant to form the plural, the possessive singular has exactly the same sound as the nominative plural. In writing, in order to distinguish between the two cases, it is usual to insert an apostrophe in the possessive singular, but this does not affect the sound. Ex. Dhe wain'z fit (The child's foot)—Dhe yow'z hoarn (The ewe's horn)—Dhe dug'z tail (The dog's tail)—Dhe lam'z heed (The lamb's head)—Dhe juj'iz goon (The judge's gown)—Dhe dyuk's neb (The duck's bill)—Dhe cat's lug (The cat's ear)—Daith's doar (Death's door).

As in E., the sound of the possessive singular differs from that of the nominative plural only in the case of those nouns which have the plural the same as the singular or which make some change in the body of the word to form the plural. Ex.

Ayrshire.		English.
Poss. Sing.	Nom. Pl.	Poss. Sing.	Nom. Pl. sheep's	sheep	sheep's	sheep
deer'z	deer	deer's	deer
hoars'iz	hoars	horse's	horses
man'z	men	man's	men
wummun'z	weemin	woman's	women
moos'iz	meis	mouse's	mice

POSSESSIVE PLURAL.

As in E., when a noun adds a sibilant sound to form the plural, the sound of the possessive plural is the same as that of the nominative plural; but in writing an apostrophe is added to mark the difference of case. Ex. Yowz' hoarnz (ewes' horns)—Lamz' heedz (lambs' heads).

When the nominative plural is not formed by adding a sibilant to the singular, the possessive plural adds a sibilant to the nominative plural, as if it were a singular. Ex. Men'z coats (Men's coats)—Weemin'z clash (Women's gossip)—Kii'z mulk (Cows' milk)—Sheep's heedz (Sheep's heads)—Hoars'iz tailz (Horses' tails).

As in E., it is uncommon to use the possessive of a word denoting an inanimate object. It is more usual in such a case to express the sense of belonging to, connected with, or used for, either (1) by placing the governing word before the governed word with the preposition oa between them, as in Dhe heed oa dhe toon (The head of the town), or (2) more commonly by simply placing the governed word before the governing word, without any sibilant or preposition. Ex. Toon-heed (Town-head), Kail-pat (Broth-pot), Pat-lid (Pot-lid), Shoap-doar (Shop-door), Waatur-fit (River-foot), Brig-end (Bridge-end), Lum-tap (Chimney-top), Plooppettul (Plough-stick).

ADJECTIVES

FORMATION OF ADJECTIVES.

As in E., many adjectives are formed from nouns or verbs by the addition of the sound i (which I spell ie), sometimes pronounced like a short ay or ee. Ex. Creeshie (greasy) from creesh (grease)—stainie (stony) from stain (stone)—thoarnie (thorny) from thoarn (thorn)—duddie (ragged) from dud (rag)—reekie (smoky) from reek (smoke)—cheerie (cheerful) from cheer (cheer)—stoorie (dusty) from stoor (dust).

Some are formed from nouns or verbs by the addition of fa (corresponding to the E. ful) or sum. Ex. Awfa (awful)—cairfa (careful)—wayfa (woeful)—awsum (awful)—feersum (fearful)—groosum (ghastly)—winsum (charming)—likhtsum (joyous). The meaning is that of possessing or being characterized by the object or quality indicated by the noun or verb. On the other hand the termination lus (E. less) has the opposite meaning, e. g. Cairlus (careless)—fizhunlus (pithless)—hermlus (harmless).

INFLEXION OF ADJECTIVES.

As in E., an adjective remains unchanged, whatever be the gender, number, or case of the noun or pronoun to which it refers. The only exceptions are the following adjectives, which change their form in the plural:

Ayrshire.		English.
Sing.	Pl.	Sing.	Pl.
dhis	dhur	this	these
dhat	dhay	that	those muckul	munnie	much	many littul	noa munnie	little	few

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives usually form the comparative by adding the sound ur to the positive, and the superlative by adding the sound ist to the positive. But, as in E., though not so commonly, the comparative, especially of long adjectives, may be formed by prefixing the adverb mair (more), and the superlative by prefixing the adverb maist (most) to the positive. Ex. deep, deepur, deepist (deep, deeper, deepest)—fawr, fawrur, fawrist (far, farther, farthest)—heekh, heekhur, heekhist (high, higher, highest).

Adjectives of one syllable ending in ng do not, as in E., insert g before the termination. Ex. lang, lang-ur, lang-ist (long, longer, longest), yung, yung-ur, yung-ist (young, younger, youngest).

A few adjectives form their comparative and superlative irregularly :

Ayrshire.			English.
Positive.	Comp.	Superl.	Positive.	Comp.	Superl.
gid	bettur	best	good	better	best

muckul }	mair }	maist	much }	more	most
munnie }	may }		many }
littul	less	leest	little	less	least

Muckul, used in the sense of 'big', has as superlative mucklist.

Several adverbs or prepositions with place meanings are compared and used as adjectives. Ex.

Burns spells 'one' 'ane', but it is pronounced yin in Ayrshire. As an adjective it becomes yay (spelt by Burns 'ae'). Ex. Hee hiz but yay ee (He has only one eye)—Yay foand kiss (One fond kiss). 'Thretteen' for thirteen, and 'threttie' for thertie, are obsolescent.

As in E., the numerals can be used in the plural to signify groups. Ex. Dhe yung yinz (the young ones)—Twawz un threez (twos and threes). Twaw-three, often slurred into twaw-hree, or twaw-ree, is commonly used for 'a few', 'two or three'. The half-hours are described as before the next hour, instead of after the past hour, as in E. Ex. hawf aikht (half-past seven).

Numeral adverbs are yins (once), tweis or tweiz (twice), threis (thrice), fow-ur teimz, &c.

Multiples are sing-ul (single), doobul (double), threepul, treepul, three-plii (threefold).

Fractions are hawf (half), thurd (third), foart (fourth) or quaartur (quarter).

Groups are described as twawsum, threesum, fow-ursum, aikhtsum, e.g. a fow-ursum (a game of four players at golf), an aikhtsum reel (a reel in which eight persons take part).

ADJECTIVES AND NOUNS OF NUMBER AND QUANTITY.

Number and quantity are sometimes designated by adjectives, sometimes by nouns. In the latter case the noun is generally followed by the preposition oa (of) before a pronoun, but the oa is often omitted before a following noun.

A small quantity is expressed by a wee (a little), a bit (a little), a wee bit (a little bit), a wee thing, a wee thoakht (thought), a wee tuch, a hait or a taut or a deit (a whit), a drap (a drop), a wee drap (a little drop), a hair or a wee sent (a small quantity).

'A few' is a hween, or twaw-three slurred into twaw-hree, or a pickul. A somewhat larger number or quantity is a gid hween or a gei hween, or a gid pickul. A considerable number or quantity is a hantul or a grait dail. A large piece is a dawd (a chunk). A fistful is a neffa, and the two hands full is a gowpunfa. An abundance is a rowth.

'Odd' is orra. 'Occasional' is daimun.

Other expressions are dhe wail (the pick), dhe feck (the greater part), dhe hail (the whole), dhe laiv (the remainder, the rest), dhe leuk oa (anything like).

Ex. Jist a bit wain (only a little child)—Gee us a wee drap (Give us a little drop)—Deel a hair A raiz um (Devil a bit do I flatter him)—A hween awl weifs (a few old women)—A pickul nits (a few nuts)—Shee'z dhe wail oa dhum aw (She's the pick of them all)—A goat ma gowpunfa oa groazits (I got a double handful of gooseberries)—Dhe feck oa foak thinks that (Most people think so)—A nivvur saw dhe leuk oa dhay (I never saw anything like those)—A daimun icker in a threev (An occasional ear of corn in twenty-four sheaves)—Hwussul ovr dhe laiv oa't (Whistle over the rest of it—say no more).

QUANTITATIVE AND DISTRIBUTIVE ADJECTIVES AND NOUNS.

Among quantitative adjectives and nouns may be mentioned—littul (little), sum (some), muckul (much), aw (all), dhe hail (the whole), sumthing (something), awthing or ivrie hait (everything), oakht (anything), oanie (any), munnie (many), sumbuddie (somebody), awbuddie (everybody), munnie a yin (many a one), baith (both), saim (same), sic, sicleik, siccun, sic a (such).

Distributives include ilk or ilka (each, every), ilka buddie (everybody), idhur (other, each other—one another), yin-unidhur (one-another), dhe t'idhur (the other), oanie idhur buddie (anybody else), sum idhur buddie (somebody else), aw idhur thing (everything else).

Negatives are nay (no), nain (none), naybuddie (nobody), nay-thing (nothing), nay idhur buddie (nobody else), noakht (nought), noa a thing (nothing at all), deel a hait, feent a hait (devil a bit), neer a bit (never a bit).

Ex. Dhe t'idhur wiz a ploomun'z coalie (The other was a ploughman's collic), But heer dhur absunt thoakhts oa idhur (But hear their absent thoughts of one another), Wee'v been owr lang unkend tay idhur (We've been too long unknown to each other), Az shair'z oakht (As sure as anything), Dhay wur neckin idhur (They were holding each other round the neck—courting).

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES.

Ayrshire.		English.
Sing.	Pl.	Sing.	Pl.
dhis	dhur	this	these
dhat	dhay	that	those
yoan	yoan	yonder	yonder

Dhis and dhur primarily refer to objects near the speaker, dhat and dhay to objects near the person spoken to, and yoan to objects farther off in place or time. They thus correspond to the personal pronouns (1) A, (2) yoo, and (3) hee. It is curious to note how commonly a Scotchman, speaking English, uses 'these' for 'those', e. g. 'in these days', meaning in the distant past, where an Englishman would say 'in those days'.

ARTICLES

The definite article dhe is used in the same way as the E. 'the', both in the singular and plural. In ordinary conversation the vowel-sound in dhe is more like u (as in sun, cut) than e (as in net, pen), and it might be written dhu rather than dhe.

Dhe is sometimes used where in E. a possessive pronoun would be used. Ex. Dhe weif (my, your, or his wife), dhe gidman (my, your, or her husband), Ur yee oot fur pleezhur, or iz dhe weif wi yee? (Are you out for pleasure, or is your wife with you?).

Dhe is often expressed in A. where it is omitted in E. Ex. At dhe kirk (at church)—at dhe skil (at school)—up dhe stair (upstairs).

The names of some places have usually the word 'dhe' prefixed,

e. g. Dhe Lairgz, Dhe Shawz, Dhe Mainz, Dhe Trin, Dhe Rantun, Dhe Awltun.

The indefinite article a or an, which in rapid conversation is pronounced u, un, is used as in E. before a noun in the singular. Before a consonantal sound, including w and y, u is used, and before a vowel-sound un.

PRONOUNS

PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

As in E., the personal pronouns refer to three sets of persons : first, the person or persons speaking, as A, mee, wee, us ; second, the person or persons spoken to, as dhoo, dhee, yee, yoo ; third, the person, persons, thing or things spoken of, as hee, shee, him, hur, it, dhay, dhaim. As in E., there is no distinction of gender in the first or second persons, or in the plural of the third person, the only distinction of gender being in the singular of the third person, as hee, shee, it. As in E., the use of the second person singular, dhoo, dhii, dhee, has entirely dropped out of ordinary speech and is found only in prayer and in poetry, the plural of the second person, yee, yoo, yoor, being used for the singular also.

First Person.

Case	Singular	Plural
Nominative	A	wee
Nominative absolute	mee	us, huz (emphatic)
Possessive	ma	oor
Objective	mee, 's, 'z	us, 's, 'z, huz (emphatic)

Second Person.

Case	Singular	Plural
Nom.	dhoo	yee, ee, yoo (emphatic)
Nom. absolute	dhee	yoo
Poss.	dhii	yur, yoor (emphatic)
Obj.	dhee	yee, ee, yoo (emphatic)

Third Person.

		Singular		Plural
Case	Masc.	Fem.	Neuter	All Genders
Nom.	hee	shee	it, hit (emphatic)	dhay
Nom. abs.	him	hur	it, hit	dhaim
Poss.	hiz	hur, ur	it's, hit's	dhair, dhur
Obj.	him, hum, um	hur, ur	it, hit, 't	dhaim, dhum

The pronouns are especially liable to be slurred in rapid speech. On the other hand, some of them, as noted above, have different forms when emphasized. What I have called the nominative absolute is the same in form as the objective, but is really a nominative, like the French moi, toi, lui. It is not unknown in E., for, regardless of grammarians, we say 'It's me', 'That's him', but it is much more common in A. than in E.

When two pronouns of different persons come together, unlike E., which places the first person last, in A. the first person is generally put first. Ex. Mee un yoo ull gang dhigidher (You and I'll go together)—Us un dhaim's noa cheef (They and we are not on friendly terms).

FIRST PERSONAL PRONOUN.

Before a vowel the possessive ma is sometimes slurred into m', e.g. M'unkul un m'antie (My uncle and my aunt). In the plural nominative absolute and objective, the emphasized form is huz, an aspirate being prefixed and the s changed into z. Us is often slurred into 's or 'z. Ex. It wiznay mee (It wasn't I)—Noa mee (Not I)—Hit's noa fur dhe leiks oa huz (It's not for people like us)—Let's tak dhe teid (Let us take the tide).

As in colloquial E., the plural form us (usually slurred into 's or 'z) is often used in the sense of mee, that is, in a singular sense, just as yoo is commonly used for a single person.

Ex. Gee's a likht (give me a light)—Un gee's a hawn oa dhein (and give me one of your hands)—Gee's twaw drawz oa yur peip (give me two pulls at your pipe).

See is often used for gee's with the meaning 'give me', e.g. See a hait (give me a little)—See a hawd oa dhat (give me a hold of that).

SECOND PERSONAL PRONOUN.

In ordinary speech the nominative and objective are yee, sometimes contracted into ee, but when the word is emphasized, and always in the nominative absolute, it is pronounced yoo. The possessive is, as in E., your, but in rapid speech it is slurred into yur. Ex. Yee ken (you know), Dhat's noa fur yoo (that's not for you), Steek yur gab (shut your mouth), Hoo munnie hev ee? (how many have you?).

THIRD PERSONAL PRONOUN.

Hee, hiz, him are pronounced much the same as in E., but him is often slurred into um, e. g. Hee'z daft (he's mad), A tellt um (I told him), Hay yee seen um? (Have you seen him?).

Hiz is sometimes slurred into 's or 'z, e. g. Dhe man un'z meer (the man and his mare).

Shee and hur are pronounced much the same as in E., but in rapid speech hur is often slurred into ur, e. g. Shee'z dayin fein (She's doing well), Mee un hur'z neeburz (She and I are neighbours), Yee gay ur ur dyoo (You gave her her due).

It, especially when emphasized, is often pronounced hit, and when slurred becomes 't, especially after a preposition or verb, e. g. oa't or u't (of it), till't (to it), fur't (for it), see't (see it), bee't (be it), day't (do it), din't (done it).

Ex. Dhat's hit noo (That's it now)—A sang tay see't (I sang to see it)—A bargun bee't (A bargain be it)—Yee shidnay day't uvaw (You shouldn't do it at all)—Hay yee goatun't? (Have you got it?)—A hud tay day't (I had to do it).

When two pronouns, one of which is it in the objective, come together, the it generally follows the other pronoun, instead of preceding it, as in E., e. g. Gee um't het (give it him hot)—Un geez dhum't (and gives it them).

Third Personal Pronoun, Plural, all Genders.

As in E., the plural of the third personal pronoun is dhay, which in this dialect is the same as the plural of the demonstrative pronoun dhat. The possessive dhair (their) is, in rapid speech, often slurred into dhur, and the objective dhaim into dhum; but the nominative absolute is always dhaim. Ex. Wull dhay sell dhur hoos? Oafur dhum a gid preis (Will they sell their house? Offer them a good price)—Wee'r az yung az dhaim (We're as young as they are).

DETACHED POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

When a possessive pronoun is not followed by a noun, it ends in a sibilant sound.

	Sing.	Pl.
First person	meinz	oorz
Second person		yoorz
Third person	hiz, hurz, it's	dhairz

These forms are used whether the preceding noun is singular or plural. Meinz ends in a sibilant, which is wanting in the E. 'mine'. Ex. Dhis dug'z noa meinz (this dog is not mine)—Dhur'z meinz un dhay'z yoorz (these are mine and those are yours).

REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS.

The reflexive pronouns are formed by adding the word sel (self) or in the plural selz (selves) to the possessives.

	Sing.	Pl.
First person	masel	oorselfz
Second person	yursel	yurselz
Third person	hissel, hursel, itssel	dhurselz

Note that in the third person A. has hissel for 'himself' and dhurselz for 'themselves'. For itssel the phrase dhe sel u't is sometimes used. The reflexive pronoun is intensified by inserting ain (own) between the possessive and the word sel or selz.

Ex. A'll day't masel (I'll do it myself)—Wee'll gang oorselfz (We'll go ourselves)—Tak tent oa yursel or yurselz (Take care of yourself or yourselves)—Hee'z hurtit hissel (He's hurt himself)—Dhay wur aw ba dhurselz (They were all by themselves)—Faws play tells dhe sel u't (Unfair play tells of itself)—A maid it ma ain sel (I made it entirely by myself)—It's a lairdship ba dhe sel u't (It's a property by itself).

The possessive of the reflexive pronoun is formed by adding ain (own) to the possessive form of the simple pronoun, e.g. ma ain, hiz ain, yoor ain—Shee cannay thoal hur ain foak (She can't endure her own people).

The word lain (lone) or lee lain is used much in the same way as sel (self), and sometimes adds z in the plural. Ex. A wiz aw ma lain or ma lee lain or ma leefa lain (I was all alone, or by myself)—Wee gaid oor lainz (We went by ourselves)—Shee wiz sittin hur lain (She was sitting alone, or by herself)—Hee leevt hiz lain (He lived alone)—Dhay stid dhur lain (They stood by themselves).

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

The E. indefinite pronoun 'one' is generally expressed by the phrase 'a buddie', the corresponding possessive pronoun being dhur (their). Ex. Dhat diz a buddie gid (That does one good)—

Gin a buddie meet a buddie (If one meets some one)—A buddie's sel (oneself)—A buddie widna hurt dhursel (one would not hurt oneself).

Dhaim is often used indefinitely, where in E. the word 'he', 'they', 'those', or 'whoever' would be used. Ex. Dhaim ut wull tay Coopur man tay Coopur (He that will go to Cupar must go to Cupar)—Dhaim ut cumz furst's furst sairt (Those who come first are first served).

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

The demonstrative adjectives dhis, dhur, dhat, dhay, yoan, are used by themselves as pronouns, as the corresponding words are in E. Ex. Dhur'z gid turmits (these are good turnips)—Dhay'z boanie wainz (those are pretty children)—Yoan'z a muckul tree (that's a big tree over there)—Dhat ull day fein (that will do capitally)—Yoan'z hit (that's it).

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

The relative pronoun for all numbers, genders, and cases is ut, sometimes lengthened into dhut, but it is often omitted altogether. No word corresponding to the E. 'which' is used as a relative. Hwaw, hwaw'z, corresponding to the E. 'who', 'whose', are used as interrogatives, but not as relatives, except in poetry. Hwam (whom) also is found only in poetry. Ex. It's an ull burd ut feilz its ain nest (It's a bad bird that dirties its own nest)—Dhe sangz ma midhur sung (the songs my mother sang)—Scoats, hwaw hay wi Waalus bled—Scoats, hwam Bris hiz oafun led (Scots, who have with Wallace bled—Scots, whom Bruce has often led).

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

The interrogative pronoun hwaw, like the E. 'who', is masculine or feminine, singular or plural, and, like the E. 'who' in ordinary conversation, is used for the objective as well as for the nominative. Hwam (whom) is used only in poetry. The possessive case in both genders and both numbers is hwaw'z, corresponding to the E. 'whose'. The neuter, both singular and plural, nominative and objective, is hwit (what). Ex. Hwaw'z dhat? (Who is that?)—Hwaw'z shin'z dhay? (Whose shoes are those?)—Hwaw did yee see? (Whom did you see?)—Hwit's yur wull? (What's your will?—What did you say?).

Hwitna corresponds to the E. 'what', 'which', 'what sort of'. Hwilk is obsolete.

Ex. Hwitna coo'z dhat? (What cow is that?)—Hwitna hawn wull yee tak? (Which hand will you take?)—Hwitna leik buddie'z yoan? (What sort of person is that?).

ADVERBS

Some of the commonest adverbs are connected with pronouns in form and meaning.

	Pronoun		Adverb
		Place	Time	Manner or Cause
Inter.	hwaw	hwawr	hwan	{ hoo, hwei, hwitwei, hwitfur
Rel.	hwaw (poetic)	hwawr	hwan, hwun	{ hoo, hwei, hwitwei, hwitfur
Dem.	{ dhis dhat yoan	heer dhair, dhur yoanur	noo dhan, dhun	dhis wei say, dhat, dhait

The interrogative and relative adverbs, like the corresponding pronouns, begin with the sound hw, except in the case of hoo (how), where the sound of w has been absorbed in the following vowel-sound. As in E., the relative adverbs are the same in sound as the corresponding interrogatives, except that the relative hwan is often slurred into hwun. The adverb of manner 'thus', which has almost dropped out of E. as ordinarily spoken, is not used in A., its place being taken by dhis wei. Hwei (why) is not often used, its place being taken by hwit wei (in what way) or hwit fur (for what reason); hwit wei may also mean 'how'. Say (so) is used, but often the E. 'so' is represented in A. by ut or dhat. The word yoanur, referring to things at a distance, is used much more commonly than 'yonder' in E.

Ex. Hwawr (ur) yee gawn? (Where are you going?)—Hwan did hee cum? (When did he come?)—Hoo'z aw wi yee? (How are you all?)—Hee wiz weel hwun A saw um (He was well when I saw him)—Cum heer or cum eer (Come here)—Wait dhair (stay there)—It's noa dhait ull (It's not so bad—not very bad)—A dinna think ut (I don't think so)—Shee wiz dhat prood (She was so proud—very proud)—Gang owr yoanur (Go over there)—Hwit wei noa? or Hwitfur noa? (Why not?)—A tellt yee dhat (I told you so)—Hwit wei pair buddiez leevt uvaw (How poor people lived at all).

As in E., many prepositions of place and time are used as adverbs, e. g. in, oot (out), up, doon (down), ufoar (before), uhin (behind), uboot (about), ubin (above). Other adverbs are :

ADVERBS OF PLACE.

Uwaw (away, along)—heeruwaw (hereabouts)—dhairuwaw (thereabouts)—hwawruwaw (whereabouts)—ubeekh (aloof)—owr, ootowr (over, away, across)—but (into or in the outer room)—ben (into or in the inner room)—nerr, nerr-hawn (near, nearly)—fawr (far)—yoant (along)—hwawreer (wherever)—sum-wei, sumgait (somewhere)—oanay gait (anywhere)—awgait (everywhere)—bii (past, beside)—inbii (inside, indoors)—ootbii (outside, out of doors)—nerr bii (near)—owr bii (over the way)—furrit (forwards)—back, uback (back, backwards, behind)—dhigidhur (together)—ujee, uglei (awry)—usklent (aslant, askance)—usteer (astir)—haim (home)—ubreed (abroad)—seid-linz (sideways).

Ex. Heeruwaw, dhairuwaw, hawd uwaw haim (hither, thither, make for home)—Cum uwaw ben (Come along into the inner room)—Gay waw haim (Go along home)—Dhur noa sic a thing heeruwaw (There's no such thing hereabouts)—Oa, hwawruwaw gat yee dhat awl crookit pennie? (Oh, whereabouts got you that old crooked penny?)—Hee wiz nerrhawn deed (He was nearly dead)—Sit yoant a bit (Sit a little farther along)—A'v lukit awgait fur't (I've looked everywhere for it)—Cum inbii (Come indoors)—Hee roakht ootbii (He worked out of doors)—Back un furrit (backwards and forwards)—Un sic a lassie bii um (With such a girl beside him)—Yee spakna, but gaid bii leik stoor (You didn't speak, but went past like dust)—Bliith wiz shee but un ben (Joyous was she all over the house)—A leevt but un ben wi um (He and I lived in one house)—Hur dayz wur nerrhawn endit (Her days were nearly ended).

As in E. dhair or dhur (there) is used at the beginning of a sentence with some tense of the auxiliary verb bee (be) merely as an introduction, but after dhur the verb is often omitted.

Ex. Dhur naybuddie in (there's nobody in)—Dhur nay doot uboot dhat (there's no doubt about that).

ADVERBS OF TIME AND NUMBER.

Noo (now), dhan or dhun (then), sein (then, ago), yet (yet), ei (always, still), hweilz (sometimes), u hweil sin (some time ago), yay day (one day), eer, ivvur (e'er, ever), neer, nivvur (ne'er, never, not yet), shin (soon), ugain (again), oafun (often), aft (oft), noa oafun (seldom), munnie a teim or munnie's dhe teim (many a time, often), nooz un dhanz (now and then), a wee (a little while), in a wee (in a little, soon), lang or lawng (long), air (early), lait (late), fawr back (long ago), billiv (soon, by and by), neest (next), yins or yinst (once), tweis or tweiz (twice), threis (thrice).

A number of adverbial phrases, which begin in E. with 'to', begin in A. with dhi or dhu. Ex. dhu-day (to-day), dhu-nikht (to-night), dhu-moarn (to-morrow), dhi-gidhur (together). Similar phrases are: dhu yeer (this year), and dhu-noo (just now). Dhu-moarn'z moarnin is 'to-morrow morning', and dhu-moarn'z nikht is 'to-morrow night'. Yisturday is 'yesterday' and yistreen, 'yesterday evening'.

Ex. Awl lang sein (old long ago), Noa dhu-noo (not just now), Sein A gaid haim (then I went home), It's a lawng hweil sin sein (It's a long time since then), Hee'z ei tay dhe foar (He's still to the fore—alive), Ei weis uhin dhe hawn (always wise after the event), Hweilz Ii un hweilz noa (sometimes yes and sometimes not), Dhe train ull shin bee heer (the train will soon be here), A'v seen dhat munnie a teim or munnie's dhe teim (I have seen that often), Dhu-moarn cum aikht dayz (to-morrow week), Dhe coarn'z gid dhu-yeer (the corn is good this year), Wait a wee (wait a little), Yinst un ei (once and always).

ADVERBS OF QUALITY, MANNER, OR DEGREE.

A wee, a wee bit, a wee thing, a thoakht, a kennin (a little), kein oa or kinna (sort of, somewhat, by way of, rather), gei, geiun (rather, pretty, very), jist (just, exactly, only), fein (well, thoroughly, easily), weel (well), ull (ill, badly), muckul (much), owr (too, excessively), aw-dhigidhur (altogether), say, dhat (so), brawlie (very well), fell (remarkably, strongly, very), inyukh (enough), leik (like, as it were, so to say), leik inyukh (likely enough, possibly), vurra, unca (very), uvaw or utaw (at all), nerr, nerrhawn (nearly, almost), een, eevun (even, just, right), eevun oan (without ceasing), maist, umaist (almost), maistlie (mostly), throo (done, finished), but (only), raidhur (rather), eevun doon (downright), mair (more), maist (most), noa (not), noa uvaw or utaw (not at all), full-lie (fully, almost, quite), hawflinz (half, halfway), tay dhe foar (to the fore, alive), oanie wei (at any rate).

Ex. It's wurth twaw pown oanie wei (It's worth two pounds at any rate), Shee'z a wee thing daft (She's a little mad), Dhat's a thoakht owr lawng (that's the least bit too long), Thoa dhay may gang a kennin rang (although they may go a little wrong), Hee'z kein u queer (He's somewhat eccentric), A wiz kinna feert leik (I was somewhat afraid, so to say), A'm gei thrang dhu-noo (I'm rather busy just now), A gei hween (a considerable number), A'm geiun weel (I'm pretty well), Jist dhat (just so), Fein dhat (quite well, easily), A ken um fein (I know him well), Shee wiz muckul thoakht oa (She was much thought of), Yee'v cam owr shin (You've come too soon), A wiz dhat feert (I was so afraid), Dhat's gid inyukh (That's good enough), Shee'z unca queer (She's very eccentric), Dhat's nay gid uvaw (That's no good at all), Ur yee noa throo yet? (Haven't you finished yet?), Hee'z a fell gid preechur (He's a remarkably good preacher), Shee fleitit (or flit) eevun oan (She scolded without ceasing), A nerrhawn cowpit (I nearly upset), A kinna tramp buddee (a sort of tramp), A daft kinna buddie (a rather silly person), Dhat's kinna hawrlie rikht (that's hardly right—not quite right), A'm ei tay dhe foar (I'm still alive—keeping going), A kinna cheekie kinna wee buddie (a somewhat cheeky little person).

ADJECTIVES USED AS ADVERBS.

As in E., many adjectives are used as adverbs. Unlike E., A. rarely adds lie (ly) to an adjective to make it an adverb, so that it is much more common in A. than in E. to find an adjective used, without any change of pronunciation, as an adverb. Awfa (awfully, very), terrul (terribly, awfully, greatly, very), cannie (gently), foo (very), cleen (quite), fair (fairly, quite), fein (well), lawng (long), leik (likely), lood (loudly, aloud), muckul (much), nerr (nearly), quik (quickly), rail (really, very, quite), rikht (very, really), ull (ill, badly), sair (sorely, thoroughly), eezie (easily), scairs (scarcely), fain (gladly), chaip (cheap), deer (dear).

Among the few exceptions are: shairlie (surely), hawrlie (hardly), brawlie (thoroughly, well), full-lie (fully, almost, quite).

The word 'quite', so common in E., is seldom used in A., its place being taken by some such word as fair, cleen, rail. So too wurra (very) is seldom used, the meaning being expressed by such words as rikht, unca, awfa, fell.

Ex. A'm awfa thrang (I'm very busy), A'm terrul ubleejt tee yee (I'm greatly obliged to you), Caw cannie (drive gently, take it easy), Hee'z cleen daft (He's quite mad), A wiz fair dum-foonurt (I was struck quite dumb), A'm dayin brawlie (I'm doing capitally), Full-lie Jek hee (quite up to the Jack), Full-lie a scoar (quite a score), Dhe dug wiz nerr wud (the dog was nearly mad)—A'm rail weel dhu-day (I'm really well to-day)—Dhat's a rikht awl yin (That's a really old one), Hee'z rikht foo dhu-nikht (He's quite drunk to-night)—Shee wiz greetin sair (She was crying bitterly)—Hee'z noa sair pleezt (He's not greatly pleased)—Hur tung gangz coanstunt (Her tongue is constantly wagging)—A hud umaist furgoatun cleen (I had almost quite forgotten)—Ma maimrie'z noa awfa gid (My memory's not very good)—Straik ur cannie wi dhe hair (Stroke her gently with the hair).

The E. 'else' is expressed by the use of the adjective idhur (other), e. g. Nay idhur buddie (nobody else)—Oanie idhur thing (anything else).

NEGATIVE ADVERBS.

Negative adverbs are noa (not)—noa uvaw (not at all)—neer, nivvur (never)—naygait (nowhere). Ex. Yee'll noa day dhat (You'll not do that)—Noa mee (not I)—A cannay fin um naygait (I can't find him anywhere).

Noa (not) is often slurred with a verb into nay or na, corresponding to the E. n't. Sometimes the sound of the verb is also slightly changed: iznay (isn't)—wiznay (wasn't)—winnay (won't)—dinnay (don't)—cannay (can't)—mannay (mustn't)—hinnay (haven't)—hudnay (hadn't)—neednay or neennay (needn't)—kennay (don't know)—cairnay (don't care)—looznay (doesn't love).

Ex. Trowth A cairnay bii (Indeed I don't care a bit)—Yee mannay day dhat (You mustn't do that)—Shee looznay mee (She doesn't love me).

Double negatives are common. Ex. Noa nay idhur thing (nothing else)—A dinnay cair uboot nain oa't (I don't care for any of it)—A dinnay tak nay mair nor a gless (I don't take more than a glass)—A hinnay seen ur naygait (I haven't seen her anywhere)—Shee hudnay nain naidhur (She hadn't any either)—A'm noa gawn u gee yee naything (I'm not going to give you anything)—Wee hudnay fendurs nor naything oa dhat kein (We had no fenders nor anything of that kind)—Dhur noa sic a thing nay plais noo (There's no such thing anywhere now)—Dhur nivvur wiz naything leik it (There never was anything like it).

OTHER ADVERBS AND ADVERBIAL EXPRESSIONS.

Aiblinz, mebbbee, mubbee (perhaps, maybe)—deed (indeed, to be sure)—eent (indeed)—furbii (besides)—shinnur (sooner, rather)—sumwei (somehow or other)—thoa (though, indeed)—tay (too)—unaw (also, as well)—un aw dhat (and all that sort of thing)—un dhat (and so on, etcetera)—owr (over)—throodhur (anyhow, in confusion)—let bee (leave alone)—hawflinz (half)—aff-hawn, aff-lif (off hand)—dhe pees (each)—yay'nz eerun (on one errand, specially, for that alone)—bii-oardnur (extraordinarily)—nay doot (no doubt, doubtless)—but (only)—fur aw dhat (for all that, notwithstanding, all the same, whatever happens)—bii utowr (besides).

Ex. Yee aiblinz mikht (perhaps you might)—Dinnay cum yay'nz eerun (Don't come for that purpose only)—Wi a hunnur peipurz un aw (With a hundred pipers as well)—A man'z a man fur aw dhat (A man's a man nevertheless)—Un munnie mair furbii (And many more besides)—A wid shinnur gang haim (I would rather go home)—Did yee thoa? (Did you indeed?)—But tay see hur wiz tay luv hur (Only to see her was to love her)—Dhat hingz hiz heed, un aw dhat (That hangs his head and all that sort of thing)—Dhe man'z dhe gowd fur aw dhat (All the same the man's the gold)—Hee'z but a kiff fur aw dhat (Still he's only a fool)—Tuz eent (It is indeed).

COMPARISON OF ADVERBS.

Adverbs, like adjectives, form their comparative by adding -ur, and their superlative by adding ist, to the positive, e. g. shin (soon), shinnur (sooner), shinnist (soonest)—lawng (long), lawng-ur (longer), lawng-ist (longest).

Some form their comparative and superlative irregularly: Littul (little), less (less), leest (least)—muckul (much), mair or may (more), maist (most)—weel (well), bettur (better), best (best)—ull (badly), wawr (worse), waarst (worst).

PREPOSITIONS

PREPOSITIONS OF PLACE.

Aff (off, away from)—at or et (at)—back (towards the back)—ben (towards the parlour or bedroom)—but (towards the kitchen)—bii (by, past, beside)—doon (down)—eftur (after)—fay, fray (from)—furnent (in front of)—in or i' (in)—intay (into)—nerr, nerrhawn (near)—oan or upoa (on, upon)—oot (out)—oot oa (out of)—owr or oot owr (over, across)—roon (round)—tay, till, tull (to, till)—throo (through)—uboot (about, around)—ubin (above)—ucroas (across)—ufoar (before)—uhint (behind)—ulang (along)—umang, mang (among)—uneeth (beneath)—useid (beside)—utween (between)—yoant, uyoant (beyond)—up (up)—wi, wee (with)—yoant (along).

A number of prepositions begin with u, where E. has a, as uboot, ubin, umang; but A. has also ufoar, uhint, uneeth, useid, utween, uyoant for E. 'before', 'behind', 'beneath', 'beside', 'between', 'beyond'. Burns often uses the prefix be where A. has the prefix u.

Ex. Ma airmz uboot ma deerie, Oa! (My arms around my darling, Oh!)—An awfa siith oot-owr yay shoodhur (An awful scythe over one shoulder)—If yins dhay pit ur till't (If once they put her to it)—Bii ma noaz (Past my nose).

PREPOSITIONS OF TIME.

As in E., many prepositions of place are also used as prepositions of time, e. g. ufoar, eftur, utween, at, nerr, uboot, fay, in. Other prepositions of time are: gin (by, within), or (till, before), sin (since). Ex. Yee'll bee aw back gin twaw yeer (You'll all be back within two years)—Shee'z root it gei sair gin dhis time (She's rued it badly by now)—Yee'll see't or lang (You'll see it before long).

OTHER PREPOSITIONS.

But (without, except)—fur (for)—leik (like)—oa or u (of)—tay (in comparison with)—wi or wee (with)—widhoot (without)—waantin (short of, without)—furbii (besides).

Ex. Tay leev but hur A cannay (I can't live without her)—Aw furbii ma boanie sel (All besides my pretty self)—Aikht scoar u sheep (Eight score of sheep)—But cair or pain (Without care or pain).

IDIOMATIC USE OF PREPOSITIONS.

Before an infinitive, fur tay is often used for the E. 'to', 'in order to', e. g. A gaid fur tay get it (I went to get it)—Noa fur tay heid it in a haij (Not in order to hide it in a hedge)—Dhay wur room fur to get yur hawn in (There was space to get in your hand)—Yee'll cum fur tay mak a gem (You'll come to make up a game).

In some prepositional phrases the article dhe is expressed in A., though omitted in E. Ex. At dhe kirk (at church)—At dhe skill (at school)—A gem at dhe boolz (a game at marbles or bowls)—Hee'z uwaw at dhe curlin (He's away curling)—Up dhe stair (upstairs)—Doon dhe stair (downstairs)—Up dhe bray (uphill)—Doon dhe bray (downhill)—Wi dhe train (by train).

Some prepositions are used in a different way from E. : better oa (better for)—wawr oa (worse for)—caw fur (call on)—crii oan (call to)—cum at (think of)—cum oot wi (utter)—feert fur (afraid of)—lippun oan (trust)—mak up oan (overtake)—mein oa or hay mein oa (remember)—mairie wi (marry)—mairie oan (marry to)—pit fay (put off)—reit (write to)—sleep in (oversleep oneself)—slip uwaw (go quietly, die)—speek wi (speak to)—speer at (ask)—wait oan (wait for)—aff (from)—wi or wee (for, owing to, because of)—owr (on, across).

Ex. A mein oa um (I remember him)—A hay mein oa dhum aw (I remember them all)—A hennay mein oa a wurd u't (I don't remember a word of it)—Hee'z been dhair sin ivvur A hud mein (He's been there since ever I remember)—Speer at yur midhur (Ask your mother)—Bii himsel (Beside himself, off his head)—Yee'r feer't fur um (You're afraid of him)—A caw'd fur hur yistreen (I called on her yesterday evening)—A waitit un oor oan um (I waited an hour for him)—Dhat'll pit um fay't (That will put him off it)—Did yee reit um? (Did you write to him?)—Shee'z mairit oan ma kizn (She's married to my cousin)— Wee cam ovr dhe brig (We came across the bridge)—A didnay speek wi um (I did not speak to him)—Hee cam oot wi un awfa aith (He uttered a frightful oath)—Shee slippit uwaw last nikht (She died last night)—Hee wiz dhe wawr oa drink (He was worse for drink)—Yee'v sleepit in dhis moarnin (You've over-slept yourself this morning)—A widnay lippun oan um (I wouldn't trust him).

CONJUNCTIONS

As in E., many common adverbs and prepositions are used also as conjunctions, such as hwawr (where), hwun (when), hoo (how, why), ufoar (before), eftur (after). Other conjunctions are :
 aidhur—or (either—or), naidhur—nur (neither—nor), baith—un (both—and)—az, uz, 'z, 's (as)—binna (unless, except)—but (except, without)—coz or cuz (because)—ut, 't (that)—fur (for)— fur feer (lest)—gif, if, gin, un (if, whether)—hwun (while)—nur, dhun, un, 'n (than)—say (so)—sein (then)—sin (since)—thoa (though)—tay or till (until)—yet (yet)—un (and)—or (ere, before) —bi or beez (compared with).

Ex. Un 'twurnay fur dhe lassiz, Oa! (If it weren't for the girls, Oh!)—Un A saw yin un twintie, Tam (If I saw one and twenty, Tom)—Un or A wad unidhur jawd (And before I marry another jade)—Hwit wull A day gin ma hoagie dee? (What shall I do if my pet sheep die?)—Yee'll see't or lang (You'll see it before long)—Wait tay A see (Wait until I see)—Yee'r awl bi mee (You're older than me)—Yee nivvur see green cheez but yur een watturz (You never see green cheese without your eyes watering)—Hee hiz mair nur A thoakht (He has more than I thought)—Shee'z mair nur a hunnur yeer awl (She's more than a hundred years old)—Sullur'z reif noo beez it wiz in oor day (Money's plentiful now compared with what it was in our day)— Hee'z bettur dayin dhat nur dayin naything (He's better doing that than doing nothing).

INTERJECTIONS AND EXCLAMATIONS

Ii (yes)—Na (no)—Mebbee Ii (perhaps)—Mebbee noa (perhaps not)—Deed Ii (yes, indeed)—Deed noa (no, indeed)—Hoots, Toots (tut)—Hoot Ii (oh! yes)—Hoots noa (oh! no)—Oa, Ow, Ay, Hekh, Oakh (Oh!)—Hay (here, hullo, take this)—Hooray (hurrah)—Hillie, hillie (gently, slowly)—Caw cannie (drive gently, take it easy)—Swith (quick)—Tak tent (take care)—Hark (listen)—Weel (well)—Oakh weel (Oh! well)—A wat, Aken, kain or kin (I know)—A trow (I believe)—Weel A wat (I know well)—A'z wud (I'll wager)—A'z waarun (I'll warrant)—Yee ken or kin (You know)—D'yee ken? (D'you know?)—D'yee see? (D'you see?)—Koa A, Koa hee, Koa shee (Said I, said he, said she)—Fein dhat (well, thoroughly, easily)—Leik (as it were, so to say)—Mein yee (remember)—Nay feer (no fear)—Nivvur heed (never mind)—Thenk yee (thank you)—Noa a steek (not a stitch, not a bit)—Haivurz (nonsense)—Hawd yur tung (Hold your tongue)—Steek yur gab (Shut your mouth)—Hweesht (hush, be quiet)—Fii (fie)—Gid-day (good day)—Gid-een (good evening)—Gid-nikht (good night)—Gid-bii (good-bye)—Fair-weel, fair yee weel (farewell)—Wait a wee (wait a little)—Faith, Haith, Fegz, Gid faith, Trowth (faith)—Ma sooth, ma sang (by my faith)—Gid kenz (God knows)—Gid bee wee us (God be with us)—Gid saik (for God's sake)—Gid bee heer (God be here)—Geid'z aw (guide us all)—Loash mee (Lord)—Deel a bit, feent a bit, feent a hair, feent hait (devil a bit)—Az shair'z daith (as sure as death)—Bu jing (by Jove)—Leez mee oan (blessings on)—Alaik, waylie, waysucks, waywurth (alas)—Way'z mee (woe's me)—Way's ma hert (woe's my heart)—Waylie faw (woe befall)—Oa surz, deer surz (alas)—Pair buddie (poor thing).

Ex. Say leez mee oan dhee, Roabin (So blessings on thee, Robin)—Gid faith, hee manna faw dhat (By Jove, he mustn't attempt that)—But feent a hair cair I (But devil a bit do I care)—Un weel A waat hee looz mee deer (And I know well he loves me dearly)—Cumin throo dhe rii, pair buddie (Coming through the rye, poor thing)—Waylie faw dhe lei-crap (Ill betide the lea-crop)—Waysucks fur him ut gits nay lass (Alas for the man that gets no girl)—Feent hait oa't (Devil a bit of it)—Div yee ken? (Do you know?).

It is very common to interject the word man, wummun, lawd, lawdie, lass or lassie, according to the sex and age of the person addressed. When man does not begin the sentence, it is slurred into mun. Ex. Man, Ii or Ii, mun (Yes, man).

Sometimes na is added at the end of a question, e. g. Hoo munnie hoars hee yee na? (How many horses have you?).

Leik is often added to a sentence or clause, without much meaning except that of indefiniteness, like the phrase 'so to say'. Ex. Hur fais wiz aw bigruttun leik (Her face was covered with tears).

NEGATIVES

As in E., most negatives begin with the sound of n, e. g. Na, interj. (No)—noa, adv. (not)—na or nay, adv. (n't after a verb)—nay, adj. (no)—nain, pron. (none)—neer, nivvur, adv. (never)—naidhur, conj. (neither)—nur, conj. (nor)—naybuddie, n. (nobody)——naything, n. (nothing)—noakht, n. (nought)—naygait, adv. (nowhere).

The E. words 'few' and 'seldom' are generally expressed in A. by noa munnie (not many) and noa oafun (not often).

VERBS

The moods and tenses of verbs and the use of auxiliary verbs are very much the same in A. as in E., except that:

(1) The subjunctive mood is rarely used, the indicative being employed in its place.

(2) The active infinitive is often used where in E. the passive infinitive is used. Ex. Hee'z noa tay luppun tull (He's not to be trusted)—Iz dhis hoos tay let? (Is this house to be let?).

(3) The present participle with the verb 'to be' is more frequently used than in E., e. g. A'm thinkin, A'm sayin, A'm noa sayin dhat, A'm noa cairin (I don't care).

As regards number and person, the chief difference between A. and E. is that in the present tense the ending in z or s, which in E. marks the third person singular, is in A. often used in all persons of the plural unless the verb follows immediately after a single pronoun, and also sometimes in the first and second persons singular, especially when the present is used for a narrative past.

This sibilant sound is, as in E., the only inflexion of the verb now surviving, except those of the past tense and the participles, and except those of some of the auxiliary verbs. The rules which determine whether it shall be z or s are much the same as those which regulate the formation of the plural of nouns. That is to say, to form the third person singular of the present tense most verbs add z, but if the verb ends in a voiceless unsibilated sound, the sibilant sound added is s. If the verb ends in a sibilant sound (including ch, j, and x), the sound added is iz.

Ex. Verbs ending in a vowel-sound, which add z in the third person singular present : dee (die), deez—day (do), diz—faw (fall), fawz—gay (go), gayz—grow (grow), growz—loo (love), looz—pei (pay), peiz—say (say), sayz.

Verbs ending in a voiced non-sibilant consonant-sound (b, m, v, dh, d, n, l, r, g, ng) which add z : rub (rub), rubz—cum (come), cumz—leev (live), leevz—braidh (breathe), braidhz—bid (bid), bidz—rin (run), rinz—tell (tell), tellz—heer (hear), heerz—big (build), bigz—sing (sing), singz.

Verbs ending in a sibilant sound (s, z, sh, zh, ch, j, x) which add iz : kiss (kiss), kissiz—reiz (rise), reiziz—fish (fish), fishiz—pooch (pocket), poochiz—juj (judge), jujiz.

Verbs ending in a voiceless non-sibilant consonant-sound (p, f, th, t, k, kh) which add s : sleep (sleep), sleeps—eet (eat), eets—lick (lick), licks—pekh (pant), pekhs.

PRESENT TENSE.

The present tense of ken (know) is as follows :

	Sing.	Pl.
First person	A ken	Wee ken
Second person	Dhoo kenz	Yee ken
Third person	Hee kenz	Dhay ken

Where the verb immediately follows a pronoun in the plural (wee, yee, dhay) standing alone, usually no sibilant is added, but when the plural pronoun is separated from the verb by some other word or words, or when the subject of the verb includes two pronouns, or is a plural noun, then the verb generally adds the sibilant in the plural. Ex. Wee ken dhat fein (We know that well)—Us awl foak kenz dhat fein (We old people know that well)—Mee un yoo kenz dhat fein (You and I know that well)—Weemin kenz dhat fein (Women know that well)—Hwun dhe kii cumz haim (When the cows come home)—Green growz dhe rashiz, Oh ! (Green grow the rushes, O)—Hwit sairz yur grem-murz ? (What do your grammars serve ?).

The verb sometimes takes the sibilant ending even in the first person singular, and even after a single plural pronoun, especially when the present is used in narrative for the past, e. g. A nivvur seez um noo (I never see him now)—A sez or sez A (I said)—In wee cumz (In we came)—A hiz nay cair but Nannie, Oa (I have no care but Nannie, O)—An angshus ee A nivvur throaz uhint ma lug (I never throw an anxious eye behind my ear)—Dhat's whit dhay caws't heer (That's what they call it here)—Dhat's whit dhay gait's yet (That's what they are still called).

In the second person singular of the present tense, used only in prayer and in poetry, the simple sibilant is added in place of the E. st or est, e. g. Dhoo'z (Thou art or thou hast)—Dhoo kenz (Thou knowest)—Dhoo trevulz fawr (Thou travellest far)—Dhoo'z met mee in an eevil oor (Thou hast met me in an evil hour)—Lassie, say dhoo looz me (Girl, say thou lovest me). Burns however sometimes uses no sibilant: Dhoo needna stert uwaw say haistie (Thou needst not start away so hastily). In the past tense no sibilant is added: Dhoo saw dhe feelz laid bair un waist (Thou sawest the fields laid bare and waste).

OTHER TENSES.

As in E., verbs (other than the auxiliary verb bee) make no change for number or person in any tense but the present.

AUXILIARY VERBS.

The auxiliary verbs are used in much the same way as in E. They are :

Infinitive	3rd Sing. Present	Past bee	iz (is)	wiz or wuz (was) hay (have), hev	hiz (has)	hud (had) can	cood (could)
	may	mikht (might) man or mun (must)	bist or beet (had to) wull	wid or wud (would) shid (should)
day, div (do)	diz (does)	did (did)
dawr (dare)	dawrz	dawrd

The present tense of the auxiliary verb bee is as follows after a single pronoun :

	Singular		Plural
	Full	Slurred	Full	Slurred
First person	am	'm	ar	ur, 'r
Second person		'z	ar	ur, 'r
Third person	iz	'z, 's	ar	ur, 'r

As in E., in ordinary conversation, and especially after a pronoun, the slurred form is commonly used, e. g. A'm, hee'z, shee'z, it's, wee'r, yee'r, dhay'r.

As in E., the uncontracted form of the third person singular is pronounced iz, but the slurred form is z or s according to the rule which regulates the sibilant sound in the plural of nouns, i. e. after a vowel-sound or a voiced unsibilated consonant-sound it is z, after a voiceless unsibilated consonant-sound it is s, and after a sibilant consonant-sound the full form iz is used. Ex. Hee'z heer (he's here)—Hwaw'z dhat (who's that)—Dhat dug'z meinz (that dog's mine)—Awthing'z heer (everything's here)—Oor lam'z deed (our lamb's dead)—Dhe loak's broakun (the lock's broken)—It's heer (it's here)—Dhat's rikht (that's right)—Dhe munth's ovr (the month's over)—Dhis sheep's noa weel (this sheep's ill)—Ma glessiz iz broakun (my spectacles are broken).

Din (done) in the sense of 'finished' takes bee as its auxiliary verb instead of the E. have, e. g. A'm noa din yet (I haven't done yet)—Ur yee din ? (have you finished?).

Unlike E., after any subject except a single pronoun (wee, yee, dhay) the plural present of bee is the same as the third person singular (iz, 'z or 's). Thus while it is usual to say wee'r, yee'r, dhay'r, we have such expressions as the following: Mee un him'z noa cheef (He and I are not on friendly terms)—Dhur'z boanie floorz (These are pretty flowers)—Dhay'z fein nowt (Those are fine cattle)—Dhur'z noa munnie foak kenz dhat (There are few people who know that)—Ma hawn'z iz nivvur hail (My hands are never whole)—Iz dhay yoorz ? (Are those yours?)—Dhem ut cumz furst's furst said (Those who come first are first served).

The past tense of the auxiliary verb bee is wiz or wuz in the singular and generally in the plural also, except that before or after the pronoun dhay (they) it is generally wur. Ex. Yoo wiz dhair, wiz yee noa ? (You were there, were you not?)—Hwawr wiz yee gawn ? (Where were you going?)—Wee wiz gawn haim

(We were going home)—Bees wuz chaipur dhan (Cattle were cheaper then)—Wur dhay baith dhair? (Were they both there?)—Wuz baith oa dhum dhair? (Were both of them there?).

There is a curious use of dhay ar, slurred into dhur, for 'there is', ur dhay for 'is there', dhay wur for 'there was', and wur dhay for 'was there'. Ex. Dhur a man doon dhair (There's a man down there)—Ur dhay munnie may oa yoor kein? (Are there many more of your kind?)—Ur dhay oanie buddie in? (Is there any one in?)—Dhay wur a yung man (There was a young man)—Dhur twaw men mulks raiglur (There are two men who milk regularly)—Dhay wurnay hawf az muckul cleenin din dhan (There wasn't half as much cleaning done then)—Dhay wurnay a hait rang wi dhum (There wasn't a bit wrong with them).

Bee fur is used in the sense of 'want', e. g. Hwit ur yee fur noo? (what will you have now?)—A'm noa fur nay mair (I don't want any more).

The subjunctive of bee for both numbers and all three persons is in the present bee and in the past wur. It is seldom used except in prayer, poetry, and proverbs.

For E. 'have', hay, hev and hiv (often slurred into 'v) are used, hay being more common and hev or hiv more emphatic. As an auxiliary verb it is used in the same way as in E., except that, in accordance with the general rule, the present plural in all persons is hiz, except after a single pronoun, when it is hiv or hev, usually slurred into 'v, e. g. wee'v, yee'v, dhay'v. Hiz is often slurred into a mere sibilant, which is z or s according to the same rule which applies to iz. Hay is often slurred into a or u, or omitted; or becomes hee before the pronoun yee.

Ex. A'v been dhair munnie'z dhe teim (I've often been there)—Mee un him'z hud a gem (He and I have had a game)—Munnie oa dhe lamz hiz deed (Many of the lambs have died)—Hwaw wid a thoakht it? (Who would have thought it?)—A cood u tellt yee dhat (I could have told you that)—Oa, Tibbie, A hay seen dhe day yee widna been say shii (Oh! Tibbie, I have seen the day when you wouldn't have been so shy)—Shee fain wid a hain um (She would gladly have had him)—Hee wid stawnt, az gled tay see um (He would have stood, as if glad to see him)—Hoo munnie hoars hee yee na? (How many horses may you have?)—

Hee cood u geen yee Scoach (He could have given you Scotch)—A din dhat masel (I've done that myself).

Day, diz and did, can and cood, may and mikht, man or mun (must), and dawr (dare) are used in the same way as the corresponding words in E. Day is sometimes strengthened into div. Ex. A coodnay say (I couldn't say—I don't know)—Yee man gang haim (You must go home)—A, leik a bloakid, bist tay reid (I, like a blockhead, had to ride)—A shoartlie bist tay pastur i' dhe craft sum day (I shall some day soon have to graze in the croft)—A divnay ken (I don't know)—Div yee noa see? (don't you see?)—A dawrsay (I daresay)—It mikht hay been wawr (It might have been worse).

As in E., can, may, man, wull, and sometimes dawr, do not add a sibilant in the 3rd person singular present.

Can is used, unlike E., as an infinitive in the sense of 'be able to', e.g. A'll noa can gang dhu-moarn (I shan't be able to go to-morrow)—Ivrie wain in dhe toon ull can say dhat (Every child in the village will be able to say that).

Sometimes in interrogative sentences the past of the verb is used where in E. the auxiliary 'did' would be employed, e. g. Hwawr hard yee dhat? (Where did you hear that?)—Hwawr gat yee yur skillin? (Where did you get your schooling—go to school?).

The past of man or mun (must) is beet or bist (obs.), e. g. It beet tay be (It had to be).

Wull (often slurred into 'll) and wid or wud (sometimes slurred into 'd) are used where 'will' and 'would' are used in E., and also where 'shall' and 'should' are used in E., except where 'should' is used in the sense of 'ought to', its place being then taken in A. by shid. The word 'shall' is not used at all in Scotch in ordinary conversation—hence the difficulty a Scotchman has in knowing when to use 'shall' and 'should' in speaking E. Ex.: Wull yoo be dhair? (Shall you be there?)—Ii, but yee wull thoa (Yes, but you shall)—A'll gee yee't (I'll give it you)—A wid think dhat (I should think so)—Yee shidna day dhat (You shouldn't do that).

There is a curious use of 'z for 'll, with a future meaning, e.g. A'z wud (I'll wager)—A'z waarun (I'll warrant)—Yee'z noa bee heer (You'll not be here)—A'z ei bee dhair (I shall still be there). It is no doubt a survival of sal (shall).

Dow, doakht are used in poetry in the sense of 'can', 'could':

Trumlin, A dow noakht but glowr (Trembling, I can do nothing but stare)—Coarnwawlis foakht az lawng'z hee doakht (Cornwallis fought as long as he could).

NEGATIVE AUXILIARY VERBS.

The adverb noa after an auxiliary verb, and sometimes after other verbs, is slurred into nay, much as in E. the corresponding adverb 'not' is slurred into n't, e.g. iznay, wuznay or wiznay (isn't, wasn't)—hevnay, hennay, hiznay, hudnay (haven't, hasn't, hadn't)—cannay, coodnay (can't, couldn't)—munnay (mustn't)—winnay, wudnay (won't, wouldn't)—shidnay (shouldn't)—dinnay, diznay, didnay (don't, doesn't, didn't)—dawrnay (daren't)—neednay or neennay (needn't)—cairnay (don't care)—wistnay (didn't know). Some speakers pronounce the negative more like na than nay. But am and 'r (are) usually take the full form of the adverb—A'm noa, wee'r noa, yee'r noa—and iz noa, 'z noa or 's noa are used as well as iznay. Ex. A'm noa weel (I'm not well)—It's noa or It iznay (It isn't)—Yee'r noa blait (You aren't shy)—A cannay cum (I can't come)—A coodnay day't (I couldn't do it)—Yee munnay gang (You mustn't go)—Hee widnay cum (He wouldn't come)—A dawrnay tell (I daren't tell)—Yee arnay Mairie Morison (You aren't Mary Morison)—A cairnay bii (I don't care a bit)—Hee wistnay hwawr hee wiz gawn (He didn't know where he was going)—Facks ur cheelz dhut winnay ding un downay be dispyootit (Facts are fellows that won't be beaten and can't be disputed)—Hee neennay craw say croos (He needn't crow so proudly)—A coodnay say a hait uboot it (I couldn't say anything about it).

INTERROGATIVE USE OF VERBS.

As in E., an interrogative sentence, unless when it begins with an interrogative pronoun or adverb, generally begins with one of the auxiliary verbs followed by the subject. Ex.: Am A noa rikht? (Am I not right?)—Ur yee shair? (Are you sure?)—Hwaw did yee see? (Who did you see?)—Dinnay yee ken? or Div yee noa ken? (Don't you know?)—Cannay yee cum? or Can yee noa cum? (Can't you come?)—Wid yee leik a bit? (Would you like a bit?).

If no auxiliary verb is used, the verb begins the sentence, e.g.

Think yee say? (Do you think so?)—Cam yee ba Athul? (Did you come by Atholl?).

PAST TENSE.

Regular verbs form their indefinite past tense by adding to the present the syllable -it, which corresponds to the E. 'ed'. Ex.: creep, creepit (crept)—keep, keepit (kept)—sleep, sleepit (slept)—droap, droapit (dropped)—stoap, stoapit (stopped)—soop, soopit (swept)—rap, rappit (rapped)—keek, keekit (peeped)—leik, leikit (liked)—luk, lukit (looked)—sing, singit (singed)—hurt, hurtit (hurt)—likht, likhtit (lighted)—pent, pentit (painted).

It will be seen from the above examples that some verbs in A. have the regular past, while the corresponding verbs in E. form it somewhat irregularly, at least in the pronunciation, especially by turning the -ed into t.

Some verbs form the past by adding t to the present, e.g. sell, sellt (sold)—tell, tellt (told)—scail, scailt (spilt)—ken, kent or kend (knew)—loas, loast (lost)—miss, misst (missed)—ben (bend), bent—coarn (corn), coarnt—fesh (fetch), fesht—gur (make), gurt (made)—blin (blind), blint (blinded)—mein (mind), meint (minded)—cach, cacht (caught).

Some verbs ending in a vowel-sound form the past by adding t to the present, e.g. boo (bow), boot—caw (call), cawt—dee (die), deet—poo (pull), poot—row (roll), rowt (rolled)—pei (pay), peit (paid). Some speakers, however, pronounce this termination as d.

Others form the past by adding d to the present, e.g. loo (love), lood (loved)—gay (go), gaid (went)—lay, laid—gee (give), geed or gid (gave)—day (do), did.

As in E., many common verbs form their past irregularly, but there is a tendency (1) to end the past tense with t or d, and (2) when the vowel-sound of the verb is changed, to have in the past the sound of aa, aw, ai, e, oa, oo, i, or u. Ex.: Past ending in t or d—bii (buy), boakht (bought)—bring, broakht (brought)—think, thoakht (thought)—seek, soakht (sought)—wurk, roakht (wrought)—aw (owe), awkht (owed)—burn, brunt (burnt)—may, mikht (might)—tein (lose), tint (lost)—speer (ask), speert (asked)—bigin, bigood (began)—can, cood (could)—heer (hear), hard or herd—hay (have), hud (had)—mak (make), maid (made)—say, sed (said)—wull (will), wid (would).

Past in aa or aw—brek (break), brak (broke)—stick, stak (stuck)—speek, spak (spoke)—streck, strak (struck)—cum (come), cam (came)—clim (climb), clam (climbed)—ding (beat), dang—ring, rang—fling, flang—get (get), gat—furget, furgat (forgot)—greet (weep), grat—pit (put), pat (put)—spit, spat—sit, sat—sweet (sweat), swat—weet (wet), wat—fin (find), fan (found)—rin (run), ran—spin, span—win, wan (won)—lowp (leap), lap (leaped)—bid, bad (bade)—see, saw—steel (steal), staw (stole)—rax (reach, stretch), rawkht—tell, tawld (told).

Past in ai—beid (endure), baid (endured)—reid (ride), raid (rode)—streid, straid (strode)—sleid (slide), slaid (slid)—reit (write), rait (wrote)—sheer (reap or clip), shair—threiv, thraiv (throve)—riiv (split), raiv—reiz (rise), raiz (rose)—gee (give), gay (gave)—lii (lie), lay.

Past in e—blid (bleed), bled—breed, bred—cleed (clothe), cled—feed, fed—leed (lead), led—reed (read), red—say, sed (said)—eet (eat), ett (ate)—meet, met—faw (fall), fell—hawd (hold), held—lee (leave), left.

Past in oa—fekht (fight), foakht (fought)—freez, froaz (froze)—shit (shoot), shoat—beer (bear), boar (bore)—weer (wear), wear (wore)—sweer (swear), swoar (swore)—teer (tear), toar (tore).

Past in oo—blaw (blow), bloo (blew)—draw, droo (drew)—craw (crow), croo (crew)—grow, groo (grew)—flee (fly), floo (flew)—tak (take), took.

Past in i—cast, kist (cast)—stawn (stand), stid (stood)—let, lit (let).

Past in u—sing, sung—shaik (shake), shyuk (shook)—lakh (laugh), lyukh (laughed).

Waat (know) has as past wist (knew)—Un wistna oa ma fait (And knew not of my fate).

PRESENT PARTICIPLE AND VERBAL NOUN.

In A. there is no noticeable difference between the pronunciation of the termination of the present participle and of that of the verbal noun, which in both cases is -in, with some tendency towards -un (see p. 37); e.g. dee, deein (dying)—poo, pooin (pulling)—sing, singin (singing)—think, thinkin (thinking).

Gay or gang (go) has its present participle and verbal noun slurred into gawn, e.g. Hwawr yee gawn? (Where are you going?)—A wizna thinkin oa gawn (I wasn't thinking of going).

PAST PARTICIPLE.

Regular verbs form their past participle in the same way as the past tense by adding -it (corresponding to the E. -ed) to the present. Its form is therefore, in the case of such verbs, the same as that of the past tense. Ex. creepit (crept), keepit (kept), sleepit (slept), droapit (dropped), stoapit (stopped), soopit (swept), keekit (peeped), leikit (liked), lukit (looked), singit (singed), hurtit (hurt), pentit (painted), rappit (rapped).

As in the case of the past tense, verbs ending in a vowel-sound, and some verbs ending in a consonant-sound, form the past participle by adding t or d to the present. Ex.: dee (die), deet (died)—caw (call), cawt or cawd or cud (called)—boo (bow), boot (bowed)—poo (pull), poot or pood (pulled)—alloo (allow, admit), alloom—mairie (marry), mairit (married)—bairie (bury), bairit (buried)—loo (love), lood (loved)—lay, laid—sell, sellt (sold)—tell, tellt (told)—kill, killt (killed)—scail (spill), scailt (spilt)—ken (know), kent or kend (known)—ben (bend), bent—sen (send), sent—len (lend), lent—coarn (corn), coarnt—gur (make), gurt (made)—sair (serve), sairt (served)—loas (lose), loast (lost)—miss, misst (missed).

Many common verbs form their past participle irregularly, with a tendency (1) to make it end in t, d, or n, and (2) where the vowel-sound of the verb is changed, to make it aw, ai, e, ee, i, oa, ow, or u.

Past participle in t or d: bii (buy), boakht (bought)—bring, broakht (brought)—think, thoakht (thought)—seek, soakht (sought)—wurk, roakht (wrought)—aw (owe), awkht (owed)—burn, brunt (burnt)—tein (lose), tint (lost)—lee (leave), left—heer (hear), hard or herd (heard)—hay (have), hud (had)—mak (make), maid—say, sed (said)—shay (shoe), shoad (shod).

Past participle in n: blaw (blow), blawn (blown)—faw (fall), fawn (fallen)—thraw (twist), thrawn (twisted)—gay (go), gain (gone)—hay (have), hain (had)—lii (lie), lain—tak (take), tain (taken)—eet (eat), ettun (eaten)—gee (give), geen (given)—see, seen—bee (be), been—beid (endure), biddun (endured)—bid, biddun (bidden)—reiv (split), rivvun (split)—dreiv (drive), drivvun (driven)—threiv (thrive), thrivvun (thriven)—reid (ride), riddun (ridden)—heid (hide), hiddun (hidden)—reiz (rise), rizzun (risen)—sleid (slide), sliddun (slidden)—day (do), din (done)—sit, sittun (sat)—let, littun (let)—pit (put), pittun (put)—cast, kism (cast)—stawn (stand), stiddun (stood)—beer (bear), boarn (born)—sheer (reap, clip), shoarn (reaped, clipped)—weer (wear), woarn (worn)—sweer (swear), swoarn—teer (tear), toarn (torn)—get (get), goatun (got)—roat (rot), roatun (rotten)—brek (break), broakun (broken)—speek (speak), spoakun (spoken)—fekht (fight), foakhun (fought)—praiv (prove), proavun (proved)—chaiz (choose), choazun (chosen)—freez (freeze), froazun (frozen)—grow (grow), grown (grown)—steel (steal), stown (stolen)—streck (strike), struckun (struck)—shaik (shake), shyukkun (shaken)—hawd (hold), huddun (held)—fleit (scold), fluttun (scolded)—greet (weep), gruttun (wept)—spit, sputtun (spat)—sweet (sweat), swuttun (sweated)—drink, drukkun (drunk).

A few verbs, ending in d, t, n, or ng, make no change in the termination of the past participle, but some change the vowel-sound of the verb: breed, bred—feed, fed—lead (lead), led—cleed (clothe), cled (clad)—blid (bleed), bled—redd (arrange), redd—bait (beat), bait (beaten)—reit (write), roat (written)—acqwaant (acquaint), acqwaant (acquainted)—furget (forget), furgoat (forgotten)—rin (run), run (run)—spin, spun—win, wun (won)—fin (find), fun (found)—ring, rung—sing, sung—ding (beat), dung (beaten)—hing (hang), hung—fling, flung—clim (climb), clum (climbed).

COMPARISON BETWEEN THE DIALECTS OF AYRSHIRE AND PERTHSHIRE

WHEREVER dialects of English speech are spoken, each area has some local peculiarities of its own ; and it may be interesting if I make a comparison between the dialect of Central Ayrshire and my own native dialect, that of Lower Strathearn, in Perthshire, about seventy miles away and close to the Highland Border, beyond which, until recently, Gaelic was the spoken language of the people. If the comparison be made with standard English, the similarities of the two dialects, in vocabulary, pronunciation, grammar, and idiom, are much more striking than the differences between them ; but the following differences are noticeable. (A. means the dialect of Central Ayrshire, P. means the dialect of Strathearn in Perthshire, and E. means standard English.)

CONSONANTS

As regards consonant-sounds, the chief difference is the tendency in A. to omit the sound d, especially after n or l, in many words in which it is pronounced, both in P. and E. Ex.

E.	P.	A.	E.	P.	A.
hand	hawnd	hawn	Highland	Heelund	Heelun
land	lawnd	lawn	London	Lundun	Lunnun
stand	stawnd	stawn	hundred	hundur	hunnur
end	end	en	under-	undur-	unnurmend	mend	men	stand	stawnd	stawn
friend	freend	freen	old	awld	awl
blind	blind	blin	bold	bawld	bawl kind	keind	kein	cold	cawld	cawl
wind	wund	wun	fold	fawld	fawl round	roond	roon	field	feeld	feel pound	pund	pun	wild	weild	weil
ground	grund	grun	world	wawrld	wawrl

In a few words however P. does, like A., omit d, but not at the end of the word. Ex.

E.	P.	A.	E.	P.	A.
candle	cawnul	cawnul	thunder	thunnur	thunnur
handle	hawnul	hawnul	wonder	wunnur	wunnur
kindle	kennul	kennul	founder	foonur	foonur

The two dialects generally agree in the omission of the sound l, e. g. aw (all)—baw (ball)—caw (call)—sawt (salt)—fawt (fault)—oo (wool)—foo (full)—poo (pull)—shoodhur (shoulder)—now (knoll)—row (roll)—cowt (colt)—gowd (gold).

The two dialects are alike in the omission of the labial sounds b and v, in comparison with E., e. g. tummul (tumble)—thummul (thimble)—chawmur (chamber)—oa (of)—hay (have)—gee (give)—gay (gave)—loo (love)—twal (twelve)—deel (devil)—hairst (harvest)—sullur (silver); and in the omission of some other consonant-sounds, e. g. tain (taken)—fling-ur (finger)—Ing-lish (English)—drukken (drunken)—wi or wee (with)—fay (from)—wawr (worse)—sin (since)—craitur (creature)—pictur (picture)—claiz (clothes).

They also agree in inserting in some words consonants not sounded in E., e. g. ken (know)—sclait (slate)—skelp (slap)—hoolut (owl)—preen (pin)—thrussul (thistle)—kitlin (kitten)—tinklur (tinker)—laivruk (lark)—twaw (two)—swurd (sword)—dyuk (duck)—hyuk (hook)—tyukh (tough)—inyukh (enough)—yuk (itch). But A. has groazit for P. groazur (gooseberry)—wunnuck for P. windee (window)—yull for P. ail (ale)—yurth for P. airth (earth)—byuk for P. book (book)—brinth for P. breed (breadth).

The two dialects agree in making the present participle and verbal noun end in in (sometimes with a tendency to pronounce it un), instead of the E. ing; also in the pronunciation of such words as likhnin (lightning)—moarnin (morning)—puddin (pudding)—shullin (shilling)—sang (song)—rang (wrong)—lawng (long)—naything (nothing)—ing-un (onion); but A. has umang for P. umoan (among).

In both dialects r is pronounced with a distinct trill of the tip of the tongue; and the rough guttural aspirate is pronounced in such words as likht (light)—nikht (night)—fekht (fight)—boakht (bought)—doakhtur (daughter)—rukht (rough)—nikhur (neigh)—hawkh (holm)—sawkh (willow)—laikh (low)—pekh (pant)—loakh (lake)—toakhur (dowry); but A. has flay for P. flekh (flea) and mawk for P. mawkh (maggot).

Both dialects have in some words a guttural consonant where E. has a palatal, e. g. caff (chaff)—kist (chest)—kirn (churn)—kirk (church)—birk (birch)—sic (such)—thack (thatch)—breeks (breeches)—steek (stitch)—muckul (much)—patrik (partridge)— rig (ridge)—brig (bridge)—gant (yawn). Both dialects have dh for d in such words as ledhur (ladder)—poodhur (powder)—shoodhur (shoulder); and for t in dhu-day (to-day)—dhu-moarn (to-morrow)—dhigidhur (together). Noticeable differences are that A. has yin for P. ain (one, num.), yay for P. ay (one, adj.)—byoo for P. bloo (blue)—pyukh for P. ploo (plough).

VOWEL-SOUNDS

The difference between the two dialects is more noticeable in the vowel-sounds, and especially in the substitution in A. of ee for the P. ai in many words. Ex.

E.		A.	P.
Written	Spoken
dead	ded	deed	daid
bread	bred	breed	braid
head	hed	heed	haid
deaf	def	deef	daif
spread	spred	spreed	spraid
bead	beed	beed	baid
leaf	leef	leef	laif
heal	heel	heel	hail meal	meel	meel	mail
steal	steel	steel	stail
beam	beem	beem	baim dream	dreem	dreem	draim
heap	heep	heep	haip
fear	feer	feer	fair
east	eest	eest	aist
beast	beest	beest	baist
eat	eet	eet	ait
heat	heet	heet	hait
meat	meet	meet	mait
cheat	cheet	cheet	chait peat	peet	peet	pait
easy	eezi	eezie	aizie
please	pleez	pleez	plaiz
bear v.	bair	beer	bair
tear v.	tair	teer	tair
wear	wair	weer	wair
swear	swair	sweer	swair

But in a number of words with these vowel-sounds both dialects agree with each other, while they differ from E. Ex. (1) ai for E.

ce: baird (beard)—shaif (sheaf)—chaip (cheap)—dail (deal)—sait (seat)—craitur (creature)—raizun (reason)—saizun (season)—daisunt (decent); (2) ai for E. e: daith (death)—braith (breath)—dairth (dearth)—lairn (learn)—pairl (pearl)—airlie (early); (3) e for E. a: hert (heart)—herth (hearth); (4) ee for E. e: threed (thread)—breest (breast); (5) e for E. ai: brek (break). The E. 'sweet' (sweet) is in A. sweet, and in P. sweit. 'Second' is in A. saicunt, and in P. seecund.

Both dialects have a tendency to turn E. a into aw, as in maw (mamma)—paw (papa)—lawd (lad)—hawf (half)—sawm (psalm)—Sawbuth (Sabbath); but this tendency is even more noticeable in A. than in P., e. g. A. cawr, P. car (car)—A. dawrk, P. dark (dark)—A. dawrlin, P. darlin (darling). Both dialects have also a tendency to turn E. a into ai or e, as in pairt (part)—gaird (guard)—yaird (yard)—faidhur (father)—ferm (farm)—fermur (farmer)—hert (heart)—gless (glass)—eftur (after)—gedhur (gather). The tendency in A. is to make this sound ai, where in P. the younger generation make it e, e. g. A. airm, P. erm (arm)—A. airmie, P. ermie (army)—A. cairt, P. kert (cart)—A. mairch, P. merch (march)—A. mairie, P. merrie (marry).

In both dialects there is a tendency to substitute the short vowel u for the E. i in such words as ull (ill)—hull (hill)—mull (mill)—wull (will)—mulk (milk)—um or hum (him)—hwup (whip)—wut (wit)—sullur (silver)—hwuskie (whisky)—hwussul (whistle); but the tendency is not quite so strong in A. as in P., e. g. we have A. hit, P. hut (it)—A. miss, P. muss (miss)—A. mistris, P. mustris (mistress). There is also in A. a tendency to pronounce this short vowel in some words something like e, e. g. A. fet or fit, P. fut (foot)—A. fesh or fish, P. fush (fish)—A. fefteen, P. fufteen (fifteen)—A. feftie, P. fuftie (fifty)—A. sestur, P. sustur (sister).

Both dialects round the E. o into oa in many words, such as coak (cock)—roak (rock)—shoap (shop)—coarn (corn)—noarth (north)—Scoach (Scotch)—moarnin (morning). But when an English word ends in a short oa, the tendency is in A. to make it end in a short a, and in P. in a short ay, e. g. A. barra, P. barray (barrow)—A. falla, P. fallay (fellow)—A. nerra, P. nerray (narrow)—A. swaala, P. swaalay (swallow)—A. tubacca, P. tubawcay (tobacco)—A. Glesca, P. Glescay (Glasgow).

One of the most noticeable differences between A. and P. is that while in P. many words (especially words which in E. have the sound oo) are pronounced with a sound like that of the French eu in peu (which I spell ui), that sound has disappeared from Central Ayrshire, where its place is generally taken by i, except at the end of a word or before r or z, where it becomes ay or ai. Ex.

E.		P.	A.
Written.	Spoken.
good	good	guid	gid rood	rood	ruid	rid should	shood	shuid	shid stood	stood	stuid	stid
fool	fool	fui	fil school	scool	scuil	skill
moon	moon	muin	min
June	Joon	Juin	Jin
soon	soon	shuin	shin
shoes	shooz	shuin	shin
spoon	spoon	spuin	spin
do	doo	dui	day
too	too	tui	tay
shoe	shoo	shui	shay
moor	moor	muir	mair
poor	poor	puir	pair
sure	shoor	shuir	shair
choose	chooz	chui	chay
music	myoozic	muizik	maizik
bury	berri	buir	baire

In a few words A. has u where P. has aa, e.g. A. purrich, P. parrich (porridge)—A. bunnuk, P. bannuk (thick scone)—A. bunnet, P. bannut (bonnet).

There is a tendency in A. to pronounce a short vowel at the end of a word a, where in P. it is pronounced ay, e.g. P. awfay, A. awfa (awful)—P. ulkay, A. ilka (every)—P. uncay, A. unca (very)—P. varray, A. vurra (very). The short negative added to a verb is in P. nay, in A. nay or na (n't), e.g. P. wuznay, A. wiznay or wizna (wasn't)—P. duinay, A. dinnay or dinna (don't)—P. wunnay, A. winnay or winna (won't).

In both dialects 'any' (enni) is oanie; but while in P. 'many' (menni) is moanie, in A. it is munnie.

GRAMMAR AND IDIOM

The differences in grammar and idiom between the two dialects are comparatively few. Among them may be mentioned the following:

While in P. the pronoun it is often contracted into d, it remains t in A., e.g. P. oa'd, A. oa't or u't (of it)—P. wee'd, A. wi't or wee't (with it)—P. fay'd, A. fay't (from it)—P. see'd, A. see't (see it)—P. goatun'd, A. goatun't (got it). 'What' is in P. hwaat or hwut, in A. hwit.

In P. it is usual to contract the phrases 'of the', 'in the', or 'on the' into ee, and 'to the' into tee, e.g. dhe haid ee toon (the head of the town)—A'm gawn tee kirk (I'm going to church). These contractions are not used in A.

Among the auxiliary verbs P. has wuz, A. wiz or wuz (was)—P. hez, A. hiz (has)—P. hed, A. hud (had)—P. man, A. man or mun (must)—P. wud, A. wid or wud (would)—P. duin, A. din (done). The past of man (must) is in P. buid, in A. beet or bist (had to).

In the past and past participle of some verbs, A. has t, where P. has d, e.g. P. gard, A. gurt (made)—P. coarnd, A. coarnt (corned)—P. deed, A. deet (died)—P. pood, A. poot (pulled)—P. rowd, A. rowt (rolled)—P. kulld, A. killt (killed)—P. merraid, A. mairit (married)—P. buiraid, A. bairit (buried)—P. saird, A. sairt (served).

VOCABULARY

Among the few differences in vocabulary may be noticed: P. bairn, A. wain (child)—P. theevul, A. spurtul (porridge stick)—P. anturin, A. daimun (occasional).

CHRISTIAN NAMES

The following are among the more common Christian names, with their shortened and diminutive forms. A child is generally called by the diminutive form, which may cling to it through life or be replaced by the shortened or full form as it grows older.

A common prayer taught in English to children in Ayrshire is:

This night when I lie down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep;
If I should die before I wake,
I pray the Lord my soul to take.
In my little bed I lie,
Heavenly Father, hear my cry.
Lord, protect me through the night,
Keep me safe till morning light.

POOR MAILIE'S ELEGY.

(As originally printed in the Kilmarnock edition.)

Lament in rhyme, lament in prose,
Wi' saut tears trickling down your nose;
Our Bardie's fate is at a close,

Past a' remead !

The last, sad cape-stone of his woes;

Poor Mailie's dead !

It's no the loss o' warl's gear,
That could sae bitter draw the tear,
Or make our Bardie, dowie, wear

The mourning weed :

He's lost a friend and neebor dear,

In Mailie dead.

Thro' a' the town she trotted by him ;

A lang half-mile she could descry him ;

Wi' kindly bleat, when she did spy him,

She ran wi' speed :

A friend mair faithfu' ne'er came nigh him,

Than Mailie dead.

I wat she was a sheep o' sense,
An' could behave hersel wi' mense :
I'll say't, she never brak a fence,

Thro' thievish greed.

Our Bardie, lanely, keeps the spence

Sin' Mailie's dead.

Or, if he wanders up the howe,
 Her living image in her yowe,
 Comes bleating till him, owre the knowe,
 For bits o' bread;
 An' down the briny pearls rowe
 For Mailie dead.

She was nae get o' moorlan tips,
 Wi' tauted ket, an' hairy hips;
 For her forbears were brought in ships,
 Frae 'yont the TWEED:
 A bonier fleesh ne'er cross'd the clips
 Than Mailie's dead.

Wae worth that man wha first did shape,
 That vile, wanchancie thing—a raep!
 It maks guid fellows girn an' gape,
 Wi' chokin dread;
 An' Robin's bonnet wave wi' crape
 For Mailie dead.

O, a' ye Bards on bonie Doon!
 An' wha on AIRE your chanter's tune!
 Come, join the melancholius croon
 O' Robin's reed!
 His heart will never get aboon!
 His Mailie's dead.

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Lament in reim, lament in proaz,
 Wi sawt teerz tricklin doon yur noaz;
 Oor Bawrdie'z fait iz at a cloaz,
 Past aw remeed!
 Dhe last, sad caip-stain oa hiz woaz;
 Pair Mailie's deed!

It's noa dhe loas oa wawrl'z geer,
 Dhut cood say bittur draw dhe teer,
 Or mak oor Bawrdie, dowie, weer
 Dhe murnin weed:
 Hee'z loast a freen un neebur deer,
 In Mailie deed.

Throo aw dhe toon shee troatit bii um;
 A lawng hawf-meil shee cood discii um;
 Wi keinlie bleet, hwun shee did spii um,
 Shee ran wi speed:

 Un cood bihaiv hursel wi mens:
 A'll say't, shee nivvur brak a fens,
 Throo theevish greed.
 Oor Bawrdie, lainlie, keeps dhe spens
 Sin Mailie'z deed.

Or, if hee wawnurz up dhe how,
 Hur leevin eemij in hur yow,
 Cumz bleetin till um, owr dhe now,
 Fur bits oa breed;
 Un doon dhe breinie pairlz row
 Fur Mailie deed.

Shee wiz nay get oa mairlun tips,
 Wi tawtit ket un hairy hips;
 Fur hur foarbeerz wur broakht in ships,
 Fay yoant dhe Tweed:
 A boanieur fleesh neer croast dhe clips
 Dhun Mailie'z deed.

Way wurth dhat man hwaw furst did shaip,
 Dhat veil, wanchansie thing—a raip!
 It maks gid fallaz girn un gaip,
 Wi choakin dreed;
 Un Roabin'z bunnut waiv wi craip
 Fur Mailie deed.

O, aw yee Bawrdz oan boanie Din!
 Un hwaw oan Air yur chanturz tin!
 Cum, jein dhe melluncoalius crin
 Oa Roabin'z reed!
 Hiz hert wull nivvur get ubin!
 Hiz Mailie'z deed.

English Translation.

Lament in rhyme, lament in prose,
With salt tears trickling down your nose ;
Our poet's fate is at an end,

Beyond all remedy !
The last sad cope-stone of his woes ;
Poor Molly's dead !

It's not the loss of worldly wealth,
That could draw so bitter a tear,
Or make our poet, sorrowful, wear
Mourning weeds :
He has lost a dear friend and companion,
In dead Molly.

Through all the homestead she trotted beside him ;
She could recognize him a long half-mile away ;
When she did espy him, she quickly ran
With kindly bleat :
A more faithful friend never came near him,
Than dead Molly.

I know she was a sensible sheep,
And could behave herself with good manners :
I declare she never broke a fence,
Through thievish greed.
Our poet stays by himself in the parlour
Since Molly's dead.

Or, if he wanders up the valley,
Her living image in her ewe-lamb
Comes bleating towards him over the hill,
For bits of bread ;
And down fall the briny pearls (tears)
For dead Molly.

She was no offspring of moorland rams,
With matted fleece and hairy hips ;
For her ancestors were brought in ships,
From beyond the Tweed :
A prettier fleece was never shorn
Than dead Molly's.

Woe befall that man who first made
 That vile unlucky thing—a rope!
 It makes good fellows frown and gape,
 With choking dread;
 And Robin's bonnet wave with crape
 In mourning for dead Molly.

O, all you poets on the lovely river Doon!
 And who on the river Ayr tune your pipes!
 Come, join the melancholy dirge
 Of Robin's reed!
 His heart will never rise again!
 His Molly's dead.

From HALLOWEEN.

(As originally printed in the Kilmarnock edition.)

The auld Guidwife's weel-hoordet nits
 Are round an' round divided,
 An' monie lads an' lasses fates
 Are there that night decided:
 Some kindle, couthie, side by side,
 An' burn thegither trimly;
 Some start awa, wi' saucy pride,
 An' jump out owre the chimlie
 Fu' high that night.

Jean slips in twa, wi' tentie e'e;
 Wha 'twas, she wadna tell;
 But this is Jock, an' this is me,
 She says in to hersel:
 He bleez'd owre her, an' she owre him,
 As they wad never mair part,
 Till fuff! he started up the lum,
 An' Jean had e'en a sair heart
 To see't that night.

Poor Willie, wi' his bow-kail runt,
 Was brunt wi' primsie Mallie;
 An' Mary, nae doubt, took the drunt,
 To be compar'd to Willie:

Mall's nit lap out, wi' pridefu' fling,
 An' her ain fit, it brunt it;
 While Willie lap, an' swoor by jing,
 'Twas just the way he wanted
 To be that night.

Nell had the Fause-house in her min',
 She pits hersel an' Rob in;
 In loving bleeze they sweetly join,
 Till white in ase they're sobbin:
Nell's heart was dancin at the view;
 She whisper'd Rob to leuk for't:
Rob, stownlins, prie'd her bonie mou,
 Fu' cozie in the neuk for't,
 Unseen that night.

 A wanton widow Leezie was,
 As cantie as a kittlen;
 But Och! that night, amang the shaws,
 She gat a fearfu' settlin!
 She thro' the whins, an' by the cairn,
 An' owre the hill gaed screevin,
 Where three Lairds' lan's met at a burn,
 To dip her left sark-sleeve in,
 Was bent that night.

Whyles owre a linn the burnie plays,
 As thro' the glen it wimpl't;
 Whyles round a rocky scar it strays;
 Whyles in a wiel it dimpl't;
 Whyles glitter'd to the nightly rays,
 Wi' bickerin, dancin dazzle;
 Whyles cooket underneath the braes,
 Below the spreading hazle
 Unseen that night.

Amang the brachens, on the brae,
 Between her an' the moon,
 The Deil, or else an outler Quey,
 Gat up an' gae a croon:

Poor Leezie's heart maist lap the hool;
 Near lav'rock-height she jumpet,
 But mist a fit, an' in the pool,
 Out owre the lugs she plumpet,
 Wi' a plunge that night.

English Translation.

ALL HALLOWS' EVE.

The old house-wife's well hoarded nuts
 Are divided round and round,
 And many youths' and girls' fates
 Are decided there that night:
 Some comfortably kindle side by side,
 And burn quietly together;
 Some start away with saucy pride,
 And jump out of the fire-place
 Quite high that night.

Jane slips in two, with careful eye;
 Who it was, she wouldn't tell;
 But 'This is Jack, and this is me',
 She whispers to herself:
 His nut blazed over hers, and hers over his.
 As if they would never part again,
 Till puff! his flew up the chimney,
 And Jane had indeed a sore heart
 To see it that night.

Poor Willy, with his crooked cabbage-stalk,
 Was burnt with prim Mollie;
 And Mary, no doubt, became sulky,
 To be compared with Willy:
 Moll's nut jumped out, with prideful fling,
 And burnt her own foot;
 While Willy leaped, and swore by Jove,
 'Twas just the way he wanted it
 To be that night.

Nell had in mind the hollow stack,
 She puts in nuts for herself and Robin;
 They join sweetly in loving blaze,
 Till they're sobbing in white ashes:
 Nell's heart was dancing at the sight;
 She whispered to Robin to look at it:
 Robin, stealthily, kissed her pretty mouth,
 Cosily in the corner for it,
 Unseen that night.

A sportive widow was Lizzy,
 As lively as a kitten;
 But oh! that night, among the woods,
 She got a dreadful fright!
 She went hurrying through the furze,
 And past the heap of stones and over the hill,
 To where three squires' lands met at a brook,
 To dip the left sleeve of her chemise,
 She was bent that night.

Sometimes over a waterfall the brooklet plays,
 As it rippled through the valley;
 Sometimes it wanders round a rocky cliff;
 Sometimes it dimpled in an eddy;
 Sometimes glittered to the rays of night,
 With hurrying, dancing dazzle;
 Sometimes hid under the banks,
 Below the spreading hazel
 Unseen that night.

Among the ferns on the hill-side,
 Between her and the moon,
 The devil, or else an outlying heifer,
 Got up and uttered a moan:
 Poor Lizzie's heart almost leaped out of its shell;
 She jumped nearly as high as a lark,
 But missed a foot, and into the pool,
 She plumped over the ears,
 With a plunge that night.

From THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT.

(As originally printed in the Kilmarnock edition.)

At length his lonely Cot appears in view,
 Beneath the shelter of an aged tree;
 The expectant wee-things, toddlan, stacher through
 To meet their Dad, wi' flichterin noise and glee.
 His wee-bit ingle, blinkan bonilie,
 His clean hearth-stane, his thrifty Wife's smile,
 The lisping infant, prattling on his knee,
 Does a' his weary kiaugh and care beguile,
 And makes him quite forget his labor and his toil.

Belyve, the elder bairns come drapping in,
 At Service out, amang the Farmers roun';
 Some ca' the pleugh, some herd, some tentie rin
 A cannie errand to a neebor town:
 Their eldest hope, their Jenny, woman-grown,
 In youthfu' bloom, Love sparkling in her e'e,
 Comes hame, perhaps, to shew a braw new gown,
 Or deposite her sair-won penny-fee,
 To help her Parents dear, if they in hardship be.

 But hark! a rap comes gently to the door;
Jenny, wha kens the meaning o' the same,
 Tells how a neebor lad came o'er the moor,
 To do some errands, and convoy her hame.
 The wily Mother sees the conscious flame
 Sparkle in Jenny's e'e, and flush her cheek,
 With heart-struck, anxious care enquires his name,
 While Jenny hafflins is afraid to speak;
 Weel-pleas'd the Mother hears, it's nae wild, worthless Rake.

With kindly welcome, Jenny brings him ben;
 A strappan youth; he takes the Mother's eye;
Blythe Jenny sees the visit's no ill taen;
 The Father cracks of horses, pleughs and kye.
 The Youngster's artless heart o'erflows wi' joy,
 But blate and laithfu', scarce can weel behave;
 The Mother, wi' a woman's wiles, can spy
 What makes the youth sae bashfu' and sae grave;
 Weel-pleas'd to think her bairn's respected like the lave.

 But now the Supper crowns their simple board,
 The healsome Porritch, chief of SCOTIA'S food:
 The soupe their only Hawkie does afford,
 That 'yont the hallan snugly chows her cood:
 The Dame brings forth, in complimental mood,
 To grace the lad, her weel-hain'd kebbuck, fell,
 And aft he's prest, and aft he ca's it guid;
 The frugal Wifie, garrulous, will tell,
 How 'twas a towmond auld, sin' Lint was i' the bell.

English Translation.

At length his lonely cottage appears in view,
 Beneath the shelter of an aged tree ;
 The expectant little ones, toddling, stagger out
 To meet their daddy, with fluttering noise and glee.
 His tiny fire, glancing prettily,
 His clean hearth-stone, his thrifty wife's smile,
 The lisping infant, prattling on his knee,
 Beguile all his weary anxiety and care,
 And make him quite forget his labour and his toil.
 Soon, the older children come dropping in,
 Out at service among the farmers round about ;
 Some drive the plough, some herd cattle, some carefully run
 A simple errand to a neighbouring homestead :
 Their eldest hope, their Jenny, grown to womanhood,
 In youthful bloom, love sparkling in her eye,
 Comes home, perhaps, to show a fine new gown,
 Or deposit her sorely-won cash wages,
 To help her dear parents, if they are in hardship.

 But hark ! a rap comes gently to the door ;
 Jenny, who knows what it means,
 Tells how a neighbouring youth came over the moor,
 To do some errands, and convoy her home.
 The knowing mother sees the conscious flame
 Sparkle in Jenny's eye, and flush her cheek,
 With heart-struck, anxious care she asks his name,
 While Jenny is half afraid to speak ;
 Well-pleased the mother hears, it's no wild, worthless rake.

With kindly welcome, Jenny brings him in ;
 A strapping youth, he takes the mother's eye ;
 Happy Jenny sees the visit is not badly taken ;
 The father chats of horses, ploughs and cows.
 The youngster's artless heart overflows with joy,
 But shy and bashful, he can hardly behave properly ;
 The mother, with a woman's knowledge, can see
 What makes the youth so bashful and so grave ;
 She is well-pleased to think her child is respected like the rest.

But now the supper crowns their simple board,
 The wholesome porridge, chief of Scotland's food :
 The sup their only cow provides,
 Which snugly chews her cud on the other side of the partition :
 The dame brings out, in complimentary mood,
 To grace the lad, her strong well-preserved cheese :
 And often he's pressed, and often he calls it good ;
 The frugal woman will garrulously tell,
 That it was a twelvemonth old, since lint was in blossom.

TO A MOUSE.

Wee, sleeket, cowran, tim'rous beastie,
 O, what a panic's in thy breastie !
 Thou need na start awa sae hasty,
 Wi' bickering brattle !
 I wad be laith to rin an' chase thee,
 Wi' murd'ring pattle !

 An' weary Winter comin fast,
 An' cozie here, beneath the blast,
 Thou thought to dwell,
 Till crash! the cruel coulter past
 Out thro' thy cell.

That wee-bit heap o' leaves an' stibble,
 Has cost thee monie a weary nibble!
 Now thou's turn'd out, for a' thy trouble,
 But house or hald,
 To thole the Winter's sleety dribble,
 An' cranreuch cauld!

But Mousie, thou are no thy-lane,
 In proving foresight may be vain:
 The best laid schemes o' Mice an' Men,
 Gang aft agley,
 An' lea'e us nought but grief an' pain,
 For promis'd joy!

Still, thou art blest, compar'd wi' me!
 The present only toucheth thee:
 But Och! I backward cast my e'e,

English Translation.

Little, sleek, cowering, timorous creature,
 Oh, what a panic's in thy little breast!
 Thou need'st not start away so hastily,
 With hurried rush!
 I should be loath to run and chase thee,
 With murdering plough-staff!

I'm truly sorry Man's dominion
 Has broken Nature's social union,
 And justifies that ill opinion,
 Which makes thee start,
 At me, thy poor, earth-born companion,
 And fellow-mortal!

I doubt not but that thou mayest steal sometimes;
 What then? poor creature, thou must live!
 An occasional ear of corn in twenty-four sheaves
 Is a small request:
 I'll get a blessing with the rest,
 And never miss it!

Thy tiny house, too, in ruin!
 Its frail walls the winds are strewing!
 And nothing, now,—to build a new one—
 Of herbage green!
 And bleak December's winds approaching,
 Both sharp and keen!

Thou saw'st the fields laid bare and waste,
 And weary Winter coming fast,
 And cosily here, below the blast,
 Thou thought'st to dwell,
 Till crash! the cruel ploughshare passed
 Right through thy cell.

That little heap of leaves and stubble,
 Has cost thee many a weary nibble!
 Now thou'rt turned out, notwithstanding all thy trouble,
 Without house or home,
 To endure the winter's sleety drizzle,
 And hoarfrost cold!

But little mouse, thou art not alone,
 In proving foresight may be vain:
 The best-laid schemes of mice and men
 Go often awry,
 And leave us nought but grief and pain,
 Instead of promised joy!

Still, thou are blest, compared with me!
 The present only toucheth thee:
 But Oh! I backward cast my eye,
 On prospects drear!
 And forward, though I cannot see,
 I guess and fear!

FROM THE EPISTLE TO DAVIE,

A

BROTHER POET.

(As originally printed in the Kilmarnock edition.)

 It's hardly in a body's pow'r,
 To keep, at times, frae being sour,
 To see how things are shar'd;
 How best o' chieles are whyles in want,
 While Coofs on countless thousands rant,
 And ken na how to wair't:

But DAVIE lad, ne'er fash your head,
 Tho' we hae little gear,
 We're fit to win our daily bread,
 As lang's we're hale and fier:
 'Mair spier na, nor fear na,'
 Auld age ne'er mind a feg;
 The last o't, the warst o't,
 Is only but to beg.

It's no in titles nor in rank;
 It's no in wealth like Lon'on Bank,
 To purchase peace and rest;
 It's no in makin muckle, mair;
 It's no in books; it's no in Lear,
 To make us truly blest:
 If Happiness hae not her seat
 And center in the breast,
 We may be wise, or rich, or great,
 But never can be blest:
 Nae treasures, nor pleasures
 Could make us happy lang;
 The heart ay's the part ay,
 That makes us right or wrang.

But tent me, DAVIE, Ace o' Hearts!
 (To say aught less wad wrang the cartes,
 And flatt'ry I detest)
 This life has joys for you and I;
 And joys that riches ne'er could buy;
 And joys the very best.
 There's a' the Pleasures o' the Heart,
 The Lover and the Frien';
 Ye hae your MEG, your dearest part,
 And I my darling, JEAN!
 It warms me, it charms me,
 To mention but her name:
 It heats me, it beets me,
 And sets me a' on flame!

O, how that name inspires my style!
 The words come skelpan, rank and file,
 Amaist before I ken!
 The ready measure rins as fine,
 As Phoebus and the famous Nine
 Were glowran owre my pen.
 My spavet Pegasus will limp,
 Till ance he's fairly het;
 And then he'll hilch, and stilt, and jimp,
 And rin an unco fit:
 But least then, the beast then,
 Should rue this hasty ride,
 I'll light now, and dight now,
 His sweaty, wizen'd hide.

TO A HAGGIS.

(As usually printed.)

Fair fa' your honest, sonsie face,
 Great Chieftan o' the Puddin-race!
 Aboon them a' ye tak your place,
 Painch, tripe, or thairm:
 Weel are ye wordy of a grace
 As lang's my arm.

The groaning trencher there ye fill,
 Your hurdies like a distant hill,
 Your pin wad help to mend a mill
 In time o' need,
 While thro' your pores the dews distil
 Like amber bead.

His knife see Rustic-labour dight,
An' cut you up wi' ready slight,
Trenching your gushing entrails bright
 Like onie ditch;
And then, O what a glorious sight,
 Warm-reekin, rich!

Then, horn for horn, they stretch an' strive,
Deil tak the hindmost, on they drive,
Till a' their weel-swallow'd kytes belyve
 Are bent like drums;
Then auld Guidman, maist like to rive,

Or olio that wad staw a sow,
Or fricassee wad mak her spew
 Wi' perfect sconner,
Looks down wi' sneering, scornfu' view
 On sic a dinner?

Poor devil! see him owre his trash,
As feckless as a wither'd rash,
His spindle shank a guid whip-lash,
 His nieve a nit;
Thro' bluidy flood or field to dash,
 O how unfit!

But mark the Rustic, haggis-fed,
The trembling earth resounds his tread,
Clap in his walie nieve a blade,
 He'll mak it whistle;
An' legs, an' arms, an' heads will sned,
 Like taps o' thrissle.

Ye Pow'rs wha mak mankind your care
And dish them out their bill o' fare,
Auld Scotland wants nae skinking ware

But, if you wish her gratefu' pray'r,
 Gie her a Haggis!

 Dhan awl gidman, maist leik tay riiv,
 Beethankit humz.

Iz dhur dhut owr hiz French ragoo,
 Or oalioa dhut wud staw a soo,
 Or fricassee wud mak ur spyoo
 Wi perfic scunnur,
 Luks doon wi sneerin, scoarnfa vyoo
 Oan sic a dennur?

Pair deevul! see um owr hiz trash,
 As fecklus az a widhurd rash,
 Hiz spinnul shank a gid hwup-lash,
 Hiz neev a nit;
 Throo bliddie flid or feel tay dash,
 O hoo unfit!

But mark dhe Rustic, haggis-fed,
 Dhe trumlin yurth rizoonz hiz tred,
 Clap in hiz wawlie neev a bled,
 Hee'll mak it hwussul;
 Un legz, un airmz, un heedz wull sned,
 Leik taps oa thrussul.

 Yee Poorz hwaw mak man-kein yur cair,
 Un dish dhum oot dhur bull oa fair,
 Awl Scoatlun waants nay skinkin wair
 Dhut jawps in luggiez;
 But, if yee wish hur graitfa prair,
 Gee ur a Haggis!

English Translation.

Good betide your honest, jolly face,
 Great Chieftain of the race of Puddings!
 Above them all you take your place,
 Paunch, tripe, or sausage:
 Well are you worthy of a grace
 As long as my arm.

 The groaning trencher there you fill,
 Your buttocks like a distant hill,
 Your pin (holding it together) would help to mend a mill
 In time of need,
 While through your pores the dews distil
 Like beads of amber.

 His knife see the Rustic wipe,
 And cut you up with ready sleight,
 Trenching your bright gushing entrails
 As he would a ditch;
 And then, Oh what a glorious sight,
 Steaming-hot—rich!

 Then, each with his horn-spoon, they stretch and strive,
 Devil take the hindmost, on they drive,
 Till soon all their well-swelled bellies
 Are bent like drums;
 Then the old head of the house, almost fit to burst,
 Mutters a grace.

Is there a man that over his French ragout
 Or olio that would surfeit a sow,
 Or fricassee that would make her vomit
 In perfect disgust,
 Looks down with sneering, scornful glances
 On such a dinner?

Poor devil! see him over his trash,
 As feeble as a withered rush,
 His leg, thin as a spindle, a good whip-lash,
 His fist a nut;
 Through bloody flood or field to dash,
 Oh how unfit!

But mark the haggis-fed Rustic!
 The trembling earth resounds his tread,
 Clap a sword in his sturdy fist,
 He'll make it whistle;
 And will lop off legs and arms and heads,
 Like thistle-tops.

Ye Powers who make mankind your care,
 And dish them out their bill of fare,
 Old Scotland wants no wishy-washy stuff
 That splashes in bowls;
 But, if you wish her grateful prayer,
 Give her a Haggis!

RANTIN', ROVIN' ROBIN.

(As usually printed.)

There was a lad was born in Kyle,
 But whatna day o' whatna style,
 I doubt it's hardly worth the while,
 To be sae nice wi' Robin.

Chorus.

Robin was a rovin' boy—
 Rantin' rovin', rantin' rovin'—
 Robin was a rovin' boy—
 Rantin' rovin' Robin!

Our monarch's hindmost year but ane
 Was five-and-twenty days begun,
 'Twas then a blast o' Jan'war' win'
 Blew hansel in on Robin.

The gossip keekit in his loof,
 Quo' scho, 'Wha lives will see the proof,
 This waly boy will be nae coof,
 I think we'll ca' him Robin.

'He'll hae misfortunes great and sma',
 But ay a heart aboon them a';
 He'll be a credit 'till us a',
 We'll a' be proud o' Robin.

'But sure as three times three mak' nine,
 I see by ilka score and line,
 This chap will dearly like our kin',
 So leeze me on thee, Robin.'

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Dhur wiz a lawd wiz boarn in Keil,
 But hwitna day oa hwitna steil,
 A doot it's hawrlie wurth dhe hweil,

English Translation.

There was a lad was born in Kyle,
 But on what day of which style (old or new),
 I doubt it’s hardly worth while,
 To be so particular about Robin.

Chorus.

Robin was a roving boy—
 Roistering roving, roistering roving—
 Robin was a roving boy—
 Roistering roving Robin!

Our monarch’s last year but one
 Was five-and-twenty days begun,
 ’Twas then a blast of January wind
 Blew welcome in on Robin.

The gossip peeped at his palm,
 Said she, ‘Who lives will see the proof,
 This sturdy boy will be no fool,
 I think we’ll call him Robin.

‘He’ll have misfortunes great and small,
 But always a heart above them all;
 He’ll be a credit to us all,
 We’ll all be proud of Robin.

‘But as sure as three times three make nine,
 I see by every score and line (in his palm),
 This lad will dearly like our kind (the fair sex),
 So blessings on thee, Robin.’

SCOTS WHA HAE.

ROBERT BRUCE'S ADDRESS TO HIS ARMY, BEFORE THE BATTLE OF BANNOCKBURN.

(As usually printed.)

Scots, wha hae wi' Wallace bled,
Scots, wham Bruce has aften led,
Welcome to your gory bed,
Or to victory!

Now's the day, and now's the hour;
See the front o' battle lour!
See approach proud Edward's power—
Chains and slavery!

Wha will be a traitor knave?
Wha can fill a coward's grave?
Wha sae base as be a slave?
Let him turn and flee!

Wha for Scotland's King and law
Freedom's sword will strongly draw,
Freeman stand, or freeman fa'?
Let him follow me!

By oppression's woes and pains!
By your sons in servile chains!
We will drain our dearest veins,
But they shall be free!

Lay the proud usurpers low!
Tyrants fall in every foe!
Liberty's in every blow!
Let us do or die!

AMAN'S AMAN FOR
~~FOR A' THAT AND A' THAT.~~

(As usually printed.)

Is there, for honest poverty,
 That hangs his head, and a' that?
 The coward-slave, we pass him by,
 We dare be poor for a' that!
 For a' that, and a' that,
 Our toils obscure, and a' that;
 The rank is but the guinea's stamp;
 The man's the gowd for a' that.

What tho' on hamely fare we dine,
 Wear hodden-gray, and a' that;
 Gie fools their silks, and knaves their wine,
 A man's a man for a' that.
 For a' that, and a' that,
 Their tinsel show, and a' that;
 The honest man, tho' e'er sae poor,
 Is King o' men for a' that.

Ye see yon birkie, ca'd a lord,
 Wha struts, and stares, and a' that;
 Tho' hundreds worship at his word,
 He's but a coof for a' that:
 For a' that, and a' that,
 His riband, star, and a' that,
 The man of independent mind,
 He looks and laughs at a' that.

A prince can mak a belted knight,
 A marquis, duke, and a' that ;
 But an honest man's aboon his might,
 Guid faith he mauna fa' that !
 For a' that, and a' that,
 Their dignities, and a' that,
 The pith o' sense, and pride o' worth,
 Are higher rank than a' that.

Then let us pray that come it may,
 As come it will for a' that,
 That sense and worth, o'er a' the earth,
 May bear the gree, and a' that.
 For a' that, and a' that,
 It's coming yet, for a' that,
 That man to man the warld o'er
 Shall brothers be for a' that.

English Translation.

Is there any one who, because of honest poverty,
 Hangs his head and all that?
 The coward slave, we pass him by,
 We dare be poor for all that!
 For all that, and all that,
 Our obscure toils and all that;
 The rank is but the stamp on the guinea,
 The man's the gold for all that.

 Wear homespun cloth and all that?
 Give fools their silks, and knaves their wine,
 A man's a man for all that.
 For all that, and all that,

 The honest man, though ever so poor,
 Is king of men for all that.

You see that fellow, called a Lord,
 Who struts and stares and all that;
 Though hundreds worship at his word,
 He's but a fool for all that.
 For all that, and all that,
 His ribbon, star, and all that,
 The man of independent mind
 Looks and laughs at all that.

A prince can make a belted knight,
 A marquis, duke, and all that;
 But to make an honest man's beyond his power,
 Good faith! he mustn't try that.
 For all that, and all that,
 Their dignities and all that,
 The pith of sense and pride of worth
 Are higher rank than all that.

Then let us pray that come it may,
 As come it will for all that,
 That over all the earth sense and worth
 May hold the foremost place, and all that.
 For all that, and all that,
 It's coming yet for all that,
 That man to man, the world over,
 Shall brothers be for all that.

DUNCAN GRAY.

(As usually printed.)

Duncan Gray came here to woo,
 Ha, ha, the wooing o't,
 On blythe Yule night when we were fou,
 Ha, ha, the wooing o't.
 Maggie coost her head fu' heigh,
 Look'd asklent and unco skeigh,
 Gart poor Duncan stand abeigh;
 Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Duncan fleech'd, and Duncan pray'd ;

Ha, ha, the wooing o't,

Meg was deaf as Ailsa Craig,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Duncan sigh'd baith out and in,

Grat his een baith bleer't and blin',

Spak o' lowpin o'er a linn ;

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Time and chance are but a tide,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't,

Slighted love is sair to bide,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Shall I, like a fool, quoth he,

For a haughty hizzie die ?

She may gae to—France for me !

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

How it comes let doctors tell,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't,

Meg grew sick as he grew haill,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Something in her bosom wrings,

For relief a sigh she brings ;

And O, her een they spak sic things !

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Duncan was a lad o' grace,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't,

Maggie's was a piteous case,

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

Duncan couldna be her death,

Swelling pity smoor'd his wrath ;

Now they're crouse and cantie baith !

Ha, ha, the wooing o't.

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Duncun Gray cam heer tay oo,

Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't,

On bliith Yill-nikht hwan wee wur foo,

Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

Maggee kist hur heed foo heekh,
 Lukt usklent un unca skeeph,
 Gurt pair Duncun stawn ubeekh;
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

Duncun fleecht un Duncun prayd;
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't,
 Meg wuz deaf az Ailsa Craig,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.
 Duncun sikht baith oot un in,
 Grat his een baith bleert un blin,
 Spak oa lowpin owr a linn;
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

Time un chans ur but a teid,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't,
 Slikhtit luv iz sair tay beid,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.
 'Shall A, laik a fill,' koa hee,
 'Fur a hawkhtie hizzie dee?
 She may gay tay—Frans fur mee!'
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

Hoo it cumz let doakturz tell,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't,
 Meg groo seek az hee groo hail,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.
 Sumthing in hur boazum ringz,
 Fur rileef a sikh shee bringz;
 Un Oa! hur een dhay spak sic thingz.
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

Duncun wiz a lawd oa grais,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't,
 Maggee'z wiz a peetyus cais,
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.
 Duncun coodnay bee hur daith,
 Swallin peetie smairt hiz rath;
 Noo dhay'r croos un cantie baith!
 Ha, ha, dhe ooin oa't.

English Translation.

Duncan Gray came here to woo.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

On gay Christmas night when we were tipsy.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Maggy tossed her head on high,

Looked askance and mightily disdainful,

Made poor Duncan stand aloof.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Duncan begged and Duncan prayed.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Meg was as deaf as Ailsa Rock.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Duncan sighed both out-of-doors and in the house,

Cried till his eyes were both bleared and blind,

Talked of jumping over a waterfall.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Time and chance are but a tide.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Slighted love is hard to bear.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

'Shall I, like a fool,' said he,

'For a haughty girl die?

She may go to—France for me.'

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

How it happens let doctors tell,

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Meg grew ill as he grew well.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Something in her bosom wrings,

For relief a sigh she utters,

And Oh! her eyes spoke such things.

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Duncan was a kindly youth,

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Maggy's was a pitiful case,

Ha, ha, what a wooing!

Duncan couldn't be her death,
 Swelling pity smothered his wrath.
 Now they're both jolly and happy,
 Ha, ha, what a wooing!

CA' THE YOWES TO THE KNOWES.

(As usually printed.)

Chorus.

Ca' the yowes to the knowes,
 Ca' them whare the heather grows,
 Ca' them whare the burnie rowes,
 My bonie dearie.

Hark, the mavis' evening sang
 Sounding Clouden's woods amang!
 Then a faulding let us gang,
 My bonie dearie.

We'll gae down by Clouden side,
 Thro' the hazels spreading wide,
 O'er the waves, that sweetly glide
 To the moon sae clearly.

Yonder Clouden's silent towers,
 Where at moonshine midnight hours,
 O'er the dewy bending flowers,
 Fairies dance sae chearie.

Ghaist nor bogle shalt thou fear;
 Thou'rt to love and heaven sae dear,
 Nocht of ill may come thee near,
 My bonie dearie.

Fair and lovely as thou art,
 Thou hast stown my very heart;
 I can die—but canna part,
 My bonie dearie.

In Ayrshire Scotch.Chorus.

Caw dhe yowz tay dhe nowz,
Caw dhum hwawr dhe hedhur growz,
Caw dhum hwawr dhe burnie rowz,
Ma boanie deerie.

Hark, dhe maivis' eenin sang
Soonin Cloodun'z wudz umang !
Dhan a-fawldin let us gang,
Ma boanie deerie.

Wee'll gay doon ba Cloodun seid,
Throo dhe haizulz spreedin weid,
Owr dhe waivz dhut sweetlie gleid
Tay dhe min say cleerlie.

Yoanur Cloodun'z siilunt toorz,
Hwawr at minshein midnikht oorz,
Owr dhe dyooie bendin floorz,
Fairiez dans say cheerie.

Gaist nur boagul shalt dhoo feer;
Dhoo'rt tay luv un heevn say deer,
Noakht oa ull may cum dheer neer,
Ma boanie deerie.

Fair un luvlie az dhoo ert,
Dhoo hust stown ma vurra hert,
A can dee—but cannay pairt,
Ma boanie deerie.

English Translation.Chorus.

Drive the ewes to the hills,
Drive them where the heather grows,
Drive them where the brooklet flows,
My pretty darling.

Hark, the thrush's evening song
Sounding among Clouden's woods !
Then let us go to fold the sheep,
My pretty darling.

We'll go down by Clouden side,
 Through the hazels spreading wide
 Over the waves that sweetly glide
 To the moon so clearly.

There are Clouden's silent towers,
 Where at moonlit midnight hours,
 Over the dewy bending flowers,
 Fairies dance so cheerily.

Thou shalt not fear ghost or goblin.
 Thou'rt so dear to love and heaven,
 That no ill may come near thee,
 My pretty darling.

Fair and lovely as thou art,
 Thou hast stolen my very heart,
 I can die—but cannot part from thee,
 My pretty darling.

OF A' THE AIRTS:

(As usually printed.)

Of a' the airts the wind can blaw,
 I dearly like the west,
 For there the bonnie lassie lives,
 The lassie I lo'e best:
 There's wild woods grow, and rivers row,
 And mony a hill between;
 But day and night my fancy's flight
 Is ever wi' my Jean.

I see her in the dewy flowers,
 I see her sweet and fair:
 I hear her in the tunefu' birds,
 I hear her charm the air:
 There's not a bonnie flower that springs
 By fountain, shaw, or green;
 There's not a bonnie bird that sings,
 But minds me o' my Jean.

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Oa aw dhe airts dhe wun can blaw,
 A deerlie leik dhe west,
 Fur dhair dhe boanie lassie leevz,
 Dhe lassie A loo best :
 Dhur'z weil wudz grow, un rivurz row,
 Un munnie a hull utween ;
 But day un nikht ma fansie'z flikht
 Iz ivvur wi ma Jeen.

A see hur in dhe dyooie floorz,
 A see hur sweet un fair :
 A heer hur in dhe tinfa burdz,
 A heer hur cherm dhe air :
 Dhur'z noa a boanie floor dhut springz
 Bii foontun, shaw, or green ;
 Dhur'z noa a boanie burd dhut singz,
 But meinz mee oa ma Jeen.

English Translation.

Of all the directions from which the wind can blow,
 I dearly love the west,
 For there the pretty girl lives,
 The girl I love best.
 There are wild woods that grow, and rivers that flow,
 And many a hill between :
 But day and night my fancy's flight
 Is ever with my Jane.

I see her in the dewy flowers,
 I see her sweet and fair,
 I hear her in the tuneful birds,
 I hear her charm the air :
 There's not a pretty flower that springs
 By fountain, grove, or green :
 There's not a pretty bird that sings,
 Without reminding me of my Jane.

AE FOND KISS, AND THEN WE SEVER.

(As usually printed.)

Ae fond kiss, and then we sever,—
 Ae fareweel, and then—for ever
 Deep in heart-wrung tears I'll pledge thee!
 Warring sighs and groans I'll wage thee!

Who shall say that fortune grieves him,
 While the star of hope she leaves him?
 Me, nae chearfu' twinkle lights me,—
 Dark despair around benights me.

I'll ne'er blame my partial fancy,
 Naething could resist my Nancy;
 But to see her, was to love her—
 Love but her, and love for ever.

Had we never lov'd sae kindly—
 Had we never lov'd sae blindly—
 Never met—or never parted,
 We had ne'er been broken-hearted!

Fare-thee-weel, thou first and fairest!
 Fare-thee-weel, thou best and dearest!
 Thine be ilka joy and treasure,
 Peace, Enjoyment, Love, and Pleasure!

Ae fond kiss, and then we sever!
 Ae fareweel, alas! for ever!
 Deep in heart-wrung tears I'll pledge thee!
 Warring sighs and groans I'll wage thee!

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Yay foand kiss, un dhan wee sever,—
 Yay fairweel, un dhan—fur ivvur
 Deep in hert-rung teerz A'll plej dhee!

 Yay fairweel, ulas! fur ivvur!
 Deep in hert-rung teerz A'll plej dhee,
 Warrin sikhs un grainz A'll wej dhee.

English Translation.

One fond kiss, and then we sever,
 One farewell, and then—for ever
 Deep in heart-wrung tears I'll pledge thee,
 Warring sighs and groans I'll promise thee.

Who shall say that fortune grieves him,
 While the star of hope she leaves him?
 Me, no cheerful twinkle lights me,
 Dark despair around benights me.

I'll ne'er blame my partial fancy,
 Nothing could resist my Nancy ;

 Warring sighs and groans I'll promise thee.

AULD LANG SYNE.

(As usually printed.)

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
 And never brought to min' ?
 Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
 And auld lang syne ?

For auld lang syne, my dear,
 For auld lang syne,
 We'll tak a cup o' kindness yet,
 For auld lang syne.

We twa hae run about the braes,
 And pu'd the gowans fine ;
 But we've wander'd mony a weary foot
 Sin' auld lang syne.

We twa hae paidled i' the burn,
 From morning sun till dine ;
 But seas between us braid hae roar'd
 Sin' auld lang syne.

And there's a hand, my trusty fiere,
 And gie's a hand o' thine ;
 And we'll tak a right guid-willie waught,
 For auld lang syne.

And surely ye'll be your pint-stowp,
 And surely I'll be mine ;
 And we'll tak a cup o' kindness yet,
 For auld lang syne.

In Ayrshire Scotch.

Shid awl acqwantuns bee furgoat,
 Un nivvur broakht tay mein?
 Shid awl acqwantuns bee furgoat,
 Un awl lang sein?

Fur awl lang sein, ma deer,
 Fur awl lang sein,
 Wee'll tak a cup oa keinnus yet,
 Fur awl lang sein.

Wee twaw hay run uboot dhe brayz,
 Un pood dhe gowunz fein;
 But wee'v wawnurt munnie a weerie fit
 Sin awl lang sein.

Wee twaw hay paidult in dhe burn,
 Fay moarnin-sun tull dein;
 But seez utween us braid hay roard
 Sin awl lang sein.

Un dhair'z a hawn, ma trustie feer,
 Un gee's a hawn oa dhein;
 Un wee'll tak a rikht gid-wullie wakht,
 Fur awl lang sein.

Un shairlie yoo'll bee yoor peint-stowp,
 Un shairlie A'll bee mein;
 Un wee'll tak a cup oa keinnus yet,
 Fur awl lang sein.

English Translation.

Should old friendship be forgotten,
 And never brought to remembrance?
 Should old friendship be forgotten,
 And old long ago?

For old long ago, my dear,
 For old long ago,
 We'll take a cup of kindness yet,
 For old long ago.

We two have run over the hills,
And pulled the pretty daisies ;
But we've wandered many a weary foot
Since old long ago.

We two have paddled in the brook,
From morning-sun till dinner-time ;
But broad seas have roared between us
Since old long ago.

And there's a hand, my trusty comrade,
And give me a hand of thine ;
And we'll take a right hearty drink,
For old long ago.

And surely you'll stand your pint-pot (of ale),
And surely I'll stand mine ;
And we'll take a cup of kindness yet,
For old long ago.
