

The LILY BLANCHE Story

LILY BLANCHE is a Scottish jewellery brand based in a wonderful arts & crafts era studio in the lee of Stirling Castle right in the heart of Scotland. The brand was formed in 2011 and manufacturers and retails beautiful silver, gold and precious stone jewellery with a vintage twist.

The company specialises in lockets many of which have a hidden secret.

FOR THOSE WHO Love AND ARE Loved

We were delighted when Judy Murray, the mother of Andy Murray wore the LILY BLANCHE Memory Keeper pendant, which opens to reveal six secret photographs to all Andy's matches when he became the first British Men's Single's Champion for over 70 years.

The LILY BLANCHE collections are inspired by my grandmother –Lily Blanche Sheridan, a descendent of the School For Scandal playwright Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

Born in the 1900s, she lived an extraordinary life travelling thousands of miles from home with four small children, bringing them up in India in the last days of the Raj, and witnessing the rise of Ghandi.

Returning to Britain before WWII, her home took a direct hit in the blitz while her family slept in the Anderson Shelter at the bottom of the garden. In her later years, she lived in a picturesque whitewashed croft on the beautiful, windswept Hebridean Island of Skye. She was a fantastic cook and a highly creative person, making beautiful wedding dresses for her daughter and daughters-in-law during the War, despite the privations of rationing. She was highly influential in encouraging my creativity.

I have found memories, as a child, of rummaging through her jewellery box and finding beautiful and exotic pieces from her travels. Inspired by Lily Blanche's jewel box, we have taken vintage designs and given them a modern twist by combining them with outstanding 21st century design.

Many of LILY BLANCHE pieces, such as the Magical Charms and the Memory Keeper Pendant, open up to reveal a hidden secret. Our jewellery is imbued with meaning, making it perfect for the adventurers, lovers, divas and soulmates of today.
