THE CHURCH.

ANCIENT DEDICATIONS.—THE CARMELITES.—EARLY HISTORY OF THE CHURCH OF BANFF.

—PIETA.—VICARS AND CHAPLAINS.—MINISTERS OF BANFF SINCE THE REFORMATION.

--PERSONAL NOTES, WITH EXTRACTS FROM SYNOD, PRESBYTERY, KIRK SESSION AND

THE CHURCH.

THE fertile valley of the Deveron must have been one of the earliest spots in the North-East of Scotland to attract settlers, and the mouth of the river must have been at least as attractive as any locality along its course. Thither, too, in very ancient times, must have come from Ireland the early preachers of the gospel—the heralds of a future civilization. The names of certain saints have been associated with the ancient history of Banff. These are S. Bey, S. Columba, S. Colmoc, S. John, and S. Thomas. The chief dedication connected with the burgh, whether as to altar, chaplainry, or church, was to the Virgin Mary, and the present arms of the burgh still recall to us alike the connection of the Carmelites with the burgh and the dedication of the Parish Church. According to Dempster's "Ecclesiastical History," S. Bey lived about A.D. 816, under the reign of Donald. Churches were erected in her honour throughout the whole kingdom, and chiefly at Banff. These statements cannot, however, be confirmed.

The dedication to S. Columba is more probable, although it is the case that a common list of churches or foundations of S. Columba, while including S. Colm's in Fordyce, does not refer to Banff. The neighbouring Church of Alvah was certainly dedicated to S. Columba.

In Dempster's "Menologium Scoticum," the following entry occurs:—
"May 4. Bamfia, Colmoci episcopi, miri concionatoris."

The "View of the Diocese of Aberdeen" (1732) states that there were eleven religious houses within the Diocese of Aberdeen, and of these two were in Banff:—"Convents at Banf. (1) Franciscans. Their convent stood . . . where is an oratory [Episcopal Church] lately built. Their church was dedicated to S. John. (2) Carmelites. Their convent stood on Doavern at Miln of Banf in Banf parish. Their rents were given by King James VI. to the King's College of Aberdeen, of whom Duff of Braco now holds these lands."

The statement as to the existence of a Franciscan convent in the burgh is repeated by Mr. W. Rowand in his unpublished notes to Keith's "Scottish Bishops":—"The church of the Grey Friars in Banff was dedicated to S. John." It is also repeated in "Banff and Neighbourhood" (1879), but cannot be allowed to be probable. Certainly it receives no confirmation in ancient documents. S. John's Fair did exist in the burgh, but it was a fair transferred to Banff from Gamrie.*

In the "New Statistical Account" (1836), and in Mr. Imlach's "Banff" (1868), it is stated that a chapel dedicated to S. Thomas the Apostle stood somewhere between the sites of the present Parish Church and St. Andrew's Chapel. No confirmation can be obtained of this statement.

Still more unreliable are the statements in the "Ordnance Gazetteer" (1884). It is there asserted that there existed in Banff four pre-Reformation Chapels, also a Carmelite Priory, an Observant Priory, and a house of the Knights Templars.

It has been very commonly affirmed that a Chaplainry of the Holy Rood—a separate building—existed in Banff, but this assertion is based on no satisfactory evidence. One supposition is that it was situated on the Rose Craig, towards the present northern extremity of the Castle grounds. "Summer Excursions in Banff" (1843) gives its position as "conterminous to the Castle." "Banff and Neighbourhood" (1879) states that a chapel existed somewhere between the Old Churchyard and the northern extremity of the Castle grounds. Another supposition is that it was on the site of the old Church, and this last is evidently nearer the truth. That there was a Rood Chaplainry there is no doubt, for the Chaplain is frequently referred to in the 16th century, but the evidence all goes to show that the Chaplainry was within and formed part of the Parish Church. The lands with which the Chaplainry was endowed—"terras piscatorias"—the fishers' lands†—were feued out (see "New

* It is stated that after the Reformation many of the Grey Friars retired to the Netherlands, and that John Patrick, a native of Banff, and of the Franciscan Order, accompanied eighty of that Order abroad, and afterwards devoted his time to literary pursuits, and wrote several books upon the Reformation and the events connected therewith.

† The original Charter, of date 2nd June, 1552, is now preserved among the Rose MSS., Advocates' Library, Aberdeen, and shows that the lands were situated to the North and West of the Castle Hill, and were then laboured by William Low, Wm. Allan, John Leill, Sen. and Jun., George Leil, John Smith, John Mackie, Thomas Mackie, Andrew Sandeson, John Stannowius, John Allan, and other fishers and seamen. Cf. Vol. I., p. 265, note.

Stat. Acct.," 1836) in 1552 in perpetuity by the Commissioners of the town, with consent of James Currou, Chaplain of the Holy Rood, to Sir Walter Ogilvie, then provost, for payment of 40s. yearly "for augmentation of the rental of the Chaplainry of the Holy Rood of Banff, for promotion of the worship of God, and for the extirpation of heresy so long rampant, and the upholding of the orthodox faith." The lands, says the writer of the "New Stat. Acct.," were conveyed along with the Carmelite lands to the Laird of Braco, and by him, in exchange for some lands near Duff House, to the town of Banff, to which they now afford a feu-duty.

In the Register of the Secret Seal, 1590, is a grant to Alexander Currou of the Rude altarage in the Kirk of Banff.

The Knights Templars in former times held property in the burgh, and this fact is well established, for in 1662 George, Earl of Panmure, heir of Patrick, Earl of Panmure, was retoured in the lands of the barony of Aberbrothock, comprehending the Templar Lands of Banff, with the salmon fishing on the water of Deveron, the white and red fishing, with the tithes of the churches of Aberkerdour and Banff, the extent being £200. In 1686 James, Earl of Panmure, was infest in the said Templar lands and fishing.

"A house is still remembered," says the "New Statistical Account" (1836), "standing in the Water Path at the south corner of the lane passing between it and the Castle Street which bore the iron cross, the usual token by which the fraternity marked their possessions."

It is around the Carmelites and around the Parish Church that the main interest centres regarding the religious history of the burgh prior to the Reformation.

Considering the prominent part the Carmelites held in the burgh for upwards of two centuries, it may not be amiss to quote from Fosbroke's "British Monachism" a picture of their life. "The rule was—Prior elected unanimously or by majority. To have places in deserts or elsewhere; separate cells; common refectory and reading. Not to change their places without the Prior's leave. Prior's cell near the entrance of the house, that he might be the first to meet comers. All to remain in their cells, meditating day and night. At fit hours in Church. Cloisters. To stay and walk freely and lawfully. Canonical hours. Pater nosters by the ignorant. All things common. Asses or mules allowed, and nourishment of animals or birds. Church in the middle of the cells. Sundays, or at other times, as necessary, the correction of abuses. No flesh but to the sick. To carry with them to eat on journeys, dumplings (pulmenta, a very equivocal term among the monks) drest with flesh. Fast every day, except Sunday, from Holyrood day to Easter, except the sick and infirm. Chastity; labour; silence after Complin till Prime; might talk at other times moderately."

The White Friars or Carmelites had their name from Mount Carmel, and they pretended to be in direct succession from Elijah, Elisha, and the sons of the prophets. In 1209, Albert, patriarch of Jerusalem, gave them a rigid rule, which was subsequently modified. The order was divided into two branches, the Carmelites of the ancient observance called the Moderate or Mitigated, and those of the strict observance called the Barefooted Carmelites. Of the 32 provinces into which they were divided Scotland was 13th, and here they were called White Friars from their outer garment. They came to Scotland in 1262, and had nine convents, viz. :—at Aberdeen, Bervie, Queensferry, Linlithgow, &c. Their convents or monasteries were generally, if not always, dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Their habit was at first white, and the cloak laced at the bottom with several lists, but Pope Honorius IV. commanded them to change it for that of the Minims. Their scapulary was a small woollen habit of a brown colour thrown over their shoulders. They wore no linen shirts, but instead thereof linsey-woolsey.

In 1324 King Robert the Bruce granted to God, the Blessed Virgin Mary, and the brothers of Mount Carmel, the Chapel of the Blessed Mary near the town of Banff [juxta villam de Banff], with the ground belonging to the said chapel for building there a church and other buildings of their order, and for planting the said place with brothers of their order, granting moreover to the said brothers and their successors that davoch of land with the pertinents thereof which was wont hitherto to belong to the said chapel for supplying bread, wine, and wax for the more devout performance of the worship of God.*

There has been some discussion as to the site of the Carmelite Monastery. It will have been observed from the quotation from Fosbroke that the Brethren were enjoined to have their places "in deserts or elsewhere." It is known they lived "besyd" the burgh of Linlithgow, and "besyd" Bervie. Similarly in 1324, their place was "juxta villam de Banff." So in 1544-5, the place of the Order was described as "near the burgh of Banff" (juxta burgum de Banff); and so also in 1574 their possessions are described as "prope burgum nostrum de Banff." The "View of the Diocese of Aberdeen" (1732) states that the Carmelite Convent stood on Dovert at Mill of Banff. The inscription on the mausoleum within the policies of Duff House shows the opinion prevalent towards the close of last century: "This mausoleum is erected on the place where stood a chapel dedicated to the Blessed Virgin by King Robert Bruce, MCCCXXIV. The adjacent grounds were also devoted, by his Royal Charter for the building and support of the monastery of the Holy Brethren of Mount Carmel."

* See Charters No. II. In a roll of missing charters of King Robert I. is "Carta of ane foundatioun of ane caple near Bamf in vice comitatu de Bamff." (Robertson's Index.)

A few years later (1798) a different view was entertained, as the following extract from the "Old Statistical Account" shows:—"Two of the Carmelite cells are still to be seen near the Old Church in a pretty entire state. The beautiful green mount in Lord Fife's park, and another of inferior size situated in the middle of the town, formed a part of the Carmelites' territory. These mounts appear to have been chiefly the work of art, and are supposed to be the labours of penance enjoined by the fraternity (!). On the mount on Duff House Park are still to be remembered the ruins and foundation of their Chapel, around which was the consecrated ground of the sepulchre. There many bones of the dead were found, and by the care of Lord Fife deposited in a large urn elevated on a pedestal near the mount."

Mr. Imlach, quoting from Mr. William Rose, Montcoffer, says:—"The sub-feudation (1544) clearly indicates the mount (Colleopard) as a part of the glebe of the Carmelites on which stood a chapel and the consecrated ground of the sepulchre, bounded by the highway leading from Bachlaw to Banff, where many dead bodies lie, and where the foundation of a chapel was seen not a hundred years ago."

Mr. Imlach has also the following:—"Two cells of the Carmelite Monastery were to be seen in the beginning of this century on the south side of the old burying ground, and the great bell of St. Mary's Church was suspended in a wooden spire on the top of one of these cells. Not far from the site of these a small vaulted chamber, supposed to have been a sleeping cell, now affords accommodation to the boiler of a steam engine employed at the foundry. Some arches, apparently parts of similar cells, yet exist behind the Royal Oak Hotel. This range of cells seems to have terminated the buildings of the Monastery to the east, unless that an hospital, of which there is a tradition as existing about the site of the present Bede House, may have formed one of its appurtenances. The garden ground of the Monastery, with its chapels and other dependencies, are supposed to have extended beyond the present southern limits of the town, and as far as the site of the old house of Airlie in the Duff House flower garden."*

Reference is made in "Banff and Neighbourhood" (1879) to certain vaults, the ruins of part of the Carmelite premises, which occupied the site of the five houses on the section of Carmelite Street between the entrances to the Low and High Shores. The existence of these ruins, continues the writer, goes to prove that the premises of the Carmelites must have been an important feature within the burgh. These vaults, however, there is abundant evidence to prove, were simply business premises, similar to what was found then in almost every burgh in Scotland. Mr. Imlach himself, in describing the mausoleum of Duff House, admits (1868)—"In the middle of last century were still to be seen, and described to me by an elderly gentleman who saw the entire demolition of the ruins, the foundation of St. Mary's Chapel, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin by King Robert, 1324. The adjacent grounds were also devoted, by his Royal Charter, for the building and support of a monastery of the Holy Brethren of Mount Carmel."

The ruinous houses, ornamental mound, and extensive garden in the centre of the town, towards the rear of the Town House, can be satisfactorily explained without calling them cells or grounds of the Carmelites. The ruins are simply the remains of the buildings that stood around the great garden of Lord Banff. The gardens and "palatium" are often referred to in old records.

"In the year 1520 a feu charter was granted by 'Frater Willelmus Smytht,' prior of the Carmelites of Banff, with the concurrence of the * Writers since the beginning of the present century have so repeatedly and persistently maintained that the site of the Carmelite Monastery was on the south side of the old Churchyard and on the east side of the Town's Buildings, that the present writer has not succeeded in gaining a single citizen of Banff over to his opinion that the Monastery was outside the town altogether, and that the commonly supposed site on the east side of the Town's Buildings was simply the house or "palatium" of Sir George Ogilvie. See Vol. I., p. 50, note (7), and p. 93.

venerable John Malcomson, provincial of the Carmelite Order in Scotland, and approved of by four priors of the order, in favour of Patrick Duncanson, burgess of Banff, and Margaret Hay, his spouse, of a new edifice, with garden and pertinents, lying within the burgh of Banff, betwixt the lands of the said Patrick on the south and north, descending to the lake (ad lacum) on the east, and the common high road on the west; to be held for payment of the sum of six shillings and eightpence at Whitsunday and Martinmas, by equal portions.

“To this deed, which is blank in the month, the conventual seal of the Carmelites of Banff is appended. It is thus signed:—

“Ad has literas, Alexander Prior de Luffnos.

Frater Donaldus Randall, Prior de Irwyn.

Frater Johannes Lyndsay, Prior de Berwy.

Ad has literas Andreas, Prior de Lyntgow.”*

A contract exists signed “At the Freiris of Banff the tent day of June in the yere of God ane thowsand five hundrethe thirty twa yeris,” whereby Thomas Gordon, portioner of Dunlugus, resigned to Walter Ogilvy of Dunlugus his part of the lands of Dunlugus and others.

In 1541, the aforesaid William Smyth gave sasine to Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus of the fishings about Banff belonging to the Carmelites.

In 1544 the Prior, William Smyth, with consent of William Stob, the head of the Order in Scotland, granted a feu charter of the lands of Dalhaugh and Sandiehill in favour of Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus, their benefactor and protector, and Alison Hume, his spouse. The brethren reserved to themselves their glebe and a small field adjacent, occupied by Andrew Bell, near the old kail-yard formerly occupied by James Sandehills, also the pasturage of a horse and four oxen within the lands of Dalhauch, and thirty sheep within the lands of Sandehills; Sir Walter to pay sixty bolls victual of the common measure of the burgh of Banff and £4 in money. The brethren were entitled to dig fuel in the bogs of Alvah and Bauchlaw, and for the privilege they became bound to celebrate one mass annually. Sir Walter was also bound to defend the lawful rights of the brethren. This charter, now in the possession of Sir Robert Abercromby of Forglen, bears the signature of the prior and two of the brethren—Thomas Matheson and John Davison—and has three seals attached, all in good preservation. Witnesses to the deed are Sir William Clerk, preceptor of the Grammar School, and Donald Riach and Andrew Adamsoun, Chaplains. Signed at the place of the Carmelites (apud locum Carmelitarum de Banf, 6th October, 1544). Not a few deeds relating to the transference of the Dawhaugh at this period are in the charter-room of Duff House.

A few months later (9th February, 1544-5) the Queen, with consent of the Lords of the Secret Council, confirmed a charter of Brother William Smyth, prior of the place of the Order of the Carmelites near the burgh of Banff, and of the monastery of the same, they wishing to lead a quieter life, apart from secular cares, as also for certain sums of money paid to them with the authority of Brother William Stob, provincial of the said order. The charter was a charter of the lands of Dalhauch and Sandiehills in favour of Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus and Alison Hume, his spouse.

The position of the Carmelite lands is alluded to in a deed of date 1543, whereby William Bard of Sidde disposed to Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus and Alison Hume, his spouse, his fishing of the lands of Bauchlaw on the water of Doverne, beginning at the water of the cruives of the same and going down to the Carmelite Brothers of Banff.

In 1549, John Fulford, prior of the place of the Carmelites of Banff, gave a precept of sasine to George Ogilvie of Casteltoun of their glebe, &c. Another deed of 1559 refers to the same glebe.

In 1555, the prior renounced a net in the King's Water of Doverne in favour of Sir Walter Ogilvie.

The following extract * shows how it fared with the Carmelites at the advent of the Reformation:—

“In the year 1559 the rule of the Carmelites ceased to be popular in Banff, for John Fulford, prior of the order, with consent of friar John Christison, provincial of the Carmelites in Scotland at that date, found it necessary to grant a tack to George Ogilvy of Castleton, son and apparent heir of Sir Walter Ogilvy of Dunlugus, and to his heirs male, ‘allendarlie,’ but ‘to na substitut nor subtenand, all and hail our place besyde Banff, with yaird (garden), orchard, and other townis contenit within the stain wallis,’ to endure for eleven years, at the rent of ‘sax pundis usuall money of the realm,’ at Whitsunday and Martinmas, by equal portions, to be paid ‘to the prior or his successors in quhat stait that ewer thai be for the tyme be resson of this present contrawersie.’

* “Notes and Queries” (1870).

“ Now this ‘contrawersie,’ whatever it was, had been followed by most serious results, which are mentioned in the inductive portion of the ‘tak,’ namely, the ‘raising of fire in our said place and kyrk under sylens of nicht,’ by persons of name unknown. This occurred on the evening of the 20th of July, 1559. Next morning it was discovered that there had been ‘manifest spuilzie of the insyght of the kirk and place.’ Information was privately given that ‘syndrie and divers’ of our ‘wodin places’ in the Southland had been put to ‘wraik’ in the same manner.

“ The family of Ogilvy, subsequently ennobled, who had great influence in the burgh of Banff, had their residence there; and the Prior prudently resolved to lose no time in transferring the convent and its possessions to the heir apparent of the knight of Dunlugus, the direct ancestor of the Lords Banff. Accordingly, upon August 15, 1559, with consent of friar John Davidson, he sealed and signed the ‘tak’ of which we have spoken. It was subsequently ratified by the provincial of the order upon March 4, 1559.”

In 1561, John Fulford, prior, granted to George Ogilvie of Dunlugus the Dalhauch and Sandiehills, and in 1574 the King annexed to King’s College the lands, &c., which formerly belonged to the Carmelite brothers, “prope burgum de Banff.”

Some time previous to 1546 a daily mass was founded by Master Duncan Lychtoun, formerly Chancellor of Aberdeen, from lands and annual rents, yielding in the whole £6 16s. 10d., one of the items of which is “In Banfe in manibus Johannis Currour xs.”

The “Spital” and the “Spital Myar,” near Banff, are occasionally referred to in old writings, but the precise date of the Hospital cannot be ascertained. In Elgin an Hospital was founded 1221-53. Hospitals were erected for receiving strangers, or for maintaining the poor and infirm. Keith gives a list, professedly imperfect, of 28 Hospitals in Scotland.

It is necessary to observe in contradistinction to views that have been frequently expressed that the Parish Church of Banff has had a continuous existence from a period long anterior to the establishment of the Carmelites in the neighbourhood of the burgh. It is also necessary to observe that, although for a period the Churches of Banff and Inverboindie were united, the Church of Inverboindie always held a subordinate position to that of Banff.

Little is known of the Church of Banff prior to the charter granted by Matthew, Bishop of Aberdeen (1178-1199), to the monks of Arbroath of the churches of Inverboyndie, Banff, Fyvie, Banchory S. Ternan, Gamrie, &c. To this charter Hugo de Bennef is a witness. Henceforth the nomination of the chaplains, &c., therefore rested with the monks of S. Thomas of Arbroath.

In 1189-1198 King William the Lion granted a charter to the Church of Murray of tofts in the burghs of Banff, Invercullen, &c. This charter was confirmed by King Alexander II. in 1226.

The aforesaid grant of Matthew, Bishop of Aberdeen, was confirmed by Pope Innocent III. in 1200; also, by John, Bishop of Aberdeen (1199-1207); Adam, Bishop of Aberdeen (1207-28); Gilbert, Bishop of Aberdeen (1228-39); the Chapter of the Cathedral Church of Aberdeen; also, by Ralph, Bishop of Aberdeen (1239-47).*

In 1250, the Vicarage of the Church of Banff was taxed at 30 merks. In that year the possessions of that church included the altarage, the manse, the tithes of white and red fish, and the greater tithes of the parish, part of which were received by the Abbot and Convent of Arbroath. From a bull of erection, of date 1257, of the perpetual vicarages of churches annexed to the Abbey of Arbroath, it appears that the tax payable by this church to the Abbey was as follows:—The vicarage taxed at 30 merks, the altarage of the Church of Banff and manse thereof, the altarage of Inverboyndie, with one acre of land, the whole tithes of the white and red fish, the lands belonging to the mother church and to the chapel, and the greater tithes of the parish.

About 1268 the procurations or dues paid to the bishop in lieu of the ancient burden borne by the rural clergy of entertaining him and his suite during his visitations were entered at 40s. from Banff. An ancient taxation of the churches in the bishopric of Aberdeen notes the taxation of the vicarage of this church at 25 merks, of which the abbot received 15 merks. The tithes were valued at 40 merks. The Church of Inverboyndie was at this period taxed at 3½ merks. The taxation of the churches in the deanery of Boyne at, or rather subsequently to, Baiamund's valuation in 1275 gives Banff at 35 merks, and procurations at 40s.

In 1325 Henry of Spynie, vicar of Banff, sold a croft within the burgh of Banff, in the Seatown, between the land of Walter, son of Malot, on the south, and the land of Morice, son of Alan, on the north, the water of Dovern on the east, and the hill leading to the Castle on the west. Appended were his own seal and that of Walter Udayn and James Vitorbambe, bailies of Banff.

* Copies of these grants and confirmations appear in "Antiquities of Aberdeen and Banff" (Spalding Club), Vol. II., pp. 119-123, 128.

In the "Registrum de Aberbrothoc" appears a letter of obligation of Rayner to the Abbot Bernard as to victual due by him and his performance of the office of seneschal of date 1312. Bernard, Abbot of Arbroath, claimed from Rayner, son of Alan, £66 for the tithes of the churches of Banff and Aberkerdor set to him by John of Angus, Abbot of Arbroath, for the years 1307-8-9. Rayner obliges himself to pay certain quantities of victual to the Abbey, and to become their seneschal for five years from the town of Collyn to the Water of Nys.

In 1366 Bamf Church was taxed at 40 marks, Inverboyndie at 3½, and Fordyce at 60.

The Abbey of Arbroath let in 1453 to Malcolm Bridy, prior of Fyvie, certain of their rentals, which included "in villa de Banf iis."

The greater tithes of the churches of Banff and Inverboyndie were let by the Abbot and Convent of Arbroath in 1484 and again in 1498 to Sir James Ogilvie of Deskford. There is extant a presentation of date 1493 by the Abbot of Arbroath in favour of Sir Arthur Elphinstone, priest, to the perpetual vicarage of the Parish Church of Banff. In 1497 Sir Thomas Prat, priest of the diocese of St. Andrews, was presented to the same charge. From the Inventories of Records of the Burgh of Aberdeen it appears that these records contain a sasine to David Waus, vicar of Banff, of a feu-duty from a tenement belonging to John Menzies, 3rd February, 1488-9.

The writer of the "Old Statistical Account" (1798), quoting apparently from the MS. of William Rose, Montcoffer, states that in 1470 the burgesses were in so distressed a situation that, having no power to increase their revenues but by lease, the managers of the town, without fraud and upon their great oath, with consent of all and sundry neighbours of Banff, let out to certain burgesses for 19 years the whole of their salmon fishings, consisting of 12 nets, for the "infesting and fundation makkin of a perpetual chaplenary to sing in the Peilheife of the burgh for our Sovereign Lord the King and Queen, their predecessors and successors, for all Christiane soules, for the theiking of the kirk with sclate and the bigging of the tolbuthe, and for quhat the burgh has not substance."

The original of that document is lost, and no copy is known to exist above a century old. Rose adds that this gift for support of the chaplain was for 19 years, and as it was found insufficient, the town bound themselves for a farther sum of 10 merks for his support.

In 1512 the King confirmed a charter of Alexander Ogilvie of Deskford, whereby he sold to William, Bishop of Aberdeen, the annual rental of 19 merks belonging to him of the farms of the royal fishings of the water of Dovert.

In 1526 David, Abbot of Arbroath, set for £60 Sc. yearly to Alexander Ogilvie of that ilk the teind sheaves and fruits of the kirks of "Banf and Innerbondy" for 19 years "quhylkis the said Allexander had in tak of ws of befoyr."

In 1528 the tithes of the white fish of "Banf and Knokynhayre" and the tithes of the salmon of Banff were set to Walter Ogilvie of Monicabok and others for 19 years, they paying for the tithes of the white fish of Banff and Knokynhayr 5 merks Sc., and for the tithes of the salmon of Banff one last of salmon, good and sufficient merchant stuff.

In 1542 Mr. Barnard Carngyll, perpetual vicar of the churches of "Bamf and Inuerbwndye," gave 200 merks Scots to purchase an annual rent of 10 merks to be divided among the chaplains of the choir and their successors of the Collegiate Church of the University of Aberdeen for the honour and praise of Almighty God, the most glorious Virgin, mother of the same, S. Brandon, confessor, and all the saints of the heavenly choir, and for the furtherance of divine worship, and specially for the weal of the souls of James IV., George Hepbrum, Adam Hepbrum, and of others who fell at Flodden, &c.

Sir William Clerk figures repeatedly as Chaplain of Banff about 1544. The title "Sir" was applied about this period to such of the clergy as had not proceeded in the course of their studies at the University to the degree of Master of Arts. "Master" then implied a higher position than "Sir." Sir William Clerk was, however, apparently higher in the social scale than the "Pope's Knights," as they were frequently termed, usually were. In 1544 he alienated to Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugas ten bovates of land in the barony of Montbre, and county of Banff, reserving to himself 12 bolls victual annually. From the Register of the Great Seal it appears that in 1546 the Queen granted letters of legitimation to Andrew Clerk, son of William Clerk, chaplain in Banff. He was still chaplain in 1547, and Master of the Grammar School in 1551.

A very interesting relic of the old church was dug up in the churchyard, in the line of the church, about thirty years ago, and is now carefully preserved in the local Museum. It is believed by competent authorities to be the remains of a "Pieta," or the sculptured figure of the dead Christ on the lap of the Virgin, to be unique of its kind in Scotland, and to date from the 15th century. The figure is of freestone; height of the slab 16 inches, width 11 inches. Very valuable and complete accounts of the sculpture will be found in papers read by Dr. Grigor, Nairn, at the meeting of Scientific and Literary Societies at Inverness in 1886, and by Mr. A. Ramsay, Banff, at meeting of Banffshire Field Club and at meeting of Society of Antiquaries for Scotland, Edinburgh.

Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugas figures very prominently in the civil and ecclesiastical history of the burgh about the middle of the 16th century. Sir Walter was evidently regarded in his time as a good friend of the Church. In 1539 he obtained a lease for 19 years from the Abbot and churchmen of Cupar of their fishings, &c., upon the water of Deveron. They also set the parsonage and vicarage of their kirk of Alwacht [Alvah] to him, he binding himself to be the perpetual friend, partaker and defender of the said Abbot, &c. An interesting deed of the same period bearing the original signatures of Sir Walter and his spouse is in existence,* whereby they bind themselves that they "sall make ane gret window weel glassit and brandarit with irone upon the southt syd of the queir of the said kirk of Alwacht at the syd (?) of the hie altar, and ane vther smaller wyndow brandarit with irne and glassit siclyk, betwene the chancellor wall and the quier dur, upon the samyn syd, and sall tak down the est gawill of the quier and big the samyn agane sa far as sall be thocht neidfull be the saids Abbot, &c."

With remembrance of the above one cannot but look with added interest to the fine window still existing in Sir Walter's own aisle within the churchyard of Banff. He was provost of the burgh, died 29th Nov., 1558, and was buried in his own aisle in the church. A monument of that period is in good preservation, and bears the following inscription:—
 "Año . dni . 1558 . 29 Nové . obiit . Valtervs . Ogilvy . de . Dvnlvgvs . miles . prepositus . hvivs . vrbis . et . hic . jacet . cŷ . alisona . Hvme . spõsa . obiit . 25 . Jvlii . año . 1557 ."

The names of the following chaplains and vicars of Banff occur in writings previous to the Reformation :—

- 1323, Henry of Spynie, vicar.
 1488, David Waus, vicar.
 1493, Duncan Scherar, vicar.
 1493, Sir Arthur Elphinston, presented as perpetual vicar.
 1497, Sir Thomas Prat, vicar.
 1542, Barnard Carngyll, perpetual vicar of Banff and Inverboyndie.
 1544, Sir William Clerk, chaplain.
 1546, Donald Riach.
 1547, Andrew Adamsoun, curate, also styled " Sir Andrew Adamsonsone, vicar persone of Banff."
 1548, James Curror, Rood priest of Banff.
 1549, Sir William Grantulie, chaplain.
 1552, Sir George Scott.
 1550, Alexander Keith, John Mortimer, and Brandan Sandesoun, chaplains.

It has been shown that the Church of Banff was annexed to the Abbey of Arbroath. It may be mentioned, with reference to the possessions of that Abbey, that after the murder of the last Abbot—Cardinal Beaton—in 1546, the emoluments were held in turn by :— (1) John Hamilton, second son of the Regent Arran ; (2) by Esme Stuart, Earl of Lennox, who died 1583 ; (3) by James Hamilton, in whose favour the King erected the lands, &c., into a temporal lordship ; (4) by the Earl of Dysart ; and (5) by Patrick Maule of Panmure, who had the right of patronage of 34 parish churches belonging thereto.

How the great change effected by the Reformation was received in Banff is not very precisely known. Neither is the history of this Church well known from that period, till the Presbytery records commence about 1622. A few notes bearing on the subject may, however, be gleaned from contemporary records.

From the "Compt of Schir Johnne Wyishart of Pittarro, knyht, Collectour-Generall of the Thirdis of Benefices," 1561, it appears that of money, apart from victual, the "Comptare" charges himself "with the thrid of the vicarage of Innerbundy Banff, extending the said yeir to xiii li. vis. viiid." He also charges himself "with a chalder five bollis tua firloittis for the hale beir of the quhyte freiris of Aberdene and Banff, extending the said yeir to i ch. v b. ii. f." In the Exoneration or discharge occurs the following, under the heading "Allowit benefices":—"Ilk ane of the White, Black, Gray, and Trinite Freiris of Aberdene and Banff, 16 li. as their acquittance." There being 14 of them, the sum amounted to £224.

The sum of £100 was paid by the Accountant to Thomas Fraser, younger of Durris, for his fees and labours in ingathering of the thirds of benefices within the Sheriffdom of Aberdeen and Banff.

In the Books of Assumption, immediately after the Reformation, the following entries occur:—"The vicarage of Banff and Innerbundy, within the diocie of Abirdene, pertenant to Maister Williame Carnegy, extendand be yeir and set in assedatioun to Sir William Smyt for xl. lib."

From the same source it appears that the tithes of the salmon of Banff were then set for £24, and the tithes of the white fish of Banff for £4 6s. 8d., the kirklands of Banff and Innerbundie for £4, and the churches of Banff and Innerbundie for £60.

In the "Compt of the sub-collectour of the Thirdis of Benefices, 1563" (MS. Reg. Ho., Edinbr.), the "comptare" charges himself "with the thrid of the vicarage of Innerbundy and Banff, extending the said yeir to £13 6s. 8d., and with the few malis of the Carmelite freiris landis besyde Banff in the hands of George Ogilvy of Dunlugus, conforme to his infestment thairof, £24; and with the few malis of the saidis freiris gleib and manis, conforme to the said Georges infestment, extending to £4; and with 40s. for the mansioun place of the saidis freiris, extending to 40s.; and with the silver malis of the akers and landis perteing to the saidis freiris, £48 11s. 4d.; and with the hail money of the teind fischings of Banff assumed in a part of the money of the Abbay of Abirbrothok, £24."

A similar entry as to the third of the vicarage (supra) occurs in 1564, and the immediately following words relating to the "few malis of the Carmelite freiris" are repeated in 1573. In 1564, in place of "akers and landis perteing to the saidis freiris," is entered "akers and landis perteing to the Quhite freires of Abirdene."

In the discharge is the following: "The comptare aucht to be discharged of tuentie pundis pait to Williame Martane, redare at Banff, for the said hale yeire [1563], £20, and of tuentie pundis pait to William Smyth, reidare at Innerbundie, for the said hale yeir, £20." A similar entry occurs in 1564.

1567.—Discharge. "The comptar aucht to be dischargit of the soume off thretty pundis off the mailles of the Quheit Freiris of Banf. Ministers:—To Mr. Wme. Lawtie, minister at Cullan, Fordice, Innerbundy, and Banf, takand in the yeir ane hundreth pundis, pait thairof £50. To William Mairtene, redar at Banff xx li., pait thairoff x li."

The "Register of Ministers sen 1567," published by the Maitland Club, seems not quite accurate with regard to the entry referring to this parish. Under the heading "Cullane, Foirdyce, Innerboundye, Banff," the ministers given are "Mr. Wm. Lawtie, minister, 1c. li. with thryd of his prebendrye extending to . . . Mr. Gilbert Gardin, minister, the hail benefice for his full stipend sen Lambines 1569." But all evidence goes to show that William Lawtie was minister of the two latter parishes, while Gilbert Gardin was minister of the two former.

1573.—"The following aucht to be defeasit and allowit to the comptar: in the hands of Sir Wm. Smyth for the third of the vicarage of Innerboyndy extending yeirlie of the yeirs comptet £13 6s. 8d."

The Register of Assignations, 1574, shows that Banff, Innerbundie, and Alveth were then served by Mr. William Lawtie, his stipend being £100.

In the burgh records of date 1595 is a commission to certain burgesses to sell the common lands and the salmon fishing of the burgh, the causes being that the troubles of wars, taxes, &c., had caused inter alia the "reparation, decoring, uphalding and sustening" of the Kirk and other public buildings to be neglected.

I. WILLIAM LAWRTIE was probably the first minister of this parish after the Reformation. He first appears in record in 1567 as minister of Cullen, Fordyce, Boyndie, and Banff. By 1569 the two latter parishes, with him as minister, were separated from the two former, to which Mr. Gilbert Gardin was appointed as minister. Under Cullen and Fordyce were then included Ordiquhill and Deskford. Ordiquhill was separated in 1628. Cullen with Deskford were detached from Fordyce in 1590 and definitely in 1601, and Deskford was separated from Cullen in 1627. The parishes of Banff, Boyndie, and Alvah were united, at least in 1574, under the charge of Mr. William Lawtie. Alvah was separated from Banff and united to Forglen in 1591. It was subsequently annexed to the Presbytery of Fordyce, and in 1650 was annexed to the Presbytery of Turriff, and Boyndie was disjoined from Banff in 1634. Lawtie was probably minister of Banff till 1589.

The Books of Assignations of Stipends (MS. Gen. Reg. Ho., Edinbr.), show that in 1574 "Maister William Lawtie was minister of Banff, Innerbundye, and Alveth," "his stipend, 1c. li., to be pait as followis, viz.: out of the thrid of Arbroth be the taxmen of the Kirk of Banff in (sic) Innerbundie lx li., and out of the thrid of the Abbay of Couper be the takkismen or parochiners of Alveth xl li., wt. the thrid of his awin prebendareis. William Martyne, reidare at Banff [Deprived 1 May, 1577], his stipend xx li. to be pait out of the thrid of Aberbrothock be the taxmen of the salmond fisheing of Banff. George Scott, reidare at Innerbundie [Deprived 1 May, 1577], his stipend xvi li. xiiis. iiid. wt. the kirkland to be pait as followis, viz.: the thrid of the vicarage xx merkis, and out of the thrid of Arbot. iii lib. vis. viiid. be the taxmen of the teynd of the quhite fische of Banff and Knoknahane. Henry Mortymer, reidare at Alveth, his stipend xvi. lib. wt. the kirkland to be paid out of the thrid of the Abbay of Couper be the taxmen or parochiners of Alveth as the reidare sall cheis."

George Scott, referred to above, appears to have been the same person as the chaplain in Banff under the old establishment in 1552. He is entered in the Register as deprived in 1577; but both he and William Martine continue at least in 1585.

An entry occurs in the same books in 1585 similar to that under 1574 regarding the payment of Mr. William Lawtie's stipend. The entries as to William Martin and George Scott are also similar.

Knoknahane is now given as Knokmacher. This locality cannot easily be identified. The heading for the year 1586 is "Banf, Innerbundy," but "Alveth" is also evidently implied, as the connection with Coupar shows: "Mr. Wm. Lawty, minister, his stipend lxxxiii li. vis. viiid. out of Arbroth, the third of the vicarage of Innerbundy xiii li. vis. viiid., and out of Couper iii li. vi. viiid. be the taxmen or parochiners of Aweth wt. the third of his awin prebendaries."

1588.—"Bannff, Innerbundy, Aweth. Mr. Williame Lawty, minister, his stipend out of Arbrot. be the taxmen or parors. of Innerbundy and Banff lx li., out of the third of Coupure be the taxmen of Alveth xv li., wt. the third of his awin prebendares, the third of the vicarage of Innerbundy xiii li. vis. viiid. Mr. Williame Murray, redare at Bannf, his stipend xx lib. out of the third of Arbroth be the taxmen or parochiners of the salmound fischeing of Banff."

II. JOHN GUTHRIE was promoted from being Regent in King's College, Aberdeen, to be minister of Banff in 1590, presented to the vicarage by James VI., 28th May, 1597, and to the modified stipend 14th October, 1615. (See Scott's "Fasti" and Orem's "Old Aberdeen.")

Books of Assignment of Stipends, 1590:—"Banff, Innerboyndy, Alveth. John Murray, redare at Banff." [A similar entry regarding him appears in 1593, but it is erased.] He appears as minister of Gamrie in 1596.

1593.—"Mr. Johne Guthrie, minister, his stipend the thrid of the vicarage of Innerbony xiii lib. vis. viiid. [here part erased] for the teind of the quhyte fische of Bannff and Knocknahair wt. xx lib. to be payit out of the rent of the takis of the personage of Bannff and Innerboyndie and out of Arbroyth be the tennentes, taxmen, and parochiners of Banff and Innerboyny lvii lib. vis. viiid. 1595.—"Banff. Innerboyndie. In former times payment of money was frequently made in solemn, legal form within the Church. An instance occurs in 1614, of lands "redeemable by payment or consignment of the sum of 200 merks money in the Kirk of Banff." *

* The following Extracts from the "Prothogall Buik" of Patrick Stewart, N.P. (1637-1680), exemplify legal forms that were then becoming less common:—

"Within the isle of the Kirk of Bamff vpon the tuintie ane day off May the yeir of God 1659 yeires being Witsundayes evein. The quhilk day in presence of mee notar publick and witnesses vnderwreitin compeired personallie William Leslie of Birdsbank and product ane instrument of requisitione of the dait at the maner place of Carnebulge the nynt day off Apryll 1659 yeires whair Robert Sharp shereff and comisser clerk of Bamffshyre procurator and actorney lawfullie mad and constitut be the said William Leslie did requyre Andro now Lord Fraser personallie apprehendit to mak payment and delyverance to the said William Leslie of the sum of Ten thousand merkes usuall Scotos money within the ile of the said Kirk of Bamff as place apoynted for that effect specified and contenit in ane contract of wadsett perfected and endit betuixt the deceist Andro Lord Fraser with consent off dame Elizabeth Crichton his spous and the said William Leslie in the consent of Helen Monro his spous off the daitt the twentie eight and twentie fourt dayes of December and Apryle 1654 and 1655 yeires . . . and that for the lawfull redemption of the towns and lands of Cowburties, Brigend of Couburties, &c., in the parish of Aberdour" . . . "The said William Leslie did remaine within the isle of the said Kirk of the burgh of Bamff fra nyne houres in the fornoone to four houres in the efternoon the said tuintie ane day of May beinge Witsundayes even expecting payment and delyverie from the said Andro now Lord Fraser, nevertheless the said Andro now Lord Fraser be himself nor no vtheris in his name did compeir" to deliver said sum for which the said lands were wadset and impignorate; "Wherefor the said William Leslie protestit," &c.

Similarly on 9th June, 1660—being Whitsunday even—John Ogilvie as procurator for Mr. Alexander Douglas, Provost of Banff, and Isobel Chisholm, his spouse, "did remane within the Kirk of Bamff betuixt aucht houris in the morneing and sixe hours in the efternoon expecting payment" . . . "at that pairt whair the pulpit sall happin to be as the place apoynted" . . . from Sir Alex. Abercromby of Birkenbog of 10,000 merks for the redemption of the lands of Breach, Dyttach, &c.

III. ALEXANDER SETONE, A.M.—According to Scott's "Fasti," he was son of Alexander Setone of Pitmedden, obtained his degree at King's College, Aberdeen, in 1615, was admitted prior to 1629, and died after 17th April, 1660. The Records of the Presbytery of Fordyce show that he was minister of Banff as early at least as 1622. His relict was Isabel Chalmer.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REGISTERS OF THE PRESBYTERY OF FORDYCE
DURING THE MINISTRY OF ALEXANDER SETONE (1622-1660).

Visitation of Banff by the Presbytery, 10th August, 1624.—"The elders and deacones present: Walter Ogilvy of Reidhythe, Robert Ogilvy, Mr. Wm. Scharpe,* &c. The minister and elders approven. The sessionne book revised. It was found that thair sessionnes wer not so frequent as apperteinit whilk they have promised to amend. The said day the haill eldership promised to have ane faithfull cair for provisioune of thair awne poore and to purge ther bounds of vagabond beggares conforme to the actes of Counsell. The minister and eldership are requyrit to have an moir speciall cair that nayther baitting of lynes nor going for bait be usit on the Saboth. The minister and elders hes promised to build ane new pulpit. The minister asks that the Laird of Banff be requyrit to provyd a mans out of the kirklands neirar to the kirk. The minister reports that there were no recusants, but some had not communicat this last yeir. Anent the great abuses of pennie brydells in aill houses the minister and elders agree to tak sufficient caution from the parties to be married that they sall not exceed six persones and that they sall not stey above one day and night in the aill hous. Mr. George Chalmer, schoolmaster of Banff, approven."

December 1.—"Compeirit Maester Robert Cheine and confessit that Maister Alexander Setoune had conferrit with him concerning the articles of religione and faith, presentlie professed within the Kirk of

* Sheriff-Clerk, and father of Archbishop Sharp.

Scotland, and, after dyvers conferences, acknowledgedit and confessit himself resolvit thairin. The brethren, for better assurance, ordeinis him to receive the said confessione of faith in writ to be advysit and conferred with the said Mr. Alexander, that he micht returne moir deliberatlie resolved particularlie to subscrivye and swear to the same."

February 1.—"Walter Ogilvie, Laird of Banff, compeirs before a committee of the presbity in the Kirk of Banff, and holds up his hand in token of fidelitie to remove the offence with which he was charged."

August 31.—Visitation. "The minister removit and tryitt and is weill approvitt in his doctrein, discipline, and lyff. The eldaris present—The Lairdes of Bamff, elder and younger, Walter Ogilvie, Andro Baird, balyie, Walter Dunbar, balyie, &c. The minister reportit that the eldaris had amendit in ther fault in moir frequent meiting and executing of the acts of discipline. The book of discipline visitit, approvitt in the formalitie theroff. Anent the ordinance maid in the last visitatione concerning the reparatione of the quheir it is found that nothing is doone therein, pretending thair ignorance of not knowing quhow to proceed thairin. It is condescendit that the minister with the eldaris sall obtain ane charge for charging the Marquis of Hamiltoun as patrone and persone to bwild the quier and thereafter giff he fail and finds not releiff to mak ane stent roll and advys with all craftsmen neidfull what charges it will coist and thereafter charge the said Marquis of Hamiltoun fewars or vtheres quho salbe found be law obleisit to doe the sayd qlk the minister and eldaris promesit to doe with diligence. Mr. Thomas Chalmer, presentit to be Mr. of School at Banff, is ordanit to come befor the presbitrie of Cullen to abyd tryall of his qualificaciones and soundness in religioun. Anent the ministers mans being now desolat of building and he excusing his inhabilitie to repair the samyn, the haill gentilmen and eldaris present have faithfully promesit thair helpes for repairing thair off and to this effect at nixt publict meeting at the electioun of thair magistratis vpoun the said ministeris suitt sall gyff thair helpes that the haill body of the toun may be delt with what everie man sall gyff according to his habilitie and benevolence for repairing of the said. The kirk officiar being now weak and aigit is yet continewit in his office till farder delyverance. The minister and eldares hes nominat Mr. Alex. Douglas, James Winchester, and William Schand to the office of eldership to supply the nummer of tham that ar absent and dead qlk thay have promesit to accept and ordeins the minister to appoynt the day of thair publict electioun. The minister and eldaris being tryit it wes found that no beane fyres wer set. up. Anent superstitious tymes and for remeid thairoff the haill brethrein have ordanit publict intimatione to be maid twa severall Sondayes befor the saids tymes interdycing all persones to sett up theis fyres in tyme coming vnder the panis contenit in the civill and ecclesiastik lawes that they pretend na ignorance. The former act anent the cair of the poore and banishing of strangeres is faytfully promesit be the minister and eldares to be observit. Anent the aistait of the kirk glebe qlk lyes far distent from the kirk it is thoct meet that the laird of Bamff, younger, look out ane lying near the kirk, and in case he refuis to urge the execution of the Act of Parliament."

May 3.—The Synod reply that Marj. Anderson can be relaxed from excommunication, if (1) she remove out of all lands and houses pertaining to the laird of Banff, and give a sufficient bond and caution never to return to the said houses or lands nor to any part within the parishes of Banff and Innerboyndie; (2) she should never be seen speaking to or meeting with the laird of Banff; (3) she should make her public repentance on Sabbath days in sackcloth in the Kirk of Innerboyndie. She promises to obey (3) but neither (1) nor (2).

May 17.—"Mr. Alexander Setoun brought with him to the presbitrie ane young man callit Mr. Thomas Chalmer desyring that the said Mr. Thomas micht be tryit as touching his qualification to teitch ane grammer schoole at Banff wheretoo he is nominat and enterit be the townshipe. The brethren appoynt the said Mr. Thomas to come the nixt day of meiting and teich a lessone of humanitie in the first book of Horatius' Odes, ode X."

June 7.—"Mr. Thomas Chalmer approven be the brethren as sufficient and able to vndergoe the chairge of teiching a grammer schoole."

May 3.—“Mr. Alex. Seatoune, minister at Banff, anent the present vacancie of the Grammour Schoole of Banfe, shewed that thair vas nominat tuo young men, viz., Mr. Robert Andersone and Mr. William Lamond, and that by the voyce of the citizens of Banff, and asked that the brethren meet for tryall of them to sie to whiche it should be given. May 10. Mr. Robert Anderson and Mr. William Lamond taucht severally vpon the samyne subject, quho, after thair doctrine, being removit, the brethren beeing demandit severally of thair judgment concerning the meetest and most fitt man of the said tuo young men for the discharge of the office of Mr. of schoole thair, the whole brethren, after dew consideratione had of thair analysis, both logically, rethorically, and poetically, and interpretatione and genivine sense of the words, in one voyce after voting admovit Mr. Robert Andersone for dyverse respectis, quhovsoevir they var both approvin in thair doctrine.”

1628.

September 23.—Visitation. “Eldaris present:—Sir George Ogilvy off Banff, Mr. William Sharp, &c. Concerning the provisione of the said kirk, it is affirmit that the ministers of Banff and Boyndie are but provydit to sex hundreth markis betwix both. Mr. William Strachan admittit schoolmaster of Banff be consent of the Magistrates. Grisel and Euphame Betoune, in Alvah, for sclandering the spouse of James Melville, minister of Alvah, are ordainit to compeir in publick within the body of the Kirk of Banff. It being considered by the Presbytery whether they should mak their repentance going to the stoole or before the pulpit only, most voted that they should go to the stool."

July 4.—"James Stewart in Ordins is presentlie in the south for the Lairde of Banfes tryall."

September 23.—"Conforme to the ordinance of the last Assemblie the brethren dealt with the Laird of Banff for the slauchter of James Ogilvie, gudman of Paddocklaw.

September 25.—At Banff convenit the brethren with two of the brethren of the Presbitrie of Turreff. The Lairde of Banffe wes called, compeired, and being informed of the gravitie of his trespass and scandall he haid given, wes asked if he would willinglie refer himself to their decret for removing of the said scandall and purchas of the saints' prayers to God for pardon, ansuered he desired what wes their will, upon notice whereoff he sould advys. The brethren refused to give out their will and then to be forced to process or exposed to mocking. In the mydtime some brethren privatlie show him that he would be enjoyned to satisfie in saclothe upon the penitientarie seat, which he hearing, cam in in judgement and offered to humble himself on his knees afor the pulpit, and besocht the brethren to accept thereof. In consideratione of his estate the matter referred to the Assemblie."

[William Duncan mortifies to the minister of Banff a tenement of land in Banff, having the kirkyard at the east, the houses and land of James Alschioner at the south, the King's common calsay at the west, the houses now belonging to Sir George Ogilvie of Banff at the north. The Deed of Mortification, now in the Charter room of Duff House, contains the following:—"I carie still ane earnest lyiking and guidwill to the said burgh and wishes earnestlie the florisching thereof and of the trew Christian Religioune."]

July 21.—“Sr. Thomas Vrqhart of Cromartie gave in ane act of the Session of Banff, geiveing licence to him to erect ane desk and loft in the kirk of Banff (seing he is both a parochiner and resident within the said toun) for his accomodatione. The brethren gaued their approbatione with express provision that neither the edifice nor lichtes of the said kirk suld be deteriorat.”

August 11.—Visitation. “The elders praised God for the ministers fidelitie and diligence, but regraited that albeit he had a great charge, taught everie Sabbath tuys besid catechiseing, yit had but half a ministers provisione and ane hundredth marks of that which he had in hazard throughe the Laird of Banf his excambion with my Lord Ogilvie. In respect the cuire is doune the elders ar ordeined to deill with my L. Deskfurd as patron and teindmaister that his L. wald concurre with the toun for the edifeing of the samine. The elders reportit that Mr. Alexander Craig left in his legacie [blank] marks to the kirk and help of the provision theiroff. They ar ordeined to deill with Doctor Douglas wha had married the said Mr. Alexander his wif for payment theiroff, and, give they can not have it by friendly deilling, to seik it by law, and that befor the next visitatione.”

December 1.—“Forsameikle as the Laird of Banf and his complishes have not yit satisfied the kirk for the slauchter of James Ogilvie in Padocklaw specialie through the continuall absence of the said laird in the south and seeing the scandall is verie greit that no minister can, without grudge of mynd, minister to any of theis parties the holy communion, the presbitrie ordeines Wm. Ogilvie and John Brokie, complishes to the said Banf, being resident alwayes in the bounds to be charged to the next meiting.” [They compear not.]

February 23.—“Compeired John Brokie [Wm. Ogilvie compears not] refusing to give any obedience unto the tyme that the Laird of Banf, chief actor, suld first satisfie. The presbiterie decerns them both contumacious, and Mrs Wm. Chalmer [minister of Boyndie] and Alex. Seton to proceid against them be publick admonitione bot yet to delay a space (becaus the laird of Banf is comeing home to the bounds) till process be tabled against him to vindicat the presbiterie from censure of partialitie and respect of persones.

March 23.—“Mr. Wm. Chalmer reported that the laird of Banff, efter many shiftes, promised to meet the presbitrie in any privat place, bot thought it not fitt to compeir in judgement. Ordeins the Moderator to shew him the necessitie that lay upon the brethrein [because of greivousness of the scandall agregit be his behaviour since and presence at the slauchter of the Laird of Rothimay] to process him. He is summoned to next dyet.”

May 11.—“Mr. Alex. Seton reported that the Laird of Banff had satisfied as he wes enjoyed at the Synod.”

July 11.—Visitation. “Mr. Alexr. Seton being remoued his elders wer charged as they suld ansuer to God to declair how he acquitted himself in the several pairtes of the ministrie and how he walked amongst them, all as with one voice gaue him a famous testimonie for doctrine, diligence, and halie conversatioune. The minister and elders are exhorted to have a cair for the separation of the cuir. Syclyk to satle Mr. Alexr. Craggis mortification for the support of the minister and his successors.

November 15.—“Mr. James Petric, schoolmaster at King-Edward, being nominated to the school of Banff, offered himself to the brethren for tryall. The said Mr. James was ordeined to teache the sext satyr of Persius to-morrow in the school of Banf be nyne hours in presence of the bailyies and others in the toune.

November 16.—The brethren convened in the school of Banf, with the bailyies and divers others in the toune who wer scholers, and Mr. James Petrie taught a pairt of the sext satyr of Persius as wes designed, and efter tryall was found qualefied for that charge, and recommendit to it.”

December 5.—“The minister of Banf declared that he had conferred with the Laird of Banff anent his giving satisfacione to the kirk anent his accessiounne as a Colonel to the lait unlawfull ingagement, and a Parliamentarie man for voiccing theirto, and that the said L. Banff had shewen himself sensible of his guiltines therin, and that he wald be willing to satisfie as he suld be enjoyned be ecclesiastical authoritie. It was the mynd of the presbitrie that he suld mak his addresses to the Commission of the Kirk, wherewith he was pleased, and desired to be recommendit theirto.”

December 12.—Visitation. “The minister was asked if he taught twice on the Lord's day and lectured, if he kept ane ordinaire text, if he had week-day lecture, if he examined all his people before the Communion, if he had sermons of preparation and thanksgiving before and after the Communion, if he used the directorie, if he baptized bairns except on the Lord's day and days of public meeting, if he visited the sick, if he had familie exercise in his house and urged it on others, if he took notice of profaners of the Lord's day, malignants, &c., if he catechised the youth at 7 or 8 years, and debarred from Communion all swearers and who had not subscribed the League and Covenant, &c. He gave satisfaction in all. Lykwys, it was demandit if ther wer any superstitious dayes kept heir or burials within the kirk or any plot of ground vnlabored dedicated to the Deuill, caled the Gudman's croft, ansuerit negative. The minister's stipend heir is aucht hundreth marks. Lykwys, there is ane ruinous hous mortified heir to the vse of the Kirk. Efter tryall is found heir but one cup for Communion and no table cloths, nor a provisione for furnishing elements to the Communion. Ordeined to be cared for. It is found lykwys that ther be some books mortefied and dedicated to the vse of the school in this toune, which wer delyvered to the present schoolmaster, Mr. Ja. Petrie."

March 13.—"George Stewart, in Banf, appeired before the presbitrie acknowledging his greiff for being accessorie to the lait unlawfull Ingagement, in subscriwing the band anent the Act of Parliament of the dait 10 Junij 1648, and was directed back to Banff to mak his repentance and be received."

1649.

In 1649 an indenture was signed betwixt the Provost (Alexander Douglas) and Bailies of Banff on the one part and Mr. James Petrie,

* The decret of disjunction, modification and locality of the parish of Banff 17th June, 1635, which was registered 12th July, 1710, and two copies of which, one evidently from the original, are in Cullen House, another copy being also among the "Rose Papers," is liable to be misunderstood. The two parishes were disjoined, and had separate ministers at least in 1624.* The writer of the Statistical Account of Banff (1798) states that in 1634 Mr. Alexander Seaton, minister of Banff, brought an action of valuation and modification of the teinds against the heritors, by which the union was declared void and each holden to be a separate parish and distinct congregation. The Earl of Airlie, Lord Deskford, and the other heritors unanimously submitted the terms of the disjunction and amount of stipend to Patrick, Archbishop of Glasgow, and John, Bishop of Ross. Accordingly, these arbiters settled the boundaries of the two parishes, and fixed the quantum of stipend payable to each minister at $3\frac{1}{2}$ chalders of victual and 350 merks of money, with the vicarage teinds, ipsa corpora. This judgment was confirmed by the Lords Commissioners of Teinds. "The Lordis Commissionaris decerne and ordaine that whatsoewir unioin hath heirtofor bein maid unieiting the two kirks of Banff and Innerboundie togidder in ane parochie kirk that the same salbe now voyd, null, and ineffectuall in all tyme cuming, and the saids tuo kirks of Banff and Innerboundie to be disjoynd and seperat the ane from the other and to be reput and haldin as tua distinct paroches and congregatiounes and to haue tuo seuerall ministeris serving the cuire at ather of the saids kirks." . . . "This actioun being callit in presence of the said lords in the moneth of December last and at lenth disput befor them at dyveris and sindrie dyettis, and in respect that many difficulties did aryse in the said matter anent the unioin and disunioin of the sds tuo kirks, the ministeris provisione, and localitie, how and be whom the provisione of the said kirk sould be peyit, &c. . . . the case refered by consent to the decret arbitral of Patrick, Archbishop of Glasgow, and John, Bishop of Ross." The decret bears the following—"the kirk and parish of Banff and Inverboyndie whilk is now for the present ane parish" . . . "we decern and ordain that ilk minister of either of the said tuo parochins shall have the vicarage tiends ipsa corpora of their own parochins as the samen are now divided and ilk one of them to have three chalders and one half of victuall with 350 merks of money to ilk one of them yearly."

"[Dorso—His Majestie's letter sent home wt. Mr. Wm. Sharp, 10th August, 1660].—His Majestie's gracious letter directed to the Presbytery of Edinburgh and by them to be communicated to the rest of the Presbyteries of the Kirk. Received the third of September, 1660. Charles R. Trusty and well-beloved We greet you well: By the letter you sent to Us with this bearer Mr. James Sharp and by the account he gave of the state of our church there We have received full information of your sense of our sufferings and of your constant affection and Loyalty to our Person and Authority . . . And therefore We will detain him no longer (of whose good services we are very sensible) nor will We delay to let you know by him Our gracious acceptance of your Address and how well we are satisfied with your carriages and with the generality of the ministers of Scotland in this time of triall whilst some under specious pretences swerved from that duty and allegiance they owe to Us . . . We do also resolve to Protect and Preserve the government of the Church of Scotland as it is settled by law, &c. At Whitehall the 10th of August, 1660. [Edinburgh—Printed by Christopher Higgins in Hart's close over against the Trone Church, 1660.]"—(Burgh Records.)

November.—"George, Lord Banff, and George, Master of Banff, with their adherents, alleged committers of the slaughter of Mr. Johne Gordoune of Blairmaud being summoned personalie [before the Presbytery] and called, compeired not."

January 30.—"The Master of Banff intimates that he is altogether unable as yet to travel. The eight witnesses summoned compear not."

February 27.—"The Master of Banff is still unable to travel. The witnesses appeared, but the Presbytery, being few, refer their examination till next dyet. The Moderator of the Session of Banff reported that Thomas Stewart, laird of Bog, had fallen in fornication for the fyfth time, and this time in the tolbooth of Banff with a woman put in ther for murthuring a chyld. The presbitrie resolved to excommunicate him, but he sent a humble petitione acknowledging his grievous guiltines. The ministers of Fordyce and Deskford are to be sent to speak with him in the Tolbooth."

IV. ALEXANDER SETONE, A.M. [1661-1679], succeeded his father as minister of Banff. He was minister of Cullen 1647-1650, and was thence translated to Mortlach, from which he was translated to Banff, where he was admitted 15th May, 1661. He was elected to Aberdeen, but, he being opposed to it, his translation was refused by the Bishop and Synod, 30th April, 1665. After preaching a farewell sermon 12th March, 1676, with a view to his leaving for Tranent, he remained, having been pressed to do so by the parishioners. He married Margaret Jaff, and had at least one daughter Janet. He died in June, 1679, aged about 56 (Scott's "Fasti"). His tombstone in the churchyard of Banff bears the following inscription:—"M.A.S. 1679 . . . obiit October IV . . . Loe . heer . in . trust . lyes . ye . pretious . dust . of . [Soul-saving Seton pre]acher . in . this . toune . Ye . key . of . knowledge . And . glory . of . ye . gown."

The date on the tombstone, and in the Presbytery Minutes, 2nd July, 1679, cannot both be correct, for the latter contains this entry: "Mr. Alex. Setone, minister of Bamf, has departed this lyfe."

All the brethren reported that they had observed the twentie-nynt day off May according to the ordinance of the Lo/ Bishop and Synod."

September 16.—"The minister of Banff represented to the brethren that he had received from the Lo/ Bishop ane commissione and edict for designing of mosse to him out of the nixt adjacent."

A good idea of what was expected of ministers at this time may be obtained from the "Directiones for visitatione off churches" recorded in the Presbytery Book of the time. A few queries may be quoted. I. To the minister:—"(1) If there be preaching on the Lord's Day, and how often. (2) If in his preaching all unedifying discourses be avoided. (3) If the explicatione of such articles of the Christian faith as ar most necessar to be knowne be most insisted on. (4) If the great and indispensable dueties of Christianitie be frequently recommended and pressed. (5) If the sins that most prevaill among the people be frequentlie reproved, and, finallie, if this be done in a plain, intelligible manner, and decent expressions without affectatione of strange words. (6) As to his catechising, if he put them to rehearse the beleiffe, the ten commandments and the Lord's prayer. (7) If he endeavour to prevent the spreading of errors, and in particular of popery and quakerisme, among his flock. II. The minister, elders, and masters of families to be interrogate inter alia, Whether there be any that haunt the conventicles of preachers, legallie deposed? Whether there be any that haunt the conventicles of quakers?"

[1675, January 29.—Stent of 700 merks on heritors and trades for payment of the minister's manse.]

VI. WILLIAM HUNTER (1699-1716) was translated from Clonmonell to Tyrie in 1696, thence translated to Banff. He corresponded with Principal Carstares in 1705 regarding the conversion of George, Lord Banff, from Popery to Protestantism, was suspended in 1712 for refusing to take the oath of abjuration, but returned in the following year, and was deposed 4th April, 1716, for witnessing the proclamation of the Pretender at Banff. He is said by Mr. Gordon to have died in the following year, but more probably he survived till 29th October, 1730. He married, 7th December, 1693, Martha, daughter of George Muschet, residenter in Ayr. Their eldest son, Alexander, an Episcopal minister in Edinburgh, was served heir 10th December, 1730. Most of the other children died young.—(Fasti.)

From the Register of Marriages of the parish of Banff, it appears that on 27th December, 1699, "Mr. William Hunter, minister, contracted marriage with Mrs. Anne Guthrie, Lady Dunlugas." His admission to Banff was on 15th November. In the Birth Brieves (Burgh Records, 1725), John Hunter is designated son of William Hunter, minister of Banff, son of Robert Hunter, provost of Ayr, and Martha Muschet, only daughter and heir of George Muschet, laird of Craighead in Perthshire. John Hunter left Scotland in the year named to seek his fortune.

October 16.—“The Synod cause the Presbytery summoned Mr. Hunter to compeir before the Presbytery of Deer to answer there for some offensive carriage alleadged against him whilst in their bounds.”

December 18.—“Visitatione of Banffe. The Presbytrie considering that the Synod hath appointed a visitation of the church and parioch of Banffe to be held on the first Wednesday of February by this Presbytrie, and several other correspondents to be joined with them in that affair, did find that it would not be for the ends of edification to keep the said visitatione in the terms of the Synod’s Act for several weighty considerations, and particularly that we had good ground to think that the Town and Parioch of Banffe would not submit to such a visitation, as appears by a protestation given in this day by the provost and some of that Town Councill, the tenor of which protestation followeth: ‘We of the parochial congregation of the town and parioch of Banffe being credibly informed that the members of Synod of Aberdeen, at their last meeting at Aberdeen, upon some frivolous pretences and groundless surmises offered to them against Mr. William Hunter, our minister of Banffe, without ever giving him ane double of ane lybell or hearing his lauffull defences in ane legall manner, issued forth warrands and orders appointing ane visitation of this parioch in ane undue, illegal, and unprecedented manner, contrair to the Acts of the General Assembly of the National Church, which appoints the minister of the parioch to be visited to preach the Sabbath day preceding the visitation, and intimat from the pulpit the day theirot to the parishoners, which visitation ought to be by the members of the presbytrie in which the parioch to be visited lyes, and not by extraneous members and ministers, whereas two-thirds of the ministers appointed by the Synod to be visitors are young men, unexperienced extraneous members, and some of them raw in experience of the state of their own flock, and much more strangers to the state and condition and humors of the people of this our parioch, and this their proceedings being no small unprecedented innovation and illegal encroachment on our rights and priviledges, and contrair to the express practice and established rules and acts of this our National Church,’ &c.

August 12.—“Protestation given in by James Cock, Town Clerk of Banffe and others, in name of the parochial congregation of the town and parioch of Banffe, against the visitation of the town and parioch of Banffe as appointed by the Synod: . . . Considering that there have been repeated complaints before the Synod of Aberdeen concerning weekly sermons not being observed within the town of Banffe, which for many years were in constant use in that place, as also some complaints of Mr. Hunter’s schoolmaster setting up some forms of publick prayer morning and evening in the church of Banffe through the dayes of the week, therefore the Synod appoints a visitation at the Church of Banff,” &c. “The Synod appointed Mrs. Mair, Ross, &c., to correspond with the Presbytery. As to the weekly sermons, Mr. Hunter did answer that charge last Synod. Anent the schoolmaster, the samine is wrong, for Mr. Hunter nor any minister before him never had, nor has, any schoolmaster, nay, not so much as one single vote in his presentation, or admission, or entry to the school of Banffe, or discharging therefrom; but the Magistrats and Councill has the only charge of presenting ane schoolmaster to the said school, his literature to be tryed by the Bishop of Aberdeen, and no visitation theirof but by the sub-principal of the Old Town Colledge thereof, conform to ane charter under the Great Seal from the crown in the dayes of King James the Sixth, and dated the fifth of July 1592 years, and so not liable to be visited by the Synod or Presbytrie. And this pretended visitation being ane innovation, infringement, and encroachment on the town’s rights and priviledges, they cannot, nor will they, subject themselves thereto. But the charge against the schoolmaster is calumnious, for he never sett up any forms or prayed as is alledged in the church morning nor evening on week dayes nor read the Scriptures, which to forbid is lyker ante-Christianisme than anything beside. And not to extoll the Lord’s praise at any tyme Sabbath or week dayes except they subjoin to their alleadgance any prayers were schismatick and contrair to the written word of God. And so the town intends to stand their ground on so just cause.” The protest also objects to extraneous ministers being conjoined with the Presbytery, adding, “how farr this sort of general accusations is contrair all form and how near akin to the Spanish Inquisition I leave any knowing man to consider, for in the least case when they find any man of ane holy life sobber in deportment, modest in conversation, and rich, that man is presently attacked, they get ane informer, who all he sayes 'O how many things I have to lay to such ane man's charge,' presently the man is taken to custody and seldom or never comes the innocent man free without fire and faggot, so Lord have mercy on the innocent man, and our honest Mr. Hunter, if this speat of proceeding take place, and all without ane articulate charge." They are willing to be visited in a legal manner, but never in this manner, "having such ane tender respect and regard to our rights, liberties, and priviledges," &c.

"The Presbytery reprotest that no regard be had to such a protestation, and that the Presbytery go on with the visitation, the said protestation being for the most part made up of intollerable and unintelligible nonsense and stuffed with malicious and impertinent reflections on the persons of several Reverend and worthy Brethren of this Synod. Mr. Hunter is appointed to intimate the visitation at Banffe on September 12."

September 12.—Presbytery met at Banff. Some of the correspondents also present. The Provost of Banff and some other town's people gave in a protestation and left without waiting for an answer. Mr. Hunter also withdrew and refused to return unless the correspondents retired. Mr. Hunter made no intimation of the visitation from the pulpit, nor was his session book laid before the Presbytery. The case referred to the Synod.

October 9.—"Compeired the Provost of Banffe and one of the Bailyies, representing that their minister was to ly aside from the exercise of his ministry for some time upon the account of the oath imposed by the Government, and craved supplys of preaching."

October 8.—The Synod, in attesting the Presbytery minutes, add that the Presbytery should have declared their dissatisfaction that Mr. Wm. Hunter, minister at Banff, was to lie aside for some time upon the account of the oath.

December 1.—The Synod require Mr. Hunter to give in his reasons for leaving off the exercise of his ministry for some time. He answered that he was at that time under perplexing and difficulting circumstances, and thought himself obliged, in point of duty and prudence, to forbear exercising his ministry, because he had not freedom to qualify according to law.

March 17.—The Presbytery meet at Banff. The Lairds of Rannas, Buckie, Muldavit, and Oxhill, with a great many of the parishioners of Rathven, compare and object against Mr. Gordon's ordination. The multitude of parishioners that attended vented themselves after a most insolent and extravagant manner, in threatenings, curses, and horrid imprecations against the Presbytery and Mr. Gordon, after such a tumultuary manner as the Presbytery had ground to fear violence from them, whereupon they were obliged immediately to get out of the church.

March 6.—“The presbytery taking to their serious consideration the late confusions as a time wherein the ministers of the present establishment, their integritie and uprightness in maintaining and adhering to the Revolution principles in opposition to all Jacobite principles whatsoever, was very much put to the tryal, and lest there should be any member of this Presbytery whose conduct during the late disorders was not so suitable, therefore, the presbytery proposed certain queries to each member as to whether they were present at the proclamation of the Pretender or drunk his health then or at any other time under the denomination of King James the Eighth, whether they prayed for the Pretender, whether they read any of the Pretender's proclamations, particularly a proclamation for levying of men for the Pretender's service, and another for observing a thanksgiving for his arrival in Scotland, &c. All the members present gave satisfactory replies, but there is a fama clamosa that Mr. Alex. Hunter, son to Mr. William Hunter, minister at Banff, went South and was licensed by an exauctorat Bishop, and upon his returning home intruded into the Church of Banff and read the proclamation for observing a thanksgiving for the Pretender's arrival into Scotland, and also observed said thanksgiving day, his father countenancing him so far as to be present in the church. Mr. Hunter excuses his absence this day" [at Fordyce]. The Presbytery resolved to meet to-morrow at Banff to make inquiries.

March 7.—"At Banff. Mr. Hunter excuses his being present at the proclamation of the Pretender thus: When that occurred he, the said Mr. Hunter, was retired in his room, had several doors shut upon him, being intended and resolved not to have stirred abroad the said day, but there came to the said Mr. Hunter's gate four or five men in armes who beat rudely and, having got in, laid their hands upon the said Mr. Hunter's person and hail'd him along to the mercat cross with shame and confusion before a Rable, but the said Mr. Hunter being interrogate who these men were who came and laid violent hands upon him, he plainly told that he knew some of them, yet he declined to name them pro tempore. His answers as to whether he prayed for the Pretender were not explicit. As to his not protesting when the Pretender's proclamations were read in the church of Banff, he judged it his duty to lay himself aside from officiating a few dyats, and the confusions being at a great height in this corner, armies within and about the place, minaces and threatnings to the highest degree made against the said place, and himself, he thought fit at that particular time to be silent, and for publick documents and testimonies against the said proclamations ordered by a military power (the circumstances of this place being peculiar and singular and more obnoxious to the furie of the times than any cuntry congregation about) he judged it fit and proper for him to be silent under the surprizal he then was. Mr. Hunter declared he reproved his son for mentioning King James in one the said dyats. His son did it being informed that the Episcopal Clergie did it at Aberdeen. The Presbytery consider Mr. Hunter's conduct censurable and refer the case to the Synod."

April 24.—"Mr. Hunter being depos'd by the Synod, Mr. Stewart reports that, in obedience to the Synod's appointment, he declared the church of Banff vacant upon the third Sabbath of April."

August 14.—Mr. Alexander Davidson, schoolmaster at Banff, to be summoned to the next meeting of presbytery to subscribe the Confession of Faith, in terms of the laws and acts of Parliament of this kingdom.

September 4.—"The kirk officiar of Banff is ordered to summond the schoolmaster of Banff pro 2do."

October 15.—Mr. Davidson to be deposed if he do not compear when summoned pro 30.

Several Acts were passed about this period by the Kirk Session regarding Sunday observance. On 26th March, 1699, they "enacted that the elder and deacon who collected should notice if any went to the sea crags on the Lord's day in the afternoon." On 9th July [being the Sunday after the interment of the late minister, who was interred on Sunday,] the Session passed an Act against buying and selling fish on Sunday morning. In the following July John Gordon and two others were required to profess their repentance publicly for fishing on the Lord's day, and to pay their fines conform to Act of Parliament.

1700.

May 5.—The Session order a weekly allowance for a child, belonging to Elgin, abandoned on the streets of Banff by its mother.

June 30.—Compeared Adam Gall for his irregular marriage. He confessed he was married by Priest Dunbar. The matter is referred to the Presbytery for advice.

December 8.—"The Kirk Session finding that Adam Gall in severall of his appearances gave evidence of his grief for his irregular marriage did appoint him to appear publickly and to be rebuked, and also appointed his wife Liliash Crookshank, a papist, to be rebuked publickly."

January 5.—"Collection for Algiers prisoners, £8 13s."

February 2.—The Session grant the Trades the liberty of erecting a large loft in the west end of the church.

February 9.—“Alexander Forsyth and his son, glasiars, oblige themselves during life to keep the glasse windows of the church in good order for the yearly pension of £6 Sc.”

“The Session considering the condition of our poor it was unanimously resolved that the more robust and vigorous of them should be set to work for the use of the manufactory, which was accordingly done. The minister, after visitation of families, reported that several idle women of bad fame frequented the place, not having testimonials, and desired that they might be removed the town, which was done accordingly.”

Mark Maver and Margaret Chesser make public profession of their repentance for ante-nuptial fornication.

August 11.—“The Session, finding Helen Wright a notoriously impudent woman, did recommend it to the magistrates to expel her, which was accordingly done.”

September 7.—“Margaret Smith summoned pro 2^o, but compeared not, wherefor the magistrates gave order to apprehend and imprison her if she was found within the precincts of the town.” She was imprisoned within a few days, but liberated in October following, owing to her condition.

January 4.—“It was ordered that a common beir should be made for carrying the corps of poor people, least the box should be exhausted with expence in buying of dead chests to the prejudice of the living.”

“Alexander Abercromby of Glassach compears publicly before the congregation and before the session and is absolved.” He paid £40 Sc. to the poor for his scandalous conduct.

April 5.—“An act against pipers and promiscuous dancing was read and approven, and ordered to be intimate next Lord’s day.”

April 19.—Compeared Thomas Christie and Elizabeth Stewart. He would neither confess nor deny the charge she brought against him, but asked eight days to deliberate, whereupon he was committed to the tolbooth. He afterwards confessed. The Session found that she was almost an idiot, incapax disciplinae, and of very bad fame, and recommended the magistrates to banish her from the town.

May 17.—“An delation given in by some of the elders against some persons in the Seatown for drying and working about their fishes on the craigs on the Sabbath day to the neglect of the divine worship, it is appointed the principal person belonging to each boat in the Seatown be called next day." They accordingly appeared and engaged never to offend again.

March 14.—"It being feared Thomas Clapperton would turn fugitive he was by order of the magistrates secured in prison till he should find caution to appear and purge the scandal, he being a relapse."

May 9.—"The Dean of Gild and Conveener, members of the Session, were appointed to take up lists of all the poor idle children within the town that they might be disposed upon by their parents and Kirk Session to apply some lawfull calling."

June 6.—"The lists of the above-mentioned boys were brought in, and the Magistrates did undertake to dispose of them so as to prevent any disorders or abuses by them, especially on the Lord's day."

December 12.—"It was recommended to the Magistrates to take up lists of loose and vicious persons who haunted this place, that they might be expelled hence. The Session orders an intimation from publick of a penalty against persons staying or keeping at publick weddings after eight a'clock at night."

December 26.—"The Magistrates report that they had expelled Helen Murray the place by reason of severall complaints against her."

February 20.—"Intimation was made of a contribution for the releasing of John Thomson in Turreff from his bondage under the Turk [£27 3s. Sc. collected]. Burdsbank presented to the session an disposition to an desk in the church in his own and his son Patrick's favours, which was homologate by the Session."

March 26.—"Patrick Lesly [Sheriff-Clerk] appeared in a humble and submissive manner confessing his sin [with Jean Sim, servant to Burdsbank] and giving evidence of his repentance in publick at both his appearances, and was absolved."

April 16.—"The Session considering that several people vag about the sea craigs on the Sunday's afternoon, therfor its appointed that the members of Session who collect at the church doors respectively visit the said places and report."

May 7.—The Hammermen, Wrights, and Tailors petition the Session for liberty to erect a loft in the church "for hearing the word of God, which wee ingenuously own and profess to be preached in purity and sincerity in word and doctrine." The Earl of Findlater, patron, had granted his consent. The Magistrates, "out of a fatherly care and as loving Christian parents," marked out a site before the common loft and adjacent to the Shoemakers' loft. The petitioners ask the consent of the Session "to such a pious work, which will no ways impair the lights but add therto, and further decore the kirk." Granted.

May 14.—"It being delated in the Session that servants in the place frequent the Redwell at unseasonable hours its appointed that the members of Session as they have occasion admonish them, and list such as they find guilty of the like afterwards, that they may be punished."

September 24.—"It is appointed that all horrid swearers be rebuked before the Session pro 1^o, for the second time publickly before the congregation, and pro 3^o to appear in the publick place of repentance."

October 15.—"The minister exhorted all the members of Session in the fear of the Lord to be vigilant and circumspect, desiring them to watch least ther should be any enormities committed in time of divine service, or in the Sabbath's afternoons, by people's frequenting ale houses."

March 11.—"Intimation of weekly sermons to begin Tuesday next." The Lord Boyne pays up 1050 merks of the £1000 Sc. mortified by Bishop Sharp for the poor.

June 17.—"The Session considering that there are some distressed families in the Seatown thorow the loss of their husbands at sea, whose condition challenges relief, they therfor thought fit to write to Brecko, the heretor, to grant them some supply."

July 9.—“Two or three lads were delated for not observing the Sabbath, were censured, and rebuked, with certification if they were found vaging after sermons they would be punished.”

August 15.—“It was recommended to the Provest to cause search the Acts of Parliament relating to delinquents what corporal punishments may be inflicted upon those guilty of relapse and such in that circumstance as are not worth the King’s unlaw.”

September 2.—“The magistrates and elders gave in a report that Is. Christy and Jean Sim were two idle persons of no good fame, and accordingly it was recommended to the magistrates to remove them.”

January 6.—“Collected for building a bridge on Dee water, £7 Sc.”

January 21.—“It was thought fit that the £250, being part of Bp. Sharp’s mortification ly dry, waiting the purchase of some peice of land and not given out upon interest.”

May 12.—“Masters of families were publickly inhibited to receive servants without testificates, and such as wanted were warned to provide.”

August 11.—The exposer of a foundling is unknown. The case referred to the Presbytery. Marjory Gray delated as guilty with Lord Banff. He denies. The case referred to the Presbytery. The Presbytery find Lord Banff incapax disciplinae.

November 24.—“Lord Banff being to take his place in Parliament the Session grant him a certificate that he was never under any process or sentence of excommunication by this kirk.”

January 26.—“The Session, considering that abuses may be committed in taverns after sermon, and that the Sabbath is much dishonoured by the gading and vaging of people thereon, do therefore appoynt that the several members of Session who collect shall in their severall vices go through the town and visit that there be no abuses committed in the said houses, and list such as they find drinking or indecently employed.”

April 11.—“The said day there was an Act made against bringing dogs to church.”

VII. JAMES INNES (1716-53) was licensed by the Presbytery of Strathbogie, May, 1709, and ordained by them the same day as chaplain to the Marquis of Tullibardine's regiment. He married, 8th October, 1723, Jean Brodie. Their family were Joseph, Margaret, Anne, Patrick, George, Katharine, Alexander, James, and Barbara. He died, 5th September, 1753, in the 45th year of his ministry.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PRESBYTERY RECORDS DURING THE MINISTRY
OF JAMES INNES (1716-1753).

October 15.—At the request of the Magistrates and Town Council of Banff, the Earl of Findlater gives a presentation to Mr. James Innes, minister to Sir James Wood's Regiment in Mastricht, to be minister of Banff. The Presbytery desire the Magistrates and Heritors to give in a concurring call with the Earl of Findlater's presentation.

November 13.—Mr. Davidson does not compear, but the Presbytery delay his deposition till next meeting.

December 4.—“Mr. Innes admitted at Banff with cordiality. Mr. Davidson deposed—intimation thereof to be made from the pulpit of Banff, and the magistrates and others intreated to use diligence towards the speedy planting of that post with a qualified schoolmaster, conforme to law."

April 9.—Appretiation of Manse of Banff:—Timber work, £235 17s. 4d.; glass, £15 12s.; iron, £46 11s.; mason, £615 14s. 4d.; plaister, £12; thatch, £80 6s. 8d.—total, £1006 1s. 4d. Sc. [8 foot of glass in the hall window, 32s.; 3 windows in laigh chamber, £4; 11 ft. in kitchen, £2; room above giral-house, £1; three rooms above the hall, together with the chamber and cellar, their windows, £6.] Walls of the mansion house, 6 roods at £36 per rood; 174½ foot hewn work at 4s. per foot; stone wall of the gate and brew-house, £45; barn, stable, and coal-house, 2 roods 12 ells, £70; cow-byre, ½ rood, £12; dwelling-house, for thatch and divot, £23; barn and stable, for thatch and divot, £21; kitchen and chamber above victual-house, for do., £13; brew-house, £8, &c.

December 16.—Anent Mr. Gold, the Presbytery this day received a letter from the Magistrates of Inverness bearing that they had obliged him to get bail that he should appear this day before the Presbytery. He accordingly appeared, and is appointed to take the oath of purgation before the congregation of Banff next Lord's day.

1719.

January 27.—The Moderator writes to the Magistrates of Inverness to oblige Mr. Gould to return to the bounds to purge himself of the scandal, Mr. Gould not having obeyed the Presbytery's appointment.

July 28.—There was no Presbytery exercise, Mr. Innes having been obliged for his health to be at the well of Peterhead for some weeks. No return from the Magistrates of Inverness, the Presbytery judging the disorder that place has been in of late might be the reason.

August 25.—Mr. George Reid, schoolmaster at Banff, subscribes the Confession of Faith and the Formula. Mr. Gould being obliged by the Magistrates of Inverness to come to Banff to purge himself of the scandal laid to his charge, came and purged himself thereof by oath the last Lord's day. The Presbytery appoint Mr. Innes to apply to the Civil Magistrate that they may oblige William Brodie to compear before the church judicatories.

November 18.—Mr. Innes admonished to be more punctual in attending the Presbytery for the future.

February 2.—“Mr. Innes reports that he applied to John Fordice of Gask, a Justice of Peace, in order to his imprisoning William Brodie till he should set bail to answer to the judicatories of the church, and that Gask told him he could do nothing in that matter at present for want of constables, but how soon they were got he was ready to go in with what he desired.”

1721.

“Anent Brodie, Mr. Innes reports that the Justices of the Peace have not as yet caused committ him to prison, wherefore Mr. Innes is appointed to renew his application.”

1722.

March 13.—Brodie compears.

January 16.—Mr. Innes reports that he has declared Brodie contumacious from the pulpit of Banff. The Presbytery appoints Mr. Innes to proceed against Brodie in the several other steps of discipline.

July 24.—“The Presbytery having discoursed Mr. Innes, minister at Bamff, anent the Synodical appoyntment on him, to have weekly sermons in that Royal burgh, was well satisfied therewith, and said he would set about it very shortly.”

September 5.—“Visitation att Bamff. The minister declared he was well satisfied with such of his people as was his ordinary hearers, and that they did duly attend the ordinances and submit to discipline, but that it was known to the Presbytery that severall of his people did withdraw from publick ordinances dispenced by him and frequented a Jacobite meeting house of late in the town, but that the Magistrates and Town Councill duely attended the ordinances dispensed in the church, and were ready when desyred to strengthen his hands in the exercise of discipline. He also reported that he had a competent number of elders, that he had a church bible, communion cups, table cloath and bason, but that the fabrick of the kirk needed reparation. Being also enquired out of what fund he furnished the communion elements, answered that having no allowance therefor, it was taken out of the poor's money, which the presbytery considering were dissatisfied with the way of furnishing the communion elements, censured the minister for taking them out of the poor's money, and appointed him to provide them aliunde in all time coming. The Earl of Findlater to be spoken to anent the needfull reparations. The Session Register was appointed to be delivered to be revised."

January 8.—“As to the Session book Mr. Innes promises to cause his clerk make it ready. As to the weekly sermons he reports that his tenderness and other necessary business of his charge hath hindered his entring to them, but resolves to set about it.”

March 18.—“The Presbytery considering that Mr. Innes is frequently absent from presbyterial meetings without sending any letter of excuse, nor sending any account of his proceedings with several delinquents who have been before this presbytery, whereby our minuts become greatly confused, appoints a letter to be written to our brother, Mr. Innes, recommending it to him to be more punctual in time coming.”

April 28.—“The Session book of Banff is now filled up. Mr. Innes reports that George Barclay had openly confessed his trelapse and pretended to satisfy, for the scandal occasioned with Jean Stewart, before the non-juring meeting at Banff, but still declares that he'll not give satisfaction to the congregation of Banff.”

September 22.—“George Barclay, being asked as to his scandal with Jean Stewart, answered he had already acknowledged and publickly satisfied before the meeting of Banff, as would appear by a paper offered by him to the Presbytery which he called a declinator from this Presbytery, the tenor whereof follows:—‘I cannot submit myself to the Presbyterial discipline—1. Because I am not of their communion, and consequently neither ought nor can lawfully own their authority. 2. Seeing the power of the keys is solely inherent in the church, I cannot apprehend how those who are in separation from the Catholick Church can have any privilege of binding and looseing. 3. And seeing I have satisfied the discipline of the church and obtained the benefite of absolution, it would appear to be a mockeing and sporting with religion to submitt myself anew to schismaticall discipline, seeing by my doeing so I would act contrary to the dictates of my own conscience and thereby involve myself in a new guilt. 4. The desire seems to be inconsistent with their own acts, which preclude any process for a crime latent for five years. 5. The thing seems to proceed from malice, seeing no such crime was objected when the benefite of marriage was to me indulged. Sic subscribitur, Geo. Barclay.’ The Presbytery after reading the said paper found it to be an open declaration of his contumacy and insolent defiance and contempt of the church by law establish’d, and accordingly told him they would have no regard to the said paper, but would forthwith proceed against him with the highest censures of the church, in order to which they appointed Mr. Innes to proceed in giving him the first admonition preempторic.”

May 24.—Mr. Innes having given George Barclay the third admonition is appointed to proceed to prayer.

July 27.—“Mr. Innes reports that he has not proceeded further against George Barclay by reason of the great number of disaffected people in the place who are ready to make an handle of his excommunication for bafing our discipline and laying a snare before the well-affected. Mr. Innes is instructed to give a full narrative of the presbytery’s proceedings from the pulpit, and to intimate that he is left under church censure, and so debarred from sealing ordinances, and there sist for sometime.”

August 16.—The presbytery agree upon 100 merks as the quota for communion elements for Banff, to be obtained from the heritors.

September 20.—The presbytery resolve to advise with the Synod about the affair of George Barclay.

November 8.—The Synod advise that the presbytery write the Commission or Assembly.

June.—Mr. Morison, Minister of Deskford, reported it was the opinion of ministers with whom he advised the affair of George Barclay, that they proceed against him with the highest censures of the church. The presbytery delay this for some time.

1729.

January 28.—The presbytery concur with Mr. Innes in commencing a process of augmentation of his stipend, that because of the greatness of his charge he may be thereby enabled to maintain an assistant.

1737.

August 17.—Mr. Innes being called to the bar for his frequent absences, excused himself by the indisposition of himself and his family. His excuse sustained. In 1740 he was again called to the bar. His excuse similar.

July 31.—“Mr. Innes represents that the fabrick of the church of Banff is in a ruinous way in one of its gavils and wants glass in several windows and calls for speedy reparation.”

August 31.—“Visitation of the Kirk of Banff. Mr. George Robertson, schoolmaster at Banff, appointed clerk p.t. Estimate by workmen for necessary reparation to the church :—mason work, £505 18s. Sc. ; wright and glazier, £100 4s. ; sclater, for pointing the whole church, £35 17s.—total, £641 19s. Sc. for repairing the east gavel, for pointing, wright, glass, and iron work of the windows. Lord Deskford and Lord Bracco are very earnestly recommended to advance £100 Sc. presently needful.

September 20.—“The workmen report that the west gavel and bellhouse annexed needed reparation, and that the said bellhouse might stand some short time. The west gavel could not be repair'd without taking down said bellhouse or at least some good part, as it was close annexed to the gavel. The bellhouse is represented to be the town of Banff's property. The workmen report that £11 3s. 4d. stg. will be necessary for repairing the kirkyard dykes, which sum is accordingly decerned for.”

December 20.—“No report from the workmen, the minister of Banff and Baillie Bartlett (who represented the Town Council) having forbid them, and Baillie Bartlett having added that the township of Banff was next summer to proceed to the reparation of the steeple themselves.” Proceedings delayed.

February 7.—“Anent reparation of the kirk of Banff the presbytery thought proper to postpone further proceedings with respect to the steeple and west gavel, especially as the Magistrates claimed a property in the bellhouse, but with the advice of the procurator of the church decerned with regard to the other necessary reparations.”

March 21.—“The presbytery find that the sum of £814 15s. Sc. will be necessary for reparations of the kirk of Banff and kirkyard dykes, &c. This sum is divided according to the proportion of cess paid last year by the toun of Banff and landward heritors of said parish. The cess of the toun of Banff last year being £471 12s., is affected with the sum of £519 7s., and the whole landward heritors, their whole valuation being £2313 Sc., and paying of cess last year £268 4s. 9d., are affected with £295 8s. County heritors with their valuations :—Culbirnie and Lochagan, £189 6s. ; Sandihills, £440 ; Blairshinach, £332 7s. 4d. ; Colenard, £450 ; Inchdrower, £175 ; Ord, £263 6s. 3d. ; Hilton, £70 ; Redstack and Mill of Boyndie, £80 ; Garrieslot, £83 ; Boghead, £70 ; Bachley, £160.”

OF JAMES INNES (1716-1753).

[July 15.—“The magistrates ordered a collection to be intimat to be gathered through the church for the bridge of Fyvie.” (£4 collected.)]

December 30.—“John Gregor cited for going with his yoked horse through the country on the Sabbath day. He confessed he was at Aberdeen and there being no meat for his horse on the road he was pressing to be at home. He confessed his fault and promised to walk more circumspectly in time coming. He was rebuked and assolzied.”

January 27.—“It was recommended to the magistrates to mind the constables to take notice of servants and idle people that went vaging on the streets on the Sabbath day.”

September 22.—“Collected for the bridge of Keith, by appointment of the Justices of Peace, £6 10s.

November 7.—“The thesaurer ordered to buy a new cloath for the pulpit and to cause cast anew the bason used att baptism. A receipt given for the four cups to Mr. Hunter, late minister.”

1719.

It is ordered that John Gregor's wife's chair be set where it was formerly.

May 24.—“ Paul Keith, musick master, having composed a new tune to be sung in church, and it being intimat to the session, they order him a guinea from the treasurer.”

June 25.—The session grant the petition of the Weavers (see I. 191).

November 1.—The magistrates make a present of a silk fringe for the pulpit.

March 17.—“ The minister proposed that measures may be concerted for the reparation of the church.”

1722.

“ Alexander Lovie, in Seatoun, delated as guilty of brewing on the Lord's day. He owned his wife brewed on Saturday and let the kettle stand till Sunday's morning, but denied that they had brewing or any sort of work that day. Alexander Clark declared he saw the kettle boiling on the fire on Sunday. The session rebuked Lovie and dismissed him with this certification—that if any such thing were practised by him in time coming he might lay his account to stand before the congregation for it.”

1724.

June 9.—Robert Lauder of Rosecraig mortified £21 stg. to the poor of Banff.

1725.

[About this period for ordinary cases of fornication* the parties “compeared on the pillory” three times before the congregation and were then dismissed.]

1746.

April 23 (Wednesday).—Fast by order of the Synod. Text—Psalm cxxvi. 1, 2, 3.

June 26 (Thursday).—Fast by order of the Assembly. Text—Psalm lxiv. 9-10.

November 5 (Wednesday).—Fast by Royal Authority. Text—Psalm xlv. 9.

[No references to the rebellion appear in the minutes further than is implied in the foregoing.]

* The number of cases referred to in the Kirk Session Minutes, which were probably almost all that occurred, were, for each of the eighteen years, 1699-1716:—1, 5, 6, 7, 12, 3, 7, 7, 7, 9, 4, 4, 5, 5, 8, 4, 5, 1, being an average of about $5\frac{1}{2}$ per annum. For the eighteen years, 1745-1762, excluding cases of ante-nuptial fornication and including two cases of adultery, the numbers were:—1, 3, 1, 0, 1, 4, 3, 3, 4, 6, 1, 4, 4, 2, 3, 5, 1, 4, 8, 2, giving an average of 3 cases per annum. For the eighteen years, 1815-1832, the cases numbered:—9, 10, 11, 16, 13, 12, 17, 11, 13, 15, 10, 14, 16, 18, 6, 13, 15, 8, giving an average of about $12\frac{1}{2}$ per annum. The cases for 1869-1886 numbered 18, 18, 16, 8, 14, 10, 5, 6, 4, 16, 7, 6, 1, 4, 1, 3, 0, 2, giving an average of about 8 per annum. Except in the first series, many cases would fail to be referred to, the parties belonging to other congregations. In making a comparison the increase of population must be taken into account. To say the least, the figures for modern times do not show improvement.

February 17.—Fast by Royal proclamation. Text—Zech. vii. 4, 5, and 8, 9, 10.

February 28.—Intimation was made this day by the minister that he was to visit every Wednesday, and examine every Thursday, till he got through the whole parish.

May 1.—Collected for S.P.C.K. £28 Scots.

On Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the Communion the minister held two diets in the church for exhortation, prayer, and distribution of tokens (the fast day being, as usual, on Thursday). Similar diets were held on Tuesday and Wednesday of the preceding week in the country part of the parish.

September 9.—William Allan, Kirk Treasurer, resigns after thirty years' service.

April 25 (Tuesday).—Thanksgiving by Royal proclamation for the peace. Text—Psalm lxiv. 8-9.

March 25.—“Read this day, in the hearing of the congregation, an Act of King William and Queen Mary for preventing of child murder.”

May 8.—The Session resolve that “next go-harvest” they build a dyke, “not a drye stone dyke, but of stone and clay,” to enclose Lovie's croft, belonging to the Session, on the west side of the burgh. Dr. Saunders' park on the west was considered a sufficient fence there.

[About this period there was sermon, forenoon and afternoon, throughout the whole year. The Communion was dispensed once a year, usually in July.]

August.—Collected at the Communion season £74 os. 6d.

August 6.—List of the poor made out by order of Mr. Robert Pringle, Sheriff-Depute, 28 in the town and 10 in the country (29 women and 9 men). Mortifications in the hands of the Kirk Session amount to £2258 Sc., the interest of which is £112 18s.; rent of Sickhouse and Lovie's croft is £26 15s.; collections at a crown per day, about £156; total annual funds, £295 13s., less clerk's and officer's fees, &c., £118 13s. 4d., thus remaining for the poor, £176 19s. 8d.

August 30.—Meeting of Kirk Session, Magistrates, and Heritors, to make provision for the poor and to restrain beggars and vagrants from travelling. £24 sterling will be required yearly to support the poor in the town, and £8 sterling for the poor in the country. The Session agree to contribute thereto £8 6s. 8d. yearly, the balance to be stented one-half on heritage and the other on householders.

New style adopted in terms of the Act of Parliament, the third day of September O.S. becoming the fourteenth N.S.

VIII. ROBERT TRAIL, D.D., was ordained 1746, translated from Kettins, presented by James, Earl of Findlater, and admitted 20th December, 1753. He had the degree of D.D. from the University of St. Andrews 18th February, 1760, was translated to the Professorship of Divinity in the University of Glasgow 16th October, 1761, and died 17th October, 1775. In 1747 he married Christian Thompson.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PRESBYTERY RECORDS DURING THE MINISTRY
OF DR. TRAIL (1753-1761).

January 30.—Mr. Trail represents that his manse, office houses, and yard dykes stand in need of repair.

February 14.—The workmen bring in estimates amounting to £110 Stg. as absolutely necessary to accomplish said repairs, and building a new stable. On the motion of Mr. Trail, the Presbytery agree to delay passing decret in hopes of an amicable settlement.

October 17.—Excambion proposed by the Rt. Hon. the Lord Braco and the Hon. James Duff of Braco, and concurred in by the Presbytery. For the present glebe and the Kirk Session's ground adjoining are to be given lands of equal quality to the extent of these grounds and a half more, and to be enclosed, at Braco's expense, by a stone dyke forty inches high where the lands are bounded by other inclosures, and four feet high where they are not, and with two gang of feal on the top of all these dykes. The excambion is for the convenience of the policy of Duff House. The new glebe will be more valuable and commodious as nearer to the town of Banff, and to the minister's manse; and on the present glebe Braco is to lay all the cess and public burdens that may at any time affect the new glebe. Boundaries of the old glebe: On the south, partly by the park of Sandyhills, and partly by the Poor's Rig; on the east, by the Daw Haugh; on the north, by the lands of the Bearside; and on the west, by the King's high road leading from Sandyhills to the burgh of Banff. Extent, 4 acres 3 roods 4 ells. Boundaries of the new glebe: It extends to 7 acres 20 falls, and lies on the north of the Garrieslot; on the east, by the high road leading to the burgh, on the south partly by houses and lands belonging to the said James Duff, partly by a garden belonging to Robert Davie, shoemaker in Banff, and partly by lands belonging to Bailie George Garden until it reach the road going from the town of Banff to Blairshinnoch, and thereafter by other lands belonging to the said James Duff, and on the west by a piece of land of sixteen falls given off by the said James Duff to the Kirk Session of the parish of Banff for behoof of the poor, and on the north by lands belonging to Patrick Lawson, son to the deceased James Lawson, merchant, Banff.

October 2.—Rev. Dr. Robert Trail's translation from Banff to be Professor of Divinity in Glasgow intimated.

October 16.—The Kirk Session of Banff give in to the Presbytery reasons against the desired transportation. The Town Clerk gives in answers to the said reasons. Mr. Trail being heard, the Presbytery transport the said Dr. Trail from his said charge to the office of Professor of Divinity.

EXTRACTS FROM KIRK SESSION MINUTES DURING THE MINISTRY
OF DR. ROBERT TRAIL (1753-1761).

1753.

January 5.—William Leslie, of Melrose, in name of John Ramsay, merchant in Christiansand, pays to the session £3103 13s. 4d. Sc., being the contents of three bonds granted by the deceased Sir Alexander Reid of Barra, with interest for $3\frac{1}{2}$ years. Thereafter £3000 in three separate sums is settled in the hands of Lords Banff, Braco, and Deskford at five per cent.

January 5.—John Fordyce, linen manufacturer in Banff, petitions “that he might be indulged so far as to make only one appearance on the pillory, and, in consideration thereof, would give in to the poor’s box a crown extraordinary.” The session, considering his previous good character, grant the petition. The woman appeared three times on the pillory, being the usual number.

February 17.—“The session thinking it proper that regular pews should be put up in the body of the kirk in place of the stools and chairs, desired the minister to speak to the heritors, and to endeavour to obtain their consent to the session’s erecting seats, at their own charge, and to receive the rent of the same for the behoof of the poor.”

September 8.—Lord Deskford, in charity to the poor, pays up the bill for £12 granted in 1730 to the session by John Ogilvie, merchant, who was unable to repay the debt, but delivered to the session a silver hilt of a sword and a gold ring and hanger. The ring and hanger were disposed of for $2\frac{1}{2}$ guineas and the silver hilt of the sword for £4.

February 2.—Collected for some widows and orphans in the Seatown of Cullen, by recommendation of the Presbytery, £4 stg.

April 27.—The seats erected in the body of the church have been set at 3s. 4d. each per annum, amounting in all to £44 Sc. Account of George Harrower, wright, for erecting the pews, £15 14s. 7d.

July 13.—Given to Hugh Graham, sufferer by fire in Killin, Perthshire, 5s.

July 28.—Collected at the Communion season £109 5s. Sc.

February 6 (Friday).—Fast by Royal proclamation. Text—Prov. xiv. 34.

April 11.—Collected for a College in New Jersey, by recommendation of the General Assembly, £3 3s. stg.

July 22 (Thursday).—Fast by appointment of the General Assembly. Text—Psalm lxxvi. 10.

November 28.—Collected for some poor people in the fisher town of Finnachtie £3 stg.

February 10 (Thursday).—Fast by Royal proclamation. Text—Psalm cxxii. 6-9.

April 3.—The poor being “at present in great streights on account of the dearth and scarcity of meal” the session purchase meal for the poor with the money lying in the box, £2 18s. 6d.

February 16 (Thursday).—Fast by Royal proclamation. Text—Eccles. ix. 11.

[Collections now begin to be recorded in sterling money.]

November 6.—The session give 20s. towards completing the building of the Charity Schoolhouse at Portsoy.

November 16 (Thursday).—Thanksgiving day by Royal authority.

February 15 (Thursday).—Fast by Royal proclamation. Psalm xxxvi. 6, 7, 8.

November 29 (Thursday).—Thanksgiving by Royal proclamation for the signal success that has attended His Majesty's arms and for the plentiful season. Text—Psalm cvii. 22.

March 13.—Fast by Royal proclamation.

1761.

February 12.—Fast by Royal proclamation. Text—Prov. xvi. 12.

March 1.—Collected for the distressed clergy in Pennsylvania, by recommendation of the General Assembly, £4 12s. 6d.

March 22.—The Session give 20s. "for the relief of Mr. Mathison, late preacher of the gospel, now disordered in his judgment and an object of charity."

October 6.—There being a process of translation carrying on for removing Dr. Robert Trail, minister of Banff, to be Professor of Divinity in the University of Glasgow, the Kirk Session give in reasons to the Presbytery against said translation. They represent (1) that Banff being a Royal Burgh, a minister ought to be removed from it with reasons of more weight than in the case of a country parish; (2) that two noble families have their residence within this town; (3) the parish of Banff is very populous, and consists of persons of very different ranks and stations. There is also an Episcopal qualified meeting in the town. For these and other reasons their present minister, a man of known prudence and abilities, should be continued among them. (4) Mr. Trail is exceptionally acceptable to the parishioners.

October 25.—The church declared vacant.

IX. ANDREW SKENE was translated from Keith, presented by James, Earl of Findlater and Seafield, 17th December, 1761, and admitted 27th April thereafter. A new church was built in 1790. In addition to his official profession he was distinguished by great medical knowledge, which gave him much gratuitous practice. He published a Catechism, also a "Serious Address to the People on Infectious Fever." He married Anne, daughter of Provost Innes of Banff. He died at Bath, whither he had gone for his health, on 2nd December, 1792, in the 39th year of his ministry, and was there buried. She died 2nd September, 1820, in the 93rd year of her age (Fasti).

EXTRACTS FROM THE PRESBYTERY RECORDS DURING THE MINISTRY
OF ANDREW SKENE (1762-1792).

1761.

December 23.—Presentation given in to Mr. Andrew Skene, minister of Keith, to the vacant kirk of Banff.

October 31.—Visitation at Banff. Mr. Skene produced a decret of augmentation and locality obtained by Mr. James Innes in the year 1732, from which it appears that there is payable by the Earl of Findlater, patron, 22 bolls 1 firloft 2 pk. 1½ lippies of bear, 18 b. 1 pk. meal, and £157 17s. 5d. Sc. money; by the Earl of Fife 14 b. 1 f. 3 pks. 3½ l. bear, 8 b. 1 f. 3 pks. 2 l. meal, together with £132 10s. 7d. Sc.; by Lord Banff 9 b. 1 f. 3 pks. 2 l. meal, and £130 10s. Sc.; by the town of Banff for the community £19 Sc., by the Corporation of Shoemakers for their lands 3 bolls of bear, by Mr. Russel for his lands 2 b. 1 f. 2 pks. and 2 l. bear, by Mr. Garden for his lands 2 firlofts bear, by the Kirk Session for Lovie's Croft, belonging to the poor, 2 fir. bear, by Provost Duff, Whitehill, for his lands £13 18s. 6d. Sc., by Mr. Lawson for his lands £5 9s. 6d. Sc., by Robert Davie for his lands 2 firlofts 2 pks. and 1 l. bear, by James Goodall 1 pk. bear, by the town of Banff as interest of mortified money £61 13s. 4d. Sc. N.B.—Mr. Skene omitted reporting that there is payable by Mr. Garden, besides bear, 10s. 10d. Sc., and by the Kirk Session for Lovie's Croft 3s. 2d. Sc. The whole bear payable by the heritors amounts to 44 bolls, the meal to 36 bolls, and the money £521 13s. 4d. Sc. Communion element money is included in the above. The small tithe is likewise payable to the minister, and the parish have been in the custom of leading his peats. The Presbytery next perambulated the glebe, the whole of which they find enclosed with a stone dyke, and exactly marched and methed except a small part lying to the west of the above mentioned enclosed part, and which is not enclosed, but is bounded on the east by the high road leading to the town of Banff, on the west by the Gallow Hill, &c. The Presbytery appointed Mr. Skene to apply to Lord Fife to carry out the agreement as to the dykes. The Presbytery meeting occasionally in the church of Banff and finding that there were neither steeple nor bells belonging to the church, desire the minister to enquire into the reason of this and to report.

May 8.—Mr. Skene is appointed to write to "the Earl of Fife" to have the glebe enclosed according to agreement.

1768.

"Mr. Skene promises to speak with Earl Fife when he returns to the countrie."

1777.

March 5.—Letter from the magistrates of Banff craving that the Presbytery would appoint a quorum to visit the Grammar School of Banff, which might have a tendency to promote the education of the youth in that place. The presbytery much approved of the magistrates' desire and appointed a quorum for this purpose.

April 2.—“The visitors of the school of Banff report that said school was visited, and that the master and scholars behav'd and acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of all present. Mr. Andrew Skene, minister of Banff, represents that the fabrick of the Kirk of Banff is in very bad repair, that the parishioners cannot be accommodated as it presently stands, and therefore craves that the presbytery would hold a visitation of said kirk.” Granted.

June 11.—Visitation of church of Banff. “Mr. Robert Alves, School-master, clerk, p.t. No magistrates, heritors, &c., present. The Kirk Session and some inhabitants present. While the workmen were making up their report, the session of Banff being interrogate how the parishioners of town and country were accommodated in seats in the present church, who answered that to their certain knowledge a great many families and persons were intirely destitute of proper accommodation. Report of tradesmen: Found the area of the church within walls 94 ft. 3 in. long and 24 feet 8 in. wide, the aisle on the south side 12 ft. 4 in. long and 12 ft. broad and 16 feet high on the side walls. Only the west gavel can be called good and sufficient. The east gavel, from the rents appearing on both sides, seems to be in a frail condition, and threatens much to be soon in ruins. The most part of both side walls in a shattered condition, hanging both over their foundations outward, and in many places the outside parting from the inside, the most of the cement of the lime in the walls being intirely rotten; consequently, these walls can be of short duration in supporting any weight. Report of the Wrights: Find all the sarkin and greatest number of all the couples intirely rotten and quite insufficient. As to the doors and windows, with a little repair they may stand a while as they are, but, if they were applied to any new building, would prove quite insufficient. The pulpit we look upon as insufficient also. Report of Sclaters: By the general sipe of the slating, there is no mending of the slating without tiring the slates, and sclating the same anew. Iron work of doors and windows insufficient, except two doors. Report of Glasier: ‘I, George Forsyth, find the windows of said kirk to be in an old, infirm, and shattered condition.’ Lord Fife writes to the Presbytery craving delay. It is well known that repeated applications had been made for several years past to the heritors without any effect, and, as it appears there is the greatest need for a speedy repairing the kirk of Banff, therefore the Presbytery will take legal measures, unless the heritors meet and agree among themselves."

July 16.—The heritors are taking the opinion of Counsel, and, therefore, crave further delay. The Presbytery delay till 20th August.

Extract of Decreet of Presbytery for the Building of the Parish Church of Banff:—Banff, 1778, April 1.—The plan of a church lately built at Dundee is submitted to the heritors and approved of as the plan for the new church of Banff. The heritors unanimously found "that the present church of Banff is in a ruinous condition, and that not only a new church ought to be built, but likewise that the stance of the present church ought to be left for burying-ground, and a new church built upon another spot." The upper or north-west corner of the land called Fillicap is selected as a site for the church. Population of town and country district thought now to be about 3500. The Presbytery ordain a new church to be built. Heritors' proportion of costs: Town of Banff, £1456; Lord Fife, £364; Lord Seafield, £308; Sir George Abercromby, £172—total, £2300. Delays however occurred, and in 1780 the Presbytery threatened to apply to the Court of Session to compel the heritors to proceed with the work. At a meeting of the Magistrates and Kirk Session on 19th February, 1785, it was found that the whole seats on the north side of the old church, from the east gavel to the Trades' loft, were quite covered with snow, and also that a good deal of snow was lying upon the seats in the middle of the church from the ruinous state of the roof. The new church was built in 1789-90, the spire being subsequently added. The church is seated for 1500 persons, and is 80 feet in length by 50 feet in breadth. The old church, except Lord Banff's aisle, was taken down in 1797. On the walls of the old church were painted the ten commandments and the Lord's prayer.

November 29.—Mr. Skene reports that nothing has been done as yet, and therefore craves a memorial be drawn up of the whole affair, to be sent to the Procurator for the Church, and to be laid before the Court of Session.

EXTRACTS FROM KIRK SESSION MINUTES DURING THE MINISTRY
OF ANDREW SKENE (1762-1792).

1762.

May 2.—Utensils belonging to the church : four silver communion cups, communion table cloths, two napkins, mourning cloth for pulpit and desk, communion table and forms, two brass plates for collections.

June 27.—“It having been intimated that such as proposed to communicate at Boyndie on the ensuing occasion at that place should attend and receive tokens, many attended and received tokens.”

October 10.—Collected for the widows and orphans of a boat's crew belonging to Sandhaven, lately lost at sea, £4 17s. 2d.

May 5.—Thanksgiving day, by Royal proclamation, for the peace, &c. Text—Psalm iv. 5.

September 25.—Paid for “a coffin for Alexander Cobban 7s. 6d., as the coffin was extraordinarily large on account of the poor man's body being swoln, and 3s. 6d. for four yards linnen for a winding sheet.”

Weekly collections from 17th October, 1762, to 30th October, 1763, amount to £34.

March 25.—Dr. Strachan's deed of mortification recorded in the Session Minutes (Cf. Vol. I., p. 295, note).

November 18.—The Session order 3s. for William Shaw, farmer, near Inveresk, a great sufferer by fire.

February 10.—The Session give 10s. to Robert Thomson, master of the English School, to assist in paying the funeral charges of his wife, he being in indigent circumstances.

October 28.—“The elders represented the inconvenience they suffered by being exposed to the cold in standing without the church while collecting for the poor. This being taken into consideration it was thought proper to have boxes erected in which they might stand, and by which they would be screened from the inclemency of the weather, and that this be done out of the Kirk Session’s funds.” [The boxes cost £3 16s. 9½d.]

April 13.—Margaret Smith in Whitefield, Forglen, confesses to the Session that she exposed a child on 5th curt. at the door of James Smith, workman in Banff.

May 7.—“The Session ordered 10s. for John Hendry in Inchdruer, who had lately lost his wife in childbearing, and who was so poor that he was obliged to sell his wife’s cloaths to bury her.” Besides the money given to the enrolled poor, money is from time to time given to those who apply or for whom application is made.

December 23.—“The Session having met to examine the halfpence in their possession, which had been laid aside as bad, found the sum of £2 7s., which they judged to be passable, and lodged them with the treasurer. They delivered also to the treasurer the sum of £3 13s. 6d. received from William Duffus, their late treasurer, as the amount of His Majesty’s tax upon births, marriages, and burials during the time that Mr. Duffus was in that office.”

December 29.—“The Session recommend to the minister to think of making a collection for the poor and to converse with the provost about it.”

The poor’s money is distributed quarterly.

February 4.—Given to an indigent traveller 2s.

April 1.—Received from Sir George Abercrombie for the poor £5 5s. Collected—September 2, 8s. 7d.; September 9, 8s. 7d.; given out 7s.; September 16, 7s. 6d.; given out 6s.; September 23, 8s. 11½d.; given out 4s.; September 30, 8s. 3¼d.

October 14.—The minister laid before the session a brief view of a plan for establishing a Charity School. (The brief view fills eight pages of the minute book.) It contains some views on the subject of education not unenlightened for that period, and thus begins:—“Experience clearly shews that it is of little purpose that children are taught merely to read and repeat the answers of a Catechism. The greatest profligates even among the poor commonly can do both these, but it is plain they neither understand what they read nor do they derive the least benefit from it.”

It is proposed to the magistrates, heritors, and inhabitants of Banff to settle a teacher with a salary of £20 per annum, who is to be bound to take under his care all the children of the poor in the town and parish who have learned to read English with ease, which they may do by the time they are about six years of age, that is to say, he is to employ one hour each day in giving instructions to the boys and one hour to the girls. Also, that they be taken to church on Sundays. Also, that he teach them church music. His text books to be "Practical Instructions for Children" and "The Servant's Friend," and the plain and practical parts of Scripture. "That as worthless parents in this land of liberty may refuse to send their children to be instructed or to be employed in work proper for them, the names of such parents and their refusal be published in the church on the Sabbath day that they may be cut off from receiving benefit from any public fund, and that the inhabitants may be warned to avoid their pernicious example." The teacher is to employ the rest of his time after the aforesaid two hours in teaching English and church music in the Burgh School, for which he shall receive additional payment. £400 is proposed to be raised (£100 from the inhabitants, £200 from the Kirk Session's money, sunk by consent of the heritors, and £100 from donations from the heritors, community, and corporations of Banff). It was also proposed that the Magistrates employ a proper person to keep the town constantly clear of foreign beggars, that he be paid a salary for his trouble, and be made answerable for every beggar who shall be found in the town, and that a total stop be put to begging in the town except by such as shall wear a badge. The Earl of Findlater contributed £40, the Earl of Fife £40, Lord Banff £15, and the Magistrates and Council £5. Lord Fife in expressing his approval of the Sunday School hoped "many of the parents would attend, for they knew as little good as their progeny."

The Kirk Session agree with the magistrates in offering a reward for the discovery of the unnatural mother of two children lately exposed.

In 17 pp. of the Session Minute book are recorded Deed and Settlement by Dr. George Chapman, Rector of the Grammar School of Banff, treasurer of the Kirk Session of Banff, of £400, the interest to be applied for paying a teacher of the poor children, also Act of Council, Copy of Bond, &c., connected therewith.

From 30th December, 1787, until 9th March, 1788, there was no sermon, as the church was in a ruinous state.

March 16.—The treasurer reported that he had received for seat rents in Mr. Burgess' Chapel (the Relief Church) the sum of £30, which was immediately put into the box. He likewise reports that there is still due by the Trades £7 5s., by Mr. Whittle 18s., and that there are still some seats to set in the Chapel.

April 24.—Dr. Chapman leaving the place, Mr. Pirie, preacher of the gospel, is appointed Treasurer.

June 1.—All neglecting to put their children's names into the parish register and paying the dues to the Session Clerk, and also the tax imposed by the Act of Parliament, are to be prosecuted, and for the failure the minister is not to baptize any child until he get a line from the Session Clerk certifying that the dues are paid. The Session appoint copies of this to be sent to the other clergymen residing in Banff, and hope that they will not baptize any children without a line from the Session Clerk.

September 7.—Collected £9 4s. 1d. for the behoof of the Charity School; September 14, 17s. 9½d.; September 21, 13s. 2½d.; September 28, 14s. 7d. Weekly collections, April 27 to November 30, £23 9s. 2¼d. By bad half-pence, £3 10s.

December 4.—Balance in favour of the treasurer, £53 14s. 3d. £50 is to be lent to the Town Council if they give 5 per cent. interest. The Session appoint the minister to converse with the magistrates about purchasing a proportion of the new church with the funds belonging to the Session. Account of funeral expenses of two women on the poor's roll: coffins, 6s. each; linen, 3s. 8d. each; Mr. Murray, 2s. each; the drum for both, 4d.; graves for both, 1s. 6d.

April 23, Thursday.—Day of thanksgiving for His Majesty's recovery. Collected 17s. 6½d.

May 6.—Rev. J. M'K., one of His Majesty's chaplains residing in Banff, confesses to a relapse, promises that the child shall not be burdensome to the parish, and sends £15 15s. for the use of the poor. On the Session representing to him that he had paid £10 10s. for his former trespass, and that the least he can now give is 20 guineas, he sends £5 5s. more.

November 26.—As the child committed to the charge of Alexander Millar is now a year old, and consequently the nursing of the said child at an end, the Session are of opinion that £5 a year is too much for the maintenance of the child. They therefore appoint the treasurer to make a new agreement with the said Alex. Millar.

The park called Lovie's Croft set in tack to James Cumming, gardener, for £6 18s. of yearly rent.

June Communion.—Collected Thursday, £2 1s. 4½d.; Saturday, £1 8s. 8½d.; Sunday, £8 4s. 6d.; Sunday afternoon, £1 2s. 8½d.; Monday, £1 5s. 8¾d.—Total, £14 3s.

August 22.—Mr. Brodie, M.P., gives £5 to the poor.

November 21.—£27—the amount of the penalties for the last two years. This money the Session consider as not at the disposal of the heritors.

October 30.—“The minister acquainted the Session that the managers of the fund for the Charity School having resolved this year to cloath the poor children, and finding difficulty to furnish them with candle and fire for the winter season, and in providing teachers for learning them to read, and likewise in purchasing books for them, they think it necessary to apply to the Kirk Session for such aids out of the penalties, which are entirely at the disposal of the Session, as they shall judge proper to give.” The Session approve.

Weekly collections in September: 19s. 8¼d., £1 2s. 2d., 18s. 4d., 18s. 2¾d., 16s. 9¾d.

December 16.—No sermon, being the first Sunday after the news of the death of Mr. Skene, the minister, who died at Bath upon the 2nd of December.

X. ABERCROMBY GORDON, A.M. (1793-1821), son of Mr. Harie Gordon, minister of Ardersier, had his degree from King's College in 1777, was licensed by the Presbytery 2nd August, 1780, and ordained by them 18th July, 1781, as missionary at Portsoy; presented to Banff by the Commissioner for James, Earl of Findlater and Seafield, in June and admitted in August, 1793. He died 12th March, 1821, in his 63rd year, and the 40th of his ministry. His kind and generous nature, joined to the amenity of his manners, endeared him to all with whom he was connected. He married, 23rd December, 1793, Janet, daughter of William Dunbar of Nether Buckie, who died May, 1824. Their family were Sarabella, died at Bath, 1857; William, died at London, aged 29, in consequence of a fall from his horse; Henry George, Governor and Chief Manager of the Oriental Bank, London; Rev. Abercromby Lockhart, Aberdeen, married to the daughter of Major Dunbar of Durn; Margaret, died at Newington, 1849; and Janet.

EXTRACTS FROM PRESBYTERY RECORDS DURING THE MINISTRY OF ABERCROMBY GORDON (1793-1821).

1794.

March 25.—Discourses prescribed for Mr. James Cordiner, son of the late Rev. Mr. Cordiner, Episcopal Chapel, Banff.

Report of Examination of Schools of Banff.—The Presbytery express their most unqualified approbation of the mode of teaching in the Academy, of the abilities and diligence of Dr. Cruickshank, &c., which testimony they appoint to be inserted in the newspapers.

May 11.—Mr. William Burgess, late minister of the Relief Congregation at Banff, makes application to be again received into the Church. The Presbytery receive him again into the Church.

1797.

April 5.—“The Presbytery having reason to believe that some objections would have been made to their examining the public school of Banff on account of there being no parochial salary established in that parish, appointed Mr. Gordon, minister of Banff, to make early application to the proper Court to obtain such salary and a parochial school. The Presbytery, having consulted the Procurator, appoint the minister of Banff edictally to cite the heritors, &c., to establish a parish schoolmaster and provide the legal accommodations in terms of Act of Parliament, 1696, c. 26.”

August 23.—Mr. James Cordiner, student of divinity, has lately been appointed to the Superintendency of an Asylum at Madras, and has left the country.

No parochial school is yet established at Banff. The presbytery appoint Mr. Gordon to apply to the civil judge for the interposition of his authority to compel Mr. Paterson, who has lately opened a public school in Banff, to give an account of that institution in terms of the Act of Parliament. Extract from the Act of General Assembly (1799):—“At the present time when men who avow their hostility to our ecclesiastical establishment and their contempt of all the rules which the wisdom of our ancestors framed upon the model of Scripture for the orderly dispensation of the Word and Sacraments, are traversing all the districts within the bounds of this church and attempting to alienate the minds of the people from their established teachers,” &c.

1800.

November 26.—The presbytery give their concurrence and offer of assistance to the minister of Banff in obtaining an Act of Parliament for liberty to feu his glebe.

1801.

May 6.—Report of Presbytery on schools, Banff:—“The public schools in this burgh have lately been joined together and established as an academy, under the care of a headmaster and three assistant teachers. The number of scholars is generally from 160 to 180. All the usual branches of education are taught. The salary of the headmaster is paid by the town. There is also a charity school attended by 25 to 30 scholars who are taught reading of English, the Assembly Catechism, and writing. The salary arises partly from the Parochial funds and partly from general subscription. There are several other private schools chiefly taught by females, of which it is unnecessary to give any particular account. The teachers in these schools are persons of decent, irreproachable character in all respects. In Banff there is one school lately established in the town which is generally supposed to be under the direction of a minister of the Church of Relief and partly supported by the contributions of one of the Missionary Societies. The schoolmaster has declined giving any satisfactory account of this school."

In Banff the minister has about 7 acres of arable land. No grass glebe nor compensation therefor.

1811.

April 1.—Mr. Gordon, minister of Banff, intimates to the Presbytery that he has raised a summons for augmentation of stipend. His present salary is 60 bolls bear, 52 bolls of meal, and £63 10s. 5½d. in money. He craves an augmentation of 8 chalders.

EXTRACTS FROM KIRK SESSION MINUTES DURING THE MINISTRY
OF ABERCROMBY GORDON (1793-1821).

1793.

June 16.—Intimation of presentation from the Earl of Findlater in favour of Rev. Mr. Abercromby Gordon, minister at Portsoy, to the vacant Church of Banff.*

November.—Collected for Aberdeen Infirmary £7 4s. 2½d.

Great difficulty is experienced in getting anyone to take the Session funds in loan at interest.

December 14.—The Session let for 7 or 11 years, at the tenant's option, the park lately possessed by Mr. Alex. Robinson, the rent to be £7, and the ground to be in sown grass for the last two years of the lease.

February 28.—A child, a few days old, left exposed at the door of the Manse.

March 16.—The Session, taking into consideration the great inconvenience of having no session house, appointed the Moderator to converse with the Magistrates about getting some small place erected for that purpose adjoining to the kirk.

May 29.—Mr. James Simpson, teacher in the Academy, is appointed treasurer in room of Mr. Pirie, now minister at Slains.

July 27.—Collected for the Charity School £7 17s. 6d.

February 26.—Miss Gordon of Buthlaw bequeaths £50 to the poor of Banff. The Session, on account of the very severe winter, resolve to lay out part of this money for purchasing meal and coals for the poor. Several soldiers in the South Fencibles and in the Hopeton Fencibles appear before the Session. The amount of Ann K.'s penalty was laid out in purchasing a quarto Bible for the use of the elders.

* Cf. Vol. 1. 308 and 342. "The burgh has always claimed the right of patronage to the parish church, but has never been able to show a title. It was, however, the practice of the Council to enter a protest at the settlement of every incumbent until the last settlement." (Report on Munic. Corp. Scot. c. 1835.) The practice was by no means so uniform as is here implied, and on no occasion was the burgh able to show a shadow of a right to the patronage. It was, in fact, a very absurd pretension. There is in the charter room of Cullen House a charter, of date 30th March, 1618, under the Great Seal to James, Lord Deskford, of the kirk lands of Banff and Inverboyndie, said charter also containing a right of presenting ministers to Banff and Inverboyndie. The patronage of Banff was disposed by James, Earl of Findlater, to the Laird of Boyne, 6th May, 1687; and the lands of Boyne, with right of patronage, &c., being purchased by James, Earl of Seafield, in 1709, the right reverted to this family.

March 8.—Collected £7 14s. 6d., being an extraordinary collection for purchasing meal for the poor.

[The Manse repaired at a cost of £250.]

July 3.—The minister and Mr. Skinner, minister of the Episcopal Chapel, each receive £5 from Mr. Brodie, M.P., for the benefit of the poor, 1797.

May 2.—The Sheriff-Substitute requests the assistance of the Session to investigate the affair of the body of a child being found some days ago near the confines of this parish. The Session resolve to co-operate. Mr. John Whyte, surgeon, and man mid-wife, is summoned to confer with the Session.

June 1.—The Session, with the concurrence and approbation of the magistrates, appoint Mr. James Donald, excise officer, to be precentor in room of Mr. Birnie, with the former salary, and, in consideration of Mr. Birnie's long services, agree to allow him annually the one-half of his salary, being £1 5s., and recommend him to the magistrates for the same allowance from them.

August 6.—The Session, considering the great benefit which their weekly collections for the poor have derived from the constant and liberal contributions of the 1st Batt. 4th Fencibles, agree to dispense with the usual penalties in the cases of Sergeant Napier and Duncan Anderson. Six other soldiers appeared before the Session this year. Next year some soldiers of the Argyleshire Fencibles similarly appear.

September 5.—Presentation in favour of Mr. Francis W. Grant, minister of Dallas, to be minister of Banff, given in. Presentation also submitted to the said Church of Banff in favour of Mr. John Ferrie, preacher of the gospel at Glasgow, signed by a person designing himself Sir William Ogilvie of Boyne, Baronet, Earl of Findlater, and Baron Banff, &c. The Presbytery unanimously sustain the presentation in favour of Mr. F. W. Grant, and reject the other. Protest taken on the part of Mr. John Ferrie. Answers to protest given in.—(Presbytery Records.)

Stipend augmented to 18 chalders, half meal and half barley.

EXTRACTS FROM KIRK SESSION MINUTES DURING THE MINISTRY
OF FRANCIS W. GRANT (1821-1843).

Elders:—John Pringle, James Frazer, James Nicol, Walter Biggar, William Leslie, William Johnston, George Taylor, Alexander Reid, and James Alexander; treasurer, William Bartlet; clerk, James Smith. The commission of Mr. Alexander Cameron, solicitor, as ruling elder for the burgh, by the casting vote of the moderator, is not sustained by reason of informality. Mr. Cameron appeals to the Presbytery. Weekly collections in September—£2 13s. 7½d.; £1 15s. 11d.; £2 14s. 3d.; £1 13s. 8d.

November 12.—Collected for the Pauper Lunatic Fund £11 5s. 6d.

November 23.—Intimation made from the pulpit that, in consequence of the church having recently, by public subscription, been put into a condition to be lighted up with gas, there would in future be public worship in the evening, commencing at six o'clock.

December 7.—Compeared D. R., and having paid a penalty and been suitably exhorted, he was dismissed from the discipline of the church. [Last case of such payment in these records.]

January 4.—Collection for erecting a Chapel of Ease (to be termed the Chapel of the Ord) in connection with the parishes of Banff and Boyndie.

February 1.—Monthly meetings of Session to be held henceforth on a week day instead of at uncertain intervals on Sabbath after the dismissal of the congregation.

February 4.—The Session have resolved to depart from the exaction of a penalty, in consequence of such having a tendency to lead to unscriptural and Papistical views in the minds of all those on whom the Session might have occasion to impose it.

In order to ascertain the real condition of the parish, and how far the means of instruction and education are accessible to the people, or adequate to the wants of the population, and what number of children of both sexes is attending school or incapable of doing so from poverty and other causes, it was suggested that the minister and elders should make a personal visitation to ascertain (1) the number of the inmates of each family, including servants and lodgers, specifying the number of children under sixteen years of age, distinguishing also those who are communicants, and especially the male heads of families in communion with the church; (2) the number having seats in the parish church and attending there or at other places of worship; (3) the number of children under sixteen years of age attending day schools and also Sabbath schools; (4) the number of children under sixteen years of age who are not at any school, and the cause or causes assigned for their non-attendance.

February 25.—On account of the present state of public affairs the Session defer consideration as to petitioning Government for the endowment of Chapels of Ease and the extension of church accommodation.

March 22.—Diets of catechising are to be held at various places of the parish during the course of this week.

April 15.—The Session understanding that some of the spirit dealers in this town are in the habit of selling spirits on the Sabbath to the great detriment of the morals of the people, and considering it their duty by every means in their power to stop so pernicious a practice, earnestly requested their moderator to communicate with the magistrates in reference to this evil, and also with reference to the number of licenses granted for selling spirituous liquors, a number which they conceive to be greatly more than what the public accommodation requires. ["There are 38 inns or shops licensed for the sale of ale and spirits, all within the liberties of the burgh." Statistical Account, 1836.]

May 5.—The magistrates readily agree to put a stop to the above pernicious and demoralizing custom, and issue a notice denouncing the evil and offering a reward to informers of transgressors.

October 9.—Dr. Duff, missionary to the East Indies in connection with the Church of Scotland, delivers an address on the state of religion in British India and on the success and prospects of the mission. £26 os. 3½d. collected.

November 2.—It is the unanimous opinion of the Session that it will be expedient to discontinue the afternoon service in the church, at least till the winter season is over.

Letter from the Presbytery regarding the institution of Parochial Associations to give more full effect to the Presbyterial Association which has lately been formed for the circulation of the Scriptures and the spread of the Gospel. The Session approve of the principle and defer consideration of this important matter.

May 9.—Letter from C. M., at present incarcerated in the jail of Banff, setting forth that he is in a state of complete destitution and requesting aid from the Kirk Session. The Session unanimously think that it would be inexpedient and improper in them, as a public body, to interfere in any respect in the matter.

June 1.—The Moderator intimated that he had received an anonymous letter, accompanied by a donation of four splendid silver gilt communion cups for the use of the Parish Church of Banff. He had acknowledged in the newspapers the kindness of the unknown but benevolent donor. Copy of the donor's letter:—"Matthew, chap. xxvi., v. 11—'The poor ye have always with you, but me ye have not always.'

Rev. Sir, a member and hearer of the Church of Christ humbly presents the accompanying gift of plate for the service of the Banff Church, of which you are the minister. The enclosed note is to defray the expenses of the carriage. Donations are often given to the poor, but a gift is seldom or ever thought of for the Lord's Table. To the Rev. F. W. Grant, Banff." [The donor was Mrs. Askill, widow of General Askill, of the E.I.C. Service, and daughter of Sir Robert Turing, who lived long at Banff Castle.]

Alexander Allister, church beadle, resigns on account of age and infirmities, and is allowed £5 yearly during his life, with the use of the house he occupies. His successor, John Kynoch, to receive £8 yearly, with perquisites.

July 6.—Mr. J. Brown, manufacturer, Banff, gives a donation of £10 for behoof of the poor, being part of his share of the funds of the Weavers' Incorporation, lately dissolved.

Collections in September, £1 16s. 7d. ; £3 19s. 1d. ; £3 2s. ; £4.

October 11.—Autumnal meeting of Synod of Aberdeen held in the Church of Banff.

Feus belonging to the Kirk Session disposed to Alexander Walker.

April 23.—Mr. Henry Balfour elected treasurer in room of Mr. Leslie, appointed to the Parish School of Longside.

May 18.—G. W., having become "furiously insane," was ordered by his physician to be removed to the Lunatic Asylum in Aberdeen. A collection had been made in the church for the Presbyterian Pauper Lunatic Fund, but G. W. could not be placed on that Fund. If the Magistrates got collections from the Episcopal, the Secession, and the Independent Chapels, the Kirk Session would raise sufficient additional to maintain him in the Asylum for one quarter, and, as he had already cost the Session £7, the Session unanimously thought it was beyond their authority and means to continue longer to contribute towards his maintenance at so serious a charge.

August 27.—The managers having threatened to remove G. W. from the Asylum unless his charge is paid, the Session advance £12 towards his maintenance, and resolved to circulate a subscription paper to recover as much as possible of the sum now advanced.

February 25.—Collected £10 for the Public Soup Kitchen, which, in consequence of the great and protracted inclemency of the weather, has recently been established in this town.

Average of the weekly collections in September, £3 15s. 10d.

December 5.—In connection with a circular letter from the Presbytery, and in order to succinctly exhibit the means which have been in active and beneficial operation for several years, and are still continued for the moral and religious improvement of this town and parish, the clerk was instructed to mention in the records:—(1) that a Sabbath School, which assembles in the church and continues for two hours each week, is carried on by six male and as many female teachers, under the immediate superintendence of the minister; (2) that Bible Classes for the benefit especially of pupils (male and female) who are more advanced in life, are taught by the minister and one of the elders on Sabbath as well as week days; (3) that there is a weekly prayer meeting for all such as choose to attend, held in the church vestry and presided over by one of the elders; (4) that a meeting takes place monthly in the church for prayer and religious intelligence, and that this meeting is presided over by the minister in person; (5) that a Parochial and also a Sabbath School Library have been established for several years, the expenses connected with which are defrayed by a small annual subscription; (6) that for six weeks immediately preceding the Communion, which is dispensed twice a year, viz., in May and November, the minister meets at the manse with young intending communicants at least once a week; (7) that while during the week the minister is accessible to all such of his congregation as wish to wait upon him, the evening of each Monday is especially set apart for the convenience and reception of those who may be desirous of conversing with him individually and in private; (8) that regular diets of catechising are annually held by the minister in the landward part of the parish, and that in the town he instructs from house to house as he is able and as circumstances will permit; (9) that there is an Association for the promotion of what is usually denominated the Assembly's Five Schemes, the subscribers composing which pay each according to their pleasure and ability a certain annual subscription, and that the attention of the congregation at large is drawn from time to time to these schemes by discourses delivered for the purpose from the pulpit.

January 1.—Public worship in the church on the evening of this day in accordance with a recommendation of the Presbytery of Fordyce. [Texts now begin to be regularly recorded.]

April 1.—John Pringle, Esq., Sheriff-Substitute, appointed ruling elder for the approaching General Assembly. Diets of catechising in June with the number present at each:—at Mill of Banff, 30; Inchdrewer, 33; Whiteouttie, 55; Hilton, 15; Blairshinnoch, 20; Cowdenknowes, 26.

September 10.—Dr. Chalmers delivers an address on the subject of Church Extension. £24 collected. In addition to this collection it was understood that subscriptions were obtained from various individuals connected with this town and neighbourhood to the amount of nearly £600.

October 6.—The Session cordially approve of “The Banff Female Association” lately formed. The object of the Association is the promotion of the temporal, moral, and spiritual interests of the poor and working classes. The minister is president; a lady presides over and visits in each district of the town; the members keep themselves informed of the circumstances of each family, whether attending church, school, &c. Pecuniary relief afforded where necessary, and meetings held monthly.

December 29.—The number of communicants who attended this year at the Sacrament of the Lord’s Supper was in May about 700 and in November from 600 to 610. Number of young communicants for the first time during the year—17.

March 1.—A meeting intimated of all such as chose to attend to be held in the church on Tuesday for the purpose of addressing the Almighty in prayer on the present perilous situation of the Scottish Established Church.

May 4.—Distribution of funds of the Parochial Association :—Indian Mission, £10 ; Church Extension, £10 ; Conversion of Jews, £8 ; Colonial Churches, £6 ; Assembly Schools, £6 ; local purposes, £6.

December 2.—The minister has secured the services of Rev. Donald Clarke (late of Paisley) as a missionary to be employed in the town to preach on Sabbath and on a week day, to visit and teach from house to house, &c.

Donation of £50 from the family of the late Provost Alexander for distribution among the poor.

The Session consider the case of ——— in great distress, who has a large family, and whose husband is in banishment for forging. As her husband never established an industrial residence in Banff, she has no claim on this parish.

February 2.—Letter from the Town Council stating that on account of the state of the town's finances, they decline henceforth to pay any salary to the precentor in the Parish Church.

March 21.—Messrs. Alexander Lillie, merchant ; Henry Balfour, merchant ; John Paterson, printer ; George Gardiner, shoemaker ; John George, farmer, Cowdenknowes, ordained as elders. The Session selected them, and the congregation were given an opportunity of lodging objections.

March 31.—Commission certified in favour of Alexander W. Gardiner, Esq. of Greenscaires, as Ruling Elder for the burgh.

June 27.—A diet of catechising intimated for the 29th inst. at Whiteoutie for servants in the landward part of the parish, that at this diet all such servants would be expected to attend, whether with or without certificates from parishes where they may have formerly resided, and that, in case of their failing to do so, they would neither be admitted to church privileges nor obtain certificates of character on leaving this for another parish.

July 11.—Mr. Brown (Ord Chapel) preached.

July 22.—Day appointed by the General Assembly for fasting and humiliation in connection with the present perilous and alarming state of the church. Dr. Lockhart, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, preached.

August 1.—Mr. Shanks (Buckie) preached.

September 8.—The Session resolved to institute two prayer meetings in addition to those already established in the town—viz., one in Miss M. A. Cooper's, and another in Mrs. Anderson's, High Street.

September 13.—Mr. Morgan, Lumsden Village, selected as precentor, with a salary of £20 yearly, with a possible increase. Conditions: to officiate twice every Sunday, and also at other times when public worship is held in the church, to form and train a band, and to teach music classes.

December 8 (Wednesday).—Thanksgiving for the late harvest. £14 2s. 5d. collected for the Presbyterian Pauper Lunatic Fund.

December 31.—Meeting of Heritors and Kirk Session to consider claim of Commissioners of Supply for payment of expenses disbursed by the Collector of County rates on account of P. M., a lunatic, and also to examine the state of the Poor's Funds, which are very much exhausted, and to make provision for the support of the poor during the ensuing year.

Means of Religious Instruction in operation in the Parish.—There is a Sabbath School which assembles in the church, and which is superintended by the minister in person, assisted by nine teachers. Number of pupils (male and female) about 300. There is also a Sabbath School in connection with the Academy, which assembles on Sabbath forenoon before public worship, and which is attended by about 70 boys. There is also one of the same description in Pirie's Free School in the Seatown attended by from 50 to 60 boys. There is also a Sabbath School in the Gallowhill superintended by one of the elders. There are likewise on Sabbath two Bible Classes, one meeting at 10 a.m. for young men, and taught by one of the elders, the number attending from 20 to 25, and one of the same nature for females, assembling at half-past two p.m., and taught by a female member of the congregation, the number in attendance on which is about 30. There are also two Bible Classes taught by the minister on Wednesday evenings, one for young men, about 15 to 25 in number, assembling at seven o'clock, and the other for young women, about 25 or 30 in number, assembling at eight o'clock. There is a library in connection with the parish, but, generally speaking, neither it nor the Sabbath School are so much resorted to as they should be. There is a monthly meeting, generally on the evening of the first Monday, for prayer and religious intelligence, and four week evening meetings for prayer and scripture exposition. These last are held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The evenings also of Monday are open for any enquirers who may wish to converse with the minister in private. The general diets for catechising in the landward part of the parish were well attended this year, as indeed they usually are, but the special diets for farm servants not so well as they should be. Public baptism has in this parish been discontinued for upwards of fifty years. It is believed there was not a public baptism (i.e., in the face of the congregation) in the Parish Church from the time it was built, 1793, till 1840, when the minister set the example by having one of his own children baptized in public. But it is to be regretted that his example has not been readily or generally followed. The minister is doing all he can short of making it imperative on every one to bring over his people to this proper and becoming practice, but not, he must admit, with all the success he could wish. There is great reluctance manifested to it by the people generally, and especially by the higher classes. The long period in which public baptism has been in abeyance may perhaps be some excuse for this reluctance. The extraordinary height of the pulpit also renders it peculiarly awkward and inconvenient, and this it has been hitherto found impracticable to remedy. The present troubles of the Church add very considerably to the difficulty of bringing back the people to the good old practice in this respect. In short, the minister has found the matter so encompassed with difficulties that he has hitherto abstained from giving publicity to the Presbytery's resolution of 5th May last, for this he is perhaps to blame, as it is not only omitting to obtemper the injunction of the Presbytery, but may also be weakening the hands of such of his brethren as have obeyed and are endeavouring to establish public baptism. If so, he will exceedingly regret this, but on the whole he thought better not to publish this resolution than to publish and not enforce it, while he is morally certain that, were he in the present state and temper of his people to render public baptism imperative, the circumstance of his so doing would drive not a few from the church. In this matter the minister humbly submits himself to his brethren, and is most anxious to receive their advice and counsel thereanent. Subscriptions are being received for a new place of worship for Mr. Clarke, missionary, to preach in. Mr. Clarke preaches twice every Sunday, visits during the week chiefly in the High and Low Shore, Carmelite Street, the Gallowhill, and the upper part of the Seatown. His winter class for religious instruction consisted of 57 adults. As to the temporal wants of the poorer classes a public dispensary was opened this year for affording medical advice and medicines gratis to the poor, and is productive of much good. Collected this year for the Assembly's schemes, £36.

January 28.—The heritors agree to assess themselves in the amount of £100 towards the support of the poor for the current year.

January 30.—Collected £15 15s. in behalf of the distress which at the present moment is so lamentably prevalent in Paisley.

February 20.—Six diets of catechising held this week in the landward part of the parish. 198 persons attended. Communion Collections:—Fast day (Thursday, April 28), £2 12s. 11d.; Saturday, £1 6s.; Sunday, £7 17s. 8d.; Monday, £1 3s. 11d.

May 15.—A Committee of Session appointed to confer with the precentor for the improvement of the psalmody in the church. The precentor suggests that the Session provide a seat somewhere in the centre of the church for the accommodation of female singers.

May 19 (Thursday).—Meeting for prayer in connection with the important measures which are expected to occupy the attention of the approaching General Assembly.

July 21.—Fast appointed by the General Assembly. Collected £6 os. 2d.

August 28.—Appeal read from the General Assembly in favour of the Jews.

September 11.—Mr. Morgan is appointed precentor at a salary of £10 fixed, and a Sabbath day's collection. The elders' seat to be assigned to female singers.

The number of communicants in May was about 700, in November about 610. Mr. Clarke, parochial missionary, has now left Banff.

January 23.—Meeting of heritors in the session house to make provision for the support of the poor for the current year. Communion collections (May)—Thursday, £2 9s. 4d.; Saturday, £1 3s. 4d.; Sunday, £8 13s. 2d.; Monday, £1 3s. 7d.

May 8.—The Moderator suggested that one or more delegates should be nominated from among the members of the Session for the purpose of proceeding to Edinburgh to attend the consultations which it is to be expected will be held there at an early period with regard to the present position of the Church. The Session approved of the suggestion, and appointed Mr. Paterson.

May 14.—Mr. Grant preached for the last time before the Disruption.

June 4.—Mr. Henderson, minister of Cullen, preached.

August 20.—Mr. Henderson, presentee to the church of Banff, preached morning and evening. [The minutes contain no reference to Mr. Grant's demission or to the Disruption.]

November 20.—Session Clerk resigns, having been appointed to another situation. Mr. Stenhouse Bairnsfather, teacher of the Infant School in Wilson's Institution, is appointed Clerk in his room.

December 17.—Collected for the precentor, £4 1s. 2d.

February 7.—Petition from J. H. for her son, who is in a state of idiocy. 9d. a week allowed him by the Session.

February 11.—Intimation from the pulpit that the Soup Kitchen is now open.

February 18.—It was intimated from the pulpit, by order of the Presbytery, that the Rev. George Henderson, minister of Cullen, and presentee to the parish of Banff, would preach in the Church of Banff on 21st instant in presence of the Presbytery of Fordyce. The members of the congregation were invited to attend. [Numerous subsequent minutes refer thereto.]*

* Objections, fourteen in number, to his appointment were lodged with the Presbytery by fifty-three communicants, and his presentation was set aside by commission of Assembly in 1844. See "Collection of the various objections made to presentees to parishes in Scotland since the passing of Lord Aberdeen's Act of 17th August, 1843." Edinburgh: Myles Macphail.

The following is the final judgment, extracted from "The Acts of Assembly" in the "Abridgment of the Proceedings of the Commission of the General Assembly, 1844-45."

"14th August, 1844. Sess. 2.

"The Commission resumed the consideration of the Banff case, and after the sermons and minutes were read in terms of the Resolution of the Commission at the last sederunt it was February 21.—Rev. G. Henderson preached. Collected 7s. 9d.

April 28.—Collection for the General Assembly's Schools in Scotland, £11 4s. 2½d., of which retained for ordinary purposes, £2 19s. 2½d.

July 3.—Consideration of the case of J. K. delayed, this being her ninth lapse in fornication.

August 25.—Intimation was this day made from the pulpit that, in consequence of the Magistrates, Heritors, and Kirk Session having agreed on 16th instant to impose an assessment for the poor, the usual collections in the church will cease after 1st September next, but that such as may wish to give for the poor may do so at the doors of the church.

Collections in September :—£1 18s. 9½d. ; 7½d. ; 5½d. ; 11d. ; 2s. 6½d. During all the preceding months of 1844 the collections are regular in amount and average from £2 to £3. In October and November they vary from 1d. to £2 0s. 6d. After December 1st they are no longer recorded.

XI. ROBERT BREMNER, LL.D. (1845-1872), was a native of Fochabers, was educated at King's College, Aberdeen, and for a time held the Murray Lectureship in that University. Travelling abroad first with Colonel Hepburn of the Fusilier Guards, and afterwards with Colonel Macdonald of Rossie, he published the result of his observations in two volumes—"Travels in Russia," published in London in 1839. Dr. Bremner's early occupations gave him a strong literary bias, which was apparent in all his pulpit prelections. In 1851 a mark of the respect in which he was held was shown by the presentation to him of his portrait by members of the congregation and other friends. In 1856 he received the degree of LL.D. from his Alma Mater. Dr. Bremner married the daughter of Alexander Smith, Esq. of Moorend House, Charlton Kings, Cheltenham. He was survived by this lady, but left no family. Dr. Bremner died in the 67th year of his age.

moved, seconded, and agreed to without a vote, That the Commission dismiss the complaint and the appeal, find that the seventh and eighth objections are substantiated, and that Mr. Henderson, presentee to the Parish of Banff, is not a suitable and qualified person for the functions of the ministry in that particular parish, in respect that his sermons are confused and ill-arranged, and do not exhibit such an exposition and illustration of divine truth as are fitted to edify the people of Banff ; and in respect that from a natural defect of utterance he is not so distinctly heard as to be followed or understood by a large proportion of the congregation : Remit to the Presbytery of Fordyce with instructions to reject the Presentee accordingly, and to intimate such rejection to the Patron. Judgment having been intimated, Mr. Petrie for the Objectors acquiesced in the judgment, took instruments, and craved extracts, and Mr. Patten for the Presentee protested for all remeid competent in law, took instruments, and craved extracts."

EXTRACTS FROM PRESBYTERY RECORDS DURING THE MINISTRY OF
DR. BREMNER (1845-1872).

1851.

Collected in Banff for Schemes of the Church, £41.

1858.

Letter from the Magistrates of Banff requesting the attendance of the Presbytery at the examination of the Academy. Agreed to.

1859.

Intimation of summons of augmentation of stipend of Banff. Present stipend: 18 chalders of victual, half meal, half barley, interest of mortified money payable by the town of Banff, £5 2s. 9½d. stg. The minister craves an augmentation of two chalders, half meal, half barley.

1861.

Mr. Hunter craves to be examined by the Presbytery as Rector of the Academy, Banff. The letter to lie on the table.

1869.

Collected for Schemes of the Church in Banff, £28.

OF DR. BREMNER (1845-1872).

March 9.—Mr. Bremner preached his introductory sermon—Text, 1st Cor. ix. v. 2, 1st clause. Intimation made by the minister of a house to house visitation of members of the congregation both in town and country. Two classes for young Communicants to be formed, one for young men and the other for young women; also a Sabbath School to be commenced. An association for aiding the schemes of the church, and a regular meeting in the church for communicating or receiving missionary and religious information to be established soon. The minister intimated that more elders would have to be elected, and made thankful mention of the great obligations the congregation was under to the present elders—Messrs. Johnston, Nicol, and Simpson, as well as to Mr. Bartlet, kirk treasurer, for “the work of faith and labour of love” which have distinguished them during the recent very trying circumstances of the congregation.

March 23.—Notice given from the pulpit of the quarterly examination of the Grammar School, and the duty of supporting the public seminaries urged on the congregation from the example of the Church, which has at all times so strenuously aided the cause of education. Sabbath School opened in the church this day, attended by above 150 pupils, with 12 male and female teachers.

March 24.—Received £22 from the executors of Miss Clementina Duff of Hatton, being half of a sum of £44 she left to the Parish and Episcopal ministers for the poor. Mr. Bremner acknowledges receipt from the treasurer of eight communion cups, silver; two plates, brass; nine pieces of linen; three volumes records; one box containing dies; three bags containing tokens, new and old.

April 9.—The Town Council apply for the office of Session Clerk to the Rector of the Grammar School.

April 16.—Mr. William M'Dowall, Rector of the Grammar School, appointed Session Clerk in room of Mr. Bairnsfather, who had been appointed until the cure should be filled. The Session's high satisfaction with Mr. Bairnsfather recorded.

May 1.—Mr. Massie elected precentor in room of Mr. Morgan, at a salary of £20, he being bound to teach classes for psalmody.

May 1.—Fast day. Collected—morning, £4 1s.; evening, £1 4s. 3½d. Preparation day, £2 1s. 10d. Communion Sabbath—action sermon, 1 Cor. v. 8; table services—Mr. Bremner, Mr. Irvine, minister of Peterhead, and Mr. Leslie, minister of Turriff. Evening sermon, Mr. Leslie. Collection at the doors in the morning, £6 17s. 4d.; in the church at night, £2 4s. 11d.

May 5.—Thanksgiving day. Mr. Irvine preached. Collected, £3 10s. 11½d. Total collections (for the schemes of the Church), £20 os. 4d. Number of communicants 530 to 540, of whom 49 new communicants.

June 3.—Meeting of heritors, &c., for making necessary repairs on the church fabric. Owing to the present practice of placing basins at the doors of the church to receive any casual contribution for the poor having led to great abuse, the money having been at various times stolen by boys and others lurking about the gates, the heritors give permission to place a small box “for the poor” at each entrance with a lock.

June 8.—Intimation made that a certain number of free sittings would, in consequence of arrangements now in progress, be allotted to the poor, but with the express understanding that parties occupying the same would be expected to give regular attendance at the Parish Church.

June 13.—The session agree to suggest to the congregation twenty-one persons as elders in terms of the General Assembly’s Act of 1842, there being fourteen elders required. The votes of the congregation to be collected on Sabbath, 6th July. The Session from these to select the requisite number of new elders.

July 7.—The Session resolve to continue the salary of £10 per annum to the teacher of the Female Charity School.

July 20.—Exhibition in the church of pupils belonging to the Deaf and Dumb Institution, Aberdeen, and collection made.

August 10.—Ordained Elders:—Messrs. John Clayton, merchant; Alexander Colville; James Crosbie, bank agent; George Cruickshank, bank agent; Alexander L. Emslie, M.D.; George Grant, cooper; George Ledingham, farmer; James M’Donald, ex-Magistrate; George Mackay, ex-Lieutenant 3rd Regiment; James Paterson, shipowner; George Petrie, solicitor; John Soutter, parish schoolmaster; L. Wilson, blacksmith; and John Wright. Messrs. Nicol and Simpson, who had been acting temporarily as members of Session by appointment of Presbytery, now demit office. William Johnston, cabinetmaker, continues a member of Session.

Collections to be made on the first Sabbath of every month for congregational purposes, such as lighting, session and kirk officers’ salaries, &c. Collections on other occasions to be made for church music fund and for the schemes of the church.

September 7.—Monthly collection for congregation fund, £2 19s. 6½d.

October 30.—Letter sent to the Managers of the Poor's Board of Banff that there being now an assessment in the Parish, no contribution can for the present be made from the congregation for Aberdeen Infirmary.

October 31.—The Synod of Aberdeen instruct the Presbytery of Fordyce to refuse the petition of Dr. W. J. Whyte, as the petitioner had lost his time for offering objections to the elders elected, and was barred personali exceptione from objecting to the constitution of the Kirk Session of Banff, and farther that the Synod, from the circumstances elicited by this reference, is called upon to express an unanimous opinion that the elders of the Kirk Session of Banff have been constitutionally elected.

November 2.—Number of communicants on this occasion about 400, of whom 124 have been added to the list since last occasion.

November 5.—Given to the scheme for Foreign Missions, £5; Colonial, £4; Jewish Conversion, £3. There being a balance of £1 remaining of the late collections for the schemes of the Church, the Moderator was requested to subscribe therewith for one year for five copies of the Church Missionary Record, to be circulated as widely as possible in the parish as being a good means of promoting an interest in these important undertakings.

January 27.—Three gas lamps erected at the church gates. Expense, £10 9s. 8d. To remain the property of the Session.

April 3.—William Bartlett, Esq., applies for feu disposition on the lots 4, 5, 6, 7 of the lands belonging to the Kirk Session called Lovie's Croft. Yearly feu-duty of the lots 52s. 7½d.

W. A. summoned to appear before the Session for having been under the influence of liquor about the time of his wife's death. He appeared accordingly and was rebuked.

April 22.—Six members of Session elected to sit as members of the Parochial Board of Banff in terms of the late Act of Parliament, 8th and 9th Vict. c. 83. The Session reserve the full right of every member of it to sit at the Parochial Board as at present constituted until it shall be finally organised in terms of said Act. The Moderator stated to the Session his great desire to assist in bringing about a change in the usage which has hitherto prevailed in the parish of giving wine or other refreshment at funerals, as well as his wish to see the custom discontinued at baptisms. The Session, approving of the proposal, agreed to aid him by every means in their power, and requested him to take such steps either by recommending the change publicly to the congregation from the pulpit, or in any other way as may to him appear most likely to accomplish so desirable an improvement. The Session at the same time express their desire to encourage such steps as may be taken to change the practice which also prevails at funerals of assembling a large concourse in the house of the deceased when the body is about to be removed, considering it more prudent and more becoming in every respect that only a few should meet in the house, while the other neighbours and friends assemble outside.

May 3.—Communicants—460.

July 5.—Sermon to the young preached this evening by Mr. Jamieson, minister of Grange, from Eccl. xii. 1.

July 19.—Collected £9 10s. 8d. for the suffering ministers of the Canton of Vaud in Switzerland in terms of the appointment of the General Assembly.

Mr. ———, precentor, is fined by the Magistrates £2 2s. or thereby, with the alternative of imprisonment, for misconduct in church. The Session decline to make a collection in the church for Aberdeen Infirmary, and place on the Parochial Board the responsibility of providing medical advice, &c., to the poor.

September 3.—Mr. Watt, tradesman, proposed to be elected precentor, but his election not confirmed by the moderator. Mr. Ellis Murray is elected at a salary of £16.

November 12.—Collected for the unemployed poor in Aberdeen, £9 1s. 4d.

December 4.—The kirk officer's salary to be £5 per annum.

April 21.—Spirit Licenses and Sabbath Desecration. A deputation of the Session to wait on the Magistrates to represent the great evils arising from the sin of drunkenness, and to recommend that they diminish as far as possible the number of spirit licenses, and that they refuse to grant new licenses. It was unanimously agreed to petition Parliament to diminish the number of houses and shops now licensed for the sale of spirits. It was also agreed to petition against the bill before Parliament to compel Railway Companies in Scotland to carry passengers on the Sabbath.

August 11.—[“The steeple of the church of Banff was finished at ten minutes before eight o'clock in the morning.” Dr. Whyte was the main promoter of this work. It is in height 130 feet 6 inches.]

November 15 (Thursday).—Fast day by Royal Proclamation on account of cholera. Several certificates of poverty granted yearly by the Session to enable mothers to prosecute the alleged fathers before the Civil Courts.

The interest of £40 left by Mrs. Finnie for coals to the poorest inhabitants of the burgh falls now to be distributed by the Session.

June 23.—A Parochial Association is formed for the Church Schemes Funds being raised by annual subscriptions instead of by Sunday collections.

August 5.—Money to be borrowed for heating the church.

September 1.—Mr. J. Watt, merchant, Banff, bequeaths £89 5s. to the Kirk Session to be laid out in the purchase of coals amongst the most respectable and decent of the necessitous poor of the burgh.

September 29.—Committee appointed for renovating the interior of the church by painting the walls and seats, and having the pulpit properly hung.

[November 10.—The church this day for the first time warmed by heated air.]

December 1.—Read from the pulpit resolutions of the Presbytery of Fordyce on Popery. The Presbytery pass the following resolutions, and forward a memorial to the Queen in regard to the recent papal aggressions on the liberties of this realm :—(1) That this Presbytery feels called upon to express their indignation at the daring attempt of the Pope to re-establish his dominion in England, and that being directly at variance with the principles of the constitution of this Protestant nation, but especially with the declaration of our Confession of Faith, that “the Pope hath no power over Magistrates (in this Realm) nor over any of their people,” such attempt ought to be met with the most prompt and decided check which the laws will authorize. (2) That this Presbytery consider all grants of public money for the endowment of Popery or for supporting Popish Colleges and seminaries to be a sinful countenancing by the nation of a religious system condemned by the Word of God.

M. M. produced a letter from John Smith confessing he was the father of her child. She at a later meeting of session, confessed that no such man as this John Smith existed, and that it was all a forgery. The true father, a married man, then admitted paternity.

January 6.—A Committee of Session report great neglect in registration of baptisms, &c., in the Ord district, and apparent neglect in registering baptisms on the part of dissenters in the whole parish of Banff. A letter ordered to be sent to the minister of Ord chapel in reference to (1) the irregularities in registration, (2) the fact that only one elder assisted at last Communion and he arrived late, (3) that only £1 was contributed to the Schemes of the Church from the 890 inhabitants of the district.

February 3.—The Session decline to transfer part of their property to the Parochial Board unless the whole property belonging to the poor is transferred, consisting of Lovie's Croft, Session Park, and Bede House (the last jointly with the Town Council). The Earl Fife's ancestor, the Honourable Mr. Duff, younger of Braco, in 1758 by session minutes of date 10th September and 15th October of that year received what was called the Sickhouse Croft from the Session in excambion for the present Session Park.

March 3.—A new bell for the Parish Church, the handsome gift of James Cunningham Grant Duff, Esq. of Eden, placed in the spire. Draft letter of the moderator's submitted and approved of informing the "managers of the burgh" that they have no power to give orders to ring said bell without the sanction of the Heritors and Kirk Session. [The bell is $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet in diameter at the mouth, weight $12\frac{1}{4}$ cwt., and is said to bear inscribed in Roman letters "Mears, Founders, London." An inscription inside the bell shows that it was presented to the town of Banff by James C. Grant Duff of Eden, 1850.]

April 6.—Mr. Lewis Wilson, elder, and member of session, owing to his inability consistently with his occupations to attend to his duties as an elder, resigns as a member of this session, but reserves his full status as an elder of the Church of Scotland.

May 5.—The Session petition the Legislature in favour of Lord Kinnaird's Bill to repress drunkenness. C. Greig appointed kirk-officer in room of John Kynoch resigned.

June 2.—The Moderator has received £100 from a gentleman in London to replace the present bell by a new one, if such shall be necessary.

June 27.—Meeting of the members of the Presbyteries of Fordyce, Turriff, and Strathbogie, held in the church on behalf of the Education Scheme. Dr. Cook delivered an address.

July 7.—Improvements on the church are finished at a cost of £294 5s., of which the landward heritors subscribed £70, and the congregation £106 13s. 6d., and the Session to become liable for payment of the balance. The Session have from £500 to £600 in the bank at very low interest (2 per cent.), which money they manage for various purposes. List of Bequests under the control of the minister and session :—(1) By Mr. James Brown, senior, for coals, £180. (2) By Mrs. Finnie for coals, £40. (3) By John Watt, Esq., for coals, £89 5s. (4) By Mr. James Brown, junior, for the poor, £20. List of Bequests under control of the Minister of Banff for the time being :—(1) By John Watt, Esq., for the five schemes of the church, £447 15s. (2) By John Watt, Esq., for prize to the Grammar School, £89 5s. (3) For a bell, £100. In all, £966 5s.

Subscriptions and collections for missionary and congregational purposes for year 1850-51 :—Five Schemes, &c., £35; Endowment Schemes, £22; Ladies' Association, £9; Congregational Fund, £48; precentor's salary (£18 per annum), £15—Total, £129; expenses of printing, &c., £5—Total sum raised, £134. 1852, £169; 1853, £220; 1854, £285; 1855, £152; 1856, £137; 1857, £150; 1858, £138; 1859, £354 (including donations); 1860, £214; 1861, £187; 1862, £178; 1863, £279 (including Miss Turing's legacy); 1864, £288 (with legacy); 1865, £117; 1866, £166; 1867, £295 (with legacies); 1868, £143.

October 24.—Meeting of heritors, &c., anent the bells.

December 1.—The Moderator is authorised to remit the sum of £100 sent from London by a generous donor, as a satisfactory arrangement in regard to the present bell has been made with all parties concerned.

January 4.—Mr. James Brown, senior's legacy (£180) lent to the Banff Harbour Trustees at 4 per cent. Mrs. Finnie's coal money also invested with the same Trustees at the same rate of interest.

July 16.—Extract produced showing that the Oath of Purgation was administered to ——— at a meeting of the Presbytery of Fordyce.

November 1.—Resolution of the Session to provide for the Psalmody expenses (precentor's salary, &c.) by a collection at each Communion occasion in place of an annual contribution.

December 6.—Application is made to the Session for a certificate of poverty to enable a party to prosecute for recovery of money. In terms of the Act of Sederunt, 16th June, 1819, intimation is ordered to be given to the party to be sued ten free days before next meeting of Session to enable said party to appear if so advised.

April 24.—The Moderator having stated that the Heritors and Magistrates are about to make some arrangements concerning the churchyard, the fees to be charged by the sexton, and possibly also for providing a new churchyard, rendered necessary by the crowded state of the present one, the Session authorize him to act for them in the matter.

1854.

The Session petition the House of Commons in reference to the Lord Advocate's Education Bill for Scotland. They are in favour of increased salaries to schoolmasters, but petition against putting an end to the connection between the Church of Scotland and the Parish Schools. Further the Bill provides no security for the soundness of the religious opinions either of the members of the contemplated Board of Superintendence or of the Inspectors and Schoolmasters to be elected, and also makes no safe provision for the imparting of religious knowledge to the young.

April 26 (Wednesday).—Fast by Royal Proclamation on account of the war. Services in the church morning and evening.

September 17.—By requisition of the General Assembly a collection for the wives and children of the soldiers and sailors engaged in the war is made, and £11 os. 1d. collected.

February 5.—The Session instructed the Clerk to go on keeping a register of all baptisms in the congregation in the same manner as before the new Registration Act came into operation on the 1st day of January this year.

July 22.—Collected for Buckie Manse, £3 17s. 6d.

October 7 (Sunday).—This day, in accordance with Royal Proclamation, observed as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God for our success and that of our allies in the present war. Morning text, Jer. 33 c., 10 and 11 vv. Evening text, Isaiah 35 c., 4 v.

November 14 (Wednesday).—Day of thanksgiving to God for the recent good harvest and His mercies in the present war.

December 23.—Collection for defraying the debt on the West Church, Inverness, £3 15s. 5d.

March 3.—Mr. W. Mitchell, mason, bequeaths £1 to purchase books for the Sabbath School.

May 5.—The Session petition Parliament in favour of Lord Monteagle's Bill for improving the Parochial Schools in Scotland, and also in favour of Lord Kinnaird's Bill for providing additional schools in Scotland. They petition against the Lord Advocate's Bill concerning the Parochial Schools of Scotland and against his Bill concerning schools in Scotch burghs.

July 6.—Professor George Weir, formerly of Banff Grammar School, now of Queen's College, Kingston, Canada, preached.

September 21.—Collection for building Seafeld Manse, £3 17s.

October 27.—Change in the mode of making collections adopted:— (1) While the congregation generally are still liberal in their gifts, yet the present collections once or twice a month are deficient chiefly in consequence of Lord Fife's illness for 18 months past, during which no contributions have been sent from him (which amounted annually to between £12 and £18), it will therefore be necessary to collect every Sabbath forenoon, with certain exceptions; (2) collections for the schemes, &c., will be made at the times fixed by the Assembly; (3) collections for the Psalmody fund to be at the Communion seasons.

December 1.—The Session congratulate the minister on having the honourable distinction of LL.D. conferred on him by the University and King's College, Aberdeen. Dr. Bremner returned thanks.

February 1.—The Session reply to Sheriff Gordon that they have no power to grant the use of the Parish Church to a public lecture by Mr. Thackeray.

August 3.—The Session state that they are not at liberty to grant the Parish Church for Mr. Gough, temperance lecturer.

September 6.—Mr. Mollison, Montrose, elected precentor at a salary of £30 per annum.

October 7.—National Fast by Royal Proclamation. Collected by recommendation of the General Assembly for the sufferers in India, £6 18s. 2d.

December 7.—The Moderator is authorised to look out for a safe investment at £5 per cent. for £42 held by the Session for the Female Charity School, this sum being paid up by the late Savings Bank. He was also authorised to withdraw Finnie's coal money (£40) from the Harbour Trustees as only 4 per cent. was allowed, and to look out for a safe investment at 5 per cent.

The school money (£42) lent to Mr. R. Thomson, Nairn. A new seat completed below the pulpit for the precentor and choir.

May 16.—Two friends of the minister's from Aberdeen—Rev. Mr. Fraser, St. Clement's, and Rev. Dr. Pirie—preach for the Endowment Scheme. The following schoolmasters preach in the Church between June and October:—Rev. Messrs. Davidson, Portsoy; Anderson, Bellie; Bruce, Finzean; Gregor, Macduff; Duncan, Alvah; and Milne, King-Edward.

[The Saturday Preparation Day before the Communion discontinued in 1858.]

February 7.—To encourage the young persons who assist the precentor, the Session request the Moderator to make a present to some of them to the amount of £4 or £5 from the Church Music Fund.

A new disposition agreed to be drawn out in favour of Mr. Joseph Walker.

March 7.—The Moderator informed the Session that he had lately received from Mr. George Cruickshank, banker, what appears to be the Register of Births, Marriages, and Burials of this parish from 1st October, 1783, to June, 1788, or thereby, found among the papers of the late Rev. Dr. Cruickshank of Fyvie. The Session do not know what may be the value or authority of this MS., but think it best to minute its being found, and to instruct that it be now handed over to the Session Clerk for preservation, and to be given up to the proper authorities when required.

In regard to the week-day meeting of the congregation for advancing the psalmody, it was now arranged by the Session that it should be held in the church, and that Dr. Bremner shall be present to open and close the meeting with prayer and to give an address, and that all the Sabbath School scholars, if possible, be present, that their progress in learning to sing may be seen.

March 18.—Annual meeting of the congregation for the promotion and encouragement of psalmody.

April 4.—Regulations for the Cruickshank Bursaries drawn up and recorded.

In regard to a recent offensive and vexatious interference with the congregation on the evening of Friday, 18th March, when they had been publicly invited by the minister under arrangements made by the Session to meet for advancement of the Psalmody, but they were prevented from so meeting by interdicts obtained from the Sheriff-Substitute of Banffshire, the Session authorise their Moderator, as far as the Session are concerned, to take all proper means in their name or otherwise for obtaining lawful redress for this great grievance, for having the interdicts against all parties recalled, and from exacting from all that are liable such damages or punishment as the law may allow.

May 1.—By Royal Proclamation this day observed as a day of thanksgiving for our late success in India.

July 31.—Intimation made that the minister will meet in the school of Hilton with families residing in that district for religious instruction.

No diets of catechising are recorded after 1856.

October 31.—The Session agreed to hold the spring Communion in future, if it please God, on the first Sabbath of April. In this way the Communion will not fall too near the time of meeting of the Synod, which, when the railways to this town are completed, it is hoped will meet here more frequently than hitherto.

December 16.—Rev. Dr. Robertson, Edinburgh, addressed a meeting in favour of the Endowment Scheme.

January 1.—The Rev. Dr. Bremner after sermon as usual at this season called the attention of the congregation to the changes of a sad as well as of an encouraging nature which had taken place among them during the last year, and warmly exhorted them carefully to maintain their principles, and to manifest their worth by consistency of conduct.

February 6.—Now raised for Endowment Scheme, £233.

May 7.—The Session petition Parliament against "the Registration (Scotland) Amendment Act," objecting chiefly to that part of it which may lead to the removal of all the Session Records of the various Kirk Sessions of the Established Church from the custody of those who hitherto have kept them for preservation.

September 2.—Owing to the continued heavy rains and the lateness of the harvest, the minister called on the congregation to humble themselves before the Lord beseeching that He would withdraw His deferred threatenings and send a favourable change in the weather. He improved the circumstances in his sermon from Jer., 14 ch., 22 v.

December 20 (Thursday).—Day of thanksgiving to the Almighty for His goodness in regard to the late harvest and blessings of the Reformation, this being the Tricentenary of that event.

June 2.—The Session petition Her Majesty in Council not to sanction the ordinances affecting the Redhythe Bursaries.

September 1.—The Session-Clerk is authorized to deliver up for transmission to the Registrar-General, Edinburgh, the Records of Births, Marriages, &c., previous to 1820. List of Registers delivered up to the Sheriff-Clerk of the County:—(1) Births (1625-1701); (2) Births, 20th July, 1701, to 27th April, 1752; (3) Births, 10th May, 1752, to 15th May, 1789; (4) Births, 8th May, 1789, to 6th October, 1806, containing proclamations, &c., from 16th June, 1788, to 2nd November, 1806; (5) Marriages, 30th May, 1718, to 10th May, 1788, with register of the dead, 12th September, 1718, to February, 1782; (6) two affidavit books; (7) one old Register unbound. Eight in all. List of Registers delivered up by the Session-Clerk to Mr. Paton, Registrar for the Burgh, on 14th April, 1855:—(1) Register of Births and Marriages, commencing 8th November, 1805 ; (2) Do., from 27th April, 1826 to 1847 ; (3) Do., 1848-54 ; (4) Register of Burials, 1851-54 ; (5) Register of Births authorized by the Kirk Session, with two copies of affidavits attached.

November 9.—Collected for the Lancashire Cotton Spinners £7 10s. 3d.

April 6.—Mr. Wm. Bartlet, kirk treasurer, resigns office after 25 years' service. The Session thank him for his faithful and gratuitous services. Mr. Garden M. Hossack, solicitor, appointed in his room. Mr. Coutts, solicitor, expresses doubts as to whether the Session, never having received a proper title to some of the lands proposed to be transferred to the Parochial Board, can safely execute a conveyance. The Earl Fife may, however, give a new feu-right to the Session. The relative papers consist of Disposition, by James and Alexander Lovie, to the Minister and Kirk Session, of Newlands Croft, 1708, &c.

August 8.—Mr. James Ogilvie, Huntly, appointed precentor in room of Mr. Mollison, at a salary of £30 per annum. The Session appointed John Edward, son of Mr. Thomas Edward, Banff, to be one of Dr. Cruickshank's bursars.

October 1.—The Session request the minister to apply to some of the most respectable members of the congregation, whom he and they consider fittest for the office of elder, with a view to induce them to accept office.

October 18.—Mr. James Hunter, rector, formerly member of the Kirk Session of Bothwell, admitted as elder. The following ordained as elders :—Thomas Adam, bank agent and shipowner ; John Clayton, surgeon ; William Coutts, solicitor and bank agent ; George Cumming, writer ; Robert Duncan, provost of Banff ; John Forbes, solicitor and bank agent ; James Longmore, farmer at Hilton ; William Munro, moulder at Banff Foundry ; William Raeburn, seedsman ; John Stevenson, blacksmith at Banff Foundry.

Also, £320 for John Watt's Schemes money (Minister and Successors) this being part of that sum of which the balance, £127 5s., is lent at 5 per cent. Total, £563.

May 6.—Mr. Lillie's legacy received (£88 10s. after expenses). Inasmuch as ——— declares herself to have been a member of the Congregational Church at the time the offence (fornication) was committed and till she was excommunicated from said church for this offence, the Session find they cannot deal with her but they agree to summon him.

July 1.—Received £89 4s. 6d. (balance of £100 after legacy duty, &c.) from the executors of the deceased Mr. William Bartlet of the Banff Brewery, formerly kirk treasurer, being bequest for coals to the poor of the burgh.

September 2.—The Moderator stated that he had delivered up at the request of the Inspector of Registers two volumes of the Session Records, to be returned from Edinburgh in due time.

September 30.—Bequests from the late Miss Strachan of Cortes intimated: (1) £500 to eke out the salary of the teacher of Pirie's school; (2) £50 for keeping her burying ground; (3) the house No. 3 St. Catherine Street for the education of boys at the Grammar School of Banff, those bearing the names of Strachan, Ogilvie, and Wilson to be preferred.

October 28.—Collections during Communion season (for Church Music Fund) £5 8s. 2d.

December 2.—Legacy intimated by William Johnstone, labourer, Mains of South Kinmundy, New Machar, of £19 19s. for behoof of the poor in the town of Banff not on the poor's funds.

March 15.—Collection in behalf of Jewish Mission, building a church in Victoria, Vancouver's Island, Abyssinian Expedition, and Endowment Scheme, £6 19s. 8d.

May 4.—The Moderator informed the Session that he is taking steps for the endowment of Ord Chapel, and has good hope of being able to carry it through before long. This he is enabled to do by the generous help likely to be obtained from the trustees of the late Miss Strachan of Cortes, so long a member of this congregation, by the kindness of the Abercrombie family and the other heritors of the parish, and by aid hoped for from the Endowment Committee of the General Assembly, and by subscriptions in this congregation and in that of the Ord, or from other friends in the district.

March 14.—Collection in aid of the endowment of Ord Chapel £8 4s.

Thomas Adam resigns as member of Session, but reserves his status as elder of the Church of Scotland.

[Texts are regularly recorded in the volume commencing 3rd May, 1869, up to December, 1871.]

Miss Margaret Strachan of Cortes "legated and bequeathed to the Kirk Session of Banff and landward heritors of the parish of Banff, to be invested and the interest annually applied to the keeping of the burying ground in Banff, belonging to the testator, and in the second place when not so required to be paid over to the sexton for looking after the same, the sum of £50."

Proposed excambion between Mr. Walker's house in the Wrights' Close and the property in Low Street belonging to the Kirk Session, and presently occupied by the beadle.

There is no parochial Temperance Association, but there is cordial co-operation with an undenominational society. The Parochial Missionary Association is composed of the Kirk Session and a number of ladies. The choir has 28 voices, with a harmoniumist.

STATISTICS.—776 Communicants; 41 young communicants joined church during the year; 48 baptisms; 32 marriages. Total Christian liberality (exclusive of seat rents) £219, of which £107 was for the missionary schemes of the church, and £112 for congregational and other purposes."

May 13.—"This day were ordained to the eldership, in presence of the congregation, the following gentlemen, members of the church, viz., Sheriff Hamilton-Grierson, John Hutcheson, James Gilchrist, Louis Chiffelle, Alexander Simpson, John Wilson, M.A., John Garden, and Andrew Duncan. The minister preached from the text 1 Tim. v. 17."

1889.

September 29.—"The Kirk Session, after due consideration, unanimously resolved, in view of the abuses connected with Fast Days in recent years in this parish, making the day rather hurtful than helpful to the consciences of many, that they should in future cease to fix any day as a Fast Day preparatory to the dispensation of the Lord's Supper."

1890.

November.—“The congregation met and unanimously resolved to supersede the harmonium presently in use by a good pipe organ to aid in the service of praise, the same to be built to specifications prepared by Dr. A. L. Peace of Glasgow Cathedral, and to cost not more than £600, and to be placed in the gallery.” It was afterwards resolved to enter into a contract with Messrs. Peter Conacher & Co., Huddersfield, to build the organ.

December 31.—Raised during this year for Missionary objects, £112 6s. 6d., and for congregational purposes, £376. Total, £488 6s. 6d.

The number of communicants on the roll in 1888 was 820. In May, 1892, the number was 837, being the largest number since the Disruption in 1843.

COMMUNION CUPS.

In 1649 the parish had but one communion cup (see ii. 31). In 1680 (see ii. 56) the old gilded chalice was made into two cups, the “arms of the anonymous donour" being re-engraved thereon. The arms are those of Ogilvie of Carnousie: "Arg. a cross, engrailed, sa., between, in the 1st and 4th quarters, a lion, passant-guardant, gu., crowned, or; and in the 2nd and 3rd three crescents, likewise gu." Cf. i. 52. These cups have no Hall-mark, but have engraved on one side "BANFF," with a wreath below, and on the other side the aforesaid coat of arms. These two cups are still in use, as are also two cups with the Banff town-mark, and the inscription—"DEDICATED TO THE CHVRCH OF BANFF BE IOHN MVRRAY BVRGES YR 1698." The monogram of his trade is also engraved thereon. "1698. February 9th. John Murray, shoemaker, Deacon Convener, hes dedicat to the use of the church of Banff two silver cups weigheing twentie four unces stairleing money, beareing his name and the name of his traid on the samen" (Town Council Minutes). The cups are of beaker form, the foot slightly ornamented with a twisted wire pattern. Height, $5\frac{1}{8}$ inches; diameter at top, $4\frac{3}{8}$ inches; diameter at foot, $3\frac{7}{16}$ inches; height of foot, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch. (For illustration see Burns' Old Scottish Communion Plate, p. 294.) Four cups were presented to the church in 1836 by Mrs. Askill (see ii. 118), and in 1885 two others were presented by Mr. Ramsay and Ex-Provost Duncan.

COMMUNION TOKENS.

The following varieties exist:—

(1) "M. I. I." (James Innes, 1716-53.)

(2) "R. T." (Robert Trail, 1753-62.)

(3) "M. A. S." (Andrew Skene, 1762-93.) Some of the tokens bearing this inscription may refer to Alexander Setone, who died 1661, but the probability is they refer to Andrew Skene.

(4) "BANFF PARISH," a token of elliptical form, with a figure denoting the number of the table in the centre. On the other side, "This do in remembrance of me. But let a man examine himself." Date perhaps c. 1843.

Among the collection of tokens is what appears to be one having the letter "F," surmounted by an Earl's coronet, but this is probably not a token, although said to resemble one. The collection also contains a token not belonging to the Parish Church: "U.A. CONG. BANFF 1822." On the other side: "Do this in remembrance of me."

Notes on the History of S. Andrew's Chapel, Banff.

The following notes have been taken, by permission, from a paper read by Rev. James Davidson, Incumbent of S. Andrew's, Banff, to the Banffshire Field Club in 1887, of which Club he was then President. For supplementary notes, Mr. Davidson has kindly granted a perusal of a "Register containing the severall rights, acts, statuts and others of the St. Andrews Chappell in Banff, begune 3d of October 1723 years."

In the opening years of the eighteenth century a considerable proportion of the inhabitants of Banff were, as in other parts of the North of Scotland, strongly attached to Episcopacy, and among the number was to be reckoned the minister of the parish—Rev. William Hunter. Mr. Hunter's sympathy with the first Jacobite movement led to his deposition in 1716, and a few years thereafter the Episcopalians resolved to build a separate place of worship for themselves.

"The ground on which the new place of worship was being erected belonged to the Trades, and was by them, through their deacons, dispoined to the Guildry of the town in these terms:— 'That is to say, that the said above-named deacons for themselves, and as taking burden aforesaid, resign, give, and destinat that piece of ground in the north end of the yeard, purchased by them from William Baird of Auchmeddan on which the Chappell designed for ane Episcopall meeting-house is now in building . . . for the uses allenery aftermentioned' to the Guildry, reserving to themselves certain rights and privileges . . . 'Reserving to the said fornamed deacon and forsaid the use of the said house after it is built and finished for keeping their publick meetings, except on such days when divine service is to be performed in the said house. As also reserving to them liberty for building a loaf eighteen foot square, in the west end of the said chapel, for accommodating themselves, ather in time of Divine worship, or at their publict meetings as aforesaid, which loaf of the above dimensions, they, for themselves, and as taking burden as aforesaid, oblige themselves to build betwix this date and the fifteenth day of May nixt. For the which causes, and on the other part, the said merchants, for themselves, and in name of the gildry above mentioned, oblige themselves betwixt this and the fifteenth day of November nixt to come to finish the house founded upon the ground above specified, that is to say to furnish it with a sufficient sclated roof, with doors, locks, and windows, excepting the doors and windows belonging to the said loaf, which is to be furnished by the saids trades themselves, and to appropriat the said house after it is finished as above for being ane Episcopall Meeting House in all time comeing, and the saids merchants and deacons for themselves, and as takeing burden upon them as aforesaid, do appropriat the said house for being ane chappell for ane Episcopall minister to preach and administer every part of the ministeriall function thereintill in all time comeing. Debarring all Dissenters and Presbyterians from the use of the said house, and the said house is by thir presents named by the saids merchants and deacons forsaid St. Andrews Chappell, and doe appoint for patrons and managers of the said chappell five of the gildry, and two of the trades, to be chosen yearly by the gildry and the trades of the Episcopall communion, frequenters of the said chappell and communicants therein.'

"These patrons and managers had all necessary powers conveyed to them for the management of the property and electing a minister and doing everything required about the house in all time coming. Four of the seven were to constitute a quorum, which was always to include one of the trades. These managers had, as one of their duties, to provide the Guildry and Trades and any other of the inhabitants of the burgh of Banff that inclined to be hearers in the said chapel with convenient seats. And if it happened that the managers were absent from meetings on account of their own affairs, or 'refractive' to attend when need required, it was declared 'leisum and lawful' for the Guildry and Trades to elect others, being Episcopalians, in their room. Both parties obliged themselves and their forsaid to perform the premises, each to other, under the penalty of £20 Stg."

The Managers in 1723 were: "Alexander Abernethy of Corsky, George Barclay, merchant in Banff, William and James Duff, merchants there, James Gray, shoemaker, burgess of Banff, and George Mair, baker, late deacon convener of the said burgh." The Managers were elected yearly in November. Towards providing "a place of residence with a convenience to preach in," forty-six persons subscribed £164 10s. Sc. yearly [£13 14s. 2d. Stg.] while £752 8s. Sc. was subscribed towards the building by gentlemen in the town and country. These subscriptions included £63 Sc. from the Laird of Braco, and £37 12s. Sc. from Stoneywood. The Duchess of Gordon, the Countess of Erroll, the Laird of Brodie, and the Laird of Drummair, gave £25 4s. Sc. each, while £12 12s. Sc. was received from each of the following: Lady Knockorth, Lady Saltoun, Lord Pitsligo, the Laird of Rothiemay, the Laird of Auchmedden, Sir James Dunbar, Bognie, Blervie, Lessendrum, Montblairie, Montcoffer, Buckie, Rannes, and James Wallace in Bergen. Sir James Gordon of Park and William Stewart in Rotterdam gave £18 18s. Sc. each; William Fraser of Fraserfield, £37 16s. Sc.; while Alexander Andrew in Rotterdam gave £36 Sc. and a chest of glass "for the meeting-house." The building cost £793 12s. 10d. Sc. Separate subscriptions were made for providing seats, and accordingly in 1725 twenty-five persons subscribed £6 each "for the desks." "Plastering the house" cost £11 8s. Sc., and "hangeing the hearss 30s. Sc." In the earliest accounts is found a payment of 30s. Stg. "to Mr. Campbell, minister," but the first regular incumbent was—

I. ALEXANDER MURRAY (1723-1752).* He came to Banff from Aberdeen, and throughout his long ministry he continued to receive as salary £300 Sc. per annum [£25 Stg.], which sum included Easter and Pentecost offertories. The Register previously referred to embraces the period of Mr. Murray's incumbency, and, besides the minutes of the Managers, it contains a note of baptisms from 8th April, 1723, to 1st January, 1752, in all about 767 baptisms, or over 26 per annum; also two pages of marriages, from 24th April, 1723, to 21st February, 1745. Deaths or burials are not recorded.

Several minutes refer to the bad coinage, and the poverty-stricken state of our country during last century. In December, 1728, the treasurer had in his hands £12 Sc. of "dytts." On 3rd August, 1730, "the Managers have resolved to stand by their turn for some Sundays in order to give back any badd ha-pencie that shall be given in at the Chappell doors, and the clerk is to make intimation from the latron next Sunday for the same." In the following November, on the day of their election, the new Managers met and appointed their preses collector and treasurer for the ensuing year. In the balance of £113 1s. 6d., handed over at this date to the new treasurer, "is found to be bad ha-pence commonly call'd Maggy Robbs, £18 15s.; in old Irish Harps, £3 2s. 6d.; in Wood's ha'pence, named Hibernie's, £5 10s. 6d.; in French dytts and letter'd bodles, £9 11s. 8d.; in current coyn of copper, £78 10s." On 8th February, 1731, the Managers appointed the bad money in half-pence to lie in the treasurer's hands, and "the dytts and letter'd bodles to be disposed off, as far as can be taken from him by severall hands." The "Maggy Robs" in 1733 amounted to £46 18s. 6d. In 1736 the balance between the charge and discharge for the year was found to be £115 16s. 4d., and was thus made up: "£47 8s., bodles and dytts; £47 7s. 6d., Maggy Robs; £21 0s. 10d., currant coyn." The doits on hand in 1739 were sold for £12 18s. Sc.; and in 1743 the discount on doits, by changing them at four for a halfpenny, amounted to £7 5s. Sc.

* Cf. Vol. I., 196 (ter.).

“1744, January 5th. The preses taking into consideration that the Thesaurer cannot get disposed of the doits belonging to the chapel, appoints the 16th curt., at twelve o'clock, at Robert Innes house in Banff, to expose them to publick roup to the highest bidder, and likewise appoints said time for the exposing to roup all the bad halfpennies belonging to said chapel. Thos. Ogilvie.”

“1744, January 16th. 5s. Sc. and a farthing offered for each shilling stg. of the said bodles, amounting to £13 18s. Sc. No offer being made for the halfpennys, the Managers ordain them to be melted down, in order that they may not be brought back again, and when melted to be sold to the best account.” Thereafter the entry occurs: “To doits sold by order of the Managers, £14 1s. To good bodles, £3 6s.”

Deficient seat money amounted in November, 1731, to £33 19s. Sc.; in 1733 to £66 12s. Sc.; and in 1736 to £113 0s. 10d. Sc. In July, 1745, “the Managers find a great deficiency in the rents of the pews, and also the collections are fallen over one-third. They resolve to call a general meeting of the heads of families.” In the same year it was found that there were forty-nine pews in the chapel, of which twenty-seven paid £6 12s. Sc. per annum, the others mostly £3 6s. Sc. Occupants of the former class of seats were: George Panton, Dr. Strachan, Lady Knockorth, Collenard, John Russel, James Shand, Corskie (Alexander Abernethie), Melrose (William Leslie), Lady Auchmedden, &c.

The incumbent usually received the special offertories [the four offertories in 1737 amounted to £68 10s. Sc.], but only as part of his regular salary. Occasionally, however, the Managers distributed them, in whole or in part, to the poor, e.g., in 1729 they distributed £15 18s. 3d. Sc. “to indigent people in the place, and that out of the offertory collected at this Easter.” On 24th April, 1731, they “distributed the Easter offertory, amounting in all (after dues and elements paid) to £37 8s. 10d., whereof given to twenty-six poor persons the sum of £26 11s. Sc.” On 21st December, 1740, there was collected in the chapel “for relief of the poor housekeepers in Banff, £76 6s. 6d. Sc., which sum was distributed among sixty-two poor housekeepers.” It is stated in 1732 that “the Trads dispose of their own collections which is gathered at their Loft door without consent of the Managers or Treasurer.”

The annual statements of income and expenditure show that the affairs of the chapel prospered during the ministry of Mr. Murray. In 1728 the charge amounted to £362 12s. 10d., the discharge £331 6s. 4d., leaving a balance in hand of doits and cash of £33 6s. 6d. Sc. In 1730 the charge was £552 7s. 6d., and discharge £439 6s. In 1733 the seat rents (forty-five in number) brought in £218 15s., and collections at the chapel door £205 1s. 10d., the total receipts for that year being £740 3s. 10d. In 1736 the charge was £1078 12s. 10d., and discharge £962 16s. 6d. The seat rents in 1743 amounted to £245 8s., and the collections to £278 8s. 8d. Sc.

An organ appears to have been in use in the services of the church from an early period. In 1732 the Managers assigned £12 Sc. per annum to Alexander Shepherd “for his assistance at the organ,” he having petitioned for a set salary, and in the same year the Managers put 1s. Stg. yearly on the 10s. seats, and 6d. yearly on the crown seats, “in order to help paying the organist salary.” Next year the Managers are found dealing with a petition from Mr. Shunaman, whose creditors were pressing him. The Managers allowed Mr. Shunaman 1s. 6d. Stg. weekly meantime, and accordingly reduced James Fyfe’s salary as precentor to £20 Sc. for the year. In 1734 Mr. Shunaman’s salary was fixed at £100 Sc. per annum. There was borrowed in 1736 for “renewing” the organ, £19 8s. 6d. Stg. The organ appears to have been placed in a loft, for in 1738 it is recorded “the Managers resolve to build a loft ’twixt the Organ loft and the Trades’ loft of one long pew and a passage at the back for four or five families, costing £9 Stg. John Geddes was appointed organist in 1739 at a salary of £12 Stg. per annum, which it will be observed was about one-half of what the incumbent himself received. The organ was burned along with the chapel in 1746. In 1788 the organist's salary was £4 10s. Stg.

In the Accounts for 1737 is the following entry:—"By William Fleeman, painter, £3." This was no doubt for painting the Ten Commandments or texts of Scripture on the walls of the chapel, for in 1728 appears in the minutes of the Kirk Session of Cullen the entry:—"Paid two pounds eight shillings to William Fleeming, painter, for drawing some scripture sentences on the church walls." The style of the latter work may be seen at page 83 of "Church and Churchyard of Cullen," the original having been found when repairing the walls of that church a few years ago.*

An adjourned meeting of the Managers was held on 15th January, 1746, and was adjourned till 1st May; but before 1st May something occurred, and no more minutes are recorded in that volume. There are a few notes of accounts under the dates 12th February, 1747, and 1st March, 1749, but these are of no consequence.

The chapel was burned to the ground by orders of the Duke of Cumberland on Thursday, 10th April, 1746 (Cf. Vol. I., 125), and lay in ruins till 1752.

"One would have thought that the fact that the minister was duly qualified, having taken the oaths of allegiance, &c., his church would have been spared. That it did not shows the lawlessness of the time, or the rough-shod way in which Cumberland treated those whom he supposed likely to favour the pretensions of Prince Charlie. The soldiers utilized some of the wood-work to make fires in the houses where they were quartered."

II. JOHN BARCLAY, M.A., of Aberdeen University (1752-1755), was ordained deacon by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 24th May, 1752, and priest in June, 1753. His salary was £42 per annum, payable quarterly. A new chapel was built in his time, which cost £279 11s. 6d. Stg. When the chapel was building services were conducted in a house on the west end of a tenement of land belonging to John Russell on the west side of the High Street.

III. NATHANIEL MORGAN, M.A., of Aberdeen University (1755-1768), was ordained by the Bishop of Gloucester for the congregation at Ayr.† "The latter part of his incumbency was unsatisfactory. He seems to have mismanaged his affairs, was deeply in debt, was guilty of performing irregular marriages, and failed to visit his congregation or catechize the young and servants."

An organ was purchased for the congregation at a cost of £100, and a young man was sent to London to be taught to play it. This organ was in use in the congregation till the year 1871, when it was sold for £25.

IV. MICHAEL O'CLARE (1768-1769) was a native of Ireland, and had officiated for some years in Elgin. He was in straitened circumstances, and the congregation of Banff paid him more than the salary of two years for the six months he officiated to them.

V. CHARLES CORDINER (1769-1792) was ordained deacon by Bishop Newton of Bristol in 1769, and priest by Bishop Trail of Down and Connor in 1770. Mr. Cordiner's salary was only about £40. The congregation did not prosper during his incumbency, one reason being the existence of another Episcopal meeting house in Banff. From the year 1746 a good many persons of good social position in Banff adhered to the nonjuring clergy. For a time they had no settled clergyman of their own, but in 1778 they took off from the magistrates a feu in the Seatown, on the Braeheds, opposite to where Chalmers' Hospital now stands, in the name of the Bishop of Aberdeen, and built a chapel thereon. Rev. W. Smith was the first incumbent,

* Cf. Vol. I., 198.

† Cf. Vol. I., 303.

and was succeeded about 1786 by the Rev. Jonathan Watson, who "ministered also in Portsoy, and, after leaving Banff for Laurencekirk, was consecrated Bishop of Dunkeld."

As showing the amount of the collections in Mr. Cordiner's chapel, it may be noted that there was collected: 1785, September 4th, 7s. 8d.; September 11th, 5s. 6d.; September 18th, 4s. 2d.; September 25th, 4s. 5d. In 1786 the seat rents amounted to £14 14s. 6d. Stg.; collections and voluntary subscriptions, £28 9s. 4d. Total for the year, £43 3s. 10d. Stg.

In 1792, on the passing of the bill repealing the penal laws, the two congregations became one. It is stated that Mr. Cordiner's congregation was small, but their chapel was good, whereas Mr. Skinner's was large, but their chapel was poor. A lieutenant of Marines resident in the town, David Cumming, opposed the union, and brought an action in the Court of Session, which, however, the congregation gained, though it involved them in expenses that amounted to about £300. This sum was raised by the friendly aid of Bishop Horsley of St. Asaphs, and others. Mr. Cordiner was the author of a series of letters on the "Antiquities and Scenery of the North of Scotland," addressed to Thomas Pennant. The first letter bears date "Banff, 15th May, 1776." The work was published in 1780. He also wrote "Remarkable Ruins and Romantic Prospects of North Britain with ancient monuments and singular subjects of Natural History." London: Published by I. & J. Taylor, High Holborn, 1795. Mr. Cordiner died in 1794, at the age of 48, leaving a widow and eight children. He continued in the joint charge till his death.

VI. JOHN SKINNER (1792-1797) was the son of Primus John Skinner, and grandson of the poet. He came to Banff from Montrose, and left it for Forfar, where he became dean of St. Andrews. He was the author of "The Annals of Scottish Episcopacy," and of "The Scottish Communion Office, with a Dissertation and Collation of Offices."

VII. JAMES MILNE (1798-1815) was previously incumbent of Portsoy. Towards the close of his incumbency at Banff, his relations with the bishop of the diocese becoming somewhat strained, he removed to Frederickton, New Brunswick. He was the author of a pamphlet of eighty pages, entitled "The Difference stated betwixt the Presbyterian Establishment and the Episcopal Church of Scotland," of which a second edition was published at Aberdeen in 1811.

VIII. ALEXANDER BRUCE (1815-1862) was previously incumbent of S. John's, Aberdeen. He retired upon an allowance granted by the late Mr. Morison of Bognie, after an incumbency of forty-seven years. A new chapel was built in 1833, Mr. A. Simpson, Aberdeen, being architect. The foundation stone was laid at the south-east corner of the front wall. The building was consecrated on 6th April, 1834, by Bishop Skinner. The cost of the building was £1133. A parsonage and school since erected by the congregation cost about £1867.

IX. JAMES DAVIDSON (1862-) was born at Northside, Wartle, 11th July, 1827, educated at the local schools, and thereafter at the Grammar School, Aberdeen, under Dr. Melvin, at Marischal College, Aberdeen, and at Glenalmond, Perthshire, at which last he was Suscombe Scholar in 1853. He was ordained deacon and priest in 1854 by Bishop Trower of Glasgow and Galloway. For eighteen months he had charge of S. John's, Baillieston, and in 1856 became Incumbent of S. Matthews, Meldrum, which incumbency he held till June, 1862, when he removed to Banff, having been appointed to the incumbency of S. Andrews, now Rectory, under the latest canons of the Episcopal Church, and this appointment he continues to hold.

Brief Notes on other Churches in the Burgh. (From Nicol, Imlach, &c.)

The FREE CHURCH is situated in Castle Street, and was "erected immediately after the Disruption. Rev. Francis William Grant, ordained parish minister in 1821, was accompanied to the Free Church by a large body of the parishioners. The church, designed by Mr. Raeburn, architect, Edinburgh, has a massive front in dressed freestone, with portico supported by Doric columns, and is surmounted by a spire. It cost £1800, and was seated for 800. In 1877 the church was renovated and enlarged to the extent of 100 sittings at a cost of £1500." A flourishing school connected with the church and adjoining thereto was in operation till the passing of the Education Act. In 1891 the church had 595 members or adherents, and contributed £294 to the Sustentation Fund. The present minister of the church is Rev. James Watson Geddie, who was ordained in 1861.

The UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH was erected in 1880 at a cost of £1800, and contains 275 sittings. Mr. Alexander Ross, Inverness, was the architect. "The origin of the congregation is peculiar. About 1808 a Congregational Church was formed, and some twenty years later a dispute arose over a case of discipline, in which the chief deacon and some forty members were arrayed against the minister, Mr. Gibb. The deacon and his party left, and became the U.P. congregation." Mr. Gibb, who was ordained in 1809, left for America in 1829. The building at the junction of Carmelite and Reid Streets was erected about 1824 as their church, being seated for 600 persons, and was sold in 1879 for £260. The present minister of the church is Rev. Adam B. Rogerson, who was ordained in 1865.

The CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH was formed by members and adherents of the Established Church, who withdrew from the ministry of the Rev. Andrew Skene owing, it is stated, to his Socinian doctrines, and joined the Relief body. Many of them, however, returned on Mr. Skene's death in 1792, and the remainder formed themselves in 1808 into a Congregational Church. The well-known Rev. John Murker, who died in 1881 (see sub "The Churchyard"), was pastor of the congregation for upwards of half a century.

The WESLEYAN METHODIST CHAPEL, "an attractive Gothic structure, with massive front mostly in freestone, at the angle of Reidhaven Street, was opened in 1879," Mr. Ormiston, Edinburgh, being the architect. It contains 259 sittings, and cost about £1400. "The building was provided during the incumbency of Rev. George Makin, and is the third that the congregation have erected since their formation in 1777 after the visit of John Wesley." The present incumbent is Rev. George Hooper.

The ROMAN CATHOLIC CHAPEL—the Chapel of our Lady of Mount Carmel—was erected in 1870, with sittings for 234 persons, Mr. Alexander Ellis, Aberdeen, being architect. It is a handsome building, and cost about £1300. In 1836 there were seventeen Roman Catholic families comprising 84 persons, in Banff, and connected with the congregation were 96 persons. The number of Catholics in Banff in 1868 is given by Mr. James Imlach as fifty, but when the new chapel was opened two years later the congregation was stated to number about two hundred. Rev. Colin C. Mackenzie succeeded the Very Rev. Æneas Chisholm as priest.

The Salvation Army and other religious denominations have members and adherents in the burgh,

THE SCHOOL.

LITTLE is known of the state of education in the burgh prior to the Reformation. The signatures appended to deeds of that period, as well as other indications, lead to the inference that as in most other burghs in Scotland a Grammar School did then exist, and accordingly we meet with "Dominus Gulliermus Clerk, preceptor Schole Grammatices de Banff," but chiefly as a witness to legal deeds. One of these deeds, now in the charter room of Forglen House, is of date 6th October, 1544, and is a charter granted by William Smith, Prior of the Carmelites of Banff, with consent of William Stob, Provincial of the Order in Scotland, in favour of Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugas, of the lands of Dalhauche, the lands of Sandyhills and the Bell's Croft. Sir William Clerk combined the offices of notary public and chaplain. He is apparently the person referred to in the Register of the Great Seal under date 20th July, 1546, wherein it is stated that the Queen granted letters of legitimation to "Andree Clerk, bastardo filio naturali D. Willelmi Clerk, capellani in Banf." From another deed in Forglen House it appears that on 6th March, 1547, the Provost and Magistrates of the burgh fixed the salary of Sir William Clerk at five merks, payable half-yearly.* It is said to be therein stated that the salary was for life,† and was granted "pro erigendis et docendis per eum scolis grammaticalibus continue in dicta urbe de Banff." The chaplain states that he not having a seal of his own, Archibald Lyddale and James Bard, bailies of Banff, had appended their seals for him.

* Ninian Winzet, the opponent of Knox, in 1562 expresses his surprise "that in many townis thair is not sa mekle providit thairto [i.e., to Grammar Schools] as a common house and in nane almaist of al ane sufficient life to ane techar."

† The earliest instance of a life appointment that Mr. Grant (History of the Burgh Schools of Scotland) was aware of was that of the schoolmaster of Haddington in 1563.

Thomas Baird is referred to in the Burgh Records as "maister of schowill" in July, 1550, and on 13th April, 1551, the following entry occurs:—

"The said day the maister schowill of Banff, Sir Wm. Clark, grantit in jugment to pay Maige Steill 6s. 8d. in terme of law."

The charter granted by Bishop Cunningham on 31st March, 1585, is the next fact relating to the burgh school in existing record. That charter provided that a Grammar School be established and continued in the burgh of Banff, the school to be presided over by a Rector, pious and moral, and skilled in the Greek and Latin tongues, his presentation to rest with the Town Council, and his collation with the Bishops of Aberdeen. As salary for the Rector the Bishop, with advice of the Dean and Chapter, set apart the tithes of certain lands that belonged to the Bishop as they were found entered in the Red Book of Alexander III., amounting in all to £44 18s. 8d. Sc. (£3 14s. 10d. Stg.). A confirmation of this charter was granted by King James in 1592, and a copy of the confirmation appears in this volume sub "Charters," along with the leading chronological details connected with this barren grant.

The Accounts of the Common Good of Burghs (Gen. Reg. House) contain the following entries relating to Banff:—

"1612. Item to the Maister of Scole for his fie xl merkis.

"Item to his chalmer mail and scoile xx merkis.

"1622. Inprimis to our maister of our scholl lxxx merkis.

"1628. Inprimis to the maister of the grammer schooll £53 6s. 8d.

"Item for reiding of the prayeris and uptaking of the psalme xx li."

With the year 1620 practically commences the history of the Grammar School of Banff. In that year the authorities of the burgh signed the following contract with Mr. George Chalmer to be their Schoolmaster, which is instructive as affording an insight into the qualifications, duties, and salary of a teacher at that time:—

"At Bamf the saxt day of October the yeir of God 1^m. vi^c. and tuentie yeiris It is apoynted, contracted, and agriet betuix the provest, balives and counsell of the bruche of Banff for thame selffis and in name and behalff of thair successores, provest, balives and counsell therof on the ane pairt and Mr. George Chalmer son lafull to wmqhill Maister George Chalmer shereff clerk of Banf on the wther pairt in maner

1628, May 6.—"Comperit judicallie Mr. Robert Andersone, present maister of the gramer schuill, and of his awin frie motiwe will, wncoacted and compellit, renouncit, dischargeit, dimittit, and quteclaimed the said gramer schuill and his office of being Master of the same at all tyme fra the terme of Witsunday nixt."

1628, July 1.—"The counsell ordanis ane edict to be send to Aberdein for publisching the present want of ane maister of schuill and to caus affix the same on the colledge yettis."

The advertisement brought forward one William Strachan, who continued some years schoolmaster at a salary of £80 Sc. The repair and renewal of school buildings and furniture was not in these days a heavy item in the annual burgh accounts. Barring an occasional item, like "for the key of the schoole dor, 4s. Sc.," the buildings seem to have been self-supporting. However, in 1632, came a new schoolmaster, Robert Brown, bringing with him no doubt new ideas, and hence arose additional expenses to the burgh. The sum of 39s. Sc. was expended at the ceremony of his admission, and "the biging of the gavell of the new schoole with stane and lyme" cost £65 2s. 8d. Sc., and "the biging of the seatis in the new schoole," conjoined with repairs to the tolbooth, actually involved the burgh in an outlay of £6 16s. 4d. Sc. Mr. Brown's salary was fixed as hitherto at £80 Sc. per annum. The site of that new school was not far from where the school was destined, with some slight interruptions, to remain some two centuries, and where it had probably existed for many years before. The boundaries of certain tenements in 1632 show it to have been situated in the neighbourhood of the Gledisgreen and the "sea shore of the water of Doverne."

On 6th January, 1633, a formal contract was completed between the magistrates and the aforesaid Mr. Robert Brown, son of William Brown in Drumquhtull, Mr. Brown engaging to teach the Grammar School for three years, on conditions almost exactly similar to those of the contract entered into with Mr. George Chalmer in 1620. He was required to read the prayers and to act as Clerk of Session, his salary to be 100 merks Sc. "as ordinar stipend furthe of the comoune guid of the burghe," with other 20 merks, "makand in the hail the soume of fourscoir pundis, and that upon the said Mr. Robert his guid behaviour, honest and deutifull cariage, and as they sall think him worthie of the same and na vtherwayes." The fees were fixed at the same rate as in the last contract, also the "saidis provest and bailyies giwis and lennis to the said Mr. Robert the chamber wnder the present schoolhouse with ane standbed therein for his better eas, mailfrie, and but payment of onye dewtie for the samen." An additional clause was inserted in this agreement:—

"And forder the said Mr. Robert for the better discharge of his dewtie concerning the governament of the said schoole bindis and obligis him to giwe dew advertisement raithlie to the saidis provest and bailyies, or giweing advertisement to sum clergie men and scholeris for having compt and examinatioune tackin of the said youthe raithlie anent quhat they haif profetit in thair leirning, ilk ane of them, according to thair progres, and mairover sall giwe dew advertisement to the saidis provest and bailyies be the space of thretein weikis befor the said Mr. Robert his removing fra the said schoole quhen it sall happin, to the effect they may be tymouslie provydit of ane wther maister to the said schoole, least the samen suld vaik throw waunt of ane maister."

The following extracts give an idea of the outlays the burgh was called upon to pay on its school buildings:—In 1635 Mr. Brown was repaid £4 1s., which he had expended in "outstraking of ane window in the backsyd of the school," and four years later there are recorded outlays of £5 10s. for "daillis for mending of the schoole fluire, 15s. for naillis, and £3 3s. 4d. to Paul Gregor, wright, for mending theroff." A year or two later occur: "For bandis and snekkis to the schoolhouse windowes, with tackettis and naillis, 31s.; for making of twa windowes to the schoole and removeing and upputting of the bairnes seattis, 46s. 8d."

What became of the "new" schoolhouse referred to as erected a few years previously cannot be ascertained, but the following extract shows that recourse was now had to the old one:—

"1643, April 4. The provest, &c., considering the great prejudice the burgh susteins throug want of ane sufficient schoolhous, thairfoir have thought expedient that the old schoolhous, quhilk is presentlie down, shall be visited and, eftir visitatione, that ane cours shall be takin for re-edifeing and building up of the samen." The visitors with practical workmen reported what "will be necesser in expenses and moneyis for upputting of the samen in wall, thack and ruiff." In the following month it was reported that certain persons had "bigged and vpput certaine houses vpon the wall of the old schoolhous now presentlie to be bigged." They are accordingly ordered to demolish and cast down the same.

The Town Council having apparently put their school in proper repair, passed a stringent Act regarding teachers:—

"1643, December 5. Quhilk day the provest, ballyies and counsell of the burgh, for certaine sufficient reasones and guid considerationes, have statut and ordained that it shall not be leasum nor lafull to nae persone nor persones quhatsumeuir within the said burgh to presume nor tak vpon tham at thair awin handis without speciall license and tollerance of the saids provest, ballyies and counsell to tak vp schoolis for educating and vptraining of young children in English letters, reiding and sowing, and that vnder the payne of tuentie pounds toties quoties to be paid be the contraveiners to the thesaurer of the said burgh. The said day the Provost, &c., gives license and libertie to Cristiane Kennedye, relict of vmquhill James Robsone, burges, to teach ane English schoole within the said burgh for the educateing of young children in reiding, sowing, and sic vther vertew as schoe can teach them and that as lang as schoe is able to teach the said schoole, and does faythfullie, carefullie and diligently attend the same."

Early in 1647 a supplication was read in Parliament from the town of Banff, representing their school and other buildings "all being demolischt and brokin doun" by Montrose and others. This would appear to refer to the rebuilt "old" schoolhouse, but this cannot be positively affirmed, for the worthy burghers seem to have introduced a little colouring into their supplication, for the sake of effect.

In May, 1647, a contract was signed betwixt the town of Banff and Mr. William Seaton, "soun to Mr. Alexander Seatoun, minister of Godis word at the kirk of Banff, anent the Grammer Schoole." The agreement was "for the hail space of ane yeir," the conditions being similar to those before, viz., the schoolmaster "sall tak vp the psalme within the kirk at all occasionis necessar, and as he shall be requyred," "and shall exercise the dewtie of a clerk to the kirk sessione," &c. A new clause is introduced to the following effect:—"And forder the said Mr. William faythfullie bindes and obleiges him to help and supplie the said Mr. Alexander Seatoun, his father, and his successores, ministeris, and serving the cure at the said kirk, in catechising and examining of the parochiners thairoff, as he shall be requyred thairto."

There is no reference to reading the common prayers in this contract, nor in that entered into two years subsequently. The salary was fixed at £80 Sc., "and the said Mr. William shall have for ilk tounes bairne of the said burgh, for stipend and colledge fie, thretteine shillingis, four pennies mo^e., and for ilk outlandes bairne tuentie shillinges mo^e. for stipend and colledge fie, and that quarterlic, and at the beginning of ilk quarter." Robert Sharp, servitor to John Baird, Sheriff Clerk, was a witness to the deed.

The engagement with William Seaton lasted little longer than "the hail space of ane yeir," for in 1649 an indenture was made betwixt the Provost and Bailies, on the one part, and Mr. James Petrie on the other part, the latter agreeing to act as schoolmaster "for thrie yeires." The salary, fees, and conditions as to catechising, acting as clerk to the session, and taking up the psalm, continued as before. The new teacher engaged to give six months notice of removal. Robert Sharp, now styled "wreiter in Banff," was a witness to the deed.

The next extant indenture was signed in 1663, when William Mair engaged with the magistrates to teach the burgh school "for the space of ane year," with three months notice of leaving, he observing all the conditions signed by his predecessor James Petrie, but he was "liable to be dismissed at any quarterlie visitation." Twenty merks of his salary was declared to be payable "wpoun the said Mr. William Mair his good behavior, honest and dewetifull cariage, and as they [the Magistrates] think him worthie of the samen and no wtherwayes." He was guaranteed the usual fees, "togidder with the chalmer within the said schoole, with the bed, press, and studie, as formerlie was possessit be Mr. James Petrie." The following clause, omitted in the two previous agreements, was again inserted:—"And sall lykwayes reid the comone Prayeris and chapteris, devoitlie, tuyse ilk weik day, viz., morneing and evineing, within the kirk of the said burghe, and for that effect sall cum in to the said kirk immediatlie efter the ringing of the bell sall ceis, and on the sabothe in the morneing, and siclyk betuixt the secund and thrid bell, befornoon and efternoon, sall reid and say the prayeris, and sall tak wp the phsalme, within the said kirk, at all occasionis necessar, and as he salbe requyrit."

1663, January 16.—"The names of the childring given to the magistratis and counsell that are to be intertained at the schooll on the wictuell mortified be the deceist Alex^r. Wynchester for that effect, viz., James Neill, James Wynchester and Peter Wynchester, quhilkis thrie childring hes tuentie bollis meill equallie to be devydit amongst them, payable out of the lands of Steinney, within the pariochin of Alvache, woodset to the said deceist Alex^r. Wynchester." The boys are to be entitled to the benefit of the Mortification for four years, are to be examined quarterly, "howe they proffeit in thair learneing, and of thair hoeps to be ane schollar," and to be put to a trade if they give no hopes of being a scholar. It is recommended that "no young boy be enterit to the said place to consume tyme be the youngnes of his yeiris."*

* The original deed of mortification by Alexander Winchester of 20 bollis meal out of Stonieley and Knocknie in Alvah for the maintenance of three bursars is of date 24th December, 1661, and bears:—"Forsameikle as I have leived within the said burghe and be my vertewe and industrie hes acyqured some meanis within the samen and hes ane lykng and goodwill to the said burghe and wishes earnestlie the florisheing thairof and of the trewe Christian religione professed within the same," &c.

1673, November 12.—At a meeting of Presbytery held at Fordyce a letter was read from the Lord Bishop to examine Master Francis Fordyce, who had been nominated and presented by the burgh to be master of the Grammar School. “His Lo/ desyred that the presbyterie wold put him to such tryalls anent his skill in grammar and Latine authors and also in the Greek New Testament as they knew to be requisit for on in that functione. The brethren accordingly prescryved to him ane tryall in the ninth book of Lucan ab initio to expone and analyse and scance, and to have ane oratione in Latine de animae immortalitate, and to expone the Greek Testament ad aperturam libri.” The trial took place on 10th December, when he was judged sufficiently qualified. Thereafter the Bishop certified as follows, under extracts of Minutes of Presbytery of date 12th November and 10th December:—“We Patrick, be the mercy of God, Bishope of Aberdeen, haveing seen and considered the above writtin report from the presbytrie of Fordyce, anent Mr. Frances Fordyce, doe hereby authorize the said Mr. Frances to exercise the function of schoollmaster in the grammer school of the brough of Bamfe. Given vnder our hand the tuentie third day of Jarii, 1674, at Old Aberdeen.

PAT. Bp. of Aberdeen.”

An indenture was signed, agreeably to the former custom, on 15th July, 1674, by the Magistrates and Mr. Francis Fordyce, “son to Androw Fordyce, induellar in Kirktown of Dyk, in Murray.” The terms of the indenture were almost identical with those of 1663. The salary was 100 merks, with 20 merks additional, at the discretion of the Magistrates. The following new clause appears:—“It is agriet that the hail buikis belonging to the said school sall be receavit be the said Mr. Francis be ane inventor subscriyvit with his hand and doeth heirby obleige himself to leive the samen at his removeing from the said schooll in als good integritie as they are delyverit to him conforme to the said inventar.”*

* “Ane nott of the bookes that belongs to the toun in the Gramar School” delivered to Mr. William Mitchell, 6th November, 1683, by Mr. Francis Fordyce: “All Ovid’s vorks in folio, Munster’s Cosmographie, Quintelian, Valerius Maximus, Ciceronis epistole familiares, a part of Calopeus Dictionarie, a peice of Virgill, Plautus, Calopeus Dictionarie, ane other Dictionar, Virgill in 8^o, ane other old Virgill in 8^o, ane Session buk register of Mr. Robert Broun’s, ane sessione minute off Mr. James Petrie for 7 yeirs tyme, Dictionarium poeticum, Roman Antiquities, Buchanan’s Psalms, Terentius, Jonston’s Psalms, Buchanan’s Epigrams, Marschiall’s Epigrams, Salustius, Barclayes Argenis,” &c. The books were 36 in number. Of these only the two session records are now known to be in existence. The books used in the Grammar School of Aberdeen in 1700 were: “Wedderburn’s Vocables, Liliu Sulpitius, Disticha Catonis, Ovid’s Epistles, Virgil’s Epigrams, Moretuni Terentii Andrea, Corderius Minora Erasmi Colloquia, Ludovici Vivis Dialogi, Minores Ciceronis Epistolae, Dialogi Sacri Sebastiani, Ursius’ Catechism, Kirkwood’s Ortheographie and Syntax, Buchanan’s Paraphrase on the Psalms, Colloquia Erasmi Majora, Sweton, and Dispauper’s Grammar.”

The teaching arrangements that had subsisted in the burgh for at least sixty years were now to undergo some modification, and the very appearance of the precise and stringent terms of the several agreements that had been entered into by the Magistrates during that period leads one to infer that certain of the schoolmasters at least, both during that period and before it, had not altogether answered the expectations of the burghers.

As one enters the side gate of the churchyard, among the first objects to strike the eye is a small plain slab informing us in simple terms that under that stone moulder the remains of "Mr. Paul Keith, musick master in Banf, who was precentor in this church 50 years." To this Paul Keith we are now introduced.

With due formality the Magistrates and Kirk Session on the one part, and Paul Keith, resider in Banff, on the other part, entered in 1680 into an agreement. The latter undertook to teach music, both vocal and instrumental, arithmetic and writing, and to keep a constant school therefor. Music and arithmetic were to be taught daily every week day, from one till three o'clock in the afternoon, to such scholars of the Grammar School as should frequent his school. He also engaged to present in church every Sabbath and lecture day, use and wont, and obliged himself that his wife should teach the weaving of carpet and sewing of all other seams, and should do her exact diligence to make her scholars perfect therein. The Kirk Session engaged to pay him £20 and the Magistrates to pay him 50 merks, and the latter, moreover, engaged that during his indenture no English School be taught within the burgh. His fees were appointed to be half a merk for each English scholar taught by him to read and write, and "half ane crown quarterlie for teaching each scholar musick and arithmetick, and the said Paul Keith his wife to have 13s. 4d. Sc. for each scholar that she learns to weave carpet and severall other seams."

Little is known of the Grammar School about this time; but it was not altogether neglected, as an occasional entry like the following in the burgh expenditure shows: "Paid for dovets to the school floor, 14s. Sc."

In the same year Mr. Francis Fordyce demitted his charge, and on 20th October, 1683, "The Magistrats and Counsel consider that the method in proceeding to the choosing off ane schoolmaister shall be by way of publick dispute, wherby his qualifications and abilities may fullie appear befor ane competent number off the clergie and have appoynted their be a progreem publicklye emitted and sett furth inviting all young students to keep and attend the fyft and sext dayes off November for proceeding and going on in the said dispute." *

Alexander Watt appears to have been thereupon appointed Schoolmaster ; at least he occupied that position in 1685, but education did not continue to flourish in the burgh.

1690, October 26.—“The magistrats and counsell takeing to their consideratione the great decay off the Gramer Schooll, partly occasioned' by the inhabitants there detaineing there children therfrae, yea evin those that are able and in ane conditione vithout there prejudice to mantaine them thereat, and vthers putteing them out of toune to landward schoolls, although the schoollmaster hes undertaken to educat those of the inhabitants children who are not able to intertaine them at schoolls, Ordaines therefor that all the inhabitants children fitt for schoolls be immediatly putt therto only to such schoolls as are sett up by the Magistrats authoritye, strickly prohibiting any person to take upon hand to teach children without the Magistrats and Counsells order, and such of the inhabitants children as are come to aige and so not fitte for schooll be putt to trads under the paine of banishment.”

The salaries at this time paid by the burgh to their schoolmaster was £120 Sc., and to the precentor £50 Sc. The outlays on the school were then of the most primitive character, as the following for 1693 will show : “4½ fathom of towes to the schooll bell 13s. 4d., For ane hund : divats to the schooll 5s. 8d., For ane load clay to the schooll windowes 8d.” The total outlays, besides the salary, amounted to about £16 Sc. annually.

In 1692 the burgh expended “for maill of ane house to ane English schoolmistris £10,” and “for the yearly mantainance of the schooll £16.”

Mr. Watt resigned previous to 1694, and Mr. Alexander Duncan officiated as interim, but failed to give satisfaction.

The burgh accounts for Michaelmas, 1696, to Michaelmas, 1697, inform us that the school building had again become ruinous: “For removing the school to Auchry's house, 24s. Ane tree to hing the school bell, 18s. Six fathom small towes for ringing thereof, 6s.” Another entry is a charge of £1 “for takeing down the school and careing the timber.” On 3rd November, 1696, the treasurer was instructed “to repaire the thatch by divoteing the house last employed for ane school, and to build up the windowes of the old schooll that the timber be not stolen or away taken."

The school, however, was soon rebuilt, for on the 3rd November, 1698, these entries appear in the accounts:—"For flitting the schoole, 18s.; for 66 trees to the school, at 16s. 6d. per tree, £54 9s.; 6 bolls lime to the schools use, £1 16s.; 500 loads of stones to the school, £20." In 1699 the burgh paid these charges: "For taking down the old schooll and redding the found, £2 8s.; 360 load of clay and sand, £10 10s.; for skleats and skleating, £104 9s. 8d., besyds 700 skleats resting to my Lord Boyn, £9; for fogg, £6; 4 roods of mason work, £42 13s. 4d.; for 50 dealls to be dasks, £20."

The accounts show that the school was harled, that it had freestone lintels, and that the total cost of erection, including accounts of mason, carpenter, glazier, &c., was £498 13s. Sc. [£41 11s. Sterling], to defray which Patrick Duff of Castleton, Peter Russell of Montcoffer, and Provost Leslie mortified 100 merks each, and Provost Leslie having given a donation of other £50, there remained a debt on the school of £248 13s. Sc. Provost Leslie had been appointed by the Town Council in January, 1698, as manager for building the school, and Bailie Sanders "to collect such woluntar contributione as God shall move the hearts of the inhabitants to contributt towards the building theroff."

It is recorded in the Minutes of Town Council of 1701 that Provost Leslie, having gifted to the town £363 16s. Sc., the Council granted him a bond therefor, and authorized him "to affix his name and airmes one the schooll house as builder, crecter and donor."

January.—"Sir William Sharp of Stonniehill has mortified £50 Sterling for making up ane provision to schoolmasters of Banff present and to come."

In September, 1698, George Morrison, schoolmaster of Boyndie, was appointed schoolmaster of Banff in succession to Alexander Syme, at a salary of £80 Sc., "and for each schollar whose parents are inhabitants the soume of 13s. 4d. quarterlie, and those whose parents live in the country, tuentie s. Sc.," "and to continew in the said imployment and charge during his good behaviour and peaceable demanor."

It is simply recorded of Alexander Syme that he demitted office, but the next entry may suggest an explanation.

"1698, October 1st.—As severalls of the schollars in time bygone have rebelled against ther former maister and wer encouradged by ther parents so to doe, the Court enacts that any such schollars to be extrudit the schooll, and ther parents who connives att or authorizes them in ther said stubernes or rebellione to be fyned in 40s. Sc., and any scholler who shall damnifie the fabreik of the schoolhouse, break the glasse windowes, cutt, brak, or abuse the daskes, &c., to be lyable for damnadges."

Another entry has a like reference: "1700. £5 Sc. paid to Janet Rind, relict of Robert Turner, for damage done to her house, used as a School the tyme Mr. Alex. Syme was maister of the Grammar School of Banff,"

In 1699 an arrangement was almost completed which would perhaps have saved no little discussion in after times, whereby the bursars on Redhythe's Mortification were to be settled at Banff:—

June 24.—"Ther being a proposal made by the Lord Boyne anent the settling the bussars to the Mortificatione of Walter Ogilvie of Reidhyth at the schooll of Banff in tyme comeing wch wer formerlie settled att the schooll of Fordyce and boarded theratt upon the Magistrats ther alloweing the said Lord Boyne, patron of the said Mortification, an consent to the pleacing of any schoolmaister that shall be chosen to be schoolmaister at the said school of Banff in time comeing, which the Magistrats in full Counsell heirby allowes to the said patrone, and consent to the choiseing of any schoolmaister in tyme comeing durezza his continoweing the boardeing and schooleing the said bussars at the schooll of Banff and payeing the schoolmaister the dewes spect. in Reidhyth's mortificatione, and ordaines thir presents to be extract in full forme, and ane extract therof delivered to my Lord Boyne to instruct his consent to the effect forsaid."

December 20.—"The Magistrats allows the schoollars ther Yuill play from the 22nd of December instant to the seventeenth of January nixt," 1702.

July 25.—The visitation of the school by the minister and Town Council is to take place on Monday next. [The proficiency of the school and scholars is approved by the visitors.]

1703.

May 1.—The Town Council “ordered that James Fyf, son to the laith Bailye, be put to the schooll att the Rud day for learning to read, wreitt, and count, and ordaines the denagild to pay his board and colledge fie, and continew him att schoolls as he profets.”

October 2.—“Moved in the Court [Head Michaelmas] that it is ane grevance* that ther is not morning and evening prayers and reading in the church dayly each day of the week and one Sunday before forenoon and afternoon sermons. The Court of unanimous consent determines, decerns, and ordains that the Schoolmaster of the Grammer School say prayers, morning and evening, in the church thorrow out the haill week days of the year, and that betwixt seven and eight in the morning, and betwixt sex and seven hours att night, each day of the week, and one the Sabbath day att the said hours, beside entering againe att the second bell forenoon and afternoon for praying and reading till the ringing of the third bell without prejudice to the schollars to repeat such ane part of the Catechisme as the master shall prescrive. The Head Court ordains ane visitatione of the school on Thursday.”

February 5.—Patrick Lesly protested that George Morrison having deserted the school without the liberty of the Council, and having become a preacher, that Patrick Anderson, late doctor in the school, be elected schoolmaster. Patrick Lesly objected to the appointment of Patrick Morrison, late doctor in the school, to be schoolmaster, “because he is not graduat and so is not in ane capacitie to say evining and morneing prayer and read in the church the samen, being ane part of the schoollmasteris dewitye." He objects to him also "because there is noe order or method kept either within or without the schooll, the schollers being incuraged to swearing and drinking and vther inormityes partly by the master's neglect to chastise them and partly by evill exemple." He also objects to him as not being qualified to instruct, particularly in Latin and Greek, as being "a habituall drunkard and cairder and speciallie it is offered to be proven that he went in with ane caball of his owne to the house of Ballyie Wallace one night at sevin acloack at night and drank and played at cards all that night untill sevin acloack nixt morneing." The Magistrates and Council ordered that the above protest be not inserted in the principal Register, as the same is scandalous and ought not to be inserted until proven.

October 2.—The Council "orders that the schoolmaister frequent the church, Tuesday and week-days morneing, att seven acloack in the morning, and sexe acloack in the evening, and ther to read and pray, wherin if he faillie the Magistrats will consider his contempt and abstract his sallarie accordingly, wherof he is to be advertised, and that the minister may be acquainted to intimat the dyets of praying from pulpit in order that the people may attend."

In spite of the protest of Patrick Leslie, Patrick Morrison was appointed schoolmaster, for his resignation is recorded in 1709.

December 16.—"The schollars of the Grammer School gave in their petitione for allowing them there Yule play, according to use and wont." They are allowed "waccance from Thursday the 21st instant inclusive to Thursday the 11th January next exclusive, and recomends to the saids schollars to behave themselves as becometh."

1711.

March 26.—A letter to be sent to Mr. Alexander Davidson, late governor to the Laird of Pitullie, to see if he will accept of the post of Grammar Schoolmaster, Mr. William Simpson, schoolmaster, having been competing as a candidate for the Regency of the University of Aberdeen, and is like to carry the post.*

* "Att Kings Colledge the 21st day of February 1711 years, convened the principall and all the masters except Doctor Urquhart, who was necessarily out of toune.

"Which day . . . the masters conforme to the appointment of the nynteent past proceeded to the filling of the Regencie vacant by Mr. Blak's being made sub-principall; and it being putt to a vote by the principall whether they would elect a Regent of any other colledge,* or emitt a program, † it carried by all the masters who had right to vote, except Mr. Alexr. Gordon, Humanist, and Mr. Alexr. Fraser, Regent, that a program for a Dispute should be emitted inviting all persons who pleased to dispute for the said Regency to appear at the said colledge the twelfth day of March at ten a'clock in the Forenoon for that effect. . . ."

"Att the Kings Colledge, 12 March, 1711, etc.

"Which day . . . after calling of the said program, compeared Mr. William Simsone, schoollmaster at Banff, Mr. John Gordon, son to Mr. Robert Gordon, Minister at Clunie in Perthshire, Mr. Alexr. Burnet, Governour to the Laird of Drum, younger, and Mr. John Monro, Governour to George Monro, younger of Culrain, who all listed themselves as candidats and competitors for the vacant Regency. . . . Afterwards there being subjects out of all the four parts of philosophic drawn by lott by the saids competitors, the said Mr. William Simsone his subject was De rerum possibilitate et impossibilitate, Mr. John Gordon his subject De prima morum regula, Mr. Alexr. Burnet his subject De principiis corporum, and Mr. John Monro his subject De origine fortium fluviorum; and all of them were appointed against the morow being the threente befor four a'clock in the afternoon to give in to the principall or in his absence to the sub-principall, each of them copies of Theses upon their respective subjects, viz. a copie for everie master and one for every competitor; and the said Mr. William Simsone was appointed against thursday nixt at nyne a'clock in the morning to have a discourse on his forsaid subject not exceeding half ane hour length, and every one of the rest of the competitors after finishing the said discourse to impugne the theses to be given in by him, each of them not exceeding half ane hour in his objections; and the said Mr. John Gordon was appointed to have his discourse of the same length with the former at three a'clock in the afternoon of the said Thursday, and his antagonists to object after the same maner against his theses; and Mr. Alexr. Burnet was appointed on freday att nyne a'clock in the morning, and Mr. John Monro at three a'clock in the afternoon to have ther discourses and ther antagonists ther objections after the same maner and in the same termes with the other two: That so the masters may be in a readiness to meet on Saturday nixt att nyne a'clock in the morning for decding the said disputes."

"Att Kings Colledge, 17 March, 1711, etc.

"The said day the principall having represented the severall steps of the tryall amongst the competitors in prosecution of the program for the vacant Regency, and having read to them both the act of the commission of parliament and also the severall passages of the fundatione of the Colledge anent the election of Regents, putt it to the vot of the severall masters concerned; and there being only sex besides himself that had right to judge and vot in the said affair, viz. the Sub-principall and two Regents, the Humanist, Civilist, and Mediciner, three of the saids members voted for Mr. William Simsone, and the other three for Mr. Alexander Burnet, so that the saids votes were equal, and the principall adjoynd his vot in favour of Mr. William Simsone, so that the pluralitie of those who had clearly right to vot carried it in favours of the said Mr. William Simsone . . ."

Eodem die at three a'clock afternoon.

Mr. William Simsone takes the foundation oath and the oath de fidei, and is formally admitted "to enter on munday morning with the class."

23 March, 1712.

Mr. Alexander Burnett admitted Regent in place of Mr. William Simsone, "now schoollmaster at Dalkeith."

1712.

Alexander Davidson, schoolmaster, reported that a bell for the school had been made by Albert Gelly, Aberdeen, weighing 25 lbs. 4 oz. (£25 5s. Sc.). The old bell sent weighed 3 lbs. 10 oz.

1713.

February 14.—Paid £8 4s. 8d. Sc. for building the school steeple.

1714.

The school floor is ordered to be laid with flags set in clay.

January 15.—“The presbytery having, by reason of Mr. Alex. Davidsons, Grammar Schoollmaster’s contumacy to the kirk judicature, declared from the pulpit the Grammar Schoolmaster’s place of Banff vacant and void, the magistrates, in compliance therewith, also declare it vacant, and he is required to deliver up the keys of the scholl door and schollmaster’s chamber.”

April 20.—The Council orders letters to be written to Mr. William Simpson, schoolmaster at Dalkeith, late schoolmaster at this school, and to Mr. Thomas Ruddiman, keeper of the Advocates’ Library, to get a schoolmaster for the Grammar School, “qualified by law to the present church government, and of sufficient literature, learning, and modest sober behaviour.”

June.—George Reid, M.A., Montrose, offered to come to teach for a time “for ane tryall,” and commenced on 3rd August.

Paid £36 19s. 8d. for glass and wire windows to the school and school chamber, and £3 16s. to the wright for making twelve cases for the school windows.

August 23.—The Magistrates, being satisfied after trial with Mr. George Reid, settle him as schoolmaster “according to his good deportement and behaviour, alloweing to him the sallaries, fees and emoluments to the said office belonging with the schooladge fies, used and wount.”

December 23.—The Council allow “the Grammer schollars feriot and waccancie from the date heirof to the twentieth of Jan^y. next inclusive.”

1728.

Paid William Forsyth £6 16s. for glass to the Grammar School, and 12s. for ropes to the school bell.

1732.

May 6.—Bill drawn on the Treasurer to pay George Abernethy, merchant,* £1 17s. 6d. Sc. for some penknives bought from him at visiting the Grammar School. Bill drawn to pay James Bartlet, merchant, 2s. Stg. for penknives furnished by him at visiting the Grammar School.

1735.

March 15.—Petition given in by Mrs. Anne Balfour, stating that she has not sufficient encouragement for keeping a school in this place, that she inclines to go abroad to try for better encouragement, and craving that the Magistrates and Council would order payment of her salary for three quarters of a year. [She is paid at the rate of £36 Sc. per annum.]

March 15.—The Magistrates and Town Council ordered the treasurer to pay to Dorothy Allan, relict of the deceased Paul Keith, late music master, £6 Sc. in charity. †

* This is the George Abernethy referred to at Vol. I., 131. He is designated “Dr.” by Ray, but by mistake. Among the documents connected with the management of estates forfeited by the Rebellion of 1745-6 in the General Register House, Edinburgh, are some small bundles of papers relating to Abernethy’s affairs. These show that the estate was not sufficient to meet the claims made thereon. The rent of his houses in Banff for the years 1754 and 1755 was £20, of which there was paid into the Receiver-General £16 15s. 6d.

† Paul Keith himself was not in affluent circumstances, for it is recorded in “The Annals of Cullen” that he was imprisoned for debt in the tolbooth of Cullen in 1703.

October 25.—The ferryboat set to Mr. George Reid, schoolmaster, for £121 Scots.

February 26.—A letter read to the Council from Mr. Thomas Ruddiman* at Edinburgh, in favour of George Robertson, late schoolmaster of Alvah, to be schoolmaster of this burgh. The Council "haveing a particular regard to the recomendation of the said Mr. Thomas Rudiman as being every way a competent judge of the qualifications of any person fit to serve as schoolmaster of said burgh," invite Mr. Robertson to give a trial for a few months, and, if it is agreeable to the Magistrates, thereafter to settle him as schoolmaster, precentor, and session clerk.

August 19.—Mr. George Robertson appointed schoolmaster at a salary of £80 Sc. "during his good behaviour," and Mr. Innes appointed precentor and session clerk, the minister being present and agreeing thereto.

Paid for mending the desks at different times, and repairing the partition of the school loft, £2 7s.

1756.

Richard Birnie is appointed by the Magistrates and minister precentor in the church, and teacher of music within the town, at a salary of £4 Stg. yearly, with a reasonable gratification from scholars taught. He engages to teach one hour per week.

1757.

One half of the Newlands is let by the Magistrates for nineteen years to George Robertson, schoolmaster.

* Thomas Ruddiman, the famous grammarian, was son of a farmer at Raggall in the neighbouring parish of Boyndie, where he was born in 1674.

February 3.—“It being necessary, owing to the increase of the inhabitants and the number of children sent to this place for their education, that the master of the Grammar School should have a doctor or assistant master, the Council considering that the salary of the principal master has always been paid out of the town’s public funds, and no salary established for a schoolmaster out of the parish agreeable to law, therefore they are of opinion that the salary of an assistant schoolmaster should be laid upon the parish, and that the assistant master should have such gratuity or school fees from the scholars as the Council shall think proper. The salary presently payable to Mr. George Robertson, the present schoolmaster, has been only £80 Sc., which is neither adequate to the support of his character nor the expense of the times, they therefore agree that his salary shall be augmented to £10 Stg. yearly. The Council, considering that although the Grammar or Latin have hitherto been very properly taught, yet the other parts of the education of the youth of both sexes have never been under any proper establishment within this burgh, whereby the inhabitants are put to a considerable expense and inconvenience by being obliged to send their children to distant parts for their education, they therefore resolve to establish the three following schools within the said burgh, besides the said Grammar School—one school for teaching writing, book-keeping, the principles of mathematicks and navigation, under the direction of a master, with a salary to him of £10 Stg. yearly, another school for teaching the English language according to the new or English method, under the direction of a master, with £9 Stg. of yearly salary to him, and a third school for teaching white and coloured seam, and such other branches of Education as are proper to be taught young women under the direction of a schoolmistress, with £100 Sc. of yearly salary to her, which masters and mistress are to be settled by the Town Council during their lives and good behaviour, and besides their salaries they are to have such school fees paid by their scholars as the Town Council shall think proper to appoint. The Council order to send advertisements to the Edinburgh and Aberdeen news papers.”

April 24.—The Head Court approve of the Act of Council of date February 3rd last, and recommend the Town Council to get the heritors of the landward part of the parish to establish a salary (and if necessary to go to law thereanent), and they recommend to the Town Council to agree that the master to be paid by the parish be either employed as a helper to the Grammar School, or for a teacher of English, as the heritors incline, and if they fix on a teacher of English, then the town's funds to supply an assistant in the Grammar School, and the Head Court unanimously recommend to and authorize the Town Council to regulate and settle proper school fees to be paid by the scholars for the different branches of education in such way as they shall think proper and reasonable, and the Head Court, considering it will be necessary to build schoolhouses "for the greater convenience of education, and the town having no funds for that purpose, and considering that the same will tend greatly to the publick good and utility of the burgh, they agree that a sum not exceeding £6 Stg. money yearly shall be stented upon all heretors and inhabitants of the town," "and which sum is to be laid out as interest from year to year till a sufficient fund arise for building and keeping in repair proper schoolhouses," and the Head Court is of opinion "that the 15 guineas to be paid by the Earl of Findlater for a discharge of the claim for his Tiends shall be added to and become a part of this fund." The Head Court approve of the submission and decreet-arbitral as to Winchester Mortification, the town being held liable in £15 Stg. as their proportion of the expense of the former law-suit, and Mr. Duff of Whitehill to pay 3000 merks to the town to answer the purposes of the Mortification. Alexander Winchester had allocated 20 bolls of meal yearly to be paid out of a wadset he had over the lands of Stoneyleys to three bursars at the Grammar School. The wadset came in to the person of Mr. Duff of Whitehill, but was redeemed by George Hay of Montblairy. The Head Court recommend the Council to pay the said £15 out of the town's funds.

August 9.—The Council fix Mr. Thomson's school fees as follows:—
 "Each scholar learning to read English according to the new method shall pay 18d. Stg. quarterly."

1763.

April 28.—Mrs. Jannet Innes, Dalkeith, chosen schoolmistress.

1765.

April 13.—“The Magistrates and Council, considering that at present there is no person in the place for teaching the youth dancing,* which they apprehend is a very necessary article of education, resolve to appoint Mr. Andrew Stevenson, dancing master at St. Andrews, at a salary of £5 a year, besides fees and perquisites from the scholars.”

1766.

January 11.—Mrs. Grant appointed schoolmistress for a year at £5 salary.

December 12.—John Ritchie continued as teacher of Mathematics, Writing, Arithmetic, Book-keeping and Navigation during life and good behaviour, to the satisfaction of the Magistrates and Council, at a salary of £10 Stg., and a school or 30s. Stg. therefor.

May 19.—Petition of Mr. George Robertson to the Council, representing that he was appointed Master of the Grammar School of Banff in 1742; that at first he had a salary of £80 Sc., which was afterwards advanced to £10 Stg.; that “the school fees were wisely settled by the Council to make the school accessible to the children of the meaner sort”; that he formerly taught writing and figures, but that these being now taught in a separate school, his fees were lessened, “while every article of living has greatly increased.” He adds that if by his employment he can find but a decent maintenance for his family, he is desirous to pass the remainder of his days in the same employment. The Council grant him an addition of £5 to his salary.

1769.

September 4.—The Council, considering that the present Grammar School is much in disrepair, and that it is necessary to have schoolhouses built, appoint a Committee to procure plans "for a new Grammar School, and an English School and Writing School," and to look out for a proper site for any necessary new buildings.

* The Magistrates of Aberdeen appointed a master at a salary of 100 merks for teaching the young citizens “manners and good breeding.” Fee, 6s. 8d. Stg. quarterly.

September 16.—The Grammar School, being in need of sundry "repairs" in the roof, windows, floor, &c., these are ordered to be done. The Magistrates and Council, considering the long and faithful service of Mr. Robertson, schoolmaster, and his advanced age, think it necessary he should look out for an assistant, and the Town Council agree to allow him £5 Stg. for the next half-year. [He died April, 1773.]

1772.

November 19.—Robert Thomson, teacher of the English School in the new method, resigns, as he is in hopes of obtaining a better situation.

July 5.—The Council appointed Mr. Alexander Gow, usher, Camberwell, as master of the Grammar School, at a salary of £20 Stg., besides fees and perquisites, but he declined the appointment. In a letter he wrote to Provost Duff he stated that he would be willing to do the work on less terms at Banff than in any other part, as his father's friends resided near that town, but "I must own to you, good Sir, that I have been greatly deceived by false lights being held out to me, and could not imagine, as the prices of all the necessaries of life are so greatly advanced, but the salary, school fees, and other perquisites of the master of your Grammar School must amount to seventy or eighty pounds Sterling a year at least. My whole time and attention I was determined to devote to your service, and from the stipend, &c^a, which you would allow I was in hopes of being able with great Economy to save a trifle for sickness and old age: but the Provision you now make for your schoolmaster is really so scanty, and so inadequate to the duties of the office, that neither the regard I owe to you and to the Magistrates and Town Council of Banff, nor my attachment to my native country, to my father's family and friends, can, after considering the matter coolly, afford me any reasonable encouragement to undertake your school on the terms you now offer: but if you and the Magistrates and Town Council should think it advisable to offer such conditions as would afford me the prospect of a decent livelihood, with labour and frugality, I am ready to accept the same."

August.—The Council appoint Mr. Robert Alves, Bognie, schoolmaster, at the salary already offered, with 2s. 6d. a quarter for each scholar to be taught Latin.*

1776.

November 9.—Paid Mrs. Robertson, widow of Mr. George Robertson, for two globes, for the use of the students in geography, £3 3s.

1777.

February 22.—The Council are of opinion that it would tend much to the advancement of learning if yearly visitations were made of the proficiency of the scholars as well as of the method of teaching, and are of opinion such visitations should be made by two of the clergy. They therefore ask the favour of the Presbytery to carry this out.

April.—"Upon the 22nd current the Grammar School of Banff, under the direction of Mr. Alves, master, was visited by the Magistrates and Council of the town, in conjunction with a deputation from the presbytery, when the Examinators approved very much of Mr. Alves' method of teaching Latin and Grammar, and of the progress of the youth under his care. After the private examination was over the severall scholars pronounced their publick orations to a very great audience with an excellence not to be expected at their age."

The Town Council take into consideration that a considerable part of the income of George Robertson, schoolmaster, arose from a lease he had of a part of the Newlands. The Council now prefer to take that lease, and to pay Elspeth Scot, his widow, £8 Stg. yearly therefor.

* See an account of Alves in Pryse Gordon's "Personal Memoirs," 1830.

January 29.—Miss Rebecca Reid applies to the Council for an augmentation of salary. She also desires their particular countenance and encouragement in opening a Boarding School: "It must certainly be of the outmost advantage to any place whatsoever to have their teachers of youth decently provided for, and in this the Magistrates do not merely support their own dignity, but at the same time they accommodate the inhabitants, and induce people from different parts of the country to send their children to town for education."

1779.

There being only 10 or 12 scholars at the Grammar School, including bursars, and as "the Grammar School of this burgh, which used to be a convenience and ornament to the town, had dwindled away to nothing," the Council remove Mr. Robert Alves, who was then on trial.

1780.

Schoolmasters appointed for a year: Alexander Johnston, headmaster, at a salary of £20; Alexander Wilson, second master, at a salary of £10, the former to receive three-fifths, and the latter two-fifths of the fees. Scale of fees per quarter: Latin and Greek, 2s. 6d.; Writing and Figures, 2s. 6d.; Book-keeping or Navigation, £1 1s. Hours of teaching: From the middle of October to the middle of February two meetings daily, viz., from 9 a.m. till 12 noon, and from 2 p.m. till dark. For the rest of the year three meetings daily—7 till 9, 10 till 12, and 3 till 5. For writing and figures one meeting daily, from 12 till 1. For book-keeping and navigation one meeting daily, from 5 till 8 afternoon, as may be found most commodious.*

* The hours prescribed by the Presbytery for the school of Inverurie in 1737 were: "From the time that the scholars can see to read in the morning till 12, and from 1 afternoon till light fail them at night, from the beginning of November till the beginning of February, and thereafter the rest of the year from 8 in the morning till 12, and from 2 afternoon till 6 in the evening."

Alexander Johnston was schoolmaster of Cullen from 1765 to 1770. In negotiating for the appointment he represents to the Council: "Admitting I had daily 40 scholars and your £10, it would only be £30." In his letter of application the following paragraph occurs:—"Whatever follies while a young man I may have been guilty of, these are now over, and even my enemies will allow me never to have neglected giving due attendance at schoolhours; it must therefore be apparent, since my engaging in the family way with so agreeable a young woman as has fallen to my lot, that I will rather encrease than diminish my diligence that I may always maintain her in some degree becoming a Magistrate's daughter."

March 8.—The Town Council resolve to build a new school, the present schoolhouse being far from commodious.

April 24.—The plan approved of. The roof and other materials of the old Grammar School fetched £4 17s. 2d. John Mitchell was the head mason at the erection of the new school. His accounts were rendered weekly, each containing a charge of about 3s. 3d. as "drink money." The workmen received about 8d. per day. The slating cost £5 11s. 6d., and the new bell, cast by Andrew Lawson in Old Aberdeen, £8 8s. 1d. The wood came from Garmouth.

Mr. Alexander Johnston and Mr. Alexander Wilson appointed masters of the Grammar School for another year, to be continued from year to year at the Council's pleasure. The Council allow Andrew Lachlan, dancing master, two guineas a year "for his seting up and teaching in this place."

1782.

Mr. Alexander Johnston, headmaster of the Grammar School, is dismissed, he having given no regular attendance for many months past, by which the school is totally lost. The second master has gone to be master of the Grammar School of Elgin. James Morrice, who was then leaving the Grammar School, Portsoy, owing to its being given up, was appointed Headmaster.

1783.

From about this year, and for many years afterwards, Mr. Isaac Cooper was a famous teacher of Music and Dancing in the town.*

* "He lived much respected, was an excellent teacher and a man of great versatility of talent. An idea of his abilities may be learnt from the following extract from an advertisement of his of date 30th March, 1783. We think few professors of the present day will undertake one half of what he promised to do, yet we believe he was capable of performing all. In addition to his giving lessons in dancing, he gave instructions 'on the harpsichord or pianoforte, violin, violoncello, clarionet, pipe and tabor, German flute, the fife in the regimental style, the hautboy, French organ, the Irish organ (bag) pipe; how to make flats, sharps, and the proper chords with the brass keys; and the guitar after a new method of fingering (never taught in this country before), which facilitates the most intricate passages. He likewise begs leave to inform all who have a taste for Highland reels that he has just now composed thirty Strathspey reels for the violin and harpsichord, with agreeable and easy basses, all in the true Strathspey style. His motives for publishing these were his observing the public so much imposed upon by people who have published reels and called them new, and at the same time were only old tunes and new names, and most of them on the wrong key.' In a subsequent advertisement he informs the public that he had been in Edinburgh studying music and dancing, and the people of Banff having been imposed upon by ignorant teachers of dancing, who taught their pupils 'last season for seven months without showing any of the scholars any of the positions,' he promises to teach his pupils 'all the dances in vogue, such as the Minuet de la Cour, the Prince of Wales' Minuet, the Devonshire Minuet, and variety of Cotillions and Allemands, &c., &c. He has likewise learnt from the best masters how to teach two performers to play upon one harpsichord or pianoforte, which is greatly in vogue, and has a most beautiful effect, and never was taught in this country before.' Then follows a discovery in guitar playing, by which a performer may transpose music into different keys without the aid of a moveable bridge. Mr. Cooper was a clever man, and composed a number of beautiful airs, such as 'Miss Forbes' Farewell to Banff,' 'Lord Banff's Strathspey,' 'Banff Castle,' and many others of equal merit." (Davie's Caledonian Repository.)

The pieces Mr. Cooper published appear in "A Collection of Strathspeys, Reels and Irish Jigs for the Piano Forte and Violin, to which are added Scots, Irish, and Welch airs composed and selected by I. Cooper at Banff. Price 5s. Sold by the Music Sellers in London, Edinburgh, &c." It contains 58 tunes, among which occur: "Miss Dirom," "Lord Banff," "Banff Lasses, a reel," "Mrs. Gordon of Aberdour's Strathspey," "Mrs. Abernethy's Strathspey," "Mrs. James Duff's Strathspey," "Mrs. Rose's Strathspey," "Miss Rose's Strathspey," "Miss Forbes's Farewell to Banff," &c., the last of which is given at the close of this volume, the original form in which it here appears being somewhat different from that found in modern musical works. There appear to have been other editions of Cooper's Collection, but all are now rare.

The following is a copy of one of Cooper's accounts, now in possession of the present writer:—

Account—Mrs. Rose of Montcuffer to Isaac Cooper.

To three months dancing to Miss Rose	£1	1s.
To the musician	0	3s.
To three months dancing to the three young gentlemen	3	3s.
To the musician	0	9s.
To tickets to the Ball	0	4s.
To " for practising to Miss Rose	0	3s.

Banff, 9th October, 1784. Received the above—Isaac Cooper.

£5 3s.

He married Miss Rebecca Reid, sister of Captain Reid, Inverichney, and is said to have died suddenly c. 1810 or 1811, while playing his favourite tune, "Robin Adair."

1784.

February 28.—Paid by the Council for oranges to the school boys, 6s.

1785.

February 7.—Paid 10s. for oranges to the scholars at the Grammar School. A similar payment was made in February, 1786.

1786.

Mr. Morrice having resigned, the Council entered into an agreement with Mr. George Chapman, Inchdrewer, to become Rector of the Grammar School.* The Council agreed to the following terms:—(1) That Mr. Chapman be elected Rector, and that he teach by himself or his assistants Latin, Greek, English, French, Writing, Arithmetic, Geography, Book-keeping, and Navigation; (2) That he keep at his own expense two well-qualified Assistants; (3) That he shall receive a salary of £30 from the town; (4) That the present fees be continued [Mr. Chapman had proposed a higher scale], as the middling rank of the inhabitants and tradesmen whose children make up the greater number at the Grammar School cannot afford to pay more; (5) That he must reside in the burgh; [(6) The Council do not agree to his proposal that when he ceases to officiate

* Dr. Chapman was a native of Little Blackton, Alvah, Banffshire, and was born August, 1723. At King's College, Aberdeen, he obtained a bursary by competition, and studied at the University for the usual four sessions. Thereafter he was appointed schoolmaster of his native parish. In 1747 he was assistant in the school of Mr. Lovie in Dalkeith. Four years later he removed to Dumfries, where he was joint-master in the Grammar School of that town, and continued in that position for twenty years. He next removed to Inchdrewer, near Banff, where he opened an Academy. In November, 1786, on the resignation of Mr. Morrice, the Magistrates and Town Council of Banff invited him to take the rectorship of the Banff Grammar School. He accepted the invitation; at the same time, it is noted, appointing as his assistants Messrs. John Cruickshank (afterwards rector), James Shand, and William Cruickshank. Dr. Chapman left Banff in 1792, proceeding to Edinburgh, where for some years he carried on business as a printer. He died 22nd February, 1806. He was the author of several works, of which the chief is a "Treatise on Education," published in 1773. The fourth edition was published at London in 1790, and is entitled "A Treatise on Education in Two Parts, with the Author's Method of Instruction while he taught the School of Dumfries. By George Chapman, LL.D." It consists of 246 + 37 pages. In the course of his work Dr. Chapman states that "Dancing, which is an agreeable and elegant exercise, may be taught during this period" [before the pupil is eleven years of age]. He also published "An Abridgment of Mr. Ruddiman's Rudiments of the Latin Tongue, and of his Latin Grammar, by George Chapman, LL.D. 3rd edition. Edinburgh, 1803."

he shall have an annuity of £10 for life]; (7) That there be an annual vacation in July, August, or September, and not above three days at Christmas; (8) That the school be visited the first Wednesday of every quarter by the Magistrates, Minister, Convener of the Trades, and any other inhabitants who may choose to attend. That there be an annual public examination immediately before the annual vacation, and that said examination be conducted with great exactness and solemnity. That Mr. Chapman be obliged to examine once a month the English Schools which are or may be established in the town; and it is understood that, though he is to have the charge of the Grammar School, yet he is not bound to labour as an ordinary teacher, but to attend it frequently, and to see that it be properly taught. The Magistrates also agreed to other heads of agreement suggested by Mr. Chapman:—

(a) That at the quarterly visitations of the schools inquiry be made into the attendance, the diligence, and the behaviour of the scholars, and if the Rector has found any of them remarkably idle or incorrigibly wicked, that he present their names to the visitors, who shall converse with their parents, and concert proper methods for reforming them.

(b) That influence be used with the lower people from time to time to send their children to school in order that due care may be taken of their morals, as well as their studies, and that they may not be allowed to wander about in an idle and dissipated manner, and to contract habits of vice, particularly of swearing, telling lies, talking indecent or uncivil language, and showing a disregard of character and a contempt of religion by which the other boys would be corrupted, the reputation of the schools would be hurt, and strangers would be discouraged from sending their children to be educated in this place.

(c) That agreeably to the usage which prevails in the most respectable schools of this kingdom the Rector, or the master of the Latin and English Schools, be allowed to receive every year at Candlemas such voluntary donations as the parents shall think proper to offer, and that the richer parents be exhorted to show their gratitude and generosity on those occasions.

November 1.—A letter submitted to the Council from Mr. Patrick Copland, Professor in Marischal College, Aberdeen, asking their support to a plan for uniting the Marischal and King's Colleges. "The Councill taking into their consideration that the education of youth, which ought to be a primary object with the public, has hitherto been much cramped in the North of Scotland, and that in consequence of there being no schools for medicine, anatomy, chemistry, botany, and law, numbers of youth have been obliged at a great expense to attend the Universities: they therefore think themselves bound in duty to promote the Union in so far as it has a tendency to the improvement of literature."

Paid for curtains to the school windows, 18s. 4d.

1789.

Proper accommodation now having been obtained for the English and Poor School, and the same being now nearly fitted up, the Council agree to give £3 of annual rent therefor.

1796.

A letter read to the Council from Mr. John Cruickshank, stating that the school having increased very much of late, more room is necessary for the accommodation and health of the boys. There are now 133 boys who attend every meeting, and the room is insufficient, especially for writing. An estimate was thereafter submitted from Mr. John Rhind, James Robertson, and John Nicol, who were jointly concerned in building the Town House, for putting six feet additional height upon the walls of the Grammar School. Their estimate was lower than it would otherwise have been, from their having lately bought the stones of the old church, which they would employ for this work. Their estimate amounted to £32 5s. 10d., including taking down and rebuilding the pediment and belfry.

July 11.—John Cruickshank, rector, writes a letter to the provost to use his influence to prevent any strolling players from acting here, "as a thing of that kind would very much unhinge the youth who attend the schools here, and take off their attention from their education." The Town Council refuse permission for them to come to the town, "knowing how hurtful and prejudicial it would be for the younger part of the community."

180 scholars now at the Academy, and 25 to 30 at the Charity School. There are also two English Schools in the town, the teachers receiving only the fees, also two boarding schools for young ladies.

June 28.—The Council pay 12s. 2d. for advertising Misses Mitchell's boarding school in the Mercury and Evening Courant.

1801.

Mr. Allardice and Mr. Peterkin receive £20 os. 4d. for teaching the Charity School.

1802.

The Town Council find that a Head English Teacher cannot be got for the Academy for less than £47 10s. a year.

Paid Mr. Cruickshank half a year's salary, £8 10s. 2d. In 1822 the Head Court recommended to the Council to allow Mr. Cruickshank £20 per annum of additional salary. For several years before and after this period the following item appears regularly every year in the Head Court Accounts:—"For repairing Schoolhouses, £72 Sc."

1805.

July.—The Grammar School is to be heightened by putting on an additional story. The school is to be taken down and rebuilt. The estimate for mason and wright work is £165.

1817.

The salary of Mrs. Christie, schoolmistress, is continued to her daughter during the pleasure of the Head Court. Valuation of the Grammar School building, £200.

1819.

Teachers' Salaries: Rector of the Academy, £34; English teacher, £20; Writing Master, £15; Mistress of Boarding School, £10; and Miss Christie, Girls' School, £4.*

1821.

The Head Court unanimously agree to recommend to the Magistrates to give £25 a year to a teacher for young ladies who will keep a day and boarding school, as the total want of such a school in the town was much felt by such of the inhabitants as had daughters to educate, who had been obliged to send their children to other places at a very heavy expense to themselves, and a great loss to the community.

1829.

Valuation of Grammar School building £300, and bell £5.

1833.

James Robertson, English teacher, having resigned, the Council advertise for a comparative trial of candidates on 28th August, before the Town Council and several clergymen to be invited. The Council, "considering it will be expected that the town should afford them some refreshment after their labours during the trial, and that upon the last occasion of the same kind a dinner was given to the Reverend gentlemen, judges, and to the candidates and Council, and that it is proper to follow this precedent, therefore resolved" that a dinner be provided in the Council room, the expense to be paid by the town. The tacksman of the petty customs, "who pays a high rent to the town," is employed to provide the dinner, which he agreed to do at "2s. per head, and the liquor at a similar low rate." Each of the seven candidates was examined in reading and recitation, in examining a class, and in writing an essay. Rev. Alexander Riach received the appointment, which was for twelve months.

* Cf. Vol. I., 287-8.

An allowance of £16 made to the Rector of the Academy in lieu of Candlemas presents from the pupils, abrogated in 1827.

Rev. James Smith formally appointed Rector, he having acted in that capacity for some time previously.

1835.

July 21.—The balance of subscriptions, after erecting a monument to the late Mr. Cruickshank, rector of the Academy, is to be devoted towards providing prizes at the Academy. The amount is found to be about £50.

December 30.—The Head Court sanction the removing of the Grammar School from its present site, and that the Bequest of James Wilson of Grenada be applied for a suitable building for education, in which shall be accommodated the Grammar School and a Free School on the Madras system, also an Infant School, Lecture Room, and Museum.

The Town Council resolve to free Wilson's Trustees of the feu-duty payable by them to the minister of Banff for the site of the new Academy. The arrangement was between the Magistrates as Trustees of Wilson of Grenada and the Presbytery of Fordyce, and the incumbent of the parish of Banff for the lower acre of the glebe of Banff. The presbytery are to take the two parks purchased by the Trustees from the St. John's Lodge of Masons in excambion, as an interim arrangement to enable the Trustees to proceed with the building, and till they get an Act of Parliament to feu off the whole glebe, when the two parks would revert to the Trustees, and they would pay an annual feu-duty to the minister of £20 Stg. for a Scots acre of the lower or eastmost end of the glebe. The present school is unwholesome, and subject to frequent inundation. The Town Council, seeing the Institution contains rooms for a Grammar School, to be built by the Magistrates as Trustees of the Charity at the sole expense of the Trust, and the community being thus saved the sum of £800 to £1000 which would be required for a school, therefore resolve to free the Magistrates as Trustees of the Charity of the annual feu-duty of £20 which they have agreed to pay to the minister of the parish.

September 30.—A plan of education at Wilson's Institution, Banff, drawn up by the Trustees. The Trust funds, when sold out from the 3 per cent. Consols, realized £5926 4s. 11d. The Institution Buildings were designed by Mr. William Robertson, architect, Elgin, the amount of the contract being about £3000.

1838.

February 1.—The Grammar School enters upon the new buildings.

1843.

November 1.—Rev. Mr. Smith, rector of the Grammar School, resigns. The Council resolve to meet with a Committee to be named by the inhabitants, heads of families and householders, to regulate the duties, &c., of the person to be appointed rector. It was agreed that the appointment be at the pleasure of the Council, the salary to be £110, besides £20 6s. 8d. for teaching bursars, the Rector to draw the whole fees and emoluments, pay his assistants, and be responsible for the whole school.

Mr. William McDowall, Tay Square Academy, Dundee, is appointed Rector.

January 2.—Numerous complaints of high fees at the Grammar School.

December 3.—Mr. McDowall, rector of the Academy, having discontinued the practice of taking his scholars to church on the Sundays, and also the Sunday class for religious instruction, the Council confer with Mr. McDowall, who reported that this was owing to the small attendance, but that he would give it another trial.

1846.

March 7.—The hours of teaching in the Academy fixed at—during summer, 8-9, 10-1 and 3-5 ; during winter, 8-9, 10-1 and 2-4.*

Pupils in Latin class, 45 ; in Mr. Carruth's class, 137 ; and in Mr. Peattie's class, 111. Total in attendance, 145.

The Council resolve to appoint the assistant teachers as formerly. The rector is to receive £80, and the two assistants £15 each, the teachers receiving the fees of their own classes. Fees :—English Reading, 3s. a quarter ; Elocution, 3s. 6d. ; Reading, Grammar, and Geography, 4s. ; Writing, 2s. ; Arithmetic, 2s. 6d. ; Mathematics, 6s. 6d. ; Latin and Greek, 7s. 6d. An Education Committee is to be appointed every quarter for the purpose of visiting the school at such times as they may think necessary.

Archibald McDiarmid (Callander) appointed mathematical master, but declines to fulfil his engagement. The Town Council threaten to raise an action of damages against him.

* In 1649 the classes in the Grammar School of Elgin met at 6 a.m., and broke up at 6 p.m., with two hours' intermission.

About 1820 the hours at the Grammar School of Cullen were from 7 a.m. till 9 a.m., and from 10 a.m. till 1 p.m., and from 3 p.m. till 5 p.m.

March 22.—The Town Council call a public meeting of the inhabitants to name a Committee as on a former occasion to act along with the Town Council in appointing a Rector to the Grammar School.

Mr. Leask, schoolmaster, Macduff, is appointed Rector. Salary, £80.

It is reported that Mr. Leask had discontinued the practice of going to church with the boys. He replied that out of 140-150 boys at school never above 22 went, and that it produced a bad effect to see such a small number representing the Grammar School. The rector is enjoined to resume the practice of going to church with the boys.

1849.

The Council fix the school hours for the four winter months, and up to 1st March, at 9-12 and 1-3.

The Town Council give notice to Mr. Leask, rector,* and to Mr. Peattie of the termination of their engagements.

June 10.—The Council resolve that the Grammar School be conducted by two teachers—a classical and a mathematical master—at a salary of £60 and £50 respectively, with fees.

George Weir, assistant schoolmaster of Turriff, appointed rector and teacher of the Classical, Mathematical, and Writing Departments at a salary of £60, with a share of the fees, and to hold office “ad vitam aut culpam.”

The Madras and Grammar School, united in 1841, are now separated.

Fees reduced as follows (the former fees are put in brackets):—English, 3s. (4s.); English, Grammar and Geography, 4s. 6d. (6s.); also

* Mr. Leask died in March, 1875. On removing from Banff he was appointed teacher of the Old Aberdeen Grammar School. He was also appointed registrar of Old Machar and Session Clerk. In all the positions which he held Mr. Leask showed himself to be an able scholar and good man of business.

Writing and Arithmetic, 7s. 6d. (12s. 6d.); these with Latin, 16s. (23s.); these with Greek and Higher Mathematics, £1 1s. (£1 10s.).

The Head Court assess for £110 as Rector's salary. In 1855 this item is varied thus: Rector's salary £75, teacher of English £35.

1853.

Mr. Weir, Rector, resigns, having been appointed Classical Professor in the University of Kingston, Canada.*

1854.

April 11.—Fees: First and Second English Classes, 2s. 6d.; Third Class, including Grammar and Geography, 3s. 6d.; Fourth Class, 6s.; Writing, First Class, 1s. 6d.; Second Class, Writing and Arithmetic, 3s.; Third Class, Algebra and Geometry, 7s. 6d.; Latin and Greek, 7s. 6d., &c.

Mr. David Paton, teacher, Edinburgh, appointed rector at a salary of £60. His duties are to teach Classics, Mathematics and Writing. He and Mr. Burns are to be independent of each other. His appointment to be at the pleasure of the Council.

June 22.—A lower scale of fees adopted for the English and Writing Departments.

* At a meeting of the Faculty of Arts of Morrin College, held in 1891, it was unanimously resolved: "That this Faculty record its profound sorrow for the lamented death of their honored and learned colleague the Rev. George Weir, LL.D., Professor of Classics and Hebrew. In both the University and more elementary departments of education, Dr. Weir has been engaged in Canada for nearly forty years, during which his enthusiasm never flagged and his success never diminished. His love for the Classics, his scholarly attainments, his eager manner, his genial humor, his untiring zeal, and his warm personal attachments to his students, made him one of the most successful teachers of the day."

Sheriff Currie, on leaving Banff to become one of the principal Clerks of Session, presents 50 guineas to provide a medal yearly to the dux of the Grammar School.

1857.

Mr. David Paton, rector, having resigned, Mr. James Hunter, parish schoolmaster, Bothwell, is appointed on the recommendation of Dr. Woodford, H.M. Inspector of Schools. Salary, £75.

November 9.—The Council resolve to sell the old Grammar School building.

1866.

The rector and Mr. Spence instructed to teach from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 to 3 p.m., and Mr. Grant 9-12 and 1-4. Instead of a half-holiday on Wednesday and Saturday the school will now receive a whole holiday on Saturday. The classes at the Academy are now to be open to females.

1868.

The Town Council resolve that the Madras School and Grammar School be again joined, that three male teachers be appointed at the Grammar School, the rector with a salary of £80, an English teacher £40, a third teacher £40, also a teacher of the Infant School, with a salary of £50 and a house, and an assistant female teacher for sewing, drawing and music.

1870.

Number of pupils attending the Academy, 170.

1873.

April 7.—First meeting of the School Board of Banff.

A census of children resident within the burgh, between the ages of five and thirteen, showed that there were 758 such children, of whom 671 were attending school. The number attending the Grammar School was about 170, Infants' School about 65, Free Church School about 195, fourteen other schools 530. Total, 960.

1881.

Burgh School fees per quarter: Standard I., 2s. 6d.; do. II., 3s. 6d.; do. III., 4s.; do. IV., 4s. 6d.; do. V. and over, 5s.; Latin, 5s.; Latin and Greek, 7s. 6d.; French, 5s.; Mathematics, 5s., &c.

1888.

The Court of Session approve of a Scheme for the administration of the Ramsay Bequest. Adam Ramsay, cabinetmaker, Banff, died in July, 1884, having bequeathed the workshop he had occupied, as a school for children of poor, honest parents not in receipt of parochial aid, and left the rest of his property for the upkeep of the school. The trustees declining to act, the Court made a remit to Principal Geddes, who found that the free proceeds of the estate might amount to about £1300, and submitted a report to the Court. The scheme approved of provides for the conveyance of the whole property and funds to the Banff Educational Trust, the erection of a school called the Ramsay School, and the letting of said school to the Burgh School Board.

The following report on the school by Rev. Allan Andrew, H.M. Inspector of Schools for the district, is valuable for purposes of comparison, as showing the wide field of study now covered, the ability and skill of the teachers, the remarkable level of attainment reached, and the large number of pupils now attending the school. No less interesting is the subsequent statement of the annual income and expenditure of the school, from which may be seen how large sums of money Government and the local authorities now expend for the promotion of education :—

BANFF BURGH PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Summary of the Inspector's Report on the School, 18th May, 1892.

“This large and important school continues to be taught with very marked and exceptional skill and success. The elementary work all over is of excellent quality, and the highest grant under Article 19 B 1 (a) (b) is unhesitatingly recommended. The pupils in all the classes read with fluency, distinctness, and expression, and satisfied with readiness the test of reading from previously unseen books. Writing and figuring, both on slates and copy-books, leave nothing to be desired. Arithmetic in the lower classes is admirably bright and ready, and from the third standard upwards the tests set in this branch were answered with all but complete accuracy, and put upon paper with a neatness of arrangement that indicates thorough training. Spelling in the third and fourth is all but faultless. Composition in the fifth, sixth, and ex-sixth shows thorough grasp of sentence construction. The appearance made in each of the three Class Subjects professed was excellent. The work of the sixth and ex-sixth in English was specially good. The passages professed were of exceptional literary merit, and the mastery shown was very thorough. The pupils presented in Latin, Greek and French in the three stages of the Code had received very accurate grounding, and the highest class construing in Latin, Cicero and in Greek, a book of the Hellenics, have passed much beyond Code requirements. They worked papers containing previously unseen passages of Latin and Greek, and wrote a passage of Latin prose with very gratifying success. Although no presentations in Mathematics appear on the Examination Schedules, the progress made in this branch is quite as advanced as in Classics. Three pupils going direct from the school last autumn gained bursaries by open competition at Aberdeen University, representing a money value of £330.

“The Infant Department, taught in a separate and admirably appointed building, is in every respect a model of what an Infant Department should be. The teaching of Kindergarten, for which the Mistress has qualified herself by undergoing a special course of training, has been introduced in a modified form since last year with excellent effect. Industrial work from the first upwards merits unqualified praise. I have never met with better in any school. All the girls in the fifth and upwards have received a course of instruction in practical Cookery. An excellently appointed room for the teaching of this branch forms part of the addition made to the premises since last inspection. This addition has greatly improved the comfort and working convenience of the school. Singing is very well taught by note, and markedly so in the section under Mr. Geddes. Discipline and general tone are throughout excellent."

The average attendance of pupils for the year was 614, and the Government Grant amounted to £689 3s. 6d.

From the Statement of the Annual Income and Expenditure of the School Board for the year ending 15th May, 1892, it appears that Fees and Grant for relief of fees under the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889, brought in £445 19s. 9d.; Grants from Scotch Education Department, £758 17s. 5d. (Annual Grant, £657 16s., additional Grant under Sect. 67, £101 1s. 5d.); Amount paid by the Rating Authorities at 7½d. per £ (the rateable value of the district being £9707 15s.), £300; Loan for enlargement of School, £525; income from Endowment, £112 4s. 10d.; from Educational Trust, &c., £182 10s. The expenditure included for salaries of teachers, including retiring allowances, £1157 7s. 8d. (Rector, £400); salaries of officers of School Board, £66 3s.; books, apparatus and stationery, £37 10s. 1d.; rent, rates, &c., £58 7s. 4d.; repairs to furniture, &c., £29 4s. 9d.; fuel, light and cleaning, £86 9s. 3d.; addition to buildings, £524 5s. 11d., &c.

SMEATON'S PLAN FOR A NEW HARBOUR.—GRANT BY COMMISSIONERS FOR HIGHLAND ROADS AND BRIDGES.—TRADE OF THE PORT IN RECENT YEARS.

THE HARBOUR.

ONE of the earliest references to the harbour or hythe of Banff is contained in an Indenture of date 4th March, 1471, between James Ogilvie of Deskford and the Commissioners of the burgh, whereby certain of the salmon fishings belonging to the burgh were let to sundry burgesses. Mr. William Rose, Montcoffer, who inspected the Indenture,* makes the following remarks thereon:—

“The onerosity of this contract is very curious, viz., for the infesting and fundation makkin of a perpetual chaplenry to sing in the Peel-heife of the burgh for our Sovereign Lord the King and the Qwyne, their predecessors and successors, the fowanders, of all Cristiane soulis, for the theiking of the said kirk with slate and the bigging of the Tolbuthe, and for quhat the burgh has not substance.”

The next notice of the port of Banff is that contained in the Register of the Privy Council, under date 25th February, 1580-81, and referring to a complaint made by Jonet Wemyss, wife of Captain David Murray, respecting a ship belonging to her: “Hir said husband, being in the toun of Burges in Flanders, bocht a schip of fiftie foure tun called the Mellingell.” It arrived “at the port of Banff in Buchane, as port maist convenient for hir commoditie,” instead of going on to Leith. John Douglas in Aberdeen and John Fordyce refused to deliver up the ship. The Lords ordered the ship to be delivered up.

* Mr. Rose, in his MS. “History of the Town and Parish of Banff,” 1795 (Advocates’ Library, Aberdeen), states that in his time the Indenture was among the town’s records, but it has since disappeared. Mr. Rose explains the Peelheife as “probably a pool of water, where boats have lien next the tide.” It was evidently adjacent to the churchyard, but there is no reason to suppose it occupied the site of the church or the churchyard, which, without doubt, have occupied the same site as at present from the most remote antiquity.

“Maister Alexander Craig, baillie,” was Commissioner from Banff to the Convention of Royal Burghs, held in July of this year, when a supplication was given in by said burgh for “support for helping of thair harberie.”

1615.

The Convention, after considering the supplication of the burgh of Banff, craving support “to the new intended work of building a harbour beside the burgh, for farder encouraging and furderance of them in the advancement of the said notabell intendit worke, hes grantit and agriet to the soum of ane hundreth pundis to be takin up conforme to the extent roll.”

1625.

Agreement with James McKen, Fraserburgh, to clear Guthrie’s haven of rocks.*

In an old Burgh Court Book is found a list of contributors to “help to build the harbarie of Banff,” amounting to £88 14s. 10d. These

"There are none of our sea harbours that, except at stream tide, can receive above ten foot vessels. Bamf, which stands at the infall of Divern, is so subject to banks of pebbles that sometimes at full sea four feet is enough and too much; at other times it can receive nine or ten foot" (Account of the north side of the Coast of Buchan, by Alexander Garden of Troup in "Sibbald's Collections").

July 11.—"The Magistrats and Counsellers, considering seriouslie that on occasions the ships belonging to the place, as also strangers when it happens (throw the badnes off the water mouth and harbour), can nott gett in without the help of men in the place, which nevertheless prove most careless and neglective to convene, have ordained that whatsoever person refuses on publick advertisement to convene shall be lyable in payment of half a merk Scots."

1689.

December 9.—The Act anent inbringing of ships renewed. It is also enacted that "on at least furth of everie famillie be sent for helping to hail in the ships."

1691.

October 2.—"Every ship or boat that needis help of men in the overcoming of the barr or water mouth so that the ferrie boat be employed in transporting of men for hailling them in over to the barr every skipper shall pay to the ferrie man for everie ship of tuo top saills 10s. 1696.

An Act of the Scots Parliament passed authorising a voluntary contribution throughout the kingdom for repairing the harbour at the mouth of the Deveron.

January 25.—Parliament having granted an Act for a voluntary contribution in all churches of Scotland towards building a harbour at Banff, the Council petition the Presbytery of Aberdeen thereanent, and Provost Leslie is to apply to the several towns on his road to Edinburgh, and to employ posts and others to disperse copies of the Act. Provost Leslie's account is paid for printing 1300 copies of the Act of Parliament—five rex dollars and a half. "Paid £4 to ane express sent thorrow the shyres of Ross and Sutherland, 20s. to ane other to the nixt adjacent churches in the shyre of Inverness and 16 days from home."

1698.

July 16.—The Convention of Burghs give 500 merks towards building a new pier at Banff, the burgh having represented that sixteen of their vessels had been shipwrecked and taken by the French during King William's wars, that they were then expending money on their steeple and tolbooth, which were both ruinous, and that their water mouth was inaccessible. In the previous year they appointed a Committee to inspect the harbour.

Paid for printing 1200 copies thereof for all the parioch churches £20, Item of drink money to the printer’s servants 14s. 6d., Item to ane post who carried the copies therof to the haille northern district, the same being very heavy and bulkish £3 14s., Item to the post who carried these to the Presbitries of Dalkeith, Dunse, Chirnside, Jedburgh, Peebles, Haddingtoun, Dunbar, Kelso, Earlestone, Melross and Selkirk, there being no ordinary post that goes that way, being eightie miles and upwards £8, To another post who carried some to Pearthshyre 14s. 6d., Paid £4 16s. to the Post Office for bundells sent to the Presbitries of Ayr, Irving, Dunbartone, Paisley, Glasgow, Hamiltoun, Stirling and Dumfries at 12s. each bundle. Several other payments made to other posts. Collected from the parishes named in the account from 19th March, 1702, to 20th January, 1703, £73 8s. 4d. Discharge (which includes the above outlays, &c.), £235 7s. 8d.”

“ Paid for casting the barr, £6 4s.”*

* The mouth of the Deveron has a habit of becoming closed under the influence of wind and tide, as the following extracts from the records of the burgh show:—

1694. Paid for casting the bar. Twenty-two men employed. “ Item for ane pynt of aqwawytie and ane caick of bread to them be Prowest Leslie’s orders, 24s.”

1701. The Council stipulate that the taker of shore dues “ keep the water mouth redd.”

1702. Stipulation renewed, with the addition, “ for which he is to receive an allowance.”

1703-4. For casting the bar, £6 4s. (4th August, 1704. Paid £3 4s. to seventeen men, employed for a tide.)

1709-10. For casting the bar, £2 8s. Sc.

1714-15. Do., £4 16s.

1719-20. Do., £2 16s. and £2 14s.

1720. “ Paid £3 Sc. for six shoad showells brought home by Alexander Duncan, shipmaster, for casting the bar.”

1721, September 27. “ In the last great winter storme it was thought expedient that the barr should be cut to let off the water. Twelve men were employed at 4s. Sc. each, i.e., £2 8s.

1722-23. For casting the bar (20 men), £4.

1723, August 3. For casting the bar (20 men), £5.

1725, July 17. Paid to John Allaster, boatman, for casting the bar, 20s. Sc.

1726, April 23. “ Paid to the seventeen men that did cast the bar £3 8s. Sc., with 26s. 8d. for ten pyntes of aell and ane peck of meall to the men for bread.”

1728-29. For casting the bar, £1 16s.

“Paid to Alexander Reburn £9 Sc. for takeing out the rocks in the Water Mouth. The Court recommends to the Magistrates and Council to cause dig out the rockes in the mouth of the Water of Divorne that the water may be made deeper for incomeing and outgoing of ships and to ware out expences theron as need requires, takeing when need is ane servant from each house to take away the redd.”

1780, January 14. “Paid workmen for cutting the barr at the water mouth, 9s. 3d. Paid for a pint of gin to them when in the water, 2s. 6d.

1780, January 24. “Paid 7s. 3d. to workmen for cutting the barr at the watermouth.”

1781, January 26. “Paid workmen for cutting the barr at the water mouth when shut up by the sea, £3 19s. 5d.

1849, January 5. Complaints given in of damage by inundation from choking up of the river’s mouth.

1871, April 11. “During the succession of gales which terminated in the beginning of last week, the sea in the bay of Banff was very stormy. Heavy waves rolled upon the beach, and the tides being high, the force of the water shifted the sand at the bar at the mouth of the river Deveron. On two or three days, when the tide flowed, the shingle was thrown up by the waves, so as completely to enclose the river and form a bar, over which a passage was made on foot between Banff and Macduff, but at ebb tide the river made an opening, and the spill water flowed off. On Wednesday, however, the quantity of shingle thrown up across the mouth of the river was so great that at low tide the water within the bar was at high water mark, and unable to force an outlet. The salmon fishers, about seven in the evening, cut an opening in the bar, and the outflow once commenced, the river soon scooped out a channel for itself. The operation of cutting the bar was rather dangerous, and was witnessed with interest by a large concourse of spectators. When the opening was made, the water flowed with great velocity, the fall from within the bar to the sea being as steep as about one foot in twenty. Since Wednesday night, the sea has been calm, and the new channel for the river has remained clear.” (Banffshire Journal.)

1890, July 8. “The vagaries of the Deveron are locally proverbial. For about a month or two the channel of the river at its mouth has departed from the old course, and occasionally the outlet has been completely choked up. The water has cut a channel through the shingly bar, and the contents of the river are discharged into the sea in a broad sluggish stream. The river at its mouth flows almost directly east, while its normal course is to the north. The small depth of water, and the winding of the river at its mouth, have effectually prevented salmon ascending to the fresh water for some time, and the partial failure of the river fishings led Mr. Bisset, the lessee, to take some steps to remedy matters. On Tuesday, over twenty workmen were engaged in trying to induce the waters of the river to resume their ordinary course. The present mouth was filled up, and a channel was cut through the thick walls of shingle down to the sea. The tide which flowed in the course of the night destroyed all their work, however, and the river flowed to the sea in the course it has adopted for some time. The attempt was again made on Wednesday evening. By ten o’clock at night a good stream was running in the cut-out channel from the river to the sea, and it was anticipated that success would then be attained, more particularly as there was a great fall between the river and the sea. On the following morning, however, the tide again destroyed all that had been done. The sea cast up a large bank of shingle, obstructing and ultimately checking entirely the flow of water in the new channel. The attempt to alter the course of the river was then abandoned, and its waters continued to flow in a tortuous course to the sea. A heavy spate or a severe storm are generally the most powerful agents in restoring the river to its old channel.” (Banffshire Journal.)

The shipmasters crave "ane further reparation to be made one Guthrie's hyth."

December 23.—Stoneywood "has agreed with ane knoweing man for wining the rocks out of Guthrie's hyth."

April 15.—"James Ælmslie sent north from Stoniewood to Guthrie's hyth to work out the harbour there, entered work and ordered James Allan to make two hand barrous for takeing away the rubsh and redd."

From a book containing the expenditure on Guthrie's haven from 19th April to 29th August, 1724, it appears that about £20 Sc. a week was expended, the men receiving as wages from 5s. to 12s. Sc. per diem, some receiving an additional sum of 4s. per diem for maintenance. The number of men employed varied from eight to fifteen. The book also contains "accounts of cash deburs'd for the New Harbour June 27, 1726, to November, 1727," the total amounting to £2060 17s. 8d. Sc. The accounts contain the following entries: For a sting to drive the oxen, 1s. Sc. For a hair tether for the horse, 4s. Sc. For five bircken trees for barrows, 25s. For six tethers for the oxen, 6s. Sc. For 3 chapins ale, when John Rhind spoke with the Managers, 3s. Sc. For pair of shoes to George Cow, 16s. Sc. Cash paid Alexander Reid for two drawin oxen, £38 Sc. Sixpence a day was the regular pay of the workmen.

November 29.—"In reference to the building the harbour of Guthrie,* the Court recommend that directors be named to take inspection of the several places where stones can most conveniently be had, and to engage

* The records of the burgh give no indication of the origin of the name of the harbour. If a surmise may be expressed, it is not, at least, without interest to recal that John Guthrie was the second Protestant minister of the parish; that this name of the harbour never occurs previous to his time (1590—c. 1622), but occurs soon thereafter; and that there are very few instances of the occurrence of this surname in the history of the burgh. With several similar cases in view, one, however, cannot say but that the name may have originated from some very humble fisherman.

two good horses, two able-bodied men and a lad to work with the said horses, and that a strong cart be sent for to Keith of such proper dimensions as shall be judged convenient."

"The Head Court order a letter to be sent to the Auditor of the Exchequer to have this burgh reponed to its ancient priviledges of livering and loading all foreign and native goods."

1726.

April 23.—John Gordon, factor in Rotterdam, sends £2 2s. Stg. towards the harbour of Guthrie's haven. John Davidson, Aberdeen, and Alexander Stuart, in Rotterdam, send £1 1s. each.

May 27.—A stent of £400 is imposed "for carrying on ane new harbor at Guthrie."

October 13.—"Commissioners appointed by the Convention of Burghs for the visitation of Banff find (1) that the condition of the common good is very small, and is such as is not sufficient to defray the public and annual burdens, so that the Burgh is yearly obliged to stent themselves in considerable sums not under £357 Sc. money, which sums are proportioned upon heritage, trade and tradesmen, and that the debt resting by the town amounts to £2000 Sc.; (2) the trade of the said town appears these several years in an increasing condition, and that all the merchants have a very enterprising genius for trade, but these several years bypast have been very much discouraged upon the account of ane bar of chingle and sand that always cast up by the northerly storms in dry summers on the mouth of the River in so much that it often happens that from Candlemas to Martinmas the said water mouth has not been in a condition to receive any ship or boat, and the last season bypast two or three ships after they were loadned were obliged to unload again to the great damage of the merchant and ruin of trade, but what is still more surprising that several times this last season the bank has wholly stopped the water mouth, so that twenty coaches might pass in a breast, a thing scarcely to be credited by any body but such as see it, which has appeared true by several testimonies of undoubted credit, beside the notourity thereof to the whole country thereabout. These circumstances have induced the town to think of building a harbour in a place a little to the westward of the town called Guthrie's haven, and after having examined the ablest merchants, tradesmen, and seamen it appears that all the said people seem unanimous to be of opinion that the said place is exceedingly well situate and very advantageous for trade, as also that it has a good foundation for building a pier, water is deep, and the access is easy, even with northerly winds, which is a great advantage, considering that from Aberdeen to Inverness there is not a harbour that any ship dare adventure to seek into, when the wind blows from that airt, and the said Committee having called for, and examined several shipmasters, masons, and other workmen about what they could calculat the expense of this new harbour would come to, and both they and we, by our own ocular inspection are of opinion it will require at least £1100 Stg. to make it a tolerable good harbour." (Cullen T. C. Records.)

The Convention in the following July made a grant of £30 Stg., and recommended the case of Banff to several royal burghs.

January 7.—Upon a report from the Managers of the work of Guthrie two persons are commissioned to go to Cullen, Elgin, Inverness, and two others to go southward to Aberdeen, Montrose, &c., to receive voluntary contributions from all "whose hearts shall be moved to give to soe good ane work." "William Syme is appointed to send to Aberdeen for two guilt pocket-books" for the Commissioners entering contributions therein.

Fifteen guineas received from Lord Findlater for Guthrie harbour. Several burghs send contributions.

December 2.—"The Magistrats and Councill elect Provost Scott, William Syme, John Gordon, John Ogilvie, yr., and John Russell of the Guildry, with Thomas Murray, Convener for the Trades, to be Managers for the work of Guthrie for the ensuing year."

1728.

May 11.—£20 Stg. is in the hands of the General Receiver in Edinburgh, being part of the sum collected in the churches of Scotland for Guthrie. Up to July, 1728, the sum of £150 Stg. was expended on the harbour.

1729.

June 14.—£30 Stg. allowed by the Commissioners of Burghs to the burgh of Banff for repairing their harbour.

October 11.—“Agreed with Alexander Rind, measson, to hew, lay, and clasp the freeston one top of the peir of Guthrie for 3s. 6d. Sc. for squar foot.”

December 6.—Paid John Rind £3.

December 24.—Paid £4 to Alexander and John Rinds for work at the harbour.

1730.

July 20.—Received £25 Stg., being part of the contributions made in several kirks of Scotland for building of the new harbour of Banff, conform to an Act of the General Assembly.

1734.

Debursed on the new harbour of Guthrie £242 2s. 6d. Sc. (inclusive of £60 for iron “beeckens”).

June 22.—“The Town Council, considering the state of their new Harbour, and finding it necessary to cutt out some of the rocks on the west side for widneing the basson, eighteen feet broad of rock is to be cut from the southmost end of the basson down to the nearest goat or hollow place, being about 63 feet in length, and to carry the same down in a level with the rest of the bason, for which the quarriers are to get £9 Stg.”

August 24.—“The Burgh had bestowed a very considerable sum towards making a harbour of the hythe of Guthrie, but it is well known to be so bad that no vessell can, with any safety, lie therein. It is now proposed to build another pier on the west, and to cut out the rocks where the said pier is to be built."* The Council resolve to borrow not above £30 Stg. from the Guild box.

£495 18s. Sc. is borrowed from the Dean of Guild and Quarter Penny boxes for the new harbour of Guthrie. £100 Sc. borrowed from the Shoemaker craft.

April 7.—William Duff of Bracco requests a letter that his granting the Magistrates of Banff liberty to quarry stones out of the hill of Doune for building the west pier of the harbour of Banff is merely out of favour, and not inferring a servitude or property upon the said quarry.

1736.

The Town Council resolved that the new harbour be cleaned out by calling in the town's people by turns, until each family and inhabitant therein shall furnish a sufficient man for one day under the failie of 1s. Sterling,†

* Among the town's records is a book of "Minutes of the Managers of Guthry Harbour, 1734-1738."

1734. "The present Mannagers agree with Alexander Rhind, meason, for furnishing for the use of the harbour of Guthry where they can most conveniently be got, either at the Boat Hyth or face of William, one thousand piece of stones, compting twelve hundred for the thousand, whereof the one half to be twelve men lifts, and the other half to be six men lifts, and four men lifts in equall halves, and the harbour is to have the benefit of all the stones that are under four men lifts, which the said Alexander Rhind wins, when he wins the above quantity, and for docing whereof he is to have twelve pound ten shillings sterling."

1735, January 16. "Paid to twenty men four pence per day, being two dayes' work for each, and that for cutting out a canal through the Gaes for bringing in the lighter to the quarry at the foot of the hill of Down, which extends in all to eight pounds Scots money. Fourteen more men to be employed for one day to finish the said canal."

1735, June 7. "Bracco gives in compliment for the use of the harbour of Guthrie ten gunneas in gold, the community having readdily agreed to his altering the road which leads from the King's Foord to the town for accommodating him the better anent a new house to be built by him."

1736, August 2. "As there will be occasion for some oak trees to be made use of at filling up that place betwixt the rocks called the Goatt, fifteen trees about twelve feet in length and nine inches square are to be bought in the wood of Cairnty on Speyside."

† 1600, March 28. "It is statute . . . that the haill inhabitantis send furth out of ilk hous ane servand to the Greyne to the commoune work of the calsayc onder the pane of vis. 8d. to be payit be ilk maister of the hous." (Records of Glasgow.)

November 4.—The Council consult lawyers as to Braco's refusing to pay cess for the work at the harbour on the ground of its being a new work.

February 16.—The town's treasurer pays 6s. to two soldiers on their entering to work at Guthrie.

June 13.—The Magistrates and Council, taking to their consideration that the work of the harbour of Guthrie goes very slowly on for want of money, appoint Patrick Forbes of Schivas and James Duff, merchant in Banff, to go to the town of Glasgow, and all the towns adjacent to it on the firth, as also William Duff, late provost, and the above-designed Patrick Forbes, to go to the towns of Montrose and Aberdeen, and Doctor Charles Fotheringhame, and — to go to the towns of Dundee, Aberbrothock, Perth, Brechin, &c., and Provost Innes to go to Edinburgh, Leith, &c., to get what they can by a voluntary contribution for carrying on their harbour.

June 13.—Memorial for the Burgh of Banff. "The trade of said Burgh almost altogether depending upon its Navigation, it became therefore ever since its first erection absolutely necessary for the Inhabitants to maintain and take care of their Shipping, seeing upon it depended the Prosperity of the Place.

"They had no other Harbour at the first Erection of the Burgh, and for a long Time after than the Bay at the Mouth of the Water of Doveran, which at first run in a direct Line into the Sea at the East-end of the Bar, near to the Foot of the Hill of Down through solid ground, faced with a Dike of Stone by the Assistance of Wood-pales and Stakes. During this situation of their Water-mouth and the standing of these Pales and Stakes and Stone-dike, the Place for the Reception and Accomodation of the Shipping continued good and of an easy entry, but the Water coming in Length of Time to incline its Course to the Westward gradually encreasced the charge of ridding the Passage and keeping in Repair these Pales and Stakes, so as at last the Town was obliged to give it up and allow the water to take its natural Course. After this the old Passage filled up and the Water before it entred the Sea took a Turn two Riggs-length to the West, and during this Turn it stood as it at present does, divided from the Sea by a Bank of Gravel and small Stones called the Bar, and had Entrance to the Sea by a Passage which the Water made through the West-end of said Bank; but the Water being small had not Force enough to keep this Passage sufficiently open, so that it changed about as it still does from one Place of the Bank or Bar to another, and very often the whole Bar is quite filled up, without any open Passage from the River to the Sea, because of the Water's sinking through the Gravel and Stones, so as, many Times not so much as a Boat can have access either in or out, to the utter Ruin of the Navigation, and consequently Trade of the Place.

“This Mutability of the Passage of the River into the Sea and the filling up of the Bar in Progress of Time encreasing made the Inhabitants take into Consideration, That as there could be no Harbour or Dike built among gravel and small stones where there was no solid Foundation to work upon, so they plainly perceived that they were under an absolute necessity either to relinquish Trade or otherwise find out some proper Place without the Water-mouth, where to build a Harbour. The only convenient Place they could make Choice of for the above Purpose was a small Creek belonging to the Town called Guthrie-haven without the Water-mouth, a little Distance to the Westward thereof.

“The Inhabitants and Burghers did accordingly stent themselves and begun the work by digging and ridding the Bason of the foresaid Creek which consists of solid Rock, but their Funds being very small they were incapable of doing anything material this way till at length being somewhat roused from the Hopes of the good Consequences they thought would ensue to Trade after the Peace of Ryswick they did therefore, anno 1697, apply to Parliament, meaning the situation of their Harbour and Shipping and the low circumstances otherwise of their affairs, whereupon the Parliament gave them a warrant and order for a publick Contribution through all the Kirks and Parishes of the Kingdom: and, anno 1701, there is another order of Parliament in relation to the same affair in respect of the first's not having been prosecute: But nothing worth notice having been made of these Collections; therefore, anno 1702, the Affair having been laid before the Convention of Burrows, they ordered Commissioners to inspect and report the situation of the Town's affairs and condition of their Harbour, and these Commissioners having taken particular Inspection of the whole reported to the Convention, ‘That by the situation of the Town's charge and discharge it came in debt yearly £311 17s. 10d., besides the yearly cess, and that the Tolbooth and Church-Steeple were ruinous, and the Shipping Place at the Watermouth not capable to receive Ship or Bark.' But the Convention having at this time been much taken up with other affairs, proceeded no further.

"Thereafter, Queen Anne's wars coming on, and the French Privateering stopping all Trade, and the Burgh's being in a very mean and low condition prevented any effectual Prosecution of the Affair till after the year 1715, when the Trade of the Place and Number of Inhabitants beginning somewhat to increase the Town turned their Thoughts again upon the Harbour, and did about the year 1722 obtain some contributions from private Persons, and also the Inhabitants and Burghers did from year to year stent themselves so far as their small Abilities could allow of. But the Town foreseeing that the annual Stents upon themselves with any small contributions they had got would not answer the end proposed, they did therefore in July, 1726, make a further application to the Convention of the Royal Burrows, which appointed a Committee of their number to visit the Burgh and to report the condition thereof and of the Common Good, Trade and Harbour to the next Convention. Accordingly the Committee did visit the Burgh in October, 1726. [See Report of Commissioners sub 13th October, 1726.] The Town having got the £30 Sterl. from the Agent to the Burrows, the same was applied honestly and rationally, and the Inhabitants and Burghers also continued in stenting themselves annually as they still do, so far as their abilities reach, being very averse from troubling their Brethren Burghs or others, notwithstanding of the above Act, anno 1727, of the Royal Burrows in their Favours.

"But downright Necessity obliges them yet to make some further Application, for 'tis obvious from what's premised that, since the Watermouth is now become almost wholly useless, Guthrie Harbour must either be compleated or an end put to the Trade of the Place, which last 'tis not doubted but all the other Burghs, Communities, and even well-disposed private Persons within the kingdom will give their Assistance to prevent.

"The slow Procedure and the Inconsiderableness of the Work that can be carried on from the Money raised by the annual Stent of the Town, considering their other Exigencies, is now found not to be sufficient for answering the End, because what's done one summer is sometimes in a good measure destroyed before the next summer by the interveneing winter storms. Hence the Town now plainly observe, as 'tis believed all others will on reading of the Premises, That 'tis impracticable to get the Harbour tollerably well finished without a considerable sum of some Hundred Pounds Sterling be bestowed all in one summer. But as the Town of itself is in no condition to get such a sum raised all at once without the assistance of the rest of the Burrows of Scotland and other well-disposed Communities and private Persons, so 'tis hoped they will give their Assistance and Encouragement in support of so good a Work, upon which a good deal of money has been already laid out."

August 13.—Provost Hamilton in Bourdeaux sends a hhd. of strong claret by Robert Lesly as a present for the harbour of Guthrie. It is roused for eight guineas.

January 9.—"Provost Duff and the three others, appointed to go to Aberdeen to collect voluntary contributions for the harbour, report that they met with great civility from the magistrates and burgers of that place, and that four of the baillies went through the town with them, one for each quarter, and that they collected £72 1s. 11d. Stg."*

1740.

February 25.—"The Councill order a man from every family in town to work for a whole day, or two tides, for carrying off the chingle thrown in to the harbour of Guthrie by the late storms."

The town's treasurer expends £2 on "4 lib. black powder for trying to blow up rocks at Guthrie."

The Managers of Guthrie resolve to fill and build up the Gulph at the head of the East Pier. Alexander Rhind agrees to do the work, he supplying stones, and to uphold it for nine years on payment of £12 Stg.

* Among the town's records is a bundle of about thirty weekly accounts for work at Guthrie during 1738-9. They show that nineteen pickmen and barrowmen were sometimes employed, whose weekly wages amounted to about £30 Sc., including usually about one-twelfth part of the total sum as drink money, the pickmen for example receiving about £2 8s. Sc. on this head, and the barrowmen 12s. Sc. Five soldiers received £6 for "eight tides' work at Guthry." The beacon was set up at a cost of £4 4s. Two pounds of black powder were bought for 24s.

August.—Paid 12s. to workmen for carrying stones out of the river where the ships lie.

In this year the Magistrates made an agreement with James Rainie and five others, quarriers, to dig out a piece of rock on the west side of "the new harbour of Banff called Guthrie," beginning at the side of the little middle pier. The Magistrates agree to supply them with a set of tools, to provide them with 25 lb. weight of gunpowder, and pay them £35 Stg.

Agreement with Alexander Rhind for an addition of 60 feet in a northward direction to the east pier of Guthrie harbour. The opening at the harbour betwixt the head of the east pier and the outer rock has been demolished by storm.

Contract with Alexander Rhind to build a pier at Guthrie to join the head of the east pier, and to extend 73 feet northward from the said east pier over the rocks, the said new pier to be 30 feet wide at the foundation, and 23 feet at least at the top. Rhind to furnish stones. Contract price, £61 14s. Stg.

Paid Robert Davidson, smith, £1 sterling for work at putting up a new beacon at Guthrie. For a load of peats for firing the beacon, 2s. 6d.

Debursed on the new pier of Guthrie from 18th July to 21st October, 1752,* £715 1s. Sc.

"Paid to John Fraser, skipper, for bringing eleven loadings of red stone from Achmeddein to said work, £207 8s." Whitehills fishermen also brought stones from the Craigs of Melrose.

The Council grant ground to Bailie Philip to build warehouses near the harbour at a feu-duty of 10s. Stg.

* "Expenses at putting in of the Beacon, £4 9s. 6d. (including 1 pint ale and 1 loaf bread to James Rainy and Cha. McLean at boreing hols. for the Beacon, &c., 4s. 6d. Carreing the beacon in a boat to the rock, 6s. To 1 pint ale and 1 loaf bread at do., with carage, 4s. 6d.)."

1755.

Paid eleven workmen for taking down the lighter from her winter mooring, 30s. Paid five workmen for taking the lighter over the bar to Guthrie, 10s.

1757.

October 30.—The Magistrates of Aberdeen thank the Magistrates of Banff for the kindness they showed to the crew of the sloop, Susannah of Aberdeen, Jo. Cushnie, master, lost in taking the harbour of Banff. The people of Banff showed them every attention and charged no salvage.

1758.

The Boathythe deepened and enlarged [Cf. Vol. I., p. 307].

Donation by Thomas Murray, merchant, of certain tenements and houses for behoof of the harbour. The deed of gift thus begins: "Whereas I have lived all my life in the burgh of Banff, and by my lawfull calling and industry acquired the greatest part of my means and substance therein, and earnestly wish the prosperity of the said burgh and community thereof, &c." He directs the yearly rent for twenty years after his decease to be applied "for the support, reparation, deepening, and cleaning or otherways improveing the new harbour of the burgh, commonly called Guthrie haven." Thereafter the rent was to be applied for the education of two poor boys, but that clause was ultimately withdrawn, and the heritage given absolutely to the harbour.

"At the mouth of the river a basin is made by two piers, in which a ship of a hundred tons can lie with safety" (Bp. Pococke).

1763.

Bailie Philp sells to the town part of his heritage at Guthrie for £130. The Council give orders to free Guthrie Green, adjacent to the harbour, from being lumbered with timber, &c.

1764.

Many attempts have been made to feu out the Gallowhill moor for raising a fund for the harbour, but a great part is still un-feued.

1767.

Two barrels are ordered for the harbour for weighing small or English coals, each barrel to contain 72 Scotch pints. All coals sold by measure must be sold by these barrels. Contributions to Guthrie: James and John Milne, £5 5s. Stg.; Sir William Dunbar, £5 5s.; Provost Duff £10 10s.; The Incorporation of Weavers, £2 4s.; The Incorporation of Shoemakers, £10 10s.; The Incorporation of Wrights, £2 12s. 6d. (part); The Incorporation of Coopers, £5 5s.

March 14.—The Provost represents to the Head Court that some late storms had pulled down eighty feet of the East Pier. The Court is of opinion that if the present harbour were enlarged by building a west pier almost as far out as the Beacon Rock, it would not only receive ships of considerable burden at neap tides, but would make the access to the harbour safe and commodious at all times. It would also increase the trade of town and country, as wood, iron, flax, &c., would be imported cheaper by ships of large burden. This could be done with what could be spared from the town's funds, if the members of the Court present would contribute according to their circumstances, and if the friends of the town would lend £1000. It could be done within five years, and the loan paid off at the rate of 20 per cent. per annum. The Head Court sanction that the town be taxed for the interest of the money.

June 14.—Paid for 8 lib. loaf sugar to the town-house at a meeting when a new work of the harbour was founded, 6s. Paid for an anker rum from Aberdeen for the town's use, £4 6s.

September 12.—Act of the Convention of Royal Burghs anent the harbour of Guthrie. The Magistrates represented to the Convention "that the navigation of the Murray Firth has hitherto been extremly dangerous, particularly in the winter season, and the danger arises chiefly from the want of proper harbours where ships might find shelter in cross winds or stormy weather. Along the whole south shore of the Frith there is just now no place accessible to any vessel of burden in stormy weather. There are several ports indeed, but they are either the mouths of rivers, into which no ships will willingly enter or can lie with safety in the winter time, or small creeks of little water and difficult access." The petitioners proposed a harbour on the north-west side of their present harbour. It was found £4000 Stg. would be required, and the inhabitants of Banff had already subscribed nearly £2000. "The site," the petitioners represented, "was the best adapted for the purpose of a harbour of any upon the south side of the Murray Firth," and thus would be of great benefit to the kingdom, and that many shipwrecks would have been avoided had such a harbour existed. The Convention remitted the matter to the Magistrates of Aberdeen, Elgin, and Cullen, to examine and to report. These recommended the case to the aid and attention of the Convention of Burghs. The Earl of Findlater subscribed £50, with £50 more if Mr. Smeaton's plan were adopted. The Earl Fife subscribed £50, with £50 more if a proper plan were adopted. The Town Council of Banff was of opinion that "Mr. Smeaton, engineer, is at present esteemed the ablest man in Britain for things of that kind," and they resolve that, as he is coming to Aberdeen, that he be asked to come to Banff.

The Council are of opinion that the east pier head should be built at least 90 feet farther into the sea than the last pier head.

Debursed for the harbour, 12th February, 1768, to 18th February, 1769 £382 Stg. Paid for workmen to the harbour, February, 1769, to February, 1770, £180 Stg.

April 12.—Expenses at laying the foundation of the new pier, £3 17s. 11½d. For a bottle white port at that time, 1s. 6d. For the next nine years an average sum of £190 Stg. yearly was expended on the harbour.

The Convention of Royal Burghs grants a loan of £500 towards erecting the harbour, to be repaid at the rate of £100 per annum.

April 11.—The foundation of the new harbour laid conform to Mr. Smeaton's plan. Mr. Smeaton's charges for surveying the harbour, with travelling expenses, £24 Stg. It was resolved to carry out Mr. Smeaton's plan, and that a west pier be founded, with a width of 30 feet at least at the base, so as to allow two carts to pass.

In the Town's Records are some 55 accounts for labour at Guthrie during 1772 and 1773. The accounts amount to from £2 to £6 per week, inclusive always of from 3s. to 5s. for drink money. There were employed usually from two to four masons, six quarriers (at the Girnells), and seven barrowmen, earning about 10d., 8d., and 7d. respectively per day.

December 13.—The Treasurer and Procurator-fiscal lodge a complaint against George Barber, weaver, and Anne McIron, as guilty of fornication. They confess and are fined £1 1s., payable to the Procurator-fiscal for the public work of the harbour at Guthrie, being a pious use.

Mr. Lockhart presents £210 Stg. to the harbour, and Lord Kinnoul, £105.

February 24.—The Council resolve to take down the piers of the old harbour, and finish the piers of the new harbour, and make a road from the harbour up to the brae.

1775.

May 2.—The Council recommend to the Magistrates to carry out an addition of 60 feet to the east jetty of the new harbour.

October 28.—The new harbour is now completely finished, "to the highest satisfaction of all seafaring people who have seen it."

1776.

Col. Morris presents £100 to the harbour of Guthrie.

1778.

In rousing the shore dues, one condition was that the tacksman was obliged to take particular care that no shipmaster, or those under him, lay down ballast in the harbour or upon any of the piers, and also that the stones of the piers shall not be allowed to be carried off, or moved, for any purpose, or upon any account whatever.

1780.

November 6.—The sloop Marjory of Findhorn with a cargo of tea wrecked on the Bar of Banff. The sloop and cargo were sold for £2079. After deducting the expense of the process in condemning vessel and cargo, paying the military, and the king's part, there remained £873 to the seizure makers (Robert Hendry and Thomas Milne, tidesmen, Macduff; John Fordyce, tidesman, Banff; and James McNure, officer of excise at Aberdeen), besides 1400 pounds of "damnified teas," which was burnt, and for which Government allowed the seizure makers 2s. 6d. per pound.

1784.

Workmen report to the Head Court that the east pier head of the harbour of Guthrie is in a bad state, and that something should be done to keep it from falling down. The Court agree to expend a sum not exceeding £300 Stg. in rebuilding it.

1785.

The Council request the Provost to write to the Governor or Deputy-Governor at Fort George in order to obtain about fifty men to be employed in carrying out the work at the harbour, and other necessary work about the town.

1786.

The Council borrow £200, at $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., for carrying on the harbour work. Twenty-six loads of stones brought from the Girnells, and three from the Tumblers.

1789.

1795.

In this year were imported 3880 iron bars from abroad, and 800 coastwise, 815 bushels flour, 226 cwt. wool, 11,800 bricks, 2500 tiles, 5258 gallons spirits, 2426 gallons wine, 7766 bushels salt, 1745 chalders English coal, and 281 tons Scotch coal. Exported: 434 cwt. butter and cheese, 122 salmon barrels, 1412 kitts of salmon, 2361 qrs. meal, 2196 qrs. barley, 3490 qrs. oats, and 5500 cod and ling.

1796.

Paid J. Rhind, mason, for repairing the pier and harbour, and building the bulwark opposite the Warehouse.

In this year belonged to the port 8 brigantines of from 100 to 210 tons each, and 14 sloops of from 60 to 100 tons each. The total tonnage of these 22 vessels was 1943 tons, the number of men being 137.

The Statistical Account of Scotland, sub Banff, written 1798, contains the following:—"Of old boats and trading vessels lay within the river, extending along the banks where the bulwark now is. We learn from tradition that the course of the Doveran near its influx was considerably more eastward than at present. It is said to have emptied itself at the Craig of Down, now Macduff. The traditional report is corroborated by some ancient grants in favour of the Earl of Buchan, in which are specified the salmon fishings at the mouth of the river and in the sea, 'jacentes apud Down.' That piece of low ground on the east side of the river called the Gaws, now a part of Lord Fife's pleasure grounds, was lately the property of the town, is still within the royalty, and, it is highly presumable, formerly lay on the west bank of the river, which divides the Earldom of Buchan from the county of Banff. The river, indeed, seems frequently to have altered its course, sometimes passing in a straight line through the beach, and, at other times, winding to the west near the Castle Hill, where it now runs, and which has been its channel for several years past. The stream has sometimes been so small as not to have currency sufficient to keep the passage open, the water oozing through the bank of gravel, and preventing the entrance and departure of the smallest boat. Hence arose the necessity of building a harbour in a more convenient situation."*

Paid for cleaning out the harbour, 11s. 10d.

1809.

April 8.—By minute of Head Court the harbour is placed under management separate from that of the burgh, the managing committee sometimes being the magistrates and council, and six or eight merchants, and shipowners appointed by them.

1810.

The houses in the High Street belonging to the community, presently possessed by Rev. Mr. Milne and Miss Watt, sold for the benefit of the harbour to Stewart Souter for £251.

1813.

A Greenland Whale Fishing Company formed, and two vessels fitted up, but the enterprise soon came to an end.

* It is stated by Rose (MS. History of the Burgh) that prior to the year 1600 the town erected piles and stakes to keep the mouth of the river open, but the work proving too difficult to maintain, it was resolved to erect the harbour called Guthrie.

In Fullerton's "Imperial Gazetteer of Scotland" is shown a plan of the mouth of the river as in 1834. Here the river is represented as having made for itself two mouths through the bar, about 500 and 700 feet respectively east of the present mouth.

1654-62. By exposure to the north-west wind, says Gordon, in his Description of the Sheriffdoms of Aberdeen and Banff, "fluminis ostia situm mutant" (see I., 51). This is one of the earliest extant references to changes in the mouth of the river.

May 6.—Some years ago application was made to the Commissioners for Highland Roads, Bridges, &c., for a share of the sum placed at their disposal, for the improvement of the harbour of Banff. With great difficulty a grant of £7000 was obtained (being part of the sum owing them by the city of Edinburgh), on condition the community gave a like sum. After the greatest exertion, and after a delay of some years, the Magistrates received the £7000 from Edinburgh. A plan was drawn up by Mr. Telford, C.E., the works to cost £14,000.* This plan was somewhat modified before being carried out. The community borrowed £6000 of the £7000 required to be raised by them.

Paid for drink to musicians, &c., at the foundation of the new harbour, £1 11s. 6d.

From a harbour account paper of date 13th November, 1819, it appears that the amount of the Magistrates' estimate for building the harbour was £13,947, of which £7562 10s. had been already paid to Messrs. Smith, sub-contractors, leaving £3737 10s. still due to them.

A further paper shows an accumulated account of £2039 17s. 5d., consisting of £300, being donation from Lord Fife to the new harbour, £293 12s. 9d. being price of Murray's house sold for behoof of the harbour, and £1446 4s. 8d., being savings from harbour revenue, &c., since 1809, after payment of large sums paid out in deepening and repairing the old harbour.

* The chief works to be executed in terms of the agreement were :—

(1) From the root of the then north-east pier, a new pier was to be carried in nearly a north-easterly direction down the rocky beach and across the narrow slip called the Boat Hythe, a distance of about 210 feet from high water mark.

(2) From the north-east extremity of the pier referred to, the main body of the pier was to be carried in a south-easterly direction.

(3) From the back of the then north-east pier, a new pier was to be extended in a north-easterly direction for a distance of about 140 feet, leaving an opening of about 100 feet between its extremity and the inner edge of the main pier.

The working plans and specifications were prepared by Mr. John Gibb, C.E., Aberdeen, and operations were begun in 1818, the local contractors being Messrs. John, James, and William Smith. The opinion of local fishermen and sailors afterwards prevailed with Telford to modify his plan so as to extend the outer quay 150 feet till it covered the mouth of the old harbour.

A third paper shows the harbour income and expenditure for 13 months from 1st November, 1818, to 29th November, 1819. The income amounted to £448 14s. 5d., of which £311 was one year's rent of shore dues, and £137 14s. 5d. interest of money deposited in the Commercial Bank. The expenditure included interest paid for a year on £5210—£260 10s.; repairs on the east pier head, £36 4s.; five stone pails, £15; removing mud out of the basin, £17; accumulation account, £97, &c. A note is appended to the effect that unless there shall be a rise in the rent of the shore dues the saving or accumulation must be very small in future, as there will now be very little money bearing interest in the bank, and out of the rents of £311 the interest of £5000 falls to be paid, leaving only about £60 available to meet all expenses of cleaning, repairing, &c.

The operations commenced in 1818 went on well until 23rd October, 1819, when this part of the coast was visited by a hurricane of unprecedented violence, and in course of the ensuing night a great part of the new pier was thrown down, and 20,000 tons of stones forced into deep water into the new basin. The pier had to be built of greater height and thickness, and required a strong breakwater. The damage by that tempest created a charge of not less than £5000. The Commissioners for Highland Roads and Bridges increased their grant by £1000, and the Convention of Royal Burghs gave £400. The town then petitioned the Convention for a further grant, as boomgates were necessary to exclude the swell from the bay. The extensive new pier and its breakwater, and the commodious extension of another pier in the new harbour, were completed by 1828. The harbour debt in 1822 was £5222, and in 1824 £6810.

1832.

Harbour revenue, £516 12s. 9d.; debt, £7782. £17,000 has been expended on the harbour.

1834.

Exported this year: 29,790 qrs. oats, 1174 qrs. wheat, and 976 qrs. barley and bear, besides a small quantity of oatmeal, pease and potatoes.

1835.

Note of Harbour Debts: Town of Banff, £700; bills at the bank, £1150; due several persons more, making the total amount of debt, £7596.

1836.

A Committee is appointed to consider how the harbour may be suited for steam navigation at all states of the tide. The present state of the Banff trade is that there are now about 1200 tons of shipping employed in ten to twelve vessels, making an average of nine voyages annually, and carrying 11,000 tons of merchandise to London. Average freight at 20s. is £11,000, taking back to Banff £1000, total £12,000, deterioration £1000, insurance £806, leaving £8814: that is a profit of £3186, or upwards of 30 per cent. A fair value of these ten to twelve vessels would be £10,080, and they make 100 voyages at £70 cost=£7000. The freight at Dundee has increased 50 per cent. since steam was introduced, at Aberdeen it has doubled, and at Leith quadrupled. The capital here required is £24,000 for two steam ships of 600 tons each, &c. Mr. Bremner, C.E., Wick, recommends the deepening of the channel 18 inches, and removing the rock called "Bobby Leal," at an expense of £600. The Head Court sanction this expenditure.

The vessels belonging to this port "are generally employed in carrying grain, herrings, salmon, live cattle and cured pork to London and some other places in the South, and return with coals, groceries, &c. Some of them take occasional voyages to Sweden for iron and deals; to Russia for hemp; and to Holland for flax."

A Morton's Patent Slip laid down at the harbour, capable of repairing vessels of 200 tons.

The herring fishing prior to 1815 was mainly confined to the coasts of Caithness and Sutherland, but about that year fishing began on the south side of the Firth. The number of barrels cured in the five years—1831 to 1835—was 1759, 1959, 1265, 938, and 631 respectively, the number of boats decreasing from 14 to 8, and the number of fishermen employed from 56 to 32.

By the Private Act of Parliament passed in the year 1840, for the regulation of the affairs of the burgh and of the harbour, a body of Harbour Trustees was constituted with borrowing and other powers. The Trustees consulted Mr. James Bremner, C.E., Wick, and Mr. James Abernethy, C.E., Aberdeen, as to the best mode of improving the harbour. A deputation from the Tidal Harbours Commission, consisting of Captain John Washington, R.N., and Captain Veitch, R.E., Admiralty Engineer, inspected the harbour in September and October, 1846, and, after facetiously describing the harbour as "a labyrinth of walls," they made valuable recommendations, most of which were carried out between 1848 and 1851. A passage was made by removing part of the north quays, which opened communication between the old harbour and the new, so that ships could be taken from the one to the other without having to go outside the harbour altogether. The entrance to the old harbour was then built up, and there was removed the Ballast Quay which formed the west side of the old channel, and which blocked the side of the harbour. By building up the entrance of the old harbour instead of that of the new, which latter course was recommended by Captains Washington and Veitch, the treacherous "Bobby Leal" rock, which these authorities described as a disgrace to any harbour, was got rid of, for the mason work joining the old east pier to Macdonald's Jetty was built upon it. By the autumn of 1851 the old harbour channel was closed by a new sea-wall, which, beginning at Macdonald's Jetty, ran in a straight line till it intersected the east pier at a point 128 feet distant from its northern extremity. One hundred and twenty-eight feet of the mason work of the east pier thus cut off by the new building were removed, and the harbour assumed the appearance it bears at the present day.

The following table shows the income and expenditure, with other particulars, of the Harbour Trust for the six years 1867-72:—

	Revenue.	Expenditure.	Surplus.	Debt.	Ships.	Tonnage.
1867.....	£536 6 6	£467 2 11	£69 3 7	£9691 11 2	114	9180

1880.

"The trade of Banff is mainly an import coastwise one, and coal is the chief article of import—38,822 tons in 1879; whilst exports are grain, cattle, salmon, herrings (21,785 barrels in 1879), etc., the foreign and colonial imports amounting in 1880 to £36,293, the exports to £45,840, and the customs to £1808." (Ordnance Gazetteer, 1882.)

1891.

May 12.—"Up to this date about 20,000 quarters of oats have been shipped of crop 1890, or more than in any one year since the opening of the railways in the district." (Banffshire Journal.)

Number of fishing boats, 35 large and 9 small—total, 44. Number of boats engaged at the herring fishing this season, 33; total number of crans landed, 3320. Number of crans landed in 1890, 6272; number in 1889, 4457. Number of vessels presently belonging to Banff, 26 (built 1847-1887). Their tonnage, 2165 tons.

The number of vessels registered as belonging to the port, with tonnage, was in the following years:—

THE SALMON FISHINGS.

THE FISHINGS IN EARLY TIMES.—LIST OF THE BURGH FISHINGS.—PAYMENT TO KING'S COLLEGE.—TACKS OF 1551 AND 1567.—THE FISHINGS GIVEN OFF IN PERPETUAL FEU.—PROGRESS OF THE FISHINGS.—FISH CAUGHT AT DIFFERENT PERIODS.—THE TOWN COUNCIL SELL THE LAST OF THEIR FISHINGS.—ADDITIONAL NOTES.

THE SALMON FISHERIES.

FOR many centuries salmon fishing has been an important industry in Scotland, and from early times the fishings have been the subject of grant by the Crown, and of enactment by Parliament. David I. granted to the Abbey of Holyrood the right to have one draw of a net for salmon, and in 1164 the Abbey of Scone was in possession of two nets in the Tay and one in the Forth. By a law of William I. the mid-streams of all salmon rivers had to be free for the length of a three-year-old pig, which space was altered in 1489 to five feet.

The salmon fishings of Banff figure in the history of the burgh for upwards of six centuries, in the course of which—although they proved a considerable source of revenue to their owners—they furnished a fruitful source of discord and litigation, and to the local annalist they now present a series of problems most difficult to unravel.

So early as 1250 (cf. p. 12) the Church of Banff was in possession of the tithes of red fish, and this is probably the earliest reference to salmon in the history of the burgh. A further reference occurs in 1257. The tithes of the salmon of Banff were set for one last in 1528, and for £24 in 1561.

The oldest existing charter of the burgh, of date 1372, grants to the inhabitants the cruives and fishings of the water of Deveron—"cum croiis et piscariis aque de Duverne."

The burghers do not seem to have long maintained peaceable possession, for in the year 1400 King Robert III. found it necessary to issue a precept, an original copy of which is still among the burgh records, "ordering to be carried into execution an Act of Parliament ordaining Malcolm Drummond, Lord of Marr, to be judicially tried by the Sherriff for invading the rights of the burgh of Banff by fishing salmon in that part of the Doveran called the Welshote, and directing the said burgh to be protected in their right to that fishing."

Mr. William Reid, Town Clerk, thus enumerated (c. 1820) the several fishings that belonged to the burgh :—

- (1) The Craigshot Fishing, so called from the Craig of Down, now called the Palmer Cove, which came along the back or north side of the bar to the then watermouth or efflux of the river, as the river at that period had its outlet at the east end of the bar. This was the entry for ships or boats at that time, as there was no harbour but within the river, and the mouth of the river was protected and kept open by a bulwark upon the east side, and pales and stakes upon the west side, fixed and driven in to the gravel and sand. Notwithstanding of this defence the outlet of the river was always shifting and inclining towards the westward, and this system of pales and stakes becoming so expensive the town was at last obliged to abandon that scheme. This fishing belonged to the Earl of Buchan.
- (2) The Middleshot Fishing at the mouth of the river.
- (3) The Wellshot Fishing on the west of the Middleshot.
- (4) The Thane's Net Fishing belonged to the Earl of Buchan, and which he had perhaps acquired with the thanedom of Glendowachie.
- (5) The Thane's Net Fishing adjoined the last, and belonged to Robert Dun of Rattie as perhaps following his lands of Rattie, which was originally a part of the thanedom of Boyne.
- (6) The Syse Lax Fishing [= The Assize Salmon Fishing] began in that part of the river opposite to the Gaas and below where the bridge now stands. It belonged to the Earl of Buchan.*
- (7) The King's Water Fishing, an extensive and important fishing above the Syse Lax, and extending above the island until it met
- (8) The Wrack or Nether Rake Fishing, where there was a dam dyke across the river and a principal fishing station, with a corf house, covered with slate.

* "The sea fishing called the Syss-lax or back of the bar fishing lyes between the water-mouth and the Palmer Cove. The Palmer Cove is a place among the rocks below the Hill of Down." (W. Rose's MS.)

- (9) The Water of Scurrie Fishing extended from the last, perhaps as far as the dam dyke of the Mill of Banff.
- (10) The Over-rake Fishing extended to where the cruives and cruiue dyke are now placed.

It does not clearly appear how the burgh managed its fishings prior to the year 1471, but many arguments could be advanced to show that they were not held in common as usually stated. Reference has already been made (Vol. I., pp. 9, 10) to the importance of the salmon fishings of Banff in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. So early as 1281 salmon appears to have been exported from Aberdeen. Towards the close of the seventeenth century it was shipped thence to the continent at the rate of about 360 barrels yearly of 250 pounds each. The Banff burgh charter of 1581 states that the burgh lands and fishings had been feued out to burgesses past memory of man. At any rate at that period (1471) a change from the hitherto existing custom evidently took place, the burgh being then brought face to face with mending their tolbooth and "theicking" their kirk with slates, but for executing which they found they had no substance. An Indenture* was accordingly made in that year between Sir James Ogilvie of Deskford and others on the one part, and John Currou and Patrick Blyth, bailies and commissioners, and other burgesses of the burgh on the other part, with consent of all and sundry neighbours, whereby they set for nineteen years to Sir James Ogilvie and seven others eleven nets of the King's Water, one-third of Over-rack, and one-third of Middleshot, each net paying ten merks yearly, and Sir James paying £6 and becoming bound to defend the burgh in their rights to the fishings.

Sir James had also fishings in the Ythan, as appears by charter of date 6th May, 1477, from William de Sancto Claro.

The Fasti Aberdonenses records a charter of vendition by Alexander Ogilvie of Deskford to William, Bishop of Aberdeen, Chancellor of the University, for behoof of the Masters, Regents and Prebendaries of the College, of an annual rent of 19 merks Scots from the customs of the King's fishings of the waters of Dowerne, belonging to the burgh of Banff, 8th May, 1512. The charter of confirmation to the burgh of date 1592 shows the liability of the burgh for payment thereof, and an Act of

* See Vol. I., pp. 20-1.

Parliament in 1617 confirmed the privileges of the college—"19 merkis out of the King's water of Banf." Nevertheless a dispute arose regarding the payment of this sum, and on 7th August, 1643, decret was given in favour of the college against the burgh. The Lords of Exchequer ordained that the burgh make payment to the college of nineteen merks yearly since 1632, and continue henceforth to make payment yearly. Dr. William Guild, on behalf of the College, produced the Confirmation of the Mortification of the said sum of 19 merks under His Majesty's Great Seal of date 28th May, 1612, together with a decret obtained before the Lords of Council and Session of date 17th July, 1635, "decerning and ordaining the saids provost, baillies and council to make payment of the sum of 19 merks to the said colledge." The right of the college to the said payment was ratified in 1670. Payment has accordingly continued to be made till the present day, as the following extracts show:

"1685, December 8th.—Discharge from King's Colledge of Aberdeen for 19 merks, being a year's interest payable out of the waters of Banff by the town."

"1803, November 29th.—Paid the Old Town Colleg of Aberdeen for the waters of Banff payable for crops 1801, 1802, 1803, £3 3s. 4d."

"1890. Paid annuity to Aberdeen University, £1 os. 7d."

In the charter room of Duff House are several charters, &c., on fishings about Banff from William Smyth, prior of the Carmelites, to Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus, including a net in the King's Water (date 1555). In 1539 the Abbot and Churchmen of Coupar also granted him a lease of their fishings, &c., upon the Water of Deveron, he binding himself to be their perpetual friend, partaker, and defender. There are also several deeds from the year 1474, relating to the fishings of Bauchlaw, &c.

The fishings continued to be let to the burgesses, as the following extract from a Court Book of date 1550 shows:—

"Thir ar the persones that ar awand thair watter maill 1549: Inprimis Sir Walter Ogilvy of Dunlugus kny^t. for fyff nettis, extending to xi li. vs. ; item, Thome ——— for als mikill xi li. vs. ; item, Patrik Grant ix li. vs. ; item, Johne Curror, elder, iiii li. xiiis. vid. ; item, John Curror, sone to vmq^l. Johne Curror, blek baillie, xls. ; Mariore Grantulie xls. ; item, George Curror, brother to vmq^l. James Curror of Inchdrewer liis. vid. ; item, Skurre vi li. Summa, xlvi li." [? xlix.]

The foregoing sums were ordered to be paid to the treasurer forthwith, "under the payne of tynsall of their tacks."

The current assedations or tacks seem then to have been expiring. At any rate new tacks were granted by the commissioners in 1551, and to a considerable extent they appear to have been a renewal of the then existing tacks.

This plan of appointing commissioners to grant tacks of the fishings in place of the Town Council granting them directly was intended no doubt to secure the Provost or other officials of the Council in a legal assedation.

By the tack of 1551 there were let to the provost, Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus, three nets in the King's Water, one-eighteenth of Ourak, and one-third of the shots in the sea ; to Thomas Baird, bailie, two-eightieths of Ourak, and one-third of the shots in the sea ; to Walter Currou, son and heir of the deceased James Currou, portioner of Inchdrewer, two nets in the King's Water, and two-eightieths of Ourak ; to Walter Baird, two nets in the King's Water ; to John Currou, elder, one net in the King's Water, and one-eightieth of Ourak ; to James Currou, two nets in the King's Water, and one-sixth of the shots in the sea ; to George Duncanson, one net in the King's Water, and one-sixth of the shots in the sea ; to George Currou, brother to the deceased James Currou, portioner of Inchdrewer, one-eightieth of Ourak ; to Elizabeth Ord, one net in the King's Water, and one-eightieth of Ourak ; to John Duncanson, one-third of Skurrie ; and to James Scott and Richard Charles the remaining two-thirds. In whole there were let twelve nets in the King's Water, eight-eightieths of Ourak, and the whole of Scurrie and of the shots in the sea. Each net in the King's Water paid 40s., each one-eightieth of Ourak 52s. 6d., and one-third of Scurrie 60s. The shots in the sea paid £6. Total about £51.

Thomas Baird above referred to was laird of Ordinhoves, and is said to have been one of the thirty-two children of George Baird and Lillas Grant, daughter of Ballindalloch. Elizabeth Ord was favoured, as being daughter of John Ord, who was slain at Pinkie, and the profits of the fishings assigned to her were to be applied by her grandmother for her education until she arrived at the age of twelve years, when she would marry a burges of the town.

Strict regulations existed in these times regarding the salmon fishing

(Cf. Vol. I., pp. 23 and 29). At the Burgh Court on 28th July, 1550, John Hall and three others "reid fyscharis of the watter callet the Kingis watter in Doverne, accusit for the maisterfull and wrangouslie awaytaking and withhalding of the awinnaris feisching." They were convicted, and "expellit fra that day forth fra all laboring or fysching of the said watter or havand ony interes therto, bot all vtlie dischargitt for that yeir," and four others were chosen with consent of the owners.

The assedation of 1551 was for nineteen years. In November, 1567, the provost and magistrates granted warrant to commissioners to set to burgesses the fishings of the burgh, namely, the King's Water, Overaik, Skurrie and Middleshot in the sea, and accordingly the same year there was another assedation for nineteen years, when twelve nets in the King's Water, eight-eighteenths of Overaik, two-thirds of Skurrie, and the whole of the fishings and shots within the sea belonging to the burgh were let at the same rates as in 1551, viz., to George Ogilvie of Dunlugus, provost, three nets in the King's Water, one-eighteenth of Overaik, and one-third of the shots and fishings within the sea ; to Walter Baird of Ordinhoves, bailie, two nets in the King's Water, and two-eighteenths of Overaik ; to Walter Currou of Inchdrewer, bailie, two nets in the King's Water, and two-eighteenths of Overaik ; to John Meldrum and Elizabeth Ord, his spouse, one net in the King's Water, and one-eighteenth of Overaik ; to Mr. William Currou, one net in the King's Water ; to William Duncanson and Margaret Duncanson, his spouse, one net in the King's Water, one-sixth of the fishings within the sea, and one-third of Skurrie ; to James Currou, two nets in the King's Water, and one-sixth of the fishings within the sea ; to Alexander Currou, one-eighteenth of Overaik ; to George Baird, one-third of the fishings within the sea ; to Andrew Grant, one-eighteenth of Overaik ; and to John Charles, one-third of Skurrie.

On 9th May, 1581, a charter was granted to the burgh by James VI., and ratified and confirmed when he became of full age, narrating the charter of King Robert III., and bearing that for the advantage of the burgh the said burgh had been in the practice past memory of man of leasing to resident burgesses the lands and fishings of the burgh, that the leases having expired, the neighbouring lairds, seeing the advantage of obtaining such leases, and hoping to acquire the profits for themselves, did trouble and molest the burgh, and gave no rest nor peaceable life to the burghers. The charter thus obtained from the King gave power and liberty to the magistrates to give off in perpetual feu the lands and fishings to actual trafficking burgesses, inhabitants of the burgh, and to none others, for payment of an augmentation of the rental, one condition being that no female should ever possess the same, and with power to appoint commissioners for setting off these lands and fishings.

The ancient rights of the burgh, including the fishings of the Water of Doverne from the cruives to the sea, also the fishings in the sea, as well salmon as other fishes, were confirmed by charter of confirmation and novodamus granted by King James the sixth to the burgh, of date 5th July, 1592.

Having by these charters got the right and authority to feu off the patrimony of the burgh, the Town Council proceeded to put their powers in execution. Accordingly, in the year 1595, upon the narrative that on account of wars and troubles, the dearth of the country, and scantiness of victual, with exorbitant stents and taxations raised on the burgh and inhabitants for supporting the war, the public works, and the upholding of the kirk, tolbooth, and calsays had been neglected in time past, so that now without great loss the same could not be built, mended or repaired, and brought to good estate, they therefore granted a commission to certain of their own number to set off in feu the lands and salmon fishings of the burgh. These commissioners, in terms of their commission, set off in feu, says Mr. William Rose, (1) the four nets fishing of Over-rack to George Ogilvie of Dunlugus; (2) the Nether Rack fishing to Walter and James Currou; and (3) the King's Water fishing to Walter Ogilvie, fiar of Dunlugus.

The king and Council pass an Act to stop the violation of the Sabbath by owners of fishings in Dee, Don, Deveron, &c. "They spair and forbeir not the ordinar appointit tymes for publict preiching and prayeris, quhairthrow as God is dishonourit, his halie Sabbath prophanit, and the Kingis Majestie his authoritie and lawis contempnit and misregairdit." The practice was now forbidden under pain of £40, toties quoties. Acts of Parliament were passed against Salmon fishing, &c., on Sunday in 1640, 1641 and 1649, and in 1661 the former Acts against Sunday working were ratified.

James, Earl of Buchan, expedes a charter under the Great Seal of the Earldom, &c., including the salmon fishings of Deveron, called (1) the Thane's net, with (2) the Assise Lax fishing, and (3) the salmon fishing to the sea called the Craigshot, near to Down.

1627-39.

At this period the King's Water fishing yielded to the burgh revenue £24 yearly as "maill," Ovirak £21 6s. 8d., and Scurrie £9, these items constituting about one-fifth part of the whole annual income of the burgh.

1629.

"J. Ogilvy" [Lord Ogilvie of Airlie] writes from Cortachie, wishing the town "to enter and seize my sone and me" in certain lands and fishings resigned by the Laird of Banff in their favour.

May 19.—"The Provest and bailyies, with concurrence and adwyis of the counsell, fand and considerit that the bleitching of claithe and wasching of claithes and hyidis at the water mouthe of Doverne, speciallie benethe the east styill of the kirkyaird was ane great prejudice and hender to the salmound fischeing of the said burghe, and thairfor ordanit that na persone lay or bleitche onye claithe or wasche or dicht onye barkit or lymit hyidis on the said watersyid benethe the said kirkyaird styill at onye tyme heir-efter betuix the first day of Apryll and the aucht day of Sep^r. yeirlye, and the contraveiner to be poyndit for fourtie schillingis."

"Salmound fishes passand the Cocquet in anno 1632: To Robert Cruikschanck, younger, burges of Aberdeen, xi last viii barrells; to Mr. James Strachane of Fettercarne, vii last v barrells; to Johne Dowgall, burges of Ed^r., ii last vi barrells."

1634.

1st October.—“The bailyie, haiffing causit searche, seik, and dacker the duelling houses of Walter Adamson and Andrew Broune, reidfischeris in Braesyid of Moncoffer, and of Alexander Murray in Moncoffer, reidfischer, and haiffing fund certane new slayne blak fisches slayne be them with cobill and net vnder the silence of nicht contrair the Actis of Parliament, causit incarcerat them within the tolbuithie.”

14th October.—Andrew Brown and Alexander Murray, for fishing after 8th September are fined £10, and Walter Adamson, as being tacksman, 20 merks, “and in cace that onye of them beis fund and challengit in the lyik fault, ordanit the transgressor to be banischit pro culpa 2^a, and for the third fault ordanit the transgressor to be hangit to the deathe, conforme to the Act of Parliament.”

9th May.—“It is inacted that no persone, burges nor vnfrieman that hes no salmond fishing in labouring shall salt any salmond to be packit or sold except onlie such as thay salt for thair awin meat vnder the payne of fourtie poundis.” Other salmon fishing enactments are noted Vol. I., pp. 29 and 147.

1657.

The Earl of Airlie's Valuation :—“In the Kingis Watter is auchteine barrell old salmond, at auchteine pundis the barrell is 324 lib. Item the tounes day tua barrell salmond, pryce forsaid £36. Item in the Watter of Ovrack tuelf barrells old salmond, pryce forsaid, inde £216 with tua barrells grilse at tuelft pundis the barrell, inde £24. Inde in toto £664, wherof deducit for fewe dewtie £37 10s., thair remains off frie rent £626 10s.”

1669.

By Act of Parliament no salmon fishing is allowed between 8th September and 1st January.*

1677.

Earl of Airlie's Valuation:—"In the Kingis Watter valued to 24 barrell salmond at £20 the barrell, £480. Item in the tounes day 3 barrell salmond £60. Item in the Watter of Overrack 16 barrells salmon £320. Item in the Watter of Skurrie 4 barrells salmon £80. Item the half the Midleschoit $1\frac{1}{2}$ barrell salmond £30. Inde £970."

1683.

"It is ordayned that whatsoever couper in tyme coming shall be found to pack any kelts or gray grilses shall be lyable in payment of ten pounds Scots."

For casting down the dam of Overraik some salmon fishers are fined £10 each.

Peter Russell, "for keeping the crove dam close, free of any rin," is fined £50.

1686.

June 25.—"The Earl of Airlie builds a corffhouse to the Craigshot salmond fishing in that part of the barr in the other syde off Dovern contiguous with and opposite to the Craig seabanks. This being an incroachment vpon the liberties and propertie of the toun, the bailyes and officers make interuptione by throwing down so much off the said bigged vork and taking the trowalls and hemers furth of the masons ther hands."

* The Convention of Burghs in 1707 recommended 1st September to 1st January, the period previously being 8th September to 30th November. In 1892 the close time for Deveron is August 26th to February 11th (nets), and October 31st to February 11th (rods).

Alexander Duff of Braco acquires the Earl of Airlie's salmon fishing, viz., "The Cruives, Raik of Bachlay, Wraik and King's Water."

1698.

In the Burgh Records is a disposition (nine feet in length by one foot in breadth, and closely written) by William Cuming of Auchry in favour of Sir Patrick Ogilvy of Boyne, of certain lands and fishings, including: (1) $\frac{1}{2}$ or 2 nets salmon fishings in the King's Water; (2) $\frac{2}{3}$ or 3 nets salmon fishing of the Ovrack; (3) the Thane's Net, sometime possessed by Gilbert Mair, younger, burgess.

These fishings were adjudged to William Cuming from John Cuming, his eldest son, as heir to the deceased Isobel Gordon, spouse of the said William Cuming, only daughter of John Gordon of Bolmade, provost of Banff.

In this year Alexander Duff of Braco obtained sasine upon:—

(I.) Fishings disposed to him 22nd May, 1699, by David, Earl of Airlie, viz., "all and hail the fishing in the water of Divorn after designed, to witt, Syse lax fishing, the half of the Midle Shoat fishing, the fishing in the King's Water, and the said Earle his pairt of the King's Water, in the tounes day, and the five-eight pairts or two-third pairts of the water of Over-rack, the Scurie fishing on the said water of Divorn, and all and sindrie his other fishing on the said water of Divorn which pertained to the said noble Earle his father, the deceast James, Earle of Airlie, with the hail cobles, netts, fatts, and others pairts, &c., together with the hail stock and teynd fishing of the said salmon fishings on the back of the Barr of Banff and upwards as the samen was possess by the said deceast Earle of Airlie," &c., and

(II.) Five nets salmon fishing, &c., that belonged to William Cuming of Auchry (by virtue of King Charles II.'s gift of ultimus haeres to him 27th February, 1674), and to Peter Russell of Montcoffer, at whose instance the said lands and fishings were adjudged to the behoof of the said William Cuming from John Cuming, his eldest son, as charged to enter heir to the deceased Isabel Gordon, spouse to the said William, only daughter and child to the deceased John Gordon of Ballmade, provost of Banff, and to John Gordon, his grandfather. These fishings consisted of "ane seventh pairt or two nets salmond fishing in the King's Water and the three-eight pairts or three netts salmond fishing of the Over-rack."

Braco also obtained sasine this year of "the Thayne's nett sometyme possest by Gilbert Mair yr., burges of Banff."

These fishings, &c., were disponed by William Cuming and Peter Russell to Sir Patrick Ogilvy of Boyne, who in 1699 disponed them to Patrick Duff of Castleton for 24,000 merks, who in turn disponed them in 1705 to Alexander Duff of Braco.

Valuation of Braco's fishings:—(1) for Auchry's fishing, 20 barrels salmon; (2) for Airlie's fishing, 58 barrels; (3) for Provost Stuart's, 16 barrels; (4) for the Midshot, 4 barrels; and (5) for the Craigshot, 5 barrels. Total, 103 barrels at £20 per barrel, £2060.

1710.

In this year a dispute arose between the burgh and Braco as to the payment of certain taxation and stents. In the "Information for the town of Banff," a document extending to upwards of twenty pages, reference is first made to the terms of the charter and warrant of 1581 and 1595 in regard to the fishings. It is next stated that Alexander Duff of Braco bought certain fishings from the Earl of Airlie, Sir Patrick Ogilvie of Boyne, Alexander Leslie of Kininvie, and Walter Stewart, provost. "The said Alexander Duff, having made the Town Clerk of the said burgh his friend, did prevail with him to alter the reddendo mentioned in the Earle of Airly's and others, his authors, their chartors and infestments on the saids lands and salmon fishings which were conforme to the licence granted by the king, and caused the clerk insert in the chartour in favours of the said Alexander Duff, dated 1705, that part of the redendo relating to taxations and stents in thir termes . . ." He prevailed on him to alter, inter alia, that part whereby the fishings could only be feued to actual trafficking merchants residing within the burgh. "The Magistrats and Counsell, not being weel acquainted with chartour Latine, they did signe the said chartour of confirmatione upon the faith of their toun clerk." That being so, Braco then claimed that he was liable only for cesses imposed by Act of Parliament, but for none else.*

* James Cock, town clerk, drew up a list of stents imposed on the burgh between 1624 and 1710 to show that the laird of Banff, Lord Airlie and others, Braco's predecessors and authors, had paid their proportion of all stents. Stents were numerous and burdensome in former times. Between the years 1650 and 1660 there were no less than fifteen stents in all. A few examples are instructive:—

- 1625. £1715 for the king's taxation, and for expenses of ane harbourie.
- 1649. 700 merks for maintenance of the armie.
- 1650. £518 do.
- " £480 for rigging out of souldiers and payment to George Milne, masone.
- 1651. £400 for furnishing of souldiers put furth be the burgh.
- " £320 for rigging the king to the fields, and for payment of bagadge horse, and for payment of 40s. for ilk foot souldier put furth under command of the Master of Banff, and for payment of cloath dew to the garrison of Stirling.
- 1652. 400 merks for two stolen English mens hors.
- 1653. 3200 merks for paying the expenses wared out one the tolbooth, &c.
- 1657. Ane monthly stent on the toune.
- 1669. £300 for outrigge of the militia, commissioner's charges to Parliament, &c.
- 1671. £550 payment of the king's supplie, and for upputting of ane meal mercat house.
- 1672. 700 merks for payment of the minister's manse.
- 1682. £93 for melioration of the kirkyard dykes.
- 1690. £225 Commissioner's charges to Provost Stuart in attending the Parliament, and £20 Stg. for rigging out pioneers.

Alexander Mill at Mill of Alvah and others were taken as witnesses to the Magistrates seizing Braco's salmon barrels. "When the Magistrates seized the four barrels salmon Bracco seems to have offered to consign the whole sums in the hands of the provost of Banff, but that he said he would pay nothing but the effects or product of the fishing. The Provost and those adhering said to Bracco they would not only seize the fish but imprison Bracco himself, whereon some of those present, by order of the provost and others, did force Bracco from off the barrels of salmon, whereon he was sitting with the money in his hands offering to give them what they demanded, providing they did not take away the tacksmen's fishes, but they carried off the said four barrels."

The valuation of Braco's fishings in 1712 was as follows:—“(I.) What sometime pertained to William Cuming of Auchry in the King's Water, 12 barrels, one-third part of Over-rack, 8 barrels (£20 Sc. ilk barrel). (II.) What was purchased from the Earl of Airlie by the deceased Braco £640 in the King's Water, four barrels in the King's Water £80, eighteen barrels in the water of Over-rack £360, four barrels in the water of Scurrie £80. (III.) One barrel Syse taxes payable furth of the King's Water £20, the Middleshot fishing in both parts and both ends of the water mouth of Deveron, four barrels, £80, the Craigshot, five barrels, £100. (IV.) What was purchased from Provost Stewart and his sons in the King's Water, 16 barrels, £320 Sc. In hail £2080 Sc.”

October 4.—William Duff of Braco obtained a charter from the Magistrates of Banff as superiors upon inter alia four nets salmon fishing in the King's Water, as also that salmon fishing in the sea, viz., the just and equal half of the salmon fishing called the Middleshot in the sea, as well on the east as on the west of the River Deveron, holding one pair of butts from both sides of the Water of Deveron, the salmon fishings on the King's Water of Deveron commonly called the Syse Lax, the half of the salmon fishings in the King's Water which belonged to the Earl of Airlie, five-eighths or two-third parts of the water of Over-rack, the salmon fishing of Scurrie upon the said water, and all other fishings upon the said water of Deveron, which formerly pertained to the deceased James and David, Earls of Airlie, a seventh part or two nets salmon fishing in the King's Water of Deveron near the said burgh, three-eighth parts or three nets fishing of Over-rack on the said water of Deveron, and the Thane's net.*

* The enumeration of Lord Fife's fishings in 1835 is the same as that here given, except that after the words "Syse Lax" are added "the half of the salmon fishing called the Middleshot." The said enumeration corresponds precisely to that of the salmon fishings belonging to William, Lord Braco, described in the Braco entail, 6th May, 1757.

The feu-duties payable by Lord Braco for his salmon fishings in terms of charter of date 4th October, 1729, were:—For the fishing on both sides of the Water of Deveron in the sea called the Middle Shot, £6; for the fishing on the King's Water and Over-rack on the Water of Deveron, £12; for the four nets fishing on the King's Water, £8; for the six nets fishing on the Water of Deveron, £12; for the three nets fishing on the Water of Deveron, called the Scurrie, £9; and for the six nets fishing on the Water of Deveron, called the Over-rack, £16. Total, £63 Scots.

"The salmon fishings, with Lord Fife's other burgage property, are contained in a charter granted by the town of Banff to Alexander Duff of Bracco, of date the 13th January, 1705. William Duff, only son of the said Alexander Duff, was served and retoured heir in special to his said father, in which service the salmon fishings and lands holding of the town of Banff are erroneously retoured as parts and pertinents of the barony of Bracco. The said William Duff makes a destination and taillie of his estate of Bracco in favours of William Duff of Dipple, in which the above salmon fishing and burgage lands about Banff are described as parts of the barony of Bracco. They are resigned in Exchequer as such, and of course a charter under the Great Seal is obtained in favours of Dipple, and as in that operation the agents for Lord Fife's predecessors might describe the salmon fishing in any way they pleased, they no doubt obtained grants of it from the Crown to the utmost of their wishes. After Dipple's death the late Earl of Fife, his only son, was served and retoured heir in special to his father, in which service the salmon fishings and lands about Banff are still erroneously retoured as parts and pertinents of the barony of Bracco, and my Lord gets his charter from the Crown in the same terms with his father's charter, and is infest accordingly. When the Magistrates and Council of Banff came to

December 20.—After various disputes the Earl of Buchan, by disposition and deed of homologation, homologates all deeds and writings in favour of Lord Braco, and of new disposes to him the Thane's net, Assise Lax, and Craigshot fishings (Cf. sub 1625 supra).

1749.

June 3.—William, Lord Braco, obtains a charter from the town upon the salmon fishings as described, supra (sub 1729).

1756.

October 27.—Sasine in favour of William, Lord Braco, granted upon, inter alia, the fishings described in the charter of 4th October, 1729.

In the MS. Autobiography of William Wilson some interesting particulars regarding the Deveron salmon fishings are preserved. Mr. Wilson was manager at Banff from 1767 to 1776 for a Company that leased Lord Fife's fishings on Deveron and Spey, besides other salmon fishings. The following particulars of fish taken, &c., for the years 1767-1773 (inclusive) refer to the fishings belonging to Lord Fife on Deveron understand these transactions in Exchequer, they raised a process against my Lord Fife for having the above charters from the Crown reduced, and my Lord obliged to take out a charter from them, which process landed in an agreement, and by contract dated 24th April, 1729, entered into between the Council and my Lord Fife, then William Duff of Bracco, the Council agreed to give my Lord Fife a charter upon the salmon fishing and burgage lands holding of them in terms of his predecessors rights, and my Lord upon his part agrees to accept of the charter, to pay the town £47 5s. Sterling, and to disclaim the above charters under the Great Seal. Accordingly, upon the 4th October, 1729, a charter from the town of Banff of the above salmon fishings and burgage lands is granted to my Lord Fife, and his Lordship upon his part grants a renunciation and disclamation of the above charters under the Great Seal, which is registered in the Register of Sasines in Banff 11th of said month, and the same with the previous contract are both in the town's custody.

“From all which it appears perfectly clear that my Lord Fife has a right to the whole fishings in the water of Deveron, and to the sea fishing on the east side of the river mouth, and to the extent of two butts on the west side of the river mouth wherever it happens to run, but, after he fishes to that extent, the town has a title to begin and fish westward as far as their property goes.” (Memorial by Provost Diron, 13th August, 1772.)

In 1775, 470 barrels were salted at Banff, and sold for 65s. a barrel.

The town resolves to let their salmon fishings in the sea west of the fishings belonging to the Earl Fife, that is west of the mouth of the river, except to the extent of a pair of butts given off with the Middleshot fishing. The town, to avoid a dispute with the Earl Fife, advertised that the fishings to be let extended west from the harbour, thus leaving the harbour and a considerable space of rock unfished. The tacksman was required to pay a penalty of £50 if he kept not during the whole summer season a boat and four men to give the fishings a distinct trial. They were let for three years at £15 a year.*

* William Wilson, manager of the fishings, has recorded that during the said three years not one salmon could be killed. Thereafter the fishings were let for five years at £16 a year. Lord Fife disputed the right of the town as to certain fishings claimed by them, and in 1773 the Court of Admiralty pronounced an interlocutor, finding "that the said Earl has right to, and been in possession of the whole salmon fishings in the sea, and opposite to the river or water of Doveran," and ordain the said Earl to state whether he claims the right to fish from the harbour of Guthrie westwards. In 1776 Counsel (the Lord Advocate and Mr. Crosbie) gave an opinion unfavourable to the town in the matter of the dispute between the town and Lord Fife. In the same year the town's fishings in the sea were let for £9 a year, and in 1780 for three years at a yearly rent of £3, £3 10s., and £4 respectively. They were again roused in 1794 for £3 a year for seven to fifteen years, at the tacksman's option. Between 1806 to 1820 they were occasionally let at £4 a year. In 1821 Lord Fife again protested against the Magistrates letting the said fishings, of which, he maintained, they had denuded themselves two centuries before. He also protested in 1828, when the fishings were let for £72. The dispute continued (see Vol. I., p. 354), and the Head Court sanctioned the payment of £440 as expenses of process in the Court of Session. The dispute was never adjusted, but after lasting nearly a hundred years was terminated by the sale to Lord Fife of the disputed fishings in 1863.

A complaint is made that Lord Fife's tacksmen were exporting salmon from Macduff Harbour instead of from Banff, and paying no dues for the burn-iron, &c.

1798.

The writer of the old Statistical Account states that in 1757 Lord Fife entered into a contract with a merchant in Aberdeen by which he sold the fresh salmon of the Doveran from 29th September to 15th May at 1½d. per lb. By 1798 the price was 6d., and early in the season 9d. per lb.* The same writer gives the rent of the salmon fishings in different years:—

1713.....	£299	1762.....	£600
1729.....	£311	1777.....	£850
1748.....	£442	1795.....	£1250

He further adds the following particulars regarding the fishing:—

Provost Robinson has long enjoyed the lease of the fishings, generally employing from eighty to a hundred men in the different departments. The fishing begins on 30th November and closes on 29th September. The various expenses attending the fishing amount to a sum at least double of the yearly rent. The cruives are about a mile from the sea, and the whole extent of the river fishing, including windings, does not much exceed four miles.†

1813.

“There was a great swell in the river here on Saturday, which prevented the drawing of the cruives at night, and the quantity of salmon

* The ordinary price of salmon at Banff in 1735 was 2d. a lb. In 1639 a barrel cost 45 merks, in 1649 fifty merks, and in 1775, 65s. At Aberdeen the price of salmon at different periods was as follows:—In 1329 a hundred salmon cost 69s. Sc.; in 1456 a Hamburgh barrel 50s., and in 1508, 55s.; in 1629 a salmon cost 10d. Stg., and in 1653, 1s. Stg.; about 1715 the price was 1d. a lb., and in 1839, 8d. a lb.

† “The rent of the salmon-fishing in the river (Lord Fife, proprietor) is £1600 a year. There are also bag-net fishings in the sea on each side of the river's mouth. That on the east side is Lord Fife's, and included in one tack with the river fishing. That on the west side is let by the town of Banff for £191 yearly; but their right is called in question by Lord Fife, and at present the subject of litigation. The salmon are sent by steam, either pickled or packed in ice, principally to the London market.” (New Statistical Account: 1830.) gotten and still getting is incredible. On Sunday evening there were some hundreds visible at the dike with the heads and backs above water." (Letter from the late Mr. William Anderson, Cullen, 20th July, 1813.)

1832.

The town's salmon fishings, extending from the west of the Fauchie rock to the burn of Boyndie, are valued at £4400, and are let for £220 a year. About this time the yearly rent of Lord Fife's fishings held of the burgh was £2060.

1833.

Lord Fife claims the fishings let by the town, and has obtained interdict to a certain extent against the burgh. The lessee, under the order of the Court of Session, keeps an account of the fish caught on other portions of the fishings. By next year the case was settled, except as to the lines of march between the respective fishings.

1836-1842.

Fish caught at Banff, 1836-42, as reported by Andrew Gow, tacksman:

1856.

The Town Council resolve to let their salmon fishing on lease of three or seven years. Upset price £190, being the present rent.

1863.

The Town Council resolve to sell the salmon fishings in the sea ex adverso of the lands forming part of the common good, the annual value of which is £230, the purchaser to receive no warrantice from the burgh, but to come in room of the burgh in the action of suspension and interdict raised in the Court of Session at the instance of James, Earl Fife, and James, Earl of Lauderdale, his trustee, against the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the burgh in 1829.

June 9.—“Hon. George Skene Duff and William James Tayler, Esq. of Glenbarry, the purchasers of the town’s right of salmon fishing,” acting for the Earl Fife. The fishings realised £4205.

1877.

“The Deveron drains 472 square miles of country, and falls into the sea at Banff. Its mouth is extremely narrow and shallow; and as bag-nets are permitted within 400 yards on either side, and as Lord Fife’s cruives, which are only a short distance above the mouth, intercept the majority of the ascending fish, the upper proprietors get a very insignificant share of salmon until the nets and cruives are removed. After that the angling is better. The average annual capture of fish by the rod on the Deveron is about 300. In 1862, a year when there were heavy floods, it was 500. There are twenty upper proprietors, so that 300 salmon would be 15, and 500, 20 to each annually. The present valuation of the Deveron fisheries is between £2000 and £3000 a year. The river is watched by fourteen water-bailiffs in close time, and three in the open season.” (Sea and Salmon Fisheries. By E. W. H. Holdsworth and Archibald Young. London: 1877.)

1888.

June 9.—Perpetual interdict granted by the Court of Session against certain parties, resident in Banff, from fishing for salmon, trout, &c., in the river Deveron in so far as it was ex adverso, or flowed through, the Earl of Fife’s lands.

Notes on the Salmon Fishings of the Burgh.

- (1) Craigshot. This fishing belonged to the Earl of Buchan and has followed the lands of Down (Cf. I., p. 16, note sub 1528). In the older charters in favour of the Earl of Buchan the fishings are thus described: "una cum salmonum piscariis in aqua de Doveran vulgo lie Thanes Net nuncupat. cum lie Sys Lax et salmonum piscariis in mari vulgo lie Craigshot apud Dune nuncupat," &c. In an Act of the Scots Parliament (1633) in favour of the Earl of Buchan, these fishings are described in similar terms as the property of the said Earl.

The first sasine of the ancestors of the Duke of Fife on property in the burgh of Banff is on the Craigshot fishings in the year 1692, to Alexander Duff of Keithmore in liferent, and Alexander Duff his son in fee. Of the same date is a contract of wadset granted by James, Earl of Airlie, with consent of David, Lord Ogilvie, his only lawful son, and also with consent of Dame Mary, Marchioness Dowager of Huntly, spouse to James, Earl of Airlie, in favour of Alexander Duff of Keithmore in liferent, and of Alexander Duff of Braco, his eldest son, in fee, on "the salmon fishing on the water of Doverne, viz., the Craighoat fishing, the Syse lax, the halfe of the middle shoat fishing, the said noble Earl his fishing in the King's Water and his part of the King's Water in the toun's day and the five-eight parts or two-third parts of Overrack, the Scurrie fishing, together with the haill stock and teynd fishings of the said salmon fishing at the back of the bar of Banff and upward. Redeemable by payment of 50,000 merks."

- (2) Middleshot. This fishing was evidently so named as lying between the Craigshot on the east and the Wellshot on the west. The Middleshot fishings belonged originally to the burgh, and were given off in perpetual feu to George Ogilvie of Dunlugus by the Commissioners for the burgh, 19th November, 1595. "In the description given of this fishing as exercised by George Ogilvie and his successors it was called The Stell. A long net was used to the extent of thirty fathoms, and a cast was made either to the east or west of the mouth of the river. They could come about opposite to the mouth, but could not come within the mouth of the river, but outwith a pair of butts on each side, where the net was drawn in salt water, where the fresh water meets the salt at low ebb. Their net was wont to be cut by the upper tacksmen when they came within thirty paces of the water mouth, and if they transgressed they were fined and imprisoned." The rights are thus described: "Ac etiam illam salmonum piscariam in mari nempe juxtam equalem dimidietatem piscariae salmonum vocat. lie Midleshot in mari tam in orientali quam in occidentali latere ostii aquae de Doveran lie holding ane pair of butts ab unoquoque latere dictae aquae de Doveran et cursus ibidem, cum partibus, pendiculis, proficuis," &c. (And also that salmon fishing in the sea namely the just equal half of the salmon fishing called Middleshot in the sea as well in the east as in the west side of the mouth of the Water of Deveron holding one pair of butts from either side of the said Water of Deveron and course thereof, with parts, pendicles, profits, &c.)

Between 1652 and 1692 the Middleshot fishings were possessed in turn by Walter Ogilvy of Redhyth, Alexander Craig, James Craig, John Bisset, James Ogilvie, son of Walter Ogilvy of Redhyth, Alexander Abernethie, Sir James Baird of Auchmeddan, James, Earl of Airlie, and others.

Besides the Middleshot fishings acquired by Alexander Duff in 1692 from the Earl of Airlie, Alexander Duff of Braco acquired from Alexander Leslie of Kininvie in 1705 the Middleshot fishings possessed by him.

- (3) Wellshot. This fishing, it is said, lay upon the west side of the Middleshot, below Craig Gilbert, near the site of the Warehouse (see Plan of Banff in Vol. I.). So early as 1400 the burghers, as has already been stated, had difficulty in maintaining their rights to this fishing, but worse followed, for in course of time the vagaries of the river appear to have put out of existence the very fishing itself. "The right of the Middleshot fishing was limited, and could only apply to the mouth of the river as it stood at the first feuing off, but by the alteration of the efflux of the river as it stood at the first feuing off, and taking a direction to the west end of the bar the Wellshot fishing is now lost, and the Earl of Fife and his tacksmen have been in possession of the whole of the back of the bar fishing."
- (4) Thane's Net. This fishing was sold by John, Earl of Buchan, to Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus and Margaret Edmonstone, his spouse, in 1530. Walter Ogilvie was the second son of Boyne. (Cf. Note on Craigshot supra, also Vol. I., p. 16, note sub 1528.)
- (5) Thane's Net. In the inventory of the writs of the lands of Meikle and Little Reattie deposited within the Charter room of Cullen House is the note of a charter under the Great Seal by David, King of Scots, to Gilbert de Dun of the whole lands of Reattie and the net called the Thane's net, dated 10th July, in the 39th year of his reign. The reddendo is "nostro pro servitio unius hominis armati in exercitu." Another authority states that Gilbert Dun of Raittie held a considerable part of the thanedom of Boyne in David II.'s time, and also the Thane's Net of Deveron. Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus, who married Margaret Edmonstone, purchased c. 1530 Robert Dun of Rattie's Thane's Net fishing for twelve crowns. Of date 29th October, 1663, is a retour of George, Lord of Banff, on the "fishing of a net of salmon called the Thayne's nett in that part of the water of Deveron called the King's Water." He was also retoured on Rettie, Blairshinnoch, &c. Sir George Ogilvie sold this fishing to Airlie, and Airlie, not long after 1690, sold it to Duff of Braco.
- (6) Syse Lax. This fishing belonged originally to the Earl of Buchan (Cf. note on Craigshot supra). By him it was disposed on 15th March, 1554, to John Gordon, from whose successors it was purchased by the Earl of Airlie in 1680, who in turn disposed it in 1699 to Alexander Duff of Braco.
- (7) King's Water. In 1471 three nets of this fishing were set to Sir James Ogilvie of Deskford (Cf. I., 21), two nets to John Currou, and one net each to Patrick Blyth, Alexander Graham, Patrick Plott, Patrick Duncanson, William Bartlet and John Collison. By 1509 Sir James Ogilvie appears to have been in possession of part of this fishing, for in that year he sold to Andrew Dun of Ratie a net's fishing of the King's Water of Deveron. In 1551 the twelve nets of the King's Water were set as follows: three nets to Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugus, two nets each to Walter Currou, Walter Baird, and James Currou, and one net each to John Currou, elder, George Duncanson, and Elizabeth Ord. In 1567 the burgh again let their King's Water fishings: three nets to George Ogilvie of Dunlugus, two nets each to Walter Baird of Ordinhoves, Walter Currou of Inchdrewer, and James Currou, and one net each to John Meldrum and Elizabeth Ord, his spouse, Mr. William Currou and William Duncanson and Margaret Duncanson, his spouse. As already stated, the envious eyes of the neighbouring lairds at length compelled the weak burghers to set their fishings in perpetual feu, and thereafter the history of these fishings may be traced in the burgh books of sasine, which are continuous from the early part of the seventeenth century. Upwards of thirty entries during the seventeenth century testify to the frequent change of proprietorship in these fishings, the owners representing many of the leading citizens of the time, and of these the following may be named: James Ogilvie of Carnowsie, Sir George Ogilvie of Banff, the Earl of Airlie, George Baird of Auchmedden, Sir George Ogilvie of Dunlugus, Sir John Urquhart, William Urquhart of Castletown, Sir George Ogilvie of Carnowsie, Walter Ogilvie of Redhythe, Alexander Winchester, William Stevenson, William Lumsden, John Gordon, William Moir, M.D., the sons of Provost Stewart, Walter Sanders, Alexander Abernethie, Sir James Baird of Auchmedden, George, Lord Banff, Sir Alexander Urquhart, and William Cuming. In 1699 Airlie's fishing was disposed by David, Earl of Airlie, to Alexander Duff of Braco, and in 1705 four nets of the King's Water were also disposed to him by James and Robert Stewart.

- (8) Urack or Nether Rake. This fishing has been enumerated above as a separate fishing, but it is so seldom referred to that it must usually have formed part of fishings that went under a different designation.
- (9) Scurrie. By 1625 the whole of this fishing was possessed by Walter Ogilvie of Inverichnie. Previous to this time he possessed only two-thirds thereof, the remaining third belonging to the burgh. In 1629 this fishing was disposed by Sir George Ogilvie of Banff to James, Lord Ogilvie, and his son. It was the property in 1677 of the Earl of Airlie, and the valuation thereof was four barrels salmon or £30. In 1699 it was disposed by David, Earl of Airlie, to Alexander Duff of Braco.

- (10) Over-rack. From the sasine registers of the burgh of the early part of the seventeenth century it appears that the Over-rack fishings were divided into eight parts, each part consisting of one net. Three-eighth parts or three nets were possessed by Sir George Ogilvie of Dunlugus, one net by Robert Ogilvie, by disposition from Sir George Ogilvie, one by Sir Thomas Urquhart of Cromarty, his warrant of infestment being a disposition from Robert Ogilvie, of date 31st August, 1623, and the reddendo £7 19s. 6d. Sc., one by John Urquhart, fourth son of Sir Thomas, the date of infestment 6th June, 1627, by warrant from Sir Thomas, with consent of Robert Ogilvie, reddendo £8 5s. Sc., and the other nets by the Earl of Airlie and James Joss, Hilltown of Blairshinnoch, afterwards of Colleonard, the date of infestment of both being December, 1652.

The several parts were afterwards possessed by William Lumsden, John Gordon, Sir Alexander Urquhart, William Cuming, Peter Russell of Montcoffer, and others. Mary, Marchioness of Huntly, held two-third parts in 1691, and in the following year Alexander Duff of Braco came into possession of five-eighth parts. The following are valuations of Over-rack fishings at different dates:—

1677	Earl of Airlie's	—16	"	"	or £320.
	" William Cuming's	—8	"	"	or £160.

The standard measure of the salmon barrel in 1573 was twelve gallons of the Stirling pint, and was kept at Aberdeen, each burgh having a pattern of it.

"The auld standard of Aberdeen" was confirmed by an Act of the Secret Council in 1619, and is supposed by some to have contained a similar quantity to the barrel in use in comparatively recent times, but it is stated in the "View of the Diocese of Aberdeen" (1732) that a barrel contained 250 pounds, and that 12 barrels made a last. References are made in Acts of an earlier date to the standard barrel as containing 14, and even so low as 10 gallons of the Stirling pint.

contribution towards the amounts that from time to time were levied from the burghs than was subsequently the case. In 1483 Banff paid the same amount as Elgin. In 1578 an alteration was made in the tax-roll, whereby Banff was required to contribute 13s. 6d. for every £100 raised by the Convention, the proportion of Elgin being 26s. 8d., and that of Cullen 6s. 10d. In 1594 the proportions of these burghs were 9s., 22s., and 4s. respectively; in 1597, 8s., 20s., and 4s.; in 1683, 8s., 23s., and 2s.; in 1692, 7s., 23s., and 1s. 4d.; in 1697, 6s., 18s., and 1s.; in 1705, 4s., 28s., and 1s.; and in 1735, 7s., 15s., and 2s. Banff was frequently fined—and in this respect it was not singular—for not sending a Commissioner to the Convention, the fines varying from £10 to £30. At other times it obtained exemption from attending, owing to its poverty, the periods of exemption ranging from three to seven years.

One of the “Artukles and proposalls offered and demandit off Sir Alexander Ogilvie off Forglen, comissioner for the Brugh off Banff to represent them in Parliament” (c. 1702) was:—

* The Burgh submitted twelve proposals to Sir Alexander Ogilvie of Forglen before electing him their Commissioner to Parliament (see Vol. I., 171, note), to which he appears to have agreed. The eighth proposal was: "That the Commissioner bind himself to serve gratis both to Parliament and Conventione of Burrowes and perform the above artikles on his owin expenses." The ninth was: "To procure ane letter from the Duck of Gordone that his grace is satisfied Forglen is his friend." The eleventh proposal was subsequently withdrawn: "That the meall (=mail) fish or twentieth fish of all salmond taken of the water of Diverne holden of the brugh be oblidged to be sold at the merkat croce at curent raits." Sir Alexander was the first representative of the burgh in Parliament that served gratis, payment of allowances having previously been made by the burgh (see Vol. I., pp. 71, 83, 86, 167, &c.). So early as 1427-8 a proposal was made in Parliament that Commissioners from shires be paid, and in 1436 the representative for the burgh of Aberdeen received £16 Sc. for his expenses. The practice, however, did not become general till about 1587. The amount varied, but was frequently £5 Sc. per day. The practice did not come to a close coincident with the Union. Aberdeen and Linlithgow are found paying their Members in 1708, and Glasgow continued the practice till the year 1715.

† "At the union with England 13th June, 1707, the burghs of Elgin, Banff, Cullen, Inverurie and Kintore sent one member to the British Parliament; and from 2nd February, 1801 (the union with Ireland), till 3rd December, 1832, when the Parliament was dissolved after the passing of the Reform Bill, one member to the Imperial Parliament. By the Reform Act of 1832 the town of Peterhead was associated with this district of burghs in sending one member to the Imperial Parliament."

Note on Banffshire Sheriff-Clerk Records.

“Since entering on his duties as Sheriff-Clerk, Mr. Hossack has had the records in the office examined, and all the more important documents have been classified and indexed, and a complete inventory has been made, so that they are now readily accessible for reference. There are 57 ordinary court diet books, the first commencing in August, 1652. The series appears to be complete, except for the period between August, 1659, and November, 1664. A complete record exists of entail improvements, contained in five volumes, commencing in June, 1801, and ending September, 1853. There are 13 volumes of registers of deeds and probative writs. The first volume commences in 1616, and ends in 1629. An interval occurs between the latter date and 1672. Another hiatus occurs between 1697 and 1700; also between 1705 and 1711. There is a further gap between 1722 and 1734, and another between 1742 and 1775. The records are continuous from 1775 to 1790, at which date the first series of these registers closes. A new series was commenced in November, 1809. There are 10 volumes of this second series, which are complete up to present date. There is a series of four volumes of registers of instruments of protests on bills, commencing 1775 and ending 1790. A new or second series was commenced in November, 1809, and, comprising 19 volumes, is continuous up to the present date. The Register of Sasines extends from 1781 to 1887. There is a volume of criminal records, commencing June, 1748, and continued up to date. There is a record of fiars prices in the county from 1791 to the present date. Another book contains the qualifications of those entitled to bear and use arms in Banffshire, 1748. There are four volumes of records of services of heirs. The first volume commences in 1625, and ends in 1764. The second volume is begun in November, 1847, since which date the record is complete. There are 41 volumes of commissary records, commencing April, 1824, and continuing in perfect order up to present date. There is a record of principal protests from 1719 to present date. Amongst other documents is a record of judicial renunciations, extending from 1623 to 1694, but the record is not consecutive. There is a list of judicial bonds of caution from 1801 to present date. The assorting and arranging of the records has been a work of great labour, but the result is very satisfactory in the public interest.”—(Banffshire Journal.)

THE CHURCHYARD, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM THE EARLY REGISTERS OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS.—COMPLETE TRANSCRIPT OF THE MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS WITHIN THE CHURCHYARD OF BANFF.

THE CHURCHYARD, &c.

THE dates of the early registers of Baptisms (or Births), Marriages and Deaths may be ascertained by a reference to Miscellany of the New Spalding Club, I., 239.

Since the opening of the New Cemetery the churchyard of Banff has been practically closed, and the record of inscriptions may also be considered as practically closed. In order to insure accuracy in making the present transcript, the whole has been compared twice with the original inscriptions. Mr. Jervise's MS. notes on the inscriptions in the churchyard of Banff (Antiquarian Museum, Edinburgh,) have also been carefully consulted. Mr. Imlach's copy of the inscriptions (Hist. of Banff) is very inaccurate, and has not been utilized, but his notes have been found serviceable. The inscriptions given in the present volume have been arranged in such order that from the accompanying number the position of a tombstone can generally be found out. In the General Index the insertion of these numbers will also be found to be convenient.

† Baird's "Genealogical Memoirs of the Duffs" has no date, but it can be fixed thus: It mentions the death of James Duff of Corsindae. It was therefore written after 1762. It states that Mayen died 10th December, 1771. It was therefore after that. It states that James Duff was married above a year ago to Margaret Dunbar, niece of Sir William Dunbar of Durn. He was married, as appears above, in 1772, and thus the date is fixed at least for these parts of the work.

The description of the position of graves given in the Volume of Burials (1783-1788) enables us, even at the present day, to fix the exact site of the old church. The following are examples:

"Daniel Robertson, buried 2 foot to the north of John Innes of Knockorth his stone, north side of the church."

"Henry Raff, buried at the north side of George Warrack's head stone, south side of the church."

"Andrew Petrie, buried straight up from the North-west corner of the church, wast syid of the walk from the door in the north dyck."

"Thomas Innes, son of Alexander Innes of Rosieburn, aged 35, died 24th August, 1784, buried in the center of the church betwixt his own seat on the north and Lord Banff's seats on the south side, with a flage and two pieces of freestone on the grave. (Since the above was wrot there is a new stone put on the grave.)"

“John Paterson died 6th April, 1785, buried close at the south side of Doctor Douglas’ tomb south side of the church.”

1785 Walter Shirron buried at the west side of George Paterson’s stone, on south side of the church.

1785 November 3. “Janet McGreig buried at the west end of a stone that will not reid, north side of the church.”

The cause of death is frequently given in the Burial book. A few may be quoted, with the ages of the deceased parties: tootthing (10 mo.), meassals (10 weeks, 2 years), deokay (20, 39, 70), consumption (15, 33), cancer (30), swelling (40), closing (6, 78), fever (1, 49), nervish fever (56), blasted (67, 80, 85), inward pains (30, 60), high sterick pains (48), hysterick fever (60), rumetisoms (60, 70, 84), and old age (75, 79, 80). A frequent cause of death was small pox, especially among the young, e.g., between August, 1785, and March, 1786, no less than nineteen died, none of whom were above four years of age. Nine children died of small pox in November, 1785.

* Barnhill is not now in existence as a holding. It was formed of the land at the back of the Hill of Down and part of the lotted lands of Macduff. Alexander Shand was the son of William Shand, Auchmedden, whose wife was a knight's daughter. The son of Alexander was Charles, tenant of the lands of Gellyhill, who married Barbara Milne, daughter of — Milne, farmer, Scatterty, King Edward, who claimed to be the direct descendant of Milne, the King's Mason. He was drowned in 1739 (see p. 292). He had been to Banff market with his wife. She was saved by clinging to a sack of wool, and was picked up in the bay by a Down fishing boat. Hence the saying, "I wish you were down Dovern, like the wife with the wool on her back." Charles Shand's son was Alexander Shand, Gellyhill, the great-grandfather of the present respected Sheriff-Clerk, whose family obtained right to this burying ground from Mr. Garden Hossack's uncle, Alexander Shand in Cornhill, near Macduff. Alexander Shand, present tenant of Cornhill, is the direct lineal descendant of the parties whose names appear on the stone. The style of lettering of No. 148 shows it to be one of the oldest stones in the churchyard.

† A glance shows that this stone has been tampered with. Mr. Jervise (MS. Antiquarian Museum, Edinburgh,) says:—"Prior to the renovation of this a few years ago I had no difficulty in tracing the date of '1600' upon the stone. It would be advisable to restore this date were it for no other cause than to show that the schoolmaster was not so far abroad in Banff but that he knew surnames were unknown in this country for centuries after the above date." Confirmatory of the above the present writer has learned, on apparently good authority, that it was the late gravedigger who "renovated" this stone, or at least caused it to be "renovated." The letters are incised, therefore almost certainly could not be of so old a date as 1600. All inscriptions in this district of the early part of the 17th century have raised letters. No. 63 supra (date 1633) is incised, but it is evidently of foreign workmanship, like several others in the churchyard. Even in the early part of the present century the list of shore dues for Aberdeen, Banff, &c., included a charge of say 5s. for foreign and 2s. for British grave stones. The mode of formation of the letters, moreover, shows their recent origin. It should also be remarked that the stone referred to is of a character precisely similar to what was often used about a century ago in this churchyard, but has no parallel of older date. The copy, however, was undoubtedly made from a stone of the early part of the 17th century, for in later times a surname such as Shirras, Sheron, Sherar, &c., were spelled Sher—never Scher.

- (152) Erected to the memory of Mrs. Mary Umphray, spouse of George Alexander, merchant, Banff, who died the 3rd day of June, 1830, in the 43rd year of her age. † "The above was eldest son and heir of the distinguished General Patrick Duff of Carnousie, of the Indian Army, who had a full share of the many hard-fought battles in the end of the last century for the establishment of British supremacy in the East. General Patrick Duff of Carnousie was a scion of the family of the Earls of Fife, inasmuch as he was a grandson of Patrick Duff of Craigston. Mr. P. Duff of Craigston was a remarkable personage. He was twice married, first to Miss Innes, secondly to Mary, daughter of James Urquhart of Knockleith, and by his two wives had thirty-six children. At an interview with His Majesty George II., he was congratulated on the addition he had made to His Majesty's subjects in Scotland. It is said that he hardly recognised some of his children, and on one occasion asked, in reference to his son Robert, afterwards Admiral Duff of Fetteresso, who that white-haired laddie was running about Craigston gardens, to which the young gentleman replied, 'Oh, ye auld feel, dinna ye ken your ain son Robbie?' One of his sons, Alexander, was founder of the Hatton family. Another, Adam Duff, was Provost of Aberdeen. Another was Patrick Duff of Culter. Another was William, Laird of Whitehill, whose son was the distinguished Indian officer, and well known in India and in this country as Tiger Duff, from his encounter with a ferocious tiger, which at the time was the terror of the camp and followers. The subject of our story, then Captain Duff, out on duty with a single soldier, espied the tiger crouched under a thicket. Taking the musket, he told him to go quickly for assistance, himself remaining opposite the animal, trusting to the power that the human eye is said to exert over the brute creation. After his companion had been gone a considerable time, the tiger prepared for his fatal spring. The Captain fired, lodging the bullet in a vital part of the body, and received the attack on the point of the short sword. On the arrival of assistance, they were found locked in each others arms in a deadly embrace, the tiger transfixed in the throat with the sword, and the Captain himself fainting from loss of blood. He carried the mark of the monster's claw upon his face until his death. And curiously enough, in the cheek of his first-born son, the above buried Patrick, and last laird, there was imprinted the mark of the tiger's paw, similar to that on his father's, but not so deeply indented. The General, when at home, was very much a Banff personage, and had a town house, which his sisters occupied. He married the sister of the late General Hay of Montblair, who fell, with his eldest son, George, at the Battle of Orthes. General Duff had three brothers,—James, buried in Banff churchyard; Robert, who died in London; and Colonel John, who died in London, and left Bushy Park to the late Mrs. Garden Campbell of Troup, his niece, afterwards Mrs. Ramsay. The General left three sons,—Patrick, the laird to whom the tombstone is erected; Captain George, and Captain Adam."—(Imlach.)

- X (297) Here is the body of Charles Shand, sometime farmer in Gellyhill, who departed this life January 12th, 1739. This stone was repaired to his memory by Barbara Milne, his spouse, also of his son Alexander Shand, late tenant in Gellyhill, and Bathia Milne, his spouse. They died in 1812, she on the 12th of May, aged 83 years, and he on the 21st July, aged 84 years.
- (298) Sacred to the memory of William Gordon, Esquire, Rear-Admiral of the White Squadron, who, after bravely serving his country for more than forty years, died at Banff 12th April, 1769, aged 64. His behaviour in public life was one continued and uniform exertion of humanity, patriotism and valour. Gentleness and elegance of manners, a friendly benevolent and tender heart, and a strict regard to every religious and social duty, are some of those engaging qualities that distinguished him in private life, and have left upon the minds of his surviving friends a regret which no length of time will be able to remove. His only son William Gordon gave early proofs of ardour to imitate, and of ability to equal the virtues of his father. But alas! to the inexpressible affliction of his mother and only sister, and to the unfeigned sorrow of all who knew him, he was carried off by a consumption June 22nd, 1772, in the 19th year of his age. Mrs. Elizabeth Forbes erects this marble as a memorial of her gratitude and love to a most affectionate husband and most amiable child.†
- (299) Here lies the body of William Gordon, Esq., son of Rear-Admiral Gordon and Mrs. Elisabeth Forbes, his wife. He died in the year 1772, aged 19 years.
- (300) Here lies the body of John Gordon, who died April, 1759, aged 3 years, also his sister Elisabeth Gordon, aged 1 year, both children of Captain William Gordon, of his Majesty's Royal Navie, and Elizabeth Forbes, his wife.

* "Mr. Gordon had three sons educated at the Banff Academy. All went to India. James distinguished himself as a surgeon in the Company's service, and in the staff of the army; William rose to the rank of Major; and Alexander to be Colonel of a Regiment."—(Imlach.)

† "On the north-east side of the Churchyard is a handsome pyramidal monument, with an elegant inscription on white marble, written by Dr. Beattie, author of the 'Minstrel' and essay on 'Truth,' and beautifully expressed to the memory of the late Admiral Gordon, who commanded the fleet at the Nore in the middle of the last century, and was originally from Banff. He was of the Gordons of Newton and Tillynaught, and widely connected at one time in this quarter. He built for his residence the house occupied by Mr. Couetts, bank agent, and to the last entertained a high regard for Banff and Banff people. On his retirement from the service, he induced his private secretary, an officer on board the Admiral's ship, to accompany him to Banff, and assisted him to commence business, and with many of the county gentlemen brought the first banking establishment to the town, under the management of their protégé, the late Mr. James Imlach, who continued representative of the bank for upwards of half a century. . . . The Admiral's only surviving daughter became the wife of Mr. Forbes of Seaton, near Aberdeen, and their daughter was married to the late Lord James Hay."—(Imlach.)

- (301) 1835. Sacred to the memory of James Murray, late gardener in Banff, who departed this life upon the 26th day of December, 1814, aged 74 years, also to the memory of Mary Murray, his spouse, who died 25th day of January, 1835, aged 80 years. And also to the memory of James Murray, late surgeon, Oldmeldrum, who died the 13th July, 1835, aged 52 years.
- (302) Here lyes John Reid, lawful son to William Reid, burges of Banff, who departed 20th of Augvst, 1681. This monvment
- (303) Sacred to the memory of Anne Cooper, spouse to Alexander Shand, mariner in McDuff, who departed this life 25th April, 1803, in the 21st year of her age, also Margaret Shand, their daughter, died 12th May, 1803, aged 1 month.
- (304) This stone was erected by Robert Reid, gardener in Banff, in memory of Helen Murray, his wife, who died the 16th of April, 1768, aged 53 years, and of their daughters Jean, who died the 20th of August, 1767, aged 18 years, and Helen, who died the 6th of May, 1771, aged 26 years.
- (305) Thomas Meldrum, sometime of Collynort, who departed this life on the — day of *
- (306) Here lies the body of James Bruce, late shipmaster in McDuff, who died the 12th of February, 1789, in the 73rd of his age. This stone was erected by Isabella Whyte in memory of her husband, an honest man without guile, also William Bisset, son-in-law to the above James Bruce, who died in 1812, and Isabella Bruce, his spouse, who died 27th May, 1837, likewise their son James Bisset, late Captain in Her Mag.'s 69th Regt. of Foot, who died 16th September, 1838, much and justly regrated.
- (307) Erected by Grant James Gray, Liverpool, to the memory of his beloved mother Elizabeth Bisset [daughter of the late William Bisset and Isabella Bruce, and spouse of the late James Gray], who died at Macduff 28th November, 1858, aged 71 years. She lived beloved and died regrated by all who knew her. A galaxy of Christian virtues adorned her life, amongst which that of charity shone pre-eminent. Here also rest the remains of Maria Isabella Gray, daughter of James Gray and Elizabeth Bisset, who died at Macduff in August, 1831, aged 1 year. The above James Gray died at Georgetown, Demerara, 26th November, 1839, aged 43 years.
- (308) Here lyes interred the body of Alexander Bruce, sometime farmer in Cushnie, Gamrie parish, who departed this life February 20th, 1769, aged 90 years. This is done by his son John Bruce. Here likewise rest the remains of William Bisset, son of William Bisset and Isabella Bruce, who died at Macduff 7th March, 1785, aged 12 months, also their daughter Isabella Bisset, who died 14th January, 1801, aged 21 years, also their son Alexander Bisset, who died 22nd January, 1801, aged 22 years.
- (309) Here is interred the body of Barbara Bruce, daughter of John Bruce, merchant in Banff, who departed this life February 18th, 1768, aged 26 years, and also the body of Robina Hunter, his spouse, who departed this life the 24th of February, 1783, aged 74 years. Likewise the remains of John Bisset, son of James Bisset and Anne Forbes, who died at Macduff in 1812, aged 12 years. Here is also interred the remains of Jean Bisset, daughter of the late William Bisset and Isabella Bruce, who died at Macduff 20th April, 1866, aged 83 years. Inscribed in grateful remembrance by her nephew Grant James Gray.

* The date on this stone cannot be made out, but in the Register of Bands for the County of Banff we find that in 1653 Thomas Meldrum of Cullenvart borrowed from John Urquhart, Provost of Banff, 200 merks. A further entry in the same volume, under date 1643, shows that "Thomas Meldrum of Cullynvort" was then Sheriff-depute of Banffshire. The stone corresponds with that period.

- (310) *Ista pio generi debetur adorea. Memento mori.
- (311) Here are deposited the remains of William Stewart, practitioner of surgery, who departed this life June 14th, 1790, in the 49th year of his age, and of his spouse Sophia Stewart, who died December 13th, 1797, aged 56. With congenial virtues this amiable and affectionate couple seemed formed as a blessing to each other and to their children, to whom they were truly kind parents, but cruel Death, as if envious of the purity and tranquility of their lives, tore them untimely asunder, leaving the disconsolate wife after a few melancholy years to follow her beloved husband to peace and immortality. Reader! drop a tear and copy their example. As a tribute of filial affection to the memory of this his worthy parents their dutiful and affectionate son John Stewart has caused this stone to be erected.
- (312) In memory of James Duff, Esq. (fourth son of the first Alexander Duff of Hatton), who died 19th November, 1804, aged 75. As a just tribute of dutiful regard this stone is placed over his remains by his affectionate widow, daughter of James Dumbar of Kincorth, 1805. James, Isabella and John Duff, their children, are buried here, and Alexander, Sophia and Mary in the grave with their aunt Mrs. Hellen Duff, also Margaret Ogilvie Dumbar, widow of the foresaid James Duff, died 1829, aged 75. †
- (313) This stone is erected by George Gellie, sometime farmer . . .
- (314) 1844. To the memory of William Souter, late merchant in Banff, who died the 31st of March, 1843, aged 40 years, and of his nine children, who died in infancy. Erected by George Souter and Margaret Allan in Macduff, his parents, also of a former William, aged 7, and Jean, 5 years, who died in April, 1801. ‡
- Remember man as you pass by
As you are now so once was I Take heed and read and you will see
As I am now so you will be Rotting in dark and silent dust
Prepare for death for die you must Life is uncertain death is sure
Sin is the wound Christ is the cure.

* This ornamental circular stone is built into a wall, and bears the letter "M" with a coat of arms, now somewhat indistinct, and around is the inscription given above.

† "Mr. James Duff's town residence was that large quadrangular building on the street leading to the harbour, with the arched gateway. He was Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire, and was in high position from his family connection. His eldest son was Captain George Duff, who commanded the 'Mars' at Trafalgar. His lady was the amiable and beautiful Sophia Dirom, daughter of Provost Dirom of Banff, distinguished for her virtues and feminine graces; and their son was the late Admiral Norwich Duff, who was on the deck of his father's ship, bravely fighting, when the fatal bullet put an end to his father's career. Their daughter was married to Mr. Taylor of Glenbarry. The only surviving daughter of the above James Duff is Mrs. Anne Duff, widow of the late Mr. Walter Biggar, who died lately in Edinburgh."—(Imlach, 1803.) Mrs. Biggar died at Edinburgh in 1877. The remains of six of her brothers and sisters, with those of her father and mother, are buried in Banff Churchyard. A monument by Mr. J. Bacon, junior, sculptor, with the following inscription appears in St. Paul's Cathedral:—"Erected at the Public Expense to the memory of Captain George Duff, who was killed the XX1st of Oct. MDCCCV, commanding the Mars, in the battle of Trafalgar, in the forty-second year of his age, and the twenty-ninth of his service." The inscription on another monument in St. Paul's may also be quoted here from its local connection:—"Erected at the Public Expense to the memory of Major-General Andrew Hay. He was born in the County of Banff in Scotland, and fell on the 14th of April, 1814, before the Fortress of Bayonne in France, in the 52nd year of his age, and the 34th of his service, closing a military life marked by zeal, prompt decision and signal intrepidity."

‡ The above may refer to the same family as that of the author of the following work, but the evidence is insufficient: "Dialogue between a Nobleman and a Farmer upon the reduction of the National Debt and other affairs of State, also the distressed condition of the farmers in Scotland, considered with the probable means of their relief and their Landlords' advantage, also a more effectual method than any hitherto for suppressing Vice and Immorality and encouraging of Religion and Virtue: The whole calculated exceedingly to promote the prosperity and grandeur of the British nation. Patrick Chalmer, Sheriff-Clerk of Banff, and the said umqll. Patrick his father was laird of Balnacraig, and the said Elizabeth her mother was Violat Johnston, daughter to the laird of Caskiehn, and the said Violat Johnston her mother was daughter to the laird Delgatie, Hay, and the said Patrick Chalmer his mother was daughter to the laird of Petmedden, Pantoun."—(Birth Brices, Aberdeen, 3rd October, 1648.)

The following list of the Sheriff-Clerks of Banffshire for the last three centuries is drawn up from Mr. William Rose, Montcoffer, and other sources:—

- 1582 (? 1572) Mr. George Chalmers entered. He died 1617. Patrick was his eldest son, and his relict was Marjory Barclay, who in 1626 gave up all claim "to the towne and lands calit the Rawis or gleihe sune tyme pertaining to the Carmeleite freires."
- 1617 Mr. William Sharp, son of Fauston (?Houston), servitor to Walter Ogilvie of Deskford, and father of the Archhishop of St. Andrews. He died 1638.
- 1639 Mr. John Baird, son of Ordenhoves or Auchmedden. He died 1651.
- 1652 Walter Hacket, at Milntown of Rothiemay, a man bred to business, who purchased the lands of Mayen, and died about February, 1656. He married Jonet Leslie.
- 1656 Robert Sharp, brother of the Archhishop, died 20th January, 1675. He mortified in 1675 £1 15s. 3 4/12d. to the minister of Deskford. "He married the heiress of Ordeans, a small farm in the neighbourhood of the manse of Deskford. Hence probably his liberality to the minister" (New Stat. Acct. sub Deskford). He also mortified 500 merks to the kirk of Banff.
- 1675 George Leslie, yr. of Birdshank, Cullen, eldest son of William Leslie of Birdshank, married Christian Baird, second daughter to Auchmedden. He lived to a great age, and died in 1724. Before his death his son Patrick, designed of Melrose, was conjoined in office with him, 10th September, 1703, but predeceased his father. George Leslie is given by Rose as grandson of Robert or George Leslie, second son of Findrassie.
- 1724 William Leslie of Melrose, son of Patrick, succeeded, but resigned.
- 1726 Alexander Innes, writer, Banff, son of Edengeith, designed of Rosieburn, died 1761.
- 1761 James Duff, a younger son of Alexander Duff of Hatton, resigned 1801.
- 1801 William Rose of Ballivat and his fourth son Patrick. William Rose died c. 1807, and Patrick on 2nd July, 1844, and both were buried in Alvah Churchyard. William Rose did not possess Ballivat.
- 1844 George Robinson Forbes, solicitor, Banff, son of George Forbes, Sheriff-Substitute of Banffshire. He married Isabella Reid, a daughter of William Reid, farmer and nurseryman, Colleonaud, and died 28th February, 1874.
- 1874 John Forbes, solicitor, Banff, son of John Forbes, builder, Huntly. He married Eliza Young, daughter of Lieutenant Young, R.A., Portsoy, and died 29th May, 1887.
- 1887 Garden Milne Hossack, solicitor, Banff, son of William Hossack, merchant and shipowner, Banff. He married Hannah Roe, daughter of Peter Roe, Esq. of Millhank, Mountrath, Queen's County, Ireland.

The following notes of some of the Sheriffs of the County will be found convenient for reference:—

- c. 1242 Henry Pratt, Sheriff.
- 1304 Walter Barclay, Sheriff.
- John of Inverpefir, Sheriff, in the 40th year of David II.
- 1453 Alexander Ogilvie of Auchterhouse resigns the Sherifffdom of Banff for all the days of his life to his brother, Walter Ogilvy of Beaufort.
- 1511 James Stewart, Sheriff-depute.
- 1618 Alexander Ogilvie, Sheriff-depute.
- 1654 Mr. Alexander Douglas of Dounies, "ane of the Sherifes principall."
- 1664 Feb. 4. Auchmedden's Commission from King Charles II. as Sheriff-Principal of Banff on the death of James, Earl of Buchan. Sir James Baird appears as Sheriff-Principal in 1672 and 1673.
- 1680 Sir James Baird of Auchmedden, knight, and James Baird, yr., conjunct Sheriffs-Principal of Banffshire.
- 1681 Commission appointing Sir James Baird of Auchmedden and Sir George Gordon of Edinglassie, conjunct Sheriffs-principal during all their life.
- 1691 Sir James Baird of Auchmedden died, and there was a vacancy of Sheriff courts and surcease of justice in the shire till 2nd Feb., 1693, when Sir James Ogilvie, advocate, son to the Earl of Findlater, and Nicolas Dunbar of Castlefield, presented their commission as Sheriff-principal and Sheriff-depute respectively.

* "Mr. Alexander Dirom was laird of Muireesk, near Turri^r, and occupied a town house in Banff, on the site of which the present North of Scotland Bank is built. He had also the farm of Sandlaw as a recreation. Mr. Dirom was brought up as a solicitor in Edinburgh. He married and settled in Banff. His lady was a daughter of Dr. Fotheringham of Pourie. The mother was youngest daughter of Skene of Skene. Mr. and Mrs. Dirom had four children, one son, the late Lieutenant-General Dirom of Mount Annan, Dumfries, and three daughters. The second daughter married Captain George Duff, of the Royal Navy, son of James Duff, Esq., Banff, and who fell gloriously fighting at the Battle of Trafalgar. Mr. Dirom was for many years Sheriff-Substitute of the County of Banff, and, being Provost of the burgh, had long the chief influence in the management of its affairs. He was a man of learning, and took great delight in agriculture and gardening. He died in Banff in 1788. His only son, Alexander, was born in Banff in 1757, but owing to his original destination for the profession of the law, he did not enter the army till 1778."—(Inlach.)

Alexander served in the army in Jamaica, India, &c. He distinguished himself under Lord Cornwallis in the campaign against Tipoo Sah, and rose rapidly in the service. In 1811 General Dirom was appointed to the command of the North-west District, and in 1814 he retired with his family to Mount Annan. He died in 1830 at the age of 73 years.

† To illustrate the striking but not uncommon diversity of statement regarding a particular subject, the following references are quoted regarding Archbishop Sharp and his relations (Cf. note I., 99). It is unnecessary to allude to the several points of divergence, except to note as curious that a memorial stone and inscription erected in 1864 by public subscription, and almost within a stone cast of the place where the future Archbishop was born, should contain so many inaccuracies, for

- (1) The father of Archbishop Sharp was not proprietor of Ordens.
- (2) His father was William, not Robert.
- (3) He was born in 1618, not 1613.
- (4) The inscription was not renewed, no similar inscription previously existing.

It is also curious to note that this inscription—which closes with a quotation of somewhat prophetic appropriateness—should be erected along with the arms of Robert Sharp, and slabs bearing his initials on the east wall of the churchyard, while on the west wall, at the entrance gate, should be erected the rest of the monument to the memory of Robert Sharp (see No. 9, list of inscriptions), except a slab bearing the name of his wife, Janet Abercrombie, which finds a place at the entrance gate, but on the opposite side of the wall from the monument she erected in 1667 to the memory of her husband. Still more curious is it that the family burying-ground was in neither of these spots, but near the centre of the churchyard, "in the kirk of Banff" (see I., 84).

The natural course would have been to erect the several parts of the original monument in one spot, and that spot in or near the Hamilton enclosure.

- (1) Monument of date 1864 in Banff Churchyard:—"In this cemetery are interred the remains of Robert Sharp of Ordens, married to the daughter of Mr. Leslie of Kininvie, Provost of Banff, and the father of Dr. James Sharp, Archbishop of St. Andrews, who was born in May, 1613, in the Castle of Banff, the residence of the family, and basely murdered on the third of May, 1679. Also Robert Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire; his spouse, Janet Abercromby of Birkenbog; Mrs. Anne Hamilton, his niece, and other descendants of that family. The above inscription was renewed and the present enclosing walls erected by public subscription in the year of our Lord 1864. 'Dominie (sic) dirige nos.'"
- (2) Inlach's History of Banff (1868):—"In 1636 the Castle of Banff was resigned to Robert Sharp, Esq., Sheriff-Clerk of Banff, elder brother of the famous Archbishop, the father William Sharp having had it in feu. The Archbishop was murdered in 1679, and after Robert's death the Castle descended to his brother's son, Sir William Sharp of Stonyhill, who disposed the Castle to the then Provost of Banff, the Laird of Kininvie."

- (321) Here ly intered the body of Elizabeth Mitchell, daughter to James Mitchell and Elizabeth Murray, who died 10th December, 1777, in the 8th year of her age. The above James Mitchell, dyer in Banff, died June 8th, 1799, aged 61, and was intered here. Also their son William, who died 26th June, 1805, aged 26 years. The said Elizabeth Murray died the 10th December, 1814, aged 76 years. John Mitchell, dyer in Banff, died 8th January, 1836, aged 69 years.

That my Redeemer lives I know,
 Though by His sentence just,
 My body for a season low,
 Shall dwell with fellow dust.
 Reviv'd I from the dust shall rise,
 And God my Saviour see,
 With these my own corporeal eye,
 That shall immortal be.

- (3) Nicol's "Banff and Neighbourhood" (1870):—"A sum of £50 Stg. was mortified by Sir William Sharp of Stonniehill (son of the celebrated Archbishop Sharp, who was a native of the burgh,) to the Grammar School of Banff, and in 1698 the Council made efforts to recover the same apparently without success." "Robert Sharp of Ordens, the father of the celebrated Archbishop of St. Andrews, resided in the Castle. James Sharp, the Archbishop, was born here in May, 1613. In 1636 the Castle was acquired by Robert Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of the County, and brother of the Archbishop."

- (5) Grierson's Delineations of St. Andrews (1807):—"This prelate [Archbishop Sharp] was originally the son of Wm. Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire, whose father David Sharp had been a merchant in Aberdeen. He was born in the Castle of Banff in May, 1613."
- (6) Lecture by Sheriff Scott-Moncrieff on Archbishop Sharp at Banff, February, 1870:—"He was born in the year 1618 in a house which either formed part of or occupied the site of the ancient Castle of Banff."
- (7) Banffshire Journal, 22nd Sept., 1885. Report of Excursion of the British Association to Banff:—"In 1662 James, 6th Earl of Buchan, disposed of the Castle to Robert Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire (son of Robert Sharp of Ordens, who had held the Castle in feu,) and Janet Abercromby, his spouse, who obtained a charter under the Great Seal in their favour on 30th August, 1662. At the time that Lord Buchan sold the Castle to Sharp he resigned the heritable Sheriffship in favour of Baird of Auchmedden. In the Castle was born in May, 1613, James Sharp, who was son of Robert Sharp of Ordens just mentioned, and became the person known in history as Archbishop Sharp of St. Andrews. Sharp's mother was a daughter of Leslie of Kininvie. On the death of the Sheriff-Clerk, the Castle passed into the hands of the Archbishop's son, Sir Wm. Sharp of Stoneyhill, who obtained a charter under the Great Seal of the Castle on 3rd March, 1680."
- (8) Miscellanea Scotica. Life and Death of Mr. James Sharp, Archbishop of St. Andrews (first printed 1678):—"Mr. James Sharp was born at Banff in the North of Scotland, and as the greatness of his fortune in respect of his ill-acquiring thereof does not confer any honour on the place of his birth, so we shall not derive any infamy upon it on this ground, seeing the best soils may bring forth the most noisome weeds, yet it may be doubted if in any age were men more monstrously wicked than this place hath brought forth, who, although of various and far different fortunes, the one continuing low, base, and obscure [Mr. Patrick Darg, minister of Deskford], the other becoming high, great, and rich, yet in respect of the infamy of their lives, and of the trade they constantly follow (although not with a like success) of lying, treachery, and deceiving, they may justly be compared together, and make such a parallel in respect of their bad qualities that it may easily be demonstrate without astrologie, but that as the place of their nativity was one, so they were born under one and the same malevolent planet, or rather were given of God for a curse, and not for a blessing to their country." This "Life," which was written about Sharp's time, after noting nameless abuse, records the name of his father and mother as William Sharp and Isobel Lesley, and adds that his father William was son of a piper, who was only famous for his skill in that spring called — Cossie. The "Life," moreover, bears that his father William fell into the service of my Lord Findlater, where he was admitted as a boy. He ran errands well, and Lord Findlater bred him in letters. He attained to the degree of M.A., and became a Clerk and landward Notary. Then he married Isobel Lesly, who was somewhat above his rank. She learned the art of brewing, which enabled her to set up in Dun (Down). William, the father, was made Clerk of Banff by the influence of Lord Findlater. The "Life" does not record the date of the Archbishop's birth.
- (9) The Scottish Nation:—"James Sharp was born in the Castle of Banff May 4, 1613. He was the son of Wm. Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire, whose father, David Sharp, had been a merchant in Aberdeen. . . . By his wife, Helen Moncrieff, daughter of the laird of Randerston, Archbishop Sharp had a son, Sir William Sharp, and three daughters, the eldest of whom was married to Erskine of Cambo, the 2nd to Cunningham of Barns, and the youngest, Margaret, to William, eleventh Lord Saltoun."
- (10) New Statistical Account of Deskford (1836):—"The stipend includes £1 15s. 3 1/2d., arising from a mortification made in 1675 by Mr. Robert Sharpe, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire. This Mr. Robert Sharpe there is reason to think was brother of the but too famous Archbishop Sharpe. He married the heiress of Ordeans, a small farm in the neighbourhood of the Manse of Deskford. Hence, probably, his liberality to the minister."

- (12) Statistical Account of Banff (1793) :—"In 1636 the Castle of Banff was resigned to Mr. Sharp, father of the Archbishop of St. Andrews. In 1683 Sir — Sharp of Stonybill dispoined the Castle to Provost Leslie of Kininvie."
- (13) Original tombstone inscription in Banff Churchyard :—" . . . corpus Roberti Scharpi vicecomitatus . . . monumentvm hoc posuit . . . moestissima Janeta Abercrombie." From another tombstone inscription in Banff Churchyard it appears that Robert Hamilton, baillie of Banff, married Katharine Sharp, that he died 1665, and she in 1690 (?) in the 70th year of ber age. "Heer lyeth defunct children of Robert Hamilton and Katharine Sharp, viz., two James, Isabell and Christian Hamiltouns."
- (14) Keith's Scottish Bishops :—"James Sharp, a son of William Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire, whose father, David Sharp, had been a merchant in Aberdeen. His mother, Isobel Lesley, daughter of John Lesly of Kininvie. He was born in the Castle of Banff, May, 1613. [W. Rowand in his unpublished notes to Keith gives 1618.] A stately monument was erected at St. Andrews by his son Sir William Sharp. He left a son, Sir William Sharp of Stony Hill, near Musselburgh (M.A. at Oxford, 1671), and a daughter, Margaret, married to Alex. Lord Saltoun in 1675. The Archbishop had a brother, Sir Wm. Sharp, Clerk to the Privy Council." (?)
- (15) Fullerton's Imperial Gazetteer of Scotland :—"The Buchan family sold the Castle to Robert Sharp, Sheriff-Clerk of Banff, elder brother of the famous Archbishop Sharp. The Archbishop was born in Banff in 1613, and after his murder in 1679 the Castle passed successively to bis brother, Sir William Sharp of Stonybill, to Leslie of Kininvie, and to the Earl of Findlater."
- (16) William Sharp was Sberiff-Clerk of Banff from 1617 to 1639, and a considerable part of one of the Court books of his time is in his handwriting. His handwriting is well-known, appearing frequently in deeds connected with the district. In the Cullen Court books of date 13th July, 1613, is recorded an action of removing at the instance of Sir Walter Ogilvie of Findlater against upwards of thirty persons :—"Compeared Mr. William Scharp, procurator, in name of the said Walter," &c. (See "Annals of Cullen.")
- (17) W. J. D. in Scottish Notes and Queries for December, 1888 :—"William, son of Archbishop Sharp, acquired the property of Stonyhill. On 11th March, 1670, he is first described as a knight." W. T. in S. N. & Q. for January, 1889 :—"Archbishop Sharp married Helen, daughter of William Moncrief, Esq. of Randerston, in 1657 (Stephen's 'Life and Times of Archbishop Sharp'). His children were one son, Sir William Sharp, and two daughters. Isabel, the elder daughter, was in the coach with her father at the time of his murder, and afterwards married John Cunningham of Barns in Fifeshire. Margaret married Lord Saltoun."
- (18) Chambers's Domestic Annals of Scotland :—"About the end of this year [1664] Sharp, Archbishop of St. Andrews, purchased the lands of Scotsraig, a good estate in Fife. In 1669 he purchased Straththyrum, near St. Andrews. He had a brother William, who in 1665 bought the lands of West Newton, near Musselburgh, now called Stonyhill. This William was knighted by the Commissioner Laderdale."
- (19) Lamon's Diary :—"1665. This summer Mr. Wm. Sharpe in Edb., the Lord St. Androus brother, bought the lands of the west syde of Newton besyde Musselbrowghe . . . 1669. He was knighted be the Er. of Laderdaile his Maj. Commissioner."
- (20) R. S., Dundee, in S. N. & Q. for January, 1889 :—"Sir William Sharp of Stonyhill was the brother, not the son, of the Archbishop. William, son of the Archbishop, was called Sir William Sharpe of Scotsraig (near Tayport) and Straththyrum. His service as heir in general to his father dated 6th May, 1680, calls him 'Dominus Gulielmus Sharp de Scotsraig, miles.' On 1st November, 1678, Dominus Willielmus Sharp, Staniebill, was served heir in general to his brother german Robert Sharp of Castlehill."
- (21) Old Statistical Account of Fordyce (1792) :—"It is probable that Archbishop Sharp was a native of tbs parish (Fordyce). His father was proprietor of Ordinhoves, the family estate in this parish, and afterwards removed to Banff, where as is generally supposed, from that circumstance merely, the Archbishop was born. The father managed the business of the family of Findlater, and the incumbent [Rev. James Lawrie] has heard the late Earl of Findlater's father say that the best written papers in their charter-chest were done by him."

(22) William Rose, Montcoffer (c. 1790), MS. Advocates' Library, Aberdeen.—"Robert Sharp of Ordens, Sheriff-Clerk of Banffshire, was a brother of Archbishop Sharp, not his father. I enclose receipt of a retour of the service of the other brother, Sir William Sharp of Stoniehill, as heir to his brother-german, the above Robert Sharp of Ordens, in those lands, wherein you'll find mention of the right by which he, Robert, acquired them, and a farther curious notice that Ordens was in the parish of Deskford, and was ascribed to the mill thereof. I have no knowledge if Robert Sharp ever resided at Ordens, but it is more than probable he had, when his public duties during spring and summer vacations permitted him to leave the Castle of Banff, his property and ordinary place of abode."

(23) Catalogue of Heraldic Exhibition, Edinburgh, 1891.—"Pen-and-Ink Sketches of Coats of Arms at Braco, near Banff, viz. :—(1) Robert Sharp, father of Archbishop; (2) Janet Abercromby, &c."

In reference to the foregoing it may be noted :—

- (1) William Sharp had not the Castle in feu (No. 2).
- (2) The Castle was not acquired by Robert Sharp in 1636, but in 1662 (No. 3).
- (3) Sir William Sharp of Stoneyhill was not the son of Archbishop Sharp, but the brother (see p. 288 supra, sub 1685) (No. 7).
- (4) The Archbishop was not a native of Fordyce, and his father was not proprietor of Ordinhoves (No. 21).
- (5) There are no such coats of arms "at Braco, near Banff." Robert Sharp was not father of the Archbishop. For "Braco, near Banff," should probably be substituted "The Churchyard of Banff."

A few additional notes relating to this family may not be without interest :—

In a cautionary of Brakenhills of date December, 1607, Mr. William Sharp is designated servitor to Walter Ogilvie of Findlater. The disposition of Birdsblank, 18th May, 1610, is in his handwriting, and the Register of Hornings (Sheriff-Court Records of Banff), up to folio 92 (year 1622), is all in his handwriting. His signature appears at p. 113.

Mr. William Sharp is designated "servitor to the Laird of Findlater" in 1611 (see "Annals of Cullen," p. 59). He was an elder of the church from 1624, and a member of Town Council in 1628. His son Robert is styled servitor to the Earl of Findlater in 1653, and in 1654 he was made burghess of Banff, and in 1656 Sheriff-Clerk of the county. The following extract proves that William Sharp was resident in the Castle not far from the time when his son James was born :—"1623 . . . to pay to the Sheriffe deput of Banff or his collectours of the taxatiounes within the Sheriffdome of Bamff wibin Mr. William Sharp's hous in the Castell of Banff." On "17th January, 1632, Mr. William Sharpe had a bairne baptised George." In 1633 James was sent to King's College, being then of the age of 15 years, and he graduated in 1637. The news of the murder of the Archbishop spread fast over the North. On 5th May, 1679, two days after the event, the laird of Brodie notes in his Diary :—"I heard that the Bishop of St. Andrews was kild. It grieved my soul to hear that ani professing reall grace should fall in such an act. I abhor it perfectli." The monument erected by his son soon after his death states that he died 3rd May, 1679, in the 61st year of his age. He must, therefore, have been born in 1618, and as if to prevent any dispute as to his age, according to the account of his "procession and burial," "sixty-one old men corresponding to the year of the defunct's age" took part in the funeral procession (Gordon's "Scotchchronicon," ii., 93). The Russells, now of Aden, came originally from England, and settled on the Scottish border, whence one of them, Alexander, came north in 1600, and took up his residence in Elgin. He became Provost of Elgin, and had three sons, of whom the second, Patrick, born in 1630, became a merchant in Banff, and by 1680 was proprietor of Montcoffer, and married Katherine, sister of Archbishop Sharp, by whom he had no family. She was alive in 1678. By 1668 Janet Abercromby, daughter of Skeith, and "uxor maestissima" of Robert Sharp, was spouse of Walter Ogilvie of Raggall. A copy of the inscription on the marble monument in the Town Church of St. Andrews to the memory of Archbishop Sharp, erected by his son, and executed in Holland, is given in "Delineations of St. Andrews," by James Grierson (1807). Also a translation of said inscription. His character probably lies somewhere between that reprinted in his Life in "Miscellanea Scotica," and that recorded on his tombstone. The former characterizes him as "a man abhorred of God, perjured, apostate, a traitor to Christ and His Church, and a persecutor thereof." The latter delineates him as "a most pious prelate, most prudent senator, and most holy martyr . . . a pattern of piety, an angel of peace, an oracle of wisdom, an example of dignity."

- (380) This stone is erected by George McKilligin, Provost of Banff, in memory of his spouse Barbara Strachan, daughter of the late Alexander Strachan, merchant there. She died the 31st of December, 1795, aged 68. Their daughter Margaret and their son Robert are also interred here.*

* The McKilligins long held an influential position in Banff. George, the first of the family, a native of Alesch, Ross-shire, settled in Banff about the middle of last century, and carried on an extensive business principally as owner of London trading vessels. He married Miss Barbara Strachan, by whom he had five sons and four daughters. He died 20th January, 1798, in his 70th year. Two of the sons, Robert and Alexander, entered the navy, but died at an early age. James, the eldest son, entered the army as a cadet in 1785. He immediately proceeded with his regiment to India, where he saw active service for three years, and was present at the taking of Seringapatam. In the end of 1787 he returned from India, and resided at Banff for about seven years. Receiving a commission as Captain in a newly raised regiment of Highland Fencibles, he served for some time in the county of Sussex. While at Shoreham, he met Miss Jane Pelham, whom he married in the year 1799. About this time he took service as captain and paymaster in the regiment of General Hay of Mountblair, and proceeded to Gibraltar. In 1803, he retired from military service on a captain's half-pay, and the same year settled with his family in Banff. Mr. McKilligin was, shortly after taking up his residence here, appointed Major of the Banffshire Local Militia. Taking great interest in the prosperity of the town and port of Banff, he was elected Provost of the Burgh, and filled that office for a considerable period. The Major was on terms of the closest intimacy with the nobility in the district; he was a brilliant wit, and possessed many social qualities. He died in January, 1837, in the 73rd year of his age. His wife died on the same day as her husband, and they were buried together in Banff churchyard.

Major McKilligin had three sons and two daughters, all of whom, with the exception of the second son, James, died in early life. James McKilligin, who died at Calcutta in 1862, was born in 1803. In June, 1822, he went to Calcutta and entered the commercial firm of Fairlie, Ferguson, and Company. Up till 1847 his career was prosperous, and he had amassed a fortune of about £60,000. But in the commercial crisis of that year he lost almost his entire means. The firm was broken up, but the crisis once past, the business was continued under the firm of Gilmour, McKilligin, and Company, and of late Mr. McKilligin has been the only active member of the firm. The deceased was never married. He was the owner of considerable property in Banff, which he acquired from his father and grandfather. He never interested himself in these properties further than to direct that, after deducting the necessary expense of management and repairs, the whole of the rents should be expended for the benefit of poor persons in Banff.

Of the sisters of Major McKilligin two, Margaret and Barbara, died in youth. Elizabeth, the second eldest, was married to James Sim, Esq., Banff, whose daughter married George Cruicksbank, banker. The remaining sister, Mary, was never married, and died in 1858, in her 90th year.

Provost McKilligin died January 20th, 1798, in his 70th year. He sustained the character of an upright and active chief magistrate, was respectable in his general conduct as a member of society, and faithful in fulfilling the several duties of domestic life.

* This family has long figured in the annals of the burgh in connection with building operations, and the recent and present representatives have attained marked distinction as sculptors (Cf. Vol. I., 377). The able sculptor and A.R.S.A. there referred to was the successful competitor for the design for a memorial statue to Dr. Robert Chambers, Edinburgh, while strange to say his sons, William Birnie Rhind and John Massey Rhind, were awarded the 2nd and 3rd premiums. Other works by the same sculptor are statuettes on the fountain of Holyrood Palace, statue of the Earl of Kellie at Alloa, memorials of the Duke of Athole at Dunkeld, the Duchess of Sutherland at Golspie, Earl of Dalhousie at Brechin, effigy of the Countess of Wemyss, sculpture and decorative work on many public buildings—as Pettes College, Bank of Scotland, Scott Monument, Museum of Science and Art, St. Giles' Cathedral, &c., bust of Mr. Gladstone for the Scottish Liberal Club, &c. Mr. Rhind was the son of Mr. John Rhind, Banff, and was born in 1828. He was twice married, and is survived by his wife, and by four sons and two daughters, all of whom have followed in their father's artistic steps. The eldest, Mr. W. B. Rhind, has been associated with him for many years in all his leading works. The second son, Mr. J. M. Rhind, is achieving considerable success as a sculptor in New York. The third son is an architect. One of Mr. Rhind's daughters is an artist, and illustrates works for publishers in Edinburgh.

* A representative of this family was Dr. Robert Wilson, Glenairnie Cottage, Forres, the founder in 1872 of the Wilson Exploration Scholarship, and donor of the Wilson Museum, Marischal College, Aberdeen. His father, Mr. Andrew Wilson, proprietor and builder, Banff, it is said was engaged in building the New Church of Banff. After receiving a liberal education at Banff, Aberdeen, and Edinburgh, Dr. Wilson was appointed surgeon on board an East Indiaman. A passionate desire for travel led him to Greece, Egypt, Turkey, Palestine, India, China, and many other countries, in the course of which he was imprisoned by the Arabs, and had many other adventures. Dr. Wilson died at Forres in 1871, and was buried in the New Cemetery there. The illustration No. 4, opposite p. 373, Vol. I., of this work, is that of a stone which was reported to have been found in the Old Churchyard of Banff. It now appears it was really brought from the East by Dr. Wilson, and another, and more elaborately carved, part of the same stone, is now in the possession of Miss Hossack, Banff. At page 15 of this Volume reference is made to a "Pieta," believed to be unique of its kind in Scotland, and which was accepted by the Society of Antiquaries for Scotland as a genuine native find. See Illustration, p. 2 antea. See Dr. Wilson's last Will and Testament, pp. 541-5, Records of Marischal College and University, edited by Mr. P. J. Anderson for the New Spalding Club.

* James Imlach, who died in 1820, had five sons—George, who died in Edinburgh in 1864; William, a Colonel in India, died 1822; Alexander, died in Jamaica, 1802; and James, author of a History of Banff, published by Mr. Robert Leask, Banff, in 1868. "James Imlach, senior, after service in the Navy, accompanied Admiral Gordon to Banff, and under his auspices, and that of the county gentlemen of the district, established the first bank agency in the town, a branch of the Aberdeen bank, and which continued to be the only bank in the town down to the year 1815, at which date the second agency, that of the Commercial Bank, was established under the management of the late Hugh Cross . . . His son William was a gallant soldier, and performed on various occasions distinguished service. He was engaged in the storming party at the capture of Seringapatam. At Bhurtpore he volunteered to take the command of the forlorn hope, and had planted the British standard on the walls of the fortress, when he and his companions were temporarily overpowered, and young Imlach was hurled into the ditch badly wounded. In 1809 he led a body of Sepoys in an attack upon St. Paul's, in the island of Bourbon, held by the French. The struggle was long and deadly, but Imlach and his Sepoys were victorious. For his services he was appointed Governor of the neighbouring island of Rodriguez, with a salary of £5000 a year. He was cut off at the early age of 42, after 26 years' service. He left two sons and a daughter, with a widow, a daughter of Colonel Johnston, who, with his daughter and grand-daughter, subsequently emigrated to Canada, where the family occupied a position of influence. James Imlach, junior, was born in 1789, and educated at Banff Academy. He and his brother George succeeded their father in the bank as joint-agents. At that time agents took the sole risk of transactions at their agencies, and the Messrs. Imlach suffered heavily thereby. James married Isabella, one of the ten daughters of Rev. William Leslie, minister of St. Andrews—Lhanbryde, by whom he had two sons, the elder drowned in 1846 at Montreal, and the younger, James, died in London in 1850. His eldest daughter married a German gentleman Mr. Bargin at New York; another daughter, Helen, married in 1849 Dr. Rogers, Jefferson City, U.S. A third daughter, Charlotte, was also married. Mr. Imlach married, secondly, in 1855, Susan, daughter of Provost G. G. Robinson, Banff, by whom he had no family. She died in 1874. Mr. Imlach died in 1880, and was buried in Banff Cemetery, where his second wife was also interred."—(Notes from Banffshire Journal.)

dutyfull wife, an affectionate and indulgent mother, whose life was exemplary for every Christian virtue, and of their daughter Dorothea Reid, who departed this life July 5th, 1794, aged 31 years, much beloved by her parents and esteemed by her acquaintances. Here also are interred the remains of William Reid, sometime in Bauchlaw, only son of the above-named Thomas Reid, who died at Colleonard the 30th day of March, 1842, aged 84, and of Ann Orrok, his spouse, who died at Colleonard the 15th day of February, 1828, aged 64.*

This stone is erected by his surviving spouse Ann Smith, as a memorial of her gratitude and love to a most affectionate husband.
- (435) 1867. Sacred to the memory of the children of William Dallas, gardener, Banff, James Mackie died 19th April, 1856, aged 5 years, Mary died 23rd October, 1859, aged 12 years, Alexander died 10th June, 1860, aged 19 years, John died 3rd October, 1860, aged 21 years. Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation.— 1 Pet. i. 5.

* This family came originally from Buchan to Banff. Thomas Reid was one of two brothers, sons of a farmer in Deer. Thomas came to Banffshire and was employed to lay out the grounds and plantations of Earl Fife, the Duke of Gordon, and the Earl of Findlater. While at Duff House he lived in the Airlie lodging, the remains of which are still to be seen in the Flower Garden at Duff House. Cumberland's soldiers in 1746, it is said, plundered him of nearly all his potatoes. He died at Cullen. William Reid, son of Thomas, was born in the Airlie lodging. In course of time he had a small nursery at the haugh, below the Rack mill, which he was induced by the Earl of Findlater to transfer to Colleonard. He married Anne Orrok, descended of a Fifeshire family, whose property is now merged in the Wemyss estate, and had a large family of sons and daughters, all educated in Banff. William, the eldest, rose in the E. I. Company's service to the rank of Captain, and was a distinguished soldier in the Bengal army in the beginning of this century. Thomas, the second son, got an ensigncy in the Duke of Wellington's Regiment, the 33rd, then commanded by his uncle, Colonel Orrok, and employed in India. He was engaged in the battle of Assaye, the reduction of the Isles of France and of Bourbon, the attack on Bergen-op-zoom, and the battle of Waterloo, in which last engagement he was wounded. His regiment was afterwards ordered to Jamaica, where his health gave way. He had then attained to the rank of Major, and was the last man of the regiment of those who had been his comrades when he joined. He died at Nairn c. 1881, and was buried in the Churchyard of Cawdor.

James, the third son, was born at Colleonard on 8th September, 1794, and when about 14 years of age—others say 17—he received a commission as ensign in the 78th Regiment, now the Seaforth Highlanders. "When he joined the army, the regiment to which he was attached was stationed in Holland, and he sailed from Aberdeen with a detachment of the regiment for Holland in a sailing vessel, which occupied nearly a fortnight on the voyage. When the detachment left Aberdeen the youthfulness of the officer was subject of remark among the crowd that had gathered at the pier to wish the recruits God-speed, and the late Colonel used to recall the sympathetic remark of a woman on that occasion—'My heart is sair for that bonnie laddie!' Reid was engaged with his regiment in the attack made under Sir Thomas Graham on the night of the 8th March, 1814, on the fortress of Bergen-op-Zoom, then held by the French. He returned home with his regiment a month later, on the capitulation of Paris. At Waterloo the 78th, much to their chagrin, were stationed by Wellington as part of the reserve, and thus were not directly engaged. On the reduction of the forces in 1824 Lieutenant Reid was placed on half-pay. In 1827, while resident at Colleonard, he married Mary Anderson, daughter of Mr. Anderson of Kingsfield, Glasgow, whose wife was Mary Wilson of Cullen, a relative of Bailie Robertson, Banff, and of the Rannies of Birdsbank. Thereafter he proceeded to Canada and settled on property of his own. His military training proved of value in the troublous times of 1837 and 1838, and he was made Lieutenant-Colonel. Not till the age of 83 did he give up the command of the Reserve Division of Huntingdon. Henceforth he lived partly in Canada and partly in Scotland. Colonel Reid's daughter Mary was married to Captain Roberts of the P. and O. Co., and the Colonel visited them at Suez on several occasions—the last when he was in his 88th year. His son, Dr. Kenneth Reid, New York, predeceased him. His daughter Anna married Mr. Cardigan, Canada. His son James resides in Canada, and John in California. His youngest son died in Egypt several years ago. His wife died in 1871, and Colonel Reid himself died in June, 1891, aged nearly 97, at the residence of his daughter Mrs. Captain Roberts, Colleonard Villa, St. Fillaus, near Crieff, and was buried at Dundurn."

Colonel Reid was tall, and had a fine military bearing. His two other brothers, John and Whymes, went to South America in commercial pursuits. Whymes perished with his own ship in a voyage to Otahaiti. John settled about Valparaiso.

- (436) Alexander Glenie and Isobel Wilson have here interred the bodies of their deceased children William, who died September 29th, 1771, in the 1st year of his age, and John, who died July 21st, 1780, in the 5th year of his age. * The inscription is now nearly gone, owing to the decay of the stone. It is thus given in Imlach's "Chronicles" (1868):—"Sacred to the memory of William Leslie, Esq. of Dunlugus, who died 27th March, 1811; also, his sister Margaret, who died in 1806." Mr. Imlach adds the following note:—"Mr. Leslie was a successful Norwegian proprietor and merchant, who having realised a considerable fortune, and having no children of his own, left his fine estate of Dunlugus to his nephew, the late Hans George Leslie, Esq. of Dunlugus, who was educated at Banff Academy. In after life, Mr. Leslie was characterised as a most liberal-minded country gentleman. At his death, he was interred in the family mausoleum in the Churchyard of Alvah, and his son, Captain Hans G. Leslie, H.E.I.C., succeeded to his estate." Dunlugus was sold in 1877 to Sir Robert Abercromby of Forglan for £60,000.

† Mr. Gad Jeffries died at Ladybrand, Free State Republic, South Africa, in September, 1892, in the 84th year of his age. He is said to have been born at Banff in 1809, and was probably a member of the family above referred to. He went to the Cape in 1820, and as a trader in ivory and skins he frequently met Moffatt and Livingstone. He held a command in the Basuto war of 1867, and was held in high esteem by both British and Dutch.

† James Mackintosh was a carpenter in a Banff ship-building yard. He went to India on board a vessel in which Dr. Robert Wilson of Banff was surgeon, and through his influence he obtained employment with Burns & Co., builders, Calcutta, in which firm he rose till he made his fortune. Returning to Scotland he purchased the estate of Lamancha in Peebles-shire, an estate which he made a valuable property.

‡ The Town Clerk, whose family arms also appear on this broken stone, was perhaps the brother of Bailie Alexander Winchester, who figures in the history of the town at that same period. A remembrance of the bailie was lately found in demolishing the old Union Bank buildings in Low Street, when there was found a triangular-shaped stone, bearing in raised capital letters the inscription :—"A. W. Alexander Wynchester cavsit . doe . this." Another stone bears the monogram of Alexander Winchester and his wife Margaret Arder. These stones were probably removed from his tombstone in the churchyard when the Old Church was demolished (Cf. Provost Douglas's monument and the similar inscription "erexit hoc opus"). Other carved stones are now built into the back wall of the same building, and had no doubt a similar origin (Cf. p. 193 supra sub 1796). One has the date "1787" on a kind of slate used at that period for tomb stones. Another has a boar's head erased, while another bears the initials "G. S." and a coat of arms.

§ This broken slab contains a monogram, apparently SVIK, or SKVI, also a fragment of a motto "Quis contra . . ." The letters that remain are beautifully cut and perfectly clear. The stone is obviously of date about 1640. It cannot possibly be of the date it purports, because the modern form of the figure "4" was not in use in the North of Scotland at least, till long after 1440. One of the earliest forms of "4" in the North may be seen on the Huntly monument in the Gordon aisle, Elgin Cathedral, of date 1475, but even it differs considerably from the modern "4."

* Mr. Grant Duff of Eden was the eldest son of Mr. Grant of Kincardine O'Neil, and was born in Banff 1789. He was educated at Banff Academy and Marischal College. Adopting arms as his profession he rose rapidly. He was appointed Persian interpreter and adjutant of his regiment, and under Mountstuart Elphinstone, Chief Resident at Poonah, filled important posts both civil and military, one of which was that of Political Resident at Sattara. His administration was marked by great ability and success. Captain Grant returned to his native country in 1822, and assumed the surname of Duff, in consequence of succeeding to the estate of Eden, by descent from the Duffs of Corsinday, and in 1850, Mrs. Grant Duff having succeeded to an estate in Fifeshire, he assumed the name of Cuninghame. He married the only child of Sir Whitelaw Ainslie, author of the "Materia Medica Indica." He himself is well-known as the author of the History of the Mahrattas. Their eldest son is the Right Hon. Sir Mountstuart Elphinstone Grant Duff, P.C., G.C.S.I., C.I.E., who was born in 1829, was Under-Secretary of State for India 1868-74, Lord Rector of Aberdeen University 1866-72, M.P. for the Elgin District of Burghs 1857-81, and Governor of Madras 1881-86. * "James Strachan, son of Alexander Strachan by his wife Anne Ogilvie, was born in 1775 . . . After completing his studies at the School of Fordyce and King's College, Aberdeen, he was apprenticed to Dr. Gauld, surgeon in Banff, and afterwards entered the army as surgeon. He served in Ireland, at Walcheren, and in America (where he attracted the notice of Sir James McGregor, who was ever a steady friend), and also in India. Dr. Strachan rose in his profession, and, before leaving the army, had been for some years Inspector-General of Hospitals. He finally retired about 1832, and took up his residence in Banff with his sister. In 1835 the estate of Cortes in Buchan came into the market for sale; it was the property of John Gordon of Cairnbulg, and the Doctor became the purchaser at £23,000. While the Doctor was abroad, Miss Strachan lived with her parents, of whom her father died in 1812, and her mother in 1816. His sister accompanied the Doctor to Cortes, but he did not live long to enjoy his property, and died on 20th December, 1840. His sister, Miss Strachan, succeeded to the property; and, besides many gifts in her lifetime, she left £1250 for various benevolent purposes in the town."—(Imlack.)

- (559) Sacred to the memory of Anne Harriett Fagan, third daughter of Major-General Christopher Fagan, born September 28th, 1821, died July 11th, 1833, aged 11 years 9 months. I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my father which is in heaven. Matthew 18, chap. 10, verse . This stone is erected by her sister.

* "The late Dr. Garden Milne, after perfecting his medical studies in Edinburgh, entered the Royal Navy, and was very early promoted to surgeon. During the long war, he had ample opportunity of making use of his skill in the profession, and at its conclusion returned to his native town, where he gained an extensive practice. Captain William Milne, above mentioned, was the great-great-grandson of Thomas Milne, who was ferryman at Spey in 1650, and who carried ashore King Charles II. when he landed at Spey; the particulars of which incident are fully narrated in Sir T. Dick Lauder's interesting history of the Morayshire Floods of 1829. The ground on which stood the house in which Thomas Milne (or 'King' Milne, as he was ever afterwards called), is still owned by the family, being now the property of Mr. William Hossack, Sandlaw, who was married to a daughter of Captain William Milne's, and whose son, Mr. Garden M. Hossack, solicitor, Banff, is now the representative, through his mother, of the 'King Milnes' of Kingston."—(Imlach.)

- (560) Sacred to the memory of James Taylor, Esq., solicitor, Banff, who died November 12th, 1813, aged 35, and of his infant daughter Jane, who died January 21st, 1812. Erected by his widow Jessie Angus. She died April 25th, 1854, aged 72.
- (561) This stone is erected to the memory of Grizzel Urquhart, wife of George Lawtie, late of the Customs in Banff, as a tribute of respect and gratitude to an honoured parent from her surviving children. He died the 11th of March, 1799, aged 74.
- (562) Departed this life on the 1st of January, 1798, aged 78 years, Isabella Donaldson, widow of Captain Charles Forbes of the 60th Regiment of Foot, who fell in battle at Ticonderago, North America, in the year 1758. Sacred also to the memory of James Reid, of this parish, who died 7th November, 1836, aged 78 years, and Anne Duff Forbes, wife of the above named James Reid, daughter of Captain Charles Forbes, who departed this life 6th May, 1838, aged 82 years.

- (564) [Some table stones lie in line in a south-westerly direction from the Dunlugus aisle. One has a Latin inscription, but so much worn as to be almost impossible to decipher. A few disjointed and doubtful words may be given—"Gulielmus . . . eueis Banfensis . . . Sinon Abrahami defuncta sepulta fuisset . . . chara uxor non habuisset . . . quoniam . . . redigendus . . . nocte dieque . . . tamen . . . hoc pignus amoris . . ."]
- (565) A. W. . . . M. A. Memento Mori. [Rest illegible, except a modern addition "Prepare to meet thy God." This arched monument is on the east wall of the churchyard, facing the street.]
- (566) James Fyff. Margery Gordon, 1664.
- (567) George Chessor. Margrat Stevart, 1676.
- (568) Erected to the memory of Christian Wilson, who departed this life 12th March, 1823, aged 71 years. Here also rests the mortal parts of Jessie Wilson, younger daughter of John Wilson, Esq., Banff; a flower of fairest promise, and transplanted to Paradise above, 7 March, 1812, in the ninth year of her age. Also, the mortal remains of Captain John Wilson, of the ship "Deveron," much esteemed as a man and a gentleman; and of his beloved spouse, Margaret Wilson,—both dying at a great old age.

NOTE. (Cf. p. 291 supra, sub 1751.) General Wolfe, the hero of Quebec, was in Glasgow in 1750, removed to Banff in 1751, and quitted Scotland in, or prior to, 1754. In the Antiquarian Museum, Edinburgh, are copies of twelve letters written by him, 1749-58, to Captain William Rickson, who died at Edinburgh in 1770. The letters appeared in Tait's Edinburgh Magazine for December, 1849. One of the original letters, eleven pages in length, is headed "Banff, 9th June, 1751," and does not represent the writer in such a favourable light as might be expected:—"It is not an hour since I received your letter. I shall answer all the parts of it as they stand in their order, and you see I lose no time because in a remote and solitary part of the globe I often experience the infinite satisfaction there is in the only one way that is open to communicate our thoughts and express that truly unalterable serenity of affection that is found among Friends and nowhere else . . . I should imagine two or three independent Highland companies might be of use [in America]; they are hardy, intrepid, accustomed to a rough country and no great mischief if they fall. How can you better employ a secret enemy then by making his end conducive to the common good? If this sentiment shou'd take wind what an execrable and bloody being shou'd I be considered here in the midst of Popery and Jacobitism, surrounded on every side as I am with this itchy Race . . . 'Tis doubly a misfortune to be banished without the relief of books or possibly of reading; the only amends that can be made to us that are sequestered in the lonely and melancholy

The Churchyard is now tastefully laid out and suitably enclosed. It was not always so. (Cf. I., 156 bis.) About 1815 it was reported that, after the demolition of the old church, the churchyard was improved by gravel walks, flower plots, and shrubs. In 1819 the sum of £62 was raised by voluntary subscription, the following circular having been issued:—“The Magistrates and Heritors having, in compliance with the wishes of the inhabitants, given directions for heightening and repairing the walls of the burial ground for the town and parish of Banff, and having recommended the adoption of certain measures for securing it against intrusion from the neighbouring houses, it now remains for the inhabitants of the town and parish, and all those who are interested in the burial ground, to provide for having all the filth and rubbish removed, which have so long disgraced it, for having a complete plan of it made to exhibit the rights of the different parties in it, as well as to provide for its future preservation.” Some years after it was reported to be “very tastefully laid out,” and a water colour view of it, taken at that time, is in possession of Mr. Leask, bookseller. In 1864 (see I., 375) further improvements were made, the sum of £400 having been subscribed. A substantial wall and railing was erected, with two handsome gates, &c. Special bequests have also been made to the churchyard. At the main entrance gate is an old carved stone inscribed “Janet Abercrombie.” This stone belongs to the monument erected by her to the memory of her husband Robert Sharp, Sheriff-clerk. The principal carved stone at this gate bears a coat of arms, and the following inscription in clear well-cut capitals:—“Doctor . Alex. . Dovglas . Bamfae . Praefectvs . et Vicecomitatvs . Commissariivs : hoc opvs . erexit . Anno . Dom . CIC . DC . L . VIII . 1 . 6 . 5 . 8.” The words “hoc opvs” have been translated in modern times “the main gateway,” but they admit of a different interpretation, as appears from the following.

spots is that we can fill up part of our time with study. When I am in Scotland I look upon myself as an exile,—with respect to the inhabitants I am so, for I dislike 'em much ; 'tis then I pick up my best store, and try to help an indifferent education and slow faculties, and I can say that I have really acquired more knowledge that way than in all my former life. . . . I went to London in November and came back by the middle of April.”

General Wolfe's regiment lay at Aberdeen in 1753, for in the “Black Kalendar of Aberdeen” it is stated that some of his soldiers then practised church music very creditably, and the Synod of Aberdeen procured the discharge of a soldier from Lieut. Col. Bland that he might teach music. Whether Wolfe was at Culloden has not been finally determined, nor is it known whether he was the “Major Wolfe” whose conduct at Aberdeen, as narrated in the “Jacobite Memoirs of the Rebellion of 1745-46,” has been unfavourably commented upon. One thing is clear, namely, that it would require considerable skill to reconcile Southey's estimate of his character with the foregoing letter. “Throughout his letters,” says Southey, “Wolfe appears to have been a considerate, kind-hearted man, as much distinguished from most of his contemporary officers by humane and gentlemanly feeling as by the zeal with which he devoted himself to his profession. All that has hitherto been known of him tends to confirm this view of his character” (Cf. Chambers's Book of Days, I., 37.)

Among the Rose MSS., Advocates' Library, Aberdeen, is a letter to John Alexander Cameron, Esq., from George Imlach, written evidently early in the present century, in which the writer says:—"Here is a selected bundle of matériel for our "Gutterbluid" history . . . I enclose a Bijou of the late Lord James in his youth [a letter from Lord Macduff, 1762]. In our history we must remark the shameful spoliation, by that departed sinner, of the monument of Provost Douglas, from our churchyard, and now tacked to the back of his Mausoleum, where it does not willingly stick, for it is coming away from the wall of its own free will and accord. He covered the original inscription by a freestone plate, with an inscription about the place of the Carmelites, &c. . . . Old Allaster will tell you all about it. It was carried off by the Earl's myrmidons, sub silentio noctis. I made Lord Fife's people believe the other day that the Provost's ghost turned the vase into the river."

The reference in the last clause is thus explained:—"at which place [near the Mausoleum] Earl James the First erected an urn, in which the ashes of the monks were enclosed" (Imlach, 1868). See also p. 7, supra.

Nicol's "Banff and Neighbourhood," 1879, states that "over the grave of Douglas was the figure of a knight, which has now disappeared." On another page the same writer states that "a relic of St. Mary's Chapel is built into the back of the Mausoleum, an arched vault, with the recumbent effigy of King Robert Bruce in armour. Carving round the rim of the arch, representing the vine, is in beautiful preservation, and the base stones are richly carved in panels. One bears in Latin the text—'Beati mortvi qui morivntvr in Domino; a laboribvs sviv requiescvnt et illorum opera eos sequuntvr. Apoc.' 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; they rest from their labours and their works follow them'; another has the St. Andrew's Cross in bold relief, but excepting one letter the inscription that had covered the face of the cross is obliterated; and other panels bear 'Memento Mori,' with sandglass, skull, crossbones, bullrushes, and other emblems of mortality."

The supposed effigy of King Robert Bruce is actually that of Provost Douglas, the monument here described having been erected probably in his lifetime. It was erected about the time of the Auchmedden tomb and effigy in the old churchyard, and bears a great resemblance thereto.

There now lies before the writer a recently-taken photograph of the Douglas tomb, built into the wall of the mausoleum. The monument is disfigured by the insertion in the recess of a large slab with the following inscription:—"This mausoleum is erected on the place where stood a chapel dedicated to the Blessed Virgin by King Robert Bruce, MCCCXXIV. The adjacent grounds were also devoted by his Royal Charter for the building and support of the monastery of the Holy Brethren of Mount Carmel."

It would be interesting to ascertain if behind this slab is the original epitaph to the memory of the worthy Provost, especially as the date of his death cannot be ascertained. He married Isabella Chisholm, relict of Mr. Alexander Craig, and had a daughter Christian born in 1628, and Jean born 1630. "He became Sheriff of the county and met his death at the hand of an assassin. Returning home one day, in the forenoon, from the Court-room, he was stabbed from behind by a man who was selling peats in the street. The dirk passed through the Sheriff's body, and came out at his breast. The murderer mounted the horse that had carried his peats, galloped up the Strait Path, and making his escape, was never heard of again."—(Nicol's "Banff and Neighbourhood," 1879.)

INSCRIPTIONS WITHIN THE PARISH CHURCH.

- (1) A marble tablet on the south wall to the right of the pulpit with the following inscription:—
 "To the memory of Alexander Cassy, Esq., a native of the town of Banff, who died at London on the 4th of October, 1822, aged 69 years. In token of gratitude for the munificent donation bequeathed by him towards the support of the 'poor, aged, and infirm and helpless orphans and deserted children born within the precincts of the Royal Burgh of Banff.' The inhabitants of the town of Banff by voluntary public subscription have caused this monument to be erected. MDCCCXXV."
- (2) On the south wall to the left of the pulpit is a marble monument, surmounted by an urn and figure in bas-relief, with a tablet inscribed:—"Johanni Cruickshank A. M. annos amplius quadraginta Rectori Academiae Banffiensis erudito ac fideli discipuli qui operam sub eo literis dederunt grato animo inducti hocce monumentum ponendum curarunt. MDCCCXXXIV."
- (3) On the west wall is a marble tablet bearing the family arms, and motto "Audentes fortuna juvat," and with the following inscription:—"Sacred to the memory of Sir Robert Turing, of Foveran, Baronet, who departed this life the 21st October, 1831, aged 85 years.
 The earth has claimed her own: the mortal clay
 Must share the general destiny, decay!
 Life has gone forth, and we must yield the grave
 What human love essayed in vain to save.
 'Tis but a little dust that moulders here,
 The Christian's soul has sought the Christian's sphere.

The good have many friends ; and he who sleeps
 Beneath this stone, was one the mourner weeps ;
 Regretting, not repining at the doom
 Which gave the aged rest, though in the tomb.
 And now, with the deep love of many years,
 With earnest prayers, and meek though bitter tears,
 To mark the memory of a father's claim,
 His children raise this tablet to his name."

- (4) On the east wall under the gallery, to the right of the pulpit, is a fine piece of sculpture by Bacon, representing a soldier leaning over a funeral vase in an attitude of grief, and underneath a tablet inscribed :—"This monument is erected in addition to one in the Cathedral Church of Calcutta by Sir David Ochterlony and the officers of the army under his command to the memory of Lieutenant Peter Lawtie, of the Corps of Engineers in the Army of Bengal, only son of the late G. U. Lawtie, Esq., and Sarah, his wife, who, at the age of 23, at the close of the 1st campaign of the Nypal war, to the successful termination of which, his exertions had eminently contributed, fell a victim to his devotion in the service of his country. Beloved, respected, and admired. Born at Banff, February 25th, 1792. Died May 5th, 1815." [His arms are appended, and the motto : Sola bona quae honesta.]
- (5) Of five richly-stained glass windows by Messrs. Ballantyne of Edinburgh inserted in 1877, one is a memorial, by the congregation and others, of Rev. Dr. Bremner, the design of it being derived from the parable of the Sower. Along the base is the inscription—"In memory of Rev. Robert Bremner, LL.D., Minister of Banff, 1844-72."
- (6) A handsome marble monument in the Gothic style contains a finely chiselled three-quarter face medallion of the esteemed and accomplished physician, Dr. Milne, and faithfully represents his features in his later years. The tablet is thus inscribed :—"In Memory of Henry Milne, M.D. The eighth son of John and Jean Milne. He was born at Mill of Boyndie, May 11th, 1812, was educated at King's College, Aberdeen, and at Edinburgh University, and for about 30 years carried on a leading Practice in this Town and County. An able Medical Practitioner, he soon became still better known as a skilful surgeon, and, since his death, his reputation as one of the most successful Lithotomists of his time in Scotland has been recorded in the leading Surgical Journal. Endowed with a buoyancy of spirit and genuine kindness of manner, he had the faculty of inspiring confidence and hope in his patients to a rare degree. His services were ever freely at the command of the poor. He reaped the affection of the community. After prolonged illness, heroically borne, he died at Bridge of Allan, May 27th, 1887. His mortal remains were interred in the churchyard of Logie. He was survived by his wife, Eliza Keith,* also by their only child, and her husband, and some members of their family, his loss being deeply lamented by relatives and friends. This tablet is placed here in recognition of his personal virtues and professional merits, as well as in token of affection, by his sole surviving brother, George Milne, 1888.*

* This family has been connected with the town for about 300 years, the name first mentioned being David Mylne, 1552. In 1605 there is reference to Robert Mylne at the Gellymill of Down, and later to his son Patrick at Mill of Montcoffer, at which places they seem to have had small farms. Patrick Milne afterwards became a burgess, and resided in the house he purchased in Banff, his signature appearing in 1643 and 1645. His son James went to reside at Mill of Blairshinnoch about 1680, and afterwards at Mills of Boyndie. By his wife Agnes Hackett he had a numerous family. Of this stock came Rev. James Milnes, Chaplain to the 87th Regiment, and his sons Lieut-Col. Colin James Milnes, C.L., and Keith Milnes, W.S. The Town Treasurer in 1682 was a William Mill. James INSCRIPTIONS WITHIN S. ANDREW'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The three first inscriptions are from memorial windows, on which are represented respectively SS. Andrew, Paul and Matthias:—

- (1) In memoriam. Alexander Morison, Esq. of Bognie and Mountblaiity. + Born January 30th, 1802. Died February 1st, 1874. + Erected by the members of this church, Easter, 1875.
- (2) To the memory of James, Vth Earl of Fife, and his wife Agnes. Erected by their son.
- (3) Dedicated to the glory of God, and in memory of Rev. George Walker, M.A., who died February 24th, 1883. By members of this church and other friends. Easter, 1884.
- (4) From a mural tablet:—India. To Joseph Bethune of Dornock, a major in the 78th Regiment, in which he served 23 years; sharing in its laurels at Ahmednegus, Assaye, and Java. Born 21st December, 1781, Died 2nd April, 1837. “And now Lord what wait I for? My hope is in Thee.” By his widow.
- (5) From a mural tablet:—Boar's Head. Motto—I Byde it. To Ralph Compton Nisbet, Esq. of Mainhouse, Roxburghshire, 43 years merchant in Banff, who died at Mainhouse 2nd November, 1863, and was interred in Banff Cemetery. In loving remembrance by his daughter Mary.

Milne, Mills of Boyndie, and his sons James, younger, and Alexander, were the architects of the Banff of their day, and there are many records concerning them, while a family tradition connects them with the King's Mason, Mylnes of Edinburgh. In 1711-13 Alexander was called upon by the Town Council to give his “advyce in architect” anent the reconstruction of the Tolbooth. From 1708, for about twenty years, that is as far as the earliest records of St. Andrew's Masonic Lodge are in existence, he appears to have been always Master. He was also Boxmaster of the Hammernmen Incorporation. A farmer at Mill of Alvah, he was also factor to the Duffs of Braco and to Lady Banff. His brother John, farming at Mill of Boyndie, was the owner of several small houses in Banff, and had his second son Patrick established there as a Notary and Writer 1722 to 1747. This Patrick was cautioned in 1727 for an intended “duall” with William Munro. John's elder son, James, was a farmer at Nether Mill of Boyndie, while his cousin, Alexander Milne, junior, farmed Mill of Alvah. Captain Alexander Milne (Honorary Burgess), the son of the latter, died 1780. His younger sister Isobel married her second cousin James Milne, junior, at Upper Mill of Boyndie, thus uniting the two branches. Mr. James Milne was one of the most notable pioneers of the new Agriculture fostered by the Earl of Findlater. His early growing of turnips, drainage of marsh lands, and successful rearing of sheep, are on record. Mr. Milne was a favourite figure in Banff, and many stories are still preserved regarding him. Of his three sons, James, the eldest? was drowned at eighteen, and the youngest, Lieut.-Col. Alexander Milne, died in 1827, while Acting Governor of Demerara. Captain Duncan, son of Colonel Milne, was murdered at Aden. The second son of Mr. James Milne was the late Mr. John Milne, Mill of Boyndie, Honorary Burgess of Banff. He considerably developed his nine farms, and his name became a household word in the North of Scotland for the highest class of farming and for genial hospitality. A resolution of the Head Court of Burgesses in 1800 thanked him and his father for the “very generous and liberal manner” in which they had voluntarily supplied the town with meal, and in 1825 by the presentation of a handsome silver urn his friends in the counties of Banff and Aberdeen expressed their “high estimation” of his enterprise and skill, and their attachment to himself and family. He married Miss Jean Milne of Chapelton. Nine sons represented the family in turn at King's College, Aberdeen, the rest of the family being two daughters. The eldest son James, merchant in Java, was made an Honourable Burgess of Banff, in acknowledgment of his gift of some 2000 Java shells to the Museum. Another son, Alexander, was born in 1803, and died in 1877. He was educated at King's College, Aberdeen, and after serving for some time in the office of an advocate in Aberdeen, became the tenant of Blairshinnock, with which his name has been associated for half a century. He married Isabella Lumsden, daughter of John Lumsden of Eggie, Belhelvie. One of the daughters, Margaret (see No. 79, supra), married A. W. Gardiner of Greenskares, who died in 1871. Mr. Gardiner's father had acquired considerable means in the West Indies, and latterly settled at St. Ann's, Banff. Here his only son was educated, and about 1835 purchased the estate of Greenskares, which he greatly improved. The estate of Greenskares was mortified in 1875 by James Taylor, Esq., Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals and Fleets, to the University of Aberdeen for the foundation of bursaries. Henry Milne, M.D., the eighth son, after his studies made a voyage to India as surgeon on a large sailing vessel, and thereafter settled in Banff in 1833 as successor to his brother John, a popular surgeon, who died of a fall from his horse in the 26th year of his age. Dr. Milne was once a Manager of the town during a suspension of the Town Council. He retired to Inverichny in 1861, and afterwards to Bridge of Allan, where he died. He married in 1839 Miss Keith, Netberthrid. In the family burying-ground at Boyndie are interred other sons, viz.:(1) Robert, died in 1833, aged 23; (2) John (see supra); and (3) Abercromby, died in 1848, aged 30. One son, Archibald, died in New Zealand in 1842, aged 34; another, William, in Jamaica in 1850, aged 36, and a daughter: Isabella at Boyndie Cottage in 1873, aged 73. Only one member of the family survives, namely, George Milne of Upper Norwood, Surrey, a retired banker, and merchant of London. The family had intermarried with the Hills, Hackets, Stewarts, Rosses, Frasers, Crichtons of Auchengoul, Ruddimans, Lumsdens, Mitchells, Munros, Wilsons, Milnes of Chapelton, Gardiners of Melrose, Keiths, &c.

- (6) From a Brass :—In loving memory of Jessie Duff, wife of Alexander Morison, Esq. of Bognie and Mountblairy, for many years a devoted member of S. Andrew's congregation, and a generous benefactor to the church, who died July 27th, 1883. "The righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance."
- (7) "A very handsome window has just been placed in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Banff, in memory of the late Earl and Countess of Fife. It is a gift to the Church by the present Earl of Fife. The memorial fills the window in the south side of the church next to the reading desk. The design is a life size figure of St. Paul, attired in very rich robes. In the right hand, folded across the breast, a book is held, and the left hand rests upon the hilt of a sword. Underneath the figure, a couple of panels bear the crests of the Fife family. One of these is a horse at full gallop, bearing a knight in complete armour, with the motto, "Deo juvante," and the other a demi-lion rampant holding in the dexter paw a broadsword, with the motto "Deus juvat." At the base of the window in old English lettering is inscribed, "To the memory of James, Fifth Earl of Fife, and his wife, Agnes. Erected by their son." The window is by Messrs. Ballantine & Son, Edinburgh. It forms a companion to the window with figure of St. Andrew, placed in the church some years ago in memory of the late Mr. Morison of Bognie. Both these, as well as the window over the altar, are the products of the same artist, and are thus similar in style. The colouring of the new window is very brilliant, and the subordinate decoration of beautiful finish and effect."—(Banffshire Journal, 1881.)

INSCRIPTIONS WITHIN THE FIFE MAUSOLEUM.

The Fife Mausoleum is situated upon an eminence on the north bank of the Deveron, in a spacious park about a mile from Duff House. It was erected about 1790, and is constructed in the form of a chapel, with stained-glass windows, and the figures of Faith and Hope over the entrance door. The remains and coffins of the deceased lords and ladies—22 in number—are placed upon trestles in the vault underneath the apartment in which the family monuments are erected.

An altar tomb in the north end of the aisle built into a recess bears the effigy of a man in long robes, with Eastern cap on his head and crescent in front, a short sword or dagger by his side, and belt with buckles round his waist. The hands are in a devotional attitude. Round the margin of the stone upon which the effigy lies is the inscription in capitals: "Hic jacet Johannes Dvf de Maldavat & Baldavi obiit 2 Jvlii 1404."* Upon the front of the building on which the above rests is the inscription: "This stone with the remains was

The following notes of inscriptions within the Mausoleum is from Mr. Jervise's MSS. :—

- (2) William, Earl of Fife, born September, 1697, lineally the 12th generation from the Duffs of Mildavitt. He married first in 1719 Lady Janet Ogilvie, daughter of James, Earl of Findlater and Seafield. She died in 1720 without issue. He married secondly, February, 1723, Jean, daughter of Sir James Grant of Grant, by whom he had issue :— William, born 26th of March, 1724, died unmarried 1753; James, now Earl of Fife, born 27th September, 1729 [died 24th January, 1809]; Alexander Duff, born 13th April, 1731, died April, 1811; George Duff, born 21st of February, 1736; Lewis Duff, born 13th of June, 1737; Patrick Duff, born 10th of July, 1738; Arthur Duff, born 30th of April, 1743; Lady Ann, born 8th of June, 1725, married to Alexander Duff of Hatton; Lady Janet, born 7th of April, 1727, married to Sir William Gordon of Park, died in 1758; Lady Jean, born 16th of November, 1732, married to Keith Urquhart of Meldrum, died 1783; Lady Helen, born 11th July, 1739, married to Admiral Robert Duff, died 1780; Lady Sophia Henrietta, born 13th of July, 1740, married to Thomas Wharton, Esq.; Lady Catherine, born 11th of September, 1741, died 10th of April, 1765, unmarried; Lady Margaret, born 22nd of July, 1745, married to James Brodie, Esq., died March, 1786.
- (3) In memory of William, Earl of Fife, Viscount Macduff, born September, 1697, died at Rothiemay 30th September, 1763, aetat. 66 years. Jean, Countess of Fife, born 27th of September, 1705, died 14th of January, 1788, aetat. 83 years. This was erected to their memory by their dutiful son James, Earl of Fife, 1792.

* The dates 1640, 1780 and 1706 were legible in Mr. Jervise's time. The above inscription was copied by the present writer from the monument in the Mausoleum which is intended to represent an open book. Like the "Sharp" slab already referred to, which it also resembles in its unreliableness, this monument, from the unsuitable character of the freestone, is fast becoming undecipherable. The writer possesses a photograph of it, taken when in better condition. See Article on "The Earl of Fife" in The Genealogist for October, 1886.

(1a.) The Provost and burgesses of Banff entreat the guardians of the Kingdom to cause King Alexander's Charter to the Burgh of Aberdeen to be duly observed. 1289.

“To the wise and prudent men, guardians of the Kingdom of Scotland, appointed from the General Council, and to the remanent resident Mag-nates of the same Council, the provosts and remanent burgesses of the community of Banff, greeting and reverence due to a position of honour. We, sorely complaining, do point out to you that whereas our Lord, Alexander, umquhile King of Scotland, of renowned memory, did by his charter* grant and for ever confirm certain fairs to be held and had in the burgh of Aberdeen for the benefit of us and of other burghs lying to the north of the mountains; which fairs are obstructed and every year disturbed by the burgesses of Montrose to the no small prejudice and injury of the foresaid burgh of Aberdeen, and indeed of the whole northern province: Wherefore, we humbly petition your esteemed discretion, earnestly entreating you to cause the tenor of the above-mentioned Charter, granted to the said burgh of Aberdeen for the public benefit and the need of the said burgesses of Aberdeen, to be observed unimpaired, if so it seem good, according to the privileges contained in their charter; so that no further loss or detriment may be inflicted upon us by reason of agitation or disturbance caused by the said burgesses of Montrose, and no matter of complaint be brought up against us on the plea of injustice. In witness whereof our common seal is appended to these letters patent. Given at Banff on the Sunday next before Lent, in the year of our Lord one thousand two hundred and eighty-nine.”†

* 2nd December, 1273, granting to the burgesses of Aberdeen the right to hold a yearly fair for two weeks from the day of the Holy Trinity.

ROBERT, by the grace of God, King of Scots, to all good men of his whole land, clergy and laity, greeting, Wit ye us to have granted, set in tack, and in feu-farm demitted to our faithful burgesses and community of the burgh of Banff, inhabiting the said burgh, present and to come, all our burgh of Banff, with its pertinents, for fifty marks of sterling, to be paid yearly by the burgesses themselves and the community continuously inhabiting the said burgh, to us and our heirs, at the feasts of Whitsunday and Martinmas in winter, by equal portions, TO BE HELD AND HAD by the said burgesses and community and their heirs, inhabiting the said burgh, only of us and our heirs, for the aforesaid feu-farm, by all their just marches and divisions with the land of the provostship of the said burgh, called Cathnelpy, with the cruives and fishings of the water of Deveron, mills, multures, and their sequels, with tolls, petty customs, and stall-money, with courts, court dues, and eschaets, with grazings and pastures, moors, marshes, and all other liberties, commodities, easements, their just bounds and their ancient and just pertinents whatsoever, as freely, quietly, fully, peacefully, and honorably as our burgh of Aberdeen is granted or given in feu-farm to the burgesses and community of the said burgh of Aberdeen by our predecessors, Kings of Scotland, as freely, quietly, fully, and honorably. And we wish and grant that no burgesses of the said burgh dwelling outwith the said burgh may enjoy our aforesaid tack or any emoluments, commodities, or liberties contained therein; but that the burgesses themselves, inhabiting the said burgh continuously, and who shall happen clearly to inhabit the said burgh, may enjoy our tack, in all and by all, as is aforewritten, wholly, freely, and quietly. In witness whereof we have appointed this our present Charter to be passed under our seal before these witnesses, venerable fathers in Christ, William and Patrick, bishops of St. Andrews and Brechin, John, our firstborn, Earl Steward of Scotland, Robert, Earl of Fife and of Menteith, our well-beloved son, William, Earl of Douglas, John of Carrick, our Chancellor, Sir Hugo of Eglinton, and Sir Robert of Erskine. (18.) Seals of the Burgh.

Fig. 1 (See Frontispiece Vol. II.) is taken from a cast of an impression of an ancient seal of the burgh supplied to the present writer by Mr. Rye, Dunrobin. It is evidently that referred to as No. 1200 in Mr. H. Laing's "Supplemental Descriptive Catalogue of Ancient Scottish Seals" (1866), and there characterized as rudely executed, and said to be "appended to a charter A.D. 1408. See Forglen Papers. Hutton's Collection." No other impression of that seal is known to exist. The inscription appears to be "S. COMMVNE DE BANEF," not "BANEFS," as given by Laing, which latter form occurs in no ancient writing.*

Fig. 2 shows "the comone sele of the burgh of Banf" in 1472 (See Vol. I., p. 21). It was evidently the most artistic seal the burgh ever possessed, and was in all probability that considered in 1552 as the "comone seill haldin reputat and wsit past memor of man." (See Vol. I., p. 29.) It was in use up at least to the year 1764.

* It is to be regretted both for this and other points connected with the ancient history of Banff, that access has not been had to the Forglen charters. The present writer hopes, however, to make the information contained therein available at a future period, with the kind permission of the owner thereof, but for the last few years the charters have not been accessible. It appears very singular to find the arms of the burgh in 1408—a boar passant—changed by 1472 to the Virgin and Child. The adoption of the ancient form of arms may be explained from the fact that the word Banbh is in Irish "a sucking pig." Similarly in the arms of the neighbouring burgh of Cullen at the present day appears a young dog, Cuilean, in Gaelic, signifying "a whelp."

Fig. 3 is thus referred to in Laing's work :—"No. 1201. Banff. The same design [as Fig. 1.], but of inferior workmanship. 'Insignia urbis Banfiensis.' Matrix in office of Town Clerk."

Fig. 4 shows the seal presently in use (1892). It has been that generally used since c. 1777.

Laing has the following note on a seal of the Carmelites of Banff:—"No. 1116, The Salutation of the Virgin, and below is a monk praying. The inscription is very indistinct, but seems to be 'Ave Maria plena gracia Dominus.' Appended to a precept of sasine in favour of Sir William Ogilvy of Dunlugas. Hutton's Sigilla, p. 99."

APPENDIX A.

CHURCH TUNE—"BANFF."

In May, 1719, "Paul Keith, precenter and master of the Musick Schooll [of Banff] presented to the Magistrates and Councill a new composed tune called 'Banff' tune, dedicat to the Magistrates and Councill, for which they ordain their treasurer to pay him 12 libs Scots." In the same month "Paul Keith, musick master, having composed a new tune to be sung in church, and it being intimat to the session, they order him a guinea from the treasurer." A searching but not very successful inquiry has been made among old local and other collections of church music to find a very early copy of this tune. The earliest found, however, does not appear to go much beyond the year 1787, but, strange to say, the same tune appears in more recent collections under the titles "Burford," "Hexham," and "Norwich," and, still stranger, "Burford" was, without doubt, the work of the famous composer Henry Purcell (1658-95).* Paul Keith was precenter of Banff, 1683-1733. A question has arisen, but too near the close of this work to be finally determined herein, "Did Paul Keith appropriate Purcell's work?" Without expressing a distinct opinion on the question at issue, we have pleasure in submitting the following data to aid in determining the point, these being furnished to us for the most part by Mr. John Cruickshank, chemist, Macduff, a gentleman whose extensive and singularly accurate knowledge has proved of great service to us on more than the present occasion. The following collections of church music, or MS. copies of the tunes therefrom, were submitted to Mr. J. S. Paterson, schoolmaster, Rathven, who is well qualified to express an opinion on the subject, and who has kindly supplied the following notes given within square brackets:—

- (1) "Banff." From "A Musical Catechism." Aberdeen: Printed by J. Chalmers & Co., 1787. [MS. copy. Four part harmony. Several mistakes in the harmony, in the MS. copy at least. It is otherwise unsatisfactory.]
- (2) "Banff." From "A Collection of Psalm and Hymn Tunes, selected from the Best Authors by James Leslie, teacher of Church Music,

* See Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians," III., 51.

- Fochabers, 1815. 2nd ed. 2s. 6d. Printed for the Author and sold by Isaac Forsyth, Bookseller, Elgin (Walker & Anderson, Sculpt^r, Edinburgh). [Same music as (1), with contralto omitted. Harmony still more unsatisfactory than (1) to a modern ear.]
- (3) "Banff." From "A Collection of Psalm tunes, &c., by John Sivewright, teacher of music, Turriff. 5th edition. Edinburgh: Printed for the Author." (Published c. 1800-1820.) [Four part harmony. Bass almost same as No. (1). Contralto a little altered, and tenor (named treble in the copy) entirely different. The harmony on the whole is objectionable.]
- (4) "Burford or Banff." This is the first tune in "A Selection of Psalm and Hymn Tunes from the best Authors, ancient and modern, adapted for the Voice, in three parts, together with the Chants used in Episcopal Congregations, by Alexander Cuming. Edinburgh. Printed for the Author by J. and G. Imlach." (No date, but perhaps c. 1800-1820.) [Same as No. (2).]
- (5) "Hexham." From "A Collection of Psalm and Hymn Tunes, in three parts, composed and compiled from the Best Authors by Alexander Gordon McDonald. Edinburgh. Printed for the Author by A. Elder & Co., London; G. Clark and J. Davie, Aberdeen, &c." [Same as last.]
- (6) "Banff." MS. copy, without harmony, from "A Collection of Tunes," printed by James Chalmers & Co., Aberdeen. No date. Probably prior to No. (1).
- (7) "Norwich." From "A Selection of Psalm and Hymn Tunes from the best Authors, in Four Parts, by James MacArthur, Banff." [Four part. The harmony is free of blunders and pretty satisfactory. The tune is now called Air. In the above arrangement it is called by the old name of Tenor.]
- (8) "Norwich." Brown's Robertson's Collection. (In Index "Burford or Norwich.") c. 1840. [Note for note same as No. (7).]
- (9) "Burford" (Henry Purcell). From "Cameron's Selection of Sacred Music," 1852. [Harmony—four part—much altered; correct and agreeable. The tune itself remains through all these copies unchanged, or with exceedingly little change.]

- (10) "Burford." From "The People's Tune Book," compiled and edited by William Smith. Published by L. & J. Smith, Aberdeen. c. 1865. This tune by Henry Purcell. [Another setting. Very good. Suitable for instrument, as well as voice.]
- (11) "Burford." From "The National Lyrist." c. 1870. Composer Henry Purcell. [Same harmony as Cameron's.]

APPENDIX B.

"MISS FORBES' FAREWELL TO BANFF."

No tune associated with Banff is so widely known, or awakens so many fond memories, as "Miss Forbes' Farewell." The following notes thereon are gleaned from the correspondence column of the "Banffshire Journal" of November 1st, 15th and 29th, 1881. The composer of this tune was Mr. Isaac Cooper, teacher of music and dancing in Banff, who married Miss Rebecca Reid, sister to Captain Reid, Inverichney. He died c. 1810 or 1811. "Miss Forbes" was Miss Harris Forbes, daughter of William Forbes, Esq. of Skellater and Balbithan, who was connected with the firm of Harris, Farquhar & Co., London. She was niece of Mrs. Abernethy, wife of Dr. Abernethy, who practised as a physician in Banff. She was married in 1788 to James Urquhart of Meldrum, whose mother was Lady Jane Duff, third daughter of William, 1st Earl Fife. Mr. Urquhart was Sheriff of Banff for over half a century. He was appointed to the office 19th March, 1784, and held it till his death on 17th November, 1835 (51½ years). The Urquharts of Meldrum lived in the house in Low Street, now owned and occupied by Mr. Leask.

A writer to the "Banffshire Journal" of date 15th November, 1881, states that Miss Forbes of Balbithan, afterwards Mrs. Urquhart of Meldrum, was his mother's relation, and that many of his mother's happiest youthful days were spent under Mrs. Urquhart's kind and hospitable roof-tree at Meldrum. Mrs. Urquhart's character approached to saintliness. In all who knew her she inspired a love and reverence unusual in their nature. No wonder her music-master grieved over her loss. Her musical abilities were of a high order, and her husband's passion for music amounted almost to a craze. Her performances on the piano were accompanied by her husband's on the violin. His love of music was so great that a journey from Meldrum to London in the depth of winter, even in those days of difficult travelling, he regarded as nothing, in order that he might hear some special musical star.

Under date "29th November, 1881," "F." Old Meldrum, wrote to the "Banffshire Journal"—"When I took the liberty last week of posting to you a printed copy (words and music) of this very pretty Scotch song (the words written by John Hamilton on the marriage of the late Mrs. James Urquhart of Meldrum), I intended some more. Mrs. Urquhart died at Meldrum House on 17th December, 1834, in the 67th year of her age. He died there, 17th November, 1835, in his 77th year." When any wandering minstrel came in front of Meldrum House occasionally, the first tune struck up was sure to be "Miss Forbes' Farewell to Banff." The lady immediately appeared at the window, with hand uplifted, the signal for attention, when she named the tune to be played, and, at the finish, the minstrel got his pay and was dismissed. What her reasons were for refusing to listen to this melody she told no one. No song in Aberdeenshire has continued to be so popular, words and music melting into each other with liquid sweetness, as if they were the work of one mind. Besides this song Mr. Hamilton is the author of the songs—"Up in the morning early," "The Ploughman," "The Rantin' Highlandman," "Tell me, Jessie, tell me why," "Go to Berwick, Johnnie," "I carena for yer een sae blue." He was a music-seller, and publisher and teacher of music in Edinburgh, and died in 1814, aged 53.

The set of the tune which appears in the present work is taken from the collection of tunes published by Isaac Cooper, a rare volume in the possession of Mr. James Morrison, solicitor, Banff. More modern sets differ considerably from that found in the 5th volume of George Thomson's Collection of Scottish Airs, published in 1818, and in other works.

The "Lyric Poetry and Music of Scotland," by William Stenhouse, contains the following remarks on this song:—"This song entitled 'Miss Forbes' Farewell to Banff' . . . is adapted to a favourite air composed by Mr. Isaac Cooper of Banff, musician. The musical reader will observe a considerable similarity between this air and the tune of 'Shannon's Flowery Banks,' which, though generally supposed to be an Irish melody, was composed by Mr. James Hook of London, organist, in 1783, and sung by Mrs. Kennedy at Vauxhall, with much applause.

The following are the words of the song, kindly contributed along with the greater part of the foregoing particulars by Mr. Cruickshank, Macduff:—

“MISS FORBES’ FAREWELL TO BANFF.”

Farewell ye fields an’ meadows green,
 The blest retreats of peace an’ love,
 Aft have I silent stol’n from hence,
 With my young swain a while to rove.
 Sweet was our walk, mair sweet our talk,
 Amang the beauties of the spring,
 An’ aft we’d lean us on a bank,
 To hear the feather’d warblers sing.

The azure sky, the hills around,
 Gave double beauty to the scene,
 The lofty spires of Banff in view,
 On every side the waving grain.
 The tales of love my Jamie told,
 In such a saft an’ moving strain,
 Hath so engaged my tender heart
 I’m loath to leave the place again.

But if the fates will be sae kind,
 As favour my return once more,
 For to enjoy that peace o’ mind,
 In those retreats I had before.
 But farewell Banff! the nimble steed,
 Doth bear me hence, I must away,
 Yet time perhaps may bring me back,
 To part nae mair from scenes so gay.

ADDENDA.

- Vol. I., p. 314. Inscriptions on the Town's bell:—"Lester & Pack de London fecit." "The Burgh of Banff 1767." The former is cast, the latter incised.
- „ p. 343. Business in Banff Post Office, 1891:—Number of letters, &c., passing through Banff Post Office for delivery and despatch 1,172,860. Parcels posted 9360, delivered 9815, passing through 7104. Letters, &c., registered 1953. Telegrams forwarded 8393, received 10,825, transmitted 25,479. Money Orders 4983. Postal Orders 14,143. Savings Bank transactions 1154. Licences issued 606. Value of Stamps sold £2822 6s. 7d.
- „ p. 374. "J. D. . . . E. S." (John Dick, Elizabeth Stewart.)
- „ p. 374. Arms of Stewart of Fill the Cap, co. Banff, from "Burke's General Armory." "Or a fesse chequy azure and argent between two garbs in chief and a crescent in base of the second." Motto "Viresco."
- „ p. 381. Valuation of the property of the burgh:—1652, £4199 Sc.; 1668, £4168; 1677, £4984; 1700, £5140; 1708, £4423.
- Vol. II., p. 37. Margaret Joass was the name of Mr. Setone's spouse.
- „ p. 135. The inscription is very difficult of access, but is apparently "J. & G. Meares."
- „ p. 267. From a deed of sasine of date 4th November, 1528, picked up lately in a shop in Edinburgh, and now in the possession of the present writer, it appears that Walter Ogilvie of Monycabok, in Dyce, was then provost of Banff. He had a Crown charter on the lands of Carnousie in 1530, and was succeeded therein in 1536 by Sir Walter Ogilvie of Dunlugas.

Vol. II., p. 344 (note). An oil painting of "Andrew Wilson, Architect," who built the Parish Church, now adorns the interior of the Session House.

„ p. 361 (No. 565). From Vol. II., p. 194 (sub 1796), and Vol. II., p. 363, it will be seen how it fared with the tombstones and stones of the Old Church. In demolishing the Union Bank buildings lately in Low Street, several stones were met with, and are now built into the back wall of the Bank. One shows a boar's head erased, another has the date 1787, a third has the inscription in capitals "A. W. Alexander Wynchester cavsit . doe . this," while a fourth bears the monogram apparently of Alexander Winchester and his wife Margaret Arder. The two stones last referred to were in all likelihood removed from No. 565.

BANFF.

Musical score for 'BANFF.' featuring four vocal parts: Tr. (Tenor), Co. (Coprano), Ten. (Tenor), and B. (Bass). The score is written in 2/4 time and consists of two systems of two staves each. The first system shows the vocal lines with a double bar line in the middle. The second system continues the vocal lines, with the Bass part (B.) having a more active melodic line in the second system.

BURFORD.

Musical score for 'BURFORD.' featuring vocal parts for Alto, Tenor, Treble, and Bass, along with piano accompaniment. The score is written in 2/4 time and consists of two systems of three staves each. The first system shows the vocal lines with a double bar line in the middle. The second system continues the vocal lines, with the piano accompaniment (piano) providing harmonic support. The piano part features chords and moving bass lines.

MISS FORBES' FAREWELL TO BANFF.

This musical score is for a piano piece titled "Miss Forbes' Farewell to Banff." It is written in 2/4 time and features a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The score is organized into seven systems, each consisting of a treble and bass staff joined by a brace. The piece begins with a treble staff melody and a bass staff accompaniment of chords. The first system includes a repeat sign. The second system features a dynamic marking of p (piano) in the bass staff. The third system includes a dynamic marking of f (forte) in the bass staff. The fourth system includes a dynamic marking of p in the bass staff. The fifth system includes a dynamic marking of f in the bass staff. The sixth system includes a dynamic marking of f in the bass staff. The seventh system includes a dynamic marking of f in the bass staff. The score concludes with a final cadence in the bass staff.

SIXTH REPORT BY COUNCIL.

SIXTH REPORT BY THE COUNCIL.

Approved at the Sixth Annual General Meeting of the Club on Thursday, 15th December, 1892.

THE Council have again considered it desirable to postpone the Annual Meeting of the Club to a period of the year later than usual. They are thus at last enabled to report that the arrears of the publications for 1891 have been cleared off.

During the current year three volumes will have been distributed to Members :—

I.—CARTULARIUM ECCLESIAE S. NICHOLAI ABERDONENSIS.
Edited by the Rev. James Cooper, D.D. Vol. II.
(Pp. 496 + lxxviii., with eleven plates, eight in colour).
This forms the second instalment of the issue for 1891.

II.—MUSA LATINA ABERDONENSIS. Vol. I. Containing the Parerga of Arthur Johnston. Edited by Principal Sir William D. Geddes, LL.D. (Pp. 320 + xxiv., with six photogravures of portraits by Jamesone, etc. ; and 12 pp. of Club Reports.)

III.—THE ANNALS OF BANFF. Edited by William Cramond, LL.D. Vol. II. (Pp. , with nine plates.)

As approved by the Editorial Committee, the issues for the year 1893 will be :—

- I.—THE ABOYNE PAPERS : a selection from the writs in the Aboyne Charter Room, with illustrative notes, &c. To be edited by the Most Hon. the Marquis of Huntly.
- II.—HECTOR BOECE'S LIVES OF THE BISHOPS OF ABERDEEN. Edited and translated by James Moir, LL.D.
- III.—THE ROLL OF GRADUATES IN DIVINITY, LAW, MEDICINE AND ARTS OF THE UNIVERSITY AND KING'S COLLEGE OF ABERDEEN from the earliest extant records down to its incorporation in the University of Aberdeen in 1860. In the Fasti Aberdonenses, printed in 1854 by the original Spalding Club, appears only the list of Masters of Arts for the period, 1600-88. Edited by the Secretary.

A list of short titles of books by Mr. A. W. Robertson, preliminary to, and having for its object the eliciting of additions and corrections for, his forthcoming Bibliography, will also be distributed among members during the year.

In an advanced stage of preparation are the following, from which will probably be selected the issues for 1894 :—

- I.—BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE SHIRES OF ABERDEEN, BANFF AND KINCARDINE. Edited by A. W. Robertson, M.A.
- II.—DIARY OF THE SCOTS COLLEGE AT DOUAI. Edited by the Rev. William Forbes-Leith, S.J.
- III.—HISTORICAL AND OTHER PAPERS, illustrative of the period from 1680 to 1745, from the Charter Chests of Lord Forbes, Lord Sempill and others, the Town House of Aberdeen, Presbytery Records, etc. Edited by Colonel Allardyce.

IV.—FASTI ACADEMIÆ MARISCALLANÆ. Vol. II. Edited by the Secretary.

The History of the Family of Burnett had, it will be recollected, been undertaken for the Club by the late Dr. George Burnett, Lyon King of Arms. Dr. Burnett had well nigh completed his account of the main line of the family, and extensive transcripts had been made of original documents in the Charter Room at Crathes. It is expected that, in the hands of a member of the family, the work will be carried to completion. The inclusion of selections from the letters of Thomas Burnett of Kemnay, addressed to the Electress Sophia of Hanover, will add greatly to its interest.

The Editorial Committee have approved a suggestion made by the Rev. Stephen Ree, B.D., Minister of Boharm, that a volume suitable for the purposes of the Club might deal with the Records of the Synod of Moray from 1623, and the contemporary Records, so far as extant, of the constituent Presbyteries of Aberlour, Abernethy, Elgin, Forres, Nairn and Inverness; and their Kirk Sessions. Mr. Ree has consented to undertake the investigation of these Records, with a view to the preparation of such a volume.

The Rev. A. W. Frater, Minister of the Scotch Church in Middelburg, Holland, reports the existence in the archives of Middelburg, Flushing, Campvere and other Dutch towns, of a large amount of inedited MSS. illustrating the relations ecclesiastical, political and mercantile of the Low Countries with North Eastern Scotland in the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. The Editorial Committee believe that a volume of great interest might be based on these Records, and have requested Mr. Frater to supply further details as to the extent of material available.

Satisfactory progress is also being made with the David Skene Papers, the Place Names of Aberdeenshire, the Records of the Presbytery of Alford, 1662-88, Musa Latina Aberdonensis, Vol. II., and other works mentioned in previous Reports.

Since the appearance of last Report the Club has sustained many and severe losses by death. The obituary for the year includes the names of :—Mr. John Airth, Aberdeen ; Mr. James H. Bisset, Aberdeen ; the Rev. Dr. John Davidson, Inverurie ; Dr. Francis Edmond of Kingswells ; Dr. George Grub, late Professor of Law, Aberdeen ; Mr. Alexander Forbes Irvine of Drum ; Mr. James Meston, Aberdeen ; Mr. John Reid of Shannaburn ; Mr. Peter Riddel, Aberdeen ; Major John Ross of Tillycorthie ; Dr. William Forbes Skene, Edinburgh ; Mr. Robert Smith of Glenmillan ; Mr. William Smith, Aberdeen.

Of these no fewer than five were Members of the Council, three being Vice-Presidents.

Dr. Davidson, besides being well versed in science, was probably the most distinguished among our local antiquaries, having a wide knowledge of all the popular lore and traditions of the province. Of this knowledge the facts remain in the elaborate and minute History of the Earldom of the Garioch, which will continue a “monumentum perenne” of careful research and valuable record.

Of Mr. Irvine of Drum, the Sheriff of Argyle, and Doctor of Laws of Edinburgh, it is not needful to speak at length. The scion of an ancient and honourable house, he was himself an accomplished and amiable scholar, and enjoyed the friendship of Joseph Robertson and his brilliant contemporaries, who shed so much lustre on the first Spalding Club and thereby upon Aberdeen.

Dr. Edmond, an original member of the old Spalding Club, had, from the starting of the new Club, acted as a member of its Business Committee. He is believed to have been at the time of his death one of the oldest graduates of King's College, and was for a long period the senior member or Father of the Society of Advocates, a body of legal gentlemen who have always stood in close relation to the Spalding Club in both periods of its existence. Dr. Edmond's well-known benevolence was exemplified in the case of the Club, by his generously defraying the cost of the reproduction in colour of Mr. Dingwall Fordyce's painting of the Heraldic Roof of Old Marischal College Hall.

Dr. Skene, another original member of the old Club, contributed to the new Club its first volume, his Memorials of the Family of Skene. As H.M. Historiographer for Scotland, he has left an enduring monument of his profound and recondite learning in his three volumes of Celtic Scotland, and the Club is to be congratulated on having secured in the roll of its Editors his distinguished name.

By the death of Dr. Grub is severed the last link connecting the management of the old Club with the management of the new. Seven original members of the old Club still survive (all of them members of the new Club), but these now include none of the Council of Management appointed on December 23, 1839. Dr. Grub was a valued member of the Editorial Committee in the New Spalding Club, and was the last surviving Editor on the staff of the original Club. His counsel in Editorial matters will be greatly missed, and among the names of eminent members of the Club, that of Dr. Grub will hold in the eyes of posterity a conspicuous place.

We cannot conclude the sad record without alluding to two members of the Faculty of Advocates in Aberdeen, Mr. John Reid of Shannaburn and Mr. Robert Smith of Glenmillan, whose deaths are sincerely mourned. Mr. Meston also, of the kindred Society of Chartered Accountants, deserves likewise to be remembered for his kindly shrewdness and benevolence. Mr. William Smith was an architect of note in the N.-E. of Scotland.

The Treasurer's Balance Sheet for the year 1891-92 shows no members in arrear with their annual subscription. The list of applicants is now all but exhausted, and it is hoped that members will make it generally known that it will soon be possible to admit a few new applicants : in order of priority, under Rule VII.

1887. MEMORIALS OF THE FAMILY OF SKENE.	Out of print.
CARTULARIUM ECCL. S. NICHOLAI, I.	Out of print.
1888. LACUNAR BASIL. S. MACARII.	Out of print.
1889. FASTI ACAD. MARISCALLANÆ, I.	Out of print.
1890. WODROW'S COLLECTIONS.	Out of print.
MISCELLANY, I.	Out of print.
1891. ANNALS OF BANFF, I.	Six copies.
CARTULARIUM ECCL. S. NICHOLAI, II.	Six copies.
1892. MUSA LAT. ABERDONENSIS, I.	Thirteen copies.
ANNALS OF BANFF, II.	Thirteen copies.

It will be seen that the issues for the first four years of the Club's existence are entirely out of print, but the volumes occasionally come into the market, and it is usually in the power of the Secretary to direct a new member to a source whence they may be obtained, at a varying advance on the original subscription price.

In the last Report to the Club some account was given of an attempt to interest the Town Council of Aberdeen in the formation of an Archæological Museum in the city. A representation on the part of the Club had been remitted to the Lord Provost's Committee of the Town Council, which had presented no Report thereon. At last meeting of the Club, however, the Lord Provost moved that the Club continue negotiations with the Town Council. Negotiations were accordingly continued, and the Secretary was informed a year ago that the subject was now referred, not to the Lord Provost's Committee of the Town Council, but to the Finance Committee. The result, however, has been the same.

WILLIAM FERGUSON, C.

F. T. GARDEN, Hon. Treasurer.

ABERDEEN, 6th December, 1892.

The foregoing abstract has been framed from the annual accounts prepared by the Hon. Treasurer, audited by us, and approved of.

GEORGE COOPER, C.A., Auditor.

WILLIAM MILNE, C.A., Auditor.

ABERDEEN, 14th December, 1892.

* Note 1.—The largeness of the sum at the credit of the Club is due to the fact that on 6th December, 1892, no accounts (save those for paper and illustrations) had been paid in connection with the printing, binding, &c., of Vol. II. of the Annals of Banff, which is to form part of the issue for 1892.
