1624. The Abbot and convent of Dunfermline shew the K. and Council that they are seised by gift of King David of a town called Kirkcaldy, which they hold as a free burgh, but have no market there. Wherefore they pray the K. that as the said town is one of the most ancient burghs of Scotland, and is ten leagues or more from any market town, he would grant them a weekly market there on Thursday, and a yearly 'fayr' in the octaves of Easter, to last for three days.

They also shew the K. and Council that as they hold by gift of King David their founder, the land called Muskilburghe in warren, and have other lands which adjoin the sea, viz., Kyngorn, Kyrcauldyn, Nithbren and Focherofe, in which there are and they might have 'coniggers' and other easements to their great profit, that the K. of his grace would permit them to hold these perpetually in warren. 1625. To Sir James de Dalile. The writer [some high official] clearly understands the state of Sir James's neighbourhood from Sir John Butitourte's letters, which he has sent with his own, excusing himself from coming, to the writer at Roxburgh. 'Since better may not be,' he admits his excuses. He is not now going to Carlisle, but direct to York. Would willingly have spoken with him and arranged the state of his district, as he has done and is doing where he is passing. And as Sir James has much to pay, he has written to the sheriff of Cumberland to hand over his 'arrearages' to him and help to meet his payments. Asks him to report the deficit, and all news of his district to the writer at York by Christmas or the day after at latest, that he may consider what is best to be done. As Sir Richard Syward, who has a great charge for the K., and cannot for good reasons join the writer at present, complains in his letters he needs money and provisions, the writer begs Sir James to aid him with one or other, that he be not forced to retreat from his enterprise for 'notable default.' Again requests him to report his doings in this matter and all other things, on the day and place before named.

1626. [Petitions by the Bishop of Glasgow.]

The Bishop of Glasgow 'his chaplain' prays the K. for the love of God and Holy Church, to confirm the charters and muniments of his church granted by his predecessors Kings of Scotland, that he and his clerks may be paid their 'arrearages.'

Also he prays the K. to grant him timber in his forests of Mad-disley (Mauldslie) and Carlug, to make a hall and a chamber of 'recette' at Castle tarres (Carstairs) and issue his letter therefor to the sheriff of Lanark; and another to his foresters of Gedeworthe to give him timber to make a 'recette' at Allynecrom (Ancrum) on the March, where he may meet his servants when necessary.

Also he prays the K. to give him the ward of the land of Faringdun and the heir of John called Burnard, and the marriage of his mother, as vouched by the rolls in the time of Sir Walter de Langeton now bishop of Chester, which vill is now held by Sir Roger Corbet. That he would please to warrant the gift at law, and send his letter to the sheriff of Roxburgh. [No date.]

(Endorsed) 'As to the confirmation—the K. intends to provide by his Council in Scotland as to its condition, and will have advice thereon. (Endorsed) 'Let a writ issue to the Guardian and Chamberlain of Scotland to inquire into the facts and certify the K. at his next Parliament [these words cancelled], and warn the said burgesses of Rutherglen to appear and shew cause against the toll, if they see fit.' 1630. Alexander de Balliol his own liege bachelor, reminds the K. that after the battle of Falkirk (la Veyre Chapele) he gave him the land of Kirkepatrick in Galloway; before which he had given no land there, to Sir John de St John. But since after the 'good peace,' the K. gave Sir John de Balliol's Galloway lands to Sir John de St John, viz., Botle and others. And as Kirkepatrick is held in chief of Botle, Sir John claims it as an escheat, though the writer has been in seisin till now. 1633. John earl of Athol prays the K. to supersede his order to deliver the castle of Aboyne to Sir Alexander Comyn till he is better advised; for the land around it is savage and full of evil-doers, and the K. has no other fortress where the country or his servants may be in safety to keep the peace; and Sir Alexander has two of the strongest castles in the country already, viz., those of Urquhart (Orcharde) and Tarwedale, and may commit his prisoners to the castle of Aberdeen at pleasure. Besides, the Earl of Rosse and the Bishop of Rosse have informed the earl that Lochlan and his friends have ordered that each 'dawach' of land shall furnish a galley of 20 oars. Therefore it appears to the earl and others that it will not be good to deliver Aboyne castle to any till they see what Lachlan and his friends will do, the other castles named above being enough for Sir Alexander.

(Endorsed) 'The castle to remain till further orders. The K. thinks two are enough for Sir Alexander Comyn.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 275.]

They found that one John Deudames bought for himself and other merchants of St Omer, in Moray in Scotland, certain goods which he stored in Pluscardyn Priory and other places in Moray awaiting his vessels. They were arrested by Master John de Westone and James de Dalilegh, because on their arrival in Moray they found the goods sequestrated in the Bishop of Moray's hands, as the said John who had been drowned in a shipwreck, had died intestate. So they took them in the K.'s hand and at his cost to Berwick, where they remain. May 31. 1670. Inquisition [under writ dated Westminster, 8th April previous] taken at the town of St John of Perth on the last day of May in the K.'s 33rd year, before Sir John earl of Athol, warden of

EDWARD I. Scotland beyond Forth, and Sir John de Sandale chamberlain of Scotland, and in presence of Sirs Henry de Beaumont, and Thomas de Grey, knights, and Robert de Balcolmi, attorneys of Isabella de Vesey, by Sirs Alexander de Abernethy, David de Bregghyn, Nicholas de la Hay, Constantin de Loghore, Alexander de Lamberton, Malise de Douary, Michael Scot, Mark de Clapham, Richard de Dunmore, Walter de Lundy, knights; Master Malcolm de Gatemilk, Thomas Skayre, John de Ambercrumby, Simon de Horok, Walter de Loghy, and Robert de Horok, jurors; who find that Alexander K. of Scotland father of the late K. Alexander, gave to Richard de Beaumont Isabella's ancestor, and his heirs, the barony of Crail (Caral) with its pertinents, by charter, wherein was contained a right of fishing or toll of 8*d.* from each last of herrings; and as some bailiffs wished to reckon salt herrings, to the merchants' damage, they made a fine to assess the quantity of tonnage in each ship by estimate of good men, which is now called 'Caan.' The said Richard pledged the manor to Walter then Steward of Scotland, who advanced him money for his journey to the Holy Land, and enjoyed the 'Caan' peacefully while he held the barony. After Richard and Walter's death, the barony fell into the late K. Alexander's hand, and was recovered from him by Walter's executors till the end of the lease. They say 'expressly' that K. Alexander father of the late King retained no part of said 'Caan.' The barony then remained in the late K. Alexander's hands for his life, as no sufficient heir appeared. John de Balliol then K., gave the barony and pertinents to Isabella as heir of Richard. One Theobald, Isabella's bailiff, leased the 'Caan' to Sir John de Cambhou for a term, who paid the rent for a year, whereon the said John K. of Scotland at the suggestion of some who said that it belonged to him, took possession of the 'Caan' at Candlemas 1295-96, drew the issues, and besides, at Easter following took the whole barony of Crail in his hands on account of the war, while Isabella for same reason sent no one to claim her 'Caan'; and so K. John remained in possession till K. Edward recovered Scotland. They append their seals. [Seals lost.] [Inq. p. m. 33 Edw. I. No. 174.]

 this as often as possible, and in concert with the King's forces at Carlisle. As to the request by some for a safe conduct for the Bishop of St Andrews, on which Sir Aymer wishes his pleasure, he will neither give, nor allow any of his people to give, such, but if the Bishop pleases he may come to his faith and receive his due. Comto God, and to himself and his other good people for their diligence and labours day after day. He desires him to give them thanks on his behalf. Is very much pleased to hear from him that the Bishop of Glasgow is taken, and will soon be sent to him. Charges him particularly by all means to take the Bishop of St Andrews and send him too, for he is as anxious to have his person as that of the other. He understands from many, that the Bishop of St Andrews has done him all the mischief in his power, for though chief of the Guardians of Scotland appointed by him, he has joined his enemies. Desires him to commit the bishop's temporalities beyond the Forth to Sir Henry de Beaumont, along with the custody of the castle of St Andrews, and its temporality and castle ward. Desires him to send news from Scotland as often as possible. Markyate.

 including those who turned against him in this war of the Earl of Carrick, and have since come to his peace as enemies and not been guaranteed; and to burn, destroy, and waste their houses, lands, and EDWARD I. goods in such wise, that Sir Simon and others may have no refuge with them as heretofore. But to honour the loyal and spare them and their houses and goods. Commands him to thank the . . . 1306. brothers de Haliburton for their good service, and to assure them of reward in good time. To beware of surprise and treason, and endeavour to compass the capture of the Bishop of St Andrews, and whenever taken, to send him in sure ward to Berwick-on-Tweed till the K. gives directions concerning him. The request of Sir Alexander and Sir Giles is placed among the memoranda in the Wardrobe till he comes to Scotland, as others are, when all will be considered. St Albans. That John de Seton be drawn and hanged, as the K. heard that he [1307.] 1926. To some high official. The writer gives him the news of his May 15. neighbourhood. He hears that Sir Robert de Brus never had the good will of his own followers or the people at large or even half of them so much with him as now; and it now first appears that he has right, and God is openly for him, as he has destroyed all the K.'s power both among the English and the Scots, and the English force is in retreat to its own country not to return. And they firmly believe by the encouragement of the false preachers who come from the host that Sir Robert de Bruys will now have his will. And these preachers are such as have been attached before the Guardian and the justices as abettors of war, and are at present freed on mainprise and carry themselves worse than before, boasting in their malice and deceiving the people thus by their false 'prechement.' For he believes assuredly, as he hears from Sir Renaud de Chien, Sir Doncan de Ferendraith, and Sir Gilbert de Glenkerni, and others who watch the peace both beyond and on this side of the Mountains, that if Sir Robert de Bruys can escape any way 'saun dreytes,' or towards the parts of Ros (Roos), he will find them all ready at his will more entirely than ever, unless the K. will be pleased to send more men-at-arms to these parts; for there are many people living well and loyally at his faith provided the English are in power, otherwise they see that they must be at the enemies' will through default of the K. and his Council, as they say. And it would be a deadly sin to leave them so without protection among enemies.

 And may it please God to keep the K.'s life, for 'when we lose him, which God forbid' (say they openly), all must be on one side, or they must die or leave the country with all those who love the K., if other counsel and aid be not sent them. For these preachers have told them that they have found a prophecy of Merlin, how after the death of 'le Roi Coueytous' the Scottish people and the Bretons shall league together, and have the sovereign hand and their will, and live together in accord till the end of the world. Begs his correspondent's pleasure in this and all other matters; and God keep him. Written at Forfar, 15th May. Norman French. [Chancery Miscellaneous Portfolios, No. 11.]

 Aug. 20. inroad by the Scots under Sir Ingram de Umfraville, Sir William de Balliol and others, on Selkirk forest, in Sir Simon Fraser's custody—the meeting there of the Bishop of St Andrews, the Earls of Carrick, Buchan,, and Menteth, Sir John Comyn 'le fiz,' and the Steward of Scotland—their intention to have attacked Roxburgh—his spy's account of the dissensions among them caused by Sir David de Graham's demand for Sir William Wallace's lands and goods, as he was going abroad without leave—and his brother Sir Malcolm Wallace's objections, when these two knights gave each other the lie, and drew their knives—Sir John Comyn's taking the Earl of Carrick by the throat, and the Earl of Buchan seizing the Bishop of St Andrews—their final agreement that the Bishop of St Andrews, the Earl of Carrick, and Sir John Comyn should be Guardians of the realm, the first having custody of the castles as principal. That on same day [Wednesday previous] they all left Pebbles, the Earl of Carrick and Sir David de Brechin going to Annandale and Galloway, the Earl of Buchan and Comyn to the north of Forth, the Steward and the Earl of Menteth to Clydesdale. The Bishop of St Andrews remains at Stubbowe, Umfraville is made sheriff of Roxburgh, and Sir Robert de Keth warden of Selkirk forest, with 100 barbed horse and 1500 foot besides the foresters, to make raids on the English March; for which object each lord has left part of his men with Umfraville. Sunday [last] the Morrow of the Assumption of our Lady, the prisoners of Scotland came to Roxburgh; but this day he learned from the enemy that those of England would not arrive at the March till the Decollation of St John [29th August]. Roxburgh, Thursday next after the Assumption of our Lady. Norman French. [Defaced at top.] [Scots Documents, Public Record Office.]

[1307.] 1799. [Anonymous.] The writer says the K. and Queen were well, May 15. but the K. was much enraged that the Guardian and his force had retreated before 'K. Hobbe.' He intended going to Dumfries, but not till after Midsummer. He has sent to London for his tents. The Bishop of Chester went to Ayr, Monday before Pentecost [8th May], to see as to victuals, &c., accompanied by Sir Edmund de Maulay, to be constable of the castle, and John de Somersete as receiver of the victuals from Ireland and England. Sir John de Drokenesford went same day to Lancaster to get foot soldiers, and thence to Skynburness to send victuals to Ayr. David of Athol has come to peace, in what form, unknown. James de Douglas sent and begged to be received, but when he saw the K.'s forces retreat, he drew back. There are rumours of treasonable dealings between some of the English and the enemy. The K. made his troops ride decked with leaves on Pentecost—about 400, and saw them himself, and was much pleased and merry. Has no other news, for what they hear to be true one day is contradicted the next. Written at Carlisle, 15th May, Norman French. [Scots Documents, Public Record Office.]

[1300-7.] 1980. Petition by Richard le Mareschal son and heir of David le Mareschal to the K., for confirmation of 40l. of land which his father wishes to give him by the K.'s leave for his support. Asks it, as he is of the Royal Household.

(Endorsed) 'The K.'s pleasure is that he have a confirmation, and 'let a writ to this effect issue from the English to the Scottish 'Chancery.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 5712.]

1981. The Abbot and convent of Melros pray the K. and Council for maintenance of the right and franchises of their church in land in Eskedale, granted by the ancestors of Sir Nichol de Graham, confirmed by many Scottish Kings and the Court of 'Roume' in frank almoigne; but from which Sir Nichol and Sir John his son have ejected their people and imprisoned them, against the K.'s peace.

(Endorsed) 'Let them have a writ from the English to the Scottish 'Chancery for remedy.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 5716.]

1982. Petition by the Abbot and convent of Melros, that the K. would confirm their charters of 'feffement' from the Kings of Scotland and others, and grant them timber in Selkirk forest to restore their dwellings which have been burned and destroyed, while at his peace, and protection.

(Endorsed) 'To shew their charters to Roger le Brabancon and his

'socii. The K. grants them his protection as to all religious, and 40 'oaks.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 5709.] [1306-7.] 1983. Petition by Thomas son and heir of William de Melkedrum, a minor, to the K. Prays that he may have an order on the sheriff of Aberdeen for reasonable sustenance till he is of 'lel age'; as the K. granted the ward of his father's lands, &c., to Sir Thomas de Chaucumbe, who has sold it and his marriage to Sir Robert de Keth.

(Endorsed) 'Let him have a writ to the Lieutenant in Scotland, to call parties before him and grant his prayer.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 5711.]

[1306-7.] 1984. Huwe de Champane petitions the K. and Council for 'miti-before 'gacionn' of his relief for his lands in Galloway, according to their March 1. present value, not the old valuation before the Scottish war, as they have been so wasted thereby, that otherwise he must sell them.

(Endorsed) 'The Chamberlain and sheriff of Wygeton to receive 'the relief as customary in these parts, either by a new extent or by 'the old register.' [Parliamentary Petitions, No. 3817.]
