1596. Rough book of 23 leaves. Accounts of William Wycliffe and Francis Wycliffe.—Reward to a herald for changing his Lordship's motto (motto) in his book, 10*s*. (In the margin the auditor has written the motto, Timeat qui ignorat).—To Paul Lynley, for books, 21*l*.—To Francis Henson, for binding of books, 4*l*. 12*s*.—For a sea-card, 30*s*.—For a compass, 10*s*.—For new orizons to the globe, 6*s*.

1596, Feb. 12-1598, May 6. A very long roll.—Paid for physic, 4*l*. 10*s*.—, and rewards to the doctors for watching with his Lordship, 10*s*.—For cutting him open and embalming him and the burial of his bowels, 65*s*. 10*d*.

—Charge of carriage of the corpse to Petworth, &c., 62*s*. 2*d*.—Given to the poor of Petworth, 100*s*.—Church dues, 24*s*. 8*d*.—Black cloth to cover the coffin, 5*s*.—Other charges, 39*s*. 6*d*.—For lace, &c. against her Ladyship's lying-in cradle, and five ells of holland for beds for the second Lord Percy, dresses for him, for cutting him open and embalming him, coffin, church dues at his funeral at St. Agnes within Aldergate, funeral sermon, &c., &c., 31*l*. 5*s*. 5*d*.—To George Percy, his Lordship's brother, apparel, &c., diet and commons at the Temple, &c.—Christening of the young Lord Percy, rewards, &c., 85*l*. 19*s*. 2*d*.—New year's gift to her Majesty, and the case and embroidery, 13*l*. 15*s*.—To the gentlemen of the Temple against Christmas towards their sports, 20*l*.—To Mr. Spilman in full payment of all due to him for the jewell called the Rainbow, 21*l*.—Books: To Mr. Herytt for a book of the Turk's pictures; 7*s*.—To Mr. Ascaums, 11*l*. 10*s*.—Mr. Norton, 13*l*.—and the book-binder, 100*s*. (30*l*. in all).—To Henson the bookbinder, 50*s*.; to Mr. Ponsonby for books, owing since the year 1591, 32*l*. . . Blunt, the bookbinder, in part of 22*l*. 4*s*. 8*d*. for books, 20*l*.

1597, Feb. 18-1598, May 6.—Paid to Jacomo the Italian, 6*l*.; to Dr. Freare, 4*l*. 14*s*.; to Dr. James her Majesty's physician, 6*l*.; Dr. Hamman, 14*l*.—For a scarf to carry the sword into the Parliament, 7*s*.

1598, Feb. 20-42 Eliz., Feb. 24.—Paid to the surveyor of the city of London for taking a view of Northumberland House, and setting down in order where his neighbours had done him any wrong by encroaching, 21*s*.—At Petworth, to John Dee, carpenter.

* A collection of Latin and Greek poems by members of the University of Cambridge on the death of Sir P. Sidney, 86 pp., preceded by some poems (one in English) by James VI. of Scotland and others 4to., Lond., 1587.

* George Peele took occasion of the Earl being made K.G. to write, "The Honour of the Garter displayed in a poeme gratulatorie to the Earl of Northumberland." Printed in 4to. Lond. 1593. As usual in these times the poet received a "reward" on presenting the poem.

DUKE OF NORTH-
BERLAND.

1596, March 6-1598, April 14. Payments for Letters of Administration to his mother.

1593-7 and 1598. Rough books.—Among the wines are wyne claret and wyne seck.

49 Eliz., Feb. 28-Feb. 24 next. Paid: New year's gift to her Majesty, presented by Lady Newton, 53l. To Randle Cranfield for money borrowed, and 10l. for interest, 210l.

1599, June 5-1600, Feb. 24. Lost at play to Sir W. Rowley, 4l. 10s.; and at another time, 12d.

1599. Rough book for the year.—To Mr. Heryot (Harriot) as part of the pension being by the year the 12th of July last by his Lordship's command, 40l.;—more to him the 3d of Feb. as for his pension due at Michaelmas, in all, 80l.—Wyne sack is mentioned.—The Earl paid 40s. for a license to eat flesh in Lent.

1599, Feb. 24-1602, March 27. The accounts of Edmund Powton, gent., cofferer, solicitor and foreign paymaster. He received 25,254l. 11s. 8d.—Paid for 3 sweet bags, 25s.—pair of white silk stockings, 57s.—Nine pair of other silk stockings, 18l.—Her Majesty's New Year's gift (1600), provided by Lady Newton and Mrs. Ratcliffe, 66l.—For Her Majesty's New Year's gift (1601), an embroidered petticoat provided by Lady Walsingham, and for a jewel to Her Majesty bought of Mr. Spilman (17 Sept. 1600), Her Majesty's jeweller, 200l.—Two and a half years' annuity to Sir Charles Percy, 165l.—To Sir Josceline Percy for his annuity at 64l. 11s. 7d. per ann.—To Mr. Alan Percy for his annuity.—To Mr. Heryate (Harriot) his pension of 80l. per ann.—Gifts to Mr. Hildersome, 40l., Capt. Blake, 12l., Mr. Gilbert, 5l.—To Mr. Franke upon an adventure in the Low Countries in a wherry, 20l.—To Mr. Norton in full for books, 40l. 14s.—Francis Henson, bookbinder. To James Rymer and John Plaskett for books.—Passage over the Thames from Sion to the Court at Richmond.—For making a seat in the Covent Garden.—Reparation made at his house in London near Charing Cross.—To Dr. Cesare (14 May 1600) for moving Her Majesty to pardon his Lordship's bond forfeited about Sir John Parrott's [Perrot's] plate, 10l.

1599, Feb. 14-1601, Feb. 8. Accounts of Raphe Burgoyne, gentleman of his Lordship's horse.—He accounts for 267l. 8s. 6d. There are payments for his Lordship's passage to the Low Countries;—his saddles were of white, tawny velvet and blue velvet.

1600, May 1-1602, March 27.—Roche Church, disburser of foreign payments in England and in the Low Countries. He accounts for 5,117l. 19s. 9d.—Payments to Mr. Warner for his wages and entertainment from Michaelmas 1599 to Lady Day 1602, at several rates and times, 65l. 0s. 8d.—A speculative glass, 15s.—Tobacco, 6l. 18s. 4d.—Tobacco pipes.—To a scrivener, for writing two discourses of war, 10s.—A discourse of the army of Calces, 3s.—Paper for maps, 16s. 8d.—Four skins of vellum to make the maps of Berke and Ostend, 10s.—For the sorting, titling, and cataloguing his Lordship's books at Syon, 25s.—For binding the Discourse of Ireland, and other books, 25s. 8d.—For colours for maps painting, 5s.—For paper and colours to make the Leaguer of Berke, 2s.—To a painter that made the map of Berge in colours, 26s.—For 6 plates of Ostend and Berge, 2s.—Map of Antwerp, 6s.—2 maps of the Netherlands, 18l.—The articles between the Archduke and the States General, 5s.—For the pedigree of Grave Morryce and a map of the ballet, 20s.—To the painter at Hage for maps, 20s.—For a map bought by David Joanes, 2s.—Money delivered to Lord Northumberland at Bergen-op-Zoane in sovereigns, 4l.—The payments for military provision amounted to 242l. 2s. 5d.—Among these are payments for satin for lining a headpiece and gorget.—To Mr. Guylin, Her Majesty's agent.—To Sir Francis Vere at the Hague.—To Parker of the English House at Middelburg, where the earl lay.—To Capt. Cicill's man, 10s. 0d.—To a boor for hurt done by the greyhounds to some of his kine.—To an Englishman at Middelburg for the approach of a scout, 20s.—To the Intelligencer at the Hague, 26s. 9½d.—To the Secretary of the States for a warrant to have the Earl's wine and beer excise free, 10s. 8½d.—The payments for provision and passage to and from the Low Countries amounted to 86l. 16s. 11d.—To the Lord Admiral's secretary for a warrant for a ship.—To the Earl of Worcester's secretary for a pass for horse.—To Sir John Stanhope's secretary for a warrant for post-horses.—Rewards to Sir R. Lewson's servants, 22l. 16s.

1599, Feb. 12-1602, March 27. Account of Chr. Ingram, clerk of the works and disburser of foreign payments. He accounts for 740l.—Much apparel for the Earl: and some for the young ladies, viz., Dorothy and Lucy:—payment for George Percy travelling into Ireland.—Rewards; viz. (inter alia) to Sir Walter Reighley (Raleigh) his son, a white curled feather, 6s.;—To Sir Francis Vere's players in Holland, 40s.;—To Mr. Vincent a preacher, 43s. 3d.—Tobacco and pipes, 13l. 6s.

(1600) 42 Eliz., July 1-1602, March 27. The account of Robert Dalavale, purse-bearer and payer of rewards and foreign payments. He accounts for 419l. 10s. 3d.—Payments: to Mr. Richard Martin of the Temple 30l.;—For the Lords of the Council's letter sent to Mr. Nycholson Her Majesty's agent in Scotland touching Mr. William Wycliff's apprehension and imprisonment in Scotland, 20s.—Rewards to divers companies and soldiers at several places (named), 97l. 15s. 1½d.

1600, January 26-1602, Nov. 26.—Payment for butter and flour to bake venison.—A tierce of claret wine, 53s. 4d.—A runlet of secke, 32s.—Thomas Kellie for his annuity, 53s. 4d.

Several rough books for 1600-1602.—Among the rewards are,—At the Lord Marquis's house 110s.;—At Sir Cary Rawley's * house, 60s.;—At Dr. Sherwood's house 4l. 5s.;—for tennis balls there, 10s.;—To Sir Thomas Throckmorton's keeper.—

1603, March 27-24 March next.—Payment to Mr. Marke Steward for rent of house in St. Martin's in the Fields near Charing Cross, 15l. for one quarter;—For the purchase of Walsingham House, 2,000l. and more.

1603, Jan. 14-March 21 next.—Payment for a damasked sword both blade and hilt which the Earl gave to the young Prince, 6l. 10s.—Tobacco, 6l. 8s.; pipes, 6d.

1603, March 27-1604, March 27. The account of Chr. Ingram, clerk of the works and garden at Syon and London, &c.—Payment for tobacco, 26l. 19s.; pipes 5l. 0s. 3d.;—to the Barber and Cornuteer 35s. 6d.;—Apparel for George Percy, 33l. 7s. 2d., and money to him going to Ireland 10l.—At Sir J. Fortescue's for fees for the Earl's mourning clothes after the death of her late Majesty, 8s.;—To the Lord Chamberlain's secretary for fees for the Earl's coronation robes, 5s.;—Repairs at Syon and at the Earl's lodging at Essex House.

1602, Dec. 30-1603, March 26.—Cinnamon water, 11s.;—Tobacco, 3s. 6d.;—Book of Architecture, 30s. 6d.;—Copying the book of the survey of Cumberland, 67s. 6d.; and the binding of it and the old, 13s. 6d.;—The Earl's ferryage over the Thames at Isleworth several times, 41s. 8d.

1602, March 27-1603, March 29. Account of the Gentleman of the Horse.—Rewards: at Sir Cary Rawley's House, 70s.; at Sir Walter Rawley's house, 60s. To Sir Thomas Thrognorton's keeper, 10s.; to Sir Carye Rawley's keeper, 10s.; to Sir Edward Hungerford's keeper, 10s.; to Mr. Barkenfield's keeper, 20s.; to Mr. Mallet's keeper, 10s.;—To the Frenchman that brought Bavions to dance before the Earl, 10s.;—To her Ladyship's footman with news of the birth of Lord Percy, 20s.

1602, March 26-1603, March 27.—To two men who brought a mare from Sir Carewe Rawleigh, 20s.;—for a picture of the Earl's father, 50s.

1602, March 26-20 Dec. next. Account of John Mose, yeoman of the Horse. Payments during the time of Her Majesty's progress.

1603, April 1-1604, March 26. Account of Robert Delavale, gentleman of the Earl's Horse. He accounts for 1,101l. 14s. 5d.—The King's new year's gift, 20l.—Rewards: to Lady Rawley's man that brought a gray-stoned horse, 40s.; to one of the King's surgeons that came to the Earl when his foot was strained, 4l.; to a Scottish surgeon, 40s.; to Sir Cary Rawley's man for making one of the Earl's horses to amble, and teaching Raufe Yates, the Earl's groom, to do the like, 70s.; to the French Ambassador's cook, for teaching Richard Heath, the Earl's cook, 40s.—Payments for going post to Royston to meet the King: to Lady Northumberland, to meet the Queen; horsemeat at the Swan, the Talbot, the Bull, the Red Lion, and the King's Head in the Strand; and for the Earl's horses between London and Doncaster, to meet the King.

1603, March 28-1604, March 28. Account of Gyles Greene, Steward of the Household.—Paid against the King being at Syon, 8 June 1603: wines, 49l. 18s. 5d.; banquetting meats, bought of Madam Crozier, 26l. 10s. (The whole business cost the Earl 163l. 10s. 3d.).—Rushes at Essex House, Syon, Windsor, and other places, 45s.; necessities for the Earl's chamber at the Tower, 16d.

1603, March 25-1604, March 25.—Payments for the Earl's diet, the King being in progress; at Godlyman, Basing, Newbery, Thruxton, Salisbury, Cottesburne, Woodstock, Winchester, and Petworth, 283l. 17s. 6½d.—

* Brother of Sir Walter Raleigh.

DUKE
OF NORTH-BERLAND.

DUKE OF NORTHUM-
BERLAND.DUKE OF NORTHUM-
BERLAND.

To a Scotch scholar that gave the Earl a book of anagrams, 20s.; for a book called the King's Admonicion to his Son, 14d.

1603, Sept. 11-20 March next. Account of Dudley Carleton, gent., Comptroller to the Earl's house.

1606, Feb. 19-1607, Feb. 5. Account of Edmund Powton, steward of the household. He accounts for 12,178*s.* 2*d.*—Paid to Sir W. Wade, Kt., Lieutenant of the Tower, for the Earl's liberty to make his own provision of diet in the Tower by composition of a whole year ended Christmas last, 100*l.*—Paid for the Countess, her pension of 800*l.*—Apparel for the children.—Annuities to Sir C. Percy and Sir Allan Percy.

—Mr. Harriott (Harriot), pension for one year, 80*l.*—To Lady Elizabeth Woodrofe (29 Nov. 1607), as a gift from the Earl, 10*l.*; and to the Lieutenant's daughter of the Tower, in two pendent rubies which her Ladyship bought, 100*s.*—To Joan Iveson, laundress in the Tower.—Divers crystal glass bought for the Earl's use, 2*s.*—To Henry Mamselone, a Dutchman, for 100 quince trees, 10*l.*—To John Norton and John Bill, in part of 60*l.* 2*s.* for books formerly delivered, 20*l.*

1606, Feb. 7-1607, Feb. 8. Account of John Hippeley, Gentleman of the Horse.

1606, Feb. 8-1607, Feb. 6. Account of Henry Taylor, clerk of the kitchen and disbursor of foreign payments.—Paid towards making a still-house in the Tower; furnace, copper vessels, &c., tools, compasses, ruler, plummets, glasses, &c., 20*l.* 9*s.* 5*d.*

1606, Feb. 16-1607, Feb. 4.—Payments: for apparel for Mr. George Percy, sent by Capt. Newport to him in Virginia, 9*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.*—Forty and three quartons of tobacco (various prices), 52*l.* 16*s.*—8½ gross of pipes at 12*s.*, 5*l.* 2*s.*

Several rough books for 1607.—Rewards: To Mr. Danyell, His Majesty's cook, for bringing jellies at several times, 52*s.* 6*d.*—To the King's warders of the Tower, 100*s.*—To Mr. Lockerson, the Lieutenant's man of the Tower, 40*s.*—To Mr. Branthwayt, the Lieutenant's man, for a copy of the articles between the Archduke and the States, 5*s.*—To Dr. Gwyne.—To Dr. John, 20*s.*—To Dr. Turner's man that brought [a] skeleton.—To Mr. Bradley and Mr. Mullens, surgeons.—To Jacomo, 50*s.—To Mr. Davyes, the writer, 40*s.*—To one that taught the accountant, Mr. Fotherley, the art of arithmetic, 20*s.*—To Father Gascoyne, that brought the Earl vines, 20*s.*—To Father Sybley, 10*s.*—To Lord Lumley's fool, 10*s.*—To a juggler, 20*s.*

1607, Feb. 8-1608, Feb. 3.—Mending of a watch and stringing it, 4*s.* 6*d.*—For the rings and other pieces of copper given to the Virginia Prince, 3*s.*—To Mr. Melshawe, for money and necessities which he delivered to Mr. Percy towards the building of a house in Virginia, 14*s.*—30 lbs. of tobacco, 45*l.* 6*s.*; a gross of pipes, 72*s.*; boxes for tobacco, 10*l.*; earthen pots to keep tobacco; tobacco knives, grinding of them, and a whetstone: in all, 49*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

1607, Feb. 6-1608, Feb. 6.—To Dr. Turner for a pomander for the Earl against the plague, 10*s.*—1,200 chestnuts to send to Petworth, 22*s.* 6*d.*; 10 pair of shovel-groat pieces, 55*s.*—For the picture drawer for drawing the Earl's picture, 2*s.* 6*d.*—For fire, to Mr. Warner and Mr. Hepesley, 50*s.*—24 loads of gravel, bestowed on the walk at the Tower, 55*s.* 8*d.*—Necessaries for the still-house.—The expenses of provisions, ware, bread, 52*l.* Beer, 84*l.* Beef, 155*l.* 16*s.* Fish, fowl, and fruit, 320*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* Wine, 118*l.* 3*s.*

A few rough books for 1608. In one of these is the entry, For your Lordship's picture, given to Lady Hatton, 10*l.*

1608; Apr. 2-11 Feb. next. In this are mentioned expenses for a bathing chamber next her Ladyship's bedchamber; and for a vine house at Syon.

1608, Feb. 6-1609, Feb. 6.—Paid for a bowl and cover of silver for Sir W. Wade, 22*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*—To Bill, the bookbinder, for books as by bill, signed by Elkes the Earl's reader appears, 10*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*—To James Rymey, for books, 2*l.* 6*s.*—To Mr. Newsome, for teaching Lord Percy to write, one year, 11*l.*—To Mr. Jerman, for teaching him to dance, one month, 4*l.*—To the scavenger of the Tower, 3*s.* 3*d.*—To Sir Arthur Mainwaring for the King, the first part of the third of the entire subsidy granted 3 James I., 53*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*—For an Aid to make Prince Henry [a knight], 60*l.* 1*s.*—To Sir William Wade for license to the Earl to provide his own provision for a year, 100*l.*—Annuities: to Sir Charles Percy, 66*l.*; Sir Richard Percy, 100*l.*; Sir Allan Percy, 200*l.*; Sir Josceline Percy, 7*l.*; Sir W. Percy, 30*l.*; Mr. Herriote (Harriot), 80*l.* (This roll is signed by the Earl.)

* Davyes, of Hereford?

1608, Michaelmas-1609, Michaelmas. Accounts of John Legge, who received the money from the sale of part of the manor house of Leonfield, co. York, and money from timber, &c., part of the said house.—He paid money for sending carved ceilings and wainscotables to London. Five of the tables were planed and sent to Hull.

1608, Feb. 11-1609, Feb. 12.—Payment for repairing and for finishing Mr. Harriott's (Harriot's) house at Syon.

1608, Feb. 6-1609, Feb. 6.—Payments for diet in the Tower: and for the Earl's children, Henry, Percy, and the Lady Dorothy and Lady Lucy in Essex House.—Sundry provisions for making a distillation called Spiritus dulcis: viz. sack, 14 gallons, 40*s.* sugar-candy, 4 lb., 11*s.* 8*d.*; spirit of roses 12*s.*, and two glasses to put it in:—For pulling down the still-house, carrying away bricks and filling up holes in the walks:—For glass and glazing in sundry his Lordship's rooms in the Tower.—At Syon (amongst other payments) to Mr. Warner, 17*l.* 17*s.*—For Lord Percy, a prayer book and a Corder. pueril. sententiae, 4*s.* 2*d.*—For mending globes and sphere at the Tower:—Boat hire of sundry servants between Syon and the Tower; among these Thomas Burbage, 8*s.* 6*d.*—Rewards: to the Lieutenant of the Tower's coachman, 2*s.* 6*d.*—To the keeper of the Lions, 12*d.*

1608, Feb. 7-1609, Feb. 6.—Gold to make a ring, 24*s.*—Cutting two small Virginia stones and one great, 8*s.*: setting the great stone into the ring, 15*s.*—Velvets, 16*s.* and 24*s.* the yard:—Satin, 16*s.* the yard: Porpetuana, 3*s.* 4*d.* and 3*s.* 6*d.* the yard:—Points, 4 dozen at 3*s.* 6*d.* the dozen, and other kinds.—Barbing the Earl, cutting his corns and cleaning his teeth, 65*s.*—Tobacco, 39½ lb. 7 oz. at sundry prices, 48*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.*—Paper, 7 gross, 4*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*—Barbing Lord Percy and pulling forth his teeth, 17*s.* 2*d.*—Payments for Dorothy, Lucy, and George.

7 James I., Michaelmas-8 James, Michaelmas.—Sir Henry Slingsby was the Earl's receiver in Yorkshire.

1610, Feb. 7-March 13 next.—For apparel and necessities, 54*l.* 8*s.* 3*d.*—Tobacco, 35*s.* the lb.:—Paper, 6*s.* the gross.

1609, March 1-1610, March 14.—Account of Thomas Cartwright, solicitor for the Earl's causes in law. He accounts for 499*l.* 6*s.* 7½*d.* The payments are for law suits.

1609, Feb. 7-1610, Feb. 6.—Payment for tobacco at 29*s.* 8*d.* the lb. The payments for the Earl and the Lord Percy and Henry Percy and for George Percy in Virginia amounted to 432*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*

1609, Feb. 6-1610, Feb. 6.—Expenses of housekeeping at the Tower, and board of servants at the Tower and at Syon.—Rewards: To Francesco Petrozani, for reading Italian to the Earl, 7*l.*—To Dr. Turner, 40*s.*—To Mr. Fenton, the chirurgeon, 10*s.*—In reward by Lord Percy, viz., for seeing the Lions, with Lady Penelope and his 2 sisters, 6*s.*: the show of Bethlehem, 10*s.*: the place where the Prince was created, 2*s.*; and the fireworks at the Artillery gardens, 10*s.*

1609, Feb. 6-1610, Feb. 2. Account of Edmund Powton, steward of household and cofferer. He accounts for money borrowed and got from sales, 13,344*l.* 16*s.*—Paid for plate, clothes, &c., composition with the Lieutenant, to servants, to Warner, to Elkes, to Thomas Burbage for a year with livery, 76*s.* 8*d.*—To John Davies for teaching Lord Percy to write, for a year, 20*l.*—To Mr. Jarman for teaching him dancing, 22*l.* for 11 months. Annuities to the Percys. To Harriot, 80*l.*: To Lawrence Bohane, Dr. of Physic, by the hands of Francis Nelson his assign, by bond dated Virginia, 9 Aug. 1610, 14*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*—For books, 35*d.* 6*s.*—For a pair of writing tables, 8*s.* 6*d.*

8 James I., Michaelmas.-9 James I., Michaelmas.—To Mr. Hutcheson of Richmond, for a pedigree of the Earl, 7*l.*

1610, Feb. 6-1612, Feb. 2.—Paid by Mr. Fotherley, for the Earl's adventure to Virginia, 20*l.*—To Swinowe the fencer, 20*s.*

1610-1611, Feb. 2.—Account of Robert Lhoyde, attendant in the Earl's chamber, and disbursor for books and other necessities. He accounts for 218*l.* 3*s.*—To Lysle the stationer for sundry small books and proclamations and an almanac, 15*s.*—To Bill, for Euclid in English, 60*s.*—The Declaration of Virginia, 6*s.*—Herwort's Tabula Arithmetica, 70*s.*—Consilia General. 110*s.*—Code de Henry, 30*s.*—Tornelli Annalles Rome, 60*s.*—Historie Romana Script., 45*s.*—Possevinii apparatus, 35*s.*—Naisance de , 20*s.*—Chronique Francois de la Champye, 17*s.*—Institution Catholique de Cotton, 32*s.*—Hist. des Indes Orientales, 12*l.*—Alford systema memor., 10*s.*—Images des dieux, 10*s.*—Stem-mate princip., 30s.—Angelator ration. tempor., 13s. 4d.—Table of Nativities, 5s.—Conclave Ignati, 12d.—Instructions for the Court of Wards, 6d.—Ortelius Epitome, 20s.—Hunter's Cosmograph, 12d.—Zanchii Opera, 55s.—Scapula lexicon, 15s.—Dri fatt (sic) for Mr. Chambers, 6d.—Terentius Christianus, 2s.—Mantuan, 2s.—Mills of Nobilitie, 24s.—Bisciola Horar. Subseuss., 15s.—Maynardii Epistolae, 10s.—Guarimoni Consilia Med., 15s.—Rudius de morbis occultis, 8s.—Corlei Thesaurus Numismatum, 20s.—Massari della arte Cavall., 30s.—Stephan. de jurisdict., 10s.—Philostatus francoys, 20s.—Aldesii Element. Math., 4s.—Baronius de operat.

DEPT OF CULTURAL HERITAGE.

4s. 6d.—Rechperger Astrolabium, 2s. 6d.—Jeu de Eschec, 2s. 6d.—Boyorii Institutiones de Estat, 5s.—Boguyll's Discourse de Sorcier, 5s.—Satyr contre Alchemysts, 3s.—Inferiorita della donna, 4s.—Ars de memor., 18d.—Bible, English, large, 50s.—Italian Dictionary, 16s.—Casaubon's Epist. ad 2s. 6d.—Libanii Syntag. select, 12s.—Littleton's Tenures, 14d.—Terms of the law, 2s.—Howe's Abridgement, 3s. 1d.—Perspective of la Caus, 20s.—Warrington's defence of the oth, 2s.—And for proclamations, almanac, and binding, 12s. 10d.

1610, March 13-1611. . . —Tobacco, some at 40s., 35s., 30s., 28s., and 25s., in all, 79l.—A book named Ortelius his Epitome, 5s.—Payments for satin, sarcenet, and philizella.

1610, Feb. 6-1611 Feb. 6.—Payments for fine Venice paper and other paper, vellum, ink, pens, and knives &c.

1610, Feb.-1611, Feb. 1.—The account of Henry Taylor, clerk of the kitchen and disbursor of foreign payments. He accounts for 1,453l. 9s. 9d. There are payments for Parmesan cheese, claret wine, white wine, Rheinish wine, Muscadell, Hipocras, Wormwood wine, Malmesey; sack, viz., Canary in quarts, and sherrie in pints (for wine, 102l. 12s. 8d.)—Rewards:—To Mr. Felton, late servant to the Earl of Oxford, 4s.—To Sir Fulk Grevill's gardener, 2s.

1611, Feb. 7-1612, Feb. 7.—Account of Robert Floode, attendant in the Earl's chamber and disbursor for tobacco, books and other necessities.—40 lb. of tobacco, at 30s., 30s. 4d., 30s. 8d., and 35s., in all, 61l. 0s. 2d.—Books, 39l. 7s.—Howe circle and index for the globe 4s.—For writing four petitions to the King, 33s. 4d.

1611, Feb. 1-1612, Feb. 1.—Paid for Lord Percy for a piece of scarlet for a swelling in his neck, 6s.

1611, Feb. 2-1612, Feb. 1.—Account of Edmund Powton, steward of household and cofferer, and payer of foreign disbursements. He accounts for 10,584l. 12s. 2d.; his payments out of it were 10,335l. 7s. 10d., among which are payments to Lord Percy, Henry Percy, and pensions to the Countess, and Sir Charles, Sir Richard, and Sir Joceline Percy, and George and William Percy.—Among the money owing is—by Mr. William Percy, viz. to Mr. Bagwell, the keeper of Oxford Castle, for the charges of Mr. Percy's diet there, 11l. 19s.

1612, Feb. 2-1613, Feb.—Account of John Hippsley, gentleman of the horse.—In this year the Earl had stables in Drury Lane, Tower Hill, and the Minories.

1612, Feb. 2-1613, Feb.—Paid to Lord Delaware as the Earl's adventure to Virginia, 50l.

1613, Feb. 2-1614, Feb. 4.—Paid to William Tyrrey, goldsmith, for a posset bowl, chafing dish, 1 dozen of silver trencher plates, 1 sugar box, 2 pair of badges, and 16 half-moons, 75l. 11s. 5d.—To Sir Gervase Helwys, Kt., for composition for diet, 100l.—To the Countess of Leicester for rent of the Earl's part of Essex House, three quarters of a year, 52l. 10s.—For a house on Tower Hill for one year, 24l.—To the scavenger in the Tower, 12s. 6d.—To Mr. Warner, for one year, 40l.—To Peter Vanlore, in part of 12,000l. borrowed to pay the fine in the Star Chamber, 6,000l.

1613, Feb. 7-1614, Feb. 7.—Paid to a goldsmith for two sets of gold buttons enamelled with black for the Earl's French-fashioned beavers, 15l. 9s. 6d.—To a hosier for 3 pairs of ash-coloured silk stockings, 6l. 10s.; for five pairs of black silk stockings, 8l. 19s.; for 2 pairs of crimson and one pair of carnation stockings, 6l. 13s.; for 10 pairs of worsted understockings, 40s.—To the barber for trimming the Earl, 60s.; for attending him him in his Hootetouse, 107s. 6d.—For spirits of wine and aqua vite for making usquebabe, 71s. 9d.—For tobacco at 33s. 4d., 30s., 25s. 10d., 28s., 26s. 8d., and 22s. per lb., in all 69l. 17s. 2d.; for 144 dozen of pipes, 7l. 4s.—For books, bought of Bill the Stationer, 31l. 14s.; of Lisle and Bullock, 40l. 2s. 6d.; for exchanging Speed's Chronicle uncoloured for one coloured, 70s.; for Esop's fables, a grammar, and a dictionary, 2s.; for a Map of England, 8s. 6d.; two of Italy and Spain; little maps of the Low Country provinces; vellum and rollers for two maps of the besieging of Berke.—Expenses for Lord Percy: to Mr. Burton, scrivener, for teaching him to write: to Jermayne for teaching him to dance: to Lee the dancer, and to Hales and Swyhoe for teaching him to fence (7 months); and 10s. 6d. for hilts and cudgels, in all 7l. 10s. 6d.—Seven yards of Kersey de Roy colour for a gown 42s.—For the Earl:—An inlaid table for the practice of the Art Militarie, 4l. 18s.—for making a mould of brass to cast soldiers in, and making 140 of them with wire for pikes, 56s. 8d.: making 320 leaden men, with a box to put them in, 27s. 8d.: the table, and painting and gilding the same, 77s. 6d.—Conick sections, 10s.

1613, Feb.-1614, [Feb. 1.—The charges for house-keeping in the Tower were in all, 1,419l. 17s. 3d.—Paid for making a bowling alley in Lord Cobham's garden in the Tower, 14d. 8s. 9d. Paid to Michael Burton for teaching Lord Percy and Henry Percy to write; for half a year, 10l.

In two other rolls for the same period are the following payments:—A gelding for Lord Percy, 10l., and three others, at prices amounting to 140l. 10s.; and charges of one of the Earl's great horses at the mewse as by Mr. Alexander, alias Zinzan, his bill, 11l. 10s. 6d. 1614, Feb. 6-1615, Feb. 6.—Payments for tobacco and pipes, 49l. 16s.; rigging and trimming the ship; mending the brazen spheres and globe; battledores and shuttlecocks; dancing; fencing, and books.

1614, Feb. 2-1615, Feb. 2.—Paid for plate, 321l. 15s. 6d.—Paid for white plate sent to Cambridge:—Paid to Warner 30l. for three quarters of a year's pension.—Paid to Peter Dodesworth, with livery, 76s. 8d.—Paid to Peter Vanlore, in full payment of the 12,000l. (borrowed of him), 2,150l.

1615, Oct. 13-March 2 following, i.e. 21 weeks.—The account of Edward Dowse, appointed to attend Lord Percy at Cambridge. He was charged with 240l. and was allowed 201l. 16s. 1d.

The admittance into College and incorporation into the University.—The 2 Deans of St. John's College for his Lordship's admittance, 44s.; to the inferior officers of the house, 38s. 6d.—Incorporation, 10s. His commons for the whole time, 28l. 2s. 4d. Extraordinary diet, with 9s. 10d. for wine and sugar, 50l. 16s. 4d. His diet and company at dinner the first day he came, 18s. Fire for chamber, 7l. 7s. 3d. Physic and rewards to physicians, 7l. 5s.—Books: Season's Logick, 13d.; A Grammar, 12d.; History of Comynes, 5s. 6d.; Common prayer, 3s. 8d.; Maps and a frame for 18s.; two hour glasses, 1s.; glass, furniture, &c., &c., and mending and washing, &c., 6l. 18s. 10d. Dancing, for a month, 2l. Board-wages for servants, 7s. the week; 6 men for 2 weeks, 1 man for 3 days, 5 men for 16 weeks, 2 men for 3 weeks, and 1 man helping in the stable for 18 weeks at 2s. 6d. the week, 36l. 13s. Charges of the stable (set out at length) 5l. 5s. 5d. Riding charges, 1l. 3s. 2d. Carriage to and from London, 2l. 1s. 11d.—Rewards: When he went to King's College Chapel. For the schools, 4s. At the Earl of Southampton's house several times, 50s. 6d. At the Bishop of 18d. Butler and porter of St. John's College, 23s. To one that brought him a present, 12s. Huntsmen when hunting, 3s. 6d. (In all 4l. 3s. 6d.) Money given to Lord Percy, 11s.

1614, Feb. 1-1615, Feb. 1.—Payments for diets at the Tower, and board-wages at Syon.—Wine, 223l. 5s. 4d. There were claret, white wine, Greek wine (one vessel bought of Sir Walter Rawleigh, 117s.); muscaden and canary. To Patrick Hoddington, his Lordship's footman, for his charges when sent into France at his Lordship's occasions, and his expenses in journeys before going and after his return, 103s. 8d. Carriage of books from the Tower to Syon by Mr. Warner. Bringing the Ladies to the Tower in the barge and returning them. To Michael Burton for teaching Lord Percy and Henry Percy to write, 1 year, 20l. Charges of Lord Percy and servants, &c., riding to Cambridge, and charges there before entrance, 17l. 10s. 5d. Repairs to his lodgings in college, carriage of stuff from London, and furnishing lodgings and fodder for horses, 13l. 16s. 4d. Charges for getting French pears and grafts disbursed by Lord Percy in France. To a woman who watched with Joceline when sick, 30s.

1615, Feb. 2-1616, Feb. 2.—To Mr. Corcellis, merchant, for divers parcels of tapestry hangings, 77l. 5s. To Nicholson, schoolmaster, for teaching Henry Percy, five months, 8l.

1615, Feb. 1-1616, Feb. 1.—Payments for nents tongues, oranges, and lemons for Lord Percy. To Thomas Amy, the waterman, for attending on the Earl with his barge at the coronation of the Prince, 40s.

DUKE OF NORTHUM-BERLAND.

DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND

1615, Feb. 6-1616, Feb. 6.—Account of Peter Dodesworth, servant to Lord Percy, payer and disbursor of sundry sums. He received 237*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*, and was allowed in account 237*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*—To tailors, 11*l.* 15*s.* To haberdasher, 4*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*, and 15*l.* 14*s.* To hosier, 8*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* To seamster, 19*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.* To shoemaker, 11*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*—Payments for brush, comb, &c.; pectoral rolls, 12*s.*; tobacco pipes, 8*s.*—Barbing, 30*s.* (including 2*s.* for barbing a page); washing chamber linen, 4*l.* 10*s.*—Rewards, 4*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* Given to him (Lord Percy) 50*l.* 19*s.* For balls lost at the Tennis Court, 30*s.* Beer at bowls, 2*s.*

1615, Feb. 6-1616, Feb. 6.—Account of Robert Floode, disbursor for apparel of the Earl and Henry Percy and footman. He accounts for 1,080*l.*, and is allowed 1,075*l.* 17*s.* 2*d.*—To barber, for trimming and attending him in the Hotehouse, and for divers gargaries for his Lordship's mouth. Tobacco and pipes. Necessaries for making usquebath, viz., 18 gallons of aqua vite, 62*s.* 1*l.*; one pint of spirits of wine, 10*s.*; ambergris and musk, 2*s.* 2*s.* 2*s.* and 8 grains, 13*s.* 6*d.*, for bottles, 2*s.*; in all 40*l.* 15*s.* 1*d.*—Books, 51*l.* 19*s.* 5*d.*, as appears by bills. A chest-board, and new setting it, 44*s.*—Hugh Byrd's book of Collyre, 13*s.* Composition for liberty of diet in the Tower, to persons exercising the office of Lieutenant of the Tower, viz., to Sir John Keys in the interim between Sir Gervase Helwys and Sir George Moore, 41*s.*; to Sir George Moore, from the time of his entrance, March 2, 1615, to Christmas last, 115*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*—&c., &c.—There remains 4*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*, against which he demands 7*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*, paid to Lady Helwys, as so much due to her late husband Sir Jervis, by way of composition for his lordship's liberty of diet from Michaelmas until the execution of the said Sir Jervis; but because the said Lady Helwys is said to deny the receipt thereof, it is therefore not allowed until it appear whether it be paid or no.

1616, Feb. 1-1617, Feb. 1.—Account of Henry Taylor, clerk of the kitchen and disbursor of sundry foreign payments. He accounted for 6,120*l.* 12*s.* 9*d.*, and was allowed 6,097*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*—Payments to William Tyrry, goldsmith; for chargers, scantlings, plates, silver bowls, 3,368*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* For badges, engraving arms on plate, &c.—Composition to Sir George Moore and Sir Allen Apsley, 40 weeks ended Michaelmas last, 75*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*—Payments for repairs in the Tower. Books bought of Bill, 25*l.* 11*s.* A book of maps, 32*s.* 6*d.* Speed's Chronicle, 50*s.* The Irish History, 18*s.* Henry Percy's diet, and schooling at Isleworth; paid to Mr. Willis for half a year, wanting one week, after 25*l.* per annum; for gages and scourges, 5*d.*—To Mr. Dowse, to be disbursed for Lord Percy at Cambridge, and to be accounted for, 310*l.*

1616, Feb. 6-1617, Feb. 6.—The account of Peter Dodesworth, servant to Lord Percy, disbursor of sundry moneys. He received 175*l.*, and spent and was allowed 190*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* Paid to a Mercer, for 10½ of black satin to make two doublets and 1 pair of breeches, 8*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* Silk grograne, French green, 8 yards, 4*l.* 16*s.* Taffeta and taffeta sarset for linings, and to cut upon, 4*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, and velvet to line a coat, 3 yards, &c., 4*l.* 6*s.*—Payments to a haberdasher of hats, and a haberdasher of small wares. Tobacco, 11*l.* 10*s.*; pipes, 5*s.* 1*d.*; a gilt tobacco case, 5*s.*; wax lights for tobacco, 12*d.*—Apparel and necessities for a page: white satin doublet, 2*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*; 2½ yards of fustian for another doublet, 7*s.* 6*d.*; hat and blue feather, 31*s.*; a pair of gloves, roses, and mending a girdle, 23*d.*; two little ruffles, 5*s.* 6*d.*, &c., &c., (in all 10*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*). Charges of the stable, 11*l.* 13*s.* 3*d.* Paid to Lord Percy, 40*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*

1616, Feb. 6-1617, Feb. 6.—Account of Francis Ingram, disbursor for apparel for the Earl and Henry Percy and providing of necessities for both. He received 374*l.* and expended and was allowed 378*l.* 0*s.* 9*d.*—Payments, for a new George for the Earl:—Tobacco, 45*l.* at 11*s.* 3*d.* per lb.: To Lisle for books, 40*s.*: To Butler for pamphlets, 47*s.*—A clock bought by Sir Josceline 6*l.* 10*s.* Map of Scotland and one of Ireland, 4*s.*

There are no rolls between 1618 and 1627. The last roll is for the year ending Jan. 29, 1629, in which the Earl bought an acre of meadow land for 12*l.*, and paid 11*l.* for books.

U. I. 9.—Some loose bills for household provisions of the latter end of the 16th century, shewing the prices of butchers' meat, &c.—An estimate of a house of 34 feet. The brickwork being 40 foot back and 34 foot a front.—The brickwork being 30 rods, with the chimneys and the partition in the middle, 150*l.* Carpenter work, 130*l.* Plastering all lime and hair, 40*l.* Tiling and gutters of lead, 19*l.* Glazing and the iron casements and the oiling, 14*l.* Total 357*l.*

W. II. 1. List of books sent to Syon from the Tower in 1614:—The works are Latin, Italian, English and French, but chiefly Italian, "besides 20 that are pieces " of books of my Lord's writing and bound with black " paper," 137 in all. The Italian books are 92, viz., 21 in folio, 45 in 4to, 22 in 8vo, and 4 in 16mo. There are Chapman's translation of Homer's Iliad and Daniel's History of England; and Vegetius, an Old English MS.*

U. II. 1. An account of the yeoman of the horse at Petworth, in 1637, shows that the price of oats was 12*s.* the quarter, and the price of hay was 20*s.* 5*d.* the load.

Q. II. 3. Folio. A certificate of all such spoyles and hardshippes done and committed upon my Lord of Northumberland's tenants within the forest and lordship of Rothebery since Easter last or somewhat later: 1576 (4 leaves). Imprimis, there are stolen from Umfrey Greene the Thursday the 24th day of Feb. 1575, four whethers, price, amongst them, 20*s.*, and four ewes, price, amongst them, 20*s.*, forth of the grounds of Rothebery. —There are 70 entries of stealing, housebreaking &c.

fols. 6 and 7, The answer of the instructions sent to Robert Holme the 5th of Nov. 1576 as followeth.—He says that the spoils continue as before. He mentions agreements as to enclosures. The keepers have obeyed his Lord's orders, in that they have laid out the enclosures with care. Gives answer to special directions about some tenants.—As to the burgesses of Alnwick:—the town did not agree to some proposals, and on his going to take possession, several persons (named), with two or three hundred men, women, and children, came to the Coal Pit and would not suffer it; but offered to submit to terms, and that they would pay a fine or rent, &c., &c.

Note of spoils and goods and cattell stolen from the tenants of the Earl of Northumberland since his Lordship's entry into his land.

Note of all stolen in the county of Northumberland by the Scots and thieves within the county of Northumberland, collected out of bills of tenants in Rothbury and Rothbury Forest, borough of Alnwick and Denwyk, Houghton, &c. (25 places in all). Total of oxen and kyne, 337, sheep 2,256, horses 100, goats 56, swine 78, household stuff, 77*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* And a note says "more since Easter." (2 leaves.)

A note of all such goods and cattels, &c. (much as before, but not said to be collected from the bills). The borough of Alnwick and Denwyk, Shildyke, Houghton, Pawden, and 27 other places. The spoils in Rothbury Forest occupy 3 pp. Among them are—John Lighton, 5 oxen and 6 kyne; and at the following of the same goods his neighbours were taken prisoners, their houses were robbed and spoiled and themselves ransomed by the Trumbells, the Lord of Philiphaugh, and the other Scots of West Teydyale.—John Readhead was taken prisoner for rescuing his own goods, and ransomed by the Scots of West Teydyale. In West Park, Christopher Armorer being in ward, his house was broken and [w]resten from his servants. (14 leaves, but no page is full.)

A brief notice of all such goods and chattel, &c., &c. until Easter 1576, collected out of the bills of the said tenants exhibited to his Lordship for relief and redress, (8 pp.) This is a fair copy of the last item but one.

1576, Nov. 12, Tynemouth. Robert Holmes to the Earl: about the spoils (3 pp.). He says that the spoil is great, and that it will be difficult to get rent if something be not done: a gentleman of worship in the county ought to be appointed Constable of Alnwick; to seek redress at the Warden's hands is more folly. He suggests on trial four gentlemen of England and four of Scotland, or an assize according to the law of the Border, as the Warden promised at London. He says that the Earl's revenues in Northumberland decay for want of a survey.

Remembrance by his Lordship's own commandment, the 10th of Feb. 1577 (memoranda as to lands and tenants). 3 pp.

Q. II. 9.—Collection of certain spoils by the Scots upon the Earl's tenants since 16 Eliz. (endorsed as presented and prosecuted before the Lord Lieutenant in Sept. 1593) by John Browne, his Lordship's steward in Northumberland, Alnwick borough, Rothbury lordship, Warkworth, and 12 other places. And at the end a number of people are named.—The total amount is 2,774*l.* (3 pp.)

Spoyles committed against the year 1587 upon the Earl's tenants in 12 places. (1 p.)

* This MS. is at Petworth.

DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

DUKE OF NORTHUM-BERLAND.DUKE OF NORTHUM-
BERLAND.

C.I. 2. 6. A paper roll of account of Sir H. Slingsby, Kt., his Lordship's receiver in Yorkshire, 6-7 James I.—There is an entry of a payment of 20l. to Sir Willfred Lawson towards the building of Carlisle Bridge.

C. VIII. 1. a.—21-22 Hen. VI. Account of Robert Archer, bailiff of the castle of Alnwick.

C. VIII. 1. g.—12-13 Edw. IV. Account of Matthew Bell, propositus of the Castle; and other accounts of reeves for the same place. Several skins.

C. VIII. 1. e. 28-29 Hen. VI. Account of William Cocke, bailiff of the Castle.

C. VIII. No. 1. f. A paper book. Accounts of Matthew Bell, bailiff of Alnwick, 10-11 Edw. IV.

Account of Bell and Scotten, bailiffs for the burgh. And accounts of others.

C. VIII. No. 1. 7. Account of John Carlton, bailiff of Alnwick, 22 Edw. IV.—And of other officers.

C. VIII. 6. a. Roll of account for Prudhoe Castle, 14 Edw. IV.

C. VIII., g., h. A parcel of loose leaves of accounts.—

A bill of charges layde forth by me Thomas Paner, upon Jeanes Krogar, Dutchman, and William Bl

Frenchman, prisoners within Tynemouth Castle, for the robbing of the Queen of Scots' jewels, as followeth:—

7 May, 1594. Paid to his oste for the charges lying in the North Shells four days before they were apprehended at Edward Delavales house, within the county of Northumberland, 27s. 1d. Paid to the bailli of the North Shells for the fee to apprehend the prisoners, 5s.

Paid to the porter of Tynemouth Castle for the gaol fee for the prisoners, 5s. Delivered to the prisoners for washing, shoes (shoes ?), and other necessities, 5s. 6d.

For the prisoners' charges, one night at Newcastle and gaol fees there, 22nd January, 2s. Paid for the prisoners' charges, Newcastle to Berwick by post, being five horses thither and three back again, and my charges and theirs in diet by the way, 4l. 3s. 8d. Likewise their charges in diet at the Castle, five weeks (6 May-10 June), at 4s. per week, 40s.—Total, 8l. 8s. 3d.

N. 1. 19. Copy of the sentence in the Star Chamber against the Earl of Northumberland, 27 June, 4 James I.

—It says that the Earl was concerned with Thomas Percy—gave himself out as head of the Papists. A little before the Queen's death Thomas T. . . . and others, for the powder treason, were sent into Spain by the Papists of England to negotiate with the King of Spain and procure an invasion. And immediately upon the Queen's death, Guye Fawkes, one other of the traitors, was likewise by the Papists sent into Spain to solicit the same invasion. Their greatest want was horse. The Papists of England offered to get 1,500 or 2,000 horse to assist his forces in the invasion, and said that the fittest place was Milford Haven, and the Earl increased his stable so much that, as he told his Majesty, his revenue was scarce able to maintain the charge. And the place for the invasion was also nominated by Sir Walter Rawleigh to be at the said Haven, and at that time the Earl and Sir Walter were very inward and secret friends; and the Earl had the command of Castle Carew, the only strength of the said Haven.—

Gives the effect in Latin of the two Bulls (to the clergy and laity) sent by the Pope. In March 2, James I., Percy, Catesby, Wynter, Fawkes, and others by persuasion of Garnet, Gerrard, and other Jesuits took an oath and the sacrament to effect the horrible treason. The Earl made Percy a pensioner to attend the King daily with a poll-axe; but he was never sworn; Percy fled.—The Earl was commanded to keep his house; yet he wrote two letters, and sent one by post and the other by messenger, to put his revenue and treasures in safety. When it was thought the plot was discovered, and some said they would flee, Percy said he would first go to the Earl, and he went to Syon and had conference with the Earl. On Monday, at 11 at night, Percy sent Robert Keyes, one other of the said traitors, with a clock or watch unto the said Fawkes.—The Earl was fined 30,000l.

Copy estreat and inquisition (Sir Henry Guevara is named in it) and of the writ to levy the fine.

11 James I., Nov. 8. Pardon under the Great Seal to the Earl; and release of the 30,000l. on present payment of 11,000l.

COURT ROLLS OF THE MANOR OF ISLEWORTH.

These commence with the 7th year of King Edward the 1st; but after the 11th year the rolls for some years are absent. From the rolls of the reign of the first three Edwards a few extracts are here given.

7 Edw. I. Clement de Wyke pays to the Lord a fine of 5d. for three measures, 1 lagena, 1 pitell, and 1 quart, to sell beer, to be measured and marked with the sign of the manor.—There are 20 other similar entries.

8 Edw. I. Entries of surrenders and admissions in much the same form as now.—Fines, pro stupura of pigs or cows in the Lord's park.

9 Edw. I. John de Oysterleghe is named (Osterley park is close by).—A heriot is due on a surrender: the tenant paid 3d. because he had no beast:—10s. for a surrender and admission; and because the person admitted was of free condition and the land was customary and he gives an increased rent of 1d.

2 Edw. II. The decenners of Heston say that the Master and Brethren of the House of St. Giles outside London have the rents and service of one hide in Heston to support one leper, to be presented to them by the lord of the manor of Isleworth for the time being.—A man put himself in mercy because he was then dwelling on the naif land which he held of the Lady.—A man gave 3s. 4d. that he might get his daughter married.

3 Edw. II. A man prays leave to marry a woman who was a customary tenant of a messuage and virgate of customary land: he gave 30s. for leave to have curtesy of the land: and gave pledges that he would reside on and cultivate the land.—In a plea, a dies amoris [jour d'amour or love day] was given:—Brother Richard minister of the hospice of the Holy Trinity of Hounslow, elected by the Convent, comes and takes admission of all the lands that they held of the Lady of the manor.—A man pays a fine to live out of the bounds of the manor.

4 Edw. II. The Countess of Cornwall was Lady of the manor.—A presentation that thieves came by night to the house of Isabel Adam and stole 1 robe, 1 bed, 1 rochet, and half a side of bacon, 3 loaves, 1 forcer, 10 gallons of ale, 2 bushels of barley, half a bushel of mixtel, 1 brass pot; whereupon she raised the hue and cry, &c.—An inquest is taken super Capitales Decennar: they say that Geoffrey le Balur has a fishing net called pridneth, which is out of the assize, with which he fished in the Thames: so he is in mercy; the net is to be burned, and because the decenners of Twickenham did not prevent, but concealed the matter, they are in mercy.—There were ale-tasters for Isleworth, Twickenham, Heston, Whitton, and Houdeslaw (Hounslow).

7 Edw. II. Several persons are presented as dwelling within the liberty and not being in a decenary: they satisfied the Lord in order to remain in statu nunc to Michaelmas, or to remove out of the liberty.—John Wastel, a customary tenant, prays leave to approve a vacant piece of the common next his house in Heston, which he has by gift and demise from Thomas le Geil, 2 perches long and 16 feet and 4 feet broad. The homage find that no damage would accrue: so it is granted to him and his, according to the custom of the manor, at the rent of 1d.: and he gives 12d. fine and is admitted and does fealty.—A gift to the Lord for his aid to distraint parceners for their share of rent.—A naif is amerced for his marrying without license.—Some persons find pledges to prosecute for horse-stealing: and for that they bring gengam sufficientem. The accused comes and denies, and the inquest finds him guilty.

9 Edw. II. It is considered by the whole Court, on account of the great dearthness of corn in the country, that a lagena of good and stale ale, be sold for 1d., and worse new ale for 1d. during the scarceness: offenders are to be attached to answer.—Licenses to lease.—Presentments of property not being properly repaired or cultivated.

12 Edw. II. William Drew died seised: his widow says that she is pregnant, and asks leave to hold the property until &c.: and it is granted; she pays a fine. Matilda comes and produces her son Nicholas, heir to William, and Nicholas is admitted and pays a fine: because he is a minor, his nurture and ward are given to the mother, who engages to maintain him and the land, and she gives four pledges.

14 Edw. II. Arnulf Gregory holds a messuage and a carucate of land in free socage of the King, and dies; a heriot is payable: his son comes and pays relief.

16 Edw. II. William Nichole, a naif, acquires from Master Robert Cook and Alice his wife two acres in Heston for his life, and after his death to revert to Nicholas, younger son of the said William, in fee; as a charter shews. . . . And William surrenders the land, and the Lord re-delivers it, and William pays a fine.

21 Edw. III. John de Osterlee who held of the Lady one messuage and two virgates of land in Isleworth, and one messuage and 100 acres of land in Heston freely, died; a heriot accrued due, viz., one horse worth 5s., together with the saddle and bridle, cum cloca, one sword, one pair of shoes with soles, as is the custom of the manor; all valued at 40*l*.

26 Edw. III. A suit by Robert de Kerslake and Agnes his wife against John de Tornegold and Joan his wife. The plaintiffs allege that John son of William Tornegold died seised in fee in the hundred of Isleworth, temp. Edw. II.—the right descended to Thomas cousin and heir of John, viz., as son of John Tornegold, brother of the said William and father of the said John son of William; and from Thomas to his son John, who died without issue; the right came to Agnes as daughter of the said Thomas the last born according to the custom.—The defendants deny, and say that the tenements are not of such a condition but that the son or daughter of the last born, according to the custom of the manor after the death of any tenant can claim. The Twelve say that the tenements are not of such a condition that the son or daughter of the last born can claim in the form that Robert and Agnes his wife assert.—There are surrenders and regrants of land to be holden in village: the admittes pay fines but no rent.

33 Edw. III. A letter (in French) from Queen Philippa sewed to the Roll. She says that she has granted to Thomas Prest, servant of her sauserie, two cottages and four acres of land, late of W. Tully, which were forfeited, and she tells the steward Roger [Mohan] to grant them to him.—The grant is on the roll.

A. Div. 15, No. 1a. A 4to. volume, vellum, 14th century, 24 written leaves. On a fly leaf at the end of the volume is the following note: "Rental and Customary of Isleworth. No date, but supposed to be made when Isleworth was part of the possessions of the Earls of Cornwall, or soon after, in the reign of Edw. I. or Edw. II., &c.—J. S." (Joseph Strutt, keeper of the records in the house of the second Duke of Northumberland.)

Fol. 2. Rentale et Custumale de Istilworth cum membris de Hestone, Twykenham et Whettons.—Est ibi unum capitale messuagium, &c.—Extent, ending p. 3. Emma de Eystan is a tenant.

Fol. 2b. Liberi tenentes. Emma qui fuit uxor Willelmi de Eystan et Thomas filius ejus Fol. 4b. Burgenses tenentes per cartam. There are 12 holders of burgages. Statements of what they hold, and at what rents.

Fol. 5b. Liberi tenentes qui contribuunt tallagium. William Sprat and John Mathew hold, &c. . . . and they do one precarium, with five men, called Alebederipe ad unum repastum:—they are to ride and superintend the reapers.

Tenentes de Bordlond. These hold at certain rent and certain tallage, and do precaria at Alebederipe. Heriots, 2*s*., or 1*s*., and relief.

Fol. 6. Sum of rents of free tenants, burgesses, and tenants of Bordlond, 11*l*. 10*s*. 7*d*.

Fol. 6b.—Custumarii qui vocantur Unfre (Misfre in fol. 9b). These hold land at rents, and pay for pannage, and have to plough and harrow, and carry the grain to field, and to sow it: each receives from the lord therefor 2*d*. . . . There is a precarium in autumn, called Waterbederipe, with two men, ad unum repastum domini: the two men to have bread, value 1*l*., a fish, value 1*l*., cheese, value ½*l*. There is one precarium in autumn called Alebederipe, &c. They do suit of court, and give mercheta and tallage, and the best beast for a heriot, and if there be no beast, then for a virgate of land, 2*s*., and for half a virgate, 12*d*., and for a quarter of a virgate, 6*d*., and their eldest sons, who are heirs, shall pay a reasonable fine. (There are six of these tenancies.)

Fol. 7b. Custumarii tenentes de Werkelond. There are 13 of these. Bartholomew Coe is the first. They did agricultural services; Waterbederipe and Alebederipe; do suit of Court, and pay heriot and mercheta, and the heir pays a fine.

Fol. 8b. Tenants of a third part of one virgate of land. (There are eleven of these.) John at Ponde is the first. He pays rent and does a third part of all the works and customs which Bartholomew Coe does: (and so of the others.)

Fol. 9b. And all of the said tenure of Werkelond contribute tallage and shall give mercheta and heriot as the said customers called misfre; "et filiorum postnati qui erunt eorum heredes" shall make reasonable fine for entry, and shall keep prisoners during the night, and shall give avesagium, as above.

Fol. 9b. Cottarii. William Tornegold and another hold a place of land: 18 others hold a cottage each, all at a rent and some at services. Robert Sprot holds a cottage: and prisoners taken within the liberty are to be guarded in the said house, to wit, by the said customers by night, and by the cottars holding Bocland by day, as said below: but Robert shall not keep any guard on them, but shall only find that house "in qua sepe" (ceppe?) domini ponentur." They gave mercheta, heriot (the best beast or 3*d*.), and the heres post natus pays a fine for entry.

Fol. 11a. Sum of rents of assize of tenants called Misfre, Customers, and Cottars, 7*l*. 5*s*.

Sum of the Precaria called Alebederipe (57) 2*s*. 4*d*. ½*d*. ½*d*.—41½ of Waterbederipe, 3*s*. 5½*d*.

Fol. 11b. Civitas London.—Rents of Assize called Sokenrent in the city of London, payable at Michaelmas, 2*s*. 4*d*. per ann.

Heston: free tenants. John de Oysterley holds, &c.: after his death his best horse and saddle and bridle are for a heriot.

Fol. 13b. Customers called contra misfre. Nearly all held 1 message and 1 virgate of land. The first is Roger Lely, and he does all services which Alice at Pole and William, son of Gregory, do for a virgate at Istelworth.

Fol. 14a. In the margin "Customaries holding Werkelond." Each holds a message and a virgate of land.

Fol. 15b. Tenants of half a virgate of land (five in number).—Five others hold a few acres.—And all the above tenants of Bordlond contribute allage and give avesagium and mercheta: the heriot is the best beast (averium), except horse: if there be no beast, then 2*s*. for a virgate, and so on. The postnati heirs pay a fine.

Fol. 16a. Custumary tenants of Worklond.

Fol. 16b. Tenants of half a virgate.

Fol. 17b. All tenants of Worklond contribute tallage, avesagium, heriot, merchet: the postnati are heirs.

Fol. 18. Cottars, free tenants (three in number). The first holds a message and 3 acres of land. The second holds 2 acres of land. The third holds a fishing in the Thames.

Customary cottars. Among these is John Chose. If any prisoners are taken within the liberty, he shall help to take them to the Lord's prison, and there keep them by day and not by night; and if any prisoners are condemned he shall take them to the gallows and there shall do what is fit. And if any prisoner ought to be taken to the Lord's chief prison, he shall help to take them there. He gives avesagium, heriot, merchet, and relief.

Fol. 19. Customary tenants of Forappellond. (There are eight small holdings.) They do waterbederepe and the postnati are heirs.—At the end of this subject it is said that of all the aforesaid tenants of Forappellond the first born sons shall be heirs.

Fol. 19b. Sum of rents of assize of customary tenants of Bordlond, Worklond, Acrelond, Cotlond, Forappellond, 13*l*. 8*s*. 7½*d*.

Whetone, free tenants; four in number. The third is the Prior de Sancto Waluco. Sum of rents, 16*s*. 9½*d*; pannage, 12*d*.

Customarii de Werkelond.

Fol. 21b. In the margin; Tenants of a virgate of land.

Fol. 22b. Tenants of one virgate of land. They pay avesage, merchet, heriot, and the postnati are heirs.

The customary cottars pay avesage, merchet, heriot; and the first born are heirs.

Fol. 23. Tenants of Forappellond.

Fol. 23b. The aforesaid tenants having messages shall give avesage, and the best beast for a heriot; and the first born are heirs. And all the customaries of the manor and its members of the tenure of Worklond and Acrelond are for every 10 virgates which they hold to find for every virgate every week three oxen between the Feast of the Nativity of St. John and Michaelmas from morn to the ninth hour; or, two holding two virgates shall find two men with two carts and two horses to carry hay or corn for half a day for two weeks, each week 1*l*., and the said 10 virgators are to mow the fields called Staplemead and Dolmed, toss the hay dry, and carry it, and be paid 8*d*.

Fol. 24. Summa operum et virgatorum: cccxxx. opera; worth 35*s*.: each 1*l*. And all the aforesaid customary tenants of Worklond, Acrelond, Misfreland, and moreover the customary tenants of Worklond in Twykenham holding a virgate of land shall be foremen (propositi), and then shall be quit of all rents and customs except tallage: and he shall have pro potura in autumn 3*s*. 4*d*.: and he shall have two acres of meadow in Longmead. And every tenant of half a virgate shall be Bedell, and then be quit from all rents and customs except tallage, and shall have the meadow called Bedelmead.

Sum of rents of assize in respect of Misfre, Worklond, Cottars, and Forappellond, 10*l*. 15*s*. 10*d*.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

MARQUIS
OF EXETER.THE MANUSCRIPTS OF THE MOST HONOURABLE THE MARQUIS OF EXETER, AT BURGHLEY HOUSE, STAMFORD.

One of the manuscripts at Burghley House bears marks of having been consulted by Lord Treasurer Burghley; it is a very fine copy of Trevisa's translation into English of Higden's Polychronicon, accompanied by Trevisa's translations of other works, and by a translation into English of Archbishop Turpin's legendary chronicle of Charlemagne and his peers.

A beautifully executed French manuscript of the end of the 15th century gives the armorial bearings and personal descriptions (170 in number) of King Arthur and his knights, extracted from authors whose names are given. There is an early book of swan marks, very copious, and a few other volumes, notices of which are given below.

The early deeds are very numerous, the majority being the charters of monastic house of Revesby, co. Lincoln. A few relate to the houses of Fountains, Jorvaulx, and Munketon. The charter of King Henry the Second to the abbey of Revesby must have been executed between the 25th of October 1154, when King Stephen died, and the 18th day of April 1161, when Theobald Archbishop of Canterbury, who attested it, died. The charter of King Richard the First must have been executed in 1189, because William de Mandeville, who attested it, died in that year. The certificate by the chapter of Gilling is a serviceable document, because it clears away a difficulty raised by a certificate of a similar nature in the possession of Sir John Lawson (noticed at p. 368 of the Appendix to the Fourth Report of this Commission) regarding the patronage of Romaldskirk (the church of St. Romoald): the defacement of a word in that document caused Whitaker to state that the person making the certificate was Cudbert de Gilling, and in my notice of it, I suggested that Capellani was the original word. But the text of the certificate at Burghley House being fortunately perfect, the word is ascertained to be Capitulum, i.e. Chapter; thus showing that, although the monastery of Gilling had been destroyed by the Danes, there was, as late at least as the 12th century, a Chapter assuming (I presume) to represent the old foundation.

Large folio, vellum, c. 1420, (and later,) in two columns:—

I. Dialogus inter militem et clericum. Clericus. Y wonder sir noble knyzt þat in fewe daies tymes be chaungid, rist is y-buried, lawes biþ overturned and statutes biþ tyrode under feet. Ends on folio 5b. (This a translation into English of Okham's tract under the same title. An English translation was printed by Berthelet, temp. Hen. VIII.)

II. Folio 5b. Incipit sermo domini Archiepiscopi Armacani. Begins: Demip nought y^e face, but rytful dome ye deme. John 8^o 1^o. Holy fader, in þe bygynnyng of my sermon I make a protestation. Ends (20b), as I prayed in þe first þ^e I touched, demith nougt bi þe face, &c. (This is a translation of the "Defensio" "curatorum contra eos qui se privilegiatos dicunt," composed by Richard Fitz-Ralph, Archbishop of Armagh, in 1357. The Latin version, with Roger Conway's counterblast, was printed by John Trechsel in 1496.)

III. Folio 21. The booke of Methodie the bishop of the chirch of Paterene and martir of martir of (sic) Crist, which he charged to translate of hebrue and grek speche in to Layn, þat is of y^e bygynnyng of y^e worlde wich y^e noble man Seint Jerom in his workes praysed. Begins. For whi hit is to wite. Ends on the first column of 23b.

IV. Trevisa's translation of Higden's Polychronicon. First comes a Table (in 16 leaves) to the Chronicle. Next is the dialogue between a Clerk and a Lord (i.e. Trevisa and Lord Berkeley), beginning: Siþþe þat babel was y buld men spekiþ diverse tonges. (This is printed at the beginning of Caxton's edition.) Then comes Trevisa's epistle to Lord Berkeley, beginning: Welpe and worship to my worthy and worshipful Lord Sir Thomas lord of Berkley, I John Trevisa, &c.*

The text of the Polychronicon begins, After solempne and wise writers of art. Ends, "and soon þ^e after were messengers sent to Avinion to the Pope to conferme y^e pees and the covenants in eiper side. God be þanked of alle his dedis, þis translation is ended on a pursday y^e 18th day of Averil, y^e year of our Lord 1347" (adding that Sir Thomas Lord of Berkeley was then aged 35).

The last date in the text is 1347, and very little space is occupied with the events between that date and the last sentence which refers to the confirmation of the Treaty of Bretigny made in 1360.

V. Hic metrice tractatur de regulis ab Aluredo primo fundatore Universitatis Oxon. circiter annum domini 863, usque ad H. 6.—Begins,

Aluredus rex Anglorum primusque Monarca,

Belliger, invictus, in scripturis bone doctus.

(Three columns and four lines). And an account in Latin of the deposition of, and the form in Latin of the resignation of, King Richard the Second (three and a half columns); and Henry the Fourth's speech, and other proceedings; and a short notice of the coronation of King Henry the Fifth, and of other events in the reign of that king and King Henry the Sixth, written in 25 Hen. 6.

VI. Turpin the archbishop of the battail of Rouncivale.—Prologue. Table of chapters. Cap. 1. Of how St. James appeared to King Charles. Begins, After our Lord Jesus Christ had suffered. Ends imperfectly in cap. 26, which is headed "The paine of Rowlande and the depe of Marcevie and flizte of Bigalande. (The last five leaves of the quire are absent.)

The first page of this fine volume is beautifully ornamented all round the margins; at the foot is a shield, ermine a mill-rind voided sable; and the first page of the text of the Polychronicon is ornamented round the margins. Towards the end of the Polychronicon is a marginal note in the handwriting of Lord Treasurer Burghley.

Folio, vellum, end of 15th century, 78 leaves. The first page has a broad gilt border all round, ornamented with flowers and birds, and at the foot is painted a monster shooting at another from a crossbow. Begins, Ce sont les noms armes et blasons des chevaliers et compaignons de la table ronde atempms quilz jurerent la qeeste du Saint Graal a Camalot, le jour de la pentecoste; Et par la vertu divine estoient tous a ce jour assemblez. Et premierement, Cest la devise de la forme meurs et condicions blason et armes du tresnoble et puissant Roy Artus jades Roy de la Grant Bretagne. Begins, Les anciennes et vrayes hystoires nous raecontent que le roy Artus estoit filz du roy Uterpendragon qui estoit venni a la couronne de la Grant Bretagne . . .

There are 170 shields of arms, well drawn, gilt and coloured, and the initial letter of the account of each knight is well coloured and gilt. These end at folio 65. King Arthur is the first, and Felix le Conquerant is the last.

Folio 65. Comment le Roy Uterpendragon et le Roy Artus assemloient chevaliers poure faire leur tournois. Begins, Pour ce qui toutes bonnes meurs sont regies par vertu. Then come the order and rules of Tournament.

Folio 70 to the end. Twenty articles of the oaths of the knights. In the last sentence the author says that he has sought out the names and arms as well from the book of Master Helie, Master Robert de Borron, Master Gaultier moah le bret, as from Master Rustician de Pise.

At folio 72b. (by a later hand) is "De l'invention des "armes, et pour quelle cause elles furent trouvées, et a quels gens ont esté établis.

1. The very brave and virtuous Alexander the Great, &c. 2. Of the composition of arms. 3. Their signification. 4. The signification of Argent. 5. The signification of Gules. 6. The signification of azure. 7. The signification of black. 8. The signification of synople. 9. The signification of purple.

Of the nine things found in the shield: the cheif, pale, bend, fess, chevron, gyron, orle, cross, saltier.

Folio, vellum, 16th century, with a few later additions, 56 pages filled.—This is a book of swan marks: there are 15 in each page, with the names of the owners. The first is for the Crown, the second is for the Sword, the third is for the Duke of Clarence, the fourth is for the Duke of Norfolk. Then follows those of peers, bishops, religious houses, and private persons, the latter being in alphabetical order. The mark for Cecil is noted "Cecil mo (modo?) Exeter," an entry which must have been made temp. James I., or later. Seven marks are added at p. 68.

On a fly-leaf at the end is this note, "Mr. Oldfield, "according to my promise I here send you the blank

* The MS. marked H. 1. in St. John College, Cambridge, and the (formerly) Tenison MS. No. 1, contain the translations of Okham's dialogue, and FitzRalph's sermon; and the tract attributed to Methodius is in Harl. MS. 1900. See Dr. Babington's Introduction to Higden's Polychronicon (Rolls series).

MARQUIS OF EXETER. "for swan marks. From your obliged servant, Thomas Palmer, Fleet, April 7, 1633." On each side of the cover the letters T. P. are impressed.

Two volumes, folio, paper, temp. Elizabeth. A translation into English from the French of Le Roy (Regius) of Aristotle's work on Government. The press mark is Kb. 14 and 15.

Quarto, paper, temp. Elizabeth or James I. Latin: lettered on the back, "A Treatise on Geography;" a title which does not fairly intimate the contents.

Cap. 1. On foreign moneys and measures of tance.

Cap. 2. On travel.

Cap. 3. Rules for pupils.

Cap. 4. The ancient's opinions.

Book 2:—

Cap. 1. On travel.

Cap. 2. On sepulchres and monuments.

Cap. 3. Religious temples.

Cap. 4. On the United Provinces.

Cap. 5. Italy.

Book 3:—

Cap. 1. Geographical description of Turkey.

Cap. 2. Gaul.

Cap. 3. England. } (Nothing

Cap. 4. Scotland and Ireland. } interesting).

Cap. 5. On the clothing of the various aforesaid nations.

The volume begins: Commodissimum viatori foret. Ende (p. 601), et in immensum augeri ferunt. It seems to have been composed at the end of Queen Elizabeth's reign. The initials An. L. are appended.

On a fly-leaf is this note: Thomas Wilson ex dono honoratiss. Comitiss Salisburiensis summ. Angliæ Thesaurarii, 1612. The arms of the Earl of Salisbury are on the vellum cover. On a fly-leaf are three singular paintings.

In the Muniment room are several hundreds of early grants to the Monastery of Revesby (co. Lincoln, Cistercian order). Among them is a grant by William de Romaria, Earl of Lincoln, who founded the monastery in 1142; another is by William de Stikenev, nepos Achi, with a seal (a hand and a hawk); another is by Gilbert de Bolonia; another is by Gilbert de Halton with a seal of arms (four estoiles, three and one; and three estoiles in chief). The grants are to St. Mary and the monks of Revesby, but some few are to St. Mary and the monks of St. Laurence of Revesby.

[1154-1161.] A charter by King Henry the Second is in the following words: H. Rex Angl. et Dux Norm. et Aquit. et Com. Andeg. Justic. Bar. Vicec. et omnibus ministris tam. Angl. quam Norm. at Portuam maris et nomination propositis de Hamt. et de Hastings et de Doure et Barbefuctu et de Cadamo et de Ostreham et de Drops salutem. Præcipio quod homines et Eq. et omnes res Abbatis de Sancto Laurencio et monachorum ibidem deo servientium sint quieti de theloneo et passagio et pontagio et omni alia consuetudine quod venerint, et nullus eos injuste vexet nec disturbet super x. libras forisfacture. [Testibus] Theob. Cant. Arch. Hug. Dunelm. Epo. Rob. Linc. Epo. Ph. Baioc. Epo: Ernald. Lisiacens. Epo: Thoma. Cancell: Reg. Com. Corn.—Apud. Linc. (seal gone).

A charter by King Richard the First, states that he has taken into his protection the Abbat and Abbey of Revesby and their possessions. It is witnessed by W. de Mandevill, the 6th of September, at Westminster. A fragment of the great seal remains.

A 12th century grant by Ralph Earl of Chester has his large seal.

The monastery of Gilling (near Richmond in Yorkshire). To all sons of Holy mother Church the "humile" "caplum de Gilling" certify that Henry son of Henry is the true patron of the church of Rumlod of Tesdale, and that no other has any right. There were ten seals, but now only the labels on which they were placed remain.

There a few early grants of land to the Monastery of Munketon; and some to the Abbays of Fountains and Jorvaulx.

By a deed dated 26 Edward I., April 10, King Edward grants the custody of the houses and rents within London, late of Hugh de Cressingham, deceased, which were escheat after the death of the said Hugh, unto Henry de Bluntisdon. (Henry had been Almoner to the King, and he got a grant of some of the lands of Hugh de Cressingham, who was slain in battle with the Scots in 1297.)

A parchment roll, about 30 inches in length and 5 inches in breadth, temp. Edward II., contains medical recipes in French. The roll was once longer by one or more membranes.

1440. April 24. Bordeaux. A letter in French (on paper) from Yvon Corre, called Frances, Clerk of Bernard Angevin, Sieur de Roasan to Thomas Lord Cromwell, High Treasurer of England:—

Mon tres douce et gracieux S^r Mons^r de Cremowall grant Tresaurier dangleterre. Sachez que touchant le transport des benefices que l'abbé de la Geunne a en la roialme d'angleterre que desires avoir unis a voustre college, le tout est fait, passé e accordé, et sont les lettres que avoies envoies part dessa scellées des seels dudit abbé et couvent et doublées, et deux autres à la manere du part part dessa semblablement scellées. Et certiffie vostre haultesse que mon maistre Bernard Angevin, S^r de Roasan, et moy y avoir heu grant poine avant que aions peu fere accorder le dit abbé et son couvent pouit avoir voustre scelle complie. Monsieur je vous envoie ung Vidimus scellé du seel de la Seneschancie de Guienne contenant les privileges que les dits Abbé et couvent desirant avoir confirmé du Roy nostre S^r, et aussi le dit Abbé escript par ses lettres le nombre des vus quil desire pour costume franchise. Et en outre je vous envoie la copie de ung instrument ou lettre. conten

. apointemens fait et passé avec le dit abbé sur la present matiere He asks Lord Cromwell to write and denote his pleasure to him (Yvon Corre) and his master, for he certifies that if the said appointments were to pass, the said Abbé and his convent will never in any wise agree:—therefore (he says) certify your pleasure quickly, and give your directions quickly, and the news "part dessa le dit heraud pour leur dicestes." Small red wax seal in a hanaper of string.

23 Hen. VI. A deed made between Margaret Duchess of Somerset of the one part, and William de la Pole Earl of Suffolk of the other part, is sealed by the Earl, and has also his signature of Suffolk.

The Marquis of Exeter's kind hospitality at Burghley House has my grateful acknowledgments.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF THE MARQUIS OF LANSDOWNE.

MARQUIS OF LANSDOWNE.

For previous Reports see App. 3rd Report, p. 125; 5th Report, p. 215.

III.—EAST INDIA.

No. 89.

A fol. vol. labelled "An Account of the Charters granted to the East India Company, by Mr. Dunning." It begins with charter of the 31st Dec. 1601, and ends with that of January 27, 1761.

No. 90.

A fol. vol. labelled "Papers about the affairs of the East India Company in 1766 and 1767." It contains copies of treaties, despatches, &c. Also several original papers and letters by General R. Clerk, Mr. Vansittart, and Lawrence Sullivan. There is an incomplete Index.

No. 91.

A fol. MS. containing a Narrative of the second War with Hyder Aly Kahn in 1779. There is no name of the author.

Nos. 92-97.

Six fol. vols. labelled "East India Despatches," &c. They contain copies of despatches and papers received from India by the Court of Directors of the East India Company in 1782, and sent by them to the Earl of Shelburne. Each vol. has an Index of its contents.

No. 99.

A fol. vol. labelled "East India Affairs between 1757 and 1783. Various papers." It contains copies of various despatches and papers. Original papers and letters from Sir John Lindsay, Captain T. Blankett, James Grant, Sir E. Impey, Sir Hector Munro, John Cooper, Henry Dundas, Geo. Johnstone, James Hulton, Captain Gill, Sir Geo. Colebrooke, Edward Colebrooke, John Jervis, Lord Ashburton, Sir Francis Baring, Robert Sutton, Benj. Lacam, Major John Scott, and Warren Hastings.

No. 99.

A brown paper parcel containing miscellaneous papers about East India, most of them copies.

No. 100.

A box labelled "East India Correspondence." It contains letters relating to East Indian affairs from John Macpherson, Nathaniel Smith, Warren Hastings, Colonel du Pasquier, John Cailland, Commodore Watson, C. W. Cornwall, James Grant, Major-Genl. J. Burgoyne, Stephen Sullivan, Sir El. Impey, T. Short, Benj. Lacam, T. Farnwell, James Cranford, I. Call, C. Young. Draft of a letter from Lord Shelburne to Warren Hastings of 1783. A letter from Chas. Arthur, dated Canton, June 18, 1796, about China.

IV.—C.

No. 156.

A folio volume, labelled "Miscellaneous Papers relating to the Parliament and Army in Ireland." All copies or printed papers, except some notes, in Lord Shelburne's handwriting.

No. 157.

A folio volume, labelled "Lord Lieutenants of Ireland." It contains copies of dispatches to and from the Lord Lieutenants from 1724 to 1760.

No. 158.

A folio volume labelled, "Viscount Townshend." It contains drafts and copies of the official correspondence between Lord Townshend, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Lord Shelburne, in 1767 and 1768. There is one original letter from Lord Townshend.

V.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Correspondence at Lansdowne House is alphabetically arranged in boxes and parcels. Each box or parcel has on the back the letter and the Nos. that it contains.

As there are also many letters bound up with the papers relating to Foreign, American, Indian, and Home Affairs, reference is made to them by having before the name of the writer an * instead of a No., and after it the number of the volume in which the letter is.

A.

GENERAL CORRESPONDENCE.

- No. 1. Abingdon, Earl of; 9 letters from, 1782 to 1783.
- No. 2. Ackland, Colonel; 1782.
- * Adair, Recorder of London; No. 152.
- No. 3. Adeane, Colonel; 2 letters, 1783.
- No. 4. Albaredo, Mr. D.; 1790.
- No. 5. Alexander, William; 1782.
- * Allan, John; No. 78.
- No. 6. Allen, Francis John; 1782.
- No. 7. " Miles Button; 2, 1782.
- * " Andrew; No. 88.
- * " Kennet; No. 88.
- * Allnut, H.; Nos. 135 and 166.
- * Almaigne, G. C. d'; No. 152.
- No. 8. Althorp, Viscount; 1782.
- * Alvensleben, Baron; No. 136.
- No. 9. Amherst, Sir Jeff. and Lord; 3 letters, 1767 and 1782.
- * Anderson, James; No. 66.
- No. 10. Anhalt, L. F., Francois, Prince d'; 5, 1775-1782.
- No. 11. Anonymous; several letters.
- No. 12. Aranda, Le Comte d'; 1788.
- * " No. 71.
- No. 13. Arcy, Chevr. et Malamed'; 3, 1777-1782.
- No. 14. Arden, Lady; 1782.
- No. 15. Arden, R. P. 2, 1782; and copy of a letter of Lord Shelburne to do.; 1782.
- No. 16. Argenson, Le Marquis de Voyer d'; 10, 1777-1782.
- No. 16. Argenson, Madame; 2, 1772 and 1777.
- * Arnold, General B; Nos. 66 and 152.

No. 17. Arnould, Sophie; 2, 1776 and 1783.

* Arther, Charles; No. 100.

No. 18. Ashburton, J. Dunning, first Lord Ashburton; 16; letters, 1765-1783; and a draft of a letter of Lord Shelburne to him.

* Ashburton; Nos. 98 and 165.

No. 19. Aubarede, Marquis d'; 1769.

No. 20. Aubrey, John; 4, 1774, 1782.

No. 21. Audrey, John; 1782.

B.

* Baker, W.; No. 152.

No. 1. Balcarras, Earl of; 1782.

No. 2. Baldwyn, Charles; 1782.

No. 3. Balguy, Rev. Thos.; 1782.

No. 4. Baltimore, Lord; 1765.

No. 5. Baring, Sir Francis; a large correspondence down to 1797. Many letters have no date. It chiefly relates to East India finances, currency, and commercial matters.

* Baring, Sir Francis; Nos. 72, 98, 147, 152.

No. 6. Barré, Right Hon. Isaac, Colonel. Several letters and notes on party politics, most of them without any date.

* Barré, Rt. Hon. Isaac Colonel; No. 136.

No. 7. Barrington, Viscount; 3, 1760 and 1783.

* Barrington, Viscount; No. 132.

No. 8. Barrington, Admiral; 2, 1779.

No. 9. Bateman, Viscount; 3 letters, 1761 and 1782.

* Bathurst, Lord; No. 133.

No. 10. Bayly, Sir Nicholas; 1782.

* Bayley, J.; No. 165.

No. 11. Beckford, William; 4, 1767-1769.

No. 12. Beckwith, Colonel J.; 3, 1782.

* Behrens, John; No. 166.

No. 13. Belgioioso, Comte de; 2, 1784.

* Bell, E.; No. 147.

No. 14. Bellas, George; 3, 1782.

No. 15. Belvedere, Earl of; 5, 1782-1783; and draft of a letter to him by Lord Shelburne.

No. 159.

A folio volume, labelled "Ireland, 1782-1783, E. of 'Carlisle, D. of Portland, E. Temple. Parliamentary 'and Trade.' An important volume containing many official and private letters from the Duke of Portland, the Earl of Carlisle, Lord Temple, W. Eden, Edmund Pery, Rebecca Marsh, Right Hon. R. Fitzpatrick, J. Bernard, Right Hon. W. W. Grenville Kenyon, Col. Vallance, and Lord Shelburne's drafts of answers to some of them.

No. 160.

A brown paper parcel, in which are miscellaneous papers relating to Ireland. Lord Shelburne's notes perhaps of a speech on Irish affairs. The case of Lord Valentia, as stated by T. H. Hutchinson, prime Serjeant-at-Law at the Bar of the House of Lords in Ireland. Letters from Rd. Maunsell, anonymous, R. V. Clarendon, Benja. Chapman, L. Parsons, Charles Henry Coote, Dom. Trant, Lord George Gordon, J. Forbes, Thos. Birch, Sir John Coghill, Robt. Carson, the Attorney General of Ireland, Robt. Day, S. Thomson, Robt. Bradshaw, W. Wilson. Papers about a proposed Swiss emigration of Ireland, 1782-1783, among which are letters from Lord Mahon, Mr. D'Ivernois, W. Broccke, and T. A. du Roveray. Copy of a Memoir presented in August 1798, by a O'Connor, T. E. Emmet, and W. J. Macniren, and of their examination before the Secret Committee of the House of Lords.

No. 16. Benineasa, Comte; 1788.

No. 17. Bennett, William; 2, 1782.

No. 18. Bentham, Jeremy; A long letter of Feb. 24, 1791, enclosing answers to questions on constitutional matters by Prince Czartoryski.

* Bentham, Jeremy; No. 152.

No. 19. Berkeley, of Stratton, Lord; 2, 1766.

No. 20. Berkeley, Earl; 2, 1782.

No. 21. Berkeley, Rev. Mr. George; 3, 1782.

* Berkeley, Rev. Mr. George; No. 115.

No. 22. Bernard, Captain George; 2, 1782.

* Bernard, S.; No. 159.

No. 23. Berthon, John Paul; 1782.

No. 24. Bertland, Lewis; 1766.

No. 25. Bethman, Monsieur; 1778.

No. 26. Bindley, John; 3, 1782-1783.

* Bingham, W.; No. 88.

* Birch, Thomas; No. 160.

No. 27. Birkbeck, John; English Consul at Nice, 1782.

No. 28. Bischopp, E.; 1782.

* Bishop of—

No. 29. Armagh, Primate of Ireland; 1761.

Bangor; 2, 1782.

Bristol; 1782.

Canterbury (Archdeacon), 1782.

Chichester; 2, 1782.

Cloyne, &c.; 3, 1768.

Killala; 2, 1782.

Llandaff, July 1782; on his translation to Salisbury.

Llandaff; 2, Nov. 1782.

Saint Asaph; 7, 1779-1783.

Sarum (formerly Llandaff), 1782.

* York, Archd. of; No. 59.

No. 30. Blackburne, Archdeacon; 1781.

No. 31. Blackett, J.; 1783.

No. 32. Blackstone, Dr.; Sir William; 16 letters, 1761-1766.

No. 33. Blackwall, Colonel; 1782.

" Jacole; No. 48.

No. 34. Blake, Arthur; 3, 1782.

No. 35. Blakeney, Edwd.; 1783.

No. 36. Blakey, William; 1782.

- No. 37. Blankett, Captain J. Many letters written from abroad, and possessing considerable interest, 1778-1800. Several are without date.
* Blankett, Captain J.; Nos. 34, 35, 98.
- No. 38. Bloz, Emery de; 12 letters; 1777 and 1788.
- No. 39. Blunden, Sir John; 1782.
- No. 40. Bomeister, Consul in Sicily; 2, 1782.
- No. 41. Botetourt, Lord; 1766.
- No. 42. Bouille, Le Marquis de; 4, 1785-1790.
- No. 43. Boutin, Monsieur; no date.
- No. 44. Bowen, Henry; No. 152.
- No. 45. Bowes, A. Robinson; 2, 1782-1783.
- No. 46. Bowes, Lord Chancellor of Ireland; 3, 1765-1767.
- No. 47. Braddyll, Wilson; 1783.
- * Brahan, Gerardde; No. 88.
- * Bradshaw, Thomas; No. 87.
- * Bradshaw, Robert; No. 160.
- No. 47. Brake, F. H.; 1783.
- No. 48. Brecknock, Timothy; 3, 1782.
- * Breen, John; No. 88.
- No. 49. Bristol, Corporation of; 1782.
- No. 50. Bristol, 4th Earl of; 2, 1768.
- No. 51. Bristol, 5th Earl, the Admiral; 11 letters, 1778-1779.
- No. 52. Bristol, 6th Earl of; 8, 1782.
- * Bristol, 6th Earl of; No. 88.
- No. 53. Brivasae, Monsieur de; 1766.
- No. 54. Broglie, Marechal Duc de; 3 letters, 1760-1763.
- No. 55. Bromley, Rev. Robert; 2, 1782.
- No. 56. Brook, William; 1783.
- * " " " " ; No. 160.
- * Brooksbank, Mr.; No. 119.
- * Brotherson, Charles Payne; No. 78.
- * Brown, Wm.; No. 152.
- No. 57. Bruhl, Comte de; 5, 1782-1783.
- No. 58. Bruno, Fra Antonio, a Capuchin; 1786.
- No. 59. Brunswick, Duke of; 2, 1786, and draft of Lord Shelburne's answer.
- * Brusby, a consul; No. 39.
- * Bryant, Thomas D.; No. 34.
- No. 60. Byron, Capt. Geo. Anson; 1782.
- No. 61. Buchan, Earl of; 5, 1782-1783.
- No. 62. Buckingham, Earl of; 1782.
- No. 63. Bulkeley, Viscount; 8, 1782-1783.
- * Bulkeley, John; No. 152.
- No. 64. Bull, Daniel; 9, 1782.
- * Buller, Judge; No. 152.
- No. 65. Bunbury, F.; 1762.
- No. 66. " Sir Charles; 1782.
- No. 67. Burdett, Sir Charles; 4, 1782, 1783.
- No. 68. Burgh, Mrs.; 1782.
- No. 69. Burgoyne, Montagu; 2, 1782-3.
- * Burgoyne, Montagu; No. 154.
- No. 69 bis. Burgoyne, General I.; 1782.
- * Burgoyne, General I.; Nos. 100, 137.

- No. 70. Burke, Ed.; a note; no date.
* Burke, Redmund; No. 88.
* " Wm.; No. 134.
- No. 71. Burleton, William; no date.
- * Burnell, Edward; No. 152.
- No. 72. Burrard, Sir Harry; 1782.
- No. 73. Burrow, James; 1782.
- * " " " " ; No. 152.
- No. 74. Barrow, Edward; 10 letters, 1782-1783.
- No. 75. Busscher, Monsieur de; 1783.
- No. 76. Bute, Lord; 38 letters, most of them without any date, but they are no doubt from 1761-1763.
- * Butcher, Mr.; No. 88.

C.

- No. 1. Cadogan, Lord; 2, 1761 and 1782.
- * Cailland, John; No. 100.
- No. 3. Caldwell, Colonel Frederic; 4, 1780-1782.
- No. 4. Caldwell, Capt. Fitz Maurice; 1782.
- * Caldwell, Major H.; Nos. 38, 66, 147.
- * Calef, John; No. 66.
- No. 5. Call, John; 4, 1782.
- * " " " " ; Nos. 100-136.
- No. 6. Camden, Lord; 21 letters, 1768-1783.
- * Camden, Lord; No. 132.
- No. 7. Campbell, John; 1761.
- No. 8. " Lord Frederic; 1788.
- * Campbell, Archibald; No. 78.
- * Campbell, Dr. George; No. 115.
- No. 9. Cane, Hugh; 1782.
- No. 10. Cann, Samuel; 1782.
- No. 11. Carleton, Colonel Thomas; 9 letters, from 1766 to 1782, relating to American affairs.
- No. 12. Carlisle, Earl of; 1783.
- * " " " " ; No. 159.
- No. 13. Carlotti, Le Chevr.; 2, 1771 and 1782.
- No. 14. Carlow, Lord; 1782.
- No. 15. Carmarthen, Marquess of; 12, 1781-1786.
- No. 16. Carruthers, John, Mayor of Nottingham; 1782.
- * Carson, Robert; No. 160.
- No. 17. Cartwright, George; 4, 1782-1783, relating to Salvador Fisheries, &c.
- * Cartwright, George; No. 86.
- No. 18. Casaux, Le Marquis de; 5, 1786-1794.
- No. 19. Castiglioni, Lee Marquise née Littia; 3, 1776-1785.
- * Catt, Mr.; No. 39.
- * Cavendish, T.; No. 165.
- No. 20. Cawthorne, John; 3, 1782.
- * " " " " ; No. 152.
- No. 21. Cecil, Henry; 2, 1783.
- No. 22. Chandos, Duke of; 3, 1782-1783.
- * Chassman, Benjamin; No. 160.
- * Charleville, Lady; No. 88.
- No. 23. Chartres, Monseigneur l'Evêque de; 4, 1786-1791.
- No. 24. Chasteigner, Le Comte de; 1783.
- No. 25. Chevenard, A.; 1785.
- * Chiton, Henry; No. 66.
- No. 26. Cholmondeley, George J.; 1782.
- No. 27. Clanricarde, Lord; 3, 1782.
- No. 28. Clare, Lord; 1766.
- No. 29. Clarendon, Earl of; 6 letters, 1782-1783.
- * Clarendon, R. V.; No. 160.

- No. 30. Clements, Rt. Hon. H. J. and Robert; 3, 1782.
- No. 31. Clerk, General Robert, 19 letters; 1758-1782.
- No. 32. Clerke, Sir Philip Jennings; 2, 1782-1783.
- No. 33. Cleveland J.; 1782.
- * Coghill, Sir John; No. 160.
- No. 34. Colebrooke, Sir George; 3, 1782-1783.
- * Colebrooke, Sir George; No. 98.
- * Colebrooke, Edward; No. 98.
- No. 35. Collier, Sir George; 8, 1768-1783.
- * Collier, Captain; No. 3.
- * Collet, Captain; No. 152.
- No. 36. Collins, Joseph; 1782.
- No. 37. Clogne, Le Redacteur du Nouvelliste Publique de; 1783.
- No. 38. Colthurst, Sir T.; 1782.
- No. 39. Connell, Thomas; 1782.
- No. 40. " James; 3, 1782-1783.
- * Connolly T.; No. 72.
- No. 41. Convicts on board the hulks at Woolwich requesting to enter into the Navy; July 1782.
- No. 42. Conway, General, H. S. 10, 1768-1783.
- * Conway, General; Nos. 68 and 136.
- No. 43. Conyers, Lady; 2, 1766 and 1783.
- No. 44. Conyers, John; 1780.
- No. 45. Cooke, William; 1782.
- * " " " " ; No. 83.
- No. 46. Cookson, Rev. Mr.; 2, 1782.
- * Cooper, John; No. 98.
- No. 47. Coote, Dean Chas.; 1782.
- No. 48. " Charles, Henry; 1782.
- * " " " " ; No. 160.
- No. 49. " Captain E.; 1783.
- No. 50. Cornwall, C. W., with copy of an unpublished letter of Dean Swift to Sir William Temple, Oct. 6, 1694.
- * Cornwall, C. W.; No. 100.
- No. 51. Cornwallis, Lord, 8 letters, 1786-1792.
- * Cornwallis, Lord, No. 40.
- No. 52. Cotton, Sir Robert; 2, 1781-1782.
- No. 53. Coughlan, Rev. Lawrence; 1783.
- No. 54. Courtenay, Viscount; 1783.
- No. 55. Courtenay, J.; 1782.
- No. 56. Coventry, Earl of; 6, 1767-1783.
- No. 57. Cowper, Earl; 1782.
- No. 58. Cox, Richard; 1782.
- No. 59. " Lawrence; 2, 1782.
- No. 60. Cramond, Robert; 4, 1763-1767.
- No. 61. Craven, Lord; 2, 1779 and 1783.
- No. 62. Craven, Lady; 3, 1782.
- No. 63. Crawford, John; 3 letters, 1760-1762.
- No. 64. Crawford, Gibbs; 1763.
- No. 65. " Lieut.-Col. James; 1782.
- * Crawford, Lieut.-Col. James, No. 100.
- * Croghan, George, Nos. 48 and 50.
- No. 66. Crosbie, Rev. Mr.; 1762.
- * Cruger, Henry; No. 136.
- No. 67. Cumberland, Richard; 1782.
- No. 68. Cumming, Thomas; 1762.
- * Cunningham, Governor; No. 88.
- No. 69. Curria, James; 1794.
- No. 70. Curtis, Sir Roger; 1763.
- * Curtiss, J.; No. 119.
- No. 71. Curron, A.; 1782.
- No. 72. Cust, Sir. John; 1768.

MARQUIS
OF LANSDOWNE.

- No. 33. Grenville, Lord; 1796.
 No. 34. " Hon. F.; 1782.
 No. 35. Grey, General Sir Charles; about 60 letters from 1761 to 1794, on naval affairs on the war, &c.
 * Grey, General Sir Charles; No. 136.
 No. 36. Griffith, Sir John; 4, 1761.
 No. 37. " Samuel; 1782.
 No. 38. Grosvenor, Lord; 3, 1782.
 No. 39. Grove, Captain Henry; 1782.
 No. 40. Guerchy, Le Compte de; 1767.
 * Guerchy, L.; No. 66.
 No. 41. Guines, Comte de; 1776.
 No. 42. Gutshart, Dr. Robert; 1761.
 No. 43. Guys, Auguste; 1782.

H.

- No. 1. Hackett, Thomas; 1782.
 No. 2. Halford, T. W.; 1783.
 No. 3. Halliday, Capt. T. Delap; 2, 1782.
 No. 4. Hallifax, Lord; 2, 1762-1763.
 No. 5. Hamilton, Duke of; 3, 1782-83.
 No. 6. Hamilton, Sir William; 3, 1767.
 * Hamilton, Sir William; No. 39.
 No. 7. Hamilton, Charles; 5, 1780-1782.
 * Hamilton, Charles; No. 147.
 * " Henry; No. 66.
 No. 8. Hamond, Leonard; 3, 1782.
 No. 9. Hanbury, Mr.; 3, 1783.
 No. 10. Hansard, Hugh Joseph; 2, 1782-1783.
 No. 11. Harbord, Harbord; 4, 1767-1768.
 No. 12. Harcourt, Earl of; 1761.
 No. 13. Hardinge, Counsellor; 1782.
 No. 14. Hardwicke, Earl of; 4, 1767-1777.
 No. 15. Harris, George; 1779.
 * " No. 72.
 No. 16. " James; 9, 1762, 1768.
 No. 17. Harris, Sir James (1st Lord Malmesbury); 2, 1768 and 1782.
 No. 18. Harrison, J.; 2, 1782.
 * Hart, N.; No. 152.
 No. 19. Harvey, Friend Reuben; 10, 1782-1783.
 * Harvey, Friend Reuben; No. 147.
 * Harvey, John; No. 48.
 * " S. Clay; No. 152.
 * Hastings, Warren; Nos. 98, 100.
 No. 20. Hatsell, T.; 1768.
 No. 21. Hawke, Sir Edw.; 2, 1768.
 No. 22. " Lord; 2, 1782-1783.
 No. 23. Hawkins, Mrs.; 1782.
 No. 24. Hayes, T.; 1782.
 No. 25. Hebert, T.; 1783.
 No. 26. Heighington, Lord; 1782.
 No. 27. Herbert, S.; 1782.
 No. 28. " N. Sophia; 1782.
 No. 29. " H. A.; 1783.
 No. 30. Heronville, Comte d', 5 letters; 1775-1782.
 No. 31. Heronville, Comtesse d'; 5, 1775-1782.
 * Herrenschwand, E. Lowsberg; No. 135.
 No. 32. Herries, Sir Robert; 2, 1783.
 No. 33. Hertford, Lord; 3, 1764-1782.
 * Hertford, Lord; No. 38.
 No. 34. Hervey, Colonel; 3, 1761.
 * " James; No. 152.
 No. 35. " Thos.; no date, but it must be of 1761 or 1762.

- No. 36. Hervey, William; 1761.
 No. 37. " Elijah; 1761.
 No. 38. " Rev. W. Thomas; 1783.
 No. 39. Hewatt, Rev. Alex.; 1782.
 No. 40. Hewson, Mary; 2, 1782.
 No. 41. Hey, William; 3, 1782-1783.
 No. 42. Hill, Colonel William; 5, 1761-1783.
 No. 43. Hill, Lady; 2, 1782.
 No. 44. Hillsborough, Lord; 1768.
 * " " No. 134.
 No. 45. Hitchcock, Rev. James Charles; 1782.
 No. 46. Hoare, Dean; 1782.
 No. 47. Hobart, Hon. George; 1782.
 No. 48. " Hon. Mrs.; 2, 1782.
 No. 49. Hodgson, Captain Robert; 4, 1766-1782.
 * Hodgson, Captain Robert; No. 66.
 * Hog, John; No. 72.
 No. 50. Holcroft, T.; 1783.
 No. 51. Holderness, Lady; 1782.
 No. 52. Holdsworth, Arthur; 2, 1782. Draft of Lord Shelburne's answer.
 No. 53. Hole, George; 1783.
 No. 54. Holland, R.; 1763.
 No. 55. " Henry, junior; 1872.
 No. 56. " Lord; 3, no date.
 No. 57. Hollford, James; 3 letters, 1771-1772.
 No. 58. Holmes, Leonard, T.; 4, 1782-1783.
 No. 59. Holwell, William; 3, 1766-1782.
 No. 60. Home, Earl of; 2, 1761 and 1782.
 No. 61. Home, Captain; 1760.
 No. 62. Hood, Admiral Alex.; 3 letters, 1778-1782.
 No. 63. Hood, Lady; 1782.
 No. 64. Hope, Henry; 2, 1787.
 No. 65. Hort, Dr. Robert; 1761.
 * " Sir John English, consular-general at Lisbon. Many letters from 1766 to 1792; Nos. 34, 41.
 No. 66. Howard, Colonel J.; 1782.
 No. 67. Howe, Captain; 2, 1761-1762.
 No. 68. Howe, Lord; 5, 1783.
 No. 69. Howse, Robert, junior; 3, 1782-1783.
 * Howse, Robert, junior; No. 131.
 No. 70. Hume, David; 1761.
 No. 71. Hunter, Dr. John; 2, 1782.
 No. 72. " Dr. William; 1782.
 No. 73. " Mrs.; 2, 1782.
 No. 74. Huntingdon, Lord; 1761.
 * Hurford, W.; No. 152.
 No. 75. Hutchinson, Sir Thomas; 6, 1782.
 No. 76. Hutin, A.; 1782.
 No. 77. Hutton, James; 5, 1766-1782.
 * Hutton, James; Nos. 18, 98.
 No. 78. Hyde, Lord; 1768. It is about the appointment of Harris.
 No. 79. Hyde, Colonel; 1782.

J.

- No. 1. Jackman, Isaac; 1782.
 No. 2. Jackson, Captain; 1782.
 No. 3. " John; 1782.
 No. 4. " Robert; 1782.
 No. 5. " William; 2, 1770-1779.
 No. 6. Jacquier, Le Père François; no date.
 No. 7. Jarnac, Monsieur de; 1781.
 No. 8. Jeans, Rev. François; 2, 1782.
 * Jekyll, J.; No. 84.

- No. 9. Jenson, Fr.; 1782.
 No. 10. Jenkins, Rev. John; 4, 1782-1783.
 No. 11. Jenkinson, Rt. Hon. Charles 2, 1782.
 No. 12. Jennings, Hon. C.; 2, 1782.
 * " " No. 84.
 No. 13. Jersey, Lord; 8, 1766 to 1782. Draft of an answer from Lord Shelburne.
 No. 14. Jarvis, William; 1782.
 No. 15. " Captain Sir John, afterwards Lord St. Vincent; about 45 letters, from 1778 to 1783.
 * " Captain, Sir John, afterwards Lord St. Vincent; Nos. 83, 84, 98.
 No. 16. Ilchester, Lord; 2, 1763.
 * Impey, Sir Elijah; Nos. 98, 100.
 No. 17. Inchinquin, Lord; 2, 1763.
 * Johnson, B.; No. 136.
 No. 18. Johnstone, General Jas.; 1782.
 * Johnstone, General Jas.; No. 84.
 No. 19. Johnstone, Captain George; 1782.
 * Johnstone, Captain George; Nos. 78, 98.
 No. 20. Jones, Sir William; 7, 1782-1783.
 No. 21. Jones, Marmaduke; 1782.
 * " Samuel; No. 78.
 No. 22. Irwin, Lord; 2, 1782.
 No. 23. Justice, C.; 1782.
 No. 24. Ivernois, Monsieur d'; 1782.
 * " " No. 160.

K

- No. 1. Kearney, Mr.; 1772.
 No. 2. Keating, Colonel; 1782.
 No. 3. Kemp, Thomas; 1783.
 No. 4. Kenmare, Lord; 6, 1765-1779.
 No. 5. Kensington, Lord; 5, 1782-1783.
 No. 6. Kenyon, Lloyd, Attorney-General; 1782.
 * Kenyon, Lloyd, Attorney-General, Nos. 114, 159.
 No. 7. Keppel, Admiral Viscount; about 47 letters from 1779 to 1783, with draft of Lord Shelburne's letters to him. Also papers about his trial by Court Martial, with an account of the engagement of July 27th 1778.
 * Keppel, Admiral Viscount; No. 138.
 No. 8. King, A. Golow; 1760.
 No. 9. " Dr. Wm.; 1760.
 No. 10. " Isaac; 7, 1782-1783.
 No. 11. Kintore, Earl of; 1782.
 No. 12. Kippis, Rev. Dr. Andrew; 9, 1780-1783.
 * Knoblont, Le Baron de; No. 66.
 No. 13. Knox, William; 1782.
 No. 14. Koummer, Erneste Philippe; 1782.
 No. 15. Kutzleben, Baron; 3, 1780-1789.
 * Kutzleben, Baron; No. 66.

L.

- * Lacam, Benjamin; No. 98, 100.
 No. 1. Landerdale, Lord; 1782.
 No. 2. Lauragais, Comte de; 1775-1783.
 No. 3. Laurens, Henry; 1782.
 * " " Nos. 71, 72.
 No. 4. Le Chevalier, Monsieur; 1782.
 * Lee, A.; No. 66.
 * " Richard Henry; No. 66.
 No. 5. " Thomas Skippin; 1789.
 No. 6. " Colonel Charles; 7, 1762.

MARQUIS
OF LANSDOWNE.

- No. 7. Lees, John ; 3, 1782-1784.
* Legge, Francis ; No. 66.
No. 8. Leigh, Sir Egerton ; 1782.
No. 9. " Lady ; 2, 1782.
No. 10. Leland, Colonel ; 1782.
No. 11. Lempiuuer, John ; 1782.
* Lempière, Charles ; No. 137.
* Leonard, George ; No. 66.
No. 12. Lempière, Charles ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 13. Lepel, Monsieur ; 1780.
No. 14. Leslie, Edward ; 1783.
No. 15. Le Turc, Monsieur ; 2, 1779-1782.
No. 16. Leven, Earl of ; 3, 1782-1783.
No. 17. Lewes, Sir Watkin ; 3, 1782.
No. 18. Leyden, West, &c. ; 1791.
No. 19. Lifford, Lord, Lord Chancellor of Ireland ; 9, 1767-1782.
No. 20. Limon, Monsieur de ; 3, 1782-1783.
* Lindsay, Sir John ; No. 98.
No. 21. Linquet, Monsieur de ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 22. Lippe, Count de Schaumburg ; about 35 letters ; 1759-1782.
No. 23. Lister, Major ; 1783.
No. 24. Lloyd, General ; no date.
No. 25. Lloyd, Captain Thomas ; 5, 1782-1799.
* Long, Robert ; No. 132.
No. 26. Longfield, Richard ; 1783.
No. 27. Longford, Lord ; 3, 1782-1784.
No. 28. Lowther, George ; 4, 1782.
No. 29. Lucas, Henry ; 3, 1782.
No. 30. Luttrell, Francis F. ; 1783.
* Lutwidge ; No. 114.
* Lyman, P. ; No. 48.
* Lyttelton, Mr. ; No. 39.

M.

- No. 1. MacAllister, Oliver ; 2, 1768.
No. 2. Macartney, Lady Jane ; 1782.
No. 3. MacCarthy, Mrs. Amelia ; 1783.
No. 4. Macclesfield, Earl of ; 1782.
No. 5. MacGhee, Rev. Robert ; 1782.
No. 6. Mackay, Alexander ; 1782.
* " " No. 136.
No. 7. Mackenzie, Capt. Robert ; 1782.
* Mackenzie, Capt. Robert ; No. 136.
* Mackenzie, K. ; No. 72.
No. 8. Mackenzie, Mrs. ; 1782.
No. 9. Macklins, Charles ; 1782.
No. 10. Mackworth, Sir Herbert ; 2, 1782.
No. 11. MacLaine, A. ; 6, 1787-1794.
* Maclean, General Sir Allan ; No. 136.
* Macneira, W. J. ; No. 160.
* Macpherson, John ; No. 100.
No. 12. Madden, Wyndham ; 1783.
* Maffet, John ; No. 66.
* Mahon, Lord ; Nos. 136, 160.
No. 13. Mahon, Maurice ; 1782.
* Maister, Henry ; No. 136.
No. 14. Manchester, Duke of ; 10, 1779-1782.
* Manchester, Duke of ; No. 125.
No. 15. Mann, Abbi ; 16 letters, 1787-1796.
No. 16. Mann, Sir Horace ; 1782.
* " " No. 39.
No. 17. Manwaring, Mrs. ; 2, 1782.
No. 18. Mark, Rebecca ; 1783.
No. 19. Marlborough, Duke of ; 6, 1782-1783.
No. 20. Morocco, Minister ; 3, 1767.
No. 21. Marriott, Sir James ; 7, 1766-1783.

- * Marriott, Sir James, No. 33.
No. 22. Marsh, John ; 1782.
* " Rebecca ; No. 159.
* Maseres, F. ; No. 66.
No. 23. " Francis Baron ; 3, 1782-1784.
No. 24. Mason, Richard ; 1782.
No. 25. Masserene, Earl of ; 1783.
No. 26. Masterton, Colonel ; 1762.
No. 27. Matra, James M. ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 28. Matthews, James ; 3, 1781.
* Matthews, Edward ; No. 78.
* Maunsell, Richard ; No. 160.
No. 29. Mawbey, Sir Joseph ; 2, 1782-1784.
* Meiriman, B. ; No. 132.
No. 30. Melcombe, Lord ; 3, 1761.
No. 31. Mello, Monsieur de ; 1766.
No. 32. Meredith, Sir William ; 1778.
No. 33. Meroni, Monsieur ; 1782.
* Merry, A. ; No. 152.
No. 34. Methuen, P. ; 1784.
No. 35. Meyer, Paul ; 1761.
No. 36. Middlecott, Edward ; 1766.
No. 37. Middleton, Lord ; 1782.
* " Sir Charles ; Nos. 147, 151.
No. 38. Miles, William A. ; 8, 1782-1783.
* Miles, William ; No. 131.
No. 39. Milford, Lord ; 3, 1782.
* " William ; No. 115.
No. 40. Millar, Dr. John ; 1783.
No. 41. Milles, Dr. J. ; 1762.
No. 42. Minchin, H. ; 1782.
* Mitchell, Thomas ; No. 115.
No. 43. Molesworth, Ponsonby ; 3, 1780-1783.
No. 44. Molineux, Crisp ; 4, 1782-1783.
No. 45. Molleson, W. ; 2, 1782, and No. 66.
No. 46. Monck, Rev. John ; 1782.
No. 47. Monckton, Col. Edward ; 1782.
No. 48. Montagu, James, 5, 1766-1782.
No. 49. Montagu, Captain G. ; 2, 1783.
No. 50. Montagu, Mrs. C. ; 2, 1782.
No. 51. " Edward ; 4, 1781-1782.
* Montagu, Edward ; 4, No. 48.
No. 52. Montagu, Elijah ; 6, 1777.
No. 53. Montaredoin, Mr. De ; 3, 1778-1781.
No. 54. Montfort, Lord ; 1782.
* Montgomery, Lord Chief Baron ; No. 115.
No. 55. Montyon, Monsieur De ; 2, 1777-1780.
No. 56. Morellet, Abbé ; about 100 letters in French, from 1772 to 1798 ; most of them without date.
No. 57. Morgan, Maurice ; 2, 1766.
* " " Nos. 66, 68, 69, 84.
No. 58. Morice Humphrey ; 1782.
No. 59. Morris, Valentine ; 2, 1782.
* " " No. 78.
* " Robert, No. 131.
No. 60. Morton, Countess Dowager of ; 2, 1782.
No. 61. Mostny, Sir Roger ; 1782.
No. 62. Motteux, John ; 4, 1782-1783.
* Motteux, John ; Nos. 66, 83, 114.
No. 63. Mount Edgecumbe, Lord ; 2, 1783.
No. 64. Mountstuart, Lord ; 2, 1783.
No. 65. Mourette, Abbé, 1774.
No. 66. Murray, Lord John ; 2, 1782.

- No. 67. Musgrave, Sir William. * " " No. 114.
No. 68. Muskerry, Lord ; 2, 1782.
N.
No. 1. Nash, Rev. Dr. T. ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 2. Neeker, C. de ; no date.
No. 3. Nenji, Monsieur de ; 6, 1776-1796.
No. 4. Nepean, Evan ; 2, 1782.
* " " No. 84.
No. 5. Nethercott, Charles ; 1782.
* Neufville, De, No. 131.
No. 6. Newcastle, Duke of ; 1782.
No. 7. Newman, Charles ; 1782.
* " Arthur ; No. 152.
* Neyson, G. ; No. 132.
No. 8. Nicholas, Robert ; 4, 1782.
No. 9. Nicholson, Samuel ; 1782.
No. 10. Niven, James ; 1782.
* North, Lord ; No. 136.
No. 11. Northcote, Thomas ; 1, 1782.
No. 12. Northumberland, Duke of ; 1763-1783.
* Norton, Mr. ; No. 39.
No. 13. Nugent, James ; 4, 1762-1783.
* Nuthall, Thomas ; No. 132.
* Nutting, John ; No. 86.
O.
No. 1. O'Connor, John S. ; 1782-1783.
* O'Connor, John ; No. 152.
* Ogden, Isaac ; No. 66.
No. 2. Oliver, Rt. Hon. J. ; 2, 1782.
No. 3. Onslow, Lord ; 1782.
No. 4. Orde, Thomas ; many letters from 1782-1789.
No. 5. Orkney, Lord ; 1790.
No. 6. Orford, Lord ; 2, 1767, and 1782.
No. 7. O'Rourke, Count ; 4, 1782-1783.
No. 8. Osborn, John ; 3, 1782-1783.
No. 9. Ossory, Lord and Lady ; 3, 1782.
* Oswald, Richard ; No. 71.
* Otley, Mr. ; No. 152.
No. 10. Oudermeulen, Von ; 3, 1784.
* Oursel, Mr. ; No. 152.
No. 11. Owen, Thomas ; 1782.
No. 12. " Sir Hugh ; 4, 1782-1783.
No. 13. Oxenden, Sir Henry ; 1783.
P.
No. 1. Paget, Lord ; 1782.
* Pallisser, Sir Hugh ; No. 65.
No. 2. Palmer, John ; 1783.
* " " No. 152.
* Paoli, General de ; No. 83.
No. 3. Parker, J. ; junior ; 5, 1761.
* Parr, Governor ; No. 69, 88.
No. 4. Parry, John ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 5. " Governor D. ; 5, 1774-1780.
* Parry, Governor D. ; No. 88.
No. 6. Parsons, James ; 1782.
* " L. ; No. 160.
No. 7. Pasquier, Colonel du ; 2, 1782.
* Pasquier, Colonel du ; No. 100.
No. 8. Paterson, John ; 3, 1761-1762.
No. 9. Peel, J. ; 1782.
No. 10. Peirson, Bradshaw ; 5, 1782-1783.
No. 11. Pellissier, Rev. Pel ; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 12. Pellen, Chev. de ; 1778.
No. 13. Pembroke, Earl of ; 16, 1766-1794.
No. 14. Penn, Mr. ; 1768.
No. 15. Pennymann, Sir James ; 1783.
No. 16. Percival, Thomas ; 1782.

- No. 17. Perret, Sir Richard and Lady; 2.
No. 18. Pery, Edmund, Speaker of the Irish House of Commons; 4, 1782.
* Pery, Edmund; Speaker of the Irish House of Commons; Nos. 147-159.
No. 19. Peterborough, Countess of; 1782.
No. 20. Petrie, S.; 3, 1782-1790.
No. 21. Petty, John; 1782.
No. 22. Phillip, A.; 1788.
No. 23. Phillips, John, 1782.
* " Wm.; No. 152.
* Pictet, Mr.; No. 18.
* Pierce, Edmund; No. 152.
No. 24. Piers, H.; 1782.
* Pierson, James; No. 154.
* Pigot, R.; No. 136.
No. 25. Pinto, Chevalier de; 5, 1782.
No. 26. Pitman, Ambrose; 1783.
No. 27. Pitt, William, Earl of Chatham; many letters, most of them not dated.
" Pitt, William, his son; a few.
" Pitt, Lady Chatham.
" " William Morton.
" " Thomas.
" " George.
No. 28. Polignac, Le Comte de; 1782.
No. 29. Pomfret, Lord; 2, 1767 and 1782.
No. 30. Popham, E.; 1767.
No. 31. " Rev. Dr.; 2, 1782.
No. 32. " Alexander; 4, 1780-1783.
* Poplett, Thomas; No. 78.
No. 33. Porten, J.; 1768.
No. 34. Portland, Duke of; 3, 1771-1783. *No. 159.
* Potten, Mr.; No. 38.
* Potter, Thomas; No. 39.
No. 35. Poulett, Earl; 2, 1782.
No. 36. " Hon. A.; 1782.
No. 37. Powis, Dowager Lady; 1782.
No. 38. Pownall, John; 5, 1782.
* " Nos. 72, 119.
No. 39. Price, Rev. Richard; a great many letters with financial schemes, calculations, &c.
No. 40. Prideaux, widow of General; 1782.
No. 41. Priestley, Joseph; 1782.
* Pringle, John; No. 83.
No. 42. Proles, Le Comte Charles de; 1783.

Q.

- Quirini, Angelo, a Venetian; 4, 1776-1786.

R.

- No. 1. Radcliffe, William; 4, 1779-1782.
No. 2. Radnor, Lord; 1780.
* Raiberti, Chevalier; No. 39.
No. 3. Rainsford, General Charles; 1783.
No. 4. Ranelagh, Viscount; 1782.
* Ravux, Mr.; No. 152.
No. 5. Rawlinson, Sir Walter; 1782.
No. 6. Rayneval, Monsieur de; 11 letters from 1782 to 1787, interesting.
* Rayneval, Monsieur de; No. 71.
No. 7. Read, John; 2, 1783.
No. 8. Redman, William; 1783.
No. 9. Reynolds, George; 1782.
No. 10. Rich, Lady Charlotte; 1782.
No. 11. Richardson, Major Wil- liam; No. 166.

No. 12. Richmond, Duke of; 23, 1763-1783.
* Richmond, Duke of; No. 136.
No. 13. Ridley, Sir Matthew; 1782.
No. 14. Rigby, Richard; 2, 1763-1783.
No. 15. Roberts, William; 1782.
No. 16. Robertson, Major; 1782.
No. 17. " William (not the historian); 1782.
No. 18. Robinot, Lalande; No. 79.
No. 19. Robinson, John; 1782.
* " No. 115.
No. 20. " Charles M.; 3, 1782.
No. 21. Robinson, Lady Camilla; 1782.
* Roche, Captain, No. 60.
No. 22. Rocheformel, Duc de la; 2, 1773 and 1783.
No. 23. Rocheford, Earl of; 15, 1766-1768.
* Rocheford, Earl of; No. 38.
No. 24. Rockingham, Lord; 43 letters, 1773-1782.
No. 25. Rodney, Lord; 3, 1782-1783.
* Rodney, Lord; No. 79.
No. 26. " Captain (his son); 2, 1782.
No. 27. Rogers, James; 2, 1782.
No. 28. Rolle, Denys; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 29. Roscoe, William; 1794.
No. 30. Rose, George; 15, 1782-1783.
No. 31. Ross, Earl of; 2, 1782-1783.
No. 32. Rothes, Countess of; 3, 1783.
No. 33. Roubaud, Pierre; 5, 1766-1783.
* Roveray, J. A. du; No. 160.
No. 34. Rougemont, Manger de; 1783.
No. 35. Rous, Sir John; 2, 1782.
No. 36. Roux, Monsieur J.; 1768.
* Rowlandson, W.; No. 152.
No. 37. Rushout, Sir John; 4, 1782-1783.
No. 38. Rutherford, Thomas; 1782.
No. 39. " Rev. J.; 1782.
No. 40. Rutland, Duke of; 6, 1783-1786.
No. 41. Rutledge, James; no date.
No. 42. Rutson, Richard; 1783.
No. 43. Ruyves, Mon de; 1782.
No. 44. Ryves, Dudley; 1782.

S.

- No. 1. Saarsfield, Count; 7, 1776-1787.
No. 2. Saintefoy, Monsieur de; 37 letters, from 1782 to 1792.
No. 3. Saint Jean, Le Chevalier de; 1783.
No. 4. St. John, Hon. G. R.; 1782.
No. 5. Saint Montant, Mad. de; 1782.
* Saint Valier, Monsieur de; No. 152.
No. 6. Salvader, Joseph; 2, 1782.
No. 7. Sandwich, Lord; 3, 1763.
* Saunders, Admiral; No. 75.
No. 8. Saye and Sele, Lord; 2, 1762-1783.
No. 9. Schaw, Capt. James; 3, 1782.
No. 10. Schiessen, Count; 20 letters, 1760-1792.
No. 11. Scott, Col. John; 4, 1762-1767.
No. 12. Scott, Right Hon. John; 2, 1782 and 1783.
* Scott, Major John; No. 98.
No. 13. Seckendorff, Mons. de; 1792.

- No. 14. Seilem, M.; 1767.
No. 15. Selkirk, Earl of; 6, 1782.
* " No. 136.
No. 16. Selwyn, George; 2, 1761.
No. 17. Serrant, Count Walsh; 2, 1780 and 1783.
No. 18. Seymour, Henry; 2, 1782.
No. 19. Shirley, Hon. Washington; 2, 1782 and 1783.
* Short, T.; No. 100.
No. 20. Shrimpton, Captain John; 1782.
No. 21. Simour, Jean; 1787.
* Simpson, J.; No. 72.
No. 22. Sinclair, Sir John; 2, 1782.
* " No. 152.
No. 23. Smith, Adam; 1767.
No. 24. " Captain Nathaniel; 9, 1781-1783.
* Smith, Captain Nathaniel; No. 100.
No. 25. Smith, James; 1782.
No. 26. " John; 6, 1780-1782.
" " No. 84.
No. 27. " Dr. William; 1782.
" " Nos. 66, 152.
No. 28. Smith, Francis Augustus; 2, 1782.
No. 29. " Rev. Dr. S.; 1783.
* " Benjamin; No. 147.
* " Lient.; No. 119.
No. 30. Smithson, William; 1782.
No. 31. Smyth, Sir Robert; 3, 1782.
* " No. 136.
* " Frederick; No. 66.
No. 32. Smythe, Edward; No. 82.
No. 33. " Lady; 3, 1782.
No. 34. Soames, Ph.; 3, 1782.
No. 35. Somerset, Duke of; 2, 1782 and 1783.
No. 36. Somerville, Lord; 1782.
No. 37. Southwell, Viscount; 1782.
No. 38. " Lucia; 1782.
No. 39. Spencer, Lord Charles; 1782.
No. 40. Stainmetz, Monsieur de; 1782.
No. 41. Stair, Lord; 1783.
* Stanhope, Lord; No. 84.
* Steele, Joshua; No. 78.
No. 42. Stephen, Philip; 3, 1782.
No. 43. Stewart, Thomas; 10 letters about Wilkes' trial, sailors' wages, &c., 1768.
No. 44. Stewart, Hon. Keith; 2, 1782.
No. 45. Stockton, Richard; 1766.
No. 46. Stafford, Lord; 5 letters to his nephew Captain Wm. Wentworth in 1732-1736.
No. 47. Stafford, Lord; 1782.
No. 48. Stratford, T.; 2, 1782.
No. 48a. " Edward; 1767.
No. 49. Stuart, William; 1782.
No. 50. Stubbs, Robert; 1782.
No. 51. Sturt, Henry; 2, 1782.
No. 52. " junior; 2, 1782.
No. 53. Suard, Monsieur; 1775.
* Suffolk, Lord; No. 165.
* Sullivan, Stephen; No. 100.
No. 54. Sullivan, Laurence; 5, 1761-1763.
No. 55. Surrey, Earl of; 7, 1782-1783.
No. 56. Sussex, Earl of; 1783.
No. 57. Sutherland, Countess of; 1782.
No. 58. Sutton, Sir Richard; 3, 1767-1784.
No. 59. Sutton, Lord George; 1782.
* " Robert; No. 98.
No. 60. Sydney, Lord; 1784.
* " No. 84.
No. 61. Symmons, John; 2, 1773 and 1782.

T.

- * Taggard, J.; No. 152.
No. 1. Talbot, Lord; 4, 1761-1782.

- No. 2. Talleyrand, Mr. de; 5, 1794-1795. Highly interesting.
- No. 3. Tankerville, Lord; 1770.
- No. 4. Taten, George, Consul at Messina; 1768.
- No. 5. Target, Monsieur; 3, 1785.
- No. 6. Taylor, Peter; 5, 1760-1762, with copy of documents.
- No. 7. Taylor, William; 2, 1782.
- * " Thomas; No. 66.
- * " Hugh; No. 152.
- No. 8. Temple, Earl; 14 letters, 1774-1782.
- * Temple, Earl; No. 159.
- No. 9. Tennent, Alexander; 1762.
- No. 10. Thickness, Phil; 1780.
- No. 11. Thomas, George; 1766.
- No. 12. Thompson, Dr. Alexander; 1782.
- No. 13. Thompson, Captain Edward 1782.
- * Thompson, Captain Edward No. 152.
- * Thomson, J.; No. 160.
- * " Thomas; No. 119.
- * Thorne, Captain; No. 152.
- No. 14. Thurlow, 8 letters written by Joseph Thurlow, from Whitehall, to Lord Henry Cromwell, in Ireland, in 1655.
- No. 15. Thurlow, Lord Chancellor; 7, 1782-1783.
- * Tickell, R.; No. 119.
- * Tilghman, J.; No. 72.
- No. 16. Todd, Anthony; 1782.
- * " No. 119.
- No. 17. Tomlinson, L. Robert; 13, 1781-1783.
- No. 18. Tonson, William; 1782.
- No. 19. Toone, Major; 1783.
- No. 20. Toosey, Philip; 1788.
- No. 21. Torpichen, Lord; 2, 1782.
- No. 22. Torrington, Viscount; 3, 1782.
- No. 23. Townley, Richard; 2, 1782.
- No. 24. Townshend, Charles; 1767.
- No. 25. " Lord; 5, 1765-1768.
- * Townshend, Lord; No. 158.
- " " Right Hon. Secretary T.; 18, 1782-1783.
- No. 27. Townshend, T.; 1781.
- No. 28. " Joseph; 1756.
- * Towry, G.; Nos. 7, 83.
- No. 29. Tracton, Lord; 1782.
- * Trafford, A.; No. 152.
- No. 30. Trant, Dom; 2, 1782.
- * " No. 160.
- No. 31. Trecothick, Radom; 1767.
- No. 32. Trelawney, Sir W.; 2, 1767.
- No. 33. Tripe, Nicholas; 1782.
- No. 34. Tripoli, Ambassador; 1767.
- No. 35. Triqueti, O.; 2, 1784.
- No. 36. Trudaine, Monsieur de; 1776.
- No. 37. Tryon, Governor W.; 3, 1782-1783.

- * Tryon, Governor W.; Nos. 52-66.
- No. 38. Tucker, Dr. J.; 1763.
- No. 39. " Henry; 3, 1782.
- * Turnbull, A.; No. 66-88.
- No. 40. Tweeddale, Marchioness of; 7, 1782-1783.
- No. 41. Twyman, John; 1768.

V.

- No. 1. Valentia, Lord; 7, 1782.
- No. 2. Valtravers; 2, 1782 and 1787.
- No. 3. Vancouver, Charles; 1782.
- * Van der Hey; No. 152.
- No. 4. Vansittart, George; 1782.
- No. 5. Vardill, Rev. John; 1783.
- No. 6. Vaughan, Samuel; 1782.
- No. 7. " Benjamin; many letters and papers, from 1778 to 1798. There are two letters from B. Franklin among them.
- * Vaughan, Benjamin; Nos. 72-84.
- * Vaughan, William; No. 66.
- No. 8. Udelbert, Benjamin James; 1783.
- * Udney, Robert; No. 54.
- No. 9. Vergennes, Monsieur de; 7, 1783-1786.
- * Vergennes, Monsieur; No. 71.
- No. 10. Vernet, Is.; 3, 1782-1783.
- No. 11. Verney, Earl; 2, 1782-1783.
- No. 12. Vignola, de, Venetian Ambassador; 2, 1767.
- No. 13. Very, Count and Countess de; 7, 1763-1782.
- No. 14. Vogt, Hamburg; 1796.
- * Upton, W.; No. 152.
- No. 15. Vyvyan, Ph; 1782.

W.

- No. 1. Walker, John; 1762.
- * " No. 48.
- No. 2. " G.; 2, 1782.
- No. 3. " Mrs.; 2, 1782.
- * Wallace, Colonel; No. 159.
- * Walpole, Robert; Nos. 34-39.
- * Walpole, Thomas; No. 72.
- No. 4. Walsingham, Lord; 1782.
- No. 5. Walter, Edward; 2, 1761.
- No. 6. Warren, Sir George; 1782.
- No. 7. " Harry; 1782.
- * Warrington, Geo. A.; No. 152.
- No. 8. Warwick, Lord; 5, 1766-1784.
- No. 9. Warwick, Lady; 7, 1762-1782.
- No. 10. Watson, Richard; 2, 1782.
- * " Commodore; Nos. 88-100.
- * Wellam, John; No. 66.
- * Wesley, Rev. John; No. 136.
- No. 11. West, James; 1782.

- No. 12. Westenra, Lady Hester; 1782.
- No. 13. Westmoreland, Earl of; 2, 1761 and 1782.
- No. 14. Weston, William; 1782.
- No. 15. " Rev. Charles; 1782.
- No. 16. Weymouth, Lord; 5, 1763-68.
- * Wharton, James; No. 50.
- No. 17. Whittaker, J.; 1779.
- No. 18. Whiteford, Sir John; 2, 1782.
- No. 19. Whitehouse, Thomas and Joshua; 1783.
- No. 20. Whitmore, W.; 1796.
- No. 21. Wilkins, John; 1782.
- * Wilkinson, Mr; No. 136.
- No. 22. Willes, Lord, C. B.; 1761.
- * " E.; No. 132.
- No. 23. Williams, J.; 1782.
- No. 24. " Colonel G.; 1782.
- No. 25. " Rev. W.; 2, 1782.
- No. 26. " Sir William; 2, 1761.
- * Williams, Mr.; No. 152.
- No. 27. Wilmot, Sir Eardley; 10, 1763-1782.
- No. 28. Wilmot, Sir Robert; 2, 1768.
- * Wilmot, Sir Robert; No. 132.
- No. 29. Wilmot, John; 7, 1779-1791.
- No. 30. Wilmot, Mrs.; 1780.
- No. 31. Willoe, Captain James; 2, 1782.
- No. 32. Wilson, Sir Thomas Spencer; 1761.
- * Wilson, Sir Thomas Spencer; No. 37, bis.
- * Wilson, William; No. 160.
- No. 33. Wills, Thomas; 1782.
- No. 34. Winchelsea, Earl of; 1783.
- No. 35. Wolfe, General James; 9, 1757-1763.
- No. 36. Wolfe, H.; 1763.
- No. 37. Wolff, Charles James; 4, 1782.
- * Wood, Major Thomas; Nos. 152-154.
- No. 38. Woodford, Ralph; 1782.
- No. 39. Woodley, William; 3, 1782-1783.
- No. 40. Worsley, Sir Robert; 2, 1782.
- No. 41. Wren, Thomas; 1782.
- * Wright, Sir James; No. 39.
- * " John; No. 152.
- No. 42. Wyan, Sir Watkin Williams; 1782.
- No. 43. Wyvill, Rev. Charles; 1781-1782.
- Y.
- No. 1. Yonge, Right Hon. Sir George; 8, 1780-1783.
- * Yonge, Right Hon. Sir George; No. 136.
- No. 2. Yonge, Robert; 2, 1782.
- No. 3. Yorke, Sir William; 1761.

B.

FAMILY CORRESPONDENCE.

No. 1 contains many letters from Lord Henry Petty to his father, from 1793 to 1801; several by Mr. Debary, one by Dugald Stewart, and one by Lord G. Gordon. Several letters to Lord Henry Petty, from his father Lord Lansdowne, from 1801 to 1802.

Some letters from Lord Wycombe to Lord Henry Petty, his brother, containing an account of his visit to Rome and Sicily, in 1792-1796.

No. 2 contains letters from—1, Miss Vernon; 2, Viscount Fitzmaurice; 3, Lady Arabella Denny; 4, Hon. Thomas Fitzmaurice; 5, Miss Vernon; 6, Lord Wycombe; 7, Lady Dartrey; 8, Lady Shelburne; 9, Rev. Thomas Jarvis; 10, Lord Kerry; 11, Lady Ossory; 12, Lord Shelburne; 13, Lady Warwick; 14, Lord L., advice to his son; 15, Letter not signed; 16, Lord Ligonier to Lord Fitzmaurice.

VII.

201 B.

The majority of the papers in this division have been recently found at Bowood.

A portfolio containing—

- (1) Lord Shelburne's Autobiography in triplicate.
 - (2) Fragments on the Event of 1761, 1762, 1766.
 - (3) Character of Mr. H. Fox, Lord Holland.
 - (4) " Lord George Sackville.
 - (5) Fragments on Private Affairs.
 - (6) Characters of Lord Temple, and Lord Ashburton.
 - (7) Two note books, with political and other memoranda.
- 202.—A brown paper parcel containing Miscellaneous Papers.
- 203.—Another brown paper parcel similar to the above.
- 204.—A parcel labelled Miscellany, containing letters sur l'Egalité Politique, without any date or name.

MARQUIS OF LAKE-
DOWNE.

- Some translations by Lord H. Petty, &c.
205.—Miscellaneous Papers, 1782-1783.
206.—Miscellaneous Papers, 1783-1784.
207.—Correspondence of Lord Shelburne with the King, 1766-1783.
208.—Portfolio of Miscellaneous Papers, 1760-1771.
209.—Miscellaneous. Freedom of Cities, &c. 1782-1783.
210.—Gavin Hamilton, letters and other papers relating to the Art collections at Lansdowne House.
The papers contained in vols. 201 B, to 210 having been used for the Life of Lord Shelburne, no detailed account of them is here necessary.

MARQUIS
OF RIFON.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF THE MOST HONOURABLE THE MARQUIS OF RIFON, AT STUDLEY ROYAL, CO.
YORK.

The most important are the Fountains Abbey documents; these have been seen by the late Mr. Walbran, and some of them were used by him in his volume on Fountains Abbey, printed for the Surtees Society in 1863, and the second volume will probably utilise others.

A large volume of the beginning of the last century treats exhaustively of the English national assemblies for the purposes of government from Saxon times to the end of the reign of King Henry the 3rd.

There is a considerable number of volumes on Peerage, Heraldry, and Genealogy. Several of these are in the writing and others were the property of Charles Whynates, who was made Richmond Herald in 1733. Some seem to have been copied from books in the Herald's College. A treatise on a special portion of Heraldry, by Francis Thynne, is very beautifully illustrated by coats of arms coloured and gilt, and bears his autograph signature. It was the presentation copy to Lord Burghley, to whom it was dedicated in 1596.

Of the regulations for the royal household some may perhaps be unprinted.

The Armorial are copious: and there are some good collections for Cheshire topography.

One volume is very valuable as containing abstracts of early deeds (in various private hands) relating to Cheshire and other counties.

One small volume of notes from manuscripts in several collections shows that, when the volume was compiled (which could not be before 1709, because of the reference to Mabillon's volume), the Arundel MS. then numbered 291, was a Pentateuch of the 6th century, whereas no such MS. is now in the collection.

Thick folio, paper, end of 17th or beginning of the 18th century, in two parts. Title and pp. 1-535 and pp. 1-573. After p. 79 of the 1st part every other page is blank. The title is "An Essay upon some particulars of the ancient and modern Government Conventions and Parliaments of England, with an Abstract of the most observable laws and the frequency of later Parliaments. In which is treated principally, first, of the Saxon and Norman constitution of Government and the Legislative (Legislature?) and Lawes during the time of the Saxon and first six Norman Kings. After which succeed severall necessary observations on succeeding Parliaments, their frequency and prorogations to the reign of Queen Elizabeth."—Parte 1st. What is designed in this essay.—An essay upon some particulars of . . . Parliaments of England. Beginns: My Lord. In obedience to your Lordship's desire that I should give you an account of what had occurred to me in my reading concerning the frequent meetings of Parliaments, especially of new ones convened according to the usage or lawes of this kingdom,—having perused some late tracts you sent me Part I. is occupied with the constitutional history of England to the end of the reign of King John. The reign of Henry 3rd occupies the whole of the 2nd part. The author draws from and cites in the margins all the then printed English historians, Dugdale's Baronage, Spelman's Glossary, and other books. He praises Dr. Brady's works, and mentions Dr. Hickee as having assisted him on two or three points. A substitution, consequent on one of Dr. Hickee's suggestions, is at part I, p. 10.—The handwriting is round and very plain, upwards of 40 lines in a page. A few alterations in part I have been effected by pasting slips on the original text, but these are by the same hand. There is nothing to indicate the author, and I do not think that the work has been printed. At p. 71 of the 2nd part, the author, after inferring from a passage in Matthew Paris that an archbishop was buried in his robes," says, "there are many instances of it to be found. So that about anno 1670, when Sir George Winn caused a part of the ruins of the Abbey of Nostal to be digged up to enlarge his garden, some stone coffins with stone covers "being opened the entire habits of some monks "appeared very perfect." As he gives no authority for this, it may be concluded that he knew it personally, and perhaps a northern domicile for the author may be inferred. In page 12 a verbal correction, and in pp. 13 and 15 marginal notes, are in writing very like that of Nathaniel Johnston, M.D., of Pontefract (a large portion of whose collections is in the possession of Mr. Bacon Frank, of Campsall Hall, Yorkshire). But the subject-matter of this MS. occupies only about 40 pp. of Johnston's work, "The Excellency of the "Monarchical Government, &c." (Fol. Lond. 1686), and the phraseology of Johnston differs from that of the author of this MS., when treating of the same points. The MS. is very interesting and valuable, as it discusses all the laws, ordinances, councils and conventions from Saxon times to the end of the reign of Hen. III. Inside the cover at the end of the volume is the following evidence of ownership, "Feb. 9th 1771. Wm. Aislabie," and on the outside of the cover, "W. A. Grosvenor Square, 1772."

MARQU
OF RIFON

Quarto, 18th century, 311 pp.—The marshalling of all estates and degrees at public ceremonies and funerals, with their several privileges and institutions, habits, robes, and their fashions, hereses, modells, proportions, and allowances for the same, and also the several [kinds] of officers to be employed in the service, collected by Augustine Vincent, Officer of Arms.

p. 3. To be provided for the creation of a pursuivant of arms: p. 9, for the creation of the provincial kings of arms, viz., Clarencieux and Norroy: p. 11, the oath of the king of arms: p. 15, to be provided for Garter at the time he shall be crowned: p. 17, the oath of Garter.

p. 19. Anglorum quorundam regum privilegia Haraldī concessa.

p. 21. Copy of Latin Patent by Rich^d 2 (2 March, 1 R. 2) incorporating the heralds.

p. 25. Copy of Patent, 4 June, 3 E. 6., exempting heralds and pursuivants from Subsidies, fifteenths, and other taxes for war.

p. 28. Copy of grant by Patent, 18 July, 1 & 2 P. and Mary, incorporating the heralds and giving them Derby House in the street leading from the south door of St. Paul's to Paul's Wharf, &c., &c.

p. 41. Orders to be observed and kept by the officers of arms, made by Thomas, duke of Norfolk, 18 July, 10 Eliz.

p. 53. Copy of letters granted to the kings of arms by Thomas of Lancaster, 13 Sept. 1417 (French).

p. 55. Ordinances and Statutes made by him (French).

p. 59. Copy of the constitutions and ordinances made by the kings of arms and heralds in Chapter at Rouen, 1420 (French).*

p. 69. The same ordinances according to the old English copy.

p. 79. Order made by Thomas of Lancaster, 3 Sept. 1417.

p. 83. Copy of letters of Institution of Garter King of Arms (French), dated Windsor, 1422. The members of the order assign a pension to Garter.

p. 87. The same in English.

pp. 91-103. Extracts from an old book in the office of Arms, marked with a crown;—out of the register book of the Garter which the Dean of Windsor carries before the King, covered with blue velvet.

p. 104. The order and manner of apparel of great Estates of women in time of mourning.

p. 111. Orders according to ancient Statutes made by John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester, 6 Edw. 4., for placing of all estates as well in proceeding before the Prince as in other assemblies of Parliament, &c.

p. 113. A similar but longer one, by Jasper, D. of Bedford.

p. 115. The order of all estates of nobles and gentry, 23 R. 2.

p. 116. The order of all estates, taken out of an ancient book belonging to the Abbey of Crowland.

p. 118. The order, &c. set forth of Anthony Earl Rivers, 1429.

p. 120. The order, &c. of the Lord Protector and the Earl Marshal against the King's coronation, set forth by the heralds and registered at Peterborough, 1431.

p. 126. Extract from Roll of Parliament Quinzain of Easter [] R. 2. (1 p.)

* This title is in large German text, and immediately below, in minute writing, "E. J. P. cri. J. 17, 1733."

p. 133. 2 Eliz., Dec. 3. Royal grant of augmentation of arms to Frances, late duchess of Suffolk.

p. 134. The christening of Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Russell, son and heir of Francis, Earl of Bedford, 27 Oct. 1575.

p. 139. The league between the Muscovites and the English (by eating bread and salt with the Queen) was continued 6 Jan. 1601. (1 p.)

p. 142. The order for proclaiming Stiles and Largess.

p. 142. An order for parish clerks of London for the pulpit cloth at funerals; 20 Sept. 1589: by Robert Cook clericus Clarendon.

p. 145. The charge of the Church of St. Paul of London for the burial of any estate. (1 p.)

p. 148. An order made for Henry Duke of Buckingham to bear the arms of Thomas of Woodstock alone, without any other arms to be quartered with them. 13 Edw. IV.

p. 149. An answer made by certain of the officers of arms to an Escochen lately brought out of France, and delivered to the said officers by the Duke of Norfolk, 14 June 1559. (The arms assumed by Mary, Dauphiness of France.)

p. 150. Order of King James I. for an augmentation to the arms of Viscount Rochester, 9 May, 9 James I.

p. 153. The funeral of a knight or alderman of London.

p. 157. A citizen's funeral.

p. 159. A knight's funeral.

p. 162. Proceeding of the funeral of Sir John Allott, Mayor of London, died 16 Sept. 1593.

p. 166. A remembrance of the controversy between Garter and Clarendieu, concerning the right of serving the funeral aforegoing of Sir Jno. Allott, who died in his mayoralty; copied from an original, written by Sir William Dethick then Garter. (24 pp.)

p. 171. Knights of the Bath according to the ancient use. (Account of proceedings at the creation.)

p. 179. These things to be prepared for a K.B. (Bedstead, &c., bath, &c., gown, stocking hose, and other dress, white gloves, sword, &c., four horses, &c., &c., all described); by Dethick, Garter.

p. 181. Fees on creation.

p. 182. Manner of creation of K.B. at creation of Charles, Prince of Wales, A.D. 1616.

p. 192. Account of the order of Baronets.

p. 199. Mode of creation of a Banneret.

p. 202. Order how Bannerets were made, temp. Edw. III. taken out of Froissart.

p. 204-221. Account of the dignity of Baron; dress, funeral, &c.

p. 232. Account of Bishops.

p. 224. Account of funeral of Archbishop Parker, 6th June 1575.

p. 232. The opinion of the officers of arms concerning the black in the Great Chamber, Hall, and Courts at the funeral of Archbishops, Dukes, Marquises, Earls, Viscounts, Barons, &c., to whom of right they do belong and how adjudged.

p. 236. Account of the dignity of Viscount; creation, dress, funeral, &c.

p. 246. The life of an Earl: and at pp. 253-279, an account of the funeral of Edward, Earl of Derby, who died 24th October and was buried 4 Dec. 1572.

p. 272. Mourning apparel for Countess, Baroness, and Earl's daughter.

p. 273. The funeral of a Countess.

p. 283. The proceeding at the funeral of Lady Eleanor Nevill, daughter of Henry, Earl of Westmoreland, wife of William Pelham, Lieut.-General of the Ordnance. Copied out of an original, under Ro. Glover's (Somerset's) hand.

p. 287. Directions given by Somerset (Glover), at the funeral of Reginald, Earl of Kent, 1573.

p. 289. A Marquesse.

p. 291. Rites and ceremonies used in creating a Marchioness (Anne Boleyn, 1532); funeral, &c.

p. 299. A Duke.

p. 305. Proceedings at the interment of Margaret, Duchess of Norfolk at Norwich, 1 Jan. 1563.

p. 308. An Archduke.

p. 309. A Prince.

p. 310. Order of creation of Prince Henry, 4 June 1610.

At p. 214 is pasted an engraving of a Baron in his robes. Loose, are some small 17th century engravings, viz., one of the Prince of Wales in his creation robe, "printed and sold by John Garrett at the Royal Exchange," and one of a Duke in his robe, holding his patent in the right and a wand in the left hand, and having a long sword hanging from his neck, and of a Judge in his robes, and one of a Bishop in his robes; also an engraved title page "A booke containing such beasts as are most useful for such as practice drawing, graving armes, painting, chasing, and for several other creations, designed by F. Barlow, engraved by Wm. Vaughan, 1664." This title is on a fanciful shield inclosed by two boughs. At the top, "Sould by John Overton at the White Horse without Newgate, where you may have several Bookes for the same uses."

Folio, 18th century. (In Whynate's writing.)

A treatise on Barons, 11 leaves of smaller size than the rest of the volume. p. 1. Of Barons and its original Beginis. In the reign of the first Kings after the Conquest.—p. 15. Names of all the nobility at the Parliament of Clarendon, 10 Hen. II.—p. 17. Copy of the agreement between the King and the Barons, 17 John, from the Close Rolls.—p. 19. Comes Palatinus (extracts in Latin regarding this dignity); in the margin "De actionibus et iudiciis Jo. Davis militis atornati regis in Hibernia, 1615." (The case of the County Palatine of Wexford in Sir John Davis's Reports is there said to be 9 Jac. I.)

p. 23-36. Prime appellaciones baronum ex summationibus Parliam. temp. E. I, E. II, E. III, E. IV, H. IV., H. V., H. VI., and E. IV.

p. 37. Barons called in right of their wives.

p. 40. Petition of Sir Geo. Darcy for restitution in blood.

p. 41. The case of Lord Roos, 1616.

p. 45. The process between Richard Lord Latymer and Robert Lord Brooke for the barony of Latymer, temp. H. VII.

p. 56. Certificate of all the Kings of arms and some of the heralds, 29 June, 2 & 3 P. & M., . . . concerning the title (La Warr) which William West, Esq., claimed to have.

p. 57. The proceedings on the claims to the barony of Dacre.—They end with the award made 11 Eliz.

p. 86-120. Barony of Willoughby and the title of Richard Bertie thereunto; and several precedents in the case.

After 2 leaves a new paging begins.

p. 1. Touching the barony of Abergavenny.—Beginis, on Saturday the 25th of December 1598, my Lord Marshal sett in Essex House.

p. 15-29. Some of the pedigrees, &c., to be found in Collins.

p. 1. The manner of Peers first sitting in Parliament.

p. 3. King James's declaration of the title of Lord Roos.

p. 4. Warrant of Charles I., 1640, for the barony of Dacres and Conyers.

pp. 8-12. Portion of an argument on the title of Lord Lisle.

p. 13. Extract from the Roll of Parliament, 27 Hen. 6., in a question of precedence between the Earls of Arundel and Devonshire.

p. 16. Latin letter from Alexander, King of Scotland, to King Henry of England about a question of common.

p. 19. The Lord Willoughby's title to the Earldom of Oxford.

p. 22. The case of Roger Stafford, the pretended Lord Stafford.

pp. 27-57. The Fitzwalter case.

Twelve pp. of copies of records relating to the family of Fiennes.

Report of the barony of Berners, A.D. 1719 and 1720, 17 pp. (These are from the proceedings of the Committee. See Collins on Baronies.)

Some of the proceedings in the case of Lord Say and Sele, 1704. (2 pp.)

A few extracts from the Lords' Journals.

Thin folio, 18th century.

At the beginning are 8 pp. of pedigrees, viz., Eglefeld, co. York; Escote of Scarborough; Wright of Plowland; Dannel of Preswich; Ellerker; Monneford of Kelsesurt; Constable; and Thorpe of Thorpe, co. York.

After some blank leaves is a copy of—

The Visitation of the co. Palatine of Durham, made by Wm. Flower, Norroy, 1575. This occupies 24 leaves. At the end is written "Concordat cum originali, extract. per Segar. Somerset."

The Visitation of the co. of Northumberland, begun by William Flower, Norroy, 1575.—This occupies 6 leaves.

The town and county of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Dated Newcastle, 24 Aug. 1666.—This contains only the pedigree of Rogers.

Castle Ward, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 22 Aug. 1666. This has only the pedigree of Jenison of Elfwike.

Folio, 18th century, paged to 211, after which the leaves are blank. At the beginning is an alphabetical index of names.

pp. 1-76 and 101-103. Memoranda of grants of arms in the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries. Two in each page, except the last 3 pp., which have only one each. A large space is left for a drawing of the arms of each grantee, but none are drawn. Each entry contains the name of the grantee, the name and title of the King of Arms granting the arms, a blason of the arms and crest, and the date of the grant; pp. 77-100 are blank.

pp. 104-133. Memoranda of grants of arms, 1720-1734, similar in form to the above, with the additions of coloured drawings of the arms and crests.

p. 135. Pedigree of Westfaling, 3 degrees, sworn in 1729.

p. 137 and 11 following pages (not paged) contain copy of Patent by Charles, King of Spain (dated in 1676) creating Antony Lopez Suazo a baron, and copies of other documents in relation to his barony of Avernes Le Gras, down to 1716; then come letters of Denization granted to him and his daughter Eleanor, by King George the 1st. A petition by Leonor de Costa, widow of Alvaro de Costa, late of Highgate deceased, that her husband's arms might be registered; the Earl of Berkshire's warrant, and Garter Anstis's confirmation of the arms, (the arms were "6 broken bones, 2, 2, and 2, barwise, the joints almost meeting each other in pale, argent).
p. 139. Pedigree of Darrell, deduced from Thomas Chicheley, of Higham Ferrers, down to Edward and Lionel Darrell, living in 1725 (1 p.), and a deposition by their grandmother regarding the descent.

p. 140 and 8 following pp. unpagged. Various petitions to the Deputy Earl Marshal and warrants for grants of arms, all in 1725.

p. 142. The funeral procession of the Viscountess Grandison.

pp. 143-153 and several unpagged pp. Various petitions and grants.

pp. 154-177. Memoranda of grants of arms, similar to those at the beginning of the volume.

A pedigree of Prouze, 14 degrees, copied from a Visitation in 1620.

p. 178. Petition of Charles Savage, of the parish of St. Olave, Hart St., London, for confirmation of arms; warrant and confirmation, 1730.

p. 179. Pedigree of Peter Newton, of Heighley, co. Salop, 10 degrees, deduced from John Pakington, of Stanford, co. Worcester.

p. 180. Report by the officer of arms to the Earl of Sussex (A.D. 1728 on the claim of Lord La Warr to the baronies of Cantilupe, Tregoz, Ewias, and Greisley (nearly 4 pp.). This is followed by a large pedigree, in which are shewn the heirs then living of Owen West, half-brother of Thomas La Warr who died in 1554; and at the end of their report they touch on the point raised by Sir Harris Nicolas in Retrospective Review, 2nd series.

p. 181. Report on the right to have supporters. (2 pp.) p. 181 bis, and 7 following pages. Various petitions and grants.

pp. 185-211. Memoranda of grants of arms: similar to those at the beginning of the volume.

Three large volumes, folio, written about 1720. Each page of the 1st vol. is ruled for 6 entries, and each page of the other volumes is ruled for 9 entries. The volumes contain names in alphabetical order, with the arms (not in trick but blasoned) opposite each name. All the leaves are not filled, but the entries are many hundreds. Vol. 1 contains A—C.; Vol. 2. D.—Ha.; Vol. 3. He—N.

Folio, 17th century, bound in rough calf.

pp. 1-185. Pedigrees of families of Warwickshire and Leicestershire and Lincolnshire. Some are noted as taken from Burton.

II. A copious Armorial, A to D. The surname is followed by a blason of the arms: there is seldom more than one line to each name. It is by two hands, mostly by that which wrote the volume next described.—On a fly leaf at the beginning is the autograph, Edw. Walpole.

Folio, 17th century, bound in rough calf.—A copious Armorial, E to Z. The surname is followed by a blason of the arms: there is seldom more than one line for each. This is followed by 8 pp. of the names and arms of the nobility of Scotland; and 5 pp. of the names and arms of the nobility of Ireland; and 1 p. of mottoes.—A fly leaf at the beginning has the autograph, Edw. Walpole. A fly leaf at the end has a copy (1731) of an inscription on an old monument in Kyme church, co. Lincoln, to the memory of Gylbert Taylboys, Lord Taylboys who died 15 April 1530. The arms were Taylboys quartered with Blunt. The note was made by Chas. Whinyates, Richmond Herald.

Thin folio, 18th century, 15 written pages, 2 columns. The contents of i. 25, the Lord Marshal's book. The contents of the Lord Marshal's book, i. 26. The contents of i. 27, the Lord Marshal's book.

The numbers of leaves in the 1st and 2nd volumes respectively are 227 and 155, and the 3rd has more than 100. The contents are relating to Arms, Dignities, pedigrees, precedence, &c.

With this volume, but unbound, is an alphabetical table of the contents of the 3 volumes, on 51 pp.

The 1st item of Vol. i. 25 is a copy of the Earl Marshal's Commission; of Vol. i. 26, a grant of the office of Earl Marshal of England; of Vol. i. 27, Thomas Duke of Norfolk's deputation to Lord Howard of Walden to be Deputy Earl Marshal. The subject matters are of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries.

Thin folio, 12 leaves, double columns.—The names of such illustrious, noble, and ancient families whose arms are borne and quartered by the respective Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons of the Kingdom of England.

The compilation is of the time of Charles II., because the 1st name is H.R.H. James Duke of York, and the 2nd is Prince Rupert.

Folio, paper, 17th and 18th centuries. A miscellaneous collection made seemingly by Charles Whinyate.

Account of the Coronation of King Charles 1st at Holyrood, 18 June 1633 (16 pp.), followed by an account of the Coronation of King Charles 2nd at Scone, 1 Jan. 1651 (3 pp.). These two articles are on quarto sized paper.

Copies of some papers about Knights of the Bath. Proposals for a Bill in Parliament for the College of Arms (no person to bear arms without a certificate from the College).

Copy of report by some of the officers of arms on the claim of Lord LaWarr to the baronies of Cantilupe, Tregoz, Ewias, and Greisley (4 leaves).

Copy of report as to the right to have supporters (2 leaves).

Bill for the funeral of Viscountess Grandison in 1725. (4 leaves). The total was 1,000l.

Copies of the King's and other letters about precedence among Knights of the Bath.

1720, May 3. Original warrant by the Earl of Berkshire (Deputy Earl Marshall) under his hand and seal to Anstis, Garter, to assign supporters to the Earl of Stafford, &c.

n.d. Copy of appointment by the Earl of Effingham (Deputy Earl Marshall) of Charles Whinyates, Richmond herald, to be his Secretary.

1719, Jan. 20, Middle Temple. Original opinion, signed by Nath. Pigot, that the Act 1 Edw. VI. did not bar the heir general of Henry Earl of Stafford, claiming through a female, from bearing the arms of his family.

1720, April 26. The Earl of Stafford to [the Earl Marshall], applying for supporters.

Notes of the family and arms of Sir Paul Methuen, and copy of Lord Lyon's certificate regarding them, 1725.

1701. Copy of the appointment by the Earl of Carlisle of John Cheeke to be Registrar of the Court of Chivalry and a table of the fees of the Court. (4 pp.)

1727, June 14, Leicester House. Original Council order signed Edward Southwell, (large wafer seal) directing proclamation of King George II.

Copy of answer of the officers of arms to the Earl of Sussex (Deputy Marshal). They say that Lady Vanbrugh's late husband actually surrendered his office of Clarencieux on the 9th of Feb.

Copy memorial of Charles Whinyates, late lieutenant to the late Major General Holmes's company in the Coldstream regiment of foot guards, addressed to the Duke of Argyll, asking his recommendation to the King for some appointment. He says that in the year 1715, upon a malicious misrepresentation, he was forced by his Colonel (Cadogan) to sell out for 700l. (less than he had paid). His memorial is backed by 18 M.P's.

1729, May 12, Lincoln's Inn.—Copy of letter by P. Yorke, A.G., to the Earl Marshall, about the jurisdiction of the Court of Chivalry.

Copies of several papers relating to the Order of the Bath.

Notes of the funeral, and marriage and issue of the Viscountess Grandison. (3 pp.)

Account of arms granted by the Provincial Kings taken from the book of their entries now lodged in the office. (1 p.).

MARQUIS
OF RIFORD.

Copies of warrants for truncheons of gold for the Earl Marshal, 1717, 1719, 1731. The truncheon was to contain 15 oz. of gold of 22 carats.

1731. Draft of appointment of the Earl of Berkshire of C. Whinyate to be Richmond Herald.

Sundry errors relating to the English nobility, whereof notice ought to be taken, &c. (3½ pp.). There are notes of false claims to the title of Percy, Clifford, Willoughby of Parham, Hunsdon and Ferrers; and notes about Fitzwalter and Hereford, about precedency, right to titles, right to supporters, &c.

Certain particulars to be considered in order to stating the point touching the precedency of the eldest sons of earles younger sons, and the daughters of earles younger sons, which is yet not determined; and note as to supporters. 2 pp. (These last two papers are temp. Car. I.)

Small 8vo, 17th century, bound in black morocco.—Inside the cover is the autograph, H. Powle, and seemingly by another hand, B.B.I.—On the first fly leaf, "Mr. Costy, at the Bristol Arms in Watling Street, Linnen Draper, bought the MS. No. 8 of my Lord Anglesyes Library, wherein are the objections made by Chancellor Egerton to my Lord Chief Justice Cokes Reports." On the second and third leaf is a title of contents. After this the leaves are numbered 1-89.

fo. 1-7. Notes of contents of printed books and MSS. in the Library at Westminster.

fo. 20-24. Notes from Hale's MS., Shelf I, 1. 9. A discourse concerning the Marshals Court per Anonymum.

fo. 25. Ex majore libro Domesday in principio Chenth.

fo. 26. Hales MS., Shelf 6. 1. I.

fo. 27. Ex MS. Reports of Jo. Joscelyne, of Greys Inne.

fo. 29. Ex libro rubro Scaccarii.

fo. 36. MS. Hales, Shelf I, lib. 4.

fo. 39. Dies iudicii in Curia Prærogative ad finem libri MS. cui titulus Praxis Franc. Clarke.

fo. 40. The effect of the inditement of the Duke of Norfolk, 12 Eliz., 16 Jan.

fo. 42-51. Notes from MSS. in Gresham College. These notes are from Nos. 2, 110 (111 P), 68, 90, 34, 53, 55, 146 (should be 149), 147, 60; 155, 66, 152, 313, and 291. As all these, except the last, may be found under the same numbers in the printed catalogue of the collection (the Arundel MSS. now in the British Museum) it is needless to copy the notes. But the writer is incorrect in his judgment of the age of No. 155, and in saying that it has no Anglo-Saxon interlineations.—He thus describes No. 291, "The Pentateuch, in such letters as Paul's Epistles, in Mabillon, fo. 347, or St German's Psalter, ib. fo. 357, which was written about A.D. 600."—But No. 291 in the Catalogue of the Arundel MSS. is a volume of a different description, and no Pentateuch, such as that described, is in the Collection. In Perry's Catalogue of these MSS., printed in the Catalogus Manuscriptorum Angliæ, &c. (fol. Oxford, 1698), this Pentateuch is entered under the No. 281.

fo. 52-59b. Extracts from Rushworth. A.D. 1631.

fo. 59b-81. Hale's MSS.

fo. 82. MS. in Bibl. Westm. Press. 27, N. 12., B. 4.

fo. 83. In Biblioth. Lincoln, Hales, Shelf 5, lib. 1.

An oblong volume, of 86 parchment leaves, blank after fo. 59, written about A.D. 1600.

fo. 1. In this book are contained, first, the arms of all the nobility of Englande in their order. Secondly, the single coats of sundry Noblemen as well of England as Ireland: herunto I have added a peculiar table. And lastly, the several coats of sundry gentlemen, with a peculiar table unto them belonging:—Then follow a table of single coats of such as are not intitled Lords; and a table for the single coats of the Nobility.—fols. 5, 6, and 7 are blank. fo. 8a, the royal arms with the supporters, the lion and dragon, and motto semper eadem. On each of the following pages down to 24a are the Arms (with quarterings) of the Nobility, beginning with the Duke of Norfolk (Hen. 5th), and ending with Lord St. John of Bletra (63 in all).—fo. 25 is blank:—26b-35a, the single arms of William the Conqueror and the ancient nobility, beginning with Fitz-William, Lord Marshal, and ending Poole, Lord Montague, 142 in all:—fo. 36a-57a, arms of gentlemen not intitled Lords, 334 in all. These have a separate foliation, 1-25, but 20 and 21 are abreast and 22 is blank. Notwithstanding the heading, fo. 23 and fo. 24 of this section, contain the arms of some of the royal family and nobility.—fo. 58 has the date 1594 at the top, and has the titles of 86 Irish Lords and a shield drawn in pencil, but not filled up.—All the arms are well drawn and carefully coloured.—On the inside of the cover opposite fo. 1 are the Royal arms, with mantling, seemingly, of the last century, and a larger shield of a member of the Royal family, viz., party per pale: dexter side France and England, quarterly; sinister side, 6 quarters; 1, England; 2, az. senné of fleur-de-lis, or.; 3, gu., a lion rampant, or.; 4, quarterly, 1 and 4 Boteleur, 3 and 4 az., a lion rampant, sa., crowned, langued and armed, gu.; 5, England; 6, Warren. On the sinister side the 1st, 2nd, and 5th quarters have each a label of three points.

Folio, paper, 16th century, 349 numbered pp., followed by a few blank leaves, bound in parchment, endorsed Records of Cheshire. Every other page has been left blank for the purpose of receiving pedigrees to be formed from the records and deeds copied on the other leaves, and a few leaves at the beginning have some pedigrees in a very neat handwriting, different from that of the text.

pp. 1.-14 Edw. II., Aug. 20.—Copy of the Earl of Chester's (Prince Edward) mandato Robert de Holand, his Justice of Chester, and his lieutenants, to summon John de Somerby and 39 others (named) to do homage and fealty for their lands in Cheshire,—and of the return by the Justice.—At the end of this is "Adhuc de placitis com. Cestr. die martis prox. post festum S. Jacobi Apostoli, a^o regis Edw. fil. regis Edw. xiii^o."—This is followed (on p. 2) by "De Abbatia de Combermere," note of an Inquisition and verdict of the Inquest, 28 Edw. III.; and "De hospitali S. Laurentii," the verdict of an Inquest.

pp. 5-47. Copies and abstracts, early deeds, fines, and records (some as late as Hen. VII.) relating to lands in Cheshire and some other counties: with pen and ink copies of some of the seals to deeds.

pp. 55-93. Charters relating to and extracts from a Cartulary of the Priory of St. Thomas the Martyr near Stafford.

pp. 93-119. E cartis Thome Greslegh. (In the margin is the word "Staffordshire.") Epitomes of early deeds by the Mainwaringes, Praers's, and others.

pp. 119-120. Ex libro ecclesiæ colleg. beate Marie Warr. (In the margin, "Out of Talbotts book in Mr. St. George his hands.")

p. 120. In libro de domo dei 20 Willelmi Conquestoris continetur sic. . . (2 entries)—and lists of witnesses to several early grants by Hugh, Earl of Chester, Richard, Earl of Chester, and Roger, Earl of Warwick, to St. Werburgh of Chester.

p. 123. Copy of grant, 2 Hen. 6, by Robert le Massy, of Hale, and Pillerina his wife to William le Brette, of Wich Malbanc, of a salt pit in Wich Malbanc.

p. 123. Ex cartis Sampson Erdeswick de manerio suo de Lection.

p. 131. The originals of these two copies following are in the hands of Mr. Richard Starkey, of Stretton, the 2nd day of January, anno 1573, per Laur. Bostok.

p. 136 and p. 139. Account of the possessions and family of Starkey.

pp. 141 and 143. Account, in French, of the figures and arms in the windows of the chapel of Mendham Priory.

p. 165. Ex carta (cartis P) Thomæ de Astone de Astone et Holgrave in com. Cestr. ex hoc [r] pta.

p. 206. E carta Edwardi Aston.

E carta Ricardi Bagod.

p. 218. The Aston charters seem to end here.

p. 221. Legh deeds seem to begin here; but out of what collection the deeds, as far as p. 305 came, is not said. There are many by Freville, Waleys or Walsh, Venables (a great number by and to Venables), and other families.

p. 306. Ex cartis Willelmi de Comerford.

p. 332. Adhuc de cartis Willelmi Cumberford.

p. 335. The Barony of Halton.

p. 340. Extracts from the red book of Knights fees in the Exchequer at London, fol. 82, &c.

The compiler has been careful to give the dates and the names of witnesses when they occur.

A 12mo. volume, paper, 17th century, 78 written pages, numbered.—Methodical notes on the subjects, King, Queen, Realm, Prærogative of the King. The first leaf of the volume (not paged) contains, in addition to these subjects, but in a different hand, the subjects of Oath of y^e King, Marriage of the Kinge, Pallace of the Kinge, Household of the King, and they were doubtless in a separate volume. The notes are seemingly on the work of some other author, or intended to illustrate some other manuscript; as pp. 1-11 of this MS. contain 39 numbered notes on A 1, fol. 15; pp. 12-25 contain 39 numbered notes on A 1, fol. 183; pp. 26-38 contain

MARQUIS OF RIFORD.

35 numbered notes on A 1, fol. 268: and pp. 39-46 contain 20 numbered notes on A 1, fol. 269.

The notes underneath the head Queen are on 1b, fol. 250; those under the head Realm are on 1b, fol. 224; those under Prerogative of the King are on 1b, fol. 137 and 226.

Another 12mo. volume by the same hand, containing notes on Bishops, Superiority of Bishops, Barons, Creation of Barons. This is written on 87 pages, and refers to fols. 299, 301, 303, 66, 3, iv.

The writer of these two volumes cites numerous printed books, and at p. 86 of the latter volume he says, "Vide Doddridge, baron., and my MS., No. 26." At p. 44 of the first volume he cites Fabian Philip's work on the English Government as mentioning the Fine, Mich., 1 Henry IV., between Sir Thomas Rempston, Kt., plaintiff, and Richard, late King of England, deforciant, of land in Devonshire.

Small 8vo. paper, 17th century.—A neatly written copy of Naunton's Fragmenta Regalia.

Folio, bound in vellum.—The Ceremonial of the Coronation of His most sacred Majesty King George II. and His Royal Consort Queen Caroline on Wednesday the 11th of Oct., A.D. 1727.—By order of William Hawkins, Esq., Ulster King of Arms of all Ireland.—Dublin. Printed by and for S. Powell in Cooper Alley, and sold by most of the booksellers in Dublin, 1727.—This is followed by Hawkins's appointment of Powell to print, and a letter of Hawkins to the Lords Justices of Ireland.—The account of the ceremonial (which I suppose to be a copy of the print) occupies 49 pp.—On the leaf between f. 20 and f. 21 is the pedigree (6 degrees) of Sir Robert Bowes and his brothers deduced from Sir John Trayner, of Strettham. This Sir Robert married Jane daughter and heir of Sir Roger Conyers. (The title and dedication and the first 7 pages are in the writing of Charles Whinyates.)

Loose in the volume is a copy of the report (pp. 12-36, in quarto) of the claims &c. at the coronation of George II.

Folio, bound in vellum, written about A.D. 1602. 4 leaves of table and 77 leaves of text. (On the outside is the No. 26.)—The table contains lists of Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons.—But the text only contains Viscounts and Barons.—The Viscounts occupy four leaves. The notices are often very short, sometimes a few lines, and only in two or three instances exceeding 1 page.—The volume was written about 1602, as appears by the close of the notice of the title of Mordant "Henry L. Mordant now living 1602." On a fly-leaf at the beginning "Sum Onslow Gardiner, 1648."

Folio, paper, 132 pp., 18th century. (In Whinyates' handwriting).—Ordinances in relation to the Court.

1. Certain Ordinances devised by the King's Highness, with the advice of his Council, concerning the good ordering of such persons as his Grace has deputed to be in his Privie Chamber.—Forasmuch as the King's Highness, &c., &c. First, the King's pleasure and commandment is that the four groomes of the Privie Chamber . . .

p. 6. For the bringing in bread and wine and other viandies into the King's Privie Chamber.

p. 8. The oath of the King's servants, &c.

p. 10. The oath that a gentleman usher doth give to any that is sworn the King's servants.

p. 12. For the knights and squiers of the body.

p. 13. The room and service belonging to a gentleman usher.

p. 26. The room and service of a groom porter.

p. 28. The room and service belonging to the groom of the King's Chamber to doe.

p. 32. The room and service belonging to a page of the King's Chamber to doe.

p. 34. The room and service belonging to a server of the King's Chamber to doe.

p. 35. Provision for them that beareth the services and meats into the Chamber with the server . . .

Ends, for the punishment of servers.

p. 36. The old order of the making of the King's bedd, not be used or done but as his Grace wolde comande and appoynt from time to time hereafter. Ends. A groom or page ought to take a torch while the bedd, is making, to fetch a lofe of bread, a pot with ale, a pott with wyne for them that maketh the bedd, and every of them drinketh.

p. 39. The order of the King's going to the Chappell on St. (Holy?) Thursday, and from thence into the Hall to the Maundy. (The King was to have a towel laid over his shoulders, and have an apron with the corners fastened behind him. And the lords and gentlemen with him to have the like. They were to have water in silver basons to wash the poor men's feet. Each of the poor men was presented with a gown and hood, a pair of shoes; and a cast of bread and a mess of fish out of a wooden dish (a dish of tree), and wine out of an ashen cup. The King was to give his towel and apron to the first man whom he washed: and every man had a towel and apron. The King gave to each poor man a half-penny purse and as many pence in it as there were poor men: and when he had put off his gown shall give it to such poor man as he pleased.)

p. 41. The order of the King on Good Friday coming to service and hallowing the Cramp Rings and offering of them; and creeping to the cross. (See Brand's Popular Antiquities, edited by Ellis, i., 152, Bohn's Antiquarian Library.)

pp. 43-49. Portions of the Articles ordained by Hen. VII., printed by the Society of Antiquaries in 1790 among the Collection of Ordinances and Regulations for the Government of the Royal Household: viz., pp. 110, 111, parts of pp. 116, 117, 112.

p. 49. The setting of the Dukes, Earls, and Barons (p. 112 of the Collection &c.); this is worded as the narration of an individual.

p. 52. "To saie you the form at what time the Queen "with child should take her chamber, and what person "should do her service, that is in Act (that is enacted?), "and so is the Purification. And therein can Margaret "Stanlowe of Bromley enform you both of any that I "know, &c."

p. 54. Ends, One thing I used all my life, and so I would counsell you. If my Lord Chamberlain were present, I never did no great thing in my office but by his advice, which was to me sufficient warrent. The booke in which all these matters been act was wont alwaies to be in the Household, the last man that I understand that [had?] it was Hampton, squire for the bodie in all their offices and matters.

p. 55. For the receiving of a Queen. (See the Collection, &c., p. 123.)

p. 59. As for the deliverance of a Queen. (See the Collection, &c., p. 125.)

p. 60. For the christening of a Prince or Princess. (See the Collection, &c., p. 126.) The copyist has omitted some of the end and run on with the next section, "For "the array of the child," ending with the 11th line of p. 127 of the Collection, &c.)

p. 63. The marriage of a Prince's daughter.

p. 66. As for the sewer and usher. As for the laying of the surnappe.

p. 67. As for the squiers of the bodie.

p. 68. As for making of the King's bedd. (See the Collection, &c., p. 121.)

p. 70. As for the setting the King's great chamber.

p. 71. As for the spicery and wafrey.—As for the King's sewer.

p. 72. As for the Chamberlain and ushers.

p. 73. The Creation of a Prince. (This varies from the Collection, &c.)

p. 74. The burying of a Prince neare the blood royal. (See the Collection, &c., p. 130.)

pp. 78-93. A bouche of Court for divers persons from a Duke downwards. (I do not find it in the Collection, &c.)

pp. 94-125. Ordinances and Observations, &c. by Henry VIII., in the 17th year of his reign, for establishing the household of Lady Mary the Princess.

pp. 126-130. Instructions to the Princess Mary, her Councell made, 20 July, 18 Hen. VIII.

p. 131. The appointment of Harbingers in the time of Hen. VIII.

Folio, paper, end of 16th century and first half of 17th century.—On the first page at the top is the number 24, and lower down a "Catalogue of Nobility," containing 20 names, beginning with Nevill, and ending with Lundesford, Sussex. At the foot, in the right hand corner, is the name Petyt in court hand.

pp. 3-9 are occupied with a list of the Royal family (Charles 1st and his children), and the nobility; the last Baron being Arthur Capell Baron Capell, of Hadham. (This list is in the handwriting of Onslow Gardiner.)

pp. 11-21 contain pedigrees of Nevill, Middelham, Beauchamp, Clun, Arundell, Chester, Warren, Le de Spenser, Marshall, Clare, and Latimer.

pp. 25-28. The genealogy and pedigree of the ancient family of Hawtre (written in Latin, De Ata Ripa, and in some records, Dawtre), &c. &c., of which familie is Ralph Hawtre of Riselip, in Middlesex, Esq. 1632.

p. 29. Pedigree of Harecourt.

pp. 33-39. Account of the house of Nevill.

MARQUIS OF RIPOU.

pp. 40-55. The nobility of England that quarter the coat of Nevill, &c.

pp. 56-61. Coat armour and some of the quarterings of the Nevills of Billingbere in Barkeshire, &c.

pp. 64-72. More pedigree of Nevill.

pp. 73-121. Pedigrees (by three hands) of Savage of Chirton in Cheshire, Willoughby, Drury, Carew of Beddington, Loeke, co. Salop, Crow, Kempe (this is certified according to the last visitation taken by William Harvey, Clarencieux, by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux), Windesor (certified in 1623), Waller (comes down to 1647), Bawdes or Baulds of Essex, Playfers of Soterly, co. Suffolk, Garners (copied out of the Collections of William Harvey, Clarencieux, now in the hands of Sir William le Neve, Kt.), Lestrange of Hunstanton, Kell, Berney, Bokenham, Fincham, Peckham, Lundresford or Lunsford (from the time of Edward the Confessor to Sir Thomas Lundresford, Bart., living in 1649: with it runs the pedigree of Barrington of Essex, from the 12th century to the time of Hen. V., when a William Lunsford married the daughter and heir of John Barrington). The pedigrees after Waller are by the hand of Onslow Gardiner.—After some blank leaves is another treatise, on rather larger paper: pp. 1-3 are blank; on p. 4 are the names of the 18 baronies noted on pp. 4-22, and "nu. 100." The baronies are Purstock, Wilton, Groby, Kilpeck, Blanckney, Ruthin, Holgate, Warwick, Cockermouth, Arundel, Berkeley, La Warr, Gillesland, Latimer, Hastings, Oxford, Beuderet, and Bothall.—pp. 23-34. A description of the lordship and town of Abergavenny, and short biographical notices of the several Lords of Abergavenny, beginning with Hamlyn de Baalon, and ending with Henry Nevill, 32nd baron (whose only child Mary married Sir Thomas Fane) who dying in 1587, left, his barony and lands to Edward Nevill, son and heir of Sir Edward Nevill his uncle as next heir in tail.—p. 36. Forasmuch as the state of this challenge. . . ends (p. 57) knowledge of this cause. (pp. 36-57 are printed in Collins on Baronies, pp. 63-80, as in the case of Sir Thomas Fane.)—p. 59. Whether the barony of Burgavenny. . . ends (p. 78), use of the name. (pp. 59-78 are printed in Collins, p. 97, &c., and are comprised in the title and pp. 1-54 of the 12mo. volume printed in 1642, "A Treatise of the Nobility of the Realm, &c.")—pp. 79-82. Additional arguments in the case.

Folio, paper, 85 leaves, A.D. 1593 (outside the cover and also on a fly-leaf is the No. 54).—A discourse of armes, compiled by Francis Thynne, wherein is shewed the blazone and cause of divers Englishe, forayne, and devised coots; together withe certaine ensignes, banners, devises, and supporters, of the Kynges of England.—Below this title is a different style of writing, but I think of the same pen, "Je suis en vie, malgre envie, et pource sorte pur bien, ou ne sorte rien."—On the back of the title, "The names of the auctors vouched in "this worke" (89 in number).

fo. 1. To the right honorable his singuler good lorde Sir William Cecill, Kt., Lord Burleigh, &c., &c. I present unto your rare judgmente (right honorable and my singuler good lorde) no vulgar conceits of Armory, but such as strange both for blasonne and forme as well of domestically and forraigne coots at this daie borne as of devised cootes and other ensignes used in Standards before the Conquest both in England and otherwhere.

fo. 16-9b. Of English Cootes of Armes. The text describes and comments on 9 shields, beautifully coloured and gilt, on 9b, of Kings, Bishops, and Barons.

fo. 10-22a. Of foreine Cootes of Armes. The text describes and comments on 9 shields, coloured and gilt, at fo. 22; and the margins contain 28 coats coloured and gilt, mostly English, illustrating the text, and 2 banners.

fo. 22b-26b. Of devised Coots.—The text describes and comments on 9 shields, coloured and gilt, on 26b; and the margins contain 16 coats.

fo. 27-32a. Of banners and standards. The text describes and comments on 5 of these, painted on 32a; and the margins contain 3 coats and 13 badges.

folio 32a-34b. The remainder is occupied with comments on the art of heraldry, illustrated with the arms of Cecill in the text, 12 others in the margin of 34a, and 9 at the end of the text. After which comes this sentence, "Thus, my good lorde, beinge in this Christmas twelve daies delivered of a beares whelp, which needeth much licking to bringe it to the forme of a livelie creature; because a hastie bitche bringeth forth blinde puppies, I must desire your honorable Lordship not to think of this worke as the method or slender method requireth, but to judge that if tyme and occasione did serve, I would with more industrie,

"greater care, and deeper judgmente looke into matters of heroldrie, a thinge (whereof hitherto not havinge anie use) maie not perhaps be so readie at the commandement of my penne as others thinck I should (yf I were an herolde), and as I desire to have it (and hope your Lordship shall finde yt) if you thinck me worthe to enjoye anie benefite in recompence of my travell bestowed in those studies. Clarkenwell-greene, the fift of Januarie, 1593." (This is signed Francis Thynne.

Three quarto volumes, 18th century, labelled Antiquities of Cheshire. Vol. I. is also lettered A, and the other two are lettered also respectively E and O. The volumes contain accounts of various towns and places in Cheshire, in alphabetical order.

Vol. I. contains 148 written pages.

p. 2. Dr. Williarson, of Chester, collected from Mr. Hulmes' books the following accounts of the several towns in the County Palatine of Chester (many being omitted), which are as follow:—The first place described is Acton Grange.

Vol. II. has about 116 written pages, and begins with Eaton.

Vol. III. contains 104 written pages, and begins with Oocleston; and ends with Wymincham vulgo Wincham.

In nearly all cases 1 page is devoted to one place; there are some pedigrees and some copies, charters, and records. Three hands seem to have been employed in making the copies. The ownerships of several places in A.D. 1710 are mentioned, and Mr. Hulmes' books seem not to have contributed information beyond that time, and these 3 volumes seem to have been copied not much later.

Folio, paper, 50 leaves, 17th century.—I. Observations concerning the Nobilitie of England, auncient and moderne:—

Cap. 1. Of the name and title of Duke.

Cap. 2. Of the name and title of Marquis.

Cap. 3. Of the name and title of Earle.

Cap. 4. Of the name and title of Viscount.

Cap. 5. Of the name and title of Baron.

Cap. 6. Of the power and jurisdiction of the auncient nobilitie of England.

Cap. 7. The several forms of patents of honour, auncient and moderne, with their limitations.

Cap. 8. Of the manner how Earles and other nobles were aunciently created, and how now.

Cap. 9. Of the yearly pensions and rents, auncient and modern, usually granted to the nobility at their creations.

Cap. 10. The order how Banneretts were made.

Cap. 11. Notes out of record concerning the question whether a Viscount is to be stiled Cousanguineus noster or Dilectus et fidelis noster by the King.

Cap. 12.—I. Strangers created Earls of England but not enjoying any dignity to place long, as being against the contentment of the State.—2. Strangers that have received titles of honour and enjoyed no place in Parliament.—3. Strangers that have enjoyed titles of honour and place in Parliament upon especial respects.—4. Englishmen stiled by forraigne titles yet had place in the Parliaments of England.

(The contents of the 12th cap. are only 11 lines, and the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th sections of it are not treated of.)

Cap. 13. Hereunto is added the auncient manner of summoning, holding, and proroguing of the Parliament of England, as well in the King's absence out of England as when he was personally present: together with the allowance of the knights and burgesses of the Parliament and the form of levying of the same.

The first treatise begins.—In the Saxon times before the Norman conquest, the now usuall word and title of Duke

II.—Modus antiqui summonendi tenendi et prorogandi Parliamentor: in Anglia. Claus. anno 28 Edw. III. m. 26, in dorso. (These are only writs or summons.)

Large-sized folio, paper, 16th century, paged to 332, and shields (10 on a page) for 3,320 coats of arms, some not filled in. At the end is an alphabetical list of names with references to the pages, and the respective numbers of the shields. Most of the arms are coloured. The tricking is good, but the colours have been added by a rough hand.—On a fly leaf at the beginning is the following note in the handwriting of Whinyate: "This booke was given by the Right Honble. the Lord Galloway at Mr. Le Neve's sale."

MARQUIS OF RIF.

MARQUIS
OF RIFON.

Large folio, paper, 16th century, 13 leaves. The 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th leaves have on each page 42 squares, each alternate square containing the coloured arms of peers and their blazon.—Each of pages 2 and 3 contains 90 squares; the 2nd page not full of arms (in trick) of Kings and Peers of Royal descent; the 3rd page full of "Insignia familiae Beauchamp co. Warwick." The last seven leaves have only the names and the arms in blason. Leaves 2-13 are paginated 61-82. A flyleaf at the beginning has the note, in Whinyate's handwriting, "This booke was given me at Mr. Le Neve's sale by Lord Galloway."

Folio, vellum, 13th century, 159 leaves, 2 columns, Latin. The second part of St. Jerome's letters. The first here is No. 78, the letter to Cyprian the Presbyter on the 89th Psalm. The last is numbered 123, the letter to Pamachius on the death of Paulina. The last nine leaves are occupied with a life of Jerome, beginning, Beatus igitur Jheronimus genere nobili ortus.

The first page of the volume contains a table of the letters. At the foot, by a later hand, are the words, Liber sancte Marie de Holme.

The blank margins of a few of the leaves have been cut away. The initial letters of the Epistles are large, and are alternately red flourished with green, and green flourished with red.

In 1824 Sir Henry Lawson, of Brough Hall, had recently acquired the volume, and he then gave it to the Rev. Dr. Scott, Vicar of Catterick. Sir H. Lawson's letter accompanying and declaring the gift is in the volume.

FOUNTAINS ABBEY DEEDS AND DOCUMENTS.

A. A thick folio volume, of 253 leaves of paper, containing copies of Charters, entries of homages, &c., with an Index.—The cover of the volume is composed of several layers of vellum covered with writing: two of the skins are original charters by King Edw. III. relating to Fountains Abbey.

B. A folio volume, of 161 leaves of paper, containing, in Latin, Serlo's Chronicle of Fountains Abbey:—names of those who did homage and fealty, and of them who did fealty only to divers Abbots of Fountains:—genealogy of the Lords of Percy:—index of names of places to the following:—memorandum of dealings with lands and tenants; and copies of charters and records.

Folio, paper, end of 18th century. Translation into English of Serlo's Chronicle:—and a copy of an old precedent book of the Abbey of Fountains.

A very long roll of vellum, 14th century, containing copies of Grants to the Abbey of Fountains.

A folio volume of Bursars' accounts of the Abbey, much decayed; about the middle of the 15th century.

11 Hen. VII. A thin folio rental of the estates of the Abbey.

A long roll of vellum containing accounts of plate, vestments, beasts, &c. belonging to the Abbey about the time of the dissolution; the total value was 1,106*l.* 18*s.* 13*d.*

Copies on vellum of several Papal Bulls.

The early deeds relating to the Abbey are very numerous and important. They comprise the foundation deed by Turstin Archbishop of York; a charter by Roger le Mubrai, having two very large seals.—A deed by Roger de Molbray to Robert Archbishop of York and the Chapter, says that all quarrels between the monks of Fountains and the sons of Drogo the forester about Aldeburgh had been appeased in the presence of his sons and men. Among the many witnesses are his sons Nigel and Robert; one of the witnesses is named Pharaman.—Another deed by Roger de Moubrai has his great seal nearly four inches in diameter; a warrior on horseback, the horse trappings reach to the ground. Deeds by Matilda formerly wife of William de Daunlle:—William de Solers;—Alice daughter of Waller, the propositus of Thappguel, c. 1300;—Gilbert de Watnone;—Gilbert son of John Watnone;—Nigel de Mubray;—William de Solers son of Turgis son of Malger;—Jernagot son of Helias of Tanfeld;—Richard de Hedune;—agreement between Richard Abbat of Fountains and John Abbat of Jervaulx;—Alianor daughter of Robert l'Oyselur;—John Aleman and Cassandra of Studley.

A deed of 1346 has a fine seal of lamb and flag on a table, being the seal of the Chapter of St. Wilfrid of Ripon.

A box full of ancient deeds relating to lands in Bramley, Sutton, Cayton, and Swinton.

One of land in Bramley has fine large seals of William de Mubrai and Roger de Mubrai.

MARQUIS
OF RIFON.

One of land in Sutton is by Roger and Nigel de Mubrai:—Another is by Alice de Gant, with a very large oval white seal, with a full length figure of a lady with a bird in her right hand, and a small cross in the left.

One of land in Cayton is a grant by Alan son of Reinald the archer (Sagittarius) to the Abbey. The witnesses are Sweyn, Gichel, Uctred, Orm, &c. It has the great seal of the Abbey.—Another is by King Henry II. confirming two carrucates of land in Cayton, which King Henry his grandfather gave to Serlo of Pembroke, and which Serlo gave to the Abbey. The witnesses are Hugh Murdach, John Cumin, Earl William de Manneville, William Earl of Arundel, Ralph de Glanville, and Ralph Poes. It is dated at Hereford.

Another box full of ancient deeds relating to lands in Markington and Ingerthorpe.

There are some deeds with the seal of the Mayor of York, and some with the Common Seal.

1330, May 14. Inspecimus and confirmation by the King of a grant to the Abbey by Henry de Percy, dated 19 Sept. 1328.

9 Richard II., March 2. Inspecimus and confirmation by the King of a Mowbray charter.

34 Hen. VI., March 5. Inspecimus, at the request of the Abbat, of certain Statutes—viz., Northampton, Edw. III.—1 Hen. V. against undersheriffs, &c.—3 Hen. V.—Then a petition, in English, in the then present Parliament on the 9th July last by John Abbat of Fountains: he says that there are 300 and more plaints against the Abbey, and they suffer great persecution; and the Abbat asks that the King and Lords would give aid that the Abbat might make their law by a Co-monk and six others; and assent to the petition.

35 Hen. VI., Feb. 20. Inspecimus (under the Duchy Seal) of a commission, and return of an Inquest on the bounds of Nydderdale and Knasheboro'.

1 Edw. IV., Nov. 25. Inspecimus and confirmation of various Royal Charters.

3 Hen. VIII., Jun. 16. Abbat Marmaduke hires Margaret Brown and her son Christopher to keep the Deer house loge, &c.; they are to keep 2 bulls, 60 kye, and 27 of their followers, &c., &c. Divers regulations and conditions follow.

32 Hen. VIII., Dec. 1. A deed between John Hall, clerk servant to William Blitheman, the King's receiver of the surrendered Monastery of Fountains of the one part, and Percival Ereswell, gentleman, servant to Sir Richard Gresham, of the other part. Hall has delivered to Ereswell certain deeds. A vast number are stated in this form, "A deed of (grantor's name)." The first mentioned is Archbishop Turstin's grant. The document occupies a large skin of parchment.

Folio, paper, 17 century.—The Reviewen of England, with the nobility of the same collected in the year 1610.—Under the head of Certainities come forfeitures, &c. Under the head of Casuals come fines, amercements, rents, forfeitures on penal Statutes, &c.; total 187,146*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.*

Casual; fines, felonies, &c.

Customs and subsidies, being fee farms, 171,224*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.* Revenues from the various counties.

Deductions.

Profits of the Great Seal of England, King's Bench, and Common Pleas, being casual.

The Nobility of England according to their several authorities and degrees. Beginning with Pawlet Marquis of Winchester, and ending with Clifton Lord Clifton. (4 pp.)

A survey of the offices of England, as well of His Majesty's Courts of Record as of His Majesty's honourable Household, His Highness's Councils of the North, of Wales, and of the Marches. The islands, towns of war, castles, bulwarks, and fortresses. His Majesty's houses, parks, forests, and chases, with the particular fees to each officer; written in anno 1610 (19 leaves).—At fo. 9*b* of the Household, the Treasurer was W. Lord Knolles, the Controller was Edward Lord Wotton, the Cofferer was Sir H. Cooke, the Master of the Household was Sir Robert Vernon.—At fo. 17*a* is a notice that Syon was disposed of by His Majesty to the Earl of Northumberland.

Abstracts and advertisements concerning the contents of this discourse, 1624.—The original and ancient estate of Wales, before and until the conquest thereof by King Edward I., in the second year of his reign (3*l.* pp., signed John Dodridge).—Address to the Queen.—The reason why in this discourse divers antiquities not vulgarly known concerning the Principality of Wales, Duchy of Cornwall, and Earldom of Chester are discovered.—Ends, all peace and happiness until the world's end.

A tract concerning the Court of the Earl Marshal of England. (6 leaves.) That the professors of the common law of England ought not to be excluded from practising in cases of honour.

They have been admitted to practise in these cases without denial in the memory of man, &c.

Instances for maintenance of the precedent.

Reasons.

An answer to that objected on the contrary.

An Act for the hability of the Earl of Oxon, 3 & 4 Edw. IV.

Aliens.

The considerations that a barony only created by writ to come to the Parliament may not continue when the barony descendeth to heirs female.

Carta erectionis Radulphi Com. Westmoreland, 21 Ric. 2.

The whole process between Richard Lord Latymer and Robert Lord Brooke for the barony of Latymer, temp. Hen. VI.

The answer of Richard Lord Latymer to the bill of Robert Willoughby, of Brook, Kt.

1700. 1 p. Printed paper issued by the Duke of Norfolk, as Earl Marshal, giving notice of the proceedings on the burial of the Duke of Gloucester on Friday the 9th of August.

Formulary for the coronation of King George. (39 small 4to. pp.)

1727, April 29, College of Arms. Letter by E. Stibbs, Chester Herald, to P. le Neve, Norroy King at Arms. Invitation to dine.

1727, June 15. News of the death of King George I. on the 11th of June.

Proceedings at Leicester House, 14 June, 1727. Proclamation of the new King. (This is in Whynates' handwriting.)

Printed broadside of the Proclamation.

In the Library are two large folios of original Proclamations. One is of those issued by Queen Elizabeth, and the other of those issued by King James I. They were collected by Humphry Dyson, who had title pages printed for them. The first is dated in 1618, and the second in 1623. Lowndes's Bibliographers Manual (ed. 1834) mentions the first collection only.

My best thanks are given to Lord Ripon for his kind hospitality at Studley-Royal.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF THE MOST HONOURABLE
THE MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.

1598.

- Jan. 1. Sir H. Docwra to Mr. Reynolds.
- Jan. 1. M. Guicciardini to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 1. [E. of Essex] to Sir F. Greville.
- Jan. 1. Sir F. Vere and Mr. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 1. Israel Amyce to Lo. Burghley.
- Jan. 2. Mr. Edmonds to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 2. The same to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 2. Sir Robt. Kerr to Sir T. Percy.
- Jan. 2. Capt. R. Bosseville to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 2. The Scottish Pledges to Abp. of York and Council of the North.
- Jan. 2. Abp. of York and Council of the North to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 2. Sir H. Bromley to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 3. Mr. Fox to Mr. Reynolds.
- Jan. 3. Sir Geo. Carey to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 3. Sir Ch. Blount to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 3. Geo. Throckmorton to the same.
- Jan. 3. P. Proby to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 3. Sir Geo. Carey to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 4. M. Trott to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 4. Bp. of London, Sir T. Gerrard, Sir R. Martyn, and R. Topclyffe to the same.
- Jan. 4. E. of Essex to Lo. Willoughby.
- Jan. 4. R. Ashton to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 5. J. Bassadonna to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 6. Mr. Becher to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 6. Lady Burgh to the same.
- Jan. 6. R. Lowther to the same.
- Jan. 6. Mr. Cuffe to Mr. Saville.
- Jan. 7. Lord Keeper Egerton to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 7. Vidam de Chartres to the same.
- Jan. 7. Capt. Oste to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 7. Sir W. Browne to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 8. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 9. Justices of Middlesex to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 9. Ld. Buckhurst to E. of Essex.

- Jan. 9. Lease of Customs to Th. Bellot and Rog. Haughton of London.
- Jan. 10. Ri. Carmarden to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 10. Capt. Jo. Chamberlayn to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 10. Sir Ant. Pawlett to the same.
- Jan. 10. Ant. Wardman to the same.
- Jan. 10. Warrant from Jas. Fitz Thomas, E. of Desmond, to Capt. Rock.
- Jan. 11. Sir M. Morgan to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 11. A. Champenoune to the same.
- Jan. 11. Jo. Bird to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 11. Sir Ant. Radcliffe to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 11. R. Hadsor to the same.
- Jan. 12. Sir T. Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 12. Sir E. Bulstrode to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 12. E. of Pembroke to the same.
- Jan. 12. Capt. H. Carew to the same.
- Jan. 12. Sir H. Docwra to the same.
- Jan. 12. Geo. Gilpin to the same.
- Jan. 12. Sir Tho. Percy to the same.
- Jan. 12. Sir Ed. Conway to the same.
- Jan. 12. Countess of Warwick to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 12. Lord Keeper Egerton to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 12. Capt. R. Moryson to the same.
- Jan. 13. Sir Chr. Heydon to the same.
- Jan. 13. Lord Keeper Egerton to Mr. Reynolds.
- Jan. 13. Michael Leeman to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 13. W. Beecher to the same.
- Jan. 13. Lo. Mountjoye to the same.
- Jan. 14. Capt. Moyle to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 15. Ant. Wardman to the same.
- Jan. 15. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 15. The same to the E. of Essex. (2.)
- Jan. 15. Sir Ed. Norris to the same.
- Jan. 15. R. Mansfield to the same.
- Jan. 15. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
- Jan. 15. Jos. Hilliard to the same.
- Jan. 16. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
- Jan. 16. Sir G. Hervey to the same.
- Jan. 16. Lo. Mordaunt to the same.
- Jan. 16. Sir Ed. Hastings to the same.
- Jan. 16. Israel Amyce to Lo. Burghley.
- Jan. 17. Th. Gurling to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 17. The Justices of Suffolk to the same.
- Jan. 18. Flo. Macarthy to the same.
- Jan. 18. Council of the North to the same.
- Jan. 19. Lady Winchester to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 19. Noel de Caron to the same.
- Jan. 19. Nich. Darcy to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 20. R. Foxe to Mr. Reynolds.
- Jan. 20. E. of Northumberland to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 20. Sir R. Molyneux to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 21. The Mayor, &c. of Newcastle to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 21. Lord Willoughby to the same.
- Jan. 21. States General to the same.
- Jan. 22. Th. Warburton to Mr. Reynolds.
- Jan. 22. Lord Willoughby to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 23. Th. Lily to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 23. Sir H. Docwra to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 23. The Mayor, &c. of Exeter to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 24. Sir W. Reed to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 24. Wal. Plunkett to the same.
- Jan. 24. Sir R. Jermyn to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 24. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 24. Mr. Cowley to the same.
- Jan. 25. Sir W. Brown to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 25. Capt. R. Moryson to the same.
- Jan. 25. Rich. Bermingham to the same.
- Jan. 25. Sir H. Docwra to the same.
- Jan. 25. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 25. Ant. Anton to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 26. [?] (signature torn off) to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 26. Ralph Bowes to the same.
- Jan. 26. Sir A. Savage to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 26. Sir Th. Knowles to the same.
- Jan. 26. Justices of Suffolk to the same.
- Jan. 27. Dean and Chapter of Westminster to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 27. Sir F. Hastings to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 27. W. Becher to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 28. Wal. Bagot to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 28. Council of the North to the Privy Council.
- Jan. 28. Sir Th. Knollys to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 28. Th. Dyves to the same.
- Jan. 29. Ralph Dobinson to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 29. Th. Smithe to E. of Essex.
- Jan. 29. Justices of Northamptonshire to the same.
- Jan. 30. Philippo Corsini to Sir R. Cecil.
- Jan. 30. Lord Deputy Norreys to Capt. A. Rock.
- Jan. 30. Mr. Colville to E. of Essex.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Jan. 30. Sir Ed. Wotton to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 30. Copie de pouvoir donné par le Roy d'Espagne au Cardinal Archange d'Autriche, &c.
Jan. —. Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
Jan. —. W. Button to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. —. Sir Geo. Devereux to E. of Essex.
Jan. —. M. La Fontaine to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. —. Sir E. Hastings to E. of Essex.
Jan. —. Mr. Ireland to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. —. Jas. Perrott to E. of Essex.
Jan. —. Sir R. Sidney to the same.
Jan. —. Geo. Throckmorton (?) to the same.
Jan. —. Sir F. Vere to the same.
Jan. —. Dowager Lady Russell to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 1. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
Feb. 2. Mrs. Wright to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 2. Sir H. Brouncker to E. of Essex.
Feb. 2. Jo. Cave to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 2. Wm. Typper to the same.
Feb. 2. Sir H. Docwra to E. of Essex.
Feb. 3. Sir Geo. Carey to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 3. Wm. Harbort to E. of Essex.
Feb. 3. Examination of Ralph Shabrooke, and others, soldiers of the expedition to Cadiz.
Feb. 4. Sir G. Fenton to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 4. Sir M. Parker's charges about surveys, &c. of of Falmouth, Foy, and Plymouth, 9 Nov. 1597 to Feb. 5. Steph. Lesieur to the Admiral of the ships in the narrow seas.
Feb. 5. Governor of Dieppe to E. of Essex.
Feb. 5. Sir H. Docwra to the same.
Feb. 6. T. Harrison to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 6. R. Meredith (Chaplain to Sir R. Cecil) to the same.
Feb. 6. Lo. Mountjoy to the same. (2.)
Feb. 7. Sir Anth. Paulet to same.
Feb. 8. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
Feb. 9. Sir E. Denny to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 9. Mr. Brown to the same.
Feb. 9. Sir Th. Knollis to E. of Essex.
Feb. 9. Sir Geo. Carey to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 9. Sir Th. Knollis to E. of Essex.
Feb. 9. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
Feb. 9. Capt. N. Saunders, G. Leicester, and F. Maddison to the same.
Feb. 10. Governor of Dieppe to E. of Essex.
Feb. 11. T. Smith to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 11. Messieurs de Belleure et de Silley to King of France.
Feb. 11. Sir Post. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 11. Allen Percy to E. of Rutland.
Feb. 12. The Sheriff and Justices of Lancashire to Sir
R. Cecil.
Feb. 12. The Spanish Commissioners to the Cardinal.
Feb. 12. Lord Ed. Stourton to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 12. Rob. Gulliford to E. of Essex.
Feb. 13. H. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 13. Sir F. Knollis to E. of Essex.
Feb. 13. Thomas Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 14. Steph. Lesieur to the same.
Feb. 15. M. Stanhope to the same.
Feb. 16. Sir H. Cocke to the same.
Feb. 17. Sir H. Neville to the same.
Feb. 17. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
Feb. 17. Dr. Chippingdale to the same.
Feb. 17. Sir J. Stanhope to the same.
Feb. 17. Lord Chief Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 18. Geo. Carr to Capt. Forrét.
Feb. 18. The same to Mr. Cunningham.
Feb. 18. Attorney-General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 18. Sir. Ant. Mildmay to the same.
Feb. 19. Lord Hunsdon to the same.
Feb. 19. J. Gnerson to Capt. Forrét.
Feb. 19. The same to Lient. Fraser.
Feb. 19. Sir J. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 20. Lady Winchester to the same.
Feb. 21. Lord Chief Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 21. A. Gorges to the same.
Feb. 21. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 21. Countess of Bedford to the same.
Feb. 21. Sir Ed. Norris to the same.
Feb. 21. S. Antdemelle to Sir Geo. Carey.
Feb. 21. Dr. Chr. Parkins to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 22. Sir H. Brouncker to the same.
Feb. 22. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
Feb. 22. Sir W. Fitzwilliam to the same.
Feb. 22. Mr. Normanville to E. of Essex.
Feb. 23. Nich. Darcy to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 23. Sir R. Napper to the same.
Feb. 24. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex. (2.)
- Feb. 24. The same to Oliver ?
Feb. 24. The same to Jer. Lindsay.
Feb. 24. W. Cape to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 24. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
Feb. 24. Sir Ant. Cook to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 24. Jo. Colville to Mr. Hudson.
Feb. 24. Philippo Corsini to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 24. Th. Arundel to the same.
Feb. 25. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
Feb. 25. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Feb. 25. M. Le Chatt ? to the Queen.
Feb. 26. Mr. Beverley to Capt. Constable.
Feb. 27. The Commissioners at Plymouth to Sir R.
Cecil.
Feb. 28. F. Mylles (Secretary to Sir F. Walsingham)
to the same.
Feb. 28. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
Feb. 28. Mr. Beeston to the same.
Feb. 28. Lo. Dunsany to the same.
Feb. 28. Th. Harrison to Mr. Willis.
Feb. 28. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. —. The same to E. of Essex.
Feb. —. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. —. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
Feb. —. Lord Keeper Egerton to E. of Essex.
Feb. —. Catharine of Navarre to E. of Essex.
Feb. —. Wines stayed at Chester, brought by Capt.
Constable.
Feb. —. Shipping and soldiers on board in river of Liverpool, Wyer, Formbie, and in Chester Water.
Mar. 1. Tho. Windebank to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 1. Instructions for Commissioners for sale of Royal lands.
Mar. 1. License to kill quickly veal &c. during Lent for use of Arch. Douglas.
Mar. 2. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 2. Sir Ant. Cook to E. of Essex.
Mar. 2. Dr. Parkins to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 3. Sir H. Neville to the same.
Mar. 3. Mr. Wheeler to the same.
Mar. 4. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
Mar. 4. Instructions for John Udall sent into the north (for a secret enterprize in Ireland).
Mar. 5. Lord R. North to the same.
Mar. 5. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
Mar. 5. Sir Ant. Cooke to E. of Essex.
Mar. 6. Lord Admiral, Nottingham, to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 6. Th. Burger to E. of Essex.
Mar. 6. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 7. Sir Ch. Percy to E. of Essex.
Mar. 7. Capt. Boyer to Lord Hunsdon.
Mar. 7. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 7. H. Allington to the same.
Mar. 7. Capt. R. Davis to E. of Essex.
Mar. 8. Mr. Honiman to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 8. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
Mar. 8. Lord Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 8. Jo. Fortescue to E. of Essex.
Mar. 8. Sir M. Barkley to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 9. Mr. Beverley to E. of Essex.
Mar. 9. Sir F. Gorges to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 9. Mayor of Chester and Sir J. Shelton to E. of Essex.
Mar. 10. Mr. Goringe to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 10. Mr. Meredith to E. of Essex.
Mar. 10. Jo. Wythers to the Queen.
Mar. 11. E. of Northumberland to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 12. Justice Grange to the same.
Mar. 12. Lord Admiral Nottingham, to the same.
Mar. 13. Merchants trading to Italy to the same.
Mar. 13. Sir J. Stanhope to the E. of Essex.
Mar. 14. Wm. Stallenge, &c. to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 16. Dr. Stanhope to the same.
Mar. 16. Deputies of the States to the Queen.
Mar. 16. Propositions and reply of the Lords of the Council and the Deputies of the States.
Mar. 17. Sir Ar. Chichester to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 17. Mayor of Chester and Sir Arthur Chichester to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 17. Sir Jo. Brooke to the same.
Mar. 18. Th. Webster to — ?
Mar. 18. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 19. Sir Ed. Coke to the same.
Mar. 19. Th. Smith to the same.
Mar. 19. The Council to Lo. Burghley.
Mar. 20. Lo. Dunsany to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 20. Geo. Gilpin to the E. of Essex.
Mar. 20. The Queen to Lo. Burghley.
Mar. 21. E. Brown to the Lord Treasurer.
Mar. 21. Dr. Parkins to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 21. Mr. Cherry to the same.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Mar. 22. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Mar. 22. Sir H. Danvers to the same.
 Mar. 22. Sir A. Cooke to the same.
 Mar. 23. Jacomo Marengo to E. of Essex.
 Mar. 23. Capt. Fitzgerald to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 23. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 Mar. 23. Jacomo Morenco to E. of Essex.
 Mar. 23. Mr. Fane to Lo. Cobham.
 Mar. 23. Mr. Bellot to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 23. Survey of all mares and colts at Castlehay, Hanbury Park, and Castlepark by Sir Ed. Littleton and Sir Hum. Ferrers, upon letters of E. of Essex, Master of the Horse.
 Mar. 24. The English Commissioners to the Deputies of the States.
 Mar. 24. Survey of Queen's mares and colts in Cowford Park, Wilts.
 Mar. 25. Attorney General Coke to Lord [?]
 Mar. 25. Solicitor General Fleming to Lo. Tho. Burghley.
 Mar. 25. Mr. Houghton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 26. M. de Colville to K. of France.
 Mar. 27. Sir E. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 27. English Commissioners for the Peace to Privy Council.
 Mar. 28. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 28. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 Mar. 28. Lord Eure to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 29. Tho. Ferrers to the same.
 Mar. 31. Jo. Udall to E. of Essex.
 Mar. —. Mr. Beeston to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. —. T. Harrison to the same.
 Mar. —. Sir T. Knollys to the same.
 Mar. —. The same to the Queen.
 Mar. —. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. —. Sir M. Throckmorton to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 1. Robt. Brett to the same.
 Apr. 1. Capt. R. Hawkins to the same.
 Apr. 2. The Queen to the Burgomasters of Brill.
 Apr. 3. Capt. Ed. Pryme to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 4. Capt. Lapiye and Sir F. Hoby to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 5. Sir R. Cecil and Sec. Herbert to the Queen.
 Apr. 7. Jo. Udall to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 7. Sir E. Wotton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Apr. 9. Ro. Vernon to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 11. Sir Ed. Norreys to the same.
 Apr. 12. Capt. Ed. Pryme to E. of Essex.
 Apr. 16. Mr. Monet to the same.
 Apr. 17. Capt. Ed. Pryme to the same.
 Apr. 20. Sir Ed. Conway to the same.
 Apr. 21. Th. Bodley to the same.
 Apr. 25. The same to the same.
 Apr. 30. Particulars of train Bands, &c. in Dorset.
 Apr. —. T. Madryn to E. of Essex.
 May 1. Sir J. Fortescue to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 1. Jo. Wood to the same.
 May 2. Record du trafic, &c. between France and Spain.
 May 2. Stanzas in Greek, Latin, and French, to Cecil by Ro. Dewhurst.
 May 4. Mr. Killgrew to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 4. Sir Ed. Norreys to E. of Essex.
 May 4. Garrett de Malines to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 4. [Douglas ?] to [Mr. Udall].
 May 6. Lo. Willoughby to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 6. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 May 6. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 May 6. Capt. Chamberlayn to E. of Essex.
 May 6. Sir A. Ashley to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 7. [Jo. Udall] to E. of Essex.
 May 8. Dr. Gabr. Harvey (a friend of the poet Spenser) to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 9. Charges for five pinnaces for service on the west coast of Ireland for 4 months.
 May 10. The Queen to Lo. Burghley.
 May 10. Mr. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 10. Licence for starch, and its transfer through seven hands.
 May 11. Misdemeanors exhibited to Privy Council by the Mayor, &c. of Totness against W. Blackhaller.
 May 12. Lo. R. North to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 12. Hans Dyrykson to P. Van Lore.
 May 12. Misdemeanors of Mr. Barnes as steward of Soham?
 May 13. Sir G. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 13. The Mayor of Rochester to the same.
 May 13. Sir E. Zouche to the same.
 May 13. Frances, Co. of Essex, to E. of Southampton.
 May 13. Paule de la Hay, to Sir R. Cecil, with articles concerning Cath. Cicill.
 May 14. F. Peyton to Sir Jo. Peyton.
 May 15. Jo. Udall to E. of Essex.
 May 15. R. Gwynne to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 15. Lo. Mountjoy to the same.
 May 15. King of France to E. of Essex.
 May 16. Sir F. Greville to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 16. [Douglas] to [J. Udall].
 May 17. Dr. Julius Caesar to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 17. E. of Essex to Lo. Willoughby?
 May 18. Jo. Udall to Bp. of Durham.
 May 19. Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex.
 May 19. Don Juan de Castro to the same.
 May 20. Joan de Arbellys to Mr. Honnyman.
 May 20. Lord Chief Justice to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 20. Capt. J. May to the same.
 May 22. W. Winston and J. Parry to Lo. Burghley.
 May 23. Report of outrage between scholars of Oxford and townsmen.
 May 25. Capt. Chamberlayn to E. of Essex.
 May 27. Mr. Bellot to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 27. Jo. Udall to E. of Essex.
 May 27. Sir Th. Cecil to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 27. Mr. Colville to E. of Essex.
 May 28. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 28. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 May 28. Relation of occurrences between the scholars of the University and the townsmen of Oxford.
 May 29. The Queen to Lo. Burghley.
 May 29. Lo. Hen. Howard to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 30. Sir Ed. Zouche to the same.
 May 30. Noel de Carron to the same.
 May 31. The Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 May 31. M. Monet to the same.
 May —. Sir R. Cecil to Abp. of Canterbury.
 May —. Jo. Gytes to Mr. Middleton.
 May —. Mr. Wingfield to Sir R. Cecil.
 May —. Edm. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
 May —. Duc de Bouillon to E. of Essex (2).
 May —. Examination of Spaniards taken at sea by Capt. Hobbe or Jobe.
 June 1. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 1. Sir E. Zouche to the same.
 June 2. Sir T. Chaloner to Ant. Bacon.
 June 2. E. of Pembroke to Lo. Burghley.
 June 2. Dr. E. Fletcher to E. of Essex.
 June 3. Jo. Kyllgrew to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 3. Pardon of Sir Chas. and Sir Hen. Danvers.
 June 4. Sir A. Gorges to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 4. Lady Norreys to the same.
 June 4. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 June 5. M. de Fontaine to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 6. Jo. Philippes to the same.
 June 6. Sir Ed. Norreys to E. of Essex.
 June 7. Attorney General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 7. Lo. Burghley to Attorney-General Coke.
 June 7. Lo. Burghley to Lo. North and Sir Wm Knoller.
 June 8. Prince Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
 June 8. Mr. Hungerford to the same.
 June 9. Sir Ed. Zouche to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 9. Wm. Waade to the same.
 June 9. Sir F. Vere to the same.
 June 9. Mr. Paddon to the same.
 June 9. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 June 10. Mr. Saxey to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 11. R. Wiseman to the same.
 June 11. The Mayor of Chester to Privy Council.
 June 11. H. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 11. Th. Myddleton to the same.
 June 11. Lord Dunsany to the same.
 June 11. The Magistrates of Colchester to the same.
 June 12. Capt. R. Hawkins to the Queen.
 June 12. Ar. Alyn to Arch. Douglas.
 June 12. Sir C. Danvers to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 12. Sir Ed. Zouche to the same.
 June 12. Sir F. Vere to the same.
 June 12. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 June 13. Sir Hor. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 13. Sir R. Molyneux to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 June 14. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 June 14. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 14. Mr. Colville to E. of Essex.
 June 15. Lieut. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 15. — to R. Graeme.
 June 15. A. White to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 15. Agnes, Countess of Errol to Arch. Douglas.
 June 15. Rob. Dolman to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 15. M. Monet (Major of Boulogne) to E. of Essex.
 June 16. Lord R. North to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 18. E. of Pembroke to the same.

June 18. The same to the Queen.
 June 18. Ant. Perez to King of France?
 June 18. Lady Yonge to the Lord Treasurer.
 June 18. H. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 20. S. M. B., &c. to Father Nangle.
 June 23. Duke of Florence to King of Scots.
 June 21. Lord Mayor of London to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 21. Sir F. Vere and Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 June 21. Import from Venice of gold and silver lace,
 &c., from London, to Christmas, 1595.
 June 22. J. de Duenezwirde to E. of Essex.
 June 23. Lady Anne Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 23. Sir N. Parker to Privy Council.
 June 24. The Magistrates of Totness to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 24. Sir T. Hoby to the same.
 June 26. The Mayor, &c. of Salisbury to Sir J. Stanhope.
 June 26. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 26. Advertisements from St. Germain's.
 June 27. Sir J. Holles to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 27. L'Admiral de Bretagne to E. of Essex.
 June 27. Sir Ed. Zouche to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 28. Sir Jo. Fortescue to the same.
 June 28. Sir M. Stanhope to the same.
 June 29. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 June 29. Sir Tho. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 29. Dr. E. Fletcher to E. of Essex.
 June 30. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 30. King of France to E. of Essex.
 June —. Duc de Bouillon to the same.
 June —. Gentlemen of Lincoln, Northampton, and Huntingdon to Privy Council.
 June —. E. of Essex to the same.
 June —. Jo. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 June —. Lady Leighton to the same.
 June —. Lord Admiral Nottingham to the same.
 June —. Magistrates of the City of Oxford to the same.
 June —. Vice Chancellor, &c. of the University to
 the same.
 June —. Lady Rogers to the same.
 June —. E. of Southampton to the same.
 July 1. Aldermen, &c. of Kingston-upon-Hull to Sir
 R. Cecil.
 July 1. Sir M. Levins to "Son Excellence" [E. of Essex?].
 July 1. Sir Geo. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 2. M. Franc. le Fort to the same.
 July 3. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 July 4. Sir J. Holles to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 4. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 July 4. Noel Carron to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 4. Sir Hen. Docwra to E. of Essex.
 July 4. Sir Ed. Norreys to the same.
 July 5. R. Carmarden to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 6. Countess of Desmond to the same.
 July 6. — to the same.
 July 7. Sir W. Russell to the same.
 July 7. F. Le Fort to the same.
 July 7. Sir R. Cecil to E. of Pembroke.
 July 7. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 7. Sir R. Cecil to E. of Essex.
 July 7. Sir T. Cecil to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 7. H. Maynard to the same.
 July 7. Sir Ed. Conway to E. of Essex.
 July 7. Lancelot Carleton to the same.
 July 7. Advertisements from Paris.
 July 8. Wm. Kyllgrew to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 8. Sir Hen. Docwra to E. of Essex.
 July 8. H. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 9. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 July 9. De la Fontaine to the same.
 July 9. Lieut. Ogle to the same.
 July 9. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.
 July 10. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 July 11. Sir N. Parker to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 12. W. Cooke to the same.
 July 12. Geo. Gilpin to the same.
 July 13. Lient. Woodington to the same.
 July 13. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 July 13. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 July 15. Dr. Lloyd to the same.
 July 15. H. Maynard to the same.
 July 15. E. of Essex to Humph. Mildmay.
 July 16. Mich. Hicks to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 16. Jas. Golde to the same.
 July 16. Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
 July 16. Sir Th. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 16. M. Aersens, for the States to E. of Essex.
 July 17. Maurice of Nassau to the same.
 July 17. Geo. Gilpin to the same.

July 18. Sir Post. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 18. The Queen to Lo. Burghley.
 July 18. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 18. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 July 18. Sir Wm. Sandes to Lord Chamberlain.
 July 18. Th. Bradshaw to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 19. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 July 19. Capt. Dawtrey to the same.
 July 20. The Lord Mayor to Privy Council.
 July 20. Mr. Margits to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 20. R. Carmarden to E. of Essex.
 July 21. Don Emanuel to the same.
 July 21. Lo. Grey to Lo. Cobham.
 July 21. Sir C. Danvers to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 22. Geo. Cranmer to —.
 July 22. Lady Anne Wentworth to Sir Cecil.
 July 22. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
 July 23. Th. Morley to the same.
 July 23. R. Barnes to the same.
 July 24. Jo. Keymer to the same.
 July 24. Sir E. Fytton to the same.
 July 24. Capt. Dawtrey to the same.
 July 25. Donoghue O'Connor, Sligo, to the same.
 July 26. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 July 26. John Cutts, Jo. Peyton, and Jo. Cotton to Sir Horatio Palavicino.
 July 27. Sir E. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 27. Sir T. Cecil to the same.
 July 28. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.
 July 28. Advertisements from Paris.
 July 28. Duc de Bouillon to E. of Essex.
 July 28. Tho. Scudamore to Lo. Burghley.
 July 29. Sir Ed. Norreys to E. of Essex.
 July 29. Countess of Clancarty to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 29. Mr. Stileman to the same.
 July 30. Th. Ireland to the same.
 July 30. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to the same.
 July 30. Sir Hor. Palavicino to dep. lieutenants of Cambridgeshire.
 July 31. E. of Essex to "Mr. Hilliard, Esq."
 July 31. Peyton and Cotton dep. lieut. of Cambridgeshire to Sir Hor. Palavicino.
 July 31. Sir E. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 31. Sir E. Zouche to the same.
 July 31. H. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 July 31. Mr. Harris to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 31. Advertisements from Paris.
 July —. Jo. Keymer to Sir R. Cecil.
 July —. Jo. Marshall to the same.
 July —. Count Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
 July —. Dowager Lady Russell to Sir R. Cecil.
 July —. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
 July —. Capt. J. Stafford to the same.
 July —. Sir F. Vere to E. of Essex.
 July —. J. Aquirre y Vergara to the same.
 Aug. 1. Lo. Cobham to Mr. Oldsworth.
 Aug. 1. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 1. Rich. Hawkins to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 1. Justices of Lincolnshire to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 1. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 Aug. 2. Sir E. Stafford to the same.
 Aug. 2. Roger Wilbraham (solicitor general for Ireland) to the same.
 Aug. 2. Sir W. Cornwallies to the same.
 Aug. 3. Th. Windebanke to the same.
 Aug. 3. Sir R. Molynieux to the same.
 Aug. 4. R. Howland, Bp. of Peterborough, to the same.
 Aug. 4. Steven Rodney to the same.
 Aug. 4. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Aug. 4. Ramsey's last farewell of Ld. Burghley upon is death.
 Aug. 5. Sir F. Greville to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 5. Mr. Harris to the same.
 Aug. 5. H. Cuffe to H. Saville.
 Aug. 6. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 6. Mr. Maynard to the same.
 Aug. 7. R. Lute to the same.
 Aug. 7. Bapington, Bp. of Worcester, to the same.
 Aug. 8. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 Aug. 8. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Aug. 8. Sir E. Zouche to the same.
 Aug. 8. The Mayor of Chester to the same.
 Aug. 8. Sir J. Fortescue to the same.
 Aug. 8. Sir R. Cecil to Lady Sheffield.
 Aug. 8. Mr. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 8. Flo. Macarthy to the same.
 Aug. 10. Stephen Lynch to the same.
 Aug. 10. Giov. Batt. Gustiniani to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 10. Dr. Goodman to the same.
 Aug. 11. Wm. Waade to the same.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Aug. 11. The Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 12. The same to the same.
 Aug. 12. Sir E. Zouche to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 12. Jo. Danyell to the same.
 Aug. 13. G. Battista Gustiniani to the same.
 Aug. 13. Andrew Farye to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 13. Lo. E. Seymour to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 13. Sir Ed. Conway to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 14. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 14. Sir Fr. Cockayne to Tho. Fernes.
 Aug. 14. Sir F. Georges to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 14. Justices of Lincolnshire to the same.
 Aug. 14. Jo. Cowley to the same.
 Aug. 14. Lo. Th. Burghley to the same.
 Aug. 14. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Aug. 14. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Aug. 15. Rog. Manners to the same.
 Aug. 15. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 15. Rich. Hador to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 15. Vincent Skinner to the same.
 Aug. 15. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 Aug. 17. Duc. De Bouillon to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 18. Serjeant Spurling to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 19. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 20. Sir M. Morgan to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 20. E. of Southampton to the same.
 Aug. 20. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Aug. 22. Sir W. Bowes to the same.
 Aug. 22. Dr. Goodman to the same.
 Aug. 23. Mr. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 23. Lady Walsingham to the same.
 Aug. 23. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Aug. 25. Sir Jo. Dowdall to the same.
 Aug. 26. E. of Essex to the Queen.
 Aug. 27. Prince Hohenlohe to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 27. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 31. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 Aug. 31. Sir H. Cocke to the same.
 Aug. —. Sir M. Barkley to the same.
 Aug. —. Sir H. Danvers to the same.
 Aug. —. Countess of Essex to the E. of Essex.
 Aug. —. Lord Sheffield to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. —. J. de Dunemwirde (the Dutch Admiral) to E. of Essex.
 Aug. —. Irish Debts and Great Warrant for Ireland.
 Aug. —. List of Aldermen who have lent money.
 Sept. 1. Geo. Pott to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 1. Lo. Th. Burghley to the same.
 Sept. 2. The same to the same.
 Sept. 2. Articles for M.D.H. and Queries (in E. of Essex hand).
 Sept. 3. J. Parker to Mr. Reynolds.
 Sept. 4. J. Clapham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 4. Robert, E. of Sussex, to the same.
 Sept. 4. Ri. Knight to Jo. Clapton.
 Sept. 4. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 4. Money payable out of the office of Receiver of the Court of Wards to the Cofferer.
 Sept. 4. W. Fletewood (Receiver of the Wards) to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 5. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 Sept. 5. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 5. Sir Ed. Norreys to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 5. Earl of Essex to the Queen.
 Sept. 5. Giov. Batt. Gustiniani to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 5. Phillipo Corsini to the same.
 Sept. 6. The Privy Council to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 6. Privy Council to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 6. Sir Jo. Dowdall to the same.
 Sept. 7. Sir H. Winston to the same.
 Sept. 7. Bailiffs of Colchester to the same.
 Sept. 7. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Sept. 7. Duc de Biron to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 8. Lady Burgh to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 9. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Sept. 9. Sir Ferd. Gorges to the same.
 Sept. 9. H. Maynard to the same.
 Sept. 9. Dr. Lyly to the same.
 Sept. 9. Sir H. Danvers to the same.
 Sept. 10. Sir T. Sherley (the younger) to the same.
 Sept. 10. Capt. C. Chamberlain to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 10. The Mayor, &c., of Plymouth to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 10. Mr. Stanhope to the same.
 Sept. 11. And. Hunter (Chaplain of the Scots Regiment) to the same.
 Sept. 11. Sir E. Conway to the same.
 Sept. 11. Sir T. Wilford to the same.
 Sept. 11. Jo. Ferne to the same.
 Sept. 12. Lo. Grey to the same.
 Sept. 13. Capt. Jo. Throckmorton to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 13. Th. Smith to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 13. The under-Bailiff of Westminster to the same.
 Sept. 13. Sir R. Cecil to the Commissioners at Plymouth.
 Sept. 13. Wm. Poyntz to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 14. Sir Th. Sherley (the younger) to the same.
 Sept. 14. C. Hopham to W. Jackson (Town Clerk of Newcastle).
 Sept. 15. Ri. Bingham to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 15. Sir Ed. Conway to the same.
 Sept. 16. Sir F. Gorges and Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 16. Mayor of Plymouth to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 16. Capt. Philipps to the same.
 Sept. 17. Confession of W. Wills.
 Sept. 18. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 18. Lo. Chandos to the same.
 Sept. 18. Ch. Harris to the same.
 Sept. 18. Wm. Tooke to the same.
 Sept. 19. E. of Southampton to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 19. Sir Wm. Knollis to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 20. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Sept. 20. Mr. Hemington to Privy Council.
 Sept. 20. The Elders of the Strangers' Church at Southampton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 20. Lo. Cobham to E. of Southampton.
 Sept. 20. Fr. Bacon to Mr. Reynolds.
 Sept. 20. Captain Bassett to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 21. Geo. More to the Queen.
 Sept. 22. E. of Southampton to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 22. Capt. Stanley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 23. Sir A. Radcliffe to the same.
 Sept. 24. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.
 Sept. 24. Vincent Skinner to the same.
 Sept. 24. Fr. Bacon to the same.
 Sept. 24. Mr. Middleton to the same.
 Sept. 24. E. of Rutland to the same.
 Sept. 24. Aldermen of York to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 25. Sir W. Browne to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 25. Wm. Turner to Mr. Tredway.
 Sept. 25. Capt. Hill to Lord Buckhurst.
 Sept. 25. 66. (Colville) to Mr. Reynolds.
 Sept. 25. Th. Eytton to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 26. R. Bowes to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 26. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 27. F. Greville to the same.
 Sept. 28. Hen. Rowland (Elect. of Bangor) to the same.
 Sept. 28. Sir T. Sherley to the same.
 Sept. 29. Sir Th. Leighton to the same.
 Sept. 29. R. Carmarden to the same.
 Sept. 30. Capt. Chamberlain to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 30. King of France to the same.
 Sept. 30. Sir W. Constable to Ed. Reynolds.
 Sept. —. Giov. Bassadonna to E. of Essex.
 Sept. —. Lo. Th. Burghley and Sir R. Cecil to the Queen.
 Sept. —. E. of Essex to Privy Council.
 Sept. —. T. Cartwright (the Puritan) to E. of Essex.
 Sept. —. And. Hunter to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. —. Jo. Jolles to the same.
 Sept. —. E. of Southampton to E. of Essex.
 Sept. —. Impost of Wines, for Southampton and Dorset.
 [Sept.] —. Rowland, Bp. of Bangor, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 1. M. Devie to Lord Cobham.
 Oct. 1. Henry Lok to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 1. H. Sanderson to the Mayor of Newcastle.
 Oct. 2. Sir R. Crosse to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 2. Sir Geo. Carey to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 2. H. Sanderson to the Mayor of Newcastle.
 Oct. 2. Flo. Macarthy to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 2. E. Burrows to the same.
 Oct. 3. R. Capelin to Mr. Reynolds.
 Oct. 3. Sir Ant. Sherley to the English Consul at Aleppo.
 Oct. 3. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 4. Sir Ed. Conway to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 4. Lady Burgh to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 6. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Oct. 6. E. of Southampton to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 6. Sir H. Dowera to the same.
 Oct. 6. Sir E. Hoby to the same.
 Oct. 6. Dowager Countess of Southampton to the same.
 Oct. 6. Lady Burgh to Mr. Windebank.
 Oct. 7. Sir Gilley Merriok to Mr. Reynolds.
 Oct. 7. Bailiff's of Wisbeach to Privy Council.
 Oct. 7. W. Waad, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 7. The same to E. of Essex, &c.
 Oct. 7. W. Jenison to E. of Essex.

Oct. 8. W. Waad to the same.
 Oct. 8. Th. Jones, Bp. of Meath, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 9. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 8. The Mayor, &c. of Portsmouth to the Lord
 Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 9. H. Vyvyan to Mr. Petceval.
 Oct. 9. Lady Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 10. Mr. Kingsmill to the same.
 Oct. 10. The Mayor and Aldermen of Newcastle.
 Oct. 11. Sir J. Fortescue to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 12. T. Smith to the same.
 Oct. 12. F. Rusher to Mr. Reynolds.
 Oct. 13. Justices of Devon to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 13. George Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 14. E. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 14. Capt. F. Stafford to the same.
 Oct. 14. Giov. Bassadonna to the Queen and Sir R.
 Cecil.
 Oct. 15. Lord Chief Justice Poplam to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 16. Sir Calisthenes Brooke to the same.
 Oct. 16. Sir. H. Docwra to the same.
 Oct. 17. Jo. White to the same.
 Oct. 17. Tho. Wright to E. of E.
 Oct. 17. Th. Wright to Ant. Bacon.
 Oct. 17. Wm. Waad to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 18. Capt. W. Jackson to the same.
 Oct. 18. Sir A. Throckmorton to Privy Council.
 Oct. 19. Sir Th. Leighton to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 20. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 20. Bp. of Chester to the same.
 Oct. 23. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 20. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 Oct. 21. Sir E. Yorke to the same.
 Oct. 21. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Oct. 21. Jo. Thorowgood to the same.
 Oct. 22. Dr. H. Cotton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 22. Sir H. Lee to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Oct. 22. M. Dumont to the King of France.
 Oct. 23. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 24. Sir Ed. Norreys to the same.
 Oct. 25. The Mayor, &c. of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 25. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 25. Don Juan de Castro to the same.
 Oct. 25. Th. Ferrers to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 26. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Oct. 26. Peyton (Lieut. of the Tower) to the same.
 Oct. 26. M. de Boissize to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 27. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 28. Sir R. Cary to the same.
 Oct. 28. The same to Mr. Reynolds.
 Oct. 28. Jo. Crake to Sir G. Merrick.
 Oct. 28. Lord Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 28. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 28. Mayor of Weymouth to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 28. Mr. Allington to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 28. H. Chapman to Earl of Essex.
 Oct. 28. Mayor of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 29. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.
 Oct. 29. W. Waad to the same.
 Oct. 30. Sir R. Sydney to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 30. Jas. Digges to the same.
 Oct. 30. Mayor of Hampton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 30. Jo. Udall to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 31. Ch. Percy to the same.
 Oct. —. Herbert Crofts to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. —. E. of Essex to the Queen.
 Oct. —. Capt. Malby to E. of Essex.
 Oct. —. Duc de Bouillon to E. of Essex.
 Oct. —. Horses in the Queen's stable.
 Nov. 1. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to Lo. North.
 Nov. 1. Fr. Bacon to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 1. Mayor, &c. of Newcastle to the same.
 Nov. 3. Sir J. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 3. Lo. Compton to the same.
 Nov. 3. Jo. Danyell to the same.
 Nov. 3. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 Nov. 3. Lord E. Crumwell to the same.
 Nov. 3. Susan Morgan to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 3. Sir O. Lambert to the same.
 Nov. 4. P. de Regemontes to the same.
 Nov. 4. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 4. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 4. Lancelot Curleton to the same.
 Nov. 4. Mr. Saltern to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 4. Examination of James Skenet, a Scotchman, before the Mayor of Newcastle (Succession).
 Nov. 5. Sir R. Sydney to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 5. Sir C. Danvers to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 5. E. of Essex to E. of Pembroke.
 Nov. 5. Attorney General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.

Nov. 6. Capt. H. Power to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 6. Chr. Harris to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 6. Sir W. Levison to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 6. Th. Acton to the same.
 Nov. 6. Mrs. Anne Williamson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 6. Sir Ed. Coke to the same.
 Nov. 7. E. of Sussex to Earl of Essex.
 Nov. 7. Abp. of Canterbury to Privy Council.
 Nov. 7. Sir H. Docwra to E. Reynolds.
 Nov. 8. The same to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 8. Jo. Danyell to Lord Bourke.
 Nov. 8. Jo. Phillips to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 9. R. Foxe to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 9. Sir Jo. Hollis to the same.
 Nov. 9. Jas. Digges to the same.
 Nov. 11. Sir H. Norris to the same.
 Nov. 11. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 13. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Nov. 14. Ri. Hawkins to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 14. ———— to ————.
 Nov. 15. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 15. Sir T. A. Gerald to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 16. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
 Nov. 16. Peter Proby to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 17. Ro. Milner to the same.
 Nov. 17. Sir Geo. Devereux to the same.
 Nov. 18. Lady Clifford to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 18. Paul Amret to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 18. Sir T. Vere and Geo. Gilpin to the same.
 Nov. 20. Paul de la Haye to Ri. Percivall.
 Nov. 20. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 20. Mr. Heton to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 20. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 21. H. Darrell to the same.
 Nov. 21. Wm. Becher to the same.
 Nov. 21. Mr. Harman to the same.
 Nov. 22. Sir W. Godolphin to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 22. Lady Abergavenny to the same.
 Nov. 22. Th. Wright to Ant. Bacon.
 Nov. 22. Mr. Southwell to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 22. H. Parkes to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 22. Sir Ch. Percy to the same.
 Nov. 23. J. Hill to the same.
 Nov. 23. M. Bellot to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 23. Lady Cath. Howard to the same.
 Nov. 23. Capt. Malby to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 24. Sergeant Spurling to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 24. Lord Admiral Nottingham to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 24. Capt. Izod to the same.
 Nov. 24. Capt. Chamberlain to the same.
 Nov. 24. Lord Chief Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 25. E. of Essex to Mr. Percy.
 Nov. 25. Jo. Havard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 25. Capt. Ch. Caesar to the same.
 Nov. 25. Paul de la Haye to the same.
 Nov. 25. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Nov. 25. W. Cooke to the same.
 Nov. 25. E. of Essex to Mr. Stanley.
 Nov. 26. Jo. Panton to Mr. Reynolds.
 Nov. 26. Sir H. Trenchard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 26. Geo. Gilpin to the same.
 Nov. 27. Garret Smith to the same.
 Nov. 28. Lord Mountjoy to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 28. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 28. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Nov. 28. Dr. Goodman to the same.
 Nov. 28. Chr. Hatton to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 28. Advertisements from the Low Countries.
 Nov. 29. Noel de Carron to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 29. Jo. Osborne to the same.
 Nov. 29. Wm. Ballard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 29. H. Asheley to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 29. Th. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 29. The same to the same.
 Nov. 30. E. of Bath to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 30. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 30. Tho. Wilcocks to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 30. Attorney General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 30. Lady Anne Howard to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 30. Mayor of Boulogne to Mr. Colville.
 Nov. 30. Sir F. Vere to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 30. Alex. Boyd to Arch. Douglas.
 Nov. 30. Thomas Lord Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. —. Sir Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex.
 Nov. —. E. of Lincoln to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. —. Capt. Malby to the same.
 Nov. —. E. of Southampton to E. of Essex.
 Nov. —. Sir F. Vere to the same.
 Nov. —. Nomination by the Keeper of the Great Seal of Sheriffs for Welsh counties for the succeeding year,
 Dec. 1. Th. Ferrers to E. of Essex.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Dec. 1. Lord Chief Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 1. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 1. Sir W. Levison to the same.
 Dec. 2. Dr. F. Byng to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 3. Jo. Harrington to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 3. Jo. Robinson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 3. Tho. Arundel to the same.
 Dec. 3. Sirs Th. Worsley, John Leigh, and John Mewys to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 4. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Dec. 5. Fr. Dacre to his daughter Eleanor.
 Dec. 5. Sir Chr. Moryson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 5. Lady M. Hawkins to E. of Essex and E. of Nottingham.
 Dec. 6. E. Moore to the E. of Essex.
 Dec. 6. Sir Th. Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 6. Sir F. Godolphin to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 6. R. Broughton to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 6. Ed Stanhope to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 7. Lord Mayor, &c. of London to Privy Council.
 Dec. 7. Jo. Colville to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 8. Flo. Macarthy to the same.
 Dec. 8. Sir H. Constable to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 8. Sir Robert Ker of Cessford to Th. Percy, Constable of Alnwick.
 Dec. 9. Capt. Malby to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 9. Justices of Warwick to Privy Council.
 Dec. 9. Sir T. Denny to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 9. Frederico Genebilli to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 9. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Dec. 10. Mayor, &c. of Coventry to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 10. Sir Mat. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 10. Sir W. Brown to the same.
 Dec. 11. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 11. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 12. Wm. Waad to the same.
 Dec. 12. Th. Edmonds to the same.
 Dec. 12. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 12. William Medely to the same.
 Dec. 12. E. of Essex to Mr. Stanhope.
 Dec. 12. Jo. Ferne to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 12. Council of York to Privy Council.
 Dec. 12. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 12. Sir T. Leighton to the same.
 Dec. 14. Th. Percy to Sir R. Ker.
 Dec. 14. Sir P. Harte to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 14. Sir Jo. Pointz to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 14. Lord Admiral Nottingham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 15. Th. Percy to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 15. Sir H. Docwra to the same.
 Dec. 16. Sir M. Morgan to the same.
 Dec. 16. Mr. Moyle to Sir George Carew.
 Dec. 16. Lo. Hunsdon to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 16. Jo. Stanhope to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 17. T. Bodley to the same.
 Dec. 17. W. Becher to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 17. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 17. Capt. Geo. Chamberlain to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 17. Mayor of Plymouth to Sir R. Cecil and Privy Council.
 Dec. 17. Attorney General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 17. Sir W. Russel to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 18. Ant. Wingfield to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 18. Lieut. of the Tower, Attorney General, Solicitor General, and Fr. Bacon to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 18. Mr. Murgatory to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 18. Noel de Carron to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 18. Don Juan de Guzman to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 18. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Dec. 18. Sir E. Norreys to the same.
 Dec. 18. Sir H. Docwra to the same.
 Dec. 18. Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 Dec. 18. R. Mansfield to the same.
 Dec. 20. Tho. Percy to Capt. Mansfield in Spierlutton.
 Dec. 20. E. of Huntingdon to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 20. George, Mayor of Southampton, to the same.
 Dec. 20. Geo. Wadham to the same.
 Dec. 20. Jas. Hudson to the same.
 Dec. 20. Th. Arundel to the same.
 Dec. 21. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 21. The same to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 21. Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 21. Don Jeronymo Arras de la Hez to the same.
 Dec. 21. Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 22. J. Guicciardini to the same.
 Dec. 22. M. Aersens for the States General to the same.

- Dec. 22. Geo. Gilpin to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 22. Noel de Carron to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 23. E. of Cumberland to the same.
 Dec. 23. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Dec. 23. E. of Essex to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 23. E. Foxe to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 24. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 24. Sir W. Russell to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 25. Lord Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 25. Les Marchants de l'Intreours to M. Carron.
 Dec. 25. Privy Council to Council of the North.
 Dec. 26. Th. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 26. The Queen to King of Scots.
 Dec. 26. Maurice of Nassau to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 26. Lady Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 27. Justices of Essex to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 27. Sir Jo. Harrington to the same.
 Dec. 27. R. Mansfield to the same.
 Dec. 27. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 Dec. 27. Hens to the same.
 Dec. 28. Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 Dec. 28. Lord Willoughby D'Eresby to the same.
 Dec. 28. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 29. Duc de Bonillon to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 29. Sir Th. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 29. Capt. Constable to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 29. Capt. Symes to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 30. R. Moryson to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 30. Capt. R. Gwynne to the same.
 Dec. 30. Sir F. Darcy to the same.
 Dec. 30. Sir Ant. Pawlett to Mr. Reynolds.
 Dec. 31. E. of Cumberland to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 31. Sir F. Vere & G. Gilpin to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 31. Sir Ant. Pawlett to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 31. Th. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. —. Sir Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex.
 Dec. —. Duc de Bouillon to the same.
 Dec. —. Lo. Herbert to the same.
 Dec. —. Lady M. Clifford to the same.
 Dec. —. Jo. Colville to the same.
 Dec. —. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. —. Sir Cl. Heigham to E. of Essex.
 Dec. —. Sir Ed. Hoby to the same.
 1598. Th. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 — The same to Lord H. Howard.
 — Th. Baskerville to E. of Essex.
 — Borivel to the same?
 — Geo. Brooke to E. of Essex.
 — The Queen to Lord Deputy of Ireland.
 — [The Queen] to Lord Treasurer.
 — Vidam de Chartres to E. of Essex.
 — Jo. Colville to the same.
 — [The Mayor of Boulogne?] to the same.
 — [The same?] to the same.
 — The Barons of the Cinque Ports to the Queen.
 — Clement Edmonds to Mr. Reynolds.
 — E. of Essex to Jo. Udall.
 — Sir Ant. Cope to E. of Essex.
 — E. of Essex to the Queen.
 — Sir H. Fortescue to E. of Essex.
 — Anonymous to —.
 — Sir Th. Gates to E. of Essex.
 — Mrs. Judith Hawkins (wife of R. Hawkins) to the Queen.
 — Lady Mary Hawkins to the Queen.
 — Sir M. Hicks to Mr. Reynolds.
 — Jo. Keymer to Earl of Essex.
 — Jo. Robinson to Sir R. Cecil.
 — F. Greville to the same.
 — R. Mansfield to Mr. Reynolds.
 — Capt. W. Mostyn to E. of Essex.
 — Th. Patten to the same.
 — D. Harding to Mr. Temple.
 — R. Harvey to E. of Essex.
 — Sir T. Heneage to the Queen.
 — Mrs. Poe to Mr. Reynolds.
 — Sir T. Knollys to Sir R. Cecil.
 — Sir H. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
 — Sir Jo. Scott to Mr. Reynolds.
 — Mr. Leckford and Mr. Baptist to Privy Council.
 — Lord Sheffield to Sir R. Cecil.
 — Lord H. Howard (afterwards E. of Northampton) to E. of Essex.
 — The same to E. of Southampton.
 — Jo. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.
 — De Vitry to E. of Essex.
 — Mr. Franc. Purefoy to the same.
 — Carew Reynel to Mr. Reynolds.
 — M. de Sillery to the French Ambassador.
 — Jo. Udall to the Queen.
 — K. Wigmore to E. of Essex.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

— Lady Dorothy Edmunds to Sir R. Cecil.
 — Atkinson on improvements in Customs.
 — Provisions for Royal buildings.
 — Import of gold and silver lace or thread, London, 1594 to Mich. 1597 to East. 1598.
 — Estimate of money in the hands of the Receiver
 General of Wards.
 — Warrants to the late Lord Treasurer Burghley from 1560 to 1598.
 — Papers relative to the Court of Wards, 1568 to 1598.

— Reasons touching the transport of grain towards the "Pay de West."
 — Names of the Hundreds and half Hundreds in Norfolk, with towns.

— Patents held by Lord Burghley.
 — Things in Mr. Drake's judgment brought home by Sir A. Ashley (Cadiz spoil).

— Advertisements from France.
 — Remembrances for Dr. Harris's going into Scotland.

— Instructions from the Cardinal to the Spanish Commissioners.
 — Patent to F. Genebelli for deepening rivers, draining lands, &c.

— Motives against a peace with Spain.
 — Mem. for the E. of Essex recollection.
 — State of Capt. Izod's voyage to Lisbon.
 — Memoria Mortuorum, 22 Feb. 1543 to 1598.

— Memoires des parties qu'il faut communiquer a Messieurs du Conseil de sa Ma^{te} en la première assemblée.

Papers (24) respecting Starch Patent granted to Sir
 John Packington.

— Oration of Lionel Sharpe to Lord Ro. Cecil in praise of W. Cecil, Lord Burghley.

Latin verses on Lord Burghley.
 Epitaphs on the same by Andrew Hunter and Th.
 Fowler.

[1898.] My simple conceit [Sir John Davis?] of means to withstand designs of foreign potentates against England and reducing Ireland to civil obedience.

1598. Anonymus Societatis Jesu de VII. Sacramentis.
 1598. Description of the state and government, together with the land upon the West Marches of England.
 1598. Balance in the hands of the Receiver.

1599.

Jan. 2. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 2. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Sir R.
 Cecil.

Jan. 3. [Mayor of Boulogne] to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 3. R. Thompson to Sir R. Cecil.

Jan. 3. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Jan. 6. Sir Th. Sherley (senior) to Sir A. Sherley.

Jan. 8. Dr. Chr. Parkins to Sir R. Cecil.
 Jan. 9. Anonymous to — (in the Low Countries).

Jan. 10. H. Foxe to Sir R. Cecil.
 Jan. 11. Lady Kath. Paget to the same.

Jan. 13. M. de Mouy to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 13. Capt. Ellyot to Privy Council.

Jan. 13. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Sir R.
 Cecil.

Jan. 14. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Jan. 14. Sir H. Lee to the same.

Jan. 14. Sir M. Gorges to the same.
 Jan. 14. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.

Jan. 15. Cotton, Bp. of Exeter, to the same.
 Jan. 17. Lo. E. Cromwell to the same.

Jan. 17. Jo. Smythe to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 18. Sir Th. Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.

Jan. 18. T. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Jan. 18. Mrs. Bridget Bowes to Lady Digby.

Jan. 20. Don Diego de Guzman to Don Diego
 Brochero.

Jan. 20. Jo. Bridges to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 21. Th. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.

Jan. 21. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 Jan. 22. Dr. R. Webster to the same.

Jan. 22. Sir Th. Lascelles to the same.
 Jan. 22. Fr. Genebelli to the same.

Jan. 22. Mayor of Chester to Privy Council.
 Jan. 22. Capt. Tho. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.

Jan. 23. Th. Windebank to the same.
 Jan. 23. The same to Mr. Willis.

Jan. 24. Duc de Bouillon to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 24. E. Gold to Sir R. Cecil.

Jan. 24. Jo. Danyell to the same.
 Jan. 24. Sir E. Norreys to the same.

Jan. 25. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Jan. 26. Cotton, Bp. of Exeter, to the same.

Jan. 26. Paul Thomson to the same.
 Jan. 26. R. Hadsor to the same.
 Jan. 26. Sir Ed. Norreys to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 26. Dean and Chapter of Exeter to the Queen.
 Jan. 28. E. of Derby to Sir R. Cecil.
 Jan. 29. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Jan. 29. Sir Ed. Fytton to the same.
 Jan. 29. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Jan. 29. Th. Ridgway to the same.
 Jan. 30. Jo. Colville to E. of Essex.
 Jan. 30. Mr. Babington and Mr. Bromley to Sir R.

Cecil.

Jan. 30. Mrs. E. Cecil to the same.
 Jan. 30. Sir W. Clerk to the same.
 Jan. 30. Jo. Danyell to the same.
 Jan. —. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Jan. —. French Ambassador to E. of Essex.
 Jan. —. Countess of Northumberland to Sir R.

Cecil.

Jan. —. Lady Penelope Riche to the same.
 Jan. —. Th. Windebank to the same.
 Feb. 1. W. Cecil to the same.
 Feb. 1. Geo. Carew to Mr. Waard.

Feb. 2. Sir E. Denny to Sir R. Cecil.
 Feb. 2. Sir F. Hastings to the same.

Feb. 2. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 Feb. 3. Jo. Danyell to Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 4. Justices of Dorset to the same.
 Feb. 5. Lord Willoughby to the same.

Feb. 6. Mayor of Exeter to the same.
 Feb. 6. R. Lee to the same.

Feb. 6. Sir E. Stafford to the same.
 Feb. 6. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.

Feb. 6. Ro. Lovell to the same.
 Feb. 6. Mayor of Boulogne to E. of Essex.

Feb. 7. Hon. Thorpe to Sir R. Cecil.
 Feb. 8. Lord Treasurer Buckhurst to the same.

Feb. 8. H. Lok to the same.
 Feb. 8. Sir R. Houghton to the same.

Feb. 8. Th. Windebank to the same.
 Feb. 8. Lord Admiral Nottingham to the same.

Feb. 8. Jo. Dudley to Sir Ant. Sherley.
 Feb. 9. Sir Ed. Cecil to Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 9. Herbert Croft to the same.
 Feb. 9. Lo. Burghley to Privy Council.

Feb. 11. Nic. Woolf to Mr. Waad.
 Feb. 12. Capt. Baxter to Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 12. Examination of Ri. Gifforde, of Chichester, before W. Earl of Bath (touching Spanish practices).

Feb. 13. Sir A. Dormer to Sir R. Cecil.
 Feb. 14. Mr. Fitzgerald to the same.

Feb. 14. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Feb. 14. Th. Windebank to the same.

Feb. 16. Lo. Colbham to the same.
 Feb. 16. Jo. Colville to Arch. Douglas.

Feb. 17. Capt. Harvey to Sir R. Cecil.
 Feb. 18. Lord Cobham to the same.

Feb. 20. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 Feb. 22. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 23. Lucy Marchioness of Winchester to the same.

Feb. 24. Geo. Allington to the same.
 Feb. 25. Fane, Lieut. of Dover Castle, to the same.

Feb. 25. Sir Ed. Denny to the same.
 Feb. 25. Mich. Stanhope to the same.

Feb. 27. Sir Carew Reynell to the same.
 Feb. 27. Steph. Lesieur to the same.

Feb. 28. Lucy, Marchioness of Winchester to the same.

Feb. 28. Earl Bothwell to Mr. Lok.
 Feb. 28. Anonymous to — (no address).

Feb. 29. Juan Ruiz? de Arche to Don Alonzo de Vin?.

Feb. 29. Sir Geo. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 Feb. 29. Lo. Grey to E. of Southampton.

Feb. 29. E. of Southampton to Lo. Grey.
 Feb. 29. Justice Meade to Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 29. Mr. Wingfield to the same.
 Feb. 29. Lo. Willoughby d'Eresby to the same.

Mar. 1. Lo. Scroope to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 Mar. 1. Hen. Ld. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 1. Ro. Beale to the same.
 Mar. 1. John Vevara? to Lord Willoughby.

Mar. 1. Tho. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 2. Lo. Scroope to the same.

Mar. 2. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
 Mar. 2. Attorney-General Coke to the same.

Mar. 3. Sir Geo. Carew to the same.
 Mar. 3. Ro. Berty to E. of Essex.

Mar. 3. Edm. Standen to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 3. Mayor of Barnstable to Privy Council.

MARQUESS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Mar. 4. Steph. Lesieur to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 4. Dowager Lady Russell to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 6. Dennis Macarthy to the same.
 Mar. 6. E. of Essex to E. of Southampton.
 Mar. 6. Sir H. Wallop to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 7. Lo. Treasurer Buckhurst to the same.
 Mar. 7. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 Mar. 7. E. of Essex to Countess of Northumberland (Essex's sister).
 Mar. 8. E. of Lincoln, and the Lo. Admiral, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 8. Carlo Lanfranchi to the same.
 Mar. 8. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Mar. 8. Sir Th. Wingfield to the same.
 Mar. 9. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Mar. 9. Lady Denny to the same.
 Mar. 10. Mayor of Kingston-upon-Hull to the same.
 Mar. 10. Capt. E. Cecil to the same.
 Mar. 11. Hen. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Mar. 11. Lord Willoughby d'Eresby to the same.
 Mar. 11. J. Carey to the same.
 Mar. 11. R. Lowther to the same.
 Mar. 12. Sir Ed. Denny to the same.
 Mar. 12. Lo. Sroope to the same.
 Mar. 12. Hen. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Mar. 12. Jo. Bolder to the same.
 Mar. 13. A. Wingfield to the same.
 Mar. 13. R. Lowther to the same.
 Mar. 14. Jas. Fitz Thomas (Spanish E. of Desmond) to King of Spain.
 Mar. 14. The same to the same.
 Mar. 14. — to Mr. Lowther.
 Mar. 14. E. of Lincoln to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 14. Arch. Douglas to the same.
 Mar. 15. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Mar. 15. Marb. Over (sic) to the same.
 Mar. 15. Sir Th. Wingfield to the same.
 Mar. 15. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Mar. 15. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Mar. 16. Th. Nicholson to Mr. Lok.
 Mar. 16. Dennis Macarthy to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 16. Sir Ant. Gorges to the same.
 Mar. 16. Geo. Nicolson to the same.
 Mar. 17. Sir F. Vere to E. of Essex.
 Mar. 18. Mayor of Bristol to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 19. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Mar. 19. R. Lowther to the same.
 Mar. 19. Jo. Watson to the same.
 Mar. 19. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Mar. 19. Sir R. Lee to the same.
 Mar. 20. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 Mar. 20. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Mar. 20. Th. Windebank to the same.
 Mar. 21. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Mar. 22. W. Smith to the same.
 Mar. 22. Sir R. Barkeley to the same.
 Mar. 22. Capt. Th. Lee to the same.
 Mar. 23. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 Mar. 23. Dr. Sherwood to the same.
 Mar. 24. Sir Ed. Dyer to the same.
 Mar. 25. Lo. Cromwell to the same.
 Mar. 25. Ro. Manners to E. of Rutland.
 Mar. 25. Jas. Dillon to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 25. Capt. E. Constable to the same.
 Mar. 25. Sir R. Barkeley to the same.
 Mar. 25. Notes for the better answering of the King of Denmark's letters.
 Mar. 26. Bal^r. de Moucheron to E. of Essex.
 Mar. 27. F. Mylles to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 27. Mr. Stileman to the same.
 Mar. 27. Capt. Doddington to the same.
 Mar. 27. Mr. Fitzgerald to the same.
 Mar. 28. Sir Ant. Panlett to the same.
 Mar. 29. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Mar. 29. E. of Bath to the same.
 Mar. 29. Sir H. Seymour to the same.
 Mar. 29. E. of Essex to the same.
 Mar. 30. Examination of And. Rock before the Lo. Lieut. General, &c. relating to letters of Fitz Thomas and other rebels.
 Mar. 31. Dr. Chr. Perkins to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 31. Hen. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Mar. 31. Th. Edmonds to the same.
 Mar. 31. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Mar. 31. Sir Ed. Stafford to the same.
 — Th. Guer to E. of Essex.
 Account of warrants to John Travers and Wm. Greves for apparel for soldiers, &c.
 Companies of foot from Chester for Liverpool, &c.
 Mar. —. Information by merchant strangers of the taking of the ship "Maria" of Middleburg.

- April 1. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 2. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 April 2. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 April 2. Capt. Dale to the same.
 April 2. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 April 2. Sir H. Brounker to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 4. Th. Lord Burghley to the same.
 April 5. R. Lowther to the same.
 April 5. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 April 6. Mr. Houghton to the same.
 April 6. Sir G. Peckham to the same.
 April 6. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 April 6. Lo. Stourton to the same.
 April 6. La. Bridget Vere to the same.
 April 7. Sir E. Norreys to the same.
 April 7. Lord Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 April 8. T. Arundel to the same.
 April 9. R. Lytton to the same.
 April 9. Ri. Cecil to the same.
 April 10. Lo. Colville to Arch. Douglas.
 April 13. Flo. Macarthy to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 13. Alex. Wait to Th. Barfoot.
 April 13. Eliz. Fitzgerald to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 14. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 15. Tho. Reynell to the same.
 April 15. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 April 15. Th. Thorpe to the same.
 April 15. Warrant of E. of Essex as Deputy of Ireland appointing E. of Southampton Lo. General of Horse for Ireland. Dublin Castle.
 April 16. E. of Bath to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 17. Mr. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 April 19. Sir R. Barkley to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 19. Hen. Wotton to Mr. Reynolds.
 April 20. H. Cuffe to the same.
 April 20. Sir W. Beryl to Privy Council.
 April 20. Saml. Cockburn to Arch. Douglas.
 April 21. Geo. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 21. Mr. Becher to the same.
 April 23. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 April 23. Mr. Lok to Arch. Douglas.
 April 24. Lo. Mountgarret to Sir W. St. Leger.
 April 24. Hen. Duffield to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 26. Sir Chr. Hilyard to the same.
 April 26. Mrs. M. Dowell to the same.
 April 26. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 April 26. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 April 27. Bridges, Dean of Salisbury, to the same.
 April 27. E. Fitzgerald to the same.
 April 27. Sir Ant. Standen to Mr. Reynolds.
 April 28. Sir Jo. Smith to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 28. Capt. Jo. Davies to Mr. Reynolds.
 April 29. Arch. Douglas to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 29. Sir Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex.
 April 29. Mart. Kidman to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 29. Sir R. Barkley to the same (2).
 April 29. Miguel de Cinari to the Adalantado.
 April 29. W. Power to Peter Power.
 April 30. Sir Post.-Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 30. E. of Rutland to the Queen?
 [April] 30. H. Cuffe to Ed. Reynolds.
 May 1. R. Hawkins to the Queen.
 May 2. Carlo Lanfranchi to Horatio Seale (Sir R. Cecil).
 May 3. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 3. A. Hunter to the same.
 May 3. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 May 4. F. Genebelli to the same.
 May 4. Mrs. Jane Neville to the same.
 May 4. W. Treffey (Sheriff of Cornwall) to the same.
 May 4. Jo. Ferne to the same.
 May 4. Ro. Aston to the same.
 May 5. H. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 May 6. Jo. Ferne to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 6. Th. Muchelroy (priest) to the same.
 May 6. W. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 May 6. L. Lewkenor to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 6. Rob. Beale to the same.
 May 6. Interrogatories for Thomas O'Mickleary, an Irish priest.
 May 7. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 7. Council of the North to the same.
 May 8. E. of Rutland to the same.
 May 8. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 May 8. Mr. Fane to the same.
 May 8. Carlo Lanfranchi to the same.
 May 8. Lo. Th. Howard to the same.
 May 9. Sir Chr. Hildyard to Abp. of York.
 May 9. Ro. Beale to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 9. W. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 May 9. H. Cuffe to the same.

MARQUESS
OF SALISBURY.

REQUIS
OF ISSUE.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

May 9. Sir R. Barkley to Sir R. Cecil.
May 10. The same to the same.
May 10. — to Duc de Bouillon.
May 11. Lo. Th. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
May 11. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
May 11. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.
May 12. Bailiffs of Colchester to the same.
May 12. Phillipo Corsini to the same.
May 12. Abp. and Council of York to the same.
May 12. Lieut. Fane to the same.
May 12. Geo. Moir to Abp. of York.
May 12. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
May 12. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
May 12. Objections and reasons for charges of two ships.
May 13. Statement of Sir H. Palavicino of the debt due to him by the Queen and the States.
May 13. 12. Magistrates of Rochelle to Privy Council.
May 14. Tho. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
May 15. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
May 16. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.
May 16. Examination of Th. Vaughan, who had declared that Edw. VI. was not dead.
May 17. Carlo Lanfranchi to Sir R. Cecil.
May 17. P. Thompson to the same.
May 17. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
May 17. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
May 18. Ed. Lyllie to Lo. Buckhurst (Lo. Chancellor of Oxford).
May 18. Dowager Lady Southampton to E. of Southampton.
May 18. Th. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
May 18. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
May 9-18. Journal of the E. of Essex.
May 19. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
May 19. Jas. Hill (Swedish Ambassador) to Privy Council.
May 19. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
May 19. Th. Tasburgh to the same.
May 19. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
May 21. Sir Ant. Mildmay to the same.
May 21. Th. Lo. Burghley to the same.
May 21. Sir Geo. Trenchard to the same.
May 21. E. of Essex to Privy Council.
May 22. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
May 22. Th. Lake to Sir R. Cecil.
May 22. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
May 23. Ant. Wingfield to the same.
May 23. Wm. Beecher to the same.
May 24. Mr. Sherwood to the same.
May 24. Lady Marg. Hoby to the same.
May 26. Sir Th. Tasburgh to the same.
May 26. Sir E. Hoby to the same.
May 26. Goodman, Dean of Westminster, to the same.
May 26. Commissioner of Hambro' to the same.
May 26. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
May 26. M. Aersens for the States General to Mr. Gilpin.
May 26. Wm. Fitzwilliam to Sir R. Cecil.
May 27. Lo. Dunsany to the same.
May 27. Sir Ant. Pouletts to the same.
May 28. Th. Cave to the same.
May 28. Dr. Dupont to the same.
May 28. Mr. Havard to the same.
May 28. List of rebels in different provinces of Ireland, and resolutions of Council for an expedition against them by the Lo. Lieutenant.
May 30. Geo. More to Sir R. Cecil.
May 30. Lady Anne Cobham to the same.
May 31. F. Decker? to R. Lowther.
May 31. Privy Council to Council of Ireland.
May 31. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
May 31. Sir W. Knollys to the same.
May 31. Jas. Hill (Swedish Ambassador) to the same.
May 31. H. Bird to Privy Council.
May —. Victuals in Magazines for Ireland, from March to May.
May —. Advertisements from Low Countries.
June 1. Jo. Roche to Sir R. Cecil.
June 1. G. Buck to the same.
June 2. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
June 2. Jo. Croke to the same.
June 2. Nic. Hildyard to the same.
June 2. Sir E. Fitzgerald to the same.
June 3. Capt. Throckmorton to the same.
June 3. Privy Council to the Receiver of the Coinage of Devon.
June 4. E. of Bath to Sir R. Cecil.
June 5. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
21 May to 5 June. Occurrences in Camp, Essex's Campaign in Munster.

June 6. Ed. Wilshe to Sir R. Cecil.
June 6. Nic. Williamson to the same.
June 6. Sir E. Denny to the same.
June 6. E. of Nottingham, Lo. Admiral, to the same.
June 7. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
June 8. Theo. Lane to the same.
June 8. Lucy, Marchioness of Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.
June 8. Sir H. Lee to the same.
June 8. Tho. Smith to the same.
June 8. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
June 10. Sir C. Danvers to E. of Southampton.
June 13. Bailiffs of Colchester to Sir R. Cecil.
June 13. Confession of Th. Barnabye, prisoner in the Marshalsea, of Parson's book.
June 14. Ed. Seymour to the same.
June 14. A. Standen to the same.
June 14. E. Grey (secular priest) to W. Waad.
June 15. Sir Geo. Carew to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
June 16. Mr. Lello to Sir R. Cecil.
June 16. Capt. Ed. Cecil to the same.
June 18. E. of Bath to the same.
June 18. P. de la Haye to the same.
June 18. Countess of Kildare to the same.
June 18. M. de Mouy to the E. of Essex.
June 19. Sir N. Parker to Sir R. Cecil.
June 20. W. Waad to the same.
June 20. Flo. MacCarthy to the same.
June 20. Faculty of the General of the Minorites in the Netherlands to Hen. Collier, priest.
June 21. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
June 21. Th. Renney to the same.
June 22. J. Stanhope to the same.
June 22. Lo. Th. Burghley to the same.
June 23. Maurice of Nassau to Sir W. Browne.
June 23. W. Cooke to Sir R. Cecil.
June 23. Th. Muchleroy (priest) to Hen. Dillon.
June 23. Geo. Fane to Lo. Cobham.
June 23. Hen. Collier to Kate Powell.
June 23. H. Lyndley to Mr. Reynolds.
June 24. Capt. Constable to the same.
June 25. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
June 25. Noel de Caron to Sir R. Cecil.
June 25. W. Watson to W. Waad.
June 25. W. Waad to Sir R. Cecil.
June 26. Carew Reynell to Mr. Reynolds.
June 26. Sir Th. Tasburgh to Sir R. Cecil.
June 28. Sir A. Clifford to Lord Admiral.
June 28. Lays de Laurentin to —.
June 29. E. of Rutland to Sir R. Cecil.
June 29. Sir N. Parker to the same.
June 30. Mayor of Dover to the same.
June 30. Mr. Lello to the same.
June 30. French Ambassadors to the same.
June 30. Sir Ed. Stafford to the same.
June 30. E. of Oxford to the same.
June 30. The same to the Queen.
June 30. Lord Mountjoy to Sir G. Meirick.
June 30. Presents from Merchants trading to the Levant and Turkey, to the Grand Seigneur in 1594, and April 1598, and charges at Constantinople for delivery.
July 1. King of Scots to Sir W. Bowes.
July 2. R. Shute to Sir R. Cecil.
July 2. Th. Windebank to the same.
July 2. Sir Jo. Fortescue to the same.
July 2. Sir N. Parker to the same.
July 5. The same to the same.
July 6. Lo. Th. Burghley to the same.
July 6. W. Cecil to the same.
July 6. Lo. R. North to the same.
July 7. E. of Lincoln to the same.
July 7. Mr. Fanshawe to the same.
July 7. Lo. Lumley to the same.
July 7. Poistenne to Arch Douglas.
July 8. Sir W. Windsor to E. of Essex.
July 8. Fr. Cherry to Sir R. Cecil.
July 9. Sir R. Wriothesley to the same.
July 9. Attorney General Coke to the same.
July 9. Sir N. Parker to the same.
July 9. W. Fitzwilliam to the same.
July 9. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
July 11. The same to the same.
July 11. Jo. Ferne to the same.
July 12. Sheriff of Derbyshire to the same.
July 13. Mayor, &c. of Plymouth to the same.
July 13. Lo. Cobham to the same.
July 13. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
July 13. E. of Essex to Privy Council.
July 13. R. Champenowne to Sir R. Cecil.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.MARQUESS
OF
SALISBURY.

July 13. Jas. Anton to Mr. Perceval.
 July 13. Mr. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 July 13. E. of Northumberland to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 13. Questions to be propounded to Mr. Wayman of the book of Titles.

July 14. A. Gerald to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 14. Alonzo Faubault to the same.
 July 14. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 July 14. H. Lok to Sir W. Bevil.
 July 16. Bancroft, Bp. of London to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 16. W. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 July 17. Lady B. Norris to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 17. Th. Lord Burghley to the same.
 July 18. H. Cuffe to Mr. Perceval.
 July 18. Sir Jo. Peyton to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 19. Th. Lord Burghley to the same.
 July 19. Jo. Gage to the same.
 July 19. James, Dean of Durham, to the same.
 July 19. Notes of information for Mr. Waad from W. Bowes.

July 20. Justices of Gloucester to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 21. Mr. Saville to the same.
 July 21. Sir H. Docwra to Mr. Reynolds.
 July 21. Jo. Colville to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 22. R. Wiseman to the same.
 July 22. Council of the North to the same.
 July 23. Sir R. Sidney to the same.
 July 23. Steph. Lesieur to the same.
 July 23. R. Carmarden to the Queen.
 July 23. Noel de Caron to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 23. Dr. John Nowell to the same.
 July 23. Sir A. St. Leger to the same.
 July 24. Sir W. Bevylls to the same.
 July 24. Hen. Lok to Lo. Zouche.
 July 25. Ro. Wiseman to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 25. Ri. Carmarden to Ed. Darcy.
 July 25. H. Maynard to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 27. R. Langford to the same.
 July 27. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 July 27. Capt. Watson to the same.
 July 27. Th. Smith to the same.
 July 27. Th. Leighton to the same.
 July 27. Lord Admiral to the same.
 July 27. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 July 27. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 July 28. Lord Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 July 28. Lady Dacres to Mrs. E. Dacres.
 July 28. E. Seymour to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 28. M. de la Fontaine to the same.
 July 29. W. Stallenge to the same.
 July 29. Sir H. Bromley to Hen. Cuff.
 July 30. Lord Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 30. Serjeant Heron to the same.
 July 30. Alderman Martyn to the same.
 July 30. Math. du Questre to the same.
 July 31. H. Cuffe to Sir C. Danvers.
 July 31. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 31. Tho. Edmonds to the same.
 July 31. Jo. Colville to the same.
 July 31. Sir C. Dauvers to E. of Southampton.
 July 31. Sir E. Fitzgerald to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 31. Walter Cope to the same.
 July 31. H. Fitzwilliams to the same.
 July 31. Mr. Norden to the same.
 July 31. R. Wingfield to the same.
 July 31. Privy Council to Governor of Flushing.
 Aug. 1. Jo. Ferne to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 1. Jo. Colville to Lo. Willoughby.
 Aug. 1. Flo. Macarty to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 1. V. Skinner to the same.
 Aug. 1. Jo. Ferne to the same.
 Aug. 2. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 Aug. 2. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 Aug. 2. Sir W. Constable to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 2. Justice Grainge to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 2. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Aug. 2. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 Aug. 2. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Aug. 2. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Aug. 3. Council of Ireland to Privy Council.
 Aug. 3. C. Frankes to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 3. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Aug. 3. Sir Ant. Poulett to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 3. Service of E. of Essex in Ireland, from May 9th.

Aug. 4. H. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 4. W. Cholmondeley to the same.
 Aug. 4. Tho. Harris to Privy Council.
 Aug. 5. H. Wallop to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 5. Capt. F. Stafford to the same.
 Aug. 6. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.

Aug. 6. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 Aug. 6. E. of Bath to Privy Council.
 Aug. 6. Jo. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 6. Sir Th. Wilford to Privy Council.
 Aug. 6. Sir Th. Mansel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 8. Alderman Howndes to the same.
 Aug. 8. Survey by Aldermen of London and Master of ships of Barking shiver, river Thames.
 Aug. 9. Mr. Trevor to Lord Admiral.
 Aug. 9. Andrew Rock to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 9. Lord Mayor to the same. (2)
 Aug. 9. Sir Jo. Payton to the same.
 Aug. 9. Jo. Coppin to the same.
 Aug. 9. Justices of the Peace in Essex to Mr.

Maynard.

Aug. 10. Wm. Wayte to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 10. Queen Elizabeth to E. of Essex and the Council of Ireland.
 Aug. 10. Th. Middleton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 10. Rich. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Aug. 11. E. of Essex to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 11. Lo. Cobham to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 11. Hen. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 11. Jo. Falkner to Mr. Downhall.
 Aug. 11. The Queen to —
 Aug. 11. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 11. Sir H. Cock and Sir A. Capel to R.
 Spencer.

Aug. 11. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 11. E. of Nottingham to the same.
 Aug. 12. W. Cooke to the same.
 Aug. 12. Gef. Luther to the same.
 Aug. 12. Sir W. Russell to the same.
 Aug. 12. Sir A. Throckmorton to the same.
 Aug. 12. Sir R. Ferrys to the same.
 Aug. 13. E. of Bath to Privy Council.
 Aug. 13. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 13. Ro. Osborne to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 13. Lord Keeper to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 13. Sir Jo. Harrington to the same.
 Aug. 13. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
 Aug. 13. Lord Sheffield to the same.
 Aug. 14. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester to the same.
 Aug. 14. H. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 14. Th. Windebank to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 14. Dr. J. Caesar, R. Beale, and Dr. Parkins to
 the same.

Aug. 14. H. Lok to the same.
 Aug. 14. Sir T. Sadler and Mr. Browgrave to the same.

Aug. 15. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 Aug. 15. R. Thompson to the same.
 Aug. 15. Wm. Heneage to the same.
 Aug. 15. Sir E. Dymoke to Privy Council.
 Aug. 15. — to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 15. Sir W. Constable to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 15. Sebast. de Montesola, &c. to C. Velasquez,
 &c.

Aug. 16. Lo. Zouche to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 16. Lo. Hundson to the same.
 Aug. 16. Mr. Wake to the same.
 Aug. 17. Sir W. Mallory to the same.
 Aug. 17. Ro. Manners to the same.
 Aug. 17. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Aug. 17. Ed. Palavicino to the same.
 Aug. 17. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Aug. 17. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Aug. 17. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 Aug. 17. H. Lee to the same.
 Aug. 17. Sir J. Stanhope to the same.
 Aug. 17. Sir G. Elphinston to Arch. Douglas.
 Aug. 17. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 18. Sir Ant. Midway to the same.
 Aug. 18. Th. Wenman to E. of Essex.
 Aug. 18. Lo. Sheffield to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 18. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Aug. 18. E. of Nottingham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 19. Countess of Southampton to the same.
 Aug. 19. H. Cuffe to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 20. Deputy Lieutenant of Pembroke to Privy Council.

Aug. 20. Sir Jo. Fortescue to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 20. Privy Council to Lord General.
 Aug. 20. Mayor of Rye to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 20. Proclamation of military Council in Ireland as to the Northern journey.
 Aug. 20. H. Vyvian to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 21. Privy Council to Lo. Howard.
 Aug. 21. The same to Abp. of York.
 Aug. 21. Victuals in magazines in Ireland.
 Aug. 22. E. of Nottingham to Sir R. Cecil.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

Aug. 23. Sir J. Stanhope to the same.
 Aug. 23. French Ambassador to the same.
 Aug. 24. E. of Nottingham to the same.
 Aug. 24. Sir J. Peyton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 24. Bailiffs of Yarmouth to the same.
 Aug. 24. H. Vyvian to Mr. Willis (sec. to Sir. R. C.).
 Aug. 24. Examination of Ro. Nutson and M. Hayes at Fowey.
 Aug. 25. Sir E. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 25. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Aug. 25. Privy Council to Lord Mayor and E. of Cumberland.
 Aug. 25. Sir F. Gorges to Privy Council.
 Aug. 25. Sir Jo. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 25. Sir Th. Leighton to the same.
 Aug. 26. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Aug. 26. Sir N. Parker to Privy Council.
 Aug. 26. Wm. Treffey to Sir R. Cecil. (P)
 Aug. 26. Report and saying of Geo. Whittington.
 Aug. 27. Lo. Th. Howard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 27. Lo. Chief Justice to the same.
 Aug. 27. Sir E. Stafford to the same.
 Aug. 27. R. Moore to the same.
 Aug. 28. Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Th. Howard.
 Aug. 28. Mayor of Plymouth to Privy Council.
 Aug. 28. Forces for the field with the Lo. Lieutenant towards the North, with Foot left in England.
 Aug. 29. Sir Th. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 29. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Aug. 29. Sir R. Docwra to the same.
 Aug. 29. M. de Vinary, &c. to Louis de Velasco.
 Aug. 29. M. Servant to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 29. Sir E. Coke to the same.
 Aug. 30. Commissioners for matters of Depredation to Privy Council.
 Aug. 30. Andrew Bueno to Alonso de Castilla.
 Aug. 31. Admirals of the Fleet to Lord Admiral.
 Aug. 31. Sir S. Cockburn to Arch. Douglas.
 Aug. 31. Sir T. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 31. W. Kingesmill to the same.
 Aug. 31. French Ambassador to the same.
 Aug. 31. Sir G. Merrick to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 31. Th. Arundel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 31. Sir Geo. Carew to the same.
 Aug. 31. Lord E. Crumwell to the same.
 Aug. 31. E. of Cumberland to the same.
 Aug. 31. Capt. Dawtrey to the same.
 Aug. 31. Lord Admiral to the same.
 Aug. 31. R. Osborne to Mr. Reynolds.
 Aug. 31. Sir W. Russell to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 31. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Aug. 31. Mr. Temple to Mr. Reynolds.
 Sept. 1. Lord Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 1. French Ambassador to the same.
 Sept. 1. Jas. Sempil to the same.
 Sept. 2. Juan de Zavera to the Queen.
 Sept. 2. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 2. Sir Ant. Poulett to the same.
 Sept. 2. Lord Burghley to the same.
 Sept. 3. W. Waad to the same.
 Sept. 3. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Sept. 4. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Sept. 4. Sir Fulke Greville to the same.
 Sept. 6. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 Sept. 6. Lord Admiral to the same.
 Sept. 7. W. Treffy to the same.
 Sept. 8. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 Sept. 8. Articles for cessation of arms by Lo. Lieutenant of Ireland and E. of Tyrone (signed by Tyrone).
 Sept. 9. Mrs. F. Greville to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 10. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Sept. 11. Mayor of Kingston-upon-Hull to the same.
 Sept. 13. P. Corsini to the same.
 Sept. 14. Wm. Stallenge and Mr. Oseley to the same.
 Sept. 15. Justices Bowyer and Scott to the same.
 Sept. 16. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Sept. 18. Lord Herbert to the same.
 Sept. 18. Lord Sheffield to the same.
 Sept. 19. E. of Pembroke to the same.
 Sept. 20. Mr. Beverley to Lord Lieut. of Ireland.
 Sept. 20. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Sept. 20. Sir A. Ashley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 21. Sir F. Barkeley to Chancellor of Ireland.
 Sept. 22. Sir A. Ashley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 25. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Sept. 25. F. Dacre to Sir R. Sydney.
 Sept. 25. E. of Essex to E. of Southampton.
 Sept. 26. Geo. Gilpin to E. of Essex.
 Sept. 26. Jas. Hyll to the same.
 Sept. 30. R. Beale to Sir R. Cecil.

Sept. —. Lo. Herbert to the same.
 Sept. —. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Sept. —. E. of Rutland to the same.
 Sept. —. Essex's arrangements for the government, &c. of Ireland upon his return to England.
 Oct. 1. Lord Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 2. Sir Jo. Petre to the same.
 Oct. 2. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 3. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Oct. 3. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 3. Dr. Bennett to the same.
 Oct. 3. Commissioners for Musters to the same.
 Oct. 3. Sir F. Vere to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 5. Sir Geo. Carey to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 5. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 6. Sheriff of Waterford to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 6. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 7. Sir Jo. Hart to the same.
 Oct. 8. Wm. Cecil to the same.
 Oct. 8. Jas. Perrot to the same.
 Oct. 8. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 9. M. de la Fontaine to the same.
 Oct. 9. Sir Th. Windebank to the same.
 Oct. 9. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Oct. 10. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 10. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Oct. 10. Certificate of Vice-Principal and Fellows of Brasenose in favour of Pet. Maunsel, M.A.
 Oct. 11. J. Comani to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 11. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Oct. 11. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 13. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Oct. 14. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
 Oct. 15. Mrs. Trelawney to the same.
 Oct. 15. Th. Windebank to the same.
 Oct. 16. Sir Th. Leighton to the same.
 Oct. 16. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 17. Sir Jo. Hart to the same.
 Oct. 17. Sir Th. Leighton to the same.
 Oct. 18. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Oct. 18. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 19. Ph. Corsini to the same.
 Oct. 20. Mr. Skory to the same.
 Oct. 20. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Oct. 20. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 Oct. 23. Mr. Becher to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 23. Thomas Jones, Bp. of Meath, to the same.
 Oct. 23. Ph. Corsini to the same.
 Oct. 23. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.
 Oct. 24. The Post of Chester to the same.
 Oct. 24. R. Beale to the same.
 Oct. 24. Cotton, Bp. of Salisbury, to the same.
 Oct. 26. Sir Ant. Mildmay to the same.
 Oct. 27. R. Beale to the same.
 Oct. 27. Chr. Roper to the same.
 Oct. 28. Ph. Corsini to the same.
 Oct. 28. Jo. Jeffery to the same.
 Oct. 28. — to the same.
 Oct. 29. Capt. Jo. Bridges to the same.
 Oct. 29. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Oct. 29. Capt. Throckmorton to the same.
 Oct. 31. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 Oct. 31. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
 Oct. 31. Lady Frances Stourton to the same.
 Nov. 1. The Post of Chester to the same.
 Nov. 2. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Nov. 2. Lord and Lady Lumley to the same.
 Nov. 4. Lord Scroope to the same.
 Nov. 5. De la Fontaine to the same.
 Nov. 5. W. Hildyard to the same.
 Nov. 5. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Nov. 6. W. Ballard to the same.
 Nov. 7. Lord Compton to the same.
 Nov. 7. Jo. Manners to the E. of Rutland.
 Nov. 8. Desmond Fitzgerald to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 8. Lady Knightley to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 10. Lady M. Gate to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 10. Mayor and Aldermen of Hull to the same.
 Nov. 10. Sir R. Barkley to the same.
 Nov. 10. Lord Zouche to the same.
 Nov. 11. Sir M. McSwyne to the same.
 Nov. 11. M. De la Fontaine to the same.
 Nov. 11. Countess of Essex to the same.
 Nov. 13. Geo. Watson to the same.
 Nov. 13. Lady Norreys to the same.
 Nov. 14. Sir Post. Hoby to the same.
 Nov. 14. Th. North to the same.
 Nov. 14. Th. Cooper to the same.
 Nov. 14. Ph. Corsini to the same.
 Nov. 15. Mr. Tresham to the same.
 Nov. 15. H. Gosnold to E. of Essex.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Nov. 16. Sir A. Capell to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 16. Mr. Wilbraham and Mr. Levarsadg to the same.
 Nov. 16. Table or view of necessary appurtenants to artillery of modern assize, by Sir Jo. Davis. Add. to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 18. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 18. Lord Sheffield to the same.
 Nov. 19. E. Stanhope to the same.
 Nov. 20. Bailiffs of Colchester to the same.
 Nov. 22. R. Cripes to the same.
 Nov. 23. Dr. Mount to the same.
 Nov. 23. E. Stanhope to the same.
 Nov. 23. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 Nov. 24. Jo. Skinner to the same.
 Nov. 25. Mode of electing Mayor in Sandwich.
 Nov. 26. L. Thomson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 28. Mr. Swift to the same.
 Nov. 30. R. Meredith (Chaplain to Sir R. C.) to the same.
 Nov. 30. E. of Pembroke to the same.
 Nov. 30. Sir Th. Dillon to the same.
 Nov. —. Sir M. Stanhope to the same.
 Nov. —. Hugh More to the same.
 Nov. —. A. Noyve to the same.
 Nov. —. Lo. Stafford to the same.
 Dec. 1. Jas. Gerald to the same.
 Dec. 1. Sir A. Clifford to the same.
 Dec. 1. The same to Lord Admiral.
 Dec. 1. Jo. Danyel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 1. Instrument of Cession (with Tyrone)
 Dec. 2. R. Wilbraham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 3. Lord Lumley to the same.
 Dec. 3. Fr. Bacon to Lord H. Howard.
 Dec. 3. Lord H. Howard to F. Bacon.
 Dec. 4. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 5. W. Fleetwood to the same.
 Dec. 5. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 Dec. 5. H. Sherwood to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 6. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Dec. 7. E. of Rutland to the same.
 Dec. 8. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 8. Mr. Plunkett to the same.
 Dec. 9. Mr. Thornburgh to the same.
 Dec. 10. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Dec. 10. Capt. Th. Bridges to the same.
 Dec. 11. G. de la Motte to the same.
 Dec. 11. Noel de Caron to the same.
 Dec. 13. Jo. Danyells to the same.
 Dec. 13. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.
 Dec. 14. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Dec. 14. Sir J. Cæsar to the same.
 Dec. 15. Capt. Th. Lee to the same.
 Dec. 15. N. Hugh, alias Hooke, to the same.
 Dec. 15. Recorder of London to the same.
 Dec. 16. R. Vennard to the same.
 Dec. 17. Ambrose Jermyn to Lord Lumley.
 Dec. 17. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 18. The same to the same.
 Dec. 18. Capt. Tho. Lee to the same.
 Dec. 19. R. Champenowne to the same.
 Dec. 20. Sir Chr. Blount to E. of Essex.
 Dec. 20. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 20. E. of Cumberland to the same.
 Dec. 20. Lord Zouche to the same.
 Dec. 22. Loftus, Bp. of Dublin, to the same.
 Dec. 23. E. Gerald to the same.
 Dec. 25. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 Dec. 26. Sir Th. Lascelles to the same.
 Dec. 26. Sir E. Hoby to the same.
 Dec. 28. Sir Jo. Smith to the same.
 Dec. 29. H. Crofts to the same.
 Dec. 29. Sir C. Brookes to the same.
 Dec. 29. Lord Burghley to the same.
 Dec. —. Sir A. Gorges to the same.
 Dec. —. Lord Willoughby to the same.
 Dec. —. Lord Burghley to the same.
 Dec. —. Lady Mary Clifford to the same.
 Dec. —. E. Reynolds to Customer of Southampton.
 Dec. —. Jo. Bingham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. —. Jo. Carteret to the same.
 Dec. —. Sir H. Clare to the same.
 1599. Articles and replies examined at Lambeth.
 1599. Charge of General Receiver of the Duchy of Lancaster.
 1599. Privy Council on the suit of Chester for licence to transport silk.
 1599. Mem. by Sir R. Cecil on purchase of tin in Cornwall.
 1599. Manufacture of saltpetre and gunpowder.
 1599. Mem. by Sir R. Cecil on coinage.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

1599. Devices to defraud the Customs on gold, velvet, &c.
 1599. Names and services of those employed about the accounts by Sir H. Wallop, Treasurer of War for Ireland.
 1599. Mem. of provisions for Western Ports in six weeks.
 1599. Certificate of Sir F. Gorges of necessities for Plymouth, and instructions.
 1599. Certificates by captains of ships of men deficient.
 1599. Army lists.
 1599. Objections against Ric. Bogle, with answers.
 1599. Proceedings by Sir Hen. Wallop against Ric. Boyle.
 1599. Debts of Rob. E. of Essex, for which there are bonds.
 1599. Conveyances of lands, &c. of the Marquis of Winchester.
 1599. Demands on behalf of Edw. E. of Bedford, and offers.
 [1599.] Mem. by E. of Essex on Commanders of the Irish Expedition.
 1599. Petition of Th. Honyman to Sir R. Cecil. Proposals for Ireland.
 1599. Charge of General Receiver of Duchy of Lancaster.
 — English Ambassador to the States. How to subdue the Hollanders.
 — List of English ships taken at sea by the French, or by vessels sailing under the French flag (Ital.) 1599. Docket of liveries passed in Trinity Term.
 1599. Sir R. Constable to E. of Essex.
 1599. Th. Daly to Sir R. Cecil.
 1599. R. Ellyot to the same.
 1599. Sir A. Gorges to the same.
 1599. M. Hicks to the same.
 1599. Lady H. Howard to E. of Southampton.
 1599. Lady Riche to Sir R. Cecil.
 1599. Lady Norreys to the same.
 1599. Scottish Pledges to the Queen.
 1599. Lord Scroope to Sir R. Cecil.
 1599. Sir Ed. Wotton to the same.
 [1599.] King of Scots to the Queen (2).
 [1599.] The Queen to EAPE (Sir R. Cecil).
 [1599.] Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 [1599.] Sir R. Cecil to E. of Essex.
 [1599.] Capt. Jo. Davis to Mr. Reynolds.
 [1599.] Lord Hunsdon to Sir R. Cecil.
 [1599.] W. Abdy to E. of Essex.
 [1599.] Sir R. Drury to R. Parker.
 [1599.] E. of Essex to Mr. Reynolds.
 [1599.] Mrs. K. Lee to E. of Essex.
 [1599.] The same to Mr. Lee (Sir H. F.).

Uncertain dates.

- April 23. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.
 The same to the same.
 [Countess of Essex] to E. of Essex.
 [E. of Essex] to Countess of Northumberland.
 Lord Herbert to [E. of Essex].
 Countess of Leicester to [E. of Essex].
 John Richards to E. of Essex.
 Mr. Reynolds to Sir H. Lee.
 Lord Sanguhar to (Douglas?).
 Roger Aston to Arch. Douglas.
 Anonymous to the same?
 Heriot to the same.
 Hotman to the same.
 Aug. 1. to the same.
 Sept. 12. Jas. Colville to the same.
 Hen. Bourchier to E. of Essex.
 Sir H. Brouncker to Mr. Reynolds.
 Sir H. Danvers to E. of Essex.
 Sir C. Danvers to the same.
 Nov. 16. E. of Essex to E. of Southampton.
 The same to the same.
 The same to the same.
 The same to Tom Rawlings.
 The same to Sir H. Unton.
 A to E. of Essex.
 S. to the same.
 Memoranda regarding Th. Blount, Capt. Th. Lea, and Sir Chr. Blunt.
 Brief of bribes received by Lo. Treasurer, Lady Glenham and others, his followers in 1599, and since.

1600.

- Jan. 1. Sir R. Drury to Sir R. Cecil.
 Jan. 1. Ph. Corsini to the same.
 Jan. 1. Customs on Lawns, &c. for 12 years.
 Jan. 3. Lo. Audelay to Sir R. Cecil.
 Jan. 4. Mr. Budden to the same.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

Jan. 4. Lo. Ch. Justice Popham to same.
Jan. 5. Lo. Herbert to the same.
Jan. 5. W. Barlow to E. of Essex.
Jan. 5. Sir Ph. Boteler to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 5. J. Osborn to the same.
Jan. 5. Goodman, Dean of Westminster, to the same.
Jan. 7. Dr. Hadr. Sarravia to Abp. of Cant.
Jan. 7. Information of R. Newman before the Mayor of Plymouth.

Jan. 8. E. Palavicino to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 8. Whitgift, Abp. of Cant. to the same.
Jan. 8. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
Jan. 11. Capt. E. Whitelock to the same.
Jan. 12. E. Fitzgerald to the same.
Jan. 12. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
Jan. 12. Lo. Eure to the same.
Jan. 12. R. Hawkins to Mr. Edmonds.
Jan. 14. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 15. Deputy Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
Jan. 16. Amb. Dudley to the same.
Jan. 17. Lady Denny to the same.
Jan. 18. Lo. Herbert to the same.
Jan. 18. Sir Car. Reynell to the same.
Jan. 18. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
Jan. 19. E. of Pembroke to the same.
Jan. 20. Lo. Grey to Privy Council.
Jan. 20. Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Willoughby and Sir W.

Bower.

Jan. 20. Hen. Baker to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 20. Carew Raleigh to the same.
Jan. 21. Sir A. Ashley to the same.
Jan. 22. Capt. Jonas Bradbury to the same.
Jan. 23. Sir. W. A. Mallory to the same.
Jan. 25. Council at Ludlow to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 25. Bp. of Hereford to the same.
Jan. 26. Sir G. Merrick to Sir A. Chichester.
Jan. 26. Lo. Admiral to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 26. Whitgift Abp. of Cant., to the same.
Jan. 26. Sir G. Merrick to Capt. Jo. Jeffy (Carrick-fergus).

Jan. 26. Sir E. Vuedale to the same.
Jan. 27. Dr. Grif. Lewis to the same.
Jan. 28. Ri. Hadsor to the same.
Jan. 28. Sergeant Yelverton and Attorney General Coke to the same.

Jan. 28. Sir R. Cecil to M. Nicholson (Edinburgh) (3).
Jan. 29. Mayor of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 30. Th. Hobson to M. Temple.
Jan. 31. Sir Jo. Harrington to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 31. Justice Comerford to Prest. of Munster.
Jan. —. Certificate freeing Jas. Hudson from subsidies, &c.

Jan. —. Advice to E. of Essex upon banishment, with answer.

— Sir R. Drury upon the Queen's treatment of E. of Essex.

Feb. 1. R. Dolman to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 1. Geo. Goring to the same.
Feb. 2. E. of Oxford to the same.
Feb. 4. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 4. Lady Norreys to the same.
Feb. 4. Pet. Sinnot to E. of Tyrone.
Feb. 6. Sir R. Cecil to Sir R. Carey.
Feb. 8. Warrant of Deputy lieutenants to officers to arm.

Feb. 8. Deposition of Ric. Gambler, tailor of London, of a gentleman ordering a waistcoat that would bear a thrust.

Feb. 8. Words of one Bush at Paul's chain before the skirmish, and by John Mylles, servants of Essex, in derogation of Sir R. Cecil.

Feb. 8. Relation of occurrences at the approach of Essex to the chain and posts near the end of the two lanes between Pauls and Ludgate, Sunday.

Speeches of Chr. Doddington concerning Essex, Cobham, the Secretary and, Raleigh.

Informations of Hen. Maunders, Trollope, and John Birde, respecting Essex, Rutland, Sir G. Merrick, Rog. Vaughan, and others.

Feb. 9. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 9. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 9. Lo. Buckhurst to the same (2).
Feb. 9. Geof. Havard to the same.
Feb. 9. W. Smith to the same.
Feb. 9. Sir Jo. Portescue to the same.
Feb. 9. E. Wiseman and A. Glascock to the same.
Feb. 10. E. of Pembroke to the same.
Feb. 10. Sir Post Hoboy to the same.
Feb. 10. E. of Lincoln to the same.
Feb. 10. Intelligence by W. Bucke, chaplain to Lo. Willoughby.

Feb. 11. E. of Lincoln to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 11. Sir A. Mildmay to the same.
Feb. 11. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
Feb. 12. Capt. F. Lee to the same.
Feb. 12. Ed. Blount to Sir R. Shuttleworth.
Feb. 12. E. Standen to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 12. Lo. Mayor of London to the same.
Feb. 12. Hen. Knolles to the same.
Feb. 12. Lo. Th. Howard to the same.
Feb. 13. Wm. Reynolds to the same.
Feb. 13. E. Huddleston to the same.
Feb. 13. Sheriff of Worcestershire to the same.
Feb. 13. Capt. Levens to the same.
Feb. 13. Examination of Sir Chr. Blunt.
Feb. 13. Examination of persons taken at Winchester.
Feb. 14. Examination of Capt. Th. Lee.
Feb. 14. Recorder of London to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 14. Attorney General Coke to the same.
Feb. 14. Mr. Dale to the same.
Feb. 14. Mr. Becher to the same.
Feb. 14. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 14. Lo. Th. Howard to the same.
Feb. 14. Sir H. Lee to the same.
Feb. 14. Sir P. Boteler to the same.
Feb. 14. Examination of Capt. Th. Lee.
Feb. 14. E. of Bedford to Privy Council.
Feb. 14. Lo. Mayor of London to the same.
Feb. 15. Note of Mr. Egerton's sermon.
Feb. 15. Information of Ann Philipson respecting

Mr. Cuffe.

Feb. 15. Bennet and Garrard to Privy Council.
Feb. 15. Mayor, &c. of Plymouth, to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 15. E. of Huntingdon to the same.
Feb. 15. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 15. Sir A. Ashley to the same.
Feb. 16. Sir E. Wotton, Sir H. Bruncker, and Mr.

Recorder to Privy Council.

Feb. 16. Lo. Mayor to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 16. Sir Jo. Petre to the same.
Feb. 16. Sir H. Lee to the same.
Feb. 17. Mayor of Chester to the same.
Feb. 17. Sheriff of Worcestershire to the same.
Feb. 17. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to the same.
Feb. 17. Sir E. Coke to the same.
Feb. 17. Examination of W. Harrison taken at Chester.
Feb. 18. Sir R. Crosse to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 18. Sir E. Wotton, Sir H. Bruncker, and Mr.

Recorder to Privy Council.

Feb. 18. Examination of Sir F. Gorges.
Feb. 18. Second examination and last words of Sir C. Blunt (of the Rebellion).

Feb. 18. Israel Anyce to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 19. Sir H. Neville to the same.
Feb. 19. Justices of Pembrokehire to Privy Council.
Feb. 20. Mr. Doddington to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 20. Cotton, Bp. of Sarum, to Privy Council.
Feb. 21. Capt. Jackson to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 21. Cuffe's answer to articles of the Privy Council.

Feb. 22. Sir T. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 22. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 23. Sir W. Mallory to the same.
Feb. 23. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
Feb. 24. Lo. Dudley to the same.
Feb. 24. Mr. Harris to the same.
Feb. 24. Sir R. Lovelace to the same.
Feb. 24. Attorney General Coke to the same.
Feb. 24. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 24. Lo. Darcy to Privy Council.
Feb. 24. Lo. Dudley to Sir R. Cecil (2).
Feb. 25. Sir R. Lewkenor to the same.
Feb. 25. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 25. Sir T. Wilford to the same.
Feb. 25. Mayor of Chester to the same.
Feb. 25. Report of death of E. of Essex.
Feb. 26. Sir R. Carey to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 26. Mr. Shute to the same.
Feb. 26. H. Lok to the same.
Feb. 26. W. Mowbray to Arch. Douglas.
Feb. 27. Lo. Mayor of London to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 27. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 27. Mr. Becher to the same.
Feb. 28. Dr. Giles Fletcher to the Lo. Mayor.
Feb. 28. Same to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 28. Geo. Brady to the same.
Feb. 28. Jo. Loe to the same.
Feb. 28. Th. Lily to the same.
Feb. 28. Sir H. Neville to the same.
Feb. 28. H. Cuffe to the same (2).
Feb. 28. Earl of Pembroke to the same.

Feb. 28. Dissertationes de Sacramento Eucharistæ, de S. Pontifice, de Conciliis, de Ecclesiâ, de notis Ecclesiæ et de Spiritibus discernendis.

Declaration of R. Lovelace of ouvertures made him in Essex House.

Owen Salisbury's speeches touching Sir G. Merrick.

Abstract out of the Earl's own confession.

Examination touching apprentices to deliver the E. of Essex.

Lists of prisoners in Essex's affair; periods of imprisonment; fines; noblemen's sons and brothers on whom fines are imposed; of those living that are condemned, and of those executed.

Mar. 1. Rowland White to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 2. Sir T. Fane to the same.

Mar. 2. Capt. W. Eustace to the same.

Mar. 2. Declaration of Sir Chas. Danvers touching Essex and Hen. Lee.

Mar. 2. Informations before Bp. of Winchester concerning Ri. Gifford.

Mar. 3. R. Coningsbye to Earl of Essex.

Mar. 3. Sir A. Capel to the same.

Mar. 4. Lord Mayor to the same.

Mar. 4. Dr. Duport to the same.

Mar. 4. Mayor of Chester to Privy Council.

Mar. 4. Information taken by John Bride, public notary, for the Privy Council, relating to the Earl's faction and dependants.

Mar. 4. Sir G. Merrick's answers to Interrogatories.

Mar. 5. Bancroft, Bp. of London to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 6. Sir H. Wodhouse to the same.

Mar. 6. Z. Lok to the same.

Mar. 6. Sir H. Lee to the same.

Mar. 7. Lo. Mayor of London to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 7. W. Cope to the same.

Mar. 7. Jo. Skinner to the same.

Mar. 7. Fr. Lambard to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 8. T. Cawood to the same.

Mar. 8. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.

Mar. 8. Sir G. Merrick's confessions.

Mar. 9. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 9. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.

Mar. 9. Sir W. Browne to the same.

Mar. 9. Capt. Chr. Levens to the same.

Mar. 9. Sir Ar. Gorges to the Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 9. Sir Th. Coningsby to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 9. Bailiffs of Leominster to the same.

Mar. 10. Sir R. Levison to the same.

Mar. 10. Capt. May to the same.

Mar. 10. Fr. Dacre to the Vicountess Montague.

Mar. 11. Passport by Sir R. Cecil for Alex. Drummond, Alex. Hey, and John Henderson, Scots, and with their horses.

Mar. 11. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 11. Sir Jo. Harrington to the same.

Mar. 11. Dr. John Duport to the same.

Mar. 12. Sir N. Parker to the same.

Mar. 12. Sir Carew Reynell to the same.

Mar. 12. Examination of Jas. Moore and Pet. Strong, of Waterford, by Sir N. Parker, touching a casket of books and letters from Spain for Tyrone.

Mar. 13. Capt. May to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 13. Lo. Mountague to the same.

Mar. 13. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.

Mar. 13. C. Egerton to the same.

Mar. 14. P. de la Haye to the same.

Mar. 14. E. of Lincoln to the same.

Mar. 14. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.

Mar. 14. Dr. Giles Fletcher to the same.

Mar. 14. R. Luffe to the same.

Mar. 15. R. Wilbraham to the same.

Mar. 15. Fr. Kylweye to the same.

Mar. 15. Dr. R. Bennett to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 17. Sir T. Fane to the same.

Mar. 19. T. Ferrers to the same.

Mar. 19. Hoddesdon and Wheeler to the same.

Mar. 19. Ursula, Lady Walsingham, to the same.

Mar. 19. (W. Rider) Lo. Mayor to the same.

Mar. 20. E. of Rutland to the same.

Mar. 20. Estate of E. of Rutland.

Mar. 20. Curious dreams relating to E. of Essex, conversations of certain followers.

Mar. 20. J. Bluttorne to Mrs. Fr. Dacre.

Mar. 20. Jo. Garrons to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 20. Sir G. Harvey to the same.

Mar. 21. [Bp. of Ely] to the same.

Mar. 21. Lo. Sandys to Privy Council.

Mar. 21. The same, Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 21. The Queen to Lo. Willoughby (2).

Mar. 21. Ro. Manners to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 21. Mayor of Bristol to the same.

Mar. 21. W. Eustace to the same.

Mar. 21. Dr. Giles Fletcher to the same.

Mar. 21. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson, (Edinburgh).

Mar. 22. Capt. R. Gyfford to Lo. Buckhurst.

Mar. 22. City of Limerick to the Queen.

Mar. 22. E. of Huntingdon to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 22. Sir H. Parker to the same.

Mar. 22. Lo. H. Seymour to the same.

Mar. 23. Jordan Chadwick to the same.

Mar. 23. Relacio de las Municiones y de los Navijos, van de Lauden and Phil. San Andreo en Corunna.

Mar. 24. Lady Anne Neville to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 25. Capt. T. Blount to the same.

Mar. 25. Lady Denny to the same.

Mar. 25. Ri. Lee to the same.

Mar. 26. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.

Mar. 26. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.

Mar. 26. Ch. Macarty to the same.

Mar. 26. R. Beale to the same.

Mar. 26. R. Ogle to the same.

Mar. 26. Sir R. Barkley to the same.

Mar. 26. Sir T. Gorges to the same.

Mar. 27. G. Nicolson to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 27. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.

Mar. 27. Jo. Daniel to Lo. Cobham.

Mar. 27. V. Skinner to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 27. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.

Mar. 28. Jo. Daniel to the same.

Mar. 29. Sheriff, &c. of Northampton, to Privy Council.

Mar. 29. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 29. Mr. Budden to the same.

Mar. 29. Examination of John Penkerell.

Mar. 30. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 30. Lo. H. Seymour to the same.

Mar. 30. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.

Mar. 30. Sir R. Cecil to Capt. Blount.

Mar. 31. Ri. Thomson to Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 31. E. of Bath to the same.

Mar. 31. Sir E. Coke to the same.

Mar. 31. Justices of Leicester to the same.

Mar. 31. Mr. Dillon to the same.

Mar. 31. Mayor of Bristol to the same.

Mar. 31. Rog. Wilbraham, Solicitor for Ireland, to the same.

Mar. 31. Ri. Thomson to the same.

Mar. —. Mrs. E. Cecil to the same.

Mar. —. Sir W. Cornwalleyes to the same.

Mar. —. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.

Mar. —. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.

Mar. —. Privy Council to Commissioners of Munster.

April 1. Sir W. Killegrew to Sir R. Cecil.

April 1. Sir H. Lee to the same.

April 1. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson (Edinburgh).

April 2. Ed. Longe to Sir H. Brouncker.

April 2. Th. Lawley and J. Moore to Sir R. Cecil.

April 2. Sir R. Barkley to the same.

April 3. (Wm. Resould) to the same.

April 3. H. Dillon to the same.

April 3. Sir H. Lee to the same.

April 4. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.

April 4. P. de la Haye to the same.

April 4. Lo. Cobham to the same.

April 4. E. of Pembroke to the same.

April 4. Goodman, Dean of Westminster, to the same.

April 4. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.

April 4. E. of Pembroke to the Queen.

April 4. Sir G. Harvey to Sir R. Cecil (2).

April 4. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.

April 5. Sir Jo. Fortescue to the same.

April 5. Sir W. Levison to the same.

April 5. Lo. Morley to the same.

April 5. Sir R. Knightly to the same.

April 6. Sir T. Sherley to the same.

April 7. Ed. Stanley to the same.

April 7. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.

April 7. Capt. Ogle to the same.

April 8. E. of Thomond to the same.

April 8. E. of Rutland to the same.

April 8. (Sir G. Carew), President of Munster, to the same (2).

April 9. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.

April 9. Sir Geo. Thorston to the same.

April 10. Lo. Admiral to the same.

April 10. Ed. Greville to the same.

April 10. E. of Bath to the same.

April 10. Sir H. Brouncker to the same.

April 10. Mountjoy, deputy of Ireland, to the same.

April 10. Sir T. Fairfax to the same.

April 11. Magistrates of Gloucester to the same.
 April 12. H. Crofts to H. Percival.
 April 12. W. Treflry to Sir F. Gorges.
 April 12. Lo. Willoughby to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 12. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 April 13. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 April 13. Sir T. Sherley to the same.
 April 13. Viscount Mountague to the same.
 April 14. Sir A. Gorges to the same.
 April 14. Sir R. Barkley to the same.
 April 15. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 April 15. Jas. Hudson to the same.
 April 17. Lady M. Clifford to the same.
 April 17. Lady Knightley to the same.
 April 17. Sir E. Morgan to the same.
 April 17. Noel de Caron to the same.
 April 17. Sir Jo. Shirley to the Lo. Treasurer.
 April 18. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 18. Ja. Hudson to the same.
 April 18. E. of Cumberland to the same.
 April 18. Nich. Moseley, Lord Mayor of London, to the same.

April 18. Buckhurst, Lo. Treasurer, to the same.
 April 18. Lands seized of Chr. Osborne of London.
 April 19. Jo. Killegreve to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 19. Sir Th. Gerrard to the same.
 April 20. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 April 20. Lady Willoughby to the same.
 April 20. Lady Kath. Newton to the same.
 April 20. (Moseley) Lo. Mayor to the same.
 April 20. Sir T. Gerrard to the same.
 April 21. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 April 21. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 April 21. R. Grave to the same.
 April 21. Sir T. Sherley to the same.
 April 21. Mayor of Exeter to the same.
 April 21. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 April 22. Hen. Belagh to Sir Geo. Carye.
 April 22. Noel de Caron to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 22. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Attorney.
 April 24. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 24. Sir R. Knightley to the same.
 April 24. Sir E. Norreys to the same.
 April 25. Sir Jo. Smythe to the same.
 April 25. Sir E. Norreys to the same.
 April 25. Noel de Caron to the same.
 April 25. Sir R. Barkley to the same.
 April 25. Magistrates of Hull to the same.
 April 26. Giov. Bassadonna to Ant. Bacon.
 April 26. Sir R. Crosse to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 26. Mr. Fitzgerald to the same.
 April 26. Mr. Waad to the same.
 April 27. A. Throckmorton to the same.
 April 27. Lo. Crumwell to the same.
 April 27. Sir R. Barkley to the same.
 April 28. Mr. Saville to the same.
 April 28. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 April 28. Mr. Pulten to the same.
 April 28. French ambassador to the same.
 April 28. R. Beale to Lo. Chancellor, Lo. Admiral, and Sir R. Cecil.

April 29. Mr. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 29. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 April 29. Bancroft, Bp. of London, and Dr. Parkins, Commissioners for Denmark to the same.
 April 30. Mr. Hyll to the Queen.
 April —. Dr. Butler to Sir R. Cecil.
 April —. Capt. E. Cecil to the same.
 April —. Ambrose Dudley to the same.
 April —. Lady Edmonds to the same.
 April —. Sir E. Hoby to the same.
 April —. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 April —. Men of account in the train of the Governor of Dieppe, ambassador to England.

May 1. Capt. G. Thornton to Mayor of Chester.
 May 1. Jones, Bp. of Meath, to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 1. H. Leigh to the same.
 May 2. Sir A. Capell to the same.
 May 3. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.
 May 3. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 May 3. W. Waad to the same.
 May 4. Mayor of Chester to Privy Council.
 May 4. Sir Ant. Paulet to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 4. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 May 4. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 May 5. Mr. Hungerford to the same (2).
 May 5. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 May 5. Victualling account for 700 men for 4 months.
 May 6. Lo. Crumwell to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 6. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 May 6. Sir C. Danvers to E. of Southampton.

May 7. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 7. Justice Townsend to the same.
 May 7. R. Pigott to the same.
 May 8. Sir C. Danvers to E. of Southampton.
 May 9. Sir T. Gerrard to the same.
 May 9. E. of Essex to Privy Council.
 May 9. Examination of Fran. Beale, late soldier in Ireland, before Dr. Soame, Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge, touching Sir H. Palavicino and Tyrone.
 May 10. Sec. Herbert to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 10. Whitgift, Abp. of Cant., to the same.
 May 11. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 May 12. Mayor of Plymouth for Sir F. Gorges, &c. to the same.
 May 12. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 May 13. F. Norreys to the same.
 May 15. Sec. Herbert to the same.
 May 15. Mr. Beaumont to the same.
 May 15. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
 May 15. Capt. Symms to the same.
 May 15. Capt. Bostock to the same.
 May 16. Lo. Willoughby d'Eresby to the same.
 May 17. Sir Wm. Browne to the same.
 May 17. Sir H. Parker to the same (2).
 May 17. Sir H. Palavicino to the same.
 May 18. R. Piggot to the same.
 May 18. Lo. Audelay to E. of Essex.
 May 19. Sir R. Knightley to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.

May 20. Mr. Windebank to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 20. Mr. Lake to the same.
 May 21. Sir Jo. Smith to the same.
 May 21. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 May 21. Ri. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 May 22. Sir Th. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 22. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 May 23. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson (Edinburgh).
 May 23. Sir R. Barkley to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 23. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 May 24. Geo. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 26. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.
 May 26. Hen. Leigh to the same.
 May 27. Capt. F. Kingsmill to the same.
 May 27. Sir Dru Drury to the same.
 May 27. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 May 28. Abbot, Dep. Vice Chanc. of Oxford, to the same.

May 28. The Tinnors of Devon to Sir W. Raleigh.
 May 28. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 29. Cotton, Bp. of Sarum, to the same.
 May 30. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 May 30. Lady B. Norreys to the same.
 May 30. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 May 30. Fil. Corsini to the same.
 May 31. Sir R. Lee to the same.
 May 31. Lo. Mayor to the same (2).
 May 31. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 May 31. Sir Geo. Carew to the same.
 May 31. Lady Joyce Carew to the same.
 May 31. Lo. Chandos to the same.
 May 31. E. of Cumberland to the same.
 May 31. Lo. Grey to the same.
 May 31. E. of Essex to Privy Council.
 June 1. Chester Post to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 June 1. Lo. Willoughby to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 2. Countess (Dowager) of Shrewsbury to the same.

June 3. Voyage of the Lion's Whelp, Southward.
 June 3. W. Waad to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 3. Sir Jo. Wogan to the same.
 June 4. Proceedings about points in religion between Dr. Overall and Dr. Soame, Vice-chancellor and assistants, Drs. Goode, Tyndal, Barwell, Jegon, Clayton, Overall, and Mr. Chaderton.

June 5. Hen. Leigh to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 7. Examination of Nich. Noucher or Noncaro before Dr. Cæsar.

June 7. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 7. Goodman, Dean of Westm., to the same.
 June 7. The Queen to Duke Charles of Sweden.
 June 7. Lo. Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 9. M. F. de Gand to Lo. Admiral.
 June 10. Jo. Waring to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 10. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 June 11. Sir G. Merrick to E. of Southampton.
 June 12. Mayor of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 12. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 June 12. Mr. Fitzgerald to the same.
 June 12. Sir A. Sherley to Sir Th. Sherley.
 June 13. R. Spencer to the same.
 June 13. Sir H. Lee to the same.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

June 13. Chief parishioners of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields to the same.
 June 13. Sir Ed. Denny to the same.
 June 13. Lo. Seroope to the same.
 June 14. Sir Ch. Danvers to E. of Southampton.
 June 14. Address of Lo. Keeper in Star Chamber to Judges and Justices.
 June 14. Examination of Thursby, a Catholic.
 June 15. Chf. Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 16. Sir W. Bower to the same.
 June 16. Ed. Thornburgh to the same.
 June 16. Jo. Burges to E. of Essex.
 June 16. Mayor of Hull to Privy Council.
 June 17. Ed. Thornburgh to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 18. Sir A. Throckmorton to the same.
 June 18. Lo. Grey to the same.
 June 18. Council at York to Lo. Burghley.
 June 19. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 June 19. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
 June 19. Noel de Caron to the same.
 June 20. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 June 20. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 June 20. Sir Arth. Capel to the same.
 June 20. Lo. Morley to the same.
 June 20. Sir A. Sherley to E. of Essex.
 June 20. Chancellor of Poland to the Queen.
 June 20. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 20. Rom. Languis (Sec. of the States) to the same.
 June 21. Sir A. Capell to the same.
 June 21. Lo. Grey to the same.
 June 21. Lod. Brysket to the same.
 June 21. Hen. Knowles to the same.
 June 21. John Aves to the same.
 June 22. W. Bornstra to the same.
 June 22. Sergeant Yelverton to the same.
 June 22. Losses in battle between Newport and Ostend.
 June 23. Sir H. Killegrew to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 23. Sir R. Cecil to Rog. Houghton.
 June 24. Sir F. Godolphin to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 24. Hen. Leigh to the same.
 June 25. Lo. Grey to the same.
 June 25. R. Beacon to M. Hickeys.
 June 25. Advertisements from Paris and the Low Countries.
 June 26. W. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 27. Sir Jo. Roper to the same.
 June 27. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
 June 27. (T. Mathew) Bp. of Durham to the same.
 June 27. Examination of Th. Lark and W. Brewster at Wisbeach.
 June 27. Note of Hen. Saunderson's employment and services.
 June 28. P. Cowper to the same.
 ? Sir Jo. Harrington to the same.
 June 29. The same to the same.
 June 29. Sir C. Danvers to Earl of Southampton.
 June 29. (Sir R. Cecil? to Abp. of York?).
 June 30. Privy Council to Muscovy Company.
 June 30. Lo. North to Sir R. Cecil.
 June 30. Vice-Chancellor's Speech before the Divinity Disputation.
 June 30. Capt. E. Cecil to the same.
 June 30. Questiones Theologicae in Vesperis Comitorium.
 June —. Instructions for Sir Ric. Lee sent to Emp. of Russia.
 June —. Names of Levant Company and servants, with children dead and buried in Turkey and Venice for 17 years, since the trade began by Englishmen.
 June —. Proclamation for restraint of export of grain.
 July 1. Lo. Burghley and Ld. Cobham to the same.
 July 1. Mr. Draper to [Lo. Deputy of Ireland].
 July 2. Lo. Admiral to Lo. Cobham.
 July 3. The Provost and Fellows of King's Coll., Cambridge, to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 3. Sir J. Harrington to the same.
 July 3. R. Poulett to the same.
 July 4. Sir Geoff. Fenton to the same.
 July 5. Ld. Cobham to the same.
 July 5. Jo. Birde to the same.
 July 6. H. Leigh to the same.
 July 6. Ra. Wiseman to Privy Council.
 July 6. W. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 6. Lod. Brysket to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 July 7. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 7. The Fellows of Peter House to the same.
 July 7. Capt. Myddleton to the same.
 July 7. Lady Palavicino to the same.

July 7. Articles extrait hors d'une lettre escripte à Bruxelles.
 July 8. Mayor of Bristol to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 8. Sir A. Sherley to E. of Essex.
 July 9. W. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 9. Ro. King to the same (?)
 July 10. Justices of Devon to the same.
 July 10. E. Fitzgerald (E. of Desmond) to the same.
 July 11. T. Holcroft to the same.
 July 11. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 July 11. Sir T. Fane to the same.
 July 12. Sir T. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 12. R. Lytton to the same.
 July 12. M. Aymez to the same.
 July 13. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 July 13. Sir Fr. Darcy to the same.
 July 13. H. Leigh to the same.
 July 13. Capt. Ogle to the same.
 July 14. Master of Gray to the same.
 July 14. Th. Elwood and R. Pickering to the same.
 July 14. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.
 July 14. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 July 15. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.
 July 15. R. Johnson to the same.
 July 16. Mayor of Drogheda to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 16. Same to the Privy Council.
 July 16. Fr. Keyrweys to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 16. Capt. Borustra to the same.
 July 16. Ed. Standen to the same.
 July 16. Lo. Grey to the same.
 July 17. Mayor, &c. of Waterford to the same.
 July 17. Governors of Muscovy Company to the same.
 July 18. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 July 18. Sir R. Gardener to the same.
 July 18. Dr. Duport to the same.
 July 18. G. Knighton to the same.
 July 18. Money disbursed by the Lieutenant of the Tower in clothing Desmond's footman, dispatched into Ireland.
 July 19. W. Cecil to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 19. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.
 July 19. Jas. Ware to the same.
 July 19. Confession of John Weston of a "writing in form of a ballet."
 July 20. Capt. Borustra to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 21. Rob. Osborn to Mr. Reynolds.
 July 21. Sir C. Danvers to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 21. Lo. Morley to the same.
 July 22. Lo. Stafford to the same.
 July 22. Capt. Morgan to the same.
 July 22. Dr. Soame (Vice C. of Camb.) to the same.
 July 22. [Lo. Compton] to the same.
 July 23. Lo. H. Seymour to the same.
 July 24. Sir Geoff. Fenton to the same.
 July 25. Lo. Chanc. of Ireland to the same.
 July 25. Steph. Reselden to the same.
 July 25. Sir N. Parker to the same.
 July 26. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 July 26. Sir R. Knightley, &c. to the same.
 July 26. Goodman, Dean of Westmr., to the same.
 July 26. Hortensio Spinola to the same.
 July 26. E. of Derby to the same.
 July 26. Jo. Meade to the same.
 July 26. M. Brewster to the same.
 July 28. Paul Ive to the same.
 July 28. E. of Rutland to the same.
 July 28. E. of Essex to the same.
 July 28. Justices of Suffolk to the Privy Council.
 July 28. Paul Pinder to Mich. Hickeys.
 July 28. Ri. Cooke to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 29. Lo. H. Norreys to the same.
 July 29. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.
 July 30. Sir Ed. Herbert to the same.
 July 31. Th. Holcroft to the same.
 July 31. W. Atkinson to the same.
 July 31. James Anton to the same.
 July 31. Examinations of Chr. Porter, Queen's messenger, and Guy Hewes before Sir F. Darcy, &c.
 July —. Capt. F. Jackson to Sir R. Cecil.
 July —. L'Archiduc d'Autriche to Conseil d'Etat.
 July —. La Conseil d'Etat to the Archduke.
 July —. Lod. Brysket to Sir R. Cecil.
 July —. W. Cecil (Sir R.'s son) to Sir W. Raleigh.
 July —. Capt. Clare to Sir R. Cecil.
 July —. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 July —. Capt. Crompton to the same.
 July —. Capt. Erfield to the same.
 July —. E. Fitzgerald (E. of Desmond) to the same.
 July —. J. Hudson to the same.
 July —. Justices of Middlesex to Privy Council.
 July —. Sir F. Rushe to Sir R. Cecil.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.		MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.
July —. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.	Aug. 29. A. Hyde to the same.	Aug. 29. A. Hyde to the same.
July —. Pinchbeck Lovet to the same.	Aug. 30. Lo. Buckhurst to Lady Skidymore.	Aug. 30. Lo. Buckhurst to Lady Skidymore.
Aug. 1. Sir N. Parker to the same.	Aug. 30. Sir Th. Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.	Aug. 30. Sir Th. Leighton to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 1. Capt. Clare to the same.	Aug. 30. Fr. Norreys to the same.	Aug. 30. Fr. Norreys to the same.
Aug. 1. Th. Phipps to the same.	Aug. 30. Lo. Cobham to the same.	Aug. 30. Lo. Cobham to the same.
Aug. 1. M. Linewray to the same.	Aug. 31. Capt. Prynn to the same.	Aug. 31. Capt. Prynn to the same.
Aug. 1. Mayor of Chester to the same.	Aug. 31. Alb. of Cashel to the same.	Aug. 31. Alb. of Cashel to the same.
Aug. 2. Sir Jo. Talbot to the same.	Aug. 31. R. Percival to the same.	Aug. 31. R. Percival to the same.
Aug. 2. Ri. Cooke to the same.	Aug. 31. E. of Desmond to the same.	Aug. 31. E. of Desmond to the same.
Aug. 2. Ja. Hudson to the same.	Aug. 31. Mrs. Power to the same.	Aug. 31. Mrs. Power to the same.
Aug. 2. E. of Cumberland to the same.	Aug. 31. E. of Desmond to the same.	Aug. 31. E. of Desmond to the same.
Aug. 3. N. Wise to the same.	Aug. 31. Capt. Eustace to the same.	Aug. 31. Capt. Eustace to the same.
Aug. 3. Privy Council to E. of Southampton.	Sept. 1. King of Scots to Sir H. Docwra.	Sept. 1. King of Scots to Sir H. Docwra.
Aug. 3. The same to Lo. Grey.	Sept. 2. Sir Jul. Cassar to Lo. Admiral.	Sept. 2. Sir Jul. Cassar to Lo. Admiral.
Aug. 3. E. of Southampton to Lo. Grey.	Sept. 5. Cardinal Borghese to R. Charnock.	Sept. 5. Cardinal Borghese to R. Charnock.
Aug. 3. Lo. Grey to E. of Southampton (2).	Sept. 5. Sir P. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 5. Sir P. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 3. E. of Desmond to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 6. E. of Lincoln to the same.	Sept. 6. E. of Lincoln to the same.
Aug. 4. Mayor of Bristol to the same.	Sept. 6. Lo. Cobham to the same.	Sept. 6. Lo. Cobham to the same.
Aug. 4. Capt. Jo. May to the same.	Sept. 6. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.	Sept. 6. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
Aug. 4. E. of Rutland to the same.	Sept. 7. Sir Th. Fane to the same.	Sept. 7. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
Aug. 5. Sir E. Fytton to the same.	Sept. 7. W. Davison (ex-Secretary) to E. of Essex.	Sept. 7. W. Davison (ex-Secretary) to E. of Essex.
Aug. 5. R. Douglas to Arch. Douglas.	Sept. 7. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 7. Sir H. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 5. Arth. Hyde to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 8. The same to E. of Essex.	Sept. 8. The same to E. of Essex.
Aug. 6. Sir H. Neville to the same.	Sept. 8. The Queen to Chanc. of Poland.	Sept. 8. The Queen to Chanc. of Poland.
Aug. 7. E. of Rutland to the same.	Sept. 8. Mr. Stileman to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 8. Mr. Stileman to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 7. Impost upon French and Rhenish Wines,	Sept. 8. Ed. Gorges to the same.	Sept. 8. Ed. Gorges to the same.
Mic. 1599 to Aug. 7, 1600.	Sept. 8. Sir R. Cecil to Dow. March. of Winchester.	Sept. 8. Sir R. Cecil to Dow. March. of Winchester.
Aug. 8. Sir R. Dormer to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 8. Ed. More to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 8. Ed. More to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 9. H. Leigh to the same.	Sept. 8. E. of Rutland to the same.	Sept. 8. E. of Rutland to the same.
Aug. 10. H. Flint to the same.	Sept. 9. Sir Jo. Talbot to the same.	Sept. 9. Sir Jo. Talbot to the same.
Aug. 11. Sir H. Neville to the same.	Sept. 9. Mr. Stileman to the same.	Sept. 9. Mr. Stileman to the same.
Aug. 11. Examination of John Lever (or Luer) of	Sept. 9. Capt. H. Lee to E. of Essex.	Sept. 9. Capt. H. Lee to E. of Essex.
Penzance.	Sept. 9. Sir R. Cecil to the Chancellor of Poland.	Sept. 9. Sir R. Cecil to the Chancellor of Poland.
Aug. 11. Sir Th. Gerrard to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 10. Th. Moffat to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 10. Th. Moffat to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 11. Noel de Caron to the same.	Sept. 10. Sir R. Knightley to E. of Essex.	Sept. 10. Sir R. Knightley to E. of Essex.
Aug. 12. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.	Sept. 11. Dow. Lady Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 11. Dow. Lady Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 12. Lo. Grey to Privy Council.	Sept. 11. Cattle killed during the riots in co. Lancaster	Sept. 11. Cattle killed during the riots in co. Lancaster
Aug. 13. Lo. Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.	from 22 May.	from 22 May.
Aug. 13. Pat. Typper (agent for Countess of Kildare)	Sept. 12. Ed. More to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 12. Ed. More to Sir R. Cecil.
to the same.	Sept. 12. Sir A. Gorges to Lo. Admiral.	Sept. 12. Sir A. Gorges to Lo. Admiral.
Aug. 13. Sir Ant. St. Leger to the same.	Sept. 12. Th. Crompton to Mr. Reynolds, sec. to	Sept. 12. Th. Crompton to Mr. Reynolds, sec. to
Aug. 13. Lady Killegrew to the same.	Essex (2).	Essex (2).
Aug. 13. Examination of C. Porter before Sir Jo.	Sept. 13. Intelligence from Archduke's camp before	Sept. 13. Intelligence from Archduke's camp before
Peyton, &c.	Ostend.	Ostend.
Aug. 14. R. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 14. Sir Ant. Mildmay to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 14. Sir Ant. Mildmay to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 14. Lady C. Paulet to the same.	Sept. 15. Dow. Lady Winchester to the same.	Sept. 15. Dow. Lady Winchester to the same.
Aug. 14. H. Maynard to the same.	Sept. 15. Mr. Screver, Mr. R. and C. Leighton to E.	Sept. 15. Mr. Screver, Mr. R. and C. Leighton to E.
Aug. 14. Thornburgh, Bp. of Limerick, to the same.	of Essex.	of Essex.
Aug. 14. Sir Th. Gerrard to the same.	Sept. 16. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 16. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 14. Sir H. Lee to the same.	Sept. 16. Lod. Brysket to the same.	Sept. 16. Lod. Brysket to the same.
Aug. 16. Baron Saville and Serjt. Yelverton to	Sept. 17. Capt. Prynn to the same.	Sept. 17. Capt. Prynn to the same.
the same.	Sept. 17. Sir Th. Fane to Lo. Cobham.	Sept. 17. Sir Th. Fane to Lo. Cobham.
Aug. 16. Wm. Skinner to the same.	Sept. 18. W. Cooke to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 18. W. Cooke to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 16. Sir E. Moore to the same.	Sept. 18. Sir A. Mildmay to the same.	Sept. 18. Sir A. Mildmay to the same.
Aug. 16. Sir A. Ashley to the same.	Sept. 18. W. Fitzwilliam to the same.	Sept. 18. W. Fitzwilliam to the same.
Aug. 16. Arch. Douglas to the same.	Sept. 19. Sir H. Glenham to the same.	Sept. 19. Sir H. Glenham to the same.
Aug. 16. Examination of Hen. Burns of St. Johnston	Sept. 19. Lo. North to the same.	Sept. 19. Lo. North to the same.
(Perth), servant of the Lo. Warden Seafood.	Sept. 19. Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex (2).	Sept. 19. Ant. Bacon to E. of Essex (2).
Aug. 17. A. Hyde to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 20. W. Lidd to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 20. W. Lidd to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 18. H. Maynard to the same.	Sept. 21. Pat. Arthur to the same.	Sept. 21. Pat. Arthur to the same.
Aug. 19. Sir G. Merrick to Mr. Cuffe.	Sept. 21. Jo. Stileman to the same.	Sept. 21. Jo. Stileman to the same.
Aug. 19. Sir A. Chichester to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 22. Mayor, &c. of Hull to the same.	Sept. 22. Mayor, &c. of Hull to the same.
Aug. 19. Sir H. Lee to the same.	Sept. 22. Sir H. Lee to the same.	Sept. 22. Sir H. Lee to the same.
Aug. 19. Capt. Dawtrey to the same.	Sept. 22. Sir Ant. Cope to the same.	Sept. 22. Sir Ant. Cope to the same.
Aug. 20. W. Cope to the same.	Sept. 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.	Sept. 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
Aug. 20. R. Stickles to the same.	Sept. 23. Dow. Lady Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 23. Dow. Lady Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 21. Sir W. Bower to the same.	Sept. 24. Fr. Goodwin to E. of Essex.	Sept. 24. Fr. Goodwin to E. of Essex.
Aug. 21. The Queen to the King of Scots.	Sept. 26. Sig. Fab. Palavicino to Privy Council.	Sept. 26. Sig. Fab. Palavicino to Privy Council.
Aug. 21. King of Scots to the Queen (2).	Sept. 26. Sir P. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 26. Sir P. Hoby to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 21. Same to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 26. E. of Lincoln to the same.	Sept. 26. E. of Lincoln to the same.
Aug. 21. M. de Moucheron to E. of Essex.	Sept. 27. E. of Desmond to the same.	Sept. 27. E. of Desmond to the same.
Aug. 22. Sir H. Neville to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 27. Drs. N. Tyndal, F. Neville, and Jo. Overall	Sept. 27. Drs. N. Tyndal, F. Neville, and Jo. Overall
Aug. 22. "1070" [Archbishop of Cashel] Mike	to E. of Essex.	to E. of Essex.
Magrath to the same.	Sept. 27. Mr. Sumarton to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 27. Mr. Sumarton to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 22. King of Scots to the same.	Sept. 28. W. Stallenge to the same.	Sept. 28. W. Stallenge to the same.
Aug. 23. Fr. Dacres to Mr. Anderton.	Sept. 29. W. Cecil to the same.	Sept. 29. W. Cecil to the same.
Aug. 23. Ro. Wilbraham to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 30. Th. Phipps to the same.	Sept. 30. Th. Phipps to the same.
Aug. 23. Sir H. Brouncker to the same.	Sept. 30. Lo. Treasurer Buckhurst to Mr. Reynolds.	Sept. 30. Lo. Treasurer Buckhurst to Mr. Reynolds.
Aug. 23. Dr. Chr. Parkins to the same.	Sept. 30. Jas. Perrot to E. of Essex.	Sept. 30. Jas. Perrot to E. of Essex.
Aug. 24. Ja. Hamilton to the same.	Sept. 30. Aldermen and Merchts. of London (origi-	Sept. 30. Aldermen and Merchts. of London (origi-
Aug. 24. Serj. Hele to the same.	nators of East India Company) to E. of Essex.	nators of East India Company) to E. of Essex.
Aug. 25. Sir Ed. Wingfield to the same.	Sept. 30. Complaints against Mr. Palfryman, Pay-	Sept. 30. Complaints against Mr. Palfryman, Pay-
Aug. 25. Capt. H. Clare to the same.	master of Ordnance under Sir Geo. Carew.	master of Ordnance under Sir Geo. Carew.
Aug. 26. Vincent Skinner to the same.	Sept. 30. Capt. Bostock to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 30. Capt. Bostock to Sir R. Cecil.
Aug. 26. Import of French and Rhenish wines into	Sept. 30. Mayor of Bristol to the same.	Sept. 30. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
London, &c. from Mic. 1599.	Sept. 30. W. Boys to the same.	Sept. 30. W. Boys to the same.
Aug. 27. T. Phipps to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 30. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.	Sept. 30. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
Aug. 27. Sir H. Glenham to Lo. Buckhurst.	Sept. 30. Sir A. Gorges to the same.	Sept. 30. Sir A. Gorges to the same.
Aug. 27. Lo. Sheffield to Sir R. Cecil.	Sept. 20. Countess of Northumberland to E. of	Sept. 20. Countess of Northumberland to E. of
Aug. 28. Sir Jo. Fortescue to the same.	Essex.	Essex.
Aug. 29. Sir D. Drury to the same.	Sept. 30. Lady Scrope to the same.	Sept. 30. Lady Scrope to the same.

Sept. 30. E. of Southampton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sept. 30. Lady Stourton to the same.
 Sept. 30. Mrs. Winchcombe to E. of Essex.
 Oct. 1. — to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 1. Mayor, &c. of Preston to the same.
 Oct. 1. Commissioners of Muster to the same.
 Oct. 1. Lo. Admiral to the same.
 Oct. 1. Recorder of London to the same.
 Oct. 2. Capt. G. Harvie to the same.
 Oct. 2. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 Oct. 2. (Magrath, Abp. of Cashel) to the same.
 Oct. 4. Th. Kelway to the same.
 Oct. 4. Sir H. Bruncker to the same.
 Oct. 4. Jo. Evelyn to Mr. Temple.
 Oct. 5. Examination of W. Theossepp of Checkwell, Dorset.
 Oct. 6. Dow. Countess of Shrewsbury to Sir R.
 Cecil.
 Oct. 6. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Oct. 6. Jo. Brograve to the same.
 Oct. 7. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.
 Oct. 7. F. Gall to the same.
 Oct. 7. Fletcher, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 Oct. 7. The States to Mr. Gilpin.
 Oct. 8. Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Admiral.
 Oct. 9. The same to E. of Northumberland.
 Oct. 9. W. Davison (ex-Secretary) to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 9. Capt. W. Monoux to the same.
 Oct. 10. The same to Mr. Temple (Sect. to E. of Essex.)
 Oct. 10. Sir R. Levison to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 10. Sir Alex. Clifford to the same.
 Oct. 10. Charges touching 3 Lubbeck ships brought by the Lion's Whelp into Portsmouth.
 Oct. 11. Mayor of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 11. R. Topyclyffe to the same.
 Oct. 13. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Oct. 13. T. Honeman to the same.
 Oct. 14. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Oct. 14. Capt. Prynce to the same.
 Oct. 15. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Oct. 15. E. & Co. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 Oct. 15. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Oct. 15. Theoph. Finch to the same.
 Oct. 15. Lo. Andeley to the same.
 Oct. 17. Old jewels out of the tower appraised by Hugh Kayle and Jan. Spilman.
 Oct. 18. Mayor of Chester to Privy Council.
 Oct. 19. W. Waad to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 20. H. Lok to the same.
 Oct. 20. Jo. Elevyn to Mr. Temple.
 Oct. 20. Privy Council to Sheriffs of Worcester.
 Oct. 21. Capt. St. Victoire to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 21. Examination of Ric. Idelle, servant to Jo.
 Savage, scrivener, touching blanks with Great Seal of Scotland found in his desk.
 Oct. 22. Dr. Cæsar and Mr. Wilbraham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 22. Lady Burgh to the same.
 Oct. 23. Capt. Arthur to the same.
 Oct. 23. Chaderton, Bp. of Lincoln to the same.
 Oct. 23. Things adjudged 27 Feb. 1589 by Lords of the Council to be munitions of war, with additions made 16 Jan. 1591 and 18 Sept. 1597.
 Oct. 24. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 24. T. Honeman to the same.
 Oct. 24. Capt. W. Monoux to the same.
 Oct. 25. W. Worthington to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 25. M. de la Fontaine to the same.
 Oct. 25. Ed. Darcy to the same.
 Oct. 27. Jo. Saville and Mr. Brograve to the same.
 Oct. 27. Sir R. Cecil to G. Nicolson (Edinburgh).
 Oct. 27. E. of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 28. Sect. Herbert to the same.
 Oct. 28. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 Oct. 28. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
 Oct. 28. Fr. Bacon to the same.
 Oct. 28. Lady St. Leger to the same.
 Oct. 30. Goodman, Dean of Westminster to the same.
 Oct. 30. March. of Winchester to the same.
 Oct. 30. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Oct. 30. Sir E. Coke to the same.
 Oct. 30. Mayor, &c. of Hull to the same.
 Oct. 31. L. Lloyd to the same.
 Oct. 31. Patent to [Cuthbert Pepper] as surveyor of wards.
 Oct. —. W. Cecil (2nd E. of Salisbury) to the same.
 Oct. —. Capt. Crompton to the same.
 Oct. —. Th. Douglas to the same.
 Oct. —. Sect. Herbert to the same.
 Oct. —. Jo. Lambarde to the same.
 Oct. —. Co. of Northumberland to the same.
 Oct. —. Lady Raleigh to the same.

Oct. —. Lo. Colville of Wemyss to the same.
 Nov. 1. J. Mericke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 3. Lo. Lumley to the same.
 Nov. 3. Vanghan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 Nov. 3. W. Tresham to the same.
 Nov. 3. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 Nov. 3. Sir Fr. Hastings to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 4. Sect. Herbert to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 4. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Nov. 5. Sir N. Parker to the same.
 Nov. 5. Sir Ant. Cooke to the same.
 Nov. 5. Warden, &c. of All Souls, Oxon, to the same.
 Nov. 5. Privy Council to Mr. Nicolson.
 Nov. 7. Dr. Ric. Clayton to the same.
 Nov. 7. Cotton, Bp. of Exeter, to the same.
 Nov. 7. R. Lowther to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 Nov. 7. Fr. Bacon to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 8. Thornburgh, Bp. of Limerick, to the same.
 Nov. 8. A. Hall to the same.
 Nov. 8. Mr. Hartoppe to the same.
 Nov. 10. Jegon, Vice Chan. of Cambridge to the same.
 Nov. 11. Sir W. Bowes to the Queen.
 Nov. 12. W. Smith to Mr. Crompton.
 Nov. 12. Capt. Ogle to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 12. Master of Gray to Card. Borghese.
 Nov. 13. Ch. Justice Popham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 13. Lady B. Norreys to the same.
 Nov. 13. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Nov. 13. Whitgift, Abp. of Cant. to the same.
 Nov. 14. Commission to Lord Treasurer, Lo. Admiral,
 Mr. Secretary, and Sir John Fortescue, for receiving and disposing of old jewels.
 Nov. 15. Lod. Brysket to the same.
 Nov. 15. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Nov. 16. Bancroft, Bishop of London, to the same.
 Nov. 16. E. of Bath to the same.
 Nov. 16. Hen. Knowles to the same.
 Nov. 17. Writings delivered to Lo. Treasurer concerning jewels and plate of Her Majesty.
 Nov. 17. Geo. More to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 17. Capt. Malbie to the same.
 Nov. 18. Lo. St. John to the same.
 Nov. 18. W. Medeley to the same.
 Nov. 19. Sir Arth. Gorges to the same.
 Nov. 20. Whitgift, Abp. of Cant., to the same.
 Nov. 22. Ed. Stansfield to the same.
 Nov. 23. Mast. of Gray to the same.
 Nov. 23. Josh. Harding to Mr. Honiman.
 Nov. 23. Dr. Bourne to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 24. Sir W. Browne to the same.
 Nov. 25. Sir E. Coke to [—].
 Nov. 25. Bancroft, Bp. of London.
 Nov. 25. Th. Fowler to Arch. Douglas.
 Nov. 25. Mr. Eure to Mr. Windebank.
 Nov. 25. Acknowledgment of Sir R. Cecil for 100l. embarked by Lord F. Howard, as his share in the ship
 Lyonnesse, sent on reprisals.
 Nov. 26. Sir N. Parker to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 26. Sir A. Standen to Sr. Arrigo.
 Nov. 27. Pinchbeck Lovet to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 27. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Nov. 27. Sir A. Capell to the same.
 Nov. 28. T. Harvy to the same.
 Nov. 28. Arth. Hall to the same.
 Nov. 28. Papers upon the debasement of the coin.
 Nov. 29. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 29. Ri. Gifford to the same.
 Nov. 30. Ric. Broughton to E. of Essex.
 Nov. 30. — to Giov. Limauer (Venetia).
 Nov. 30. Ed. Turner to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 30. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Nov. 30. Dr. Jo. Bridges to the same.
 Nov. 30. Ra. Basseville to the same.
 Nov. —. Lady Burgh to the same.
 Nov. —. T. Clynton to the same.
 Nov. —. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 Nov. —. Aldn. Moseley to the same.
 Nov. —. Lo. Admiral to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. —. E. Phyton to the same.
 Nov. —. Sir E. Wotton to the same.
 Nov. —. Sheriffs returned for English Shires.
 Dec. 1. Sir T. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 1. French Amb. to the same.
 Dec. 2. W. Becher to the same.
 Dec. 2. Mayor of Dartmouth to the same.
 Dec. 2. Jo. Roper to the same.
 Dec. 2. Lo. Monteagle to the same.
 Dec. 3. Jo. Harman to Ch. Justice Popham.
 Dec. 3. Ed. Hoare to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 4. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Dec. 4. Dr. J. Duport to the same.

by. Dec. 5. Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Willough-
 Dec. 6. Sir Jo. Cutts to the same.
 Dec. 6. Dr. Ric. Clayton to the same.
 Dec. 6. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 Dec. 6. Jo. Eston to Jo. Prideaux.
 Dec. 7. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 7. Dr. G. Fletcher to the same.
 Dec. 8. Capt. W. Smith to the same.
 Dec. 8. Dow. Lady Russell to the same.
 Dec. 8. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Dec. 10. Sir E. Coke to the same.
 Dec. 11. Goodman, Dean of Westminster, to the same.
 Dec. 11. Sir A. Ashley to the same.
 Dec. 12. R. Stapell and T. Cordell to Privy Council.
 Dec. 12. Jo. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 12. E. of Kildare to the same.
 Dec. 12. Alderman Watts to the same.
 Dec. 12. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
 Dec. 13. W. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 13. Lo. Buckhurst to St. Martin's Vestry.
 Dec. 14. Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Willoughby. Dec. 14. Sir Th. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.

 Dec. 15. Capt. Fitzgerald to the same.
 Dec. 15. Sir H. Brouncker to the same.
 Dec. 16. W. Poyntz to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 18. Ed. Hoare to the same.
 Dec. 19. Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
 Dec. 19. Sir R. Drury to the same.
 Dec. 20. Sir A. Clifford to the same.
 Dec. 20. Lo. Zouche to the same.
 Dec. 20. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 Dec. 20. Sir R. Drury to the same.
 Dec. 21. Sir N. Parker to the same.
 Dec. 21. W. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 22. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 Dec. 23. Th. Smythe to the same.
 Dec. 25. Ric. Neile to Mr. Amias.
 Dec. 26. Hadr. Sarravia to Abp. of Cant.
 Dec. 26. Th. Phellips to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 26. Mr. Harding to the same.
 Dec. 27. Wm. Morgan, Bishop of Llandaff to the same.
 Dec. 28. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 Dec. 29. Sir Th. Sherley to the same.
 Dec. 29. Dr. Dupont to the same.
 Dec. 29. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Dec. 31. — to [Sir R. Cecil].
 Dec. —. The Queen to King of France.
 Dec. —. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.

Uncertain Dates.

R. Adonet to Sir R. Cecil and Lo. Burghley.
 [Frances Anderton] to E. of Cumberland.
 Jo. Bargrave to Lo. Cobham.
 Ja. Bagge to Sir R. Cecil.
 Th. Bellot, to the same.
 Capt. Bostocke to the same.
 Kings's Coll., Cambridge, to the same.
 Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Norreys.
 The same to M. Nicolson (Edinburgh).
 Sir Ed. Cecil to Sir R. Cecil.
 Th. Chester to the same.
 Lady Clifford to the same.
 Ri. Connock to the same.
 Lady Penelope Rich to Mr. Downall.
 Dr. W. Butler to Sir R. Cecil.
 D. of Bracciano to the same.
 Lo. Burghley to the same.
 H. Crofts to Sir R. Cecil.
 Fr. Crofts to the same.
 E. of Cumberland to the same.
 E. of Desmond to the same.
 Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Capt. R. Ellyot to the same.
 E. of Essex to (the Queen).
 The same to Lord Keeper Egerton.

The following 14 items are connected with E. of Essex.

Dr. F. Willes to Sir R. Cecil.
 F. Manners to the same.
 Lo. Th. Howard to the same.
 Sir R. Drury to the same.
 Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
 W. Reynolds to the same.
 Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Sir Jo. Payton to the same (5).
 Sir C. Danvers to Privy Council.
 Hen. Cuffe to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sir C. Blount to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil (2).

E. of Southampton to Privy Council (3).
 Dow. Lady Southampton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Lady Southampton to the same.
 Lo. Grey to the same (2).
 Lady Hatton to the same.
 A. Heath to Sir F. Gorges.
 Lady Herbert to M. Raynsford.
 Ed. Hayes to Sir R. Cecil.
 Lo. Th. Howard to the same.
 Ja. Hudson to the same.
 Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 Sir G. Carew, Pres. of Munster, to the same.
 Sir R. Cecil to Sir G. Cary.
 Same to Lord —.
 The same to —.
 The same to Lo. Treasurer.
 The same to Lo. Zouch.
 [—] to Mr. Kendall.
 [—] to the Queen.
 [—] to Lo. Admiral.
 * "30" (King of Scots) to "10" (Sir R. Cecil)
 Capt. T. Jackson to Sir R. Cecil.
 E. of Desmond to the same.
 Sir Jo. Davis to the same (2).
 Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Master of Gray to Mr. Lok.
 London merchants to the Queen.
 M. Jo. Izod to —.
 J. Knight to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sir Fr. Knollis to the same.
 W. Kyllgrew to the same.
 Fr. and Ed. Kynnersley to the same.
 H. Leighe to the same.
 Lo. Mountjoy to the same.
 Sir H. Neville to the same.
 Sir E. Norreys to the same.
 Lady B. Norreys to Lady Raleigh.
 The same to E. of Nottingham.
 The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 E. of Northumberland to the same.
 E. of Oxford to the same (2).
 Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.
 Lady Paget to the same.
 Ch. Justice Popham to the same.
 Jo. Philips to the same.
 Paul Pinder to the same.
 The Queen to Privy Council (2).
 The Queen to K. of France.
 E. Reynolds to Th. Lake.
 Sir W. Raleigh to the Queen.
 Lady Sandys to Sir R. Cecil (2).
 Hen. Saunders to the same.
 Countess of Southampton to the same.
 Sir Ed. Wotton to the same.
 W. Temple to the same.
 Ric. Tompson to the same.
 R. Vennard to the same.
 Sir F. Vere to E. of Northumberland.
 Capt. St. Victoire to Sir R. Cecil.
 Th. Wale to the same.
 Lady Anne Wentworth to the same.
 Jo. Williams to the same.
 Mr. Windebank to the same.
 Babington, Bp. of Worcester, to Abp. of Cant.
 N. Langton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Sir H. Neville to the same.
 Apparel of the Marq. of Brandenburg in the hands of Th. Southwell of Moreton, Norf.
 Rob. Viscount Lisle's title to Alton Woods, Wore.
 Letter in cypher add. to my loving uncle Geo. May.
 Courts of Marches of Wales.
 My proceeding with Rob. de la Barre for concealment of goods of Spanish subjects.
 Treaty of Boulogne.
 Recusant disorders in dioc. of Exeter.
 List of English protestants and popish divines, &c within about 20 years.
 Memorial touching price of bullion, alloy of coin, and base money for Ireland.
 Names of some engaged in Essex's attempt.
 Interview of French King and Duke of Savoy.
 Discours de principaux Faictes, barbares et trajiques, que les Espagnols, &c., from 1587.
 Pay of the Pinnace Moon and 4 Crompsters on the coast of Ireland.
 Lists of those at the arraignment of the D. of Norfolk and the E. of Arundel.
 Proclamation for martial law in the City of London.

* The symbols here used in ensuing letters represent the secret correspondence between these two persons.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

Examination of Th. Graye taken in the South Sea with Ric. Hawkins.

Declaration of the praetises of W. Shelley.

Manner of Dr. Willies' entertainment into Russia to the Emperor.

Instructions for Sir H. Neville, amb. in France, John Herbert, Queen's sec., Rob. Beale, and Th. Edmonds, clk. of Privy Council and sec. for the French tongue, to treat with Commissioners of the K. of Spain and Archduke of Burgundy. With replies.

Reasons and allegations touching imposts upon currants, collected by the merchants, with reasons. Bonds taken in May.

Debts owing by the E. of Essex.

Mem. of Sir R. Cecil respecting Lo. Zouch.

1601.

Jan. 1. Sir A. Dudley to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 1. E. of Bath to the same.
Jan. 2. Capt. Vaughan to the same.
Jan. 2. Ro. Bellman to the same.
Jan. 2. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Topclyffe.
Jan. 2. Th. Philipps to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 4. Don Luis de Carrillo to —.
Jan. 4. R. Gray to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 5. Fray Matteo Decaria to —.
Jan. 5. Capt. J. Bradbury to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 6. Arthur Hall to the same.
Jan. 6. Wm. Becher to the same.
Jan. 6. Sir H. Nevill to the same.
Jan. 6. Anonymous to Abp. of Canterbury.
Jan. 6. Sir Jo. Cary to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 7. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
Jan. 7. Sir J. Stanhope to the same.
Jan. 8. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
Jan. 9. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Jan. 9. Sir H. Carye to the same.
Jan. 9. Dr. R. Webster to the same.
Jan. 9. William Wolfgang (Count Palatine of the Rhine) to the same.
Jan. 9. A. Hall to the same.
Jan. 10. Mrs. Kath. Poole to Lady Sheffield.
Jan. 11. Mrs. E. Beale to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 11. Count Egmont to the same.
Jan. 12. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
Jan. 12. E. of Northumberland to the same.
Jan. 12. Lord Darcy to the same.
Jan. 12. Mayor, &c. of Barnstable to the same.
Jan. 12. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
Jan. 13. A. Hall to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 13. Mr. Wymarke to the same.
Jan. 13. Mr. Bellot to the same.
Jan. 13. A. Townsend to the same.
Jan. 13. [Master of Gray?] to King of Scots.
Jan. 14. Alderman Martyn to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 14. Sir R. Cecil to A. Hall.
Jan. 16. Alderman Martyn to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 16. Lo. Eure to the same.
Jan. 16. Sir R. Levison to the same.
Jan. 17. A. Hall to the same.
Jan. 17. Serjeants Yelverton to the same.
Jan. 17. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
Jan. 19. Cpts. Leigh and Norris to Privy Council.
Jan. 20. Wm. Button to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 20. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Jan. 20. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
Jan. 21. Sir J. Carey to the same.
Jan. 22. Lady Herbert to the same.
Jan. 22. E. of Bedford to the same.
Jan. 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
Jan. 22. Serjeant Yelverton to the same.
Jan. 22. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Jan. 22. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
Jan. 24. Lo. Byndon to the same.
Jan. 24. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
Jan. 25. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Jan. 26. Jeane Douglas, Lady Saltcottis, to Arch.
Douglas.
Jan. 26. Sir Jo. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 26. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
Jan. 26. Sir Post. Hoby to the same.
Jan. 26. M. Hicks to Mr. Amyas.
Jan. 27. Sir. Th. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 27. E. of Rutland to the same.
Jan. 28. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
Jan. 28. Ro. Milner to the same.
Jan. 29. R. Grey to the same.
Jan. 29. R. Bellman to the same.
Jan. 29. Th. Sackville to J. Spilman.
Jan. 30. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
Jan. 30. Auditor Hill to the same

Jan. 30. Mayor, &c. of Chester to the same.
Jan. 31. Cotton, Bp. of Exeter, to the same.
Jan. 31. Foulk Greville to the same.
Jan. 31. Capt. Cromton to the same.
Jan. —. F. Greville to the same.
Jan. —. Edward E. of Oxford to the same.
Feb. 1. Dr. Playfere to the same.
Feb. 3. Lady Morryson to the same.
Feb. 3. The Queen to King of Scots.
Feb. 3. Sir H. Neville to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 4. Reinerus Langius to Jo. Wheeler.
Feb. 4. Th. Coteels to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 5. Mr. Thomond to the same.
Feb. 6. Sir H. Winton to the same.
Feb. 6. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
Feb. 7. Lo. Burghley to the same.
Feb. 7. Messrs. More, Carmarden, and Myddleton to
the same.
Feb. 8. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
Feb. 8. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 8. Jas. Hudson to the same.
Feb. 8. Chr. Harris to the same.
Feb. 9. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
Feb. 9. Sir H. Bromley to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 10. R. Cocks to the same.
Feb. 10. Mayor, &c. of Plymouth Privy Council.
Feb. 10. Mayor, &c. of Barnstable to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 11. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Feb. 11. Examination of Ri. Hewes before the E. of Newcastle.
Feb. 12. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 12. Jas. Hudson to the same.
Feb. 13. Dr. W. Barlow to the same.
Feb. 14. Ferd. Cardinus to the same.
Feb. 15. French Ambassador to the same.
Feb. 15. Gef. Gronnis to the same.
Feb. 15. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
Feb. 16. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 18. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
Feb. 18. R. Milner to the same.
Feb. 18. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
Feb. 18. Capt. J. Ogle to the same.
Feb. 20. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
Feb. 20. Lo. Zouche to the same.
Feb. 20. King of Scots to the Laird of Johnston.
Feb. 21. Sir N. Parker to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 21. Lo. Cobham to the same.
Feb. 23. Noel de Caron to the same.
Feb. 24. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to the same.
Feb. 24. Sir H. Lee to the same.
Feb. 24. E. of Lincoln to the same.
Feb. 24. Farmers of Saltpetre to Deputy Lieut. of the Ordnance.
Feb. 24. Sir Jo. Davis to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. 25. P. Mounbray to the same.
Feb. 25. Count Egmont to the same.
Feb. 26. T. Bellot to the same.
Feb. 26. E. Standen to the same.
Feb. 26. Dr. Soame to the same.
Feb. 26. Sir Th. Mildmay to the same.
Feb. 27. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
Feb. —. Lady Cooke to the same.
Feb. —. Sir Jo. Davis to Lo. Chief Justice.
Feb. —. Countess of Leicester to Sir R. Cecil.
Feb. —. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
Feb. —. Names of gentleman which met at Wolver-hampton 10th of Sept. last.
Feb. —. Advertisements from the Netherlands, Italy and France.
Mar. 1. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 1. Lo. Cobham to the same.
Mar. 1. Sir H. Bromley to the same.
Mar. 1. Dr. N. Overall to the same.
Mar. 2. E. of Bath to the same.
Mar. 2. Geo. Kendall to the same.
Mar. 2. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
Mar. 3. Mr. Saxey to the same.
Mar. 3. Sir Fr. Hastings to the same.
Mar. 5. Capt. Mayo to the same.
Mar. 5. Charges for transportation of Lo. Zouch to Guernsey.
Mar. 6. W. Resould to Sir R. Cecil.
Mar. 6. Sir R. Lee to the same.
Mar. 6. Magistrates, &c. of Hull to the same.
Mar. 8. Mr. Knowles to the same.
Mar. 8. Mayor and Aldermen of Exeter to the same.
Mar. 8. Mayor and Aldermen of Toynes to the same.
Mar. 9. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
Mar. 11. Wm. Resould to the same.
Mar. 11. Mr. Trafford to the same.
Mar. 11. Sir H. Neville to the same.

MARQ
OF SALISB
OF

Mar. 11. F. Genebelli to the same.
 Mar. 12. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Mar. 13. Dr. Dun to the same.
 Mar. 13. Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Zouch.
 Mar. 13. Mr. Hadsor to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 13. Dr. J. Cæsar to the same.
 Mar. 15. Customs upon silk stuff.
 Mar. 16. Geo. Limauner to —.
 Mar. 16. Giov. Bassadonna to —.
 Mar. 16. Mayor of Weymouth to Lord Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.

Mar. 16. Mayor of Chester to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 16. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
 Mar. 16. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 Mar. 17. Rudd, Bp. of St. Davids, to the same.
 Mar. 17. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
 Mar. 18. Sir F. Hastings to the same.
 Mar. 18. Voyage of the Lioness into the Straits, under Capt. Jo. Troughton.

Mar. 19. Sir T. Sherley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 19. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 Mar. 20. Fr. Napier to Arch. Douglas.
 Mar. 20. Sir H. Neville to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 20. Mayor of Dartmouth to the same.
 Mar. 20. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 Mar. 20. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
 Mar. 21. Mayor of Weymouth to the same.
 Mar. 21. Reports of Sir Jo. Carey, warden of E. Marches, on special service to Alex. Hay, the Clerk of the Council in Scotland.

Mar. 22. E. of Oxford to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 22. Sergeant Burrell to the same.
 Mar. 23. Geo. Limauner to —.
 Mar. 23. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 23. Jo. Ferne to the same.
 Mar. 24. R. Wallop to the same.
 Mar. 24. Lo. Zouche to the same.
 Mar. 24. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
 Mar. 25. Sir Jo. Elphinstone to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 25. Examination of Th. Tussor by Commissioners for restraint of the passage, at Dover.

Mar. 26. Lo. Sandys to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 26. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 Mar. 27. T. D'Oyley to the same.
 Mar. 28. Sir Jo. Scott to the same.
 Mar. 28. Lord Mayor of London to Lo. Treasurer.
 Mar. 28. Sir W. Fitzwilliam to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 29. Sir R. Wriothesley to the same.
 Mar. 29. E. of Bath to the same.
 Mar. 29. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Mar. 29. Duke of Bracciano to the same.
 Mar. 29. Jo. Byrde to the same.
 Mar. 29. Mr. Pinacavel to the same.
 Mar. 30. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 Mar. 30. Ant. Paynter to the same.
 Mar. 30. Mayor, &c. of Dover to Lo. Cobham.
 Mar. 31. Lord Admiral to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. 31. Carlo Lanfranchi to the same.
 Mar. 31. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
 Mar. 31. Lo. Kyllegrew to the same.
 Mar. 31. Dr. Parkins to the same.
 Mar. 31. Capt. Skinner to the same.
 Mar. —. The Queen to Lord Deputy of Ireland.
 Mar. —. Lady Raleigh to Sir R. Cecil.
 Mar. —. Lands escheated by attainder of Sir Gelly Meyrick held in trust for E. of Essex.

Mar. —. Letters, &c. concerning the prize of the Whyt Grayhound, out of the Straits.
 April 1. Dr. Goodman, Dean of Westminster to Sir R. Cecil.

April 1. Sir R. Vernon to the same.
 April 1. E. Lenton to the same.
 April 1. Jo. Done to the same.
 April 2. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 April 2. Sir R. Cecil to Sir R. Carey.
 April 2. E. of Desmond to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 3. Countess of Essex to the same.
 April 3. Lo. Montague to the same.
 April 3. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 April 3. Names of English gentlemen born in Lancashire now resident in Teviotdale.

April 4. Mr. Hele to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 4. S. Egerton to the same.
 April 4. Dr. Fletcher to the same.
 April 6. H. Wright to the same.
 April 6. Sir R. Molyneux to the same.
 April 6. Jo. Vaughan to the same.
 April 6. Sir Tho. Coningsby to the same.
 April 8. Mr. Egerton to the same.
 April 8. Sir Jo. Wogan to the same.
 April 8. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.

April 8. Lo. Burghley to Lo. Guilford.
 April 9. P. de la Haye to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 10. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 April 11. W. Cooke to the same.
 April 11. Examination of Thurston Hunt at Lancaster
 31 Mar. and of Valentine Richardson 1st and 11th April.
 April 11. Sir C. Brooke to Lo. Cobham.
 April 11. Master of Gray to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 12. Sir Jo. Wogan to the same.
 April 14. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 April 14. Advertisements from Rome.
 April 15. W. Masham to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 15. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 April 16. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 April 16. Sir Ant. Gorges to the same.
 April 16. Vaughan, Bp. of Chester, to the same.
 April 16. Th. Hesketh to the same.
 April 16. Capt. Ogle to the same.
 April 17. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same (2).
 April 17. Sir Jo. Peyton to the Queen.
 April 17. Mr. Hickee to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 17. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 April 17. Wrongs done to the Chancellor and scholars of Cambridge by the Mayor, &c.

April 18. Justices of Surrey to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 18. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 April 18. Aurelianus Townsend to the same.
 April 18. Sir Amias Preston to the Lord Admiral.
 April 19. Lo. Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 20. Geo. Limauner to the same.
 April 20. Sir N. Parker to the same.
 April 20. Sir Cab. Brooke to the same.
 April 22. E. Seymour to the same.
 April 22. Sir E. Fytton to the same.
 April 22. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 April 22. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 April 22. E. of Desmond to the same.
 April 22. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 April 23. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 April 24. Sir W. Malony to the same.
 April 24. C. Coote to the same.
 April 24. Fr. Bacon to the same.

Bonds of Cecil, Nottingham, Howard, and Cobham in relation to division of spoils of the prize the White Greyhound.

April 25. E. of Northumberland to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 26. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
 April 26. Sir Jo. Byron to the same.
 April 27. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 April 27. Munition in charge of Capt. Fr. Carpenter Sergt.-major of Ostend.
 April 28. Dowager Countess of Shrewsbury to Sir R. Cecil.

April 28. H. Dillon to the same.
 April 28. John Parker to the same.
 April 28. Capt. T. Dale to the same.
 April 28. Lady Sandys to the same.
 April 28. Cotton, Bp. of Exeter, to the same.
 April 28. Privy Council to Justices of Dorsetshire.
 April 28. Certificate of Sir G. Gifford and Sir R. Crosse to John Rawlins touching his concern in the action with Essex.

April 29. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 April 29. Serjeant Yelverton to the same.
 April 29. Lo. Lumley to the same.
 April 29. Mayor, &c. of Beannmarris to Privy Council.
 April 30. Sir R. Cecil to E. of Lincoln.
 April 30. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 April 30. Capt. Ouseley to the same.
 April 30. The Queen to the King of Scots (2).
 May 1. H. Lello to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 1. G. Erskine to the same.
 May 1. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 May 1. S. Heindadt to Sir Th. Wilson.
 May 2. E. of Lincoln to Lord Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
 May 3. Mayor of Bristol to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 3. Dr. Parkins to the same.
 May 4. R. Stapell to the same.
 May 4. R. Beale to the Queen.
 May 5. Sir Fr. Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 5. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 May 5. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 May 5. Sir Jo. Gilbert to Privy Council.
 May 6. Examination of Th. Lichfield touching Sir R. Drury and Essex.

May 6. Sir W. Constable to Sir R. Cecil.
 May 6. Countess of Shrewsbury to the same.
 May 6. Capt. G. Fleming to the same.
 May 7. Sir Jo. Gilbert to the same.
 May 7. Lord Keeper Egerton to the same.
 May 7. Lord Cobham to the same.

MARQUIS
OF SALISBURY.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

May 7. Mayor of Liverpool to the same.
May 8. Capt. Lisle to the same.
May 8. Sir H. Neville to the same.
May 8. Secretary Herbert to Sir R. Cecil.
May 10. Sir A. Gorges to the same.
May 10. E. of Desmond to the same.
May 11. Mayor of Beaumaris to the same.
May 11. E. of Shrewsbury to the same.
May 11. E. of Oxford to the same.
May 11. Sir N. Parker to Privy Council.
May 11. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
May 11. Sir G. Carey to the same.
May 12. Th. Ridgway to the same.
May 12. Goodman, Dean of Westminster, to the same.
May 12. Capt. N. Skinner to the same.
May 13. Th. Stapleton to the same.
May 13. — to Earl Grey.
May 15. Francis Fresham to Sir R. Cecil.
May 15. Sir H. Bruncker to the same.
May 16. Ambrose Dudley to the same.
May 16. Sir Ed. Fytton to the same.
May 16. Geo. Freeman to the same.
May 19. Lo. Cobham to the same.
May 20. Jo. Hill to the same.
May 20. Dr. Fletcher to the same.
May 20. Rich. Hawkins to the same.
May 20. Sir R. Cecil to Sir R. Carey.
May 21. Jo. Hill to the Queen.
May 21. Th. Doyley to Sir R. Cecil.
May 21. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
May 21. Sir Jo. Harrington to the same.
May 22. Jas. Hudson to the same.
May 23. Sir J. Gilbert to the same.
May 24. Mr. Harie to the same.
May 25. A. Hall to the same.
May 26. Lady Unton to the same.
May 26. P. Bales to the same.
May 27. Lo. Lisle to the same.
May 27. Ed. Seymour to the same.
May 27. Capt. Jo. Throckmorton to the same.
May 28. Th. Myddleton to the same.
May 28. E. of Pembroke to the same.
May 28. Duke Charles of Sweden to the same.
May 29. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.
May 30. Capt. Jackson to the same.
May 30. Sir Geo. Gifford to the same.
May 30. Sir F. Hastings to the same.
May 30. Lady Haiton to the same.
May 30. W. Masham to the same.
May 30. Capt. J. Selby to the same.
May 30. R. Carmarden to the same.
May —. Aldermen More, Carmarden, and R. Harvie to the same.
May 31. E. of Lincoln to the same.
June 1. Serjeant Yelverton to the same.
June 1. Lord Admiral to the same.
June 3. Sir A. Sherley to Ant. Bacon.
June 3. H. Galloway to Sir R. Cecil.
June 4. Sir Geo. Devereux to the same.
June 5. Mayor of Cork to the same.
June 6. R. Musgrave to the same.
June 6. Sir Th. Fairfax to the same.
June 6. Jo. Skinner to the same.
June 6. Fr. Tregian to the same.
June 6. Sir E. Fytton to the same.
June 6. N. Fortescue to the same.
June 7. J. Richardson (a madman) to the Queen.
June 7. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
June 7. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
June 8. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
June 9. Lo. Chandos to the same.
June 9. E. of Northumberland to the same.
June 9. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
June 10. The same to Sir Jo. Carey.
June 10. Sir F. Gorges to Sir R. Cecil.
June 10. Sir A. Cornwallis to the same.
June 11. W. Udall to Sir G. Markham.
June 11. R. Topclyffe to Sir R. Cecil.
June 11. Commissioners of Musters in Northamptonshire to the same.
June 12. S. Lesieur to the same.
June 12. Justice Townsend to the same.
June 12. Sir N. Parker to the same.
June 12. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
June 13. E. of Rutland to Sir R. Cecil.
June 13. Sheriffs, &c. of Bucks to the same.
June 13. Sir E. Littleton to the same.
June 14. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
June 14. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
June 14. Sir E. Stanhope to the same.

June 15. Lord Burghley to the same.
June 15. Dean, &c. of Westminster to the same.
June 15. Lord Admiral to the same.
June 15. Sir J. Caesar to the same.
June 16. Sir R. Verney to the same.
June 16. Jo. Hethersall to the same.
June 16. Cotton, Bp. of Salisbury, to the same.
June 17. Lord Burghley to the same.
June 18. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
June 18. W. Temple to the same.
June 18. Barons of Exchequer to Mr. Windebanke.
June 18. W. Udall to the same.
June 19. Ar. Capell to the same.
June 19. E. of Pembroke to the same.
June 19. Mr. Greensmith to the same.
June 19. S. Lesieur to the same.
June 20. Sir H. Bromley to the same.
June 20. Sir R. Graeme to the same.
June 20. Dean and Chapter of Carlisle to the same.
June 20. Dr. Neile to the same.
June 20. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
June 20. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
June 21. Lo. Sheffield to the same.
June 22. Capt. G. Fleming to the same.
June 22. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
June 22. G. Flarvie to the same.
June 22. Churchwardens, &c. of Westminster to Sir R. Cecil.
June 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
June 23. R. Musgrave to the same.
June 23. Sir F. Greville to the same.
June 24. E. of Rutland to the same.
June 25. W. Udall to the same.
June 25. E. of Derby to the same.
June 25. Capt. Fisher to the same.
June 27. Capt. E. Fitzgerald to the same.
June 27. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
June 27. The Queen to Lo. Willoughby (Gov. of Berwick).
June 27. Countess of Essex to Sir R. Cecil.
June 27. Lord Norreys to the same.
June 27. Lady Herbert to the same.
June 28. Sir F. Vere to Privy Council.
June 29. Mayor of Dartmouth to Sir R. Cecil.
June 30. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
June 30. Rich. Hawkins to the Queen.
June 30. Capt. Jo. Throckmorton to Sir R. Cecil. (2)
June 30. Rich. Hawkins to Privy Council.
June 30. Privy Council to Bp. of Winchester.
June —. Sir R. Throckmorton to Sir R. Cecil.
June —. Provost and Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin, to the same.
July 1. Capt. J. Holcroft to the same.
July 1. G. Nicolson to Mr. Lok.
July 2. Camillo Cardoni to Sir R. Cecil.
July 2. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
July 3. Mr. Greensmith to the same.
July 3. E. of Northumberland to the same.
July 3. S. Lesieur to the same.
July 4. A. Townsend to the same.
July 4. W. Temple to the same.
July 5. Dr. Jo. Duport to the same.
July 6. Th. Achym to the Lord Chamberlain.
July 6. Capt. Ogle to Sir R. Cecil.
July 6. King of Scots to Geo. Nicholson.
July 6. Postmaster of Calne to Sir R. Cecil.
July 6. Countess of Rutland to the same.
July 7. W. Killegrew to the same.
July 7. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
July 7. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
July 8. Sir Th. Gerrard to the same.
July 8. Jo. Townsend to the same.
July 9. H. Lok to the same.
July 9. Mr. Alabaster to the same.
July 9. Sir H. Greville to Sir R. Cecil.
July 9. Sir R. Cecil to the Master of Gray.
July 9. Attorney General Coke to Sir R. Cecil.
July 9. Lo. Burghley to the same.
July 10. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
July 10. W. Tresham to Mr. Lok.
July 10. Mr. Beverley to Sir R. Cecil.
July 10. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle to the same.
July 10. Sir T. Gerrard to the same.
July 10. News from the Cardinal's Camp before Ostend by J. Sherman.
July 11. Sir N. Parker to Sir R. Cecil.
July 11. Sir H. Lee to the same.
July 11. E. of Rutland to the same.
July 11. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
July 11. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
July 11. E. of Northumberland to the same.

[MARQUE
OF SALISBURY]

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

July 11. Mrs. Beale to the same.
 July 12. Noel de Caron to the same.
 July 12. Capt. Holcroft to the same.
 July 12. Mayor of Bath to the same.
 July 13. Bailiffs of Calne to the same.
 July 13. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
 July 13. Pat. Gallwey to the same.
 July 14. W. Hals to the same.
 July 15. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 July 16. Capt. Jo. Ridgeway to the same.
 July 16. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
 July 16. Jo. Salesbury to the same.
 July 16. Sir J. Dawdall to the same.
 July 17. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 July 18. Count Carlo Sigala to H. Palavicino.
 July 18. Sir R. Cecil to Sir R. Carey.
 July 18. The same to Privy Council.
 July 19. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 19. Capt. Jo. Ridgeway to the same.
 July 20. T. Douglas to the same.
 July 20. E. of Huntingdon to the same.
 July 20. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 July 20. Dr. Lionel Sharpe to the same.
 July 20. Jo. Salesbury to the same.
 July 21. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 July 21. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 July 22. Lo. Mounteagle to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 22. Sir E. Morgan to the same.
 July 22. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 July 23. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 July 23. N. Wise to the same.
 July 24. E. Blount to the same.
 July 24. Sir H. Wallop to the same.
 July 24. Sir Jo. Gilbert to the same.
 July 24. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 July 25. Sir Gr. Markham to the same.
 July 25. Th. Ireland to the same.
 July 25. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 July 26. Geo. Harrison to the same.
 July 27. R. Milner to the same.
 July 27. Aurel. Townsend to the same.
 July 27. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 July 27. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
 July 27. Th. Floyd to Sec. Herbert.
 July 27. Sir R. Mansell to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 27. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 July 27. Sir Jo. Gilbert to the same.
 July 29. Mrs. Beale to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 29. Lo. Willoughby to the Queen.
 July 29. Sir H. Bromley to Sir R. Cecil.
 July 29. Lord Admiral to the same.
 July 29. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
 July 29. Sir H. Lee to the same.
 July 31. Sir Ed. Rede to the same.
 July 31. Lady Cooke to the same.
 July 31. Lord Sandys to the same.
 July 31. Bp. of Carlisle to the same.
 July 31. Noel de Caron to the same.
 July 31. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 July — Lady Lumley to the same.
 July — Sir Ant. Gorges to the same.
 July — Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 July — Lady St. John to the same.
 Aug. 1. Sir Ant. St. Leger to the same.
 Aug. 1. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 Aug. 1. Juan Blanco (Bradshaw) to (Mr. Honiman).
 Aug. 1. Alderman Law to Mr. Hicks.
 Aug. 1. W. Hunt to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 1. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
 Aug. 2. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
 Aug. 2. Robinson, Bp. of Carlisle, to the same.
 Aug. 2. Th. Jefferson to the same.
 Aug. 2. Sir Th. Fane to Lord Cobham.
 Aug. 2. Jer. Ursino to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 3. R. Ardern to the same.
 Aug. 3. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Aug. 3. Theobald Butler to the same.
 Aug. 3. J. Kirk to the same.
 Aug. 3. Sir Th. Fane to Lo. Cobham.
 Aug. 3. Sir W. Bowes to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 4. Bailiffs of Yarmouth to the same.
 Aug. 4. Lord Norreys to the same.
 Aug. 4. Sir Geo. Carew to the same.
 Aug. 4. Sir H. Winston to the same.
 Aug. 4. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Aug. 4. Lo. Stafford to Sir R. Lewkenor.
 Aug. 4. Sir H. Neville to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 4. Sir R. Cecil to the Parishioners of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.
 Aug. 4. Capt. T. Holcroft to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 4. Lord Mayor of London to the same.

MARQUESS
OF
SALISBURY.

Aug. 5. Capt. W. Parker to Lord Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 5. Hampden Paulet to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 5. Sir Wm. Constable to the same.
 Aug. 6. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 Aug. 6. Sir T. Fane to the same.
 Aug. 7. Sir Æ. Cockle to the same.
 Aug. 7. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 Aug. 7. Mayor of Salisbury to the same.
 Aug. 7. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Aug. 7. Mayor, &c. of Weymouth and Melcombe Regis to the same.
 Aug. 8. Lord Admiral Nottingham to the same.
 Aug. 8. Wm. Udall to the same.
 Aug. 8. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Aug. 8. Mr. Fontaine to the same.
 Aug. 8. Mr. Croke and Mr. Townsend to the same.
 Aug. 8. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
 Aug. 8. Lo. Admiral to the same.
 Aug. 8. Captains from Harwich to the same.
 Aug. 8. Lord Eure to the same.
 Aug. 8. Mayor, &c. of Weymouth and Melcombe Regis to the same.
 Aug. 9. Geo. Brooke to the same.
 Aug. 9. Mayor of Cork to the same.
 Aug. 9. The Lord Admiral to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 9. W. Alabaster to the same.
 Aug. 9. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Aug. 9. Jo. Vaughan to the same.
 Aug. 10. Lady Jane Elphinstone to Arch. Douglas.
 Aug. 10. Dowager Lady Russell to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 10. Lord Mayor of London to Privy Council.
 Aug. 10. H. Lok to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 10. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 Aug. 10. Note of ships and employments.
 Aug. 11. Lord Keeper Egerton to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 11. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
 Aug. 11. Mr. Budden to the same.
 Aug. 11. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
 Aug. 11. Capt. T. Ridgeway to the same.
 Aug. 11. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 Aug. 11. Peter Van Loor to the same.
 Aug. 11. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
 Aug. 11. Authority of Pope Clement VIII. to Geo. Blackwell, Archpresbyter in England.
 Aug. 12. Capt. Arthur to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 12. Dr. Soame to the same.
 Aug. 12. Lord Willoughby to the same.
 Aug. 12. Attorney General Coke to the same.
 Aug. 13. E. of Pembroke to the same.
 Aug. 13. Auditor Neale to Mr. Bellot.
 Aug. 13. Th. Watson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 13. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
 Aug. 14. R. Percival to the same.
 Aug. 14. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Aug. 14. Mr. Bussell to the same.
 Aug. 14. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
 Aug. 14. Rob. Twist, Ro. Poole, and Geo. Brett to the English in Ostend.
 Aug. 15. Mr. Donell to Lord Admiral.
 Aug. 15. R. Hopper to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 16. R. Carmarden to the same.
 Aug. 16. Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Scroope.
 Aug. 16. Mr. Trevor to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 16. Capt. T. Holcroft to the same.
 Aug. 16. Hen. Appleton to the same.
 Aug. 17. Th. Heskeith to the same.
 Aug. 17. T. Cherye and Jo. Merrick (Merchant Adventurers) to the same.
 Aug. 18. V. Skinner to the same.
 Aug. 18. Sir A. Chichester to the same.
 Aug. 18. Capt. Wigmore to the same.
 Aug. 18. Sir J. Peyton to Privy Council.
 Aug. 18. Comptroller of the Works to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 18. T. Holcroft to the same.
 Aug. 18. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Aug. 18. Advertisements from Rome.
 Aug. 19. P. Proby to Sir Jo. Stanhope.
 Aug. 19. Capt. Dawtry to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 19. Jas. Hudson to the same.
 Aug. 19. Sir R. Jermyn to the same.
 Aug. 20. R. Stapers to the same.
 Aug. 20. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Aug. 21. Sir T. Fane to the same.
 Aug. 21. Countess Dowager of Derby to the same.
 Aug. 21. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to Lo. Chief Justice.
 Aug. 21. Sir Ant. Cooke to Sir R. Cecil.
 Aug. 21. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 Aug. 21. Ed. Wilton to R. Catesby.

- Aug. 22. Andrews, Dean of Westminster, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Aug. 22. Lo. Mountjoy to the Baron de Dona?
- Aug. 22. Sir William Reade to Sir R. Cecil.
- Aug. 22. Lo. E. Crumwell to the same.
- Aug. 23. Sir T. Fane to the same.
- Aug. 23. G. Harvey and J. Linewray to the same.
- Aug. 24. R. Bar to the same.
- Aug. 24. Sir T. Fane to the same.
- Aug. 24. Lady Sydney to the same.
- Aug. 24. Capt. R. Wigmore to the same.
- Aug. 24. Dr. R. Neale to the same.
- Aug. 25. Hugh Cuffe to the same.
- Aug. 25. Capt. J. Ogle to the same.
- Aug. 25. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
- Aug. 25. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
- Aug. 25. Privy Council to Sheriffs of Worcester.
- Aug. 26. E. of Pembroke to Sir R. Cecil.
- Aug. 26. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
- Aug. 26. Sir Th. Fane to the same.
- Aug. 26. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
- Aug. 26. Secretary Horbert to the same.
- Aug. 27. John Byrde to the same.
- Aug. 27. B. Adams to the same.
- Aug. 28. Jo. Allen to the same.
- Aug. 29. Th. Scriven to M. Hicks.
- Aug. 30. Wm. Stallenge to Sir R. Cecil.
- Aug. 31. Capt. Prymne to the same.
- Aug. 31. H. Lok to the same.
- Aug. —. E. of Desmond to the same.
- Aug. —. Sir H. Neville to the same.
- Aug. —. John Owen to the same.
- Aug. —. Mayors of Canterbury and Sandwich to Sir T. Fane.
- Aug. —. Jo. Blagrave to Sir R. Cecil.
- Aug. —. Jo. Buckhurst to the same.
- Aug. —. Attorney General Coke to the same.
- Aug. —. Will of the late Peregrin, Lo. Willoughby, &c.
- Sept. 1. Sir F. Fane to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 2. The same to the same.
- Sept. 2. R. Manners to the same.
- Sept. 2. E. of Pembroke to the same.
- Sept. 2. Jo. Kyllgrew to the same.
- Sept. 2. Lord Admiral and Sir R. Cecil to Noel de Caron.
- Sept. 2. H. Lok to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 2. Account of the prize, the White Greyhound taken out of the Straits by the Lioness, Capt. Jo. Troughton.
- Sept. 3. Sir Jo. Peyton to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 3. Geo. Synge to the same.
- Sept. 3. Lo. Burghley to the same.
- Sept. 3. Lord Grey to the same (2).
- Sept. 4. Jo. Lester to the same.
- Sept. 4. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
- Sept. 6. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 6. Lo. Burghley to the same.
- Sept. 6. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
- Sept. 6. H. Lok to the same.
- Sept. 7. E. of Cumberland to the same.
- Sept. 7. R. Gifford to the same.
- Sept. 7. Auditor Peyton to the same.
- Sept. 7. Bp. of Boulogne to Mr. Harrison.
- Sept. 7. Bushell, Clerk of the works, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 7. Sir J. Harrington to the same.
- Sept. 7. Sir T. Fane to the same.
- Sept. 8. Sir J. St. Ledger to the same.
- Sept. 8. Bilson, Bp. of Winchester, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 8. J. Stanhope to Sir J. Stanhope.
- Sept. 8. Lord Mayor of London to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 10. Muscovy Company to the same.
- Sept. 11. The Queen to Emperor of Muscovy.
- Sept. 11. S. Lesieur to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 11. Lo. and Lady Lumley to the same.
- Sept. 13. Lo. Willoughby to the same.
- Sept. 13. Roger Wilbraham to the same.
- Sept. 13. Th. Bluet (a priest) to Bp. of London.
- Sept. 13. R. Milner to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 13. Dr. Parkins to the same.
- Sept. 14. Capt. Ousley to the same.
- Sept. 14. Th. Watson to the same.
- Sept. 15. H. Lok to the same.
- Sept. 16. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
- Sept. 16. King of Scots to Lo. Scroope.
- Sept. 16. Jer. free Baron of Dona, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 16. Justices of Chester to the same.
- Sept. 16. Sir Ant. Cope to the same.
- Sept. 19. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
- Sept. 19. W. Saxey to the same.
- Sept. 19. Muscovy Company to the same.
- Sept. 19. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
- Sept. 21. Sir Ant. Cooke to the same.
- Sept. 22. Mr. Edmonds to the same.
- Sept. 23. Sir R. Cecil to Sir F. Darcy.
- Sept. 23. Th. Lake to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 23. Sir Jo. Peyton to the same.
- Sept. 24. Sir E. Stafford to the same.
- Sept. 24. Sir T. Fane to the same.
- Sept. 24. Lo. Philipps to the same.
- Sept. 24. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
- Sept. 25. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
- Sept. 27. W. Fortescue to the same.
- Sept. 27. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
- Sept. 27. Lo. Monteaigle to the same.
- Sept. 28. Sir R. Jermyn and Sir Jo. Higham to the same.
- Sept. 28. H. Meer to the same.
- Sept. 28. Mr. Atkinson to the same.
- Sept. 28. E. of Rutland to the same.
- Sept. 28. W. Cope to the same.
- Sept. 29. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same.
- Sept. 29. Morgan Bp. of St. Asaph to the same.
- Sept. 29. Lord Scroope to the same.
- Sept. 29. The same to the K. of Scots.
- Sept. 30. Mr. Lenton to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. 30. Mayor &c. of Plymouth to the same.
- Sept. 30. Lo. Burghley to the same.
- Sept. 30. Genealogy of the Cobham family from Edw. I., also roll emblazoned in the figure of an oak by Jos. Holand.
- Sept. —. Sir H. Neville to Sir R. Cecil.
- Sept. —. W. Stafford to the same.
- Sept. —. Money issued by Privy Seals since the death of Lo. Burghley.
- Oct. 1. E. of Bath to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 2. Capt. Fitzgerald to the same.
- Oct. 2. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
- Oct. 3. Sir Geo. Kendal to the same.
- Oct. 3. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
- Oct. 3. Lord Burghley to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 3. Jo. Meere to the same.
- Oct. 3. Geo. Brooke to the same.
- Oct. 3. Wm. Waad to the same.
- Oct. 3. R. Houghton to the same.
- Oct. 3. Declaration of Th. Walker of going into Ireland to kill Tyrone. Tyrone's emotion upon death of Essex.
- Oct. 4. Jo. Trelawney to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 4. 10 to 30.
- Oct. 4. Examination of Th. Harrison, touching a portrait of the Queen and poisonous stuff.
- Oct. 5. Sir J. Gilbert to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 5. Lord Morley to the same.
- Oct. 5. Lord Darcy to E. of Shrewsbury.
- Oct. 5. Sir W. Browne to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 5. Bancroft Bp. of London, to the same.
- Oct. 5. Capt. Ch. Leigh to Lord Admiral and Sir R. C.
- Oct. 5. Hutton, Abp. of York, to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 5. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 5. E. of Derby to the same.
- Oct. 5. Sir Th. Harvey to the same.
- Oct. 6. Lo. Cobham to the same.
- Oct. 6. Countess of Derby to the same.
- Oct. 6. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
- Oct. 7. Marquis of Winchester to the same.
- Oct. 7. E. of Northumberland to the same.
- Oct. 7. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
- Oct. 7. E. of Oxford to the same.
- Oct. 7. Mr. Windebank to the same.
- Oct. 8. Geo. Brooke to the same.
- Oct. 8. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
- Oct. 8. Order from Mayor &c. of London for a quill of water to Salisbury House.
- Oct. 9. R. Manners to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 9. Sir R. Cecil to Lo. Scroope.
- Oct. 9. Lord H. Seymoar to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 9. Sir Jo. Carey to the same.
- Oct. 10. Mr. Nicolson to the same.
- Oct. 10. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
- Oct. 10. R. Wilbraham to the same.
- Oct. 10. Sir J. Gilbert to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 10. R. Jhonson to Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 10. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
- Oct. 10. A. Capell to the same.
- Oct. 11. Sir F. Greville to the same.
- Oct. 12. Sir J. Gilbert to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
- Oct. 12. Lo. Cobham to Sir R. Cecil (2).
- Oct. 12. Vice-Chamberlain Stanhope to the same.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

Oct. 12. R. Bellman to the same.
 Oct. 12. Dowager Lady Russell to the same.
 Oct. 12. Sir Jo. Davis to the same.
 Oct. 12. Jo. St. Ledger to the Queen.
 Oct. 13. Sir Jo. Bales to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 13. Mr. Harvey to the same.
 Oct. 13. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
 Oct. 13. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.
 Oct. 13. Letters into counties for lodging of men since landing of Spaniards in Munster.
 Oct. 14. Sir Th. Parry to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 14. A. Lanyer to the same.
 Oct. 14. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Oct. 14. Lord Cobham to the same.
 Oct. 14. Sir F. Godolphin to the same.
 Oct. 14. Mayor of Exeter to the same.
 Oct. 15. Sir Jo. Harrington and Mr. Bodenham to the same.
 Oct. 15. Capt. North to the same.
 Oct. 15. Th. Forrest to the same.
 Oct. 15. Th. Ellis to the same.
 Oct. 16. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
 Oct. 16. M. Guistiniani to the same.
 Oct. 17. Lord Mordaunt to the same.
 Oct. 17. Sir H. Wallop to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 17. Justice Saxey to the same.
 Oct. 17. Sir A. Throckmorton to the same.
 Oct. 17. T. Preston to the same.
 Oct. 17. Sir F. Greville to the same.
 Oct. 17. Lord Cromwell to the same.
 Oct. 18. Dr. W. Bruise to Eastland Company.
 Oct. 18. Sir R. Lee to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 18. H. Knowles to the same.
 Oct. 18. W. Udall to the same.
 Oct. 18. Jo. St. Leger to the same.
 Oct. 19. Lo. Eure to the same.
 Oct. 19. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Oct. 20. Dr. W. Wilkinson to the same.
 Oct. 20. Justices of Northampton to the same.
 Oct. 20. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
 Oct. 20. W. Phillips to the same.
 Oct. 20. R. Ogle to the same.
 Oct. 20. Mr. Lineway to the same.
 Oct. 21. Sir E. Dymoke to the same.
 Oct. 21. C. Dymoke to the same.
 Oct. 22. Sir T. Coningsby to the same.
 Oct. 22. Capts. Kenrick and Fortescue to the same.
 Oct. 22. Sir F. Greville to the same.
 Oct. 22. Hutton, Abp. of York, to the same.
 Oct. 22. Lord Morley to the same.
 Oct. 23. Countess of Arundel to the same.
 Oct. 23. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 Oct. 23. E. of Bath to the same.
 Oct. 23. Mayor of Preston to the same.
 Oct. 24. Dr. Parkins to the same.
 Oct. 24. Ro. Johnston to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 24. King of Scots to the Queen.
 Oct. 24. Lord Th. Howard to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 24. Sir Jo. Salisbury to the same.
 Oct. 25. St. George St. Poll to the same.
 Oct. 25. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Oct. 26. Marquis of Winchester to the same.
 Oct. 26. Ro. Manners to the same.
 Oct. 26. E. of Lincoln to the same.
 Oct. 27. Sir H. Palmer and Mr. Trevor to Lo. Admiral.
 Oct. 27. Th. Nicolson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 27. The same to H. Lok.
 Oct. 27. Lord Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 27. Jo. Parker to the same.
 Oct. 27. Tho. Edmonds to the same.
 Oct. 27. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
 Oct. 28. Sir R. Levison to the same.
 Oct. 28. Capt. Wigmore to the same.
 Oct. 28. Capt. Leigh to the same.
 Oct. 28. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
 Oct. 28. Sir Jo. Gilbert to the same.
 Oct. 29. Sir Post. Hoby to the same.
 Oct. 29. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Oct. 29. Lord W. Sandys to the same.
 Oct. 30. Robinson, Bishop of Carlisle, to the same.
 Oct. 30. Sir A. Capel to the same.
 Oct. 30. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Oct. 30. M. de Desdiguieres to the Queen.
 Oct. 31. Marchioness of Winchester to Sir R. Cecil.
 Oct. 31. Justice Lewkenor to the same.
 Oct. 31. Capt. Wigmore to the same.
 Oct. 31. Ralph Grey to the same.
 Oct. 31. Mayor, &c. of Barnstable to the same.
 Oct. 31. E. of Desmond to the same.
 Oct. 31. Sir W. Raleigh to the same.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

Oct. 31. Ja. Sympell to the same.
 Oct. 31. Lord Mounteagle to the same.
 Nov. 1. Sir Jo. Gilbert to Lo. Treasurer, Lo. Admiral, and Mr. Secretary.
 Nov. 1. Mayor of Liverpool to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 1. Sir G. Trenchard to the same.
 Nov. 1. Ph. Cotton to the same.
 Nov. 2. Dr. Jegon to the same.
 Nov. 2. Sir Jo. Gilbert to Privy Council.
 Nov. 2. R. Staper to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 2. Sir Jo. Gilbert to Capt. W. Parker.
 Nov. 2. Mayor, &c. of Ilfracombe to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 2. E. of Rutland to the same.
 Nov. 2. Sir R. Fenys to the same.
 Nov. 2. Lo. Lumley to the same.
 Nov. 2. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 Nov. 3. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Nov. 3. Lady Elizabeth Kytson to the same.
 Nov. 3. E. of Thomond to the same.
 Nov. 3. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Nov. 3. Mayor, &c. of Plymouth to the same.
 Nov. 4. Capt. Alford to the same.
 Nov. 4. E. of Thomond to the same.
 Nov. 4. Mayor, &c. of Chester to the same.
 Nov. 4. Capt. Baxter to the same.
 Nov. 4. Lo. Burghley to the same.
 Nov. 4. Report of Henrick Van Anker of Hanbury to Sir R. Mansell of pepper on board ships stayed in narrow seas.
 Nov. 5. Sir R. Levison to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 5. W. Tresham to the same.
 Nov. 5. Bancroft, Bp. of London, to the same.
 Nov. 5. Commissioners for prizes to Lo. Treasurer.
 Nov. 5. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 5. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 Nov. 6. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Nov. 6. Capt. Arthur to the same.
 Nov. 6. Sir Jo. Gilbert to Privy Council.
 Nov. 6. R. Tresham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 7. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Nov. 7. Sir E. Vuedale to the same.
 Nov. 7. Lo. Morley to the same.
 Nov. 7. Lord Mayor of London to the same.
 Nov. 7. Sir Jo. Stafford to the same.
 Nov. 7. Upon levy of treasure for defence of the realm.
 Nov. 8. W. Wynston to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 8. Sir Ant. Cooke to the same.
 Nov. 8. E. of Rutland to the same.
 Nov. 9. Sir J. Gilbert to Lo. Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 9. Capt. Ridgeway to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 10. Mayor of Chester to the same.
 Nov. 10. R. Carey to the same.
 Nov. 10. Sir Jo. Salisbury to the same.
 Nov. 10. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Nov. 10. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
 Nov. 10. The same to the Privy Council.
 Nov. 11. Jas. Hudson to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 11. Dr. Nowell to the same.
 Nov. 11. Sir H. Wallop to the same.
 Nov. 11. Mayor of Plymouth to Lo. Admiral.
 Nov. 12. Officers munition, &c. for Cinque Ports.
 Nov. 13. R. Hadsor to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 13. Sir J. Gilbert to the same.
 Nov. 13. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
 Nov. 13. Whitgift, Abp. of Canterbury, to the same.
 Nov. 13. Octavius Episc. Tricaricensis Nuntius Apostolicus to Jo. Skinner.
 Nov. 14. The Lady St. John to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 14. Geo. Shirely to the same.
 Nov. 14. Sir H. Bromley to the same.
 Nov. 15. Sir J. Gilbert to the same.
 Nov. 15. E. of Bath to the same.
 Nov. 15. Samuel Norton to the same.
 Nov. 16. Differences between Sir J. Gilbert, Governor of the fort, and the Mayor of Plymouth.
 Nov. 17. Jo. Killgrew to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 17. Mayor of Barnstable to the same.
 Nov. 17. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 Nov. 18. Sir J. Stanhope to Mr. Perceval.
 Nov. 18. Sir R. Lewkenor to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 19. Mayor, &c. of Exeter to the same.
 Nov. 20. High Commissioners for province of York, Ecclesiastical Commissioners, 1602.
 Nov. 21. Anne Carew to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 21. Dr. Fletcher to the same.
 Nov. 22. E. of Oxford to the same.
 Nov. 23. W. Tyrwhitt to the same.
 Nov. 24. T. Douglas to Sir T. Heneage.
 Nov. 24. Jo. Stanhope to Sir R. Cecil.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

- Nov. 24. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Oliver Cromwell.
 Nov. 25. Sir Jo. St. Leger to Sir R. Cecil.
 Nov. 25. Capt. Throckmorton to the same.
 Nov. 25. Sir J. Gilbert to the same.
 Nov. 25. Lo. Keeper Egerton to the same.
 Nov. 26. Mrs. W. Smith to the same.
 Nov. 28. Sir Jo. Brooke to the same.
 Nov. 28. H. Lok to the same.
 Nov. 28. A. Hall to the same.
 Nov. 29. Sir Fr. Hastings to the same.
 Nov.—. Starch sold in England, from 1 Sept. 1599.
 Dec. 1. Noel de Caron to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 2. The Queen to the King of Scots.
 Dec. 2. Sir W. Levison to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 2. Lord Cobham to the same.
 Dec. 3. Sir F. Stonnar to the same.
 Dec. 3. Ferd. Cardinus, provincial of the Jesuits in Antwerp, to the Archduke.
 Dec. 3. Estimate for manning and victualling a vessel of 120 tons.
 Dec. 4. E. of Oxford to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 4. Lo. Chief Justice Popham to the same.
 Dec. 4. M. Greensmith to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 5. A. Hall to the same.
 Dec. 5. Mayor of Plymouth to the same.
 Dec. 5. W. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 6. Jo. Osborne to the same.
 Dec. 6. Jo. Alsop to the same.
 Dec. 6. W. Earl of Derby to the same.
 Dec. 10. Lady Lovel to the same.
 Dec. 10. Lady Darcey to the same.
 Dec. 11. W. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 11. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Dec. 12. E. Page to the same.
 Dec. 12. Capt. Wood to the same.
 Dec. 13. Lo. Admiral to the same.
 Dec. 14. N. Fortescue to the same.
 Dec. 14. R. Topclyffe to the same.
 Dec. 14. E. Drake to R. Drake.
 Dec. 15. Fr. Barnaby (a priest) to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 15. Th. Nicholson to the same.
 Dec. 15. Geo. Sharpe to the same.
 Dec. 17. Sir R. Sydney to the same.
 Dec. 17. Lo. G. Hunsdon to the same.
 Dec. 19. Marchioness of Winchester to the same.
 Dec. 19. Lo. Cobham to the same.
 Dec. 19. Capt. Ogle to the same.
 Dec. 19. Sir R. Cecil to Mr. Nicolson.
 Dec. 20. Lord Cobham to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 21. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 21. Sir J. Gilbert to the same.
 Dec. 21. E. of Rutland to Privy Council.
 Dec. 21. Examination of Th. Singleman and Geo. Welford touching their impressment on board the Dunkirkers.
 Dec. 22. Mayor of Plymouth to Privy Council.
 Dec. 22. Octavius Episc. Tricaricensis to Jo. Skinner.
 Dec. 25. Lo. Buckhurst to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 27. Mayor of Plymouth to Privy Council.
 Dec. 28. Sir Ar. Capel to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec. 28. Wm. Fitzwilliam to the same.
 Dec. 29. E. of Bedford to the same.
 Dec. 30. Lo. Buckhurst to the same.
 Dec. 30. Wm. Stallenge to the same.
 Dec. 30. R. Bellman to the same.
 Dec. 31. Mayor of Bristol to the same.
 Dec. 31. E. of Northumberland to the same.
 Dec.—. The Queen to K. of Scots.
 Dec.—. R. Dudley to Sir R. Cecil.
 Dec.—. Mr. Honyman to the same.
 Dec.—. S. Proudlove to the same.
 Dec.—. Jo. Travers to the same.
 Dec.—. Geo. Preston to the same.
 Dec.—. Tipplers concerning halfpence and farthings.
 1601. Emperor of Morocco to the Queen.
 1601. W. Ashe to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Lord Visct. Byndon to the same.
 1601. Capt. Jo. Bingham to the same.
 1601. Capts. Butler and Stoke to the same.
 1601. Lord Buckhurst to the same.
 1601. Sir B. Carey to the Queen.
 1601. Ri. Carey to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. R. Catesby to Mr. Cope.
 1601. Captain E. Cecil (Viscount Wimbeldon) to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. The same to the same (2).
 1601. Sir R. Cecil to Mayor of Bristol.
 1601. The same to the Lord Deputy.
 1601. The same to Lo. Zouche.
 1601. The same to Lady Palavicino.
 1601. Daniel Cenomache to —.

MARQUIS
OF
SALISBURY.

1601. Geo. Claye to Bp. of Carlisle.
 1601. J. Chadwick to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. W. Cope to the same.
 1601. Lord Cromwell to the same.
 1601. Sir W. Cornwallis to the same (2).
 1601. Capt. Courte to the same.
 1601. R. Craford to the same.
 1601. Sir G. Carew to the same.
 1601. Attorney-General Coke to the same.
 1601. Gef. Davies to the same.
 1601. Sir John Davies to the same.
 1601. Countess of Derby to the same.
 1601. Capt. H. Done to the same.
 1601. Arch. Douglas to Sir Jo. Fortescue.
 1601. Sir Jo. Davies to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Patrick Doffe to the same.
 1601. Pearse Edmunds to W. Waade.
 1601. Count Egmont to the Queen.
 1601. Capt. W. Ennys to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Countess of Essex to the same.
 1601. The same to Lord Admiral and Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Jas. Field to Mr. Dreadis.
 1601. Mr. Freeman to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Lady Glenham to the same.
 1601. Master of Gray to King of Scots.
 1601. Lo. Grey to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Sir F. Greville to the same.
 1601. Sir F. Gorges to the same.
 1601. W. Greenwich to the same.
 1601. Lady Hatton to the same.
 1601. Ro. H. Hayes to the same.
 1601. Th. and Ed. Hayes to the same.
 1601. [Lord?] Herries to Mr. Hudson.
 1601. Mr. Hicks to R. Cecil.
 1601. Lady Hoby to the same.
 1601. Jas. Hudson to the same (2).
 1601. Lo. Hunsdon to the same.
 1601. E. Lesley to Roger Aston.
 1601. Dr. Hammond to (Sir R. Cecil?).
 1601. Capt. Jackson to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Jo. Lee to the same.
 1601. Sir Th. Leighton to the same.
 1601. Capt. Levens to the same.
 1601. Sir E. Levison to the same.
 1601. T. Lloyd to the same.
 1601. H. Lok to the same.
 1601. Jo. Luffe to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. R. Luffe to the same.
 1601. Peter Loysdon to the same.
 1601. Capt. Malbie to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Fr. Michel to the same.
 1601. Ed. Morgan to Sir F. Georges.
 1601. Sir W. Monson to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Sir H. Neville to the same.
 1601. Th. Newark to the same.
 1601. Ed. Nicholson to the same.
 1601. Lady Norreys to the same.
 1601. E. of Northumberland to the same (2).
 1601. Lord Admiral to the same.
 1601. Lady Anne Neville to the same.
 1601. Purie Ogilvie to King of Scots.
 1601. Ant. Paynter to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. R. Palmer to the same.
 1601. E. of Pembroke to the same (4).
 1601. Dowager Countess of Pembroke to the Queen.
 1601. W. Purevey to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Privy Council to Mr. Hill.
 1601. The same to Lord Eure.
 1601. Sir W. Raleigh to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Dowager Lady Russell to the same (2).
 1601. Lady Sandys to the same.
 1601. Sir H. Saville to the same.
 1601. Capt. Jo. Selbye to the same.
 1601. Geo. Sharpe to the same.
 1601. E. of Shrewsbury to Lady Palavicini.
 1601. The same to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Sir Jas. Sympill to the same.
 1601. Sir Carew Keynell to the same.
 [1601.] — to the same, of words spoken by one John Symonds.
 1601. Sir E. Stafford to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Sir J. Stafford to the same.
 1601. Mr. Stanhope to the same.
 1601. Sir Jo. Stanhope to the same.
 1601. Wm. Style to the same.
 1601. P. Stronge to the same.
 1601. Lady Stourton to the same.
 1601. E. of Southampton to "My Bess" (his Countess).
 1601. Sir R. Sydney to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. A. Throckmorton to the same.
 1601. Lady Verney to the same.

ARQUIS
OF BURY.

1601. Sir R. Vernon to the same.
 1601. Lady Susan Vere to the same.
 1601. Jas. Ware to the same.
 1601. Lord Ware? to the same.
 1601. Th. Watson to the Queen.
 1601. R. Wilbraham to Sir R. Cecil.
 1601. Mr. Welbie to the same.
 1601. Dr. Willis to the same.
 1601. Sir E. Wingfield to the same.
 1601. R. Witherington to Sir H. Witherington.
 1601. Counsellors for Marches of Wales.
 1601. Mr. Besant's note of provisions at Cobham.
 1601. Proofs by Sir T. P. Hoby against W. Earl.
 1601. Mem. upon estimating the true value of gold and silver coin, chiefly in relation to the Low Countries.
 1601. Pasquil on the retreat of Prince Doria from Algiers.
 1601. Accidents of Destiny of John Daniel (possessor of letters of Essex).
 1601. Names of Sheriffs in Norfolk for the past seven years.
 1601. Of the Castle of the narrow water, &c.
 1601. Oath of Dr. Morgan, Bp. of St. Asaph, on translation.
 1601. Services in the office of the ordnance, by John Limewray.
 1601. Answer of Ric. Palfryman to information of Jo. Lee, Keeper of Stores.
 1601. Gentlemen in Kent, Sussex, and Surrey, who have not sent horses to Bristol.
 1601. Accounts touching prizes of the ship Refusal.
 1601. Privy Council warrant to transport Negroes and Blackamoors of late crept into this realm.
 1601. Information by R. Elyot on the designs of Spain.
 1601. Runners at Tilt.
 1601. Advertisements from Scotland, containing Hamilton's Report to the King of imputations against Sir R. Cecil by E. of Essex.
 License to E. of Cumberland for transportation of woollen cloth.
 Petition to Cecil of inhabitants of W. Marches of England of spoils by Carletons, Grames, &c.
 A note of the late Sir Chas. Danvers's lands in Wilts and Glouc., attained of high treason.

THE EARL OF DENBIGH'S MANUSCRIPTS.

(Second Report.)

Vol. I.

- Instructions from the King to Lord Feilding, dated Whitehall, the 14th of November 1667.
- 2 and 3. Keys to letters written in cypher.
- From Secretary Windebank. "Westm^r. 3 Apr. 1635, Still Angl." After some general instructions, Lord Feilding is asked to use his influence in order that a cabinet of curiosities, belonging to Daniel Niz, and deposited with some Dutch merchants at Venice, may not be opened but reserved close till the return of Daniel Niz, His Majesty intending to buy it for his own use.
- From Charworth to Lord Feilding, condoling with him on some irreparable loss, probably the death of Lady Feilding. "Fro. y^e Strand 13th Aprilis St. Vet. 1635."
- From Richard Feilding, informing Lord Feilding of "my Lord Desmounts carriage his wife from Yorke House to Barnacke, and of his speedy returne back to Yorke House, then y^e fallinge out againe of my Lord Des. and his wife, which nowe is in the High Com^{is}sio. Courte." Wardrobe, this 27th of Aprill 1635.
- From John Finet, London, 17 April 1635. "... About a month since arrived here an Extraordinary from France, the Marquis de Sensterre, who, according to his country proverb, Pour faire d'une pierre deux coups, is come heather to serve the King his masters turne and his owne both together. He had incurred (as it is told here) the highe displeasure of the Prince of Soissons his lord and master and (next God) his maker, for having carried a double hand (as he is charged) in the manage of a matrimonial busyness for the Cardinal's niece wth the Prince mentioned, who finding his honour to suffer in it from the fault of one so neere him in trust as his owne most trusted servant professeth his intention of revenge with threats of his life so far as the Marquis sheltering him self under the Cardinal's protection hath for his better security his Kings joynd (joined), with it in this ambassage of his into England. Here

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"he lyveth out of feare and not out of use, being a subject in most men's judgement so able for his master's service as these here that know him think France can hardly send out his second. He hath dayly access to the Queene and (by that domestick way) to the King, negotiating so with the advantage of opportunity, and having never had yet (wyth my conduction as with ceremony) more then one privat audience of his Ma^{ty}, but of the counsel he hath had three or four. He professeth the scope of his imployment to be no other then to settle a strict confederation between his King and ours and the States of the United Provinces for the preservation of what is reserved and recovery of what is lost in the Palatinat. He lyveth here in a noble fashion for his trayne and his table, whiche from the day of his arrival to the day after his public audience [for 5 dayes," in the margin] (so long the new order published for the defrayenge of Ambass^{es} made him the King's guest) was kept at his Ma^{ty}'s charges, ever since at his owne. And wee say that he is lyke to spin him selfe out from an Extraordinary to an ordinary, whyle he that is heere the same alledry (the Marquis de Pongny) seems content (in his discontent) that his friends should give out that he desyres and endeavors his revocation. In the meane tyme if the apprehensions that the world sayth the M^e de Seneterre hath of danger from the Prince of Soysson be true, he getts tyme, whatsoever else, and your Lp. shall heere those where you now live say Chi a tempo a vita. As for the reports cast out that he comes to admonish our King to leave the flower de lues out of his armes, to lay aside the title of King of France, and to except against the new provided fleet, they are but popular or factious, litle to be credited. Wee have another extraordinary come lately from the Queene and crowne of Sweden (so he stiles himself), a grave learned old gentleman who hath bene sent heather twyce Ambr. already, and is now come principally (wee say) to procure the King's Christian mediation for the truce (now expired) to be renewed wyth the Polander (a truce whereof the Swedes late unassured conquests may have need) and to restore the garter of the deceased King his master, whiche his M^{ty} hath with consultation of the Earle Marshall and knights of that order sett downe shall (in honour of that ever worthy to be most honored King's memory) be solemnly performed to morow at a public chapter to be held in the presence after the Amb^r shall have awchyle rested him self in the counsel chamber, bene visited there by two knights in theyre robes, and between them conducted thence with the garter coler of SS, &c. borne before him by the King of Harolds to the presence of his Ma^{ty}."

8. From Sir Francis Windebank. "Westm^r, 23 Apr. 1635, St. Ang. . . . Monsieur de Seneterre, Extraordinary Amb^r heere from the French King hath presented to his Ma^{ty} proposiations inviting him to a conjunction with France and the States of the United Provinces in a confederacy for recovery of the Palatinat, and his Ma. hath remitted him to treat wth the Forain Co^mmittee. We have had sondry meetings but are not yet growne toward any resolutions."

9. Ro. Anstruther. "From my House in the Covent Garden, this 28th of May 1635," with offers of service to Lord Feilding.

10. Sir Francis Windebank. Westminster, 31 July 1635, in reply to a despatch of Lord Feilding, which the King approves. "For the business he [the Spanish Ambassador] proposed he [the King] hath reason to apprehend that the conjunction between D. of Bavaria and the Emperor his daughter may have caused some alienation in King from Emperor and the House of Austria, especially if such advertisements as daily come to his Ma^{ty} from forain parties, together with the copies of articles published in print of the Peace betwene Emperor and E. of Sax^e, be true, by which the House of E. Palatin appears to be absolutely excluded from any hope of restitution either of territories or dignities, and all settled upon the House of Bavaria. But as King in his wisdom and goodness is not overhasty to give credit to such advertisements considering the unjustness and cruelty of such a proceeding as the innocency of the present P. E. Palatine, his Majesty's nephew and the often reiterated premises of the Emperor and King given to the late King James and his now Majesty himself, which gave hope of more justice and moderation, so the King cannot but be jealous that these propositions of the Ambassador are cast out only to amuse him,

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"and as an artifice to disguise the great indignity which all the world conceives to be offered to himself in the person of his nephew and the House of E. Palatine, which the King cannot but highly resent if it be true. Your lordship is therefore dexterously to sound whether this proposition of the Ambassador have any foundation, and whether it be grounded upon any commission from the Emperor or the King of Spain, or whether it be not rather a discourse or fancy of his own, and if you find it real then you are to entertain and pursue it with all demonstration of affection and desire to advance it, assuring him that the King who affects nothing more than by such an alliance to settle the peace of Christendom and, in consequence to that, the affairs of E. Palatine, and indeed of the Emperor himself in Germany, will powerfully embrace such motion and to the uttermost of his intervention contribute to so happy an accommodation, being confident that both his sister and the E. Palatine will conform themselves to his counsel. And seeing this motion ariseth from the Spaniard himself; your lp. is by your best diligences to keepe it alive, unless you find it groundless and to encourage the ambassador to do good offices both to the Emperor and the King of Spain representing unto him the great honor himself is likely to receive by being the first mover in so glorious a negotiation, and that he may the more clearly understand his Ma^{ty} intentions herein yo^r lp. is to acquaint him that his Ma^{ty} hath alreedy used the interposition of the D. of Lorraine to the Emperor for this purpose, and now, upon this overture will presse it the more earnestly, and whatsoever good offices the D. of Lorraine shall do in favor of Elec. Palatine, the King will really acknowledge by laboring the like for his restitution. Yo^r lp. is likewise to assure the ambassador that the King is now sending an expresse to the Emperor with instructions in this business, who is to reparaire to the D. of Lorraine in his passage, and that he hath likewise instructed his ambassador now going into Spaine to this effect, and that if the Emperor will take off the bands, and thereby give some good demonstration of his good intentions to the E. Palatine that he may not receive a repulse or a hard answer when he shall demand his investiture, which must be done now shortly, of course when the E. Palatine shall have attained the age of eighteen yeeres which wilbe in January next. His Ma^{ty} upon these groundes will not faile to enter into a streight league with the House of Austria, as is proposed by the Ambassador upon such conditions as shalbe thought reasonable on both sides. His Ma^{ty} hath had patience all this while during the minority of the E. Palatine, and upon faire hopes given him by the Emperor and the King of Spaine of an accommodation, but chiefly in a princely and a religious sense of the distractions of Christendom, though he have not wanted invitations, and those of great advantage to himself and the E. Palatine to have joyned to another party. But he hath hetherto kept himself entire and free to do and receive good offices, which must be done now or never, his owne and his nephew's affaires admitting from henceforth no more delays, but that the business be sodainly brought to an issue. This yo^r lp. must let the Ambassador know, and that if the Emperor and the K. of Spaine give not to the King a speedy and categorical [answer] it wilbe interpreted a refusal and His Ma^{ty} will resolutely take other counsels. Yo^r lp. is likewise to acquaint him that His Ma^{ty} had sent sooner to the Emperor, but that the Spanish agent in England dissuade him and undertook the negotiation himself. Whereupon his Ma^{ty} did write earnestly to the Emperor and the Spanish agent in England, tooke upon him to convey the l^re, but hetherto his Ma^{ty} hath never received any answer."

"Concerning the daughter of the Emperor or some other Princesse of that House, yo^r lp. shall do well to inform yo^r self of their severall ages that disparity of yeeres may be no impediment to such an alliance."

"Yo^r lp. is further to represent to the ambassador the benefit the K. of Spaine hath had by his Ma^{ty} arming at sea this yeere, and that at his owne charge without costing the K. of Spaine one penny, and that he hath bene so farr from joyning with the French K. though he were pressed to it by the extraordinary ambassador how in this low condition of the affaires of the Emperor that by this meanes the coast of Flanders w^{ch} the Hollanders before boasted they held and besieged, and likewise Dunkerke which otherwise had not bene unattempted by France and the Hollanders, but must certainly have run greate hazard,

"have been freed and preserved nearely by this action of the King. So that their affaires having bene in a manner redressed by this great assistance of the King's in this conjuncture, and in these uncertainties of their intentions to the King and the E. Palatine it cannot be doubted, but he will much more heereafter upon a neerer alliance, and so great an obligation as the restitution of his nephew. You are likewise to let him know that the King is preparing a greater and more powerful fleet for the next yeere, which must needs be of greate consequence and advantage to them."

"For the other overture of the Count de la Val, his Ma^{ty} hath no opinion of it, nor of the author, but yo^r lp. may continue to heare him and use him with such faire and civil respectes as may procure you the knowledge of what passeth betweene him and the Spanish ambassador, which may be of very good use to his Ma^{ty} service."

11. Edw. Hyde, Middle Temple, this 5th of August 1635. Tax on maritime parts to be continued over the whole kingdom for fleet to defend coasts.

12. Windebank, West^m 21 Aug. 1635, St. An. "We understand heere that the D. of Savoy hath declared himself for the French King, and undertaken the place of generalissimo of the French forces in Italy. His Ma^{ty} hath dispatched John Taylor to the Emperor expressly for the E. Palatine, and he hath instructions concerning that which you writ was prepared by the Conde de la Rocca."

13. John Bashford's passport on his journey from Venice to England, dated 10 Sep^r 1635.

14. John Finet, London, 16 Octob. 1635. "My lord of Wimbleton (of whose valor no man, I think, ever doubted in his youth) hath now in his age also shewed himself no less valiant and venturous, having lately married the young daughter [of 17 years old, on the margin] of S^r Edward Zouche, deceased, with such assurance to himselfe of having children by her as before he married he durst offer the King fyve hundred poundes to free his future heyre from wardship. I think y^e lp. knowes the Duke of Florence's agent here, Sig^r Amerigo Salveti, he (little less old and an Italian bysides) hath lykewyse taken to wyfe a fayre young gentlewoman of not above seventeen yeere or 18 at the utmost."

"I thought I should have bene able before this to have told your lp. of a new Lord Treasurer but his choyce (or at least his nomination) is yet depending, though some laweres say that this Terme will make his presence and use in Westminster Hall necessary. But as yet we see him not, though we heare him named, the Lord Cottingham. Your lp. knowes what they say in Italy, cosa fatta ha capo. That lords expecting freends and servants would be glad to see it so, that they might be out of all feare of rubbs from Ir[e]land, where that resolute pendent Deputy doth miracles in his charge, so reforming the Government and filling the Exchequer with subsidies, fines, forfeitures, discoveries of concealmes, confiscations upon them, even of whole provinces, and in s^um reducing an ingin so out of frame to an orderly motion, as I know not what better effects can be expected from him here as a Treasurer then doo proceed from him there as a Deputy."

"In place of Mr. Trumbul deceased (clerk of the counsel), the King hath made choyce of Mr. Nicholas, w^{ch} all that honour the ever to be most honored name of his late Lord and m^r the Duke your uncle are most glad of, as of a testimony his Ma^{ty} gives, in what maⁿer he preserves the memory of the master when he is so pleased to advance the servant."

"His Ma^{ty} vouchsafed the other day to honour the city with his paces (coming purposely from Hampton Court), and with his presence (standing two or three hours at a window in Chepe-syde) to see 6,000 citizens marche by before him, armed and clothed as richly and bravely as any companyes of soyldiers in Christendome. They were after trayned in Finsbury fields, did assaill a counterfayt fort there, but inconsideratly suffering the people to press in upon them, and one to take tobacco in the place where they distributed theyre powder, a sparck fell amongst it, blew up and burnt to death half a dozen, hurt as many that dyed soone after, and mayned and marcked besides above fifty."

The writer goes on to speak of the raising of ship money, some sheriffs "disputing, or at least desyring to be resolved of the legality of such levyes, and how they and their heyres may be discharged of repayment or worse, if they should be questioned hereafter."

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

Mr. Walter Montagu is on his way to Savoy, some say intending to go to Rome "upon a negotiation undertaken by the Queene here, and the Queen Mother at Brussels, for restitution of the palatinat." There is talk of Lord Holland going Ambassador Extraordinary to France, "to mediat with that King for reconciliation with his mother, and for her retourne to France, and to the repossession of her detayned meanes, w^{ch} must be the only way of her diversion from where her coming hath bene with much reason feared, and with no less indeavor hindred."

15. E. Nicholass, Westminster, 20 October 1635. Writs have been sent to the sheriffs of every county in England, to levy money to defray the charge of a fleet for next year of double the strength of that employed this year. "This seconding soe powerfully the former h^oie expedic'on will (I hope) make y^e world see that his Ma^{ties} amity is more considerable than it hath bene rendred by some neighbours malevolent to this crowne. The Hollanders have bene very insolent about Scarborough and Whitby in y^e north partes this sum^r, where in pursute of some Dunkerke frigatts they have dared to goe ashore armed wth muskettts and pikes (in little better then an hostile manner) att several tymes by day and once in y^e evening twilight, and taking boates from y^e inhabitants by violence, have presumed to boarde and pillage the Dunkerker in his Ma^{ties} harbours. The Capt. of one of those Hollanders was in y^e act att Whitby apprehended together wth his armed men by some of the trayned band of that county of Yorke, w^{ch} upon y^e alarme were drawne downe, and he and some of the cheif of his company are in custody att Yorke. Upon advertisement of these insolencies (thrice together co'mitted) on his Ma^{ties} shore by these Hollanders, two of y^e shippes and one pinnace of the flecte were sent to y^e northwards to meete wth and bring in the said Hollanders, whereof they have delivered one of 220 tons armed wth 21 peeces of ordnance, into y^e custody of y^e Mayor of Hull, where he is deteyned to answer severall insolencies comitted by himself and his fellows, there being two piraticall facts charged upon his person. Att this Hogan Mogan y^e States are mightily troubled, but know not how to complaine. My Lo. of Lindsey's comission is att an end, and his Lpp. being come in with y^e greatest parte of y^e flecte, S^r Jo. Fennington is contynued att sea, Adm^o of 5 shippes and 3 pinnaces for garde of y^e narrow seas this winter. The last weeke Cap^t Stradling being off y^e Lizard alone in his Ma^{ty} new shipp the Swallow (having in her 30 peeces and 150 men), mett wth Mons^r Mantin G^rall of y^e French shippes (who was in a shipp of 32 peeces, man^d wth 200 men), and one other of y^e French King's shippes of less burthen. The French Adm^l bore up wth both his shippes close to y^e King's shipp, w^{ch} did the like to y^e French, but as soon as Capt. Stradling came wth in shott of them he let fly a shott att each of them, whereupon my Monsieurs stroke their flags and topsailes, and in a friendly and obedyent manner saluted the King's shipp wth 3 peeces of ordnance from each shipp, for w^{ch} y^e King's ship returned to each of them a single shott, and soe they parted. I write this partic^lar as having bene one of y^e most remarkable passages that hath happened in this late expedic'on betweene his Ma^{ties} shippes and y^e French, and it was donne since my lo. of Lindsey came in with y^e best parte of his Ma^{ties} fleet.

16. John Finet, London, 24 October 1635. Preparations for the reception of the Elector Palatine. "Wee muche apprehend here the infection of the Plague from our neighbour of the Low Countreys, where it rageth exceedingly, no less then seventeen hundred having dyed of it in one week at Leyden, and all the townes in Holland, except Reven, where the Queen of Bohemia hath her retrayt, being infected with it. This contagion, as all other misfortunes (so and in the same wordes wytes an understanding gentleman to me thence), is imputed to the Frenche, who dyeng (says he) in the streets without compassion are buried as they lyved, lyke beasts. He adds farther, they begin here to be weary of that conjunction, and wishe they were better then they are wth England. This wishe is lyke to grow stronger as the correspondance of those two nations grows every day weaker, both of them rayling at one another as causers of each others mischeefe; and the honour of that hetherto everywhere bravely reputed Prince of Orange is crushed betweene them, one syde (his owne) taxing him of having done too muche, the other (beloved as his owne) of dooing too little for them. I spake with one of our merchants yesterday

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"upon the Exchange, that said his servant saw not above four dayes before att Calais a most pittifull spectacle of misery. Forty Flemish boyghes arrived there, stuffed with French soyldears, disburdened them selves of about two thousand of them, so meagred and pyned wyth famin and siknes as, but for some little sence they had and motion left them, they might have bene reckned amongst the dead, as some of them proved, even in his sight and presence. The weak voyces they had left them they spent in cursing the country and people from whence they came, charging them with treachery and inhumanity for having called them to their aydes and suffering them to starve, whyle they them selves lived in plenty, divers of them swearing to the reporter of this tragedy that when the Hollanders payd but one or two sole for a pott of water, the Frenche payd 12 or fourteen. No doubt but the Hollanders have theyre defences, and theyr accusations to contrary these, whyle all the world (yet) chargeth this misery upon the Frenche as God's exemplary punishment for theyr horrible cruelties, rapes, and rapines att Tilmont, and the Duche may be condemned for gaping so wyde as to hope to swallow Brabant and Flanders without choaking."

17. Windebank, Westm^r. 23 Novem., St. An., 1635. Y^e Lps. other I^{re} sent by Mr. Weston confirms that wth I ever feared, the then overtures of the Spanish Amb^r were cast out only to amuse his Ma^{ty} here and to sweeten him after the greates blow the House of Austria had given his nephewe and the House Palatin upon the marriage wth the D. of Bavaria. But they shall do well not to flatter themselves wth those fancies, or that his Ma^{ty} did sett out his flecte the last sum^r merely for his owne interests wth out respecting theires, for if upon the messagessent by John Taylor to the Emperor for the affaires of the Pr. Elec. Palatin the Emp. give not the better satisfaction now the Pr. Pal. is of age to demand investiture into his territories and dignities, his Ma^{ty} more powerfull flecte w^{ch} he intends to sett out the next yeare (to ward wth greates so'mes are already levied and paid) may verifly their opinion that it shalbe indeed for his owne interests and those of his nephew, and least of all (I hope) for theirs, that his next yeeres flecte shalbe putt to sea. . . . The Prince Pal. is now heere, and I hope it shalbe of greater consequence to his owne affaires and to the setting of the peace of Christendom. He is a very gallant Prince and of great hopes, and gives satisfaction to all sortes in his carriage."

18. Lord Arundel and Surrey, 23 Nov. 1635. On art collections.

19 and 20. On private business.

21. John Finet, London, 2 Dec^r, stil. vet. 1635. An interesting description of the arrival of the Prince Palatine and the ceremonies attending his reception at Court.

22 and 23. Letters from Edw. Hyde, Middle Temple, 10 Dec. 1635, and Jo. Donne, Rome, 2 Feb.

24. Edw. Nicholas, Westm., 24 March 1635. Much hoped from the Earl of Northumberland's performances in command of the fleet. The Earl of Arundel is preparing to go ambassador to the Emperor. The Bishop of London is Lord High Treasurer. "Surely, in my poore opinion, he might be a very fit man for that great office if y^e King's coffers were well lyned as Queene Eliz. left them, and wee pray that his great integrity may have God's blessing and plentifulnes for his Ma^{ties} advantage." . . . The French sloopes every day pillage his Ma^{ties} sub^s and lately often the Post bark, and have taken away and carried into Callais his Ma^{ties} packet this last weeke and formerly packetts addressed to the King. These affronts soe frequently and audaciously committed will att length breede ill bloud, if there be not a timely amend^{mt}. One of the King's shippes is shortly to goe for Spaine to fetch thence a Spanish Amb^dor, who it seemes dares not adventure hither in any other bottoome."

25. G. Middleton, Padua, 29 March 1636.

26. Windebank, Westm^r. 10 June 1636, Of stile. Though the King cannot spare the Duke of Savoy supplies of munition and men, "yet he is pleased to give leave to his subjects being merchants trading in those partes to let out their shippes to hire to the D. of Savoy for his service, he giving them such satisfaction for them as they shall agree upon."

27. Edw. Nicholas, Hampton Co^r, 15 June 1636. His Ma^{ties} flecte hath now bene att sea this moneth and the noble Admiral of the same gives assurance that he will by his diligent keeping att sea and his active stirring abroad, vindicate the hono^r of o^r sea

EARL OF DENDIGH.

"co'maunders wth (of late years) have bene so in love wth the shoare that his Ma^{ties} chargeable fleets set forth have made him returns not worthy the charge he hath bene att or the honor^o of na^on. This noble Lo^d p^lyes y^e Firrench coast, keepe alwaies att sea is (as we say) very yare and vigilant to meete wth any occasion that may give testimony of his prudent industry in the great charge co'mitted to him, it may [be] wth a little affec^on and eye to y^e office of Lo. Adm^l w^{ch} hitherto (for ought I can perceave) his Ma^{ties} reserves for y^e D. of York."

28. Lord Arundell and Surrey, Lintz in Austria 28 June 1636.

29. Rodolfe Weckherling, Bagshot, 28 July 1636. "After long expectation Cap^t Stuart (who co'mandeth one of his Ma^{ties} ships and was sent some moneths ago into Spaine) is safely returned hether, and hath brought quantitie of silver to bee transported over to Dunkerke for the Catholike Kings milice, and with them is also come the Spanish and long looked for Ambassador the Count d'Onate his sonne, who nevertheless remains yett at Greenwich and seemes not to desire any speedie audience all though his Ma^{ties} would have bene content to give it him either on Sunday next or a weeke after, before we shall be farther off from London. But the Spaniards going co'monly pian piano, knowe well how to doe their affaires. Howsoever it may bee he will hasten his audience (which now he declines) against his will if he heares what I heare (and if it bee true) that his Ma^{ties} intends to stay the silver for some considerations which I doe not penetrate unto. . . . To-morrow his Ma^{ties} removes from hence to Windsor whether the Queene is also coming from Oatlands. And so their Ma^{ties} intend to goe together on Monday to Ashbridge, on Tuesday thence to Woburn, then (I understand) after their Ma^{ties} departure the marriage shall bee celebrated betwix my Lord Russel and the Ladie Anne Carre, the marriage being wholly concluded and agreed upon. Thence we are to goe to Easton Maudit and thence to Apethorp and so on according to the former gistes, this alteration proceeding from the feare of the Plague which is much dispersed in the Forrest about Theobalds. My Ladie Denby and all the Queenes Court we left in good health on Monday last."

31. John Borough, Ratisbone, 10 Aug. 1636. "My lo. Ambassador being not as yett returned to this towne from Augusta, though now every day expected, I presume to give you notice that on Thursday last, between five and sixe in the evening, the Emperor came to this towne, wth very little traine of court, and was received by the burgers trayned out into the fields wthout the gates wth their pikes and musketts to the number wel nere of one thousand, and by the clergie in the church wth Te Deum wth out any other shew of triumph or companie of ambassadors who slowly advance after him. Onely a Polonian Ambassador arrived here the same night, whose name is Oserlinsky, having heretofore been in England, a great Catholicke, and the prime opposer of the match of that King wth the Princesse Palatine. They say he comes to interpose his mediation for according the differences between the house of Austria and France, and to negotiate a match between his M^{ty} and the Emperor's daughter. Heer is no newes that any of the Electors are as yett sett forth, and what this diet will at last come to is very uncertaine."

32. Windebank, Westm^r, 22 July 1636.

33. Lord Arundell and Surrey, Ratisbone, 23 Aug. 1636. "I cannot as I wish give you any certaine relation of the good successe of my negotiation here. Onely I hope that wth in a few dayes I shall bring them to declare the uttermost of their intentions whereby his Ma^{ties} may fully and cleerly understand their meaning, and accordingly direct his counsailes and affaires. And of this I will give yo^r Lo. particular advertisement so soone as I shall be able to do it upon good ground. The Diet is not yett begun. Their stay is principally upon the comming of Saxonie, who was expected in person, but now the report is that he will only send his Plenipotentiaries. The Duke of Bavaria is heer and much courtied by the Emperor and all his ministers. They say the King of Hungaria proceeds with great successe in Burgundie, and that the French have not onely left the seige of Dôle but are wth much losse retired out of those parts, w^{ch} wth the Cardinal Infants prevaile in France and the expulsion of the French out of the State of Milan "makes them heer looke high and think better of themselves then of late they did."

34. From the same. Ratisbone, 1st Sept. 1636. "Touching the Diet the Elector of Mentz and Bavaria is onely heer in person. All the rest (except Trier) have sent their co'mmissioners, and yesterday being Monday, the Elector of Mentz as Chanceller, gave intimation of the rest to meet and begin the Diet. But the Co'mmissioners for Saxonie refused to come upon those su'mons alleging that the convening of the Electors at the Diet appertayned of right to their M^{ty} as Marshall of the Empire, and to his Lieutenant the Ricks-Marshall Papenheim, in whose familie that office had continued some hundred of yeares. Where upon the Emperor sent for them to come and meet at his chamber in Court, where onely one of Saxonie appeared, and still insisting upon his former protestation, denied to proceed untill he had sent an expresse to his master, and received his order concerning this particular. So nothing was done, and this is likely to give some stop to their proceedings, whereof during my stay here I will give yo^r Lo^d advertizement, according to the occasions offered."

"P.S.—The D. of Bavaria's interests in this court, and y^e Spaniards merdes insisting upon thayre share then was expected may perhaps hasten my returne."

35. From the same. Ratisbone, 28 No^r 1636. Nothing yett done by the Diet. "For my owne employment I am sorry I cannot give yo^r Lo^d that account of it as in itselfe it deserves or the King my master expects. It now rests on his Ma^{ties} determination, whose co'mands ere longe I expect, havinge 16 dayes since given his Ma^{ties} by an expresse a full accompte of my proceedings, accordinge to w^{ch} I shall governe my selfe."

35. Thos. Windebank, Rome, 27 Sept., sty. novo, 1636.

36. Windebank, Haines Hill, 14 Oct^r 1636, o^r style. "The opinion you are pleased to deliver in yo^r l^{res} of the 28th of Septem. in the businesse of the Palatinate of my Lo. Marshall's negotiation in Germany is very judicious; and though His Ma^{ty} friendship considered in itselfe be of much greater weight and may be for the future of much more consequence to the House of Austria than that of the D. of Bavaria, yet in this present conjuncture, it seemes, this must weigh down the other, and they will trust to Providence for the time to come. These were not wont to be the resolutions of the counsellors of Spaine to hazard the future for a seeming present advantage. I say seeming, for they will finde Bavaria will play the Vulpone wth them, and to be too farre engaged to France to give any real assistance to the King of Hongary in his pretensions to be King of Romans. In the meane tyme they have lost such an opportunity of obliging His Ma^{ty} as they are not like to meete with again in haste, besides their breach of promise and greate ingratitude for the protection they have received by his flete, and as highly as they esteeme now of themselves in this present prosperity of their affaires they will have time enough to repent this greate neglect of His Ma^{ty} besides the continuance of the effusion of Christian blood w^{ch} can be justly imputed to none but to themselves."

37. Lord Arundell and Surrey, Ratisbone, 11 Oct^r 1636. "On Wednesday last, the Kinge of Hungaria, so longe expected, arrived heere, whom as yett I have not seene. Two days since he departed hence post towards Vienna, to meet his Queene, who are both expected heere on Thursday next. This day also 'tis said the Elec^t of Collen (Cologne) makes his entree heere for the King's election. These heere seeme not to doubt, though for the p^{re}snt somewhat troubled with the late great overthrow given neere Wistocke in the Dutchy of Meckle[n]burge by Banner Gen^l for the Sweads unto the D. of Saxony himself in person accompanied with Hatsfeld and Marasini, 2 of the Emp^r Gen^{ls} w^{ch} is heere thus rendred: After 6 howers fight Hatsfeld beinge wounded and Marasini slayne, the Duke of Saxony retired himselfe into Magdeburge, having lost all his cannon, carriage, and munition. On the contrary it is reported that Banner is eyther slayne or wounded together with Gustavus, the late Kinge of Swead's natural sonne. The number slayne on eyther p^{ty} is yett unknown, though by all confessed to bee both fought and wonne wth greater carnage and slaughter of both parties then any in these later warres. What events will follow is yett uncertaine, as also what use the Sweads will make of this victory. For my owne part I am still heere expecting the King's co'mands

EARL OF DENDIGH.

PART OF
DENBIGH.

"by the retorne of my expresse, whom I howerly expect."

38. Windebank, Hampton Court, 4 Novem. 1626, o^r style.

39. Lord Arundel and Surrey, Ratisbone, No^r 2^d, 1636.
" . . . I am much contented to be lookinge home-wardes, havinge had His M^{tes} revocation from this place, where I have had lardge professions from the Emp^r and K. of Hungary of theyre extreame desire to satisfye the Kinge our Master's requeste, and they seeme extremely careful to find meanes to come to that happye conclusion, w^{ch} I wish and shall be gladd to finde the good effectes followe."

40. From the same. Ratisbone, 11 N^o 1636, st^o n^o. His departure delayed at the request of the Emperor and the King of Hungary, who "hath shewed much desire to find some way to satisfye the Kinge o^r master. . . . The Emp^r had an ill accidente on Friday laste in his bedde by a fitte, w^{ch} doubtlesse had carried him quite away if by the Emperesse her wachfullnes it had not bin founde and timely remedies applied, w^{ch} in 3 or 4 houres brought him againe to memorye. Nowe he is sayde to be well, but noe greate opinion of his longe life."

41. Windebank, Haines Hill, 25 Novem. 1636, o^r style, " . . . My Lo. Marshall whome we expected to have bene upon his way homeward hath given advice of better inclination in the Emperor and K. of Hungary and fairer hopes of good successe of his negotiations than have appeared since his employment there, and it seems he holdes them real and worth his stay, otherwise, he wold not have bene amused just upon his departure, especially now in the depth of winter . . . Other newes of consideration there is very little, the continuance of the sicknesse in London interrupting all businesse w^{ch} us and by consequence the reporters of it."

42. From the same. Hampton Court, 5th Jan. 1636, old style. "My Lo. Marshall is returned home w^t little satisfaction in his negotiation though himself used all the prudence and dexterity that could be expected from so grave a counsellor to have brought the Austrian party to reason. But how we shal be relieved by France I yet understand not, were their abilities as good as they pretend their affections are. For the Venetians y^o Lps. former l^{res} have abundantly satisfied me what may be expected from them. His Ma^{ty} hath reason to be very sensible of this ill usage of Spaine, and hath where withall in his power to make himselfe more considerable to them w^{ch} I believe they will finde to their cost not w^t standing their great prosperity in the elec^on of the K. of Romans. My Lo. Marshall is arrived heere very well and deserved a better employment. The ordinary French Amb^r heere, the Marquis de Pougny died upon Friday last, and now Mons^r de Seneterre hath no rival in his employment."

43. From the same. Hampton Court, 18 Jan. 1636, o^r style. "The King is advising upon ways how to putt E. Palatin into some better posture and to that ende wilbe contented he shal seeke his fortune at sea with such voluntary adventurers as will go with him. Besides De Vil is sent to the King of Denmark and another of the Sweds to joyne in assistance for the restitution of the E. Palatin. What France will do is not yet knowne."

44. Edw. Hyde, Middle Temple, this 5th of Feb. 1636. "The sicknesse continues so much at London that I feare wee shall be agayne banish^d thence this next summer, though yet the courts be ther and the Q. lyes in at S^t James's."

45. John Finet, London, the 9th of Febr. 1636. "The annually continued levy of ship mony (the best employed, that I think ever hath bene for our country's honour and safety) hath so distracted many of these patriots (as they would be held and called) both great and other not of the meaneest quality, as divers of them, to take up (which is theyre word) and go less, not only in theyr diet but retinue, have discarded, some ten, twenty (and some great ones 40 and 50) of theyre least usefull servants which forced to live of their own nothing that could hardly do it of others something, seek it out in highe wayes, woodes and playnes, 20, 30, and 40 of a fraternity (whereto they make themselves bound by oathes and articles). But the hand of justice having lately layd hold on 18 or 20 of them, they begin to lessen, and the highe wayes to be more secure for honest passengers. In the meane tyme those great ones and other that are judged to be the cause of these mens flyng out by theyr taking up (as I sayd theyr word is) will be "taken downe when they shall knowe that now wythin these two dayes all the twelve judges of the land assembled have subscribed to one joint opinion that for the safety of the kingdome the King may lawfully cause contributions towards setting forth of ships without giving farther reasons for it, or to that purpose."

46. Windebank, 10 Feb^r 1636, o^r st. "The unsatisfaction my Lo. Marshall hath brought from the Emperor hath trayned w^{ch} it I feare a greater mischief and wee bee neere upon the conclusion of a league with France w^{ch} I feare will draw the King into a war, and this is a remedy wors than the disease."

47. Edw. Hyde, Middle Temple, 18th Feb. 1636-7. "The greater designe now is for the Pr^r Elector who is providyng shippes and money, with whose fortunes many greater men will venter thers. The Kinge is now thoroughly possesed of his shipp-mony, which all the judges of England have assured him may be leavyed by law, w^{ch} is a notable revenue annexed to the crowne since you went, and amounts to a greater propo^r on then was ever given by Parlyament. This and a spirituall Treasurer may in tyme make the Kinge very rich."

48. Windebank, Westm^r, 24th Feb^r 1636-7, o^r st. S^t Clements Radolt the Emperors agent here hath lately taken his leave of His Ma^{ty} and is upon his departure not well satisfied. We are very neere a straight league with France, and I pray God we be not drawn into their quarrel."

49. John Finet, London, 9th March, 1636. "Three or four dayes before the Prince Electors protestation I introduced him [the Spanish ambassador] to an audience of His Ma^{ty}, which soome dispatched and his countenance at his parting discovering not great content, I inqyred and was told of some (who a day or twoo after professed to know) that he had intimated to the King how he had heard his Ma^{ty} ment to retribute in giving assistance to the elector (preserving his neutrality) as the King of Spayne had done to the Emperor, and that his Ma^{ty} thought such assistance might be given without breache of peace; but he beseeched his Ma^{ty} to change that thought and to beleve that if he should give assistance a breache would follow it; whereto his Ma^{ty} after some little pause is sayd to have answered, 'Let the King your master doo what he please, I will doo what I think fitt,' and so they parted."

50. Edw. Nicholas, Westminster, 30th March 1637. Letters of reprimall have been issued to "such of his Ma^{ties} sub^s as have suffred losse or damage either by the F^rench, Spaniard or States Generall and have there bene refused justice, they first bringing sufficient prooffe thereof out of y^e Court of Adm^{ty} to their Lpps."

51. Lord Arundel and Surrey, Whitehall, 31st March 1637.

52. Windebank, Westm^r, 1 April 1637 o^r st. Expresses the King's indignation at the affront put on Lord Feilding by the arrest by Venetian officers of persons to whom he had given sanctuary in one of his outlodgings, and his approval of Lord Feildings resentment of the affront, and his demand for reparation. "It is true that in some cases of treason, as direct practising against the person of any prince or conspiracy for the subversion of a state no ambassador's house, no not his bed-chamber ought to be a sanctuary. But on the other syde, either to make crimes treasonable w^{ch} in themselves are not soe, or to deny priviledge in lighter offences, as that of bella conversatio, otherwise blasphemy, or to restraine the priviledge to the mansion house of the personall residence of the ambassador, and subject his out lodgings to slavery, is in my opinion against the law of nature's reason and common humanity, and is in plaine terms to deny any priviledge at all to them. Howsoever, because princes and states can't take notice of offences given to them in the persons of their ministers without publique resentments w^{ch} traine w^t them consequences very dangerous, Ambassadors have reason to be very cautious in taking offence and most of all in making protestes, unless the injury be of a high nature and don w^{ch} high malice and a purpose to give affront. These circumstances y^o Lp. being upon the place can better judge whether they concurred in this particular than any heere at this distance. But y^o moderation and prudent inoffensive carriage, in all other y^o actions make us all who are well affected to y^o heere confident that unless you had found a high malignity in the businesse you

PART OF
DENBIGH.

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"wolde not have bene carried to such extremities." The writer thinks that Lord Feilding will be able to find some way out of this difficulty wth His Ma^{ty} "and yo^r owne honour w^{out} coming away from thence in discontentment w^{ch} must breede little lesse than a rupture betwene His Ma^{ty} and that state, and how unseasonable that wilbe in this conjuncture wherein His Ma. hath little neede of new or any enemies yo^r Lp. in yo^r wisdom will best judge. . . . For that w^{ch} yo^r Lp. writes of the Car. of Savoy and the other princes of those partes His Ma^{ty} will make use of it according to the successe of his treaty with France wherein he is hetherto very ill used, and Car. Richelieu plays his prize excellently, though if he refuses the King now he deserves rather a fool's cap than that of a Cardinal."

53. Windebank, Westminster, 1 April 1637, o^r st. Daniel Nize (see letter 2) is free to dispose of his cabinet as he thinks fit.

54. From the same. Westminster, 14 April 1637, o^r st. "Our treaty with Fraunce goes on slowly, and I feare they will serve us as they have don ever which is very ill. In the meane tyme our protest against the Emperour hath brought us into dislike there, and so I hold the affaires of the E. Palatin desperate. . . . The Spanish Ambassador in England begins to treatte, but he stands upon such high conditions that there is little good to be effected from thence."

55. Leicester, Paris, 22 April 1637. The treaty on which he has been employed during ten months has met with some rubs of late, but he believes it will go on again speedily, "because I do not finde this state otherwise disposed then it was to give all contentment to his Ma^{ty} wherein I hope he will finde both honor and profit wth very little trouble and no charge unto himselfe, since in a manner he doth but receive the offers made unto him without much ingaging himself. . . . This state prepares vigorously and earnestly for the warr. Duke Bernard of Weymer is shortly to depart from hence, and, as he sayth himself very well satisfied. 10,000 men they give him to be now levied wth his own troupes will make neare 18,000, and with this strength he is to go towards Germany, and in point of money, both for average and present entertainment of his men he hath also good contentment. Duke of Creigay is for Italy to command as last yeare. Other armies are spoken off under the conduct of M^r. de Candalle and his brother the Cardinal de la Valette, the Prince of Conde, the Duke of Longueville, and I know not how many more w^{ch} perhapp will end in discours only. I do not heare that the deputies of this king are ready yet to go for Collen (Cologne); M^r. de A. . . . who is one of them (as it is given out) is first bound for Hambourg to treatte wth Swedes and others from thence, M^r. le Marquis de St. Chammont (who is another and the first of them) and he may, peradventure, come to Collen and be metti there by M^r. de Fesonières who is the third, and is yet in Verain, in Lorraine. But it is likely they will at last meet them and make a peace, since both sydes seem to desyre it, and the Pope mediates wth soe much zeale for it."

56. Windebank, London, 23 Aprile 1637, o^r st. The French do still trifle with the King and so do the Spaniards, so the Prince Elector is in wors condition than ever, and whether he shall be put into action, or what we shall do is uncertain."

57. R. Weckerlin, Greenwich, 18 June 1637. "As soone as the treatie that hath bene so long in agitation betwixt us and France was agreed upon, and brought over the Prince Elector resolved to goe over into the Hagh and take further counsell and resolution what to doe hoping withall to get some further help and assistance from other of his friends. . . . Before hee parted we have dispatched both to the crowne of Sweden and the states to invite them to accept of the said treaty. The like hath France done, and if the said treatie shall bee accepted and satisfied, as is hoped and desired, then shall wee further see whether other princes, especially the King of Denmarke will also come in, which, for my part, I much doubt of, notwithstanding he is but ill used by the King of Hungary."

58. Windebank, Westminster 19 May 1637, o^r st. "The expedient left you to com out of that republique labyrinth in w^{ch} you were is to be given to His Ma^{ty} wisdom. . . . I shall be extreme glad to understande the business hath succeeded accordingly and wish yo^r Lp. may come off from those barbarous Pantaloni with honor to His Ma^{ty} and yo^r selfe. Yo^r Lps. noble frendes heere wish you in some employ"ment more worthy of you and sutable to yo^r generous and monarchical disposition."

59. Percy Church, Greenwich, 9 June 1637. "If yo^r Lpp. would be pleased to make me yo^r agent towards Mrs. Wutton, I presume I might be able to returne yo^r Lpp. some satisfaction, and if affections differ not I conceive her most fitting for yo^r Lpp., her estat of 150^l. a yeare being considered, and her mother's darling, who, as I am informed may make her 500^l. per an. better then her sister Stanhope whoe is sunburnt."

60. Windebank to Westminster, 12 July 1637.

61. From the same. Westminster, 14 July 1637, o^r st.; "The confederation betwene us and France growes into some neernesse, whereat the Spanish Amb^r heere is much out of countenance inso much as it hath brought upon him a dangerous indisposition and some merily call it il mal Francesso. . . . The businessse of the Bp. of Lincolne hath lately taken us much of o^r tyme in the Star chamber and we have bestowed 10 dayes almost together before we cold bring it to a sentence w^{ch} at last we have don; and he is fined 10^l to his Ma^{ty}, imprisoned in the Tower, suspended from all his ecclesiasticall dignities and benefices and from the exercise and profits of them, and to pay to Sir John Monson 1000 marks for damages and in reparac'on for grosse injuries don to him. There are three others likewise fined of w^{ch} two were his servants. His offence was subornation of witnesses and laboring them for rewardes to retract what they had defered in a cause betwene His Ma^{ty} and him."

62. From the same, Windsor Forest, 21 July 1637.

63. Lord Feilding, Venice, Aug^r 22, to Mr. Morton; a copy partly in Lord Feilding's handwriting. "The Pope's perfect recovery hath cross'd the Spaⁿ designs (with their great disperuation) which they had framd upon the beleife that his sicknesse was irrecoverable which itt is supposd was never so greates as it was reported to bee but servd as the best meanes to avoyd the importunities of the two crownes of France and Spayne which grew so pressing upon him. The said art is not thought unlikely to have been used by the Pope and the Venetians, who by continuing the small disgusts which are between them (and made greater then really they are) pretend a faire excuse for their neutrality."

64. Windebank, Haines Hill, 18 August 1637, o^r st. "That w^{ch} yo^r Lp. writes that the Spanish Amb^r then wold be contented to draw in that state to interpose for som accomodac'on betwene His Ma^{ty} and the House of Austria in the businessse of the Palatinat hath good grounde of probability for the Spanish Amb^r heere hath very lately (though otherwise not much guilty of any good office since his negotiation heere) invited His Ma^{ty} to a new treaty at Brussells assuring the King that the Emp^r and the King of Spaine have sent plenipotencies to the Car. Infant for that purpose. But His Ma^{ty} hath yet made no answer."

65. R. Weckerlin, Bagshot, the last of August 1637, old style. "Our flete is yet abroad, but upon returning to the Downes there appearing no cause of staying abroad as long as we breake not with Spaine, and our treaty with France goeth very slowly forward. The French still (measuring us at their owne measure) say wee will not breake with Spaine, and so keepe us in doubt as long as they are prosperous against the Spaniards."

66. Windebank, Haines Hill, 8 Septem. 1637, o^r st. "Our treaty wth France is not yet ratified but is referred to be finally determined at the Hagh where the meeting of the Confederates is to be and not at Hamburgh as was first designed."

67. John Finet, London, 15 Sept. 1637.

68. Windebank, Hampton Court, 29 Septem. 1637, o^r st. "The Amb^r of Poland is not admitted to his Ma^{ty} presence His Ma^{ty} houlding himselfe obliged in honor to ressent the unprincely and false dealing of that King in the treaty of the marriage proposed originally by himself and without His Ma^{ty} seeking wth the Princesse His Ma^{ty} neece. . . . France is alreddy becom could in the treaty and delays to sign it, and for the meeting at Hamburgh it is remitted to the Hagh, but God knows when that wilbe."

69. Rob^t Mason, Greenwich, 29 Sep^r 1637. Endorsed "Doctor Masson."

70. Windebank, Hampton Court, 6 October 1637, o^r st. "It is not without greates grounde that the chiefe of that state [Venice] do doubt as yo^r Lp. in yo^r of the 17 of Septem. have observed that o^r treaty

EARL
DENBIGH

"in Holland will com to nothing. They finde their conjunction w^t France of more advantage for the present and their ancient obligations to the Crowne of England are forgotten. We understand they have made an answer to His Ma^y proposition w^{ch} is co'mon and publike in France, but hetherto wee have no notice of it otherwise than by discourse and g'raill reports. Indeed I think it be not worth the sending hether. For the Frenche, their carriage toward us is not much different, and now their affaires prosper and that they have expulset the Spaniards out of Languedoc and Picardy, o' treaty wth them likewise growes colde, and we are becom lesse considerable. And yet they make greater professions of their redinesse to conclude all things and to meete at the Haghe, imputing the backwardnes to us, whereas they having bene pressed to assigne a tyme they make dilatory answers. . . . The Spanish Amb^r heere continues his impertinencies and takes all occasions to make himselfe distastefull to His Ma^y. Not long since he solicited the Venetian Amb^r heere w^t great earnestnesse to go wth him to visit the Amb^r of Poland lately sent hether by that King to invite His Ma. to his marriage. This Polack His M. hath justly refused to admitt to his presence, the K. his master having so grossely abused His M. in the treaty proposed and pursued by himselfe for a marriage between him and the Princesse Palatin His M. niece. Yet the Spa. Amb^r knowing this wold not only have visited him in person, but drawne the Venetian likewise to have countenanced it w^{ch} was don of designe and in a malicious opposition to His Ma^y. But the Venetian refused w^{ch} His Ma^y takes very well."

71. From the same. Westm^r, 27 Octob. 1637, o' st. Upon the newes of the death of the D. of Savoye His Ma^y being resolved to sende an Amb^r extraordinary to Madame as well to condole wth her as to be assistant to her for the settling of her affaires wth are likely to be in greate distraction by reason of the pretensions of the Car. of Savoy, and divers having bene named for that employment I tooke the liberty to putt His M. and my Lo. Mar. in remembrance of yo' Lp. as a person whome I was confident the Queene's Ma^y heere might confide in and who understood the businesse of these partes best of any."

72. From the same. Westm^r, 3 Novem. 1637, o' st. The King has chosen Lord Feilding to be Ambassa^r extraordinary to the Duchess of Savoy. "The noyse of the Lady Newportes rendring her selfe a Roman Catholick is not yet quieted, nor the distast the King and State have taken at it passed over, but it is probable will awaken the state to take som strict course w^t those of that party for the prevention of like scandall for the future."

73. From the same. Westm^r, 17 Novem. 1637, o' st. The writer is sorry to find "matter of new distastes" between Lord Feilding and the Venetian Government, and that "they are so rigid in their wayes as not to distinguish betweene accident and designe but to punish both alike. . . . But y^e Lps. moderation appears the more, and I hope this shalbe the last encounter you shall have w^t a Republique. You know yo' instructions for Turin w^{ch} I have mentioned in som of my later dispatches to yo' Lp. are coming to you by an expresse w^{ch} it is not improbable may be w^t you before these, and they will putt a finish to all these troubles. For y^e Lps. coming away absolutely from Venice it is now clearly resolved by His M."

74. Weckherlin, Whitehall, ^{26 of Novem.} 1638. The Polish Ambassador after trying in vain for two months to induce the King to receive him, set sail on the last of Oct^r, old style, in a Dutch ship from Gravesend towards Holland. "But how hee will be received and used by the Queene of Bohemia and the Princesse her daughter we do not as yet know. I know that he hath letters to them both from his King. As for the States there is no doubt but he will be well received, and indeed he is a very brave, honest, and godly man (a good Protestant), this Ambassage being put upon him (as it seemeth) expressly by the Clergie who knew that his Ma^y had received wrong from that King and them and good reason to resent it."

75. Windebank, Whitehall, 28th Decem. 1637, o' st. Concerning the gentleman of Germany who hath offered his service to His Ma^y b y way of interposition w^t the K. of Hungary and his ministers for the restitution of the Fr. El. Pal. yo' Lp. may please to retourne him those civilities that are fitt for his good affections and intentions to His Ma. and his nephewes.

"But according to that I tooke the liberty to represent to yo' Lp. the last weeke it is too greate a worke for a privat hande, and his Ma^y sees cleerly thorough that businesse and understandes punctually all the impediments and how they lye, so that it wilbe yet lost labor for any to undertake it. I wish yo' Lp. more contentment in the employment you are now entring upon than you have had in the Republique w^{ch} I no way doubt, knowing it much more noble and monarchical than the other and consequently more suitable to yo' disposition and spirit His Ma^y likes yo' Lp's. motion very well of takeing the Duchesse of Mantua in yo' way to Turin, and performing those offices and professions of friendship to her in His Ma^y name and likewise in that of the Queene heer that are fitting. And therefore by His Ma^y comandement yo' Lp. is, to make that visit in yo' passage accordingly."

76. From the same. Westm^r, 19 Jany. 1637-8, o' st. Concerning that w^{ch} was proposed by the Baron de Haussin I have in som of my former P^res delivered my humble opinion w^{ch} was that if his abilities were answerable to his affectons there might be good use made of his intervention. But the businesse is too bigg for a privat hande and besides yo' Lp. hath found out the knot of it that though there were better inclinations in the Emperor than I have cause to think there are, yet his dependancies upon the King of Spaine are so neere that they cannot be separated from the interests of that Crowne and their demandes so waste His Ma^y can neither in honor nor safety condescend into them. In the meane tyme the prosperity of the K. of Hungary his armes against the Suedes is such and the Princes of Germany are so weary of the warres and the Frenche play their game so loosely wth that party that I feare we shall shortly heare of a peace or a cessation of armes in Germany w^t out consideration of the interests of the Pr. Elector Palatine. The Fr. Amb^r heere sayes nothing of o' treaty nor of any other businesse, but o' merchants shippes both English and Scottish in France are still under arrest w^{ch} causes great clamors of those that trade there, and concurre w^t that yo' Lp. adviseth in y^e last P^res to be the ruin of His Ma^y affaires."

77. From the same. Westm^r, 2 Feb. 1637-8, o' st. The embargo of o' merchant shippes in France continues w^{ch} troubles us much, and if reparation be not speedily made, I feare it will have a disastrous issue."

78. From the same. Westm^r, 9 March 1637-8, o' st. "I perceive by yo' last of the ¹² of Febu. yo' Lp. was then upon yo' departure from Venice and I humbly acknowledge yo' favor in communicating to me yo' speeche to the Duke and Colledge and their answer, both w^{ch} were very faire and full of respects on both sides, and I am exceeding glad yo' Lp. is quit of that Republique w^t so much satisfaction. His M. is not yet com from Newmarket but expected heere to-morrow, and then I shall finde som time to acquaint him w^t yo' last P^res and the proposition you make in them concerning the State of Venice."

79. From the same. Westm^r, 15 March 1637-8, o' st. . . . I believe the employment in France may become voyde within som reasonable time perhaps before yo' Lps. at Turin wilbe ended. If yo' Lp. have any inclination to continue in His Ma^y service in forain partes that place being the most eminent and of nearest consideration to His M. of any abroad may not perhaps be disagreeable to y^e Lp. as I am sure yo' monarchical and noble spirit is most fitt for it."

80. John Finet, London, 25 March 1637-8. No progress in the Prince Electors affairs. "As for the designe for Prince Robert his brother to make a plantation in the Isle of St Laurence (otherwise called Madagascar) tyll I heard it the other day seriously debated at the Counsel Table, I profess it appeared to me as a Romance, but when it was there brought to make an earnest of discourse as that the preparation of 4 or 5 shippes with 500 men was to be appointed for that expedition in September next, and that a pinnace should be sett forth this next month for discovery of these best places of landing and fortifying, I awhile believed it might be possible but now agayne give over that believe as the world dothe theye farther talk of it."

81. John Coke, Whitehall, 30 March 1638. "By your last letters from Venice I conceive that you are now at Turin and therefore I have addressed this despatch thether, with a speciall recommendation of the person of Marco Antonio Philippo, a Venetian who was in England converted to our religion, and going from

EARL OF DUNDIE.

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"hence by Geneva to habituate himself in Piemont was there discovered by the inquisitors and sent prisoner to Turin, where hee now remaineth for no other crime being an innocent and vertuous man as by the inclosed abstract of a letter from Geneva you will particularly understand. You shall doe much honor to his Ma^{ty} and yourself in procuring from the Regent the delivery of this convert. Bee pleased therefore to solicit it to effect and God will requite you for it."

82. Geo. Diodati, Geneva, 12 April 1638. On the same subject and to the same effect as the preceding.

83. Windebank, Westminster, 17 May 1638, o^r st. Lord Feilding's carriage towards the French, and his propositions made to the Duchesse of Savoy, concerning neutrality have been ill taken, especially by the French, and aggravated by others as great disservice to the King. But the King has been appeased, "and you are to tell the Duchesse of Savoy that what [you] formerly delivered concerning the neutrality was but a private advise of y^e owne without commission from the King." Lord Feilding is to return to Venice. "My most noble Lord the Lo. Marquis is in greate affliction for the losse of his lady y^e sister, and yet he is now upon an employment into Scotland, and redy to depart thether to pacify those troubles there in w^{ch} I beseeche God prosper him, it being a businesse highly concerning both these crownes and the good of both nations."

84. Tho. Raymond, Westminster, 18 May, st^d Angl^e, 1638. 85. Leycester, Paris, 1st May 1638. "I conceive your Lo. gives very good counsell to Madame when you dissuade her from engaging herself absolutely wth the French who are not very happy in theyre enterprizes beyond the Alpes, and she may incur the danger of a powerfull enemy, who useth not to forget them from whom he receiveth discourtesy or damage, but if the King our master thinke fit to make one, I beleve the French will have the better of the match, and they that have a minde into it may wth safety enough bett on theyr side."

86. Windebank, Greenwich, 7th June, o^r st^d, 1638. Their M. M., upon a message delivered to them by the Resident of Savoy heere from the Duchesse, a little before the arrivall of your Secretary, that she was now in a better understanding wth y^e Lo., and desired you should continue there are very well satisfied wth y^e Lo., especially the Queene, who told me expressly she was of opinion that matters were aggravated and misunderstood by the Duchesse and her ministers, and that she was confident of your Lo.'s good affections to her sister and her affaires. . . . For the title of Altezza Reale I spake wth His M. concerning the modification y^e Lo. had sett downe in Italian. But His Ma^{ty} will not depart from his former resolution, that as he will not give it before the Fr. King, her own brother, nor be the first, so he will not be the last that shall concur in doing her that honor."

87. John Coke, London, 7 June 1638. The King desires Lord Feilding to continue at Turin.

88. John Reeves, Greenwich, the 1st of June 1638. Two dayes since my Lord Bayning dyed and hath left behinde him a rich and handsome lady. For other particulars of that nature I shall have something to say unto your Lords^{ps} at my returne."

89. Sir Gilb. Talbot, Venice, 26 June 1638. The writer informs Lord Feilding that the Spanish Ambassador has protested before the Senate that the King of Spain has not entered upon these wars in Piedmont to possess himself of any town or territory belonging to the Duchesse of Savoy, but only to enforce the French to make restitution of Casale and Trino, and to abandon their footing on this side the mountains, which so much annoys and holds in perpetual jealousies and fears the Princes of Italy. The French Ambassador has on his part raised the fears of the Republic, lest the ambition and perfidy of the Spaniard should lead him to a surprisal of Mantua as well as Vercelli. Order has been given to the Resident at Milan to repair to the army and give extraordinary notice twice a week of what is taking place, in addition to his usual despatch by the courier.

90. Windebank, Westminster, 12 July, o^r st^d, 1638. "The other adjoynded discourse [sent by Lord Feilding] of the reliefe of Vercelli by the Frenche, was very particular and of greate consideration, the action itself having bene managed wth as greate prudence and courage as I have observed any in these later times. Nevertheless, if that be true w^{ch} is now lately advertised from France, the pursuit of that seige hath not bene answerable to these greate beginnings; but the "Spaniard is becom master of it, w^{ch} together wth the greate blow the Hollanders lately received neere Antwerpe, and the French since in deserting the siege of St Omers, are mighty additions to the affaires of Spaine, and I feare on the other side no lesse diminutions to o^r businesse of the Palatinat. . . . The Lo. Marquis Hamilton is expected heere every day wth som propositions from Scotlande w^{ch} tende to our accomodation. He hath don His Ma^{ty} very greate services in that businesse."

91. Sir Gilb. Talbot, Venice, 18 Sept. 1638. "The French Amba^s was in the collidge on Saturday last wth a letter from the Christian King to this Republicke, wherein he was instant with them to declare themselves against the Spaniards, putting them in mind of the good offices which he had done for them in binding the progress of the Aust^rian forces in Piedmont, who if they should proceed farther and take in Casale it would much endanger the quiet and security of all the Princes of Italie. After this he demanded ¹⁰⁰ crownes for the present use of the King wth promise that it should be restored wth in six months. I presume the first demand was only to facilitate the grant of the second since the Republicke hath stood most firme and constant in theyre resolution to continue neutrall. What is determined of in these particulars I cannot yet learne, but it hath bin concluded very convenient (in theyre consultations) that the Repub. raise men to secure themselves, that they may not be forced to rely at any time upon the mercy and discretion of the conqueror."

92. Percy Church, London, Oct. 3, 1638. "The Queene mother is howery expected. My Lord Admirall, my Lord Goring, and the Controller, beeing allearede gone to Dover to expect the landing, and the King and Queene intend to meet her at Rochester."

93. John Reeve, London, Nov. 1, st^d vet., 1638. Upon Monday last the King waited on by the lords and the rest of his court went from hence to Chensford (Chelmsford) and next day to Monsum (Marlsham) to Sir Henry Milema's (Mildmay's) where the Queene mother had been lodgd the night before. Shee mett him belowe stayes in the Hall neere the screene ledde by my Lord Goring, where after that the King had bowd towards the hemme of her garment then rising towards her hand hee kissed her, who held him a great while upon her necke without speaking to him. At last shee told him that had not they told her that hee had been the King shee should have knowne him, the picture shee had of him was so like him. The King answered her that notwithstanding her many afflictions, which might much impair her health, shee lookd better than any of those pictures had been made for her these many yeares. She replyde that all those afflictions were nothing, nowe since she had the happiness to see him. Shee then asked him to goe up to her chamber, but hee answered that hee was come to waite of her to her lodging and that therefore, if shee was ready, shee might take coach, which shee then did, and so the King brought her that night to Giddy Hall (Geddes Hall), and retired himself that night to Chensford. The next day being Weddensday hee went againe to her to bring her to London, his rich coach being there ready into which entered first the Queene mother and placd her selfe at the end of the coach next the horses. The King satt in the boote, the Duke of Lenox in the other boote with his hatt off, and 2 French ladies at the other end of the coach whose names I cannot tell. Then waited on His Ma^{ty} all the Lords with the officers and gentlemen of the Court, the pensioners and guard, all the messengers and trumpeters. At Algate my Lord Mayor mett her, and the Recorder in his and the cities name made a speech to her, and as I heare, she was then presented with a cuppe of gold (or guilt over) full of gold. Then was placd from Whitechappell to St Jameses men in armes to the number of ^m₁₇ all standing on one side, whilst on y^e other, betwixt Algate and Temple barre, were placd all the companies of the city. At St Jameses in the yard the Queen, the Prince, and the rest of the King's children mett her, to whom as soone as she was out of the coache the Queen, humbled her selfe to the grownd, but before shee was yet upon her knees the Queene mother tooke her in her armes and kissed her often, in which action her hood fell off which

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"shee taking upp returned again to kiss her daughter who could not speake for very joy, her colour goeing and comming very often. So after she had many times saluted the Prince and Princesse and the rest of the children they went upp to her lodgings where the Queene by the action of her hands seemd to make great expressions to her mother of joy for her arrivall. Shee received our great ladyes who came to kisse her garment with great reservednesse, as the Queene had foresayd that shee knewe shee would, and after that the King and Queene had staid an houre with her they returned to Whitehall, leaving her with her owne company at S^t Jameses, which are reckond to bee in all about 300, all of them in very great wants. This morning the Queene sent very early to invite her, and what allowance shee hath from y^e King I cannot heare as yet . . . Sir John North and Sir Henry Knollys are dead and Sir William Cornwallis possesses y^e former place, for whose death the King is very sorry in that hee wants a good chesse player to keepe him company at y^e sport."

94. Windebank, at the Court at Whitehall, 8 Novem. 1638, o^r s^t.

Vol. II.

1, 2, 3. From Sir Gilbert Talbot to Lord Feilding, dated respectively Venice, April 28, May 6 and May 20, 1639.

4. From the same. Venice, 10 June 1639. "It is reported that this state hath determined to give entertainment to $\frac{m}{10}$ men, whom it is probable they will bestowe in their garrison townes upon the frontiers of Millan, both to secure themselves fro' the Spaniard on that side, and also to have their men in readines ag^t the Turke. . . . We heare out of Piedmont that the Spaniards are sate downe before S^t [illegible]. Some men have reported the place surrendered, but the Spanish Ambas^r, sayth the Marquis de Legane, was forced to quit his approaches for want of water, and that still the towne is besieged, but at a distance. The Governor of Nizza is expected to favor the Prince Card., as tutor of y^e younge Duke, betwixt whom and his brother Prince Tomaso there are some jealousies, as also betwixt Pr. Tom. and the Marquis de Leganey, the Prince advising him to proceed to the total conquest of Piedmont, and the Marquis inclining rather to the chasing of the French out of Casale."

5. Sir Gibb. Talbot, Venice, 17 June 1639.

6. Audly Fulwood Venice, 24 June 1639.

7. Sir G. Talbot, Venice, July 1, 1639. "It is true that theire [the Venetian Republic's] bailiff hath hitherto bin very profuse in his presents to the Grand Sign^r officers, and although that be to beget both a chargeable and slavish custome, yet y^e present exigency hath made his prodigality passe for good policy; w^{ch} confirmeth me in the opinion that they will purchase their peace at any rate that may be payd under hand, and will not stand upon their justification unless the Turke enforce them by some extravagant demand of satisfaction, such as may be the island of Candia or the like."

8, 9. From the same. Dated Venice, 22 July and 26 August 1639.

10. From the same, Venice, 9 September 1639. "I have understood by particular lett^r from Zara (of y^e 28th of August) that y^e Repub. hath commanded theyre proveditor to desist from fortifying in those partes, but y^e same freind adviseth me that the commerce (though restored) was not then begunne betwixt y^e subjects of y^e Turke and Venetians, notwithstanding that the termes of peace are soe assured that the state hath discharged theyre townes, corporations, and convents of religions, from those contributions whereunto they voluntarily offered themselves during the warre. The Spanish Ambas^r went on Teusday last to the Coll[eg]e to present a P^re written by y^e Kinge his Maister to this Senate, wherein he maketh greate offers of assistance ag^t y^e Turke, and in particular promiset them 40 galleys; the unseasonableness of y^e compliment makes the Repub. interpret and receive it coldly."

11. Without signature, but in the same handwriting, Venice, 7 October 1639. ". . . The Spaniards have at length removed their quarters farther from Casale to give satisfaction to y^e Dutchess of Mantova. I doe not heare y^t there is any further speech of y^e prolongation of y^e truce betwixt y^e French and Spaniards in Piedmont, y^e preparations w^{ch} these make rather argue y^e contrary. The comming of y^e French K^s to Grenoble (where his sister, of Savoy, had order to meete him the 4th of this moneth) maketh men conjecture, y^t he will perswade her to compose matters. In y^e meane tyme y^e townes w^{ch} she holdeth will be put into y^e hands of the french, y^t in a treaty of a general peace they may equalize the restitution of Vercelli and other places possessed by the Spaniards, who other wise might pretend to the giving backe of Loraine upon that exchange."

12, 13. From the same. Nice 7 Oct. and 25 Nov. 1639.

14. Sir Arthur Hopton, Madrid, 12 Feb. 1639-40. S^o N^o. "Although by the negotiation of the Nuncio and of the Venetian Amb^r, there hath bene some speache of late of a disposition to peace, the like being sayde to bee in France by the negotiation of the Cardinal Biche, yet the most likeliest is an active warre for w^{ch} there are greate preparations, such as farre exceede those of the former yeares . . . Though they [the Spanish Court] seeme to be irreconcilable wth France, yet they would hearken to the propositions of the Pope and the Venetians, but that they are soe entangled by some promise made to the Duke of Loraine, from w^{ch} they can finde noe dispensation, for certainly they are weary of the warre, and wth much reason, for neither did they prove soe stronge, nor the Frenche soe weak as they supposed before the warre."

15. Sir Gibb. Talbot, Venice, 30 March 1640.

16. From the same. Venice, 6 April 1640. The Republic discontented at Lord Feilding's prolonged absence from Venice.

17. From the same. Venice, 20 April 1640.

18. From the same. Venice, 11 May 1640. ". . . Sig^r Gio. Piero (the convert) was wth me this weeke to desire a favour as from himselfe, but told me in confidence that it was the request of the Repub. The business was that the D. de Parma was expected dayly at Chiozza, and the Repub. employed him to borrow some fayre silver plate to entertaine him, whereupon he desired y^e Lps. I answered him that y^e Lp. had locked up most of y^e plate at y^e departure, and that howsoever it would not stand wth the reputation of the Repub., or y^e Lp. that y^e armes should be seene there, but that it would be thought that the Repub. had borrowed or that you had sold."

19, 20, 21. From the same. Venice, May 18, June 8 and June 22, 1640. [In these and in many of Talbot's letters to Lord Feilding, reference is made to the pecuniary embarrassments of the English embassy at Venice, through the failure of remittances by the Government. To meet the necessities of the embassy, money had to be raised on Lord Feilding's valuables. The writer also speaks repeatedly of the impatience of the Republic at Lord Feilding's prolonged absence.]

22. From the same. Venice, 20 July 1640. Narrative of an unsuccessful attempt on the 8th to prevent the French from receiving supplies from Pignarola. "This unexpected success of the French armes will probably put delays to the treaty betwixt the Pope and Venetians, as formerly that of Casale had done. The Pope wanteth noe instigation against the Spaniards for the conspiracies ag^t his life are verified by confession, wherein it appeareth there have bin treaties held with the V. Roy, of Naples, the G. Duke of Florence and the Spanish Ambas^r at Rome for the price of this villanie. The Pope's spectacle-maker is also imprisoned upon suspicion of a designe of poyson."

23. John Hobson, Venice, 24 Aug. 1640, in defence of his conduct for having a seal engraved with the King's arms on the order of Mr. Henry Hyde, consul for the Turkey Company in the Morea.

24. Sir Gibb. Talbot, Venice, 14 Sept. 1640.

25. From the same. Venice, 21 Sept. 1640. ". . . I have filled the Towne wth the relation of y^e Lps. good fortune in the rescue of the Venetian Ambas^r. It is wonderfully well taken by all men and indeede it was not proper for any man but yo^r selfe. I am confident it will endear this state very much to you if you returne."

26, 27. From the same. Venice, 12 Oct. and 23 Nov. 1640.

28. From the same. Venice, 10 Dec. 1640, respecting the conduct of the master of an English merchant ship, who had detained from his crew more month's wages than was ordinarily permitted for securing their services on board ship. The writer urges on Lord Feilding, who was at this time in England, "that some order may be established for the prevention of the like disorders amongst the maisters and theyre men w^{ch} are of dangerous consequence, as by this one presid^t (precedent) will appeare. Here is in this port one Mr. Phillips, Cap^t of the ship Reformation, lately come from Spaine, where by his tyrannical usage of his

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"men and refusal to give them theyre due pay, 16 of them forsooke him at once and are all turned Catholiques, soe that besides the loss of soe many soules his Ma^{ties} looseth so many subjects, w^{ch} are missed when there is any occasion of setting a flete to sea, and in the meane time these men enter into other Princes pay who when they have occasion want not guides to bring them into any of our owne portes. . . . all w^{ch} might easily be avoided if it were enacted in the Admirall Court that noe maister should take any mariner aboard wth out indenting the conditions betwixt them in writing under such a penaltie, w^{ch} would not be of prejudice to either, and I am sure it would prevent the inconveniences already mentioned, and save his Ma^{ties} ministers abroad the trouble of compounding theyre disorders, and where none are it will prevent the expenses of the law w^{ch} oftentimes amounteth to what they please for."

29, 30, 31. From the same. Venice, 14 Dec., 21 Dec. 1640, and 6 January 1640-1.

32. From the same. Venice, 27 January 1640-1. "The Prince of Sans (whom I have formerly mentioned to have bin carried out of Rome by y^e bandits) was on y^e 13th of this month arraigned and condemned. In his confession he discovered y^e treatie w^{ch} had passed betwixt him and y^e French Minister in Rome for y^e betraying of y^e Castle of St Elmo w^{ch} overlooketh and commandeth both y^e city and other castles of Naples) into y^e hands of y^e French, and giving them any faculty of landing at Somminto (a territory of his) where after his execution were found many lett^{rs} w^{ch} confirmed y^e same treaty at large and discovered y^e reward of this conspiracy to have bin y^e cities of Bari, Barletta, Capoa, y^e principality of Salerno and Sticigliano y^e office of high Admirall and corrier Magg^r and wth in 8 years after y^e French should have bin in quiet possession, he should have had y^e patent of y^e vice-regency for 6 yeares w^{ch} was already put into writing, but y^e French Ambas^s (upon y^e report of his death), burnt it wth ye rest of y^e capitulations betwixt them. This discovery caused y^e V. Roy to send suddaine ower to y^e Prince of Ascoli to review ye fortifications of Gaeta and other places adjoining y^e danger not ending wth ye Prince of Sans his death, because he feared many others to be of y^e conspiracy, as y^e Abbat de Angelis had also done, being executed for y^e same fact."

33. From the same. Venice, 5 Feb. 1640-1. Terms offered by the Princes of Savoy for reconciliation with the Duchess and by her rejected.

34, 35. From the same. Venice, Feb. 17, and March 2, 1640-1.

36. A document without signature, partly in the same handwriting as Talbot's letter, containing the gist of letters written apparently from London by "Mr. D'Aller" and addressed to Prince Thomas of Savoy in May 1640. The following are some of the passages:—"That the Queenes partie is great and dayly increaseth."

"That Mr. Jerman wholly possesseth her Ma^{ties} mynde whoe is most intricate wth the Cardinal de Richelieu."

"That the King armes more for feare of the Parliament then for anything else."

"That the Lo. Feilding tolde him hee should take heed how he communicated wth Secretary Windesbanke who was of late gayned by the Queen, and that hee should not trust Mr. Moreton."

"That the King payed none of his servants nor others when hee bought."

"That there was noe Councill nor good order in affaires in the Court of England."

"That the King made noe esteeme of P. Thomas but as he was for Spayne."

"That from the Lo. Feilding hee had good advertisement at his first coming to that court, but that, sd. Lord seeking likewise to insinuate himselfe in the Queenes favour, [he] hath not from him that free proceeding as he had at first."

"That Lord Feilding is not in the good opinion of the Queen (and although his mother be neare her Ma^{ties} yet heatherto she hath not had the credit to bring her some in favour, but in the end it is likely hee will be gotten to doe what the Queen pleaseth."

"That the Queenes partie is very strong, and although the King should take a resolution to declare warr against France for the just resentments hee maye have for the wrongs received from the French King yet the Queenes power is such that if she condiscenda not to it, it is of force such as to annulate all his Ma^{ties} designs."

"That the King is of nature such soe inclyned to peace and soe given to ease drowynesse and sloathfulness that for what wrong soever hee may receive from France and Holland yet his Ma^{ties} is not like to take any notice thereof in manner to seeke revenge."

"That the Venetian Amb^s solliciteth against these P.P. [Princes of Savoy] alleaging his Republike would not accept of theire Amb^s."

"That if P. Thomas had sent into England a subject of the Dukes hee would not have bene lookt on at Court, but hee [the writer] as a Frenchman and insinuating himself in all places by extraordinary meanes hath that outward countenance shewed him that another should not have."

37. Sir Gibb. Talbot, Venice, 3 May 1641. "The French King hath intimated to the Pope by the means of Cardinal Bichi that he prefer not to the benefice of Catalogna any subjects w^{ch} shall be nominated by the Kg. of Spaine, but that he expect the future presentations from him as the rightful Lord of that countie."

38, 39. From the same. Venice, May 10 and 17, 1641.

40. From the same. Venice, June 11, 1641.

"Sir Sackvill Crow sendeth me word that there are 4 Sicilians arrived at Constantinople in Turkish disguise w^{ch} offer to deliver up that country to the Turke, and when the Grand Sig^r shall send an army sufficient for this enterprize they promise as much also for Calabria and Naples."

41. From the same. Venice, June 28, 1641.

42. John Hobson, Venice, June 28, 1641.

43. Sir Gibb. Talbot, Venice, 5 July 1641. "The Ven[etian] Amb^s in England wrote to the Senate the last weeke that the Parliam^t has set a guard upon his Ma^{ties} that he should not stirre out of London. My L^d it is a pity to heare how his Ma^{ties} honour is torne by every month, those that most favour him compare him to a Duke of Venice. I could wish the Parliam^t were rightly informed hereof if it might happily worke any good."

43. From the same. Venice, 26 July 1641.

44. From the same. Venice, 2 Aug. 1641. "The Venetian Ambas^s hath written hither this weeke that England was an absolute republike, that both theyre Ma^{ties} had guardes set upon theyre persons and much more to this purpose. This letter came in 16 days (and was read on Tuesday's night in Pregadi) and therefore I believe he sent an extraordinary post wth it."

45-51. From the same, on dates between Aug. 16, 1641 and Nov^r 8, 1641, Venice.

52. From the same. Venice, Nov. 15, 1641, complaining of the insubordination of Lord Feilding's servants at the Embassy, and especially of "Dick Middleton," whose "boldness is begott by some letters w^{ch} he receiveth out of England, as himself professeth, for he threateneth, upon the receipt of them that our Gov^r [the King's] will not last long, and that he shall, it may be, be in office ere long, and much to this purpose, w^{ch} maketh me thinke I am growne to a very low competition."

53, 54. From the same. Venice, 22 and 29 Nov. 1641.

55. From the same. Venice, 5 Dec. 1641. The writer sends Lord Feilding a list of the servants of his household, stating those who might be dispensed with, in order to reduce the expenses of the Embassy.

56, 57. From the same, Venice, 20 Dec^r 1641 and Jan. 1641-2.

58. From the same. Venice, 10 Jan. 1641-2. "I may not omit to let y^r lp. know of an advise w^{ch} the Venetian Ambas^s hath given to the Senate that y^r lp. was fallen into the Kg's disfavour, w^{ch} I hope will prove as false as many of his other reports."

59-62. From the same. Venice, 11 Jan. 1641-2, Feb. 1, 15, and 22, 1641-2.

62. Lord Feilding to Talbot, London, Feb. 25, 1641-2. After expressing his hope to return to Venice, notwithstanding that his successor as Ambassador had been nominated, Lord Feilding adds in a postscript, "Whatsoever the Venetian Embass. may have advertized the King did ever most grat^{ly} assure me of his intention to send me back to Venice."

64-65. From Talbot, Venice, 22 March 1641-2, and 4 April 1642.

66. From the same. Venice, 18 April 1642. "Having in the printed declaration (presented by a Committee to his Ma^{ties}), found that many of the jealousies of the Parliam^t are grounded upon advertisement" written from Rome, Venice, &c., and fearing that his Ma^{ties} might conceive that these discourses have proceeded from

EARL OF
DENBIGH.

"me, I have thought fitt to clear myself to S^r Edw. Nicolas and wth all destroy as much as in me lyeth the credit of those informations w^{ch} accused the Kg. to have had a designe to alter religion and breake the necke of the Parlam^t (as the wordes are) by letting y^e Lp. know that I have had many co'mands from S^r Edw. Nicolas by his Ma^{ties} order to be very watchfull in the discovery of the designses of the Catholiques in these partes, either to send any supplies into Ireland or attempt anything ayt. England in these times of distraction, w^{ch} if well insinuated in the Parlam^t would remove those feares and apprehensions of his Ma^{ties} ill intentions towards them w^{ch} I know not what malicious penne have bred in them; I am sure whosoever hath bin the author of such an advice could not have it but from his owne phansy or from the discourse of some triviall persons heer, since there is not any of braine or judgem^t but know the contrary, and what I wrote to y^e Lp. the last weeke will sufficiently shew the care that his Ma^{ties} hath had to prevent the designs of Rome, had not any intelligence that he or any of his ministers have held wth it to subvert the received lawes or professed religion of the Church of England or countenance or support the rebells of Ireland."

67, 68. From the same. Venice, 9 and 16 May 1642.
69. From the same. Venice, 23 May 1642. "I am infinitely overcome wth y^e Lps. expressions of favour to me in y^e letter of the 22th of Aprill, and noe less dejected wth his Ma^{ties} message intimated to y^e Lp. by Sir Edw. Nicolas, yet not in any reflection upon my owne interest, for it is an equall satisfaction to me to have y^e Lps. favour in the frownes of fortune as when she most smiled upon you; although I could wish that the times were such as would permit y^e Lps. meritts to be more equally looked upon. But I must beg the freedome to deliver myself thus farre that although y^e Lps. advancement be more considerable to me than anything that can concerne my owne private condition, I should be sory to see it have any other foundation then his Ma^{ties} favour or (at least) be carryed in opposition to his pleasure: for to my apprehension the demonstration w^{ch} some have made in the behalfe of my L^{ds} of Essex and Holland may cary some colour wth it, because theyre charges are domestique; but it soundeth strange here that any should intermeddle wth matters of this quality when there is a Ma^{ties} acknowledged, and indeed I am sory it is y^e Lps. misfortune to give the first occasion of such a president, and therefore I shall humbly desire y^e Lp. to pardon me if (to conserve the reputation of my family upon w^{ch} never any history was yet able to lay the least spott or taint of disloyaltie), I make instance to y^e Lp. to procure my recall from this employment, w^{ch} can bring noe honour nor content to me if matters are thus carryed."

70. From the same. Venice, May 30, 1642.

71. From the same. Venice, 6 June 1642. Pecuniary embarrassments of the Embassy. "Soe desperate are our hopes (as not having lately received any promise or appearance of supplies) that I must discharge myself thus (although ag^tst my nature) to justify the dissolution of y^e family and retiring myself into some private and cheape lodging w^{ch} will, I feare, be the subject of my next lett^r, for since y^e Lps. discharge from this employ^{mt} we are so farre from finding new credit^t that we are dayly torne in pieces wth the importunity of the old, insomuch that our povertie is become the common discourse, and I cannot for shame shew myself in the towne."

72. From the same. Venice, June 13, 1642. On the same subject. "I am ashamed to acquaint y^e Lp. wth the wayes that I am forced to use to provide a dinner."

73, 74. From the same. Venice, July 1 and 18, 1642.

75. From the same. Venice, Aug. 29, 1642. Movements of the Italian princes.

76. From the same. Venice, 28 Nov. 1642. "I have this weeke received y^e Lps. of the 5 of 8^{bre} dated from Worcester. . . . The same ordinary hath likewise brought me the happy success of His Ma^{ties} armes, in Warwickshire w^{ch} as it is the chief subject of my prayers (and I doubt not but they will be heard) soe I must needs confess the joy w^{ch} I have conceived from it hath bin somewhat interrupted by a printed gazette sent from Holland wherein y^e Lp. is reported to be staine in that encounter."

77-80. From the same. Venice, 26 Dec. 1642; 3, 17, 30 Jan. 1642-3.

81. From the same. Venice, 14 Feb. 1642-3. "We have newes of y^e Lps. success^r for Venice, but if it be

"soe I hope it is a better employ^{mt} maketh you forsake this."

82. From the same. Venice, 28 Feb. 1642-3.

83. From the same. Venice, 14 March 1642-3. "The Venetian Abas in England writeth to all his friends here that his Ma^{ties} is noe longer K[in]g."

84. From the same. Venice, 9 Jan. 1643-4, pressing for money. "For my owne part I shall be enforced (if present order be not taken) to quitt the service and betake myself to some army for 4s. a weeke."

85-99. Letters from Sir Gilbert Talbot and John Hobson to Lord Feilding (at this time Lord Denbigh), principally about money matters, with replies. These papers bear date between the 26th of Jan. 1643-4 and the 29th of Oct. 1655.

100. A document entitled "An accompt of the arrears due to the Earle of Denbigh as well upon his embassy into Italie as upon his pension of one thousand markes per annum granted to him by the late King." The amount due is stated at 13,157l. 6s. 8d.

101. A list of Lord Denbigh's debts at Venice.

102. A list of manors and lands sold by Lord Denbigh's family chiefly to pay the funeral debts of King James, for which they had no return.

R. B. KNOWLES.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD
LECONFIELD, at PETWORTH HOUSE, CO. SUSSEX.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

Many of the manuscripts were the property of Henry, ninth Earl of Northumberland, a nobleman of ability, who was employed in foreign service by Queen Elizabeth; but falling under suspicion of having been privy to the powder plot, was kept prisoner in the Tower for many years by King James the First. In the Tower he had the company of Raleigh, and of the astronomer and mathematician Harriot (a large bundle of whose calculations is noticed below). The Earl was a judicious purchaser of printed books as well as of MSS., as may be seen by the volumes once his, now at Petworth. Some of the manuscripts were the property of, and accumulated during the official career of, Algernon, tenth Earl, who was Lord High Admiral. The official papers of the last century are derived from the Earl of Egremont, who held office in the early part of the reign of King George Third. The separate volumes (which I have numbered) are more than 140, and these, as well as the other MSS., I have described briefly, except in a few instances (notably No. 9), where the contents seemed to justify more detail.

There is an early copy of the Wicliffe translation of the Bible; a beautiful 15th century copy of a translation into English of the Pilgrimage of the Soul by Guillaume de Deguileville; a service book containing a versified Life of St. Margaret, in English; an early translation into English of Vegetius de re Militari. The 15th century copy of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" is now in course of publication for the Chaucer Society. A copy of the Modus tenendi Parliamentum contains some good readings; and the volume which contains it has a long Latin poem on the Exchequer, English cookery recipes, an English poem on hawking, and a long prose treatise on hunting. The Register of Ely Priory (No. 9) is a very important volume, and as no register of that house is mentioned by Dugdale or by Tanner, I have given an abstract of every document in the volume.* Some of the entries may here be noticed, such as the loan in 1277 by the priory of three volumes out of their library to the borrower for his life; grants of corrodies, and complaints when the King tried to "pluralise in that matter," and the particulars of the meat and drink to be supplied to the grantee; how Master Adam of St. Alban's had, when he was at Ely, a corrody on the terms of his doing all the surgery required in the Priory; a notice of the tenure of some houses in Holborn which a former Bishop of Ely had given to St. Ethelreda and the Bishops of Ely, the property being held of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, and being burdened with certain annual payments, one being to St. Bartholomew's Hospital;—Some of the consequences at Cambridge of the ravages of the plague in the middle of the 14th century.—A curious letter in French, telling how, when Edward Third required to borrow the church plate, the Priory offered certain things to save the rest. The last item in the volume is a permission in 1 Hen. 5. for a naif to take holy orders.

* Vol. xxxviii. of Thomas Baker's MS. collections seems to contain extracts from this register. See the catalogue at the end of the Memoirs of Baker, 8vo, Cambridge, 1784.

LORD
LIXON-
FIELD.

LORD
LIXON-
FIELD.

There are early copies of statutes and of law treatises. Among the treatises on nobility is an unpublished work by Francis Thynne, on the dignity of knighthood; he calls it the Plea between the Advocate and Ant' Advocate (a copy in Mus. Brit., MS. Add. 12,530). A large 14th century volume contains copies of treaties between Edward III. and other powers, most of which, I suppose, will be found in Rymer's Fœdera. There is a 15th century copy of the Black Book of the Admiralty, with some of the other documents printed in the Munimenta Juridica (Rolls Series).—An English translation of the sea laws of Philip II. of Spain.—Treatises on the Duties of the Admiral and many other works on Naval matters, temp. Elizabeth, James I., and Charles I., including a description of Milford Haven in 1595 by Geo. Owen of Kemes.—A collection in six volumes of the Naval Treatises of Sir William Monson.—A copy of Harpsfeld's work on the marriages and divorces of Henry VIII.—Sir Robert Cecil's account of his negotiation with France in 1597; account of the Earl of Essex's voyage to the Azores in 1597; volumes on Berwick and the Marches; volumes on Ireland, temp. Elizabeth and James I.; copies of speeches and proceedings in Parliament, temp. Charles I.—Copy of what was printed in 1672 as Sir Francis Vere's Commentaries;—a translation of Polybius by Sir Edward Vere;—Sir Anthony Weldon's book, called A Cat may Look at a King. There are treatises on Virginia; a journal by Sir George Carteret of his voyage to Barbary and back in 1628. A copy (with the autograph signature of the King) of the ratification of the articles of peace between John King of Portugal and Oliver Cromwell in 1656, and of certain documents which preceded. Several volumes on astrology, alchemy, and the philosopher's stone. Nos. 106 and 110, contain several works by Grostete, Bishop of Lincoln. A large collection of papers on commercial and political subjects, temp. Eliz. and Jac. I., is in No. 115. One volume contains a translation into English of Bernard Palissy's Dialogue on Waters and Fountains: and another volume is full of copies of proclamations and council letters (1583–1627) relating to the county of Sussex.

Among the letters are a number from the Earl of Anglesey to the Earl of Orrery, 1661–1677, containing information as to proceedings here on Irish affairs. These letters are original. From a letter by Lord Anglesey to the Countess of Orrery, it seems that each of the Earls was engaged on a History of England.

There are many news letters and letters of advice from abroad of the 17th and beginning of the 18th centuries; probably all of them were sent to the Duke of Somerset, to whom are addressed letters from the Envoys Blackwell and Stanyan. There are several volumes of copies of official papers about the North American colonies and West India islands.—Letters from the Earl of Bristol at Turin to ministers at home, 1756–1759.—Political notes by Lord Egremont in 1761.—Large correspondence with Pitt in 1762 on the subject of peace, and with the French and Sardinian ministers in the following years,—and large correspondence with the Duke of Bedford as plenipotentiary, Lord Egremont being in office here.

1. c. 1400. A folio of 90 leaves of vellum + 7 of table of rules, &c., in double columns. Wicliffe translation of the New Testament: the first leaf is gone. Begins, “3e see in the coostes of Sabulon and Neptalyum.”—In the middle of the column cap. 5 begins, “And Jhu seynge ye people went up in to an hil.”

Prologue on Maare ($\frac{3}{4}$ a column).—Begins, Mark ye gospelsman was ye chosen servant of God. Ends, whiche pinges it behoveth to be soughte first in us.

Prologue of Luke.—Begins Luk was a man of Sirie by nacione and of Antiochie. ($\frac{3}{4}$ a column.)

Prologue of John ($\frac{3}{4}$ a column).—Begins, This is Jon Evangelist con of he disciples of re Lord.

Prologue to Romans.—Begins, Romayns ben in ye cuntry of Italie.

Then follow the first and second Epistles to the Corinthians, the Epistles to the Ephesians, to the Philippians, to the Colossians, Thessalonians, the first and second Epistle to Timothy, the Epistles to Titus, to Philemon, and to the Hebrews.—The Acts of the Apostles, the Epistle of St. James and the two Epistles of St. Peter, and the three epistles of St. John. The passage about the witnesses is: “For þre ben than zyven” witnessing in hevene þe fader þe word or sone and “þe holy gost, and þese þre ben con; and re ben þat” zyven witnessings in erþe, þe spirit water and blood “and þese þre ben con.”—The Epistle of Saint Jude, and the Apocalipse.—At the end of the Apocalipse are short 'prologues to the first and second Epistles to the Corinthians, and to the Galatians, and another prologue of more than half a column; another hort one, and another of half a column.—Prologues also to the Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, to the first and second of Thessalonians, to the first and second of Timothy, also to the Epistles to Titus, Philemon, and Ebrews, and to the Acts of the Apostles.—A short notice of the order of the seven Epistles, and noticing the error of some translators into Latin, who omitted the three heavenly witnesses.—Prologue to the Apocalipse of nearly two columns. At p. 91, Rule that tellet in which chapters of the Bible ye moun fynde þe lessons, epistles and gospels yat been rad bi þe year in hooly church. (The text of this volume seems to agree with the edition by Baber, 4to., 1810.)

2. Folio, vellum.—On the first flyleaf (15th century) Liber domini Thome Comorworth militis.—On the 3rd flyleaf, in Latin, “This book belongs to the Nunnery of “the Nuns of Charrycke:”” the writer adds the greater excommunication on alienation sale or theft.—Here beginneth the boke called Grace Deu, giffin unto the Monastery of Charrick (Marrik?), by Dame Agnes Ratcliffe, on whose sowle Jhesu have mercy. Amen.—Per me, Isabell Lumley.

1. Calendar of the booke (showing the chapters).

4. Picture of a man in bed (his dream).

As I lay on a Seint Laurence nyght slepyng in bed me befel a ful mervayous dreame.

The volume contains numerous! beautiful coloured pictures on a gilt ground.

The volume contains five books, the first of which has 36 chapters; the second, 28; the third, 11; the fourth, 40; and the fifth, 27 chapters. It ends, Here endeth the dreame of the pilgrimage of the soule translated out of Frensch into English, the zere of oure Lorde M^{CCCC}XIII., followed by “Verba Translatoris,” of nearly a page.

(Note by Mr. Furnivall.—This MS. is a copy made about 1430–60, of the translation made in 1413 of the Grace Dieu or pelerinage de l'ame (Humaine), by Guillaume de Guileville. It is the second of his three pilgrimages, whereof the first, the Pilgrimage of Man, is supposed to have suggested to Bunyan his Pilgrim's Progress. The Honorable Miss Cust has published a thin quarto volume about each of the two Pilgrimages (of Man and the Soul), and the MSS. and early printed copies of each. Chaucer's A. B. C. is translated from the Pilgrimage of Man, and he may have translated the whole book in prose (see the Cambridge University Library MS. of the Pilgrim), as Lydgate did it in verse. Other copies of the present MS. are in Brit. Mus., &c. See Miss Cust's book. The translator notes at the end that his translation is not word for word, but that he has omitted and altered his original occasionally. In three places he has added matter, marking his additions by A. R. at the beginning, and B. at the end. But the copies of this MS. seems to have left these marks out where the additions occur.)

3. Large octavo, vellum, of the 15th century, bound in limp vellum. Latin Service Book, 6 leaves + 158 + a poem. On the first page is a drawing of the Annunciation. It contains many coloured drawings, and the margins of many of the leaves have beautiful ornaments with birds and mens' heads. At the end is an English poem, the life of St. Margaret:

Begins, Olde and yonge I pray you nowe

Youre folies for to lete,

Loveth Cryste þat witte geveth you

Youre synnes for to leete.

(16 leaves of 20 lines each, and 4 lines on the 17th.)

Ends, Of that swete mayde

This ys here a vye,

Here dayd evermore cometh

In the month of July.

It was bequeathed by Elizabeth Hull, Abbess of the Conventual Church of Malling, to her godchild Margaret (only daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Neville), who afterwards married Sir Robert Southwell, and then, secondly, Mr. William Plumble. There are entries of her children's births, her marriages, &c. (See Notes and Queries, Dec. 1868, contributed by F. J. Furnivall.)

4. A quarto, in limp vellum, of 15 leaves. A paraphrase upon the Song of Solomon.

Begins, Joyne thy life breathing lippes to mine

My love excells the joy of wine.

Ends, Runs like a youthfull Hart or Roe

On hills where precious spices grew.

On the fly-leaf opposite the beginning is “George Sands.” (Printed, London, 1642. See Lowndes.)

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

5. A small Latin Bible, vellum, early in the 14th century.

6. c. 1400. A vellum folio of 102 pages of the text + five fly-leaves, one column.

Vegetius de re militari, in English. (1st page in red.) Here begynneth a short tretise the which Vicegius that was the worshipful Erle Renate sone wrote to the Emperor of Rome, the whiche tretise techeth hooliche of knighthood and of chivalry. (In the margin is written in a hand of the 16th century, Faciendum est Bellum ut acquiritur pax; J. Seynt John.) The prologue begins, In olde tyme it was the manere and the custome.—Cap. I. begins, How only by custumable usage of dedes of armes the Romaynes had the victorie of alle other nacionis.

The last is book 4, Cap. 44. Ends, Here I trowe is tyme to cese of other thinges; for custumable usage of werres contriveth or fint up more newe crafte of werres on the sea and eke on londe than eny olde doctrine or lore in bookes hath yshewed.—(The autograph of Thomas Rotherham occurs several times.) This volume was the property of Henry, 9th Earl of Northumberland, and is mentioned in a list (at Syon House) of his books.

7. Large square folio, vellum, about the middle of the 15th century.—Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. The contents of this volume are being printed by Mr. Furnivall for the Chaucer Society. His note (at Petworth) of the contents is as follows,—Prologue, Tales of the Knight, Miller, Reeve, Cook, Gamelyn, Shipman, with spurious prologue referring to the Pardoner, Prioress, Man of Law. Squire with prologue, Man of Law, Shipman link or a shipman's prologue, as in Sloane MS. 1685, Brit. Mus., differing from the Harl. MS. 7,334; Merchant with the Squire Franklin link as prologue, (given to the Franklin in Harl. 7,334). Wife of Bath, Friar, Sempriour broken off short, Clerk of Oxenford, Franklin with the merchant's end link and Squires head-link as prologue, given to the Squire in Harl. 7,334, Second Nun, Canon's Yeoman, Doctor with spurious prologue, Pardoner, Sir Thopas, Milebous, Monk, Nun's priest (no end-link), Marzke, Parson.

8. A thick folio volume of the 15th century, written by different hands.

p. 1-14. Latin stories like the Gesta Romanorum. Begins, Apud Romam fuit quidam imperator qui Dioctilianus vocabatur; uxorem duxit et ex illa unum filium genuit; qua defuncta mansit vivatus.—(He consults seven wise men about his son.)

The first story is of a child, serpent, and dog: Ypocras fuit doctissimus magistrorum.

The Empresses story. Begins, Quondam erat quidam Imperator qui Octavianus.

The Master's story. Begins, Quidam nobilis erat in villa ista de Magna pergame . . .

Quidam rex erat in Apulia.

Quidam rex sapiens erat.

Quidam clericus fuit . . . (The Empress's tale.)

Domine, in villa ista erat quidam imperator nomine. Herodes et septem sapientes fuerunt tunc sicut ad hunc sunt.

Quidam Comes erat in terra Deloryen qui habuit pulcrum uxorem.

Roma quondam fuit oppugnata . .

In regione de mu (or aju) bemeze erat quidam miles . . Olim erat quidam miles nobilis et potens, qui habuit filium. (In this story crows are made to talk.)

At the end of the stories, (in red), "Explicit Whittokysmede." (In p. 101 this name again occurs.)

At fo. 15 are one English and several Latin medical recipes; and a conjuration against robbers, in English.

Fo. 16. Hic describitur modus quomodo Parliamentum regis Anglie et Anglorum suorum tenebatur temporibus regis Edwardi filii Eichelredi regis, qui modus recitatus fuit per discretiores regni coram Willemo Duce Normannie Conquestore et rege Anglie, ipso Conquestore hoc precipiendo, et per ipsum approbatus et temporibus suorum successorum regum Anglie usitatus.

Cap. 1. De Summonicionie.

Cap. 2. De Clero.

Cap. 25 (and last). De gradibus parium in parlamento. Ends, Set sciendum quod licet aliquis dictorum quinque graduum post regem absens sit,* dum tamen omnes premoniti sint per rationabiles summonitiones, Parliamentum* nihilominus sentetur esse plenum.

fol. 21b. Hic annotatur quis sit Senescallus Anglie et quid ejus officium.—Begins, Senescallia Anglie pertinet ad Comitibus Jam Leycestre. Ends, (in fo. 22), decollatus apud le Blakelowe in Com. Warr.

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

Prolocutio ad regem in Parlamento.—The speaker speaks in English to the King, excusing his bashfulness, (1 p.).—The King, by the Chancellor, answers that he will hear his speech.—The Speaker replies in English, (3 p.). The Chancellor of the King's order directs the Speaker's protestation to be inrolled.

Incipit liber distinctionum secundum Aristotelem: (for the 12 months, and men born in the various months); ends on 28b.

fol. 29. Some English verses and some Latin verses from the Schola Salernitana.

fol. 29-31. A Latin poem on the Exchequer in 126 hexameters. At the top and bottom of each page is a drawing of a chequer board.—Begins,

O scacci camera locus est mirabilis ille

Si dicam vera tortores sunt tibi mille.

—(It explains the mode of accounting). Ends,

Set prius ut dixi tortores sunt tibi mille

Dici miranda scacci domus ergo valebit

In qua si danda desint Chekemata patebit.

fol. 32-49. Latin recipes for diseases of horses.

fol. 50-55. English recipes for the same.

fol. 56. (English.) Here begynneth the chapters of divers makynge and dyetyng of potagis and flesch sodyn and rostynd and of sleyng and dyetyng of wyld fowl and of makynge of dyvers sotyltyts and wortys in lentyntyme other in fleschtyme.—(Table of contents in two columns, more than 2 pp.) Ends on 76b, and is immediately followed by an English treatise without title on the virtue of herbs, which ends on fo. 100.

p. 100-101b. Incipit liber de diversis aquis. (Latin, by Petrus Hispanus.)

fol. 103. (English).—Here begynneth the boke of Astroomye contrived and ymade of the wyseste philosophers and astronomys that evyr were sythe the world was begunne. (This was compiled by an Englishman out of Greek.) Ends on fo. 112b.

A few worthless Latin verses.

fol. 115a. Begins, Augustinus in libro de fide. Ends (122b), complet in Purgatorio. (This is the tract printed as Spiritus Guidonis.)

fol. 122 to 124. English receipts for wine and cooking.

fol. 125a-134a.—An English Poem on hawking. Begins,

Thu that art a gentilman

And gentilmans game wyll lere

Sertayne poyntes of gentilmans game

I can the tell full seere.

How that a hawk should be made

I putte V poyntes for to see.

The second part of the poem begins at fo. 131b: Now of Gosehawk keepynge I have you tolde

Now kepe his tarsell of the same maner.

fol. 134b. Table to the boke of huntinge.

fol. 135. Book of Hunting, dedicated to the Prince of Wales, son of Henry IV.

The prologue begins, To the honoure and reverence of you, my worshipfulle and drede Lord Henry, by the grace of God, eldest son, &c.

The text begins on fol. 138b. The hare is comyn beste enow, and there fore me nedyth not to telle of here makynge.—The follow the Hart,—the buck, the Roebuck, the Wildbore, the wolf, the fox, Grey, the wild cat, the Otyr, hounds, Sickness of hounds, ratchets or running hound, the Spaniel, mastiff—A good Hunter, the kennel.—and much about hare hunting.

fol. 176. Off the ordynances and of the manner hunting when the Kyng woll hunte in ye foreste or the Parks for ye hertes with bowes and wyth houndes.

Ends fol. 178b, and also pleyntly ynow useyde and rehersed. (One of the Cries to the hounds is, "Oyez a Damound oyez oyez"; another is, a semble a Bemond, assemble, assemble.)

p. 179-182b. On confession. (In English.)

fol. 185. Phrases: as, A herde of hertys, &c., &c. A muster of peacocks. (In five columns.)

fol. 186. The last leaf, (except that seven of smaller size follow,) contains a list of bishops of the Roman Catholic Church.

On the last page are 32 lines of verse: Begin,— Jhu lorde that madyst me and with thy precyous

blode had bouzthe,

Forgeve that I have grevyd the yn worde or thoffte.

9. Folio, parchment, end of 13th, and the 14th and 15th centuries, 111 leaves.—A register of Ely Priory. A few documents are in French (and are so described). The rest are in Latin.

(fol. 1b.)—1426, Dec., Chapter House.—Peter, prior of the Cathedral church of Ely to William Bishop of Norwich.—To the parish church of Sudbury (Norwich diocese) with the chapel of Orford annexed, vacant by

These are better readings than the 13th century MS. in the Bibliothéque at Paris, printed in 1846, which has absentet and parliamenti.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

the death of John Osborne, rector, he appoints Master Henry Schelford, and prays his admission.

(fol. 2.) (French).—To the King and his Council, the Prior and Convent of Ely shew that whereas they have their Priory with the appurtenances severed from the Bishoprick by the King's charter for a fine of 1,000 marks, so that no officer of the King in time of vacancy of the bishoprick or Priory should intermeddle with the Priory, saving to the King the collation of offices if they belong to him of right by reason of the vacancy of the bishoprick, in opposition to which ground the guardians of the bishoprick have now removed their porter (four porte de fee remue), and assigned another in his place, and have taxed the tenants with the tenants of the bishoprick and levied the tax; and an inquest finds that the King has no right, &c.—They pray amends.

The King's writ to Master Richard de Abyndon and Robert de Hereward his guardians of the Bishoprick of Ely, the see being vacant. Dated at Balsham 5 April, 30th year (about the above petition).—The guardians reply that they moved the janitor because W. de Sutton and J. de Godelee, guardians of the Bishoprick after the death of William de Luda, late bishop, moved the Janitor of the Priory and deputed another who continued the custody of the gate during the vacancy; with no profit to the King, but only to continue his seisin. And that as to the officials moved, if any, it appears in the Inquisition annexed to the writ.

Inquisition at Ely, Monday, he morrow of Palm Sunday, 30 Edw., before Richard de Abyndon and Robert Hereward . . . Oaths of Thomas de Bidgate and others (named) that the collation of four officers, viz., the sub-prior, secretary, cellarer, and chamberlain belong to the Bishop of Ely for the time being as of his ordinary jurisdiction, in full chapter: there is no profit to the Bishop, &c., &c.

2b. 31 Edw. (I.) Nov. 28, York.—The King to R. Hereward and J. de Dutton, guardians of the Bishoprick; and another of the 27th of November in the same year:—about the liberties of the Prior and Convent.

fol. 3a.*—1277, Wednesday after the feast of St. Luke, Ely.—Master John de Walford, rector of the church of Suburn, to all, &c. He declares that he has received "bibliothecam et ystoriarn et librum platearii," by way of loan for his life, from the religious of the Priory and Convent of Ely, and binds himself to his executors to return them: the Prior and Convent to be preferred to other creditors in respect of them.

Below, by a later hand, is the Process of a plea of the Fold of the Prior, belonging to the precentor of Ely, before Ralph de Hengham. It extends to the end of fol. 3b, ending in Michaelmas of the 30 year [Edw. I.] and has references to Rott. 68 and 80 of that term.

fol. 4a. Here begins the Adjudication made and determined of the charters of the church of Ely, before the justices in Eyre in the county of Hertford, 6 Edw. I., named John de Reygate, Geoffrey de Lekenor, Roger de Loveday, Solomon de Rochester, and others.—Hugh, bishop of Ely, by John Buc his attorney, claims to have certain liberties in his manors of Hatfield, Keleshille, and Hadham, co. Herts, by divers charters, viz., of King Edgar, King Edward confirming Edgar's, William the Conqueror, King Henry I., King Richard, and King Henry III.—It is decided in favour of the Bishop. [See Placita de Quo Warranto, p. 279, col. 2.]

fol. 5a.—1270, 4 Kal. Dec.—Henry, Prior of Ely and the Chapter, to all, &c. Clement de Ely, cooperator, for the augmentation of the almonry, gave 10*l.* sterling to the almoner, and assigned it to buy rent or land; and they (the prior, &c.) granted him board among the free and first servants in the almonry, and half a mark yearly, viz., 40*d.* at Easter and 40*d.* at Michaelmas. Other particulars about it.)

1274, Saturday after the feast of Pope Gregory, London.—Bartholomew de Castello to R[oger], bishop of Norwich; he renounces his right in the church of Suburne with the chapel of Oreford.

1275, 10 Kal. Aug., in Chapter.—John the prior of Ely, and the chapter, to all, &c.—Expecting the favours of Master Berard of Naples, the Pope's notary, to their church, and wishing to honour John Carizoli his nephew, canon of the church of St. John of , and seeing that the patronage of John may be useful to them, they give him a pension of 30 marks sterling for life; and they bind themselves and their church with the consent of Hugh, bishop of Ely.

1276, 18 Kal. May, in Chapter at Ely.—John, Prior of Ely and the convent, to all.—Inspecimus of a charter of Hugh, bishop of Ely, whereby he gave to Adam de Scropa two cultures of land called Crowwonges out of his demesne in the vill of Derham, with the little pasture of Cowesik, and the culture of Abelenwong, containing eight acres, with a little pasture at the foot of the hall (subtus aulam) for his life, at a rent of 12*d.* per acre. Witnesses, John de Estwode, seneschall; Gilbert de Derham, steward of the inn; Thomas de Theweresham and others.—The Prior and Convent confirm it.

fol. 6.—J., the Prior, and the Convent of Ely, to all, &c. They grant to Andrew, son of Nicholas, of Ely, and Agnes his wife a corrody for their lives, whether they be present or absent, of (every day) two loaves of knight's bread, one white and the other black; two gallons (lagenas) of ale, one good and the other common, and every day two discatas of pulse such as the Convent eats; and one help of meat or fish as the season and day require. Agnes is to have the corrody if she survive.

1277, 18 Kal. Jan. Ely. J., the Prior and the Convent of Ely, to all, &c.—They grant to Ralph, called the Porter, son of Clement de Leytton, for his life, a corrody; every day, two white loaves, viz., one, of the usual weight, of monks' bread, and the other of knights' bread; and two black loaves; and one gallon of good convent ale and two of common ale, of the cellarer; and from the kitchen, every day, by the hands of the cellarer as much as a monk has who eats in the refectory (exceptis omnimodis pitanciis et exenitis ibidem missis); and from the Prior's larder every week, except in Lent and the three days in Advent when flesh is eaten, viz., Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday, except it be a solemn fast, one help of meat as it is given to the free servants of the Prior. Also to Ralph, every year, two robes, one for winter and one for summer, like the free servants of the Prior, or 30*s.* sterling at the will of the Prior. If Ralph die before his father Clement, Clement is to have the same corrody.

J., the Prior of Ely and the Convent, grant a corrody to dom. Nicolas de Caylon, their perpetual chaplain, as long as he pleases to stay in their house. He is to be served best in the Almonry at the common table. When he chooses to be in his private room, he is to have every day three loaves, viz., one white and two of a knight's corrody, viz., one a white knight's loaf, and the other black; and every day three lagenas of ale, half of the best and half common; and every flesh day one help (ferculum) of flesh, worth three halfpence, and an interferculum ad tenendum as it is given to their free servants; every fish day as many helps as a monk has who eats in the refectory.—Pittances:—Every Michaelmas two marks for his clothing, and his serving boy to have one robe of the Prior's livery as good as the Prior's palfreyman has. He is to have shoes sufficient, viz., every year botas fulcratas, in winter of ox-leather, and other shoes in summer of tanned leather (de alluto), with as many pairs of shoes and stockings as a monk receives in the year, and 10 yards of linen cloth at Easter.

(fol. 7).—1272, Feast of Annunciation. The Prior and chapter of Ely grant to Master Adam, of St. Alban's, surgeon, for his life, a message with buildings in Ely, in the parish of St. Mary, sometime of Adam Gamel, of Wygehale, between the message of the Sacrist of Ely and the message of William le Yremongere, opposite the mansion of Sir Henry de Walpole K^t.,—at a yearly rent of 5*s.* to the infirmory of Ely. Adam is at his own cost to repair and sustain the buildings in the said message. If he build another house or houses on the said message, it or they are to go to the religious (i.e. the Prior and Chapter) after Adam's death.

The prior of Ely, with the consent of the Chapter, grants a corrody to Master Adam, of St. Alban's, surgeon, whilst in Ely: two knight's loaves, one white and one black; two lagenas of ale, one good and one common; every week in the three flesh days two helps of flesh from the prior's larder, and on the four other days two helps of fish. But Adam is to do the work of the house in all that pertains to the art of surgery, as he has sworn on the Gospels to do, in full chapter.

1277, 4 Id. April: in Chapter. John, prior of Ely and the chapter, expecting the favour of Gregesius the noble offspring of Lord Opizon of Bagnaria, and cousin of the late venerable Lord Octobon of St. Adrian Cardinal Deacon, to their Church, &c.—grant to him for his life an annual pension of 24*l.* sterling from their chamber: the first payment to be made on the feast day of St. John the Baptist, 1278.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

* The early entries commence here.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

(fol. 8.) Three lines of forms for receipts of a pension.

De resignatione ecclesiæ de Orford. B. De Castellis to R., bishop of Norwich: he releases his right in the church of Suthburne with the Chapel of Orford.

1278, Thursday after the feast of All Saints. The Prior of Ely and the Chapter grant to Henry de Cotenham for his life their fishery, called Sutton Depe, in the vill of Sutton, extending from the Prior's lake, called Priur's Delf, as far as the Bishop of Ely's water near the bridge of Erthehe. Rent, 4s. yearly.

(fol. 9.) 1277, Day of St. Calixtus the Martyr. Ely.—John Portiers, of Cambridge, is bound to the Prior and Convent of Ely in 40 marks for the tithe of garbs of the Church of Ympeton, deposited in the barn of the parson there, which from the Precentor of Ely, proctor of the Prior and Convent, John bought in the year 1277 for money, reserving to the said Precentor the halsms, &c.—Special agreement for payment.—His sureties are John, called the Miller, Robert and Stephen, of Schelford.

1278, Thursday after the feast of St. Martin; in Chapter.—J. the Prior and the Chapter of Ely, to H., bishop of Ely. They present G. de B. to the vicarage of the church of Wrallenge, which is vacant; and they pray his admission.

Eustace, Bishop of Ely, to all, &c. On presentation by Roger the Prior and the Monks of Ely, he admits Fulk, the clerk, to the Church of Haukestone, and institutes him: saving to the monks of Ely their old and accustomed pension. Witnesses, John de Foxton, Thomas de Duffeld, Thomas de Haydene, and others.

Eustace, Bishop of Ely, to all, &c. On presentation by Roger the Prior, &c., he admits Adam de Wautham to the church of Wytham; saving, &c. Witnesses, John de Foxton, &c.

Roger the Prior and the Convent of Ely, grant to Nicholas de Briante, their clerk, 15 marks sterling yearly from their chamber, until he is provided with a competent benefice.

R., the Prior of Ely, to all, &c. He grants and confirms to Sampson,* of St. Edmund's, clerk, the church of Stoke, which was of their gift.

(fol. 10.) 1277, Feast of All Saints.—Agreement between the Prior and Chapter of Ely, and Master John de Watford, Rector of the Church of Orford. They lease to John the manor of Wysbeche, with its buildings and appurtenances, except the church and its tithes, for 22 years, at a rent of 16*l.*—power of distress; John to repair; if John die within the term, Robert de Watford, his nephew, son of his sister, shall hold for the remainder of the term.

(fol. 11.) 1278, Feast of the Invention of the Holy Cross.—Agreement between the Prior and Chapter of Ely and John de Watford, physician.—John promises to attend the Prior and Monks. They to supply him and two boys with board, forage for one palfrey, and a manse within the court where Stephen the mareshal used to live, with an increase of 20 feet in length and breadth.—Special agreement as to him and the boys, and their drink and food, and candles at night.

1280, morrow of the feast of St. Nicholas, Bishop and Confessor. Agreement between the Prior and Convent of Ely, and Nicholur Dnsic of Strahan. They grant to him for his life 2 acres in the vill of Strahan, whereof half an acre, called Croft, lies at Lunewelle, to build him a manse; which Croft lies, &c.; and half an acre lies in Northfelde, &c. To hold to Nicholas perpetuo, he doing all suits due to the Court of the Bishop of Ely, Strahan, and the hundred of Wycheford, and certain services of another tenement named, &c.

(fol. 12.) 1280, 24th year of Pontificate, Kal. Jan., Durham. Hugh, bishop of Ely, with the consent of the Prior and Convent of Ely, grants to Symon de la More and Waletham, Kts., that, in consideration the bad ways and long distance from their manses of Brame to the mother church of Ely, they may have in the oratory at Brame daily office by a fit chaplain for them and their wives and families. The chaplain is to swear on the Gospels that he will answer to the sacrist of Ely for all oblations and obventions.

1282, 6 Ides of May, in Chapter. Insuperimus and Confirmation by John, Prior of Ely and the Convent, of a release by Hugh, Bishop of Ely, to Adam de Shropham of the service of 5*ss.* 6*d.*, payable yearly for his life for 50½ acres in the vill of Derham. Witnesses to the release, John de Quercy, the seneschal, Andrew of Ely, Gilbert de Derham, Thomas de Cameron, Bartholomew de Walepe, Hugh de Camera de Derham, Roger de Massingham, Roger de Etling.

1283, non. April, Ely.—J., the Prior of Ely, and the chapter, give to clerk Nicholas de Lovetot, son of Sir John de Lovetot, an annual pension of 40*s.* from the Priors' chamber, until a fit benefice be provided for him.

A repetition of the above.

(fol. 13.) 1280, 5 non. Feb., in chapter.—J. the Prior and Convent say that King Edward and Queen Alysyan have asked food and raiment, from their goods, for Richard called Page and his boy and horse. They grant it to him, while in their house, like as one of their free servants.

J. the Prior and the Convent grant to William de Exninge, formerly their bailiff of Neutone, a corrody for life:—each day two knights' leaves, one white and one black; two gallons of ale, one good and one common, from the cellarer; and from the Prior's larder every week except Advent, on the 3 days when meat is eaten, viz., Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday, one help of flesh with a portion of supper, in like manner as those who have knights' corrodies; on the four other days 1 help of fish; and for supper, as it is delivered to other holders of corrodies from the Prior's larder; and a robe yearly of the prior's livery such as servants of their manors or greater officers of the Prior's chamber receive. But the said William shall take charge of some one or more of their manors or churches, in their service, as they think it may be of use to them or their church, and while so, the corrody shall cease. In case of sickness he shall have the corrody and the robe.

1283, feast of St. Michael. The Prior and Convent of Ely demise to John de O. all parson's profits of the church of S. (This goes to the end of fol. 14*a.*)

(fol. 14.) 1285, 29th year of Pontificate, 10 Kal. April, Derham. Hugh, bishop of Ely, grants to Richard de Lovetot, clerk, 10 marks yearly from the chamber, payable at the Exchequer at Ely, until a benefice be provided for him.

1287, feast of Saint Matthew the Apostle. Ely.—John Hemmington, Prior of Ely, and the Chapter, grant and confirm to Robert de Hemmington for life, food and clothing in their house, viz., as long as the Prior lives he, Robert, shall stand with him at table among the free servants, and shall have a robe with them whether well or ill. When the Prior dies, Robert, if well behaved, shall have daily one white knight's loaf and another black, with 2 gallons ale, one good and one common, from the almoner, and from the Prior's larder daily on usual flesh days, except in Advent, 1½ helps of flesh, on other days 1½ helps of fish; and from the sacrist every year a robe worth one mark, and every night from All Saints to the Purification a wax candle.

(fol. 15.) 1292, Tuesday in Easter week, 2nd year of Pontificate of Bishop William [de Luda].—Insuperimus and confirmation by J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent of a grant by William, bishop of Ely, to Matilda who was the wife of Symon de Bertone for her life of all the lands in Dunham near Ely which Symon lately held of him, and which escheated to him on the death of Symon.

(The large old hand ends here.)

1292, Wednesday after feast of Assumption: in Chapter.—J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent grant that John de Chelmesford, cousin of Bonaventure Hugolyn, merchant of Siena (Sen), may daily for 15 years have from the cellarer 1 white knight's loaf and one gallon of good ale, and every day when the Convent eats meat, one help of flesh, and on other days one help of fish from the Prior's larder; or at his pleasure 40*s.* from the chamber; if he do not take, he is not to require arrears; if he die within the term, the grant is to void.

1274, 2 Edw. I. Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, demise to Henry, son of Ralph de Coteham, for his life, all land in the assart of Bluntesham, and 12 oxen, value 8*s.* each; four stots, value 3*s.*; six ploughs, value 12*d.* each, and the ironwork thereof, 20*d.*; and an iron-shod cart and another not iron shod, value 6*s.*; and feedings and other appurtenances to the land, except, &c.; and except a rent of 16*s.*, and 20 perches of meadow in the marsh of Sutton in Estlongriche, &c.—Rent five marks.

—Stipulations.—Sureties, Adam de Maundevely, William, vicar of Wyham, Robert de Aula, Picatorium de Hylle, Robert de Sutton, chaplain, Reginald le Messer, of the same place. . . . Witnesses, Lord Robert de Insula, Fulk Baynard, Symon de Insula, Henry foy Auger, Knts.; and four others named and many others. (This ends on fol. 16*b.*)

(fol. 16*b.*), 1311, 5 Edw. II., 9 Kal. Dec. John the Prior of Ely and the Convent, grant license to John

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

* Afterwards Abbat of St. Edmundsbury.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

Alleyn of Suttun, clerk, to take all sacred orders and any ecclesiastical benefice, notwithstanding any impediment of his servile condition.

7 Edw. II. Friday after the Feast of Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr.—J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent grant to Simon of Scepeye, formerly son of Agnes le Bral of Ely, that he may have for his life yearly, for his service, a robe of the Prior of Ely for the time being, of the same kind as the Prior's squires have (de secta armigerorum dicti prioris), and may eat in hall with the said squires.

(fol. 17.) 7 Edw. II., 1313, same day as the last. The Prior and Convent are bound to Joan, formerly daughter of Andrew of Ely, in 100s. yearly for her life, payable out of the Prior's chamber; and they lease to her for her life a messuage in Ely, formerly of Benedict de Lokyinghiche, to be kept in repair by the sacristan of Ely.

Same date. Bond by the same to the same in 40l. sterling, payable by instalments. They bind all their goods, moveable and immovable.

1313. The Prior of Ely and the Convent grant to Alexander, son of John le Bray of Ely, for his parents' sake, food and clothing until he is provided with a fitting ecclesiastical benefice.

Memoranda of liabilities, viz. —To Sir R. de Waleville, 220l.; to Dom. R., son of Walton, 55l.; Simon de Scepeye and Alexander de Riptone, 20l.; to the Brethren of St. Augustine, 66s. 8d.; Nicolas Pisayne, 16s.; Isabel de Scepeye, 10l. 16s. 8d.; Joan le Bray, 40l.; Summa, 350l. 0s. 9d. Summa marcarum, 525, of which the convent pay 120 marks and the Prior the rest. To R. de Waleville, 40l. Item, an annual pension to Joan le Bray, 100s.; food and raiment for her son.

(fol. 17b.) Allowances of liberties of the Church in the Exchequer in the times of divers Kings, viz., &c. (Extracts from records down to fol. 21b.)

(fol. 21b.), 19 Hen. III. A fine at Huntingdon between H., Bishop of Ely, and Robert, Abbot of Thorney, of 1,000 acres of marsh in Wisbeach. The Bishop grants to the Abbot one leuca in the said marsh by the perch of 20 feet; the bounds are given.

(fol. 22.) 31 Edw. I. Sunday next after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle. Inquisition before Simon de Peris and Hugh Pourte, sheriffs of London, ad quod damnum if the King give to Robert, Bishop of Ely, a messuage in Holborn, which was of J. de Kirkeby, late Bishop of the same place, and which the said John, by will, gave to the church of St. Ethelreda of Ely and their successors bishops of the same place, according to the custom of the City of London.—They say it will not be to the King's damage. (This entry is cancelled. See below, fol. 95.)

The great roll of 30 Edw. I.—The Prior and Convent of Ely render account of 1,000 marks, fine for the King not to have the custody of the Priory during a vacancy.

1377. Monday in the feast of St. Michael the Archangel. John, Prior of the Cathedral Church of Ely, and the chapter, appoint Master Thomas de Dalby their proctor to attend in Parliament.

(fol. 23.) Allowances to the Bishops and Priors of Ely of divers amercements in the Exchequer of King Henry. (Extracts from the Rolls 3, 13, &c., and in Iters.)

(fol. 24b.) Extracts from the Roll of 3 John, Iter Rolls, &c.

(fol. 26b.) n. d. Letter of credence by the Prior and Convent for their sub-prior and cellarer, sent by them to the Bishop.

1316, 13 Kal. Dec. J., the Prior, with the consent of the Chapter, makes J. de Crosale, the sub-prior, and John de Ramsey, the almoner, to be wardens of the churches of Lankinghethe, Stapelford, Mildebourne, and Wiltisheye, for one year.

9 Edw. II., March 10. John, the Prior, with the assent of the Chapter, grants to John de Creshale, the sub-prior, and John de Ramsaye, the foreign seneschal, the custody of the churches of Lankinghethe, Stapelford, and Wiltisheye for one year.

(fol. 27.) 9 Edw. II. Vigil of All Saints. J. the Prior, and the Convent are bound to Alfred de Brok, rector of the Church of Worketon, Lincoln diocese, executor of the testament of Robert Orford, Bishop of Ely, in 100 pounds of silver.

1315, 14 Kal. Feb. John, the Prior of Ely, and the Convent, constitute Master Geoffrey de Pakynham professor of canon law, and Dom. Gilbert de Grittone rector of the church of Bluntesham, their proctors before Walter, Archbishop of Canterbury, in the cathedral church of Lincoln, in the feast of the Circumcision of St. Paul, to assent to things done in the council of the province of Canterbury.

1315, March 8. J., the Prior, and the Convent of Ely, are bound to J., Bishop of Norwich, in 200l. sterling, money lent.

(fol. 27b.), 1315. Tuesday in the Feast of Sts. Fabian and Sebastian. J., the Prior of Ely, and the Chapter, make Geoffrey de Pakenham and Gilbert de Gritton their proctors for the Parliament at Lincoln, in the Quinzain of St. Hilary next.

1315, 10 Kal. Feb. J., the Prior of Ely, to W., Archbishop of Canterbury. Letter of credence for Pakenham and Gretteone in the Council.

(fol. 28.) 1316, 4 non. April. Penteneye.—Richard, Prior of the Church of St. Mary Magdalen of Penteneye, Norwich diocese, and the convent of the same place, to all, &c. They have received a letter from John, Bishop of Ely, dated 3 Kal. April, 1316, in hac verba (giving to the church of Penteneye the Church of Little Abintone on the surrender or death of Henry Bacun, rector thereof).

(fol. 29a.), 1315, 10 Kal. April. Submission by the Prior and Convent of Penteneye to John, Bishop of Ely, in respect of the church of Little Abintone.

1315, 4 Kal. Mart. John de Fresingfeld, Prior of the Cathedral Church of Ely and the Convent thereof, obtaining canonically the churches of Milreth, Meldeburne, and Wrattinge, Ely diocese, to their own use,—appoint Master John de Spanneye and Robert de Croschale, clerks, to be their proctors in all causes and matters relating to those churches.

(fol. 29b.) Ordinances of the chapter of Ely.

1304, Id. Mart. Ordinances with the unanimous assent of John de Fresingfeld, Prior of the Church of Ely and all the Convent. Regulations for the seneschal and Prior. The marginal notes are, Antique consuetudines, Solutiones, De extraneis recipiendis, Redditus ville, Granetarius, De computo reddendo.

(30b.) Ordinaciones, chiefly regarding religion and the convent.

1314, Id. Mart. With the unanimous assent, &c., as above. The marginal notes are, Confessores, De cibis, Computus, Eleemosinarius, Precentor, Pitanciaris, Hostiliarius, Refectarius, Hostiliarius monachorum, Clausura claustrii, De ostio infirmatorii, De serviente ecclesie, De custodia minorum, Minuta, De ordinibus, De victu percipiendo, De equis.

(fol. 32.) Walter, Archbishop of Canterbury, sent these his letters to dom. John de Ketene, Bishop of Ely, about visiting his diocese.

1314, 9 Kal. April. Downham. John, Bishop of Ely, to the Prior and Chapter of Ely. He has received the Archbishop's letter, as follows: (Intends to visit the diocese. Dated Lambeth, 16 April, 1314; sends it, &c.)

(fol. 32b.) Convencio processus. The Archbishop being busy about the King's affairs, war with Scotland, and discussions with the nobles, could not keep his appointment to visit. Before the day he sent excuratory letters from himself and the King, and appointed the 4th of the Nones of June.—They assembled in the Chapel of St. Katherine in the Church of Ely. The Bishop demanded a copy of the Papal bull, which bull, by Pope Clement, is dated at Montile, Id. Jun. 9th year of his pontificate.—Then follows the appointment, dated Lambeth, 4 Kal. Jun. 1315, by Walter Archbishop of Canterbury, of his clerks, Masters J. de Ros, Archdeacon of Shropshire, his chancellor, J. de Lincore, Canon of the Cathedral Church of Wells, and William Derby, to be proxies to visit, &c.—On the second day they went into the Chapter of Ely, and protested as follows, and asked that it might be put on the register.

(fol. 33.) Protestation by the Bishop.

(fol. 33b.) Beginning of the visitation. J. de Ros preaches on the text, "Fervet caritas vestra, &c." They dined with the Bishop and Prior, protesting that they did so, not as visitors, but as friends. (1 p. of narrative.)

(fol. 34.) Dimissio domini Walteri Archiepiscopi (about churches appropriated in Ely diocese).

1315, Aug. 4. Ely.—John de Bruyton, canon of Wells, and William de Derby, visitors of Ely diocese (the churches are named).

(fol. 34b.) Decree of the Archbishop's visitors on new building the parish churches of the church of Ely. Dated at Cambridge the year and day aforesaid.

(fol. 35.) 1315, Non. Aug. Cambridge. John de Bruytone, canon of Wells, with John de Ros, Roger, Archdeacon of Shropshire, William de Derby, appointed by the venerable father Walter, Archbishop, &c. (Decree as to tithes.)

(fol. 35b.) 1316. Monday after Translation of St. Thomas. J., the Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to J.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

Bishop of Norwich. They present Henry the chaplain to the vicarage of the church of Wyneston.

n. d. The same to Hervey de Stanton, vicar-general in spirituals of the Bishop of Ely. They notify the appointment of Nicolas de Walsham to be vicar of Impton vacant by the death of Warin, the last vicar.

(fol. 36.) 1317. Resignation of the vicarage of by Nicolas de Walsham.

Other presentations by the Prior and Convent of Ely. (fol. 36b.) 1316, 7 Kal. Jun. Petition by J., the Prior, and the Chapter of Ely for a conge d'élire on the death of J. de Ketene.

1316. Monday next after feast of St. Barnabas. John, the Prior of Ely and the Chapter to John de Hotham, Canon of York, Elect of Ely. They notify the election of him as Bishop, and ask his assent.

(fol. 37.) 1316, same day. The Prior of Ely and the Chapter, to the King. They present the said John de Hotham.

1316. Tuesday after the Feast of St. Barnabas. The same to Walter, Archbishop of Canterbury, to the same effect.

(fol. 37b.) 1316. Monday after, &c. The same to J. de Hotham. They ask his consent.

9 Edw. II. June 1. The King's conge d'élire, to choose any person.

(fol. 38.) An Inquisition (cancelled) on a writ of Ad quod damnum.

1316, 7 Kal. Jul. The Prior of Ely and the Chapter, to Walter, Archbishop of Canterbury. They send Simon de Westone and John de Crowdene to ask confirmation.

(fol. 38b.) 1316, 7 Kal. Jul. The Prior of Ely and the Chapter, to the Archbishop. The decree of election of Dominus de Hotham.

(fol. 39b.) 1316, 7 Kal. Jul. General letters of pro-curation by the Prior of Ely and the Chapter, to Simon de Westone and John de Crowdene, to demand confirmation of the election of the Bishop.

(fol. 40.) 1316, 7 Kal. Jul. The Prior of Ely and the Chapter appoint Comes de Mordone, John de Crewelle, and John de Cornstone, their proctors, to act before the Archbishop in all causes touching the election.

1316, June 11. A document appointing the 18 Kal. July, Monday next after the Feast of St. Barnabas, for the election.

(fol. 40b.) 1416, 3 Kal. Mart. Protest by brother John de Crissale, Sub-prior of Ely, vice the Prior and the Chapter and himself, warning co-monks who are interdicted, suspended, &c., not to join in the election.

n. d. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to King Edward, protesting against being burdened with a corrody to more than one of the King's valets. The King had asked them to support Grimbald de la Badue, as they had supported one Hikke, deceased; but they say they have never been used to support more than one, and they have already John Aleman (for food and clothing) and More Conan ap Mereduke, a Welchman, with his boys and horses.

(fol. 41.) . . Oct. 22. The Prior of Ely and the Convent, to J., Bishop of Ely, about a trespass by John de Eriwelle.

. . . Oct. 29. The Prior of Ely and the Convent, to the King, asking to be relieved from giving a corrody to Arnald de Saux, who was sent by the King with a letter dated 22 October.

. . . Jan. 15. A similar letter in French, in answer to the King's letter dated January 11.

(fol. 41b.) Feb. 5. A letter in Latin; }
Feb. 6. Another in French, } about Saux. to Queen Isabella; }

fol. 41. A slip of vellum fastened to this leaf contains a copy of record.—Kent. John, Prior of Ely, is in mercy for default. The Prior is attached to answer the King why he refused the corrody to A. de Saux. The Prior, by Richard de Oxwyke, his attorney, defends, and pleads to the writ and objects to the form. Arnold sues for the King. The Prior says he will answer if the Court so adjudge. Adjourned to the Quinzain of Michaelmas.

(On the other side of the slip of vellum.) 1361. Friday after Feast of Nativity of the Virgin. Alan de Walsingham, Prior of the Cathedral Church of Ely, and the Convent are bound in charity to Robert de Wylberton of Ely, clerk, and Juliana his wife, and take them within the city and grant to them and the souls of Mary, Robert's late wife, and of their relations, &c., all spiritual benefits in their Church, &c., &c.

(fol. 42.) March 22 (French). The Prior of Ely and the Convent to Queen Isabella. They have received her letter of the 19th of March about Arnald de Saux, asking that they should receive A. de Saux and two horses and two boys, and give him two robes yearly for his life. They plead liability to one only. They have already John Aleman. They are impoverished by water-floods and murrain of beasts, &c., and pray her to have regard to them.

(Fo. 42.) The Prior and Convent to the King. They have received his letter of the 19th of March about A. de Saux (similar to the last).

n. d. The Prior and convent to the Bishop of Ely: telling him how a clerk, whom the bishop had asked them to receive, had contemptuously refused to come in.

(fol. 42b.) Pleas before Solomon de Roucestere, Walter de Optone, Richard de Boyland, Robert Falk, Master Thomas de Sndingtone, and Walter de Stretchesleye, justices in eyre, at Ipswich, on the morrow of All Souls, in the beginning of 14 Edw. I.—William de Ludham is summoned to answer the Prior; he prevented the Prior from holding his leet in the vill of Wilford. The defendant excepts to the writ, and the Prior is non-suit.

(fol. 43.) The Prior of Ely proffers himself on the 4th day against Roger de Montalt. The Prior held the Hundred of Tudelyng of the King, and no one but he ought to have gallowes; Roger, with Joan de Montalt, R. de Weyland, of Framesdone, and Richard de Calestone, did, in the Manor of Framesdone (belonging to Roger and Joan), within the Hundred, put up new gallowes, and having taken Geoffrey Hare, who was a robber, hung him. The defendants do not come. The sheriff is to distrain, &c. Afterwards the Prior is non-suit.

The Abbot of Sipetone is summoned to answer the Prior of Ely.—The defendant says the name is Sibetone; so the Prior takes nothing.

John, son of Henry de Hasting, is summoned to answer the Prior of Ely, claiming, in right of his Hundred of Carleford, to have view of Frankpledge in John's manor of Atteleye. The Prior is non-suit.

(fol. 43b.) John de Hastings against the Prior of Ely and Stephen de la Ford, for throwing down John's gallowes. The Prior had to replace the gallowes, and to pay damages, which were taxed by the jury at 10*l*. Et predictus Prior cap*t* et predictus Steph. custod.

(fol. 44.) James de Creke and William, his son, were summoned to answer the Prior, as to rights over the manors of Burg and Grundesburg within the Hundred of Carleford. The defendants object to the form of the writ. The Prior is non-suit.

(fol. 44b.) Thomas, the Prior of Wodebrigg, is summoned to answer the Prior of Ely in right of his Hundred of Harlesford. The defendant objects to the form of the writ. The plaintiff is non-suit.

The Prior of Ely had writs against Roger Bigot, Earl of Norfolk, &c., one in the Hundred of Wileford and three in the Hundred of Lese, Wyleford, and Colneys. The Prior was non-suit, and his pledges in mercy. The names of his pledges are given.

(fol. 45.) Pleas of the King, of Quo Warranto, at Ipswich.

The Prior of Ely is summoned in respect of claim to view of Frankpledge, &c., in Stokes. St. Edward granted it. The Prior goes without day.

The Prior of Ely is summoned in respect of a claim of warren in Bergham. King Henry gave it. The Prior goes without day.

Pleas of the Crown at Ipswich in the same year.—The Prior claims to have return of writs, estreats, wreck of the sea, gallowes, tumbrel and prison at Melton, and warren in the same manor. The jury say they know not by what warrant. W. de Giselham is ordered to prosecute.

(fol. 45b.) He claims to have warren in his demesne of Sulborne, and says that King Henry gave it.

Gaol delivery at Ipswich, and concerning the liberties of St. Ethelreda. A number of prisoners are named and their crimes are stated. William de Giselham for the King says that they ought to be brought by the Sheriff to be tried by the King's justices, and that the King was seised of that right, and he cites the case of four persons who were tried before Weyland and Lovetot. The Prior says, "True, but they were taken at Ipswich, out of the liberty," and he cites his seisin as shown in previous Iters. The jury say that the Prior is right, and that the Prior ought to bring them.

(fol. 46.) The Prior and Chapter's letter of thanks directed to the Bishop of Ely for his help in getting a confirmation of charters.

(fol. 46b.) 1317, 7 Kal. Jan. Shippedham. John Bishop of Ely to the Prior and Chapter of Ely. He will come to visit them on the 27th of January (1 p.)

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

(fol. 47.) Forma electionis faciende per viam compromissionis. Prefixio diei ad electionem faciendam prime.

1309, 4 Kal. Mart. Robert de Oreford, the bishop, is dead; they have asked the King's license to elect another; on 4 Kal. Mart. 1309, they entered the Chapter and appointed Friday the next day, and the succeeding day, to choose a bishop. This is a letter by the Prior and Chapter to their brethren.)

Friday, 3 March. Prorogation from one day to another by consent of the Chapter.

(fol. 47e.) Power of choosing given by the Chapter to the referees (compromissariis) on Saturday, prid. Kal. Mart. 1309 under the Chapter seal. The co-monks William de Livermere, Richard of Cambridge, Warin de Barnstone, Alexander of Ely, Reginald of Wysbech, Stephen of Swafham, and Symm of Westone are to choose a bishop from themselves or the others.

(fol. 48.) Item, a prorogation of one day to another, with continuation.

(fol. 48b.) * given in Chapter upon the election:—

1309, Monday, 6 Non. Mart. They appointed Robert de Swafham, Peter de Horingesseye, John de Waltone, Adam de Neutone, Alan de Hemmyngestone, Ayns de Mordone, and John de Orewelle, co-monks, to choose a bishop; who chose John de Ketene, almoner of the House, of the order of St. Benedict; he affected to refuse; they accepted him; sung Te Deum: they went to High Altar, and declared the election to the clerks and the people by R. de Swafham.

(fol. 48b.) Power of choosing given to other referees (compromissariis) because those first appointed did not choose. Dated Monday, 6 Non. Martil. (This should precede the last preceding document.)

(fol. 50.) Consent of the elect J. de Ketene to the election made of him; 5 Id. Mart. (7½ lines).

Power given by the referees to one of them that he may choose the one on whom they agreed before singing of Compline, 6 Non. Mart.—Robert de Swafham, Peter de Horingesseye, John de Waltone, Adam de Neutone, Alan de Hemmyngestone, Ayns de Mordene, and John de Orewelle appointed R. de Swafham to choose Ketene:—he chose him, and he made a writing of it in this form, &c.

(fol. 50b.) Protest made of one of the Chapter in the names of himself and all the co-brethren in the said election.

1309, 3 Kal. Mart. Brother John de Cointone, by order of the Prior and Chapter, warns all who are suspended, excommunicated, interdicted, &c. not to take part in the election.

5 Id. Mart. Presentation made to the Archbishop by the co-brethren.—They present to Robert Archbishop of Canterbury John de Ketene, by the hands of Alan de Hemmyngeston and Ayns de Mordene.

(fol. 51.) 5 Id. Mart. A similar presentation to the King.

The King's letter to the Archbishop assenting to the election of J. de Ketene.

(fol. 51b.) Articles proposed by the clergy to nullify the first citation, made by Walter Reynaud, Archbishop of Canterbury: by the Abbats, Priors of cathedral churches, Deans, Archdeacons, and Proctors of Chapters, and the clergy in the province of Canterbury, in congregation at Westminster.—Eight articles—1. Convocation of clergy ought not to be by the King as the present is.—They implore him to revoke the citation, &c. Ends 52b. (This is cancelled).

(fol. 53.) Petition by J. de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, to the King for confirmation of the charters to Ely, in his Parliament at York, in the 12th year of his reign.—The Petition is (in French) that the charters may be rehearsed and that the franchises may be confirmed. As he and his predecessors have had in the half Hundred of Mitford, co. Norfolk, the return of writs, &c., he prays that they may have a coroner chosen by the King's writ.

Order that there may be assigned the Justices, the King's sergeants, and two clerks to see the charters; and consider, &c. As to the coroner, let it be enquired, &c.

(fol. 53b.) Confirmation by the King Edw. II. in his 12th year, by the advice of the justices, sergeants, and clerks, who examined, &c.; of the Charters 12 Edw. II., 1 Dec. Confirmation of King Edgar's charter.

Same date. Confirmation of the charters of King Edward and William the Conqueror.

(fol. 54b.) Same date. Confirmation of a charter of King Henry IV (i.e. Hen. III.), and of another confirming that (cancelled).

* A word seems to be omitted.

(fol. 55b.) 1334, 7 Kal. Jul. Presentation by the Prior and Convent of Ely to John, Bishop of Ely, of Richard de Rikelinge to the Vicarage of Wyckham.

(fol. 56.) The King's writ to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, for green wax pertaining to the Prior and Convent of Ely, the see being vacant, according to the terms of their charters.

12 Edw. (II.), June 2, York. The King's writ, reciting that Hugh, formerly bishop, and the Bishop of Ely had right by royal grant to collect all amercedments of men and lands in the Hundred and a half of Midford, and the five Hundreds and a half of Wickelowe and Trilynge, of Wyneslowe, as well of their fees as of their own, and all fines, &c. &c.; and that if the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridge, Huntingdon, Essex, and Hertford, and the Hundreds of the said counties in which the Bishop has land, should before the justices in Eyre fall in mercy or fine for mercy, the Bishop and their men should be quit of the amercedment and the fine;—He has granted to John, now Bishop of Ely, and the Prior and Convent of Ely, that though they have not yet used the above privileges, yet they may use them, and all officers are to allow them.

12 Edw. II., May 16, York.—The King's word to the Treasurer and Chamberlain, to certify him of the undermentioned liberties of the church of Ely.—What they claimed before Stephen de Segreve, &c., justices in Eyre, temp. H. III., for the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk;—and before John de Reygate, &c., justices in Eyre, temp. Edw. I., in the counties of Hertford and Essex, and his other justices in the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridge, and Huntingdon.

(fol. 57.) The Prior and Convent of Ely to the King (French). They say that the Priory, on a voidance of the see of Ely, ought to be in ward to none but the Convent; that the late King, after the death of William de Luda, late bishop of Ely, took the Priory into his hands, and then regranted it to the Prior and Convent, severed for ever from the Bishoprick, saving to him and his heirs in time of voidance. They say that the saving clause is in prejudice of their rights, and pray the King to remove it.

(fol. 57b.) 6 Sept. The Prior and Convent of Ely to the Treasurer and Chamberlain of the King.—Excusing themselves from a loan asked by the King for his wars with Scotland.

Letter by the Prior and Convent to the Bishop to excuse them from a corrody for Peter of Cornwall, asked by the Bishop.

(fol. 58.) Composition between the Bishop of Ely and Nicholas ate Holdehall, of Estewarham, about a certain relief exacted from the said Nicholas for half a mark of yearly rent exchanged. Dated 11 Ed. II., Friday after feast of All Saints.—The Bishop claimed from Nicholas that Nicholas, for himself and his vassals and their villenages, and other tenements of Nicholas which he holds of the Bishop in Est Derham, Matis-hale, and Jakesham, in all tallages and contributions on vassals, naifs, or serfs of the Bishop in the said vill assessed to the use of Bishop of Ely, and on all recognitions of the said vassals, &c. of the said Bishop, should in any new creation of the Bishop contribute; paying to the Bishop for the time being 16d. for every 20s.; which contribution, Nicholas argues, is servile; and he is a free man holding of the Bishop, and his services are certain; and that he ought not to contribute to an assessment at will, &c., &c. He gives the Bishop 6s. 6d. as additional rent; and the Bishop, with the assent of the Prior and Convent, release Nicholas from all tallage, &c.

(fol. 58b.) The Prior of Ely and the Convent to the Bishop. A letter about the jurisdiction of the Sacrist of Ely.

(fol. 59.) 1320, Sunday, feast of St. Andrew the Apostle. John, the Prior of Ely, and the Convent, grant a corrody to Richard de la Brugge, of Spalding.

1320, Tuesday after the feast of St. Thomas the Apostle. The Prior of Ely and the Convent confirm a grant by the Bishop to John de Owsthorp, Rector of Leverington, and Thomas de Owsthorp, his brother, of 116 acres and 1 rood of arable land in Colne and Bluntham, 2 acres thereof lying in a culture called Tibeldescroft, &c., for 20 years, at a rent of 9l. 16s. 9½d.

(fol. 59b.) 1320, 5 Kal. Feb. The Prior and Convent to the Bishop.—John de Breckam, rector of a moiety of the church of Walepol, and Ralph de Pagrave, rector of the church of Southburn with the chapel of Oreford belonging to their presentation, desire to exchange. They present John to the Church of Southburn with the chapel of Oreford, reserving the ancient yearly payment of 10s. to them and their church.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

(fol. 60.) 1322. J. the Prior of Ely, and the Convent to the King.—About a month ago the church and bell-tower fell down, and the bells were broken.—They ask respite for payment of money to the Exchequer, &c.

(fol. 60b.) 1321, Saturday after the feast of St. Valentine.—The Prior and Convent grant a corrody to Raymond, son of Roger atte Connisdene, of Cambridge.

10 Kal. Mart. The Prior and Convent to J. Bishop of Ely.—The Bishop's friend, Simon de Brawne, and his son, rector of the church of Bernham, wish to appropriate that church to their Convent.—They desire his aid.

(fol. 61.) 1322, Id. Jan. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to W., Archbishop of Canterbury. They appoint J. de Spanneby and H. de Treppelow, clerks, their proctors at the meeting on the morrow of St. Hilary in the cathedral church of Lincoln, about certain articles touching the state of the Church of England and the realm of England.

1322. Prid. Kal. Jan. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to Jo., Bishop of Ely.—They present J. de Haverelle, priest, to the vicarage of the church of Meldeborne.

1323. 13 Kal. Sept. The Prior of Ely and the Convent appoint W. de Hovedene Sub-prior, and J. de Conington co-monks, to be their proctors to treat with the executors of J. de Ketene, late Bishop, concerning accounts between them.

(fol. 61b.) 1321, Saturday after the feast of St. Valentine. J. de Crandene, the Prior of Ely, and the Convent grant a corrody to Reginald, son of Roger atte Townsende.

... last of October. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to J. [de Hotham], Bishop of Ely. Asking for delay to render accounts of the manors late of Thomas de Weyland.

(fol. 62.) 1323, Jan. 3. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to the King (French).—The King by his letters has asked to know how many "expensiois e gastreysous" e mandemens e envoys" they and their house are charged with, as well by his father as by himself. They say they are not charged with "expensiois," and never were. For "gastreysous," in the time of his father they had one William de Bungey, who lived with them all his life, living with them as one of their servants (pernant de nous come home de office), and that, Sire, at his request. From him (the King) they have John Almant, who remained with them all his life (pernant, &c. as above) at the present King's request. They pray his mercy; their Church is all ruined.

(fol. 62b.) 17 Edw. II. Saturday next before All Saints.—Bond from John de Cranden, Prior of Ely and the Convent, to Master Alexander de Broke, executor of Robert de Orford, Bishop of Ely, in 218*l.* 16*s.*, borrowed for church business.

17 Edw. II. Saturday after Feast of St. Mark the Evangelist.—John, the Prior of Ely and the Convent, grant a corrody to Simon, called Porter of Ely, and Margaret his wife.

17 Edw. II. Saturday in the Feast of St. Augustine, Bishop of the English.—J., Prior of Ely and the Convent, to the King.—They have received his letters directing a corrody to William de Eltise, similar to that had by John Aleman, deceased. They grant it.

(fol. 63.) Same date. Grant of the corrody to William de Eltise for his life.

Memorandum that it was agreed that William de Eltise should reside in the Hostelry, and the Prior therefor was bound to the Hosteler in 20*s.* per annum.

4 Non. Sept. John, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to John, Bishop of Ely.—The Bishop has said that he will do their request at the Exchequer if they will submit to him as their Superior.—they consent.

(fol. 63b.) 1324, Sept. 1.—John de Crandene, Prior of Ely, and the Convent: reciting a letter from John the Bishop, dated at Glemford, 1 Kal. Sept., 1324, saying that King Edward had licensed Herry de Stanton, the King's clerk and dear friend, that he in a messuage in Cambridge, which he had acquired in fee, might found a certain House of Scholars, chaplains and others, to be named the House of the Scholars of St. Michael of Cambridge, to be ruled by a certain master of the said House, according to the direction of the said Herry; and that he, following the King's steps, and commending the King's intentions, assents to the foundation thereof in his diocese.—The Prior and Convent confirm it. (This is cancelled.)

2 (Edw. III.) 8 Id. Mart. Confirmation by J. de Crandene, Prior of Ely and the Convent, of the appropriation of the church of St. Michael, Cambridge, to the master and scholars of the House of St. Michael there. (14 pp.) It contains an Insuperius of a letter of J., Bishop of Ely, to the master and scholars, dated Halebourn, 5 Non. Mart, 1324. (This is cancelled.)

(fol. 64b.) 1325, October. Monday in the Translation of St. Ethelreda the Virgin.—Before the Prior and Convent of Ely in the Chapter House; Reginald de Suthwik, rector of the church of Repham, Lincoln diocese, John de Brantingham, sacrist in the cathedral church of Lincoln, and William de Barton, vicar of St. Ives, executors of the will of Robert de Lascy, treasurer of the church of Lincoln, who was executor of the will of Master John de Lascy, his cousin one of the executors of the will of Hugh de Balsham, Bishop of Ely,—assert that they know the testament of the testator; inter cetera, &c. They admit that the executors gave them 30*l.* of John's moneys, to be applied to the fabric of the church, &c. They agree to indemnify the executors.

Inrolment; before Henry de Staunton and his companions, Justices in Eyre in the Tower of London, 14 Edw. II. Concerning the tenement of the Bishop of Ely in Halebourn in the suburbs of London.—The Assize come to recognise if John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, unjustly deprived Margaret de Oseulle, Walter de Henly, Robert Grimband, and Hugh Prill, of their freehold in the suburbs of London, after the summons of the Eyre. The Bishop appears by Elyas de Asschebourne, his attorney.—The messuage was long in the seisin of John de Kirkeby Bishop of Ely, brother of the said Margaret, and uncle of the said Walter, Hugh, and Robert, whose heirs they are; John de Kirkeby by his will gave it to the church of Ely and the Bishops of the see. In consequence, William de Luda and Ralph de Walpole, Bishops of Ely, held it, and Robert, afterwards Bishop of Ely, held it; and King Edward, in the 31st year of his reign, licensed Robert and his successors to hold it, notwithstanding the statute. (The King's charter is set out).—The plaintiffs take nothing.—The Bishop goes without day.

(fol. 65b.) 1326 (the MS. has 1306). Confirmation by the Chapter of Ely of a grant (dated 19 Edw. II., Sunday in the Feast of Trinity) by J., Bishop of Ely, to Warin de Alnewyk, his barber, of a place in the waste at Ely, at the Steple.

(fol. 66.) 1326. Saturday, Vigil of Sts. Peter and Paul. Confirmation by J. de Craudene the Prior and the Chapter of Ely, of a grant (dated 10 June, 1326) by John de Hotham to Simon Scot, the hosteler, in tail, of a messuage and 20 acres of arable land in Feltwelt, which Margaret Scorieur long held of the Bishops, and called Scorieur's land; rent 16*s.*

(fol. 66b.) 1326, 8 Kal. Sept. The Prior of Ely and the Convent, obtaining the Church of St. Andrew, of Cambridge without Bornewell gates, Ely diocese, to their own use, appoint John de Totyngton, clerk, to be their proctor for all matters concerning it.

(fol. 67.) 20 Edw. II. Sunday, Vigil of St. Michael. The Prior of Ely and the Convent demise to Geoffrey Bruseyard, and Egelina, his wife, a messuage in Upwell and 24 acres of pasture in a field called Planfeld, and 17*s.* of rent payable out of tenements named in the schedule, and 20 stickers and 5 stickers of eels, for 20 years, at a yearly rent of 30*s.*

(fol. 67b.) 20 Edw. II. 1326. Friday, morrow of the Circumcision. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, make brother Nicholas de Copmanford, co-monk, and Martin William de Birtan, clerk, their proctors jointly and severally, for the Parliament summoned for the morrow of the Epiphany.

20 Edw. II. Morrow of the new year (lendemayn del an renvef). The Prior of Ely and the Convent appoint Nicholas de Copmanford and Simon de Adrunne to treat with Lady Elizabeth de Burgh, Lady of Clare, and her counsel, of things touching the manor of Lakyngh; and if she will let it to them in fee farm, they (Nicholas and Simon) may agree on terms.

1326. Prid. Kal. Jan. The Prior of Ely and the Convent to William, Bishop of Norwich. They present Robert de Fresefeld, chaplain, to the Church of Melton, reserving a pension of 10*s.* yearly.

(fol. 68.) 1326. Saturday after the Feast of St. Vincent the Martyr. J. de C., the Prior of Ely, and the Convent appoint Nicholas de Copmanford, co-brother and co-monk, their proctor in all things touching the church.

1327. Monday after Feast of St. Ambrose the Bishop. J. the Prior and the Convent of Ely grant to Robert de Paucecle, chaplain, 40*s.* yearly from the Prior's chamber.

(fol. 68b.) J., the Prior, and the Convent of Ely, to J., the Bishop of Norwich. (A document without date and indistinctly written.)

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

1 Edw. III. 1327. Monday after the Feast of St. Barnabas the Apostle. Insuperimus by J. de Craudene, the Prior, and the church of Ely, of an Insuperimus and confirmation by J., Bishop of Ely (dated London, 8 Id. Jul. 1325), of a letter from the King under the Great Seal dated Bishopsthorp, 1 June, 16 Edw. II.), and an order made by William de Lolleworthe, of Cambridge, clerk, containing as follows:—Edward, to all, &c., licensing William de Lolleworthe to give 2 messuages and 7 acres of land and 40s. of rent in Cambridge and Chastir-tone to 2 chaplains to say divine service every day at the altar of St. Nicholas in St. Clement's Church, Cambridge, for the King's soul, and Isabel's (Queen of England), his consort, and ancestors and heirs, and the souls of William and his mother, and Margaret, his wife, and Henry de Bertone and Cecily his wife, and Agnes de Bertone, Roger Joachim, Robert de Maddyngle and Richard Laurence, and all faithful dead,—notwithstanding the statute.—Item, a gift (dated 17 Edw. II., Sunday after Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr) by William de Holleworthe (Lolleworthe), clerk, for the souls of the King and Queen and him and Margaret his wife, and Henry de Langham, his father, and Matilda, his wife (William's mother), &c., to God and the Church of St. Nicholas, in the parish of St. Clement, Cambridge, of two messuages in Cambridge lying together (boundaries given), and 40s. of rent, payable from a cottage (boundaries given) and from a messuage in Milnestrere (boundaries given), and 7 acres in Chastirton.—Regulations and provisos.—The Prior and Chapter confirm.

(fol. 70.) 1320. Friday after the feast of St. Martin. J. the Prior and the Convent of Ely have received of the executors of Roger de Huntingfield, late rector of Balsham, Ely diocese, the undermentioned books which he borrowed of them under an Indenture, viz.: Sermones fratris Thome de Alquino in quatuor voluminibus; et Questiones ordinarie ejusdem fratris, scilicet de Veritate, de potencia Dei, de Malo, de Spiritualibus creaturis, in uno volumine: Item, Summa Magistri Henrici de Gandavo in uno volumine; et Disputationes ejusdem de colibet* in alio volumine: Item, Lectura super libros morales Aristotelis, viz., super libros Ethicorum, Politicorum, et libellum de bonâ fortunâ in alio volumine: Item, librum Canonis Avicenne de Medicina in duobus voluminibus.

1331, 15 Kal. Junii. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, to J., Bishop of Ely. They present John Waleys, of Sobeltone, priest, to the vicarage of the church of Winteworth. (In the later heading it is called Wyndeforde.)

5 Edw. III., 1331. Tuesday after the feast of St. Peter ad Vincula. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, manumit William, son of Master John of Fotistone, with all his issue procreated or to be procreated, and all his chattels. Witnesses, Sir Robert de Lisle, Sir William de Colne, Sir William de Ryston, Knights, and others (named.)

(fol. 70, b. A bad, later hand.) J. the Prior, and the Convent of Ely to J. bishop of Ely; about a judgment by the Barons of the Exchequer on their claim to fines and amercements in time of vacancy.

1333. Monday in the morrow of Assumption of the Virgin. Manumission of John atte Lune of Lakynghton, and his issue, &c., &c.

1339, May 19. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent to Simon, Bishop of Ely. They present Wymund de Ellesworthe, priest, to the vicarage of Haukeston.

(fol. 71.) 1332. Wednesday after the feast of St. Bartholomew the Apostle. The Prior and Convent of Ely, having to appear before S., Archbishop of Canterbury and Legate Apostolic, in Council, on the 4th of Sept. next in St. Paul's Church, London, to treat on Church matters of the Province, they appoint Robert de Aylesham, co-monk and co-brother, and Master Reginald Piker of Ely, clerk, to be their proctors.

9 Edw. (III.) May 5. The Prior and Convent of Ely, having to appear in the Parliament at York on the morrow of the Ascension, they appoint brother Ralerc de Aylesham, and Henry de Thetford, their proctors.

A short document indistinctly written.

fol. (71b.) Confirmation by the Prior and Convent of Ely of a grant by J. de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, to John le Warin of Hadham, of a messuage and half a virgate of land in Hadham, for his life, at a rent of 9s. 2½d.

4 Edw. III., Tuesday after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent are bound to Simon de Brunne in 150l. lent to them for church matters; repayable by instalments.

(fol. 72.) May 23 (French.) The Prior and Convent of Ely to King Edward. Because a robber has taken out of our church four books of great value, viz.:—The Decretum, Decretals, the Bible and Concordance, of which the first three are now at Paris, arrested and detained under sequestration by the officer of the Bishop of Paris, whom our proctor has often prayed in form of law to deliver them, but he behaves so strangely that we shall find in him neither right, grace, nor favour:—We ask you to write to the Bishop of Paris to intermeddle favourably and tell his official to do right, so that we may get our things back.

Saturday after the feast of St. Denis the Martyr. The Prior and Convent of Ely to J., Bishop of Ely.—The church of Fulham is vacant by the death of the rector. It is said that William de Colly has presented a clerk, whose name we know not, by title of the Bishop's donation, as he pretends. Many persons skilled in both laws prophecy ill to us, viz., that if he once presented and his presentee were instituted, then he would get the right for ever to him and his heirs, notwithstanding any recognizance or indemnity to the bishop; therefore we send Master Nicholas de Cosson and J. de Totyngton, proctors, to act in all matters about it.

(72b.) 1332. Feast day of St. Mark, the Evangelist. The Prior and Convent of Ely, having obtained canonically the church of Wychem by their own use, appoint Nicolas de Copmanford and Robert de Brigham their proctors for all matters concerning it.

1333, 4 Kal. June. The like to the same persons.

(fol. 73.) 1325, June 2. The Prior and Convent of Ely appoint Nicholas de Copmanford and Walter de Skeling monks, William de Wylton, Robert de Wynewyk of Copmanford, John atte Halle of the same place, and John Edward of Sutton, their proctors, to collect all fruits, rents, tithes, oblations, &c. of the church of Wychem, Ely diocese.

1335, 4 Kal. Mart. The Prior and Chapter of Ely appoint Master La . . Falstolf and brother Robert de Aylesham, co-monk, their proctors, to appear before John, Archbishop of Canterbury, at St. Paul's, on Sunday in Mid-Lent, to treat of the affairs of the English Church; and also in the Parliament at Westminster.

(fol. 73b.) The Bishop of Ely to the Prior and Chapter of Ely, asking them to search their archives for documents touching the Hospital of St. John at Cambridge.

The Prior and Convent's letter to the Bishop, sending transcripts. (Ends 75a.)

(fol. 75b.) 1334, Aug. 23, London. Insuperimus by the Prior and Convent of Ely of a charter by J. Bishop of Ely (dated 5 Feb. 1333), granting a piece of land called Julyk in Wisbeach to Sir Simon de Drayton, K^t, for his life, at a rent of 4 marks.—They confirm it, saving the rights of the church of Wisbeach.

1335, April 10. Confirmation by J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent of the appropriation of the church of Great Habiton to the monks of Hatfield Regis, by J., Bishop of Ely in 1334. (This is cancelled.)

(fol. 76.) 6 Edw. III., 12 Kal. Feb. John de Crawdene the Prior of Ely and the Convent confirm the gift by J. de Hotham, Bishop of Ely (dated 6 Edw., Friday in the Crucifixion), to John de Waltham, his shield-bearer and familiar, of a loft and 12 acres of land in East Derham.

8 Edw. III., 12 Kal. Feb. Confirmation by the Prior and Convent of a gift (dated 8 Edw., Tuesday after Feast of St. Mark, the Evangelist) by the Bishop of a messuage in Somersham to Geoffrey le Ferour.

(fol. 76b.) 1335, 9 Edw. III. Monday is the vigil of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary. Confirmation by the Prior and Convent of a gift (dated 1335, 9 Edw. III., Wednesday after Feast of St. James) by the Bishop of 30 acres of land in Hadham, in the Isle of Ely, in a field called Westhall, to Robert de Orford and Agnes his wife and Beatrice their daughter, for their lives and the life of the survivor. The grantees came into Court at Londe, and prayed that the charter might be inrolled.—The Prior and Convent in their confirmation reserve from every acre one good garb of corn for support of the lamp of St. Peter and St. Ethelreda.

1335, Tuesday, vigil of All Saints (French). The Prior and Convent of Ely to Elizabeth de Bourg, Lady of Clare.—They grant to her to be their very dear lady and sister, and partaker in orisons, vigils, fasts, alms, and other good deeds.

(fol. 77.) 1335, 3 Non. Feb. The Prior and Convent of Ely present to Wm. Bishop of Norwich, Reginald de Ely, clerk, to whom they have given the church of Fodeston.

9 Edw. III. Tuesday in the feast of St. James. The Prior and Convent of Ely to the King.—The King has

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

* This pronunciation of quolibet at Ely in the 14th century is noticeable.

asked a corrody for Alexander del Esquellerie, such as John Aleman had.—They consent.

The same to the same (French). They have granted that Alexander del Esquellerie may take his livery as well while absent as present; this is unprecedented; they pray that it may not prejudice them.

(fol. 77b.) 10 Edw. III. beginning, Feb. 9. They grant a corrody to Alexander de Esquellerie.

1335, 11 Kal. Jan. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent confirm the grant (dated Bishops Hatfield, 8 Kal. Sept. 1335) by John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, to the master and scholars of the house of St. Peter, Cambridge (Hugh de Halsham, Bishop of Ely, is mentioned as founder of the house), of the church of Hynton. (This is cancelled.)

(fol. 78.) 1336, May 10. The Prior of Ely and the Convent confirm the grant by Bishop John (dated 14 April, 10 Edw. III.), to John le Warner of Hadham, of the keepership of the park and warren of Hadham, at a wage of 1*½*d. per day.

1336, May 10. The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm the grant by Bishop John (dated 28 Dec. 1334) to John de Byrne of 28 acres of land of the demesnes in divers places in the fields of Schelford, for his life, at a rent of 2*8*s.; and that he may have a fold, with 100 sheep on the demesnes. They reserve to the church of Ely one garb of corn yearly from each acre for the lamps of St. Ethelreda, as by divers charters and privileges of Kings and Popes is conceded.

(fol. 78b.) 1336, May 23. Confirmation by the Prior and Convent of the grant by Bishop John (dated 20 May 1336) of the keepership of the warren of Dodington to Alexander le Boteler for his life, with a wage of 2*d*. per day.

11 Edw. III., Feb. 20. Receipt by John the Prior and the Convent of Ely from Sir Simon de Drayton, K^t, and Master Alan de Hotham and Nicholas de Stokton, executors of the will of John de Hotham, late Bishop of Ely, of 100 pounds of silver bequeathed by the will for the fabric of the chapel of St. Mary in the Monastery.

1336, Jan. 7. The Prior and Convent of Ely appoint dom. William de Lond, and Henry de Theford, clerk, to be their proctors for the Parliament at York, in the octaves of the Purification of St. Mary.

7 Oct. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent,—after reciting a deed, dated 17 Aug. 1326, and 10th of his consecration by John, Bishop of Ely,—which recites a charter by King Edward (dated Westm. 12 Oct., 9th year, under the Great Seal in green wax), and an Ordinance by Robert de Combreton of Cambridge, granting license to Robert de Combreton to give 3 messuages and 4 acres of land in Cambridge to a chaplain at the altar of St. Mary the Virgin in the parish church of St. Peter outside Trompeton, for the souls of Robert and Emma his wife, &c. and of Sabina Asselof, all faithful dead,—and a license to the chaplain to receive the messuages, &c.; and the gift by Robert (dated 1326, 19 Edw. II., Sunday after feast of St. Barnabas);—They confirm the gift.

(fol. 79b.) Thursday, morrow of the feast of St. John the Baptist. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent to John, Bishop of Ely.—Under the shadow of his wings they rested, and they thank him, as a good shepherd; but now the sleeping dog is awakened by the Barons of the Exchequer upon their claims for fines and amercements in time of vacancy.—They ask him to get a delay for them.

10 Edw. III., April 8. Richard de Walpol, chaplain, and Martin de Mendham, chaplain, to all, &c.—Whereas John de Ellerker, parson of the church of Lemington, enfeoffed them of certain tenements in Thames Street, London; and John was impleaded concerning them by writ of right at the suit of Sir Edward de Kendale.—They appoint brother Nicholas de Copmanford, their special attorney, in the names of John and themselves to treat with the said Edward; and they agree to confirm.

1332, Wednesday after feast of Nativity.—J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent confirm y^e manumission, by Jo. Bishop of Ely, of William atte Neuhous, Adam, Thomas, Richard, his sons, and Margery, sister of Richard, their naifs, and their issue. The manumission is dated at Wisbeach, Monday after the feast of the Assumption, 1332, and the witnesses were Geoffrey de Colneye, John, his son, and Edmund Mompinson, Kts., and 4 others named, and others.

(fol. 80.) 1335, Feb. 16. The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm a grant by Bishop John de Hotham (dated 4 Feb. 1335) to Robert Willard the park keeper of Somersham, of the keepership of the parks and woods of Somersham.

In the Great Roll of the 9th year of King Edw. III. Allowance of 100*l*. for the evasion of Robert the clerk, made in the time of J. de Craudene, Prior of Ely.

The Prior of Ely owes 100*l*. to the Bishop of Ely for the escape of Robert Carpenter, clerk, convict, who escaped from the custody of John de Hemington, formerly Prior of Ely, predecessor of the present Prior. He escaped, as it is contained in Rolls of 15 and 27 of King Edward, grandfather of the present King, and in the roll of amercements before J. de Berewic and his companions 27 Edw. I., &c.

(fol. 80b.) 1334, morrow of the Annunciation. Agreement between the Prior and Convent of Ely, and Nicholas de Glington, clerk, and Benedict Kellock of Ely. The Prior and Convent lease to Nicholas and Benedict a toft of land lying outside the bank of the castle of Ely, at a rent of 2*s*.

7 Edw. III., Saturday before the feast of St. Thomas, 18th year of the Pontificate of John de Hotham.—Pleas before Simon de Draiton and Robert de Tholthorp at Ely. John de Crauden sues Benedict Kellock for a moiety of a messuage in Ely. The Prior recovers, and Benedict is in mercy. The Justices ask if there was collusion between the parties, in fraud of the Statute, and the jury answer in the negative.

(fol. 81.) 1335, 9 Kal. Mart. The Prior and Convent release to John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, all actions for garbs due to the Monastery, &c., &c.

1336, April 23. The Prior and Convent of Ely, to John, Archbishop of Canterbury in charge of the See of Norwich, which is vacant. Whereas Henry de Edenstoke, rector of the church of Sudburne with the chapel of Orford, wishes to exchange with John Aslakeby, rector of the church of Castre;—they present John to the church of Sudburn with the chapel of Orford, and pray for his admission and institution.

1336, April 1. The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm a charter by the Bishop (dated at Dodington 24 March 1335), which states that whereas John de Insula, patron of the church of Ristone and a moiety of the church of Fordham (Norwich diocese), gave the advowsons thereof to the Prior and Convent of the Church of the Trinity at Norwich for the support of a chantry for the souls of him and Mary, his wife, he, the Bishop, confirms the donation.

(fol. 81b.) A public instrument and final account passed by brother Robert de Aylesham of the whole collection of the quadrennial tenth granted by Pope John XXII. Dated, London 17 March 1335; and a notarial certificate (2*½* pp. in all).

(fol. 82b.) 1336, May 21. Downham. John, Bishop of Ely, to Master Nicholas de Stocton, rector of Tydd. The Bishop appoints Nicholas to be coadjutor of himself, the Bishop (John de Hotham) being old and infirm; and the Chapter confirm the appointment.

1336, Aug. 26. John, Bishop of Ely, to Master Alan de Hotham, Canon of St. Paul's, London, and rector of the parish church of Derham; appointing him his coadjutor; the Chapter confirm it.

(fol. 83.) In the great Roll of Accounts of the Tenth and Fifteenth of 8 Edw. III.—Do. of the Tenths in 8 Edw. III.—Memoranda of two writs for levying the aforesaid debt.

(fol. 83b.) Roll of the IX. Edw. III. (4 lines in the margin.)

9 Edw. III. Wednesday after the feast of the Nativity of John the Baptist.—John de Craudene, Prior of Ely, and the Convent give to Henry de Colne, son of William de Colne, a rent of 25 quarters of corn, from lands at Blontisham, co. Huntingdon.

12 Edw. III., July 16. The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm the manumission by Bishop Simon (dated Thursday in Pentecost, 12 Edw. III.) of Richard de Downham of Ely, with his issue, &c.

Same date. They confirm the manumission of Hugh de Downham.

(fol. 84.) Simon, Bishop of Ely, to the Prior and Chapter of Ely, asking them to look into their archives for the confirmation of the grant and appropriation by Hugh de Balsham, late Bishop, of the Church of St. Peter without Trompeton, Cambridge, to the Master and poor scholars of Peter House, Cambridge (which they cannot find).

1331, March 22. J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, to all, &c. Inexpimus of a charter dated 3 Non. Oct. 1283, by the Brethren of the Hospital of St. John, Cambridge, and one dated Prid. Kal. April 1284, by Hugh, Bishop of Ely, and a ratification dated 2 Kal. April 1284, by the master and brethren of St. John's Hospital.

(fol. 85.) 1339. Last of April. J. the Prior and the Convent of Ely, to B., Bishop of Norwich. They present Dom. Roger Reynbal de Jakesle chaplain to the vicarage of the Church of Wynston. (The heading says that it was after the death of Adam de Wysbeach, the vicar).

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

(fol. 85b.) 1338. Monday after the post-feast of St. Gregory. The Prior and Chapter of Ely to S. Bishop of Ely. They acknowledge his letter, intimating a visitation, dated 13 Kal. Mart.

March 3. Downham. Another letter by the Bishop about the same matter.

(fol. 86.) 1333, Sept. 3. The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm a deed by J. de Hotham, Bishop of Ely (dated 7 August 1333), to Robert, son of John Huberd, of Wysbeach. The Bishop's deed states that he had treated Robert as a naif, and had afterwards sent his steward, Robert de Thorthorp, to inquire of his condition, who found, by the oaths of as well freemen as naifs, that ^re ancestors of Robert (son of John Huberd) were adventurous; and thus he acknowledges him to be a free man, and that he has received a full account for the time that he was bailiff of the manor of Beaudesert.

1336, May 24. J. de Crandene, the Prior of Ely, and the Chapter, to all, &c. They confirm the charter by J. de Hotham (dated 17 Aug. 1336), which says that, having received a statement on behalf of the Master, Scholars, and Fellows of the house of the University of Cambridge, by Master Robert de Baddewe, the Chancellor, and by the University there, in the parish Church of St. John of Milnestrete, that they were so poor and loaded with debt that they could not get on;—he appropriated to them the Church of Lytlington, at the prayer of Elizabeth de Burg, Lady Clare, and others; and gives special directions for services. (Nearly 3 pp.)

(fol. 87b.) July 3. Letter (in French) by the Prior and Convent of Ely, to Lady Elizabeth de Burg, Lady of Clare.—We have heard of the appropriation of Littington, and that nothing is reserved to our church.—Please your nobleness to understand that you are the sovereign lady in this world, &c.—They confirm it notwithstanding.

(fol. 88.) 1337. According to the computation of the English Church. Indiction 6. Nov. 1.—Robert de Fresingfeld, Vicar of Lakingham, surrendered his vicarage to Anthony, Bishop of Norwich.

1337, Nov. 2. The Prior and Convent of Ely present John de Wrestlingworth to the vicarage of Lakingham.

1338, June 19. The Prior and Convent of Ely to Antony, Bishop of Norwich.—Thomas de Assel, Rector of Stokes near Ipswich, prebendary of the prebend of Wodburgh in the church of St. Mary of Sidwell, Ely, wishes to exchange with Robert de Edinstowe, Rector of the church of Bryngbir[s]te, Lincoln diocese.—They present Robert to the church of Stokes.

(fol. 88b) n. d. (French.) To the very noble and very dread Lord Edward, by the grace of God, &c. his principal chaplains, the Prior and Convent of Ely, &c.—Most excellent Lord, we have fully considered your honourable letter, by which you have sent to say that we must well remember how we formerly promised to send you a chalice and two cups of gold (deus crucis dor), by reason that you would not carry away our other jewels: wherefore you order us to send you the said chalice and cups without delay. Very noble Lord, may it please your highness to understand that we sent one of our monks with the said chalice and cups to the town of St. Edmunds, as was agreed in the Tower of London before your council (privies) there; but the said monk, when he got to St. Edmunds, did not find any one who was commissioned to receive them; and so he brought them back, until you should again signify your honourable will concerning them. Now, sire, we send them to you, as your honourable letters direct.*

1339. Note of the presentation to the vicarage of St. Cyric of Swaffham, of John Matthew of Bolyngham.

1342, June 1. Alan, Prior of the Cathedral Church of Ely, and the Convent, to Simon, Bishop of Ely.—They present Thomas de Stockton of St. Edmund, chaplain to the perpetual vicarage of the church of Melreth, vacant by the death of Philip Tyd, the last vicar. They ask the Bishop to admit and institute him.

Note of the presentation of John Noble, chaplain, to the vicarage of Impton, after the death of John Walbelyn (or Wawelyn.)

1363. Note of the presentation to the same vicarage of John Atecherche, after the resignation of John de Schelford.

Note of the presentation to the vicarage of Stowchesworth of John Wryche, after a resignation in 1300.

Note of the presentation of the vicarage of Wynston to William Maloc, after exchange with John Cook, 28 May 1378.

(fol. 89.) Form of perambulation of the bounds and divisions between the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon, made in 13 Ed. (I.).—The King's writ, dated 20 April, 14 Edw. I. to Thomas de Weyland, John de Kirkeby, Ralph de Hengham, and N. de Stapleton.—Then follow the names of men from the counties of Cambridge, Huntingdon, Lincoln, and Northampton, who tell the bounds.

(fol. 89b.) 1344. 3 Kal. Nov. The Prior and Chapter of Ely, to Simon, Bishop of Ely. William de Feriby, perpetual vicar of the church of St. Botolph of Cambridge, and John de Boyland, perpetual vicar of the church of St. Andrew of Stupiford, wish to exchange. They present William de Feriby to the vicarage of St. Andrew of Stupiford.

(fol. 90.) Perambulation of the forest, co. Huntingdon. 29 Edw. I. Feb. 14, London. King Edward's charter that the perambulation made, before Roger le Brabazon and his companions, of his forest in the county of Huntingdon, shall be observed. The tenor is as follows: in the 28th year of Edward, the son of Henry, on Friday in the feast of St. Edmund, King and Martyr, the perambulation was made.

(fol. 90b.) The perambulation of the forest in the county of Huntingdon that King Henry, great-grandfather of King Edward aforested, &c.

(fol. 91b.) 1292. 10 Kal. Aug. William, Bishop of Ely, to all, &c. Ratification of certain documents regarding the appropriation to Merton College, Oxford, of part of the vicarage of Garmelingegey. (Several documents are recited.)

(fol. 93.) Liberties of the Bishop of Ely, claimed before John de Reygate, William de Northburgh and their companions, justices in Eyre, in the co. of Hertford, in the ^{year} of King Edward, son of King Henry, in the first Iter made next after his coronation, (2 pp.). The Bishop goes without day.

(fol. 94.) 10 Edw. , July 8, Windsor. The King to John Abel and Simon de Hardersote, guardian of the see of Ely, which is vacant.—The Prior and Convent of Ely are to have the fines and amercements within the Hundred and a half of Midford (granted by King Henry, his grandfather) without molestation.

3 Edw. . . March 8, Westminster. The King to the guardians of the see of Ely.—About the Priory being exempt from the Bishop. They are to desist from infringing the grant made by his father, King Edward.

(fol. 94b.) 1317, 11 Edw. II. Wednesday after the feast of St. Luke. Agreement between John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, and Sir Geoffry de Coleville, about squabbles because Geoffry had, in a place of the marsh on the stream which flows between Wisbeach, co. Cambridge, and Walsoken, co. Norfolk, built houses and other buildings at the foot of Wysbeach bridge at the east, to the damage of the Bishop's vill of Wysbeach; and about other squabbles.

(fol. 95.) 31 Edw. [I.]. Sunday after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle. Inquisition taken before Simon de Paris and Hugh Pourte, Sheriffs of London, by the oaths of 12 persons (named), to see if it was to the King's damage if the King gave to Robert, Bishop of Ely, a messuage and nine cottages in Holborn, which were formerly of John de Kirkeby, late Bishop of Ely, and which the said John by his will gave to St. Ethelreda and the bishops of Ely, according to the custom of the City of London.—They say it will not be to his damage. They are worth yearly 72s. 11d., and are held of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul at a rent of 26s., and a rent of 6s. to the Hospital of St. Bartholomew in Smithfield, and a rent of 13s. to Walter Christmeese, Chaplain of the Hospital of St. Giles, and a rent of 4s. 2d. to the church of St. Andrew, Holborn, and 15d. to maintain a lamp there; and they say that one place of land, where the great gate is, is bound in one sokna to a prebend of St. Paul's.

(fol. 95b.) 1334, July 6. Confirmation by J. the Prior of Ely and the Convent, of a definitive sentence by J. Bishop of Ely (dated 4 id. March 1332), on an award by Lawrence Falstolf and John de Oxon, Canons of the Cathedral Churches of London and Hertford, and Robert de Lyslyng, official of the archdeacon of Ely, on the bounds, limits, and decimation of churches of All Saints and St. Vigors of Fulbourn, Ely diocese,—between the religious men the abbat "de bona requie," seeking to

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

* This document is probably of the date of 1338. Rymer's Foedera contains nine receipts in the months of May and June, 1338, for plate and jewels lent to the King by divers abbats.

* The year is not stated.

appropriate that church to themselves on the one part, and Luke Primersole, rector of the church of St. Vigors, of the other part; also of the tithes, &c.—There is an Inspecimus of a document by John de Hotham, appointing the arbitrators, as follows.—The Abbat and Convent “de bona requie” by Roger, Abbat of the Monastery of Santerre, London diocese, and the Abbat and Convent of Caen, by brother John de Trearne, commonly called Prior of the Manors of Pauncefeld and Wells, &c., state, &c. &c., (ends 97b).

(fol. 97b.) 16 April, Balsham. Letter by John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely, to the Prior and Convent of Ely for confirmation thereof.—It is about the dispute concerning tithes within the parish of the churches of All Saints and St. Vigors of Fulburn; the dispute between the Abbot and Convent “de bona requie,” who got the church of All Saints to their own use, and the rector of St. Vigors, was appeased. The Bishop asks them to confirm the composition when by the Abbot and Convent of Santerre, the proctors of the monks “de bona requie” in England, or on behalf of the rector of St. Vigors, it is presented.

An ancient writing by Bishop Eustace concerning the same,—Eustace, Bishop of Ely, confirms the gift made by J. Prior of the Convent of Ely to the Abbot of Santerre and the monks there, of land lying between the land of the Abbot of Colchester, and the new bounds of Coppelowe made by the plough from the gate of Wolvestrete to Portestrete. Rent to the Prior and Convent of Ely of one mark of silver.—J., the Prior of Ely, and the Convent give the above to the Abbot of Santerre and the monks.

1339. A list of monks.

(fol. 98.) Letter of procurator to brother Alan de Walsingham, sacrist, and three others in a legatary cause against the executors of the will of John de Hotham, Bishop of Ely.

(fol. 98b.) Simon, Bishop of Ely, ratifies the above.

Pleas of the King's Hall at Ipswich, Monday after the feast of Corpus Cristi, 14 Edw. III.—Suffolk. William, bailiff of Framlingham who brought a bill against Thomas Halyday of Aschefeld of a plea of trespass within the verge.—William was non-suit.—He and his pledges in mercy, viz., John de Framlingham and Robert at Chirche: they are affected by William Bernard and Thomas Gresner at 6d. The Prior and Convent of Ely, by Nicholas Swan, their attorney, come and claim the Hundred and a half of Midford, and five and a half hundreds of Wyckelawe and Trillingde de Wynstone. They produce King Edward's charter dated 10 June, 14 Edw. III., and get their claim allowed.

(fol. 99.) 26 Edw. III. January 16. Mau[rice?], Prior of Ely, and the Convent manumit John Sturdy.

1353. P (8th year of consecration.) April 3. Thomas, Bishop of Ely, to the Warden and College of Scholars of the Hall of the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary in Cambridge, lately founded, and the fellows of the said college,—giving license for divine service.

The Prior and Convent of Ely confirm the above.

1352, last of May. Thomas, Bishop of Ely, to the Warden, College, and Scholars of the Holy Trinity at Norwich.—A similar license.

1352, Feb. 3. Alan de Walsingham, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to all, &c.—He has seen the bishop's charter (dated 3 Feb. 1352), which says that the King, at the instance of Henry Duke of Lancaster, had given license to the Aldermen and the brethren of the Gild of Jesus Christ and the Virgin, that they, in a message in Cambridge which they had acquired in fee, might institute and found a House of Scholars, Chaplains, and others, under the name of the House of the Scholars of Corpus Christi and the blessed Virgin Mary of Cambridge, to be governed by a certain master according to ordinances, &c.; and that he confirms it.—They (the Prior and Convent) confirm it.

(fol. 99b.) Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent to William, Bishop of Norwich. They present Simon de Suthone (?) to the vicarage of Lakinge.

13... 4 Kal. Aug. The same to the same. They present William, priest of... to the church of Fodestone.

1354, Dec. 16. Note of presentation of Thomas de Bluntesham to the Vicarage of West Wrottinge.

(fol. 100.) 1355, May 15. William Portman of Haverford, rector of Fodestone, and Robert Man of Godeshurst, vicar of Appleton, wish to exchange. They present Robert Man to the rectory of Fodestone, reserving a pension of half a mark due of old to them and the almoner of their church.

29 Edw. III. Thursday after the translation of St. Thomas the Martyr. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent have received of Thomas de Schalariai the elder, and Thomas de Schalariai the younger, Kts, 100s. in full payment of 40l., in which they were bound by a writing.

An undated letter of the Prior and Convent of Ely to the Abbot of Wa[ltam?] on their business at Littleburgh.

1356, Saturday before the feast of St. Lucy the Virgin. The Prior and Convent of Ely to Thomas, bishop of Ely. Richard Suse, rector of Camelton, Lincoln diocese, and Giles att Well of Harlone, perpetual vicar of the church of Meldeburne, Ely diocese, wish to exchange. The present the said John Stockton (sic.) to the vicarage of the church of Meldeburne.

1356, Oct. 18. Memorandum that Prior Alan, and the Chapter of Ely presented Edmund de Lascey, rector of the church of Downhamhithe, to the vicarage of the church of Sutton, by reason of exchange.

1358, Oct. 10. Memorandum that they presented John atte Hall of Stokton, chaplain, to the vicarage of the church of Swafham.

34 Edw. III. Wednesday before the feast of St. Edmund, King and Martyr. The Prior and Convent of Ely release to John de Berney in fee all their right in a place of land called Elyzerd, in Norwich.

(fol. 101.) 34 Edw. III. The Prior and Convent of Ely release to the Prior and Convent of St. Mary of Buttele from amercement at the leet of Blaxhall for non-reparation of the bridge of Langwude, and the causeways, and from all future liability.—They were amerced maliciously, and Robert de Ufford, Earl of Suffolk, gave evidence for them.

20 (or 30.) Edw. III. Sunday before the feast of Our Lord's Nativity. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, release to the Abbess and Convent of Denye all their right in the manor of Denye, &c. Mem. that the release was made publicly before Gilbert Bernard.

(fol. 101b.) 39 Edw. III. Nov. 23. Simon the Bishop ratifies two writings, and confirms to Thomas, son and heir of the said Richard and to him; and Thomas, son of the said William, releases all actions. (French.)

39 Edw. III. John, Prior of Ely, confirms the writings of Simon the Bishop, and releases all actions. (This and the last above seem parts of documents.)

1285, Sept. 25. Exchange of the church of St. Ciric, of Swafham Priory, made by John Wensham, then vicar of the said church, with John Cosby, vicar of the church of Schonegey, Ely diocese, for the church of Schonegey.

1391, March 21. William, son of Roger of Nornton, was presented to the church of Wynteworth, and for the second time, for this reason: John Stretton, was vicar of the said church and illegitimate and had a dispensation to have one benefice only; so the exchange by John with William for the church of Wynteworth was invalid, and was quashed. And so, by the advice of lawyers, he was presented anew, to avoid mischances.

(fol. 102.) 1364, March 3. J. Prior of Ely, and the Convent to Simon, Bishop of Ely.—They present William Brown, of Wisbeach, to the perpetual vicarage of the church of Meldebourne, vacant by the death of John Paynell, the last vicar.

1366, April 7. J. Prior of Ely, and the Convent to Thomas, Bishop of Norwich. They present John Skernyng, priest, to the parish church of St. Mary of Stoke, near Ipswich (Norwich diocese), which is vacant.

1366, April 7. J. Prior of Ely, and the Convent to all.—They, appropriating the parish church of Sudbourn with the chapel of Orford to the same annexed (Norwich diocese),—appoint John de Skernyng, priest, their proctor, to do all things necessary to that end.

(fol. 102b.) 1366, May 27. Chapter House.—J., Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to all. Inspecimus of a charter of Simon, Bishop of Ely (dated 12 Sept. 1365), which mentions the parish churches of All Saints and St. Giles, of Cambridge, near the castle; and that the parishioners of all Saints are for the most part dead by pestilence, and those that are alive are gone to the parishes of other churches; and that the parishioners of St. Giles have died; and that the nave of All Saints is ruinous, and the bones of dead bodies are exposed to beasts; and he unites All Saints and St. Giles.—The Prior and Convent confirm it.

(fol. 103b.) 45 Edw. III., Sept. 20. Indenture, whereby John, Bishop of Ely, and John the Prior, and the Chapter of Ely, grant to Walter Baker and Christiana his wife, the lands and tenements formerly of John atte Barre the younger, in Bishops Hatfield, viz., &c.

Memorandum that the keepership of the park of Hatfield, which belongs to the Bishop of Ely, was given

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

to John Crauers for life, by Thomas de Arundel, the Bishop, and confirmed by the Chapter of Ely.

Item, that the keepership of the park of Glemethorp was given by the same Bishop to William Latham for life, on the 8th of March, 1378, and confirmed by them on the 13th.

(fol. 104.) Confirmation of the office of the Constable of Wisbeach.—Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to all. Insuperimus of a charter by Thomas, Bishop of Ely, granting to Thomas Louvel the office of Constable of his castle of Wisbeach and a certain hall near the gate, with chambers on either side of the hall and situate above the gate, and the easement of a kitchen and stabling for three horses, and other easements pertaining to the office, and all profits arising within the castle and places, and manors of la Bartone de Wyssel, Waltersee, Tyd, St. Gile, Neutone, Leverington, Blinwell, Tyrrington, Walton, and Walpole, with the members, viz.: Tytney Walsokene, &c., and the halimotes, leets, and hundreds within the said castle, manors, and places; to hold the same for his life: he to have therefor a robe like the Bishop's shield-bearers, or 20s., and 20 marks, by 4 quarterly payments, and a robe for his clerk like those of the Bishop's clerks, or 20s. instead; and 40,000 (xlv) turves for fire, and litter for himself and servants, and 12 cartloads of hay and litter sufficient for his three horses, and every day one bushel of oats for the horses; and all other profits, &c.

Memorandum that Ralph de Camel had a similar confirmation in the time of Thomas de Arundel.

(fol. 104b.) 1348, January 14. Confirmation by Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent of a grant by Thomas, Bishop of Ely (dated at Zaveneye, 20 Sept., in the same year), to Peter Blanchard, his chamberlain, of the keepership of the park of Dounham in the Isle of Ely.

(fol. 105.) 1348, Jan. 14. Confirmation by the Prior and Convent of a grant by the same Bishop (dated as before) to John Pecham, his chamberlain, of the keepership of his parks in Dodington in the Isle of Ely, and of his warren in the said manor.

22 Edw. III. January 6 (French). The King asks a corrody for Richard Fox, similar to that which Alexander del Esquillerie had while alive.

(fol. 105 b.) 22 Edw. III. January 1. The same in Latin.

22 Edw. III. Sunday after Epiphany. The Prior and Convent to the King. They admit Richard Fox to the corrody. (He was curator to the King.)

Same date. The Prior and Convent grant the corrody to Richard Fox.

(fol. 106) 19 Edw. III. March 20. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent confirm the grant by Simon the Bishop (in 18 Edw. III.) to Walter Dustolf of a messuage in Wychem in the Isle of Ely, which came to him by escheat on the death of Richard le Prestessone of Wychem, a bastard.

(fol. 106 b.) 1348, St. Gregory's Day. Alan the Prior of Ely and the Convent give to William le Gode, their valet, for his life, one robe of the suit of the Prior's shield-bearers for the time being, every year, and one measure of ale and one load of white knight's bread daily, on condition that while he is well he serve in his office.

24 Edw. III. 1350. Monday in the Feast of St. Nicholas the Bishop. Alan the Prior and the Convent and Chapter of Ely, in solemn consultation with Thomas, Bishop of Ely, and in due form, grant to the Wardens, Fellows, Scholars, and College of Trinity Hall in the University of Cambridge, and their successors for ever, all their messuage cum Heneye, with its appurtenances, in the parish of St. John, in Milne Street in Cambridge, situate between the messuage of the Scholars of University Hall, and &c., &c. Witnesses, Constantine de Mortimer and others (named), burgesses of Cambridge, &c.

(fol. 107.) 1351, April 19. Alan the Prior of Ely and the Convent to William, Bishop of Norwich. They present Robert Schorte of Blakeshale, chaplain, to the vicarage of the church of Sudbury with the chapel of Orford; saving a pension of 10s. to them and the office of their pincer.

25 Edw. III. April 10. Alan Prior of Ely, and the Convent, to all, &c. They give to John de Aslaby, clerk, a pension of 40l. out of the manor of Sudburn; with power of distress.

1351, July 7. Thomas, Bishop of Ely, after reciting King Edward's letter that he had made a college in the Chapel of St. George at Windsor Castle, in which there are to be 24 secular canons, one being the prior, and 24 poor knights, and asking them to unite the parish church of Caxton (Ely diocese), of which church the said warden and college obtain the patronage, to the chapel and college;—he, the Bishop, with assent of the Chapter, does so; and by way of record, the warden and college are to pay 5s. yearly to the Bishop, and 20d. yearly to the Chapter.—The Prior and Chapter confirm it on the 8th of July.

(fol. 108b.) 1351, July 7 and 8. Similar documents about the parish church of Whaddon; for record, yearly payments of 20s. to the Bishop, and 40d. to the Chapter are to be made.

1351, July 3. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Chapter indemnify the Bishop of Norwich, by reason of their having appropriated the church of Gergham, in his diocese.

(fol. 109.) 1351, July 3. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Chapter appoint Ralph de Rysyng, co-brother and common, their proctor in all affairs touching the appropriation of the church of Gergham.

1351, last of February. Insuperimus and Confirmation by Alan Prior of Ely, and the Convent, of letters by Thomas, Bishop of Ely (dated 28 Dec., 1351), granting to Thomas de Chilton, for life, the keepership of the park of Downham and warren everywhere in the Isle of Ely.

Memorandum that Ralph Karells had a like confirmation.

(fol. 110b.) 1355, (?) Sept. 14. Confirmation of a grant by the Bishop of Ely (dated 1 Nov. 1352) to William Haccke of the keepership of the park of Little Hadham, and warren within the demesnes.

(fol. 111.) Memorandum of the presentation to the church of Melton of John de le Brok, clerk. There is a copy in the register at the sign per 1352, Sept. 14.

25 Edw. III., 1351, Oct. 10. Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, give to John Moritz K^r and Margaret his wife, a yearly pension of 10 marks out of their manor of Meldeborn.

(French.) Alan, Prior of Ely, and the Convent, after reciting a release by Thomas, Bishop of Ely (dated 11 May, 26 Edw. III.), at the request of Robert de Ufford, Earl of Suffolk, to Richard Spynk, citizen of Norwich, and William his brother, of all actions, &c., &c., also release him.

1352, last of June. Alan, the Prior of Ely and the Convent, give to Richard, son of Simon de Derham, the keepership of the warrens in the Isle of Ely.

(fol. 112.) Memorandum that the cellarer pays or has paid to the granary keeper 15 per ann. for the excess of Coksniward.

1 Hen V. Monday after the feast of Conception. The Prior and Convent give license to William, son of Thomas Bette, their naif, of Stapilford, to take any kind of sacre orders, his servile condition notwithstanding.

10. A small thick 4to., vellum, 14th century.—Vetusta Statuta.—The last of the statutes are the Statute of Northampton and the Statute de Prærogativa. These are followed by other statutes in French and Latin, and the Capitula Civitatis Londonie; Registrum brevium; modus tenendi curiam (in English, early in the 15th century, three leaves). At the beginning of the volume, by a hand of the 15th century, is the name of Ric. Cowlyng.

11. A 4to. volume, c. 1430, containing Statutes from 1 Edw. III. to 9 Hen. IV.

12. A 12mo. volume, vellum, 14th century; containing a Calendar, Statutes, Register of writs, and forms of pleading.

No. 13. Folio, paper, 17th century (120 leaves).

(1.) A treatise concerning the Nobilitie accordinge to the Lawes of England. Begins, As in Man's bodye. (This is Bird's or Doddridge's Magazine of Honour). Ends (the chapter of Ladies in Reputation), "as "courtesie, though not as a lawe."

(2.) A treatise of Sea causes, containyng a yearly observation of the English and Spanish fleets that were sett forth one to annoy the other, from the year 1585, that the wars with Spaine began, until the year 1602, that King James made his happie entrance into this kingdom; showinge the designe, escapes, and errors on both sides, with the names of the Queen's shippes and Commanders, by W. M. (in the margin, Sir Will. Mumson), who hath done it to better his experience, beinge a warninge to those that shall read it, to prevent the like errors hereafter. Collected this present yeare of our Lord God 1624. (Title and 99 leaves.) Begins with Epistle of the author to his son. Ends fol. 13.

At p. 14. The laws of Richard I.

At p. 15. A yearly observation, &c. Voyage of Sir F. Drake to the West Indies in 1585.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

P. 97. Voyage of Sir Richard Lewson and Sir Will. Monson into the narrow seas. A.D. 1613.

14. A folio of the 17th century, 119 leaves.—Of the nobility in general.—Cap. I. Of the creation of nobility, and therein of the several states and conditions of men.

2. The propagation.

3. Of the decision and trial thereof.

4. Of the privileges appertaining thereunto, of the which will be many branches.

5. Of questions touching some persons and their participations of some or all of the privileges.

6. Of the loss and perdition of this nobility or their privileges thereunto appertaining.

Begins. First our Commonwealth and Kingdom may first be divided into prince and people.

The last chapter. Of creation, loss, and perdition of nobility, or the place or privilege thereunto belonging.

—Ends (about second marriages), namely, the sons and heirs of Dukes, Marquises, and Earls.

A treatise concerning the Nobility according to the laws of England. Begins. As man's body. Ends, with the Chapter of Yeomen. (This is by Bird or Doddridge, and has been printed several times.)

15. A thick folio, paper, 17th century, bound in limp vellum.—Book I. (125 leaves.) Of the Nobility in general. Cap. 1. Of the creation of Nobility and therein of the several states and conditions of men.

The definition and divisions of Nobility, the original reason thereof, and the several names and compellations thereunto given, and the distinct manners of Creation.

Begins. Addressing my thoughts to these discourses I easily foresee . . . There are six chapters in the book ;

the 1st is the Creation, &c. 2nd. Of the propagation, &c. 3rd. Of the decision and trial thereof. 4th. Of the privileges appertaining thereto, of the which will be many branches. 5th. Of the questions touching some persons and their participation of some or all of the said privileges. 6th. Of the loss or perdition of this Nobility, or the privileges thereunto appertaining. Ends, viz., the sons and heirs of Dukes, Marquises, and Earls, &c.

(Bird's or Doddridge's) Treatise concerning the Nobility according to the laws of England. Begins. As [in] man's body. Ends with, Barons by tenure, and the example of W. Lord Paget, of Beadesert, who died

5 Eliz., &c.—Then follows (after a blank leaf), A Treatise of Knighthood and matters incident to the degree therein according to the laws of England (35 leaves). Begins. the particular kinds of services.—The last chapter is of Yeomen.—Begins. the Yeomanry or common people, for they be called of the Saxon word

Ge man, which doth signifie common, which have some lands of their own. Ends. And to make fine and ransom at the King's will.

16. Folio paper of 3 + 74 leaves.—On the first page is a painted shield, 1st quarter gules a cross ingrailed, a lozenge in 1st quarter. Impaled are the wife's arms : 1st quarter, arg., a lion rampant gu. between three pheons sa. within a bordure ingrailed sa. Below are five Latin verses by F. Thynne. It contains: The plea between the Advocate and the Ant^e Advocate concerning the Bathe and Bachelor Knights, wherein are shewed many

Antiquities touching Knighthood, by Francis Thynne, Esq., Lancaster Herald.—In the authors follow:

Latin Poem of eight lines to King James, by F. T. Latin Poem on the Union.

Dedication to the King (2 pp.), dated Clerkenwell Green, 2nd April, 1605.

p. 1. The Plea begins ; Advocate

It is strange that this daye (wherein we do preserve so much of our witts) should breede suche vague and ambitious thoughts, &c. Ant^e Advocate replies.

The last three pages are occupied with answers of Ant^eadvocate to a letter written to him by his friend concerning his answer to the Advocate ; dated Clerkenwell Green, 13th March, 1605.

17. Quarto, vellum, 15th century. (Willelmus Le Gros verus possessor.)

Par vostre tres humble Thomas Hawlay, alias Clarenceulx Roy Darnes.

On the reverse is the coat of arms in colour and gold of Seymour as K.G.

Table in English of the chapters of the Modus tenendi (two leaves).

Off the office of high Marshall of England and the Knight Marshall, the Sergeant, the under Marshall and their inferior officers. (This is a Table.)

Of the office of the Marshall in the tyme of warre. Table of the 26 chapters. (5 pp.)

Modus tenendi, in English (15th century), with a good picture of the King between a Bishop and Sword-bearer. Here foloweth the fourme and maner of keepyng of the Parliament of England. Begins. The monicion or summons of the Parliament ought to be made or done forty dayes before the begynnyng of the Parliamente (29pp.). Ends. Cap. 24. Of the copies of the Recordes of the Parliament.

The Clarke of the Parliament . . . kepte whersoever it shall pleas the King.

(In red.) The maner, forme, and usage of Gilbert de Strogell, &c. (13½ pp.) Begins. The Earl ought to have the King's horse. Ends. Contracts and Covenants of all tymes.

A newe ordinance preparayde by the Kyngoure Sovereynne Lord for the offyce and due attendaunce of the Knyght Marshall (12 pp.).

18. Quarto vellum, 16th century.—Statutes of the Garter reformed by Hen. VIII., with additions to the 1st of Elizabeth.—The text is on 28 leaves of vellum.

On the fly-leaf are the Arms of Garter, and (below) of Percy.—On the cover are the Royal Arms, with E. R. above the Earl's badge and coronet, &c.

19. Quarto paper, 16th century.—The Statutes in English of the Order of the Garter explained and declared by King Henry VIII. (39 leaves). Prefixed is a poem to Algernon Percy, Earl of Northumberland.

Fol. 37b. Certain Statutes not yet registered in the Book of Statutes, 4, 7, 8, 9, and 13 Elizabeth.

20. Quarto, similar to No. 19.

21. Folio, paper, bound in red morocco (37 leaves). | Processus factus ad coronationem serenissimae dominae Annae reginae Angliae, &c., anno regni sui primo—with the Petitions (in French) of the various claimants to execute services at the ceremony.

22. Folio, paper. 1706–1725.—Some accounts, and copies of letters, and some original letters touching the Duke of Somerset, Master of the Horse, and the Treasurer his accounts.

23. Folio, paper, 53 pages, bound in vellum. The order of the hole preparation and carriage of the Right Hon^{ble} Henry Earl of Northumberland when he went to the siege of Turvin in France, 5 Henry VIII.; translated out of the original remaining in the custody of Sir Henry Spelman, K^t, and presented to his undoubted heir and true inheritor of his honour and virtues, the Right Hon^{ble} Algernon Earl of Northumberland, &c. &c., and Captain General of His Majesty's Army and Fleet employed in this present Expedition, by Roger Dodsworth. (This has been printed.)

24. Folio, unbound.—Instructions for the Lord Percy in his Travels (given by Henry Earl of Northumberland). Begins. You must now consider. (This is printed in the Antiquarian Repertory.)

This is followed by Advice by the Earl to his Son, beginning. The forlorn state of this life that now I conceive my selfe to be invested with all, solicits me forward to the doing of good to them that shall succede me. (33 pp.)

Anno 1609. "This discourse which concerneth officers and servants written 14 years after the former." 54 pp. (This is addressed to his son, and contains rules for conduct.)

25. A large folio, vellum, 71 leaves, of the 14th century. Copies of Treaties with foreign powers.

fol. 1. Edward King of England to Louis King of the Roman Confederation, dated from Westminster, 26th of August, 1337.—Another letter to the same. (Latin.)

fol. 1b. (In French.) Edward, to all.—Confederation with William Earl of Hainault and Holland, &c., 12th of July 1337.

fol. 2. Inexpimus and Confirmation (French), by Edward, (dated 26th Aug. Edw. III.) of a Treaty by Henry Bishop of Lincoln and others, proctors for the King of England, and William de Hayner, Earl of Zealand, dated Valenciennes, 24th May 1337.

Another of the same dates.

Another of the same, dated respectively 24th of May and 24th of Aug.

Another of the same, dated respectively 24th of May and 26th of Aug.

Edward (King of England). Treaty with the Earl of Guelders and the Marquis of Juliers, 13th May 1337. (In French.)

Edward, &c. Treaty with the Marquis and Marchioness of Juliers, 26th Aug. 11th year. (In French.)

A similar Confirmation of one with the Marquis of Juliers, dated at Goricheym, 19th of July 1337.

Another, dated 26th of Aug. Edw. III., of a treaty with the same, dated 27th of May 1337.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

Latin retainer of Adolphus, Earl de Monte, dated from York, 15th of May 1337, 11th year.

Letters by King Edward to the same, of the same date. Confirmation, dated Westminster, 26th of Aug., 11th Edw. III., of Patent by his proctors to the Count Palatine of the Rhine and Duke of Bavaria, dated Frankfort the last of June 1337.

Confirmation, dated Westminster, 26th of August, of a Patent, dated Frankfort, the last of June 1337.

Another of the same dates.

Confirmation, dated 26th of Aug., of Patent dated from Colon, feria 5 after the octaves of St. Peter and St. Paul 1337.

Retainer of the Duke of Brabant (French), dated from Stamford, 13th of July 1337.

Retainer for the same (French) Stamford, 8th of June, 1337.

Edward (King of England) to the Duke of Lorraine and Brabant.—Westminster, 20th August 1337.

The same to the same. Stamford, 1st July, 1337 (money for him).

Edward (King of England), for the Merchants of Brabant, dated York, 24th of May 1337.

Edward (King of England) retains Conrad de Aske, Conrad de Liseux, John de Boshem, Winner de Gomey, and William de Urley. Westminster, 27th of Aug., 11th year.

Confirmation, dated 26th of August, of his proctor's letter to Henry de Geldon, dated Valence in Hainault, 12th of May 1337.

Confirmation, dated 26th of August, of the like for William of Dordrecht, dated Frankfort 3rd of July 1337.

Confirmation, dated 26th August, of another dated Frankfort, the last day of June 1337.

(In French.) Vidimus and confirmation, dated 26th of August, of a Patent for Herman de Blankart, Dean of Ays, dated Binez, 28th of May 1337.

The like of a Patent for John Berniers the elder, Provost of Valence, and his son, dated Valence, Sunday before the Ascension, 1337.

Many others for Brabant and Flanders.

fol. 186. De alleg. inter B. ducem Brabantie prolocutus. Brussels, Tuesday before the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, 1339.

Another dated from Antwerp, 28th of Dec., 13th year. Alliances, homages, and obligations and notifications.

fol. 23. Alliance between Charles IV., King of the Romans, and Edward King of England.

Another dated Andernach, 1347, 10th Indict. 10th Kal. Martii, 11th of his reign and 2nd of his Emperorship.

Edward, King of England, allies himself with Charles, King of the Romans.—Westminster, 23rd of April, 9th of France and 22nd of England.

(On this leaf is written, "Anthonne Maloy (or Malory), of Paporth, A . . . in the Count of Cambridge, Esquire.") fol. 24 is blank.

fol. 25. Flandria. Conventiones et aligancie nuper inite inter Dominum Edwardum Regem Francie et Anglie et Villas de Gandavo Bruges et Ippe ac Communitatem Flandrie. A long one. To all, &c., dated Wednesday after Mid-Lent, 1340.

fol. 27. Another of the same date.

fol. 286. Another of the same date.

fol. 296. Alliances between the King of England and the Count of Flanders.—London, 10th December, 1348.

Letter of the Count of Flanders about his marriage with Isabel, the King's daughter.—Dunkirk, 13th of March, 1346, according to the count and custom of Flanders.

fol. 31. Other letters of the Count.—Dunkirk, 4th of December 1348.

fol. 32. Agreement between the King and his Count, to which their seals were alternately fixed.—(William, Bishop of Norwich and others act for the King.)

fol. 33. The King and Henry of Flanders.—Antwerp, 26th of Feb., 1338.—About payments to the Earl.

fol. 34. Vasconia.—Agreements between the Kings of France and England.—An agreement, Guildford, 28th of Feb., in the 4th year.

fol. 34. Austria.—Dowry to Joan, daughter to the King of England, who was to be married to the elder son of the Duke of Austria.—Vienna, feria 5 within the octaves of Easter, 1336.

The Emperor's letter, testifying to the receipt of letters of the Duke, dated Mittenburg, 11th of Jan. 1339.

fol. 35. Edward (the King of England's) letter about the alliances.—Antwerp, 15th of Feb., 13th year.

fol. 35b. The Emperor's letter, promising to come between the City of Cambray and Chateau Cambresis with 2,000 men.—Confians, 6th of Sept., 24th year.

Other letters of the Emperor.

Letter from the Emperor Louis, King of the Romans, making the King of England his Vicar-General. Frankfort, 15th of Sept., 24th year of his reign, and 11th of his empire.

fol. 36. Another letter of the Emperor about a debt. 13th Sept. 1338.

Another letter about the Vicariate, 16th of Sept., 24th year.

Letter from the Archbishop of Mentz about an Agreement between the King of England and himself. Elcevil the vigil of St. Simon and St. Jude, 1338.

—The Duke of Brabant to King Edward.—Brussels, 4th of July, 1347.

Fol. 37. Charles, King of the Romans, &c., to Wm. Marquis of Juliers, 14th Kal., Feb., 2nd year of our reigns.

fol. 37b. John de Chalons does homage to King Edward; before Calais, 6th of March 1346.

Theobald, Lord of Neufchastel, does homage to King Edward before Calais, 26th of March 1346.

Agreement between the King and the two last-mentioned persons.

fol. 38. Letter of Conrad du Mark, promising to serve the King with 50 men (Latin). Antwerp, 6th of August 1348.

fol. 38b. Letter of John d'Aspremont, doing homage and promising to serve with 50 men. Brussels, 6th of August 1359.

Letter by the Emperor (King Edward) to certain German princes, after assuming the Vicariat, to John, Duke of Lorraine and Brabant.—Malines, 18th of Sept., 24th year of his empire.

Letter by the same to Louis Count of Flanders, and others.

fol. 39. Citation to John Duke of Brabant, Lorraine, &c.—Antwerp, 20th of Nov., the year above said.

(French.) Edward, to all.—Indemnity to the County of Hainault on his passing thro' it.—Brussels, 14th August, 13th year.

fol. 39b. Another letter from King Edward about the Count of Hainault. 20th of Aug., 13th year.

fol. 40. Scocia. French copy of Covenant between Edward the 3rd and Edward de Balliol, King of Scotland, the latter granting to Edward all his right to the crown and kingdom of Scotland. Bamborough, 20th Jan. 1355.

Latin.—Edward Balliol, King of Scotland, about the above; dated from Rokesburgh, 25th of Jan., 14th year aforesaid.

fol. 41. Another Charter about the same, in Latin, by Edward, King of Scotland, 25th Jan., 1355.

fol. 41b. Carta relaxionis de eodem. Rokesburgh, 27th of Jan. 1355.

fol. 42. Memorandum quod carte subscriptae postmodum renovate fuerunt in forma subsequente:—A charter by Edward, King of Scotland, dated 21st Jan., 1355; and another of the same date.

fol. 43. Release by Edward Balliol King of Scotland; Roxburgh, 25th Jan., 1355.

fol. 44. Britannia.

(In French.) Agreement between the King of England and Charles de Blois, dated Westminster, 1st of March, 1352. (5 pp.)

fol. 466. Another agreement between the same.

fol. 468. Another dated Westminster, 10th of August, 30th year of Edward III., and 17th year as King of France.

fol. 50. French letter of Godfrey de Harecourt, appointing the King his heir in Normandy.—Dated St. Saviour the Viscount, 18th of July 1356.

Agreement between the King Edward and Philip of Navarre, brother of the King of Navarre. (French.) Dated Clarendon, 4th of September 1356.

fol. 51. French account from Chronicles of the subjection of Scotland to England. Begins, Lan nostre seynur nef centes sir Edward leyne qe estoit monark e fil Eluered mist en sa subjection.

At p. 52 it breaks into Latin.—Item, in carta Regis Egari filii Malcolmi.

fol. 52b. Ends, 1272. Successit Domino Henrico Edwardus filius ejus.

—King Edward to the Pope, about History. (Latin.) fol. 54. Quod Willelmum regem Scotia moneret. (A portion of this leaf is cut away.)

fol. 55. De tractatu pacis.

Copy in Latin of Treaty of peace at Calais between England and France; 6th of April, 1354.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

fol. 57b. Procuratory letter to the Prince of Wales and others about Peace (by the King): Westminster, 1st of August, 30 Edw. III., and 17th of France.

Similar letters dated 15th of Dec. in the same year.

fol. 58. First letter by the Pope to the Prince of Wales after the war in Poitou. Innocent to Edward. Dated Avignon, 5. non. Oct. 4th year.

fol. 58b. Second letter, 2 non. Oct. 4th year.

Third letter, 14 Kal. Nov. 4th year.

Fourth letter, Kal. mart. 5th year.

fol. 59. Fifth letter. Villa Nova, Avignon Dioc. 4 non. Junii, 5th year.

fol. 59b. Treaty of Peace (French) between the Kings of England and France. London, 24th of March, 1359. (43 articles.)

fol. 65. Sacramenta officii (French). Oaths of Chancellor, Treasurer, Justices in Eyre (old form), and Oath ordained in the 20th year.

fol. 66. Modus assuetus in coronacione Regis Anglie, necnon sacramentum ejusdem.—And a French translation of the oath.

Homage by the Prince of Wales for the Duchy of Aquitaine. (French.)

fol. 66b. Forma deliberacionis David de Bruys, 5 Oct. 1357; as in an Indenture (French) given in full, 3 Oct. 1357. (Ends on fo. 70b.)

fol. 70b. Confederation (in French) between the King and Thomas Earl of Mar, 24th of February, 33rd year of reign.

Indenture (in French) between the King and Sir Hugh de Geneve. Acquittance by him made to the King for deliverance of Hugh Count d'Auxerre (d'Auxerre?)

26. A small folio vellum, latter part of the 15th century, in Gothic letters. (93 written leaves.) On the first fly-leaf, Dominicus Vaughanus.

Qui cupit, &c. (two hexameters), with D.V. at foot.

Begins, imperfectly,* "Item, chose necessaire et besoignable est a l'admiral quil face ordonne et procure que tout son office soit bien justement et si sagement execute et gouverne, &c."

fol. 5b. †Par devant nous avons traitie de leslecion de l'admiral ou faisons ordonnance comment l'admiral soy doit gouverner, &c.

fol. 10. Soit enquis des larrons es ports, come de cordes. . . .

fol. 20. Ends, pour garder et saulver les costumes du Roy.†

(16th century.) Les Statuts e ordonnances† Oleron. Premièrement len fait un home maistre d'un nef. (M. J. 2. 432.)

fol. 29. Ends, pour leur rebellion par discrecion, &c.

Cest lequision prise a Queneburgh par le Commandement de nostre Seigneur le Roy Edoard tierce le 2^e jour d'avril lan de son regne 49 (before William Lord Latimer, Chamberlain of England and Warden of the Cinque Ports, and Sir William Neville, Admiral of the King, in the north parts). See M. J., 1. 132-147.

fol. 33b. Soit enquis de tous larrons qui robbent sur la mer. Ends, 38^e par les vitails. (M. J., 1. 148-172.)

fol. 35b-40. Calculation of the annual amounts, from 1st den. up to large sums.

fol. 40. Certificate by John Earl of Huntingdon and Yvory, Admiral of England. 16th Sept., 19 Hen. VI. Under seal of office. To all Mayors, &c., that in searching the register of the Court of Admiralty, "sont" trouve entre les statuts et constitucions d'Oleron "cestes statuts et constitucions et ordonnances qui ensuyent desquels ces sont les tenors. Il a mal"

40b. Which constitutions, &c. aforesaid had been observed by all merchants, mariners, &c. from the time they were established until then.

fol. 41, 42, and 43b. Explanations of Flotesom, Dryfte, Deodand, Poisson Royal, Lagan.

§Inprimis cum veneris ad portum per coasteras maris si sit in villa que habet libertatem fiat warrantum marescallo curie—(to choose 24 to certify). Articles in Latin. Begins, If any juror in the Admirals' Court had disclosed the King's and his fellows counsels. (50 articles, ending fol. 55.)

fol. 55. (Latin.) These statutes were translated by Thos. Rowgton, of Rowgton, from French into Latin, he putting his sign manual in testimony.

Item, inquiratur de hiis qui emunt grana. . . .

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

fol. 55b. Item inquiratur de hiis qui postquam aliqui

. fol. 57b. Translation into Latin of the Floteson, &c., as above.

fol. 59. Porrecto libello et eidem Responso negative per partem ream. . . .

Latin forms of orders by John Duke of Exeter. The first is to Thomas Cobbe of Ipswich, and William Toward (who is afterwards called Tabbard), of Waltham, in Suffolk, who with others detained the ship Margaret of Ipswich, and deprived the Admiral of his share.—Other forms to fol. 78. (M. J., 1. 246-280.)

78b. French form of safe conduct from King Louis of France, 1463.

fol. 81. Latin form, by Richard Duke of Gloucester, to James Jonsone, Geoffrey le Guyer, John Lespawer, Jamet Henry, John le Gargan, prisoners to John Sawter and Thos. Laurey of Fowey, to go to Brittany to raise ransom. (M. J., 1. 279.)

fol. 83. English. Flotsom, &c.

fol. 85. Tenement. milit. in Anglia lxth cc. et xv. feoda; de istis habent viri religiosi 28^m et 15 feoda.

Ces sont les establemens fait du chastel du Doure, &c.

Primes du cervise (service) de la chastel.

Ends at 89. The sub-Constable to assemble the garrison before him every fortnight to enquire of the condition of the place, &c.;—et que toutes les choses avantditz sont gardes et tenvz en toutz points.

fol. 90. Constabularia Dovori.—places or persons and the number of knights in Essex, Norfolk, Suffolk, and Kent.

fol. 90b. Averanche.—Kent, Norfolk, and Suffolk. Fobert in Kent. Arryk. Peverel. Mamynot. Proche. Crevequer.—Ade filius Willelmi.

Grand total: 171½ and ½ part and ½ part of a knight.

27. Quarto, paper, of 39 pages, bound in limp vellum.—The office of the Admiralty of England.—Begins, The Master of the office is the Lord High Admiral of England.—The officers, pay, duties, &c;—

Earl of Northumberland, Lord High Admiral.

Sir Robert Mansell, Lieutenant of the Admiralty.

Sir William Russell, Treasurer.

Sir Hen. Palmer, Comptroller.

Kenrick Edisbury, Surveyor.

Dennis Fleming, the Clerk.

Ken. Edisbury, the senior of three assistants to the principal officers.

Jon. Welles, Keeper of the great Stores at Deptford.

John Crane, Surveyor of Marine Victuals.

Randolph Crewe, King's Merchant.

William Cooke, Ground Pilot of the black deeps.

Edmund Boate, a master Shipwright.

Jo. Ackworth, Keeper of the Stores at Woolwich.

—The author says that Sir Kenelm Digby attended much to the service, but did not, to his knowledge, receive anything.

Capt. Phineas Pett, master shipwright (succeeded Mr. Burrell), had extraordinary knowledge in the art of shipwright.

28. Folio, 16th century, 26 leaves. Merchandizes brought in and carried out of this realm of England, 28 & 40 Edw. III.; 9 Ric. II.; 5 Hen. V.; 20 Edw. IV.; 19 Hen. VII.; 2, 15, 27, 28, 31, 32, 36 Hen. VIII.; 1, 2, 3 Edw. VI.; 2 & 4 Eliz.—(They are nearly all wool, skins, wine, and leather.

29. Folio, bound in crimson velvet, containing copies. 16 Jac. I., June 23rd. Commission to Sir Thomas Smith, Sir L. Cranfield, Sir R. Weston, Sir Jno. Wostenholme, Nicholas Fortescue, John Osborne, Francis Gofton, Richard Sutton, William Pitt, John Cooke, Thomas Norreys, and William Burrell, Esquires, to call to account the Treasurer, &c., &c., and other officers of Navy, Masters of Ships, &c. (to remedy abuses in the Navy). 2½ pp.

16 Jac. I., Feb. 12th. A commission to the same persons as above.—Recites the same, and that the Commissioners had exhibited to the King three several books (given below), &c., &c. He appoints them Commissioners to examine the accounts, &c., &c. (7½ pp.)

1. Report in pursuance, stating the number of ships, their state, and charge. (28 pp.)

2. Propositions for bettering the State and lessening the charge of the ships that now remain. (20 pp.)

3. Proposition for a new Establishment of the Navy Royal, &c. (20 pp.)

To settle the execution of propositions for the Navy three things may be considered. 1st. The ancient Institution. 2nd. The late Innovation. 3rd. The means of redresse. (18 pp.)

* This is part of the Black Book of the Admiralty, printed by Sir Travers Twiss, in Munimenta Juridica (Rolls Series), vol. i., p. 6.

† Munimenta Juridica, vol. i., p. 24.

‡ Munimenta Juridica, vol. i., p. 26.

§ From this point down to fol. 56 is the tract De officio Admiralitatis printed in the Munimenta Juridica (Rolls Series), vol. i., 221-245.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

30. Folio, 17th century. 18 pp.—A treatise concerning the maintenance of the Navy. Begins, As every people or nation (willing to defend themselves against the sodain invasion of others) provideth therefore according to the situation. Ends, May still provide for the securitie and defence of the lande.—Finis, 1574, by John Mountgomerie.

31. Quarto, paper, 1623.—Instructions to all officers belonging to the Navy, given by the Earl of Nottingham and Marquis of Buckingham, with a list of Admirals from the reign of King Edw. II. to 1623. (71 pp., and 10 pp. of list of Admirals.)—In the first part of the volume are Orders and Instructions to be established for the better government of the Navy.

32. Folio, 17th century.—Orders established by the Earl of Nottingham, Lord High Admiral, for the better settling the principal officers of the Navy, &c., &c. March 1, 1607. (10 pp.)

Pp. 11–76.—Orders and Instructions to be established for the better government of His Majesty's Navie.

Pp. 77–178.—Instructions given by George Duke of Buckingham, Lord High Admiral, for the direction and government of His Majesty's Navie.

33. Folio, 17th century.—Instructions given by Algernon Earl of Northumberland, Admiral and General of His Majesty's Fleet now setting forth to sea, to be duclie observed by all officers whatever and common men respectively in the said fleet provided for this Expedition to the glory of God, the service of our King, honour of our country, and our own safetie. 1636. 39 articles (11 pp.).

Brief directions for a sea fight in case of encounter (2½ pp.).

List of the Admiral's squadron (1 p.) in five columns; names of ships, commanders, tonnage, ordnance, men.

A Journal of our (the Earl's) summer's voyage in 1636, beginning Sunday, May 15, when he went on board the Triumph in the Downs, and ending Oct. 9, at Yarmouth. (18½ pp.)

Instruction given by Algernon Earl of Northumberland, K. G., one of H. M. Privy Counsellors, Admiral and General of H. M. Fleet now setting forth to sea, to be duly observed, &c., 1637. There are 40 articles in 12 pp.—A list of the Admiral's squadron on one page, like the one above.

A Journal for 1637. April 20 to Sept. 10 (7 pp.).

34. Folio, 17th century.—1. Sir Walter Rawleigh; his letter to Prince Henry touching the modell of a ship. Begins, Most Excellent Prince, if the ship your Highness intends to build. Ends, name of May Rose. (6 pp.) This has been printed.

2. That it is most convenient and necessarie for the good of merchants and seamen trading throughout the narrow seas, also for the inhabitants of the Cinque Ports, and most especialee of important consequence for the affaires of State and securitie of His Majesty's shippes, to have the offices of Lord Admirall of England and Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports exercised by one and the same person. Begins, The Lord Admirall of England claims Admirall jurisdiction. Ends, by his united power. (11½ pp.)

3. The sovereigntie of the seas of England proved by record, &c. Also a particular relation concerning the inestimable riches and commodities of the British seas, by Sir Jno. Burroughes, Knt., Keeper of the Records in the Tower of London. Begins, That princes may have an exclusive proprietie. Ends, hazard of their lives, their goods, and fortunes. (82 pp.) This has been printed.

35. Folio, paper. Copy of the Latin patent, 13th April, 14 Car. I., which appointed the Earl of Northumberland Lord High Admiral: with an English translation. (12½ pp.)

36. Folio, 17th century. Copies of letters by the Earl of Northumberland, to Charles I. and his ministers, while he commanded the fleet in 1636 and 1637; dated from on board the Triumph. The first letter is dated 20th May 1636, from the Downs, and the last, Sept. 6th, 1637, from the Downs. There are 82 pp. for the year 1636, and 51 pp. for 1637.

37. A folio of 71 leaves written on both sides (and two loose leaves, being a short tract on the duties of an Admiral). What is required in a General or Admiral at Sea. Begins, The first and principal thing in the condition of a Fleet . . . Instructions to be given by a General or Admiral at sea to his Captains. The dividing a fleet into squadrons.—There are 18 heads in all, the 18th being, The examination of the sufficiency of Captains and Masters before they be admitted to command in His Majesty's ships and service. Ends, it is impregnable.

Two leaves. On the duties of an Admiral. Begins, The Admiral having his commission and instructions from the King's Majesty ought to repair unto the fleet. Ends, and defects supplied or relieved.

38. A general survey of all His Majesty's stores at Chatham remaining in the custody of Mr. William Lawrence, storekeeper, as they were exactly surveyed by the surveyor of his Majesty's navy, Mr. Thomas Austin, one of the master's attendants, Mr. Henry Goddard, one of His Majesty's master shipwrights, and the principal officers' clerks. Begun the 1st of June 1638, and ended the last of June. (100 pages.) Signed by Wm. Russell, J. Palmer, Dan. Flemmyng, Phineas Pett, and John Edisbury. Ex. per C.B.

39. Folio paper, 47 leaves,

1639. A general survey of all His Majesty's stores at Chatham, Portsmouth, Deptford, and Woolwich, taken in the month of August and Sept., 1639. Signed at the end by Will. Batten and Tho. Barlow.

40. Folio paper, 17th century, 56 leaves.

1641. July 14th. A general survey of all the stores and provisions remaining in His Majesty's storehouse and yards at Chatham, Deptford, and Portsmouth, on the 7th of Sept., and Woolwich, 2nd of July and Nov. 2nd. Signed at the end, Wm. Batten.

41. Folio paper, 17th century. Title and 17 leaves (the first blank). A Discourse of the Invention of shippes, anchors, compasse, &c.; the first navigable war, the severall uses, defects, and supplies of shipping; the strength and defects of the sea forces of England, France, Spain, and Venice, together with the five manifest causes of the sudden upgrowing of the Hollanders. As also of the original and fundamental cause of the natural, customarie, arbitrarie, voluntarie, and necessarie warr, and the miserie of invasive warr; that ecclesiastical prelates have always bin subject to temporal princes, and that the Pope had never any lawful power in England, either in civil or ecclesiastical matters, after such time as Britain was wonne from the Roman Empire. Written by Sir Walter Raleigh, K^t. Begins, That the arke of Noah was the first ship. Ends, seeing we have the grasse cut from under our feete in our fields and pastures.

The first cause of the upgrowing of the Hollanders, he says, was "the favour and assistance of Queen Elizabeth and the King's Majesty, which the late worthie and famous Prince of Orange did always acknowledge, and in the year 1582, when I took my leave of him at Antwerpe, after the return of the Earl of Leicester into England, and Monsieurs arrival there, when he delivered me his letters to Her Majesty, he prayed me to say to the Queen from him "Sub umbra alarum tuarum proteginur."

42. Folio, 16th century, very beautifully written.

I. An address to the Queen—the gist being that all who lose an ensign shall use only a black ensign until it be recovered.—that the Statute of Edw. VI., called the Statute for Captains and Masters, be proclaimed every month;—that she command a muster to be taken of all her armis and garrisons, &c. (It must have been written in the latter part of the reign of Elizabeth, because at parts the writer gives, "A trow decipher of the two greatest enormities crept into the wars of England of late years since the 25 year of the reign of Her most Excellent Majesty.")

II. Seven orders of the Grecian Army in their retreat from Babilon when Zenophon was present. 22 pp. with diagrams.

43. Folio, 16th century, writing like that of No. 42.—Translation into English of the Sea Laws of Philip the 2^d, dated from Brussels, last of Oct., 1563. (31 leaves.)

44. Folio, paper, 17th century, bound in Morocco. Ornamental pen and ink frame for a Title, Arms of Percy (six quarters), and in each corner the Percy badge and coronet. Preface on four pages. Begins, My purpose is not to instruct.—Index of 12 pp.—The text 357 pp.—Begins, A brief Abstract Exposition and Demonstration of parts and things belonging to a ship and the practise of Navigation.

After or Aboft. Is a sea term properly used aboard the ship to distinguish . . . The last word explained in the MS. is Yoake.—On the gilt fore edge of the book is written "Sir Hen. Manwaring."

45. Large folio, paper, bound in limp vellum, 47 written pages.

1638, Jan. 26th. A briefe discourse of the Navy. Begins, Among the many and manifold books extant upon all subjects, both serious and trivial, the Navy hath not been beholding to the pen. Ends, without affectation or base ends to myselfe or prejudicate opinion of any now acting in the Navy.—It is preceded by "The

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

"contents of the ensuing Discourse on two opposite pages."

1. Commendation of the Navy and the benefit of its well being.

2. The present state of its government in harbrough by the four principal officers.

3. A way proposed to rectify the Government and abuses therein of the Navy.

Each of these heads is divided and sub-divided.

46. Folio, paper, 17th century, 35 leaves.

Instructions given by the Right Honourable George Marquis of Buckingham, Lord High Admiral of England, for the direction and government of His Majesty's Navie. Begins, The navie (as al men know) is the wawle and fence of our contrie. Ends, May according to Equitie and the ordinary cause of His Majesty's Exchequer receive his discharge and ful quietum est.—It treats of the various officers and their duties; materials, pay, &c. &c.

47. Folio, unbound, 8 leaves, 6 of which are written on.—Description of the masts and rigging of a ship.

48. Quarto, bound in limp vellum, early in the 17th century. (Inside the cover is written "Given by Sir "Art. Gorge.") Observations and overtures for a sea fight upon our own coastes, and what kinde of order and discipline is fittest to be used in marshalling and directing our navies against the huge preparations of such Spanish Armadas or others as shall at any time come to assaile and invade us. Begins, It is not unknown to anie well experienced seaman what oddes there is between the Navies of Spain and of our flecte. Ends, because they are our inferiours. (34 pp.)

At p. 31. He mentions my Father, Sir W. Gorges, who, he says, went to sea against Tho. Stukeley, a traitor that fled out of Ireland and went to the Pope who gave him the title of Marquis of Ireland.

p. 35. Forme of Orders and Directions to be given by an Admiral concerning a Flecte through the Narrow Seas.—For the understanding and plain demonstrating whereof suppose that a flect of H.M. consisting of 24 sayle or 30 werr bound for service on the West side of Ireland, as Kinsale haven, for example, &c.

When this flect is a seaboard and all safele mett together in the Downes.

p. 40. Rules for men on ship. End (p. 46). No man shall play at dice or other game for his apparrell armes or rattles upon paine of being disarmed and made a swabber.

49. Quarto, paper of 31 pages, and a large sheet at the end. A.D. 1640.—True length of the mastes and yarges of H.M. sea ships and pinnaces. (16 pp.)

Apportion of anchors to furnish any of H.M. ships to sea. (7 pp.)

Apportion of cables to furnish any of H.M. ships to sea for six months. (4 pp.)

The standing ropes of H.M. ships, and the standing number of inches and fathoms.

p. 28. Length, breadth, and depth of boats building to H.M. ships. (2 pp.)

The burden of all H.M. ships, with their number of men and ordnance, their draught of water, and time of building: 41 ships (6 rates).

The largest ship was the Sovereign, 1,522 tons, 600 men, 90 guns. There were only 4 first rates.

A large table of the ships with their particulars in columns.

50. A quarto of 7 pages.—1641, April 5. Fees to the officers in the Admiraltie. The Earl of Northumberland, per annum, 133l. 6s. 6d., Sir Robert Mansell, Lord of the Admiraltie, 325l. 9s. 2d. The names and fees of the other officers are given.

51. Quarto, 1595 (27 leaves).—A treatise conteynng the description of Milford Haven (wherein is particularly set forth all or most of the rodes, creeks, &c.) serving chiefly for the exploring and perfect understanding of a Map made of the said Haven of Milford, by George Owen of Kemes, in the county of Pembroke, Esq., anno domini 1595.—Begins, Milford Haven is a large and spacious harbour.—The last 8 leaves begins, Causes to move the fortifyinge of Milford Haven.

52. Quarto, vellum bound.—Milford Haven.—The title as above (No. 51). A Letter dedicatory to Philip Earl of Pembroke and Milford, &c., by Geo. Owen, saying that the work was undertaken by his father upon the direction of the Earl's father.

A copy of the letter by Henry Earl of Pembroke, &c. to George Owen, beginning, My good Cosen. Dated, Barnards Castle, 1595. (It has the first part, but not the second part of the other.)

53-58. Six folio volumes, bound in calf. (The letters W. M. in gilt letters on each side.) Naval tracts by

Sir William Mouson. (He was born in 1569, and died in 1643. Part of the following MSS. was printed in 1682 under the title of "Naval Tracts," and they were afterwards all inserted in the 3rd volume of Churchill's Collection of Voyages, published 1703: vide Campbell's Lives of the Admirals, Vol. ii. p. 139, and Biogr. Dictionary Art. Mouson, T. S.—This is a note on the fly-leaf.)

53. The first book is dedicated to his eldest sonne, 223 pp. and Index.)

54. The second book contains 167 pp. and Index.

55. The third book, Index and 279 pp.

56. The fourth book, Index and 164 pp.

57. The fifth book, Index and 213 pp.—On Projects and Stratagems.

58. The sixth book, Index and 249 pp. About fishing.—At p. 124 in this book are collections out of Sir Roger Williams' book printed in 1618.

The 1st. volume is all, or nearly all, The Yearly Observations, 1585 to 1602 (see No. 59).

The 2nd volume.—Actions of the English Nation, &c. in the Narrow Seas after King James made his happy entrance.

The 3rd volume.—The Office of the Admiral of England, &c.

The 4th volume.—The discovery of several countries, and the enterprises of the Spaniards and Portugals, &c.

59. Folio, 17th century. A yearly observation [abstract] of the English and Spanish fleets that were sett forth, one to annoye the other, from the year 1585 that the warres with Spain began, until the year 1602 that His Majesty made his happy entrance into this kingdom; shewing the designs escapes and errors on both sides, with the names of the Queen's shippes and commanders.

It begins with the voyage of Sir Francis Drake to the West Indies in 1585.

The second journey of Sir Francis Drake to the roade of Cadiz, after towards the Island of Tercera in 1587, (see No. 13).

P. 5. The first action undertook by the Spaniard was in 1558, the Duke of Medina being General.

p. 9. Actions of Portugal in 1589.

p. 13. Voyage undertaken by the Earl of Cumberland with one ship royal of Her Majesty and six of his owne, and other adventures in 1589.

p. 15. Voyages in 1590.

p. 16. Voyage of two fleets, one by us under the command of Lord Thomas Howard, the other by the Spanish, commanded by Don Alonso de Bassan in 1591.

p. 18. Voyage of the Earl of Cumberland to the coast of Spain in 1591.

p. 20. A voyage undertaken by Sir W. Rawleigh, but himself returning left the charge thereof to Sir Martin Frobisher, in 1592.

p. 22. Voyage of the Earl of Cumberland to the coast of Spain and the Islands in 1593.

p. 23. Sir Martin Frobisher with a flecte to Breste in Britannie in 1594.

p. 24. A flecte to the Indies.—Sir Francis Drake and Sir John Hawkins, Generals, when they ventured deeply and dyed in the Journey, 1595.

p. 26. The Earl of Essex and my Lord Admiral of England, Generals, equally both by land and sea, 1596.

p. 36. A voyage to the Islands, the Earl of Essex being General, in 1597.

p. 44. Voyage of Sir Richard Lewson to the Islands in 1600.

p. 46. Voyage of Sir Richard Lewson into Ireland, 1601.

p. 47. Voyage of Sir Richard Lewson and Sir Wm. Mounson to the coast of Spain in 1602.

p. 59. Voyage of Sir W. Mounson to the coast of Spain in 1602.

p. 63. Voyage of Sir Richard Lewson and Sir W. Mounson to the narrow seas in 1603. Ends on p. 64.

60. Folio, 17th century. (206 pp. and Index) containing copies of letters temp. Hen. VII., Hen. VIII., Eliz. and James I.

1. Henry Earl of Richmond to his friends in England from beyond seas.

3. The declaration of the Earls at the rising in the North.

5. Margaret of Valois to the French King Hen. IV., upon his second marriage.

9. n.y. 17th Aug. The Earl of Leicester to Queen Elizabeth.

22. 1644, Sept. 11. The Archbishop of Canterbury, his capitulation after his long hearing.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

72. Copy of the Ditty or Indictment of the Earl of Bothwell upon the murder of Lord Darnley, King of Scotland.

75. 1567, March 17. Copy of a letter from the Earl of Lennox to the Queen of Scots on the murder of his son.

78. 1567, April 5th. Copy of contract for the marriage of the Queen and Bothwell, dated at Seyton.

84. Some remarkable passages collected out of the Queen's letters to the Earl of Bothwell found in the little trunk.

95. 1584, Feb. 14th. William Parry to Queen Elizabeth.

98. An abstract touching the Queen's marriage, by Sir Thomas Smyth. Begins, It is better for the Queen's Majesty to remain unmarried.

112. Sir Walter Raleigh to Sir Richard Carr. Begins, After many great losses.

117. Sir Walter Raleigh to his wife the night before his expected execution.

124. Sir Francis Walsingham to the Chancellor of Scotland touching the death of the King's mother. Begins, I am sorry to find by your letters.

148. (1583, May 8th, received.) Queen Elizabeth to Lord Burghley. Begins, Sir Spirit, I doubt I doe nickname you.

150. 1645, Sept. 4th. Sir T. Fairfax to Prince Rupert when he summoned Bristol.

156. Lord Burghley to Queen Elizabeth.—I know not with what manner of words.

163. Lord Burghley to his son.—Begins, The virtuous inclinations.

178. Instructions for A.B. (Sir F. Walsingham) to be sent to the Scottish Queen. Begins, Being made acquainted by our servant Wood.

188. 1584, Feb. 18th. Dr. Parry's letter to the Earl of Leicester from the Tower.

193. Touching prescanship : transcript e libro MS. Secretary Walsingham. (About precedency.) Begins, As touching the contentions.—At the end, Concordat cum originali.

61. A thick folio of 558 pages, containing copies of letters. Temp. Hen. VIII., Elizabeth, James I., and Charles I. 21 pp. of table of Contents.

1. Hen. VIII. to the Clergy of the province of York about his title of Supreme Head, &c.

2. Anne Bullen to the King.

3. Queen Mary to the Hanse Towns.

4. Queen Elizabeth to Lady Norris on the Loss of her two Sons.

5. The Duke of Norfolk to Queen Elizabeth.

6. to Queen Elizabeth.

7. John Lille to the Queen Elizabeth for entertainment in the revels.

8. The same to the same, petitioning for a Protection Royal.

There are many letters by Lord Bacon.

62. Folio, paper, 17th century. (125 pp.)

1595, Nov. Proceedings at Cambridge about the Lambeth articles on a debate between Whitaker and Peter Baro.

At p. 13. Whitakers opinions. At p. 25. Dr. Overalls opinion.

p. 74. Mnemonica ex observationibus de statu religionis in Germania et vicinis regionibus experientia aliquot minorum et avarorum comprobatis ab an. 1630.

1. Celebris illa in quibusdam fidei capitibus.

p. 97. In hospitio Londini, 18 May 1635—by S. Johnson to a Bishop (reverende presul).

p. 98-102.—Hu. Grotius to Isa. Casaubon (Latin). To the effect that Archbishop Abbot laboured the condemnation of the five Articles.

p. 103-116. A Latin Treatise by Dr. Holden that the Pope ought to declare that Catholics are bound to obey even a schismatic King in temporal causes.

p. 117-119 (Latin). Lambeth articles about Predestination propounded by Whitaker with notes in the margin by L. A. W.

p. 119-125 (English). A passage of a letter sent by the P. Fulgentio to the Archbishop of Spalato about the Arminian opinions.—At the end Concordat cum originali. (This note at the end seems to refer to the whole volume, which has been corrected.)

63. A thick folio, 17th century, of about 600 pages (not paged).

A Treatise, written by Dr. Harpsfield, concerning the marriages and divorces of Hen. VIII., especially that of Queen Katharine; with the opinion of all the learned of both the universities here, and all the universities in forayn parts, concerning the same. As also the Life and Death of Henry VIII. and all his Wives.

Long epistle to the reader. The text begins, Forasmuch as the matter (the divorce) is incident in the life and doings of Sir Thomas Moore. Ends, Henry VIII., born in good and lawful matrimony, as the Parliament and the whole realm hath lately acknowledged, and the whole world beside believeth, whose Grace Almighty God long preserve to his glory and the advantage of the Catholique faith, and to the comfort of all true loving subjects here.

This coppie was taken from the original. which was found by Mr. Topliffe in the house of William, some tyme servant to the said Dr. Nicholas Harpsfield, who confesses that 2 leaves of the said original were of his masters owne hand writinge.

64. Folio, of the 17th century. (Par Monsr. le Duc de Rohan.)

fol. 1. Discourse on the death of Henry the great.

fol. 6. Discourse touching the assembly of Saumur.

fol. 11. Discourse made during my persecutions of St. John.

fol. 20. Discourse on the voyage of the King, July 1617.

fol. 29. Free discourse on the present time.

Advice on the subject of the divisions of Holland in 1618.

fol. 38. Reasons for the peace made before Monpelier.

fol. 45. Apologie of the Duc de Rohan on the last troubles in France by reason of his religion.

fol. 52. Discourse on affairs of France and Spain.

fol. 58. Letter of the Prince to Monsr. de Rohan.

fol. 59. Monsr. de Rohan's answer.

Fol. 61. Memoirs of le Duc de Rohan on events in France since the death of Henry IV. to the peace made with the reformed in March 1626.

fol. 116. First war against the reformed.

fol. 153. Second war against the reformed.

fol. 183-329. Third war against the same.

(These Memoirs have been printed, with some differences.)

65. Folio, paper, 17th century. 111 leaves.

(1597.) Sir Robert Cecil, Kt., principal Secretary, who was afterwards Lord High Treasurer of England, his Negotiations into France. (111 leaves.) Begins, Altho' Her Majestie according to a resolution taken when M. de Maissie was last in England, &c. (At p. 16 are instructions for R. Cecil.) He left London the 10th of February.—Four ships named respectively Vautgard, Answaere, Quittance, and Tramontance formed the escort; in the first-named were Mr. Secretary, the Earl of Southampton . . . Sir R. Wroth . . . Mr. Thynne (there are 14 names), and chaplains and servants. 1598. On April 29th he returned and landed at Portsmouth, and on the 30th he arrived in London and went to the Queen, "not staying long with her, but returned to his house in the Strand."

66. Folio. A book of speeches in Parliament, began 3rd of Nov. 1640, and ended 29th Dec. 1640. (69 leaves.)

—Petition of Bastwicke.—The Humble Remonstrance of the Commons.—A Report made by Sir Thomas Roe to the House of Commons of a Declaration made by the Earl of Bristol to a Committee of both Houses.—

The Scots charge against the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.—Mr. Rigbie's speech in answer to the Lord Keeper.—Finch's speech in the House of Commons.—

Novacions in religion (A complaint by the Scots).—The Earl of Bristol's speech in Parliament upon delivering by him the Scottish demonstrations, and schedule of their charges.—Sir Harbottle Grimston's speech on the 18th of Dec. 1640, upon sequestering the Archbishop of Canterbury.—Resolutions of the House of Commons to the sixth demand of the Scottish Commissioners, dated the 26th (27th?) of January 1640.—The Scotch Commissioners answer dated 22nd January 1640, signed by Adam Blaire.—The Peers' answer.—The Scotch Commissioners answer.—

Advices and Motives for the noblemen, knights, and gentlemen, that shall employ themselves in the country in soliciting Catholiques for a contribution to His Majesty upon the occasion of his present Northern Journey, 16 heads (6½ pp.).—Sir Francis Seymon's speech in Parliament, 1640 (4 pp.) Begins, The Commonwealth grieves.—The preamble to the Scots six demands (6 pp.).—The Scots six demands (6 pp.) signed by Adam Blaire (7th January 1640), and a note by Adam Blaire of the same date.

67. Folio, paper, 17th century (187 closely written pages). It contains the full account of the proceedings against, and defense by, the Earl of Bristol in the matter of the Spanish Match, beginning with his narrative to the King, "I have by Mr. Secretary Calvert given your Majesty,"—down to his taking again his seat in Parliament which began the 17th of March 1627.

68. Folio, 17th century.—1637. St John's argument in the case of Ship Money. (The first and second days' arguments, printed in Rushworth's Historical Collections.)

69. Folio, 17th century.—The Royal Slave, a tragedy-comedy. The scene Sardes. Acted before the King at Oxford. (Note. Written by Wm. Cartwright, a student of Christchurch, and first represented by the Students of the College before Charles I. and his Queen on the 30th of August 1636. The songs were set by Henry Lawes. Dr. Busby performed the principal part with great applause: he was then a student at Christchurch.) It was printed in quarto in 1639.

A Discourse of the miscarriage of our two late Expeditions (to Spain), and the Cares propounded for the future, (20 pp.)

A Discourse of a design upon the West Indian Fleet by way of Bermudas.

Another Discourse about the Azores.

A discourse upon the plate fleet on the Spanish coasts.—The Portugal Carricks, &c.

Remonstrance très humble au Roy par les Maire et les Jurats de la ville de Bordeaux sur le subject des nouvelles Daces establies a Blaye et imposées sur les Bourdelays (9½ pp.)

Discurso del fusso e refluxo del mare al illustrissimo e riverendissimo Signor Cardinal Orsini (28 pp.) Begins, Il favore che. Ends, mi gli raccomando in gratia. Roma, dal Giardino de Medici, 8 Jan. 1616.

70. Folio, paper, 17th century (17 closely written leaves). Recapitulation sommaire de la conférence tenue sur la question si Sa Majesté est tenue par obligation et en vertu de l'alliance (car de ce que sa dicte Majesté autrement on de son propre mouvement ou par autres raisons voudroit faire, il na esté parlé à présent) d'envoyer le secours porté par icelle ainsi qu'elle a esté requise. Pour la negative a este dict, Premierement que l'alliance est purement defensive, &c.

p. 2. Reponse.—Five arguments against it, and answers in full, written on the leaf opposite. On the last leaf "Faiot à Londres le 16 de Mars 1620."—It seems to be written in favour of an alliance with the United States to defend the Palatinate.

71. Folio, paper, 17th century (25 leaves).—The Defeat of Turneholle, by Sir Francis Vere (3 leaves). Begins, The enemy being in Turneholle, an open village. (See Commentaries of Sir F. Vere, fol. Lond. 1672, p. 72.)

fo. 4-9. The battell of Newport, by Sir Francis Vere. Begins, In the year of our Lord 1600. Ends, but messengers overslacknes. (See Commentaries, p. 81.)

fo. 10 & 11. The Supplement to the discourse of Sir Francis Vere; and in particular touching the last charge in the battell of Newport, by Sir John Ogle, then present. (See Commentaries, p. 106.)

fo. 12-17. Sir Francis Vere's parley at Ostend, by Sir John Ogle, then present. Begins, After the battle of Neuport the Archduke Albert. Ends, but when I gave him my reasons for it he seemed to be well contented. (See Commentaries, p. 143.)

fo. 18-20. The Speech of Mr. Lewknor in Parliament (about supplies to the King.) Begins, I confess it is sometimes a good thing not to choose it all.

fo. 21-23. The Orders of Exercising (soldiers). First of all it is to be understood that there are three sorts of distances.

fo. 24 & 25. Being intreated about nine years ago to set down what I could say against a complaint that the Captains paying 8 days to the week and defaulting yet more for clothes, do notwithstanding suffer their men to be ragged and miserable.—At the end, "per John Ogle."

72. Folio, paper, 17th century. Sir George Caries Relation of France together with his negotiation there. Presented to the King's Majestie Anno Domini 1610. Begins, To the Kings most excellent Majesty, Most Gracious Sovereign, when beyond any desert (2 pp.) Table and 10 chapters. The text is on 218 pp. Begins, Countries for the most part receive their names. (Printed at the end of Birch's Historical View of the Negotiations, &c. Lond., 8vo., 1749.)

73. Folio (bound in red leather), 20 leaves.

A brief relation of some latter occurrents in the State and Kingdom of Morocco.—Begins, Muley Sedan, son and successor to Muley Hamet. Ends, yet burnt upp with a precipitate zeal connaturall to their owne climate.

74. Folio, paper, 16th century.

I. Fragment (about 30 leaves) of a French work.

II. An Address to Queen Elizabeth, beginning, "I pricketh now fast upon the poynte of 15 years, most excellent, most gracious, and most redoubted Sovereign, since the copie of a rayling invective against the regiment of queenes in general was delivered to me by an honourable privy Councillor, with a charge to shape some answer." Ends, to build upon the boughes of your prosperitie. (26 leaves.) The writer mentions that in Philip and Mary's time the Spanish would not vail to the English flag, "which cost my uncle William his place."

75. Folio, 17 century, 84 leaves.—Leycester's Commonwealth. (This was printed in 1584 and 1641 and 1706.)

76. Folio, unbound, 17th Century, 32 leaves. Relation of the proceedings against Ambassadors who have miscarried themselves, &c.; by Sir R. Cotton, 1624. Written by command of the Duke of Buckingham. (Cancelled because it is in another MS.)

2. Letter of O. St. John touching Loans, and against the Benevolences demanded after the dissolving of Parliament. Begins, As I think this kind of Benevolence is against Lawe, reason, and religion.

3. A speech made by Sir J. Eliott in the Commons House of Parliament touching the whole state of the Kingdom and the grievances thereof as it then stood, Janry. 3rd, 1627. Begins, Wee sitt here as the great counsell.

4. Sir J. Eliot, his petition to His Majesty to be released, dated from the Gatehouse, 3 Car. I., 1627. Begins, That your poor petitioner, affected with sorrow.

77. A folio of 73 pages in large writing By the hon^{ble} Sir Anthony Welding (Weldon.) 1652. A Cat may look at a King.

To the Reader. Begins, If I were master either of good language or good method.—It contains Sketches of all the Kings and Queens of England to King Charles the First.—It contains a Certificate of the dissection of Prince Henry; Accounts of Somerset and Villiers (the author is very abusive of King James, and laments Charles I., and wonders at that gross impertinence of the book published as his after his death, and that no course has been taken with it, and to punish him that made it.) Ends, And so farewell Scot and farewell King, and God bless the Commonwealth of England. (Printed in 1817.)

78. Quarto, 17th century, 32 pp.—Copy of a Treaty between the King of Great Britain and the Lords of the States of the United Provinces, made and concluded in Sept. 1625. Done at Southampton, 7 Sept. 1625, English Style. (It is in French; and is directed against Spain.)

Copy of the French Articles of Peace between England and France, 14 April, 1629 (eight articles), dated at Westminster, 14 April, 1629.

79. Quarto, paper, 17 century, bound in vellum. Title and 57 leaves.—A brief information concerning the affairs of the Palatinate, which consisteth of four principall heads, viz.: I. The acceptance of the Crown of Bohemia (fol. 1.)

2. The difference which thereupon happened betwene the Emperor Ferdinand and King Frederick. (fo. 20.)

3. The Proscription and bloodie proceedings which ensued thereupon. (fol. 30.)

4. The interposition of the King of Great Britain with what hath happened during the same. (fol. 40.) The text begins, Touching the first head, viz., the acceptance of the Crown of Bohemia.—For divers ages successively the Kingdom of Bohemia. . . . Ends, offers and declarations aforesaid. Deutronomy, Cap. 12. v. 43. God will revenge . . . people's countrie.

80. Quarto, paper, 17th century, bound in limp vellum, 1+81 pp. (Autograph.)

1642, last day of Dec. T. R. (Thomas Roe) to my Lord. —A discourse of the War of Germany and of the ends and interests of the House of Austria, the King of Denmark, and of other princes in the destruction or restitution of the House Palatin and in the Treatyes of Peace.—Begins, That almost all the Kings Princes of Europe have been engaged in these last German, French, and Swedish wars.—Ends, What impulsion then the Prince Elector Palatine had to provide for his owne safety I leave to all impartial judgment, and doe conclude, if he did make a precipitate fault, the Proverbe must defend him—"He must needs goe whom the divel drives."

81. Quarto, 17th century, vellum, bound, 1 pp.—Dedication to Lord Percy, by G. P. (against the untruths of a former relator).—A trow relation of the proceedings and occurrents of momente which have hapened in Virginia from the time when Sir Thomas Gates was

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

shipwracke upon the Bermudas, anno 1609, until my departure out of the countrie, which was in A.D. 1602. Begins, If we trewly consider. Ends, So stayinge some fewe days at Dover, to accompany Sir Samuell (Argall), I tooke poaste horse and from thence rode to London. Finis.

82. Folio, paper, 17th century, 27 pp.

A Journal kepte by me George Carteret, on His Majesty's shipp the Convertive, being bound for the Coast of Barbary in companie with His Majesty's pinace the Expedition, Capt. Robert Slingsbie Captⁿ in her, begun in April, 1638.

April the 20 I came aboard of His Majesty's shipp the Convertive then rideinge in Tilbury Hope.—28th anchored in Stoakes Bay.

May 12th. The Morocco Ambassador being come to Southampton, Carteret went to Yarmouth, in the Isle of Wight. On the 21st the Ambassador came aboard.—Log and remarks.—On June 9th he anchored in Sally Roads. He sent some provisions to the Castle; the next day after his arrival the town sent him presents of provisions. On June 12th he set sail for Saphie; the 14th he landed the Ambassador there. July 19th. Mr. Blake came down. (He describes the country and produce, and describes Sally.) On the 23rd of July he took Mr. Blake on board, who intended for England.—1st of September he anchored off Cadiz; the 11th met a fleet of 19 sail of English and Scotch ships, all bound for Malaga except two.—On the 12th, about two in the morning, he stood in for Cape St. Mary; at sunset he came up with a fleet of 8 sail. Capt. Slingsbie fired at them; they afterwards returned fire, and Slingsbie again. Oct. 18th. Anchored in the Downs. Oct. 24th. A storm. Got to anchor in Margate Roads and rode there till the 30th, when they came to the Goore. Signed, G. Carteret.

83. Quarto, paper, 171 pages, and two leaves of Title and Dedication. c. 1610.

A true relation of the voyage of the Isles of the Azores by the navie and forces of the late Queen Elizabeth, of famous memory, under the conduct of the Right Hon^{ble}. Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex and Ewe, &c., &c., 1597, and about the 25th of June, after the English accompt, collected and written according to the accidents and occurrences observed from time to time in the Royal shippe called the Wartsight, by Sir Arthur Gorges, K^t. then Captain of the same. Begins, The impartial penne of those famous writers.

84. Folio, paper.—The first book of the first Decade, containing the historie of travel into Virginia. Britania expressing the Cosmographie and Commodities of the countrie, together with the qualities, customs, and manners of the naturall Inhabitants, in part gathered and obtained from the industrious and faithfull observations and Commentaries of the first Planters and older discoverers, and in part observed by Wm. Strachey, gent., three yeares thether employed, and sometime Secretary and of Counsaile with the Right Hon^{ble} the Lord La Warre, H.M. Lord Governor, and Capt. Generall for the Collonies. Nec sermones barbara regna. Hor. lib. 2, Ep. 1.

Letter to Henry Earl of Northumberland, by Wm. Strachey (2½ pp.).

Premonition to the Reader (10 leaves).

A large Map of Virginia, by Capt. John Smith. Graven by Wm. Holl.

First Decade (50 leaves).

The second booke of the first Decade of the historie of travel into Virginia Britania, remembering the first discoverers in generall of this portion of America from Cape Florida to Meta incognita, to the behoofe of England, as in more particular of the lande between Cape Florida and Cape Breton, wherein our Colonie is now seated, together with mention of the several Colonies to the south from the Chesapeake Bay, and from thence to the Norward, at sundry tymes addressed thether, the successe of both, and both now discontinued, with the olde figures of the Smith People upon the maine of Wingandecoa, &c., recollected and observed by William Strachey, gent. (20 leaves).—Before this are five engravings, by T. B., of men and women, and MS. descriptions, and at the end are 20 engravings (some by T. B.) of the men and women and customs and dwellings, with MS. descriptions by Strachey.

85. Large folio, in limp vellum cover (fine large writing), with Earl's Coronet and Percy Crest.—Principall poyntes of a stricke league of amitie betweene the mightie Prynces Elizabeth Queen of England and James the Sixte of that name King of Scottes. Begins, Seing the governments and rule of these Prynces is befallen in these doubtfull and dangerous tymes. (13 items : Defence of Religion and mutual aid. 2 leaves.)

15 leaves.—A devise, containing reformation of the over general and indefinite power of the Lord Wardens of the Marches towards Scotland, being greivous and injurious as well to good men as to the evil disposed, as also for reducing the laws of the borders betwixte the Prynce and subjecte, and betwixte subjecte and subjecte, both in criminal and civil causes, to a certaintie, which are now uncertaine and insufficient for all kinde of tryalls that doe happen in Warden Courts, which is done by setting downe in cleare and expresse wordes such lawes as are now helde to be in use, being heretofore confused and ambiguous, and addinge such other new lawes as are necessary and cannot be wantinge for the dew execution of that kynde of justice. Begins, The Commission of the Lord Warden from the Prynce amonge other things hath two special partes.—The last item is, What Scottish persons may be servants in England.

86. A large folio of 54 leaves.

Berwick.—A new Establishment, being a fair copy of the first order in the next volume (No. 87), but in a different manner as to the arrangement of the accounts.

A fair copy of the second order.

A fair copy of the instructions in the next volume.

The Ancient Statutes of the town of Berwick-on-Tweed, signed by the Queen the 1st of Oct. 1560. They are 47 in number, and are followed by the Oath of the Clerk of the Watch.

The Order of the Watch and ward appointed for Berwick-on-Tweed by the Right Hon^{ble} Peregrine Bertie, K^t, Lord Willoughby of Willoughby, Beake, and Earsbye, Lord Governor of Her Majesty's Town and Castell of Berwick aforesaid, and Lord Warden of the East Marches for anenst Scotland, and by the rest of Her Majesty's Counsell established there the 16th Nov. 1598. (8 pp.)

A discourse containing the several Considerations that my portsaacke will yealde to the Warrs, necessary for England, and especially for the City of London, to prevent and answer sudden attempts against the same. Whereto is joyned another of the use thereof for Ireland; to the suppressing of the rebels there. Also I have sett downe the properties and uses of two sorts of Targets with a staffe or Pylum to them belonging, both devised by myselfe, and very vantagious to the warrs. Lastly, folowes the author's conclusions upon the whole matters handled in the several discourses. (He suggests a haversack to each soldier's back.) (9½ pp.)

To the Queen, presenting her with a plot of Ulster.—He had been engaged for 20 yeares there; he surveyed Munster when it was to be allotted to the Undertakers; he surveyed the fortifications of Cork; before finishing he was appointed by Sir William Fitzwilliam, the Queen's Deputy, to make a description of Ulster, which he performed as well as he could; only Tyrconnell and Faramanauk he was forced to leave imperfect: the said plot of Ulster, in 1591, he delivered to the Lord Treasurer. In that, as in this now presented, he observed, &c. &c. He promises a second plot. (7½ pp.)

Eleven pages of Tables touching the duties of a General in war.

87. Large folio, 32 pages in all (with blanks).—Barwicke and other holdes upon the East Borders, for anenst, Scotland. 20th June, 18 Eliz. 1576.

A new Establishment and order made by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, as well of all manner of Officers, Captains, and soldiers that shalbe of the thordinarye garrisons and crews within the said towne and the holdes on the North parts nere thereunto, as also of the dailie and yearlie dietts, wages, and entertainments of the same during her highnesses pleasure, the same to take place and beginning from the feast of Michaelmas last, as followeth. (Gives the officers and their pay, and the men and their pay.) (7 pp.)

A summarie of certain orders to be observed in our town of Berwick upon Tweed, over and besides such ancient orders as have heretofore been in force in the time of our dear Father, Brother, and Sister. 20th June 1576.

The Government and Council.—Frequenting Church.—Government of the Town.—Oaths.—Duties of townsmen, captains, soldiers, &c. &c. (12½ pp.)

Instructions given the 20th of June in the 18th year of Eliz., to Robert Bowes, Esq^r, Treasurer of Berwick. (4½ pp.)

The order of the watch and ward to be observed in Berwick upon Tweed. 40 Eliz. (4 pp.)

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

88. Folio.—Salisbury, 26th Aug. 1603. The King's Instructions to Lord Zouch, Lord President of the Council of Wales and the Marches. (About 25 leaves.)

89. Folio, 16th century.—A general survey of all such lands as are conteyned within the county of Desmond, as well of such as wear the Earl of Clancartyes own demaens, as of all other lands belonging to the Lords and others the freeholders of the said county. (22 pp., and four maps done by hand.)

90. Large folio, 16th century, 59 pp.

A book of Questions and Answers concerning the wars or rebellion of the kingdom of Irelande. Begins, Question. What is the cause of this great rebellion in Ireland?—Answer. Pride, ambition, as alsoould malice. Ends, and thus much for answer to all the 70 questions of the book.

(On a paper inside is this note, "Written about the year 1585, see fol. 2 at mark x, where the death of the Earl of Desmond is alluded to. Written when Sir J. Morrice was Lord President of Munster, see fol. 30, E.M.)

91. Folio, unbound, 36 pp.—Written for the satisfaction of our friends hereafter upon the grounds of my retirement and resolution never to meddle again with any publique affairs from the present Feb. 1601.—Begins, Upon my return from Nimegen to the Hague. (This is the third part of Sir William Temple's Memoirs, and is printed among his works.)

92. Nine brief sheets: half the last sheet (containing the end of the treatise) is torn off.

A Supplement delivered Nov. 12, 1695, concerning the coin of England. (This supplement was delivered 19 Nov. 1695, and given to my Lord Godolphin.) Begins, Whatever measure the State shall take.

93. Folio, unbound, marked Part I.

Dominique, Roscan, 7th of June 1761. The oath and list of those Inhabitants who have sworn to and signed the Obligation not to carry arms against the King, or to assist any of his enemies.—31 pages of signatures and marks, residences, and qualities. At the end.—N.B. The list is continued in another book marked part II.

93a. Part II., which only contains three leaves.

94. Folio, vellum, 17th century, 8 leaves.

1656, May 29th, Alcantara.—Ratification of the 28 Articles of Peace (Latin) between John King of Portugal and Oliver the Protector, concluded on the 23 July 1654; followed by the King's Power (in Portuguese) to John Rodriguez de Saa and Menezes, Count of Penaquiao his Embassador, dated from Lisbon, 17th July 1652; and a Power from Oliver to Nath. Fiennes, Esq^r., Ant. A. Cooper, Gilbert Pickering, and Walter Strickland, Esq^r., dated the 23rd of July 1654.—This copy is signed by the Portuguese Secretary of State, and by Joannes Recz.

94a. Folio, unbound, being a paper copy of the above. (This is inside the vol. No. 94.)

95. Folio, 16th century, 32 leaves.—At the beginning are several leaves of accounts by the Earl of Northumberland of moneys borrowed, 1572–1575. ("My brother Michel Boyle" is a creditor.)

The Chemicall and artificial Theoricke and practise of nature: A booke very philosophical set forth for the commodities of all such as bestowe their study in the true naturall philosophy. By Gerard Dorne, 1568.

96. Folio, 17 century.—General propositions of the warre; 70 heads of the books of 3 chapters (53 pp.)

Alchemy.—The Chemical and artificial Theoricke and practise of nature. A booke very philosophical set forth for the commoditie of all such as bestow their study in the true naturall philosophie, by Gerard Dorne, 1568. (122 pp.) Begins, The life of naturall things. There is in naturall things . . . Ends, then shall the tincture lose a great part of his virtue, strength, and power. Laus Deo.

97. Folio, 16th century. Alchemy. Heare followeth the Mary (Marrow?) of Alkemy. In the name of God, amen. Begins, I being abowte to intreate to your most excellent Lordshippe of the treatis of Alkemy. Ends, on fol. 10 (p. 19). Here endeth the Mary of Alkemy, compiled by George Riply, Chanon of Bridlington, A.D. 1476.

106. George Riply to King Edward IV. (41 pages of poetry), 285 stanzas of seven lines each; begins, O honourable Lord and most victorious Knightes. Ends, which he in his kingdom us graunte for to see. Amen.

Note of our fyers withoute the knowledge whereof our mastery is not performed. By G. Ripley.

Case expounding the same. Begins, Heare lye contrary operations. (4 pp.)

George died when he was of ripe years, and he giveth these precepts, &c. (4 pp.)

A partial abridgment of all the writings of Geo. Ripley. (9 leaves.)

The vision of George the Canon. This is in Latin verse, &c. (3 leaves.)

Here followeth the marrow of Alkemy the which speaketh of four words as after followeth:—1. The first worde of this work is, &c. (32 leaves.)

Extracts from Guido of Grecia and Arnold of New Town. (11 leaves.)

98. Folio, paper, 16th century, 31¹/₂ leaves. Alchemy.—The Rosary of Toletanus, that excellent and worthe philosopher, gathered out of the eminent philosophers and brought into a short some.—The preface begins, Praise be given to the Almighty who geveth the wisdom to us. The text begins, Desirous desier and price inestimable. Ends with a Colophon stating that it was translated out of Latin into English and printed 18th of July 1551 by Robert Frelove mercer clerke to the Merchant Adventurers.

99. Quarto, unbound, 16th century; 5 leaves. Of Alchemy (the beginning is absent).

fo. 6. The works of Robert Greene. Begins, Surely withoute any faulshed the worke of Alkemy is true and nott to be mocked and skorned at.—Ends on fol. 12 verso. This little tretis I have made and ended in this my owlde age of 71 years, in anno 1538.

fo. 13. An Allegorie supposed to be made by Th. Norton.

Begins, Take earth of earth earthes brother,
And water of earth that is another,
And fyer of earth that beareth the pryce,
And of that earth look then be wyse.

Fo. 16. Ends, Now have ye hard the making of our stone,

The beginning and endinge is all one.

100. Quarto, unbound, 16th century, in English.—A treatise upon the Philosopher's Stone.

Begins, Of this oure stone which manie take in hande,

And fewe thereof the nature understande.
Ends, 11^b, Lest they perchance shoulde worke some wicked waye,
Missing that which might have beene their staye.

A conclusion with an exhortation of the premises.

Amen, quoth D. E. Cradocke. (2 pp.)

The pit of putrefaction according to Jame Lacinus.

(1 p.)—Bound with it. To the Reader.

Begins, Of elements extending here to speake.

(9 verses of 7 lines.) Ends, quoth E. C. D.

A treatise concerning the elements of the Philosopher's Stone. (16 pp.) in verse.

Begins, Ofte stillinge some an errour houlde

Withe Lullus yet as uncontrold.

Ends, Till God do sonde his heavenly grace,

Whose name be praysed in everie place.

Amen quoth E. C. D.

101. Quarto, 16th century, 61 pp. in English. Practica et accuraciones Georgii Ripley et Raimundi.

102. Quarto, 16th century.—Tractatus Johannis vicinensis de Preston.—Ars Alkymie quae Speculum Elementorum.

Joy prayns and everlasting honor be to Almighty

God. (The mirror of Elements; 24 leaves.)

A poem in 9 leaves (verses of 7 lines). Raymond

Lulle in his Theoricke.

Mr. Wm. Blomfield his verses (7 leaves).

Begins, When Phebus was entered the sign of the ram.

(4 verses of 7 lines.)

The dream of W. Blomfield, in verse.

A leaf of recipes with a date of 1582.

Heare beginneth the Glasse of Master Jno. Dasten,

(14 leaves) and 32 more leaves of poetry and prose,

Alchemical.

103. Quarto, paper, 16th or 17th century, 68 leaves,

(Alchemy).

1. Latin verses, 30 or 40 lines.

Begins, Liber iste clericis monstrat scientiam

Liber sed laicis auget incitiam.

2. To the glory of God one in persons three,

This book is made that lay men may it see.

And Clerkes also after my decease. (Alchemical.)

Ends, 5^b. But the best thinge that yee doe shall,

Is to reade many bookes, and then this withall.

6^b. Capitulum I.

Begins, Maistry full mervaylous and Archimaistrie

To the tincture of holy Alchimy.

(In 7 chapters.)

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

Ends 68a. All that have pleasure in this booke to reede,
Pray for my soule and for all quick and dead,
In the year of Christ 1477
The work began, honour to God of heaven.

102. Quarto, 16th century, 17 leaves.—An unknown author.—Begins,—Sir, I have commended to your worship a confirmation of those points of philosophy that we have lately conferred upon touching the Elixir in medicin of the Philosopher's Stone. (It is by way of Question and Answer.)

105. Quarto paper, 16th century.—A learned Dialogue of Barnard Palessy concerning waters and fountains, both naturall and artificial, translated out of French into English by Thomas Watson (70 pp.)

(Conversation between Theorieke and Practise.) Begins, Theorieke speaketh first.—Byndinge my selfe very thirlyste.—Asks him (Practise) to do as he promised, to teach him to make fountains in every place. Ends, (Practise) my discourse would be never at an end.

106. Quarto, vellum, early 15th century.

Tractatus Lincolniensis de generatione sonorum vocalium. (4 pp.)

Tractatus de modo significandi.

Tractatus [Sancti Thomæ] fratris Thomæ de modolibus.

Tractatus de divisione logice.

Tractatus Lincolniensis de comens.

Tractatus Lincolniensis de generatione impressionum humidarum.

Tractatus ejusdem quod homo sit minor mundus. (1½ p.)

Tractatus ejusdem de V. (?) differentiis loci in celo.

Franciscus de signis nature.

Tractatus de arte memorandi (with diagrams and a volvelle. 5 leaves.)

Tractatus Arithmetica. Bredone. (17½ leaves.)

Tractatus Lavenham de ludo philosophorum. (This is preceded by a letter by John Lavenham, monk of Colchester, to Henry, Bishop of Norwich.) It seems to be about calculation by the Abacus. There are two Abaci of 64 squares each. (8 leaves.)

Tractatus auctoris de ponderibus. Begins, Omnis ponderosi. (6 leaves.)

Tractatus Euclidis de ponderibus. (This is mentioned in the Table, but I do not see it in the volume.)

Tractatus Lincolniensis de Yride. (5½ pp.)

Tractatus Lincolniensis de fractionibus radiorum. (5 pp.)

Tractatus Licolnensis de luce. (5½ pp.)

Tractatus de practica Geometrie. (14 pp. with diagram.)

Tractatus Alberti de formâ resulante in speculo. (8 pp.)

Tractatus de practica musice. (5 pp. with staves and notes, and continuation of 8 pp.)

Tractatus metricus musice speculative editus a Magistro Johanne de Mur. Begins, Quoniam Musica est de sono.

Tractatus primus operis quadrupartiti de sinu recto et verso (11 leaves.) Begins, Quia Canones non perfecte tradunt noticiam sinus.

Tractatus R. Lincolniensis de sperâ (10 leaves.) Begins, Intentio nostra in isto Tractatu.

107. Quarto, 16th century, bound in vellum, 62 leaves.—Exercitatio sive conatus de animâ in communi communia quadam tractans.—This is a Latin treatise on the Soul, by Edward Johnson. It is dedicated to Henry Earl of Northumberland, to whom the author addresses a letter of 8 pp. A preface is followed by the treatise in 32 chapters.

108. Quarto, 16th century, 60 pp., bound in vellum. The title seems to have been lost. Begins, Dixit, Estimaverunt Indi quod quando linearum lineæ absque numero et projiciuntur pares et eriguntur ex eo quod remanet figure.—p. 3. a date of January 1323 is mentioned. Ends. Nam compositio et divisio intellectus præsupponunt simplicem intelligentiam. Syllogizare vero et discurrere sine compositione et divisione esse non possunt. Dico autem compositionem quando mens affirmat aliquid de aliquo conformiter.

109. Square small folio, vellum bound.

pp. 1-44. Alkindus de radiis. Begins, Omnes aomines qui sensibilia sensu percipiunt ea in aliqua forma comprehendunt. Ends, qui secreta cœlestis et elementaris nature nota habent.

[Johannes Lincolniensis.] De fractionibus radiorum tractatus. Begins, Utilitas considerationis Linearum Angulorum et Figurarum est maxima. Ends, varietatem linearum angulorum et figurarum.

Ejusdem auctoris de Luce tractatus.—Begins, Formam primam quam corporitatem vocant lucem esse arbitror.—Ends, Ex his manifestum est quod solas quinque proportionis repetas in his 4 numeris, 1, 2, 3, 4, aptantur compositioni et concordie. Quapropter illas solas quinque proportiones sunt concordies in musicis modulationibus et rithmis.

110. Folio, 16th century, bound in limp vellum, with the Earl of Northumberland's badge, &c.: finely written—

1. Tractatus auctoris contra theoricam planetarum.

2. Lincolniensis de Iride. (6 leaves.)

3. Tractus fratres Rogeri Bacon Minoritæ de erroribus medicorum. (20½ pp.)

The beginnings of the several tracts are as follow:

1. Quam inferiorum Cognitio ad cœlestem conducatur inquisitionem.

2. Et perspectivi et physici est speculatio.

3. Vultus medicorum non cognoscit suam simplicem medicinam.

111. A thick folio, 17th century; 1010 pages.—Polybius translated into English by Sir Edward Vere. In the translation you will often meet with these marks []; all that is written between are the translator's annotations which in the original English copy are written in the margin. Begins, If those who have written Histories.

112. Folio, 17th century, unbound, 11 Pp.—Begins, The trade of merchandize for the Western worlde in auncient times.—The writer tells of the trades of various countries, and says that the loss the kingdom shall sustayne by the overthrowe of the East India Trade will be in the domesticke expense and alsoe in our forayne trade.—At p. 10. The remedies.—Ends, may be made very profitable to us both.

113. Quarto, paper, 30 leaves; 1607. The foundation of the University of Cambridge with a Catalogue of the principal and special benefactors of the Colleges, public schools, and library which are now in the same, and the names of all the present Masters and fellows of everie particular College, together with the number of Magistrates, Governors, and officers thereunto belonging and the total number of students now therein residing. Collected March 25th 1617.

At the back is a coloured shield of the Arms of, and on p. 3, a dedication by John Scott to, Algernon Lord Percie K.B. son and heir of Henry Earl of Northumberland. The arms are coloured and gift.

114. Quarto, paper, 1762. Bound in red morocco.—A miscellaneous Essay with respect to our great Boards to the Exchequer and to America, most humbly submitted to the consideration of the Right Honble, the Earl of Egremont by his Lordships most humble and most obedient servant Henry McCulloh: Sept. 1762. (the signature is autograph.) Begins, The King hath distributed his power judicial to several Courts. Ends on p. 66.

115. Large Folio temp. James I. (Earls Coronet &c. on it.)

The humble Petition of the Clothiers of the North to the Lords of the Privy Council (exhibited 28th April 605). (4 pp.)

—Petition of the Merchants of Exeter, Totnes, Barnstaple, Plymouth, Tavistock, Dartmouth, Tiverton, Molton, Taunton, Lyme, Weymouth, and others of the Western parts (exhibited 28th April 1605), about the customs upon cloths shipped out. (2 pp.)

—The Allowances of the western dozens to the rule of short cloths in Sir F. Walsinghams time. (2 pp.)

—Collection of several Statutes for the rates and proportion of clothes. (3 pp.)

1592, April 2nd. Letter by Lord Burghley and Sir John Fortescue to the Customers, Comptrollers, &c. of the port of Exeter and Dartmouth and the members of the same. (2 pp.) (About rates on cloth.)

1605, May—Petition of the Northern Merchants to the Lords of the Privy Council (1½ pp.) Against farmers of Customs trading in Merchandize.

1605, June—Another Petition to the same effect. (1 p.)

The project and platform of a more ample and richer contribution then heretofore ever hath been for to be levied from henceforth of the subjects with their good liking towards the defraying of H.M. household charges; Cartes taking for Carriages with other necessities and divers ancient allowable duties of that condition and nature belonging to his highnes roiall prerogative his Crown Dignitie and services, yielded heretofore unto. 4 pp.—It is a proposal for duties on the sales of certain things.

1604. A Charter Partie.—An assurance of fish from Newfoundland.

1605, June.—A letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury to the Archbishop of York, concerning the

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECOS-
FIELD.

proceedings against Papists and Recusants (4 pp.) Begins, Salutem in Christo.—I have written before to your Lordship concerning your proceedings with your factious ministers. Ends, unto the tuition of Almighty God. There is a P.S.

An answer unto the Petitions of the Western and Northern Merchants touching a greater allowance of Northern dozens and Northern Kersies and Devonshire dozens to be granted unto them in payment of their custom. (Exhibited to the Lords of the Privy Council, June, 1605.) (3½ pp.)

1603. Latin. A copie of Lord Spencer's Commission on conveying the Garter to Frederick Duke of Wirtemberg. (1½ p.)

Petition to the King (exhibited March, 1605). About wrongs committed by the makers of whole salt in the counties of Durham and Northumberland towards the merchants of London, Norwich, Lynn, Yarmouth, and other ports. (2½ pp.)

True narrative of the trade and state of Salters and salt-making upon the Sea Coast in the counties of Durham and Northumberland. (3 pp.)

Rates what a panne will make of salt in one year and how much cole spent. (1 p.)

1603, June 10th. (Latin.) Copy of the Lord Admiralle's (Charles Earl of Nottingham) warrant for the measuring of grain and salt. (3½ pp.)

Note of a judgment by what lawes the controversy of two strangers for matter of depredations is to be tried. 1605, June 3rd. The question is asked at the Council Board. The Spanish Ambassador De Taxis asked the Lords that for the trial of a cause in the Admirall's Court, there might be more assistance given to Sir Julius Cesar and the other judges of that court; whereupon the Lord Chief Justice and Lord Chief Baron were appointed to assist. The case was this,—A Hollander had taken a Spanish ship at sea without the precinct of the King of England's port; the Vice-Admiral, by command of the Admirall, brought her into the haven, &c., &c. (1½ pp.)

1604, Feb. 3rd. Copy of the Proclamation touching the calling in of marshall lawes; by the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland. (1½ p.)

1604, Feb. 3rd. Copy of the Proclamation touching arms; by the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland. (2½ pp.)

1592, June 27th. Copy of the Composition made with her late Majesty in the time of Sir William Fitzwilliam's Government for 1,500*l.* sterling, to be paid out of the English Pale by the Lord Deputy and Grand Council of Ireland. (5 pp.)

1605, June 15th. Copy of an Act entered in the Council-book touching a Composition of 1,500*l.* sterling, to be paid out of the English Pale (by the Lord Deputy's Council and the agents appointed by the Nobility and chief gentlemen of the English Pale). (2 pp.)

A means to bring to (the?) Irish unto one kind of language and civility with the English and to convert their lands to the best profit and to encrease the King's revenue there.

1. That from every Irish nobleman a son and a daughter be retayned with a nobleman in England to attend them and their wives. These, every 5 years (unless voluntarily they will remaine longer), to be remitted and others supplied. (3½ pp.)

1604, March. A letter from the Lords of the Council to the Lord Treasurer, concerning the removing of an authority obtained by the Merchants of London of the late Queen for the levying of certain money upon all sorts of cloth shipped into France. (2½ pp.)

Certain Articles or Considerations touching the Union of the Kingdoms of England and Scotland, collected and digested for Her Majesty's better service by Sir F. Bacon, Kt. Begins, Your Majesty being I doubt not directed and conducted by a better oracle. Ends, benigne and gracious acceptance. (20½ pp.)

1605, June 23rd, Greenwich.—Orders conceived fit to be put in execution in the several Counties of the Realm for the better preservation of His Majesty's subjects in peace order and obedience within the same. Begins, First, that the Justices of the Peace resident within any county. (3½ pp.)

1605. Reasons which the inhabitants in the fen towns and the confines thereof in the county of Lincoln and divers other persons inhabiting the high counties do make against the draining of the fens. (4 pp.)

A Discourse of the Lawes of England. Begins, The use of law consisteth principally in these two things, the one to secure man's persons from death and violence, the other to dispose the properties of lands and goods.

Ends, And he is to do it in such sort as the Executor should have done if he had been named. (52½ pp.)

Upon divers Conferences between His Majesty's Attorney General on the one part and Sir John Croke and Sir Francis Bacon on the other part, concerning the matters in question between the King's Bench and the Lord President and Council of the Marches; in some parts they have agreed and in some they differ as followeth. (1½ p.)

Upon divers Conferences (as above). Ends, as hereafter may appear. (3½ pp.)

The Course of the Laws of England and the abuses of the Ministers thereof laid open. Begins, Omne jus aut necessitas fecit aut consensus constituit aut formavit consuetudo. In this is comprehended all our Laws of England, that is to say, Common Law, Statute Law, and Custom Law. Ends, who though he have not to satisfie must endure execution of his bodie. (22 pp.)

Letter to King James a propos of a Commission by Queen Elizabeth to Francis Fortescue, Francis Goodwin, John Temple, Anthony Terringham, Richard Tredway, William Burlacy, Alexander Hampden, Esquires, and Robert Johnson, Gentleman, to make certain inquisitions at the Manor of Whaddon and Nashe Bierton, Hadenham, Stokehamond, Winslowe, Risborrowe principis, Farnham Royal, Newport pannell, Missenden, Langley Morrice, Wiraesbury, Halmer, Upton, and Dachett co. Bucks.—It contains copies of two letters which the writer wrote to a Privy Councillor dated from the Parsonage of Buckingham. The second letter is dated 12th March 1601. In it he says his name was named in the Commission. (38 pp.)

2 Jac. I., Oct. 18th. The Power and purpose of the Patent granted to the Saltpetremen. (8 pp.)

Inconveniences observed in the proceedings before the President and Council of the North parts of the Realm to the great detriment, trouble, and impoverishing of the inhabitants within their jurisdiction. (7½ pp.)

1604, Dec. 6th. Copy of Articles agreed on by the Commissioners for the union of England and Scotland. Begins, Forasmuch as by the princely care and providence of the King's most excellent Majesty. (22½ pp.)

A Declaration of the decay of Her Majesty's Revenue rising by her Highnes prerogative of tenures in Capite, &c., by Mr Sparokes. Begins, It is most certain that the Revenues of the King are the very sinews. Ends, that her Majesty may be no further abused and defrauded. (17½ pp.)

A discourse of Monopolies and Licenses, the inconvenience of them to the Commonwealth. By Mr. Harrison. Begins, All the licenses for the most part are of two sortes. (6½ pp.)

Petition to the King by the Mayor and Burgesses of Newcastle upon Tyne.—Against the abuses of the Guild or fraternity of Hoastmen (for lading and disposing of Sea Cole and Grindstones within the river and port of Tyne) who had a charter from Queen Elizabeth. They will not admit free bargesses except upon certain terms, &c. (2½ pp.)

The answer of the Hoastmen. (4½ pp.)

The whole allotment for Barwick allowed by our late most gracious Queen, and yet continued by the King's Majesty, our mighty and gracious Lord, doth amount unto 15,000*l.*, which is paid by the Treasurer as followeth.—Items of payments. (3 pp.)

Seeing that it hath pleased God to join the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland in one King, it were to be wished that the same two might be so incorporated that they be one entire bodie.—This incorporation theas difficulties seeme to impeach, viz., the difference in Church Governments, great differences in laws, customs, and privileges, &c.—(Suggestions for the removal of difficulties.) (5 pp.)

Important considerations which moved our late Queen to restrain the current of sterling moneys from hence into Ireland, and to send thither base moneys, giving Sterling in Exchange of the same here in England. (12 pp.)

A project for Ireland.—Begins, How your Majesty may give unto the army there full pay with high contentment, yet be a greater gainer thereby and save the treasure issued in Ireland from being exhausted and imported into other Countries. (10½ pp.)

1604. Letter from the Lords of the Council to Mr. Attorney General to draw up an Indenture for the making of three pieces of gold, viz., the Rose reall of 30*s.*, the spurre reall of 15*s.*, and the Angel of 10*s.* (1 p.)

1602, March 5th. Irish monies.—Received of Sir Thomas Knyvett, Warden of Her Majesty's Mint, argent Ingots to be coined into money for Ireland, &c., &c.

LORD
LECOS-
FIELD.

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

17 Eliz., March 9th. Greenwich. Copy (in English) of Queen Elizabeth's grant to Lord Burghley for Change, Exchange, and Rechange within and toward the Realm of England. (7 pp.)

Sir Richard Martin, Master of the Mint, to the King (James I.)—A treatise touching Mint matters. (28 pp.) Begins, Most gracious and dread Sovereign, many be the motions that have provoked me. Ends, And thus much brieflie for the better understanding of the true wage and making of your Majesty's monies. (28 pp.)

16 Hen. VII. Copy (Latin) of the finding of Jurors against William Chewyn, of Aston, in the co. of Salop, for assault on Elizabeth, wife of William Massye. (Trespas.)

—Two other similar papers against Sir Richard Empson (for enclosures).

1610, 8th Jan.—Petition of Right to the King by the Commons of the lower House of Parliament. (2½ pp.)

1605. Petition of the Commons to the King (16 pp.) (About grievances.)

1610. Petition of the Commons to the King.—Against Popery, &c. (2½ pp.)

Another Petition beginning with "Proclamation in

"prejudice of the Subjects' right and liberty. (14 pp.) His Majesty's Answer to four Grievances,—viz., Imposition of one shilling on each chaldre of sea cole; Exactions for sealing of new drapery; Imposition upon Alehouses; Monopoly of license for wines, &c.

Memorial of such resolutions as His Majesty hath taken with the advice, &c. Grievances presented at the last Session, 1605. (8 pp.)

1612. The gain of making monies in the Mint. (1½ pp.) 1612. Reasons against raising the current value of silver money. (2½ pp.)

Motives to induce the Commons House of Parliament to petition His Majesty for the revoking and abolishing the degree of Baronets lately created by His Highness Letters Patent. First it is offensive to the Nobility of the Realm. (2 pp.)

A Paper by Sir Charles Cornwallis. Begins, The alliance with Florence by marriage of your highness with a sister of that Duke, brings with it neither to the King nor yourself any addition of strength or diminution of doubts, the two powerful marks that in all marriages and conjunctions of that nature between princes are aimed at. (4 pp.)

In the marriage of his highness there are many things considerable and of very great consequence (written against marriage with a papist). (5½ pp.)

John Keymer's treatise addressed to the King.—About trade and commerce. Begins, I have diligently observed in my travels.—It ends with suggesting certain commissioners, and giving their names.

116. Folio, 17th century.—Miscellaneous; written by one hand; being a sort of Cyclopaedia of events, books, history, geography, law, horses, games, &c., &c. (29 written leaves.) The Index has, besides, the names of precious stones, and the names of manual occupations in England, but they are not filled in. The volume was compiled after 7 James I.

117 Folio, paper, 17th century; 127 pp.—A friend to Cæsar.—An humble proposition for the more regular and speedy payment of His Majesty's Treasure granted or to be granted by the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament for the carrying on His Majesty's expenses, whether ordinary or extraordinary, within time of peace and time of war. Begins, It appears by several Acts of Parliament. Ends, deeper and deeper in them the longer they are continued by him.

118. Quarto, 118 leaves, bound in green morocco.—Poems by Dr. Donne. (It has this note: "All except "one at p. 30 are printed in 8vo., 1669. T. S.)—The leaves (not pages) are numbered; fol. 30 has part of Elegie 10. Begins,

Till I have peace with thee, Warr other men,

And when I have peace can I leave thee then.

Ends. 30b.—The last line on the page begins Elegie 11.

By our first strange and fatal interview,

By all desires which thereof did ensue.

119. Quarto, bound in calf.

Tully's Laelius.—A discourse of Friendship translated into English by Mr. Talbot, dedicated to Charles Duke of Somerset.—Letter of Dedication; and text on 47 pages.—Then follows from p. 1 to 16—A pastoral dialogue concerning Friendship and Love between Alcon and Lycidas.

Alc. Say Lycidas, why all alone?

Is thy Dorinda false, or does she frown?

Dost thou to this dark Desert fly

To vent thy own or blame her jealousy?

LOD
LECON-
FIELD.

120. Folio, paper, 17th century: 172 written pages.—Book of Songs. (A note on the fly-leaf says: Many of these are printed in "Rump or an exact collection of "the choycest poems and songs relating to the late "times by the most eminent wits from Anno 1639 to "Anno 1661." London, 1662. 8vo. T. S.) There is an Index to the poems, which are 82 in number, alphabetically arranged, and one line of each poem is given. Many of the poems have the names of the Authors at the end.—On the cover is a crest, gilt; a Moor's head with a wreath, and a viscount's coronet above.

121. Quarto, paper, 1610.—A book of Latin epigrams dedicated to Francis Leigh.

122. Quarto, paper, 17th century.—Arviragus and Philicia, in two parts, by Lodowick Carlell.—It has the autograph of the author "Lodowick Carlell." (This play was printed in 8vo., 1639.)

123. Folio, paper, 18th century, 10 pp.—Satyr. Begins, In vain the fulsome errors of the Age,
We strive to mend in Satyr or on Stage.
(It is scurrilous.)

124. Folio, black morocco.—The Shepherds' Paradise, a Pastoral, in five Acts. (223 pp.) The characters are,—

Saphira	-	-	the Queene.
Bellisa	-	-
Basalmo	-	-	My Lady Marquesse.
Moramante	-	-
Agenor	-	-
Genorio	-	-	Mrs. Sisley Crofts.
Palante	-	-
Fidamira	-	-
Gémella	-	-	Mrs. Sophia Carye.
Miranda	-	-
The King	-	-	Mrs. Arden.
Pantamora	-	-	Mrs. Villers.
Camena	-	-	Mrs. Kirke.
Melidoro	-	-	Mrs. Howard.
Martiro	-	-	Mrs. Victoria Cary.
Bonorio	-	-	Mrs. Seamer.
Timante	-	-	My lady Ann Feilding.
Votorio	-	-	The Mother of the Mayds.
Romero	-	-	Mrs. Seamer.

By Mr. Water Montaignu, and acted by the Queene.

First Act—Osorio, Timanti.

Osorio. What whispers this Timanti, that wakes our Prince out of his amorous slumbers?

The fifth Act is from p. 143 to the end. It is written in a large hand, and is a fair copy. (It was printed in 1629.)

125. A very large folio, 122 written leaves.—Copies of Proclamations and Council letters addressed to the Lord Lieutenants and Deputy Lieutenants, &c. of the co. of Sussex, from 16 November 1583 to 16 December 1627.

126. A thick folio, paper; there are a few vellum leaves at the beginning and the end. No writing except on the fly-leaf and two of the vellum leaves. On the fly-leaf at the beginning,—1553, Wm. Leigh, born Tuesday, 7th of Novr. 1553, Francis Leigh, christened 12th of March 1578. I took the note out of the church book at Exton at the funeral of Lord Harrington.

1st vellum leaf.—Arms of Leigh, gu. a cross engrailed in dexter chief point a lozenge az.; a martlet for difference. Below are the arms of Leigh impaled with his wife's arms, of 18 quarters; 1st quarter sa., a fret ar. . . .

(In Latin.) I, William Leigh, 4th son of Sir Thomas Leigh, was born at London, 7 Nov. 1553; married Frances, 4th daughter of Sir James Harrington of Exton, co. Rutland.

2nd vellum leaf. Entries of the births of his children. The 1st son was born dead; the second, Thomas, born in 1578, died a few hours after birth; Francis was born in 1579, Thomas in 1580, Edward in 1582, Anne in 1584, Winifred in 1588, Frances in 1598, Robert in 1599, Mary in 1600, Als (Alice?) in 1601, Thomas in 1603, Anne on 24th of May (year not mentioned).

127. 12mo., of the 17th century, 87 pp. Epitome of Livy in English.

128. 12mo., of the 17th century, 149 pp. Epitome of Samuel Daniels' History of England down to Queen Mary.

129. 12mo., 17th century, 64 pp. Religio Laici; offered to the consideration of all men (whether Dependents or Independents) for the settling of some fundamental grounds of religion.—Begins, Having formerly spoken, &c., I shall say something of religion yet so that I shall rather tell what I have approved and followed in mine own particular.—p. 59, to the establishment of the common peace.—p. 60. The common notions touching religion. Being about to speak of revelation. —Ends, which come the nearest to the observation of them.—At the head of the treatise is written (by a different hand) Lord Herbert.

130. 12mo., red morocco, 24 pp. Establishment containing the number of all such male horses as we think fit to allow for our own service and for the Master of our Horse, &c., &c. Will. III. 1689.

131. 12mo., calf. The like for James II. 1685.

132. 12mo., Morocco, 27 pages. The like for Queen Anne. 1702.

133. Small quarto, end of 16th century, bound in vellum.—A short discourse of the best manner and breeding of horses, bettring the racer, and curing diseases; by Mercury Pallen. Dedicated to the Earl of Northumberland. (3 + 11 leaves.)

134. Quarto. The Earl of Northumberland's breed of horses at Petworth, from 1668 to 1670. (9 pp.) At the other end are a few medical recipes.

135. Large quarto, vellum, 16th century.—(On Exchange, Mintage, &c.) On the first leaf is "1615, so the book was made 51 years past;" and in red ink, "John Acherone, with my hand. Amen."—Then the Preface. Begins, For the better understanding the Arithmetical rules conteyned in this booke. (2 pp.)

A conference of Waighetes, Boolion, and valewes of the silver money of England and of the sylver money of the Low Countries, &c., &c.; finished in the month of Feb. 1564 (fols. 2-12).

A Treatise concerning the mintage of the monyes necessarily depending upon the book of Exchange hereafter coming. Begins, Before the matters of the myntage of the monyes are in some parte touched; but because, &c. fols. 13-17b.

An Abstract of the different reasons of the two prizes concerning the syzing of the Troy weyghte and of the avoird de pois weicht, written 28th March 1585. (fols. 18a-19a.

The Controversie between Her Majesty and the Steedes or Stillyard men; written 8th of April 1578. (fol. 20).

Touching the vente of English Clothes; written 9th of October 1587. (fol. 21.)

Touching the multitude of Merchants for venting of English Clothes. (fol. 22.)

(The arms on the cover are five fasils in bend azure, a crescent in sinister chief.)

136. Three thick quarto volumes, bound in huffalf with Gulielmus—Percius stamped in gold; the binding has a gold wreath.

Translation of Elias Mymbraus Commentaries on Aristotles Metaphysics and other works. It also contains tracts by E. Mymbraus.

(One of the volumes has on the title-page Anno 1578.)

137. A vellum-bound folio.—A survey of the Ports with the Brestworks and trench or line of Communication about the Cities of London and Westminster, by Rd. Daynes. 30th March 1643. (8 pp.)

(It is a list of 26 forts and blockhouses, giving the number of perches from fort to fort, and the number of miles from the Thames.—The volume, from the headings of the pages, seems to have been prepared as a commonplace book for a military man; and a few pages are filled with practical and theoretical matters.)

A vellum-bound folio, prepared in the same way as the one above, but this one has copies in it of about 40 leaves of business letters and accounts, written at the beginning of the 17th century.

138. A thin folio, paper, 166 pp., finely written; 1600.—The building of Fortes, written in Dutch by Simon Steven, of Brudghes; translated into English by P. J. (Paul Jue), 1600. (A pink drawn by the pen.) Dedication to Henry Earl of Northumberland. The dedication of the treatise is "To Henry of Brienen, "Deputy for the Dukedom of Guelderland, in the assembly of the Lordes the Estates General, Simon Stephen wisetheth health." (It has pen and ink plans.)

139. Folio, paper, 17th century, bound in limp vellum.—Petit discours militaire divisé en deux parties desquelz la première contient ce qu'est necessaire à une armée terrestre selon le temps d'aujourd'hui. La seconde les trois principales factions militaires c'est à dire Le Marcher, Loger, et Combattre, accomodé à l'usage du royaume d'Angleterre. Begins, Pour faire bien la guerre sont requises principalement quatre choses. (84 leaves, besides folding plans.)

140. Folio, bound in red leather, with Earl's coronet, &c.—Articles of Warr instituted by the Kinges Majesty of Sweden, &c., Gustavus Adolphus. (23 leaves.) 148 articles, in English.

The last eight pages are occupied with the translation of an agreement by Gustavus Adolphus, dated 20th of January 1625, engaging Frances Barnard, Earl of Torn and Wolstane, Baron of the Cross, as his colonel over one regiment of foot and eight companies, upon certain terms.

141. Folio, paper, latter part of the 16th century. (31 pp.) The General's company commanded by Capt. Savage. Three pages about eight regiments, with the names of the colonel and captains of the companies and the number of men in each, and out of what county or place they came. Each regiment (with one exception of 700) contained 750 men.

Instructions and Articles set down by Robert Earl of Essex and Charles Lord Howard, Lord High Admiral of England, General of H.M. forces employed in the action. (63 pp.)

Directions how far every man's office in the army doth extend, and what dutie the officer is to do. Begins with the Lord Marshal, and ends with the drum. (21 pp.)

142. Folio, 78 leaves, unbound. The Answer made by command of Prince Henry to certain propositions of War and Peace delivered by His Highness by some of his military servants. (By Sir R. Cotton.) Begins, Frames of policie as well as workes of nature. Ends, endless expense, trouble, and danger.

143. Quarto, paper, 16th century; bound in limp vellum. 62 leaves, with plans inserted.

1573, June 13th. To the Right Hon^{ble} and his singular good lord the Earle of Bedforde, Thomas Blondevyle sendethy this Booke as a token of his good will, thankfull mynde, and bounde dewtye towards his Honour. (Autograph.)

1. The preface of Jacobus Acontius to his booke of fortifyinge.

3b. A Devision of fortifyinge.

62b. Ends, from the usuall habytations of the said Lordes.

Quarto, unbound, of the 17th century. Copy of the Lord Admiral Nottingham's grant of the place and office of Lieutenant or Admiral and Captain General of the Narrow Seas, that is to say from the river of Thames, &c. to the Island and Islands of Silley and the coasts thereof to all and every the navy of the King's Majesty. Sealed and delivered 22nd Oct. 1613. Indorsed, To Henry Marvin, of Forest Hill, Esqre., co. Wilts. (Title and 14 pp.)

The following are unbound:—The Office of the Navie (by Sir Henry Palmer). Begins, After that Navigation began to grow into repute.—The heads are: Their general duties—Their particular duties, properly belonging to their several places—The Treasurer—The Comptroller's dutie—The Surveyor's dutie.—Ends, that no neglect be for want of information thereof. (5 pp. folio.)

Before I begin to treat of the Sea, I will shew what laws Richard the First constituted, &c. 6 items (1 page).

The office of the Admiraltie of England (29 pp.) Begins, The master of the office is the Lord Admiral of England, who holds his court of justice for trials of all sea causes.

p. 2. The Earl of Nottingham Admiral, Sir Robert Mansell, Lieutenant, Sir Wm. Russell, Treasurer, Sir H. Palmer, Comptroller, Mr. Kendrick Earbury (Edisbury P), Surveyor, Mr. Denis Fleming, the Clerk. The fees of these and the names and fees of other officers down to p. 7.

p. 8. He enters on the duties of the various officers.

p. 29. Ends, with officers who enjoy their places by commissions under the seal of the Admiralty Court upon warrant from the Lord Admiral.

A special note of some particular rights belonging to the Lord High Admiral. There are 5 items (½ p.)

A particular of some special matters (amongst many others) in the power of the Lord High Admiral and his sub-ministers to examine, reform, and to take the benefit of the fines, forfeitures, and seizures thereupon accruing. (1½ pp.)

Begins, Art. 3. Such as do fortifie, strengthen, or animate the King's enemies with furniture, munition, or victuals. Ends, with y^e 57th Article.

The heads of sundry special businesses in the ports mediately in H.M. disposal which may raise great somes of money for His Majesty's speciale service.—20 heads. (1 p.)

1627, March 1st.—Orders established by the Earl of Nottingham, Lord High Admiral of England, for the better settling of the principal officers of the Navye in

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD,
LECON-
FIELD.

theyr several duties, &c.—The Treasurer, Comptroller, Surveyor, &c. (4 pp.)

1637, Dec. 1st.—Memorandum of the patent granted by the King to the town of Plymouth for the ballasting of ships to be employed towards the maintenance of their harbour. (1 p.)

A list of the names of the Vice Admirals of England and Ireland holding their places by patent from the Right Hon^{ble} the Earl of Nottingham, Lord High Admiral of England, &c., during pleasure.

p. 1. Cheshire and Lankarshire, Lord Strange.

p. 3. Judges.

p. 5. Registers.

p. 7. Marshalls.

p. 9. Governance of forts and garrisons. (9 pp.)

Orders and Instructions to be established for the better government of H.M. Navy. (17 leaves, containing minute regulations for great and petty officers and men.)

—Begins, In the well governing of H.M. Navie. Ends, Yet will our indeavour be frustrate, the charge immoderate, and the navy insensibly ruinate.

1636, Feb. 20th. Copy of Contract with John Craue of Loughton, co. Bucks, Esq^r, for victualling the Navy. (It is said to be printed, Rymer xx., p. 103.)

(1640.) A brief discourse touching the manner and charge of mooring H.M. Navy in Harbrough (7 leaves). Begins, It is not unknown to all men that know the Navy that H.M. shippes and vessells great and small have constantly been and still are all moored by cables and anchors.—Ends, Though the King takes all I have enough.

Copy of a Charter (temp. Eliz.) exempting the Trinity House from Land Service. (1½ pp.)

1597, May 28th, Greenwich.—Copy council letter.—On the complaint of Robert Fenwick and Wm. Philipps, Merchants, of Newcastle they that were unsatisfied for losses sustained by piracy in 1591 by a French ship and pinnace of M. de St. Luc, Governor of Brovage (?) to the amount of 3,000*l*.—the Council give them power to make reprisals.

1637. Signes to be observed by and between the ships of warre, ordered by the Lord Admiral Martin Harperts Tromp, with the agreement of their High and Mighty Lordships. (6 pp.)

24 items (for signals).—Five pp. of Naval Rules; done in the ship Ammelia lying before Helvoet-sluis, Nov. 20th, 1637.

Causes to move the fortifying of Myllforde Haven (6½ pp.) Begins, Although it be thought that it is not like the enemy should attempt the invading and wyning thereof. Ends, And the neglecting thereof perillouse and a danger to both. (15 numbered sections.)

Brief sheets. 37 Eliz., Jan. 29th.—Copy of Sir Jon Hawkins and Sir Francis Drake's Commission to go anywhere against the King of Spain. (The names of the ships were Garland, Defiance, Bonaventure, Hope, Foresight, and Adventure.)

[1595.] Copy of the Earl (Robert Devereux) of Essex and Lord High Admiral's Commission (against the Spaniards) 3 pp.

30 Eliz., 4th Oct.—Copy of the Earl of Cumberland's Commission for going to sea against the King of Spain. (1½ pp.)

1638, June 29th. Copy of a demand of cordage to rigge and seastore all H.M. ships in Chatham and Portsmouth harbours, &c. &c. &c. One large sheet, with the names of the ships, and the diameters and lengths, &c. of cables, hausers, and coyles required.

A large roll of parchment about 8 inches wide and 6 feet long.—A particular of divers droytis, perquisites, benefites, powers, and authorities (amongst manie others) belonging to the Lord High Admiral of England for the time being, the forfeitures and benefites whereof have heretofore been enquired of and put in execution.

1. The forfeiture of all persons sworn upon any jury or inquisition within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty of England that have opened and discovered the council of the King or the secrets of the realm, and his fellow jurors.—37 items. (It seems to be temp. Charles I.)

Another roll, temp. Charles I.—The same as above.

A roll of vellum about 2 feet long by 10 inches wide.—Whitehall, Sept. 4th, 1626, present the King, the Lord Keeper, &c. &c.

A proposition presented by the Lord Admiral for proportioning the King's allowance to Mariners and Seamen by increasing the medium from 1*l*s. per month to 20*s*.—The tables are set out.—At the foot, the lords approve and direct it to be carried out.—(It seems to be a copy from the Council book.)

A roll of parchment about 2½ feet long by 10 inches wide.—List of His Majesty's ships, with their measures and burdens according to a rule from the Lords of the Council, 26th May, 1628; written in columns giving the ranks, names, length of keel, greatest breadth within the plank, depth from the extreme breadth to the upper edge of the keels, tunnage, number of ordnance, men in harbour, number of men at sea, in what year built or rebuilt.

A very small quarto of 16 pages (two pages are used as one page.) A list of the Royal Navy prepared the 24th of March 1714—written in five columns. 1st. Royal Arms; tons, 1721; guns, 100; wants, small; repairs, great.

The Admiral's squadron, 1 page, in five columns. Names. Commanders. Tons. Ordnance. Men.—Sir Henry Mainwaring was captain of the Unicorn.

A Journal of our summer's voyage in 1636, beginning Monday, May 15th. (18½ pp.) Begins, I came on board the Triumph, (the Admirals ship) in the Downs. Ends, Oct. 9th Yarmouth. (It is the Earl of Northumberland's journal.)

Instructions given by Algernon Earl of Northumberland, K.G., one of His Majesty's Privy Council. Admiral and General of H. M. fleet now setting forth to sea to duly observed, &c. 1637. 40 articles on 12 pages.

The Admiral's squadron, the same as above. (1 p.)

A Journal for 1637, from 20th of April to Sept. 10th. (7 pp.)

Two large folio volumes. Vol. I. contains 8 leaves of table and 1–500 pp. Vol. II. p. 501–1014, and 20 pages not numbered.—At the end of the table, "All the rest "be drawn writers from the 938 to the 1014 leafe, thats the end of this book, finis, Quoth Thomas Trevilyan. Vol. I. is labelled, History of Philosophy, &c., 1614. It contains accounts of the Sun and planets, Zodiac, General and Special History, Chronology; Calendar, and large drawings to illustrate the months.

Jewish History to p. 144.

p. 145. British History (from the British Chronicle) illustrated with large portraits, two, and four, and one, on a page, ending with Queen Anne, wife of James I.

p. 237. History of Scotland.

p. 247. Pictures of learned men with descriptions.

p. 265–272. The powder plot conspirators, with verses.

p. 273. The Sheriffs of London.

p. 288. The Lord Mayors of London, from 1558 to 1602.

p. 313. Different characters and emblematical figures with verses.

p. 329. The Senses. Virtues and vices, &c. &c.

p. 437. Picture of James I.

p. 438. Picture of Queen Anne.

p. 440. Picture of Frederick (Prince Palatine) and Elizabeth, lately married.

p. 443. Prophecies of the Sibyls.

p. 456. Thomas Trevilyan being 68 years of age when he made an end of this book, 1616, 12th Sept.

p. 457. Reubens Testament (the Twelve Patriarchs.)

p. 469. The seven worthies.

p. 478. The Muses.

p. 487. Cardinal Sins.

Vol. II. contains:—

p. 494. Cardinal virtues.

p. 501. The Apostles, &c.

p. 525. Extracts from the Old Testament to illustrate them alphabetically.

p. 537. Extracts from the New Testament.

p. 545. Extracts from the Psalms (for reading.)

p. 555. Extracts from the Psalms (for singing.)

There are divers Alphabets, and some fanciful drawings which are very Oriental in character.

p. 657. Plants and Trees.

p. 880. Animals and Serpents.

p. 938, &c. Patterns.

News letters from the Hague (French,) and elsewhere. 1696, June 19th. The King of Great Britain left Breda on Tuesday last. (1½ p.)

1696, June 19th.—The army is still at Waiveran, the King of England arrived there the evening of the 12th, having left his Flanders Army entrenched between Ghent and Bruges.

1696, June 22nd. Another letter on the same page as the last. (1 p.)

1696, June 26th. Army movements. (2 pp.)

1696, Nov. 13th. The President de la Tour has set out for Brussels. He (de la Tour) understands the threat that his house was to be pillaged, was to make

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

him go; but he says he shall soon return to the Hague. (1½ p.)

1696, Nov. 20th. Count Caunitz presented a paper in the Congress, giving the result of a conference at his house, that if France did not by way of preliminary engage give up Lunebourg in statu quo, the negotiation would be broken off.—De la Tour has asked, but not got leave to return to the Hague.

1701, Dec. 1st. Received. English extracts from letters dated from the Hague, 9th Dec., Cologne, 6th Dec., Frankfurt, 4th., Vienna, 26th Nov., and Venice 25th Nov. (3 pp.). In the first letter the writer says the Prince of Nassau-Saarbrück, and the Earl of Athlone, are both in town, and were present at a Council of War which was held yesterday upon the present conjunction.

1704, Sept. 26th. Hague (French). The Antwerp Gazette tells us to day that Sir Cloudeley Shovel has been killed in a naval engagement. (2 pp.)

1704, Oct. 7th. Hague (In French). . . . The five English regiments and their French prisoners have arrived from Germany, and have been distributed in the different places assigned to them. Mr. Vernon left the Hague yesterday to continue his journey to Copenhagen.

News letters from Paris, the Hague, Amsterdam, Rome, &c.

Paris, 1701, Dec. 9th and Dec. 16th.

—1711, Feb. 13th, April 17th and 27th, and Dec. 11th, 25th.

—1712, April 8th and 24th.

Hague, 1696, June 8th, 15th, 19th, 26th, July 6th, 12th, 24th, 27th, Aug. 17th, Nov. 13th, and 20th.

—1696, Nov. 23rd. H. G. Hennecke to the Haut and puissant Seignour.

—1699, July 21st, Oct. 22nd and 29th.

—1701, July 19th, and Dec. 2nd.

—1703. Two letters dated Oct. 19th, Oct. 26th.

—1704, Jan. 4th and Aug. 14th. (The latter is a copy of a letter by the Duke of Marlborough to the States General.) Aug. 26th, Sept. 26th, Oct. 7th.

—1706, Oct. 22nd.

—1707, Sept. 6th and 20th.

—1709, Janry. 7th, Dec. 27th, 31st.

—1710, Janry. 3rd, July 31st, and Dec. 9th.

—1711, Feb. 2nd, March 3rd, 6th, April 21st, 24th, May 1st and 5th.

Five foreign Advices from the Hague and several other places received in Nov. and Dec. 1701.

Amsterdam, 1711, April 28th.

Rome, 1703, July 21st.

Florence, 1703, July 28th. L. Blackwell to the Duke of Somerset.

1704, July 3rd. Florence.—L. Blackwell to the Duke of Somerset.—The Pope is out of order, having kept his chamber for several days, an ugly humour falling into his legs.—He (Blackwell) hopes for a remove to Venice, which the Duke's recommendation to Sir Charles Hedges might accomplish.

—1704, Aug. 23rd. The same to the same.

Berne, 1711, May 16th. A Stanyan to the Duke of Somerset. On receiving the news of his appointment to Berlin as Queen's envoy, he wrote to ask the title and pay of plenipotentiary.—He repeats the request as he finds he need not stay at Berne.

—1711, Nov. 21st. The same to the same.—Thanks the Duke for asking the Queen to send him to Milan.

Folio, labelled, France, Narrative, 1749.

Narrative of the proceedings between Col. Yorke and the Earl of Albemarle, at Paris, and the French ministers there, relating to the disputes about the Islands of Tabago, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Dominica in America, the colony of Nova Scotia in North America, and the exchange of Indian prisoners there; as also about appointing Commissioners for determining as well the above differences as the affair of prizes taken at sea since hostilities should have ceased.—(The narrative is compiled from letters, and references are made by letters of the alphabet to documents in the Appendix, which forms about two thirds of the volume. The first date is a letter of the 17th of Janry., 1748-9, from the Duke of Bedford to Col. Yorke, then in London, and the last the 1st of Janry. 1749-50.

Unbound.—Extracts from Letters in 1756, numbered B. to R.—F. and H. are wanting.

B. 27th March. The Earl of Bristol (at Turin) to H. Fox.

C. April 5th. H. Fox to the Earl of Bristol.

D. April 5th. The same to the same.

E. May 1st. The Earl of Bristol to Fox.

G. March 13th. A memoir in French.

I. Vienna, Mr. Keith to the Earl of Holderness.

K. Précis. (French).—L. The like.

M. Treaty between the Empress and the King of France.

N. 17th July. The Earl of Bristol to Fox.

O. 28th July. The same to the same.

P. (French.) The state of troops.

Q. 10th Nov. The Earl of Bristol to Fox.

R. 8th Dec. The same to the same.

Letters to and from the Earl of Bristol, at Turin, in 1757, marked A to N.

A. Feb. 18th. W. Pitt to the Earl of Bristol. The King's resolution after various insidious overtures for accommodation communicated to Turin.

B. March 9th. The Earl of Bristol to W. Pitt.—Says he is kindly received by the Court.

C. April 20th. The same to the same.—Mentions attempts to infuse a jealousy of the King of Sardinias predilection in favour of England.

D. May 18th. The Earl of Bristol to Lord Holderness.

—Says that Turin is jealous of the ambition of Vienna.

E. May 25th. The same to the same.—Mentions the behaviour and indiscretion of Carraccioli.

F. June 29th. The same to the same.—Speaks of the decorum of the Court of Turin, and the warmth of that of Vienna.—Report of an intention against Rostock.

G. July 6th. The same to the same.—Gives Chauvelins declaration with regard to the continuation and object of the war.

H. July 27th. The Earl of Bristol to Pitt.—Establishment for Don Philip.—The language of Vienna with regard to Prussia.

I. Aug. 10th. The same to the same.—His doubts about the Court of Madrid.

K. Aug. 31st. The same to the same.—A French remittance to Sweden.

L. Nov. 23rd. The same to the same.—Speaks of the joy at Turin at the Prussian success.

M. Nov. 30th. The same to the same.—Says the French gain ground at Madrid.

N. Dec. 7th. The same to the same.—Count Mercy's affectation to appear well with the Court at Turin.

The Earl of Bristol's letters (marked A to L.—H. is wanting,) in 1758.

(1758) Jan. 11th. The Earl of Bristol to Pitt.—The King of Poland imputes the death of his Queen to the troubles in Saxony.

A. Feb. 8th. The same to the same.—The Archduke Joseph is put on arrest.

B. Feb. 22nd. The same to the same.—It is probable that Viry will be replaced by Lascaris.

C. March 29th. The same to the same.—Gives an account of the disputes between Kaunitz and Stainville.

D. April 19th. The same to the same.—Successful interposition in favour of Viry.

E. April 26th. The same to the same.—The Duke of Savoy's knowledge of the Court of Madrid.

F. May 17th. The same to the same.—Says the Courts of Vienna and Versailles are growing less sanguine; they propose ideas of secularization, &c.

G. June 14th. The same to the same.—Gives the character of the Conde de Fuentes.

I. Nov. 29th. Mr. Mackenzie to W. Pitt.—About Kaunitz, Choiseul, and Berni.

Mr. Mackenzie's Letters to W. Pitt, in 1759, (marked A. to G.)

A. Jan. 6th. Relates a conversation with Osorio upon some hints dropped with regard to the Plaisantin.

B. June 27th. Further communication on the same subject.

C. Feb. 3rd.—Gives the character of Sir M. Berryer, Minister of Marine in France.

D. Feb. 10th.—Says that Lord Marischall, Governor of Neufchatel, passes thro' Turin, and mentions the object of his journey.

E. Feb. 17th.—Further communication of what has passed between the Courts of Versailles and Turin with regard to the eventual succession to the Plaisantin.

F. May 9th. Some particulars relative to the Court of Naples.

G. Oct. 3. Treaty between Vienna and Naples.

Mr. Mackenzie's letters to W. Pitt in 1760 marked A. to G.

A. Jan. 30. Copy of a secret and confidential letter: Correspondence between Tanucci and Carraccioli, from which something may be collected with regard to his Catholic Majesty's way of thinking.

B. Feb. 9th. Continuation of the same. Carraccioli's opinion of the Court of Turin adhering to their claim of the Placentine.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

C., D., and E. Feb. 14th, 23rd, and 28th. Three letters so dated being further thoughts from the same source.

F. July 2nd. Gives an account of the strange affair of the Baron Dedelsheim.

G. June 25th. Copy of Dedelsheim's letter to the King of Prussia.

Folio, 3 pp. 1761. Mr. Secretary Pitt having on Friday renewed in Council his proposition of recalling Lord Bristol from Madrid and proceeding to immediate hostilities against the Spaniards, was supported by Lord Temple alone in that idea, it being opposed by every other Lord present—Pitt withdrew, and on Monday Oct. 5th resigned his Secretaryship.—He had an interview with the King and the King was gracious—Lady Hester Pitt was made Baroness Chatham to her and her heirs male with an annuity 3,000*l.* a year for Pitt, his wife, and eldest son.—Grenville was sent for, but would not take office as Secretary of State; but it was agreed that he should be King's Minister in the House of Commons.—On Oct. 6th Lord Bute honoured me with a visit offering the Seals—Lord Grenville advised acceptance—I consented—Thursday 8th, had audience of the King and received the Seals.—Friday 9th, Lord Temple resigned the Privy Seal; the Monday following Mr. Grenville in a letter to Lord Bute resigned the office of Cofferer—The office of Privy Seal was some time after filled up by the Duke of Bedford, and that of Cofferer by my brother the Earl of Thomond.

Loose in the volume are some notes by Lord Egremont of the King and Queen's visit to the Guildhall, Nov. 9th, soon after the opening of the Session of Parliament. Lord Temple and Pitt went and were vehemently applauded, and the authorities received them with as much ceremony as the King and Queen, which Lord Egremont thinks disgraceful.

1761. Folio, 54 leaves.—Copies of letters between the Earl of Bristol and Lord Egremont: the first is dated Segovia 14 Sept. 1761, and the last is dated Madrid, 6 Dec. 1761.

A folio volume.

A.—Quebec, 5th June, 1762. A report of the Governor of Quebec and dependencies thereof, by James Murray, to Lord Egremont. (79 pp.)

1. Return of His Majesty's forces in his government of Quebec and the dependencies thereof.

2. State of fortifications.

3. State of the Government under the French administration.

4. Its revenues and expenses.

5. Church government.

6. Indian natives residing within the Governments.

7. Nature of its soil and produce.

8. Population.

9. Trade.

10. Character of the people.

B. Project for building a Citadel at Quebec: seven plans and descriptions.—Papers referred to in the Report; (nine in number) certified as true copies by H. T. Cramaké, Secretary.

C. Quebec, 7th June, 1762.—Letter by Governor Murray to Lord Egremont to serve as supplement to the Report; and papers referred to in the letter.

1. The address of the Clergy to Governor Murray, 7th of June 1762.

2. Address of the principal Inhabitants of the Government of Quebec.

3. Petition of Rabi, the pilot.

4. Governor Murray's letter to the Lieut.-Governor of Bahia, dated 20th of Sept., 1761.

5. Letters from Lieut.-Governor Belcher and Col. Forster, to Governor Murray, dated 25th of March 1762. (All these papers are certified as above.)

Folio, 15 leaves. Guadalupe, 1761, Sep. 14, and 1761, Feb. 16. Two letters from Campbell Dalrymple.—1762, Jan^y. 1. Senegal. Letter from Richard Wagner.

Folio of 107 pp.—Expedition against the Philippine Islands.

1762, Jan^y. 14th. East India House. The Company to the Earl of Egremont.

1762, Jan^y. 21st. The King's instructions to W. Draper, Esq^r., Brigadier General of the forces in the East Indies.

Copies of letters between W. Draper and Lord Egremont and others. The last is, 1763, April 14, Pall Mall. W. Draper to W. Wood.

Folio of 289 pages. Letters from 12 Dec. 1761, to the 20th of July, 1762, to and from Sir Jeffry Amherst, the Governor of Bermuda, C. Colden, Governor of New York, the Governors of North Carolina, Connecticut, South Carolina, Fort Pitt, Georgia, Maryland, Nova Scotia, New Jersey, New York, New England, New Hampshire, Placentia, Quebec, Virginia:—And papers about Montreal and Canada, &c.

Folio, of 286 pp., and Index. Copies of Correspondence between the Earl of Albemarle and the Governors of the West India Islands, between Dec. 5th, 1761, and Jan^y. 18th, 1763.—And Letters by and to the Earl of Albemarle, Geo. Thomas, Governor of Antigua; Shirley, Governor of the Bahamas; the Governor of Bellisle, C. Pinfold the Governor of Barbados; Lord Rollo, Governor of Dominique; Geo. Wage, Govern of Sinegal; Campbell Dalrymple, Governor of Guadalupe; the Governor of Goree, Geo. Scott, Governor of Grenada, and the Governor of Havana; W. H. Littleton, Governor of Jamaica; the Governor of the Leeward Islands; C. Pinfold, Governor of St. Lucia, and W. Rufane, Governor of Martinique.

Folio, 62 pp. Official Correspondence—1763, Jan. 9, to 1763, May 10, with the Governors of the West India Islands.

Folio, 404 pp. (Correspondence with Pitt.) 1761, May 18th.—The King's instructions to Hans Stanley, Esq^r., Minister to France.—For Peace. The last letter is dated from Paris, Sept. 19th, 1761.

Folio, 665 pp. Copies of correspondence of Lord Egremont with the French and Sardinian Ministers from 1762, Feb. 22, to 1762, Sept. 3.

Folio of 702 pp., Vol. I. Copies. Instructions, dated 4th Sept. 1762, to the Duke of Bedford, as plenipotentiary to France for peace.

Lord Egremont was in office here. The last letter is dated Jan^y. 1763.

Vol. II, Folio of 723 pp. Letters from 31st of Dec. 1762 to Aug. 19th, 1763.

Quarto unbound. n.d. (about 1760–1770.) A Dialogue between A. and B., shewing the advantages of conquering the Isthmus of America, in order to make a navigation for our ships from one side to the other, which navigation is proved to be practicable, &c., &c., by John Wilson, D.D., Rector of St. Vigors in Fulbourne, near Cambridge; with an Address to the King.

1763, July 1st. The Visitors or Governors of the College of William and Mary in Virginia did on the 21st of Dec. 1762 choose Charles, Earl of Egremont, Chancellor thereof, vice the Right Reverend Father in God, Thomas Hayler, late Lord Bishop of London. (Signed by Wm. Yate, President, and three others, and wafer seal of the College.)

A large folio of 23 leaves.

1648. A book of receipts and disbursements for their Highnesses the Duke of York, the Duke of Glo'ster, and the Princess Elizabeth, beginning the 24th of Nov. 1647. The first entry is, Received the 23rd of Dec. 1647, from Mr. Fawkenbridge by the hands of Mr. Edward Payler in part of the 7,580*l.* a year allowed to his Lordship from the Parliament for the maintenance of His Highness the Duke of York, the sum of 300*l.*—5030*l.* was allowed for the Duke of Glo'ster and the Princess Elizabeth.—Payments are signed in the margin by Lancelot Thornton and Charles Kirke.

ORIGINAL LETTERS BY THE EARL OF ANGLESEY TO THE EARL OF ORRERY.

1661, Aug. 20th. Dringham.—Lord Anglesey to the Earl of Orrery.—He will oblige by staying there till the Bill of Settlement is despatcht. His Majesty's Council have given the first reading to the Bill, and the Irish are ordered a sight of it, and the Committee for Irish affairs to peruse and consider of it; and the King's learned Counsel also, in which number Sir Audley Mervin is particularly named. . . . The Lord Chancellor is sick of the gout. As to Orrery's suit concerning the 10,000*l.* of the securities taken in the late usurper's time, he (Anglesey) moved his Majesty therein this day, and has obtained it "and " Secretary Nicholas is drawing up His Majesty's " letters for it to be granted to your Lordship, and to " be equally divided amongst you."

1661, Sept. 3rd. Lord Anglesey to Sir Jas. Shaen, K^t. Secretary to the Lords Justices of Ireland.

1661, Sept. 24th. Lord Anglesey to the Earl of Orrery.

1661, Oct. 29th. The same to the same—I received yesterday by Sir James Shaen the large packet from your lordship and the Council; nothing could be more seasonably transmitted or more conducive to the end, they all aim at the happy settlement of that kingdom. His Majesty resolves now to set close upon the business of Ireland, wherein we proceed to-morrow, and I am sure it will not be unwelcome news to you, that the Irish now have scarce any hope of that peace

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

which I cannot tell whether their confidence was greater in breaking or claiming after violation.—I came late from Guildhall to-day where the new Lord Mayor, Sir John Frederick feasted all the Council with the Spanish Ambassador and other foreign Ministers.—News is come of a young Dauphin in France. Sir Henry Vane Lambert, Sir Hardresse Waller, &c. were sent on shipboard. Saturday last, and may perhaps go to countries fitter to try new government in.

1661, Nov. 5. The same to the same. The day of our deliverance from the first powder plott.—It will be welcome news to you that your lordship and your brother Justices are like to be shortly eased of that place of great trouble wherein you have served His Majesty since your going over so prudently and faithfully, by the going over of a Lord Lieutenant so acceptable to all as his Grace the Duke of Ormonde will be, who yesterday at Council was declared by His Majesty his Lieutenant of that kingdom, and to his Lordship and the Committee for Irish affairs; the Bill of Settlement was then referred with other Bills after judgment of the board and His Majesty that the peace of 1648 was totally cancelled and violated by the Irish and no longer obligatory. They declared at the same time their resolution that the declaration should be fully observed, and the preamble of the Bill approved will give your Lordship grounds enough to expect a happy settlement in that kingdom. . . . The Lords think his (Orrery's) estimate of the Revenue for Ireland comes short of the necessary charge.—The Lord Lieutenant and I had this day a discourse of having all powder bought out of His Majesty stores as it was published by Proclamation in the Earl of Strafford's time.—Proposes that Orrery shall transmit an Act.—They sit de die in diem for the Bill of Settlement; Secretary Nicholas is appointed by the King to give you notice of the Lord Lieutenant this post; I need not intimate to your Lordship how fit it will be after that to forbear granting any office or spiritual promotion without first knowing his Grace's pleasure therein.

1661, Dec. 10th. The same to the same.—I have little to add to my public letter . . . The forces for Tangier and the fleet for the Queen are gone; within two months we hope to see her here, and then look for us quickly. I hoped to have been with you before my license of absence expired, but the Lord Lieutenant now requiring my stay till he goe as well, your Lordship's command till the bill of settlement be finished, I must entreat your Lordship's friendship speedily to get my license of absence removed for six months.

1661, Feb. 13th. The same to the same.—Mentions the Lord Lieutenant's directions for pay to Viscount Falkland for his troop.—We are hastening the long Bill, but to-morrow at Council the Irish who pretend they have not been heard to the validity of the peace of 1648 are to take their last farewell of us by speaking what they can for it; both my Lord Duke and I desiring their petition therein might be granted, tho' to have further perusal of the bill was refused, His Majesty resolving that none should supervise his council. I believe the result will be to have the peace particularly declared against, so that the Protestants need not be alarmed when they hear of a further day given to the Irish after most of their agents are gone hence.

1661, March 8th.—The same to the same.—The Lord Lieutenant has shown him (Anglesey) some of his Orrery's letters about the low condition of the army, and Anglesey says the Lord Lieutenant says that the 80,000*l.* designed for Ireland can not be in English money as Orrery desires.—Mentions the charges and proportions of payment.

1662, May 20th. The same to the same.—He is sorry he cannot send the 10,000*l.* asked for by Orrery to relieve present emergencies.—Hopes the next post will bring the Bill for Registries. He is sorry some of the Popish lords oppose the Bill of Settlement.

1662, May 27th. The same to the same.—Acknowledges Orrery's of the 17th, giving notice of the receipt of his (Anglesey's) proxy, and the fair progress of the Bills which he hopes the next will call Acts. "I should not doubt were I there to satisfy your Lordship and the most unsatisfied, that there is no great need of an explanatory Act, and that it is in the Lord Lieutenants and Councils power to help those that have most cause to complain. I write this after perusal and consideration of the objections and scruples that have been raised, but if it be indeed necessary the explanations may be prepared. The King and Queen com on Thursday to Hampton Court." Hopes to be in Ireland at Midsummer. The design of horse for Portingall is at a stand at present. I hope your next will bring us the Bill of Registries, else I doubt it will come too late.

1662, June 17th. The same to the same.—Have received yours of the 7th on the 13th, since which I have been at my house in Essex . . . I find by divers letters from thence, as well as your Lordship's, that the 49 men press hard for an explanatory Bill, but it is impossible it should take effect till the great Bill hath the Royal assent, which by this time your Lordship knows is prohibited to be given till the bills of revenue are dispatched.—Urges their being passed.—Hopes the Lord Lieutenant has quickened the Bill for registers.—Complains of Sir Audley Mervin.

1662, June 24th. The same to the same . . . To-morrow the Council meet at Hampton Court for Irish affairs, and then the Bill to take away the Court of Wards and divers other bills, and business will be dispatched, and particularly the letters for your Lordship and my Lord Masereenes receiving the payments to be made by virtue of the Declaration and the Act, which your Lordship will find prepared to your mind. I despair of the Bill of Registries till we arrive there, but hope if we can pass it there with any unanimity, we shall have it yielded to here, since it will serve as an experiment for England at our cost. I wonder your Lordships have not considered of a supplemental Bill to lengthen all the periods of time in the Act of Settlement not exceeding six months, in regard three are past since the 1st of May when we designed to be there. You will receive this post a draft of an Act which we have prepared, and should be speeded as soon as the Royal assent is to the other great Act, which I hope order will be given for to-morrow now the Revenue Bills go.

1663, June 30th, Dublin. The same to the Lord Orrery, Lord President of Munster . . . Pray inform my Lord Lieutenant the names of the chief rebels in Munster fit to be attained, and of the popish titular Bishops and clergy, for good use will be made of them, though it must be kept private. P.S. The Lord [Chancellor] is pretty well recovered again, and was this day in Chancery. The conspirators are tried to-morrow.

1665, Sept. 23rd, Dublin.—The same to the same.— . . . I have a cast of five falcons at your command. . . . On excise matters. . . . I cannot by this post send a copy of the King's letter, because I am loth to have any see it till the Parliament have done much of their work.—Lord Masereen died this morning.—Success against the Dutch, 30 ships of war and merchants of value taken and divers sunk.—Sir George Downing has returned. The Danes have disowned those officers who joined with the Dutch against us at Bergen.—The Plague abates. . . . P.S. Unless some better order be taken with the 49 men, which will not be till you come, you will get none of your 4000*l.* warrant.

1665, Oct. 3rd, Dublin.—The same to the same.—Our letter of fee farm from the King is of any forfeited or escheated messages, &c. belonging or that shall belong to the King not disposed of by the Bill of Settlement, and likewise of, &c. The King came to Oxford Michaelmas Eve. The Dutch and we are both out again. The last was no set fight. I hope now my Lord Lieutenant is coming you will hasten up that we may prepare things before the House sit, for here is tampering. P.S. Pray use your authority to have the proclamation about bringing in moneys obeyed in Munster, or the army will be unpaid.

1665, Feb. 6th, Dublin.—The same to the same.—Notices knavish schemes to get and save lands. . . . I shall be glad to hear of your Lordship's success in pursuit of the French Agent. I believe, as my Lord Chancellor writes me word, they are busy in all the three Kingdoms. I have well considered the clause, pp. 128 and 129, relating to the lapse money, &c.

1665, March 23rd, Dublin.—The same to the same. 1665, March 28th, Dublin.—Several packets from England, by one of which the ship Purgatory, of Venice, laden with currants of above 10,000*l.* value at Bantry, being condemned as a prize there, is given to us towards our charge here. . . . The 15 seamen of the Scarlings frigot which are on board her are to be sent by the next opportunity to Plymouth, or elsewhere in England, that they may return to their ship, and Signor Antonio Benson, a Venetian, and the rest of the ship's company are also to be dismissed, and the ship secured with a competent guard, &c.

1666, March 31, June 12, and June 23, Dublin.—The same to the same.—About some money for the army.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

1669, June 5th (2½ pp.). Lord Anglesey's answers to some questions by the King as to what arrears and debts are due to him in Ireland since the 20th of March, 1659, to 20th March, 1667, excepting certain things specified.

1672, May 20th, London. Lord Anglesey to the Earl of Orrery.—He showed the King his (Orrery's) letter. . . . The stricter Orrery is with the Irish the better it will please the King. The King was heartily enraged at Sir John Fitzgerald's assault upon his Sheriff, and the submission he made was not counted sufficient amends: if such things had been done in England he had never gone out of the streets alive.—Your Limerick citizens are the mirror of patience. . . . H. R. H. struggling near a fortnight with cross easterly winds got at length from Portsmouth to the Downs and was on Sunday last in sight of the Dutch. . . . The wind so high I believe there hath been no fighting. The Dutch took the first man-of-war, the Victory, which, by the carelessness and cowardice of Capt. Fletcher, a Papist, fell into their mouths. The City of London set out four men-of-war to convoy the coal trade.—Our fleet and the French make 80 sail, the Dutch are more, but ours is the best fleet for great ships England ever set out. . . . I am glad you fortify Bantry fort. I wish you could rid my low country by it, who neither pay rent to His Majesty nor me. . . . I am resolved to unneettle them out of that country, and shall direct my nephew Gwynne to beseech your Lordship's assistance against that lawless generation. It will be a good preparation if your Lordship send for Philip O'Sullivan, their chief, and know upon what grounds he held my lands against me, and make him good security to submit to the King's Sheriff and laws. The Duke of Bucks and the Earl of Oxford are at sea.—Praises Orrery's encouragement of Protestants and the repression of the Irish.

1672, July 23rd, London.—The same to the same.—Your Lordship may wonder at another letter from me, after yours of the 4th. The King has shown to Anglesey Orrery's letter. He is sarcastic upon Orrery for having supported the Commonwealth when he (Anglesey) was loyal.—(1 folio page.) A sarcastic letter winding up with asking for 200*l.* supplied seven years before for his son Henry Boyle and for which he (Anglesey) had paid interest.

In another bundle is Orrery's copy of his reply (8 pp.), dated 28th of Nov. 1672.

1672, Sept. 23rd. Lord Anglesey to the Countess of Orrery.

1677, June 16th, Kensington. Lord Anglesey to the Earl of Orrery, one of His Majesty's Privy Council.—About the Lapse money wherein he had endeavoured to serve Orrery.

1679, Feb. 10, London.—Lord Anglesey to the Countess of Orrery.—On the death of the Earl of Orrery, who was engaged on the History of England, as was Anglesey, he (Orrery) said he would give him all his papers and memorials, particularly the whole proceedings on Munster wherein he bore a great and honourable part, and divers papers of the Irish, as the notes of Sir Nicholas Plunkets handwriting of all that the Irish said in their assembly against the two peaces. He also then promised him (Anglesey) his Parthenissa and some essays of his of diverse matters; he told him (Anglesey) also that he was writing the passages of his own life, which were remarkable. Asks that all her husband's papers (except private ones) may be brought to England, and that Robert Boyle and others may sort them.

16—June 21st. Duke of Buckingham to Sir Ellis Leighton. I suppose you have heard of the peace making at Dover, since that I know not anything has hapned but the usual entertainments of the day, that is eating, drinking, and so forth. All things are put as they were and I believe will be till either Madam comes over again hither or somebody else goes thither. I wish it were you, and if I can I will contrive it shall, and I hope in case I bring that to pass, you will not repine at the summons. Continue we in my Lord Lieutenant's good opinion, &c.

P.S.—I believe it will be no disservice to my Lord Berkeley to have Lord Orrery truly his friend, which I am sure he will be.

n. y. Feb. 20th, Worcester House. (3 pp. folio). Lord Clarendon to my Lord (Orrery)?

A small bundle of papers and letters about the Lapsed Money, and a petition by the Roman Catholics about it. Observations on the new farm of His Majesty's Revenue in Ireland, (after 1668) and other papers. Petitions, &c.

Methods for proceedings before His Majesty's Commission for remedy of defective title.

Petition of the Bishop of Cork, in re the Petition of Sir J. Brodrick (which is there).

Petitions of John Purdon and Geo. Jackson.

Original Petition of divers 49 officers to John Lord Roberts, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland and the Council. (Signed by 42.)—Your petitioners are by the Act of Settlement, p. 15, &c., to receive a yearly rent payable out of the lands of those soldiers who had lands set out for their arrears in the year 1653, &c. &c. They pray that nothing may be issued to any one until they be paid the 100,000*l.*—The first signature is Dungannon, the second Drogheda, and the last J. L. Gay for the Earl of Leicester.

1660, Sept. 28th. Petition of Viscount Netteville for lands which were sequestered.—Reference is made to the Lord Deputy of Ireland, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Marquis of Ormond, Lord Broghill, and the Earl of Ossory, or any two of them:—signed by Ric. Fanshawe:—and Report by Maurice Eustace, Chancellor, and Ormonde. (Lord Barrymore, 1685.)

1665, Feb. 17th, Dublin. Council Letter, signed by Ormonde and others against swearing.—(To the Lord President of Munster.)

1665, March 6th. Council Letter with Proclamation of war against the French.

1666, July 21st. Council Letter about discovering of the security of the commissioned officers before 1649, which is concealed from them.

Copy of King Charles's Letter to Lord Lambert, Oct. 19, 1659.—The Declaration by the King.—Begins, we have lately received an overture.—Ends, unanimously with one voice say Amen. (3, pp.)

1665, May 26th. Privy Council minute, signed by E. Walker, and seal.—Lord Orrery is added to the Privy Council.

2 pp. Defalcation of farmers in the Dutch war.

1666, May 8th. Council Letter signed by Ormonde and others to the President of Munster about enlarging the time for the payment of the first half of 30,000*l.*

1666, April 7th. Council Letter by the same.—About enlargement of time for innocent papists to take out their decrees.

1666, June 26th, Dublin. Council letter to the President of Munster to publish the proclamation proclaiming Dualtagh alias Dudley Costello, a rebel and traitor.

1666, Aug. 15th. Council Letter to publish the proclamation of thanksgiving for the late naval victory on the 25th of July; and another for restitution of firearms seized.

Bundle of papers, containing:

The Earl of Orrery's cypher.

Advices from Paris, 26th Nov., 1701.

Names of Privy Counsellors and Judges in Ireland.

The examination of Capt. Peregrine Banaster, Governor of the City of Cork, taken 8th of Aug. 1644.

The examination of Major Agmondesham Muschamp, taken on the 8th of Aug. 1644.

The examination of Humphrey Roger.

Verses to the Queen (Catherine of Braganza) (5½ pp.) Begin.

Madam—the mapps may to your eyes declare.

England is from your country distant far.

A cypher.—Names for persons.

Verses to His Highness on his victory in the bay of Santa Cruz in the island of Teneriffe. Begin.

The Spaniards fleet from the Havanna now,

With sails extended does the ocean plow.

(5 pp.) At the end is the date of July 9th, 1657. R.F.

A vision which appeared to a Member of the House of Commons on Tuesday night, 9th Nov., 1675. Begins,

As in my bed I sad and musing lay,

On the denying vote we passed to-day. (9½ pp.)

List of Parliament men.

Copies of several of the letters of Charles II. and James II.

Account of money raised in the Irish Rebellion from the 23rd of Oct., 1641, to Nov. 1st, 1656, 19,957,718*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.* towards the Crown revenue and Church revenues in Ireland by the English.

1686, Feb. 2nd, Rome. Copy in English of Queen Christina's answer to the Chevalier de Terlon about heretics.

1666, Sept. 24th. Council Letter to publish a proclamation for fasting and humiliation.

Some of the proclamations are there.

1687, April 26th, London.—Occurrences — (3 pp.) News letter; and other papers.

4to leaves—9—20 (of, perhaps, Gesta Graiorum). Begins, Ferdinando Fastwell claims to hold the demesnes

LORD
LECON-
FIELD.

of Trumpington. Ends, Tis good for a young papiste wench to marry an old man, for so she shall be sure to keep all fasting days.

Folio, 7 pp. The Observer or

The history of Hodge as reported by some,
From his fooling to Nol, to his scribbling to Rome.

Begins, Stand forth thou grand impostor of our time,

The nation's scandall, punishment, and crime.

Ends, Like dying Judas render back they pelf,
Recant thy book, and then go hang thyself.

Folio, 2 pp. The Delusion. Begins,

Since Adam striving to be overwise,
Deluded with vain hopes, lost Paradise.

Ends, I could anatomise him from the head;
But satir here is trampling on the dead.

These verses were posted to the Duke of Somerset at Petworth.

Astynie of the City of York. Begins, Having spent much time in the city and suburbs. (5½ pp.)

Todcaster. (3½ pp.)

A prospect or view of the City of York taken from Severs hill, which stands within the Astynie. (3 pp.)

Folio, 1762, Jan. 12th, Admiralty Office.—List of all His Majesty's ships and vessels and sea pay with the present disposition. (20 pp.)

A black leather box containing several hundred leaves of figures and calculations by Harriot.

A large bundle of Harriot's papers.

(See Supplement to Dr. Bradley's Miscellaneous works with an account of Harriot's astronomical papers. 4to Oxford University Press 1833.)

They are arranged in packets by Professor Rigaud.

Spots on the Sun.

Comets of 1607 and 1618.

The Moon.

Jupiter's Satellites.

Projectiles, Centre of Gravity, Reflexion of bodies.

Triangles.

Snell's Eratosthenes Batavus.

Geometry.

Calendar.

Conic Sections.

De Stella Martis.

Drawings of Constellations, papers on Chemistry and Miscellaneous Calculations.

Collections from the observations of Hannelius, Warner, Copernicus, Tycho Brahe. On the vernal and autumnal equinoxes, the solstices, orbit of the Earth, length of year &c.

Algebra.

1751, Jan. 1st. Copy of the King of Spains Regulation for his navy, 200 articles.

List of Spanish and French land forces, 1761.

I must be allowed to express my best thanks to Lord Leconfield for his kind hospitality during my several visits to Petworth House.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

R F. U.
GRAHAM.
BART.

MANUSCRIPTS OF SIR FREDERICK U. GRAHAM, BART., OF NETHERBY, CO. CUMBERLAND.

The most important and the bulk of these manuscripts are the letter books of, and original letters addressed to, Sir Richard Graham, Viscount Preston, during his employment as Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of France, at the latter end of the reign of King Charles the Second. These letters, and the papers which accompany them, are of great interest, dealing as they do with some of the matters in debate between the two kingdoms, and the relations of England and France to the continental disputes and intrigues; and the details of court life in France are very amusing. The plots supposed to be hatched in France against the life and government of Charles the 2nd gave Lord Preston much trouble and anxiety, and there are many papers on that subject. Some of Lord Preston's papers are of the time of King James the Second, several of whose letters while Duke of York, and also while King are here; and the last of these is as touching a letter as ever a King wrote.

These Preston papers are so numerous, and the extracts from them will be so many, that it is thought advisable to give an account at once of the other manuscripts in Sir Frederick Graham's possession, leaving the Preston papers for a supplementary report.

Small folio, 153 leaves of vellum, French, end of 14th century.—Le geste de Sire Johan de Maundevyle de meruailles de mounde.

The proemium begins, "Come il ensi soit" . . . (4 pp.)

The first chapter of the work is "Of the way from England to Constantinople."

The last chapter is "Kings and others residing in the isles bordering on the land of Prester John, and of the honour which the son pays to his dead father," &c. It has not the passage which mentions the author's shewing the work to the Pope and obtaining his approbation.

The work is closed with the Latin letter to King Edward III.

The division of the chapters is not quite the same as in the English version printed by Mr. Halliwell in 1839.

Fol. 118-120b. Latin verses, moral and didactic; none of them are worth transcription.

Fol. 120b-122b. An old English poem, as follows:—

þo oure lord gon in trinite hadde al bynges wrouht
And þourz his owene þougte to gode ende y brouht Pride com in to heuene strike—myd fele wrenches

newe
þe gan to hoppe and to fryke and made foule þewe þe bronȝte on hir hond hir doughter eneyve (envy) to do þer som schende . in pilke faire baillye.

Doughter seyde pride þo . enyue my derlyng
Whan wille we us drawe to . of þise faire byng

Whan wille we make oure kyng . now red me þyne red
To be oure heued of alle byng . in toune feld and med

Dame seyde enyue þe þe trowþe þat y schal þe
In al þyse baillye . nys non þat likþ me

So wel as me doþ . þulke grete watte

þat sitþe ȝend anheȝ . myȝte ich hym by flappe
Nay doughter he is to gret . and wostow fore fore

Y ne myȝte neuer ȝet on him . of senne fasten non hore þer for ches anȝer . which þe likþ best to be oure hord broder . and dediche sennes nest

Par fay þanne wille we habbe . hym þat sitþe ȝend west

ȝe y blessed be þy labbe . he wol be a god nest

Bote he haþ wyngen . and may flee out of oure honde and may ful wel bylene and be her in þise kynges londe

ȝef he wile he may bylene . he nedar nauȝt myd us

wende

þat ne schal he nauȝt leue . erst we willeþ hym aschende

Scape in hym and be wel sleȝ . and of ly hym faste and we willeþ lusted an heȝz . his sete in to be weste

ȝ ak he haþ wyngen and wil afe ȝe ich habbe gode sclyngen after hym to te ich schal breken hys wyngen atwo ouer lye þon hym faste

and schulleþ hym so by go . þ he schal ben oures atte

laste þo spredde Lucifer his wyngen . and wolde habbe at flowe

Enyue drouȝ forþ hereþalyng . þat brouȝte man in howe

Mid þe ferste stone þ he sche to hym caste

Sche hitte his wynges bone þ to gan al to breste

And þanne pryde fel hym upon and held hym under fofe

now is his faynesse al gon . ne worþ hym neuer bote

now he is al helle . and in to helle yfalle

rus pride can afelle . here desiples alle

þus pride made þan fend . of þe angel bryȝte for euer pride schent his frend . by day ober by nyȝte for pride goþ ay by fore . and schame comþ after þus was lucifer for lore . þourȝ pride and hire doughter

þus fareþ pride and enyue . by este and by weste

it is a foul compaignye . in helle is here neste now ech manne lete pride and enyue let eke be

Oþer þey willeþ . ȝow putte in to helle so y euer y þe

For oþer wonynges nys þer non . to pride ne to enyue

Bote her þ he body under aston þe saule to helle baillye

Now sit pride in helle . heȝe in here mode and bygygneþ for to telle of merke and of þe gode þat was in heuene blisse . þo sche þer inne was why scholde ich her mysse . for attiel trespas

Sathanus is my sone . and Michael is his broder

hy willeþ me knawe whan y come . Gabriel is anȝer

Uriel þe faire angel . þe ferþe broder is þese aȝte me y knawe wel . ober hy doþ aȝte

ȝe dame quod enyue . and loude gan to grede þou canst wel euele . trye þese ilke kenrede þeyȝ þou brouȝtest forþ . Sathanus . þe nadest nauȝt lucifer

þy kynrede haþ cast ambes aȝs . for sake is þy meister

In heuene blisse euer þ he more . and þy kynredd al so ȝef þou canst þare . þou abeist it sore . how if euer go ȝe and ich wille in alle wyse ȝef y may in þryng

þou brouȝte pride here a cloþ . of a red raye

And gan to ben swyþe wroþ . and beitte myd here

craye

SIR F. U.
GRAHAM.
BART.

SIR F. U.
GRAHAM,
BART.

And sayde sche wolde to heuene. al gate bat sche nolde lette for nohyng. rabe ne late Sche made here a surcoote. al wyb oute hemme a wel prout god it wot. cutted by nebe þe hamme bat who so wolde keche. and hadde gode sytze þour; out here breche. here ers y se he mytze
Y schape it is owr thuart. on a newe wyse
Elles it nere nauht worþ a fart. ne of none gode assise

ylaced swybe narwe. on enur ayder syde as it scholde neuer. fram here body sclyde and hongel on here elbowe. lucifers wyngye bat enuye myd howe brak. myde here slynge
Sche gurtel helendes wyb a gerdel of blak
Sore beþ þe bendes. and woderlyche slake for sor of here wombe ich wot sche it deþ Oþer elles sche is wyb lombe. þæt wexelþ his te Ener here ers to slyeþ. so slak it is y knet Wyt here hond the hydþ. þæt it be up y put Byneþe here hamme upon a hose gray y bounde is bat dame wyb a garter grey here legges faste to tytze here hose sche may men agaste. myd lokes by here nose sche lokeþ so an houle. out of here here sche makeþ wysses sele. symple men to afere sche had y makeþ here a hod wyt orefreys aboute bat men bat coude god. scholde to here aloute and so hy doþ by myn hod. ac hy skarneþ þe yute and siggeþ bat ybreydeþ wod. for hir cloþes prute a typat þer hangeþ on. as a kaltes tailles bat whan þey willeþ to gonge gon. and forage hem faile

hy mowet myd þe tippe. here ers wypy wel þanne sche may skippe. to here some þe denel for to heuene so y þe. ne sche neuer slynge þey; on here elbowe hongy þre. of luceres wyngye hy bat disgiset þous here cloþ. after dame prute
God is myd hem wel wroþ. and þenket wel narwe hem pute

dame and donzter to þe sone. to helle he wile hem caste
Bote hy lete here foule wone. and turne aþein atte
laste

To Jhu Crist bat is so fre. and lete prute away for myd hym pride ne mot non be. neyber nyxt ne day

ak who so wyle meke be. and bere hem lowe
God wyle so ich þe. holde hym for his owe and seue hym cloþyng. wyb hym swybe ryche and loye wyt oute ende. in þe blisse of heuenryche god leue us her so to bere. in loue and charite
And so oure cloþes were. þat we be trinite
Mote in heuene y se. þour; help of marie
Amen Amen so mote it be sigget bonde and frye.

Fol. 122b. and 123a. Latin, partly leonine verse and partly prose about Christ's genealogy.

Fol. 123a. Kyng of lond redles. Bysschope wtyles.
yongchilde geyles. yong man rechles. Oldman careles. Proutman goidles. Womman schameles.
Strongman skoleles. Pouereman loueles. hem were betere be lyfles.

Three small fragments of separate leaves follow.
One has portion of a poem in English.

Whan haþ erþe upon erþe

Whan erþe seþ on erþe

And erþe in merþe

And erþe wexeth

A modern version of one of the verses of the poem, of which the above is a fragment, was given by Sir Walter Scott in one of his novels; and antique versions of the poem have been since printed by the Early English
Text Society, No. 24 p. 88, and No. 26 p. 95.

The volume has been rebound. On a preserved portion of the inside leather of the old cover is written,
"Johan Mandevell" (in large ornamented letters) "To my lovinge frende Cristopher Strangwaies, Lord of Swanbie mylne, Eyveure et Service Bailes." At the top of fol. 87b. this donor has written his name, "T.
Bailes." (This inscription is in writing of seemingly the 16th century.)

Two leaves (fols. xxxix and xxvii of the old foliation) are absent. Nothing is wanting between the leaves numbered lxvi and lxviii.

A large sized 4to, originally consisting of 126 leaves, paged from 1 to 250, and the last leaf not paged.—This is one of the commonplace books of John Milton. Only 80 pages are written upon, although a few more have titles. Most of the entries are by Milton's hand, some are by some of his amanuenses, and some written after his death are by Sir Richard

Graham Viscount Preston. Milton divided the volume into: Index Ethicus, Index Economicus, and Index Politicus; allotting one page to each subject, the title of which he placed at the head of the page. In the first index he places, Malum morale, De Viro bono, De Virtute, De avaritia, Gula, Libido, Castitas, Ebrietas, De morte spontanea, De fortitudine, De duellis, De scientia literarum, De curiositate, De Poetica, De musica, Consultatio, Ignavia, De mendaciâ, De furto,
De fide servandâ, De Justitiâ et contrâ, De adulatione, De reprehensione:—in the 2nd index he places, De victu, De cultu corporis, Matrimonium, De educandis liberis, De divortio, Concubinatus, De servis, Adulte-rium, Divitiis, Paupertas, Eleemosynæ, De usurâ:— in the 3rd index he places, Respublica, Amor in patriam, Leges, Mores gentium, De dispensationibus et indulgentiis, Rex, Subditus, Lenitas (ubi de libris prohibitis), Tyrannus, Aulici, Consiliarii, Astutia politica, Nobilitas, Libertas, Severitas, Servitus, De religione quatenus ad republicam spectat, Varius reipublicæ status, Census et vectigal, Extortio publica, Pestilentia, Gymnastica, Spectacula, Disciplina militaris, De bello, De bello Civili, De federatis, De seditione, De urbe obsidendâ et obsessâ.—From this enumeration I have omitted those subjects which are by Lord Preston's hand.—Upwards of 80 authors are cited. A list of them is added to the Camden Society's volume, and there will be found references to passages in Milton's printed works, where he seems to have made his commonplace book of service.

Milton's spelling is curious. He always writes thir or thire for the pronoun their; and som instead of some. I find, from reference to some of Milton's works printed during his lifetime, that Milton made the printer observe these peculiarities.

The entries in the volume are not mere extracts from the books which Milton had before him. In numerous cases he formulated an idea and then added a reference to the page of the author whose work he was reading, so that in this volume we have some of Milton's own ideas on the various titles. Sir Frederick Graham has very kindly allowed the contents of the volume to be printed; the Camden Society readily assented to my proposal that it should be one of their publications for the year 1876. Autotypes of three of the pages accompany it. At the instance of the Royal Society of Literature, Sir Frederick Graham has also allowed 100 copies to be made by the autotype process.

I cannot adequately express my thanks to Sir
Frederick Graham for his having entrusted this valuable
MS., as well as his other papers, to my hands.

Milton employed amanuenses before he became blind, and this volume contains the handwritings of several of them. Two of the entries are I believe by Daniel Skinner, others are by another of the scribes who copied some portions of Milton treatise De Doctrina Christianâ (now in the Public Record Office); one or two are by the scribe who made the copy of Book I. of Paradise Lost, in the possession of Mr. Baker of Bayfordbury (of whose MSS. an account is given in the Appendix to the Second Report of this Commission). There are many entries by Lord Preston; his papers being entrusted to me by Sir Frederick Graham, for the purposes of the Commission, enable me to decide on that point. After Milton's death Skinner carried off to Holland many of his books and papers. Skinner applied by letter to Lord Preston when at Paris, and it is possible that Skinner may have given or sold this commonplace book to his Lordship.

Loose in the volume was a short letter by Henry Lawes (the musician) to Milton, saying that he had obtained from the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports the license required to enable Milton to quit England for the Continent. The letter (though undated) must have been written in 1638, when Milton went abroad.

Loose also, in the same box with the volume above described, was a single leaf, much damaged by damp.
On one side is a Latin proslusion or address on the advantages of early rising. It is headed "Mane citius lectum fuge." In the margin, opposite the first line, is the name of Milton. On the other side of the leaf the subject and ideas of the prose composition are treated in Latin verses. The handwriting on this leaf is different for that hitherto known as Milton's, although in the latter verses of the poem there is certainly a similarity in some of the letters. But I believe the compositions to be Milton's. I have had a few autotype copies made of this leaf and of Henry Lawes's letter to Milton, and have deposited a specimen of each at the Record Office for the use of the Commission, and also at the British Museum.

SIR F. U.
GRAHAM,
BART.

IR. F. U.
GRAHAM,
BART.

1681, May 21. Copy of a Warrant of this date for creating Sir Richard Graham, Baronet, Viscount Preston and Lord Graham of Eske in Scotland, in tail male, with a seat in Parliament, &c. It recites that King Charles I. in 1635 had offered it to Sir Richard, the patentee's grandfather, who kept it private: that he was wounded by the rebels at Edgehill, and that the King told him to take up the title and gave him the warrant with his own hand. The rebels plundered his house and burnt his evidences. The King ordered a patent for him, &c.

n. d. Copy of a patent creating Lord Preston an English Baron of Liddell, co. Cumberland, in tail male. At the foot "May it please your Majesty to confer it."

Patent, in Latin, beautifully ornamented in gold and colours, making Richard Graham Viscount Preston in Scotland, Baron Liddell, co. Cumberland. There is no date attached to it, and it was never sealed.

1685, Oct. 26th. Patent, sealed by Katherine, wife of James II., making Viscount Preston Keeper of her Great Seal.—Signed by her at the head, and by James Butler at the foot, and a note by Lord Preston as received by him Oct. 26th, 1685.

4 James II., Nov. 10th, Westminster.—Letter Patent (Great Seal) making Richard Graham, Viscount Preston, one of the Principal Secretaries of State.—The yearly salary of which was 100*l*.

1685, Oct. 21st, Whitehall.—Office extract, signed by John Nicholas, of the sitting of the Privy Council at Whitehall—Present, the King and George Prince of Denmark, &c., when Viscount Preston was sworn one of the Privy Council and took his place at the board (wafer seal).

1688, Oct. 29th. Copy of the oath of a Secretary of State, taken by Lord Preston.

1688, Oct. 29th, Court at Whitehall.—The same.—Signed by G. Nicholas and Seal of the Council.—Lord Preston was sworn one of the Privy Council.

Folio. Receipts to Thomas Robson, Esq., Deputy Keeper of His Majesty's Great Wardrobe, for various sums (two in a page) from 6 May 1686 to 9 December 1688.

Folio. Warrants on account for the same, from 16 April 1686 to 28 June 1687. Among these are—1686, Sept. 21, Sir Christopher Wren, a year's livery due at All Saints, from 1676 to 1684, at 12*l*. 15*s*. each, 115*l*. 2*s*. 6*d*.

William Chiffinch, 54*l*. 12*s*. 4*d*., arrears of his several liversies incurred in the time of his late Majesty.

A thick quarto, but only a few pages filled.—"Some remarks of mv Lord Preston's life, collected out of his diaries, to June 19th, 1698." He was born on the 24th Sept. 1648, at Netherby; his father was George Graham, son and heir to Sir Richard Grahame, Kt. and Bart., who died at Newmarket, in 1653, or thereabouts; and whose rise was under the Great Duke of Buckingham. He was with him in Spain with Prince Charles. He purchased the estate in Cumberland from Lord Clifford, and suffered much in the Civil Wars for his attachment to Charles I. At Edgehill he was so wounded that he was left in the field for dead. His father's son George, died of a fever at Netherby in 1657, and was buried at Arthuret. His mother was Mary, second daughter to the Earl of Hartfell, in Scotland, by which match an old feud between the Grahams of Johnston was taken away. Sir George had by her Richard (afterwards Lord Preston) James, b. 1650; Margaret, b. 1651; Fergus, 1652; W., b. 1654; Ranold, b. 1656. The eldest, Richard, was educated under Dr. Busby, at Westminster; he went to Christ Church, Oxford, about 1664 under the care of Dr. John Fell, then Dean, &c.; he was a close student, and took the degree of M.A. On Aug. 2nd, 1670, he married Anne, second daughter to Charles Earl of Carlisle; his children were Charles, b. 1672; Anne, b. 1673, ob. inf.; Richard, b. 1675, ob. 1676; Katharine, b. 1677; Edward, b. 1679; Mary, b. 1681, and Susanna. His Lordship's diaries last till 1680. He finished Boethius this year, 1680. At York Assises he refused to sign a petition to the King about frequent Parliaments. Nov. 2nd. He moved in Parliament, in behalf of the Duke of York, against the Exclusion Bill. Nov. 17th. A message was sent to him from the King by Secretary Jenkins to appease the House of Commons, if violent upon the Lords rejecting the Bill against the Duke of York.

1681, Jan^y 22nd. He went to speak to the King.

March 11th, at Whitehall.—This month the King spoke to him about his Patent for Viscount. July 26th. At Edinburgh he waited on the Duke of York. July 30th. He received his Patent in Council from the Marquis of Athol. Aug. 1st. He took his place in the Scotch Parliament. Aug. 2nd. Went with the Duke of York to Leith. 26th Aug. He made a speech about the succession; the next day he kissed the Duke's hand, and came for England to his estate in Cumberland. In September he went to London, and while there was much at Court.

1682, Jan^y 5th. He was ordered by the King to go and compliment Hamet ben Hamet ben Haddu, Ambassador from the Emperor of Morocco, which he did, and then conducted him to the Tower wharf, where they went into the King's coach, and lodged him at Sir Richard Blake's house in the Strand. . . .

Feb. 25th. He was with the King in his closet, and got Sir Thomas Outler knighted. May 8th. Complimented the Bantam Ambassador, and took leave of his friends upon his going for France. 11th May. He landed at Dieppe. 14th May. At Pontise, where he visited Lady Nevill, Abbess of the English Nunnery. 15th May. Went into Paris. 22nd. He went to Versailles, where he visited Monsr. de Croissy, Secretary for Foreign Affairs. June 7th. Went to Versailles with about 100 gentlemen, English and Scotch, when he had his first public audience of the King of the French; dined chez le Roi, and afterwards had audience of the Queen, the Dauphin, and Dauphiness. . . . June 21st and 23rd. Received visits from Ambassadors and Envoys. He was visited by the Duchess of Portsmouth. Aug. 14th. Lord Feversham and Col. James Graham came over to compliment the King upon the birth of the Duke of Burgundy. Aug. 21st. Delivered letters to the King, &c. about the birth of the Duke of York's daughter. On the same day his brother James went to England.

At the other end of the book is the Diary for 1683 (19 leaves). 1683, Jan^y 1st, old stile.

Jan^y 20th. We celebrated the 30th of Jan^y according to the stile of France.

1683, March 17th. Saw a man broke on the wheel upon the Pont Neuf, at the entry of the Place Dauphin, for cheating the Marquis de Bouillon. 22nd. Sir H. Goodricke went for London. 25th. Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Lee went for London. May. The whole month I passed between London and Windsor, so that I could not possibly keep my journal. June 9th. Landed at Dieppe. 21st. Left Paris to go to the King. 27th. Stayed all day at Metz, and saw the Church and Citadel. 28th. Went, on horse, towards the French Camp at Bougenon. 29th. Went to see the Camp, the description of which in my letter to Mr. Secretary Jenkins from Metz, July —n.s.—July 1st. I had audience of the King of France in the Bishop of Metz's palace. 8th. Returned to Paris. 17th. At Versailles. 30th. The Queen of France was carried by night from Versailles to be buried at St. Denis, but did not pass thro' Paris. 31st. Mr. Gwynne and Mr. Fox went away for London. Mr. Dolben and Mr. Goodyere also. Sept. 4th. I put my papers and letters in order, which have been confused for 9 months. Oct. 14th. The Venetian Ambassador sent a compliment upon his going to Spain. 16th. I returned the compliment by my Secretary. Monsr. Foscarini, the late Ambassador of Venice, here, who is going to Spain in the same character.

1684 (1*l* p.), Dec. 30th. I began my journey to England. April 5th. I took leave of King James, the Queen was sick in bed, the Queen Dowager, the Princess, and Prince of Denmark, and of all the Court. 6th. Dined at Greenwich with my son Charles, Dick Graham, Coz. Musgrave, Mace, the Sword Bearer of London, &c., at the Ship, at Greenwich, and went on board the Henrietta yacht. 11th. Arrived at Dieppe, 12th, Rouen, 13th, Magny, 14th, Paris.

(The last writing is on the 15th of May.)

It is to be regretted that the compiler did not go on with his labours, as, from the heading of the volume, he seems to have had before him Lord Preston's diaries down to the time of that nobleman's death.

Folio. Scipio, or the nobleman Conqueror.—Scene, Carthage; Characters, Scipio; Fabius, a noble Roman; his friend, Indibilus, betrothed to Sophonisba; Leontine, father to Sophonisba; Sophonisba; Linda, her confidant, 1–43 pp. Begins,— Scipio and Fabius.

The world's great Conqueror is taught by you

The homage that to Rome and Scipio is due.

Poem. Pythagoras's decrees (16 pp.) Begins,—

When balmy sleep, indulgent Heaven's relief

To anxious thoughts and minds oppressed with grief,

Had in soft indolence my soul composed,

This to my wandering fancy was disclosed;

A verdant plain.

SIE F. U.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR F. U.
GRAHAM
BART.

Venus's Ramble (15 pp.). Begins,—
Venus, who rules the heart of Gods above;
Venus, the mighty, potent Queen of love.
(She goes to London, and then to Castle Howard. A date of 1705 is in this poem.)

Epistle from Octavia to Anthony (2 pp.). Begins,
To Anthony, my once beloved Lord and Friend,
But to these titles I no more pretend,
Octavia writes.

Two quarto MS. accounts of the House of Graham, and many pedigrees and genealogical papers.

The letters, letter books, and papers of Lord Preston during the period of his service as Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of France, will, as above mentioned, form the subject of another report.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

SIR R.
GRAHAM
BART.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF SIR REGINALD GRAHAM, BART.

In reply to the invitation of Her Majesty's Commissioners, Sir Reginald Graham most obligingly sent to London for examination several thousands of letters and other documents, all of which I examined, and from them made the notes and extracts given below.

Among them will be found a book of charges for the repairs of the Queen's manor house at Newcastle, in 1597; accounts in 1606 of the Master of the Ordnance in the north parts, and others in 1612.

Papers about the office of the Clerk of Hanaper, temp. Car. I.—Many accounts of Sir Richard Graham as Gentleman of the Horse to Sir George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, giving lists of horses, money paid for the Duke on various occasions. They show that the Duke lost money at horse-racing and tilting at the glove. The imperious nature and careless munificence of the man peep out in several of the entries. The King's coachman had to wait for him; the French Ambassador's pages lighted him home; Lord Northumberland's bowling-green not being smooth enough the Duke sent a man to roll it; if he was tired while walking he did not hesitate to stop a passing coach, whether it was Lord Suffolk's or the French Ambassador's, and get the coachman to give him a drive; but for everything he paid handsomely. The celebrated Bankes was employed to teach one of his horses. There is an account of the pages and footmen provided for him when he went into France. The horses bought for the journey cost between 4000*l.* and 5000*l.* An undated letter to Buckingham while in Spain, relates to luggage, horses, &c., of some in the Prince's train.

Among the items in the bills of King James's coachmaker is one for what seems to have been a Britska, it being said to be "of the German fashion, with the roof "to fall asunder at pleasure." The King's saddles were very costly.

The Duke of Buckingham had many horses given to him by various persons; but some he gave away to the Queen and some to the Venetian Ambassador.

In 1631 are several Royal Warrants issuing from the Privy Council at Edinburgh for the apprehension of Thomas Irving and Richard Irving for the murder of William Graham, of Plump, co. Cumberland; some of these warrants have the signature of the King effected by means of a stamp.—There is a petition to the King in favour of Robert Lord Maxwell, who, with the Lord of Johnston, had been guilty of various crimes. The petition is by Lord Maxwell's brother.

In 1618 is a note of the places to be visited by the King in his progress.—The number of horses and officers and servants of the stable of King James the 1st, and of those who were allowed the use of horses, are shown by a book of accounts. This is very copious, the names and salaries of all being given. Dr. Mayerne, the physician, had one horse livery, and Archie (the King's fool) had one hackney livery. There is also a short list of the horses and servants of the stable of the (deceased) Queen Anne.

A list, made in 1620, shows the number of men condemned (some were hung at Carlisle and some at Jedburgh) since the King came into England.

In 1637 is a short paper of proceedings about a house in Westminster infected by the plague, and in 1645 a notice of the sickness at Pomfret. Some letters in 1640 tell of the King's troops in the north, when Sir Richard Graham objected to having soldiers quartered at Netherby; and a very good letter by Sir Arthur Hopton treats of the state of the kingdom in 1647.

A statement in 1641 of the services performed against the Irish rebels by Sir William Cole, Knight, and Colonel at Inniskillen, puts one in mind of Lord Nelson's obligatory memorial of his services. In 1643 is a notice of the serious illness of John Pym, and in 1644 a letter by Sir Richard Graham about the supposed intention of the Scottish army to come to England.

Henry Slingsby was Master of the Mint during part of the reign of King Charles II. His numerous papers on Mint matters which lay dispersed in this Collection are now brought together and somewhat arranged. Many of them relate to the contentions between the proposers of a farthing coinage, some advocating tin, and others copper.—Prince Rupert and Lord Henry Howard, wanted to get a patent, and one of the documents bears their signatures. Among the papers are a copy of the warrant, dated in 1660, to authorize the appointment of Thomas Symonds (the celebrated Simon, I presume is meant) to draw and engrave all patterns and irons with the King's effigy, &c., and of a warrant for Peter Blondeau; and some of the letters are about the medallists named Roettier (a memoir of whom was read before the Numismatic Society in December 1840); also devices for the coronation medals of King James II. and his Queen. Slingsby was turned out on pretence of his accounts being in disorder, and he was harassed by law proceedings: a copy of his Case is with the Mint papers.

There are many interesting letters in the years 1665 and 1666, some of them being from Sir Robert Murray, Deputy Secretary for Scotch affairs, who evidently saw a good deal of Lord Ashley (afterwards Earl of Shaftesbury), and in a letter dated Sept. 1 1665, tells that Lord Ashley in the previous week had handsomely entertained the King and Queen at his house (St. Giles).

The letters of Sir George Murray and of Sir Paul Neile contain many items of court news.

There are notices of the quack Valentine Greatrakes, and how Sir John Denham (the poet) had been wrongly treated by him, and was mad. In 1675 Walter Slingsby says that he had prepared a revised edition of his brother Guilford's narrative of Lord Strafford's trial. Mention is made also in 1679 of Mr. Fobert's academy, among others at Paris, being shut up by the French king. I believe that this was the Foubert who afterwards came to England, and whose name is remembered in Foubert's place. In 1686 is a notice of a composition for preserving wood recommended for the navy. There is a copy of the Marquis of Blandford's letter from Rome, which gives interesting notices of the Old Pretender and the family: long account of Lord Howe's refraining from a naval engagement in 1782; and a curious notice of an important speech by Burke in the House of Commons in Feb. 1780.

Copies of verses occur, as in most collections of this kind; my notes of these have been very brief.

1597. Eleven, folio leaves, unbound.—A book of all the charges for the worke donne in the repaying of her Majesties manor house at Newcastle this year, being in the year of our Lord 1597, beginning the 20th of August and ending the 3rd of November (3 pp.).

Fo. 3. Extraordinary charge (1 p.).

Fo. 4. The charges of a ship for Barwicke, being in the year of our Lord God 1597, with the provisions for the same (1 p.). The first item is, "To Walter Johnson, for the fraught of his shyp to Barwicke, 11*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.*" The total of the account is 19*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*

Fo. 5. A note of my charges in my journey to London, being the 19th of July 1597, and coming to Barwicke the 17th of August '97, with the monie for my master, being 10*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, and spent as followeth, viz. (1 p.). The other pages are blank.

1606, March 23. A roll of 22 membranes, each about 3 feet long and 2 feet wide, written on both sides.—The Duplicament of the Arreir Accounte of Sir Richard Musgrave, Kt., Master of the King's Majesties Ordnance in the North partes (Queen Elizabeth's patent of 28 May, 36 Eliz. is set out), that is to say, as well of all the King's brass and iron ordnance, shot, powder, match, metal, &c., &c., not only found remaining at the town of Barwicke Warke Castle, Norham Castle, Newcastle, Tynemouth Castle, and the Holy Island, upon the determination of the last account of Sir Symon Musgrave, late Deputy Master of the Ordnance in the North Part, ended 2 Sept. 1591, but also of sundry other the like natures, &c., &c. Signed at the end by T. Dorset (Thomas Earl of Dorset, Lord High Treasurer), Jul. Cæsar (Sir Julius Cæsar, Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer), and Tho. Fleming (Sir Thomas

* In a letter of 1665 by Sir Geo. Murray he says that the King said he would have no graver in Symon's place.

SIR R.
GRAHAM
BART.

SIR R. GRAHAM, BART.

Fleming, Chief Baron of the Exchequer). And marked as examined by Ri. Sutton, auditor.

7 James I., June 14, Westminster.—Copy of letters patent by the King, granting to his servant Gillam Bunny and to Hance Levens, of Lambeth, co. Surrey, license to import from beyond sea into England and the dominions thereof, coach-horses, mares, and geldings, without paying any present or future custom, subsidy, or imposition for 21 years from date; provided that none such imported is to be under fourteen handfulls in height, nor under three years nor over seven years; and so that the King's Master of the Horse has the first choice of any that are to be disposed of: and so that the grantees bring over a sufficient store and quantity.

1612, June 30. Parchment roll of 6 membranes, each about 3 feet long and 2 feet wide.—The Duplicamte of the accounts of Sir Richard Musgrave, Kt., late Master of the King's Majesties Ordinance in the North parte, whom our late Sovereign lady Queen Elizabeth appointed to the same office by her Highness letters patent under the Great Seal, the tenor whereof ensueweth (the patent in Latin is set out, dated 28 May 36 Eliz.): That is to say, as well as of all the King's ordnance, shot, powder, match, metal, small guns with their furniture, artillery munition, and other habiliments of war remaining at Newcastle and Tynemouth in the custody of Sir R. Musgrave, upon the determination of his last account for 13 years and 16 days, ended 19th Sept. 1604, according to a survey then taken, as of the issuing and delivery of such part thereof, as hath been received by John Parey, thereunto authorised by letters of Lord Darcie, Master of H.M. Ordnance General, dated 1 Feb. 1608, according to two warrants under the King's signet, one to the Master of the Ordnance and the other to Sir R. Musgrave, the tenor of both which hereafter ensue. (Both are set out in full.) Sir R. Musgrave makes his account for 4 years and 250 days (20 Sept. 1604, to 26 May 1609).—The account is signed at the end by Sir Julius Caesar, Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer; and Sir J. Altham, Sir Edw. Bromley, and Jo. Sotherton, Esq., three of the Barons of the Exchequer.

A bundle of 22 papers (docketed) about the office of Clerk of the Hanaper. Temp. Car. I.

Twenty papers about the delinquency (as it was called) of Sir R. Graham, and the sequestration of his estates. 1644–1648.

1644, Dec. 26th, York. Letter of protection to Sir Richard Graham (here carelessly written Grymes). Signed and sealed by "Fer. Fairfax."

Petition by Sir Richard Graham to Committees for the North Riding and West Riding of the co. of York, that they would certify his estate and offences. And an order on it, dated 27 Feb. 1645, directing the sequestrators to certify the letting value of his estate both before the war and now.

There are some Passes for him; and orders made at Goldsmiths' Hall. Sir Richard's fine was 2,366l. 17s. 4d. In 1646 the Committee for Sequestrations seized a box of his silver plate weighing 2,011 oz. He got an order for a fifth part of the value to be returned to him for the maintenance of his wife and children; and there is his receipt for 50l. in part of it.

On the 21 April 1648 he got an order from the Committee for Compounding with Delinquents for the restoration of his real estate, and of what remained of his personal estate. (The order states that he had paid the remainder of his fine.) The order is signed by (the Earl of) Warwick, Dufdely, North, Hen. Darley, D. Watkins, Antho. Irby, John Stephens, Robt. Reynolds, and Geo. Thomason.

20 James Ist, Aug. 17. Counterpart signed by Sir Richard Graham of a lease to him by the Duke of Buckingham of the keepership of the North Park of Hampton Court and the office of Palister thereof, &c. for 99 years, if both should so long live.

1632. Parchment roll of the account by Sir Richard of moneys received and paid for repairs of the rails and pales of the North Park. He received 114l. 13s. 4d. by virtue King Charles's Privy Seal, and expended 118l. 4s. It is signed by "Fr. Cottington" and by Richard Sutton, auditor, and Geo. Bingley, deputy-auditor.

1621 Michaelmas, to 1622 Michaelmas. Parchment roll (about 9 feet long): The accompte of Richard Graham, servant and Gentleman of the Horse to the Right Honourable George Marques of Buckingham, Lord High Admiral of England, and Master of H. M. Horse, &c., of moneys had and expended for the use of the Marques. Received 3,164l. 19s. 10d. Expended 3,392l. 12s. 1d. Signed and allowed by Jo. Suckling, Geo. Paule, Robert Pye, Richard Oliver, and Tho. Fotherley.

1622–1623. A similar roll. Received 3,020l. Expended 3,105l. 0s. 8½d.

1623–1624. A similar roll. Received 2,390l. Expended 2,286l. 12s. 10½d.—Three horses and two great water spaniels bought and sent to the King of Denmark cost 40l. 1s.

A folio volume containing household accounts of the beginning of the 18th century, and a catalogue of a library in 20 leaves, arranged alphabetically, with the press-marks.

At the beginning of the volume are accompts of moneys received by H. Slingsby, Esq., Master of H. M. Mint, out of the Exchequer, upon the Act of Parliament for the encouraging of coynage in the year from 20 Dec. 1666 to 21 Dec. 1667. He received, in 12 sums, from Mr. Squib, Mr. Loveing, Sir Geo. Downing, and Sir William Doyley, 5,365l. 3s. 7½d. For the next year the amounts are not legible. For the year ending 21 Dec. 1669 he received 3,083l. 3s. 1d., and for the next year upwards of 8,000l. For the year ending 21 Dec. 1671 he received 12,000l.; for the next year (damaged) about the same. For the year ending 21 Dec. 1673 he received 12,800l.; for the next year (damaged) about 12,000l.; for the year ending 21 Dec. 1675, 8,500l.; for the next year 6,000l. (this is cancelled); for the year ending 21 Dec. 1677, 11,000l. (cancelled). For the next years the amount is illegible. For the year ending 21 Dec. 1679, 9,915l. 9s. 5d.

The catalogue of books contains "Sir Henry Slingsby's Instructions to his Sons," and his "Journal, a manuscript."

Folio, in a limp vellum cover.

This seems to be a book of the accounts of Richard (afterwards Sir Richard) Graham, Gentleman of the Horse to the Duke of Buckingham. The first page has "Laid out for my Lord, April the 20th, 1620," and among the entries there are 26l. 16s. paid for tilting staves, spent by his Lordship and both the Mr. Alexanders, and 22l. paid to the King's trumpeter to wait on his Lordship at tilting.

Fo. 2. The names of such of His Majesty's parks as the Master of his Horse may, per warrant, put in horses, and what number into every park. The Great Park of Windsor, 6; Moate Park, 2; Polly John Park, 2; Little Park of Windsor Castle, 1; Dutton Park, 1; Marriboane Park, 3; Hyde Parke, 4; Oatlands Park, 1; Bush Park, near Hampton Court, 1; the Course of Hampton Court, 1; Nonsuch Park, 2; Great Park at Eltham, 6; Middle Park, 2; Horne Park, 2.

Fo. 3. List of horses sent to the Great Park of Windsor in 1619.

Fo. 5. Expenses in the hunting stable and hie wae stable, and board wages and quarter, and other necessaries in Christmas 1619.

Fo. 11. Charge of hie wae stable in Midsummer quarter 1620. The volume contains other similar accounts for 1619 and 1620, and at the end a list in 4 pp. of 32 mares covered in 1623. Loose in this volume are 9 larger sized leaves of accounts of the highway stable for the years 1621, 1622, and 1623.

A large sized folio volume, imperfect at the beginning, and very much damaged by damp, containing the Duke of Buckingham's stable accounts for the years 1622–1625, and a list of horses in 1628. Also accounts of money to be paid to various persons by the Duke's order in 1622 and 1623. He lost 100l. to Lord Salisbury in a match of horses at Newmarket, and seems to have lost to others. Running at a glove in the tilt-yard he lost 44s. to Lord Dorset. Noblemen and gentlemen sent horses as gifts to him, and the grooms who brought the horses always had rewards. He ordered a man to roll the bowling-green at Lord Northumberland's, and gave 5s. for the service. To the King's coachman that waited at Theobalds' to bring him to Greenwich, 22s. The French Ambassador's pages who lighted him from the Ambassador's house to his own were rewarded. There is also a list (in 11 pp.) of rewards for horses and dogs given, going by water, &c., from 1 Feb. 1624, to last of July 1626. Among these are To one of his grooms to carry a quilt for his Grace to lie on by the way, 10s.—To Lord Arundel's housekeeper when his Grace went to see the pictures, 22s. To a costermonger, at York House, for cherries, 22s. To Lord Suffolk's coachman for carrying him a little way in his coach, 5s. To the French Ambassador's coachman to carry his Grace a little way in his coach, 15s. To his Grace to play cards when he took physic at Wallingford House, 4l. 8s. To

SIR R. GRAHAM, BART.

* The volume has been saturated with wet; the leaves stick together; the lower halves of many are rotten, and nearly in a state of powder.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

an innkeeper for keeping a bay nag that Bankes had to teach, 4l. 14s. 2d.

At the other end of the volume are accounts of the charge of H. M. stable in 1622 and 1623, and 1624.—Account in 4 pp. of saddles and litters, &c., in the Sadler's office and in Derrick's Press. (They were very sumptuous.) Among them are complete furniture for five barbed horses, of tawny velvet embroidered with silver, with two furnitures, suitable covers for saddles, and all complete, except stirrups, bits, and feathers. (In the margin. These were used at the last time the King tilted, being then Prince of Wales.)—On the following page are contemporary copies of the writings found in Felton's hat and trunk.

1628. An account of all such furniture as are now in the Sadler's office, and in use both for the King and Queen at the present (1 p.). Among the Queen's are A rich coach of crimson, which my Lord Duke gave the Queen; three side saddles for the Queen. Among the King's is the rich crimson velvet saddle embroidered with pearl.

1626, Sept. 10. A particular of all the furnitures for Royston journey for his Majestie (saddles and stable furniture 1 p.).

His Majestie's progresse [1618?]*

	Nights.
The 28th of June, to my Lo.	- 4
The 2 of July, to Haveringe	- 5
The 7 of July, to Tiballes	- 6
The 13 of July, to Whitehall	- 1
The 14 of July, to Nonesuch	- 5
The 19 of July, to Otelandes	- 3
The 22 of July, to Windsor	- 6
The 28 of July, to	- 3
The 31 of July, to Bagshote	- 5
The 5 of August, to Aldershott	- 4
The 9 of Au., to Farneham	- 3
The 12 of August, to Tichborne	- 1
The 13 of Au., to Brodlandes	- 1
The 14 of Au., to Bewlye	- 10
The 24 of Au., to	-
The 25 of Au., to	-
The 26 of Au., to Bramesell	- 2
The 28 of Au., to Bagshott	- 3
The 31 of Au., to Windsor	- 6
The 6 of September, to Londone	- 1
The 7 of Sep., to Wansted	- 4
The 11 of Sep., to Tiballes during pleasure.	-

His Majestie's progresse.

The 14 of July, to Nonesuch	- 27
The 10 of Au., to Otelandes	- 1
The 11 of Au., to Bransell	- 1
The 12 of Au., to	-
The 13 of Au., to	-
The 14 of Au., to Tichfield	- 10
The 24 of Au., to	-
The 25 of Au., to	-
The 26 of Au., to Brameshell	- 6
The 31 of Au., to Windsor	- 6
The 6 of Sep., to Londone	- 4
The 11 of Sep., to Tiballes during pleasure.	-

A booke of the nombres and severall sortes of horses kepte for the service of the late Kinge James, as also of the names of his officers' servants, with the wages, horses, or hackneyes liveries allowed to every of them in His Majesties stables, vizt.:

	Horse liveries.
Huntinge horses and paddes.	-
Coorsers and stallions.	-
Mare coltes.	-
Younge Spanish horses.	-
Cocke horses.	-
Sumpters.	-
Bottle horses.	-
Litter horses and mules.	-

His Ma^{ty} owne horses:

Cammells.	-
Male horse.	-
Stoole horse.	-
Stalkinge horse.	-
Pack horse.	-
Page horses.	-

Master of the horse - - - iiij

Avenar:

Richard Bathurst, at xl ^{li} per annum, and a diet of x. dishes	- ij
--	------

* In the Calendar of State Papers, a letter of the Earl of Salisbury, dated 9 July, 1618, asks Carleton if he will wait on the King at Theobalds; and a letter by Sir Robert Naunton, dated, Beaulieu, 15 Aug., 1618, says that the King has had the collic, but is better, and has been on horse-back these two mornings by sunrise.

Equeries xx^{li} a peece per annum:

Sir Robert Osborne	- ij
Sir Thomas Metham	- ij
Sir Peter Saltonstall	- ij
Sir Sigismund Zinz	- ij
John Carlton	- ij
George Digbie	- ij
Roger Feelding	- ij
Gabriell Hippisley	- ij
William Sanderson	- ij
Sir Edward Bushell	- ij
Sir John Gill	- ij
Sir Gregory Fenner	- ij
Morris Dromond	- ij

Horse liveries.

These attended
Queene Anne.

These followinge, which have horse liveries, have their wages in part cheques, and in other places, but not in the stable, vizt.:

Henry Zinzan	- ij
Andrew Zinzan	- i
John Waterhouse	- ij

Riders for the races:

Thomas Fremam	- i
John Prichard	- i

Master falconer:

Sir Anthony Pell	- ij
------------------	------

Master and sergeante of the buckhounds:

Sir Thom. Terringham	- ij
Sergeant Walker	- i

For July,
August, and September
only.

Gent. usher:

Sir George Keyre	- i
Erle of Holdernes	- i
Erle of Anglesey	- i
Erle of Ammandall	- i

Falconers and huntsmen:

George Moncrefe	- i
Cockaine	- i
Russell Porter	- i
Taylor	- i
Walker, Jun.	- i
Franc. Trumble	- i
James Wrighte	- i
John Denham	- i

Groomes of the bedchamber:

John Achmoughtie	- i
John Levingstone	- i
Patrick Maule	- i
Barnard Linsey	- i
Richard Turpin	- i
James Maxwell	- i
Arthur Brette	- i
Robert Haye	- i
Henry Gibbe	- i
William Carr	- i
James Palmer	- i

Pages of the bedchamber:

Hugh Henne	- i
Adam Hill	- i
Alexander Stephenson	- i
Ellis Rothwell	- i

Squire sadler:

John Bingham	- i
--------------	-----

Surgeon:

Archiball Hayes	- i
-----------------	-----

Carver to Prince Charles:

John Cocburne	- i
---------------	-----

Gent. of the buttery:

James Bokanon	- i
---------------	-----

M^{rs} laundries:

Mrs. Bokanon	- i
--------------	-----

Phisitian:

Doctor Mayerne	- i
----------------	-----

Clarkes of the avery at xxvj^{li} xiiij^{li} iiiij^{li} per annum, at ij^{li} per diem:

Roberte Fenne	- ij
Anthony Edmondes	- ij

Hackneyes liveries.

Sergeantes of the carriages at xv^{li} a peece per diem:

Thomas Smith	- ij
Godfrey Havercombe	- ij

One attended
Queene Anne.

Surveyors of the stables at xj^{li} a peece per diem:

George Mynors	- ij
John Gough	- ij
Henry Wollastone	- ij
Humphry Tilsley	- ij

Sergeante farrier at xiiij^{li} per diem:

Miles Cuthen	- ij
--------------	------

Clark of the stable at xj^{li} per diem:

Ly Dickenson	- ij
--------------	------

SIR E.
RAHAM,
BART.Hackneyes
liveries.Surveyors of the races at xx^{li} per annum :

Sir William Powell - - - ij
Sir George Marshall - - - ij
Marshall farrier at xvij^{li} per annum :

Thomas Walton - - - i
Marshall farrier at xij^d per diem :

Edward Walker - - - i
Yeoman of the stirrop at ij^s per diem :

Edward Greame - - - i
Yeoman of the stirrope at ix^d per diem :

Thomas Garland - - - i { Attended the
Queene Anne.
Yeoman riders at xxxv^{li} per annum :

Samuell Carter - - - i
Robte. Zinzan - - - i
Robert Giles - - - i
Josua Groves - - - i

Riders at x^d per diem :
Henry Wood - - - i { Attended
Queene Anne.
Richard Greame - - - i

Footemen to the Kinge at xiiij^{li} vj^s viij^d a peece per annum :
Rice Griffith - - - 0
Case Surlowe - - - 0
John Richardson - - - 0
John Arnolde - - - 0
William Pricharde - - - 0
Alexander Mullakin - - - 0
John Bassnett - - - 0
Adam Crosley - - - 0
Raph Tuggie - - - 0
Tobie Johnson - - - 0

Footemen to the Queene at the same rate :
Roberte Bowles - - - 0
Drury Shury - - - 0
Conwaye Brady - - - 0
Lawrence Harwood - - - 0

Footemen for the 2 ladies at the same rate :
George Barren - - - 0
Andrew Dromonde - - - 0

Yeomen of the races at iiij^d peece per diem :
Thom Greene - - - 0
Gregory Julian - - - 0

Yeomen purveyors and garnitors at ij^s a
peece per diem :

Symond Greene. Edward Greene i
Franc. Greene. Edward Greene i
Dennis Flemynge - - - i
Richard Powney - - - i
William Goldwell - - - i
William Cooke. Roger Cooke - i
John Greene - - - i
Thom Powell - - - i
Fraunces Heylon - - - i

Yeoman sadler at xiiij^{li} vj^s viij^d per annum :
Peter Derrick - - - i

Yeoman sadler at viij^s per diem :
Richard Allen - - - i

Yeomen of the close carr. for the Queene's robes at ix^d per diem :

John Best - - - i { Attended the Queene Anne.
+
Bitmaker at iiij^d per diem :

John Dover - - - i 0
Yeoman packman at viij^d ob. per diem :

William Floyd - - - i
Yeomen farriers at xi^d per diem :

Walter Snapes - - - i
Richard Spittle - - - i
William Love - - - i
William Tewxburye - - - i
George Withers - - - i

Yeomen of the male at viij^d per diem :
Owen Morris - - - 0 { Attended
Queene Anne.
John Stacey - - - 0

Cochmaker at xij^d per diem :
John Banks, Richard Briggam - i

Gromes of the botle horse at xvj^s a peece per diem :

David Steward - - - 0
Edward Griffith - - - 0
Mathew Bonde - - - 0 { Attended
Q. Anne. ;

Grome of the cloce carr. for the Queene's robes, at xiiij^d per diem :

John Fulham - - - 0 { Attended
Q. Anne.
Grome of the cloce carr. for the King's stable, at xvj^s per diem :

Roberte Saxen - - - 0

Hackneyes
liveries.SIR E.
RAHAM,
BART.Cochmen at xiiij^d a peece per diem :

William Smith - - - 0
John Heydon - - - 0
John Sanderson - - - 0
Thom. Lewyn - - - 0
Charles Prowdman - - - 0
William Waller - - - 0

Gromes lyttermen at xiiij^d per diem a peece :

Roberte Barker - - - 0
Richard Greame - - - 0
Edward Atlea - - - 0
John Barrett - - - 0

Gromes carriage men, at xvi^d a peece per diem :

Roberte Stratton - - - 0
William Steete - - - 0

Gromes wagoners for the Queene, at xvi^d
a peece per diem :

Nicholas Brewett - - - 0
Edward Cooke - - - 0
Georgie Cooke - - - 0 } Attended
Q. Anne.

Gromes sadlers, at xij^d peece per diem :
William Bowcher - - - i
John Jack - - - i
Thom. Smithsbie - - - i

Gromes of the coorsers, at x^d peece per diem :

William Stacey - - - i
John Moore - - - i

Lyttermen, at x^d peece per diem :
Adam Naylor - - - i
John Reynoldes - - - i

Gromes farrier, at xij^d peece per diem :
John Gunne - - - i
Edward Snapes - - - i
George Cathen - - - i
Roger Coxo - - - i
Christopher Rosse - - - i

27 Gromes of the coorsers stable, at xiiij^d
peece per diem :

Henry Thomas - - - 0
Thom. Wye - - - 0
Roberte Greenefelde - - - 0
Samuell Boothe - - - 0
George Baylie - - - 0
Henry Heath - - - 0
Jethro Sagar - - - 0
Richard Goswell - - - 0
Roberte Kinge - - - 0
John Hunte - - - 0
Bennett Baylie - - - 0
Leonard Welbeck - - - 0
Roberte Winche - - - 0
Richard Taylor - - - 0
Thom. Sanderson - - - 0
John Knighte - - - 0
William Teye - - - 0
William Newton - - - 0
Richard Eldridge - - - 0
William Clark - - - 0
Ephraim West - - - 0
Pearce Synnott - - - 0
Charles Breache - - - 0
John Symons - - - 0
John Hamblen - - - 0
John Parsons - - - 0

Gromes sumptermen, ad xij^d peece per
diem :

Edward Stephens - - - i
John Keyes - - - i
Thom. Cooke - - - i
Nicholas Graves - - - i
Richard Martin - - - i
Robert Keyes - - - i
Edward Maplesden - - - i
Michael Cooper - - - i
Geo. Graham - - - i
Thom. Longe - - - i

25 Gromes of the hunt and hoby stable,
at xij^d peece per diem :

James Carr - - - i
William Turner - - - i
John Jeninges - - - i
John Clark - - - i
John Feelde - - - i
Robert Shefford - - - i
William Leyland - - - i
John Hiller - - - i

SIR R. GRAHAM, BART.		Hackneyes liveries	Horse liveries.	SIR R. GRAHAM, BART.
	Richard Hughes -	- i	Rider of the hobbies, x ^d per diem	i
	Richard Cooper -	- i	Yeoman of the cloce carr., ix ^d per diem	1
	Andrew Thamlow -	- i	Footemen, ix; xiiij ^d vi ^d viii ^d per ann.	0
	Richard Wilson -	- i	Yeomen of the male, viij ^d per diem	0
	Richard Reade -	- i	Grome of the bottle horse, xv ^d per diem	0
	George Tapsfield -	- i	Grome of the cloce carr., xiiij ^d per diem	0
	Henry Weighte -	- i	Wagoners, 3; xv ^d pece per diem	0
	John Robinson -	- i	These had nagges, liveries, &c. as the rest of the gromes and farriers:
	Umphry Kellick -	- i	Sumpter men -	viiij
	Henry Lawrence -	- i	Farriers -	iiij
	John Hudson -	- i	Gromes, keepers of the hobbies, &c. -	xv
	Robert Longe -	- i	Hale keepers -	ij
	John Armestronge -	- i
	James Johnson -	- i
	Thom. Lidgolde -	- i
	Walter Burk -	- i
	Edward Mathewes -	- i
	Halemen, at v ^d pece per diem:
	William Evans -	- 0
	Anthony Wilkinson -	- 0
	Evan Meredith -	- 0
	John Hinekey -	- 0
	Gromes of the coorsers stable to Frincoe
	Henry at xiiij ^d a pece per diem:
	Paule Finche -	- 0
	John Willes -	- 0
	James Grover -	- 0
	These following which have hackneyes liveries have their wages in the Exchiquer and in other places, but not in the stables, vizt:—
	Children riders:
	Richard Higges -	- i
	Anthony Knighte -	- i
	Samuell Walton -	- i
	Richard Hester -	- i
	Keeper of the mewes:
	Robert Thomas -	- i
	Falconers:
	Geo. Moncreefe -	- i
	Laurence Dundas -	- i
	John Pinkerton -	- i
	James Quarrier -	- i
	Robert Cutle -	- i
	Thom. Moncreefe -	- i
	Eqery extraord.:
	Alexander Levingstone -	- i
	Phisitian:
	Doctor Mayerne -	- i
	Dauucer:
	Bartholomewe Montague -	- i
	Of the robes:
	Robert Kirkwoode -	- i
	Bow-bearers:
	Humphry Broughton -	- i
	Christopher Glover -	- i
	Keeper of the back stables, yarde, &c. at the mewes:
	Charles Forthie -	- i
	Archie -	- i
	Thom. Derry -	- i
	John Mawre, his keeper -	- i
	Charret keeper:
	John Atkinson -	- i
	Queene Anne.—A note of the numbers and severall sortes of horses keppe for the service of the late Queene Anne, together with such officers and servants as usually attended her in the stable, with their allowances of wages and horsmeat, taken owt of the former booke made for the late Kinge's servants and horses, vizt:—
	Hobbies and geldinges -	- xxx
	Coach horses -	- x
	Male horse -	- i
	Bottle horses -	- ij
	Sumpter horses -	- viij
	Cloce carr. horses -	- v
	Wagon horses -	- iiij
	Wages:
	A master of the horse; 0	- iiij
	Eqeries, iiij; xx ^d a pece per ann.	- viij
	These were sworne the Kinge's servants, and appointed t ^e wayte by the Kinge's Master of the horse:—
	A sergeant of the carriage, xv ^d per diem	- ij
	Ycoman of the stirrope, ix ^d per diem	- i

These had nagges, liveries, &c. as the rest of the gromes and farriers:

Sumpter men - viij
Farriers - iiij
Gromes, keepers of the hobbies, &c. - xv
Hale keepers - ij

These were likewise his Ma^y servants, and appointed by the Kinge's Master of the horse.

1620, last of Feb.—The names of those that hath been executed and condemned since His Majesty's coming into England. This was carried in by Jo. Routledge unto my Lords Commissioners Sir Harrie Babington, Mr. Lowther, and others, the last of Feb. 1622:—

John Nickson, of Grastenflatt, was executed at Carlile for murder.

Clement Nickson, his brother, was executed for horse stealing.

Quintin Nickson, alias Dans Quintin, was hanged at Carlile for murder and horse stealing.

John Nickson, his brother, ditto.

George Nickson, hanged for horse stealing.

Hector Nickson and Thomas Nickson, condemned but not hung.

Rynion Nixon and Jo. Nickson, condemned but not hung.

Walter Nickson and Andrew, condemned but not hanged. These were hanged at Jedburg.

George Nixon, Cuthbert Noble, Edward Noble, and John Noble, condemned but not hanged. Jenkin Routledge, of Kimbergill, hanged at Carlile.

An accompt of those paidges, footemen, and coachmen's clothes that were provided for his Grace's journey into France (one side of a brief sheet). There were 12 pages, 24 footmen, and two coachmen, who had three suits apiece. The pages continued with all their suits then in their own custody. The footmen had two suits apiece and their coats, their third suits being of crimson satin and coats of crimson velvet. The person accounting tells what became of some and what remained.—There is also a draft of this paper.

1622-3. Particulars of warrants from His Majesty for horses passed in Dover since the 20th of Feb. 1622 to the 1st Sept. 1623 (1 p.). 24 persons had warrants for 132 horses in all. On Aug. 6, 1623, Dr. Mayerne had a pass for five horses or nagges. On the other half of the sheet are notes of other warrants by Duke from the 20th Feb. 1622, to eight persons for 55 horses in all.

1623. Paper book of six large leaves. The charges of his Lordship's highway stable, from Michaelmas 1622 to Michaelmas 1623.—And the like for the hunting stable. (These occupy 3 leaves.) "Bills extraordinary" occupy the other 3 leaves.

1624. Paper roll four feet long. Account of the charge of H.M. stables, beginning Ladyday 1623, and ending at Ladyday 1624.—Total, 2,783l. 17s. 6d. Signed by Richard Graham.

1624 and 1625. Two long bills (respectively 13 pp. and 9 pp.) of Richard Brigham, for reparations to the King's caroches, chariots. He made the total 368l., but took 280l. in satisfaction. There were two new caroches; one is said to be of the German fashion, with the roof to fall asunder at his Majesty's pleasure. The other was of the Spanish fashion. The like of them were never made before in England.

1625-1628. Francis Harrison the farrier's bill, for the journey for the horses going into France, 1625. Sum total, 57l. 7s. 2d., and Harrison's board wages and standing wages, 72l. 7s. 3d.—To this are fastened three bills of John Dowell against the Duke, allowed and paid by Richard Graham.

1624-1626. Account of Richard Graham, gentleman of the horse to the Duke of Buckingham, Michaelmas 1624 to Ladyday 1626, &c., &c. (Three membranes each about a yard long.) He charged himself with 4,098l. 7s. 13d. (This roll contains the rewards, of which a few are mentioned before.) The horses bought for the journey to France were many, and cost 4,485l. 10s. 8d. The account is signed and allowed by "Savage," Sir Robert Pye, Richard Oliver, and Tho. Fotherley, and

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

they certified that to the accountant was owing a surplus of 97l. 16s. 10½d.

1626-1628. Account of Richard Graham, Esq., gentleman of the horse, &c., of moneys received and paid (for stable expenses). He charges himself with 1,250l., received from Richard Oliver, Receiver General to the late Duke, and with 200l. received from Thomas Fotherley, solicitor to the late Duke; and he makes a balance of 9s. 0½d. in his own favour. This is signed by R. Graham. There is a duplicate not signed.

1627. Duplication of the account of Sir Richard Graham, Kt. and Bart., of the sum of 1,000l. received by the late Duke out of the Exchequer under a Privy Seal, dated 2nd May 1627, so that he might purchase a troop of horse (for the Isle of Rhé expedition), and lay in provision for them. The Duke gave the money to Sir Richard to lay out according to his direction. Sir Richard charges himself with 1,051l., and makes himself a creditor for 6l. 7s. The account is signed by Richard (Lord) Weston (Lord High Treasurer of England), Francis (Lord) Cottington (Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer), and also by George Bayley, the deputy auditor. The account was passed in the year 1632. (There is a duplicate on paper not signed.)

1625-1628. Accounts of Sir R. Graham of saddles and furniture come to his charge from 22 Oct. 1625 to 23 Aug. 1628; and of coaches and other furniture remaining in his charge at the death of the late Duke of Buckingham, and of all such horses, &c. &c.; and of all the benefits that belonged to the Master of the Horse. (A paper roll about 10 feet long.) Inter alia, Two side-saddles, one of crimson velvet, the other of watchet velvet, which his Grace bestowed upon his daughter the Lady Mary.—Some of the horses were crop-eared [crop-eared?].—After the Duke's death the Duchess gave 22 horses of different kinds to the King.

1625-1628. A paper roll about 3 feet long. Account of such horses, mares, geldings, and colts as have come into my charge since 22 Oct. 1625 till 23 Aug. 1628.—Five horses, of which four had been presented to the Duke, were given by him to the Venetian Ambassador, to whom they were delivered in the Common Garden, about the 2d July 1628. Four others were sent to the Isle of Rhé, and there left. There was "a gray nagge which my Lord bought in the street;" and this and a bay mare were both by the Duke presented to the Queen in St. James's Park. A whole pacing nag and a gray bob-tailed gelding were by the Duke given to a Frenchman, who was taken prisoner at the Isle of Rhe; and a gray gelding, given by Lord Carlile, was treated in the same way. A bay horse, presented by Sir James Bagge, was given to "the Dutch picture drawer," at the Dutches' request. He gave a horse to Watt. Mountague. (In the roll preceding this I see that he gave a pad saddle of Spanish leather with a seat of watchet velvet to Watt. Mountague.—The account is signed by Richard Graham.

1625-1628. Account* of all the benefits accruing to the Master of the Horse, viz., his fees from the Exchequer of 66l. 6s. 8d., by the year, from 22 Oct. 1625, till 23 Aug. 1628. A diet of 16 dishes at a meal; four horses' liveries; and the vacants of H.M. horses, which were always agreed for with the Almoner by the Masters of the Horse for 29 liveries, till within the time of this account that I took the vacants to his Grace's use, which then amounted to be more: likewise cast horses of all sorts, cullion mares, the surplussage of the grass of two Raes, all cast coaches and other furnitures. These were all the profits that belonged to his Grace as Master of the Horse, which were disposed of as followeth. (I brief sheet.)

1629, Oct. 12. Account (1 p.) sworn by Sir R. Graham, of all the horses, mares, and geldings in his charge at the time of the Duke's death. Of these, 22 had been given to the King. (This list is included in the roll above.)

Account of saddles and furniture come to his charge since 22 Oct. 1625, to 23 May 1628. In this "Six purple velvet saddles richly embroidered with silver strings; a green velvet saddle laced with gold lace; a crimson velvet saddle laced with silver and gold, given by Lord Carleton; a green velvet saddle embroidered with gold and silver, and 20 leather saddles "received out of the Tower," are said to have been taken to the Isle of Ré and there left.

Account of coaches and other furniture remaining in my charge at my Lord's death. (1 p.) Signed.

Account of all horses, mares, geldings, and colts that came into my charge since 20 Oct. 1625, till 23 Aug.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

1628. Signed. (3 pp.) These two last are also included in a roll above.

1628-1630. Account of money imprest to Sir R. Graham, to pay the footmen, grooms, and other artificers, since the death of the late Duke of Buckingham, from Michaelmas 1628, and ending June 1630.—Received 1,614l. 2s. 6d. Paid 1,622l. 7s. 7d. (Short entries referring to bills and acquittances.)

1625-1628. Account of Sir R. Graham, Kt. and Bart., Gentleman of the Horse, to &c., of moneys received since the date of his release made to him by the late Duke, viz., from 22 Oct. 1625, to Michaelmas Day 1628, and of disbursements for the stable, and for the extraordinary expense and horses bought to be sent to his Grace to the Isle of Ré, and coach horses for him and the Lady Duchess, and extraordinary charges for post horses and coaches. Delivered upon oath according to an order of 10 June 1629.—Received 1,583l.—Paid Wages and board-wages, 817l. 19s. 4d.—Horses bought, 422l. 10s.—Extraordinary expenses, 77l. 4s. 7d.—Moneys delivered to his Grace at Aylesbury, to play cards, 36l.—Extraordinary journeys, and paid by his Grace's command, 142l. 13s.—Sir Richard remained a creditor for 11l. 8s. 9½d. Audited by and sworn before Jo. Tooke.

A number (some duplicate) of lists of horses, &c. the property of the late Duke, for which Sir R. Graham was accountable; lists of mares covered, with the names of the sires; stable bills, &c. &c. Among them is,

1624. Account of all H.M. mares and colts within the race of Tutbury, in Staffordshire, and with what horses the breeding mares were covered. (Quarto 8 pp.)

1631. June 28. Holyroodhouse. Privy Council order under the Sign Manual (stamped) of Charles I., and signed (red wax). After reciting that Thomas Irving of Kirkpatrick and Richard Irving son of the late Jeffrey Irving had failed to find surety to appear and answer for the cruel slaughter of William Graham of Plump in Cumberland (at the instance of Alice Carlill the relict, Katharine Graham the daughter, Sir Richard Graham of Norton, Kt. and Bart., brother, and Ronauld Grahame, citizen of London, brother, and other friends and kin of the said William) and that they had been condemned as rebels, but yet went about in public in contempt of the hording;—it charges the sheriffs of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Peebles, Dumfries, and Bogan, the stewards of Kirkcudbright and Annandale, &c., and Fergus Graham of Bluntwode, Robert Pringill of Stitchell, William Bell of Bladethouse, and Walter Bell of Clenchbrae, to take the said Thomas and Richard Irving wherever they may be, and bring them to justice, &c.—Signed by Hadinton, Marischall, Pa. (Bishop of Ross, Ad. Bishop of Dunblane, Jo. Isles, Carnegy, Traquaire, Naper, and Thomas Hope.)

True copy of the above (called the principal commission) extracted from the Register of the Commissioners of the Privy Council, and signed by [James] Primrois, clerk to His Majesty's Privy Council and Keeper of the said Register.

1631, Sept. 3, Edinburgh. King Charles's warrant issued by order of two of the Council, under the signet (red wax) directed to [blank] sheriffs' messengers. After reciting that it had been shown by Agnes Cawleill the relict, Katharine Grahame as daughter, Sir Richard Grahame of Norton, Kt. and Bart., and Ronauld Grahame, citizen of London, as brothers, with the other kin and friends of the late William Grahame of Plump in Cumberland, that on the 3rd of September instant Thomas Irving of Kirkpatrick was duly denounced the King's rebel, and put to his horn by virtue of other criminal letters, because he did not appear before the justice and his deputies at the day appointed, for being art and part in the cruel slaughter of the said William Grahame, committed in Plump at the time and in manner specified in the said other letters, but in contempt goes abroad publicly,—It directs them at once to charge the sheriffs of the shierifdom of Edinburgh, and within the constabulary of Hadington, the steward of the stewartries of [blank], the bailies of the bailiearies of [blank], the bailies of the regalities of [blank], the provost and bailies of the burghs of [blank], messengers of the King's officer of arms, and sheriffs in those parts, to search for and seize the said Thomas Irving and bring him to justice.—Signed by Jo. Banatynne.

1631, Sept. 3, Edinburgh.—A similar warrant to [blank] sheriffs' messengers. After reciting the information by the persons mentioned in the above warrant to the King's Counsellor, Sir Thomas Horp, of Craig-hall, Kt., Bart., advocate for entries, that at a court holden that day in the tolbooth of Edinburgh by William Earl of Strathern and Menteith, Lord Graham Kybryd and Kynpont, &c., President of the King's Privy

* This and the next four items are tied together.

SIR E.
GRAHAM,
BART.

Council of Scotland and Justice General thereof, and by Mr. Alexander Colville of Blair, the King's justice depute, Hew Scott, servant and chamberlain to James Johnston of that ilk as cautioner and surety for Thomas Irving of Kirkpatrick, did not produce him before the justices to underlyn the law for art and part in the slaughter of William Grahame committed within the dwelling house of John Irving in Sowrone, in the parish of Grattay and sheriffdom of Annandale, on the 22nd of May last, . . . the said Thomas Irving was decreed to be pronounced a rebel and put to horn and all his moveable goods to be escheated.—It commands them to go at once to the market cross of Edinburgh, and other needful places, and there by open proclamation in the King's name denounce Thomas Irving a rebel and put him to the King's horn and escheat all his moveable goods, and within 15 days register these letters and their execution thereof.—Sealed and signed as the last above.

1631, Sept. 6, Holyroodhouse. Privy Council order under the sign manual (stamp) and signet. After reciting as in the last, it charges James Earl of Murray, and Robert Earl of Nithisdail, Walter Earl of Buccleugh, William Viscount Dunsaulrig, and James Lord of Downe, James Lord Stewart of Traquair, Sir John Charters of Armsfield, Sir Robert Greir of Lug, Sir James Pringill of Gallaschielles, Mr. George Douglas, the younger, of Bonjedburgh, John Maxwell of Logane, Robert Pringill of Stitchell, John Pringill the son, Fergus Grahame of Blantwode, John Maxwell of Cowhill, William Johnston of Locherbie, John Johnston there, Ambrose Johnston of Roker, Thomas Johnston of Finglane, Walter Bell of the Neuke, Johnston of Kirkton, Johnston his brother, John Carill of Supplebank, Robert Carill his brother, John Grahame of Langboddome, and Patrick Grahame his brother, jointly and severally to convent the King's lieges in arms, and search for and take the said Thomas Irving, and bring him to justice, &c. A clause is added authorizing them to bear harquebuses and pistols in the execution of this commission.—Signed by Sanctandrew, Strathene, Sterling, Jo. Isles, Pa. B. of Ross, Traquair, and Hamilton.

1631, Sept. 6. Another commission stamped, sealed, and signed as the last above, and adding to the Commissioners James Maxwell of Sprongkell brother of the Earl of Nithisdail.

1631, Sept. 6. Another commission stamped, sealed, and signed as before, adding the name of John Maxwell of Cogan, deputy of George Douglas, appearand of Bonjedburgh sheriff of Tevidtale.

1631, Sept. 6. Another commission stamped, sealed, and signed as above; similar to the first.

1631, Sept. 6. Another commission stamped, sealed, and signed as above; similar to the first.

1631, Sept. 6. Certificate under the hand and seal of Patrick Anderson, messenger, that he had that day read the King's letters at the market cross in Edinburgh, and charged the people there not to resist or supply with meat or drink the said Thomas Irving.

1631, July 8 and 11. Copies on one paper of returns by John Aitchartown (or Richtartown) of publishing the King's letters at the market crosses of the burghs of Annand and Dumfries and Lochmabane.

Folio; 1 page small close writing.—A brief collection of the offences committed by his brother Robert Lord Maxwell and the Laird of Johnson, to your Majesty's most gracious consideration:—

In the first, Johnstone takand part with the umquhile Earl Bodwell agains your Majestie and was fugitive from your lawes, committing the whye) he and his p . . . reif, slawchter, raising of fyre upon your Majesty's subjects in such manner as their were 18 blowdie chirtes brought to your highnes presens be the mens wifes and mothers of theame that war slaine in defence and keeping of their own goods. Your Majesty cwt of your royall compassion moved at such crueltie did in all hest send for his father and commanded him to passe to the feilde lieutenant for your Majesty either to apprehend the offenders or to banish them the realme. Bot hir father being sick of bodie and so onable for such a interprise, and also being under freindship and bund with the said Johnstone, besect your Majesty to burdin sum uther with the seame. Bot your Majesty thinkin none so feit for that purpose wold command him to accept the seame.

The wich when he accordinglye did accept the seame did leavate a companie of soldiars and laid them in garrison in your Majestys house of Lochmabane to (guard) the countrie. Then the said Johnstone came with a great trowpe of horse men and surprised theame at the kirk of Lochmabane wher he brint the kirk, slew the captane and grettest part of the soldiars, and drowe awaye all hir mothers kye and all uther goods that war their.

Then your Majesty incensed at this fact directed your highnes letters agane to hir flather to passe upon Johnstone with force of armis, wich he did, assembling all your Majesty's lieges in theis parts, when hir flather was merceilesly slane, notwithstanding he put owt his hand to Johnstone and said, Tack me I tuike your flather; bot he cutt of his hand and then slew him. And when hir mother came to your Majesty and compein your Majesty most graciouslye did heir hir, and as to . . . my lo. hamilton in the seame; wot the speches war she doeth refer to your highnes royall memorie.

Then Johnstone be processe of tyme be great moyen especialle by the lo. Harris his good brother obtained the oversight of your Majesty, and your highnes tuike assurance betwene hir fathers freinds and him for a tyme, under wich assurance he came and slew hir flathers servant Francis Carll in his own bed; als wich cruelties and the receipt of all such as war your Majestys rebelles in his tyme, he did commit, making no satisfaction for our flathers slaughter and manie uther cruell deids wich she did omitt leist your Majesty should fashe in reding of theame.

The offences of the Lo. Maxwell hir brother. In the first hir brother, being of the age of 17 years and under Tutorie of the lo. Hareis, raid upon your Majestys commission granted to the said lo. Hareis to apprehend an oppressor that had mastrefully . . . 21 householders of the laird of Hemsfeild thynking to possesse the lands, and fyred the house slew the oppressor and in burninge the house their was a man burnt that was in this oppressors companie. Secondlie your Majesty put hir brother in ward, for what she knows not.—Then he being yong and not weell avised and was run greatlite in debt by his evell governance, was geven to understand that his creditors war to keep him still in, and so most chyldishe and unadvisedly broke ward, and using all meins to sett him self frie misused sum of the keapars.

And then heir after Sir Robert Maxwell of Spotts drew a tryste between hir brother and Johnstone a littill to the place of the Lochwod, and as thei war a trysting, Johnstones man and hir brothers begynth to quarrell, and then Johnstone raised a showt, and then hir brother affrayd of his life, leist he shoulde have slane him as he slew his flather, did tach avantage and slew him, bot allegit unonestlye, who was after at the horne then ones or twyse, &c.—Most humble beseches your royall Majesty for the favor of god, that of your gracious disposition your Majestie maie be pleased to ponder the trespasses of the one and the uther, wich of theame before god and your Majestie weyes doune the ballance; as for the defunct Johnstone, she leves him to god, war he must compeir at the daye of accompt. Bot, gracious soverane, as for hir brother she most humble beseches your most excellent majestie to consider that as your majestie is godes vicegerent on erth, and that kinges in holie wreatts ar intituled godes on erth, that your Majestie maie be graciouslye pleased in this action to resemble in sum mesure the great god over all, With judgement to comixe mercie wich is peculiar to god to use upon his creatures when as thei do offend, and as in the cruell murder of his deir some our saviour in the highest degrie to sum of this blodie murderers did grant mercy and pardon upon their repentance, even so gracious soveraine that the bitter cup whereof hir brother is to drink maie be a potion . . . to preserve his miserable life, and in hir bounden dewtie is, &c. &c.

Folio, 5½ pp., temp. James I.—Orders and lawes appointed to be observed and maintayned, made by the Lord Marshall of his Majesty's armie, with the advice of the Councell of Warre. (60 in number.)

1. He that shall take God's name in vaine or blasphemie God, &c.

60. All other abuses and offenses not specified in these orders, shall be punished accordinge to the discipline of warre.

Folio, 8½ pp., 1617.—Orders to be observed by the Commanders of the Fletee and land companies under the charge and conduct of Sir Walter Raleigh, Kt., bound for the south partes of America or elsewhere.—Given at Plymouth in Devonshire the thirde daye of Maye 1617.

1. Because no action nor enterprise can prosper be it by sea or by land without the favour and assistance of Almightye God, &c.

SIR E.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

(Last.) For other orders on the land we will establish them, when God shall send us thither, by general consent; for the meane tyme I shall value every man, honour the better sorte, and reward the meaner, accordinge to their sobrietye and takeinge care for the service of God and prosperitie of our enterprise.

1637, May 3. Liberty of Westminster. Copy of certificate concerning Stephen Smyth's house infected with the plague.—The doors of Smyth's (a fishmonger's) house were by sufferance of the warden broken open, and William Fenn his servant entered and brought up to the door a quantity of salt fish, intending to set it to sale, without the privy of the officers, notwithstanding Susan Whelyer, a maid servant of Smyth's, was then there shut up and left infected with the plague at the time of Smyth's unlawfully abandoning his home. The writer says he has committed the warden, and commanded the fish to be carried in again and the doors to be locked up and well guarded until their Lordships shal further direct.

1637, May 9. Certificate by the officers, that Smyth's house has been aired three days by the two searchers, goodwife Sheppard and goodwife Thompson, and they certify that it is sweet and clean; such things as were found corrupt are burnt.

Same date.—Certificate by the officers that goodwife Pratt in Dughill Alley and all her family are well. It is now six weeks since any died there.

1647, Feb. 14 (after).—Several copies of papers in the suit of Whiffine (or Wiffine) v. Futter in the Prerogative court. It was a suit to dissolve the marriage between Henry Futter and Hanna Wiffine on the ground that Hanna went through the marriage ceremony in consequence of fraudulent representations.

1604, April 18. Certificate on a piece of parchment by W. S. Hamp, deputy supervisor, (deputy to Walter Bethel, Esq., the Kings surveyor of his lands within the east riding of the co. of York,) that he has surveyed the woods, springs, and wood grounds in Deighton, and the woods, springs, and wood grounds called Riccall Park, in Eskrigg, in the said east riding, and that the said grounds and springs called Riccall Park are not imparked with pale, nor have any deer in them, or at any time were since they came to the possession of the Crown by the dissolution of the said monastery, (St. Mary, near M E co. York,) nor at any time before within the memory of man, but have been from time to time demised to several tenants as farms, and so occupied at this present.

n. y. Feb. 22. A. Raleigh to Henry Slingsby at Kippax, (franked by Jon. Jennings). I am concerned for Sir William's barbarity to you and his daughter. . . . Give my humble service to my Lady Purbeck. . . . Your mother left a box of writings with me concerning your estate.

1625, March 5. Certificate, under hand of the parish clerk, attested by three witnesses, that Margarite Wyndor, widow, was buried in the parish of St. Mary, in Castle Gate, in the city of York, on that day.

1640, June 20. Apleby. Charles Lucas to Sir Richard Graham, Bart., Sir William Musgrave, Mr. Edward Aglonby.—Acknowledges their letter, thanks for information, and the intelligence they gave of the country, and will be glad to be thereafter directed by them. He intends to remain in his quarters at Apleby, except some necessity urges his removal. Promises his service; "whosoever you please to advertize us, I shall stretch out those commands I receive from my superiors so far as my poor power will possibly give me leave for the advantage of your securities. . . ."

1640, July 13. Naworth. Francis Howard to Sir Richard Graham, Kt. and Bart., at Netherby.—My Lord is, I thank God, no way heart sicke, but is weak of his body and unwilling to speak much, and indeed, not fit for any company, but he is better than he was last week, both eating his meal and sleeping well. . . .

1640, July 17. The same to the same. Upon advertisement from the Governor to the Lieut.-Governor of Carlisle that His Majesty had directed Sir Tho. Lucas with three troops of horse to repair with all speed to this border; we were yesterday by the Lt.-Governor required to meet at Carlisle for the taking course to have the said three troops quartered at the most convenient places for the defense of this border, and provision for grass for their horses; . . . it was concluded that Sir Tho. Lucas's troop, which is 100 men, should be quartered in the Abbey Holme; Sir Francis Lucas (his Major) about Arthuret and Hooend, and the third consisting of some 60 soldiers, at Buceastle and thereabout.—Asks Sir Richard to direct his bailiffs and tenants to provide lodging, meat, and drink, and says he has given

Lord Howard's tenants, adjoining, orders to the same effect.—We have received no news but her Majesty's safe delivery of a Duke of Lancaster, and that his Majesty will in the beginning of August come to York, and then to Newcastle.

1640, July 17. Carlisle.—Tho. Alcocke to (Sir R. Graham).—Regrets he cannot ease Sir Richard's tenants from the burden of quartering. After many hours consultation with the Deputy Lieutenants and some others that knew the country, it was resolved that Cultram, Holme, Artruth, and Beaucastle were the best places to quarter horse in, as well for the provision of grass and hay and oats as for the ready answering of alarms or other occasion prescribed by the enemy.—I have been pressed by Mr. Ogleshorp to send to view the country, but your report to me of the poverty of it were sufficient if it lay in my power so change what was so advicedly done by others who absolutely made it a case of necessity. P.S. The three troops are now at Apleby upon their march hitherwards.

Same date. Draft of five letters by Sir Richard and others on the subject of the quartering.

1640, July 21. Geo. Dykes to Sir Richard Graham. Asks leave to answer both Sir R.'s letters in one. Will take Carlisle in his way to Netherby to-morrow, and talk with the serjeant-major about the subject of the letters.

1640, Oct. 3. Carlisle. Tho. Alcocke to I received your letter by Mr. Dikes and return thanks for the good offices you have done me to his Majesty, in the advancing of whose service, if I purchase enemies, it shall not hinder my progress, since I not only owe unto him the loss of a common esteem, but of my life to do his sacred Majesty service, and I am assured that the complaint made against me was because I would not be partial when his cause came in competition with others. . . . Mr. Dikes shewed me your letter wherein you desire to be furnished with some arms out of the stores. I am sorry your letter came so late, all being issued but corslets, of which I have told him you shall have what you shall want. . . . I send you the last resolution of this country, that is that you may dispose of your tenants; yet I am of the mind it is* . . . rule for forward men, for I am told that many could have brought more; yet, since I found that proposition was most agreeable to the country in general, I complied, thinking it was better to have some friends with good will than by dispute to lose all by giving the enemy an occasion to come to our disadvantage when we were at difference amongst ourselves. My Lord Crayton brings with him my Lord of Nidesdale, who has suffered much, as he says, in this action of his defending Calaverike.

1645, July 16. Kippax. Joseph Fethers to The sickness still increaseth about us extremely; it has broken forth in the Seigh at Pomfret; many houses shut up in the town; at Bromefield 2 miles from Pomfret, and is suspected at Abberford. The Seigh is drawn forth of the town into the fields; and for Leeds, it's utterly spoilt; by report there is scarce a man to be seen in the streets. We are very fearful of Pomfret in respect of the soldiers daily coming amongst us and we can by no means avoid it. . . . The Scotch regiment that was quartered with us ate all the grass about town. . . . We have seen your name in Yorkshire in print chosen for one of the Committee. P.S. My father and Phillis remember their due respect to your worship and to my Lady and to Mrs. Fortescue.

1647, Nov. 9. London. [Sir Arthur Hopton] to [Sir Richard Graham]. . . . I must tell you that matters of that kind (public matters) are so uncertain as it is very probable between the beginning to write, and the sealing up of my letters, I may have occasion to change my opinion. At present it is thus, that the Agitators having ordered their officers, who having governed all things till now, do now sit in council very often and always give laws to the Parliament, which laws are by many degrees more severe against the King and more destructive, as the lawyers tell me, of the fundamental rules of the Government of this nation, than the Propositions framed by the Parliament seem to have been. Of moulding the kingdom into a parity, hath been and is much feared by all rich men; but against this the Agitators make profession, (but not by any public act) and it is hoped they will do that no otherwise than by impoverishing the rich by their free quarter, which is so heavy where it lights, as if it continue there needs none other parity. What the Parliament will do in this exigent I know not. As yet they concur with the army, tho' I must tell you the Presbyterian party there was never so passionate against the Cavaliers as they

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

* A word is torn away here.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

are now against the army; yet for the discharge of their consciences and to save their own stakes they sit still and hinder nothing. The Scots are now the only undertakers who have boldly declared they will adhere to their Covenant in defence of the King's person and just rights; which I conceive has suspended the removal of the King; and some other prosecutions and working will bring matters about to some reasonable condition.

1591, 33 Eliz. Concealed Chantries passed under the Duchy Seale. By Mr. Thos. Philips himself. (So indorsed.) This is a list in 1½ brief sheets of chantries in the county of York, with their yearly values. There are 41 items. Total gross yearly value 89l. 14s. 0½d. clear yearly value, 73l. 19s. 3d.

Beginning or copy of some chapters of a treatise on Knights of the Bath, (1½ pp. folio). Begins It is strange that their daies.—Cap. 1. When Knights of the Bath began.—Cap. 2. Whether it be a religious order.—Cap. 3. What dignitie it doth confer to the bearer.—Cap. 4. Whether they should have place of other knights or noe. (c. 1600.)

Necessaries to be prepared for a knight of the honourable Order of the Bath. ¾ of a page with marginal notes by another hand, telling where several of the things required for the ceremony are to be procured. The maker of certain lace or string and tassels and buttons is there said to be Bennet Mulsoe on Fleet Bridge. One Peirce a Tayler in Chancery Lane maketh the gowns. Mosetred on Fletebridge maketh the swordes.

1670, Feb. 25. Copy of Lord Willoughby's warrant to Sir Ernestus Byron to manage the Escheators Office in Barbadoes (1 p.).

Copy of list of rates established for the Customs of New York, by James Duke of York and Albany, Earl of Ulster, &c. (1 p.).

Draft (2 pp. of letter paper) of a Proclamation for horses to the plantations.

List of the English, French, and Dutch men-of-war, with their number of guns (6 pp. 12mo). There are three columns and the ships of each nation with their number of guns are given; nearly 90 ships for each nation. Followed by a list for the new ships, then building; but none are entered for the English and Dutch, and only two for the French: then comes a list of 18 more ships of the French, and 52 more of the Dutch with their guns (temp. Car. 2.)

1660, Dec. 17. Receipt by Francis Hawellen, of Long Acre, pump-maker, of Henry Shingsey, Esq., of 6l., for sinking a well in Vinegar Yard, and setting up a new pump there with all gear and tackle.

1705, March 12, Arthuret. A direction, signed by Hugh Todd, D.D., Rector of Arthuret, that John Murrey, having taught the Latin free school gratis for four months the last year, should have an allowance of 20l. out of Mr. Reginald Grahme's benefaction to the parish for the teaching and instructing of poor children.—Receipt signed by J. Murrey at the foot.

1702, July 15. Lord Irwin to Aldred Cage, Esq. Asks Mr. Cage to vote for the Marques of Hartington, and Lord Fairfax; and if pre-engaged then for Lord Hartington only.

1662, Jan. 20. Certificate on parchment under the hand and official seal of Thomas Barwell, LL.D., Vicar-General and Official Principal to Accepted, Archbishop of York, that Richard Tatham, then to be instituted to the Rectory of Kirklington, co. Chester, had submitted the Declaration mentioned in the Act of Uniformity.—At the back are 10 certified exhibits thereof at different places and times.

1771. Extract (by John McGibbon) from the Council records of the burgh of Stirling of the admission of Sir Bellingham Graham Graham, Bart., of Norton Conyers, to the liberty and freedom of a Burgess and gild-brother of the said burgh. Large pendent seal of the burgh: Crucifixion on a bridge, three bowmen on one side of the figure and three spearmen on the other side. The obverse has a tower with a branch of some tree on each side. There is a legend on each side of the impression.

1640. A week-book of the household expenses of the Hon^{ble}. Sir Richard Graham, K^t. and Bart., his family and servants in ordinary and extraordinary, persons and strangers, &c., between Sunday morning, 7 November, 1640, and Saturday night then next.—The family were Sir Richard and Lady Graham, Mr. George Graham, Mr. Richard Graham, &c., in all 30 persons, but Mr. Todd and Mr. Robinson are the only two other persons named.

A small book of accounts of Sir R. Graham, Michaelmas, 1640, to 25 March next.

A small book of Table expenses, 26 July—5 Aug. (So indorsed). The first entry is at Calais, 6 Aug. 1680, and the last is at Paris, 27 Oct. 1680.

A small book, indorsed My Lord Preston's Accounts at Oxford, 1690 and 1694. He was Edward Grahame. The second item is 20l. to the College upon admission. Among his acquaintance who dined and supped and had wine with him were Lord Hastings, Mr. Howard, Col. Legg, Sir Roger Mostyn, Mr. Shirley, Mr. Prideaux, a Cornish Gent., Mr. Hopkins of Trinity, Sir Jo. Busby.

A bundle of papers, accounts, and letters relating to Lord Preston's estates while under forfeiture; temp. William and Mary.

1682. Parchment roll, about 14 feet long. Sir Richard Graham's (sheriff) account of fines levied on recusants in the co. of York. The names and amount levied on each are given.

1682. A similar roll. His general sheriff's account and acquittance.

1480, April 21, 10th year of Pope Sixtus IV. (Latin).

An Indulgence granted by brother John Kendale, Turciperlarius of Rhodes, by virtue of the Pope's letters issued for an expedition against the Turks for the defence of the Catholic faith and of the island of Rhodes, to Nicholas Dorpeys and Isabel, his wife. By reason of their piety and liberality to the cause he licenses them to choose any fit and discreet priest, either secular, or of some regular order, as their confessor, who may, after hearing confession, grant fit absolution and impose salutary penance for every kind of crime or excess however grievous or enormous, even those reserved for the consideration of the Apostolic See, except only assault on a bishop or superior, infraction of ecclesiastical liberties, conspiracy against the person or state of the Pope, disobedience to or rebellion against the Roman See, and killing of a priest. In the reserved cases the Indulgence was to hold good only for once; in cases not reserved it might be exercised totiens quotiens.—A small piece of the official seal remains pendent. (Printed on vellum, Gothic letter, 17 lines and 2 words. The type is seemingly that of Stephen Planck, the Pope's printer.)

MINT PAPERS.

Propositions (by Sir Sackville Crow, Bart.?) for the making of a general farthing to pass by the royal authority (2½ pp., folio).—The writer says that in the times of Kings James 1st and Charles 1st such a thing was sanctioned, and entrusted first to Lord Harrington, afterwards to the Duke of Lennox, and lastly to the Earl of Matrevors, who paid some small acknowledgment, viz., not above 66l. 13s. 4d. to the Crown for England and Ireland, and 10l. per ann. for all foreign plantations. He goes on to say that during the rebellion and down to that day most retailers have made small moneys; and that their refusing to take them back, and their removals and failures in business make a public and perfect cheat upon the subject; and that he knows a "metal that's "native" less counterfeitable than gold or silver, near as sightly and as wholesome and sweet. He then sets out seven propositions regarding it, in one of which he offers to pay down 5000l. as a pledge, and to pay to the King 6s. 8d. for every pound sterling of the farthings vented. (There are besides two copies of this.) Along with the Propositions is a petition to the King by Aubrey, Earl of Oxford, recommending them.

Copy petition to the King in Council by Sir Sackville Crow, Bart., praying that his proposition for farthings may be referred to consideration. (He uses the phrase "a metal that's native.")

1662, July 18, (2 pp., folio). An unsigned petition to Sir William Parkhurst, Master of the Mint in the Tower of London, asking that farthings and half-farthings may be coined by the King. The petitioner inveighs against the brass farthings coined by private hands, and says he has often bought of a poor woman and her son that cried and sold matches in the streets, brass farthings at the rate of 16 for 1d., a shilling's worth at a time. He quotes largely from Jeremiah's Lamentations, and a little from Matthew's Gospel.

A separate paper (1 p.) of quotations from the Bible. Sir Edward Ford's proposal about farthings, and how a navigable river may be made under Harrow-on-the-Hill, and any other public good work.—He offers to make the river at his own cost and to pay the King for ever 500l. per ann. rent—also to make farthings by the King's license, and to pay the King 6s. 8d. for every 1l. worth of farthings vented. (A printed paper of 2½ pp., 4to.)

Denunciations of the proposed copper ship-farthings; four items. In No. 4 the writer says they will bring no

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

profit but to the Swede and the proposer.—Praises of the new-invented tin tokens; three items (a printed page).

Copy of a petition to the King by the Company of the Royal Fishing.—They praise Sir Edward Ford's invention and pray the King's grant to the Company for the coinage and uttering of Sir E. Ford's farthings for such term of years as the King shall think advantageous (1 p.). On the back are Sir Edward Ford's reasons why he can give no more than what he has already offered.

Copy of Sir E. Ford's reasons why, &c. (1 p.).

1663, Court at Whitehall.—Fair copy (evidently prepared for the King's signature) of a commission to Lord Ashley (blank left for other names) to treat for the King with eminent merchants and others for rose copper for making a common farthing (1 p.).

1663, Dec. 22. Edw. Forde, to Henry Slingsby, Esq. By the Queen Mother's order he sends one of his own proposed farthings; no two will ever be alike; the dates or numbers or both will be varied. He asks Slingsby to reply to certain queries, and send the conclusions of himself and coadjutors to Lord St. Albans or Lord John Berkeley for the Queen Mother to see and for him (Forde) to reply to. Asks Slingsby to send one of his intrinsic copper farthings.

1663, Dec. 25 (copy), H. S. (Henry Slingsby) to Sir Edward Forde.—A stiff letter, in which S. declines to give the answers required, as he does not understand Forde's hieroglyphical farthings or the way of making them. He asks to be made capable of serving the Queen Mother by Forde unriddling the mysteries of the farthings.—Wants to see a copy of Forde's whole proposition, long promised.

1663, Dec. 25. Edw. Forde to Henry Slingsby.—Gives certain particulars of the way in which he intends to coin the farthings, so as to obviate the possibility of counterfeits.

Reasons for farthings (1 p.), and another set of reasons (1 p.).

1664, Dec. 3. Copy of proceedings at a general meeting of the Company of Royal Fishing, at Whitehall, Saturday, 3 Dec. 1664. Present: Earl of Anglesey, Lord Berkeley, Sir Richard Browne, Lord Craven, Mr. Grey, Sir William Ryder, Mr. Pepys.—Sir Edward Forde's proposals are set out and the meeting report in favour of them, and that the King be moved to call in all farthings not allowed by his special command.

1664, Dec. 15. Order by the Committee for the Royal Fishing (present: Lord Craven, Mr. Brouncker, Mr. Grey, Sir Richard Browne, and Sir John Colleton) that, although a committee had been appointed by the Duke of York and the Assistants of the Committee to treat with Sir Edward Ford, yet having been informed that Mr. Slingsby, the Master of Her Majesty's Mint, had reasons to offer against the coinage and altering of farthings by Sir Edward Ford, it is ordered that Mr. Slingsby be heard; and Mr. Duke, Secretary to the Company, is to attend on Mr. Slingsby, and so inform him.

Draft, corrected by H. Slingsby, of his report to the King on the question of farthings.—He opposes the tin farthings; he proposes a contract with Sweden for fine copper for farthings, and the coinage of pence, five-farthing pieces, three-half-pence, seven-farthings, two-pences, and three-pences of silver.

Questions to be propounded to Sir Edward Forde concerning his farthings (3 p.).

Considerations to induce the making of a certain general current farthing humbly proposed to His Majesty by his Highness Prince Rupert and Henry Howard of Norfolk. (2 pp., copy.)

Copy of a letter to the Lords Commissioners of H. M. Treasury signed by Ant. St. Leger, H. Slingsby, James Hoare, Tho. Swallowe, and John Brattle (officers of the Mint).—It is a report (1 p.) made in obedience to the Lords Commissioners' commands, signified by Sir Geo. Downing on the 25th of May last (1668?); they agree with the proposer's reasons for a general farthing; but as to the proposal itself they have not sufficient information. They think the proper thing will be a farthing of intrinsic value.

1668, July 13. Copy of the representation of the officers of the Mint concerning the farthing proposed by Prince Rupert and Lord Henry Howard. (3½ pp.)

n. d. "Rupert and H. Howard of Norfolk" to the Lords of the Treasury.—It is in answer to the report of the officers of the Mint. (2½ pp.)

1668, June 16. Treasury Chambers. (Sir) Geo. Downing to the Warden, Master, and Worker, and other officers of H. M. Mint.—Sending an ingot of metal of which Prince Rupert and Lord H. Howard intend to

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

make farthings, and a paper of such farthings already made, this day presented to the Lords Commissioners by Mr. Henry Howard and Mr. Hayes, secretary to Prince Rupert; and requesting their answer in writing. (This is endorsed on the letter above of Prince Rupert and H. Howard.)

A calculation concerning the tin farthings (1 p.).

1668, Aug. 31. Copy proposal, of the officers of the Mint to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury concerning an intrinsic farthing of copper. (3½ pp. folio.)

Propositions about the public farthing (1½ p.).

Propositions concerning farthings of a new metal. (½ p.).

Some reasons why (on better consideration) I am apt to believe that no sort of farthings made of copper will be proper for the public use (1½ pp.). The writer is fully persuaded that less than one half of 300,000l. will serve all England, and is more positive in thinking that little less than 50,000l. stock will be sufficient to manage the work properly for the first 3 years, and the undertaking is fittest for a private hand.

1672. A letter on 2 pp. folio (top and bottom destroyed by damp) seemingly by Henry Slingsby to the Lord's Commissioners, giving an account of the amount of copper supplied by Monsr. Cronstrom, the Swedish gentleman;—giving certain calculations;—and ending by saying that they intended on Monday next to begin to coin farthings at 3 presses, and within a few days at 2 more.

GOLD AND SILVER LACE.

1646, Aug. 6. Ordinance of Parliament explaining the ordinance of 24 Nov. 1645 for an additional excise or new impost for payment of artificers. (A printed 4to. of 4 leaves.)

(Temp. Car. II. m. d.) Copy of Letters Patent to John Garrill for making ingots for gold and silver lace.

1663, Feb. 25. Copy proceedings in Council: the King vacates all proceedings for granting a patent to John Garrill to cast silver ingots for preparing wire for making gold and silver lace, and forbids the Lord Chancellor to let any such patent pass the Great Seal. (2 copies.)

1664, June 1. (Endorsed as received on that day.) Petition to the King and Privy Council by the wire-drawers, spinners, and bone lace makers, being many thousands in number, and others employed in the manufacture of gold and silver wire thread and lace.—The wire and plate put on silk is now made so thin that it will not bear touching; the proper proportion is 5 ounces of plate on 3 ounces of silk; but now not above 2 ounces of plate on 6 ounces of silk. They pray the King's favour, and that he will have all the plate to be of the Mint standard, and that the old proportion of 5 oz. of plate to 3 oz. of silk shall be observed.

Reasons in favour of Garrill's invention (1 brief sheet).

1664, June 1. Arguments and reasons against working sterling or coarse silver in the manufacture of gold and silver lace.

1664, July 1. (Endorsed as received on that day.) Petition of John Garrill to the King:—that the signed bill for a patent for the sole casting of ingots of gold and silver ingots for making gold and silver lace, may pass the Great Seal.

1664, Aug. 3. Copy of Order in Council that some of the officers of the Mint, and goldsmiths, and gold and silver wire-drawers, attend the Council Board on the 17th instant with their counsel learned if they please, on the matter of Garrill's petition.

1664, Aug. 17. Copy Council order appointing Prince Rupert, the Lord Privy Seal, the Duke of Buckingham, the Earls of Anglesey and Lunderdale, Lord Ashley, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Secretary Morice, Secretary Bennet, and the Chancellor of the Duchy, or any four of them, to be a committee to discuss and examine Garrill's invention, &c., meet on the 20th inst. and then report. (2 copies of this.)

1664, Aug. 17. Copy answer to the King of the officers of the Mint regarding Garrill's petition (made in pursuance of the order of the 10th of August. (2 pp.) They report against it and against the frame of the proposed patent. Also a draft, and another copy of this.

1664, Aug. 17. Considerations of law upon Garrill's patent. (3 pp.)

1664, Aug. 22. The representation, to the Privy Council, by the gold and silver wire-drawers against Garrill's patent. (1½ pp.)

1664, Aug. 23. Report by the Committee of the Board appointed to examine into Garrill's Patent, that Garrill being called in and asked to reveal his secret, he said

SIR E.
GRAHAM
BART.

he would do so if the Patent were first sealed; and if the Council were not then satisfied that it was a new invention, the patent was to be cancelled.

The wire-drawers further reason against Garrill's Patent. (1½ pp.)

Reasons against Garrill's invention (1 brief sheet).

Memoranda that about 1634 the invention of drawing silver wire with a copper core was first practised at Dort, but great cheating ensued, and the manufacture came to an end.—That about 1637 George Allen brought the invention into England, and assisted by Thomas Gayre, a silkman, set up works at Stepney and Old Ford; and Gayre with one Bradburne, silkman to the Queen, sold the same to the great loss of the buyers. The cheat was discovered by William Symms and Symon Urline, wire-drawers, and the King and Privy Council seized great quantity of the manufacture. Allen escaped, but Gayre was taken and put in the pillory.—&c., &c.

Six separate papers with matter of Garrill's invention; comprising notes of former patents; reasons against this; extracts from Lord Cooke upon Pleas of the Crown and Criminal Cases.

1669. Copies on one sheet of paper of The Tradesmen and Shopkeepers of London and Westminster (26 names) Petition to the King for protection against indictments by reason of having coined farthings, halfpence, and pence.—13 Feb. 1669. The King's reference to the A. G. and S. G. thereon.—On the 25 Feb. G. Palmer, A. G., reports that he recommends that the offenders should appear before some person appointed and offer composition.—Jno. Garrell petitions the King that, whereas he has prosecuted some of the offenders, and the late A. G. had stayed proceedings until the King's pleasure was known; some persons may be appointed to receive the submissions.—Form of a Commission (drawn by Fra. North) to certain persons to receive the submissions and fix the amount of compositions.

1670, June 17. Copy Council Order directing a reference on Garrill's petition mentioned in the last item.

1660, Oct. 10. Copy of the King's warrant to Sir W. Parkhurst and Sir Anthony St. Leger, wardens of the Mint and Sir Ralph Freeman, master and worker of his moneys, to get iron puncheons, instruments, draughts, and patterns, and other expediences to make and imprint the King's new moneys, and to cause Thomas Symonds to draw and grave, and cause to be drawn and graven all patterns and irons with the King's effigy, titles, and inscriptions according to commands to be received from him.

1662, Dec. 13. Court at Whitehall. "Charles R." to the warden and other officers of the Mint.—In consequence of extraordinary expenses by reason of the frequent meetings of the officers of the Mint about the melting, re-coining, and delivering of the late Cross and Harp money, and the probable meetings about telling, melting, assaying, coining, and delivering his treasure lately come from France, he authorises payment of charges for diet and other extraordinary expenses.—Countersigned by Henry Bennett. — Wafer Privy Seal.

1662, Jan. 1. Received from Edward Backwell, Esq., one chest containing 5,000 French crowns of silver, according to the within written order of the Lord Treasurer and the Lord Ashley, by me "H. Slingsby." (Copy.)

1662, Oct. 20. Copy of warrant for letters of denization to Peter Blondeau, a stranger [*for*n] within the dominions of the French king; and as he has agreed for 1,000*l.* to find the materials for coining, they are to insert in the patent a grant of 3*d.* for every lb. weight of silver, and 1*s.* for every lb. of gold after his new invented way to be coined, for the term of 21 years, &c., &c. (2 pp.)

1664. Moneys paid to Stephen Bumstead, mason, upon account, for the new buildings, by Henry Slingsby, Esq. (1 p.)

Commission of the Mint charges, 13 Aug. 1663. (1 p.) 1665, April 14. Whitehall. "Charles R." to the Clerk of the Signet. Warrant for a Privy Seal to revoke a Privy Seal dated 21 Sept. last, for 2,808*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.* to Sir William Parkhurst, warden of the Mint, on account, for repairs to Mint buildings in the Tower of London, and for payment of moneys owing to John Roettiers and Joseph Roettiers, the King's chief gravers, for puncheons, counter-puncheons, and matrices, &c.—Countersigned by Will. Morice.

1664 and 1665. The particular sums of money paid to M. Blondeau. (½ p.)

1666-1673. Account of the moneys paid into the Exchequer upon the coinage duty by the respective collectors of the Port of London and the out ports since the 20th of Dec. 1666. Seven pp. folio in columns. The outports are Sandwich, Chichester, Southampton, Poole, Exeter, Barnstaple, Plymouth, Bridgwater, Gloucester, Bristol, Milford, Cardiff, Chester, Carlisle, Barwick, Newcastle, Hull, Boston, Lynn, Yarmouth, Ipswich. The total for London for the 7 years was 59,686*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.* and for the outports to 13,963*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

1666-1667. Four papers.

1668. Receipts for money by Peter Blondeau, Thomas Brough, Val Bayly. And an account of gold melted for 6 months ending 20 Dec. 1668. The charge was 4,730 lb. 6 oz. 10 dwts. 5 gr., and the discharge 4,717 lb. 2 oz. 9 dwts. 12 gr.

1670, Sept. 4, and 1671, Jan. 30. Two receipts by Peter Blondeau for money paid him for workmanship.

n. d. A list of all such books for accounts as I am to keep for receipts, disbursements, and imprints belonging to the Mint. (3½ pp. on 4 leaves in a clerk's hand, describing 7 books, and the various items which they are to contain.)

1671-1677. The account of Henry Slingsby, Esq. secretary to his Majesty; late counsel of foreign plantations of all moneys received and disbursed by him for the contingencies, &c. of the said counsel, and of the moneys due to him. (2 large folio pp.)

1674 and 1675. Two receipts.

1675, Jan. 20, and 1677, March 10. Two receipts by Henry Slingsby, master of the Mint, for silver ingots from Nathl. Hornaby. (Signed by Jas. Hoare, Junr., for Slingsby.)

1668, June, to 1679, Dec. Amount of silver fined for the Mint. The items amount to 7,490 lb. 4 oz. 5 dwts.

1667-1679. Amount of gold fined.

1678, Dec. 20. Remainder of the gold and silver bullion uncoined.

1678. A bill for sea coal.

1662-1678. A yearly and monthly account by the moneymen of the gold and silver by them coined from 31 Dec. 1662 to 8 Nov. 1678, with their allowances for the same. The sum of the weight seems to be 41,411 lb. and some oz.

Accounts of gold bullion brought in to be coined.

Fourteen sheets for various months in the years 1677, 1678, and 1679.—Six similar for silver in 1678 and 1679—and some other papers.

Account of what remains in the melters and moneymen hands of gold and silver, 21 Dec. 1678. (½ p.)

1674-1678. Account of moneys paid by James Hoare, Junr., for the use of H.M. Mint. (1 p.)

1678. Several receipts for gold and silver ingots, &c.

Account of gold and silver scissell and moneys coined from 1 Jan. 1662 to 22 July 1680 (in 4 accounts, 2 pp.)

Account of gold delivered to fine, from 1 Jan. 1662 to 21 Dec. 1666 (1½ pp.)

Account of money paid to the Master Worker of H. M. Mint by the Warden for the coining of the silver mill moneys at 19*d.* per pound weight, from 16 Feb. 1662 to 30 Nov. 1666. (2½ pp.)

1672, Dec. 21. Copy of certificate by Slingsby to the Auditor that in the month of Feb. 1671 there were 749 livres 10 sols of French silver money melted down in H. M. Mint into 377 ingots, which were delivered to him (Slingsby) to be coined, which made in standard silver 18,025 lbs. 2 oz. 5 dwts. 25 grs. Troy weight.

Account of the silver ingots, alloys, and scissell molten by Mr. Mason and his servant, from 13 June 1667 to 20 June 1668 included.—Total ingots and alloy, 38,778 lbs. 9 oz. 13 dwts. 5 gr.; scissell, 1302 lbs. 1 oz. 15 dwts. Together, 64,244 lbs. 1 oz. 17 dwts. 23 gr.—And a receipt by John Brattell one of Mason's executors to Slingsby for 334*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* in full for the waste in melting the above at the rate of 1½*d.* for every lb. troy.

1677, Aug. 2. Silver ingots delivered to the moneyer. Total, 301 lb. 2 oz. Maketh in moneys by tale at 2*s.* 6*d.*, the pound weight 942*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.*

1678. The present state of the coinage moneys. Due to Mr. Slingsby and received by him this present year from 20 Dec. 1678 to 31 July 1679. For coinage of gold and silver, payments to officers, buildings, repairs, ready money advanced 9,199*l.* 2*s.* 3½*d.* After certain receipts there remained a balance due to him of 5,008*l.* 1*s.* 10½*d.* (1 p.)

Account between the Master and the Moneyers from last of August 1676 to 8 Nov. 1678 (1 brief sheet).

1679. A receipt to Slingsby for the price of a silver ingot; and a receipt by Slingsby's deputy for 13 ingots of gold.

SIR E.
GRAHAM
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

v. y. A number of miscellaneous accounts, including an estimate by Sir Christopher Wren for a house to be built in the Mint for Mr. Evans.

HEALING MEDALS.

(½ p.) The former gold made for healing was a 10s. piece of current money made of fine gold, which after his Majesty's raising the value of the gold coins became worth 11s. 6d. In the year 1664, H. M. was pleased; by reason of the difficulty and charges in the providing such fine gold, to appoint certain medals to be made for that use of Crown gold being of the same standard in fineness with his Majesty's coins, and in value about 8s. 4d. in proportion to the guineas at 20s. But the market having since raised the value of the guinea to 21s. 6d. the said medals are likewise raised to about 9s. which is yet 2s. 6d. less than the former pieces; and should 4s. more be taken out of the weight of the present healing medals, they would not be above 28 or 29 grains in weight, little bigger than the 2d. piece of H. M. new silver money and too thin to receive any impression. Besides, the number of them spent one year with another, being about 5,600, which amounts unto but 2,500l., there would not be saved by such alteration more than about 1,000l. yearly.

1675, March 20. 92l. 4s. 8d. for 200 Healing pieces weighing 22 oz. 11 dwt. 18 gr. &c. &c.

1675, March 22. 92l. 11s. 6d. for 22 oz. 13 dwt. 10 gr.

1675, March 23. For healing pieces weighing 22 oz. 13 dwt. at 4l. 1s. 8d. per oz. 92l. 9s. 10d.

1677 and 1688. A page of accounts of the numbers of pieces, weight of gold and value in money.

Two other papers.

Copy of Mr. Annesley's proposals and answers at the Council of Trade concerning importation and exportation of bullion (2 pp.).

Notes of the standard of French and English silver and Dutch moneys. Indorsed "Copy of Mr. H. paper." (1 p.)

Table of fees and salaries to the officers of the Mint to be paid by the Warden or Wardens for the time being. Twenty persons; total 1,425l.—Fees and salaries of the officers payable by the master and worker:—Seven persons; total 1,165l. (This seems to be a copy of a table signed by the King and countersigned by Will. Morice). With it are 3 other copies of accounts of fees, &c. payable to officers of the Mint.

Third and last hundred of chests. A large folio paper (3 pp.) so indorsed, accounting for seemingly 500,000 Crowns. The accounts are in six columns:—1. p. 1 to p. 27.; 2. Number of crowns; 3. Weight and melting; 4. From melting; 5. Worseness; 6. Standards.

LETTERS, 1663-1683.

1663, Sept. 17. London. (French). G. Le Blanc to H. Slingsby.—Le Blanc says "M. Rottier a achevé les deux testes et trampez, ils on[t] fort bien reussi "M. Blondeau travaille aussi soigneusement."—He says that the Comptroller came on Saturday and "prent une fantasie au dit M. Blondeau."

1663, Sept. 17 (so indorsed). James Hoare (the Comptroller to H. Slingsby) M. Blondeau in very good forwardness M. Rotee (Rottiers) has hardened his two puncheons for 20s. gold and 12d. silver; and both came out of the fire perfectly good. He hath sunk some 40 heads of the silver and some of the gold, &c. . . . In the meantime his brother will prepare some dies.

1663, Sept. 24. The same to the same.—MM. Blondeau, Rotee, &c. close at their work. Monday, Rotee hardened his small puncheons and letters. The Harp failed and three of the small letters thro' the defect of the steel. He hath sunk them all, and from thence can easily make new ones His Majesty went to dine at the Lord Chancellors at Cornbury. Queen &c. that night to Oxford; but when for Whitehall not certain. Its believed towards the end of next week.

1663, Sept. 26. The same to the same. . . . M. Rotee hath made all the small puncheons for the gold. They are less in size than the gold was first intended; he hath made them to the wideness of the shilling, which is somewhat less than the 20s. piece of gold. . . . For the reverse puncheon for the gold, that he shall forbear until your return. He hath a head already for the farthing, but not finished. That he will make somewhat less, and sweeten the face of it. But if that do not please he will make you another.

1663, Sept. 29. The same to the same. . . . Rotee's puncheon for the reverse of the silver by Friday I hope will be finished; he hath been much kept back by the smaller puncheons and letters failing.

1663, Oct. 3. The same to the same. . . . The King and the Duke are resolved for Newmarket; but the race day is not until the 29th, and the King will not be away before the 22nd or 23rd, if then. M. Rotee hath hardened his puncheon, and it proves very good; he hath sunk several dies with it, and they are good. M. Blondeau hath tried this day to mark some pieces, and his business is also very well. P.S. They (the King and Duke) were at Whitehall Thursday morning before 9 o'clock. The Queen d^e that afternoon.

1663, Oct. 6. London. M. Le Blanc to H. Slingsby. 1663, Oct. 8. James Hoare to H. Slingsby. . . . At Whitehall yesterday Sir Richard Ford and some others of the Ginny Company were telling me they had a 1,000 pounds worth of gold ready, and that within a few days they expected 3,000l. more. I believe the ship to be very near which hath the latter parcel, for the Duke of York told me of it also. . . . No further of the arrival of the galleons. I wish we had, for the want of them makes a general scarcity of silver. Sterling [is] at 5s. 2d.

1663, Oct. 10. The same to the same, at Kippax. . . . They expect daily the ship with the other parcel of gold I wrote you of. M. Roters will make some dies with the small puncheons; all but the letters. He believes you have some thoughts of alteration for the reverse. The elephant is likewise to be considered, not yet made. How made for bigness and where to be placed, and which way the head of it to stand. If under the King's head, whether the head coming towards him or going from him.

1665, Jan. 6. London. G. Le Blanc to Henry Slingsby (French). . . . Nothing important has occurred in the Tower affecting your interests; "on a fait quelque 'petite partie en or pour l'orfevre Chadwel et on y travaille à présent à une autre partie de 15 lbs. de poids 'ou environ attendant qu'il en viendra d'avantage.'" The moneyers complain bitterly of being obliged to have keep horses without having any work for them.—He himself is very badly off for money, and begs Slingsby to assist him.

1666, April 12. London. The same to the same. . . . Blondeau and his family are well; he is getting old, and is not so vigilant as formerly. He has none to work with him but his apprentice, who is not yet sufficiently skilful to do all that the mill needs. We hear no more talk of Mr. Janson, and Monsr. Rotee is not yet returned. Les deux freres font leur devoir icy, on manquet quelque care pour lor, que M. le Controleur a fait forger par M. Blondeau, e les Rottiers sont apres pour le graver. They have been working every week in gold (more or less). I suppose that Mr. Comptroller has told you what has been made.

1674, May 2. London. M. Button to Mr. Robert Bayliffe at Burrowe Green. Telling him to warn off anyone who comes to distrein on his master (Slingsby) for not setting forth a light horse, his master's being exempt by the charter of the Mint.

1674, Aug. 11. Newmarket. Robert Bayle to Henry Slingsby, in Suffolk Street, London.

1679, Sept. 6. H. Slingsby to the Auditor. Copy of letter about the auditor's queries concerning Slingsby's accounts.

1679, Sept. 11. H. Slingsby to his sister, Mrs. Hoare, at Edmonton. (Copy.) Complaining of her having attempted to get administration upon Mr. Hoare's death.

1679, Feb. 23. H. Slingsby to Mr. Gay.—Copy letter about the goldsmiths and moneyers.

Two letters undated, but before Hoare's death, from H. Slingsby to Mr. Froude at the Mint, about the Dunkirk accounts, which Slingsby wanted.

1683, April 16, Burrough Green. Jo. Jarvis to H. Slingsby. Private, and land business.

1685, Nov. 5. Whitehall or Leicester Fields. Nipho to Col. Slingsby. Her Majesty will have occasion for the seal I spoke to you of very suddenly; therefore I must needs desire you to hasten the person in whose hands you have left it to be graven, that I may acquaint the Queen with it. . . . Earnest business requires my attendance at Whitehall. (Enclosed in a paper are two square pieces of paper, each having two capital R's dos à dos interlaced: and two square pieces of vellum, on the smaller of which are the two R's as before under an imperial crown; on the other are slight drawings of a Greek cross and a Latin cross.)

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

MR. SLINGESBY'S CASE.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

In 1680 Mr. Slingsby's accounts seem to have been contested, and for several years he was much harassed. There is a bundle of papers and accounts relating to this matter. From a paper indorsed and headed "Mr. Slingsby's case," it seems that in 1661 the King called Mr. Slingsby into his closet, and said he wished to have the way of coining by the mill and press and letters and grainings about the edges of the moneys settled, and asked Slingsby to undertake it. Sir Ralph Freeman was still to remain Master of the Mint, and Slingsby was to act as deputy, and trust to the King for reward. The workmen were factions, not living the new way, but preferring the old way of coining by the hammer; Sir R. Freeman moved the King to accept a surrender of his patent and to grant a new patent to them jointly upon certain terms set out in the case. Slingsby accordingly entered into an agreement with Sir Ralph, who retained the salary of 500*l.* per ann. for his life (about 6 years); upon whose death, in 1667, Slingsby applied for a new patent, which was not passed until 8 Oct. 1670, whereby he had the office for life. On the 9 June 1680, Mr. Hyde, without Slingsby's knowledge, complained against him to the King in Council, that Slingsby was indebted to the King upon his accounts for seven years in nearly 5,000*l.*, &c., &c. And the King suspended him from his office. (The case is not perfect.)

The Corporation of Moneyers also alleged 6,000*l.* to be due to them from Slingsby.

Copy of petition to the King by Slingsby (1 p.).

On the 16th of Jan. 1682, Bro. Bridges and T. Done (auditors) made a report on the state of accounts.

On the 18 January 1682, there is an order by the Commissioners (signed by Hen. Guy) referring the matter to the Attorney General.

On the 18th January, 1682 (1683), Slingsby petitioned the Lords of the Treasury, and on the following day R. Sawyer (the Attorney General) appointed Sir John Buckworth, Chas. Duncombe, and James Hoare, Esquires, to attend him at his chamber in the Inner Temple, to give him an account of the matter; and he sent a like summons to the two auditors of the Mint.

On the 25 of January 1682 (1683), Slingsby petitioned the Lords of the Treasury to grant him a Superseas to the Sheriff of Cambridge to stay proceedings in a fi. fa., and extent on his goods and lands at Burrough.

Sir John Buckworth and Messrs. Duncumbe and Hoare afterwards made a report that the salaries, fees, and other advantages accrued to Slingsby since the time of his suspension from his office and their admission thereto to 25 March 1684, amounted to 8,456*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* In 1686 the Corporation of Moneyers petitioned the Earl of Rochester, Lord High Treasurer, that the money found due to Slingsby by a report made in 1680 might not be paid him until their suit against him in the Exchequer was heard; and the Earl referred the petition to the Warden of the Mint and the Commissioners for executing the offices of Master and Worker of the Mint.

On the 31 Dec. 1680, Thomas Neale, C. Duncumbe, and Jas. Hoare (auditors) make a report to the Earl of Rochester, Lord High Treasurer, of certain sums which they think ought to be allowed in Slingsby's accounts. And on 1st Feb. 1683, O. Wynne, Tho. Neale, Bro. Bridges, Thos. Done, and James Hoare (the officers and auditors of the Mint) make another report to the Lords Commissioners on the petitions and papers presented by Slingsby (as to moneys due to him, and moneys for which he is accountable).

With the papers of which the above is a summary are several closely written accounts for divers years.—Also, Temp. James II., Interrogatories administered to witnesses on behalf of H. Slingsby complainant against H. M. Attorney General, Thomas Anderson, Daniel Robinson, and 8 others (named), her late Majesty's moniers in the Tower of London, defendants. (24 brief sheets, some altered).—Also a book containing many tables for addition of gold to alloy.

A devise humbly offered for his Majesty's Coronation Medall. On one side, his Majesty's head as big as the piece will allow, in his coronation robes crowned, with these words:—JACOBUS. II: D. G. ANG. SCO. FRA. ET HIB. REX. FID. DEPEND. &c.—On the reverse a laurel, upon a cushion and the imperial crown of England held in the air by a hand from behind a cloud, with these words:—A MILITARI AD REGIAM; and underneath INAVG. 23 APR. 1685.

A devise humbly offered for the Queen's Coronation Medall.—On the one side Her Majesty's Head, in a handsome dress, after the manner of the Roman Emperresses, with these words about:—MARIA. DE. ESTE. D. G. ANG. SCO. FRA. ET HIB. REGINA; and on the reverse the imperial crown of England, upon a cushion on a table, with these words about:—MANET. ULTIMA. CAELO; and underneath INAVG. 23 APR. 1685.

1603, July 4, 19, 25, Sept. 6, and one not dated. Five letters from John Crane, at Berwick, to Sir Richard Musgrave, Kt., at Carlisle.—Garrison business.

1603, May 19, July 11, 25, and (no month) 28. Four letters from Edm. Conyers, at Berwick, to Sir Richard Musgrave, Kt., Master of His Majesty's Ordnance in the North parts.—Garrison business.

Copy Letter to the King. Stating that the petitioner had two or three years ago had the King's warrant to use means to repress theft on the borders. He captured one Johnston, of Whitecastles, and sent him to the Laird of Johnston, desiring that he might be kept fast; but the laird soon let him go. The petitioner having taken 36 notable thieves, afterwards again took Johnston of Whitecastles. The 36 were sent to Carlisle, and many were hanged. Nine others, with Johnston, were sent to Jedburgh, and were hanged. The Laird of Johnston was offended, and one Thomas Irving, believed to be a servant of the laird, intruded himself into a place where the petitioner's brother, who had been present at the taking of Johnston, was. Irving got up a disturbance; the petitioner's brother, who had been drinking, came unarmed out of an adjoining room to quell the disturbance, and Irving slew him with a sword. The laird of Johnston took part with Irving, and kept him in hiding until the 24 hours, called in Scotland the bloody hand, had passed, and then took him to his own house of Newby, and got a surgeon to attend him. The petitioner has prosecuted Irving to outlawry, and he has been denounced fugitive and rebel. He submits the laird's conduct to the King's consideration.

Copy opinion of the persons appointed to meet and consider of some way for the regulating of the disorders within the Middle Shires. That it is most necessarie that there be a conjoined commission betwixt the two kingdoms, given and ratified by both Parliaments. They recommend as Commissioners for East Borders Sir William Douglas, Sheriff of Tweeddale, Sir William Scot, of Tinnis, John Scot, of Sintin, Sir Andrew Ker, of Greenherd, and Robert Ker, of Gredan; and in the West Border, William Douglas, of Kolheid, John Jerdane, of Aplegerth, James Douglas of Mouswell, and James Johnston of Westeraw. And they recommend that Sir Richard Graham, who is a naturalized Scotchman, and part of whose estate lies in Scotland, should be joined in the commission.

Copy of the certificate made by the Trinity House to his Majesty touching the port in Spayne at which his Majesty's fleet is to arrive. (So indorsed.)

They think the Groyne or the Isles of Bayon to be absolutely the best in respect of the safe entrance and safe riding. They show the inconvenience of the harbour of St. Anderas, by the instance of the ship Bear.—Signed by Tho. Norreys, John Kinge, Walter Whitinge, Josua Downinge, Tho. Thompson, Geo. Wilson, William Cooke, Symon Nickoles. (13 pp.)

16 : May 20. St. Andros. Thomas Wilbram to the Lord Marquesse Buckingham. "According to instructions given me from his Majesty, I have brought such goods of the Princes as were committed unto my charge safe unto St. Andros; as 12 pacing nags, with their furnitures, and divers trunks of such Lords and gentlemen as are at Madrid already." Says that he is to stay there to await the Marquis's directions, which he asks for. Says he has received, by direction, from Sir Henry Vane, 200*l.* for horse-meat, man's meal, postage, and all charges necessary to Madrid. . . . He has stayed the ship, in His Majesty's name, for transporting some mules and horses. . . . Sends list of those come with him, viz., George Armstronge, seven grooms, with Francisco, the Spanish groom, Morgan, the Prince's footman, David Mallard, Sir George Goringe's man, Mr. Jerbier's 2 men, a farrier, Mr. Macklaclan, a surgeon, Mr. Andrew's man, Mr. Mountague's man.

1643, April 30, York. W. (Earl of) Newcastle to Sir Philip Musgrave and Sir Richard Graham.—Has received such testimony of their fidelity and affection to the King's service and particularly in their advancing money for his life, that he sends his thanks and the enclosed commissions.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R. GRAHAM, BART.
1643, June 23, Kendall. (Draft.) P. M. (Philip Musgrave). Tho. Sandford, Jo. Low, Jo. Dalston, Chr. Dudley, Ro. Brai, Chr. Philip, Pa. Brab. to the Earl of Newcastle.—They are satisfied with his letters to Sir R. Graham and the rest of the gentlemen, express their loyalty, and tell what they have been doing in military matters and in the matter of raising money. (2½ pp.)

John Donne to the great example of honour and devotion, Sir H. Vaine, junior. Copy of letter presenting or dedicating a book. (2 pp. 4to.)

1625, April 23, Strand. W. Slingsbye to his servant Launcelot Wells at Kippax Those that are said to dye of the plague last week were not above 25, and the physicians do certify the king that it is not the plague but the purple fever.

1631, Dec. 19, Edinburgh. Sir Robert Hope to Sir Richard Graham, Bart.—Acknowledges Sir Richard's letter with the enclosed for opening the commission of the borders on the 18th December, which he presented to the Council immediately, and order is given to draw up one answerable to that which is on the English side; but the Council required that the commission of the English side under the Great Seal of England should be sent, so that the Great Seal of Scotland might be appended thereto; for until that be done they cannot send the commission under the Great Seal of Scotland to the English, because that would be derogatory to the privilege of the nation, &c.

1633. Petition of Sir Richard Graham to the King, praying that the King will give him the benefit of some bonds which have become forfeited to the Commissioners appointed to suppress the abuses in making starch; he offers ¼th of the money recovered to the King.—Below is the Memorandum by Ra. Fremam of the King's answer at Newmarket on the 12th of March, that the Attorney-General was to make out a grant to Sir Richard on the terms offered.

1634, Oct. 25, Dublin. Fra. (Lord) Mountnorris to Sir Richard Graham.—Says he has a second time done a service to Lieut. William Graham according to Sir Richard's request.

[16 . . .], Aug. 7, Edinburgh. (Lord) Traquaire to Sir Richard Graham.—Asking that William Armstrong of Newland hill may not be apprehended or molested. Says he will himself answer for Armstrong abiding his trial before any judge competent whenever required thereto.

1635, Sept. 1. Newhall. (The Earl of) Warwick to Sir Richard Grimes (Graham). Asks him to buy for him (the Earl) a fine paced horse or gelding for a woman; and a good horse to follow his beagles in hunting.

1637, Oct. 27. W. (Earl of) Newcastle to his keepers of Pomfret Park.—Tells them to give Sir Richard Graham, Bart., as many does and bucks as he shall from time to time ask; whether in winter or in summer.

1637, August 17. Carlaravoke.—(The Earl of) Nithisdail to Sir Richard Graham I hear there is good store of such as truble the cuntry cum from Ireland; if men be careless they may grow bold as of the old force (?).—Asks for some hounds and the lease of a good bitch for a litter of whelps.

1641, Sept. 6. (Copy.) Lieut.-Col. Walter Stewart being asked in the presence of the undersigned by Sir Richard Graham, why he made the interpretation upon the characters that When Dickie rides to the Scoole, tell Genners he shall hear from L.; that the meaning was when Sir Richard Graham comes to the court that the Lord Montrose shall hear from the King.—Says he never knew Sir Richard, nor ever had any conference with him, nor ever heard that Sir Robert intermeddled in those businesses. Says he set down those characters for his own memory, in the month of March his first journey to the Court where Sir Richard was not; that before he saw Sir-Richard a friend at Court told him so; being pressed to name that friend he said it was Lord Traquair.—Signed by Henry Mannering, James Linsay, Governor of the Castle, John Houstone, Anthering May.

1641, Oct. 23 to 1642, Sept. 20. Services performed against the rebels by H.M. Regiment under the command of Sir William Cole, Kt., and Col. at Enniskillen, in the north of Ireland.—Expeditions, fights, and skirmishes, in all 126.—Loyal Protestants rescued and redeemed, 5467.—Rebels slain and destroyed, 1610.—Colours gained from them, 6.—11 drums; 156 muskets; 27 boats in Lough Erne and Lough Melvye.—Cotts gained, broken, or sunk, 109.—Islands wasted in Lough Erne and Lough Melvye, 366.—Castle of Creanish besieged six weeks and taken:—The whole county of Fermanagh wasted, and much of the counties of Tyrone, Monaghan, Cavan, Leitrim, Sligo, and Donegal:—five boats gained in the Isles of Arran; and two currachs or leather boats gained there:—8 leather boats gained in Lough Erne.

1643, Nov. 26, Newcastle. Sir Thomas Glemham to Sir Richard Graham.—As to Sir Richard's request to favour Mr. Vaux, who had been thought fit by the Committee to lend 100*l.* to the King, he cannot do better than leave Mr. Vaux in the hands of Sir Richard G. and Sir Philip Musgrave to act with him according to his case.

Petition of Christopher Blencou, Esq. to Sir Thomas Glemham, Colonel in Chief of the counties of Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Northumberland, to protect him against the proceedings of one Tompson an attorney, who had brought down to the sheriff judgments upon Nill Dicit for 500*l.* and 200*l.*

1643, Dec. 9. J. D. to (Lady Graham).—Gives various items of news of the doings of the armies on both sides. . . . The new Lord Mayor Wolleston, a great round-head, is supposed to be coming about for the King, or rather to be actually his. Coals are extreme scant; half of the better sort want fuel, and all the poorer sort. This day the two Hothams and Fines that lost Bristol are to come to a trial before a council of war. Prinne is the prosecutor of them, most violent. Pym is most desperately sick, and they say of the lowsy disease . . . (And a draft or copy of the same letter.)

1644, Jan. 5, Neubie. Johnstone to Sir Richard Graham.—Asks Sir Richard that according to his lordship's (Johnstone's father) request he will dismiss the writer's cousin, Sir Richard's Lieut.-Colonel, and instal some other, his Lordship intending to employ him in some other place which Sir Richard will be pleased with.

1644 (January?). Sir Richard Graham to his Excellency. (Draft.) Mentions his Lieut.-Colonel Sir Thomas Mettun having brought the letter from Lord Johnston; he is kinsman to Lord Johnston, and he a good soldier and his (Sir Richard's) kinsman, having married his sister-in-law, he is willing to part with him and employ an Englishman. "My lord tells me that most assuredly the Scots will come in; they kept their first day of rendezvous, but came far short of their number; this day they are appointed to meet again, and after this meeting it will be certainly known their resolutions; but for what he can yet learn it is not certain whether they will invade Cumberland or Northumberland first, but it is thought if they appear this day all their number that they will invade both counties at once; he saith he hath spoken with Sir Archibald Johnston, his cousin, who is one of the greatest advisers and counsellors among them, and he tells him that they propose as soon as they are gotten all together, to lye in garrison in some towns of the English borders, and also to send to the King before they will approach further into this kingdom; he hath promised me that notwithstanding he goes from my employment he will be very faithful to me, and before this day sennt by him I shall know all their purposes; after, I shall acquaint your Excellency with it."—He says that it is very necessary to change the present sheriff of Cumberland (Leonard Dykes, steward of Sir Richard's courts and also of the Earl of Northumberland*) who has "sharked and exacted of the county shamefully;" the prime gentlemen of the county have lately certified Sir Thomas Glemham of him, but notwithstanding [he] hath wrought himself into several employments in the garrison of Carlisle by which much of the moneys collected out of the county for the maintenance of the garrison of Carlisle, came to his own purse. "I shall desire your Lordship to write to Secretary Nicholas to move the King that he, Edward Musgrave, shall be sheriff for Cumberland, and he, Philip Musgrave, sheriff for Westmoreland, which is now void upon the death of my Lord of Cumberland; these two men are the most powerful to serve the King in their counties, and with the assistance I will give them will carry both the counties for the King. . . . Mr. Roulston will acquaint your Excellency with another letter I desire to Sir Thomas Glemham or Sir Philip Musgrave in his absence."

n. d. (Sir Richard Graham) to Mr. Roulston. (Draft.) Giving some of the news contained in the letter last above. He says that the then sheriff of Cumberland

* This appears from the next two letters.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

was steward of his and the Earl of Northumberland's courts and of 14 landlords more.

n. d. (Sir Richard Graham) to his "noble friend." (Draft.) Is sorry that the addressee has made Leonard Dykes his deputy for Cumberland and Westmoreland, or should have commended him to "my Lord" to have been captain.—Dilates upon Dykes's corruptness, and repeats a little of the news about the Scots, as in the last letter but one above.

1643, Dec. 14, Carlisle.—Leo. Dykes to Sir Richard Graham. . . . I must have the Commission of Peace, before the Gaol Delivery, that I may take the names of the Justices of Peace forth of it. I hear you have had good news from my Lady of the differences betwixt the Parliament and the Londoners.

n. d. Sir Richard Graham to his Excellency. (Draft.) Acknowledges his letter of the 27th of August with the commission for him (Sir Richard) to command in chief next Sir Philip Musgrave; he has no ambition to command, but only desires to serve the King; will not publish the commission, but will keep it by him as a mark of the sender's favour. Hearing that the counties disliked Col. Taylor as being a Scotchman, he had pacified them by telling them, at a general meeting at Carlisle, that his Excellency sent him to make use of at their liking, otherwise to return him back.

n. d. Sir Richard Graham to Lord []. (Draft.) A letter to the same purport.

n. d. Sir Richard Graham to Serjeant-Major Laytham, at his lodging in Ripon. (Draft.) Protests against the intention of removing some sick soldiers from Ripon to the small village of three or four houses situate about his gate.

1660. Copy petition by Sir George Fletcher, Bart., to the King, for a grant of the reversion then in the King of certain lands in Kneolmyer, co. York, which by Letters Patent of 10 Nov., 1 Phil. & Mary, had been granted to Cuthbert Musgrave, Esq., and the heirs male of his body.—On the 6 Nov. 1660, the King referred the petition to Sir Geoffrey Palmer, A.G., who reported that the lands were of small value, and that 15 heirs male inheritable were then in being, and on the 13 December the King authorised the grant. (Sir George says that he had bought the lands, the annual value being 25*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*)

LETTERS BY SIR ROBERT MURRAY AND OTHERS.

1665, Aug. 10, Salisbury. Sir Robert Moray* to Henry Slingsby, at Kippax. . . . Every one complains of their accommodation here. The King says Salisbury were a fine place if it could afford meat, drink, or lodging. . . . Every body is in love with Wilton. The King, Queen, and many of the ladies would be well accommodated there, but not all the necessary servants, so that we hear nothing now of removing thither, though it was talked of at first.—News from Holland about De Ruyter.—The King went this morning to see Lord Ashley at his house by surprise. L. Laud. (Lauderdale) nor I knew nothing of it, and he hath but one coach with him, and for ought we know he was not at all expected.

1665, Aug. 22, Salisbury. The same to the same.—L. Laud. left me nothing to do in the matters of the essay master and graver. He spoke to the King and Lord Arlington of both, and the one and the other will be as you would have them. It seems Mr. Hoar hath moved my Lord Chancellor in the matter of the assay master, for he is for Boulth too. So that is sure; and the King says he will have no graver in Symon's place. . . .

P.S. L. Laud. sends you much kindness; and he is busied in a voluminous despatch, and cannot write himself.

1665, Sept. 1, Salisbury. The same to the same.—Last Council day it was resolved the Parliament should meet at Westminster the 3d, and adjourn to Oxford, there to meet the 9th of the next month, whither it is said we shall go within these three weeks, and perhaps sooner, seeing there is one or two dead of the plague here, one house being shut up in the town, and another yesterday in the suburb, called Fishertown. We hear indeed there is mighty respects paid to the Duke wheresoever he comes. It is doubtless a singular testimony of loyalty to the King. . . . I will impart your letter to Lord Ashley as a preface to what you may say more of those odd proceedings in levying the chimney money. The King, Queen, &c. were very handsomely entertained at his house last week, and yesterday by Lord Pembroke at Wilton. Since I wrote last it seems some rubs are sprung up in the matter of the assay master. Lord Ashley pressed your desire vigorously in presence of him I told you I thought was moved in it by Mr. Hoar, and had spoke for the King formerly; but then he was silent, so that now the Meeklemon and he will be at it with all their strength as soon as a little indiscretion that keeps him at home all this week permits him to come hither. I assure you they will both press it in earnest. . . . Lord Carlingford is gone Ambassador to the Princes of Germany, and Sir Thomas Clifford to Denmark.

1665, Sept. 9, Salisbury. The same to the same.—Lord L. (Lauderdale) will see your letter [about the places in the Mint] which I had not the opportunity to show him since I had it, he being constantly with the King, who hath for three nights lye in his own bed-chamber, because of the great pain of the collic, which after a fortnight's much grumbings, did at last grievously torment him, but is now, blest he God, quite gone. . . . He is to remove, with some select persons, to Lord Ashley's house with intention to stay there and thereabouts till it be time to go to Oxford, and then it is thought will come for a night hither to take up the Queen, though it is very possible he meet her by the way.

1666, April 28. The same to the same.—Hopes to see Slingsby before he (Murray) goes to Wales: it will be the 8th or 9th of May at soonest before he starts.

1665, Dec. 15, Oxford. Patrick Vaus* to H. Slingsby. The Dutch Ambassador had a private audience on Thursday and took leave of H.M. on Thursday last, and posted home yesterday to Chelsey. The Dutch post gives us nothing of the great dispute betwixt the (De?) Wit and the Prince of Oranges party anent recalling their Ambassador; but De Wit's party carried it with a proviso that the States General should write to H.M. an offer of peace, which letter is come here and answered and sent away: He desires them to acquaint him of the proposals of peace, and then he will send them his thoughts thereon. The Eastern fleet under the command of Capt. Harman is arrived safe. . . .

It is now certain that the Duke Albemarle goes to sea in the place of Lord Sandwich, which occasions his Lady to give all the Court to a bad keeper to keep them. Great hopes of the decrease of the sickness this week. Lord Ashley parts to-morrow for St. Giles. His Majesty and the Duke of York are this day gone to Woodstock for ordering a noble house to be built there. . . .

P.S. I entreat you not to speak of this letter that is come from the States General of Holland, because after it was written by several here my Lord discharged it again; so I caused to keep it unskreped (unscript?) out.

1665, Dec. 25, Oxford. The same to the same.—Gazette news from beyond sea (Germany).—Yesterday at Council a general embargo is resolved, that no ship of his Majesty's dominions go or trade to any place but within the said kingdoms or from port to port. The Earl of Sanctabans (St. Alban's) has demitted to his Majesty the government of Gersey (Jersey) and it is conferred upon Sir Thos. Morgan alias G. M. Morgan, as also a considerable allowance to any captain that shall be killed on the sea service, and also to their children. This will be in print shortly.

1665, Dec. 27, Oxford. The same to the same.—We hear the sickness increases in the City and Westminster.

1665, Dec. 29, Oxford. The same to the same.—News from Holland. . . . Lady Capel was brought to bed of a boy at 3 o'clock in the morning.

(1665, Dec. 29.) Nathaniel Johnston to Henry Slingsby at Kippax.—I suppose Mr. Hunt would acquaint you of my design to have waited on you, which much to my disadvantage, promising myself a greater feast in your society than our saturnalia afford. I found in your window a tempting fruit or rather grove or Paradise. If you had been there I had interested the loan for some days. The author being a member of the Royal Society, I presume handles the matter like himself. If in this time of vacancy you can spare it or any other piece of any member of that society I shall take it as a singular favour and religiously observe the time of restoring it. . . . P.S. The book is Evelyn's Sylva. If you have Mr. Boyle of cold [] I shall beg the loan of him also, for I think I have most [].

1665, Jan. 2, Oxford. P. Vaus to Henry Slingsby.—Sir Jeremy Smith has taken above 30 or 40 sail of

* His letters are not signed, but are endorsed by Slingsby. Sir Robert Murray was appointed Deputy Secretary to manage the affairs of Scotland during the absence of the Earl of Lauderdale. Cal. of State Papers, 21 June 1665.

* This Gentleman's spelling is very odd, and he signs his name Vaus.

SIR I.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

Dutch merchantmen.—News from Flanders.—My Lord does command me to be remembered to you and the Countess and Lady Boghall.—The King has commanded provisions for 35,000 men at sea. It's thought that the court will remove about Castlemains, which will be about the time that the Countess of Castlemaine will be able to travel.

166⁵, Jan. 7. Oxford. The same to the same.—News from the Hague of continental affairs.

166⁵, Jan. 9. Oxford. The same to the same.—Foreign news.—Lord Ashley is just now come to town.—Great hopes of a further decrease of the sickness.

166⁵, Jan. 12. Oxford. The same to the same. . . . The term sits at Windsor. . . . Lord Ashley is come.

166⁵, Jan. 18. P. Vaus to Henry Slingsby . . . The enclosed news books yet fear the increase of sickness at London.

166⁵, Jan. 20. Walter Walsh to his cousin Henry Slingsby . . . Lord Faulkenbridge, Lord Castleton, the Lord Frecheville, and the sheriff of Yorkshire were to examine the prisoners on Friday and yesterday, but what they have learned from them is not yet published . . . He and his wife and brother send service to Slingsby and his wife and Mrs. Raleigh.

166⁵, Jan. 20. Oxford. Sir Paule Neile to Henry Slingsby . . . P.S. After this was written Prince Rupert was pleased to show me a die and to give me a print made of that die from the broken pieces which you made for patterns of farthings, and this done by the one which his Highness told you of when you were here. Really it is rarely well done, and saying that it is not full so deep as the original, it would puzzle yourself to say it were a counterfeit; and this fault too, the Prince says, he can mend. He commanded me to send you the piece, and I believe he would be glad you were here to see how many things of this nature he has done. I wish you came before his going to sea. Lord Lauderdale took the piece and undertook to send it by some gentleman that was going to Scotland and should deliver it to your own hands. . . . Let me know what return I shall make to the Prince.

166⁵, Jan. 20. Nathaniel Johnston to Henry Slingsby. I have the longer detained Eveling (Evelyn) because once or twice reading was not sufficient to impress all the directions upon my memory . . . He is the first besides Sir Hugh Platt and Dr. Sharrock that I have seen write scholar and gentleman like of this subject. Though all husbandmen are gentlemen in Ore, yet he bears a nobler character, and the greatest failing (if I may censure such a person) in the book is that he writes not intelligibly to the high shoes; but ex stercore Emui hath not only educed gold, but disguised that so that the countryman must go learn Latin and the poets to understand our author. But his design was to make gentlemen in love with the study, and that will effect the whole of his intentment. . . .

166⁵, Jan. 27. Sir Geo. Murray to Henry Slingsby . . . Mr. Vaus hath told me all your commission . . . The King's return to Oxford is expected on Saturday the 10th of February.

166⁵, Jan. 29. Ch. Walsh to Henry Slingsby at Lord Erwin's house at Temple Newsome . . . P.S. Sends service to Mr. Slingsby, Madam Rawleigh and Lady Bland. "The news in my brother's was that the Danes" and the Dutch are united confederates, upon a large sum of money given them from Holland: That Lord Sandwich has prevailed upon the King to release voluntarily an eminent Dutch prisoner (whose name I have forgot); and that it's hoped the Dutch will be so generous as to return Mr. Howard to us, who behaved himself so dexterously in the last engagement: That a proclamation is sent out to summon "in Mr. Oudart, Mr. Corney, gentlemen, and Mr. Newcomen and Mr. Hickeman, ministers (now in Holland) within so many days: that the King has ordered Mr. Attorney to draw up a charge [against] Mr. Butler, I presume the quondam Major General."

166⁵, Feb. 3. Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby.—Hopes that Slingsby has received the impression made by Prince Rupert.

166⁵, Feb. 6. Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby. . . . I shall tell the Prince that you will write to him. . . . The little news I have to write is bad, and the worst that the Queen on Wednesday last miscarried, when for seven weeks they had justly hoped she was with child. We had been but too happy if it had pleased God she had now brought our master an heir; but that which is not now may be hereafter, and it will at least be some comfort that he shall not endeavour for a thing impossible. The next is that we have nothing certain of what is become of Sir Jeremy Smith since the three ships left him in the storm when they returned for Plymouth. . . . They are this day on a committee of the Council to draw a declaration from the King in answer to the French King declaring a war with the English. Sir Christopher Mins on Sunday last set sail from the Downs with 25 sail to find the Dutch, which are believed to be there about Ostend.

166⁵, Feb. 15. Whitehall. The same to the same.—No news of Sir Jeremy Smith or any of his ships. . . . The Queen comes this day; To-morrow the Dukes,* and will be here to-morrow; the Queen and Duchess on Saturday. (He says the Queen did not miscarry on the Wednesday but on the Sunday following.)—Continental news.—Sir Arthur Slingsby died on Sunday last, at his own house in Kent, of a sudden fit of vomiting; he was well here and played at tennis on Friday last in the morning, and went home either that night or Saturday morning; and the King himself was pleased to tell this me; for hearing such a report I asked the King whether he heard any such thing; he said, Yes, and that a servant of Sir Arthur's came to London on Monday that brought the news. Lord Lauth (Lauderdale) went to Oxford yesterday to fetch his lady, and will be here on Saturday or Monday. . . . Lord Ashley is reasonable well, but he was a little out of order in point of health on Saturday last, and removed from home to his own house in the Strand; and on Monday, when he intended to come back, the order that was given for the Queen's journey made him stay at home still, because he lay here at Madame La Gard's chamber. After all this ill news let me give you a little that I think will please you, that is, my Lord Newport (the Earl) died at Oxford on Sunday night last, and your cousin, Lord Mandeville, hath his place of Gentleman of the Bedchamber.

166⁵, Feb. 20. London. George Walsh to Henry Slingsby. . . . News upon the Exchange on Saturday, noon, confirmed the same night by letters to the Duke, that Sir Jeremy Smith was at Cadiz the 14th of January with eight men-of-war; the other four (I suppose you heard) were driven back much shattered by storm to Plymouth. . . . Lord Sandwich goes on Wednesday down to Portsmouth to take shipping for Spain, where we presume we shall effect our business; but I doubt we have no other sure alliance besides the House of Austria. . . . Sir George Downing's project has already succeeded to the subscribing between 4 and 500,000 pounds in money and commodities for ships, to be advanced immediately, and the chimney farms advanced 200,000^l, so that our navy will be in great forwardness; that is, it will be (as is supposed) out the latter end of April or beginning of May. Henry Norwood goes in the ship with Lord Sandwich, which, after the Ambassador's landing, carries him to Tangier, where Sir Jeremy Smith carried eight months' provision, and Harry Norwood's carries five months' more. Upon his arrival Lord Bellasis comes for England, and Fitzgerald is already sent for to be discharged, so that Norwood will command there. . . . It is very certain that the Queen miscarried at two months after conception, and her doctors do now conclude that had she been bled the first month she might have carried it the whole time. I promise you there is great hope of a Prince of Wales, and her physicians resolve to take that course the first month if she knits again. I am told that Ralph Sheldon is so well sweetened that he would marry Mrs. Win Wells provided the King would make him an Irish Viscount, which I suppose will not be denied, for (according to the Lady Castlemain's estimation) that honour is not valued at above 1,000^l. The said virgin, or maid of honour, has had a gift bestowed upon her by the King (but at the Queen's suit) of 1,500^l or 2,000^l.

166⁵, Feb. 22. Whitehall. The same to the same. . . . I shall tell both the mickell and lickell man what you write, who I am sure are both your hearty friends. . . . The King says he will in March go to Audley End and to Newmarket, but not to lie there one night, but at Audley End and possibly at Saxum, and come to Newmarket and see the horse races and back at night. This you know, being a hunting journey, may fall off; but being to see Audley End (which so many desire the King should buy) I think it must be business only that will hinder it.

166⁵, Feb. 24. George Walsh to Henry Slingsby. . . . Peace is so generally believed that people talk of nothing else, and lay wagers on it; and even the courtiers too (I mean the middle rate of them) are of that opinion. But those who should best know deny it.—Dutch and German news.—I suppose you know the Earl of Newport is dead of the stone, and the Lord Mandeville

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

* There is confusion here: the Dukes are interlined.

SIR R.
GRAHAM
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM
BART.

succeeds him Gentleman of the Bedchamber. The Earl of Northumberland is now like to die of the same disease. The Earl of Sandwich went yesterday towards Portsmouth of his embassy. Godolphin (Lord Arlington's secretary) goes secretary to the embassy, and is said to have some private instructions more than is given to the ambassador.

1665, March 1, Whitehall. Patrick Vaus (Vaus) to Henry Slingsby . . . A letter from Sir Jeremy Smith out of Malaga Straits, that he has taken 3 prizes, and has in his company a French frigate. The Bill of Mortality is only 42 of the plague.—My Lord and all our family is very well, and so is the Lord Ashley Couper and Sir Robert Murray.

1665, March 1, Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby. (After congratulating Slingsby on the birth of a son, he says that the sum of his letter of the 20th was to desire Slingsby, both from Lord Ashley and himself, to send them some grafts of "the leiding peare and of the little round peare of Yorke; not that here is not bergamote, but that my Lord thinks "he hath eaten better of those at York than any "here."

(1665) March 5. Sir Francis Cobb to Henry Slingsby. —Public business forced him to stay in the Earl Riding, but he will wait on Slingsby after the assizes . . . Dr. Hinton is knighted by giving his positive opinion that the Queen is with child again.

1665, March 6, Whitehall. Patrick Vaus to Henry Slingsby . . . The King goes upon Thursday to Newmarket and returns upon this day 8 days, during which time my Lord will be at Hyget; and I fear I may not have occasion to send you what nuses here.

1665, March 9, Whitehall. The same to the same. . . . The King parted this day for Newmarket, and is to return on Monday night. Lord Ashley goes to St. Giles this week, not very well.

1665, March 10, Highgeatt. The same to the same. —News from Holland.

1665, March 13, Whitehall. The same to the same. Yours with the enclosed I received and delivered it to Sir Paul Neil . . . Lord Ashley is to be here this week from St. Giles's.

1665, March 15, Whitehall. The same to the same.—His Majesty this day has been down at Tilbury hope viewing the fleet and returned in health. Sir Robert Murray presents his service.

1665, March 22, Whitehall. The same to the same. —Lord Ashley is come to town and recovered.

1665, March 17, Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby.—At my return from Newmarket with the King I found a letter from you with one enclosed to Sir J. Talbot . . . On Thursday the King went down to the Hope to see the ships, and dined with our friend Sir John Griffith at Gravesend, and at six o'clock when he returned he landed at Worster House, and stayed there at a Cabinet Council till past nine . . . (After speaking of Lord Lauderdale he says), The little man went out of town on Thursday senight to fetch his lady, and both are expected this night; he was not well in health when he went, and for some time before . . . I am afraid he will grow worse. I pray God I be deceived.—Mentions a report, which he does not believe, that the Bishop of Munster has made a war when making his peace with France and Holland.—I do believe there will come 2 extraordinary ambassadors from Sweden, but we say one of them is to go hence to France. What all this means I know not, but I know that where we said here that Hannibal estall was coming hither, he went into France and made a peace with them and Holland . . . At Newmarket "my [Lord] Garrett had a forfeit paid him for a match he had made with Mr. Elliott, and that my Lord Excester's horse Boepeepe beat my Lord of Oxford's horse Rainebow, so far that my Lord Buckingham who maintained the horse could not sturne Boepeepe, nor get indeed any trial of him. Lord Garrett beat Mr. May's gelding, and since we came away there have been 3 matches more. My Lord Buckingham ran the parson's mare, as they call her, with a gelding of Mr. Bar. Howard's, and lost. My Lord Garrett ran his horse (to whom Mr. Elliott paid the forfeit) with my Lord Buckingham's horse Spavins, and lost. My Lord Townley's horse Herring ran with Lord Suffolk's horse Wholefoot and won. The King was nobly entertained by Lord Suffolk, and I think will buy his house. Sir Christopher Mins is returned to the Downs with his fleet, and convoyed 17 ships from Ham-burgh safe, but left 15 there, which were not ready to come away with him.

1665, March 22, Whitehall. The same to the same. . . . I asked our noble friend (the mickell man) this afternoon what news there was in order to send to you; he told me there was just none . . . There came a gentleman hither to the King on Sunday last from the Bishop of Munster; but what he brings we know not. They say upon the Exchange that the Bishop of Munster's treaty is very forward in order to his peace with the Dutch and French. Nay, they go further and say that letters out of Holland say they make the people there believe they shall have peace with England before Midsummer day. They likewise say that the French King is very angry that our King is not more alarmed at his declaration of making war against him, and looks upon it as a piece of contempt that we neither raise men nor fortify our coasts, but only prepare a fleet, &c.; whereas perchance he expects another pyramid to be built in London after the Roman fashion . . . I hear that those gentlemen formerly commissioners of prizes, and now laid aside and not so much as continued general commissioners (of which sort there are three, viz., Sir Edmund Pooley, Sir John Earneley, and Col. Windham), are much displeased with the Lords Commissioners for prizes to whom they impute the thing; and possibly when the Parliament meets they may remember it.

1665, March 24, Whitehall. P. Vaus to the same. —News by a letter from Mr. Ash, brother-in-law to Sir John Shaw, that Sir Jeremy Smith has taken 4 French men-of-war and 4 merchant men, and that there are 20 Alger men joined with Sir Jeremy Smith, and will fight under the Royal banner so long as he is in the Straits against the infidel French and Dutch.

[1666, April 1.] The same to the same.—It is certified by express that the Queen of Portugal is dead; and the next Sabbath the Court is to be in deep mourning for half a year, and one other half year in second mourning.

1666, April 3, Whitehall. The same to the same.—No news, the outlandish letters not having arrived: the plague is much increased this week.

1666, April 5. Whitehall. The same to the same. All dispatch is making for the fleet's outgoing; the Prince and the Duke Albemarle being to go this month aboard of the fleet at the buoy off the Nore, 12 miles from Ley road, being the place of rendezvous. The Queen has taken the death of her mother mighty sadly. My lord and lady and all our family do often remember you; Lord Ashley Cooper is here, and in good health; and Sir Robert Murray is going to Wales to look after the silver mines.

1666, April 7, Whitehall. The same to the same.—Yesterday by letters from Hamburg it is written by the English Company there for certain that the Swedes have declared against all the King of Great Britain's enemies, and he's 30 ships fallen down already from Stockholm.

1666, April 6. Sir Robert Moray to H. Slingsby. . . . Mr. Brattle told me last week that old Reynolds is so ill nobody expects he can put off long, and would gladly have you know it, and endeavours used [that] his place be not disposed of till your coming, &c. Wednesday, being in the Tower, Mr. Hoar told me the old man was dying . . . The King was told of it, and has promised the place shall not be disposed of till you come.

1666, April 10, Whitehall. The same to the same.—News of the States General declaring the Prince of Orange to be their adopted child; and that the Duke of Albemarle and the Prince go next week.

1666, April 14. The same to the same.—That concern you own in the matter of a successor to Reynolds must not be called a small one. The secretaries have not been spoken to as yet, but that will not be omitted; nor have I had one moment's conference with Lord Ashley since I came hither last; but I mean to see him in a day or two, tho' he be a little indisposed, and lies at Kensington. He understood the matter well when I spoke of it sitting at table, the only time I have yet seen him before the meekle man St Paul and Titus, apprehending both the King's service in it and your interest. But still I must advise your hastening up.

1666, April 7, from Mr. Whitlock's. Jo. Cage to his brother-[in-law] H. Slingsby. "I am fetched to appear "before His Majesty to answer to certain misdemeanours, and being twice before my Lord Chamberlain "he told me the King was not at leisure as yet." He then asks Slingsby to give him a letter to some person of honour to get a speedy hearing. He says it was "about the game."

1666, April 9. Sir R. Moray to H. Slingsby . . . I could tell you long stories of multitude of experiments. I shall only say that I tortured lead ore and litharge many ways in order to the improvements you know, but the only thing worth speaking of now of my endeavours

SIR R.
BAYLY,
BART.

that way is, that whereas in the ordinary way the ore in Cardiganshire that is called the silver or rich ore yields only in the ordinary 40 lb. of lead in 100 of ore, I got 69 out of it. The rest another time. Your friends here are all in good health, blest be God; yout' stories of Lord Middleton are pure chimeras. Of the Queen's being with child there is no talk here . . . I can tell you little of the stroaker* that is worth the writing. Some say they are the better for his stroaking, others are the worse. The King is far from having a good opinion of his person or cures. Printed books talk things of him, that I have not yet taken the pains to read.

1666, April 9, Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby . . . For your coming hither I shall acquaint the mickell man and the lickell man what you write.—A little foreign news.—We say likewise that there is two ambassadors coming over from the Swede hither and then going to the Dutch. But that which I like worst is that the chief of the two is like to be Mr. Itt, who hath all along obstructed Mr. Coventry in his treaty, and therefore is not likely to do much good here, but play us the second part of the French treaty. Here is a rumour here as if the Portuguese had refused to ratify the peace made for them with the Spaniard by Sir Richard Fanshawe, and since made a league offensive and defensive with the French; but this is not certain. . . . On Sunday morning our good friend Mr. Thomas Chevins (?) died suddenly of an apoplexy, and his brother Will. keeps the closet, and is a page of the bedchamber. Sir John Denham is very sick, if not dead, in Somersetsshire. His wife went hence late on Saturday night to travel night and day to see him before he died if she could.—Thus far was written on Monday, and since there is nothing new; for we hear nothing more of Sir John Denham, and therefore I hope he will scape the fit. P.S. Lord Lau. and Lord A. wonder you do not mention any time of your coming.

1666, April 17. George Walsh to his cousin Henry Slingsby.—Mentions his conversation with Sir Paul Neile at court, excusing Slingsby for not being in town attending to the Mint, by reason of there being no trade and consequently no silver to be brought in, so that were Slingsby there the Mint must stand still. Sir Paul thought the present exigencies of affairs would oblige the King (though he was averse) to coin base money; and Sir Paul and Lord Lauderdale, and Lord Ashley all thought it would be well if Slingsby kept his family in the country and let his house in town and only kept his lodging in the Tower, but be there a month or two in the year to satisfy the King . . . The generals go to sea next week (as I am told) with more than a naval design; for it is said that the Duke of Albemarle intends to attempt cutting off their stankes in Holland. Sir Sam. Tuke writes from Paris to Mr. Evelin that the belief there is that the King of Spain has sent to the King of France to be umpire in the difference between Spain and Portugal, which the French do brag the more on, because our extraordinary ambassador is in Spain this instant. Sir John Denham is now stark mad, which is occasioned (as is said by some) by the rough striking of Greatrakes upon his limbs: for they say that formerly having taken the fluxing pills in Holland, and they not working, they rubbed his shins with mercury: but that neither causing him to spit, they supposed it lodged in the nerves till the harsh strokes caused it to sublate. Young Griffin is to marry Lord Suffolk's daughter.

1666, April 24, Whitehall. Sir Paul Neile to Henry Slingsby.—More than a page about Mr. Cage's affair. Sir Paul drew up a petition, in a form agreeable to Mr. Elliott (who seems to have been Cage's adversary in the matter) to be presented by Cage to the King. He says he can do nothing further. He says that he had shown Slingsby's letter to Sir Robert Moray and also to the little man, who was sensible of Cage's hard luck but did not think fit to meddle in it.)—Our friend Sir Gilbert Talbot is safely returned by the help of the Swedish General Wrangle; for by land he could not have come, nor by sea but by a Swede's man of war which he lent him . . . Sir John Denham did not die, but is fallen violently mad, and so is likely to continue: he is now at one Dr. Lentall's house at the Charter House. The doctor is one that pretends to cure those in this condition, and to him Dr. Fraiser and the rest sent him: what that means you can safely imagine. Hugh may execute his place during his infirmity, and it is no hard thing to guess at the meaning of that neither. Yesterday the Duke of Albemarle and the Prince went aboard their ship the Charles in the Hope . . . Your cousin Lord Sandwich hath in his voyage into France had the . . . to see a rich fleet of 14 French merchantmen and 4 men of war for their convoy, but did not think fit to disturb his embassy by following them . . . Before these come (that is on Monday next) Lord Morley must have his trial for killing Hastings before my Lord Chancellor (as Lord High Steward) and the rest of his peers in Westminster Hall, in a place built as that was for Lord Strafford.

1666, April 21, Whitehall. P. Vans to the same . . . The Dutch gazettes confirm the consolidation of the peace between the Prince of Munster and the States: yea, letters to the Spanish ambassador and Mr. Williamson, but the King will not give faith yet until the next post. The King goes down to the fleet with Prince Rupert and Duke of Albemarle upon Monday: they are not to return again.

1666, April 24, Whitehall. The same to the same.—Yesterday the Prince and Duke of Albemarle went hence to the buoy of the Nore . . . The King is said to go next week there. Sir Jeremy Smith arrived at Plymouth with his whole fleet except one that lost her mast and went into Leghorne, but [is] expected daily . . . He has brought several prizes and also lost seven loaded with oil, wine, and corn.—News from Tangier.—The account of the plague is decreased, only 24 died of the plague.

1666, April 25, Whitehall. The same to the same.—I have received the articles of peace out of Holland, betwixt them and the Bishop of Munster; but my Lord gave them to the King: . . . The King goes to the buoy of the Nore next week, which is the first rendezvous; the second to be in the Downs.

1666, April 28. Sir Geo. Murray to H. Slingsby.—Hopes to see Slingsby before he (Murray) goes to Wales; it will be the 8th or 9th of May at soonest before he starts.

1666, May 1. Sir P. Neile to H. Slingsby.—For news only the executing the eight traitors upon the last plot, who were hanged, drawn, and quartered. The King goes to the fleet at the buoy of the Nore on Thursday.

1666, May 4. The King is gone to the buoy of the Nore with the Duke to see the fleet, and returns on Saturday. The next rendezvous will be at the Downs 14 days hence. The King and Queen will be there, as is reported. Yesterday a fellow [was] apprehended at all the great gate in Whitehall with a pistol in his sleeve, but will not confess anything.

1665, Sept. 9. Francis Cobbe to Henry Slingsby.—He gives the following news from a packet of letters which came from Lord Sandwich directed to his Royal Highness.—Lord Sandwich with the fleet being about the Doggar Sands, a storm came on, but lasted not long, and did them not much harm, but dispersed the Dutch fleet, some of which made for the Texel, and others being nearer the Dogger Sands were met by Capt. Young, Capt. Bacon, Capt. Chitsley, and Capt. Cox. The Dutch were four men-of-war, two East India ships, and a Straits-man, and were after some dispute all taken. The only officer hurt was Capt. Cox, slightly hurt in his foot by a round shot. Lord Sandwich highly applauded all the four captains of the four men-of-war; one had 54 guns, two had 50 guns apiece, and the least had 40 guns, the two East Indianmen were of great value, the Straits-man was either burnt or sunk. Other part of the King's fleet took eight more of the enemy's fleet. In all there are 14 ships, 194 guns, and 1,300 prisoners. The King's fleet only lost the Gloucester, sunk by a shot from the enemy; she was the least ship of the fifth rate, and of 25 guns; 25 men were saved, the captain and the rest were sunk.

n. d. The summe about the fleet. (A news letter).—Storms at sea have of late dispersed both H.M. fleet and the Dutch. Part of the former met with a considerable part of the latter and had an engagement, and have taken four men-of-war, some of them having 70 brass guns, the rest very great ships, and 17 merchant men; they are carried to Sould (Solé) Bay, and thence to Chatham by order of Lord Sandwich, who also sent the Earl of Rochester to the King and Sir Henry Bellaysse to the Duke of York with the news. Sir Henry came hither last night . . . For both the engagements it is thus considered 34 ships, whereof 10 or 11 are men-of-war, the rest merchant ships, in all 'tis thought we have about 4,000 prisoners, some very considerable, as De Ruyter's brother and others of quality. His Majesty hath lost some considerable captains, which his Royal Highness is very sorry for, but I know not their names. There is deceased of the Plague this week 5,627. Their Royal Highnesses go

SIR R.
GRANAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

home on Tuesday sennight, and lie at Pontefract that night, at Doncaster on Wednesday, at Welbeck on Thursday, at Nottingham on Friday, at Leicester on Saturday, and so for Oxford on Monday, as they shall find the country free from infection.—The captains names are Cox, Lambert, and Lanhorne.

1665, March 1. James Hoare to Henry Slingsby.
We have some 21 sail of ships from the Straights of Malaga, notice of this day, and we hope are safe within Lands End. Three frigates, they say, are ordered forth of the Downs to meet them for convoy . . .

n. d. Rome, Wednesday. Henry Coventry to Henry Slingsby.—If this letter and the doctor arrive to you safe, say the prayers of the faithful are available. . . . Here is little praying unless to St. George and such warlike Saints, and to God in especial as Lord of Hosts. Here are continual goings out of horse and foot, but whether to fight with the Duke [of Parma] or leave the town I know not. . . . The doctor hath paid me six pistoles of your account, which I took rather to rob the Duke of Parma than him or you. I intend shortly for Loretta, and to try whether will be more potent for my malady a vow or a purge. Your books came to four pistoles and a half, what the putting of them up will cost I know not. I am for Venice after Loretta. P.S. My service to Mr. Gerard and Mr. Roctes.

1671, May 7, Merton. Jo. Wycliffe, junior, to —.
—Alludes to their conversations.—Glanvill (I guess) hath carried you through most of Aristotle's occult qualities and philosophick meanders, and hath inscribed this for a motto upon your memory (ut in philosophia naturali) quod magis quarimus, magis dubitamus. As for Heylin, I am confident he hath so amply given you the rise of that dangerous sect he treat on, that you may be assured Fullis hath done them no wrong; and as for the little tract, its substantial arguments and insinuating rhetoric (I believe) cannot want your applause. . . . We will wait on you all at Leavens; in the interim I should be glad to see you or any of your relations at Gailes.

1672, Aug. 30, Portsmouth. Walt. Slingsby to his cousin [Henry Slingsby]. I have been labouring betwixt three and four years in reviving my brother Guilford's Narrative of the Lord of Strafford's arraignment and trial, to which I have made such additions as are not only serving to illustrate the whole, but to swell it up to a good folio. I have desired three special persons both for friendship and judgment, to take the pains to peruse the copy, which hath not proved to my loss; and now it is ready for the press, only wants licensing, which I presume Mr. Lestrang will do if you speak with him, or I shall write to him; if not I beg your assistance to me of the secretaries. Mr. Lestrang lives close by you in Holborn, directly over against Little Queen's Street end. I dedicate it to the Duke of York and may hope for some advantage by it, and as well as the honour of it. P.S. Sir Charles Scarborough, Sir Jo. Birkenhead and Mr. Roger Lestrang have had the perusal.

[1679?] Chr. Wren to Henry Slingsby, Esq., master of the Mint.—If S. calls at his house, he (Wren) has something of concern to impart.

n. d. Rd. Nelson to Esquire Slingsby at his lodgings in the Tower.—His Majesty was pleased upon a treaty with the King of France to give him Canada, of which my brother Sir Thomas Temple had the inheritance by grant from His Majesty; the purchase (produce) of which and disbursements in the time of war against the King of France and the Dutch, amounts to 20,000l. My brother, Sir T. Temple, comes here about it [and] dies. He makes a will when he was in New England; his last he makes here, my son and another executors here; one revokes, and consents letters of administration to be granted to my son cum testamento annexo. By virtue of which my son went into New England to get in some debts. By letters from him they will not allow the letters of administration, but will proceed upon the first will there, and distribute as they please. This against our law, and conceive may amount to a forfeiture of their charter. I desire your advice and direction if it be not proper a petition to your committee to command the execution of the letters of administration there according to our law here.

167 $\frac{1}{2}$, March $\frac{1}{2}$ Samur. Ro. Stapylton to his cousin Henry Slingsby at Suffolk Street, near Charing Cross. —Intends in April to go to Geneva, "where the young ones may be put into a better method for their learning." Asks for 100l. to be lodged in Mr. Marwood's hands, so that he (Stapylton) may draw it out. Is afraid it will not serve for the next half year, "for my Lord Irw[in?] is somewhat extravagant." He asks Slingsby to write to his lordship to husband his money and attend to his studies. "The French King has caused all the academies which were managed by Protestants to be shut up; as that of Mr. Phoberts (Foubert?) at Paris, and those at Blois, Angers, &c. But he at Saumers is yet continued; some say it is, because they have the privilege here of having a Protestant temple within the walls. We have received late advices that 1,000 horse is to be suddenly at Rochelle, and the King himself will be there also, and that there are 20,000 infantry at and near adjoining Bourdeaux."

1684, Dec. 17, St. James. (Copy.) Warrant from the Duke of York to Sir Peter Aspley and Sir Benjamin Bathurst, his Treasurer and Receiver General, to enter Reynold Grahame, gentleman, on the establishment of his household, as one of his Pages of Honour (the Duke having appointed him vice William Downing, who had surrendered his place.)

1686, April 7 and 13. And. Newport to Henry Slingsby.—Two short letters in reference to some matter in which Slingsby had asked Newport's assistance.

1686, May 31, Cookham. Henry Dodwell to Henry Slingsby.—Recommends the bearer, their common kinsman, his cousin, Arthur Slingsby, the youngest son of Sir Henry. "My Cousin Willoughby has, by the help of some friends, brought him over to our Church and got him educated in our College to his Bachelor of Arts degree. . . . I have had an advantageous character of him, not only from my cousin, but also from the present Provost of our College, the worthy Dr. Huntington: and I hope he is a more sincere convert than his late brother, the rather that he hath in this prospect of affairs resisted the solicitations of his father. . . . Willoughby designs him for the study of the law."

1686, Aug. 28. Sam. Barnardiston to Henry Slingsby, in York Buildings.—It is not the Count De Alba who is to go Resident Extraordinary to Holland, but his brother.

(1686), Aug. 8, London. A. Slingsby to her husband Henry Slingsby, at the Angel at Cambridge. . . . L. D. is just come, and presents her service; bids me assure you the D^e of M. and her son is to be D^e and Duke of Bowle; he is to marry my Lord Treasurer's daughter.

1697, Dec. 2. Thavies Inn, Holborn. Adlard Cage to Mr. William Pearson, at Kippax. . . . If Mr. Verelst, the painter, be with you, pray sit for your picture as I desired, and let Mr. Verelst know I wish him well, and that he may keep his hands in action: pray recommend him to any family that you know, for he paints well and reasonable. . . I have ordered Mr. Verelst, by his brother, that he leaves your picture behind him for me.

1701, Oct. 4, London. R. Jackson to []. . . I visited my Lord Preston, who is pretty well and abounds in French airs. His Lordship designs for the North shortly. . . . The Lord Mayor of London and Court of Aldermen have addressed the Lord Justices that they will stand by the King against the Prince of Wales, as to his pretensions to the Crown of England. Lord Manchester is expected daily in town from Paris, without leave or audience from the King of France by the positive command of the King of England, which is such a thing as never was done before. The talk of a war is much about the Exchange.

1702, May 4, London. J. Yonge to (his brother-in-law) Reginald Graham, Esq., at Norton Coopers. . . The Dean of Carlisle could not have the bishoprick with his prebend of Durham, and so is better without it, both in his own opinion and that of his friends; for it would have beggared him by itself: and therefore Dr. Nicolson the Archdeacon has it; and the Dean has the Queen's promise of something better for him. . . . This day war was proclaimed against France and Spain. . . . Lords and Commons have both made loyal addresses to the Queen. . . Lord Preston's sisters have been here to see the Coronation, and my wife saw it all, both in the Abbey and Westminster Hall, by the Queen's favour, having been conveyed in one of her coaches.

1709, Feb. 14, London. Will. Todd to Reginald Graham.—News brought by a Dutch mail of two great Councils at Paris, where the French King agreed to submit to all the preliminaries but the 37th, as to which his ambassadors were to meet with those of the Allies on the 4th of March. The Dutches of Burgundy has a son born, to whom the King has given the title of Duke of Anjou. . . Westminster Hall is half filled with fir poles and boards, and the workmen are busy making

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

a scaffold for trying Dr. Sacheverell. By reason of this trial the assizes are put off till the 18th of March. L. C. Justice Trevor and Justice Dormer are appointed for our Circuit . . . Bread is very dear here, the peck loaf being sold for near 4s. The Lottery is not yet full, though 'tis said there was about 700,000, subscribed the first two days, 'tis not to be drawn 'till next Michaelmas.

1712, Feb. 12. (Lord) Downe and A. Cage to Sir Reginald Graham, Bart.—They intend to stand for the county on the ensuing Parliament, and ask Sir Reginald for his vote and interest.

1713, April 4, London. J. Younge to Sir Reginald Graham. . . . Peace is come at last, brought to the Queen by Mr. St. John yesterday, signed by the Dutch and the other powers concerned, the Emperor only excepted, who never us'd to come to any conclusion 'till his own time, which I believe will be shortly and before a campaign can begin.

1713, Aug. 18, London. A news letter of 3 pp., addressed to Sir Bryan Stapylton, Bart. at Mayton near Burroughbridge.—News from Constantinople, Warsaw, Germany, Paris, and Dunkirk.—Since my last, the following alterations at Court: The Earl of Dartmouth is removed from being Secretary of State and is made Lord Privy Seal; the Rt. Honourable William Bromley, Esq., is made Secretary of State and had the Seals delivered him on Monday in Council. Proclamation for new Parliament. His Grace the Duke of Northumberland has sworn of the Privy Council and took his place at the Board. The Earl of Denbigh is made one of the tellers of the Exchequer; Sir William Wyndham, Bart., Chancellor of the Exchequer in the room of the Lord Bingley and Francis Gwin, Esq., Secretaries of War, Sir John Stonehouse, Bart., Controller of the Household, and the Rt. Hon. Lord Lansdowne, Treasurer of the Household in the room of the Earl of Colmonoy (Cholmondeley), Edward Nicholas, Esq., Treasurer of the Chamber in the room of Spencer Compton, Esq.—Last night the French Ambassador had a magnificent masquerade. The Duke of Shrewsbury is expected home this night from France.

1721, May 6, o. s. (Copy.) Letter from an English traveller (the Marquis of Blandford?) at Rome to his father, (54 pp. folio), giving a very interesting account of introduction to and visits at the house of the Pretender at Rome; with notices of his wife and their son (the young Pretender), and relation of the conversations the writer had with the Pretender.—The writer was a Protestant. He was introduced by Dr. Cooper who with Dr. Berkeley were the ministers of the chapel which the Pope has licensed the Pretender to have in his palace for the benefit of the Protestant gentlemen of his suite, has domestics and travellers. The Pretender told the writer of the letter "some passages of my grandfather and of his "being a constant follower of King Charles the 1st."

1773, July 12. J. J. S. to Sir Bellingham Graham, Bart. . . . I have heard nothing of my poor Captain since I saw Burgoyne, and I am afraid I am not likely to see him soon. My little fellow was on board the Arethusa when she fought the French frigate, and did not get a scratch . . . they fought it hard for three hours. . . . P. S. Sir Edward Astley's son was cut in two by a bomb shot which took the upper part of his body away with it leaving his legs, &c. behind it.

1780, Oct. 13. Burton Constable.—William Constable to Sir Bellingham Graham. . . . Lord Cornwallis has done something; he's fought with a handful of men a battle of reason to secure two provinces and to protect his friends, and has wrote a letter worthy to be recorded with that of General Wolfe.

1782, July 26, Atlas. 40 leagues to the West of Cape Clear. T. Dade to [Sir Bellingham Graham].

On the 12th of July at 6 in the morning the combined fleets consisting of thirty-seven sail of the line, five frigates, with fireships, cutters, and luggers, were discovered by a frigate of observation. In obedience to the signal preparatory for battle on the tenth, the whole fleet was soon cleared for action, and with an executive celerity that could only be equal'd by the most speedy accomplishment. His Lordship having 22 line of battle ships, three frigates, one fireship, and two small cutters of despatch, put the fleet into three divisions of sailing, and seemed determined to try the event of war. La Motte Piquet crowding all the canvas he could, and advancing ahead of the French van composed of eight line of battle ships appeared impatient of delay to come to action, and Lord Howe thought proper to give the aspiring Gaul a fair opportunity of gratifying his valorous passion by striking at the British rear, whilst the Spanish Admiral could have brought up his command to support the gallant exertions of the French

Admiral, which were so conspicuously expressed as to compel me to acknowledge him most eager for encounter, being on deck till the setting sun, with every attention due to such noble objects. On perceiving his Lordship's arrangement and steady appearance, he concluded that by manœuvre the British Commander wanted to win the wind by naval address, so as to empower him to engage with every advantage resulting on the acquisition. To prevent the efficacy of that manœuvre he haul'd his wind and slackened sail in order to collect all the Spanish rear, intending with the junction of the whole to wait Cordova's order of battle who was first in command. Lord Howe seeing the intion of La Motte Piquet, inferior to few in naval address, and coolly weighing and balancing the strength and resources of the combined powers, retreated in ample line of battle, sensible that such a union was too powerful to be encountered with the smallest dawn of success. In war success sometimes depends on reputation as much as upon numbers; and as reputation is lost and gained by the first step one takes, his retreat did not tarnish the British flag, being such as not to dispirit his troops, or inspire his enemies with boldness, having much from that day's observation to hope from procrastinating and cautious measures, whilst the combined powers have more to fear from well tempered and baited delay. His Lordship now knows he can outsail all the Spanish fleet, and that the French naval General will not risk an engagement without a well formed junction, and should by occurrences incident to war these fleets be separated and the French found in advance, their high flyers he could easily wing, so as to enable him to pursue the other game in the most sportly fashion. As emulous of honourable fame, he must have felt a pang of indignation and grief, one of the severest, perhaps, which can touch the human heart, which will only be born from native valour by reflections that it was the summit of human confidence to repel the enemy, for victory was not upon the die of that day. Had he engaged, and found himself beat, from despair he might have reverted to fatal resources, and the flower of our home defense been annihilated by fatal presumption, as from the outlines of his Lordship's character in war such conclusions are apt to strike cool reflection with the shade of credit. Captain Vandepuit in the language and fashion of a gentleman, cheered his men for battle, and with most deliberate coolness told the troops it should be his fault if he did not lay them close enough to their enemies. The sailors and soldiers on retreating expressed themselves sarcastically, and would have freely bled had not disparity of numbers precluded the handsome display of British valour. We are now waiting to protect the Jamaica fleet, also for reinforcement, when the sequel of this campaign, I flatter myself, will terminate with achievements not inglorious to Britain.

1780, Feb. 21st, Gate Street.—Cuthbert Allanson to Sir Bellingham Graham, Bart. . . . Last December I hired unfurnished lodgings: this was done on account of the situation, being very near to the Speaker's . . . My chaplain's duty and sermon at St. Margaret's on the 30th of January required some attention; however, by the aid of patience and long-suffering we are now tolerably well fixed in Gate Street, Lincoln's Inn Fields. Parliamentary business went on quietly, the House being usually up by the hour of dining amongst great folks, till the day of Mr. Bourk's speech upon public economy, when the tumult was great; the swords of the Deputy Sergeant at Arms and the Speaker's train bearer were broken in an instant, my gown and cassock narrowly escaped; every part was crowded; the Rever^d. Orator Wyvil and three or four hundred gentlemen could not gain admittance; more than six hundred persons were present when prayers were read. Mr. B. was very ingenious and temperate. Many believe it was a plan concerted between Lord North and him; but I do not think so; certainly your patriots will not be satisfied with it, neither can his proposals be granted entirely, without injury to numbers who live in Wales, Lancashire and Cornwall, besides many others concerned in forests and royal chaces, where little else is left to the Crown except mines, minerals, open space and timber; now all these will make a very strong interest to struggle with, neither will they be persuaded tamely to yield up their property. Mr. B.'s knowledge in this article was superficial. But you will see this famous speech, it is now printing, as is likewise that malignant oration of Charles Fox to the mob in Westminster Hall, commonly called the Independent freeholders and electors of Westminster. Whatever may be the designs of opposition in these attacks I cannot devise, if they mean more than what is held forth may they prove

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

abortive! but, perhaps, some good may arise to the public from the inquiry, as it must be confessed many things might be well reformed, but enough on these matters, and so God bless the King! and grant us peace amongst ourselves; we may then be confident against the world in arms. . . . P.S. I have not yet called upon the Solicitor-General, for reasons which it may be as well to talk over when I have the pleasure of seeing you. Take the following abstract of Parliamentary affairs: the members are now warm; they will be quite hot by the equinox, and I fear mad before midsummer.

3 Car. 1, June 2. Copy (8 pp.), of the letters of patent to James Lord Hay, Baron of Sawley, Viscount Doncaster, and Earl of Carlisle, of the Islands of St. Christopher, Granada, St. Vincent, St. Lucia, Barbados, Mittalanea, Dominico, Marigolante, Dessuda, Todosantes, Guardalupo, Antego, Moniseratt, Redendo, Barbudo, Mevis, Statia, St. Bartholomew, St. Martin, Angulla, Sembraera and Enegada, within the territory of the Caribbee Islands, and all other isles within 20 degrees of the equinoctial line from the northward of the same region; with large powers and privileges.

Copy of Mr. Sidney's speech.—Begins, Men, Brethren, and fathers. Ends, often and wonderfully declared thyself. (1½ pp.)

1683, March 23. Bill in Chancery to Lord Jefferyes (L.C.) by Anthony Gerante de Clerante, late of Paris, but then of the parish of St. Martin-in-the-Fields. He had invented two compositions of pitch, &c., called in French Le Goldron, one for preserving wood from rotteness and ships from being eaten by worms, the other not melting or running in the sun, but resisting fire a considerable time. The King of France granted a patent for them to Marshal d'Estrée, his Vice-Admiral, in trust for the said Vice-Admiral, the said Gerante and others. Frances Fandell de Fresne, of the parish of St. Martin's, hearing thereof, went to France and found out Gerante, and got him to execute an agreement there, the preamble of agreement being that both of them knew the secret, whereas Gerante only knew it. Gerante came to England and got a warrant for Letters Patent to himself and Fandell de Fresne. The latter persuaded Gerante to let him manage the affair, and got the Patent made to one Charles Corsellis, of the Mint in Southwark, without any declaration of trust. He prays that a declaration of trust may be executed, or he be relieved from the agreement and the Patent be delivered up.—The Bill is settled and signed by Jo. Hawkes, who also advises on three questions put to him for the plaintiff.

10 Car. 1. Nov. 8. King's letter or brief (a broad sheet printed in black letter by Thomas Purfoot,) authorising Sir Richard Graham, Bart., to collect, and appoint deputies to collect, money to build the Church of Kirkeanders with two chapels of ease in the co. of Cumberland. It states that Sir Richard had obtained a grant under the Great Seal and the Duchy Seal for the building thereof; that Sir Philip Musgrave and others (named), Justices of the Peace for Cumberland, certify that King James issued a similar brief for the church of Arthuret, which (except the steeple) had been built; but Kirkeanders was not yet begun; that the estimated cost was 3,000*l.* at least.—There are 37 copies (besides fragments of three others). On all but three are indorsements signed by various parsons of churches and churchwardens testifying the sums collected; some a few pence, none amount to 10*s.*

1672. Reasons humbly offered for suppressing all Hackney stage coaches and caravans, and for inducing gentlemen to live upon their estates in the country, and wear the manufactures of England, and to restrain servants from wearing any other. 4 pp. folio.—The reasons humbly offered for continuing the stage coaches upon the grand roads of this kingdom, answered. (5 pp. folio.)—(These are by John Cressett of the Inner Temple, Gent.)

Stage coaches vindicated, &c., (in answer to Cressett). 6 pp. folio.

Copies of a form, J. C[ressett], to a post-master in the country, and of a letter to J. C. from a post-master. 4 pp. folio.

An apology for stage coaches. (4to., 7 pp.)

POETRY.

A 4to. unbound.

On the late designed assassination of King William.

Begins, Tho' naked Innocence no weapons wield (3 pp.).

On the contempt of the clergy.

Begins, A spiteful author dipt his spiteful pen (1 p.).

The complaint of a despised lover, made to Cupid, the God of Love.

Begins, Thou pretty witty cunning child (1 p.).

To Cupid.

Begins, Blind archer, now unbend thy bow (24 lines).

On the 5th of November 1680.

Begins, Amidst the motions of revolving spheres (20 lines).

On the martyrdom of Charles I., on 30 January 1648.

Begins, May not the guilt of this one bloody day (18 lines).

To King James II.

Begins, Unhappy Prince! what stars did thee incline (14 lines).

A cure for pain in the mind.

Begins, Of all diseases which do painful prove.

Three short poems in one page on (Intemperance), Jealousie and Anger.

Against intemperance.

Begins, Men who too often and too deep do sup.

To a beautiful, virtuous, and learned young lady, unmarried.

Begins, Madam, in you admiring mortals see.

Ends, But tho' to Angels marriage be deny'd, They wait as Paranympths when you are Bride.

(6 lines.)

In Urbanum VIII. P. M.

Estne Papa Christianus?

Immo vero Christianissimus.

Est ne verus Petri successor?

Immo verissimus.

Quotiescunque enim Gallus cantat

Dominum abnegat.

Urban the eighth a Christian true is

As sure as is the fourteenth Lewis:

This Pope undoubtedly succeeds

Unto St. Peter in some deeds:

As often as the French cock crows

So oft his Lord he disavows;

Thus ugliness and guilt is meant

By Boniface and Innocent.

Julii Mazarini Cardinalis Epitaphium. Authore Joh. Milton.

Abi viator e cave

Nam hic tumulus

Est specus Latronis.

Who ere he be that passeth by

The tomb where Mazarine doth lye

Let him make hast away, for fear

That he who lies in ambush here

Rise and resume his wonted trade

Of robbing men in masquerade;

'Twill be an unexpected turne

If he prove honest in his urne

Who while he liv'd did practise all

The vices that are Cardinall.

Against Atheism.

Begins, You great proficient in the Atheists' school. (1½ pp.)

To a friend upon reading Mr. Charles Gildon's Miscellany Poems. (18 lines.)

Begins, I have, Sir, by a transient look

2 Travers'd this miscellaneous book

3 Pardon the ink which I have spilt on

4 The two quaint epitaphs by Milton (pp. 29, 33)

13 Mine is the bungling coblers fate

14 Not to make poems but translate.

A vindication for the English clergie.

Begins, 'Tis man's depraved nature not to love

The best of friends that dares his faults reprove

(1 p.)

Anno Domini 1693.—Gravamina Anglicana.

Redoubling of taxes without any stint,

And no forraigne Bullion to furnish the Mint,

The Irish and Scots exporting our guinies

And draining th' Exchequer of all its revénués,

Stall-feeding the Dutchmen at rack and at manger

And exposing the English to hardship and danger,

Importing all goods at extravagant prices

And converting all trade to tricking devices;

The merchants and pirates combining for snips

And the want of safe convoys to wait on our ships;

The racking of farms to the utmost extent

And prohibiting money provided for rent;

Of clippers and coiners a numberless crew

Embezzling old silver, embasing the new:

These public disorders if longer allowed

Will render old England as poor as 'tis proud.

(Cancelled)* Poetical essays upon several subjects, by an unknown author principally intended for his own private use.

* The following are on rather slender paper; which has been sewn to the previous portion of the volume.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

Upon the death of Mr. Richard Tatham, rector of Hacklington, who went into Lancashire and dyed there; his neighbouring brethren the clergy made this mournful elegy.

Begins, Farewell true pattern and epitome
Of Learning, Preaching, and true Piety (20 lines).

Begins, Si nihil attuleris, ibis Homere foras.
No mean mechanics work for smaller gains
Than men of rhyming heads and chiming brains.

They beat their brains and scratch the aking head

For scraps of Poetrie and scarce get bread;
Hucksters from Amsterdam and quacks from Leyden

Acquire more wealth than Davenant, Brown, or Dreyden:

A Jesuit Priest from Doway or St. Omers
Is entertained before a thousand Homers.

Alas! what got grave Shakespear or brave Ben
By all the products of their wit and pen?

Others were pleas'd with their admired art,
Themselves were prais'd, and that was all their part.

Thus Dionysius &c. &c.

Festina lente.

Begins, Some say 'tis fancy supersedes all toyle (20 lines).

Upon Sir Philip Sidney's Defence of Poesie.
Begins, The authors name doth that rare book commend (16 lines).

To the Right Honourable Charles Mountagne, author of that most excellent poem of King William's victory at the Boyne.

Begins, 'Tis you alone can equall praises sing (26 lines).

To my ingenious friend Mr. Thomas Norton desiring my opinion of his translation of the Penitential Psalms while he was indisposed under, and but imperfectly restor'd from, a fever.

Begins, What sudden change is this we see?

Satyr reform'd to Psalmodie? (18 lines.)

Upon Mr. Thomas Norton translating of Solomon's Ecclesiastes.

Begins, Pursuant to a sermon so divine (20 lines).

Upon Mr. Thomas Norton's two severe Satyrs against women.

Begins, A sex of which the Muses deign'd to be (10 lines).

Hebrews xiii. 4. Marriage is honourable in all.

Begins, The Priests of Rome are not to laymen kind (56 lines).

Psalm xxiv. 12. What man is he that desireth life, &c.

Short rules for a long life.

Begins, The life of man is but a span for length. (8 lines.)

Short and plain rules for a long and ple[s]ant life.

Begins, In early rising greet the morning sun. (46 lines.)

Ecclesiastes iii. 1, To everything there is a season, &c.

Begins, There is a time appointed for man's birth. (10 lines.)

Sero sapiunt Phryges.

Begins, In days of old when wealthy Greece grew poor, (12 lines.)

On old age.

Begins, Welcome thou evening of my weary day* (15 lines.)

Ἀργυρεὺς λογαῖσι μαχοῦ καὶ πάντα κρατῆσις

Begins, If money be the sinews of a Warr. (6 lines.)

Upon the poems of Mrs. Philips.

Begins, What victims shall we to this Virgin vow? (34 lines.)

Mr. Andrew Marvell's character.

Begins, Tho' faith in oracles be long since ceas'd, (24 lines.)

To a fair and virtuous young lady unmarried.

(This is a variation of the previous lines with a similar title.)

A cure for the pain of the mind.

(This is a variation of the lines with a similar title.)

An Epithalamium.

Begins, If truest love and fewest cares. (14 lines.)

Ends, Marriage to angels is deny'd;

No angel ever was a bride.

May Heaven its choicest angels send

As Paronyms you to attend.

An epitaph on Madam Elizabeth Swettenham.

Begins, If chearfull, chaste as [are] the snows. (14 lines.)

Ends, No soul can be more bless'd than this,
Whose sacred reliques in this urn
Are kept until the soul's return
To reunite itself to its known mate,
And raise these reliques to an happier state.

Upon the honourable Lady Elizabeth Wandesford singing and playing on the githar.

Begins, Madam, if any ill-tun'd minds there are. (34 lines.)

To the judicious and ingenious Dr. Walter Pope, F.R.S., and writer of the Life of Bp. Ward.

Begins, To doe great actions worthy to be writ. (14 lines.)

To King William and Queen Mary entering on the Government of Great Britain, &c.

Begins, Thrice welcome both to the abandon'd helmes. (36 lines.)

On Mr. Cock and Mr. , absolving Mr. at the gallows.

Begins, Are Priests turn'd picklocks by the pow'r of keys. (6 lines.)

On Divine Providence.

Begins, Who can believe a casual despatch,
Can frame the movement of a clock or watch. (16 lines.)

Ira furor brevis est.

Begins, Passion and madness differ in duration, (8 lines.)

O Death, where is thy sting? O Grave, where is thy victory? 1 Cor. v. (xv.?) 55.

Begins, A mortal body, an immortal mind,
Are beings justly distinct in their kind. (14 lines.)

Prov. xxxi. 30. Favour is deceitful and beauty is vain.

Begins, To chuse a consort by her skin-deep hue. (6 lines.)

The students method in the course of his study.

Begins, If students will with good success proceede. (14 lines.)

(1 p. folio.) Carmina D. D. Melvini Scoti in Aram regiam.

Begins, Cur stant clausi Anglis duo libri regia in Ara?
Lumina caeca duo, polubra sicca duo? (6 lines.)

Answer. Begins, On th' altar royal Melvin frownes to fynde. (12 lines.)

Ends, To have blynd eyes, closed lypes, hartes voyd and free

From foule suspect of wrongful jealousye.

Epigramma in Nomen.

Cui mens felle nigra est et aceto lingua redundat
A melle et vino quam malè nomen habet.

Melvini in obitum Regine Scotie.

Si Sootam Angla necat, Mariam malè [] tat Eliza,
Reginam Regina necat cognata propinquam,

Hoc quod agas heres Marie, heres et Eliza

Non abeunt non adveniunt sine sanguine regna.

Idem.

Parve Puer, lumon quod habes concede sorori.

Sic tu coecus amor atque erit illa Venus.

Upon the King's return to the City of London.

Begins,

Sing and be merry King Charles is come back,
Let's drinke rounde his health with Clarret [and Sack,]

The Scotts are all quiet each man with his [pack]

May cry now securely come see what you [lack].

Singe and be merry, boyes, singe and be [merry],

London's a fine towne, see's London-Derry.

(9th stanza.)

The King, Queene, and Prince, the Palgrave of Rhyne,

With two branches more of the Royal Wyne,

Rid to Guildhall where they were to dine,

There could be no lacke where the conduits run wyne.

The Catholick Ballad, or an Invitation to Popery upon considerable grounds and reasons. To the tune of 88.

London: printed for Henry Brome, at the Gun, at the West End of St. Paul's Church Yard. 1674. (A black letter broadside.) The first part has 12 verses of four lines, and the second part has 21 verses of four lines.

The first part begins, Since Popery of late is so much in debate.

The second part begins, Now listen again to these things to remain.

Room for a Ballad or a ballad for Rome, being a continuation of the Catholick Ballad inviting to Popery upon the best grounds and reasons that could ever yet be produced.

To an excellent tune called the Powder Plot.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

SIR R.
GRAHAM,
BART.

Printed for Benjamin Harris, at the Stationers' Arms in Swithin's Alley, near the Royal Exchange. (A broadside printed in red: the first part of the Ballad has 10 verses of four lines, and the second part has 21 verses of four lines. At the head of the first part is a rude woodcut representing a man nearly naked, with a sythe in his right hand and an hour-glass on his head, and on his back a large wallet stuffed with relics, which a rampant dragon, winged and horned is clawing. First part begins, From infallible Rome once more I am come. Second part begins, Our zeal has been felt wherever we dwell.

Proclamation by the Lords Justices for a Public Thanksgiving on the 8th of Sept. (for the taking of Namur). Dated 29 Aug. 1695. (A black letter broadside.)

A Poem in vindication of the High and Mighty Monarch William the Great, King of Great Britain, &c., in answer or opposition to a lying pamphlet found in the City of York, and deserved teas'd or torn in pieces by the authour of the poem.

Begins, Hail, Happy William! Thou art justly great. (57 lines.) This is followed, by A post-script to Jacobites.

Begins, Twitt us no more, ye sneaking Jacobites. (24 lines.)

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF
SIR ALEXANDER ACLAND-HOOD, BART.,
AT ST. AUDRIES, CO. SOMERSET.

Among these are a 15th century copy of the Modus tenendi Parliamentum; a very fine and perfect copy of Wiclif's translation of the Bible; a roll containing a copy of the articles or petition to the King which produced the statute 28 Edw. I.; a cotemporary copy of the Ordinances of 5 Edw. II.; a copy of Walter de Henley's Treatise on Husbandry; a translation into English of Trivet's French Chronicle, with continuation down to 1413. It does not seem to have been hitherto known that an English translation existed.

The old letters comprise some by a lady to her brother (temp. Elizabeth) about two proposals of marriage made to her; they are curious, shewing how she bore herself during a contest between God and Mammon:—a very interesting Book of Accounts of the Churchwardens of Stoke-Courcy at the beginning of the 16th century:—A copy of the Mendip Laws for Miners, said to be made temp. Edw. IV.:—Topographical collections for Somersetshire. One of the volumes (that numbered 62) contains an account of a romantic incident in the life of a cavalier after the battle of Worcester. And there is an original roll signed by Engagers to defend William of Orange, noticeable for an addition made to save them from the obligation to lay violent hands on the person of James II.

Folio, vellum, 13th century, 203 leaves and 2 fly leaves.—De reparatione lapsus (lapsi has been altered to lapsus) non lapsi de quo scribit Crisostomus.

The Prologue begins—Dilectissimo domino suo in Christo G. dei gratia Roff. episcopo frater P. dictus prior ecclesie sancte Trinitatis London. cum salute, &c.—There are 126 chapters of the work, but of the 126th there are only 15 lines. After a table of chapters, the text begins, Nunc iudicium est mundi, nunc principes huius mundi ejicietur foras.—Ends (imperfectly) etenim qui venit ad me non . . .

The first letters of the Prologue and first chapter (about 2½ inches square) are floriated and coloured and gilt. The initial letters of the other chapters are alternately red and blue.

(The work must have been composed before 1214, when Gilbert bishop of Rochester, to whom it is addressed, died. The two fly leaves are portions of a service book, with musical notes.)

Large folio, vellum, 15th century.

Modus tenendi parliamentum. The last chapter (p. 8.) is De gradibus parvum, ending with the words, "censetur esse plenum."

(p. 8.) A treatise on the office of Seneschal of England. Hic annotatur quis sit Senescallus Anglie et quod ejus officium.—Senescallia Anglie pertinet ad Comitissam Leycestrie.—Ends (p. 9.), decollatus apud Bakelowe in co. Warr.

(p. 11.) Abridgment of the Statutes. The first title is Accusations and the last is Wursted.

Then come the Nova Statuta (in French). The first begins, Come Hugh le Despenser. The last Statute is that of 7 & 8 Edw. IV.

In the fine large letter C which begins the first Statute the King is represented seated, 4 priests at his right hand, and 4 barons at his left; an ornamental border goes all round the page; and at the foot is a large shield of arms, az., a cross moline or voided in the centre. At the beginning of the volume, "T. Palmer, 1730" and "Bought of Bourne's Executors." At the top of the last leaf, in gothic writing of the 16th century, "Richard Sakevyle generosus," the last word being a late addition.

Folio, vellum, c. 1400. Wiclif's translation of the Bible.—This copy was consulted by the Editors of the edition of 1850, and is No. 154 of those mentioned in the account of MSS. consulted. On the fly leaves are some curious entries of the pedigrees of Mery of Hatfield and Bowyer of Petworth, through which families the volume passed to Lady Mary, Countess of Derby, by whom it was left to her nearest relation, Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Palmer, M.P., of Fairfield, about A.D. 1720.—Also a note of the way in which this copy of the Bible was preserved.

Court Rolls of the Manor of Fairfield:
21, 30 & 31 Edw. I.—1, 2, 13, 15 & 16 Edw. II. and several of Edw. III. (William de Vernay was Lord of the Manor, temp. Edw. II.).

Court Rolls of Hilleferoun (Hillfarence?):
9 Edw. II. (Richard de Esse was Lord.)
10-19 Edw. II. (William de Vernay was Lord.)

A roll of vellum, 14th century, nearly 2 feet long and about 7 inches wide, written on both sides. A large piece is eaten away by rats. There are 18 paragraphs. Begins, Primes ordine est par le commune conseil est plect a . . . tre des franchises de angletore grante a tote la commune de Engleterre . . . reste en meine la manere grante et seient tenuez gardez et meinten . . . —This would seem to be the form proposed for, or the statement of grievances on which was based, the statute of 28 Ed. I., commonly known as Articuli super chartas. The material differences between this roll and the printed statute are as follow: After the words, in cap. I., "que contreviendront ou mesprendront en nul

"des dits points des avantdites chartes" (cap. I. of printed statute) the roll has "solum la ordinance

"souz escrit et ord [turn] rey foreyn ou deseigny

"de son conseil ou de son hostel par en [turn] seynt

"venuz encounter ou face choses qe sunt en [turn] nul

"poynt de dens celuy ke se sentra grevez contre [turn]"

"ce le bref ke sur ceo est ordne de estre de cours de

"[turn] tel maner greve ou tel tort fet apleder devant

"les [turn] de lay e oyer les pleyntes e les terminent

"hastivement [turn] sunt alower par la commune ley

"e de ceo ky ke serra convic [turn] avantdites qe il

"eyt les dites chartes blemez ou trespases on [turn]"

"poynt de eles seient les peynes Jugez e amendez seyt

"primes [turn] eyt la prisun de un an e un jour, e pur

"ke il seyt reynt a la volonte le Rey [turn] [e] veskes

"contes e baruns ke en tel cas facent les a les pleyntifs e . . . le trespas par lour pers solum ceo ke

"est contenuz en les grant chartes . . . seyt unkore

"sentence done par covenant deyvent les ordinaries

"catre fez par an par my [turn] Engleterre en totes

"Esglises cathedrales de religiouns paroches sur tuz

"ieous ke vendrunt ou mesprendunt encounter les

"avantdites chartes en nul poynt de eles: e si nul de

"ministres le Rey de la chancelerie ou de la Chekere

"ou de la Garderobe ou du Baunk le rey ou dautre

"Baunk trespassent ou mesperment contre les dites

"chartes en nul poynt de eles en lur place demeyne,

"qe la chose seyt redresse devant le roy ou devant

"ceux ke il vodra assigner; e pus si il seyt ateynt eyt

"la peyne en la furme avantdite. E si nul de ceus

"ministres trespassent contre les dites chartes hors

"de lur place allurs en sa tere, qe il seyt responsable

"en les contes ou il trespassent devant les Justices e

"(a?) ceo assignez en cel conte ou tel trespas est fet,

"sicum les autres de la commune.

"Dautrepart la comme des chevalers e de autre gentils

"hommes du realme ke hount la somonsee de xl. livres

"de tere de (ke?) ceus ke nent ne tenent du rey en chef

"seyt relese si luy plect; ke asez lur est avis qe lur

"tenementz sunt defenduz par ceus de ky il tenent; e

"ceus ke tenent en chef du rey funt les services pur eus

"e pur lur tenanz en tuz lues on il services deyvent, e

"le roy kovent ke cele somonsee de ci en avant seyt

"relese, e il ad pleynement relese.

"Item, ke le poynt de homage des heysr ke sunt en

"garde note en la chartre seyt amendez."

The next section of the roll is in effect Cap. 2 of the printed statute; but the roll has only seven lines.

Cap. 3. The roll has only 12 lines.—Cap. 4. The roll adds a saving that the King may send common pleas into the Exchequer for some special cause.—Cap. 5. The roll makes the inducement "to expedite the business of

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

SIR
A. HOOD,
BART.

"the poor rather than the rich."—Cap. 6. The roll says that writs under the petty seal are not to issue so commonly as before; for they issue often out of common law and concerning things which by course of the King and his people. And writs often issue under the petty seal contrary to law and against the great seal, and against the great charter of franchises which the King is sworn to maintain.

After what is Cap. 15 of the printed statute :

E ke de touz iceux choses e ausi de ceux ke sunt sanz retourner en maundement le Rey [] bosogne de envoyer lur enquestes ke ben enquerent les choses e punissent les copable; kar par ces choses la commun est mult empouri e le Rey poy de profist en part e mult acrest a la comune e sera grant profist ke tuz fuissent redresce e amendez. (End of roll.)

A roll of parchment about 5 feet long. — 43 articles in the form of letters patent, dated London, Dec. 5, 5 Edw. (2nd). The head of the roll is torn off. The 2nd clause or article begins, . . . le Roi ad este malgwyse. Another article is against Sir Henry de Beaumont. Another article says that Lady Vesey got the King to give Bamborough Castle to Henry de Beaumont: that it is a regality; and is to be taken from him.* On the dorse is [Sir Walter de Henley's] Treatise on Husbandry, in French: the beginning is torn away. The 2nd clause is "De costumes et services dues." Another is "Comment on deit eslire bayllifs on serjaunz;" followed by about 14 more clauses; the last is about chicken. Ends, vos choses revisitez sovent et faites revisiter, e ceus que vous servent pur ceo se garderunt le plus de mal faire e se peneront de meuz faire.

A membrane of vellum about 2 feet long, written on both sides, 14th century, Latin.—Memoranda of the debts, and expenses on the day of sepulture, and on the anniversary, and for 40 days, of William de Vernay, lately deceased, in the year 1333.

On the day of sepulture all the expenses, except for corn, were 10*l*.

Expenses on the day of anniversary.

Claims on the estate, and by legatees.

Costs of wheat on the day of sepulture and on the anniversary.

Vellum, c. 1300, one foot long.—Account of the executors of the will of Sibil Arundell of the goods common to (de bonis communibus) the said defunct, Roger Arundell, her husband and their children, at Claceworth, Wolveston, and La Gore, 1296.—Receipts and expenses. Total, 51*l*. 3*s*. 6*½d*.—Inventory of goods.—Account for one mantle furred with miniver, value 20*s*.; two caps furred, 4*s*.; one robe of murrey, 13*s*. 0*½d*.; one super-tunic, worn (dehilis), 2*s*.; one robe of russet, 3*s*.; one super-tunic of white . . . 2*s*.; one super-tunic for summer, 3*s*.; two gold rings, 5*s*.; two women's nets, one head band (vitta), one hair-plait (1 tressor), four veils and one sorcer, 13*s*. 4*d*.; one collar, one bridle, 3*s*. Total 68*s*. 8*d*.—Total inventory, together with the whole furniture of a chamber (una cum camera integra), 54*l*. 12*s*. 2*d*.

A large folio, vellum, written in double columns, about 1420. On a fly-leaf is written, "Jan. 20th 1710, ex dono V. C. Gulielmo Musgrave, M.D. Exoniensis, T. Palmer."

Calendar (six leaves). The word Papa is erased, and St. Thomas of Canterbury also. Under the 18th Nov. is "obitus Alicie Hungyrforth."

(In red.) Here begynneth the cronicles that frere Nicholas Tryvet wrote to Dame Mary the daughter of Kyngge Edwarde the some of Harry.

For that cause that we be advysed of hem that be slave to study hyt noyeth hem sore the lengthe of storyes. (It begins with the book of Genesis and contains 190 pp., besides the fly leaves and calendar).

p. 27. End of Machabees. Incipit liber de Evangelistis, begins. The yere after that God made Adam IIII thousand Lxx Aristobolus the son of John Huram.

p. 49. Heir endeth the V age of the worlde whyche ys from the XI yere of the regne of the Kyng Zedechy, &c. Incipit sextas etas seculi.

p. 54. Incipiunt Gesta Apostolorum.

After the ascension of our lord Jhu Cryste, Petre, John, and James wolde not chalange the prelacy more than the other aposteles.

p. 81. Merlyoun. . . . And he made merveyulous work of the Carolles of the Geauntes that the englysshe men callen Stonehenges. Of thys Merlyoun ys wreten many thyngs with fulle grete dilysence in the booke of the gestis of Brytons, the whyche ye called the Bruth.

(p. 135.) The year of grace MLXIII. Harry the son of Harry held the Empyr XLIX yere. And in the time of thys Emperour the whyche was the yere of grace MLXVI., Harold the son of Godwyn as before sayde as hit ys tolde agaynst hys Oothie held bi force and royall power the royaume of Ynglond, and crowned hymself Kyng full wrongfully. . . . And some men sayen that Harold asloped from that batayle alyve, and that he hyd hymself pryvvy a grete whyle and leved after many yeirs. But the very trouthe ys that he was hurte in the hede wth an arrowe even unto the breyn pan. And thus he dyed forsworne be the vengeance of God in that batayle.

(p. 152.) The yere of grace MCCCVI Harry the thryd after the dethe of hys fader Kyng John was crowned Kyng of Ynglond at Glowcestre of Gwallo, legat to Pope Honory, and of Peers of the Roche bishop of Winchester.

(p. 158.) The yere of grace MCLXXIII Edward the first after the conquest made by Wyllyam bastard as hit ys abovesayde was crowned Kyng of Ynglond at Westmynstre of frere Robert of Kyleneby Arch. of Caunterbury, the second yere after the dethe of hys fader Harry the IIIrd, and he dyed in the xxxv. yere of hys regyne and he ys buried at Westmynstre. Thys Kyng of England after that he was crowned made grete warre agens Lewelyn prince of Walys for cause that he denyed to do hys homage.

(p. 235.) The yere of grace MCCCXXVI Edward of Wyndesore, the son of Kyng Edward the secunde was crowned Kyng and anoynted at Westmynstre thorow consent and wyll of alle the grete lordes of the reame the Sundy in Candylmas eve of our Lady in the yere of grace abovesayde (he is said to have been 15 years old). Pp. 159, 160, 161, and 162 are wanting. Pp. 165 and 166 contain account of the children of King Edward, and of their marriages.

p. 169, col. 2, line 13. The French Chronicle in the Arundel MS. ends here. The last sentence is, "And than he (the Duke of Austria) was sente by thys lowes" "in to lumbardy and there he drewe and toke maye" "Citees and Tounes unto the subiection of thys Duke" "lowes."

The rest of the volume is made up of extracts and abstracts, with some verbal variations, from the Brut Chronicle.

p. 190 and last ends. And thus the Kyng by manhode gott the towne of Caen (Caen) and made.

This translation follows Trivet's French Chronicle as contained in the Arundel MS. No. 56, but in some cases the writer seems independent. Under the date A.D. 615 (p. 105) the story of King Guntraud and his dream is fuller than the French version.

p. 105, col. 2. Where Trivet says that Eadbold King of Kent, son of Ethelbert, endowed the church of Canterbury "which father had founded," the translator writes "that the holy fader seynt Austyne had founded."

p. 137. The French version, after stating the burial of William the Conqueror, adds "And Queen Maud" "his wife before-mentioned in the 70th history is buried" "in the said church of Caen." But the translator says "Queen Maud his wyfe is buried in the same" "towne of Caen in another Abbey of Nounes the whyche" "she founded at her costes."

p. 142. After the account of the book of the Visions of St. Elizabeth, the translator interpolates four lines.

There are several mistakes in dates.—The Story of Constance, so well known through Chaucer's version in the Canterbury Tales, is given at great length by Trivet. From what "Chronicle of the Saxons" Trivet obtained it has not yet been ascertained.*

On the first fly leaf at the beginning of the volume, written in two columns, is part of a treatise of Graiffing, viz., Tables, Col. 1. Chapters of the 2nd part. Col. 3. Chapters of the 3rd part. And the end of col. 3. "Here" "endith the tretis of Nicholas Bullard." (The 3rd part is of wine.)

1589, April 30th, Middle Temple.—Richard Stephens to his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, at Parham, co. . . .—Since my last I have had a client who though he be most ordinarily resident in London, yet is he a North Countryman, and often that way, and his cause being for matters Northward, I drew the speeches at last by means to Sir William Bowes, unto whom my

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

* It is the same in effect, but not in the same words as the Ordinances, dated London, 5 Oct. 5 Edw. II., printed in the Rolls of Parliament, i. p. 281.

* The Story of Constance has been printed from this MS. for the Chaucer Society, by permission of Sir A. A. Hood.

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

client (seeming unto me to fear God and hauntheit the good exercises of this towne) gave a singular report of wisdom, of godlines and of uprightness, yea and of knowledge, as being a man learned in the Hebrew, Chalde, Greek, and Latin tongues.—What should I say? he seemeth to be a good man.—But beware lest these things kindle in fier on you untill the Lord shall make known unto you his good pleasure that he will bringe it to passe. This day I think I shall talk with him. . . . My clyent though he could not thoroughly certifie me of his livings, yet said he was assured that they were fair, and that he yearly made a great commodity of lead. Comend the cause and yourself and me to the Lord.

n. d. Elizabeth Palmer to her brother (Richard Stephens).—Sir William Bowes has bene here this second time and conferred with me of many thinges, and especially concerning mine owne lands. His request is that if God should send him a sonne by me, that I would deal indifferently with my sonnes to divide the land, but if I had noe sonne that then it should remain wholly unto my sonne Palmer, which request I did not agree unto. Then he would have me to chose two men or more fearing God who should judge of this matter, and all others between him and me, and he would stand unto that order, which I refused (and as I thinke foolishly) whereupon he went away in displeasure. Therefore good brother advise me . . . Your loving sister Elizabeth Palmer. (The letter is by a clerk's hand.)

n. d. The same to the same, at the Middle Temple.—She perceives by his letter unto Mr. Snaith, as also by Kenaston, that he is grieved with her . . . Asks him not to condemn her before he knows the truth.—Says that the motion to cut off the entail came from him first. (He (Stephens) interlines "not so; from her father.")—She has been advised by Sir W. Bowes so to do; what his (Bowes) purpose is therein he (Stephens) has better means to know, Mr. Lachner being there, than she has.

1589, June 14th, Middle Temple.—Richard Stephens to his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, at Parham.—Yesterday the Knight and I had near 4 hours talk together, the summe whereof I have discovered to Mr. Hussey, because he may farre better (speak) it to you than I write it.—He thinks the Knight does not like him; and when he said many women not settling their inheritances before marriage were hardly intreated, tho' he (Stephens) said he meant not Sir William, yet he was offended.—As they could not agree, it was referred to the judgment of Mr. Cartwright, Mr. Travers, Mr. Egerton, and Mr. D. Hamond to be held on Monday next.—(He gives an account of the long talk between himself and Sir William Bowes about settlements.—Bowes said he did not love to live by indenture or capitulation, but in confidence of her (Mrs. Palmer's) godliness, and would take her.)—As she asks his advice she shall know more by the next.—He wishes he had never meddled in the matter, but will do his best.—P.S. I will take the best course I may, that his soundness for judgment in religion and sanctification may be sifted into.

1589, June 18th, Middle Temple.—The same to the same.—(3 closely written sides).—Professions of candour.—Yesterday Sir William cometh to my chamber, where some little speech being had touching the dividing of your land, I told him afterwards that his discourse at Parham touching justification by faith in Christ was accounted unsound by the ministers then present as I was informed from thence, adding that your special drift was for a holy matrimony.—Sir William Bowes talked about it mystically.—They had a long talk, and Stephens asked Bowes to confer with Travers, and said he thought Bowes erred about Church government. Bowes denied it.—Then they went to meet Dr. Hamond, Mr. Travers, Mr. Egerton, and Mr. Fountaine (minister of the French church in London).—(Stephens refers to the enclosed paper about the questions put about the lands.) Then they conversed as to religion; Bowes was offended, broke up the meeting and went off, Stephens overtook him. (He refers to a paper as to whether she was at liberty to settle some part of her land on sons by the second marriage.) Then they talked about Bowes's religious opinions.—The first thing that drew Stephens to like Bowes was the commendation of Mr. Whitfield a preacher.—Mr. Attorney does not like the business.—Stephens rather advises her against it. (At the top of the letter is a request to keep safe or burn.)

1589, July 6th.—A joint letter by Elizabeth Palmer's mother and brother, A. Raynall and R. Stephens, saying that they, having perused all letters, &c., find and judge that he (Bowes) is no meet husband, and recommend her to send him a flat denial. The tokens she has received from him and his uncle she ought to return by the messenger who carries her refusal.

[1589], Aug. 14th, Parham in Sussex.—Elizabeth Palmer to her mother, Margaret Saint Loo at Knighton in Wilts. The matter with Sir William Bowes is not yet ended; his purpose, she is informed, is to call the matter in question again, and that before divers justices and gentlemen here in Sussex, who shall be publicly acquainted with the same, and that he is very like to purge himself of all these slanders as he saith raised by her.—Asks her to deal in this according to the affection of their last talk together.

[1589], Oct. 21st. Elizabeth Palmer to R. Stephens at the Middle Temple.

1590, June 28th, Parham.—The same to the same.—On Friday last my Lord the Earl of Essex dined with me at Parham, Sir Thos. West, Mr. Blount, and Mr. Lenkon waiting on him, with whom also was present the gentleman to make known his suit. According to Stephens' advise she said she could not enter into any question with any other before she had made an end with the former.—She offered him no encouragement, and she thinks none was taken.

[1590], Nov. 7th.—The same to the same.—She has received his letter.—Whereas you seem doubtful in this matter in hand to deal because, as you write, you have not heard how it standeth between me and Mr. Savill . . . As I have often answered, and that to so many as have been dealers in Mr. Savill's behalf as to himself likewise, I will not hearken any further, that way, as you may also well perceive by my proceedings with Mr. Bromeley, for I have given my consent so farre as he shall satisfie my friends and they shall thinke him to be a meet husband for me. . . . Lest that in anywise my meaning herein should be mistaken, these are to let you knowe that it is so farre passed between us as still with freedom I thinke I cannot goe backe, so that he can in dealing with you appear himselfe.

A large folio.—Introduction to an intended History of Somersetshire, by the late Thomas Palmer, of Fairfield, Esq. The intention of this book is to treat of the antiquities of Somersetshire, &c. (3 pp.) Begins, Willinton Hundred.—Having in the article of Stoke Courcy finished all I can say of the Hundred of Canington, I shall go on to the Hundred of Willington.

p. 21. Fairfield.

p. 80 (and last). Lod Hywish.

The volume contains pedigrees, references to deeds and records, church windows, &c.

An unbound folio contains extracts from the visitation books of Somersetshire, from 1596 to 1623. (40 pp.)

Accounts of the families and pedigrees of Arthur, St. Barbe, Warre, Rodney, Gorges, Russell, Kenne, Dyer, Whittington, Bamfield, Manners, Compton, Baber Luttrell, Stukeley, Wadham, Hody, Brent, Orchard, Portman, Michel, Trevelyan, Newton, Harpette, Hobbes, Bleuet, Pyne, Gilbert, Blake, Warre, Hush, Halwell, Philips, St. Albins, Malet, Still, Cheke, Rogers, Hopton, Beauchamp, Ralegh, Wyndham, Dodington, Giffard, Sydenham, &c.

Folio, in a paper cover.—Copies of seals from old deeds, arranged alphabetically, 22 pp., which are not always full.

1727, Aug. 10th and 20th, Fairfield. Two letters by T. Palmer about a canoe found near Edinburgh.

Account of Nettlecombe (6 pp.), and a few other pages of descriptions of places in Somersetshire.

Folio, 18th century.—Extracts, with marginal notes, by T. Palmer from the Pipe Rolls, for the counties of Dorset and Somerset, from Dodsworth's Transcripts, Hen. II., Ric. I., John, Hen. III., Ed. I., Ed. II., and Ed. III. (88 leaves.)

1693. A roll of 4 skins.—Account of the poor rate for Stogursey of 1s. 6d. in the pound. Total, 228l. 15s. 5d. (It includes Durborow, Munckton, Burton, Knighton, Thurton, Weeke, Stofford, Whiteweke, and Halesend, and Cook and Stone.)

A parchment roll.—We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, who have now joyned with the Prince of Orange for the defence of the Protestant religion, and for maintaining the ancient Government and the Laws and Liberties of England, Scotland and Ireland, do engage to Almighty God, his Highness the Prince of Orange, and to one another, to stick firm to the cause and to one another in the defence of it, and never to depart from it until our Religion our Laws and Liberties are so far secured to us in a free Parliament, that we shall be no more in danger of falling under Popery and

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

SIR
A. HOOD,
BART.

Slavery. And whereas we are engaged in this common cause under the protection of the Prince of Orange, by which means his person may be exposed to dangers, and to the desperate [and] cursed attempts of papists and other bloody men.—We do therefore solemnly engage to God and to one another, that if any such attempts are made upon him, we will pursue not only those who make them, but all their adherents and all that we find in arms against us with the utmost severity of a just revenge to their ruin and destruction, and that the execution of such attempts (which God of his mercy forbid) shall not divert us from prosecuting the cause, which we now undertake, but that it shall engage us to carry it on with all the rigour that so barbarous a practice shall deserve against all persons whatever, *the King's sacred person only excepted. Signed by Fitzharding, Stawell, Jo. Putman, John Smyth, E. Phelepps, Geo. Harper, Ed. Berkeley, and 47 others.

Letters, &c., loose.

Col. Roger Sydenham to the constables of the Hundred of Williton and free manors.—Telling them to give notice to Sir Thos. Wroth to whom he has a commission from the general and major-general for raising a complete regiment of foot in these western hundreds, for reducing the garrison of Dunster Castle, which has been so injurious in these parts; therefore certify Sir T. Wroth that he trouble you no more till this service be ended.—Desires them to summon all the men in the hundred to appear before him in complete arms, on Friday 24th Oct., at 10 a.m., at his quarters in Leigh House.—At the foot is a note by the constables, on receiving it, to (Sir T. Wroth).

1644, Nov. 14th, Star Chamber.—Letter signed by Northumberland and nine others to the committee of the county of Somerset.—They have ordered a party of horse to join the Dorsetshire forces to relieve Taunton.—Asks them to aid.

12. Alphabetical list on one page of the hundreds, men, money.

14. 1639, March 15th, Whitehall.—Council letter signed by W. Cant., Gaill. London, Manchester, Northumberland, Francis Allington, Francis Windebank, and two others to the high sheriff of Somerset.—On his complaint about the constables of Bath forum, Somerton, Aldiclie, and Bulston, refusing to make assessments for ship money, they have sent a messenger for them.—Asks him in future to act diligently.

Account of the family of Wroth. A thin volume of 17 leaves, containing accounts of the births, deaths, and marriages of the various members of the family of Wroth, beginning with the writer's great-grandfather, Sir Thomas Wroth, groom of the Stole to King Edward VI. The last entry is in 1697. The entries are by two hands. The first writer (born 1626) says that he married Lady A. Harris, widow of Sir Paul Harris, Bart., and of Sir Ralph Gore, Bart., in May 1650; that he had his picture drawn by Mr. Walker in that year, and the picture of his wife drawn in little, in water colours, by Mr. Cooper, just before they were married, and in 1651 drawn in great by Mr. Lilly (Lely) for 10*l*. He mentions that some of his children were christened after the old manner.

Topography. Family matter. Copies of seals.

20. Seals and copies of old deeds of the Vernays.

14 Ed. I. William de Vernay to William at Pyle. (Seal, a large bird on an animal's back pecking his head, on a chief the word, Soho.)

Funeral expenses of W. de Vernay in 1333, and other old deeds relating to the Vernays.

21, 24. Pedigree of the Palmers.

25. Account of the Speke family in Dr. George Harbin's writing, with additions by T. Palmer. (4 pp.)

26. Account of the Hundred of Chew. (4 pp.)

27. Account of the Paulet family.

29, 30. Palmer History.

32. 1727, July 29, Mortlake.—John Austin to Thos. Palmer of Fairfield.—About Raleigh and W. Halesbroigh families.

33. About the Trevelyan family.

34, 35, 36, 37. Account of the Raleghs.

39. Ditto of Wyndham of Orchard. (7 pp.)

42. Pedigree of the Wyndhams from the College of Arms. Somerset Visitation, 1623.

49. Petition of the Freeholders of the county of Somerset to the King to remove Musters, and complaining inter alia that the House of Commons has elected a member in opposition to the freeholders. (1 p.)

51–55. On the same business.

56. Extracts from original chronicles of the Castle of Bristol. (2 pp.)

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

63. About 20 leaves relating to the families of Luttrell, Williton, &c.

64. A large collection of papers relating to Fairfield. (31 pp.)

65. Papers relating to Williton Hundred, St. Audries &c. (39 pp.)

66. Mendip Laws.

67.

68. 1721, Sept. 27, Mortlake.—Jo. Austin to T. Palmer, M.P. at Fairfield.—Sends extracts of the deeds of Mr. Harrison relating to Poulet.—He gives extracts from deeds relating to Palmer.

27 leaves (not filled) by T. Palmer. Indexes of the names of persons mentioned in the extracts from the escheat rolls of Somersetshire and Dorsetshire, now in the possession of Mr. Rawlinson, 1729.

A loose bundle of papers relating to the families of Trevelyan, Warre, Cossington, and the manor of Cossington. Account of Crowcombe.—Extracts from the Cotton MSS.—Accounts of Mansell, Buckland, Bridgnorth, and Durston.—Some pedigrees.

A small parcel of loose papers by T. Palmer. About the family of Trevelyan and others.

66. Folio, 17th century, in a paper cover. (68 pp.)

Mendip Laws.—Be it well known that this is enrolled in the King's Majesty's Court of Exchequer by the time of King Edward IV. of a great debate that was in the county of Somerset, between the Lord Bonvill's tenants of Chuton and the Prior of Greenwaer.—King Edward commanded Lord Chock, the Lord Chief Justice of England, to go down and set a concord and peace upon the said forest of Mendip.—Lord Chock appointed a place of the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells called the Forge upon Mendip, and ordered the commoners to appear, specially the four Lords Royal upon Mendip, i.e., the Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Lord of Glaston, Lord Bonvill, the Lord of Chewton, and the Lord of Richmond.—They and 10,000 people appeared. (64 articles ending on p. 40., as to commoners and miners.)

p. 45 to the end. Insuperimus and confirmation by King James, dated 1615, March 28, of an Insuperimus by Queen Elizabeth of an Insuperimus by Edward VI. of an Insuperimus by Hen. VIII. of an Insuperimus of Edw. IV. of an Insuperimus of Edw. I. of a grant of King John to the Bishop of Bath and Wells.

70. A short account of Bridgwater.

71. Pedigree of Fournaux.

73. Copy of Sir Richard Brigham's Letter. n.d. (temp. Eliz.). The passage into the county of Roscommon being cut from the Scots, they removed from O'downans house where they camped 6 or 7 days and took their way thro' Rowicke county as tho' they would return home the way they came, but, &c.—News of their movements by scouts.—He (Brigham) marched to Colvony Bridge and stayed there; it rained, so he ordered some footmen to remain under the bridge and keep dry, they having travelled much, until the Scouts came. Sir Donnell Oconor brought him word that the Scots were encamped and would not remove till next morning. He gives an account of a slight engagement. Lord Clanricard and Sir Thomas le Strange were with him. The enemy retired to the mountains, but have not got yet into Mayo: he follows them on foot as he can.

77. Minutes of Mr. Edwards' letters, &c. Confession of Griffith a Connor, condemned to death, discovering his accomplices in Glamorganshire, 1714.

78. Papers relating to the Poulets.

82. Pedigree of the Aclands.

83. List of the names of delinquents and such as compounded for their estates in Somersetshire. (4 pp. closely written.) And apparently a copy of the same on 5 pp.

84. Pedigree of the Aclands, and their quarterings.

85. List of Knights in Parliament for Somerset from 30 Ed. I. to 33 Hen. VI., &c.

92. Will of Margaret Hyde, daughter of Sir William Morley, some years past of Halnaker of Sussex, and widow of Sir Bernard Hyde late of Beareplace in Kent. (8 pp.) It contains a vast number of specific and pecuniary gifts, and is attested by three witnesses.

93. Description of Thornbury Castle as it was observed in the year of our Lord 1582. (2½ pp.)

94. Pedigree of Brent of Cossington, co. Somerset, signed by G. Brent. (2½ pp.)

95. Extracts from Leland.—Monuments in the Abbey of Glastonbury.

97. Account of Stoke Courcy, chiefly taken from Dugdale's Baronage and Monasticon. (7 pp.)

A survey book of divers manors, temp. James I. On the fly leaf are entries of the births and deaths of the Palmers in the 16th and 17th centuries.—The foundation

* The words in italics have been added.

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

of Parham was laid on the 28th Jany. 1577 by Thomas, son and heir apparent of Sir Thomas Palmer, Kt., then 2½ years old.

(62.) A folio volume containing notes of the pedigrees of Palmers of Augmenning, Wingham, and Parham. It contains a story of Peregrine Palmer, after the battle of Worcester, being concealed in a house in Eastcheap, and being present at the wedding of a wealthy merchant who discovered him to be a cavalier, and locked him up, and intended to give him to a constable; but the bride let him out; and when she became a widow he married her.—There is a notice of Edward Palmer's marriage to a lady at Bruges (the betrothal was by the ceremony of breaking a tally of wood);—and of Sir John Wyndham being condemned to lose his hand for striking Mr. Clive in the King's Tennis Court; but he was pardoned.

Two folio volumes of heraldry; coloured arms; but nearly all the contents are taken from printed books.—17th century.

There is (but it is at present mislaid) Relazione d' Inghilterra dell' Illustrissimo Signor Nicolo Molino. (This I assume to be the "Relazione d' Inghilterra de " Nicolo Molin, ambasciatore ordinario appresso Gia- como I., 1607," printed in the 4th series of the Relazioni, 8vo., Venice, 1863.)

Folio, paper, 16th century. Accounts of the churchwardens of Stokegursy (Stoke-Courcy, co. Somerset). 54 leaves, of which 1, lb, 2, and 3 are mutilated, 6 and 7 and 8 nearly all gone, and fo. 16 is absent; of fo. 50 only the top portion remains, but the three lines of writing are all that ever were there. Many of the other leaves are damaged. The first account is for the year 18-19 Hen. VII., and the last is for the year 38 Hen. VIII. Each account begins with the sum received from the churchwardens of the preceding year; then follow moneys received from other sources, such as rent, gifts, sums received for letting cows and other things, sales of things, sale of church ale (which was an important item).—The expenses vary in nature and amount; some were nearly continual, such as money paid for oil, frankincense, calendars, bawdrips for the bells, cleansing the church gutter, and scouring the church candlesticks: the sum paid for a grave was 3s. 4d., and for putting a name in the Calendar 6s. 8d. The church underwent considerable repair. In one year all or some of the church plate (juells) was let out to hire; the church kettle or caldron was in frequent request, and each borrower had to pay 2d. or 3d. Churchwardens' accounts of so early a date being rare, I have made extracts of the more noticeable items.

(fol. 1.) Account of William Gebyns and John Colle, wardens, &c., from All Souls, 18 Hen. VII. to All Souls, 19 Hen. VII. Receipts.—From John Dey and Alexander Score, their predecessors, 6l. 7s. 4d. of the store of the church: from the sale of a bell, 16d.; sale of ale at Pentecost, 5s. 7d. Total (torn away).—Costs and expenses (4 lines). Total (torn away).

(fol. 1b.) Account of John Anger and Richard Hogg, wardens, from All Saints, 19 Hen. VII. to All Saints, 20 Hen. VII.—Receipts: from Wm. Gebyns and John Colle, 102s. 6d.; 107s. 5d. from divers persons as by bill produced before the auditors; sale of ale, 65s. 11d. Total 13l. 15s. 10d.—Expenses, imperfect, because the 2nd leaf of the vol. (viz. 1b) is absent.

(fo. 2.) Account of Thomas Rede and John Balam, wardens, &c., from All Saints, 22 Hen. VII. to All Saints, 23 Hen. VII.—Receipts.—Rent of assize:—perquisites, inter alia; for the Chetill; stipend for a cow, &c. Total, 14l. 13s. 3½d.

(fol. 3.) Expenses:—of the church, as by bill produced, 4l. 13s. 7d.

(fol. 4.) Account of Alexander Rede and John Camplyn, wardens; All Saints, 23 Hen. VII. to All Saints, 24 Hen. VIII. Receipts: rents of assize;—arrears from their predecessors; perquisites (inter alia) the value of a silver gilt ring given by William Bacon to the use of St. Mary; 30s. 10d. received in moneys and pledges from John Honylere; and 17s. 4d. from John Balam in moneys; and 13s. 4d. from John Came, viz., 6 silver spoons for security.—Total, 16l. 9s. 2d.—Expenses (inter alia), 9d. for two cruets to serve the altar of St. Mary; (fol. 5) 4d. at Easter for holy oil; 2d. to mend divers church vestments; 12d. for a bawdrippe for the great bell; 4d. for oil before the Crucifix; 2d. for covering up the images in the church; 1d. for nails for the image of St. George; 19½d. to John Gownyngham for roofing the church with straw; 4s. 3d. for 7 lb. of wax ad Trinitatem le Rele, and before the image of St. Erasmus, and making up of same; 13d. paid at the visitation at Bridgwater; 1d. for a lamp before the crucifix; 3d. paid for carrying the banner to Bridgwater; 5d. for mending the church caldron (cacabus); 13s. 4d. to the proctors for the calendar; 5d. for a line for the chime.

(5b.) 12d. for one bawdrippe for four bells; 4d. for oil before the crucifix; 2s. for washing the church vestments; 6d. for scouring the candlesticks this year, by custom; 4l. 2s. 4d. for lights for the church; 4d. for setting four albs; 4s. 6d. for six bushels of wheat against the next Taverning (Tabernand); 16s. 8d. for 50 bushels of barley; 2s. 6d. for 20 bushels of oats; 12d. paid at Bridgwater at the Bishop's visitation; 2d. paid for the weke yerne; 4d. for oil before the figure of St. Mary; 4d. for one skin and glue to mend the organ; 8d. for writing the bill for this year's account.

Defaults in rents.—Summa 8s. 6d.

(fols. 6, 7, and 8.) Of these only small fragments remain.

(fol. 9.) * The accompte of Walter Rede and William Saunders, wardens of the Church of Stokegursy, from the fest of all Halowes, 24 Hen. VII. to the same feast 1 Hen. VIII. Received from the former wardens, 7l. 7s. 2½d. Other receipts: inter alia, 20d. for the hire of a cow (2); from Lord Fitzwareyn for the juells of the church, 6s. 8d.; from Alice Dey for occupying of the juells, 8d.; from Thomas yoman for occupying of the Juells 8d.; 6 bushels of barley, at 4d. each; from John Pole, to have his father upon the kalendar, 6s. 8d.; from Lord Fitzwareyn for occupying of juells, 20d.; from John Hogg, to have his son upon the kalendar, 6s. 8d.; from John Bowe, for silver spoons, 5s. 6d.; from selling of the church ale, 107s. 7½d. Summa totalis, 17l. 12s. 11d.

They ask allowance for reparation of the church and other necessary things, as by bill shown, 105s. 0½d., and they have paid the balance, 10l. 6s. 11½d., to John Cordwent and John Denscombe.

(fol. 9b.) Memorandum of sums that they are liable to not charged in their account.

(fol. 10.) The account of John Cordwent and John Denscombe, wardens, &c., from All Hallows, 1 Hen. VIII. to the same feast, 2 Hen. VIII.

Arrears 18s. 2d.—Received from the former wardens 10l. 6s. 11½d.—Rents of assize, 17s. 4d.

(fol. 10b.) At Whitsunday, for selling the church ale, 4l. 10s. 8d.—Casualties. From William Hogg the elder to have his wife upon the Kalendar, 6s. 8d.; for a fleece of wool, 5d.; for the hire of a cow, 20d.; from three persons 3d. each, and from four others 6d. each, for the church chetille, &c., &c. Summa totalis, 4l. 3s. 10d.

(fol. 11.) Decays of rent. Total 8s. 6d.—Chief rents to my Lord of Northumberland; for the acre in the Borough 16d., and for the barne by the year 12d.

(fol. 11b.) Costs and necessary expenditure. Oil to the Rode, 7d.; for 3lb. of wax and making of the same before our Lady of Pite and St. Erasmus, 23d.; 2lb. of frankincense, 8d.; for the typing and the setting one of the hobys, 2d.; for the shops (sop?) to wash the Corporas, 10d.; to Richard Pilcorne, for mending of the Chetille, 10d.; for a rochet of four yards, price 4d. a yard, and making the same, 2s. 1d.; another coat 3d. a yard; for bearing the bainer to Bridgwater, 3d.; to priest and clerk for the mind of Thomas Style, 20d.: (fol. 12) for expenses to the visitation, 8½d.; for someryng of a cow, 18d.; to Alice Day for keeping of a cow, 12d.; to John Gay for lease of a cow, 4d., &c. &c. The clerk of the church had 23d. per quarter.—Sum total, 75s. 10½d.

(fol. 12b.) Account of Robert Lyddon and Robert Bytfford, wardens, &c., from All Saints, 2 Hen. VIII. to All Saints, 3 Hen. VIII.—Receipts from former wardens.—Rents of assize.—Sale of ale.—Perquisites.—Decay of rents. Sum total, 19l. 12s. 11½d.

Costs and expenses of and about the church, 35s. 0½d.

(fol. 13b.) Account of John Tanner and John Amery, wardens, &c., All Saints, 3 Hen. VIII. to All Saints, 4 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 14b.) Account of Richard Hilacre and John Camplyn, wardens, &c., All Saints, 4 Hen. VIII. to All Saints, 5 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 15.) Account of John Leede and William Lewse, wardens, &c., 5 Hen. VIII.—6 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 15b.) Account of John Bartlat and William Lewse, wardens, &c., 6 Hen. VIII.—7 Hen. VIII. (Fol. 16 is absent.)

(fol. 17.) Part of another account.

(fol. 18.) Account of John Moore and William Court, wardens, &c., Michaelmas, 7 Hen. VIII. to Michaelmas, 8 Hen. VIII. Receipts similar to the preceding ones; inter alia, receipts for selling of the church ale at Pentecost, 113s. 4d.—Sum total, 42l. 13s. 4½d.—Among the

SIR
A. A. HOOD
BART.

* From this point the accounts are in English.

See
A. HOOD,
BART.

expenses are, for building of the Church-house, besides the good will and operations of the parish, 29*l*. 5*s*. 7*d*.
(fol. 19*b*.) Account of John Anger and John Goodynow, wardens, &c., Michaelmas, 8 Hen. VIII. to Michaelmas; 9 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 20*b*.) Account of Henry Gode and John Dey, wardens, &c., 9 Hen. VIII. to 10 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 21.) Account of Walter Rydone and Samuel Score, wardens, &c., 10 Hen. VIII. to 11 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 21*b*.) Account of John Simon and John Amerey, wardens, &c., 11 Hen. VIII. to 12 Hen. VIII.—Receipts. Sum total, 19*l*. 2*s*. 8*d*.

(fol. 22.) Allowance of the same for costs and charges. (Inter alia) for mending of our Lady's Ile, 2*d*.; paid out of the church stock for tin, 40*s*. 3*d*.; for 22 yards of linen cloth, at 4*d*. a yard, to make obis; for the helynge the images in the church, 1*d*.; for white thread for making of the obis, 1*d*.; for 7 tucking girdles, 3*d*.; for streng for the amice, 1*d*.; paid for the blessing of three obis, 14*d*.; paid for making of the obis, 8*d*.; paid the helyar for helynge of the porch and the Trinity Ile, 6*s*.; for costs to the visitation, 19*d*.; paid to the organmaker by the hand of John Amerey, 20*s*.; paid for setting over of six albis with their amyses, and for a pennywurthe of cloth to amende them, 7*d*.; sum total of allowances, 7*l*. 19*s*. 11*d*. (there was much building and carpentering this year).

(fol. 22*b*.) Account of William Hogg and John Tapper, wardens, &c., 12 Hen. VIII. to 13 Hen. VIII.—Among the casualties are several receipts of sums of money for gowns.

(fol. 23.) Expenses. (Inter alia) for mending of two shurpys and three rochetts, and one obe (alb), 5*d*.; for ryping and setting one of two obis, 2*d*.; for mending of the organs, 8*d*.

(fol. 24.) Account of William Hogg and John Tapper, wardens, &c. (A fairer copy of the above.)

(fol. 25.) Account of Thomas Bartlat and William Houchyn, wardens, &c., 13 Hen. VIII. to 14 Hen. VIII. Among the casualties are, of John Store, for the church ovyn, 3*d*.; of John Reide and John Houyler for occupying of the church ovyn, 2*d*.

(fol. 25*b*.) Expenses. To the visitation to Bridgwater, 18*d*.; paid for skins to bind books, 2*s*. 11*d*.; paid for glue for the books, 1*d*.; for lead for the clasps of the books, 4*d*.; to the bookbinder for his labour, 4*s*. 7*d*.; to the organ-maker of Bridgwater, 6*s*. 8*d*.; paid for the Bretherheddyne dirge and mass, 12*d*.

(fol. 26.) Account of Walter Reide and John Score, wardens, &c., 16 Hen. VIII. to 17 Hen. VIII.

Receipts. Selling of church ale, 7*l*. 20*d*.

(fol. 26*b*.) Allowances.—(Inter alia) paid to the four men to pay the carver, 8*l*.; paid to the carver when he went to Bristol, 13*s*. 4*d*.; paid to Glosse the carver, 3*s*. 4*d*.; paid to the carver for his charges into Wales, 2*s*. 4*d*.

(fol. 27*b*.) Account of Richard Daux and John Denstomers, wardens, &c., 17 Hen. VIII. to 18 Hen. VIII.

Receipts.—Of John Helyar, 8*d*.; of the gift of his son to be prayed for; several payments of 6*s*. 8*d*. to have a relation put on the Kalender; and payments of 3*s*. 4*d* each for a pyte (pit or grave).

(fol. 28.) Allowances.

(fol. 28*b*.) Account of William Genette and Thomas Pyrry, wardens, &c., 18 Hen. VIII. to 19 Hen. VIII. Receipts, 18*l*. 4*s*. 11*d*.

(fol. 29.) Allowances. Paid for a quart of yele (ale), 5*d*.; for mending of the wire for the chime, 4*d*.; for a key to the holy brede house, 2*d*.

(fol. 30.) Account of John Dey and John Berre, wardens, &c., 19 Hen. VIII. to 20 Hen. VIII.—Receipts, 13*l*. 7*s*. 8*d*.

(fol. 30*b*.) Allowances. (In this and the last accounts are payments for making the church wall.)

(fol. 31.) The account of Richard Bytford and John Helyar, wardens, &c., 20 Hen. VIII. to 21 Hen. VIII.—Receipts, 14*l*. 11*s*.

(fol. 31*b*.) Allowances.—Paid to Water Berry for bearing a load of timber for the high altar, 5*d*.; paid for the hyer that did hang up the Sacrament, 2*d*.; paid for whipcord, 3*d*.; paid for a line to the chime of St. Gorges, 2*d*.; paid for lines for the canopy of the sepulchre, 2*d*.; for the covering of the saints, 2*d*.; for the mending of our Lady's altar, and mending of the grysts (prices or steps) before the high altar, 4*d*.

(fol. 32.) Account of Thomas Pring and Robt. Appowell, wardens, &c., 21 Hen. VIII. to 22 Hen. VIII.—Receipts, 17*l*. 12*d*.

(fol. 32*b*.) Allowances. Inter alia—4½ yards of cloth to make a rochet, with the making, 22*d*.; to the two clerks for covering the images in Lent, 2*d*.

(fol. 33.) Account of Water More and John Burnelle, wardens, &c., 22 Hen. VIII. to 23 Hen. VIII.—Total receipts, 21*l*. 11*s*. 10½*d*. Allowances.—Inter alia, paid for yer (iron) for the chyttyll, 3*s*.; paid for the Calender, 13*d*.; for mending of the delstykys of the trynrite auter, 6*d*.; for mending of the chyttyl, 6*s*. 4*d*.; paid for two copes for the rector curus, 3*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*.; paid for the making of the altar clothes to the high altar of our Lady, 7*s*.; item, for the halowing of three corporases, 16*d*.; for halowing of three altar cloths, 6*d*.; for wast of them and making crosses, 6*d*.—Total, 9*l*. 7*s*. 5*d*.

(fol. 34.) Account of Robert Growe and Henry Bartlatt, wardens, &c., 23 Hen. VIII. to 24 Hen. VIII.—Total receipts, 18*l*. 16*s*. 8½*d*.

Costs.—Inter alia, for mending of our Lady's yelde (aisle) and the Trinity yelde (aisle); for the Bretherreds dirge, 16*d*.; for a mass book, 4*s*.; for sayng (sewing) of three chasubles, 3*d*.; for sewing of two chasubles, 1*d*. Sum total, 4*l*. 8*s*. 3½*d*.

(fol. 35.) Account of Thomas Bartlat and William Watford, wardens, &c., 24 Hen. VIII. to 25 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 15*l*. 0*s*. 9*d*. Total expenses, 4*l*. 6*s*. 0½*d*.

(fol. 35*b*.) Account of Harry Hoggys and Robert Lyddune, 25 Hen. VIII. to 26 Hen. VIII.—Total receipts, 22*l*. 6*s*.—Costs, 3*l*. 16*s*.

(fol. 36.) Account of John Camplyne and Richard Phylpys, wardens, &c., 26 Hen. VIII. to 27 Hen. VIII.—Total receipts, 21*l*.—Costs. Inter alia, for mending of sacrying belle, 1*d*.; for pyrnys (pins), ½*d*.; sum total, 50*s*. 9*d*.

(fol. 36*b*.) Account of John Campplyn and Denis Oliver, wardens, &c., 27 Hen. VIII. to 28 Hen. VIII.—Receipts (not added up).—Allowances: inter alia, for making of a new Calender, 6*s*. 8*d*.; to the doctor, 13*s*. 4*d*.; to the making of a new chittel, 15*s*. 9*d*.; for brass to a brasier, 3*l*. 16*s*. 2*d*.; paid for making of the old chyttyll, 4*s*. 4*d*.

(fol. 37*b*.) Account of William Symons and John Scoyre, wardens, &c., 28 Hen. VIII. to 29 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 19*l*. 0*s*. 0½*d*. Allowances: inter alia, to Master Doctor for the calendar, 13*s*. 4*d*.; total, 11*l*. 2*s*. 1*d*.

(fol. 38.) Account of William Stronge and Thomas Hurte, wardens, &c., 29 Hen. VIII. to 30 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 38*b*.) Account of John More and John Hewyn, wardens, &c., 30 Hen. VIII. to 31 Hen. VIII. Total receipt, 13*l*. 11*s*. 11½*d*. Allowances, 9*l*. 13*s*. 8½*d*.

(fol. 40.) Account of John Hyott and Robert Everard, wardens, &c., 31 Hen. VIII. to 32 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 12*l*. 19*s*. 4*d*. Among these are several of 6*d*. and 3*d*. for the chyttyll.

(fol. 40*b*.) Allowances, 14*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*.

(fol. 41.) Account of John Gaye and Robert Sylke, wardens, &c., 31 (sic) Hen. VIII. to 32 (sic) Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 9*l*. 7*s*. (Among them are two of 3*s*. 4*d*. for graves, and 6*l*. for selling of the church ale.)

(fol. 41*b*.) Allowances. Inter alia paid for a bybill, 10*s*. 6*d*.; to the vicar for the calendar, 13*s*. 4*d*.; for a pair of cruetts, 12*d*.; for mending of the silver candlestick, 2*s*.; for a chain to hang the bible with, 4*d*.

(fol. 42.) Account of Thomas Camplyne and Richard Colyns, wardens, &c., 32 Hen. VIII. to 33 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 13*l*. 8*s*. 3½*d*. (Among these are—Received of the Countes of Baythe for a dryrghe holden in the church of Stokecoursy, 13*d*.; and received of Edward Walker for occupying of the vestments at Stowye, 8*d*.)

(fol. 42*b*.) Allowances: total, 4*l*. 10*s*. 9½*d*.

(fol. 43.) Account of John Strong and John Marrys, wardens, &c., 33 Hen. VIII. to 34 Hen. VIII. Receipts, 19*l*. 16*s*. Allowances, 6*l*. 14*s*. 2*d*.

(fol. 44.) Accounts of John Camplyne the younger and Robert Standfast, churchwardens, &c., 34 Hen. VIII. to 35 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 21*l*. 8*s*. 9*d*. Allowances (inter alia), for a cord to hang the sacrament, 2*d*.; for a yard of buckram, 10*d*.; for 3 bushels of lime and earth for the same, 7*d*.; for 5 yards of dowlas for a surplice and making of the same, 2*s*. 11½*d*.; pynnes for the sepulchre, ½*d*. Total, 3*l*. 9*s*. 5*d*.

(fol. 45.) Account of Michell Rocke and William Everard, churchwardens, 35 Hen. VIII. to 36 Hen. VIII. Total receipts, 28*l*. 11*s*.

(fol. 45*b*.) Allowances (inter alia), a rope for the organs, 1*d*.; expenses of the organ-maker, 6*d*.; to the King for the subsidy, 3*l*.; for 5 processionalis, 20*d*.; total, 10*l*. 11*s*. 7½*d*.

(fol. 46*b*.) Account of William Burlond and John Bentskerbe, churchwardens, 35 Hen. VIII. to 36 Hen. VIII. Total receipts (not added).—Allowances (inter alia), for 5 yards of gryne satin, one yard of buckram, and one yard of cresse, 11*s*. 5*d*.; for gold and silver to the altar cloth, 7*s*. 2*d*.; total, 8*l*. 19*s*.

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

SIR
A. A. HOOD
BART.

(fol. 48.) Account of Peter Knyght and William Kyndmore, wardens for the 38 Hen. VIII.

(fol. 52.) Account of Robert Silke and William Ducke, wardens for our Lady, for the year of the reign of King Henry the 8th the 38th.

(fol. 52b.) List of those who paid Peter Pence.

(fol. 53.) An order taken by the 24 present of the hole paryshe in appoyntyng of the ale by the wardens for our Lady always to be taken the Sunday sevyntyght after Assumption of our Lady and to contynue no longer but a monyth, and every man to geve his devocyon at the begynnynge of the yere.

List of debts due, &c.

A number of loose treatises have been recently bound together in 4 volumes: the contents are as follow:

VOL. I.

Folio, paper, 16th century, 72 pp. (An answer to the Bishop of Ross's treatise on the title of the Queen of Scots to the Crown of England.) Begins, Though all things in this world be naturally [subject to] mutation and change. Ends, and thus wishing all men to reade attentively and judge uprightly I here end. (The author follows in his answer the three divisions of the Bishop's work, which, according to Lowndes, was printed in 8vo. about 1584.)

Folio, paper, end of 16th century.—To my most loving [very good friend] Mr. H. Secretary to the Right Honourable the Lord High Treasurer of England.—A letter dated Augusta, the last of August 1592 (4 pp.), sending (what follows) an Epitome of Father Parson's Responsio ad Edictum, &c.—There are seven complete pages of the Epitome, but the copyist has not gone further than the catchword at the end of the seventh page: The last words are "and persuaded Sir William Peter to resign" up his office of Secretarishipp unto him if Queene "Mary would have admitted the." (Lowndes gives the edition of Rome, 1593, as the first known to him of Father Parson's work: but the writer of this letter got his epitome from an edition then (August 1592) passing through the press at Strasburg.)

Folio, paper, end of 16th century.—Copy of a letter written by Sir Philip Sidney to Queen Elizabeth touchinge her marriage with Monsieur, &c. (This has been printed.)

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Copy of Sir Thomas Bodley's letter (dated Fulham, Feb. 19, 1607, to Sir Francis Bacon, who desired his opinion and judgment touching his Cogitata et Visa, and some other bookes.—Begins, As soon as the term was ended.

Folio, paper, 17th century.—An Apologie for Robert late Earle of Salisbury and Lord High Treasurer of England, wrytten by Sir Walter Cope [?]. [?]. [?] presented the K[ing's] Majestie.—Il di loda la Sera. (25 pp.)

Begins, It was an imprevise of a greate Secretarye of this State which may well be applied unto a greater than himselfe.

The Night prayseth the day; the Death the lyfe; the End the action.

After 5 pp. of introduction the writer goes through, under various heads, the improvements which the Earl effected in various offices of State and branches of revenue. (The MS. is much damaged by damp.) This apology is printed in Gutch's "Collectanea Curiosa."

Folio, paper, 17th century, 18½ pp.—The copy of the challenge sent by the Earl of Northumberland to Sir Frances Vere on St. George's day, the last year of Queen Elizabeth, 1602;—and of Sir F. Vere's answer, and an account of the whole affair. (All are printed at pp. 726-732 of vol. 2 of Supplement to Collins's Peerage. 8vo., Lond., 1730.)

Folio, paper, 25 leaves, 17 century.—Sir Francis Veere, his notes of dereccion how farr every man's office in the army doth extend, and duty the officer is to doe. (Title and 46½ pp.)

Begins, The Marshall his office.—First, being the chief officer in the army.—The last head is of the office of a corporall.

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Alured's Political Institution. (154 pp.) are. Begins, If the divine Plato rejoiced.—After 85 pp. of a display of biblical and classical learning, he gets to England, and discourses of her institutions, citing Camden, Lambard, Coke, Glanville, and other authorities. The last words of the 154th page are, "In this case therefore men do not presume to change God's ordinance, but they yield thereunto requiring . . ." (The treatise was evidently written temp. James I.) The author was probably the Thomas Alured who took an active part against the Duke of Buckingham.

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Of the Lord Coventry, late Lord Keeper of the Greate Seale of England; some observations in the course of his life, accumulation of his riches, and happines of his ende. (Title and 21½ pp.) Begins, To trace him in his beginning and first exposition, he was the sonne of a judge. Ends, and as we may charitably believe in glory, as his posterity surviving remainyes in his honour and fortunes.

VOL. II.

Folio, paper, beginning of 17th century.—A breiffe abstracte of the question of precedence between England and Spayne, &c., collected by Sir Robert Cotton, K^t. and Bar^t. at her Majesty's command. (This is printed in Cotton's Posthuma.)

Folio, paper, beginning of 17th century.—(Title and 80 pp.)—The instructions, with the most important passages that past between the Commissioners of the King of Spayne, the Archduke of Burgundye, and the Queene of England in their Negotiations about the Treatye of Peace, A.D. 1600, and in the 42d year of her reign.

p. 1. Instructions for Sir Henry Nevill, K^t, our Ambassador resident with the French King; John Herbert, esq., one of our secretaries and one of our Privye Counsell; Robert Beale, esq., one of the clerkes of our Privye Counsell and secretary of our Counsell at Yorke; and Thomas Edmundes, esq., one of the clerkes of our Privy Counsell and secretarje for the French tounge, appointed by us to treat with the Commissioners for the Kinge of Spayne and Archduke of Burgundye, for the purposes following.—Begins, We doubt not but when you shall throughlye perceyve. (The first head is concerning precedence, and the last, p. 28, is for the restoringe of Flushing.) It is not printed in Winwood's State Papers.)

p. 30. Notification (in French) by the Archduke Albert, that the King of Spain has given him a plain pouvoir (in Spanish) to take part in the proceedings.—This is followed by a copy of the preamble to the Spanish King's plain pouvoir.

p. 32. 1600, May 21. The English Commissioners to the others. (This is in Latin, and is printed in Winwood, i. 190.)

p. 35. 1600, May 24. The Queen's letter to the Commissioners at Bullogne. (Winwood, i. 198.)

p. 46. [1600, June 1.] The Spanish and Archduke's Commissioners answer to the English Commissioners first letter. Latin. (Winwood, i. 191.)

p. 52. The English Commissioner's third letter (in Latin) to the Commissioners of Spain and the Archduke. (Winwood, i. 195.)

p. 57. 1600, June 7. The Spanish Commissioners' answer (in Latin) to the replication of ours. (Winwood, i. 197.)

p. 62. From the Commissioners at Boleyne by Mr. Edmundes, touching of poynt of precedence, the 20th of June 1600; as also a treaty of peace between England and Spain. (Winwood, i. 209.)

p. 66. 1600, June 30. The Councils answers to the Commissioners at Boloigne. (Winwood, i. 211.)

p. 71. 1600, July 25. A copy off a letter wrytten from the Lords of hir Majesties Council to the Commissioners at Boloigne, touching the treatye of peace betwene the kinge of Spayne and Queen Elizabeth, in which they stood upon the poynte of precedence with the Queene. (Winwood, i. 222.)

p. 80. 1600, July 25. A letter wrytten from Sir Robert Cecyll to the Commissioners at Boloigne. (Winwood, i. 225.)

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Copy of (translation into English of) a letter wrytten by Pope Paulus the 4th to the Emperor Ferdinand, King of the Romans, touching the alteration of tymes, the confusion of religion, the division of kingdomes and provinces, and divers other affairs of state. (24 pp.) Begins, I remember a speech of Tacitus.

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Sir George Carew's negotiations in France (156 pp.) It begins with an address to the King (2 pp.)—The text begins with a section concerning the name of France.—Countries for the most part receive their names.—The end of the treatise is absent. The heading of the last chapter here is "It now remaineth to speak of the good or evil which may come to your Majesty and your dominions by the amity or hostility of France." Ends, perchance to the conquered lands the Crowne may pretend.

(This treatise is printed at length in pp. 415-528 of Birch's Historical View of the Negotiations between the Courts of England, France, and Brussels, 8vo., Lond., 1749.)

SIR
A. HOOD/
BART.SIR
A. A. HOOD/
BART.

Folio, paper, 17th century.—Copy of a letter written to the Lower House of Parliament touching divers grievances and inconveniences of the State. (Title and 3½ pp.) Begins, If my countrey had helde mee worthis to have served in this Parliament. Ends, and hath no other opinion of them but their services. (Printed by Rushworth, 1,449, ed. 1659.)

Folio, paper, 17th century.—The Arguments made by the Command of the House of Commons out of the Acts of Parliament, and authorities of the Law expounding the same, at the first conference with the Lords concerning the libertie of the person of every freeman. Begins, Upon the occasions delivered by the gentlemen your Lordships have heard. Ends, an undoubted truth not contrived [controuled] by anything said to the contrary. (53 pp. This is by Sir Robert Cotton, and is printed in Cottoni Posthuma.)

Folio, paper, 15 pp., 17th century.—Serjeant Fleetwoode's relation and opinion of Courts (15 pp.). The proemium begins, All courts in England have theyre beginnunge from one of these 3 waies; 1. By grant from the Kinge: 2. By Parliament: 3. By use and custome.

p. 5. Introitus. (A short account of passing accounts in the Exchequer.)

p. 10. Directions for Commissioners which the stewards of each man [or is to observe] to admitt tenants of coppiehold estates for lyfe or lyves, according to the customs of the manor.

Folio, paper, 17th century (20½ pp.).—Certayne special projects for the discovery of abuses and misdemeanours in officers, tradesmen, and merchants which will bringe infinnye sommes of monye to his Majesty's coffers and much satisfaction and good to the Commonwealth. (Title and 58 pp. It is said to be by Sir Stephen Proctor.)

It is by way of suggestion to the King: twelve benefits will be the result. There are 55 numbered sections in the treatise: the 1st being, Informers, their Abuses, and the 55th, Abuse in Searchers.—Then follow, Other special grievances in the Commonwealth, the redressing wherof will also yeld benefit to the Kinge. The 1st is, Dearth of lether; the 15th and last is, Extortion of undersheriffes, escheators, coroners, commissaries, officials, apparitors, clerckes, bailiffs, &c.

Folio, paper, 21 pp., 17th century.—To the Kinges most excellent Majestie your Majesties most loyall and faithfull subject William Sanderson, gentleman, doth in all humilitie, love, and dutie, present unto your highnes this ensuing treatise, being a second part of his (2½ lines are left blank for the title and the beginning of a sentence) consisteth of commerce, trade, and traffique, with the use and employment of a State marchant.—The address to the King occupies 1½ pp.—Then comes a Table of the particular matters handled in this treatise. 1. Of commerce in general, with the cause of decay thereof. 2. The diversion of bullion and the remedies thereof. 3. The exportation of coyne and the remedie thereof. 4. The farthing tokens, and how to remedie the abuse thereof. 5. Of manufactory in severall. 6. Of our English wooles. 7. Of our English cloath. 8. Of our English tinn. 9. The manufacture of beare, barley, and malt. 10. The exportation of our iron ordinance and the effects thereof. 11. The great sea-trade of fishing, how to be employed. 12. A staple of trade to be erected in England. 13. That a State marchant will be the cheif meanes to effect theise particulars to the great good both of King and kingdome. 14. The defence of a State marchant. 15. The reasons why there must be a State marchant to helpe bringe these particulars to passe.

Cap. 1. Begins, Commerce, properly taken, is the traffique, which is mutually driven between two kingdoms. . . . The copier has gone no further than the cap. 3, and even that he has not completed. The last words are "but it is very necessarie."

VOL. III.

I. Folio, 17th century.—A report of the Lord Ambassador's entertainment in Spaine, sent in a letter written into England; Sir John Digbie (now Earl of Bristol) being then Extraordinary Ambassador from his Majestie of Great Brittain, King James.—Begins, Sir, such is my present charitie. Ends, My opinion, which was from the beginning, that his Lordship had more wit to please his countrymen than to displease the Spaniard. (24 pp., not numbered, from which 4 pp., viz., 5, 6, 11, and 12 are absent.) It is printed in Lord Somers's Collection of Tracts, and in the Harleian Miscellany.

A letter written to the King of Spaine, Philip the 2nd (concerning injuries offered to the English merchants by the officers of the Inquisition) by Sir Charles Cornwallys, K^t, his Majesty's Ambassador of Great Brittain, to the said King of Spaine, dated in (23rd) July 1608. Begins, Your Majestie hath shewed the sinceritie of your royal heart. (5½ pp.).

A letter written by Sir Charles Cornwallys to Philip, King of Spaine, when hee was ambassador there, conteyning a complaint against the Vice-roy of Sardinia and others for wrongs done to the English, and requiring satisfaction for the same, dated the 16th of January 1608.—Begins, The largeness and liberalitie of your Majesty's royal hand. Ends, Conformable to that of the King my Sovereigne. (8½ pp. only, several pages after the first being absent.)

A letter shewing the lamentable estate of Rochell at the King of France his first entrance upon taking the same after three moneths seige. A.D. 1628. Begins, Sir, I presume you have long since heard the particulars of Rochell. Ends, to draw the King to the best composition they can. (10½ pp.).

II. Folio, paper, 17th century. A collection of some speeches and proceedings in Parliament.

The King's letter to Mr. Speaker, 2nd March 1626.

Notes of proceedings of the Committee appointed to consider of such faults of victuals, &c., as went the last voyage, &c. &c.

Sir John Coke's speech to the House of Commons, Thursday, 23 March.

1626, March 29. The King's speech at Whitehall.

1621, Dec. 11. Court at Newmarket.—Letter by the King. Begins, We must begin in the same fashion that we would have done. (6½ pp.).

The heads of the matter for which the D. of B. . . . and to be delivered unto the Lords by the vote of the Commons House of Parliament.—Eight heads. 1. That he is the cause of the evils, &c.—Two matters objected were suspended, viz., 1. The countenancing of Popish recusants. 2. The misemployment of the moneys given by the Act of 21 Jac. I. (1 p.)

The humble submission and supplication (to the Lords) of the Lord Chanceller (Bacon). Dated 22 April 1621. Begins, I shall humbly crave at your Lordships' hands.

Sir Edward Cooke's speech in the Lower House of Parliament, Aug. 4, 1625. Begins, None can subsist unless he be able to maintayne himselfe in readines. (1½ pp.)

The King's speech in Christ Church Hall, in Oxford, to the Lords and Commons, 4 Aug. 1625. (1 p.)

III. The danger wherein the kingdom now standeth and the remedie. (This is by Sir Robert Cotton, and is printed in Cottoni Posthuma.)

IV. Notes of proceedings in Parliament begun 16 Oct., 7 Hen. 5. (2 pp.)

Notes of proceedings in Parliament begun 1 Dec., 9 Hen. 5. (2 pp.)

Twelve pp. containing separate items, numbered 11–39, of extracts from the Rolls of Parliament, 11 Hen. 6., et seq.

Fragment of a speech.

The Bishop of Lincoln's letter to King Charles. (1 p.) Begins, Most mighty and dread Sovereign, I have now these four monthes. (Printed in the Cabala, p. 114, ed. 1663; and see Hacket's Life of Williams, part 2, pp. 66).

1625, March 24. Sir William Walker his speech, who proposed that all the grievance was for that all the King's Counsell ride upon one horse, and therefore the Parliament was to advise his Majesty as Jethro did Moses, to take unto him assistants with these qualities. Exod. 18 and 21. (½ p.)

1626, March 27, Monday. Sir John Eliot's speech in Parliament. Begins, We have had a representation. (1½ pp.).

1626, March 29. The King's speech.—The Lord Keeper's speech.—His Majesty's speech again. (4 pp.)

1626, March 30. An explanation from the King, delivered by the Duke of Buckingham at a conference of both Houses in the Painted Chamber. (5½ pp.)—The Lord Conway's speech. 2½ pp.) The Lord Chamberlain's speech (½ p.) The Duke of Buckingham's speech. (1½ pp.)

Articles of the Earl of Bristol, whereby he chargeeth the Duke of Buckingham, bearing date the 1st day of May 1626. (8 pp.).

Articles of several high treasons and other great enormous crimes, offenses, and contempts committed by John Earl of Bristol against our late Sovereign Lord King James, and our Sovereign Lord the King that now is, wherewith the said Earl is charged by his Majesty's Attorney General, &c. (9½ pp. Eleven articles.)

The Commons' answer to a message sent them by the Chancellor from his Majesty. (2 pp.) About a supply.

SIR
A. A. HOOD,
BART.

The Lord Treasurer's speech, the 8th of August, at Christ Church in Oxford. (2 pp.)

1623, March 24. The Lord Keeper's speech, delivered by the way of preface to the justification of the Duke of Buckingham by his Majesty. (1½ pp.)

1625, Aug. 12, Friday, Oxford.—The Commons' thanks to the King for his declaration as to religion; and their declarations of loyalty.

The Bishop of Lincoln (Williams) petition to Charles the 1st. (Printed in the Cabala.)

King James's speech promising a new Parliament. Begins, Because I considered my Lord of Canterbury's preamble.

The Duke of Buckingham's speech, 24th February. (11½ pp.)

1625, March 15. His Majesty's answer to the Commons. 1625, March 20. The King's letter to the Speaker. (The same as the second item in the volume.)

The Lord Keeper's Speech. (Torn.)
The Duke's speech at Oxford. (Torn.)

1626, April 5. The Commons' remonstrance to the King. 1625, Jan. 20. The King's letter to the Earl of Bristol:

charging him with favouring a change of religion by the King when (as Prince Charles) he was in Spain.

1626, April 13. A message from the King to the House of Commons by the Chancellor of the Exchequer (about the Remonstrance).

Articles against the Earl of Bristol (as above).

1626, March 31. The Lord Keeper to the Earl of Bristol. (Altho' he sends summons to Parliament, yet the King expects that the Earl will not attend.)

1626, April 12 Sherborne. The Earl of Bristol's reply to the above.

Reasons why the Lords should not give way to proceedings by way of indictment against the Earl of Bristol, &c.

1626, May 1. Articles of the Earl of Bristol concerning Lord Conway.

1626, May. Articles preferred by the Earl of Bristol against the Duke of Buckingham.

Petition of the Earl of Bristol to the Upper House of Parliament.

1626, May 26. Lord Bristol's speech. (9 pp.)

1626, May. Heads of certain grievances whereof the Duke of Bucks is accused and found guilty by the House of Commons. (1 p. 13 heads.)

1626, May 11. The message by the Lords, agreed upon the 9th of May, to be delivered in the Lords House at the Bar the 11th day of May by Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching the commitment of the Duke of Buckingham. (½ p.)

The relation of the King's speech on the above.

(A note follows of the commitment to the Tower of Sir Dudley Digges and Sir John Eliot, and of their speedy release.)

1626, May 25. Lord Say and Sele's report of Mr. Waynsford's speech (7 pp., addressed to Sir Thos. Coventry.)

2 Car. I., June 9. The King's letter to the Commons House of Parliament. (1 p.)

1626, June 16. A declaration from the Lords to his Majesty, touching the dissolving of Parliament in the morning a little before the Parliament broke up. (½ p.)

VOL. IV.

Folio, 17th century, 47 pp.—Sir Francis Bacon's speech in the Lower House of Parliament, 5 Jacobi, concerning the Article of generall Naturalization of the Scottish nation. (This has been printed.)

Folio, 17th century, 35 pp.—The answer which Edward Earl of Manchester made to the information read to him by the Committee of the House of Commons.

Folio, 17th century, title and 26 pp.—Sir Thomas Rowe his speech at the Council Table touching the inconveniences that may arise upon the coining of brass money, with many notable observations thereupon. Delivered in July 1640. Begins, Since it hath pleased this honourable Table. Ends (p. 18), and the honour, justice, and profit of his Majesty.—Then follows certaine general rules collected concerning money and bullion out of the late consultation at Courte. Begins, Gold and silver have a twofold estimation. (Not the same as that printed in Harleian Miscellany, vol. 4.)

Folio, 17th century, 22½ pp.—Mr. Pym's speech in the House of Commons, 1640. Begins, He will do a good work for the King. (See an epitome in Whitelock's Memorials.)

Folio, 17th century, title and 19 pp.—The humble petition, declaration, and recantation of John Pym, Esq.—It is addressed to the King, and begins, Your Majesties most humble servant to his greate grief hath received notice from the Lord Treasurer.

1637, Aug. 25, Edinburgh. End of a letter to the King from Scotland, regarding the disturbances about the Service book. (1 p.)

A letter directed to Sir Abraham Dawes, dated the 16th of May, from Newcastle, written by Mr. Edward Norgate. Begins, Marquis Hamilton lyeth at Lyeth, near Edinburgh, but cannot land his men. (Col. Lesley taunts him with not daring to land. The Marques desiring to see his mother sends her a letter. "She goeth in armour and with a pistoll by her side readie charged, and wishes him there, saying shee would burie the bullets in his bowells.") It is a news letter of 4 pp.

Folio, 17th century, 12 pp. The humble and wished desires of your Majesty's subjects of Scotland convened in Parliament by your Majesty's authority. Begins, These are the articles of this Parliament. (It asks that the King would adopt certain Acts passed after the prerogative, and gives a list of them, 38 in number, headed with the date 11 June 1640.)

Folio, 17th century, title and 16 pp.—A petition preferred to the Commons House of Parliament in 1640 by Peter Smart, one of the Prebendaries of the Cathedral Church of Durham, who stands now suspended and imprisoned in the King's Bench for Non-conformity. (He prays that he may have execution for 600*l.*, which he had obtained against some of the High Commission. He had made himself obnoxious by opposing the superstitious innovations in Durham Cathedral.)

Folio, 20 pp., 1677, Trinity term, King's Bench. Report of the Earl of Shaftesbury's case.—The arguments of counsel for and against him; his own speech. (This is printed in full by Mr. Christie, in his Life of Shaftesbury), and the judgments.

Folio, 69 pp. A true and very exact copy of that memorable debate at large between the House of Lords and House of Commons at the free Conference held in the Painted Chamber, in the Convention, anno 1688; relating to the word abdicated, and the vacancy of the Throne on the Commons' vote. Whereunto is annexed the declaration of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons, assembled at Westminster, concerning the misgovernment of King James, and filling up the Throne; presented to King William and Queen Mary by the Marquess of Halifax, with his Majesty's most gracious answer thereunto. (This MS. ends with the speech of Sir Thomas Lee.)

King William the 3rd to the Earl of Portland. Copy of a letter (6½ pp.), beginning, Tho' before your departure for Holland I explained my intentions to you in the fullest manner The more I consider the check which the City of Amsterdam has given to my authority. (It is very strong against the City of Amsterdam. He ends by saying that if Portland's negotiation succeeded (tho' he did not expect it would), he was to solicit the States most vehemently to send him (King William) next a reinforcement of Dutch troops to be engaged in the conquest of the rest of Ireland.—At the end of the copy, a hand of the last century has written "From Dr. Stepey of Chichester.")

I must be permitted to make my acknowledgments to Sir A. Acoland-Hood for his very kind hospitality at St. Andries.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF SIR HENRY INGILBY, BART., OF RIPLEY CASTLE, CO. YORK.

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

This Collection is remarkable for containing several Manuscript volumes, once forming part of the Library of the noble Abbey of Fountains: the second portion of an early Register of the same Abbey (the first portion being in the Cottonian Collection, and another in the late Sir Thos. Phillipps's Collection), and several Books of Accounts of, and early grants to, the Abbey. There is also a fine early Register of Bridlington Priory; and the original Foundation Deed, by Thos. de Holand Duke of Surrey, of the Priory of Mount Grace of Ingilby: this deed is printed in full by Dugdale in the Monasticon.

For History, there are Bede's Ecclesiastical History, and Nennius; a French and an English Brut Chronicle of England; and Higden's Polychronicon in English.

A very early copy of the Annals of Ralph de Diceto seems to be either an abridgment or an epitome of the work printed, but from which it is very different in form.

Sir
INGILBY,
BART.

A work by Alexander Necham, Expositiones rerum Theologicarum, I do not find mentioned, at least by this title, by Pitts or Oudin.

Among the legal works are an early copy of Britton, and some Year Books of the reigns of Hen. VI. and Ed. IV.

A beautifully written volume, in French, giving an account of the death and testamentary disposition of Sultan Amara, has the autograph signatures of two of the daughters of King Edward IV.

The English volumes comprise a copy of Nicholas Love's translation of Bonaventura's Life of Christ, and 15th century copies of the Vision of Piers Ploughman, the Legend of Susanna, and Chancer's Canterbury Tales, and the book called Gracia Dei.

A 17th century volume contains a Treatise (? unprinted) on Demology and Witchcraft, by Edward Fairfax (the translator of Tasso's Godfrey of Bulloyn), and copies of Thomas Lord Fairfax's Memorials (which have been printed), and Lists of Engagements in which Lord Fairfax took part, and other Civil War notices.

Two rolls of vellum (of the 15th and 16th centuries) contain portions of the pedigree of the Bruces and their descendants, particularly the Thwengs; Lucy Bruce married Marmaduke Thweng. The first roll states that Robert, son of Marmaduke Thweng, died in his father's lifetime, leaving a daughter Lucy, who married three times; 1. Wm. Latymer; 2. Wm. Everyngbam; 3. Barth. Fanacurt; and that in the first husband's lifetime she had a lover, Nicholas Meinell. Sir Harris Nicolas (in the Historic Peerage) says that Nicholas Meinell, who died 27 Ed. I., left Nicholas his son and heir, who died 15 Ed. II. (1322), leaving Nicholas, an illegitimate son, who was summoned to Parliament, and died in 1342. Dugdale, in his Baronage, under the name of Thweng, says, on the authority of a MS. belonging to the then Lord Lumley, that Lucy married Nicholas Meinell. But under the name of Meinell he states, from the Escheat Roll, that the Nicholas who died in 27 Ed. I. left by Lucy Thweng an illegitimate son, Nicholas, 23 years old, and that his brother John was found to be his next heir. He goes on to state that Nicholas the illegitimate son died in 15 Ed. II. (1322), leaving his brother John his next heir (whereas if he were illegitimate he could not legally have had a brother). Dugdale shows from the Close Roll that Nicholas the second, although illegitimate, had livery of divers lordships of Nicholas the first, which had been settled on him; he does not give their names, but when he says that Eston and certain lands in Potteho were excepted for the dower of the widow of Nicholas the first, it may be assumed that he (Nicholas the 2nd) succeeded to Wherlton, Semer, and Eston, more especially as Dugdale shows from the Escheat Roll that Nicholas the second died seised of Wherlton, Semer, Eston, Potteho, &c. Nicholas the 3rd had, in 11 Ed. III., Wherlton, Semer, Eston, Aldewick, &c., and died seised, in 1342, of Wherlton, Semer, Eston, Potteho, &c., and his daughter Alice married John Lord Darcy. The conflicting statements by Dugdale and Sir H. Nicolas cannot be reconciled.

One of the volumes contains an account, by Wm. Brewyn, a Chantry Priest of Canterbury, of his pilgrimage to Rome in the 15th century, and Instructions for Pilgrims thither.

The interest created by the publication in the last century of the celebrated "Paston Letters" has been of late years revived by discussions on, and proof of, their authenticity, and has led to their recent publication, with the addition of a large number hitherto unprinted, under the able editorship of Mr. Gairdner, of the Record Office. Sir Henry Ingilby possesses two volumes containing many letters to and by Sir Robert Paston (1st Earl of Yarmouth), and although they are of the 17th century, and their value falls far short of those brought to light by Sir John Fenn, yet it was thought right to give abstracts of the last series of letters of that ancient family.

The two volumes of Paston Letters were once the property of the Rev. Francis Blomefield, author of the well known History of Norfolk: his book plate is in each volume, and a note at the end tells that he had read it through. They do not appear to have been used for the History of Norfolk; but in his History of Norwich there seem to be traces of them.

After Blomefield's death these volumes seem to have come into the possession of John Ives, of Yarmouth, a Member of the Royal and Antiquarian Societies: at p. 39 of "Select Papers chiefly relating to English Antiquities, published from the originals in the possession of Jno. Ives" (Lond., 4to., 1733), he printed the letter from Thos. Henshaw to Sir Robt. Paston, dated 13th Oct. 1670, but without saying from what source he obtained it. However, at p. 41, &c. of the volume he prints the Annals of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, from a MS. by Blomefield, and says that Blomefield's Collection for the County Town and University were in his (Ives') hand, Ives's Manuscripts were sold after his death. Thomas Henshaw, several of whose letters are in the first volume, was one of the first members of the Royal Society, and is named in the Charter granted by Charles II. His tracts on Gunpowder and Saltpetre are printed in Sprat's History of the Royal Society. His letters to Sir Robert Paston seem to show that they were both deeply engaged in Alchemical pursuits, and the "Most honoured Patrone" with which he begins some of his letters brings to mind the addresses of Dr. Dousterswivel to Sir Arthur Wardour. But some of his letters contain Court News; in one, of Aug. 21st, 1669, he gives the news received by the King, who would not allow it to be printed, of Morgan's successful encounter with the Spanish Fleet at Jamaica; and in another he mentions an alarm at Whitehall because many bullets were found; but it was ascertained afterwards that a pigeon fancier near used to shoot them at cats.

On Dec. 26, 1661, Henshaw had a patent for the office of Secretary of the French Tongue, in the place of Sir Henry de Vic, who surrendered the office. His yearly fees were 66l. 13s. 4d.

Sir Robert Paston was made Lord Lieutenant of Norfolk, and his eldest son, Col. William Paston, was returned one of the members of Parliament for Norwich in 1678. Sir Robert obtained from the King a grant for a term of years of the customs on certain foreign goods, and some of the letters relate to difficulties which ensued. He had land at Little Yarmouth, opposite Great Yarmouth, and endeavoured to get the Custom House built there, and managed to get the Towns of Great Yarmouth and Little Yarmouth (also South Town) united and incorporated. He was very anxious to get the Custom House on his side of the water, and to have his land taken for building purposes. Swinden, in his History of Great Yarmouth (4to., 1772), reprints at length the Proposals which Sir Robert printed and circulated in 1668; but adds that his scheme was unsuccessful, and that South Town remained as it was before. Sir Robert appears from his letters to have been an amiable man, and unbounded in his affection for his wife and children. His wife, a daughter of Sir Thos. Clayton, would appear to have resided in London during the greater part of the years 1676, 1677, and 1678, busy in forwarding her husband's schemes; and he evidently relied much on her abilities and efforts. Many parts of Sir Robert's letters are unintelligible, by reason of his use of numbers and arbitrary signs. The key to three or four are given on the back of one letter. The subjects of this mode of communication are doubtless relating to the intrigues of his wife at Court for the advancement of the family, and I do not think that the loss of their meaning is of much importance. If his wife's letters had been preserved, they, together with Sir Robert's, would most likely have revealed not only these secrets, but also stories of many of the courtiers and politicians of the time: unfortunately her letters were all regularly destroyed, as Sir Robert in one of his letters tells her. He spent much money in the embellishment of Oxnesd, and kept open house for several days in each week. He was created Baron Paston and Viscount in 1673, and Earl in 1679. At his death in 1682 his estate was much in debt, and his son and successor further encumbered it. Oxnesd was pulled down, and a few ruins only remain of a place to which the father was so passionately attached. His eldest son married a natural daughter of Charles II., and succeeded to the title of Earl of Yarmouth on the death of his father, but dying without issue male in 1731 the title became extinct. We learn from a letter of Sir Thos. Higgins that one of Sir Robert's daughters married an Italian named Alberti, and resided at Venice. The match was not approved by the father, but he seems to have been reconciled to her.

Another volume of some interest is bound in red morocco, and lettered Original Letters, Vol. II. Pasted inside the cover is the book plate (armorial) of Earl Verney in the last century. The letters were bound up by Ralph Palmer, to whom (with two or three exceptions) they were addressed. This gentleman was a lawyer, and had chambers in the Middle Temple and a private house at Chelsea. He was great-nephew of Baldwin Hamey, M.D., the portrait of whom (ætat. 38) by Vanduyck was presented by Ralph Palmer to one of the colleges at Oxford, as appears by letters and copy of an

Sir
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

inscription on the volume. The volume opens with five letters (1690-1721) by Dr. Arthur Charlett, Fellow of Trinity and Master of University College, Oxford.

A letter from Anthony Cope in 1697 gives an account of preparations for the treaty of Kyswick (which was settled in September of that year). An anonymous letter to Moses Goodyear of the same date gives a long and amusing account of a mock fight at Venice between the two factions of the Castellani and the Nicollotti.—William Salkeld (afterwards serjeant-at-law and author of a volume of Law Reports) gives good adverse criticisms on Wotton's book on Ancient and Modern Learning (which was written in opposition to Sir William Temple's book on the same subject). Salkeld particularly remarks on Wotton's admiration of Strada as a Latinist: whereas Salkeld says that Strada was infamous for his bad Latinity, and that Scioppius wrote a book on purpose to expose his barbarity.—Here too are some letters by William Derham, author of the once popular works, Astro-Theology and Physico-Theology.—Jonathan Richardson (the artist) and his son, who resided with him, were ardent admirers of John Milton's poetry, and they attested their admiration for the Paradise Lost by the publication in 1734 of a thick volume of notes on it. There are in Sir Henry Ingilby's volume several letters by the elder Richardson on poetical and other matters. He painted a portrait of Sir Hans Sloane for presentation to Magdalen College, Oxford: and concerning this picture is a letter by Edward Butler, of Magdalen College, in 1730.

Small thick folio, vellum, 13th century.—A Latin Bible; it has both verses about the three witnesses, 1 Ep. John, c. 5.—On the flyleaves are numerous entries of the births, &c. of the Darceys of Hornby Castle. The first 10 entries are of the births of some of the children of Thomas Darcy by Collubia his second wife, and of his five children by Elizabeth his third wife. (All these are written by Thomas Darcy, who was second son of Sir Arthur Darcy.)—There are 11 entries of other Darceys, the first being Henry Darcy, born 4th July, 30 Hen. 8, and the last being Francis born last of November 1555. (It is not said whose children these are.)—Then come entries of the births of C. Darcy, only son of Thomas by Elizabeth his first wife, and of six other children by Collubia, his second wife, the first being Thomas his second son, born 15th June 1581.

On a fly-leaf opposite the first leaf of the volume is the following rather imperfect sentence in writing of the 15th century.—. . . domine Margarete quondam duicisse Clarencie cujus pensis decrevit liber iste (sic) ad fratres Monasterii de Syon ad . . . domini Symonis Wyntyr fratrem ejusdem monasterii quorum animabus propicietur Deus. Amen.

Folio, vellum, end of the 14th century. Chronicle of England in French, &c.—On the first leaf, dates of the institution of the various monastic orders.

A.D. 1101. The order of regular canons came to Carlisle, &c.

A.D. 1133. Adelwaldus qui et Adulphus prior Karl. et prior S. Oswaldi de Nollis consecratur a Turstano Arch. Ebor. primus Episcopus Karl, &c.

A.D. 1223. Hugh Bishop of Carlisle, a spoliator of the convent of the same church, returning from Rome, at the Abbey called Forte in Burgundy, was ingurgitatus without the vaticinium.

A.D. 1193. The Church of St. Cuthbert of Durham was begun by King Malcolm, and William the First, and Turgot the Prior.

Pedigree of Edward III., claiming France; and explanation of rather more than a page, in French.

Cronica regum Gallie: from the destruction of Troy to Philip (part of a page).

A French poem, "Secundum Savage." 1 page.

Beginis—Dieux et Roi savez nostre roi douter miere } la terre
Sun droit defendre e prey prendre a } ariere purchasere }

Le Roi de France par sue meschaunce ad faite seiser. 33 lines in triplets, with a burden to the first two lines of each.)

At the foot of this page are seven lines on Isabella the Queen.

Beginning, Dame de haute prissee de toutz bien apprisee Mult avez bien apprisee de prendre e haut cnprisee.

(They all end in isee or isee.)

The battle of Troy (54 pp.), beginning imperfectly (12th battle in the margin) Le jour après les Troyens jousement se profirent à la bataille.—Ente, Ensemment ensiwerent Eleyne e Cassandra McC.—A rubric has names of those who were killed in the battle of Troy (16 or 17 lines).

Vaticinia Merlini. (11 pp.) Begin, Sedente itaque. End, donec tyrannum et Vortigernum exarsit.

Rubric. Ci commencent autres propheties de Merlin q'i parle des acuns Rois d'Engleterre puis le conquest deges en cea.—Begin, Un aiguel vendra hors de Wyncestre qavera blanche launge. End, E apres cel temps serra appelle tere de conqueste, e issint fuieront les heirs à Engleterre hors de lor heritage. (4 pp.)

Hic incipiunt versus prophetici Gilde historici (44 lines).

Begin, Regum Scottorum fuit inter cetera B. . . .

Terrarum quondam nobilis forte potens

End, Hostibus expulsi judicio usque diem:

Historie veteris Gildas ludentis orator

Hec retulit, parvo carmine plura notans.

Incipiunt regnationes aliquorum regum Anglie et ubi sepieliuntur (7½ pp.). King Lucius is said to have been converted A.D. 185. King Harold is said to have been buried at Waltham. The last entry is about Richard II.

7 pp. written as prose. Begin, Ci poet homme savoir coment,

End, Q'en escripture les met-troit.

(This is a poetical introduction to the French Brut. It occurs not in all MSS. See Black's Catalogue of MSS. in the College of Arms, No. XXXI.)

6½ pp.—Latin chronicle of events from the death of Edward I. to 1356.—Beginis, Anno 1307 in die translatiois S. Thomæ flos regum et principum illustrissimus dominus Edwardus rex Anglie apud Burg juxta Karliol. feliciter in domino obdormivit.

List of the succession of the Abbots of St. Mary of York. Beginis with Stephen, who ruled 34 years. Richard not one year.—The list ends with William Marrays, the 15th Abbat, elected in 1359.

5 pp. List of sees and churches subject to Rome.

4 pp. Latin verses: some of the qualities of various towns in England:—some, from the Schola Salernitana:—some recipes: and notes of weights and measures.

½ pp. List of benefices belonging to the church of St. Mary of York, and the amounts at which they were taxed.

Latin memoranda of the death of Eleanor, wife of Edward the 4th (meaning Edw. I.) in 1221 (it should be 1290), and of the death of Margaret, granddaughter of King Alexander in the same year without heir, &c.; and of the pedigree of the Scotch claimants.

1 p. A legend of a monk of St. Albans, headed "Contra detractores mendaces et contentiosos."

The French Chronicle of England.

Beginis—Comment les trois fils de Noe departirent tout le mound entre eux, Ci poet homme apertement oir et savoir.—Plusieurs choses et aventures qount escriptes avant ces heures sont hors de memorie par enchesoun qils ne furent mis en escript, &c.—Cap. 2. En le temps Athol.—Fol. 6. Comment la terre de Bretagne devint primes en guerre ove Escocce.—Ceux trois freres, &c.

fol. 101. W. Bastard. Cesti W. Bastard duk de Normandie fu vaillant chevalier et vigoros de corps.—In the chapter before, the author says that William ordered the arrows to be shot up to the sky, and that Harold, looking up, was struck and killed. Girth and Louwyn his brothers were killed. Gytha his mother begged his body of William, who gave it her: it was buried at Waltham.

Under the reign of John, the author gives the story of John sitting at meat near St. Botulf's with great lords and great cheer, and how he took a loaf and said, "If I live a year I will make this worth 16s.; how this "got him much ill will, and that he was poisoned."

fol. 191. Edward I.—fol. 211 Edward II.—fol. 225. Edward III.—After fol. 276 a leaf is absent.—Fol. 288. Death of Edward III. In the same year a girl was drowned at York; she was got out of the water by a fisherman and brought to the Abbey: prayers and singing were used, and the girl revived.—

The account of the coronation of Richard II. occupies 8 pp.—The last pages, 315-6, of the Chronicle ends with A.D. 1380. At the translation of St. Benet the false Scots raised themselves against England, against their oath and the King's truce.—It ends imperfectly.

Folio, vellum, 15th century. The Brut Chronicle in English.—Beginis (imperfectly) in the 5th chapter, "Newe Troye xx year after tyme pat the cite was "made."—At p. 180 is the explanation of Merlin's prophecy of King Henry son of John. Of King Henry he said that a lamb should come out of Winton, in the

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

year of the Incarnation 1216, with true life and holiness in his heart; and he said sooth for King Henry was born in Winton.—The story of the monk of Swyneshed poisoning King John by means of the toad is given. The volume ends at p. 404 (imperfectly) with the siege of Rouen, and how the inhabitants of the town were reduced to eat dogs and cats. The last words are, "Than they sent unto the King beseeching him of grace" and mercy and brougte . . ."

Folio, vellum, 14th century.—Beda's Ecclesiastical History, 5 books:—and Gildas (rather Nennius).

On the front fly-leaf is the autograph, Richardus Goldesbrouwius.

Beda has the Prologue and list of chapters. The initial letters are coloured and gilt: the other capital letters are red and blue alternately. At the end of the work is an account of Beda's death.

At the commencement of the work of Gildas are two very beautiful large letters. The work begins, Principio mundi usque ad diluvium.

At the top of the last leaf but five of the volume is written by a 16th century hand, "Walter Rudstone" "precium hujus libri non ignarus est." At the top of the last leaf but three, "Thomas Wollsey me scripsit" "jussu Jacobi Rudstone."

After the work given to Gildas comes a note about Merlin; then 3½ pp. of Sybille Vaticinia prophetiasse de regibus mundi precedentibus ante Christum et de seculi consummatione.

On the reverse of the last leaf in 16th century writing, "Integerrimo suo amico Rowlando Hawthroppio Collegii Universitatis Baccularii Hospicii Cliffordensis" "Stud. viri honestissimi Henr. Huntingd. humiliss. servus." Also, "Ricardus Goldesbrouge armiger" "viro generosissimo Rich. Gold. " Also, "Rodolphus Pikerinus." The fly leaf at the end is part of a "Computus Roberti de Staynford staur" "domine Idonee de . . . Craven . . . Archang. anno regni regis Ed. III. post conquestum usque . . . Large folio, parchment, beginning of 13th century, 37 leaves.

On the vellum fly leaf, pasted down on the board at the beginning, "Cronica R. de Diceto ejusdem G. de Lascey" in 15th century writing, and the monastic press mark A. XI.—On the next fly leaf is a pedigree from Ethelred to Edw. I.

fol. 1. Guillelmo de Longocampo Rad. de Diceto (in capital letters). The letter is in three columns. The writer lauds William de Longchamp: quotes a letter from Pope Clement to William Bishop of Ely, dated Lateran, Non. Jun. 1191, saying that, at the request of King Richard, he grants the bishop the office of Legate in England and Wales, as well in the diocese of Canterbury as in that of York, and the parts of Ireland which were under King John; and a letter from King Richard to all, &c., dated from Bayonne, the 6th, of June, telling all to obey the Bishop of Ely.—end. (p. 2) Juxta desiderium Rad. de Diceto dicam lauds Benevaleat Reverend. pater et dominus Willemus dei gratia presul clericus. Benevaleat etiam idem ipse Ric. reg. Anglorum illustris cancellarius.

fo. 2, col. 1. De dupplici potestate.—Col. 2. De prelatiis ecclesiasticis.—Col. 3. De Cesaribus. Col. 1 begins, Apostolus ait, Omnis anima potestatibus subdita. Col. 2 begins, Incipiunt capitula. De summis pontificibus, &c. Col. 3 begins, Ab apostolo Petro decuris successioneibus prelatum ecclesie tam Rome quam in Anglie regno transitum faciamus.

fo. 25. 3 columns. Col. 1. De Romanis imperatoribus. Col. 2. De regnis diversis. Col. 3. De synodis.

fo. 3. 2 columns. Romani Pontifices quantum sederint . . . to end of 1st col. of fo. 4b.

fo. 4b. Col. 2. St. Augustinus's coming to England. Series of Archbishops and Bishops.

fo. 9. Constantinople.—Emperors.

fo. 11-13. A.D. 1162, Clero totius provincie Cantuariorum (all about St. Thomas to the end of fo. 13).

Ends, reportasse triumphum.

fo. 14. De viris illustribus quo tempore scripserunt. Trogus Pompeius, &c.

fo. 14b. Nomina regnorum xi continentium intra se provincias centum et tresdecim.—Extracts from ancient authors. In the margin is the name, Boncardus.

fo. 17 (one column). De Mirabilibus Britannie. Begins, Ventus egreditur de cavernis.

fo. 18. (two columns) Annus ab Incarnatione 1154 effuebat quando Henricus Galfridi Plantagenet com. Andegavorum, &c.

fo. 18b. De situ hibernie.

fo. 19. Reges Wisigothorum. In the 2nd col. Of the Kings of Britain. Book 1, begins Brutus genere trojanus, (half a column). Then Book 2.

fo. 19b. Lib. 3.

fo. 20b. Lib. 10. (Constantine).

fo. 22. De regibus Anglorum ubi vel a quibus susceperint unctionem vel ubi tumulati sunt. Aluredus filius Adelwoldsi junior.

fo. 23b. King Richard: 1189.

fo. 24. Ne quid nobis desit, &c. (Spain).

fo. 24b. Qualiter Danemarca multos procreavit, &c.

fo. 28. 2nd col. Lib. 5. Ricardus primi Ricardus filius.

fo. 31. Lib. 8. Geoffrey Martel.

fo. 32. Supplementa. Sunt in annalibus . . .

fo. 32. Supplementa. Gannora comitissa . . .

fo. 32b. Item supplementa:—(4 times).

fo. 33. Comites Andegavorum.—Ingelgerius Aeludis fo. 34. (In red ink.) In antiquis temporibus fuerunt in ecclesia dei scismatum consultationes. (Synods.)

fo. 35. Lists of the Counts of Flanders, &c.—Epitaph of Roger Wiscard.

fo. 35b. Account of a battle between the French and the English in 1119. The King of England was the victor. Gesta sunt hec propè villam que dicitur Estrepine.

fos. 36 & 37. Incipit prophetia Merlini. Sedente Wortigerno . . . (with the names in the margin).

Leaf pasted down on the board. Rubric by the same hands as before, "Prophetia Merlini silvestris Anglorum" "Edwardo regi sancto hujus nominis 3^a revelata fuit per" "spiritum sub testimonio duorum sanctorum," followed by 26 verses, beginning Exin de primo . . .

At the foot of the page, Liber S^ce Mariæ Ebor.

Folio, vellum, 12th or 13th century.—A Latin commentary on the Prophecies of Ezekiel. The text is in the middle of each page, and is glossed: the commentary is on both sides of the text. The prologue on the first leaf begins thus; "Ezechiel propheta cum Joachim rege Juda captivus ductus est." It has this curious passage, "Legite igitur et hunc juxta translationem nostram / quia per cola scriptus est et commata" "manifestiorem sensum legentibus; tribuit; si autem" "amici mei et hunc subsannaverint / dicite eis quod" "nemo compellit ut scribant / sed veror ne illud" "eis eveniat / quod Grece significantur dicitur" "Θαυρο. ο. οπαρ" / hoc est manducans senecia."

fo. 2. Prophetie tempora tria sunt, preteritum, presens et futurum. Sed in duobus prophetie etimologia perditi.

The capital letters are alternately green and red.

Quarto, vellum, 13th century.—A Latin service book. On fly leaf, by a hand of the 14th century, "Hic liber" "omnium librorum optime depingitur (ut videri habet)" "puritatis venustatis more pingentis calamo."—On the fly leaf next the text, "Iste liber incipit in dominica" "nonadocima, et durat usque in capite jejunii."

The text of the work begins, "[Dominica XIX.] Da pacem domine sustentibus te ut prophete tua fideles, &c.;" a passage from the Epistle to the Corinthians (24 pp.); Gr., All.; a passage from St. Matthew; Off., Secreta; Post commun. After the 25th Sunday comes Advent. After Sunday in Quinquagesima comes "Prefacio de Apostolis" (in red). There are beautiful large red and green letters. In the Bidding prayer the word papa has been erased. There are many services for saints days, including St. Thomas, Archbishop and Martyr.—The last six leaves contain services for St. Mary in Advent, for St. Mary per annum; Missa pro defunctis; pro femina defuncta; pro fratribus congregationis; pro omnibus fidelibus defunctis; generales pro vivis et defunctis. De sancta Ethelreda.—The fly leaves of the volume are from an early Latin service book in large writing, with green and red letters. The binding is of stamped leather, and of 15th century.

Folio, parchment, about A.D. 1420.—Speculum vite Christi: in English.—Table for the seven days.—Præmium. Quæcunque scripta sunt, &c. B. incipit. Amonge oper comendenges . . . Cap. 1. After þe tyme that man was exiled.—Ends, confusion of fals lollards and heretikes.—Then come nine leaves of the additions. Memoriam fecit mirabilium, &c. These wordes of David in the Sawter seyde in prophecie . . . End, vertue and grace of þe lif blessed without endyng, Amen, Amen, Amen. Jhu lord the blessed life helpe and comfort our wrecche . . . Explicit Speculum. Below (in red) "Drede shame and thynken." (This

* The letters indicated by dots are obscurely written.

See
H. INGILBY,
BART.

seems to be John Morton's (Nicolas Love's) translation of Bonaventura's work. See Mr. Cox's Catalogue of the MSS. of University College, Oxford, No. CXXIX.)

Large folio, vellum, 14th century, double columns. —Anrea Legenda: with numerous most exquisitely painted miniatures and letters heightened richly with gold. The paintings are valuable for costume and armour. The volume now begins imperfectly in the first legend, "De adventu domini" with the words "animal stare poterit." The second legend is that of St. Andrew the Apostle.—The volume ends imperfectly, in the legend of Pope Clement, with the catch words "hec tamen nullo." Thus it seems that the last 12 legends are absent. (The work was compiled by Jacobus de Voragine, and is well known as one of the most popular works in pre-reformation literature.)

The next six volumes were formerly in the Library of Fountains Abbey.

Quarto, parchment, 12th and 13th centuries.—(Liber Monasterii de Fontibus.—Theca in nov. arm. lib. xiv. 16: in propria classe codicem post lecta reconde. . . .)

Monita S. Basilii.—Ut facile carissimè frater . . . 31 leaves.—On two leaves, by another hand, are fragments of an epitome of Roman History.—Then, Incipit Hist. Rom. Primus in Italia regnavit Janus, &c., Romanum igitur imperium . . . (This is Eutropius.) The last three emperors are Zeno, Anastasius, and Justinus.—The work ends, Quia vero restant adhuc de Justiniani felicitate dicantur in sequenti (Deo presule) libello promende sunt. Explicit. (28½ leaves.)

Hic incipiunt Epistole Cenomanensis. (7½ leaves.)
1st. In me mihi bene complacuit si quid egi . . .
2nd. Conversio tua et conversatio letatur et exultat anima mea . . .

3rd. Humilis Cenoman. minister M. venerabilis atque auguste Anglorum regine: ad illius stare dextran . . .

4th. Humilis Cenoman. sacerdos toto conventui fratrum monasterii Sancti Outberti de bono principio.

5th. Another to the same.—Difficile est discrete semper ac provide beneficia collocari . . .

The last (1 p.) begins, Notum fortasse putas et plenam jactasse notorium si nulla molesta nulla leta proposita tibi religionis extorsit. . . . Ends, Super hanc petram stabit Petrus qui cum vidisset . . . (ends in the middle of the page). The capital letters are alternately green and red.

Small thick folio, parchment, 14th and 15th centuries. (Lib. Scē. M. de flōnt, and (by a 16th century hand) Christopher Johnson.)—

Two leaves, fragment of a medical work.
Fourteen leaves, a Latin grammar: Begins, Quum ad cujus cunque scientia clericalis cognicionem necessarium sit grammaticæ fundamentum . . .

fos. 18-53. A treatise on the exposition of Charters by Symon Oxenford. His name occurs in the explanatory exordium of 6½ pp. He addresses it to his son. Begins, Carta est feodus (feodus?) constancie excludens omnem revocationem rei dati qui regi legibus roboratur et statutis . . .

The author gives forms of different instruments, and then gives comments on them.—Fo. 52. De testamentis: there is a Testamentum in extremis; and a Testamentum nuncupatorium.

fo. 53. Obstacula vero caritarum sunt hec . . .

The treatise ends imperfectly with the words "ut

"rasura superscriptio cancellatio et interlineatio po."

fo. 55-90. Victorioso principi potestates aeris debellanti domino C. dei gratia regi Navarr. magnifico Campanie ac bre (Bar?) comiti palatins suis Johannes vocatus Lemovacensis bonum certamen certare cui sum sollicitus consummare rex virtutum progressurus ad bellum adversusque principem tenebrarum.—Twenty letters, including—2. Pharaoh to the Magi about his dream. 3. The Magi to Pharaoh. 4. The King to his ministers. 5. The heads of provinces to the King about Joseph. 6. The King to Joseph about his interpretation. 7. Joseph to Pharaoh (and so on alternately). 17. The flatterers to Joseph. 18. Joseph to the flatterers. 19. The detractors to Pharaoh. 20. Joseph to the detractors.

fo. 91.—A veritate quidam auditum avertunt ad fabulas autem convertunt. Ad Timotheum sic dicit Apostolus Paulus . . .—In the exordium the author says that he does not intend to follow the literal sense of fables, but only to explain the moral and allegorical sense, following the book of Ovid's Metamorphoses. The work is in 15 chapters, following the 15 of Ovid, and adding other fables which he found elsewhere. He says, "Let no one say that they have been moralized

"before us in the French poem made for Joan, Queen of France," which he never saw and could not get.—fo. 92. Cap. 1. Saturn.—fo. 196. Explicit Ovidius. (Perhaps this commentary is by Alexander Necham.) The writing is by three hands.

fo. 199-204a. A grammatical treatise, beginning (imperfectly?), Si dicere veles et jungere scema loquelis. (Latin verses, and comments on them.)—Ends—

Litera primarum pausarum vel mediarum
Non tam longe penultima quam brevier
Do grates Christo pro facto Jupiter isto.

The comment ends with the words, "ut in istis" "exemplis." Then follow 103 lines about polysyllables. Et sic finita summa hujus dictaminis.

fo. 205. Processus et sententia definitiva contra hereticos de ordine Fratrum Minorum in Avinionis combustos.—In the year 1354, Friday the 2d of May, the 2d year of Pope Innocent VI., William, bishop of Tusculum, Cardinal, Commissary commanded us William Andreas and Arnald Condoym, and Karlin Sicampanis, notaries, to take notes and remit them.—On the 18th of April last past in the evening the Pope was talking, &c.—Divers confessions.—

fo. 211. Sententia against brother John de Castilion, a Minorite, an obstinate and impenitent heretic.

fo. 212. A form of degradation.

fo. 216. Sermons.—1. Egressus illic in partibus Tyre et Sydone, &c.—Dominus Jesus multos ad penitentiam adduxit . . .

fo. 218. 4th sermon. Miserere mei domine fili David. At the foot of the page are the following lines:—

Prid of hert and lecherie	} These ys ben the seven leued synnes pat draghan saugles to hell pyne.
Ire envy and glotony
Wyth a worldly covetis
Unclennesse in God service.

The vol. has 4 fly leaves from a 15th century service book: containing, inter alia, a hymn to the Virgin Mary, with music (4 lines and a staff), and words.

Thick quarto, vellum, 14th century. (Lib. Scē. M. de Fontibus. Theca 3 in nova alm. lib. 16.)

The contents noted on the fly leaf are—

Parabole Salomonis.

Bernardus de vite ordine et morum institutione.

Jeronimus de 15 signis ante judicium;—and other things.

In the 5th gathering are The Canonical Epistles with both verses of the Witnesses of 1 John, cap. 5.

In the 6th gathering is Apocryphum de Joseph et Asenech (8 leaves).

Computus manualis (astronomical and religious). Begins—

O computus per versus computus iste
Distinctus brevier vos docet hec leviter.

Ends (11th leaf), Unde Virgilius, tum altera redit, redeunt Saturnia regna. Et hec de computo ad presens sufficit.—An elaborate table on 2½ pp. follows.

After 6 or 7 leaves of (seemingly) a homily,

Prologus major Alexandri Nequam in expositiones rerum theologicarum.—Omnis scientia suis nititur regulis . . .—The 1st is, Communes animi conceptiones.

Begins, Communis animi concepco est enumeratio. The 7th is, Deus est spera intelligibilis cujus centrum ubique est, circumferencia nusquam. (Twelve leaves and a half, small writing in 2 columns.) There is no Explicit, and another pen runs on in two columns and then in one column for 6 leaves, ending, dictorum rationes catholicorum expositionibus percipiuntur. Expliciunt regule Magistri Alani.

Johannes Damascenus de vita Domini et beatę Marię. (15 leaves.)

Seneca de Libero Arbitrio.—Begins, Honesta, inquit Epicurus, res est . . . (9 columns.)

A treatise on the Seven Sacraments and the Decalogue.

Excerpts from letters of Cassiodorus. (11 pp.)

Arta fidei edita a Nicholao Ambiacensi, scripta domino Clementi pope tercio. (6 leaves and nearly 3 columns.)

Novem Musę. Legimus in Mercuriano regis Egypti mundum majorem de peccato minoris calamitose luxisse intemperiem et corruptelam (symbolical).

Dio (Distinctio?) Philosophie.—Sicut communis ratio testatur, Philosophia in phisicam, ethicam et logicam dividitur . . .

Five leaves and 1 column, and 2 lines of moral Latin verses, headed Omne tulit punctum qui miscuit utile dulci.

Begin—

Undique suscepit qui miscuit utile dulci
Undique laudatur pagina nota refert.

See
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

End—

Ergo non pereat, fiat de divite pauper,
Pauper emin tactus ditior esse potest.

Seven pages of Latin hexameters.

Speculum humane fragilitatis (13 columns). The Prologue begins,—

Lapsus proposui fragilis describere vite

Fallacis mundi que sit inanis amor.

The last rubric is, De lapsu vite humane per quam non immerito mors ipsa nominatur.—The first verse is—

Labilis est hominum fugiens cum tempore vita.

The 2nd rubric is, Of the fallacy of temporal goods.
The 3rd rubric is, On the stupid desire of riches, falsely so called.

The 27th rubric is, Ad concives celestiales Jerusalem.

The verses end—

Te contemplari deitatis lumine pasci

Laus tua sit nobis gloria tua decus.

Latin sermons (14 leaves), seemingly (the last at least), by Ric. Fissacre.

A Latin treatise on penance (20 leaves).—Two tables, 1st of 26 heads and 2nd of 88 heads (sins and offences). It begins with a letter, Dilecto suo Stephano R.

A Latin treatise, De malo et bono (64 leaves). Begins, Rationale creaturam a deo factam esse.—The first rubric is, De Malo; the second, Unde sit malum.

Thick 4to vellum, 13th century. (Liber Sca Marie de Fontibus ex dono dompni Henrici de Knaresburc. Theca 2 in nov. lib. xxxvi. 36. Collectanea H. de K.

Latin sermons by Henry of Knaresborough, and other religious collections.

Folio, vellum, 14th century: double columns, very small writing. (Liber Sancte Marie de Fontibus ad opus claustralium ibidem Deo servientium intitulatus ex dono Magistri Roberti de Cotone quondam Archidiaconi Dunelm: qui hunc titulum deleverit sen librum istum a claustralibus alienaverit, a cetis sanctorum ablevetur per omnia secla seculorum. Amen.—

Theca prima in novis Al. lib. xxii. 22.

In isto volumine continentur isti.

1. Expositiones Proverbiorum (29 leaves, said at the top to be by the Bishop of Paris, William of Auvergne).

2. Item super Ecclesiastes. (In margin, Hugh de St. Victor.) The work begins, Que de libro Salomonis que Ecclesiastes dicitur nuper vobis . .

3. Item super Genesim.

4. Item cena Cipriani. (Five columns, beginning with a letter to King Lotharius. At the end it is said to be collected from the acts and lives of the fathers of the old and new Testaments).

5. Item Expositio templi Ezekiel. 24 pp. with coloured plans.)

6. Item super 4 Evangelia.

7. Item super Epistolas Pauli.

8. Item expositio super oracionem Dominicam.

The first page of the volume begins, De virtute in generali et de Justitia in generali dicendum est, ut de veritate spirituali, et primo de fide que est prima virtutum.

fo. 45. Lib. Sap. Salomonis dicitur esse quia sententie Salomonis fr. s^t et Philonis Judeorum peritissimi et eloquentis qui eas in unum compexit: tamen pseudographum dicit eum Jeronimus.

fo. 58. Cena Cipriani.

fo. 60. Quod dicitur in parabolis Ep. Paris W. Alvernensis.

fo. 89. Ecclesiastes. Hugh de St. Victor.

fo. 119. A note at the back says that 3 quires are deficient. Walter the clerk has two, Robert . . has one.

Down to fo. 131. Allegories and moralizations. Then another hand, not using those heads, goes on for many leaves. Then comes a treatise, De amando Deo (about 7 leaves); then the treatise on Ezekiel. Then comments on the Epistles, ending with Epistle to the Hebrews. (7 leaves.)

Small thick folio, vellum, 14th century. Latin. (On the 2nd flyleaf "Liber Johannis de Kyreby monachi "de Fontibus," with the press reference. On the 2nd flyleaf, Sermones super Ave Marie et alia: cum proprietatibus quorundam lignorum, Theca 6, in nova arm, lib. 2. II.)

The volume contains sermons on Ave Maria, Christ, the Saints, Apostles, &c. &c.

The text (in 2 columns) begins, Quomodo lux et spiritus sanctus vel virgo beata in nobilitate sponsitate bonitate precellat.—Maria dicitur lux There are about 150 chapters. The volume ends imperfectly. Intercalated is, De xii. virtutibus significatis per xii. filios Job secundum magistrum R. de Sancto Victoris.

Quarto, vellum, 14th century, temp. Edw. II. (Bought at an auction of Mr. Le Neve's books in March 1730. M. Harding).—Britton. The law treatise so called, written in French. Fol. 22 is torn, only one third remains. Fol. 87 is torn, about two thirds remain. It ends imperfectly, in the trial and judgment in Attainst, book 4, cap. 12., with the words "e les Atteynours "seyent mys par gage."

Quarto, vellum, 15th century. (Bought at an auction of Mr. P. C. Webb's books, 1771, J. Lowes.)

Les Vieux Tenures.—The first leaf is wanting; the work now begins with Tenure en Mortgage.

fo. 8. Vieux Natura Breviam. Ends imperfectly in fo. 56. After this treatise follows an Abbreviation of the Statutes in French (46 leaves). The first head is Accusations and the last is Wursted. Bone ordinance fut fet pur Wursted, 20 Hen. 6. c. 10. a durer pur trois ans 23 ejusdem Car 3^e.

At the beginning of the volume is a calendar for the 12 months in six leaves. On a flyleaf is the name of Thomas Byley; and an extract from Domesday under Terra Regis in com. Surrey; and a note that 24 acres make 1 virgate; 4 virgates make 1 hide; 4 hides make 1 carucate; 4 carucates make 1 knight's fee. Every hide contains 96 acres; every carucate 384 acres; and a knight's fee 1,536 acres.

4to, paper, latter part of 15th century.—Abridgment of the Statutes (in French). The first head is Accusations and the last is Wursted. Then comes, in 86 leaves, an Abridgement of Law: the first head is Attainst and the last is Title en Assise.

Some law notes.

Placita coram W. de Herle et sociis suis apud Nottingham die Lune prox. post festum S. Martini, 3 Edw. III. Begins, Le premier jour del eyr de Nottingham (5 leaves).

Folio, paper, 15th century.—Some Year Books of the reign of Hen. VI. and Edw. IV.

Michaelmas term, 19 H. 6. This begins in the same manner as in Tottel's edition. At fo. 23b. Explicit 19.

fo. 28. Annus 7 Hen. VI. Begins, En un replegiare les parties furent a issue.

fo. 44b. Explicit annus 7 Hen. VI. The last case begins, Formedon fut porte vers Henry Cole. Another case follows the Explicit.

fo. 45. Mich., 9 Edw. IV. Begins Un John Forstre fust americe en Bank le Roy par le Vic. de Londres. (It is a case of outlawry).

fo. 50b. Trespas. Bref de Trespas fut porte par un home de Londres (3 lines). Here occurs the name W. Elmes in large gothic letters.

fo. 63. Trinity, 32 Hen. VI. Begins in the same way as in Tottel's edition. Hillary term follows, and ends with the long case of Entry en le port as in Tottel's edition.

fo. 77b. De Termino Hil. 32 Hen. VI. Begins as does Tottel's edition.

fo. 80. Michaelmas, 20 Hen. VI. Begins, En un bref d'entre sur disseins. The last case is an Assise of Novel disseisin.

fo. 89a. Hilary, 20 Hen. VI.

fo. 93b. Pasch. 20 Hen. VI.

fo. 100a. Trinity, 20 Hen. VI. The beginnings of these four terms are not the same as in Tottel's edition.

fo. 102. Pasch 9, Hen. VI. Dette, Johan Burburgh prior des freres de Sodbury . . .

fo. 108. Trinity, 9 Hen. V. (sic). Une femme suist un appelle de mort son baron.

fo. 117. (last leaf). A long case of Formedon.—There are three cases on the other side of the leaf.

Small folio, vellum, 15th century, 23 written leaves. On the flyleaf at the beginning are the (seemingly) autographs "Elysabeth the kyngys daughter boke" and "Cecyl the kyngys dowghter" in rude writing. (These were daughters of King Edward IV.) The binding is of boards covered with black leather stamped with fleurs-de-lis.

fo. 1. Begins, Jehan tres chier amys.—The letter (in French) says that,—April last came Ambassadors of Syria from the city of Halap, called in Latin Aleppo, in his lifetime, to whom this party offered that if the said Lord in person came, they would give Aleppo into his hands;—he, desiring it, left Constantinople at the beginning of last May, and passing the Straits the 3rd day came to a Casal called Chechir, and falling sick, called his eunuchs, the chief being called Chillery Agga, who keeps the money and the keys, and the second called Haenadar Agga, and the third called Chapperty Agga, portier, to whom he declared thus;—If I die, take me to Constantinople, and bury me where I have prepared in the cloister of the Mosque within the ymarath made for the memory of my soul. Tell my eldest son Sultan Yldram Payazit to come to Constantinople, and put

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

him in my place for your Lord. Take care that the Ramzans, slaves of my gate (porte), do not come to Constantinople before my son be there. If they come they will put it to the sack (sacqueamante). Tell my son that some of my councillors are bad and have led me to false novelties; kill them and do not take the like. I have collected great treasure in my hazzana; keep it safe; you will want it. All my slaves to be free and liberated.—His secret councillor Nychmed, a Greek, concealed his death, and feigned him to be sick, passed the Strait, seized the fleet, and went with the corpse, saying he was sick, and put himself in the palace and rode to his house. The Jannizaries passed the Straits in cow hides, and got ships and got to Constantinople, and met Nychmed, and said, You have concealed the death of our Lord. He said, if you say anything about his death I will hang you. They drew their swords and killed him; came to the Seraglio, published his death, and pillaged Constantinople. Seeing this, Isaac Bassa, governor of Constantinople, put a son of the son of the said Yldram Payazit, named Churth, on the imperial throne, not as Lord, but as lieutenant of his father Yldram. Churth commanded that the Jannizaries should have their pay for four months. They were appeased and ordered the corpse to be buried.—I think, John, that if Virgil had lived, he would have been troubled to describe the wonderful business of the burial. There are 500 mosques in Constantinople.—The writer describes at length the burial.

fo. 13b. Cy fine le testament de Amyra le Sulthan nych hemedi, et sensuit le debat entre les deux freres cest a savoir Sulthan Yldram Payazit et gremy Sulthan.

On the last page is the date 12 Sept. 1481. Cy fine le testament, &c.

At 13b. is a shield of the arms of France and England, quarterly (coloured and gilt) with a label of three points. An ostrich feather and a snail are painted on each side of the shield. At the top of the page are a brown butterfly and pansies on a gilt ground. The volume is written in a large gothic hand like the types used by Colard Mansion at Bruges.

Folio, paper, 16th century.—Twenty-seven leaves of coats of arms, and twenty-six leaves of writing.—The first page of arms has those of Kings, fanciful, British Kings, Romans, Saxons after the Romans, Danish after the Saxons, Normans, Princes of Wales, Ireland, and in the centre a large shield quartering all.

p. 2. The arms of Normandy.

p. 3. The arms of Dukes after the Conquest, and so on.—The last arms, given by the original compiler, are those of William West, Lord la Warr. On the last page of arms are those of Howard (32 quarters). After Lord la Warr's arms there are six additions by a later hand; and the note that 8 May, 14 Eliz., the Parliament began, and in the Parliament Sir H. Compton, Sir Henry Cheyney, Sir W. Paulet, and Sir Henry Norreys were made Lords.

The writer gives the Dukes and other peers made in the several reigns down to Queen Elizabeth.

Large thick folio, paper, 16th century.—Book of receipts and payments by Sir William Ingilby when Treasurer of Berwick. Three leaves and 291 leaves, numbered as far as 270.

Receipts by Mr. Treasurer of Berwick, 1557 and 1558, the first is Received at London by himself, 15,000l.

Sir W. Ingilby's signature is to two orders made by him as Deputy Steward for Henry Earl of Northumberland, within Knaresborough Forest.

Thick 12^o, paper, 16th century. Medical recipes, some in Latin, some in English.

8^o vellum, 15th century.

fo. 1-24. English medical recipes, each rubricated.

fo. 25-42. Latin recipes.

fo. 43, rather later writing.

Four pages of fyleaves at the beginning are part of a short chronicle in Latin, 1080-1415.

FOUNTAINS ABBEY.

Folio, vellum, 14th century.—Register or Coucher Book of Fountains Abbey.—D. to J., pp. 1-581. The first place is Dakre, and the last is Jarum. The leaves containing the charters of Hutton Conyers and the first 16 charters of Galophay are lost. A leaf of one of the quire books of Abbey is in the Volume; and the last volume of the register mentioned below is said to contain a similar leaf.

Vol. 1 of the register is in the Cottonian Collection, Tiberina, C. XII.—The volume containing K.—M. is in the Collection of Sir Thomas Phillipps. The other volumes have not been found.

Dodsworth, Drake, and Burton had the use of the present volume.—A note by Richard Gascoigne, dated 15th Dec. 1629, says that at p. 46 is a catalogue of the book.—

Eight 4to. leaves of vellum (13th century), containing variously one, two, and three columns of lists of deeds of—1a. Aldeburg; 1b. Swynton and Wardenemershe, and Ilkeline.—2a. Ilkeline and Wardenemershe; 2b. Thorpgruel, Carte de Mowbray pertinentes ad Aldeburg. The same heading.—3b. Caldewell.—4a. Aldewert, Boton. 4b. Myldeby.—5b. Ethelingthorp, Tyndale. 6a. Skelton, Hewie. 6b. to the end. Discorford (These leaves have been placed loose in the register last described).

Five small membranes, 14th century. Memoranda of certain property of the "Infirmatorium Secularium" of Fountains Abbey; and a sixth do., very narrow.

Small folio, vellum, 538 pp., close writing. Various rentals of the possessions of Fountain Abbey in the 14th and 15th centuries.

A long narrow folio, paper, 15th century.—Stock Book of Fountains Abbey, temp. Edw. IV., Rich. III., and Hen. VII., beginning with Lofthouse.—Computus cum Milone Rayner et Will. Atkynson ad item tempus supra (in pencil, 20 Ed. 4.) perhaps to 7 Hen. VII. Imperfect at the end.

Account book (quarto) kept chiefly by brother Thomas Swynton (who became Prior in 1471), about 130 leaves. It contains accounts between the Abbot and his tenants; accounts of expenses and of money paid by Swynton for the House: payments to him for rent, cattle, corn, &c.; accounts of cattle received in part of rent. The first four pages have an alphabetical list of places. At the end is an alphabetical list of servants of the Abbey.—At fo. 3 is, Computus cum Rob. Mal'. xx die Martii anno 46.

Another quarto (318 pp.) is the Stewards book of receipts from tenants.—The first entry is an account with the tenants in the county by Edward Tyrre in 1526 and 1527. The second is in 1526; the third is in 1524; the last is in 1536.—At p. 85 is the beginning of the will of Miles Hardcastle of Somerbygge, dated the last of June 1574. It is signed by Marmaduke Hardcastle. There are some accounts of 21 Hen. VIII.

A paper roll.—Valor, &c. of Fountains Abbey.—It is many yards long, and is a duplicate of the surveys of certain estates of the dissolved Monastery of Fountains granted to Sir R. Gresham, 1st Oct. 1540, now at the Record Office.—This survey was printed for the Surtees Society in vol. 1 of Memorials of Fountains Abbey.

Folio, paper, 16th century.—Copy of Articles of Instruction given to Sir William Wyggeston, Kt., and Wm. Hamberston, for the better proceeding in the execution of a Commission to them under the seal of the Duchy of Lancaster, 18th May, 4 and 5 Philip & Mary, for the survey of all honours, castles, manors, lands, possessions, and hereditaments belonging to the said Duchy in the counties of Stafford, Derby, and Warwick.—They are arranged under the following heads.—Lordships and manors, freeholders, customary tenants, tenants at will, terrors for years. Parks, forests, and chaces. Mines of Metal and Coal. Bondmen: (of all bondmen of blood regardant to the manor, and what lands or tenements they have and the nature thereof, and what habitation or substance they are of, and what commodity the King's and Queen's Majesties have by them, and whether it be more beneficial to their Majesties to retain them still bond, or to manumit them; and to enquire what they will yield for their manumission). Patronages of Churches. Woods. Commons and Waste. The Leet Court. Marks of Swans. The Court Baron. Reprises and Deductions. Decays of rents.

fos. 7 and 8.—"For Quilets lying in sundry Lordships, and being no manor." Houses in cities, boroughs, and towns. Reversions. Rents and services reserved upon Letters Patent. Feodarys, Court Rolls, and other evidences. Lordships and manors demised for years.

On four separate pages are forms of Letters of Assistance directed to, 1. Gentlemen of Worship in the County. 2. Keepers of Castles. 3. Receivers. 4. Stewards.

Synopsis of the estates of the Monastery of Fountains. Swyne and Nunkeling granted by Patent to Sir Richard Gresham, 1st Oct., 32 Hen. VIII. (about 20 leaves).

n. d. Roger de Molbr. to the Archbishop of York and the Chapter of St. Peter of York, and all sons of Holy Church. He gives to God and St. Mary of Fountains the Grange of Dacre, with the appurtenances, &c., as is contained in his charters; and moreover, for an increment, as the stream (rivus) of Beverlac falls into Nid,

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

where the old Chapel was, and thence as Nid comes as far as Hitherfeldebec, and thence as Hitherfeldebec goes on as far as the bounds (divisas) of Craven,—in frankalmoin. He reserves buck and doe, boar and goat and birds which are taken otherwise. Witnesses, the Chapter of St. Peter of York; Phil., Prior of the Holy Trinity, York; Walter of the Temple; Simun and Hamun and William Bwun; Ralph de Langeloft; William Vicarii (sic) of St. Peter; Paulinus of Ledes; Gamel de Duncelford; Robert, son of Simon de Seel; Robert, the Chaplain of Roger de Molbr.; Robert de Danulle, and William his brother; Thorpin son of Robert son of Cophi; Gillebert de Buddeshala; Ralf the Great; Walter de Ros; Osbert de Shipwic; William Nobilis. Seal (loose), thick circular green wax. A man armed, on a horse, with shield having a large boss on his arm, and a sword. Legend, Sigillum . . . Molbra.—The consideration for the grant was 100 lbs. of silver.

12th century.—William son of Richard de Rippelay, gives to the Monastery in frankalmoin, in the territory of Rippelay, all land, as the brook which runs between the bounds of Catton and Rippelay descends from the pool of Catton, &c. They are to inclose with a hedge or ditch. He gives them a right of way in his fee of Rippelay, except in corn and meadow; and confirms the gifts of his ancestors of lands in Ripley. Witnesses, Bern his brother; Hervey de Stanley; Nicholas de Catton; Robert de Munketer; and three others. Red seal, floriated, with legend.

(n. d., indorsed Rippelay, 22.) Ralph son of William de Scottin gives to the Abbey the 32d. which they were used to pay yearly for half a carucate in Ripley and in Godwynescales, which Robert son of Hunceman formerly held. Witnesses, Robert de Plumpton; Richard de Godesburge; Robert de Staynlay; Richard de Brertone; Thomas Turpin; and four others. Seal of red wax; three leaves on stems, and a legend; rather broken.

(n. d., indorsed Rippelay, 44.) John Abbat. of Fountains and the Convent grant to Richard Turpin and his heirs, for homage and service, a cultura in the territory of Ripley called Wdehuseriding; to be held in fee of them.—Rent, 2s. Witnesses, William the Prior; Stephen the Sub-Prior; John the Cellarer; Roger Mauleverer; Alan de Kyrkeby; Simon de Kyrkeby; and two others.

(n. d., indorsed Rippelay, 43.) John the Abbat and the Convent of Fountains give to John son of Robert de Clint, in fee, 1 bovate of land in Ulecotes, with a messuage, &c., viz., that bovat which was of Roger son of Thomas, and also the land which Roger son of Matilda gave to them, viz., whatever Bewyna had in Rippelay and in Ulecotes; also the land which Thomas son of Roger de Rippeley gave to them in Rippeleye;—to be holden of them:—Rent, 12s.—Warranty.—If they cannot warrant, the payment is to stop. They also confirm to John, in fee, the land which he holds in the fee of Ralph de Scotton, of which land Ralph gave them the service, to wit, 6d. yearly. Witnesses, John de Walkingham; Robert de Staynlay; Robert de Marketon; Ralph de Scotton; Richard de Brertone; Roger de Scottone; and others.—Seal, of red wax, of the grantee. (This is the duplicate; the other is tied up with it.)

n. d. Ralph son of William de Scotton grants to the Abbey 1½ carucates of that which he had in Ripley and in Ulecotes, with the appurtenances: yearly rent, 2s.—Warranty. Witnesses, John Aleman; William Ward; William de Salleia; William de Cortun; Robert de Munketon; Robert Forest; Robert Brun; Richard de Carp; and others. Seal of red wax; three leaves on stem.

n. d. Walter son of Ralph for his soul's health grants to the Abbey, with his corpse to be buried there, 1½ carucates of land in Ripley and Ulecote, with the appurtenances, viz., that which he had from Ralph son of William de Scottone: also an assart in the territory of Lindelay, viz., that which William Baret gave to him; and 1 lb. of pepper every year to be received from Robert de Withington.—Witnesses, William the Chaplain; John Alemannus; Robert de Munketon; William de Curtone; Robert Crevequer; Robert Brun of Stainlei; Symon de Stainlei; Roger de Evrestone; and others. Oval red seal; device, a sheathed dagger (well cut).

n. d. (13th century). Geoffrey de Rufford grants to the Abbey all his land in Ripley of the gift of Master Richard de Arnevale, with the capital, messuage, and buildings, &c. Witnesses, Nicholas Ward; William de Middleton; Adam Ward; Alan de Aldefeld; Robert de Staynlay; William de Deserto; and four others named, &c. Red wax seal (broken); device, a bird.

1301, April 13. John de Moubray son and heir of Roger de Moubray, for the souls of himself and his ancestors, &c., grants to the Abbey all right of wild or domestic goat or sow, or other kind of pigs, in the place of the monks of Fountains and Niddesdale. Witnesses, Robert de Coygners; Nicholas de Hewik, Ralph de Bernavile (or Dernavile), Knights; William de Aldefeld son of William de Aldefeld; William de Braythwayth; Robert de Carleton; and others. Green seal; a shield charged with a lion rampant, and a legend. (Endorsed, Dakre carta, 27. b.)

An agreement (on paper, 15th century) between John Abbat of Fountains and William Ingilby: signed by both.

1329, 3 Ed. III., Oct. 11th, Ebor. Insepimus, by William son of Lord William de Ros of Ingmanthorp, Kt., of a Charter of the Venerable men Lord William son of Robert de Ros formerly his grandfather and brother Rocelin, formerly humble Minister of the Chivalry of the Temple in England, Adam fil., Reginald, Nigel le Boteller, John the Clerk, and all other free tenants of Southdichon, whose tenor is,—To all, &c., William de Ros son of Robert de Ros, brother Rocelin, &c., Adam fil., Reginald, Nigel de Boteller, John the Clerk, and all other free tenants of South Dighton, greeting. It is agreed between us on the one part and Thomas de Stanford, Robert le Boteller, Nigel de Stockeld, Geoffrey Sagun, Nigel le Boteller, Isolda Dusil, Richard Page, Robert de Ribstone, Nigel son of William Dusil, Thomas son of Thomas de Stockeld, and the other free tenants in Northdichon of the other part, on the vigil of the Assumption 1250, that the said freemen of North Dichon might appropriate and divide between them, and enclose, and so keep for ever in fee, all that place, with the appurtenances, called Syswyneland, with the moor, viz., from the Bridge of Newsom to the vill of North Dichon, as far as the toft belonging to that bovat which the heirs of Yedone held in the said vill; and from North Dichon to Gledewynriding per campum del North, and so per Gledewynriding as far as the water of Crempel, viz., as far as Aylwardeswath; To hold to the said Tho. de Stanford, &c. &c., together with the site of the fold (bercarie) of the said T. de Stanford, as by foss enclosed, free from all claims of us or our heirs, and free from claims of common, &c. Also license to the men of North Dichon to appropriate that place which was common pasture, viz., from the bridge of Ribstone, as the road runs, thence towards the North, to the way called Yokesgate, and from Yokesgate to Depeker, as the siket descends to Brolleknolle, and so by the Moresich to the assart which Richard fiz William of North Dichon sold to the brethren of the Temple, and so by the assart to the water of Crempelle viz., to the ford (vadium) called Ingmanthorpwath; save to the grantor and his heirs common of pasture in the last-mentioned place (placea), with entry and exit for beasts after the wheat is carried, except 7 acres nearest in circuit to the fold of the brethren of the Temple, which as well they (the grantors) as the said freemen of North Dichon gave the said brethren to enclose.—Further grant to the said freemen of North Dichon their free fishing in the water of Crempelle for ever, and also that they may have all their wood called Rouhworthuicke, and do what they like with it.—Further, none of his men of Newsom shall have common for plough beasts or animals in the pasture of North Dichon, beyond the water of Crempelle. For this they gave him 10 marks of silver, and granted to him and the Templars that they might enclose and appropriate their wood called Estwood at will, and divide between them; without entry as long as it was enclosed. And if he (De Ros) or his heirs wished to assart and approve to us and our freemen of South Dichon, in the said wood of South Dichon, they may at their will.—In duplicate.—Witnesses, Dom. William de Ireby, Steward of Knaresborough; Henry son of Richard de Percy; John le Vavasour; Thomas son of Peter; Robert de Ekyngtone; Peter de Jaspemulle, Knights; William de Plimpton; Matthew de Bram; Rechemann Kalle; Nicholas de Silynghale; Robert de Setell; Ralph de Lisures; Elyas de Rychemond, Clerk; and others.—And I, Lord William son of Lord William de Ros, confirm the said writing and everything, and for me and my heirs and assigns confirm to John Pycard of North Dichon, Robert Blome, Hugh le Byller, John le Boteller, and the other free tenants of North Dighton, and their heirs and assigns, except religious men and their tenants. Moreover, I grant for me, &c. to John Pycard of North Dichon, his heirs and assigns, that if his plough beasts or animals in my woods and severalties of North Dichon,

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

Ingmanthorp, and South Dighton are found, they shall be amicably driven out without damage. I confirm all the above to the freemen of North Dighton, their heirs and assigns, except religious men and their tenants. Witnesses, Dom. William de Plumpton, Henry de Hertelyngtone, William Grammar, John de Walkingham, Knights: Nigel de Wetherby; Hugh son of William de Bylton; John de Dighton; Matthew de Bram; Thomas de Eynille; and others. Round seal of red wax, shield charged with three water bougets and a label of three points; legend.

Memorandum (temp. Ed. 3) that William de Ros and his free tenants of North Dighton had quitted claim (not saying to whom) in frankalmoin a culture on the west of Walleford bridge in Dyghton, &c. in consideration thereof the Templars released to De Ros and his men of the soken of Dyghton all repairs of the stang and mill of Walleford and carriage, &c. which they were bound to do at the summons of the Preceptor for the time being of Ribstane.

1378. Indiction 1. Nov. 29. First year of Pope Urban VI. Witnesses, Conrad de Fulda, notary public, Werner Holt and Nicholas called Schoppoldeshain, clerks of Wurtzburg, Minden, and Meissen cities and dioceses.—Certificate by Arnold de Lostan, public apostolic and imperial notary. Oval red seal 3 inches high: a mitred figure holding a cross under a canopy; below, a bishop with staff, and on each side of him a shield; seemingly a saltire lozenge, a crescent in chief. Legend, S. fratr. Guil. [Dei] gra. Epi Achaden.

The document is given, done, and published at Rome, hospicio habitacionis nostre. The effect is as follows:—To the reverend father and lord D.G. the Archbishop and the Venerable the Dean and Chapter, and every canon and person of the Church of York and all others, &c. Brother William episcopus Achaden, executor for the under-written things, together with our under-mentioned colleagues &c. by the Holy See specially deputé:—Recites a papal letter,—Urban VI. to his beloved son John son of the noble man John Moubray, Kt. Canon of York, Doctor of Laws, creating him specially a canon; dated, Rome, St. Peters, 4 knl. May, 1st year:—After reading it he was required by John to execute it; he therefore calls on the Archbishop, &c. to receive John as a Canon and Brother, and to give him a stall in the choir, and a place in the chapter; and a prebend or a dignity or parsonage or office fitting; or if none be then vacant, then such an one when it falls vacant.

BRIDLINGTON PRIORY.

Very large folio, vellum, 13th and 14th centuries, more than 450 leaves, large Gothic writing.—Register of Bridlington Priory.

It begins with an Insuperimus dated at York, 23 Feb., 5 Ed. 3., of several charters. Among the witnesses are W. Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield and Marmaduke de Tweng.

The latter leaves contain extracts from the Plea Rolls of law cases concerning the Priory: and copies of confirmations of charters and papal bulls.

The volume contains some notes by R. Gascoigne in the 17th century.—It is noticed by Tanner in the Notitia Monastica.

Vellum, 10 lines. Pope Boniface to the Abbat and Monastery of Coram, York diocese. At the prayers of Richard the Abbat and the convent of St. Mary of Jorvaux, which Abbat is at the Roman See, we direct you that all innovations, attempted after he has started, you turn back unto their former state.—Oval seal of dark wax; under a canopy a figure with outstretched arms.

Roll of vellum, nearly 5 feet long by 1 foot wide, early 15th century: containing account, in Latin, of some of the Bruces and their descendants. It begins with Robert Bruys who died in 1141: his brother William Brus was first Prior of Gisburn.—Peter son of Peter died without issue, and was succeeded by his four sisters, Agnes, Lucy, Margaret, and Ladarma. From Agnes came the Fauconbergs, and her line is brought down to James Strangways who married Alice daughter of Lord Scrope of Upsal, and John Conyers who married a daughter of Scrope of Bolton. There are special notices regarding some of the line, particularly the Thwengs. Robert Thweng son of Marmaduke Thweng died before his father, so the father gave the inheritance to Marmaduke the second son. Lucy daughter of Robert married first William Latymer; second Robert Everyingham; third Bartholomew Fanacurt, a foreigner. During William Latymer's life she had for a lover Nicholas Menell; and from their issue came a family named Darcy.

A roll of vellum, four feet long, 16th century.—Pes Gradus Roberti de Bruse et suorum sequentium ad . . . Petrum de Bruse qui prius concessit transos vulgariter Petercorne dat. per eundem Petrum Deo et pauperibus hospitalis Sancti Petri Eborum prout lucide inferius patebit. It begins with Robert de Bruse, who came in with the Conqueror in 1066, down to 1307. Peter died in 1273 (1283 P.) 14 Oct. 9 Edw. 1: when the male line failed; the females and their issue are then given.

Copy of exemplification, dated Westminster, 18 July, 4 (Hen. 3.), of Charter by Peter de Bruse granting the Petercorne, and of a confirmation thereof by King Henry 3., dated Reading, 7 May, 39 Hen. 3., with a reference to Rot. Mem. 8 Hen. V. Roll 12.—Feoda de Honore Petri de Bruse, exemplified 22 May, 5 Hen. V.—Act of Parliament, 20th Oct. 2 Hen. VI. La quele Petercorne &c. &c.; and other documents. (Peter gave lands and unam tranam bladi.)

n.d. (about 1398). Thomas de Holand, Duke of Surrey, Earl of Kent, and Lord of Wake, for love of the Carthusian Order, on the feast of the Assumption of the Virgin and of St. Nicholas, founds a house of monks of the Carthusian Order within his manor of Bordeley, near Cleveland, co. York, to be called Mount Grace of Ingelby. One of the monks to be called Prior; and, by the assent of the Prior of the Carthusians of the Greater Order, he makes dom. Robert Tredweye Prior. He gives them the manor of Bordeley. They are to pray for King Richard the 2nd, Queen Isabella, the grantor and Joan his wife and their heirs, and the heirs of John de Holand Duke of Exeter, and John de Ingelby and Eleanor his wife while they live, and say masses for them after their deaths, and for the soul of Anne the late Queen of King Richard the 2nd, Edward formerly Earl of Kent and Margaret his wife, and Joan late Princess of Wales, his (the grantor's) grandmother, Thomas de Holand late Earl of Kent,* his (the grantor's) father and Alice his mother, and the souls of his ancestors and the heirs of the grantor, and for the souls of Thomas de Ingelby and Katherine his wife, and of William and Margaret de Aldeburgh, and of William, Eleanor, Agnes, Magol Anthorp; of Richard, Alice, Walter, Gilbert, Thomas, Margaret, Alice, Richard, Margaret, John, and Walter Walksted; Walter, Jane, and Jane Wrigge; John, Jane, and Richard Wakhurst; and the souls of all, &c. Warranty. No witness.—A beautiful large initial letter coloured and gilt shews the Virgin in an oval supported by two monks; at the side is the founder (with his armorial bearings on his mantles) kneeling, and a bishop behind him.

The red wax seal is large and beautifully cut; a man on horse with sword; shield; arms on the horse's trappings; his own impaled with England. The ground of the seal has a curious device of 3 annulets (1 and 2) the top one connected with the others by a line; also 2 Gothic letters seemingly A.P.

Octavo, paper, end of 14th or beginning of 15th century. It contains two poems. The first, though without title, is the Epistle or legend of Susannah, and begins per woned a berne in Babiloyne in that burgh riche. He was a Jue gentil Joachim he hight.

Ends—

Then all the folke of Israel knelyd on ther knes,
And thanked lonelycke Gode that hire the lyfe
lent,

The games y^e hire gode wolde gladdes and gles,
(five more lines, and)

Un fete
This ferly befel . . . of the prophete

In the dayes of Danyel

The pystel witenesse it well.

Qui scripsit carmen sit benedictus. Amen.

This poem occupies 9 pp. (There is a copy in the Vernon MS. in the Bodleian Library, fol. 317, col. 1; and an imperfect copy in the Cottonian Collection in the British Museum, Caligula A. ii; and according to the late Sir F. Madden's manuscript catalogue (penses me) of anonymous poetry, the late Mr. Weber had a copy. Sir F. Madden also states that it was printed by Mr. Laing.)

* This name is repeated in the original.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

A sermon in English (21½ pp.). Begins, In ilke synful man or woman that is bounden in dedly synn. Ends, the whylke is aye lyf ande godde without ende. Amen.—There are some verses in it.
Piers Plowman (39 leaves).

Begins—

In a summer sesyn whanne softe was y^e sunne,
I schrope me in to y^e schrophys a schepe as I were
In habite of an hermyte unholy of werkys,
I went wide in the werlde wonders to here.

line 44. Slowthe and slepe sowes thame ever.
fo. 6. Wyllith and wytneseth that wonyth upon erth.
fo. 8. Passus 4 tus (3 tus?) de Visione.—Save mede y^e mayde none dursten a byde.

fo. 12. Passus 4 tus de Visione. Cesyth now seyde y^e King.
fo. 27b. Explicit Visio Willelmi de Petri Plowham.
Hic incipit vita de Dowell Dobet et Dobest, secundum wit et reson.

Thus irobit in russet I romyst abowtyn.

Ends on the last leaf—

We have letterys of his lyf he shall his lyfe tym
Pro deth that is oure duke swycke dedys we bryng.
On the verso is only the line, Myht I see quod he god wote, 3oure gatys wold I holdyn.

Thick folio, 4to. shape, paper, about the middle of the 15th century.

Incipit libri Galfrid Chaucer de gestis peregrinorum versus Cantuariam prologus.

The characters in the prologue are in the same order as the edition of Sir H. Nicholas.

fo. 14. Knight's Tale. This is followed by the Miller's tale and the Rev's tale.

fo. 63. Prologue of the Cook's tale.

fo. 63b. The Cook's tale ends with line 58—

A schoppe and swyngyng for hir sustenance.

And the Note "Chaucer made no more of the Cook's tale."

fo. 64b. The Serjeant's tale.

fo. 81b. The prologue of the Wife of Bath's tale.—The tale ends at 98b with the line "I pray God send them very pestilence."

fo. 81b. Tale of the frere.

fo. 103. Tale of the Sompnoir.

fo. 110b. Clerk of Oxenford's tale.

fo. 127b. But that will not be lat it be stille.—Hic desinit fabula clerici Oxon.

fo. 128. Merchant's tale.

fo. 144. The Squire's tale.

fo. 153. The Frankelyn's tale.

fol. 166. Incipit narracio phisici de quadam virgine qui erat filia cujusdam militis, sine prologo.

fo. 170.* The Pardoner's tale.

fo. 179. The Shipman's tale.

fo. 184. The Prioress's tale.

fo. 188. Prologue to Sir Thopas.

fo. 189. Melibaus (2).

fo. 211b. Monk's tale.

fo. 224b. The Nun's priests tale.

fo. 233. The second nun's tale.

fo. 240b. The Chanons Yeoman's tale.

fo. 262b. The Manciples tale.

fo. 267b. The Rector's or Parson's tale.—Ends, mortification of synne. Here taketh the maker his leve. Now I pray to hem alle that herkyn, &c. (½ a page).

Here begynneth the last tale of Caunterbury tales told homeward and maad bi dan Johan Lidgate, Monk of Bury. Begins, Whan bright Phebus passed was the Ram.

And of April and to the foule cam. (4 pp.)

Explicit prologus domini J. L. monachi de Bury.

Well quod I sith of your curtesye

I entrid am into your companye.

ends, And joy eternal when we hens weende,

And of my tale thus I make an ende.

Thus endeth the last tale of Caunterbury made and told by Dan Johan Lidgate, monk . . . (the margin of this leaf is gone). The story is Lidgate's Tale of Thebes.

Very large folio, vellum, 15th century. Higden's Polychronicon, in English.

Begins (imperfectly), Take hede of three tymes.† The first perfect chapter is, De orbis dimensione. Priscianus in cosmographia.†

12^c, vellum, 15th century, 99 leaves.

This book was writ by William Brewyn, chantry priest at St. Thomas's shrine in Christ Church, Canterbury, 1477.

* Here the generally-received order of the tales is not followed.

† This is in Book I., cap. 4. See Dr. Babington's edition (Rolls Series), p. 31.

‡ This is Book I. cap.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

At the beginning is a Table of Contents (4½ pp.).

Of the stations of Rome, &c.; Indulgences; Legends; Ending with, Stations of Jerusalem and the Holy Land. Written in English for those who wish to visit the Holy Land spiritually in their mind to get indulgence.

The tract begins with St. John Lateran; he mentions Churches of St. Peter, St. Paul, St. Mary the Greater. After St. Mary trans Tiberim, come Excommunications (nearly 4 pp.).

fo. 39. Via de Calisia ad Romam (from Calais to Gravening 3 miles). fo. 41. Alia via. fo. 41 b. Cambium monete diverse. (The writer says that for 9s. English money he got 2 ducats in Rome.—He had letters in London on the bank of Jacobo de Medici.)

fo. 42. The ways (viz) of the City of Rome. Descriptions of palaces, roads, churches: extracts from the Golden Legend, the Mirabilia Romae, and the Polychronicon.

fos. 93 and 94. Relics at Canterbury: 24 bodies besides other relics, the Holy Cross, tunics, hairs, arms, legs, part of the cross of St. Peter, hair of Mary Magdalen and her alabaster box. Heads of St. Fursey and other persons.

Five leaves of poetry (English).

fo. 95. Those men than toke stonys in hast. (The stoning of St. Stephen.)

fo. 96. Speciosa facta es et suavis, &c., begins,

Thow holy moder of God Almighti (12 lines).

Gaude virgo mater;

Joy thu virgyn as it is ryzth (20 lines).

Gaude flore virginali:

Joy thu mary with virgyn flowers (about 160 lines).

ends,

The face off very God both three and one.

I thank now God myn song is don.

Folio, vellum, latter part of 14th century, 220 leaves, double columns.—Inside the cover, by a hand of the last century, "The boke Grā Dei; the Psalms of David, "Latin and English, &c., and Sermons."

Here begynnes y^e holy boke Gracia Dei.—Off God's grace steraend and helpsande, and yat without grace no gode may be done. Gracia Dei vita ecclesia; ad Rom. 5. pes er y^e wordes of y^e holy apostel Seynt Paule.—(22 leaves.) Ends, Say fon bi prayers standant or on knees kneland, or else sittand if bu feblub be; and sey þem wit devocion bat God ye send; semely tyme hit is on y^e night to pray, for it is tyme of rest for þen is noght bat letts als is over þe day in day is w^e travell.

fo. 23. Grete habundance of Castil cumforth and joy cummes into the hertis of thame that saies or synges devonteli y^e psalmes of y^e Sauter in loving of Jesus Christ.

fo. 24. (At top, "Fryst day at matyns"). Beatus vir, &c.

In þis psalme first he spekes of evil and of his folueris blaundesand.

After the psalms, and the comments on them, come the Canticles.

The last 18 leaves of the volume.

1. The comawnde of God is þat we luf oure lorde in alle oure hert, &c.—ends (in fo. 5b.) to thaim bodely gudes is man noght halden bot in case of nede. Amen.

5b. Her begynnes a pistille of Saynt Machari hermit sende to his breþ^r, in Vitas Patrum.

In the fyrst begynnynng if a man begyn to knaw hym self. Ends (fo. 7.) y^e special leddinge of y^e haligast. Amen.

Grevouse is y^e vice of hostyng. Ends (8b.) fro storme of y^e spyryt.

A broprire asket Sant Antonyus what schall I do to plesse Gode.

16b. Of sobyryte—Saynt Arseny sayd y^e travell y^e with all y^e myght gat yu has.

18. The last line is,—not to do ryghtwysnes as it is wrytyn.

Five narrow leaves, nearly 2 feet long. The certificate for armour and weapons within the wapentake of Harthill, Beurley, and the liberties in the East Riding, in the co. of York, by virtue of the Queen's Majesty's Commission, directed to Sir Marmaduke Constable, Kt., John Hotham, Anthony Smetheld, Thomas Dureman, and others;—which certificate was made the 12th of June in the 14th year [of Elizabeth].—Under the names of places are the names of persons, with the armour and arms furnishable by them.

1605. Kelinghall. An assessment laid 19th December 1605 for armour; addressed to the Constables. Sir William Ingilby is assessed at 21d.; and about 30 others at a few pence each.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

1611.—Some large brief sheets tied together and fastened with ribband, and fragment of seal.—An abstract of the surveys of certain parcels of the possessions of the Honour of Knaresborough, in the co. of York, taken A.D. 1611 by Sir William Fletewode, Kt.

1. The Castle of Knaresbrough is situated by the river of Nide, and is environed with a deepe ditch, &c. (the rooms, gatehouse, &c. are described).

2. Sir Henry Slingsby has a term of seven years from Michaelmas 1611, by lease, under the seal 30 Eliz., to Francis Slingsby, his father, for 31 years from Michaelmas then last . . . viz., herbage, closes.—Mr. Thomas Pott has a lease in reversion, &c.—Contents of the land and wood, amount of timber, &c.

3. Other persons who have leases, &c.

9. Remarks about improving the revenue, and reference to his other presentments.—Signed Wm. Fletewode.

10. Collections out of presentments by Jurors at a Court of Survey at Knaresbrough, 6th August 1661 (4 leaves). Particular note of such verdicts and presentments, surveys, and other notes as were delivered by Sir William Fletewode, Surveyor General of the late Prince Henry concerning the Honour of Knaresbrough, by warrant from the Earl of Northampton, Lord Privy Seal, and Sir Julius Cesar, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir Thomas Parry, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.—Lists of various Verdicts and Presentments, &c. (3 leaves).

Quarto, 13 leaves.—Copy of the Petitions to King Charles I. and the Petition to the Parliament by George Eglisham, Doctor of Physick, one of King James's physicians.—Begins, Sir, no better motive there is for a safe government. (He accused Buckingham of the murders of King James and the Marquis of Hamilton.) These were printed in 1642, and reprinted in Vol. 2 of the Harleian Miscellany.)

1645, Sept. 18? By the standing Committee for the West Riding of the co. of York. In pursuance of an ordinance of Parliament, 20 June last, for establishing the Northern Association, it is ordered that 2,000 able foot shall be forthwith pressed and raised within the county and city:—800 in the West Riding, 667 in the North Riding, and 533 in the East Riding, &c. Signed Thomas Darcy, Clerk. Below are instructions to the several gentlemen members of the Committee, whose names are subscribed for raising the forces within the county.—19 names (some occur twice) to raise various numbers. On the other side are instructions about the pressing. Signed T. Darcy.

12^o, paper, 16th century. Between 30 and 40 leaves. A part of a sermon; and ecclesiastical history intercalated with early British history.

A poetical paraphrase upon Ecclesiastes (13 ff.). Begins, When Solomon in wisdom was grown old

These mighty truths from his experience told.

Ends with cap. 12.

Folio, paper, 17th century.

1-91. A Discourse on Demonology by Edward Fairfax; of whom Dodsworth says,—Edward Fairfax of Tuxton, in the parish of Knaresborough, natural brother of Sir Thomas Fairfax of Denton, co. York, which Sir Thomas was created Lord Fairfax and Baron of Cameron in Scotland by King Charles; he was the translator of Tasso's Godfrey of Bulloigne, and writ the History of Edward the Black Prince, and certain witty Ecloges as yet not printed. 1631.

The author describes the cases of his two daughters, Helen Fairfax, aged 16, and Elizabeth Fairfax, aged 7 years, and of Maud Jeffray, daughter of John Jeffray, yeoman, aged 12 years. These be the persons afflicted. The women questioned for the offences be six.—He gives their names; and gives the instances of the bewitchments.

194-205. A discourse of Lord Thomas Fairfax's actions in the late wars. Short memorials of some things to be cleared during my command in the army. Begins, Now when the Lord is visiting the nation. (These have been printed.)—After these a new paging begins.

1. The state of the kingdom when his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax marched forth, May 1645, exhibited in two tables: the first showing in what counties, cities, towns, castles, places of strength the King reached and garrisoned; as also the field force he has had to maintain the same and to enlarge his quarters: the other showing all what force, garrisons, or places of strength the Parliament had to check or balance the enemy.

It is in two divisions, the one containing the western counties, and the other the midland parts.

The 1st division (5 pp.).

The King had, &c. The Parliament had, &c. List of the names of the officers in chief of foot and horse, the train of artillery, and other officers under the command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax as colonels, lieutenant-colonels, majors, captains, &c. (7 pp.)

A journal of every day's march of the army under the command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, with the names of the towns and villages where the headquarters have been, the distance of miles, and how many nights the quarters continued in each town or village. 1645, April 30-1646, June 24. (5 pp.)

A perfect list of the many victories obtained by God's blessing upon the Parliament forces under the command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax since the 14th of June 1645 to the present month of May 1646, with the names of the towns, castles, garrisons taken from the enemy (from the battle of Naseby to the taking of Bridgnorth, April 28, 1646), 6 pp.; 108 items.

A continuation of all the battles fought in England, Scotland, and Wales, and Ireland, with all the sea-fights to this present year 1675.—The first item is headed 75, and is the battle with the Spanish Armada, 1588; the second item is Cadiz, 1596; the third is Worcester, victory by Rupert, 1642; the last is numbered 120, Rupert's fight with the Dutch navy, 1673. (10 pp.)

A brief description of the civil warres and batailles fought in England, Wales, and Ireland. In this platform here are contained, gentle reader, &c. (originally dedicated to Queen Elizabeth) 13¹/₂ pp. of Exordium; then the battles from (1) the battle of Hastings to (74) the Northern rebellion and the beheading of the Earl of Northumberland, Aug. 20, 1572.

Battle Abbey roll.

Account of Civil Wars (1 p.), from Newburn fight, 19 Aug. 1640, to the siege of Hull, 1642.

Lists of Livings: Commonwealth value (P); value in the King's time: purchasers.

Naked Truth: being a faithful relation how and for what purpose Archbishop Sterne and his officers set up a Burrough Court in Ripon, 1675; and the principal proceedings thereupon had in the Courts of the Exchequer and Chancery. To which is subjoined Judge Rookeby's relation and opinions upon that case, and the Archbishop's Petition to the King against the Quo Warranto, with a letter to our then Burgesses in Parliament relating thereto; as also his present Grace's first letter recommending his son to be now chosen Burgess for the town, and likewise his second letter, which together with my address of 1 January 1700, was published and set about the town by his Grace's chief officer Mr. Ridsdale; and lastly my two letters writ to the present Mayor, Mr. Sedgewicke, upon that occasion.—Begins, King Charles the 2d dissolving that Parliament (17 pp.). The letter of the 1st of Jan. 1700 is signed Jonathan Jennings, and is dated from Ripon.

Eight leaves of Raleigh's account of his expedition to Guiana.—The first perfect sentence begins, Sir F. Drake, Mr. John Winter, and John Thomas when he past the Straits of Magellan, meeting with a storm, &c. It contains Raleigh's Instructions to Keymish.

Eight leaves of a treatise on sheriffs and barons.—That I may not be within Plautus his Asinaria to plough other men's grounds.

One quarto page. Aug. 3, 1633. Dr. Smith set forward from Tower Wharf, London:—Sept. 1, made Cape St. Vincent.—The last entry is Dec. 26, entered the city (of Constantinople).

The true confession of three notorious and bloody murderers of Thomas Thynne, Esq. (4 pp.)

An account of the battle fought in Flanders, 1693, in a letter from one Mr. Hall who was there present, relating the same to his father. (4 pp.) The Duke of Ormond was wounded and taken prisoner. The French general was dressed as if going to Court, in white gloves, and a cannon ball knocked him down.

Account of all moneys collected for French Protestants (By order of the Lords Commissioners for this Charity. London, March 15, 1684). Charles Mosson. Licensed March 19, 1684, Robert Midgeley, London. Printed by Thomas Newcome in the Savoy, 1684. (3 pp.)

Form of Oath by Executors, Administrators, and Guardians. c. 1680. (2 pp.)

Fees due for business dispatched by Rural Deans (1 p.). Instructions given by Lord Burghley to his son, 31 pp. Begins, Son Robert, the virtuous inclinations of thy matchless mother. (See Nares's Life of Burghley.)

14 pp. Prince Maurice was son to William of Nassau and Ann sole daughter of the Elector Maurice Duke of

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

Saxony: he was born Nov. 15, 1567 (an account of his life, exploits, death, and funeral). Henry of Nassau succeeded.—Verses on Maurice.—Motto (verses) of Henry:—Do. of William of Nassau.—Motto of Alexander Farnese; his death, Sept. 2, 1592.—Motto of Philip Duke of Burgundy (verses).—Do. of Charles the Warlike:—Do. of Mary Countess of Charolois and Duchess of Burgundy, daughter of Charles the Warlike:—Do. of Maximilian:—Do. of Ferdinand Alvarez of Toledo, Duke of Alva.

Fragment of an account of Low Country Wars in the 16th and 17th centuries. (2 pp.)

Brief discourse of the life and death of Prince Maurice son of William of Nassau. (4 pp.)

Account of what passed at the execution of the Duke of Monmouth; a copy of the paper to which the Duke referred on the scaffold, dated July 15, 1685; attended by Thomas Tennyson, Geo. Hooper, Francis Ely, and Thomas Bath and Wells. (3 pp.)

Copy of Monmouth's letter to the King, 8 July 1685.

Notes of Anglo-Saxon history. (4 pp.)

Two engravings: one contains large views of ships and the other contains one ship. The first is printed and sold by John Overton at the White Horse without Newgate. With these are 2 pp. of written descriptions by reference to written figures in the plates.

Descriptions of sea terms. (8 pp.)

The speech of Sir Geo. Pudsey, Kt., Sergeant at Law and Recorder of Oxford, to the King, upon his Majesty coming to Oxford, 3 Sept. 1687. (3 pp.)

Prophecy (in verse) found among papers of the old Earl of Digby (3½ pp.). Begins,

About the time that one shall be

Joyned unto two times three,

And four times ten with four and two,

Amongst us shall be great ado.

2½ long columns of verse. Prophecy of H. F. Humphry Tindal, Vicar of Wollington (opened the latter end of Elizabeth).

1 p. of instructions for Nun Apleton (convent rules taken from a register).

Nearly 3 pp. of extracts from some book giving an account of the dissolution of the Monasteries (adverse to it).

Paris in an uproar or a sad bout; of scolding between the French King and Madame de Maintenon, &c. (relating to his misfortunes in Flanders) one printed page, scurrilous.

Extract of a letter (from the York Courant of June 5, 1743) dated Dec. 31, 1741. J. S. (Joseph Shepherd) against Mr. Turner and for Mr. Fox (one printed page).

Mr. P. D.'s elegy on the death of Mr. John Gadbury, who departed this life on Thursday 30 March 1704, as he was sitting in his elbow chair at his house in Brick Court, Westminster, aged 71 years. (54 lines of verse and an epitaph of eight lines.) London, printed for R. Longshaw near Charing Cross, 1704).

Two other broadsides.

1711, Nov. 20th, London. A news letter to John Sharpe, Esq., M.P. for Ripon . . . (free). The Czar of Muscovy has delivered up the fortress of Asoph to the Ottomans, and demanded the other forts which he had built on the Black Sea, upon which the hostages which he had sent to Constantinople were dismissed with presents and sent home . . . News from Vienna; the Court there is not pleased at the preliminary articles between France and England.—Movements of the Swedish troops.—News from Paris. Letters from thence of the 23rd state that the Duke of Berwick arrived at the Court and was graciously received by the King, and the day before the date he made a visit to the late Queen of England in the Abbey of Charlotte, and was the next day to hunt with the Chevalier St. George . . . From the Hague the 27th, says that the Earl of Strafford had been that evening in conference with the grand Pensionary, &c. In my last I gave an account of a plot discovered to destroy the Government and 'tis believed to make an insurrection. On Saturday night last was the anniversary of the accession of Queen Elizabeth. Besides the effigies and figures mentioned in my last to be carried in triumph, they had prepared others to represent others of great note in the ministry. They had also bought many hundred flambeaux and links, the carriers to have five shillings a-piece, and a great many vizards to be worn by incendiaries who were to mix with the mob and decry the peace, burn the preliminary articles, decry danger of Popery, tho' those very people voted the church out of danger so lately, and to heighten the disorder and confusion they whispered about the town that the Queen was dead. The statues or colosses of the

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

Pretender, Pope, Devil, &c. are still to be seen at the cockpit; but what discoveries the Government has made about the contrivance is not known. The trainbands in London and Westminster are out from Saturday morning to Sunday night. On Sunday morning the Duke of Marlborough arrived in town from Holland and the same afternoon went to visit the Queen at Hampton Court, which she will leave on Thursday for St. James. The plenipotentiaries for the Queen that are to assist at the congress are the Lord Privy Seal, the Earl of Strafford, and Mr. Prior, and the equipages are getting ready.

Two folio volumes containing original letters by Sir Robert Paston of Oxnead co. Norfolk (before and after he was Earl of Yarmouth) to his wife and other persons, and letters to him by Thomas Henshaw, F.R.S., and other persons: letters to Lady Yarmouth; and many letters by and to Lord Yarmouth regarding the affairs of Great Yarmouth.

VOL. I.

A LONG LIST OF JEWELS, dated 30 July 1663.

There are 74 items with the price or value of each: in all 587l. 15s.

1661, Nov. 1st. Thomas Ramsey of Crostwick, clerk, declares to the whole world that he has most vilely and unworthily by his letters defamed, slandered, and abused the Right Worshipful Sir Will. Paston of Oxnead, Bart., and has in testimony of his hearty sorrow for the same burnt with his own hands all the copies of the said scandalous letters. In the presence of Tho. le Gros, Tho. Falke, Hen. Lucie, Tho. Bradford, Edward Barber, and Ben. Cooper.

1660, Nov. 13th. Will Doyle to Sir William Paston at Oxnead. . . . The Poll Bill falls so strangely short of what was expected, that the want of that money hath run us into great debts, which we are now considering how to satisfy; the bill of attainder is almost finished; their lives are spared, their estates confiscated, save only Jo. Lesingham, and all other just debts will be satisfied out of those estates; all things concerning the Chancellor's daughter are quieted; the Queen is suddenly to return with her fair daughter, who is the greatest beauty in the world, but what do I talk of beauties, who, through age and a load of business such as makes me groan under it am scarce able to sleep or eat in quiet.

1663, April 8th, Florence. J. Clayton to his brother Sir Robert Paston, Bt., at Parson's Green As soon as the snow is dissolved on the Alps, I mind to cross them for France, and so directly to Paris, where I will spend my time 'till next winter, and then for England; there I hope to serve you with gusto . . . My course I think to steer by Vienna; for we hear that the French army is so far advanced towards the confines of Italy, that there will be no returning that way. I am sorry that I cannot stay so long as to have your commands here, however I shall bring some few knacks with me that will please you very well. I can say but little more of my travels than what I have told you; only the entertainment of the Holy Week at Rome, where Nax cursed us sufficiently; if you know any friend of yours that has carbuncles, I have some of the wax of the candle which Nax threw at us on Holy Thursday, with these words edignantur sicut lumen. I have something befallen me here, that will keep us the chows of Alchemy, and as strange as ever you heard; the person I have it from is a Monk of the right Order, a Benedictine; the whole story is miraculous; the stone he tells me he has made, and the process I have at length fished of him; so as I think I cannot err in the practise. Just as your letters came we were giving fire to the work; (he gives the process). This great secret he found in a book hidden in the bottom of a well, inclosed in soldered lead and after that a marble cover; the title of the book Phoenix Hermetica with a clavis and six wedges, three of gold, three of silver, made by the same process.

1663, Nov. 5th. Halophilas (T. Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston at Oxnet Hall.—A long rambling letter on Alchemy. Amongst other things he says.—I have been extremely delighted with reading a Chymical Manuscript Poem of one Edward Noell, one of those I brought from Swallowfield. (He describes the processes there given.) The Squire came back yesterday from Windsor, and the Dr. tells him now you are gone it will be impossible to communicate the dispensation to you, and endeavours to draw in the Squire who will not smell of the Chouse; he says it has cost the Dr. already 1,500l. . . . The King shall be shewed the inventory of red deer at the first opportunity, if Bowles

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

have not yet shewed it to him.—In a postscript he says, there is shortly a curious discourse of Mr. Evelyn's by order of the College to come out concerning timber trees, sider trees; and Sir Paul Neales and other ways of making the sider presented to them are to be added at the end; as soon as it comes out I will take care you shall have one of them. I am just now going to Whitehall to meet Mrs. Clayton, to shew the King the shining Diamond.—(Seal, a chevron erm., between three birds.)

1663, Nov. 14th, Sunday. Epistre Generale de Villa Cary a nos tres cher amis a Oxnet addressed to Sir Robert Paston, Deputy Lieutenant.—An amusing complimentary letter. He says Mr. Clayton has not only been to Church, but this stormy evening has heard Lady Mordaunt read one part of the Duty of Man.

The second page is by a different hand. Then follows six lines of French by another hand. At the end are the following verses in a different hand:

The first's a neighbour worthy and kind
Such another you'll ne'er find.
The next's a lady's of the same name
Only excelling more in fame.
The last's a virgin who has skill
To write as well as kill.
Thus your obligations grow
How you'll return them? I do not know.
But wonder not to see my hand
Here, 'tis by command.
For so have I seen an artist paint
This way divell, that way saint.

1664, January 14th, Speakers Chamber. Sir Robert Paston to his wife at Oxnett.—My Committee sat all the afternoon where, by the opposition of some persons angry with me for the Kings cause, there was a long debate to lay aside my bill; but my friends, although it happened so unluckily that many were absent upon occasions not to be prevented, at last carried it clearly for me, so that they, seeing how it would go, sneaked off, and left but two to vote against me, so the question at the committee passed clearly for the going on with my bill, which on Monday I hope to have finished at the Committee, for now they are past hurting me there, but they threaten it when it comes to be reported to the House; but it is only the malice of a few which think will not be able to prevail. I hope to get my bill passed the House of Commons this next week . . . Lord Lindsay takes as much pains in my business as an horse, so doth my Lord Townshend, the difficulties of a Parliament affair is not to be thought of without amusement. Mr. Hides funeral I attended the last night.

1664, January 28th. The same to the same.—The King's bill being the work of the House which I suppose may this night be finished and so engrossed or written fair to be carried up to the Lords House the middle of the next week, and I do expect to be the man that shall have that honour. On Monday is the King's fast day, for the anniversary of his Father; on Tuesday a second order is made for the hearing of my business. . . . The Dutch have made a picture of the House of Commons, and out of their mouths these words issuing, "live and die, live and die," at the last the picture of a burly fellow out of whose mouth comes "two millions and an half," &c.

1664, February 6th. The same to the same.—My last informed you of the narrow dispute we had in the house, upon the report of my bill; Thursday it runs the same risk, and truly by the set malice of the Presbyterians against it, I do much doubt the issue, but when that is done, I have my old remedy, law, of which I am confident I shall not fail; and the King I believe would recompense me, so as my friends do some of them wish I may lose it; but I will struggle the best I can. . . . The King, good man, is extremely concerned for it, and will not suffer any Parliament man to be on the guard, but to attend it. . . . The Duke of Richmond and Sir Charles Sydney (Sedley) came in about 10 at night with the Duke's fidlers . . . Old Mrs Hamden is dead. My Lord of Sunderland has written many letters to desire he may marry my Lady Ann Digby, and offers to beg her pardon on his knees. It is most bitter weather here as ever was suffered.

1664, February 25th. The same to the same.—My last told you of my Act being past the Lord's house, so now the Yermouth men are out of their wits, and we are upon a peak, wherein they offer me such large terms for myself, provided I will exclude others, that I think my Counsell will agree, and by consent we shall petition the King for his letters patent to incorporate us upon the indentures sealed, and so stop the bill, in which there is clauses that takes in more than my lands, and so may do me a mischief as well as them; but in this I will not be overreached, having Sir Charles Harbord, my Uncle Montagne, Ayliff, and Crouch to supervise and draw up my terms, which must needs in my prospects render the thing much more advantageous than any was, but of this we are uncertain, if it goes on I'll send you a copy of the agreement. I am now going to Counsell about it. My Lord Fitzharding came to visit me when I was ill; yesterday at your brother's lodging, supped the Breames family and some of the Boyes; we had the Duke of Richmond there and his fidlers and stay'd up till three in the morn.

1664, March 2nd. The same to the same.—Just now I come from the Lords House, where I got very near the King, who this day came in robes and crown to prorogue the Parliament, which he did till the one and twentieth of June, and in case there be no occasion for us then, by Proclamation we shall have further leave to play; after he had made a speech to us, and received that of our speakers, he gave us to understand how many wicked spirits were now at work contriving and hoping for some issue in the Dutch war that might promote their interests; these he termed publicans: then the Acts were offered to be passed which were many in number; amongst the rest my poor one of Yermouth had in my own hearing the Royal assent in these words, soit fait comme il est desire, let it be done as is desired: which was not at all to my grief; my Lo. Lindsey came to me and told me if his vote were now to give, it should be against me for crowding so hard; for having knocked long at a by door before we could get in, the press drive me up to the King's very elbow, and I had like to have carried my Lady Castlemaine along in the crowd, who was pleased very civilly to take notice of me; after the King went out I waited on him when he went to pull off his robes, and as soon as he spied [me] he came through all the Lords to talk and be merry with me, inasmuch as it was much taken notice of in that place: but he is the graciousest person in the world. . . . My Lord Carrington, a Peer of this realm, a Roman Catholic, was the last week most barbarously murdered at Pontoise near Paris by his man, who gave him 27 wounds in his bed, locked the door, persuaded the landlady his Lord had sent him to Paris, and bade her that none of the footmen should offer to enter whilst (until?) he knocked, having rested ill the night before, and desirous to take out his sleep: so he takes horse with all the money, some 400*l*., and leaves the rest of the servants to find their Lord in this pickle; he was a Dutchman. My Lord Wentworth died yesterday; old Cleaveland his father is still alive: the Earl of Suffolk has his bedchamber place, and the Duke of Monmouth his regiment of guards. Coals are here at that excessive rate for want of trading, that this day they are sold for 3*l*. 10*s*. a chalders, and will be 5*l*. in a day or two. . . . I am now thinking of Yermouth business, and shall before I come have a draught drawn of it here, though Fisher tells me Hunt must be sent over to the place to draw a more neat and exact piece: some people think with 2,000*l*. per annum; but without doubt it will be considerable: God be thanked for anything. I have some other irons in the fire, but 'tis hard to find anything. I have learnt this, Refuse nothing: therefore if the King gives me honour, it shall make me the harder beggar for somewhat to support it; but I believe it will take up my summer's business in town to find out somewhat to beg. . . . Says "it snows like the de'il."

1665, March 25th. The same to the same.—This morning I took my leave of the King, who above 20 times the day before repeated it to my friends that none was nearer his heart than myself, that he intended to mend my honour and fortune, the which I had this day from his own mouth in his bedchamber, viz., that he will speedily make me a nobleman of England, and besides will grant me what I can find to make a suit for; some public considerations relieved the honour now, for the King thinks it would look too near a contract to have just done it at this time; but the words and ways of a Prince are not to be disputed, I hope I shall make the best advantage of both.

1665, June 19th, Norwich. Tho. Townshend to Sir Robert Paston at Mr. Clayton's at the Crown in Lombard Street. Apologies for his abrupt departure from town without seeing him; but the fear of the still increasing sickness prevailing with the spleen made him rather run than go out of town, and here, "though we be free yet, we are not so from fear, by reason of Yermouth, where the plague is increased, that from 16 dying last

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
INGILBY
BART.

week, 'tis this week come to 30." . . . Is glad to hear of Lady Paston's safe delivery.—Was last week at Rayham where he found Lord Townshend very dangerously ill.

1666, May 29th. Sir Robert Paston to his wife. . . . This day the bells proclaim the King's birth, and great preparation for jollity everywhere. I am going to Court to visit their Majesties, and therefore take the opportunity of the moment to write to you, not knowing if I shall get home by the post hour. . . . Post now comes in the Squire of the Body who says he saw your son very well engaged in a game at cricquet on Richmond Green. I have been at Court and seen all the world; many people ask for you, some call me Lord Button, what grounds I know not, perhaps it may be, but I hear nothing of it yet.

1666, June 7th. The same to the same.—The bells and bonfires the last night proclaimed our signal victory over the Dutch, of which yesterday morning I heard the King make the narrative; we have destroyed above half their navy, having sunk and fired above 50 sail. Sir Daniel Harvey came yesterday and damped the news a little in telling how dearly we had bought it; the general is hurt in his arm and his leg, but so little that it is nothing; Sir William Clarke slain, so is Bacon, Teine, and Whittie; Sir George Aske taken prisoner; Capt. Berkeley taken or lost; the Duke and Prince both come into the Gunfleet, which is a bay near Harwich. My 1,500*l.* subscription makes me mad; my Lord Richardson will fail me I fear, and is uncertain for himself, and my Lord Townshend. My other business is in Sergeant Earles hands. . . . My Lady Castle-maine is come back to Court and in as good graces as ever. My Lord Abergavennie is dead the last week. The Duchess of York is a little out of humour as some take notice.

1666, June 9th. The same to the same.—Since my last I have been in the greatest pack of troubles that ever man was in about my subscription money, but this day my heart is somewhat alleviated and I hope to do it the way I thought least of, but it will cost me 100*l.* which is cheap to the rates people give here. . . . Our great victory comes to less then we would have had it, but there has been shrewd banging of all sides. My cousin B. is come on shore; the General 'tis said will have the other brush and Prince Rupert refuseth to come, resolving to bring another victory or to die for it; some ships of ours that were said to be lost are found again, as the Essex and the Swiftsure. . . .

1666, June 11th, Kensington. T. H. (Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston.—Patron Colendissimo.—I shall never fail in my obedience, though I find by experience I shall fail too often in my ability to serve you, for proof of both I have sent you the draughts you commanded me to make; which tho' it cost me more pains than ever any of that bigness, yet it has not the luck to please me, and I fear will have worse success with you; especially since it is not only to represent your own thoughts to your own self, but such as you had framed into a garb and mode fit to have shewed themselves at Court; but you know that a curled and painted style was ever as disagreeable to my nature, as it is now to my age, which makes me so severe, that I have no patience with either a swollen bombast, affected, forward, or pedantic piece of rhetoric, nor can any please me that is not sober, perspicuous, close, nervous, free, and the words proper, discreet, well chosen, not savouring of either the English schoolmaster or French dancing master. If you ask me why I have not done this suitable to the character I affect, I answer it was either because I could not put myself into a right humour, or else because it was above my genius.

1666, June 12th. Sir R. Paston to his wife.—About his business with Mr. Sergeant Earle.—Our Dutch victory has been dearly bought; and the news here, is that the French are on our coasts with thirty thousand Mounseurs; yet we fear them not, but the General will not come ashore, nor the Prince till they give a better account of the Dutch; and it's said we shall be ready in three weeks for the other brush. Sir Christopher Minns is dead of the wound received, Sir George Aske is taken prisoner; the legs and arms that are lost are innumerable, &c. P.S. Here is a foolish report of the Duke of Buckingham's killing my Lord Ros, but it is but a fable supposed.

1666, June 14th. The same to the same.—Says it is impossible for him to come home before he has come to some settlement, "If you knew the debates, the discourses, the meetings and the breaches we have" you would pity me;" yesterday all the long day we were debating our articles and are now at a stand.—

I am very loth to let it at 2,300*l.* certain, &c. . . . Here is a black velvet bed lined through with Aurora satin, and embroidered with tent stitch on the outside, with a suite of hangings of my Lady Monmouth's to be sold. P.S. Pray God send us 15 more years of matrimony.

1666, June 19th. The same to the same.—To-morrow Mr. Earle is expected, and then we shall do somewhat I hope, for my matters will off, but the raising of the 4,000*l.* is that which sticks in this conjuncture of time. . . . Money now scarcer than ever.—The sickness is decreased 18 in the whole, and eight of the Plague. The French have cut all the English throats at St. Christopher's, and possessed themselves of the Island. The 1,500*l.* not yet to be had, but my Lord Richardson endeavours to save his reputation; many are in our condition, for till the other brush is over with the Dutch every man locks up his money.

1666, Oct. 8th. Aylsham.—W. Doughty to Sir Robert Paston at Mr. Hodge's house in Lincoln's Inn Fields.—About the claim of a Mr. Spendlove to present to the living of Skepton.

1666, January 29th, Skepton.—A paper signed by 23 of the inhabitants of Skepton, expressing their thankfulness to Sir Robert Paston for his care for their soul's health in having settled among them Mr. Birton, a very orthodox divine, &c.

1667.—Copy of Sir Robert Paston's petition to the King, Sept. 22nd.—He has as legal a grant as can be passed under the Great Seal for his farm of the customs of wood, &c., yet the covetousness and unkindness of some persons puts a necessity either upon His Majesty or himself to be losers, and make it appear to the world that His Majesty's loss is his gain.—He has offered to the Lords Commissioners to prevent this, to pay His Majesty for four years the sum of 5,000*l.* a year defalcation for his grant, that their pretence of the advantages rising by the accident of fire may not be any loss to His Majesty that so he may enjoy the rest of the term in quiet. He prays the King's support.

1667, May 25. (Lord) Townshend to Sir R. Paston.—A friendly letter.

1667, March 17th. Sir Robert Paston to his wife.—My business is passed the Attorney-General, and will be ready for the broad seal by Tuesday next. This day I was with my Lord Chancellor to acquaint him I had the warrant: he told me he thought me worthy of this or any favour the King could do me; we parted kindly with some chinelickums, but all the assurances of friendships that might be; so that now I know not where the rub will be, if I meet any more. Sir Nicholas Crisp and one Sir Edmond Turner, a custom-house man, were the men that opposed me, but I think we are now past all pikes, or shall be past the broad seal in three or four days' time more. Jack Carie cut his own throat the other night, but was kept from going through slick with his work, and remains yet alive.

1667, Sept. 25th. Edm. Thaxter and Richard Hunting-ton, bailiffs of Yarmouth, to Sir Robert Paston. They send him a copy of an original document under the seal of the corporation: and say, "that 2 or 3 of the corporation will attend him in London, fully authorised" not only to confer, but to conclude in all things that "relate to the completing of the union."

1669, June 8th. [Sir] J. Clayton to Sir Robert Paston, Oxnead. . . . Saturday last I went with the Duke of Buckingham to Denham, with a design to buy it, and I hope to effect it for them, for he seems to be very fond of it; in our return home we dined at Uxbridge, but never in all my life did I pass my day away with such gusto, our company being his grace, Mr. Waller, Mr. Surveyor Wren, and myself; nothing but quintessence of wit and most excellent discourse. . . . I suppose the news of the Queen's miscarriage is stale with you, for it was last Friday, being affrighted by an unfortunate accident with one of the King's tame foxes, which stealing after the King unknown into the bed-chamber, lay there all night, and in the morning very early leaped up upon the bed, and run over the Queen's face and into the bed. Saturday died my Lady Newport of Newport House. There is a strange letter come to the King from Catania from my Lord Winchelsea concerning the new eruption of Mount Aetna, in so horrible a manner as cannot be expressed, which has consumed 16 towns and the habitations of 27,000 persons, but it being yesterday printed, I shall not trouble you with a farther relation.

1669, June 19th. (Indorsed Mr. Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston. . . . After one page and a third of 'Alchemy.—This is the barrenest week for novelty has come a great while only Edgar, Duke of Cambridge, had like to [have] marched off this week, being in great danger of

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

a gangrene in his arm, occasioned by the unskillful making or binding an issue there, the pea having made his way down as low as his elbow. You may have heard perchance from other hands last week, that the Earl of Carlisle our Embassadour in Sweden, has killed with his own hands in a rencontre the French Embassadour at Stockholm, but I did not write it, because there is no ground of truth in it; there having not lately been either French Embassadour or agent in that place. For want of other news the Master of the Rolls son's man was fain to pistol himself last Sunday. Having lost his money at play, he made bold to borrow 30 guineas out of his master's cabinet, with hopes to make himself whole again with them at Springes Ordinary, but losing them too, he was in despair ever to recover his money or his reputation; wherefore on Sunday evening, after he had been twice at church that day, he made bold with a screwed pistol and one bullet to drive two sermons out of his head; but before he did this execution, being an ingenious young man, he writ a narrative of his life, with a debortation from idleness, showing how that he having so little to do, fell into gaming company, which was the occasion of that sad fate he was to undergo; so with a devout prayer to God to forgive him what he was going about, he concluded, and so fell to work.

1669, June 19th. Sir John Clayton to Sir Robert Paston . . . I was on Thursday at the Custom House, in order to dispatch the two affairs which you desired me to do; which I have accordingly without fear pressed them anew, (the first related to the payment of some money to his sister)—says, they are hard men to deal withal, but I take them to be very just, so I left the writtings with them, and I believe they will seal them this next week. As to the other of Sir George Downing I have no positive denial, but civil puts off till they see this quarter over and how monies will arise; in the meantime Sir George is noways disgusted, for I told him the truth how things stood, and that it was not your fault, for I had orders from you to receive 100% for him at the Custom House, but as yet the moneys did not arise over and above the King's rent. . . . Hopes he has received the wine, which was a great while since shipped aboard a Yarmouth vessel . . . M. Burgesse has sent you a chest of lemons and some sherry by sea, and I think the Venice glasses will come at the same time. I have taken pity and consideration upon your marrow, and have order[ed] a stuff suit for you, which is done by this time, and shall be sent by the first opportunity, least you should fall away to an Alderman's thumb ring before I see you. I have sent your letter to Sir Thomas Osborne, which he cannot but like, I hope together to attempt something which will deserve your love if not your thanks . . . The chemical glasses sure are come safe by this time, and the glass bottles with stoples which will perfect the experiment I so much long after . . . Your friend Mat Wren has newly set up his coach and six; my Lord Cornberry and he and we supped with Lord John last night, and drank your health.

1669, June 29th. The same to the same.—Yesterday I dined with Sir Thomas Osborne, to the end we might have time enough to discourse our business which I acquainted him withal, and delivered your letter with the other papers enclosed, as you directed me. The thing is highly approved of as useful and necessary, of which this Sir Tho. will give you some short account, and leaves the rest for four or five days' consideration before he gives his full judgment of it. The main thing we fear is that this cannot be perfected without an Act of Parliament, and then you know into how great difficulties and uncertainties we shall be involved. Mr. Bradford seems in his letter to intimate that it is in the King's power solely to grant this thing, I should be extremely glad that he would explain himself in that point, and inform us how it may be done, and which way any imposition can be laid towards the maintenance of it by the King's prerogative without a Parliament. The next week we shall be able to tell you more, for I am engaged to enquire of Council how far the King's power goes in this matter. Sir Tho. will inform himself as to other matters, especially of what concerns the Corporation of Trinity House.—If we find this to be obtained through the King's favour only, we shall do it with that secrecy and dexterity as shall exclude all hazard of whatever other pretender can object . . . Yesterday came news to Court from Mr. Offley, who is at Avignon, who writes that Sir Robert Brookes, Parliament man and your acquaintance, drowned himself there bathing in the Rhodanus; as also news from Paris of my Lord Candish, his being dangerously ill of seven wounds received in a quarrel which happened in the playhouse when Scaramuchio acted, my Lord Rochester only being in his company; it is said my Lord Candish has killed two of the Frenchmen. The story is too long to acquaint you with every particular, but so horrid you never heard of the like, and much to the advantage of the English; the King of France is so enraged at it as he intends to hang all the French that were concerned in it, there being at the least 6 or 7 of them in the business. The Duke of Richmond has a very great ague, and cannot return as soon as was expected. The Duke of Buckingham is tout a vous, as Sir Tho. will inform you.

1669, July 6th. The same to the same.—Upon the receipt of your letters I immediately went to Sir Osb. but found him gone to Sir Tho. Littleton's, where I found him, and delivered your letter and the D.'s (Duke's), which he approves of very much, and has appointed to meet me to-morrow at dinner at the Duke's, and there both to present it to him, which will speedily put an issue to this business one way or other, for he has tarried all this while only for your desires, and will now serve you in it cordially. . . . As for Winterton, I have been very sedulous in searching into the knowledge of it, and, by a wonderful accident, have at the custom house, lit upon a man that has made me understand the very bottom of it, and the whole method of managing of it, having lately transacted the very same thing for Coll. Edward Villiers; and as to Mr. Br. (Bradford's) letter it does not at all inform us of what was desired, for so far he is in the right as that it belongs wholly to the King to grant, but out of his power to impose any tax or rate for to maintain it. The way, therefore, must be this, to get the subscriptions of all the masters of ships, who trade to the northward, to an allowance for it; otherwise it is not to be done without Act of Parliament; and, further, this person has promised underhand to fish the masters. Now such a thing will relish among them, and if it take with them, he questions not but to get me 300 subscriptions towards it, if not more, his place at the Custom House giving him the advantage of doing this, as entering all those ships that deal to the northwards; and for his pains when the whole business is effected he expects 100%, which I think you will not think too much. . . . The only thing objected is this, how far these buoys will conduce to their preservation in the night as well the day; of this he will make an enquiry, and next Saturday I am to meet him, and to be farther satisfied in it. . . . I have been at my Lord Linsy's, according to your desire, to condole for you; but he is gone out of town three days after his wife's death. The King three weeks hence goes a Progress to Plymouth, and to my Lord Ashly's and Lord St. John.

1669, Aug. 21st. (Indorsed, Mr. Henshaw's letter) to Sir Robert Paston at Oxnead. . . . Sir Will. Buckhouse is returned from the Bath so ill, that he is reduit à l'estremité et aux bois de la mort; one of his doctors told me yesterday that there was no manner of hope, and that he verily believed he was dead by that time. I could say with Chaucer, Alack, Alack, what alleth thee to die, having gold enough and Emilie; but that I have been taught that Jupiter allows every man who comes into the world a different proportion of drink, which, when he has dispatched, there remains nothing for him but to die; and that the proportion and expedition makes great difference in men's ages. Ploretur Lachrimis amissa pecunia veris. If he die, I do lose 500%. by it; judge then whether I have not a just and solid cause of grief. Sir Rich. Pole had lately his arm put out by the overturning the Duchess's coach at Tunbridge, but he is already well enough to ride awing in his coach and six. . . . You have met with the unfortunate story of Candia in the Monday's gazette: I have nothing to add to it, but that Blancfort is in mourning for his brother the Count de Rosan, who lost his life in that engagement. You will meet there likewise with the entry and audience of the Danish Embassadour, Gulden Lew (that is, golden lion, the gentry of Denmark, who never yet assumed any additional titles of Honour, taking the names of their families from their bearing in their sentcheon). I have nothing left to say of it, but that it is the most splendid I ever saw any Embassadour come in with, though his richest coach being, as they say, not yet come over, the Duke of Monmouth's coach passed for one of the Embassadour's, three next after the King's coach; he is Viceroiy of Norway, and natural son of the present King; a very handsome proper man, as I have seen, and much a Monsieur in his mien and language; his business, they

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

say, is to excuse the carriage at Berghen in the time of the Dutch war. There came over a second son of the King's with him, a young man who is gone to see our Universities. There is also lately come to Court a younger brother of the Duke of Saxony. The thunder, which made so little noise with you, did slay several people in Stafford and Worcester shires; and this day three weeks, near Lichfield, there appeared a great cloud which darkened the sun, and coming nearer the earth it discovered itself to be an infinity of ant flies, which made the men, as well as the cattle, run roaring out of the fields for their lives, but the cloud fell over Lichfield town, and covered the streets and houses four inches deep, and shortly after died, so that the inhabitants swept them together in heaps, and carried them out to avoid the inconvenience of their putrefaction. On Monday I carried my wife and daughter to Greenwich to see the Grampois (Grampus), which, though it was but a very little whale, is yet a very great fish; the skin, like that of all Cetaceous animals, is like that of an eel's, and the flesh as white as a conger's; the humours of his body, though he was dead, were in a brisk fermentation, and out of a hole where they struck the iron that killed him, there yested out blood and oil like barns out of a barrel of new ale. It put me in mind of some slain innocent which bleeds at the approach of his murderers; but the stench was so uncouth that it was able to discompose any meditations. On Sunday I heard the Duke, after he had related to us the story of Candie, sent by Madame, his sister, that a workman in a quarry of stone in Glostershire, not far from the Severn, going to raise a great stone (he had loosened) on one end, it sunk away downward from him, and had almost carried the fellow along with it, leaving a great hole, which, they trying to fathom, found it 60 fathoms ere the plummet reached the bottom; the news of this being sent to the King, one here at London undertook to go down and give an account of it. When he was below he found great vast caverns and a great river 20 fathoms over and eight deep into a lesser cavity where he judged there might be some rake (track?) of a mine; he sent in a miner with a light who was not got far, but he cried they were all made, for he had found what they sought for; but when he had gone a little farther he came thundering back again ready to break his neck, saying he had met with a spirit that so frightened him, he would not venture in again for the world. The King on Thursday last had news by letter from Jamaica that one Morgan, whom he had sent thither to command a small frigate of 12 guns, going with this ship and six more small vessels without ever a gun, but only a few murdering pieces, into a harbour on terra firma . . . from Mexico found himself at the close of the evening encompassed with 12 Spanish [men of] war. The Admiral sent to him to know how he durst venture beyond his bounds, [and asked him quietly to render his ships, and he and his men should have quarter [for] their lives], otherwise he would hang them all. Morgan answered his Spanish rodo[montade with] a Welsh one, and sent him word that if he did not surrender his ships to him he should . . . he would order them next morning. That night Morgan turns one of his small vessels into a fire ship, and by break of day comes up to the Admiral, fires his 12 guns at him, and in the smoke lays his fire ship close by his side; the Admiral thinking he had taken a prize, caught a Tartar, for he had no sooner grappled her to him, and sent 20 men aboard her, but she began to blaze, and quickly sets fire on the Admiral. The rest of their fleet being in a great consternation slipped their anchors to get away: but the tide brought two of them upon the Admiral, and there burnt with her, a fourth running on shore sets fire on herself because she would not be taken; a fifth (the Rear Admiral) they took and brought away when they found so great a prize of ready money that the meanest boy of the adventurers had 50*l.* for his share. This I had from the King's own mouth, who says it shall not be printed, lest its by reflecting too much on the Spanish bravery should provoke them to a revenge. At the Council on Wednesday, upon the Petition of three Devonshire men who last Assizes were convict upon the statute of Queen Eliz. for paying 10*l.* a month for forbearing the Church, which amounted to a great sum of money payable to the King, His Majesty did not only pardon their fine, but declared he would not have that Statute put in execution hereafter, it being his judgment that no man ought to suffer merely for conscience sake, but he did not mean by this to excuse those that were found at unlawful assemblies, they being always of dangerous consequence to government.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

1670, July 16th. The same to the same.—Two pages of Alchemy.—. . . You have heard, I guess, by some earlier posts that on Sunday last the King publicly declared in the Drawing-room on the Queen's side that he had created the Lady Castlemain Duchess of Cleveland, her eldest son Marquis of Southampton, and the second son Earl of Northumberland; the Patents are not yet past the seal; and if Lords should persist in enfeebling their bodies so as not to be able to get heir males, yet England in a few years may be so happy as to see a House of Peers truly noble when they are all extracted out of royal blood, and there will be no need of calling away country gentlemen from the service of their country either at their own houses or that of the Commons. The suspicion of Madame being poisoned which at first ran in every one's head is now taken off by the coming of the Mareschal de Bellefonde; and to requite the coming hither of so great a person, the Duke of Buckingham is to go compliment the French King; there go divers over with him, but especially the Lord Buckhurst and Sir Ch. Sidly, who will lead the maces and the graces such a dance as may instruct and civilize fair France. . . . The Earl of Lauderdale went Thursday morning toward Scotland, Lord Commissioner, the Parliament being to open there the beginning of next month. The Duke of [York] went the same night towards Edinburgh by sea in a yacht. There was a young heires snatched up about Wansor last week by Mr. O'Brien the youngest and his company, but they laid their plot so ill that she was recovered that night by the Lord Chief Justice's warrant, and he is fain to satisfy himself with riding a trooper in the Duke's guards; it was said at first to be Mrs. Boufoy, but I have forgot her true name. The Duke has been very ill since you saw him of a cough, which had taken away his senses of smelling and hearing; he is, they say, now something better, but not out of danger of a consumption. The King carried the Mareschal yesterday to see his new launched ship the London, and was this morning to shew him all his Guards muster in Hyde Park, if the wetness of the day did not hinder, for there fell much rain both this day and yesterday, which was St. Swithins. There were lately several bullets, to the number of 40, shot into the King's Gallery and garden; the Politics judged there was treason intended, and that they were shot with white powder, because no noise was heard; but as last it is found to be an ordinary fellow that not far keeps tame pigeons, which it seems his neighbours' cats are very lickerish of; he, to be revenged, watches to kill all cats that come over the tiles with his stonebag, and some of his shot have reached into Whitehall. On Thursday night the Earl of St. Albans treated the King and the Mareschal at supper, where Mr. Waller the Poet made one, who, when the King went away, waiting on him down the stone steps toward the water, his feet slipping, he fell and cracked the skull, which 'tis feared will put finis to his poetry. The Earl of St. Albans has lost his mistress, they say, for want of being able to make her a sufficient jointure.

1670, Oct. 13. Trinity College, Cambridge. Thomas Bainbrigg to Sir Robert Paston.—Praises the conduct of Sir Robert's son while at College and under the writer's tutورشip. The son was then leaving College to travel abroad.

1670, Oct. 13th. (T. Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston.—Alchemy. . . . It have been a very sickly time not only all England over, but in Holland too, and most of all in France, which I hear hath made my Landlady, her Squire and dwarf take up a resolution of returning to us again shortly.—Mentions the death of his cousin, Major Thomas Henshaw.—The Court returns not till Saturday, so there is little news. The yaughts (yachts) and the Earl of Ossory are gone for the Prince of Orange, and he is expected at Harwich to-morrow. . . . Last week there being a fair near Audly end the Queen, the Duchess of Richmond, and the Duchess of Buckingham had a frolic to disguise themselves like country lasses, in red petticoats, waistcoats, &c., and to go see the fair. Sir Ber. Gasc. on a cart jade rode before the Queen, another stranger before the Duchess of Buckingham, and Mr. Roper before Richmond; they had all so overdone it in their disguise, and looked so much more like antiques than country volk, that as soon as they came to the fair the people began to go after them; but the Queen going to a booth to buy a pair of yellow stockings for her sweetheart, and Sir Bernard asking for a pair of gloves stitched with blue for his sweetheart, they were soon by their Gebrish (gibberish) found to be strangers, which drew a bigger flock about them; one among them had seen the Queen at dinner, knew

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

her, and was proud of her knowledge : this soon brought all the fair into a crowd to stare at the Queen. Being discovered, they as soon as they could get to horses, but as many of the fair as had horses got up with their wives, children, sweethearts, or neighbours behind them to get as much gaped as they could till they brought them to the Court gate. Thus by ill conduct was a merry frolic turned into a penance.

1673, March $\frac{7}{7}$, Calais. W. Aglionby to Lady Paston.—Tells of their safe arrival in France.—The only news here is the equipage of an English Knight; he has already sent before him six fine coach horses, with a coach, chariot, and curry, and eight stable horses, and is himself expected here with his Lady in a pleasure boat every tide; his name is Sir James Rushwood as I am told.

The same date and place. W. Aglionby to Sir Robert Paston.—Tells of the expected coming there of the King of France, and his doings.—He and Mr. Paston will set out on Thursday for Paris.

1673, March $\frac{7}{7}$, Calais.—William Paston to Lady Paston.

1671, March 28th, Paris.—The same to the same.

1671, March 29th, Paris. W. Aglionby to Lady Paston, at the sign of the Golden Ball in Suffolk Street.—We have yet seen nobody, and for aught I can perceive it is as hard or harder to have audience from my Lord Ambassador as from the King, for I am told that he is in the morning at tennis, and in the afternoon with the ladies, at both which times he admits of little company.

1671, March 29th, n. s., Paris. William Aglionby to Sir Robert Paston. M.P.—We have not yet, by reason that it is the Holy Week, been able to put ourselves in a fitting equipage to wait upon my Lord Ambassador, but do hope to put ourselves in a readiness by this night, but to-morrow we must nevertheless perform our private devotions in our Inn, for Mr. Paston thinks it not convenient to be seen by my Lord in his Chapel before we have waited upon him in his chamber. . . . I have inquired more into this new invention of Sedans, and find that I am not able to give you a good account of it, and therefore would fain have you desire Mr. Henshaw to write hither about it; the Duke of Anguien (Queens Anjou or Enghien) has the patent here, and it will be worth a great deal to him. I believe you might beg it in England as for a new invention, and for aught I know it might prove a second Custom House.

1671, April 8th, n. s., Tours. W. Aglionby to Lady Paston.—He and Mr. Paston arrived there on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, having gone the day before in nine hours fourscore and odd miles. . . . Before leaving Paris they waited on the Ambassador, and delivered Lord Mordant's letter to Sir Thomas Bond.

The same date and place.—William Paston to Lady Paston.

1671, April 21st, Tours. William Aglionby to Sir Robert Paston.—From this letter it appears that his mother was a convert to the Roman Catholic doctrines, and that he himself when he grew up was perverted to the Protestant doctrines. Lady Paston got a notion that her son (to whom Mr. Aglionby was travelling tutor) ran a risk of embracing Roman Catholic doctrines; Aglionby was much hurt, and suggested that, unless confidence was placed in him, and he could not be responsible for the pupil's religious opinions, a new tutor would better be provided.

1671, April 23rd, Tours. William Aglionby to Lady Paston.—Complains of Lady Paston's suspicions. Says he will try (but it will be difficult) to get a Protestant servant for Mr. Paston.

1671, May 4th, Tours. William Paston to Lady Paston.—They are just going to Angers.

1671, May 7th, Tours. W. Aglionby to Lady Paston.— . . . Three days ago they went to see the Palace of Richelieu, where they met Sir Thomas Middleton and his brother, and on their return found Sir Thomas Osborne's two sons. Secretary Trevor's son is gone to Angers. . . . Saumur swarms with English; there are my Lady Holland with Adam Loftus and my Lord, Sir Robert Atkins with his lady, a coach and six horses, a pack of hounds and half-a-dozen stable horses, and divers other private gentlemen.

1671, May 16th, Angers.—W. Aglionby to Lady Paston.

1671, June 21st, Angers.—William Paston to Lady Paston.

1671, Feb. 10th. (S. Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston.— . . . The Gazette has informed you that Sir G. Downing for coming home contrary to the King's express order is prisoner in the Tower, but I can add that the King has given to Sir John Davys, of Barkschire, his place of Commissioner of the Customs, and sequestered his other place of teller in the Exchequer: what should cause Sir G. so peremptorily to disobey the King's command we do not certainly know, but it is guessed that it was an apprehension he had, least the common people, who hate him for the last war, should do some violence upon him. Here is a Dutch Ambassador (Van Baining) arrived immediately after Sir George, who they say brings great submissions of the Hollanders along with him, but though it were true, they have so slighted and provoked the King hitherto that I doubt their humiliation comes too late; for we see all preparation towards a war notwithstanding go on vigorously, nor are they behind us in diligence; for we are told by the time we are fitted to come out, they will be ready with 120 sail. The French we hear now will help us, but with 30 sail only, and the great sum of money so much talked of that lately came from France proves to be but 54,000*l.* sterling. The Duke has commanded the writer's brother and his new company to attend him at sea in Capt. Harman's ship, one of the first rate.

. . . This week produced a wedding between your cousin Lord Norris and Mrs. Lee; and the next week will be honoured with one 'twixt the Earl of Landerdale and the Countess of Dysart. I should the last week have given you accounts that Coll. Desbrough, Major General Kelsy are returned into England cum permissu superiorum procured as is said at the intercession of M. Bloud, which makes others talk that Lambard and Overton are also to come shortly. Last night in the French Ambassador's Paquet came the Duke of Monmouth's commission for a regiment of . . . men; each company is to have 2 lieutenants, 3 sergeants, 3 corporals, beside Captain and Ensign; some say there are Bills of Exchange for money too.

1671, Dec. 16th. The same to the same.—Alchemy. . . . Here died on Wednesday last at Worcester House the Duke of Somerset, a youth of great beauty and hopes, aged about twenty, he was lately let go out of his mother's constant care and inspection to come up to court the Countess of Northumberland, who would not be persuaded to marry one 5 or 6 years younger than herself. This occasion gave him the acquaintance of the chief young men about the town, and introduced him into libertys before unknown to him; some little disorder the Thursday before began such a fermentation in his blood as produced a violent malignant fever, the meazells or small-pox were expected the first three days; but there never appeared any evident signs of either, so that most now think that if any of that numerous company of doctors that attended had prevailed to have let him blood it had saved his life; which is so much the more deplorable in that the title and estate go to his uncle, the Lord John, who is never like to have children, and after him the honour will go to his Uncle Trowbridge's children, and the land among the old Duke's daughters. It is now clear that the King of France his design is on Cologne, and beside the Lorraine Army marched thither, we are told the Prince of Conde is to follow [with] 16,000 men, but the confederates of the new league are in pretty good readiness to receive them. I do believe our King intends to stand neutre if he can. Before a French Almanack of this year in a single sheet they have, as is usual with them, pictured their King riding in a triumphant chariot like the sun. The Dutch in scorn of this rant have before an Almanack set the picture of a man eclipsing the sun with a Holland cheese. They say they have already printed a book called the Sermons of his Excellency Sir G. Downing, Ambassador for the King of Great Britain, to the States General, preached before Sir Arthur Hazelrig, Coll. O'Key, Coll. Baxter, &c. I am told the fame of the Duke of Buckingham's new play has reached the French Court, and that that King asked Mons^r. Colbert when he would write him a play, who excusing his want of talents that way to serve him; the King told him he would be out of fashion for the Chief Minister of State in England had taken a great deal of honour by writing a farce; these tales se non son veri son ben trovate.

1671, Jan^r. 6th. The same to the same.—He says in allusion to his Almanack story, that either this ambition of the King of France for frontispical stickicks was a story published at first upon no sure foundation, or if it were his mind is now so much altered that he is ashamed to own it, and therefore he (Henshaw) cannot think it fit to make any attempts that might have the least reflection on so worthy a person as my honoured friend Sir John Knyvet, though it were but to disparage his intelligence to the reputation of his poetry. Here is designed a preparation of a most magnificent fleet

SIR
GILBERT,
BART.

against next spring, the Duke himself intending to go the Great Admiral; the two other squadrons are to be commanded by the Earl of Sandwich and Sir G. Ascough; number of ships, 50, whereof 6 of the first rate (which is more than any King of England was ever master of), beside 20 fire ships; Sir Ed. Sprag is to be a Vice-Admiral, and Sir R. Holmes another; the Earl of Ossory goes captain of a ship; Mr. Digby was appointed to be the Duke's second in a first rate ship, but has given up his commission; 'tis said he was pique that he was not a flag officer, but since Sir P. Holmes hath quitted his flag to desire to be the Duke's second. The present necessity upon the King for this great preparation hath enforced him to put a stop on all assignments he had given the bankers for great sums of money he had taken up of them during the space of one year commencing the 1st of this January, which tho' it be a vast disappointment to all that had any money in their hands, especially to merchants, who will be thrust upon great difficulty by it, yet all objections having been heard and debated in Council, no other equivalent expedient could be found to serve the King's occasions. On Monday will come forth a Declaratory Order, which will let us quodam monied men know in what condition we are in. . . . This morning the news was at Court that the Dutch having better considered whether they are able to wage war with the most puissant King of France, have chosen De Witte their plenipotentiary, and send him to France with carte blanche to make a peace with that King upon any terms he will require; this humiliation of the Hollanders would be pleasing enough to all their neighbours, if it would so appease that great Leviathan that he would be content to sport himself next summer only in his own waters, and save us the charges of putting a fleet to sea. The Duke of Albe-marle was this week reported to be dead; he has been dangerously sick of a cold and some disorder, but 'tis hoped he is in the way of recovery.—Mentions the illness of Harry Jermyn.

n.d. Richard Brockenden to [Sir Robert Paston].—About Alchemy. Amongst other things he says he will send the recipe for turning May dew into salt.

1671, September 9. The same to the same.—On Sunday night last happened a great fire at Cole Harbour, but there was only consumed a great sugar house, and to the value of 14 or 15,000 lbs. of sugar. Here is a new set of highwaymen who rob every night about us; they say they are all very young and are thought to be sparkish prentices: this day sennight they robbed both the Oxford coaches on Acton Road, at the backside of Holland House. One Izzard an attorney who was there, and would needs be so valiant as to defend himself with his sword against pistols and received several shots, whereof he is since dead. There is much talk of a spectre that one night in Lincolns Inn Fields last week filled the air with loud cries and dismal lamentations, which when people awakened and sufficiently frightened, turned into as loud laughs, and all concluded with some ravishing touches of divine music, which for my part I think was but some wanton freak of Sir Robert Leech and his company, or some other of the serenaders.

The little yacht, which was sent to make the Dutch Fleet strike, returning lately from Scotland whither he had gone to fetch us the Countess of South Aske, met again with that fleet, when firing two guns to make them strike sail, the whole fleet presently struck and saluted our yacht, each double the number of guns she had given them, which does somewhat appease the indignation we had against the Dutch, and aggravate the cowardice of the late master of the yacht, who is still a prisoner in the Tower.

1671, September 2. The same to the same.—It is generally reported here that the King has promised the Duke of Buckingham to reimburse him the money he paid the General for the master of the horse's place, and that therefore to secure himself of it he endeavours to bring in Lord Ash, treasurer; but I yesterday spoke with the gentleman, I write you it was said should be his secretary who told me it was true Lord Ash. might be treasurer if he would, but money matters were so out of order, and the humour of the court so unconstant, that he knew he was too wise to accept of it; nevertheless it is believed it will be so, and Sir Tho. Cliff, Chancellor of the Exchequer. The King and Duke go next week to Windsor for another hunting bout, the Prince endeavouring to make him as much in love with that place as he can, who is building, fortifying, and making considerable alterations in the castle. Here are lately come over some English gentlemen out of France to raise horse here for the service of that King; and Sir

H. Jones is to have a regiment of horse; they say Scotland hath lately afforded 5,000 men for that Majesty's service, some of these gentlemen that are come over do assure us that he designs to have in a readiness against next campaign 120,000 men, and those great levies in Italy, Dalmatia, Germany, mentioned in the gazettes do forespeak no less, so that a great diminution is like to befall mankind next summer, for either he will set this vast army to cut his neighbour's throats, or else the greatest part of these wretches that hope to live of his pay will die of hunger. The Swedish Ambassador is not yet arrived.

1671, August 12, Pond House. The same to the same.—I hear them talk that the King will set out for Norfolk on the 25th of September; but these are not informations to be relied on; your surest news will be from Norwich, the Deputy Duke being to knock his eggs on the head before you. Walking on Thursday last to London I saw the carcass of the great Cook of Norfolk conveying to his long home (which to one of you that dwell a hundred miles off methinks should not be so grievous being all your lives accustomed to the mortification of going to your long homes), the attendance was very moderate; consisting of three coaches, whereof one had but two horses, and about six or eight horsemen in a disorderly manner. I perceived the heir and executors had the gift of parsimony; that, however, they should be provided for in wit, the wealth of the family was like to continue yet some time, and that the blessing of Crescere and Thrivare bestowed on the old lawyer was not yet effete. The Duke of York has lately made that compliment to the King of submitting his fancy and liberty in the choice of a wife to His Majesty's judgment and election, assuring him he will never think of any but such a one as shall be proposed by His Majesty. . . . The King on Wednesday night received a lodging and a treat at Mr. Demihoy's at Guildford, intending to spend two or three days in hunting about Windsor, but the stag on Thursday not making sport to his mind he came away of a sudden for London, and left the Duke to follow the chase.

1671, August 19. The same to the same.—Regrets the engagement between Sir Robert's daughter to Mr. Rumbal. All that is stirring is, that the Duke having sent one of the King's yachts to Harwich to make the Dutch fleet riding thereabout strike sail, the yacht calling to them to strike and they not obeying, fired two or three guns at them; but Van Ghent their admiral presently came aboard the yacht, and desired them to have patience, and said they had no instructions what to do in this case, but he would write to their masters at the Hague for orders in it; the master taking this either for a sufficient submission or excuse, was as soon as he came home committed to the Tower, and another yacht sent to do the business better; what his success has been I have not yet heard, nor has the Dutch Ambassador here received instructions yet from his masters what he is to offer to the King by way of excuse, for I hear they are resolved to strike more. Mr. Hen. Coventry and Tom Rosse, who goes secretary to the Embassy, are not yet gone for Sweden, but are to stay till the arrival of an Ambassador from that Crown, who is daily expected here, which makes people talk of a marriage to be proposed to our Duke with an aunt of that King's; but it is more likely to be a treaty about receiving the Emperor into the Triple League, which is pressed by the Hollanders and not much approved by our King. We hear the Duke of Buckingham is to take Holland House of the Earl of Ang., he has been there three evenings successively. I saw him last night go up with the Count of Shrewsbury, Sir C. Sydly and James Porter in the coach with him, this vacation they say has brought 50 extents upon his lands, and that when his debts are paid his Grace will not have above 1,200*l.* per annum.

1671, Aug. 29th, S.W. (Henshaw) to Sir John Clayton.—A long letter about what had passed between Miss Paston and Mr. Rumbold, and about her obstinate attachment.

1670, Nov. 1st, Westminster. John Fisher to Sir Robert Paston.—The Parliament sit but every fourth day, and have only voted the King a supply; but how much and which way will be debated further on Thursday. His debts at interest are delivered in about 130,000*l.*, which a committee have undertaken to satisfy the House in against Thursday, and the setting out of the 50 sail of ships next spring to bear up to the proportion of our neighbours and allies is computed at 800,000*l.* more, so that the sum now to be given to put His Majesty out of debt, besides the arrears to servants,

SIR
H. INGLEBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

seamen, and for provisions for which no interest is assigned, will be above 2,000,000.; but some of the Court affirm it will require double that sum to preserve the honour of the King and nation, and it is very hard pressed to raise it by a land tax which will be the ruin of our country, though the north and west may scape better, &c. P.S. The book acquaints you with the Prince of Orange, his coming to town on Sunday evening.

1671, 18th, Norwich. (Indorsed my Lord Howard's letter to his brother).— . . . Sir Robert Paston is now with me and in the greatest trouble and confusion I ever saw man, for fear of missing of the honour of serving Her Majesty as becomes him at his house. 'Tis true he was forced to confess in his letter to Lord Arlington that it was impossible to lodge both their Majesties at once with any convenience in his house, and indeed this is no more than I and all the world knew before, as both their Majesties have been told before he said it; but that Her Majesty should speak uncertainly of her coming to him at all to my Lord Arlington is what confounds him and all of us, his neighbours, for really should Her Majesty now deny and withdraw that honour totally from him, it would be his eternal disgrace, and mortification to all his country, where his family have been so many descents the most ancient of all the gentry here without competition. I therefore do now in his behalf and my own most earnestly desire you will make his and his Lady's moan in most humble manner to the Queen, and beg the knowledge of the day or night Her Majesty will honour him. I suppose that Her Majesty not supping on Friday will (after she has dined at Sir T. Hobart with the King) return to honour my house here at night, and then if she would please to honour Sir Robert Paston next day at dinner, His Majesty I presume will easily be prevailed upon to dine there with her, ere she goes to my Lord Townshend's, which is less than 20 miles thence; and so Her Majesty, who on her return to London must of necessity pass back again thro' Norwich) will again honour my house that night, where next morning she may hear mass, dine, and after dinner return (it being but 20 miles to my Lord Arlington's) hence, as it is coming so it is returning, but two days journey to London, if Her Majesty's resolution do continue being there so soon.

1671, May 13th. S. W. (Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston.— . . . We have been treating the Dukes De Longueville, Buillon, Marillac, Monsieur Le Grand, &c., who made a trip over to see this Court, and to do their reverence to our King, who they say is le plus honest homme du monde. Your cousin Manchester has bid buenas noches al mundo, and was snatched away with a colick before he had time to think death was now at last in good earnest with him. The Earl of St. Alban is grown young again with the satisfaction he has in succeeding him to be the King's Lord Chamberlain, and will be as youthful when he gets the white staff and blue ribbon as when he was Harry Jermin, the first being of course deferred till the solemnity of breaking the old staff and throwing it into the grave of his predecessor. Chief Justice Keeling on Wednesday last had an old statue executed upon him by a writ of statum est omnibus semel mori; but that which is most to be admired in it was that a man of so bilious a complexion should have so phlegmatic a conveyance to the other world as a lethargy. . . . The romance of the rose is a story that you will find in Thursday's Gazette, of one Blood's stealing the crown out of the Tower; as gallant hardy a villain as ever herded in that sneaking sect of the Anabaptists: when he was examined before the King he answered so frankly and undauntedly that every one stood amazed. . . . Gives an account of Blood's conversation with the King. He thought the crown was worth 100,000l. (when crown, sceptre, globe, and Prince Edward's staff cost the King but 6,000l.). He was to have headed the party that was to have surprised Dublin Castle eight years ago. He and his company carried off the Duke of Ormond. Says there was found about him a little book of paper, wherein he had set down 60 signal deliverances from eminent dangers; men guess him to be about 50 years of age by the gray hairs sprinkled up and down in his head and beard, but he says he is not above 45 and his son 21. . . . Prince Robert remembers he served under him, and says he was a very stout bold fellow. . . . I want but one barrel full now to have collected all the dew the King has appointed.

1671, June 6th, Blickling. Sir J. Hobart to Sir Robert Paston. About the assessments of their five Hundreds to a Royal aid. In a P.S. he mentions the death of their worthy friend and neighbour Sir Thomas Rant.

2671, June 16th, Blickling. The same to the same. —Upon the same subject.

1671, Aug. 5th. (T. Henshaw) to Sir Robert Paston.— I hope you have somebody at court will send you timely intelligence of the King's coming, for I was told on Thursday last by some of the courtiers that the King had said very lately he would lodge one night at Sir R. Paston's, as also that he would begin his progress that way the 20th of this month. . . . I know not whether Thursday's Gazette told you that sweet hopeful youth, the Duke of Guise, that was over here this spring is now dead of the small-pox, or that Madame de Lion, that great Minister's of States wife, is prisoner in the Bastille, for crimes which being kept secret sets all the world to guess at them. It is now again briskly reported at Court that the King of France will besiege Calais, for all he seemed to disband his army. The Lady Barkly went on Wednesday last with her two sons towards France, and as soon as the King sets his face towards Norfolk, the Lord-Lieutenant, her husband, goes to Ireland. On Thursday last in the courtyard at Whitehall I saw walking in a new suit and periwig Mr. Blood, extraordinary pleasant and jocose: he has been at liberty this fortnight; he is nothing like the idea I had made to myself of him, for he is a tall rough-boned man, with small legs, a pock freckle face, with little hollow blue eyes.

1672, Aug. 12th, Rainham. Lord Townshend to Sir Robert Paston. . . . I am glad the Dutch East India fleet are not so secure, but that fire or water may reach them.

1673, Aug. 10th, Rainham. Lord Townshend to Lord Yarmouth. Congratulates him on being made Baron of Paston and Viscount Yarmouth.—Notwithstanding my resolve your brother Howard hath prevailed with me to come to the camp and wait upon General Shomberge, but I shall make no stay.

1673, Aug. 11th, Yarmouth. T. Howard to Lady Yarmouth.—Congratulations. We are all in pain here for the safety of our fleet, which we believe certainly engaged.

1673, Aug. 18th, Beckhall. Margaret Bedingfeld to Lady Yarmouth.—To wish and pray that your greatness may increase till it comes to equal the measures of your goodness, your enemies can not in justice deny it to you, nor your friends in modesty ask more. Hope your Ladyship will long enjoy the fruits of your labours, with the life of my dear Lord Paston, in the naming whose title (to confess a truth) I find my heart transported in spite of my age and mortified resolutions. May your Ladyship have ever from the family all thanks. I wish myself at present as a Paston considerable; but being a poor Papist I can only serve you with a good heart, and whisper to my friends and acquaintances about Norwich to the advantage of your concerns, and how they may pay their respects, in order to which I am just now ascending to the Dean of Norwich to dine with me to-morrow, that I may season him before he returns to his wife's friends, that they may not hinder others; to my Lord Marshall we will be careful to speak; but I would be glad you would either let him or us know the punctual day you would have us meet you.

1673, Aug. 22nd. Sir Robert Kemp to Lord Yarmouth.—Congratulatory.

1673, Sept. 6th, London. Thomas King to Lord Yarmouth.—About a proposition to be made by Lord Yarmouth to the King (apparently for a grant of a piece of land in Yarmouth), which would be not only to the King's advantage, but would be worth 40,000l. or 50,000l. to Lord Yarmouth.

1673, Sept. 25th, Chelsea. A letter in French to Lord Yarmouth.—Says that Lord Mareschall, with his son, was with him two days ago, and that Lord Mareschall's son supped with him yesterday evening. Says that he and his brother are determined to go and meet Lord Yarmouth.

1674, April 2nd. Copy Petition of Lord Yarmouth to the King.—If the King will allow his account of his farm of the customs of wood, earth, glass and stone ware, as it has been or shall be stated for the two years and a half of war ended Lady Day last, and for the future abate 1,800l. per annum out of the 3,800l., which was the enhanced rent by reason and upon consideration of the firing of the City of London, then upon passing such a release or grant he is willing to pay his Majesty 2,000l., as a testimony of his grateful acknowledgment of his Majesty's justice and favour.

1674, Oct. 7th, Paris. Robert Paston to his brother. —We were entertained by the Duke de Sharoe, Governor of Calais twice, very handsome, and all the garrison

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

SIR VOLLEY,
ART.

towns that we passed, the drums, trumpets, and fiddles were still sent us by the Governor, and they either came themselves or sent some gentlemen with compliments to my Lord Plymouth. . . . The Prince de Conde came last week to Paris, and has sent his army to their winter quarters. Mr. Jarrard, Lord Jarrard's son, came to wait on my Lord Plymouth last night, who came with the Prince. He says that Touraine (Turenne) is still in the field, and does expect every day to fight.

1674, Janry. 4th. Yarmouth. The Bailiffs of Yarmouth to Lord Yarmouth.—Our Corporation, by the death of the late Earl of Clarendon, being destitute of a Lord High Steward, we are humbly told to acquaint your Lordship that at a Common Council holden on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd, your Lordship was proposed and most unanimously elected his successor.—They pray his acceptance of the office.—Signed by Thomas Gooch and Tho. England, Bailiffs.

1674-5, Janry. 6th, Ludham. Ro. Flynt to Lord Yarmouth.—Thinks that by this time the business is passed the seal of St. Nicholas, and it is ordered that a select number of Aldermen shall wait upon your Lordship, and present you with it at your coming to Oxnett. Your election was so free that no one person did openly oppose it; one or two of the fanatics would have taken advice, I shall tell your Lordship of whom when I next see you; but it was instantly overruled, and it passed clearly without opposition.

1674, January 27th, Temple. F. North (Chief Justice) to the Honble. Charles Berty. Law business.

1675, April 1st. Quidenham (copy). Sir J. Holland to Mr. Barnard.—In favour of Sir Robert Kemp to succeed Lord Richardson, deceased, as a member of Parliament. Some have proposed Sir Nevil Catlyne, but he (Catlyne) has said that he will support Kemp. He hears that some of the clergy are active in the opposition, because Kemp is in favour of bonds of resignation on presentation to livings.

1675, April 2nd, [Saumur.] Robert Paston to Lord Yarmouth.—Says he will obey Lord Yarmouth's orders not to write to Sir J. Clayton (his uncle), who has behaved ill to Lord Yarmouth. He gives an account of his visits to divers French towns.

1675, April 26th, Oxnead. J. Hurton to Lord Yarmouth.—This letter had been sent by the Friday's post if extraordinary business had not called me abroad that day, so as I could not speak [to] Mr. Wharton, as since I have, and do find him wholly conformable to your Lordship's desires, though 'tis believed most of those persons (whether of the clergy or laity) that are right for the Church of England are for Sir Nevill Catlin; as, on the contrary, they say all the godly party, whether Presbyterians, Independents, or Quakers, are for Sir Robert Kemp. As to the truth of this, I can say nothing, but 'tis most certainly true that the good success Mr. Cook had at Linn put the Catalins into a mighty stock of confidence, so that if those great persons please to take the pains to encourage Sir Robert Kemp's party with their presence, perchance 'twill be no more than needs. I remember the election, which was in the first year of the late King, which is 50 years, and I have taken notice of many elections since, but did never hear that men's minds were so strangely moved as in this. This day fortnight will (sure) put an end to these heats 1675, April 26th, Yarmouth. The Bailiffs of Yarmouth to Lord Yarmouth.—Sending him the Patent by one of them (Geo. England) for the High Stewardship.

1675, April 29th. Copy by Lord Yarmouth of his answer to the Bailiff's (of Yarmouth) letter of the 26th April.

1675, May 1st. Will. de Grey to Mr. Blome and the rest of the gentlemen and freeholders in the towns of Thompson and Tottington.—Recommending Sir Robert Kemp as the next Knight of the Shire, and praising him highly, and appointing Sunday the 9th of May to meet at Merton, or else at Hingham, the day before the election, to go from thence to Norwich to vote.

1675, May 7th. John Gough, Chaplain to Lady Yarmouth.—About the election. He will vote for Sir Robert Kemp in compliance with Lord Yarmouth's wishes, altho' his own judgment leads him to Sir Nevill Catline.

1675, May 7th. J. Hurton to Lord Yarmouth.—Account of the tactics of the opposing parties with reference to the coming election.

1675, May 10, Norwich. An unsigned letter without address, giving an account of the proceedings of this day in order to the election for a Knight of the Shire for Norfolk.—There were two persons in nomination, Sir Robert Kempe was one, put up by the power of the Lord Lieutenant, and some deputy lieutenants, &c. of the county, accompanied with his own activity and forwardness. The other was Sir Nevil Catlyn, put up by a loyal party of gentry, clergy, and commonalty much against his own will and inclinations. The Lord Lieutenant, accompanied with many of his colonels, captains, and justices of the peace, met together at Norwich on Saturday last, and taking notice that the King's Head was a house where many of the Catlynes used to meet together and dine on Saturdays, appointed the landlord of the house to prepare a dinner, that they might there friendly meet and dine with those gentlemen that were friends to Sir Nevil Catlyne. About noon thither they came, but with so great a number as many of their own company were forced for want of room to remove from thence to another place. The Catlynes to avoid disturbance went away, and dined at another house. This house was before that time taken up for the service of Sir Nevil Catlyne's friends, and intended to be their chief place of rendezvous upon the day of election. After dinner the Catlynes returned to the King's Head, where many of them stayed till about seven of the clock at night, and then parted with full assurance of having that house for their reception this morning. But about 9 of the clock at night on Saturday the Lord Lieutenant so managed the business, as by his power he prevailed and took up the house for Sir Robert Kempe. This morning the Lord Lieutenant was placed in a chair proportionable to his greatness in the Market Cross, over against the King's Head Gate, where many of the Catlynes expected their rendezvous and entertainment, but coming hither unexpectedly found the Lord Lieutenant and his party there, what discord and advantage this might put upon Sir Nevil Catlyne's party may be easily understood. Sir Nevil Catlyne was yesterday seized on at church by many of the freeholders of the county, and was this morning brought into town with about 4,000 horse; but finding themselves thus disappointed of the King's Head, were necessitated to go to the White Swan, which is on the backside of the butchers' shambles, a house taken up for some of the Catlynes, but very inconveniently situated to be made use of as the chief house of entertainment upon the day of election. After the town was filled with the great numbers which the power, and terrors, industry and art, of the Lord Lieutenant, &c., had drawn and driven thither to vote for Sir Robert Kemp, contrary to their own judgments and inclinations, as they themselves publicly and generally declared, and those also which continued stout for Sir Nevil Catlyne declaring for a free choice and their birthrights against this powerful imposition, the writ was read in the usual place by the sheriff, and the knights mounted their chairs; the multitude which followed each of them seemed to be much equal, but the party for Sir Nevil Catlyne the greatest of the two. Whilst the knights ride about the High Sheriff withdraws himself to the grand jury chamber, in order to the settling of such a method in the carriage of the business of the day, as all things might be equally and indifferently administered. Sir John Hobart and Sir John Holland managed the discourse on the part of Sir Robert Kempe and made their several speeches, the effect whereof was that they desired only an impartial neighbourly and honourable way of proceeding. After a full debate between them, and the gentlemen on the part of Sir Nevil Catlyne for ascertaining of what was then agreed on, it was thought fit the agreement should be put in writing, Sir John Hobart offering himself to be penman, the other party expecting the agreement should be impartially set down and observed by Sir Robert Kemp's party, according to what the two Sir Johns had declared yielded therunto; and when Sir John Hobart had done writing the agreement, the gentlemen that were on the part of Sir Nevil Catline desired that it might be publicly read to the end, that if there were any mistakes they might be timely corrected; but the two Sir Johns could not be prevailed withal to stay so long, and so went immediately out of the room, the agreement being left behind them to be copied out to be observed strictly on both sides. When a copy thereof was written, the gentlemen which stayed caused the same to be examined with the original which was of Sir John Hobart's writing, there were several articles found defective, and one material article wholly omitted, which was to this effect, that for the dispatch of the country there should be two penmen and two persons to swear the freeholders at the poll on each side; but those to be placed so near

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

together as the checks on either side respectively might see all persons that came to the poll, to the intent that if any person should come twice or oftener to the same poll he might possibly be discovered; the omission of writing this article was very ill resented, and greatly to the discontent of the Catlynes; but the two Sir Johns being gone off the chamber upon confidence that this article and all others agreed of would be strictly and honourably observed according to the true intent thereof were for the present qualified; but contrary to their expectations as soon as they got off the chamber immediately set up two distinct polls for Sir Robert Kempe, at one whereof the Lord Lieutenant himself personally acted as chief instrument, and Sir John Holland at the other, which continued for some time before it was taken notice of by those gentlemen that were on the part of Sir Nevil Catlyne, or that any checks could get thither; but as soon as notice was taken of the said two distinct polls set up for Sir Robert Kempe, some gentlemen addressed themselves to the sheriff, whom they found in the grand jury chamber with Sir John Hobart and divers other gentlemen who appeared for Sir Robert Kempe, and there complained of this practise as a breach of article and very unjust and dishonourable. Sir John Hobart to excuse himself objected that when things were referred to writing, the writing was the only rule to judge by, and this article was not in the writing; ergo,—This objection made a warm debate, amongst other things it was replied that Sir John Hobart was the person intrusted to write the agreement, and that tho' it was his fault to omit the writing the article, yet it could not enter into their thoughts that he did it with design to break it, and that this his objection tending only to the mending one fault with another was an aggravation of the offense. At length the Sheriff being present, and privy to the before-mentioned agreement, was desired to declare his sense as to the justice of this complaint, whereupon he did openly aver that the agreement was as above mentioned, and that the breach thereof was without his privy or knowledge, and contrary to his liking. How to remedy this abuse was the next question, it tending to the great damage of the one party, and singularly to the advantage of the other. In conclusion at the Sheriff's proposal, gentlemen on both sides accompanied him to the Lord Lieutenant's booth, and acquainted him with the agreement aforesaid, and that Sir John Hobart had omitted (tho' trusted with the pen) the writing this Article. The Lord Lieutenant declared that he was not privy to the agreement, and seemed troubled for the breach of it, and expressed his readiness to comply to any course that should be prescribed as a means to the strict observance of it for the remainder of the day. But whilst this was thus in debate, the gentlemen that were for Sir Nevil Catlyne finding the disadvantage that they were upon and expecting no relief therein, did from that time set up two distinct polling places, and so that discourse ended for the present. Whilst the Lord Lieutenant and Sir John Holland were acting their parts at their polls, Sir John Hobart attended with the Sheriff's men, and Holberds came many times to Sir Nevil Catlyne's poll, and disordered and disturbed the freeholders there, and affronted and behaved themselves very rudely towards them; notwithstanding all these passages, Sir Nevil Catlyne continued his poll till late in the evening, and then accompanied with many of his friends retired himself. Soon after the Lord Lieutenant and that party went into the Grand Jury Chamber and delivered the Sheriff their book, and pressed him to cast them up, and also the books taken by Sir Nevil Catlyne, and according as the number should appear to return the writ. The gentlemen that were on Sir Nevil Catlyne's party being retired, and hearing of this, agreed that some person should be chosen to go to the Sheriff and acquaint him how that Sir Nevil Catlyne's poll was continued till late in the evening, and that there were a considerable number of freeholders still in town that had not polled, and that of them some had already offered themselves to the poll that day, but were hindered by Sir Robert Kempe's party, and also to remind him of the breach of the agreement aforesaid, and to desire that the books might be sealed up and the poll adjourned till next morning, and then the books to be opened again and the poll continued. This was delivered by the gentlemen that were selected for that purpose; but Sir Robert Kempe's party were so prevalent with the Sheriff, as he immediately cast up the books and returned Sir Robert Kempe for Knight of the Shire. It's much observed here that many of those persons that came to the poll for Sir Robert Kemp cried out that they came for the Lord Lieutenant's sake, and others for this Colonel, Captain, or Justice, but rarely any man said he came for Sir Robert Kemp's sake. The fanatics were generally for Sir Robert Kemp, and also the greater part of the Roman Catholics (for fear as is supposed of sequestration). And now, good Sir, whether you will communicate to your brethren of the House of Commons, how the Militia of Norfolk govern their poor countrymen, or whether you will publish this paper to any of them, I leave it freely to your own choice and discretion, with the assurance that if these irregularities be brought in question in the House of Commons, this relation will seem but a shadow to what will appear by the proofs.

1675, Aug. 13th. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Expresses his grief at the accident to Lord Yarmouth.

1675, Aug. 15th, Felbrigg. Will. Windham to Lord Yarmouth.—Since I have heard of your being wounded upon the road by persons who came to rob you, I have been continually between hope and fear of your being better or worse than is reported.—He longs to hear of Lord Yarmouth's recovery.

1675, Aug. 16th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—He is thankful for the wonderful delivery of his Lordship from the jaws of death, and the fair hopes of a speedy recovery. The news was not rife in the country till Saturday's post came in, since which time several have sent to understand how my Lord is.

1675, Aug. 16th, Quidenham. Holland to Lord Yarmouth.—Whilst I was in full expectation to hear of your arrival at your sweet Oxmit, my Lord Chamberlain giving me here a visit upon Friday last told me that your Lordship had been set upon about Kensington by some highway rogues, and that you had been robbed and dangerously wounded, news very unwelcome to me. . . . The routing of Crequi since the loss of Turenne comes to us here confirmed on all hands, and whether slain or got into Treves is uncertainly reported. We cannot mourn much here that Monssir's ambition have received so considerable a check, but we are somewhat alarmed at the news of that disorder the City of London was in, occasioned as we hear by the dangerous discontent that the silk weavers and others have taken up against the French inhabitants in the city and suburbs, robbing them as they conceive of their trade and livelihood, and that for the quieting of them His Majesty was returned to Whitehall with the greatest part of his Guards, and the City generally, and yet daily in arms.

1675, Aug. 23rd, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Thanks for news of Lord Yarmouth's improvement.

The same date. John Gough to Lord Yarmouth.—A similar letter.

1675, Aug. 29th. Dr. Hilleyerd to Lord Yarmouth.—Condolences on his accident, having heard the same confirmed by Sir Henry Bedingfield, and congratulations on his recovery.

1675, Aug. 30th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives her an account of the thanksgiving service for the protection, preservation, and restoration of Lord Yarmouth to health, which was held in the chapel there.

1675, Aug. 30th, Buxton. Tho. Bulwer to Lord Yarmouth.—On the same subject.

Another letter of the same date and on the same subject from Edm. Wharton to Lord Yarmouth.

1675, Sept. 15th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—According to my promise this is the second to you on the road; the last from Littlebury, sent by a flying coachman, is uncertain whether it came to your hands from thence. We dined at Newmarket, and from thence by sunset got safe to Thetford, where I was entertained with the ringing of the bells, and immediately by a most civil visit from the Mayor in his formalities, with all his brethren, who stayed with me about half an hour to drink the King's, the Duke's, and the Lord Marshall's healths. The doctor of the town, who is now with me at mutton and onions, came along with them. Mr. Gough and Killey met me here, and tomorrow I am informed by Mr. Gough more persons than I desire intend to meet me on this side Norwich, where I am expected to-morrow morning at Sir John Holland's. . . . Mr. Gough tells me the town of Yarmouth are mighty civil to me; that they design six persons to come over to me; that they design me a present.

1675, Sept. 17th, Oxnead. John Fisher to Lady Yarmouth.—The circumstances of our two first days' journey were fully imparted by my Lord's own pen. Yesterday admitted of so much variety of pleasure and

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGOLBY,
BART.

content, altho' a subject copious enough for many pens, that he thinks it his duty to give her some account.—No sooner did the morning appear, but my Lord was awakened with the melody (not of Thetford town, for they were abroad at a wedding bout) of artists that fell in with us by Providence, for the skillfullest musicians are said to frame the sweetest music out of discords, and ours was wholly of that composure, which wrought its desired effect, for it enlivened and quickened us to be gone (though we were loath to part with that Corporation who had been so civil over night), and at the first mile and house we came at my Lord was congratulated for his happy deliverance by an honest worthy gentleman, who saluted him at the coach side, and welcomed him into country with a good bottle of cider, and gave us directions for our right way to Quidenham, but there is no pleasure to be at always in trodden paths, and therefore to make the way the more delightful we lost it awhile (the design being so laid at first by placing our guide to ride backwards), that we might not come to that sweet place before our set time, to enclose my Lord again within doors, who we found so much refreshed with the open air of Norfolk. At our alighting from the coach the good old gentleman (pity it is that ever he should be old), who had been a little indisposed before, revived with the sight of my Lord, betwixt whom there was much cheerful and friendly embraces. . . . But the kindness of his first word had like to have killed us, for as master of the place he gave orders to make us prisoners for that night, so that our names were no sooner up but we might have lain in bed till noon, for there was no going further that day. This was evident enough when we came within, where the noble lady was ready to receive us, and a provision not for a meal, but rather for a week's entertainment. My Lord used all the arguments he could to have broke his fast there and so away, but a buck had been sent for 50 miles, and must be eaten before we parted; and it was not long ere a dinner came upon the table, such as for the variety of all sorts of flesh, fish, and fowl in perfection, that are now in season, with several sorts of liquors suitable, that it looked more like a preparation for His Majesty than a kinsman, and had not a letter come in unexpectedly (yet opportunely) at the third course, which gave intimation that divers persons of quality intended to wait upon my Lord in the road when he came near Norwich. All persuasions for his appointment of being at home that night, and impatience to see this sweet place and his dear children, had been of no force if Sir John had not been sensible of the civility designed by these gentlemen upon the way, which till then we knew nothing of, but would look unhandsonly to disappoint them, and for this reason we got off soon after one o'clock, and made all the convenient haste we could. At Attleborough our company began to increase, beyond Wymondham more came in, and so all the way till within a mile of the city, where our number was completed, consisting of Barons, Knights, Esquires, gentlemen and clergy, Aldermen and Town Clerk of the city, with divers others substantial citizens, those of my Lord Marshall's family that were in town, and several from the Bishop with his coach, and about six coaches more. All saluted my Lord at meeting, expressing their great joy to see his Lordship in the country so well recovered, who appeared to them like a resurrection, the former reports hereabouts being that his wounds were mortal, and that his coachman (who was buried above a week before) was at that time killed. They made no stop or delay to his Lordship, for they fell into excellent order before they came to St. Stephen's gate, and the van being led by near 40 of the orthodox clergy (habited according to their function), the rest followed in their course to the number of about 300 on horseback before my Lord's coach, which was followed by all the other coaches, and so passed slowly through the city, the bells ringing, the inhabitants general looking out at their doors or windows, and a lane of ordinary persons of the city on both sides of us, from one gate to the other, all with cheerful countenances, who made their observations that they did not see a factious or Presbyterian look in the train. Most of the horsemen and several of the coaches accompanied my Lord up the hill at Catton, where my Lord alighted in the field to return them his thanks, and those of the city went back again, and about 20 attended him home and supped with his Lordship. Our stay at Quidenham made us a little benighted, yet the sun would not leave us till we had passed the city, and then deputed the moon to show us light hither, where the Governors of this place had so artificially enlightened the house that we could see the inside on't at half a mile distance, and at our approach to it seemed as noonday. His Lordship was long looked for, and met at the gate about 8 o'clock by the young Lady and Mistress here, supported by her two brothers, who conducted my Lord and their sister in with abundance of joy and satisfaction in all parts.

1675, Sept. 29th, Yarmouth. The same to the same. —My Lord so ordered it that your Honour's letters met him at Coulthill Bridge, where Capt. Harbord came into his coach, Mr. Tasburgh coming from Norwich before we came from Oxnead, who went also in my Lord's coach; several neighbours on horseback, which increased upon the way, and at Ludham, Major Waldegrave and Mr. Huby stayed in their coach till my Lord came by, so that we entered Flegg with those two coaches and about forty horse, and came to Mr. Call's at Mautby about two o'clock, where a very excellent dinner was set upon the table in three minutes. . . . In little more than an hour we went from Mautby, and within a mile, Sir Nevill Catelny, with his father-in-law, Mr. Houghton, his neighbour, Capt. Cooke, and others in his coach, and several on horseback fell in with us, and at Easter (2 miles from Yarmouth) Sir Will. Adams in his coach waited for my Lord's coming, and there, at Adm. Rowe's house in the street, the whole body of the Corporation of Yarmouth attended his Lordship's coming (and it was so laid that they stayed not a quarter of an hour), viz.: the old bailiffs and the new, the three Knights of the Town, most of the Aldermen and Common Council, and other merchants, who saluted my Lord (who came out of his coach to them), with a glass of good wine in their hands, and presently the Bailiffs took their coach and went immediately before my Lords, the Aldermen, Common Council, with the rest of the townsmen and about 14 clergy rode all before the coaches, which we estimated at above 300, some say above 400. My Lord's servants followed immediately after his own coach, and after them the three coaches that attended my Lord and the 3 Knight's coaches of the town, viz., Sir Tho. Meadows, Sir Geo. England's, and Sir James Johnson's, with several servants after them, which with my Lord's made up near 50 horse more, and in this order we passed slowly over the Dean's to the North Gates, the bells ringing and the street and market place set very thick with people, and so we marched to the further end of the town on the market side, all the great guns firing as we passed by the several forts, and near the further end of the town by the South Gates, we turned down to the key side, where the Haven lay very full of ships, all with their flags and streamers out, and such as had guns firing them as we came along by them, to the new elected Bayliff Mr. Thaxter's house, where my Lord alighted and received the visits of all the townsmen, of those that came along and such as could not get horses to attend him upon the way, and soon after was entertained there with all the gentlemen that came with him and some of the chief of the town at a very great supper, and there lodged, and about 10 this morning his Lordship, with most of the other gentlemen in coaches, went to the Town Hall by the Church, where the Bailiffs and Aldermen, all in scarlet, were sat at an Assembly for choosing a schoolmaster and making my Lord a freeman of the Corporation, the Instrument whereof sealed with their common seal and inclosed in a handsome square silver box they presented his Lordship with, and so went to Church, where my Lord was placed in their Gallery betwixt the two old Bailiffs, and prayed for by the Preacher by his particular title of their high Steward. After sermon, the Bailiffs, Aldermen, and Common Councilmen walked in front to their other Townhall (being their place of Judicature near a mile off), and my Lord and the other gentlemen in their coaches where my Lord was again placed betwixt the two old bailiffs, whilst the new ones took their oaths, and divers others of the officers of the Town, and several other ceremonies were performed as is usual, and then the new bailiffs took their places of each side next my Lord, and immediately the Assembly broke up, and my Lord came to this chief Bailiff's, Mr. Thaxter's, where his Lordship and all the gentlemen and ministers were entertained with a magnificent dinner: the junior bailiff (Mr. Bradford) being a bachelor, entertained his company at an Inn, who, as soon as they had dined, came to attend my Lord, and upon the whole matter shew as much kindness to him as could be imagined, the Chief of the town in their unanimous hearty expressions and the common people in their acclamations. Sir Hen. Bacon, the two Mr. Kevitt's, and some other gentlemen came in here this morning, and we hope soon after the letters come in tomorrow to get away for Oxnead.

SIR
H. INGOLBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

1675, Sept. 29th, Yarmouth. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—He gives her an account of his reception in Yarmouth, which agrees with that of Mr. Fisher's of the same date.—Mr. England desires me to have but a little patience, and tells me the growth of the town in shipping and trade must necessarily throw them upon me; it is not now the time to conclude anything I find them nibbling, but pray get Mr. Fits (Fitch) to come down if possibly the next week, which must be one way or other do me good.

1675, Oct. 1st, Oxnead. John Fisher to Lady Yarmouth.— . . . About one o'clock yesterday, after (breakfast as they called it, but more truly) a very great dinner, for my Lord and all the gentlemen with him, the old and new Bailiffs, and several of the Aldermen (who never left his Lordship) marched off in the same way and like parade as we came in (tho' not with as many horse), passing by a new great ship just fitted to be launched as we came away, and thus we went along the market side of the Town, the new Bailiffs and several of the Townsmen riding before my Lord's coach, and the old bailiffs, with the knights of the Town and others, following in my Lord's coach, in their own, and without the gates, an honest gunner (who saluted my Lord at his alighting at the bailiff's door, when he came in with above 20 potguns), bade his Lordship farewell again with the like number, and thus we went away with a powder, which is one signal testimony of the affection of the Town . . . least my Lord should not be satisfied or well pleased with the variety of provisions, for which they had ransacked the earth, water, and air, they would not let the fourth element escape, but before his Lordship was quite risen from dinner, or just turning about from the table, for a fourth course they brought in a man to shew his Lordship the experiment how fire might be eaten without damage or hurt, for such whose stomachs were prepared for it, or were not satisfied with those dainties we had received, but this countrymen of ours gave us our fill of this immediately, and we left him to his own peculiar diet, nobody that I saw being willing to taste on't . . . I must not omit their generosity in clearing my Lord and all his followers of all charges for horse meat and other expenses in the several Inns, which was an additional demonstration of their kindness and the more acceptable, by being unexpected. My Lord would have gratified several officers of the Town, but we were informed it would not be accepted, nor the offering it well taken, so his Lordship ordered 5*l.* to the servants in the Bailiff's house where he lay and had received all their civilities, and 10*l.* more for the poor. And now I am got on to the Downs again, where, at the Rayles, being the extent of their Jurisdiction a mile out of the Town, the old Bailiffs and Knights, with Sir Willm. Adams and others, took their leaves of my Lord, the new Bailiffs and several Aldermen, Justices, &c. riding on still a mile further to Caster (where we first met them on Tuesday), and would have attended his Lordship yet further (he persuaded them to the contrary), and there with mutual embraces and a bottle of excellent wine, they sang Loth to depart, but by this time it was two o'clock, and the length of my Lord's journey made us break up, and so with their hearty good wishes for his Lordship's health and prosperity, they returned back to the town and we hastened hither.

1675, Oct. 1st. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—Has very small time to write, but Mr. Fisher is now writing the second part to the same tune the coffee house man writ it up to Sir Joseph Williamson . . . I pray get Mr. Fits to come down if possibly it will advance my work to some purpose, for the trading increaseth so much, and the shipping, as it is impossible, but I must now reap advantage on the other side or any that undertakes the work.

1675, Oct. 1st, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives an account of the entertainment at Yarmouth with little variation from that given by Mr. Fisher.

1675, Oct. 4th, Oxnead. J. Hurton to Lady Yarmouth.—Says that Atwood's wife is in a deplorable state about her husband; she says nothing can be done until the bonds are paid, amounting to near 5000*l.*; when these are discharged she will do all she can for Lady Y's satisfaction.

1675, Oct. 8th, Ludham. Ro. Flynt to Lady Yarmouth.—Congratulatory, and giving also an account of the proceedings at Yarmouth.

1675, Nov. 22nd, Yarmouth. Edm. Thaxter and Tho. Bradford (Bailiffs) to Lord Yarmouth.—Your letter was communicated to our Common Council in Assembly, who were highly pleased that your Lordship was contented in their endeavour of your reception.

1675, Nov. 26th, Yarmouth. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—I went to Norwich on Tuesday last, and beyond expectation and contrary to the general report, I found that Mr. Jay was then alive but in great danger of death, upon which account men were busy to make parties underhand in order unto a new election. There were three persons in nomination, viz., Mr. John Hobart, Alderman Paine, and Alderman Bendish, no mention in public discourses of Sir N. C. (Neville Catelyne), who yet had great endeavours used on his behalf in private. Now I presume the prorogation of the Parliament (if the recovery of Mr. Jay does not) will hush such discourses for a time. On Wednesday Dr. Hildeyard and myself set out for this place and got hither by night. All people seem to continue in the same heat of affection and honour for my Lord as formerly.

Nov. 29th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Has heard of the prorogation of the Parliament to the mentioned time, but could not perceive at Yarmouth anything of disrelish of the people at it, only they seemed concerned that there was no bill passed for increasing the navy. It was generally thought that so long a prorogation was but a prelude to a dissolution, which should it happen I hope this country will take care that they be not over reached again by the tricks of the Cabal.

1675, Dec. 8th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—People seem generally dissatisfied that the Parliament should quarrel themselves into a prorogation at this time when the condition of the kingdom in respect of its naval force required their assistance, for want of which they fear at Yarmouth the Dutch at sea will be too much. The French almost equal us, and both much endanger us in our trade. The Parliament men are now coming down. Sir John H. is expected at Norwich to-morrow and intends to keep his Christmas there. Here was a report that Sir Wm. D'oyly was dead, but hearing no more of it I conclude it to have no more truth in it than that of Mr. Jay. The very mention of Sir Wm's name puts me in mind to intimate to your lordship a business wherein you may extremely, I think, oblige the town of Yarmouth; 'tis in a money matter due to the town for wounded men and seamen's widows wherein Sir Wm. D'oyly is concerned, and from whom they have a long time in vain expected payment of it, but have never been able to get above 200*l.* and now there is almost a thousand due. By the nonpayment Sir Wm. has much lost himself.—Gough urges Lord Yarmouth to procure the same; he thinks it would increase the respect and affections of all the inhabitants towards him.

167 $\frac{5}{8}$, Jan. 17, Norwich. William Hughes to Lady Yarmouth.—A long letter about his persecutions for appearing against the promoters, by one Turkington, encouraged by Dr. Pepper. He says that he had Turkington bound over to good behaviour. He complains of Lord Townshends' conduct to him. He mentions an attempt by the Grantees of the County to lessen the King's power, and the influence of the court by a combination with a view to the future choice of Sheriffs.

1675, March 6th, Tuttington. Robert Doughty to Lord Yarmouth.— . . . On Saturday last I met with many of your hearty friends in Norwich in the afternoon, the chief of them retired themselves to a private chamber, where they debated the present state of Norfolk affairs; and out of the great honour they have for your lordship, command me to offer it to your lordship as their humble request, that you suspend your positive determination concerning the continuing of old deputy lieutenants and commanders till your coming into Norfolk; and have had an account of their department, and have seen their faces, lest it should render his Majesties service and your honour at too cheap a rate by admitting such as will never be cordial or faithful to the just interest of either; and to acquaint you that its their sense that if Shaftesbury's friends, Sir John Hobart, Sir John Holland, &c., should be by your Lordship made Deputy Lieutenants or Colonels, you would fix in them a stronger interest than ever they yet had to the discouragement of the loyal party, and your Lordship's firm friends, and the ill consequence that may ensue thereby you may easily foresee; nor do they think it safe that any person who have lately appeared of the Shaftesbury party should be in commission of the peace, he being as ill thought of here as at Whitehall. The fanatics seem generally dissatisfied and fear they shall not be so kindly used as they have been; the other party cry out, they are glad to see the king is King of Norfolk again. . . . P.S. It is reported that Lord T. is turned out for tyrannizing in his country, caballing with Shaftesbury, Sir S. Barnardiston, &c.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

1673. March 8th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Speaks of the joy the news of Lord Yarmouth's promotion to be Lieutenant of the County has given to many persons in this country. . . . The Fanatic party at Norwich are much dissatisfied and they say begin to cry out Popery (God knows with how little reason), and it's feared that there are some who underhand encourage them to it, and do cunningly instil into them idle jealousies and fears; it is said, tho' I cannot assert it upon my own knowledge, that Sir — makes it his business to despatch men from taking commission under my Lord; and that he has been with several persons for that purpose, and as if that were not enough to satisfy his malice, I hear that his zany, Mr. H., rides up and down to put people into fears, and to work them into discontents and disaffections to my Lord; but as I doubt not but his Lordship's conduct will confute their stories and defeat their aims so I doubt not his Lordship's speedy coming into Norfolk will stop their ill practises.

1673. March 22nd, Oxnead. John Gough to Lord Yarmouth.—He answers Lord Yarmouth, who asked for his opinion concerning the young gentlemen (Lord Yarmouth's sons). He says that nature has not been niggardly in furnishing Mr. Jasper with abilities of mind for a scholar, but that he is backward and declares against being a scholar. He says that Mr. Thomas has a neat wit, and very good parts, but requires firm treatment.

1675. Feb. 6th, Saumur.—Two letters of this date, one to Lord Yarmouth and the other to Lady Yarmouth, from their son Robert Paston.

1675. Feb. 28th, Angiers.—A letter in French from Robert Paston to his father, Lord Yarmouth.

1673. Feb. 28th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lord Yarmouth.—Mentions a report (of foreign news) under Arcadian names that the great Demegoras was fallen under some great displeasure of his good King, inasmuch that he was in danger to be deprived of the office he held, and to be brought a peg lower, so that Philanax was like to succeed in his room.—The former has I understand received a confirmation by the last packet boat, but of the latter I hear no certainty of. . . . We have now orders to return to my Lord Archbishop the number of inhabitants in our several parishes, and the number of all Dissenters under what name soever they pass, and this to be done by Easter, when the Bishop does intend to visit his diocese himself (which is more than he hath done these several years, and which the great indisposition of his flock too much wants), and see that these orders and others of the Church be carefully executed; which proceedings put us here in a great deal of hope that the cloud that has been some time upon this poor distracted Church, will through God's mercy, and his Majesty's great wisdom and care, in some little time be blown over.

1676. March 31st, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Giving her a detailed account of her husband's reception in the county, and of the various gentlemen who met and attended him, and of the general enthusiasm. (A long letter.)

1676. March 31st, Oxnead. Letters from John Fisher and Sir Will. D'Oyly to Lady Yarmouth about Lord Yarmouth's reception.

1676. March 28th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—. . . . This day at eleven of the clock has brought us to Hoggsden, and five and an half to Littlebury, Mr. Fisher having calculated all to a minute; at Littlebury I had a visit from Mr. Lucy, my Lord of Suffolk's steward, and Mr. Sayer, the King's cook. Mr. Lucy having brought two excellent bottles we first celebrated his Majesty's and then your health. Near Bishops Stortford (Stortford?) we met my Lord Townshend and horse driving up to bring him down; some two hours after our arrival, and pleasant enough passing our time, comes in Robin with the box we long looked for, and my scarf and Mr. Lake's book, which I thank you for remembering, and I hope I shall use for my own satisfaction, my equipage, I thank your care, was noble, everybody well fitted, my horses both for coach and saddle in excellent plight, and have performed their journey exceedingly well. . . . I hope you have seen my Lord Treasurer before he comes out of town; however, I know you'll see my Lady Danby and promote my request of his seeing Oxnett. I pray present my service to my son and daughter, and to Sir George Wakeman. I hope they have this day prosecuted the method agreed on as the business amongst us, and at least left some further impressions on my Lord Treasurer's promises to us before his coming away, in which I am sure Mr. Trent will be acceding to fix it to all intents and purposes, for at the very present we can hope for no more moral security than we have till the King return. Thus much for this night. . . . And now I bid you good-morrow having not slept very well. I have given Robin Pysar a crown of my own benevolence, and at London promised him a badge to wear as my porter, which I desire Weekes the Goldsmith may make him.

1676. March 29th. The same to the same at the Golden Ball in Suffolk Street, London.—This day has been as propitious as the 1st day's journey. I passed Newmarket without stay, where Sir Will D'Oyly's son and Mr. Lane, his brother-in-law, came to meet me; and Mr. Peckover informed that my Cousin Coke, Sir Edmund Bacon, and Captain Coke were gone before to Burton Mills to bespeak my dinner and to dine with me. He went on and there met them, where they stayed for me with much civility about five of the clock or half an hour before. I took my leave of them, they returning to Newmarket, and I coming on for Thetford: about three miles from thence I was met by young Sir Henry Bedingfield and Sir Thomas Garrott, who are now with me drinking your health at Thetford. Tomorrow I hear Sir John Holland will meet me at Larkingford, Sir Will D'Oyly with several others at Windham, and they tell me above two thousand horse in a body will carry me through Norwich; you shall have an account of all by the first post; I was received here by the Corporation in their formalities and the bells ringing.

1676. March 31st, Oxnead. The same to same.—From Thetford I presume you heard from me, and yesterday morning four miles from thence met me Sir John Holland whom I took into my coach and carried as far as Attleborough; we discoursed matters with great civility, but still to the point of the letter formerly written, but protests never anything went so near him in his life as to think that prejudice may be laid upon him on a score where he intends candidly. At Attleborough Sir Francis Bickley met me with his coach whom I carried two miles further in mine, and we parted. Sir Philip Woodhouse sent his sons to Attleborough, from thence all along persons of quality met me, and about three mile from Norwich I was met first by Sir Will. D'Oyly's coach and Mr. Suckling's, who was the kindest man in his salutes in the world. Sir Austine Palgrave and Sir Carlos Rich the stocking man, and his son a very handsome young man on horseback, and then the Bishops Coach with the Chancelour and his chaplains and five or six horses of his servants with pistols, abundance of my Cousin Cookes servants, and then five and forty coaches with the prime of the gentry; abundance of the clergy and some fifteen hundred on horseback, a world of people on each side of the way, and Norwich Streets so thick crowded on both sides, that the coaches were long a passing; the balconies were crammed, and all the windows, and a general shout from one gate to the other, the trumpets before me and my sumpter, and all my servants looked very well. The Mayor and Aldermen on the Guildhall in the market. To tell you truth it was beyond expression, and had the King himself been there, he could not have been more honoured than his Commission. By my coach side by the Mayor's appointment four of the town beades in liveries attended the side of my coach to keep off the crowd, who stood six rows deep in most places, and the market was so thronged that I never saw greater concourse, which gives me an evident testimony that I have an interest in my country. Austine Briggs who was there has sent me a most handsome compliment. I did expect to have found more blue men than I do. Mr. Bulwer met me beyond Norwich; Sir Will. D'Oyly and his son are now with me, he is my steady friend and I honour and love him; of his own accord he told me I must make Sir Jacob Astley Lieut. Colonel of the horse, he being Major before. I intend to morrow to send to my Lady Anne, for my Coz. Coke has shewn me all the civility he can, and Peckover is left at Newmarket purposely to give me warning as soon as my Lord T.'s intentions appear. Yesterdays encounter was enough to have elevated an ambitious heart, but I was so weary of the sport that I never was so glad in my life as when I was gotten to Calton Hill, where I alighted and saluted everybody, though many were turned off before, till I was ready to drop down, and with riding bareheaded so long I have gotten a cold. When I came home, which is the

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

sweetest place in the world had I money to make it a little finer, I found my children and Mrs. Cooper pretty well, and she and the gentlemen are now taking their pleasure to see an otter hunted in the pond whilst I borrow this time to write to you. I am glad the sick lady will be my friend and that you think she may have power to shew it. I should [be] glad to hear that they got any opportunity on Tuesday to speak to my Lord Treasurer about the business amongst us, or if not that they keep it in warm clothes till his return. . . . Ridges is now at Holcom furnishing the dining room for a Lodging for my Lord Treasurer. so very little is the house in receipt. . . . On Sunday God willing I shall receive, and on Tuesday or Wednesday be sworn, and I hope proceed with that vigilance and circumspection as to show everybody I will be just and civil, and I find by Dr. Hyliard and Mr. Doughty now with me that all my friends approve the methods I choose, I resolve to hear all and govern myself.

1676, April 2nd. M. B. to Lady Yarmouth.—Alludes to Lord Yarmouth's triumphal passing through Norwich. That all may be better known at Newmarket we have this day sealed up in a letter Stevinson's verses, that whilst they are new the King might have a sight of them. . . . The very night before 'twas reported at Norwich that none would meet my Lord but the Papists with the rascality of people; and in this corner of the country that if Sir Henry B. did not drive his own self none would go. . . .

1676, April 3rd, Quidenham. (Sir) J. Holland to Lord Yarmouth.—Acknowledging Lord Yarmouth's letter with regard to the Militia, but saying that since the King had appointed Lord Yarmouth to be Lord Lieutenant he (Sir John) declined the service with much regret.

1676, April 3rd, morning. Lord Yarmouth to Lady Yarmouth.—On Saturday Sir Will. D'oyly left me, after he and Sir Charles Harbord and Major Doughty had consulted some methods in order to my affairs, I retired into my chamber, and stirred not out that day, though Mr. Arminger and Mr. Spelman and another gentleman came hither. . . . I do expect Sir Henry Bedingfeld today. On Saturday I sent Rawlins with a compliment to Holcom and my Lady Anne, who was pleased to receive it very civilly, and my Lady Bridgett, and my Lord Dumblane, who is very well again, and gotten on horseback that day. . . . On Wednesday I am to go to the Sessions to take the oaths in the morning, and to dine with the Justices of the Peace, and if I hear intelligence of my Lord Treasurer's coming shall go on towards Holcom. The Sessions must be adjourned to Whitsun week by my motion that the Deputy Lieutenants may have time to swear, and not be surprised, for from this week should it determine is near three months to the next sessions. I shall see all faces that day how they look, for which I shall not be concerned if I spy a blue man or two. . . . Young Doughty, that is my Secretary, I could not have been better fitted in England, for besides his writing a very good hand and understanding the law perfectly, he is an handsome respective man, and a credit wherever he comes. Sir Henry Bedingfeld presents his service to you; he has transmitted the whole relation to Yarmouth of my reception to show that will both shew it my Lord Treasurer and the King; all other things he will perform to his best power. My Cousin Windham, Jack Tasburgh, Major Waldegrave, Mr. Moutham, and others, do now drink your health.

1676, April 5th. Norwich.—The same to the same. —By the paper you will find I am in a tavern where I dined with the Justices of the Peace, after having in the Sessions publicly taken my oaths. We were forty at dinner, amongst whom Sir John Hobart and Sir Robert Kemp, who, with great civility, came to me, and with as much expressions to me as was possible for civility to express have declined what I as civilly by another hand tendered. Sir John Holland writ me a very civil letter to the first tune. Sir Philip Woodhouse, Sir Jacob Astley Windham, and the rest stick to me, so this week I shall give out Commissions to the Deputy Lieutenants, and then together proceed to the settling the Militia in such a way as I hope will give content to the King and country. . . . I wonder I hear yet nothing of my Lord Treasurer's coming into Norfolk, yet Sir Will. D'oyly tells me he hears my Lord will be at Holcom on Friday night. As I have intelligence I shall move on to Beckhall. They have promised to send to inform me, besides Peckover, at Newmarket, is to come as soon as any certainty appears. I am sorry the lady I left sick comes not into the party, from whose nobleness much might be expected; yet 700 having done such a piece of service may rationally expect that 36 who is discreet and 6 may do 600 some service in some point or other. I am going now to give the Bishop a visit, and so home again to my sweet house.

1676, April 7th. The same to the same.—The last account you had of me was from Norwich. I only made the Bishop a visit, which was most kindly taken of him and his Lady. The poor man is in great pain sometimes, but I do not see but that he may live some years. From thence I went home, where yesterday I received your dear letter, which is the pleasure of my life.—After some sentences, where he uses cyphers, Lord Yarmouth mentions y^e reconciliation of Sir John Clayton and his mother, but declares his intention never to be anything more than formally civil to him.

1676, April 9th, Holcom. The same to the same. —My Lord Treasurer kept his intentions very private, so that yesterday morning I had only notice that he would be at Holcom last night. Peckover came on purpose to me from Newmarket, so I did immediately take coach after I had received your letter by the post, and, with Sir John Petters with me, came to Holcom, where I met my Lord Treasurer, my Lord Lindsey, and my Lord Fretswell, and my Lord Latimer. My Lord took my coming very kindly, and told me he feared my bringing my people to meet him, which was the reason he was so private; he seems to be very sorry he cannot see Oxend this times but says he will come on purpose. My Lord Lindsey speaks very obligingly of you, and we have you health every meal. My Lord Treasurer goes away on Tuesday morning for Newmarket. My Lady Anne Coke went out of her own chamber to lodge me in it, and they are all very civil to me. This day came Alderman Backwell on some business to my Lord Treasurer, dined here, and is gone. I told him in his ear I hoped he would do our business. He saith if he deals with any body in that kind it shall be with us, but still runs on that it is a dear bargain, and if . . . doth not spur him up, I fear he will fail us. I do smell out they have a mind that my Cousin Coke should have the command of the horse, which if it be I must do it without dispute, and my son may, if he has a mind to the trouble, have Hobart's or Glean's regiment. I borrow a moment to give you a word; the house is crammed with people, and I have much ado to get pen or paper, but Mrs. Fleet lends me a scurvy one. They all present their service to you, and on Wednesday by the post I will give you a more particular account.

1676, April 12th.—The same to the same.—In my blotted and hasty letter from Holham I promised you the further account by this day's post. My Lord Treasurer was very kind to me all the while, and I pushed my humour to be so good company that I gave him some diversion. I was lodged in my Lady Anne's own bed, and my Lord Treasurer and my Lord Lindsey lay together. The house was very full of company, and several gentlemen I presented to my Lord Treasurer, as old Sir Henry Bedingfeld, Sir Jacob Astley, Captain Coke of Broome, and many others, besides Mr. Deane. My Lord Lindsey and I had several discourses by ourselves, and he pretends to have commended that policy and wisdom so far to as to have made up the breach. . . . My Lord Treasurer had all the information of the countries civility to me, which pleased them all highly. . . . Mrs. Fleet was mighty civil to me. I gave her a guinea at parting. My Cousin Coke and my Lady Anne and my Lady Bridgett come hither the next week, and I must have a fiddle and some women to keep her company. . . . My Lord Dumblane plays the best of the violin I ever heard, and my Lord Latimer was very kind. On Tuesday morning, after parting, I went immediately to Biek Hall, where we have the best friends in the world. We remembered you often; and so at night I came home, where I found old Sir Will. D'oyly, who shows his friendship most handsomely to me and usefully; but now as I am writing in come into dinner Sir Jacob Astley, Sir Neville Cataline, the Dean, Thom. Wood, and several others. The Corporation of Yarmouth had been here this week, but hearing I was from home deferred it till next week, and do intend to present me a tun of excellent wine. . . . Sir Nevil Cataline brought, they tell me, 400 horse to meet me, and in that crowd it was impossible to name particular persons, but some of the chief.

1676, April 17th. The same to the same.—My Lady Anne Coke defers her journey hither till you come home, but her husband comes hither this night. . . . I am sorry to find that 88 (Lord Priy Seal) hath got no

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY
BART.

progress in coming to Court . . . I hope Mr. Brent will look that my commission for the Admiralty be full, and not defective as the other was, and that either in words specified in the grant or some private order it may entitle me to the profits in the King's rights . . . My picture everybody saith is the likeliest in the world; it shall be hanged in your closet . . . I wish you could get anything effected handsomely as to the business I write you in my last concerning Yarmouth, in which Mr. Brent may be a proper instrument. I have written to Sir William Adams to come down as speedily as may be, for I do perceive the City have most mind to him for the Colonel in Sir Peter Gleane's place, the copy of whose letter I have enclosed that you may let my Lord Marshall see to hinder him from interposing in a matter where he'll fail, and that I would not have him. I'll warrant you we shall do well enough in time; the business is not so unfathomable but to be comprehended, and for the expense I hope some will be found out by his Majesty's kindness to defray it . . . Sir John Hobart has this week had a mischance by fire to the value of two or three hundred pounds, at Langley Abbey, the barns and outhouses being burnt down alive. Mr. Scarbrowe at North Walsham had two or three houses burnt down this week.

1676, April 14th. The same to the same.— . . . Yesterday Sir Robert Kemp with great civility came to give me a visit in the afternoon. The town of Yarmouth sent 10 or 11 of the chief of them, amongst which was Sir Thomas Meddowes, Mr. Collier, Mr. England, and the rest unknown to you; they made me a speech of congratulation and of great respect to me, and at supper, after they had diverted themselves with drinking, walking, and looking about the house, I entertained them kindly, and this day at dinner, and after dinner, having set a bottle at every man's trencher, we parted with that they call starke love and kindness. In this time I was not negligent to prosecute my long intended design; and Mr. Dawson, who was here, has found out a thing which he saith will infallibly do my business, and the easiest thing in nature for the King if he respects his own advantage to grant my Lord Treasurer in a word to do. I enclose Dawson's paper, who besides this promisth by Monday's post to write to you fuller about the matter; in short, the town has turned the King's officers out of the Custom House in the town, and at present they are fain to hire a private house. Now if the King will please to build the Custom House on my side, where a year or two ago I built a key (quay), I will give his Majesty the ground and quay, and it stands in a much more commodious place of the Haven then any other part of Yarmouth. Dawson imagines that all the Commissioners of the Custom House will be for it, and once you know the Commissioners of the Treasury were for it, had not Sir John Duncomb and the town clapt up an agreement, which now is void, and the King in one of the best ports of England void of a Custom House of his own. 500 or 600 will build a noble one, and Dawson will undertake to do it if an order be but procured from my Lord Treasurer to reimburse him of the customs of the town, which he is receiver of in part. This, he says, without more adoe will effect my business to the greatest advantage I can imagine, and presently make my side built all over; now how easy a matter in this if a man had any favour [in] England. Mr. Bulwer's son is my constant friend, and has desired me in a week's time to send him proposals that he may endeavour for to serve me, which I desire you forthwith to get Mr. Bulwer to draw up—at a thousand a year, quarterly payments, besides the present rent of 300 as it now stands for under 1,300 pounds a year quarterly payments. It shall never go for a lease of 99 years; and then they shall build it after their own fancy, with a covenant to leave what it is built in tenemental reparation at the end of the time. But Dawson saith the Custom House way will be more for my advantage, and I am sure it's the more easy and facile way, and may presently be done; but in this also, which must be kept very private, you must use Mr. Bulwer to draw up the paper, after you have received Dawson's fuller instructions by the next post as he promised me . . . I have already issued out several commissions. As to Sir Jacob Astley I have made him Colonel of Sir John Hobart's regiment and Deputy-Lieutenant; I have given Sir Neville Catinale and my Cousin Coke and Captain Coke of Broomle, and the Doyly's theirs, and Sir John Pettus his. I shall send you up a copy of Sir Peter Gleane's letter on Monday for my Lord Marshall to peruse (which though its very civil to me); I believe he will not think it fit after that to trouble him in it, and if he should it would be to no purpose; it will fall I believe to Sir Will. Adams, to whom I find the pulse of the city beats most. Mr. Peckover tells me my Cousin Coke waives totally anything in the Militia, but the deputy-lieutenancy, which I am not ill satisfied in, it being so noble a command for my son, I mean the regiment of horse; but, however, I'll keep the commission under my thumb that Δ may have no more pretences to quarrel awhile. I doubt not but at our meeting in Whitsun week, before which time I desire Sir Will. Adams and my Cousin Windham (who Rawlin perceives they have no great gusto for at Rainham) may be here, I shall give a good account of the settlement of the militia, which believe me is no light task, and perhaps we may shew that the affairs of the country may be driven on without the help of those sages who are not at leisure. I am wonderful careful, and am fain to put a guide upon my lips and actions, though I do expect some kind of tricks to be played me, yet I hope the great wonder will presently cease, and the scabbie opinions dry and fade, especially when their wings are clipped. . . . You must get Mr. Bulwer to get me a power from Sir Robert Clayton's trustee to make all leases good which I shall make of improvement at Yarmouth which will be better then to run in any other names. . . . Pray get Mr. Brent to get the commission of my Vice-Admiralty dated as early as possible, that I may not be put to swear again for that, and D. Hughes, who I suppose waits on you at London, must inform me of the power and convenience of it, which I understand is much. He desired he might have my letter to you, but went away when I was at Holcom.

SIR
H. INGLEY
BART.

1676, April 19th. The same to the same.—My cousin Coke and Captain Coke, and three or four more that came along with him, have been here since Monday, and very well pleased. Yesterday I had no less than three and twenty gentlemen sat down at my table, amongst whom was Sir Christopher Calthorp, my Lord Townshend's nearest relation, who in spite of mother, brothers, and all the machines in the world to divert, sticks to me in the principle of serving his Prince; he is a most popular man, and has given me more credit than can be imagined. He received his commissions from me as Deputy Lieutenant and Colonel of a foot regiment. Captain Coke will ride over on purpose to tell Sir Peter Gleane his own. This day my Cousin Coke is gone off other hunting, calls in at Sir John Pettus, his inn the afternoon, and comes home at supper. . . . Here is Sir Austine Palgrave and a coachfull come in with him as I am writing. At Rainham this week will be my Lord Arlington and the Duke of Monmouth, it's said, and the Duke of Ormond. . . . It is fit my Lord Treasurer should know. My Cousin Coke told me that my Lord Townshend lately should say that the King should never have penny of money in Parliament as long as he was Treasurer, and threatens terrible things at the next Parliament. . . .

1676, April 21st. The same to the same.—Yesterday after dinner my cousin and his company left me; I carried him as far as Major Doughty's, and about five of the clock he went for Holkham, and I home. . . . I had a letter yesterday from S. G., who acquainted me that the Duke of Ormond and my Lord Arlington came not to Rainham as they were looked for, and nobody was there but Sir John Hobart and my Lady. . . . As for Dr. Heuse I cannot but admire he should tell you so many lies; first Sir Will. Doyly nor Mr. Windham never mentioned the name of Dr. Peper to me nor any man else but Dr. Hyliard, who excused Dr. Peper when I discoursed Hughes' business with him. Then as to the Session of Norwich nothing could be with more respect; all proceedings did stop at my word, but when I desired them to go on because I had a mind to sit some time of the Bench, when I went away Sir Philip Woodhouse, Sir Jacob Astley, Sir Will. Doyly, with all the coaches that were there, which was but three, went with me to the place where we dined. The Corporation sent me to know when they should wait on me, and I being resolved presently after dinner to go away, it was deferred by my desire till my next coming to town. When I told Mr. Gough of this he was amazed, and I do find the dear Doctor has foibles which I pity, and will serve him, as far as I may; but these things are plain downright lies, and pray let me hear no more of them, nor doubt you but I'll carry myself with all circumspection, and look for all things fit for my place, which I find none but are ready enough to give me, and I am sure no Lord Lieutenant in England has had so much; but now I am resolved to dine at home; but twice in a week publicly, that is Tuesdays and Fridays, then I have given out I shall be glad and ready to receive my friends, the rest for going to mine privacy with my own family and children, for the slavery and expense denies the other way. I have been so pressed with company that I have not had liberty to stir into the Park in four or five days. . . . Sir Charles [Harbord] is gone towards London, and will endeavour to serve my Lord Candish all he can possibly. Pray be you extreme kind to Sir Will. D'oyley, who I do assure you has shown himself my friend. I wonder Wyndham has not been to see you. My son's commission shall be ready for him.

SIR
J. INGLEY,
BART.

1676, April 24th. The same to the same.— . . . Sir John Pettus, with his lady and children, are gone this day for London; he was here with me yesterday to take his leave. . . . He tells her of his intended alterations in her lodging chamber to make it more comfortable for her.—Mr. Gough and Major Doughty present their service to you, so doth Mr. Peckover, of whom I wish you would mind my Lord Latimer; but if my Lord Treasurer or my Lady Danby could get a Knight's place at Windsor it would be the height of his ambition, and he is ours body and soul. I had a letter from young Knyvett out of Suffolk, who with Sir John Rowe is going a ramble this summer to the Bath, and they intend to see you at London.

1676, April 24th, Pond House. De Caningcourt (Tho. Henshaw) to Lord Yarmouth.—I deferred writing until I could tell your Lordship certainly the day of my setting out for Ireland, which is now resolved on to be Monday the 8th of May; this had like to have been changed into another voyage for Denmark, but not to have stayed there beyond six months, only to have settled some Articles for the security of our Merchants (during this war between the Northern Kings) in the Baltic Seas; but this design is now either laid aside or deferred till my return, and I fear by the next letters from Copenhagen that we shall hear poor Griffenfeld's head has flown off his shoulders, for this is the very day appointed for his public trial. Not only every age, but every year almost affords us some eminent example of the inconstancy of fortune, the more frequently to warn us not to be too fond of her smiles and caresses. We may even at home be edified by some petty precedents of it, since Sir John Duncombe is laid by, and Sir John Earnly on Saturday last appointed to be Chancellor of the Exchequer, and some thereupon talk as if fortune or her great Minister would ere long exchange a Secretary too. . . .

1676, April 24th, Yarmouth. b Thomas Medowa to Lord Yarmouth.—Says that the earer, Thomas Parris, has been appointed to be Cannonier of the fort at the piers, and has come to attend his Lordship and confer with him about the ammunition belonging to the County.

1676, April 24. Edward Warnes to Lord Yarmouth.—Asks him to grant a warrant to bring before him a messenger who had distrained Warnes's tenant for 16 years' arrear of a Crown rent of 6*l.* per annum, he (Warnes) having proper receipts for the last 28 years.

1676, April 26th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife. . . . Sir John Holland has been with me since Monday in the evening, and made me a most civil visit. . . . I find great testimony of Sir John Holland's integrity to my Lord Marshall and me, and I do believe if by my Lord Treasurer's means I could set him right in His Majesty's favour, I should do my Lord Treasurer, and in that way myself, a courtesy, and give the others a most unexpected defeat. . . . Sir John Duncomb's putting out makes us believe several will follow, of which I expect to hear by your next. . . .

1676, April 27th, Westminster. Will. D'oyly to Lord Yarmouth.—I doubt not but you have heard of the removal of Sir John Duncombe, in whose place Sir John Earneley is to succeed; others also are said will be removed. . . . Her Ladyship (Yarmouth) did this day dine at my Lord Treasurer's, and the talk now of my Norfolk affair is wholly at an end, all men being fully satisfied with your Lordship's proceedings. This day the Dorsetshire jury gave in their verdict against the Lord Digby, and gave a thousand pound in damage against him for the scandalous words against the Lord Shaftesbury; some few days, I suppose, will produce more business for discourse through the town. . . . I have undeceived some persons here that did believe Sir Jo. Holland, Hobart, and the rest in Norfolk were displaced by your Lordship's procurement, but they know better.

1676, April 30th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.— . . . The removal of Sir John Duncomb gives alarms, I believe, to many others of whom I expect, in a post or two, to hear somewhat; I believe my Lord Campden's coming is not for nothing. . . . To salute my Vice-Admiralty there is a boat taken in the sea by Paul

SIR
J. INGLEY,
BART.

Clark, worth some twenty pounds, which as soon as my commission comes I shall speak with, and use it either there or at Yarmouth for fishing; my man Rawlins saith that Mr. Philipps told him my Lord Townshend made one year 700*l.* of it, but that must be in time of he Dutch war, for now I do not believe its worth one hundred, but I'll endeavour to put it in the best method to avoid being cheated. I am now going to write to my Lord Treasurer and my Lord Great Chamberlain; pray do you seal them both. . . . Sir Henry Bedingfeld writ me a letter to-day; he will by the next post write to his Mistress, as he calls the Duchess of Lauderdale, concerning 600, and he pretends to have as much interest there as any man on the earth. . . . I believe the verdict against Lord Digby will be a leading card to that against Dr. Heuse; Sir Henry Bedingfeld has tried to stop it with my Lord Townshend, but he is inflexible.

1676, May 5th. From the black boy on Ludgate Hill. Owen Hughes to Lord Yarmouth.— . . . I am related to your honour as Vice Admiral of Norfolk, which is my conquest, pride, and will be my reputation. But tis a little unfortunate to me that your Lordship's patent is not yet in your hands, for tis not safe to act without it, neither can it be antedated. The present state of that affair looks towards some profit and advantage, for I am informed that there is a vessel stranded near Paston which proves a derelict, there is another at Nowsey which has the same fate, &c. Advises him to command some of his servants publicly to take notice thereof, and to take possession thereof for the use of the Admiralty.

1676, May 5th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—Is concerned to his chamber with gout. . . . This day is come to dine here my Lord Astley, Sir Phillip Woodhouse, and Sir Jacob Astley, but I cannot get downstairs. . . . My Lord Townshend came to Norwich on Saturday night, Sir John Hobart met him, but went hence that night; the next morning he went to Christchurch with Sir Peter Gleane, Captain Rookwood and his cousin Townshend in his company, all right men for the Church of England, and took some pains, though too late, to profess himself no lover of Presbiterian. . . . I am very glad you have it in your mind to do somewhat about Yarmouth, for that's the only thing will do my business suddenly, for the Yarmouth men will battle and battle and never do anything; and the King methinks should be glad to improve an estate he is concerned in. Here is M. Flynt and England now here, but all our discourse is words, and if this were done, I would make them pay for their convenience.

1676, May 10th. The same to the same.— . . . Yesterday here was much company with me. . . . All that now in my mind is to settle the militia in this country so as to give His Majesty and the Duke a good accomplice of it, which I doubt not but I shall be able to do in a short time.

1676, May 12th. The same to the same.— . . . I have a great deal of company daily here; and Sir John Hobart, altho' I have not had time to return his first visit, has made me a second and a long one, but I suppose it was about the business of Dr. Hyliard and Mr. Hyrne who is very ill of an unlucky blow in the head which hit him with the iron pike in the end of the cane, and give him a dangerous hurt, but this was done in the Doctor's defence. Sir John Hobart is civil in the matter, and I fancy all will end in a compound of differences between Hyrne and him; but give me leave to tell you Parsons are silly animals in the management of their own affairs, and tho' I am the Doctor's friend I have shown him his imprudences in this which he has thanked me for, but as to the merits of the cause, its of his side. . . . I am hugely pleased with the hopes that Sir John Earnly will do that business judiciously of the Custom House for Yarmouth.

1676, May 15th. The same to the same.— . . . have had no letter from my Lord Marshall; that which you writ about my Lord Plymouth I do very well approve, but you must have a care not to disoblige the other, who I believe will always be chief in the favour of His Majesty; but I do wonder how you steer between my Lady Lindsay and my Lady Newburgh, and my Lady Wentworth, and my Lady Harvey, and the Duchess of Lauderdale, and my Lady Trevor. I would fain be satisfied a little in these matters. . . . This afternoon I am going to the great Zar of Muscovy, my neighbour, to return one of his two visits, where after half an hours dissimulation on both sides I will come home again. . . .

1676, May 17th. The same to the same.— . . . I conclude with you not to make any request that any

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

should be put out, but I must give an account who they are that have deserted the service, and those I hope my Lord Treasurer will see shall not stand, tho' I have private reasons why I wish Sir John Holland might, for he has shewn great respects to me, but if it be not thought fit I cannot help it; when I have been at Norwich, whither to-morrow I am to go, I shall know better how matters will stand, and so be able to give a better account of it; you need not doubt my vigilancy in all things, inasmuch as it almost makes me mad till I have settled the affair which I hope I shall do, and discharge as few as is possible. Here was yesterday a great deal of company, Major Gray and his nephew Captain Grey, Sir William Rant, the Prestons, Sir Will. Adams, who I have made Colonel of the City Regiment, he being the man they pitched on with most favour and desire and several others. Mr. Briggs his letter might contain what it pleased, but what you wrote was quite out of the way of anything that passed, but if an ass be to interpret I cannot help neither sayings nor writings. Dawson was here yesterday from Yarmouth, and is in the same mind that if I get what he writ to you effected, the business is done; to his knowledge there are those that would immediately begin even this summer, and it would be all speedily built. I thought you had designed Sir John Earnly should have done you some favour in it, but I hear you speak of him no more. As to the school at Walsham all the care shall be taken that can be, and without an universal approbation, I shall not be my own chooser. Here are some persons come this day with one that the Bishop put in there as Lecturer whom they recommend, there is likewise the Usher of Norwich School, men both they say very fit for the employment: . . . I burn all your letters when I have read them over and over, and keep none by me. I had forgot to tell you Sir Will. Henningham was here yesterday at dinner; I hope His Majesty will find ways to support me for his own honour, for this way cannot hold out else. I shall consider of what you say of May the 29th, which will be more taken notice of with some few friends and the country people at a bonfire than the other formal way, which will be both troublesome and chargeable; decent things shall be done, but I that feast twice a week constantly, and on the other days are never empty, need no more.

1676, May 18th. Robert Brent to Lord Yarmouth.—Has done his best to advance Lord Yarmouth's business, and altho' the want of Lord Yarmouth's presence has made the major part of his Lordship's partners courage de brebis, yet he (Brent) has made the best of a bad market, and has at last concluded with the country gentlemen (having first tried many ways of raising the whole money) upon these terms, viz.: 1st. That those of the country gentlemen now living as have been farmers shall have their own farms, and there will remain about 14 counties (besides the home farm) out of which your Lordship and partners have preference to choose six, besides Norfolk allotted to your Lordship only, the rest with the home farm is to be divided into 18 parts, whereof your Lordship and partners to have six, and the country gentlemen 12; but the government of the whole is to be equal between them and your Lordship and partners, who are all to raise their shares of the money. This being the substance of their agreement, they all go to-morrow to my Lord Treasurer to give and receive mutual assurances of compliance and performances of your Lordship's former proposals, save only that the country gentlemen do desire to alter that part of the proposal which allows 500,000*l.* per annum in case the duty be not continued, and insert this in its room, that in that case they will abide by my Lord Treasurer's judgment what shall be given, and they ascribe two reasons of this alteration, viz.:—1. That the duty may not clearly appear in Parliament what it will be without the addition. 2. Because they think themselves safe in my Lord Treasurer's justice not to impose more than the real value in proportion. Upon these foundations I believe my Lord Treasurer will consent to the alteration, if he consent and stand to the original proposal, which I assure your Lordship he hath great temptations to waive, and nothing but the considerations of the King's service being equally served by the one as by the other can have any place with him in this affair to prefer your Lordship's party, to which I doubt not he hath a particular kindness for your Lordship's sake, and I hope it will shortly appear so, when we shall desire your Lordship's presence to the consummation of this business. In the mean time I have another for your Lordship's service, that of New Yarmouth, of which I have the map from my Lady, and will take the first and best opportunity of moving that matter to my Lord Treasurer, and give your Lordship an account of it.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

1676, May 19th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—Yours came to me at Norwich, from whence this comes to you . . . here are with me these Deputy Lieutenants, Sir Philip Woodhouse, Sir Jacob Astley, my Cousin Coke, Mr. Windham, Sir Neville Catlyne, Mr. Coke of Broome, Sir Will. D'oyly, Sir Will. Adams, Phil. Harbord, and before I stir, which will be to-morrow, I hope I shall have settled most part of the Militia, tho' the first private muster cannot be till the 3rd of July, and the great general muster, at which I must be myself, not till the latter end of harvest. . . . The greatest difficulty I am like to meet in is the town of Yarmouth, where Sir Tho. Meddowes, who I had designed all the kindness in the world, useth me peremptorily, standing upon terms that unless Huntington be put out he will not serve. I shall find others in his place. Everybody cries out upon this unhandsome way of his proceedings, but they are the stubbornest ill-natured people in the world. I have taken my methods so as to displease as few as I may; but it's impossible to please all. . . . The Mayor and the Corporation have made me a very civil visit, and are much pleased in the choice of a Colonel. If the Custom House business be done, it will infallibly do mine at Yarmouth; if not, I despair. P.S.—My Cousin, Tho. Knyvett, I have made Colonel of Sir John Holland's regiment, of which Sir Neville Catlyne gives him an account this day.

1676, May 26th. The same to the same.— . . . I do expect Sir Neville Catlyne here this day, who went to Yarmouth to remonstrate to Sir Tho. Meddowes his complicity and ungratefulness, but he is positive I hear, so I have contrived a way which will please the town better, and make Sir Thomas be left alone to himself and his penitence, which [is] to make Sir Thomas England colonel, and Baly Thaxter lieutenant-colonel, the two captains as they now are, and young England another captain; this is a piece of policy amongst ourselves contrived to disappoint the other party. Sir James Johnston is at London, and is not one that loves Meddowes, unless this unites them; when this is done all is almost over. On Monday (29th) I'll have a great bonfire, but I shall invite nobody but some of my near neighbours and the country people to tittle. I hope you'll see his Majesty and shew him Charles. It was a strange story you write me of Harry Savile; I am sorry for it, but Princes must be handled with reverence, otherwise there's no doings; and he having faltered in that kind before, methinks should have been more cautious: for I doubt this relapse will hardly be pardoned. . . . Pray again endeavour to stave off my coming to London with all your artifice.

1676, June 5th. John Gough to Col. Paston.—Acknowledges the many favours received from his (Col. Paston's) family, and humbly petitions that he may have the honour to be listed into the service, and as he is Lord Yarmouth's chaplain that he may also serve Col. Paston in his regiment as chaplain.

1676, St. John the Baptist's (Day). Norwich.—Hamd. Thurstone to Robert Doughty, Esq., Ayelsham.—Says he has been a great sufferer in the war (to the extent of) a great many thousand pounds;—is poor and very old, and would fain leave his employ. About five years since the Justices at Sessions granted him 10*l.* per annum.—Asks Doughty to move Lord Yarmouth to get an increase. Has delivered the Muster Roll and all other concerns of the Hundred to Capt. Doughty.

1676, July 3rd. Yarmouth.—A letter signed by Edm. Thaxter, George England, Richard Huntington, and Tho. England to Lord Yarmouth, complaining of a scandalous libel by one Bowers, their late coffee man, sent to Mr. Secretary Williamson, and asking for his punishment.—The writer mentions the unfaithfulness of Bowers in various employments during the Protectorate, and that since the Restoration he had set up a coffee house, where he collected intelligence, and made cabals, and persuaded some of the Militia not to appear in arms when summoned.

1676, July 7th. Yarmouth.—The same and Tho. Bransby to the same;—giving an account of a muster of their several companies on Wednesday, and that notwithstanding the great endeavours of Bowers and his accomplices there was a very full and cheerful appearance, &c.

1676, July 9th, Godwick. Robert Cöke to Lord Yarmouth.—Since Mr. Bedingfelds being out of the Commission for the Peace, that part of the country is

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

likely to be at a loss, Captain Gibbons being the only Justice of the Peace thereabouts, who is too remote from Wells, which is a contentious sea-port town; the daily disorders that happen there make it necessary that some gentleman who is near them have a commission to keep them quiet: he recommends Mr. Will. Armiger, of North Creak, a counsellor-at-law, as a fitting person to have a commission.

1876, July 12th, Norwich. Edward L'Estrange to Lord Yarmouth.—Encloses the names of the Deputy Lieutenants that met yesterday in the little Grand Jury Chamber in the Castle of Norwich, and an extract of their orders.—Asks whether he shall keep duplicates of the several muster rolls which are to be returned by the captains or deliver them to his Lordship's secretary.

1876, July 19th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives her an account of the Lord Chief Barons and other Judges going through Thetford to Norwich for the Assizes.—Their reception and the company who were present.

1876, July 20th, Quidenham. Sir John Holland to Lord Yarmouth.—Altho' he hears he continued in the commission of Oyer and Terminer, yet knowing how his words and actions have been watched of late, and that by the King's orders he had, as was said, been left out of the Commission of Peace, he thought that it was intended that he should have been omitted from the other Commission; and therefore he did not go to meet the Lord Chief Baron. Is pleased with the Lord Chief Baron's courtesy to his son.

1876, July 20th. W. Thursday to Lord Yarmouth.—He finds upon perusal of papers and consideration of the case, that the letter of Bower to Secretary Williamson is full of scandalous reflections in some little upon his Lordship, but very much upon the Commission officers, justices, and magistrates of Yarmouth; the latter of which, he says, connive at Nonconformist meetings; that those meetings take confidence by the Militia officers and justices, being such as joined in the late rebellious Government; and, thirdly, that Lord Yarmouth is influenced by Sir Will. Doyle, by whose good will the Churches friends shall have neither favour nor command. These are three principal remarks in the letter. . . . I beseech your Lordship to consider whether it be not possible he may justify himself in the two first particulars, and thereby mitigate his offence something. . . . States the case, and then advises Lord Yarmouth to have this saucy letter transmitted from the Secretary to the Justices of the Peace, or a Judge of Assize, to be considered of and punished by them, rather than to trouble the King and Council therewith.

1876, Aug. 7th and 14th, Yarmouth. Two letters, the first from Edm. Thaxter and Tho. Bradford, bailiffs, and the second by Thaxter and England to Lord Yarmouth.—About the affair of Bowers.

1876, Aug. 10th. Giles Dunster to Lord Danby, Lord High Treasurer.—About the site for building a new Custom House at Yarmouth.

1876, Aug. 25, Tuttington. Robert Doughty to Lord Yarmouth.—In order that a friend may be Sheriff of the County, and that the office may be made not burdensome, he has at the earnest pressure of their Club drawn up the enclosed* and presents it for Lord Yarmouth's and Lord Marshall's advice. He also incloses* a copy of Subscription and reasons against it.—He suggests the writing to the Colonels of Militia about getting persons charged with arms to be in readiness, and that there should be private musters of every Troop and Foot Company on such days as the respective Captains think convenient before Michaelmas. He says it is reported that Lord Yarmouth wishes to be rid of the Militia employ.

1876, Aug. 28, Yarmouth. John Dawson to Lord Yarmouth.—Has received Lord Y.'s letter of the 26th, with a copy of Mr. Dunster's letter. Is confident that the Town will be against Lord Y.: but they can give no other reason than that it will be troublesome to go over the Bridge to the Custom House.

1876, Sept. 8, Yarmouth. John Thaxter, George England, and Richard Huntington, to Lord Yarmouth.—They are glad to hear from Lord Y. that the Lord Treasurer will side with them against Bowers; they will write to the Lord Treasurer a full account of the whole matter, and will also consider of drawing up a Petition to the King and Council about it, if Lord Y. approve. . . . We can learn little of Bowers or his faction of the event of his London journey, further than we hear he publicly brags and declares we shall all appear at the Council Table the 6th of next month. He carries the flag on the main-top and remits not the least of his undaunted confidence; nor were we tender upon the receipt of Sir Joseph's letter to countenance the same thing, but Sir Joseph and Bowers seem to interfere, the one saying his Majesty had not and could not appoint a day, the other taking upon him to nominate the 6th of October, which inclines us to believe that they are not so absolutely resolved upon the matter as they pretend; besides, we think that Sir Joseph should be at a loss for the original letter; but be it or be it not, or be it when it will, except it be in fishing season, which will last to the 1st of December, we shall endeavour to look the enemy in the face, and hope for such an issue as may not only be a terror to him, but affright others from the like daring attempts.

1876, Sept. 11, Yarmouth. The same to the same.—They enclose a letter to the Lord Treasurer to the effect advised by Lord Y., and also a Petition, the time for presenting which they leave to him. They endorse a copy of a certificate in Bower's favour signed by several, some of whom are now ashamed of it.

(The certificate is that Richard Bower of Yarmouth, gentleman, is a person of a sober life and conversation, and is conformable to the King's Laws Ecclesiastical and Civil, never contentious, but living peaceably and quietly among his neighbours.)

1876, Sept. 11, Yarmouth. Richard Huntington and Ben. England to Lord Yarmouth.—Thank him for his present of venison against their Michaelmas solemnity. They ask his advice and assistance during their approaching troublesome office, in which they will not fail to shew that they are friendly to Sir John Clayton and his concern.

1876, Sept. 15, Tuttington. Robert Doughty to Lady Yarmouth.—Has collected the names of the Subscribers; thinks it is not perfect; divers of them it's supposed are weary of their bargain, and will willingly come on the other side. Hopes that most of the persons in the Colonel's list will follow his example, and thinks that other gentlemen (under the degree of Knights) will much outnumber the Covenanters. . . . Here is great expectancy of the Bishop's arrival amongst us. Yarmouth men I find very resolute in Bower's business. . . . In a P.S. he suggests that Lord Y. should write a letter to his Deputy Lieutenants to appoint private musters for horse and foot.

1876, Sept. 22, Tuttington. Robert Doughty to Lord Y.—Suggestions about the Militia stores, and advising private Musters, so that the Militia may be fit for a general Muster in the spring. . . . Why might not the Sheriff be sent for by the Council to produce the Subscription; and the King and Council in some eminent manner to declare their dislike thereof? . . . P.S. If the Subscription be burnt or taken away by the Council, all their confederacy is at an end, and the country at your Lordship's beck.

1876, Sept. 22, Yarmouth. Edm. Thaxter, Geo. England, Richard Huntington, and Tho. England to Lord Yarmouth.—Acknowledge his letter of the 19th and his care to prevent disturbance by Bower. . . . They sympathized with him in his late sufferings (the gout). . . . Some of the Subscribers think they have done more than amiss in signing the certificate for Bowers.

1876, Sept. 25, Yarmouth. The same to the same. . . . In pursuance of your Lordship's advice and direction, we, this day, upon an Information against him (Bowers) for selling of coffee without license, summoned him to appear before us: he obeyed. . . . We told him the Penalty of the Law must be levied upon him; his return was that he did expect no less; and altho' he promised, upon our prohibition, not to utter coffee more, yet we think to-morrow to levy by Warrant 5*l.*, as the forfeiture of one month. . . . As to his pedigree, we pray your Lordship's reprieve 'till next opportunity, lest for want of time we do him an injury by taking it too low.

1876, Sept. 29, Yarmouth. The same to the same.—Yesterday Bowers suffered the distress to be taken.—They found upon enquiry that he had not obtained the King's pardon. . . . By what search we have as yet made in the Herald's Office here we can give your Lordship no further account than before, other than that our gentleman is Yorkshire born, his father a writing schoolmaster, his employment and course of living since he came hither, which was about 20 years since, the same we informed your Lordship in that narrative we at your Lordship's command gave at the beginning of this controversy.—Our old bailiffs this day took leave of this place, and the new ones installed.

* Not with the letter.

PASTON LETTERS.—VOL. II.

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

1676, Oct. 2.—Copy of a verdict before the Commissioners of Sewers (Sir John Pettus, Bart., Sir Charles Harbord, Kt., and eleven others) of Edward Eyre, Thomas Reeve, &c., sixteen of the Jurors impanelled and sworn at the last Session of Sewers held at Ludham on the 16th of Sept. to inquire of the several articles then given.—They say that upon their view of the North river they find that the Freshwaters are obstructed by their free passage, and overflow many thousand acres of good marsh ground by the influx of the salt water tides from the sea running into that river through the haven of Great Yarmouth. To prevent this, they propose a floodgate at or near the mouth of the said river, which thereabout they find by measurement to be 129 feet broad and 10 feet deep at high tide; the cost will be at least 1,000*l*. Objections have been made which they state and combat.

1676, Oct. 4th, Norwich.—Edward L'Estrange to Lord Yarmouth.—Encloses an account of the orders passed at this meeting of the Deputy Lieutenants. Sir William Adams having delivered your Lordship's letter, the Deputy Lieutenants in obedience to your desires did take care to have all things settled in the Militia according to your orders, and as they hope to give satisfaction. As to the business relating to Mr. Hamon Thurston's petition, there is none as yet delivered into the Session . . . it may be brought in to-morrow, which if it be, in compliance with your Honour's desires, will be much favoured.

1676, Oct. 2nd, Oxnead. Jo. Doughty to Lord Yarmouth at the Golden Ball in Suffolk Street.—I received your Lordship's to your Deputy Lieutenants, and have shown it to Sir William Adams and Colonel Harbord before it was closed, as your Lordship commanded, who will observe the orders therein. My father will take care to promote the matters of Sir William Mason's, Mr. Oakes, and Little Oliver's Petitions as effectually as he can. Sir Will. Adams had his general muster the last Tuesday in Chapelry Fields in Norwich, where he appeared very glorious in apparel as well as courteous and noble to his soldiers, having presented all his inferior officers as well by Commission as otherwise with large sky coloured scarves which they all generously put silver fringe on to the value of 50*s*. or 3*l*. apiece. There were five of the seven Deputy Lieutenants present, Mr. Jay and Mr. Corye being at London. After the Muster was over, Sir William treated the officers of his own company and half a score gentlemen that trailed pikes under him as volunteers (amongst whom was Mr. Haby) at the White Swan, at a noble supper to which he was pleased to invite me. The rest of the Captains doing the like to their respective inferior officers . . . He says that he will send a list of inferior officers and soldiers in every company which he had from Major Bendish (adding the Commanders in gross in Parliament) by the first careful hands; is promised this week the muster roll of every particular company.

1676, Oct. 6th. Richd. Huntington, George England, Edm. Thaxter, and Tho. England to Lord Yarmouth.—About their proceedings against Bowers.—We heartily wish that that gentleness and moderation hitherto used towards him might be effectual to reform him without any further rigour or severity, but he seems to take fresh courage and to bid defiance (whether out of despair or presumption we cannot say) to what have already been or can be done to him. Ever since his suppression he began again to sell coffee, and this day he had the impudence to come to Mr. Bailiff Huntington for a license, but he denied him, upon which he went away with a threat to apply himself to King and Council for right and justice. He still continues to utter coffee, and at his house with all companies that come hither; the differences and divisions he have made are the common subject of discourse, and disputes pro and con are there maintained and managed with heat and passion which may prove of very ill consequence, as they tend to the creating and increasing of factions and animosities in the town, and altho' we cannot hear he gains many proselytes, yet he brags at a great rate. . . . They think him a very unfit subject for mercy and compassion, and ask for Lord Yarmouth's consideration on the subject.

1676, Oct. 9th, Sprowston. Sir William Adams to Lord Yarmouth.—Apologises for not having himself given to Lord Yarmouth an account of the City's musters. Protests his loyalty.

1676, Oct. 9th, Oxnead. Jo. Doughty to Lord Yarmouth.— . . . The time to make an addition of the Justices will not be till the next Hilary term, against which time your Lordship shall have a note of such persons as are fit to be put in commission. P.S. The enclosed presentation Mr. Gough has diligently enquired about, and is informed at all hands that the Bishop has not any thing to add to it, only to give a license to teach the schools, and if your Lordship pleases, desires it may be signed.

1676, Oct. 16th, Oxnead. The same to the same.— . . . As concerning the Sheriffs my Father also intends this week to confer with Sir Nevill Cattelyn and Capt. Cooke, and some other friends about it, and by Monday Post to give your Lordship some account thereof. They all apprehend it to be of dangerous consequence to the King's service and the interest of his friends for a subscriber or any of that party to be Sheriff. . . . Mr. Gough writes fully to your Lordship this night concerning the schoolmaster of North Walsham.

1676, Oct. 18th, Yarmouth. The same to the same.—My father has this day discoursed Mr. Bayliff Huntington, Sir George England, &c. about Bowers's business. They declare they are resolved to proceed on their petition at the Council Table which they have lodged in your Lordships hand; and that tho' they apprehend Bowers intend not any further prosecution, yet they do and seem to desire their Petition might be speeded, least they should be mistaken. This night they intend to discourse Sir Robert Baldock (who is in Town) about it, and to give you a letter this night of the result.

1676, Dec. 28th, Norwich. Tho. Clayton to Lady Rebecha Viscountess Yarmouth.—This evening the Colonel, your most hopeful branch of your most Honourable family, was conveyed into our City, with 2 or 300 citizens, and gentlemen on horseback, which met him two miles from the City, and was received through our streets with acclamations of joy, as if the King God bless him had come amongst us. I nor the rest of the royal citizens do not question but he will carry it for the Burgesses of this town, but there is a fanatic crew that will oppose all things that's just and good; but blessed be God we out number them.

1676, Dec. 4th, Oxnead. Mathew Peckover to Lord Yarmouth.—Not far from Elden a messenger from the Corporation of Thetford I met, who enquired where the Hearse was; presently appeared several persons upon their horses, and Sir Thomas Garrett, his lady, and Mrs. Tasburgh, Captain Harbord's lady, Captain Cropley in their coaches; thus accompanied to the entrance of Thetford Town, where stood the Mayor and his Brethren in their habits, and solemnly attended the corps the length of their liberty, the Bells tolling all the while. Before we came to Larlongford, Mr. Bryan Holland in Sir John's coach with several gentlemen a horseback joined with the Company to Attleburgh; he excused his sisters not appearing from her indisposition of health; the company increased much before the hearse came to Wymondham, where the streets were largely filled, and the Bells chimed all the time of their passage; from thence there was an increase of persons upon horseback and coaches, the Lady Mary Heveningham and Sir William upon his horse met at Hetherse St., then came Mr. Manock and his Lady in their coach, Mr. Woods, Lady Maidstone (and many others named, Sir Henry Bedingfield among the number), the Recorder of Norwich, his coach, several Aldermen in coaches and a horseback; Mr. Dean in his coach, and Prebends and Canons upon horses, 40 clergymen, all sorts of people otherwise disagreeing here united to do your Lordship honour. About 50 coaches and betwixt 2 and 300 horsemen came through Norwich upon Saturday at one of the clock, where the streets and all the balconies and windows were filled with people, the bells in every Parish they passed by chiming, except St. Peters in the Market Place; for the rest of the solemnity I refer your Lordship to a better account.

1676, Dec. 4th, Edward Warnes to Lord Yarmouth.—A letter of Condolence on the death of his daughter. In a P.S. the writer desires his humble duty and service to Lady Yarmouth (blessing God who enabled her to be so assistant, both in the happy education and comfortable departure of the new deceased Lady notwithstanding the danger of the distemper to do her so much good).

1676, Jan. 8th, Norwich. J. Hildeyerd to Lady Yarmouth.—The forwardness Mr. Mazey the Schoolmaster in Norwich shewed to take Mr. Thomas into his care hath been fully intimated to my Lord and your Honour by other persons. On Monday next Mr. Thomas (Paston) will enter the school. . . . P.S. When his Majesty had made my Lord Lieutenant of Norfolk by

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

the request of most of our orthodox clergy, I presumed to move my Lord that they might be exempted from arms, but there were some advised to the contrary and prevailed. I am so satisfied that some in commission of the Militia do in this affair deal so hardly by the clergy that I fear they have their design throughout the County in making them clamorous, and I have since I came to Town met with so many complaints under this oppression (as they call it, because no explicit law commands it) and those complaints now much accompanied with reflections, that I durst not out of my service to his Lordship omit the signification of it. They of the Militia have been so severe that they have generally laid the clergy up to what the Parishes report the living's worth, which seldom is lower than the utmost penny; some clergy protest they are laid more than their livings can be valued at, and some that are but Curates laid for their curacies. All this pretended to be by my Lords consent and order. We are certainly informed that the clergy of both Cambridgeshire and Bedfordshire are by their Lord Lieutenants exempt from arms. A moderation here may please, an exemption eternally oblige.

1676, Jan. 22nd. William Cooke to Lord Yarmouth.—Complimentary; on occasion, probably of being made a Deputy Lieutenant.

1676, January 26th. Sir Neville Catlyn to Lord Yarmouth.—Ever since you conferred the Honour upon me of Deputy Lieutenant I have never missed any public meeting, except last Michaelmas Sessions when the Court being at Newmarket (which though so near me I had never seen) I was prevailed upon by some neighbours to make an excursion thither, not without some hope that I might kiss your Lordships hand there, but you may rest assured that for the future my pleasure shall never take place of my duty. . . . We have so honest, loyal, and genteel an High Sheriff this year who appeared amongst us this Session as I doubt not but with a little encouragement such a grand Jury may be found against summer assizes as will break the neck of the Norfolk covenant by presenting it as a public nuisance, but in my observation it begins to dwindle in its reputation daily, &c.

1676, Feb. 26, Yarmouth. Richard Huntingdon and Ben. England, bailiffs of Yarmouth, to Lord Yarmouth.—They announce that the Corporation had declined to accept his Lordship's proposal; by reason of the great expense, and the actual debts of the Corporation. They ask him to countenance the renewing of the Act for the Fiers of Yarmouth (which will equally concern his interests and theirs.)

1676, May 4th. Copy of a Certificate signed by eleven inhabitants.—These certify that on that day, being Ascension day, and the day on which of ancient custom the Parish of Cawston use to go their perambulation, we John Hildeyerd, Dr. of Laws and Rector, John Lomb, Churchwarden, with others of the Parish of Cawston, went the bounds of the said Parish, and in this perambulation we went into a stone standing, in the lane leading from Cawston to Norwich, commonly called a dowe stone, which is just by Mr. Hirn's house, and sent John Lomb and Harold Gamble to demand drink of Mr. Hirne, which his predecessors had always granted unto the Parish of Cawston and to that stone in acknowledgement of their civility in not passing in their perambulation through his mansion house. The servants of the said Mr. Hirne locked the gate and denied their Master, saying he was not at home; whereupon we sent for an iron crome to make a mark upon the brick wall, where anciently when there was a mud wall was a gate; and this we did, because the Judge at the last assizes at Norwich enquired if we had in our said perambulation made any such marks, which had been done, but so small as they could not be well seen; and whilst John Lomb was making this mark, Mr. Herne came out and spit upon the handle of his staff, and with much fury ran to John Lomb and violently laid him over the pate with an oaken stick, then gave him a second blow. Dr. Hildeyerd after the first blow demanded what he meant being a Justice of the Peace, he replied he would strike him for digging down his wall; and then struck a second, making a third blow at Dr. Hildeyerd. The Dr. struck Mr. Hirn, and throwing away his cane boxed him; to which we standing in the Kings Highway in the above-mentioned lane give testimony. Then follow the signatures.

1676, March 5th, Attleborough Hall. Francis Bickley to Lord Yarmouth.—Has received his letter with a commission for himself as Deputy Lieutenant for the County of Norfolk, and will not fail to be sworn in at Thetford about the 22nd of March.

1677, April 11th, Cawston.—John Hildeyerd to Lady Yarmouth.—Thanks for her and Lord Yarmouth's efforts on behalf of the clergy; (i.e., for exempting them from attendance at Musters.)

1677, April 20th, Yarmouth. Richard Huntingdon and Ben. England (Bailiffs) to Lord Yarmouth.—They acknowledge his letter of the 17th, and say that there are not any Ostend or other Privateers in their road or harbour. They thank him for his assistance in Parliament in dispatching their Act.

1677, June 8th, (Sir) Peter Gleane to Lord Yarmouth.—Thanks for past and hopes for continued support against Mr. Leigh, who makes himself unpleasant and threatens litigation because the writer had bought a piece of Marsh (adjoining his family estate) which Leigh coveted.—On the 13th of the following August Gleane writes to Lord Yarmouth a long letter on the same subject. And on the 1st September he gives his reasons for not attending at the Assizes and taking a commission from Lord Yarmouth. At the same time he protests his friendship for Lord Yarmouth and his loyalty to the King.

1677, June 18th, Gressenhall. Edward L'Estrange to Lord Yarmouth.—Tells him that the Deputy Lieutenants are to meet at Norwich about the beginning of July, at the Quarter Sessions then to be holden.

1677, Aug. 16th, Brussels. Robert Paston to his father, Lord Yarmouth.—Says that after a nights rest at Ostend they marched with a good convoy to Bruges, where they were received with the ceremony due to the person of Lord Ply[mouth's] quality; the next day they arrived at Ghent. Says that notwithstanding the war the country there has suffered much less than the best parts of France.—At our arrival here we found the greatest change imaginable, all people in a very great confusion and consternation, the Prince of Orange having the 11th by a Council of War raised the siege of Charleroy, nobody knows the reason, some say because Monsr. Luxembourg had cut off their provisions, others upon some dispute between the Duke de Villa Hermosa, but the people here will have it that tis a plot of our King's, and my Lord Ossory was sent over on purpose to persuade the Prince to it, against whom they are all here so enraged that they go up and down the street swearing openly, if they had him here they would serve him as De Witt was; they threaten all the English so here that we dare not appear in public for fear of being knocked of the head; we intend to-morrow at five in the morning to steal out of this disordered town and follow the Prince, who is within half a day's journey; they say is in that despair that nobody knows what he will do; he has left the Spanish army; and the Duke de Vaudemont who was his greatest friend left him this day and came hither, where he was formerly very well beloved, but had the gates shut upon him, at first they bidding him go back with the Prince de Charleroy. The Duke of Lorraine is in a worse condition, being surrounded by Monsr. Crequi and Marshall Shomberg so that he cannot escape without fighting upon great disadvantage; they are so near that they skirmish all day. P.S. Pray address mine to Sir Richard Bolstope (Bulstrode?) the English Agent at Brussels.

1677, Aug. 22nd, Norwich. Jo. Doughty to Lady Yarmouth.—My Lord went out yesterday about 5 in the afternoon accompanied by my Lord Bishop, Sir Thomas Garrett, Sir John Pettus, Sir Charles Harbord, Sir Henry Bedingfield, Junr., &c., about 25 coaches and a hundred horse. About a mile from the city this company met Mr. Paston, whom I went before to meet upon intelligence that he was at Wymondham to salute his happy arrival in Norfolk, and the title, as I hope and think there's no doubt, of Burgess of Norwich, in the room of Mr. Jay who died in the forenoon. Sir Nevill Catlyn was much noised to be the person that would stand, but he refused it, both he and Sir Will Adams will use their interest for my Lord. . . . The Judges were mightily pleased with their reception, but came not till it was dark, my Lord has presented them with a noble present both of fish and flesh.

1677, August 22, Norwich. John Fisher to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives an account of the reception of the Judges yesterday, and how all attended the Judges this forenoon at an excellent sermon in Christchurch, and afterwards at the Shire House, where after the Commissions were read and the grand jury sworn, my Lord Pettie (who sits here upon the jail) gave an extraordinary good charge, and then they returned to dinner. . . . The Judges invited my Lord to dine with them, but his Lordship having promised the gentlemen to dine with them excused it till to-morrow The gentlemen seem very forward to do Mr. Paston all the right they can in the draining and meliorating his Marshes at Mautby, which are so much drained as they are become little or nothing worth.—He mentions Alderman Jays death and my Lords willingness that Mr. Paston should stand for the next election of his place in the House of Commons, &c.

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

1677, August 29. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—I am glad you are or seem to be satisfied with the progress in my business, but I must hear some further news from 6 before I shall believe it hath any other legs than delay. Sir John Pettus writes to me, but cannot give me hopes of any expedition; God's will be done, for lack of the hopes of my enemies is now to see me fall, for lack of the ingredient which makes all things move cheerfully: may they be disappointed! This day your son and two brothers are gone to Yarmouth and Mautby, and meet me on Thursday at noon at Sir William D'oyls at Shottesham at dinner. On Tuesday next he treats all the officers that are in commission of his regiment of horse, wheresoever, and entertains them all; wherefore pray for us that none of them be disgraced with Nog that day Next Saturday Sir William Adams has invited us all; and on Monday, Sir Henry Bedingfield. I sent yesterday to visit my Lord Chief Justice at Norwich, who returned me many compliments about my entertainment; but Bacon Bertie and Harrie Bertie were that day gone to Yarmouth, and Mr. Finch to see his cousin of Blicking. Mr. North stays at Norwich, where my Lord Chief Justice will not have done this work till this night at the soonest. Bacon Bertie condemned three, and saved one at your sons request, and other gentlemen

1677, September 2, Oxnett. Will. Paston to Lady Yarmouth.— . . . I have been extraordinary kindly received by all the country, and more particularly at Yarmouth, where nobody could be more kindly received. My Lord hath used his interest with very good success here at Norwich concerning my being Burgess, so that I think there will be no dispute at all of it, as Major Doughty and Mr. Buller and all tells me, for we have not only prevailed upon the right party, but also upon the heads of the phanaticks. Sir Harry Bedingfield hath informed us of news that I hope will not displease your Ladyship, which is of his being trustee of Clim Pastons estate, and Will. Pastons of above 3,000*l*. per annum, and that both are settled upon my Lord and his heirs in case they die, there is but three between my Lord now, whereof two are Clims sons, and one Will. Pastons, the former sons Sir Harry informed my Lord, that their father was in a deep drop when they were born, and that Dr. Brown did inform him that they could not live to be men; and the tother was so sickly he was not likely to live a year. My commission is to be executed a Monday come sevenight. I hope matters will go on well.

1677, Sept. 12th. The same to the same.— . . . Your son had a great appearance of committees of gentlemen at Ludham as ever was on such an occasion, and his business is like to go on. Yesterday morning being Tuesday they went from hence in the morning betwixt eight and nine, they dined at Beck Hall and stayed there till two, and then went on for Oxborowe, where their resolutions were to go away on Wednesday morning, and to reach London on Thursday night, but I believe it will be Friday, which makes me the more particular in my relation. Your son gave away 10*l*. in the house Yesterday the bishop and one of his sons in law came and dined with me, he was infinitely pleased with the church and chapel and everything else and talked with me very sincerely and honestly; and I do fancy he will prove a very good man; he stayed till five in the afternoon, and then I carried him some part of his way, and so parted kindly. To-morrow I go to Stanninghall to dinner

1677, Sept. 19th. The same to the same.—In the hopes you give me that things may mend, the first prospect is over by this time; Monday morning I prayed for, but when I know the vanities of appointments and the Treasury Chamber, and that days do seldom hold there, I fear it may be longer put off, or that the first hearing may be fatal Sir Peter Gleane has been with me since Monday night, and is so highly pleased in my reception of him that he is this morning gone the most pleased man in the world He is a man of honour and integrity, and tis no ill thing to have such a friend. (The rest of the letter is domestic.)

1677, Sept. 28th. The same to the same.—His packet of letters was returned to him with a letter from Capt. Lulham the postmaster which he encloses. Yarmouths letter had the London postmark, as she will see when she receives it. Has written to have right done him for this mistake to Colonel Whitley, but, for fear he should be gone to Newmarket, thinks of sending Mr. Doughty to wait on my Lord Treasurer.—I can find by your two last letters your humour mightily changed would you confess it, the rubs you have encountered and the delays you meet with being able to discourage any one but my Lady Yarmouth who lives under the character now of a lady that does great things for her family. I am glad to find that Mr. Attorney has signed anything; sure this must be the Bill and not the warrant, for the warrant is signed by none but the King and the Secretary. I beseech God we may hear of its progress, for from this step me thinks it should pass the broad seals before the term. Yesterday Sir James Jonston, Mr. England and Alderman Hall were with me from the town of Yarmouth, and Sir James in his florid style complimented me highly from them; they did acknowledge all my favours and desired not to prejudice my interest, and for all matters betwixt us desired they might be referred to whom I pleased; so they have chosen Sir Robert Baldock, and I Major Doughty and Mr. Bulwer, and I hope in time we shall get that in a way of improvement I am glad you say the King stays but a fortnight at Newmarket, but I cannot conceive he will leave his pleasures there so soon I suppose Robin comes over with the Prince.

1677, Oct. 2nd, Norwich Castle. Copy of an Order made at a meeting of the Deputy Lieutenants at the Little Grand Jury Chamber in the Castle at Norwich. Present: Sir John Pettus and Sir Jacob Astley, Barts., and Sir Neville Cateline, Kt.—That Mr. Henry Daynes of Raydon be discharged from finding any proportion of foot arms under Capt. Barney, and be charged for the future one 3rd part of a horse and arms complete under Capt. Sir William D'oily, junr.—Memorandum of a discharge of an Order by the Lord Lieutenant and his Deputies to pay to their Clerk, Mr. Edward L'Estrange, certain moneys for the use of Captains of Horse, the musters having been put off till the spring.

1677, Oct. 19th, Oxnead. 'Copy of a letter by Lord Yarmouth (to Sir Rob. Howard).—He received a letter directed to him at Yarmouth, which came to his house twenty miles from there, and found him newly out of a fever which has terminated in a violent fit of the gout, which deprives him of all motion, and makes him incapable of obeying the Order in Council, which he must represent there by some friend.

1677, Oct. 22nd. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.— . . . On Friday night one with a letter to me from London; I thought it had been Mr. Russell, but he proved a messenger from the Council, who brought me a civil letter from Sir Robert Howard with an Order of Council and had made the most frivolous coming in the world, first to Yarmouth, then to Oxnead; the Order was dated a month before, and I no notice till the 21st of Oct. to appear there on Wednesday next, which if I had been in health I would not have done; so I writ to Sir Rob. Howard the copy of which I send you (as above), as also his letter and a copy of the Order of Council. You had best let Lewis step down to the Council or Robin, and speak to Sir Robert Southwell, who signed the order, to get me excused by letting me know, if occasion be, how ill I have been and am still of the gout, but people that are summoned there appear not often at the distance I am at. I am of opinion my Lord Treasurer will hoist him out of his place. . . . The Bishop ends his visitation this week at Northwalsam, having been out near two months. . . . I had a letter from old Sir Henry Bedingfield, by which you may see that my sickness was taken notice of at Newmarket. . . . My son's business at Norwich I think is fixed beyond the power of any opposition that's now to be raised. Don Henshaw has never written to me since I came down. . . . I sent this day Mr. Doughty to Holcom to compliment my cousin Coke, who goes to-morrow to Newmarket, but returns again as soon as Sir Robert Carr's race is over with Robin Coke for 400*l*.

1677, Oct. 26th. The same to the same.—I have received many letters to inform me of Monday's news, which now depends upon the Lord Chancellor's civility to us, of which I hope the best, because you have formerly told me he was a friend to it. My Lord Privy Seal is a brave advocate when he undertakes a cause, and so it seems he behaved himself in ours. I hope we have no more tender hooks to hang upon after this greatest test is passed which have been put upon it. . . . The Bishop has dined with me, and the Chancellor and several of the Clergy; we had a confirmation in my chapel; my children and all my family, and several others, were decently confirmed. . . .

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILL
BART.

1677, Oct. 29th. The same to the same.—. . . The match of the Prince of Orange was congratulated in Norwich with bonfires and ringing of bells, and it is universally pleasing to the nation; and if my Lord Treasurer has been the instrument of it he has done for himself a great work. . . . I told my Lord Bishop the other day the story of Mr. Haylett, and he resented it very handsomely, and has commanded Dr. Hyliard to give him notice and put him in mind that he may inquire whether Haylett reads all the Common Prayer, or wears the surplice and the hood, which he never doth; so that I shall at least make him do what he should do, for having done what he should not have done.

1677, Nov. 5th. The same to the same.—Upon what score this champion, my Lord Privy Seal, fights our battles so bravely I do not know, but I find he has gained by merit great applause in his steady promotion of it, and there is no better man to drive on a business than himself. I long to hear the King has signed the warrant, which I will allow two or three council days for, and as many more for the warrant of the moiety, tho' I do suppose Mr. Brouckell's industry loses no time. . . . I suppose Mr. Henshaw is now at this time of the year in town, and I have written him something will please him. . . .

1677, Nov. 24th. Will. Paston to Lord Yarmouth.—. . . My Lord Treasurer t'other day at Whitehall, inquired very kindly after your Lordship. . . . My Lord Pembroke I hear this night has killed a man. The Prince of Orange is at Canterbury, expecting still a fair gale for Holland, and will not come to town.

1677, — 28th, Norwich.—J. Hildeyard to Lady Yarmouth.—. . . Mr. Paston passed this evening through Norfolk, being met and conducted by such a number of citizens, not to name the gentry. The great shouts and acclamations that were given at the three great places of the city seems to be an excellent omen. . . .

1677, Dec. 2nd. Robert Clynton to the Honble. — Paston, Esq.—Asks him to be present in court at the Old Bailey on the day of his trial, and to testify his belief in the matter concerning the killing of the watchman or bellman against his (Paston's) house. . . . He heard that Paston had said that the gentleman was much provoked and abused by blows and ill words, and that the watchman or bellman was drunk with brandy wine.

1677, Dec. 12th, Norwich. Thomas Townshend to Lord Yarmouth.—Asks him not to believe malicious reports concerning him, and protests his regard for Lady Yarmouth.

1677, Dec. 14th, Oxnead. Jo. Doughty to Lady Yarmouth.—Yesterday was the Court of Admiralty kept at Cromer to inquire concerning the ship that stranded there, and to whom it should belong. Doctor Hughes behaved himself with great moderation and prudence, as became his place; and the jury being sworn, and having their charge of what to enquire, Sir John Hobart told the Doctor that he claimed the ship as tenant to the Duchy of Lancaster, and had in his grant all wrecks, and that the Doctor had no right to keep Courts of Admiralty, and to that purpose insisted on an Act of Parliament for his authority, which he mistook in the construction. Sir John had prepared a whole sheet for a speech, but the Doctor would not let him go on, but sent the jury away to make their verdict, whereupon Sir John protested in open court against the whole proceedings, and took his leave, &c. Sir William Rant and Mr. Herne who came as Agent for my Lady Wyndham, in whose manor the ship was stranded, were both present, but said nothing at all. Upon the ship coming ashore my Lady Wyndham seized her as hers in the right of her manor, and Sir William having a manor adjacent claimed also, which after a great contest they agreed to divide, finding their titles too weak for contention. My Lady by consent unladed the ship, and carried the goods (timber) to her own house, and then left the ship till the Court should be over. The Verdict of the Jury was that the ship was seized floating, and so belonged to the Admiralty. . . . The ship is seized for my Lord. The other goods must lie a year and a day to see if there will come any owner, who if they claim within that time they must have their goods again, paying all charges; but the ship being perishable may be sold by the law and the money returned if there come the right owners and challenge her. . . .

1677, Dec. 14th, Oxnead. Owen Hughes to Lady Yarmouth.—On the same subject, detailing his own and Sir John Hobart's speech and actions.

SIR
H. INGILL
BART.

1677, Dec. 14th, Oxnead. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives her a full account of the Cromer trial.

1677, Dec. 17th, Norwich. John Gough to Lord Yarmouth.—Asks him to hasten Coll. Paston into the country, his presence being absolutely necessary that he may tell the City he depends upon their kindness. Finds that there are some engines at work to oppose or divide his interest. Mr. Briggs was on Saturday last nominated for Burgess by the Court of Aldermen, but declines it, and vows he will not appear, and if they should set up another to represent him and to choose him he will not part with sixpence to entertain them nor abate them the allowance for maintenance of the Burgess. Cannot prevail with him for his interest for the Collonel.

1677, Dec. 21st, Oxnead. Jo. Doughty to Coll. Paston, —Notwithstanding the strange stratagems and tricks used by the Rayneham and Blickling Caball to give you a disappointment at Norwich, yet all things have so happily wrought as will not only frustrate their juggling consultations and expectations, but be much for your honour. My Lord Townshend sent his Secretary Philipps to Norwich this week to blow the coals, who is as much railed at as can be wished, a true reward for his industry. The Mayor has been very false and base as well as one of his brethren who was very little suspected as well as sufficiently obliged to the contrary. The common people are in a rage against them both for it, there are a great many honest persons who are extraordinarily active and honest to your concern. The Parliament sets on the 15th of January being Tuesday, it is necessary that the writ be taken out that day the sitting is or at farthest so as to be here on Saturday morning to deliver it to the Sheriff to give due notice. Hopes he will speed his journey to be here this day seennight.

1677, Dec. 21st. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—A long letter principally about his son's election, and his entry into Norwich. He hopes his son will take leave of the King, and of my Lord Treasurer, and intimate that he is resolved on all hazards to endeavour to serve the crown.

1677, Dec. 21st. J. Hildeyard to Mr. Paston.—Tells him not to despair of success, for the Commons in Norwich are resolved to choose him for their Burgess. He is to hasten his coming down.

1677, Dec. 28th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—Says his son will come in nobly.—I have sent him from hence two horses very richly furnished, his silver trumpets, and the trumpeters in their liveries, and two trumpets more; every body is ready to go meet him. . . . I rejoice at no mans death, but I do infinitely rejoice in the Duke of Norfolk's coming to his so well established dignity, and that that great title so worthily bestowed on that family may be worn by one that merits it as much as any of his ancestors. . . . I wonder what my Lord Lindsey should act capable of an impeachment: if the King suffer his Lord Lieutenants to be used so none will be safe.

1677, Janry. 7th. The same to same. . . . On Thursday Mr. Doughty comes from hence in the Norwich hackney coach to be at London on Saturday, before the Parliament sits to get out the writ the first day, and to come post away with it, that if possible the election may be on the county day, which will be about ten days after the Parliament sits.

1677, Janry. 14th. The same to the same.—Mentions his illness and the benefit he has derived from the King's Drops. . . . My son had his freedom on Friday, and Robin in the Hall at Norwich, with a deal of civility; and on Saturday the Sheriff, one Alderman Vin, gave him and his company a noble entertainment. This snowy day he is gone to Sir Nevile Catalynes. We are in as good a position to our election as we can well wish; but in these matters lyes and storsy will be every day put abroad. . . . The news you write concerning peace is welcome to me, for then I hope Parliament will not sit long. . . . When you see Sir John Holland, scatter no words; but you may extort the King's kindness.—At the end of the letter is a note from Tho. Henshaw telling Lady Yarmouth of her husbands recovered health.

1677, Janry. 21st. The same to the same. . . . We have traced out Sir John Hobart's affectionate proceedings in your sons affair, who has persuaded old Common Wealth Hobart at Norwich to side against him, and said he would rather side for himself than he should fail; said these people are backed from some above, for all their support is now framing of lies, which every day broaches anew, as the last is that your son is gone

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

to London and left the field. Verdon the Attorney has been very active in his behalf. When my Lord Chief Baron comes down he must have instructions from the King, by my Lord Treasurers means, to break the subscription by the King's command, as a thing hurtful to the Government, and a combination which however intended, may prove pernicious in the effects, by fortifying a faction from whence ill consequences may arise and have apparently done so. . . . Mr. Huby saith, that the Duke of Norfolk swears he will undo the Mayor of Norwich; and truly if by letter from the King, or otherwise as law shall appoint, he were turned out of his mayoralty, it would be for the safety of the King and country, for he is the impudentest fanatic in the world. . . .

1677. Feb. 4th. The same to the same.— . . . The election at Yarmouth will be on Monday come seven-night, and we must live in suspense another week, in all which time we must expect new histories every day. The Mayor is the strangest inveterate fellow in the world, and has taken one Baniers, who for rude words spoke against my son was sent by the Court to ask his pardon, which he did so ugly as if my son had not prevented him with a slight dismissal, expecting the election would then have been over in a day or two, he would have run into ruder expressions than before. . . . Sir John Hobart may tell Bernard Greenville what he pleaseth, but he has his hopes still to frustrate my sons pretence, and hath been as busy himself and his steward Brewster in his absence as they can. . . . Robin by my approbation hath written to Peregrine Bertie to see if he may get a company in the Guards of this new levy. . . . I have sent Mr. Doughty to Norwich this morning to Mr. Bendish to secure a fellow who I have information from one that heard him say Oliver Cromwell was a better bred man than the King, and did at the same time and other use many seditious speeches; has been advised to inform the Secretary of State and get him forthwith to send down a messenger from the Council for him, for if he be left to an indictment at the Sessions he will come off with a small scratch. . . . People here are so bold in talking against the Government that if I have not some instructions to suppress them they will be as ready for action as words. . . . If you have an opportunity you may prepare Secretary Williamson to have a message ready, for these things are no longer to be borne.

1677. Feb. 8th. The same to the same.—Thine I received with the King's answer made us all very merry to see that his Majesty will be King of England. Sir Henry Bedingfeld died here; . . . he told me what he writ, which was calculated only from himself, and made known to be without the least of my privacy; its his own nephew and one that has most privately the Duke's ear in all matters of secrecy, and he saith he chose him because many times the Duke lays by letters some time without reading or considering them, and these he knew would be strongly impressed on him; but it was done out of friendship to us, as several marks given us every day can sufficiently prove and make good: and now I must give you some trouble, which is if you please show my Lord Treasurer these papers first, and then to let them be delivered to Secretary Williamson. The Fanatics are so violent in Norwich and talks at that rate that its no longer to be suffered, and therefore yesterday I secured one Adcock, a tailor, a desperate talking seditious rogue. Mr. Bendish was very active to take the information and both the sheriffs were ready to execute the warrant, and when they had delivered him over to the jailor, the bells rung two hours afterwards: the fellow is a pretty substantial man in his trade, and worth the fleeing, if not the hanging. . . . If some few leading people were out of Norwich it would be the most loyal city in England. The Bishop, who yesterday I sent to see how he did, assures me as soon as the election is over he will show his power and rout Collins, and will show mine if I have such encouragement in this as I expect. I would have you write Sir Joseph a little in the point, and desire him that I may have such a return as I may show both to the city and country. I hope my Lord Treasurer will let Bendish be receiver this time. . . . I had a letter from John Fisher this week with the King's answer written out in his daughter's fair hand, and I do suppose our Norfolk baronets went out on the weaker side when the house divided. . . . Our party at Norwich are very strong and vigorous.

1677, Feb. 11th. Robert Coke to Lord Yarmouth.—Hopes the Lord Treasurer will continue him in the office of Receiver of Norfolk.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

1677, Feb. 15th. Norwich.—Robert Bendish to Lady Yarmouth.—His doings with regard to the impending election

1677, Feb. 18th, Norwich.—John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—Gives her an account of the triumphant return of her son, Coll. Paston. In opposition to him the Dutch and Scottish Alderman Cockey rode, and with his hand as if he had been saying grace, invited the company to his side, but not a man at all stirred; but instead of doing so, they hissed and clapt their hands at the contrary party in so great a degree that we could not hear their noise. At length we came to the Poll about 10 o'clock, and it went on sometime with a great deal of scorn to the faction; but when Cockey got into the chair again, there was a bold honest fellow that faced him to the booth, with a Holland cheese and a blue apron upon a pike staff, which so daunted his fanatic impudence that he durst appear no more. The villainous party was at the first coming headed by the Mayor and Mr. Hobart; but all of them deserted their booth before 12 in the noonday. The Collonel's Poll held till near 5 in the afternoon, and he has carried it above three to one. The number of fanatics are not quite 650, but the Collonel has above 2,200; the certainty of the books I cannot learn, but speak the least on our side, so that we carry it by almost 600. P.S. The certain number of the Collonel is 2,163, and on the other part 672.

1677. Feb. 20th. Copy Letter by Lord Yarmouth to my Lord (Danby).—Gives an account of the election as above. Asks if now he may have the liberty to purge this bench of the goats and keep the sheep, and to assist the Bishop in removing a most seditious infuser of ill principles, a conventickling Doctor, who stands already excommunicated, but has staved and fenced by appeals and other quorks of the law. "I do most humbly beseech your Lordship, that the judges that come this circuit may have orders from his Majesty to declare against the subscription, which for what and soener designed I find it produceth dangerous effects, and keeps up a combination and confederacy of good and bad men mingled."—Asks that these things may be represented to his Majesty that he may know how to act.

1677, March 22nd. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—The men of Norwich have chosen new Aldermen, but the Mayor refuses to swear them. I believe it will have to be determined at the Council table or some other Court of Judicature, and if the King commands these new chosen men to be sworn, it will make the best alteration for his advantage that ever was.

1678, March 25th. The same to the same.—In your last I received a paper which you say the Duke of Norfolk and Mr. Bendish drew up, which contained as much as the world can say. The Mayor and Aldermen are very brisk, and I do suppose the brisker because they see I have yet nothing from London. The honest party have proceeded as far as they can, but the Mayors refusing to swear them puts an end to their business. If these elections which are now made be confirmed his Majesty doth himself, the greatest right imaginable. . . . On Friday you tell me my Lady Peterborowe and yourself were promised the warrant, and then I hope Sunday the King and my Lord Treasurer may sign it, and Brownskill's expedition run it through by Easter day. . . .

1678, March 29th.—The same to the same. . . . I doubt nothing will be effected the first Council, but for that the Norwich men are pretty well satisfied that its a time of great business which admits not of every consideration, and they can stay if they be nourished with any hope at the last. . . . The Duke of Norfolk has given you the greatest testimony he can in writing that letter himself which you carried my Lord Treasurer as from me. . . . As to what you write concerning Mr. Secretary I am amazed. You saw my two letters: both or one mentioned Adcock, the other had as much submission to the hint you gave me and as effectual an argument in the sudden stop they put to the proceedings beyond my expectation; but a man must swallow all things from these great Ministers. Pray endeavour by my Lady Catharine O'Brien to make him my friend and to tell me what faults I must mend. . . . Pray in your next satisfy me, upon a loose conjecture, when you think this Patent for our moiety may pass the broad seal.

1678, April 6th, Whitehall. Secretary Wilson to Lord Yarmouth.—On receipt of his letter of the 1st of April, together with the enclosed, giving an account of the Mayor of Norwich's disobedience to the King's commands, he acquainted His Majesty in Council, and

Sir
H. INGLEY,
Bart.

an order was immediately issued commanding the Mayor to appear at the Board to answer this contempt.

1678, April 8th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—On Saturday night the Duke of Norfolk came into Norwich, where my secretary was ready with a compliment from me; on Sunday morning early I sent my coach for his Grace, who came to me to dinner with my Lord Thomas, his son; Mr. Corie, and Major Waldegrave, and Sir Henry Bedingfield met him here . . . The Mayor had gone to London, which disappointed the Duke, who had come to settle his business; but he will be at London on Wednesday night. There was a report that the Mayor had gone to be knighted.

1678, April 16th. An abstract of the Order of the Privy Council to the Lord-Lieutenant of Norfolk.—About impressing men for the Navy.

1678, April 16th. An abstract of the instructions from the Commissioners of the Admiralty to the Lord Vice-Admiral of Norfolk, dated as above.—About impressing seamen.

1678, April 22nd (copy). Oxnead. Robert Paston, Viscount Yarmouth, Lord Vice-Admiral and Lieutenant of the Co. of Norfolk and City and County of Norwich, to Robert Bendish, of Norwich, Gent.—Order for the impression of 950 able seamen, comprising boatmen, bargemen, and watermen, and to cause them to be conducted to the Port of Harwich with all speed; from thence to be shipped for his Majesty's service. He (Bendish) is appointed the conductor for this county to receive such seamen by the Press Masters appointed under Lord Yarmouth's hand and seal. On the other side are instructions to be observed by Robert Bendish.

1678, April 22nd, Oxnead (Copy). Order from Lord Yarmouth to Matthew Peckover, Gent.—Appointing him Agent at Harwich to receive the impressed marines. Followed by Instructions to be observed by Matthew Peckover, dated 24th April.

1678, April 22nd.—Copy of a letter on the same subject from Lord Yarmouth to the Lords of the Council enclosing an estimate of the charge of an Agent, Conductor, and Press Master.

April 24th.—Copy of a letter by Lord Yarmouth to the Commissioners of the Admiralty on the same subject. Followed by a copy of an estimate by the Lord Lieutenant and his Deputy Lieutenants.

1678, — of —.—A blank form signed and sealed by Lord Yarmouth (seal gone).—Appointing — to be Press Master for the County of Norfolk.

1678, May 17th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—(Three pages of domestic matters.) . . . Yesterday being a fine day I went and dined with my Lord Bishop of Norwich, where I was most kindly made of by my Lord and Lady and five of his daughters, who are very pretty women; your health was drunk three or four times and I have invited them all to dine with you on your wedding day the 15th June. After I had parted from them I went to Alderman Bendishes, and there came to me Mr. Briggs who to say the truth in his speech at the election did our family much honour.

1678, May 20th. The same to the same. . . By all I can foresee there will be peace, and Sir John Holland writes me word that it will be endeavoured at their meeting for to recall the prohibition of French Commodities, but what humour the house will meet in, or what measures they will take is very uncertain, as all the productions of great Assemblies are. I can perceive Sir John is much mollified in the way of his style as doth not write so angrily of things as some times he was wont to do. . . From the council and Vice-Admiralty I have no returns, I expect some tomorrow, for I am loth to send away the men to lie upon the King's and country's charge before they are sure of a vessel to receive them; and half of them will be sure to run away now, whatever use there may be of the landmen a navy must be set out to sea, and therefore methinks they should consider the prosecution of their own orders. I should be glad to hear that there were accommodation between the Duke of Norfolk and my Lord of Arundell and his younger brothers, which Thom Corie told me he thought would be. I hope you pay your devoirs to her Grace, which is the only way to be great there; he is now, as Sir Henry Bedingfield tells me, disparking Croxton Park and will not save at it twenty pounds a year, and leave himself never a park in Norfolk.

1678, June 5th. The same to the same.—Yesterday I went betimes in the morning to Beck Hall to dine with my friends there, where I met young Sir Henry and my Lady Anne, my Cousin Cairill and his lady, and was most kindly made of; in the afternoon we entertained ourselves with discoursing in the garden, with playing chess, and at 6 of the clock I came away, and got home in very good time. Your letter brought me the news of the broad seals being fixed to the patent, which I was very glad of. . . . Young Sir Henry Bedingfield told me that my Lord of Arundell was to be last night at Rising, and that he was to meet him as this day at Mr. Ost's at dinner, so I have sent over Mr. Doughty on purpose to make him my compliment to enquire after my Lord Peterborough and my Lady. . . . My Lady Bedingfield yesterday told me a great secret, which Sir Harrie was upon oath not to let me know, nor you must take no notice of only in paying great civilities to the Duchess of Norfolk, for that's the way to oblige the Duke, who in this shewed an apparent testimony of his kindness to the family; for when it was reported at London that I was past hopes of recovery, he went to the King and the Duke to beg that the Lieutenancy might, in case I died, be conferred on my son, which was promised by the King. . . . Yesterday four from Norwich came here to invite me to their Guild on Tuesday come sevennight, which is the day the new Mayor takes his place and office. . . . Pray let me know whether you see Lord and Lady Barkshire sometimes, and whether the match is broken off betwixt the Duke of Grafton and my Lord Arlington's daughter. We hear he is married to my Lady Northumberland's daughter.

1678, July 6th. Robert Kemp to Lord Yarmouth.—. . . We are finishing the Money Bills which hath been the work of these two last days, so as I can give you no news since Sir John Holland writ to you. . . . I hope we may have a recess this day senight, so that I may leave this town the beginning of the week following.

n.y. July 15th, s.n. Ant. Norw. (Anthony Sparrow, Bishop of Norwich) to Lord Yarmouth.—Our gentry have made an address to his Majesty, and will suddenly give your Honour an account of it. They have not made any present of money. The reason they give me was, that they being met, some of the most loyal and chief men debating it amongst themselves, thought it not fit to communicate it any further; they fear it would in likelihood be an injury to your honour, and no advantage to the King's concern, for they saw no hope of getting any considerable sum at present; the chief of them had suffered much by great charges at elections, and suppose they must ere long be at more, for they resolve to do their utmost in such a case; they supposed, besides, that they might by such a proposal at present weaken their interest in their party, but I dare say they will be really your Honour's real servants and his Majesty's loyal subjects, with their lives and fortunes. I heartily wish your Honour could settle the Militia at Yarmouth. If Sir Tho. Meadows doth not accept it, I hope Sir Neville Catline will.

1678, July 19th. Norwich. Jo. Doughty to Lady Yarmouth.—The enclosed will give your Honour a full account of this day's proceedings about the Bishop. The persons to be bound to their good behaviour are the heads of the faction; but no proof can as yet be found against any, but only suspicion of the combination. My Lord will write to the Secretary by the next post, and in the meantime would have your Honour to acquaint the Lord Treasurer with the transactions, and know his mind.

1678, July 22nd, Norwich. Tho. Corie (Town Clerk of Norwich) to Lord Yarmouth.—Says that he delivered Lord Yarmouth's letter to the Mayor on Saturday last, who issued warrants to apprehend the said persons therein named, and five were brought up before him that day, viz., Dr. Collings, Anysson, Skowdingle, Balderston, and Nockolls: the first two gave bonds with sureties to be of good behaviour and to appear at the next Quarter Sessions, the others would not do so, and were sent to jail. The other John Crumwell had gone from his house. . . . The Mayor summoned all the Justices of the Peace of the City to appear this afternoon, but none came except Mr. Bendish, "by which your Lordship may judge how they stand affected to his Majesty's Government." The Recorder was sent for by the Mayor to advise with him on Saturday, but he would not come, nor would he assist this day.

1678, July 26th.—Lord Yarmouth to his wife.

1678, Feb. 26th. The same to the same.—. . . I am very glad to hear my Lord Chief Baron comes this circuit, for my trial with Yarmouth is to be at Bury Assizes; now they moved strongly by Baldock the last term to have had a trial at the Bar, which the Court denied them upon the assertions of my Counsel that

Sir
H. INGLEY,
Bart.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

there had been a trial there before, and that the suit had been vexatiously menaged by the town against me, so its to be tried in the country, unless the Judge of the Assizes shall upon any new matter of evidence allow a trial at the Bar, which we must endeavour to prevent, that we may have a determination now, in which I desire no favour from the Judge, but as the merits of the cause shall guide him to, and the saving me 200*l.* charges. . . . We all here have the news of the Duke's intentions to go to the church, which everybody will be glad to hear confirmed.

1678, Feb. 28th. The same to the same.—. . . As for the noise of the election, and mine and the Bishop's letters, trouble not your head; we have defeated a strong contrivance against the Right interest, and could their hearts be looked into they are ashamed and confounded at it, and think to extenuate their repulse by this way of a pretence upon no manner of foundation, neither do I yet believe they will petition, for unless it be a Parliament that is resolved to turn all right out of doors, they will see such apparent evidence as will give the petitioners shame enough: this they know as well as we, and therefore, unless the Devil possesseth them, they will never throw away money in vain; and for my letters, I care not if they were on the Parliament house door; and for Sir Hobart, there is no place for him now in Norfolk, for if he were to stand again he will find us better provided for him, and for Lynn. The Mayor is nailed fast enough, and there are twenty more would carry it before him if there were a vacancy, for my Lord Townshend's influence prevails not in that place at all. . . . Honest Sir Will. Adams has stayed with me since Tuesday. . . . I find the courteous Sir John Pettus and his Lady begin to find that London preferments work too slow: every man of parts and lady of beauty not meeting with advancements suitable to their merits; so they are, or at least the lady, first coming to Ralkey, and the widow Allington to board with them, till Sir Will. Adams gets her to Sprowston for good and all, which I believe he has fair hopes of, as well for her daughter as for his son.

1678, March 26th. The same to the same.—Here dined yesterday the High Sheriff of Norfolk, who happens to be my very near kinsman, an honest gentleman, and one that sticks stoutly to us; Negus, who is a most honest man, and will appear and tell such a tale as will convince all but infidels: Captain Houghton, Golwin, Le Strange, Capt. Gubbon. We had our cabal, and on Saturday at Norwich they all meet to fix the method of their appearance. In the mean time God-will is gone to Marchland to fix all the gentleman there. Mr. Scarbrogh has used me like a gentleman, as I thought none of that opinion ever could have done, for he has not only never shewn my letter to mortal, but even denied the sight of it to his own friend and mine, Mr. Negus. . . . I am now in haste going to dinner to my Cousin Hyde's with Mr. Negus, Le Strange, L. Col. Woodhouse, and Capt. Weld. . . . Surely you did not think what you said when you persuaded me to make myself a House of Commons man again. On my word there will be stories told and proved will very much touch Mr. Windham, who will stand with Sir John at the next election, where I believe they will meet such an opposition as never was in this country. I am not concerned one farthing at the petition, which, as the Bishop said, has set forth the matter fully, and Mr. Hurten will swing it away with all the boldness in the world. . . . Sir Thomas Hare, they say, intends to come, which makes me not pull down the bed hangings.

1678, March 24th. The same to the same.—We have scanned Sir John Hobart's petition, which must needs take fire in a House of Commons as its suggested; but when the notorious falsehoods come to appear in every particular, tho' I know faction has no bound, yet perhaps there may be no need of another election. Here are a great many gentlemen resolved to be at the hearing of it, and to be very bold in their testimonys. My letter, which Mr. Britif has I do not doubt put into their hands, I send you up here the copy of taken in pieces and answered by Mr. Doughty, to be shown to Counsell. Now though the time may be coming about wherein Lord Lientenants are less to be made of than Chief Constables, yet I cannot think that my saying, after Sir John Hobart had declared he would not stand, that none would or ought without making me acquainted, can but at the worst be but a civility that I was mistaken in when I thought it due, and this only in a private letter communicated to one whose father to his dying day owed his rise from this family, to whom

SIR
H. INGILBY
BART.

he was a menial servant, and this unworthy fellow to produce a private letter, as a malicious evidence against me; let them prove any menace, and I'll give up the cause. . . . I cannot believe my Lord Treasurer will fly; he must be tried by his peers at the last, and if I be one, and others of my mind, there should be no reason for so hasty a journey; but violent storms and fury none can appease, and this must create victory again. . . . I knew, when you spoke of Mr. Sechevyrill, what power my Lady Mary Henningham had with him, but methinks Mr. Cheek for old friendship might represent me at least to my Lord Russell as one that never dissembled him nor any of his family, and in that discourse he may give such a character of Sir John Hobart as I know he thinks of him. . . . There must be some very impudent talking lawyer retained against the day, for I must expect to have all the dirt thrown in my face that the privilege of the House can warrant; yet I hope when they consider my letter, it will be no such bugbear; for if one man expects a civility that another will not pay him, its no treason to hint it to a private friend, nor no menace for the incivility of the disappointment.

1678, Feb. 26th. Eustace Burneby to Lady Yarmouth.—I received your honour's letter this morning, and the latter part made me amends for the former 1,000 fold, . . . and certainly my belief is the same as your Ladyship's, which is that so good a martyr for his country at last can never bring forth other than good to his posterity, and surely at last it will be believed that he is not damned because he was not within the pale of the Romayne; these clouds I hope will be dispersed, and this I dare say with an humble confidence that at present there is no other way than the true way, which is his Highnesses truly going to Church as it is now settled by Government, and to publish himself to be the same religion which his father was of, from which nothing could divert him, even death itself. . . . I pray heartily to God to open his eyes, and that it may come to pass according to your Ladyship's hopes and my belief. And now to our business; as to the paper, no dispute but it will go on, for if any of this last should fail I have others will do it, tho' as yet I see no reason to doubt but confidence of agreement; as to the other, it will certainly be a great thing after, if the news holds, and will certainly do the Duke more good, next to his change, than any one thing that I can foresee, and establish him in the thoughts and well wishes of the people, which will make his countenance at once be both beloved and feared, and I dare undertake to bring good substantial citizens then in for 50,000*l.* stock, and the one half to go to the patentee and partners, as first undertakers, and yet reserve the Duke's share and enough for us; and therefore a little patience, Madam, was a good word spoke to me by the Duke, and in good reason, and that very word proceeded reiterated to answer a modest bold word I then spoke, which I will tell your Ladyship by word of mouth whenever I have the honour to see your Ladyship.—He says that he will send a person to-morrow morning with a note from himself, asking her to pay 30*l.* on the 25th of March next, and he prays her to promise payment; and he doubts not to serve her before that time in greater matters.

1678, January 29th, Norwich. Geo. Stebbing to Colonel Paston.—I doubt not but the honest part of our City of Norwich still retain that high esteem for your honour which they formerly signified to the world at your election for their representative in Parliament; but its likewise as evident that another sort of men, who neither wish well to the King's Majesty nor his interest, are still as active as ever to deceive the people by all the lies and tricks imaginable. There be some already report that your Honour will not appear for another election in Norwich, but decline it; how far such a report may impose upon some men without a signification of your pleasure to the City I know not; but that, and your Honour's appearance in person, will confute such reports, and give sufficient testimony of your continued affection to the persons and place you have represented. There are others, very loyal men, who would attempt to choose your Honour a new second this time; but that cannot be done without great hazard, if at all.

1678, Sept. 18th, London.—Thomas Higgons to (Lord Yarmouth).—I was so unfortunate at my arrival in England as not to find you either in Suffolk Street or Parsons Green. . . . If I had then had the happiness to find you I should have given you some account of my Lady, your daughter, at Venice, whom I left well satisfied with her condition, and very happy, were it

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

not for the sense of your displeasure, and that of my Lady her mother. . . . By reason of the continued expectation I am in of being commanded by his Majesty into Italy, I have engaged Mr. Berners of St. Maryes, who is my son-in-law, to wait upon your Lordship with this letter and the enclosed, which lately came in one to my wife from Mrs. Alberti, who I can assure your Lordship is used with all respect imaginable by her husband's friends, and commands whatever she desires, having money and clothes, and all things suitable to a woman of quality.—In the house where she lives (as I am told by those who know it, it not being permitted me nor the Minister of any foreign Prince to go into the houses of the States Secretary's) there is all the plenty that can be, and a constant good table where she is mistress. Her uncle, with whom she and her husband live, is a man of reputation, and in charge of the greatest trust in that Government, being Secretary to the Consiglio de Dieci, with whom all the secrets of that State are deposited. . . . Altho' she have not met with a match so good, my Lord, as your daughter might have deserved, yet there is no reproach in it, she having married a gentleman, a man of parts, and one who useth her worthily.—Asks Lord Yarmouth to send her his blessing and good wishes.

1678, Sept. 20th, London. Robert Paston to his father, Lord Yarmouth.—Being commanded to Stamford to view those quarters, he visited some of his friends; among them he waited upon Lord Westmoreland and my Lord Brudenell, where he met Lady Arundel and Lord Mountague, and my Lady Northumberland.—We were very merry, and danced till daylight. My cousin Ralph Mountague stands in my late Lord O'Brien's place for Northampton, and tho' my Lord Treasurer does endeavour to set up another, it is believed he will carry it. . . . I have to give my Lord Plimouth joy, who was this day semnight married at Wimbeldon very privately; his settlements are yet to make, for there is but 4,000*l.* a year more yet given him, which is out of the Excise; he has his apartment at the Cockpit, and lies it out every day till 12 o'clock. The Parliament is prorogued till the 21st of the next month, till which time the King intends to pass his time at Newmarket. Here is no news stirring since the peace is disclosed.

1678, Sept. 24th, Westminster.—John Fisher to Lord Yarmouth.—Acquaints him that the Parliament is to be prorogued again to the 21st of Oct., which will be acceptable to them that resolve not to set out till next week, but some that are upon the road already will be very angry at it, as much as Mr. Mallet, who hath at least found a way into the Tower. I suppose the Queen is come to Town, and we expect the King to-morrow, and to go to Newmarket next week. We kill Parliament men here every day; amongst them Sir Jo. Holland and Mr. Crouch are said to be dead, and I could name you the men appointed to succeed them, but they are a pair of old conjurors that write and walk after they are dead; but Sir Kingsmill Lucy of Andover is passed it in earnest. We hope by the meeting the mutual ratifications will be exchanged betwixt France and Spain, and the Flanders Towns evacuated by the French, and our men in them, whose appearance there hath certainly brought on the peace, and obtained better terms for Spain than otherwise they could have got for themselves, &c.

1678, Oct. 9th, Quidenham. Sir J. Holland to Lord Yarmouth.—Presumes he is now busied in the execution directed by letters from the Lords of the Council to all Lieutenants in England touching the search and disarming of the Papists upon the detection of a plot designed to have been executed by some of that persuasion against the life of the King.—Is sorry for some friends of that persuasion who are like to be involved in the ill consequences.—I hear Mr. Colman, who was at first but secured in a messenger's hand, hath been since committed to prison (it is said) upon some discoveries made by some papers found in his closet upon search. . . . If we hear of no further prorogation very suddenly I shall prepare to set out from hence towards Westminster upon Monday sevennight, where what noise and work the relation of this plot will make we must expect, but I hear as yet there is but one witness in the case which may be sufficient evidence in Parliament, tho' not at the Bar in Westminster Hall.

1678, Oct. 17th, Westminster. John Fisher to Lord Yarmouth.—His Majesty got safe hither yesterday by two at afternoon, and the Duchess, &c. by 10 at night. No Sir Edm. is found yet, some will have him spirited, others say he is married to Mrs. Offley the lawyer's widow, which the Duke of Norfolk had the fortune to hear from a cabinet maker near him, and speaking of it at Court was sent for up to the Council, and from thence went back to the cabinet makers again to inquire better into it, but the cabinet man could not make it out, nor the widow own it. The ratification of the Peace have not found the way yet from Madrid to Nimequen, so that the French stick still in their old quarters, but are providing themselves new not far off and some into the Duke of Brand[en]burg's, country that may prove as bad for England, Holland, Spain, and Germany, as where they now are, as you may please to read in the Gazette. . . . I think the Council have drawn up an Abstract of their discoveries touching the plot and presented them to his Majesty that they may be considered of how to proceed thereon before, and in the Parliament which holds, as is supposed on Monday, though some think there may be some short adjournment till the holidays that happen in the end of this and beginning of the next month be over, and that the house be full to communicate to them the great affairs both at home and abroad.

1678, Oct. 15th, Westminster. The same to the same.—Hears of Lord Yarmouth's having taken orders for disarming the popish recusants in his country.—Here has been much inquiring and searching for Sir Edmond-bury Godfrey these three days, and nobody can find him. He went out on Saturday in the forenoon, and said he would come in at dinner, but was never seen since, and his brother and servants were to day at the Committee of the Council making relation thereof there, and complaining they believed some of the popish party had made away with him because he was the Justice that took the first examinations touching this discovery of the Plot, upon which they have been so many since accused; but I hear he was observed to be melancholy and much discomposed a day or two before, so that what is become of him God knows. We almost thought we had lost the Duchess, and the rest of the Lords and Ladies that went to sea, but now we hear they got over safe the next day after they went abroad, and were ready to return again on Sunday or yesterday, or as soon as the wind will serve. Now the town begins to fill again. The Duchess of Mazarine lay on Friday night at Audlyend, in her return from Newmarket, and I saw the Duchess of Portsmouth alight out of her coach this evening, and her train from Wilton; and we expect his Majesty and the Court here to-morrow by noon. Several foreign packets came together to day, and the ratification of the Peace not being come from Spain, the French will not evacuate the Flanders towns, and excuse themselves hereby from delivering Maestricht, and take this opportunity to send an army into the country of Juliers for winter quarters, and the other about Triers.—Mr. Sackville died last week of the malignant fever he brought with him out of Flanders.

1678, Nov. 3rd, o.s., Frankfort. Will. Aglionby to the Honourable William Paston at his house in Swallow Street, beyond Piccadilly.—The calumny has done him (Aglionby) no injury with the Ambassador. Says he is now accused of being a papist, and that in order to relieve the Ambassador from annoyance, and until he can issue his own printed apology, he intends to visit some of the German Courts, for which he has obtained the Ambassador's leave, who wishes to end his embassy and will (Aglionby thinks) be in England in three weeks. Says he narrowly escaped being taken by a party of Lunebourg horse.

1678, Dec. 7th. Return made on a reference (dated 5th December) from the Commissioners of Customs of Mr. John Blakes petition.—The referees Mr. Cawson, Mr. Brewer, and Mr. Dickenson, certifying that when Lord Yarmouth's Patent was passed the Customs were in farm, and it was adjusted between the farmers and Lord Yarmouth what was in grant to them respectively, and that the arrangement was not such as is stated in the petition. They say that hoops, shovels, and trays were never put to Lord Yarmouth's account, and that rims for sieves, and oars, and rods, canes, and cask are considered as unwrought wood and the customs thereof are answered to Lord Yarmouths farm.

1678, Dec. 13th.—Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—. . . I received yesterday this letter from the Lord Chancellor of which I send the copy, pray find a means if possible by my son Robin, at least to speak with Mr. Harris, my Lord Chancellor's chief gentleman and instruct me by the next post what I am to do, and accordingly I shall send up Mr. Doughty and some other witness to attest. I cannot come in person, which I think would at the present cost me my life to perform, I cannot wonder at the implacable malice of

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

Sir John, having had so many evidences of it which has ever outrun the reasons of my jealousy. God forgive him I pray God grant me a Christian charity towards him and no farther . . . Mentions Lord Townshend's failing health. (A melancholy letter.)

1678, Dec. 16th. The same to the same.— . . . My Lord Bishop of Norwich is mighty troubled, that he cannot go up, I believe we shall agree to-morrow to send one a piece that may vouch for both of us on Thursday, after I have received your letters; but to-morrow I send Mr. Doughty to talk with his Lordship.

1678, Dec. 18th. The same to the same.— . . . I have consulted myself about writing to Sir John whose proceedings must needs seem abominable to those that take the advantages of his treachery, but I defer it yet not being resolved which way to methodize my detestation of him, but think to express it in a letter to Mr. Henshaw to shew him, but will respite it till I receive your answer. . . . Upon consulting the Bishop who sends his Chaplain and Secretary up to-morrow, I send with them Mr. Peckover and Mr. Doughty, not thinking it fit to stay for more advice, and am sorry therefore I put you to the trouble of speaking either to my Lord Chancellor or Mr. Harris, I have written by Mr. Doughty to my Lord Chancellor and sent you the copy of my letter by him.—Asks her to be kind to Mr. Doughty, and to find a corner in her lodgings for him and Mr. Peckover . . . P. S. I am like Sir Martin Marall—I can never have done.

1678, Dec. 18th. Will. Paston to Lord Yarmouth.—This night has produced great matters; though tired and weary as I am, I could not omit the letting your Lordship know for we rise not till near 10 o'clock this night. Just as we adjourned this day about one, we had a message delivered by the Chancellor of the Exchequer that his Majesty did order him to acquaint the house that the King had received information that Mr. Mountagu when he was Ambassador in France had had private conferences with the Pope's Nuncio, without any such instructions from his Majesty, and that the King might have a fuller account of that matter had caused his papers to be seized. The House did at first say 'twas a breach of privilege and several other things; at length ordered that five or six members should attend the King to know whether his Majesty had received the information upon oath, and whether the matter was criminal; they went to the House of Lords to wait of his Majesty, who returned them this answer, that he had much business and desired they would come to him at Whitehall. As soon as this was reported to the House, Mr. Mountagu stood up and made a speech, the conclusion was that he had matters of great importance to inform the house, and desired they would appoint a day; several desired it might be immediately, and it was ordered that four members should go and fetch the papers presently, who accordingly did, for it seems it had information that his papers would be seized and so remove them. Two letters he produced under my Lord Treasurer's own hand to him in France, which the house did think fit to bring in an impeachment against my Lord Treasurer, a previous question was put, and it was carried by near 60 voices, the noes were 116 and ayes were 179 that were for an impeachment.

1678, January 10th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.— . . . I had a most kind letter from Mr. Henshaw as ever man had, in which he acquaints me that he is marrying his daughter at last to the man she refused; and that he doth abhor the horrid action of Sir John in shewing that letter on so unjust a point of revenge where he had been so much obliged, which he saith Sir John will speedily find will make even those eschew him whom he thought to have gained by it (indeed I cannot but admire you should in passion or in any other way write anything to him not fit for a market cross.) I hope its his last shock, though by the enclosed you'll see his impudence in writing to me, and it's fit very counsel should presently be advised in for the man is bent on mischief.

1678, January 13th. The same to the same.— . . . Pray desire Dr. — that I may see Dr. Anthonies book* which I have not and I would be glad to go to work to make it if I could tell how to do it well . . . P. S. Pray get Don to put me in the way to make some Aurum potable. I have good receipts myself, and this man can be no more a conjuror than other men. Tell Dr. Gooddall that Angelus Taba pretends to set down Dr. Anthonies receipt of the Aurum potable as well as other receipts of it.

* Dr. Francis Anthony published two volumes (in Latin) on Aurum Potabile, one in 1610, and the other in 1616. See Laundon's Bibliographer's Manual.

1678, Jan^y 16, Whitehall (copy). Secretary Williamson to Lord Yarmouth.—Has received his letter inclosing the list of his Militia, which he will not fail to represent to his Majesty.

1678, Jan^y 17th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.— . . . Here was yesterday with me L. C. Harbord. . . . I told him you had visited my Lady Kilmurray to condole the loss of her sister; his brother Will. Harbord has been with him, and at Gunton, and at Yarmouth, endeavouring to have gone beyond sea, so afraid he is of being taken, and I do believe he is now privily at Gunton, he is an odd blade, and not of his eldest brothers temper. . . . I had a letter yesterday from Secretary Williamson to desire me forthwith in his Majestys name to transmit by his hands a list of all the Militia in Norfolk which shall be as speedily performed as I can. My Lord Chief Baron and his Lady oblige me most extraordinarily in their civilities to you, pray return them my most particular thanks, and find a way to make my Lord of Salesbury a compliment from me for his favour of enquiring after me.

1678, Jan^y 20th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.— . . . Since my last here has been Col. Knyvett and Captain and young Bedingfeld, and Goldwell; they dined here on Friday; on Saturday night came in Mr. Ost, and with him Mr. Linstead of Lynn; we had much discourse about the next election in which there will be no dispute against the Mayor: one Capt. Turner, a very great friend of mine, he offers at least in compliment his interest to Mr. Ost, who absolutely at the present refuseth meddling with it, and the Mayor has sent me a compliment that whosoever I will nominate shall have his interest (but this must not be known), so we have agreed that if neither the Mayor nor Mr. Ost stand to make way for Sir Neville Catlyn, but I believe the fear of the expense will make him accord it, I shall have an account on Wednesday night from Mr. Ost and Mr. Linstead, and then I shall be able to say more, but Taylor will stand and certainly come in against any but the Mayor or his interest; they are gone away this morning.

1678, Jan^y 31st. John Gough to Lady Yarmouth.—He says that Sir Neville Catlyn resolves to stand and there is not much doubt but Sir Christopher Calthorpe will do the like who was yesterday sent after into Suffolk and desired to meet the gentlemen of the County at Norwich to-morrow. This morning his Lordship has been sending messengers with letters to the Militia officers to desire their concurrence with him in the election of the above-mentioned persons . . . Sir J. Hobart resolves to stand and Mr. Windham labours for him, they have done so much as to set the fanatic party already bawling, and yesterday at Northwalsam the cry for Hobart was very rife. I had a most kind letter from Sir Charles Harbord, which I have answered this post and enclosed to Mr. Fisher. I have sent to know when my cousin Coke's body comes down, that I may send my coach to perform my last civility to him. . . . I am sorry for the fate of my poor cousin Coke, who as you say has had little joy in his match, and things are now in a distracted posture; everybody fearing to lose their money, and Lynn 4,000*l*. behind hand though 6,000*l*. has been paid. My Lady Anne is a fine young widow and will presently repair her loss.

1678, Jan^y 16th, Whitehall (copy). Secretary Williamson to Lord Yarmouth.—Has received his letter enclosing the list of his Militia which he will not fail to represent to his Majesty.

1678, Jan. 31st, Oxnead. Jo. Doughty to Coll. Paston.— . . . Thinks he ought to be at the County election, and that he should arrange to be at Thetford on Friday night, so as to dine at the Club at Norwich the next day. His presence must be extremely useful and considerable in this juncture both for the effect which is desired as also for the acquainting himself with the country gentlemen. He hears all art and industry is used by the Sir Johns that is possible and therefore must be countermined by all endeavours. . . .

1678, Feb. 4th, Oxnead. Lord Yarmouth to ———.—He understands that there is a great interest making for setting up of persons for the Knights of the Shire, without acquainting him, thinks it ought not to be without his knowledge. Sir Christopher Calthorpe and Sir Neville Catlyn being persons of undoubted loyalty and worth having declared their intention to stand for this County, he (Lord Yarmouth) has engaged all his interest to promote their election.

1678, Feb. 8th. (Sir) Christopher Calthorpe to Lord Yarmouth.—Thanks for the assistance which Lord Yarmouth gave.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

1678, Feb. 12th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—I hope just as I am writing to you, you are reading the short news of our victory, tho' some hundreds of people that had given their votes of our friends were out of town in despair, of which I presume you found Mr. Goughs letter of. So great was the impudence of the rabble of the other party, not countenanced by one gentleman in the country, but Wyndham, Rookwood, and Earle, which is none: all the gentry were most unanimous and all the others; surprising tricks and falsehoods failed them. Sir Christopher had 2,243, Sir Neville, 2,242, and Sir John, 1,733, of which many were persons excommunicated, and some others that polled two or three times over as we suspect. I shall to-morrow have a copy of the Poll from the Sheriff. Your son who behaved himself mighty well we think most sure on Monday, but who will be the other is uncertain. . . . We hear strange news of Sir Joseph Williamson being out of his place, and my lord of Sunderland in. I hope what I have written was to a Secretary of State that will not make my letters a may-game. . . .

1678, Feb. 17th, Norwich. J. Hildeyard to Lady Yarmouth.—Last Monday's success, after such stratagems and artifices to prevent us, gave us a fair promise of our success on this day.—Gives an account of the whole day's proceedings and the return of Coll. Paston.

1678, Feb. The same to the same.—A long account of the return of Sir Christopher Calthorp and Sir Neville Catelyne as Knights of the Shire.

1678, Feb. 19th. Lord Yarmouth to his wife.—I only borrow time to write a word, having twenty or thirty gentlemen that comes to take their leave of your son, here is the Duke of York's officers, and Sir Harrie Littleton's brother, who commands the regiment now quartered in Norwich. You have had so particular an account of the honour done your son at Norwich that I'll say no more of it, for you'll have the relation from himself on Saturday night, for he and Robin go from hence to-morrow.

1678, Feb. 21st. The same to the same.—I do receive the consolation for your fears of my sons losing his election the better because I know before this time you understand you were more afraid than hurt, and I think England cannot shew the like circumstances twice together in one place. I wish all Countys were like ours, which I fear they will not be; I am sure those I hear of are not. . . . I am glad those elections are so well over; they are the most troublesome things in nature, and the most vexatious, tho' a man gets the better as I have done in all points. . . . My Cousin Peregrine Bertie and my Cousin Charles are returned from Stanford, where I am sorry to hear things goes so cross. I have told my son that even in the few days before the Parliament, if our business be not advanced, then thousand delays will then protract it, therefore the push must be made home, not to stay on long dependances which is worse than a speedy denial: my son is a very solid young blade and understands matters with a quick intelligence, but I hope I may hear to-morrow that the reference to Sir Charles Harbord is gotten, unless Mr. Brent (who is not to be offended) for several reasons should think that any other attendant on that affair is a diminution of his province. I thought the business of Sir Robert Howard had been dead, because till the last in some letters before you had said nothing of it. Pray speak well of Sir John Holland for he is very civil to us. How Yarmouth election went yesterday Mr. Doughty from thence will write you word. . . . Sir William Rant came to see my son just as he was gone, who has lost a friend at Blecking and at Falbrigg for this bout of the election. I think it would not be amiss for my son to go make a visit to the Duke of Norfolk before he goes away to know how we may serve him here in his absence.

1678, Feb. 24th. The same to the same.— . . . My Lord Treasurer's putting on the backside our petition, that it was given him by the King's own hand, was I suppose intended as a mark of favour, pray God it may answer the tenth part of my son's expectations, either in value or in any time to do us good. . . . I am sure some effects of the King's kindness would cure me; but the dispensations I live under I cannot overcome the trouble of. Coventry and Huntingdon are chosen at Yarmouth, Sir Joseph and Harbord will be for Thetford this day, as its more than presumed. Alderman Briggs dined here the other day, who is extraordinary civil to me, and has shewn it to your son, who might have without doubt have carried it for any other if he had but proposed it, for never any man was more a darling of the City, and some are pleased to say so of the country too. I am very glad to hear you fancy the King has an eye on the prebendaries, for I doubt this Parliament by the choice we hear of in other places, will consist of those from whom the King can expect no great matters. . . . I hope his Majesty will do my family some right in his long deferred promise, and I could wish my daughter Paston were made sensible of her own interest even to demand it of the King; for that which he forgets to others, its hard he should prolong at so tedious a rate to those so near him; I hinted these things to my son, but I think he did not much apprehend it.

A 4to. volume of original letters by various persons to Ralph Palmer of the Middle Temple and of Chelsea. The binding is of red morocco, with broad gilt tooling round the margins of each side, and is lettered "Original Letters," Vol. II. Inside the cover is the Book plate (armorial) of Earl Verney.

RED BOOK.

"Letters learned, friendly, or entertaining, on various subjects, from and to friends whose conversation and correspondence have been valuable on many accounts; rescued from oblivion and destruction, with some other pieces not incurious, as characters, epitaphs, inscriptions, &c."

(All the letters, except two or three, are addressed to Ralph Palmer, Esq., at Little Chelsea. One is addressed to him at his Chambers in the Middle Temple.)

Letters from Arthur Charlett, "Master of University College in Oxford, once fellow of Trinity, and designed my (Ralph Palmer) Tutor, but obstructed by his Proctorship in the year 1683."

1690, Dec. 29th, Oxford. To Ralph Palmer, of Little Chelsey, near London.—I have sent you a Poem lately reprinted by Dr. Bathurst, which is intended as a specimen of a collection of the more considerable copies, published in the two Universities at several times. I desire you to present the other to Mr. Chambers or Sir Thos. Trollop. Our Antiquary Mr. Woods is at last prevailed with to part with his copy, which has been the effect of 30 years indefatigable labour of industry, and will be a very exact and correct history of most of our English Authors, and is very worthy of encouragement of such that delight in Antiquities of that nature The Manuscript of Dr. Hamy's which you sometime lent me, would have been very useful to such an undertaking. We were extremely afflicted at the news of Mr. Newton's death, &c.

1705, Janry. 26th, University College.—Is glad to renew his acquaintance with Palmer. "The catalogue of MSS. was chiefly under my inspection, as the care and pains were Dr. Gibson and Mr. Wanley. Your catalogue I have delivered to Dr. Hudson, who will see it entered according to your mind, as a testimony of your regard in general to good learning and in particular to the Bodleian Library. That noble library has received the greatest accession from gentlemen of the Long Robe of your profession; that of the famous Selden being given by the executors Vaughan and Hales, both L.C.J."

Small 4to. 2 leaves. On the first is the Title, "Mensa " Lubrica Anglice Shovel Board, in gratiam Nobiliss. " Dom. Eduardi Herbert Baronis de Cherburg, lusit " Thomas Masters, Nov. Coll. Oxon. olim Socius, A.D. " circiter 1636."—The poem is of 63 Latin hexameters.

Begins,
"Roboreus longo se porrigit aequore Campus Adsimilis Menso, crebro tibicine fultus."

Ends,
"Hoc ego nec Manibus doctus, nec ludere Musi Docte BARO, expressi, te fretus Apolline, versus."

127³, Bath, St. Pauls.— . . . As for that unlucky unhappy ludicrous inversion of the healths, I do heartily concur with you in acquitting him of any sinister or malignant intention, but cannot forbear remembering Horace's judicious censure of such scurrilous jests, Hæ mugis seria ducunt in mala.

(Note by Palmer.—This was at a public entertainment at the College of Physicians on a St. Luke's Day, where Sir Hans Sloane, president, there began an health to all their sick patients recovery, Dr. Cade pledging it in his turn said jocularly, that all that were sick might be well, and all that were well might be sick, and before the next St. Luke's Day Dr. Cade himself died.)

1720, Dec. 31, Saturday, Bath.— . . . Our cotemporarys go apace; Dr. Cade was one, and I begin to be left alone; and his in vain to expect any recruits, from young gentlemen, of friendships; and nothing so despicable or forlorn as a man without a wife or child. 'Tis a warfare without allies.

SIR
H. INGLEY,
BART.

SIR INGLEY,
BART.

n.d. (received Nov. 7.) . . . Says he is without any complaints or vapours, without fever, stone or cholic; no gout in feet, but some rheumatic symptoms that may be called a Chiragra will cause him to repeat his visit to Bath about St. Andrew.

1721, March 28th, University College, Oxford. The same to the same.—He deferred answering Palmer's letter (received at Bath), hoping to make him a visit whilst on his journey into Kent on public business and public charity. He only staid Sunday in London & hasted home without seeing the Court of Requests, any one member of either house or what he had the most mind to see, the Duke of Bucks monument on Mr. Dryden in the Abbey. Since his return, it fell to his share to propose last Wednesday to their Convocation thanks to the Earl of Northampton ob Fidem Christianam firmissime doctissime que vindicandam, and to Francis Lord Bishop of Chester quod summ. gradibus Academicis jus et Dignitatem plenissime asseruit; this latter case is humbly presented to you, this day by Godfrey's Oxford Waggon in hopes you will be pleased to peruse it.

(With this letter are copies of the questions in Latin to the Convocation whether they would thank the Earl of Nottingham for "The Answer of the Earl of Nottingham to Mr. Whiston's letter to him concerning the eternity of the Son of God and of the Holy Ghost. "London, 1721," and also to Francis Bishop of Chester for "The Bishop of Chester's Case with relation to the Wardenship of Manchester: in which is shewn that no other degree but such as are taken in the "University can be deemed legal qualifications for any "Ecclesiastical preferment in England." Oxford, printed at the Theater, 1721. And whether Robert Shippen the V.C. with the burgesses of the Academy should go & thank the Authors.

1721, March 30, Chelsea.—Copy of Latin letter by Palmer to Dr. Charlett expressing his gratification at the efforts of the Earl of Nottingham and the Bishop of Chester.

1696, March 38th, Rome.—Octav. Pulleyn to Ralph Palmer. (Indorsed by him. "An humorous Letter from Rome.")—I write to an honest Friar a friend of young Sir John's, to know whether a man may not lie to save himself, or a friend upon an extraordinary occasion. He sends me word Philocides, Epictetus, and other old musty Moralists are against it; but that our more refined modern Casuists allow it, provided it be done cleanly, that is not to be discovered, and this I remit to your consideration.—Thanks Palmer for his incomparable letter, hopes he does not expect an answer;—"but in what I am able that you shall have, viz. "Sir R. S. compliment to his Majesty for coming to "lye at his house, as many thanks as will lye between the two poles, if he had said as many as will make "ye laugh, it had been right.—This end of Lent is a wofull time with us; there's sighing in the chamber, crying in the chairs, and whipping in the streets, the Confessors are full of business, this is their fair time, I believe this institution was not from the Gospels but from the Old Poet,—Scire volunt secreta Domus atque inde timeri, &c. There's many a sad tale told now and many a good one lost by sinking in bad hands, &c."

1700, Jan, 2nd, n.s. Nell' anno santo (1700), Rome.—Anthony Cope to Moses Goodyear at Chelsey super Punch.— . . . Faith, Moses t'would have made you laugh to have seen this solemn show of nonsense; how gravely the monks walk in procession to make folks believe theres something in it, and to see the strange effect of this church militant who ride the people more than their beasts; and last of all Cardinal Bouillon, the Pope's Vicegerent in the affair, to see him march up to St. Peter's in a procession of the sacred College, where after a few blasphemous sentences, as I'm told for I could not hear, and three thumps with a golden hammer, the door flys open, the people hollowing and crowding for relics, but more for medals: the show ends with the report of several cannons . . . The old Bearkeeper is arrived here at last (with my Lord Ex.) who is still as gay as ever.

1637, May 20th, n.s. From the Hague. The same to the same.—Don Radolpho Padrone mio Colendissimo.— . . . Being landed at Rotterdam with my Lord P. and 14 or 15 more Plenepots, we were scattered about the town in several parties; the next morning those of my troop and myself went & saw what was remarkable in the town, and after dinner we passed through Delf, and so came to the Hague at night, where we found a great Fair and abundance of Dutch Drolls done to the life, much exceeding those painted ones you find at the Auctions in Westminster Hall; but without rallery we had like to have lain in the street; for the King being here with a great Train of Domestics and officers, together with Plenepots from all parts, of Germany, Lodgings were very scarce; so that we were forced to pig two together in a cupboard, for the beds here in public houses are no better, for two nights; the next day after, I got into a private lodging, and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, being the opening of the treaty of Peace, I went to Reisweik, the place appointed for the same, where I observed they had contrived 3 several ways to enter the house, the middle way being for the Mediator, and each side for the allies and French, so that they may avoid all disputes upon that account. The result of this first conference (as well as I can learn) was only to settle the time for the future meetings, which is to be three times a week, and exchanging their credentials. There has been no public entry since I have been here, neither is his Excellency my Lord P. come to his house yet, which will not be ready for him this week, so that the English Gentlemen will not wait on his Lordship in public till all equipage is ready. Then we shall make a tearing show, killing I'll warrant all the Ladys we meet, if young fellows embroidered and laced all over in Coach and six will do it, such as Beau Letton and his camarade Pheasant, who are now learning French every day amongst none but English to qualify themselves for the Assembly's and other public diversiments. . . . My Lord Villars has the handsomest equipage of all the Plenepots and makes the best figure; but we wait with impatience for Sir Jo. Williams; not that the Peace will be concluded the sooner, but that we may see his splendid Equipage, which furnishes discourse for all the Ordinaries and Coffee Houses in town. For a man here at this juncture has no manner of sense without an Equipage. Therefore pray represent the case to Sir Jo. Walter, the two Cooks of Norfolk and Darby with the rest of the City men about town, that they may come over here and show their parts for the honour of England as they call it, and then we need not doubt of a peate; I mean when we have spent all our money . . .

Catalogue of young Plenipo's:—

Mr. Onslow.	Mr. Thomson.
Mr. Ash.	Mr. Henley.
Mr. Mompesson.	Mr. Nicklice.
Mr. Bennett.	Mr. Fines.
Mr. Hardres.	Mr. Ginder.
Mr. Dunce.	Mr. Letton.
Mr. Parkhurst.	Mr. Pheasant.
Mr. Sherley.

—Signor Ziani had a good concert of his own composition.

1705, July 14th. B. Buckenridge to Ralph Palmer, enclosing some verses he has written "On Her Majesty's Grant of Woodstock to his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, 1704. In a letter to Sig^r. Antonio Verrio "at Hampton Court."

Begins,

"Woodstock her Lov'd Plantagenet no more,

"Shall mourn when Marlbr'ough shall her fate restore."

Ends,

"Haste to the rising and the setting sun."

(35 lines).

1706, Nov. 8th, o.s. From on board the William and Mary in Lisbon River. Jere Bird to his cousin Ralph Palmer.— . . . First I must tell you the Devil has fixt so good a colony of priests and friars who continually labour in his service, that he has no need of those allurements of luxury & pleasure which he generally deludes those who are better furnished with sense and less with credulity; priest craft reigns, Ignorance thrives, & Religion is the stalking horse; a sandbag over their heads, a rusty garment, a large Cat of nine tails, a great deal of impudence, & a great pair of clogs, is the composition of a Capuchin: thus equipped he begs alms to keep his coffers and avoids wearing breeches or stockings as a vanity which he can't swallow . . . The writer abuses the City and its male inhabitants for their dirt and the women for their ugliness: says that all the best fruit and wine is sent to England, every thing is so dear and bad that he lives upon ship provision. But for the prerogative of the Crown, the Kings the Jest; his chariot is drawn by six mules, and no one else makes use of ropes but his Majesty; his guard is a farrier and a cord twiner, so that his equipage is very

SIR
INGLEY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

scandalous ; his palace very ugly tho' large, and his nation in danger ; very proud and very ill humoured, he passes the streets with as little notice taken of him as he takes of anybody . . . Sends his good wishes to all the family at Chelsea, and those separated in Westminster, Claydon, and Ireland and elsewhere. Asks letters to be directed to him in Sir Charles Hotham's regiment in the army commanded by Lord Rivers.

Aug. 12. Fridericus Albrici to R. Palmer, Esq., junior. A short Latin letter to thank Mrs. P. for having recommended him to the Baroness Cave.

n.d. (1697). To Moses Goodyear.—Venice in its political division consists of three parts, the Castellani, the Nicolotti and the Senate. The latter maintains eternal feuds and emulation between the former, and every individual person is either of one side or the other. The names above said are from the parishes or precincts, where the line of separation runs. The senate gives leave to these two parties now and then to fight at cuffs, thereby to nourish the divisions and enmity betwixt 'em which are to that degree, that should there be any conspiracy against the State, it must be in one of the parties, who are sure to be opposed by the other, with whom the Senate joining, makes two against one. The Governor of Milan being come to the Ascension, the Senate to divert him gave leave for a battle between the parties above named, which was as follows:—At the Pont St. Bernaby, the usual place, both parties met on Sunday the 19th of May 1697, about three in the afternoon, not upon the bridge, but on the quay on each side of it. The bridge is an arch of about 10 foot broad and about the same height above the water ; over a canal about 18 foot without either rail and baluster or ledge on the sides of it. This is always free, no person presuming to crowd but to the foot of it. The combatants are generally ordinary tradesmen, journeymen, watermen, countrymen, servants, among which are mixt, they say, some monks and private persons of famed prowess. Upon the first step of each side the bridge stood two men of fashion. The judges, to see fair play, to decide controversy, men of experience and probity from whom no appeal. These having conferred together and agreed to the wonted rules, came to their posts, and then came two officers in purple Damask to the said judges to tell them the Senate had given leave and they might begin. Immediately up comes to the midst of the bridge a choice fellow, and in great haste puts off his waistcoat, his shirt, and his shoes ; wraps a large shash about his waist over the top of his drawers, puts on a glove on his right hand, then his cap, and his hair under it. His adversary does the same, they shake hands, and so fall too't in very good earnest. He that throws his man from the bridge into the water, gives three foyles, or fetches blood from his enemy, is proclaimed Victor by the judges, and has a shout from his party. This is noted down by writers on each side to be registered. Then came a fresh couple, in the same manner and do the same. The conqueror and conquered both retired to make way for others. No In West, for a 100 are striving who shall enter, and the judges admit those that they think are of a match, no striking when down, nor no rising blow to be given, nor bite nor scratch, but fairly fight and fall. And thus the entertainment held in a succession of 36 battles, wherein our party the Castellani were conquerors, and about 7 at even ended the first day. The next, about the same time and at the same place, they met again and fought, but not in the same manner, one against one, but in two large bodies about six in front, eight or ten deep, in close order as many as the bridge could hold. This is called the Flota. They come up each party fairly, and meet in the middle of the bridge, and there fight who shall be master of it, the success of which, like the event of war, was various ; for sometimes the Castellani won it, and sometimes the Nicolotti, and a dispute commonly lasted about half an hour very hot. That afternoon the bridge was won and lost four times ; for still fresh recruits of both sides strengthened and made the vanquished party rally, and regain lost honour, not without many bloody noses, broken pates and some legs and arms. The pleasure we had was to see distinctly all the particulars of this engagement and be out of it ; solacing ourselves with a bottle of precious wine at our window, observing this brave fellow in the blue waistcoat, what a lane he made where he came, and that other in the torn breeches, how he mowed em down, here fell half a dozen into the water altogether. There a dozen or a score in a clump plunging down over head and ears all at once. The Castellani creeping out on this side, the Nicolotti on that side ; then up upon the bridge again, and to't again helter skelter in sweat and wet, in pursuit of blood and revenge and victory, while they on that side hooted for their party, and we on our side for ours, shaking our hats and handkerchers for joy. Near us a crazy Balcony crackt, the men below scoured, the women squell'd, but no hurt, for it stood firm. On the other side a feeble Penthouse slipt and gently laid about a score down upon the heads and shoulders of those underneath without any great harm or mischief. Not far off the carcass of a Burcello (like a lighter) had a scaffold raised in it, and was presently filled by ordinary people, men and women that paid so much for a place. This being over charged we saw give way. Down it fell and spilt the people in it, some into the water who were presently pulled out, others, the greater number, into the boat (burcello). There was a confusion of heads and legs and arms and sides, and here and there a bare buttock (which the women were pleased to lift up) all struggling to get right. This scene gave our play a new name, and made it a Tragicomedy, everyone one laughing to see this jumble which entertained us with an odd sort of a comical variety. I thought of Maggots in an Anglers box, black head and white tails all in motion. That which added to our felicity was the fair Procuratoress Mocenigo sat just over against us, who not only discovered to us her face, the treasury of beauty, but shewed it us in all the changes that joy and sorrow and smile and serious and laugh could put it in ; and each had its peculiar charm ; shewed it us on this side and on that side, gave us sometimes a half face and sometimes a quarter face, and sometimes a half three quarter face, whereas any secret grace did lurk she kindly let us have all gratis ; she called for cool water and gracefully lapt it up, and at the same shewed her white arm, red lips, I should say shewed us ivory and curral and Pearl and Paradise—itts time to leave off when I tired my pen as well as you.

I am to stay at Padoua at my Dame Ursulas till Carnival next, and then home through France at Spring, if a peace be made : give my humble service to young Sir John and Lady and Don Antonio, &c. Forget me not at Salters at the next bowl.

Letters from William Salkeld (afterwards Serjeant-at-Law and a Welsh Judge) to Ralph Palmer.

n. y. Sept. 3rd (1 p.) and 18th (3½ pp.).—Adverse criticism on Dr. Wotton's "Reflections upon Ancient and Modern Learning." (Wotton's book was published in 1694. It was in opposition to Sir William Temple's book on the same subject.)

n. y. Sept. 22rd (6½ pp.).—He gives an account of his travels in Scotland. They went first to Berwick, where one foot upon England and 'o'other upon Scotland, they drank a health to the continuance of a firm and lasting union between the kingdoms ; thence to Dunbar, a seaport town wherein the granaries for corn and herring, which is the chief commodity of the place, were the finest and the greatest part of the town ; the other houses are all of them either ruinous or empty. This decay is so great and so general that he could not but observe it with compassion, and look upon it as a demonstration that the Kings of Scotland were gainers by the Union, the people were losers. The church here is remarkable for the Earl of Dunbar's monument, exceeding high and stately ; and for the churchyard, for 'tis the largest that he ever saw, full of monuments. This church is still in the possession of the Episcopal clergy, who are kept in by the power and interest of the Marquis of Tweeddale, and here there is a great congregation of such as adhere to the old Church establishment. But these in other places are forced to assemble in private meetings, and this it seems is a favour but lately allowed them ; formerly they could not meet at all ; a prohibition which the Presbyterians say was not upon difference of religion, but because the whole party are professed Jacobites, and doing allegiance to the present Government. Thus far and all along to Edinburgh they rid thro' open corn fields, flat plain and of rich soil without any trees hedges or inclosures to interrupt their prospect.—Describes the dirtiness of Edinburgh and the great height of the houses.—He visited the library there, and saw a Greek Testament which they had from Bishop Usher and reckon to be 1,400 years old.—He likewise saw a very fine Virgil in MS., ancient and of great authority. The four introductory lines to the first Eneid, Ille ego, &c. are here wanting, agreeable to Mr. Dryden's opinion, and against the opinion of Ruans, &c. He looked likewise after those verses which the critics suppose to have been left ; hemistiquies or broken

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

verses, by Virgil, and filled up after by officious readers; particularly for that of Dido, which Mr. Cowly would have Moriamur inulto? Sed moriamur ait without the addition Sic and Sic juvat ire sub umbras: but if this MS. is to be heeded, his opinion is only a correction of Virgil, shewing us what Virgil should be, rather than what he is.

1694, June 4th. [W. Salkeld] to R. Palmer.—A Latin letter thanking Palmer for his letter, and expressing gratification at the correspondence between them, but begging that for the future it may be in English.

1720, Jan^y. 14th. (Palmer's birthday.) A Latin letter by Ralph Palmer to the Rev. Dr. King, Rector of St. Luke's, Chelsea. (He sends a silver candlestick.) And a Latin letter of thanks by Dr. King of the same date.

1729, Feb. 4th, Upminster, near Romford. W. Derham* to Ralph Palmer.—Is concerned that Palmer's letter should have remained so long unanswered, but it came to him as he was setting out for London to meet his brethren of Windsor at the Lord Chancellor's about our Petit Canon's complaint, &c. He alludes to a pebble formerly belonging to Archbishop Land which Palmer had shewn to him.

At the back of the letter is a seal with "The Impression of the natural pebble formed by nature" "whereon the half moon is as perfect as it could be in Sculpture, and as bold."

1729, March 9th, Upminster. The same to the same.—Has recommended the observations he sent about pebbles to several curious persons, and mentioned it at a late meeting of the R. S. But there is one great mistake in your letter, which I desire the favour of you to correct. You say the A. Bp. found the specks all to vanish in warm weather, and in winter the white specks were apparent in the ring again. And soon after, you say, they always disappeared in summer and reappeared in winter afterwards. (Palmer has corrected it, formerly it was written winter where summer is, and vice versa.) I shall send this account to my friend Sir Tho. Dereham, at Rome.

Note by R. Palmer.—This Archbishop was Laud, who shewed this pebble to Dr. B. Hamey, who having missed the beautiful specks of the pebble which was set in a ring (for whose sake it was valued and set) flung the ring by as good for nothing, till lighting upon it by chance in his Scripture the next winter, he observed 'em to be returned again to his great surprise. This pebble was of the colour of oil olive, and the specks in it were white.

1733, Dec. 12th, London, Queen's Square. J. Richardson (junior) to Ralph Palmer. He has enquired concerning the stone that lost and recovered its spots, but those that are the most conversant in that sort of curiosity know of no such. That of Archbishop Laud is well known. A gentleman to whom he had applied told him that there is a stone which put in water will become transparent from opaque, and taken out would by degrees return opaque again. It is the Oculus Mundi. This seems to agree well enough with your conjecture concerning that of Abp. Land that you have so good authority for. Dr. Mead, when I told him the story, which he had not heard before, gave a very great character of Dr. Hamy. The other stone that hath that greasy quality I told you of is the Nephritick and common 1730, Nov. 6th, Windsor Castle. W. Derham to Ralph Palmer.—Since my answer to yours of Sept. 8, viz., Oct. 8, about 9.10 p.m. a circular appearance was in the Heavens, which I had not the fortune to see myself, but had it told me by the Duke of Newcastle and Lord Herbert, from whose account of it and their answering my queries, guessed it to be doubtless a Lunar Rainbow. . . . This phenomenon afforded a great deal of talk at the Drawing Room, where her Majesty called me to give my opinion, &c. about it. . . . I have lately been looking over some curious papers, among which I find one of Dr. Hooke's about a N.E. Passage to China, which I think worth communicating to the R.S., but I believe it may be improved by the Journals of curious Travellers.—Asks if in the course of his reading he has met with any particulars in this way, if so, he will please to impart them to him.

An abusive epitaph on the French King writ by an Abbott, for which he was broke upon the wheel, in the year 1697. Latin (49 lines).

Begins, "Siste gradum Viator."

Ends, "Triumphate simul et Miseremini."

Pasquin's (short Latin) Epitaph on the Death of King James II. 1701.

1731, July 17th, Upminster, near Romford. W. Derham to Ralph Palmer.—I return thanks for the copy of the coin, which I doubt not is Saxon, but of what person I see not letters enough to guess.—Sends the inscription of an altar of stone dug up at Dorchester in Oxfordshire in June last, as they were digging a sawpit behind the Red Lion Inn.—Some of his Essex friends coming from Oxford at that time transcribed it, and gave it to him at Windsor; he showed it to Sir Hans Sloane and other virtuoso's as he passed through London, one of which said he had seen a transcript of it.—(Palmer has placed on the letter impressions in sealing wax of the coins; one is of Richard I.)

1732, May 10th, Upminster. The same to the same.—This letter relates to a Portugal Lady, who as twas delivered in the Historia Literaria N. 11, 1731, could see thro' solida, as if transparent; where the account is given of her from an History of Portugal printed at Paris in 1730.—(Note by R. Palmer on the back of the letter.)

1732, Nov. 25th, Windsor Castle. The same to the same.—Sends some observations he has made of the Nebulops or Nebulous Stars, with his excellent 8 foot reflecting telescope.

1733, April 11th, Windsor Castle. The same to the same.—Thanks for the Poem you sent me inscribed to Mr. Lympny, which no doubt he, as well as I, thought equivalent to his generous gift. . . . The reason of my not writing sooner was my being taken up with proving the Darkness which Phlegon and other Heathen Historians give an account of to have happened in the 202nd Olympiad was no natural Eclipse of the Sun, but Preternatural Darkness the same that was at Christ's Passion, which Dr. Sykes hath of late endeavoured to discard the evidence of; I have no intent to print what I have written, because others have answered the Dr.

An Extract indorsed.—This came out of the library of Mr. Berbur of Adderbury, in Oxfordshire; how it came there is unknown, possibly 'twas transcribed out of some manuscript in the Abbey of Whithy.

In 5 H. II. Wm. de Bruce Lord of Uggelburny, Ralph de Percy Lord of Succaton and a freeholder called Allarton were hunting the wild boar, which took refuge in a hermit's cell in Eskdaleside and died. They coming up thought the hermit had killed the boar; so they slew him. Then they took Sanctuary at Scarborough; but the Abbat being in favour with the King, removed them out of Sanctuary, so that they were in fear of the punishment of the Law. The hermit on his death bed sent for them, and obtained the Abbat's pardon, on condition that they should hold their lands of the Abbat of Whithy and his successors, and do certain service (set out) on Ascension Day in every year.

1733, Oct. 10th, Bath. Wm. Derham to R. Palmer.—Cannot answer the philosophical part of Palmer's letter of the 4th until more Bath water has warmed his blood. . . . He has been weakened of a perpetual loss of appetite.

A copy of Pope's letter to Atterbury, Bishop of Rochester, when banished.

1731, Nov. 23rd, Paris.—Copy of a letter from the late Bishop Atterbury to Mr. Pope.

1730, June 12th, Magdalen College. Edward Butler to Ralph Palmer.—I return you my hearty thanks for the good office you have done us in being the first mover in an affair with Sir Hans Sloane, which may end in very considerable advantages to the University. I will write to Sir Hans in a few posts on the subject. . . . I am unacquainted with the best Painters, and should otherwise apply to your judgment for the recommending one on the occasion, for which trouble I forbear making any apology, &c.

1730, June 23rd, Magdalen College. The same to the same.—I think myself obliged to acquaint you with the success I have had with Sir Hans Sloane in relation to his picture, and to repeat my thanks to you for your assistance in it, by whose means the way to the obtaining this favour was opened, and to which our success is in a good measure owing. I received a very handsome and kind letter from Sir Hans, in answer to mine, in which I requested his consent for the sitting for his picture, in which he desires our accept-

SIR
H. INGILBY,
BART.

* Palmer has written on the back of the letter, "This is that worthy, learned, and able Divine, most excellent Philosopher, and more particularly Astronomer, Dr. Derham, who was Canon of Windsor and Rector of Upminster, in Essex, author of those learned pieces, his Physico-Theology and Astro-Theology, which have been rendered into all the European languages almost."

ance of it, and promises in a little time to furnish our Museum with some of his curiosities. He offered to get the picture done by the best hand, unless I would direct him to a particular painter; I thought it most advisable, in my answer of thanks, to submit the choice of the person to himself.

1730, Oct. 30th, Magdalen College. The same to the same.—Thanks for this repeated instance of your regard to us in giving such constant attendance to Mr. Richardson's performance, who is a man of that eminence in his way, that I am persuaded his work will need little apology.—I hope to be able to wait upon Sir Hans Sloane in a month's time and then acknowledge in person the great regard he has shewn to our University.

1730, Dec. 4th, Boswell Court. The same to the same.—I have considered the manner in which you proposed Sir Hans should be complimented by the University for the present he makes them of his picture founded upon the practise of other Universities, particularly that of Leyden; but I am apprehensive an objection may arise from the different method observed in ours, who I believe have acknowledged favours of this sort, such as are my Lord Pembroke's Statue, the Duchess of Marlborough's Bust, with others I can name, by a letter of thanks from the Vice-Chancellor only. We take care to register all our benefactions; and equal they rise in their value, or are made by people of equal consideration with Sir Hans, we illuminate those entries and mention them with a particular compliment in Latin in the register, &c.

1730, January 16th, Magdalen College. The same to the same.—I have the pleasure to acquaint you that Sir Hans Sloane's picture came safe hither, and is placed in the first walk in our gallery on the left hand with Dr. Wallis, a full length drawn in scarlet on one hand; on the other side of the Dr. is placed a good three quarter's piece of Hevelius, to answer which on the other side of Sir Hans is placed a three quarter's piece of Dr. Halley; next to whom, as his old acquaintance, I am informed Sir Hans was inclined to have his picture put.

1730, June 26th. Jonathan Richardson to Ralph Palmer.—... My prizes (prices) are 70, 40, and 20 guineas.

1732, May 12th, Chelsea. Ralph Palmer to Edward Butler, Magdalen College, Oxford. (Latin).—Sends a copy of a portrait by Vandyck of his great uncle Baldwin Hamey, M.D. (anno ætatis 38) to be placed among the other worthies of the University. He gives a short account of Hamey and his father and their ancestry.

Copy of a Prayer of the Lord Stafford's at his execution. (At the end in Palmer's writing, "Given me by Moses Goodyear, Esq., who stood by him at his execution for being in the Popish plot in King Charles the 2nd's reign.")

1713, Feb. 5th, o.s., Utrecht. P. Bertie to (Ralph Palmer).—The proposals given in by the French on the 31st, o.s., &c., being sent into England the next day, you must have been in print. I believe there was nothing transacted but matters preparatory; but the publication of these offers has amused the world here as much as they must do everybody when they are published in England. At Amsterdam, where they are averse to any peace, I'm afraid the English will be in no small danger of insults; but all people agree that they are the most trifling and dishonourable that were ever offered by a State that had been beaten for 10 years successively; some lay wagers that the English have made a separate peace, and insinuate that when they have taken care of themselves they will give themselves no trouble to secure the interests of the allies; but the soberer sort, who have better opinions of our sincerity, give us to understand that they think us weak enough to be bubbled by the French King's bond fide, which means nothing else but a trick to break the alliance, or to retard our preparations. For my own part I'm very well pleased with an observation of my Lord's, which would naturally occur to any one who considers the nature of a Treaty, that the French act like persons who are driving a bargain, bid much less at first than they design to give; and I hope they will pay as dear at last as those commonly do who desire to purchase. Count Zinzendorf and the Portuguese Minister have left us, 'tis thought as a mark of their resentment; but we conclude all these difficulties will be cleared up when Her Majesty sends her answer to these, with the addition of her own demands, from whence we may easily guess at the success of the Treaty. . . . The Magistrates have complimented the Bishop with one of the Churches, where we go in great state, attended by a considerable mob, who most of them more out of respect to his Lordship than his religion stay uncovered during the service, which is more singular because they never do so in their own.

1731, Oct. 24th, Queen's Oxon.—Copy of a Latin letter which John Mather, Vice-Can., sent to Ralph Palmer. The following note is at the end of the letter:—According to promise I send you a transcript of an imaginary letter upon Sir Han's Norwegian Owl, which I hope will give you as great a pleasure as it has done yours &c., Addison Hupton.

1732, July 10th, Cockermouth. P. B. (Bertie) to Ralph Palmer.—Gives him an account of a tour he has lately made; he visited Chatsworth, of which he gives a description. Says that there was a very good Inn and a fair landlady, who played well on the Virginales.

Several other letters by Palmer to Bertie, and J. Bertie to Palmer (some in Latin), but of no particular interest; the last is in 1736.

Letters from Jonathan Richardson to Ralph Palmer.

1730, Feb. 2. Says he shall esteem a letter, that Palmer wrote yesterday, as if it were a drawing of Raffaele. . . . Alludes to what he had offered to the Public, and thanks Palmer for his censure (criticism).—If ever I should publish another edition, it will be found either that I thought as you do before, or that I had been convinced by you, I mean only as the publication of my thoughts on subjects not immediately relating to Painting, . . . My son and I are charmed with the fine addition you have made to your beautiful poem. . . . I despair of getting a set of my books in English. One in French shall be at your service in a few days. I cannot answer for the stile, the verses (I mean my own, which are those I name no author for) I flatter my myself have not done me right. But the French has otherwise large improvements, and what you chiefly object against is omitted. The name of the blind artist is Giovanni Campobasso: he made portraits in wax, very like. He lived in the time of Urban 8th, for he did his head in that manner, as that of our Charles 1st, both after marble, not the life. (He cites De Piles, Cours de peinture par principes, p. 329, who says that Campobasso felt the model with his fingers and then carried the idea to the wax: & that the Duke de Bracciano sat to him in the dark: & that his own picture was done with an eye at the end of each finger).

1733, March 15th.—. . . Sends a translation of a pretty French epigram "Songe de Monstr. Patris (10 lines), beginning—

"Je songeais cette nuit que de mal consumé,
Côté à côté d'un pauvre on m'avait inhumé,

The translation begins—

I dreamt 't'other night, and methought being dead,
Cheek by jowl near a beggar's my carcase was laid,
Ends, And the corpse of a beggar as splendid as thine,
You rot on your dunghill, and I rot on mine."

1731, April 7.—You shall have another of my Lent compositions: 'tis a real accident put into verse next morning after it happened: 'Twas about ten days ago. I was sitting by the fire waiting for my son's coming home, which I usually do, tho' he seldom stays after eleven. He then smokes his pipe, we talk a little, and then to bed.

"Weary and wanting sleep, the hour was late,
I melancholly, musing, lonely sate.

(He extinguished one candle, went to sleep, and dreamed of his deceased wife, and endeavoured to call her. 17 lines.)

I found my hand, I know not how, convey'd,
And on imaginary lips 'twas laid;
'Twas prest, 'twas kiss'd—

But all was silent darkness, I alone
Sate griev'd, and so I sate, the vision gone."

To make you some amends I enclose another Copy of lines of a pleasanter strain. A Lady who sate to me had it sent to her in a letter by one who did not own himself the author: 'twas occasioned by the story in the Evening Post of Thursday last; she had it next day:—

"Dear Caleb what the Devil ails ye?"

(37 lines in all.)

They give the story of a Gentleman having his cloak snatched from his back by one rascal who ran off and dropped it; another picked it up and brought it to the owner, who gave a crown to the bringer; the latter offered to put it on the shoulders of the owner, and then took the opportunity to carry of his hat, periwig, cloak, and the crown too.

SIR
INGILBY,
BART.

The verse-maker applies the story thus :—

"You cavil at our minister;

"He takes the Cloak: but if you choose

Another you may chance to lose,

Not the Cloak only; Hat and Wig,

And Crown may dance just such a jig."

1731, April 19. (3 pp. folio, two of which are occupied with a discussion of Milton's "Hail Holy Light," offspring of Heaven, firstborn," and objecting to Palmer's quotation of the line with the reading "Heav'n's first born." P.S.—I forget not, nor shall forget, your kind invitation. I will endeavour to bring Mr. Pope.

1731, May 14.—Is not yet prepared to give Palmer his thoughts on the subject of Darkness.

1731, Aug. 26.—Admits the deficiency of his reasoning faculty, but playfully resents Palmer's recommendation to read Watts. Thanks Palmer for the curious discourse on Old Age, which he wrote at Richardson's request. . . . What I have sent for your amusement will I hope give you half an hour's pleasure. . . . The draft was in short-hand as usual; then 'twas written foul; then to be sent to the gent^l to whom 'tis inscribed; and this is the only one I have legible to show to friends or keep by me. . . . Be so kind as to return it.

1731, Aug. 30. . . . I thank you for the sight of your poem. As it is not yet to be in public, I will only tell you a short story. Harry Martin (the wit in the Long Parliament) was after the death of old Sir Harry Vane making a speech that the House was very attentive to, and which was in answer said by young Sir Harry. And as he was saying, by way of conclusion, "For ought I can find, Sir Harry Vane, if he lives, will be —" The House, imagining he was going to say something severe, began to be in disorder: thereupon Harry Martin stooped; but when he saw his time, "Mr. Speaker (says he), what I was going to say is "only this, "Young Sir Harry, if he lives, will be like "Old Sir Harry."—I saw Pope very lately, but fear the favour you intended us must not be received this summer; not only he tells me he shall not be in town a great while, but (which will surprise you) I am going to the Bath.

1731, Sept. 25.—I am returned from the Bath. . . . I believe I shall in verse or prose or both give a further account of this expedition.

1732, May 3.—. . . Here I sit, looking out at the darkened Landscape; black with clouds riding on at a keen north-east wind; 'tis now my time to go forth into the fields and villages (7 in the morning). I have finished my Lucubrations, my daily, early, pleasing task; not pretending to emendations,—I do assure you Milton needs them less than most writers,—but endeavouring to understand him better, and consequently to discover new beauties, and to enjoy the acquired treasure when found. That book has from my youth made a considerable part of the happiness of my Life, and the more I study him the more pleasure it bestows on me; especially assisted by my dear son, whose leisure, sobriety, languages, and good sense qualify him to be helpful to a better capacity and more accomplished by education than mine. I accidentally took up the book when I was a youngster at Mr. Riley's; 'twas his book; I have it still. I had never heard of Milton, but thenceforward neglected my favourite Cowley and all the rest (I am always poetically inclined). I became a hearty Miltonian, and always shall be so, I believe. I venture to say this to you who are also his admirer, and imitate him so well. . . . I have been a most laborious creature above 56 years; Scrivener first, and then Painter; always a diligent reader and writer at the same time. Literature (such as I could arrive at, perpetually otherwise employed) I ever pursued, that as a thread run constantly through and mixed with business, the necessary means of subsistence to me.

1732, May 30.—. . . What with business, other correspondencies, walking, riding, and the Great Work I am engaged in, that which I have perhaps too often troubled you with the mention of, Milton, and which will pretty much engross all the time I can spare for such work several months to come.

An Inscription after the title-page of the Set of the Tatlers sent to Jo. Bickerstaff, Esq., Nov. 1, 1709, with an Introductory Letter, but never published (Latin). Begins, "Hoc præ oculis Opusculum. (Not by J. Richardson's hand.)

1735, Oct. 6. With much pleasure I send again your engaging poem. . . . I have not been long a man of leisure, nor am yet otherwise than as 'tis with the utmost dignity I can give it. . . . Besides riding, which I have done with for this season, and walking, I paint, draw, read, write. I am never idle.

1736, April 12. Thanks for some Composition sent by Palmer. . . . I shall not, without your consent, permit a copy of your excellent poem.

1736, May 10. Thanks for a letter by P., and copy of verses with which it was enriched.

Eulogium.—Henricus Purcel, Corellius Britannicus. (15 lines of Latin.)

Eulogium.—Johannes Riley armiger, pictorum suo genere tempore que principes. (16 lines of Latin.)

Epitaph on himself by Ephraim Chambers, author of the Technical Dictionary. (9 short Latin lines.)

Inscription on the Foundation Stone placed in the east angle of Houghton in Norfolk.

In conclusion, I must be allowed to return thanks to Sir Henry Ingilby for his kind hospitality at Ripley Castle, and his liberality in allowing me the use in London of some of his manuscripts.

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

MANUSCRIPTS in the possession of SIR EDWARD STRACHEY, BART., &c. &c., Sutton Court, Somersetshire.

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

At Sutton Court, one of the oldest and most picturesque houses of a county abounding with noble residences, Sir Edward Strachey preserves a collection of notable writings. Consisting of parchments relating to Bokeland (now Buckland), Dinham, a manorial property which the Dinham—originally styled De Dinant, from the town of that name in Normandy—acquired soon after the conquest, and held till the time of Edward IV., when it was divided by co-heiresses of that family, the older documents are not important, though they should be examined by the local chronicler, bent on producing a complete history of Somersetshire. For the purpose of the present report it is enough to observe that these parchments (numbering about a hundred) comprise conveyances of land in Buckland Dinham (Dynham and Denham), made in the times of Henry III., Edward I., II., and III., and Richard II., the charter (24 Hen. III.), empowering the lords of the manor to hold a fair and market at Bokeland, and the charter of manumission granted (4 Hen. IV.), by John, lord de Dynham, kn^t, lord of Bokeland Dynham, to Alice, daughter of his tenant John Guyle. Mention should also be made of what remains of a mutilated account book of the farms of some abbey, whose name can no longer be found on the record, which has lost its seven opening and ten last sheets. In its perfect state this register (a work of the 13th century) was richly illuminated, but the knife of an equally careful and barbarous despoiler has removed all the original embellishments of the volume, with the exception of the few drawings which merely indicate the style of the artists.

The modern papers; for which the collection is chiefly noteworthy, are divisible into three separate groups:—1. The manuscripts of John Strachey, Esq., F.R.S., of Sutton Court, who died in 1743, in the 73rd year of his age. 2. The manuscripts of Sir Henry Strachey, the first baronet; including his correspondence with the first Lord Clive, whom he served in India in the capacity of private secretary. 3. The Kirkpatrick papers: consisting chiefly of official writings, left by the brothers, General William Kirkpatrick and Colonel James Achilles Kirkpatrick, who were eminent servants of the East Indian government under the Marquis of Wellesley. To these may be added some papers of Edward Strachey, Esq., of the Bengal Civil Service—the father of the present baronet.

I.—The Manuscripts of John Strachey, Esq., F.R.S.

The son of John Locke's friend Strachey, and grandfather of the first baronet of Sutton Court; Mr. John Strachey cultivated the society of men of letters, and earned for himself a modest place amongst the authors of the earlier half of the 18th century. The writer of two papers on the coal-fields of Somersetshire, printed in the Philosophical Transactions, he also published anonymously in 1739 "An Index to the Records." But he is chiefly respectable in the annals of literature for the perseverance and intelligent zeal, with which he gathered from ancient documents and other sources of information

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

the materials for his unpublished history of his native county. The papers, which came to Sir Edward Strachey's MSS., from this patient and cautious antiquary are:—

(1.) The introduction to the unpublished "Somersetshire Illustrated."

(2.) Somersetshire Illustrated; In a Topographical Description and a Natural and Geographical History of that county, by John Strachey, Esq., F.R.S. Arranged in hundreds. This MS. was ready for the press in 1736, when the author printed his "proposals" for its publication on "near 200 sheets in folio."

(3.) A Journal of an Expedition from London to Northumberland and Scotland, 1727, by John Strachey. The record opens with this reference to the main object of the journey, "Pursuant to o^r commissions from y^e York 'building comp^y to Mr. Cole and me to get better 'surveys of and to settle y^e management of o^r estates 'in Northumberland and Scotland, we sett out in a 'chaze and two horses, Mr. Cole's serv^t driving and 'mine riding by. Dined y^e day at Barnett." The descriptions of Edinburgh, Holyrood, and St. Andrews are entertaining. As much may be said for the traveller's remarks on Scotch fashions and manners.

(4.) Observations on the different strata of earths and minerals. More particularly of such as are found in the coal mines of Great Britain, by John Strachey, Esq., F.R.S.

(5.) Imperfect copy of the account of Somersetshire in Camden's "Britannia" (edition of the year 1727), with MS. notes relating to the work and county. Though not in his handwriting, the notes and additions to the text of the Britannia are part of John Strachey's collection for his history of Somersetshire.

(6.) Notes on the places named in the map of Somersetshire, published by John Strachey, in 1736; with suggestions for the improvement of the map.

(7.) Somersetshire pedigrees, drawn by John Strachey, F.R.S.

(8.) Collections (in 27 small note-books) of facts about Somersetshire, being the materials from which the antiquary's "Somersetshire Illustrated" was written.

(9.) A miscellaneous collection of separate papers, relating to Somersetshire; including a schedule of the tithings of the hundred of Chew, in that county, with the names and descriptions of the tithe-payers in the year 1672.

(10.) An Abridgement of Heraldry, by John Strachey, Esq.

(11.) Papers relating to events of politics in Somersetshire, collected by John Strachey, F.R.S. Including (a), a treasury receipt for 200*l.* of ship-money, raised in Bristol by William Jones, mayor of that city, according to His Majesty's writ, 20 August 1638; (b), a declaration of loyalty to Charles II., made by Richard Jones of Stowey, co. Somerset, in compliance with the conditions of His Majesty's declaration from Breda, 8 June 1660; (c), a schedule of the apportionments of taxes in the hundreds of Chew, Chewton, and Keynsham; (d), specimens of the proportions of taxation in Somersetshire, 1715.

(12.) Miscellaneous parcel of commonplace books, containing extracts from printed books and MSS.; many of the extracts being taken from rolls in the Tower of London, and from Scotch rolls.

(13.) Collection of MSS. Amongst them, (a), an account in Latin of "The value of all and each the 'honors, castles, demesnes, lands and tenements, possessions and hereditaments, belonging to the Sovereign 'Lord King Edward VI. in the county of Somerset; 'set;" the record having apparently belonged at some time to the Court of Augmentations, and having been given to John Strachey, F.R.S., by Sergeant Earle, in 1735. (b), A Defence of Puritanism by a Puritan, F.H., who dates the preface to his tract from "his lodgings 'the 12th of December," the number of the year being omitted. "To all those," the author says at the opening of his introduction, "that detest and abhor impurity, and have a longing desire to strive to be 'pure according to the rule of the gospel, F. H. wisheth constancy in this life, and their everlasting 'comfort in the life to come."

(14.) Sergeant Earle's account of several places in Somersetshire, anno 1735.

(15.) Neatly penned duodecimo copy of Sir Robert Cotton's "Short View of the long life and reign of 'Henry the 3rd, King of England," that was published by James Howell, in 1651. Probably older than Howell's edition.

II. The Manuscripts of Sir Henry Strachey, Bart., including his correspondence with the first Lord Clive, and his papers relating to the American War of Independence and the Anglo-American Treaty of Paris.

The documents of this group are divisible into three sets: (a) The East Indian papers; (b) The papers relating to affairs in America during the War of Independence; (c) The papers relating to the negotiations which resulted in the Treaty of Paris. The circumstances, under which they were written by Sir Henry Strachey and his correspondents, or came into his hands, may be conveniently indicated by a brief sketch of his official career and services. The grandson of John Strachey, the antiquary, and the grandfather of the present baronet of Sutton Court, Sir Henry Strachey, was born in Edinburgh, 23rd May 1736, and in 1764 accompanied Lord Clive to India, where he acted as his lordship's private secretary. Returning to England after this period of Indian service, he entered Parliament, and sat in the House of Commons (in the first instance as member for Pontefract, and subsequently as member for Bishop's Castle) till May 1774, when he was appointed Secretary to the commission for restoring peace in America. Re-entering Parliament as member for Saltash, which he represented till his re-election for Bishop's Castle, he continued to sit in the Commons for many years, and during his parliamentary career filled successively several subordinate offices, such as the clerkship of the deliveries of His Majesty's ordnance, the post of storekeeper of His Majesty's ordnance, and the place of master of the King's Household. In 1782 he acted as joint secretary of the Treasury, and at a later date of the same year was appointed to be one of the under-secretaries of state, in the southern department; and in the following year, when circumstances caused the ministry to mistrust Mr. Oswald's ability to bring to a satisfactory conclusion the negotiations with the American commissioners, he was sent to Paris to settle the terms of the treaty which closed the struggle between Great Britain and the United States.

(a.) Sir Henry Strachey's East Indian Papers.

(Folio 1.) Letters addressed to Henry Strachey, Esq., from 1764 to 1770, inclusive. Most of these letters are of a private nature, but some of them, written to the secretary when he was in India, have reference to affairs of Anglo-Indian politics.

(Folio 2.) Letters addressed to Henry Strachey, Esq. Private, official, and political. The following extracts will exhibit the temper and tenor of certain letters of this folio, from the sharp and caustic pen of Philip Francis. (a.) Letter dated from Madras, 2 Sept. 1774, in which the writer announces his arrival in India after a fair voyage. "Mr. Hastings," he observes, "has pre-vented us by the most obliging letters, one of them 'Mrs. Francis will show you, that you may judge of 'the disposition of our friends at Bengal." (b.) Letter dated from Calcutta, 7 Dec. 1774, and to be regarded as a "supplement to other letters" from the writer to correspondents in England. "With such a council as 'the present, to set things fairly right is impossible. 'Let my Lord Clive look to his jaghire. Trust me, 'whatever they say, to palliate the decline in the 'Revenue or to suggest better hopes for the future, is 'all a lie. By the next ship, I believe, we shall send 'you such an account of the internal state as will 'make every man in England tremble." (c.) Letter dated from Calcutta, 23 March 1775. "Things are 'now come to such a crisis that we can hardly get 'thro' a single council without some unpleasant 'altercation, which retards business and equally 'afflicts and torments every one of us. Direct and 'positive charges are now brought against the Govern- 'nor for money, taken in large quantities by him, and 'for corrupt motives, by Raja Nundcomar and the 'Rajnee of Burdwan. Others are expected every day 'both against him and Mr. B. The Governor makes 'no defence, but insists upon an authority, independent 'of us, to dissolve the Council at his pleasure." After begging that a decision may be arrived at quickly, as he only waits in India till a satisfactory arrangement can be made, the writer continues, "As for myself I lead too 'miserable a life to wish to continue here in bad com- 'pany. The longer I live, and the more I observe, so 'much the more am I confirmed in thinking that no 'man, before or since my Lord Clive, has had the 'least idea of the constitution of a government in this 'country upon any great or even rational principles. 'I have worked double and treble tides. I hope I

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

Sir E.
STRACHY,
BART.

"I shall gain credit, for I assure you I see no prospect of profit. I persuade myself you will support my cause vigorously at the west end of the town. In the city I think I shall be a favourite. At the same time, I am not ambitious of popularity, much less do I desire to figure in the newspapers. It would mortify me, beyond measure to have my merits canvassed in the public Advertiser, even to my advantage. In a postscript, he adds, "The enclosed account, I am assured, is but a flea-bite in the history of Mr. Hastings." (d.) Letter dated from Calcutta, 13th September 1775. After declaring his poignant sorrow at Lord Clive's death, and giving an alarming account of affairs in India, Philip Francis says, "For my own part, I am preparing my mind for the most unfavourable events. Lord North's resignation will afflict, but not surprise me. The worst is that, after all my toils, I shall probably return, without money enough to prevent even the petty nabobs from riding over me. I beg of you to present my compliments to Mr. Edmund Burke, and assure him that I shall always have a pleasure in considering his friends as mine." (e.) Letter containing the following passage: "I see no reason why Barwell should be alive, but that Death does not think it worth while to kill him. He is a mere shadow. As for Hastings, I promise you he is more tough than any of us, and will never die a natural death. Nuncomar might have been a notorious rascal, but by . . . he spoke truth, or why were they in such a hurry to kill him? That bold move made it impossible for us to get any further evidence." The folio contains other letters of similar fervour and bitterness from the same writer.

(Folio 3.) Drafts of letters, H. S., 1765-1785.

(Folio 4.) Letters addressed to Lord Clive, 1765-1775. Together with other official and private letters, which should be perused by Clive's biographers, this folio contains three letters from Alexander Wedderburn, dated 7th July, 14th July, 12th November 1774, and two very remarkable letters (one a copy), written from Fort William, 30th November 1774, and 12th January 1775, by Philip Francis; the three first-named epistles having been written when Clive's career was nearing its end, and the two last-named letters when he had ceased to live. (a.) 7th July 1774. "Sir Robert Fletcher," writes Wedderburn, "has had the honour of entertaining Westminster Hall in an action brought against him by the famous Dr. Shebbeare for the price of a libel upon your Lordship, which was composed at Sir Robert's desire and bespoke, to be ready for the beginning of the last session." The account of the notorious proceedings is of course designed to gratify the writer's correspondent. (b.) The second of Wedderburn's three letters reports Lord North's favourable disposition towards Lord Clive in a manner which implies that it is to some extent the result of the writer's skilful intervention. (c.) Philip Francis's letter of 30th November 1774 is marked "private and secret," and opens with, "My dear Lord, I had intended to have written your Lordship a very long letter. Heaven knows there are materials enough before me. But I am jaded to death, and neither able to write or debate. My best friends, among whom I venture to reckon your Lordship, must forgive my neglect of them. They must consider me as busied in state affairs, and excuse my private failings to them in favour of my public virtues. Read the dispatches to the court of directors, judge for us, defend us, act for the nation; we have no separate interests; obtain for us the thanks of the two Houses; we deserve them. If not, there is no medium. We ought to be recalled. But woe to Bengal, woe to England, if that should happen. In a few words, when your Lordship came here in 1765, this country was in a state of innocence and purity. It was a Paradise before the Fall compared to the condition in which we found it. Rely upon what I tell you. The foundation is shaken, and even Hastings confesses it." This is followed in the original of the letter by a passage of cypher, not given in the copy. (d.) The last of Philip Francis's letters to Lord Clive (Fort William, 12th January 1775) displays even greater fervour, and desire that his communications should be kept "private and secret." "Think, moreover," the writer says, "what it is for the youngest councillor, though supported by a majority of votes, to extort knowledge from a man in Mr. Hastings's situation, supported by Mr. Barwell, and with every man in office at his command. He will not even answer the most simple question, without a debate, which never concludes without violent asperity and

Sir E.
STRACHY,
BART.

"passion on his side, and the necessity of downright force on ours. Such slavery is worse than the mines." In him this conduct is partly policy, first to distress us, and then to throw the blame on us for retarding business by debate. But it chiefly arises from a guilty mind and the terror he is under. In these circumstances, you see how utterly impossible it is for us to get forward in doing any public good." After describing the arts and policy of Hastings, and the actor's "starts of the wildest heat and passion," and reporting that Colonel Maclean and the Hon. Mr. Stuart had returned to England, with a commission to support Hastings and misrepresent his adversaries, Francis continues, "Hastings will assuredly stand his ground till the return of the letters, not from any comfort he enjoys in his office, or any real desire to continue in it, but he is afraid of a shot in his rear, and dire necessity makes him face about. He has no possible hope of saving his head, but by suppressing those discoveries, which would be immediately made, if he was to quit his ground. I trust to your Lordship's friendship to me that no use will ever be made of this letter to my disadvantage; and I now, as far as possible exact a promise from you that it shall never be seen, except by Mr. D'Oyley, Strachey, and my Lord North, if necessary." The folio contains also a letter from Philip Francis to Lady Clive (dated 1st December 1774), written in a light vein.

(Folio 5.) Correspondence of Lord and Lady Clive and Mrs. Strachey, 1766-1774. Exhibiting the frank and affectionate confidence which characterised the intercourse of the three correspondents (the ladies were first cousins), as well as the womanly sweetness of Lady Clive's disposition, and her great influence over her husband, this folio of private, and for the greater part domestic letters should be carefully studied by future biographers of Clive.

(Folio 6.) Miscellaneous papers, with the following list of contents:—

1. Anderson's Journal; account of the massacre at Patna, 1763.
2. Paper laid before Lord North, 1770.
3. Governor-General's Minute respecting Mr. Fowke.
4. Committee Proceedings, 1766.
5. Letter to Committee of Treasury and Correspondence, 1769.
6. Paper on the monopolies of salt, betel, tobacco, &c.
7. Sundry memoirs and drafts on the Government of India.
8. Dr. Fullerton's narrative of the transactions at Patna, 1763.
9. Portuguese contract of marriage.
10. Papers relative to the mutiny in Bengal.
11. Astronomical observations.
12. Governor Johnstone's Minute to Committee of Correspondence.
13. Mr. Leveitt to Mr. Oswald, 1772.
14. Case between Lord Clive and Admiral Watson's Representatives, 1772.
15. Mr. Verelst's case: Opinion of Messrs. Wallace and Mansfield on it.
16. Carnac's Letter, 1779, to the Governor and Select Committee.
17. Summary of Expedition from Bombay to the Continent.
18. Proceedings respecting Paul Benfield.
19. The Company's orders respecting passengers to India, 1783.
20. Copy of a letter in defence of Lord Clive.
21. Extract of a letter from Mr. Leycester.
22. Memoranda of Report of Select Committee.
23. Paper relative to Omichund, Mr. Watts, &c.
24. Abstract of Evidence on payments to European gentlemen.
25. Queries respecting Bengal.
26. Computation of measurement of Bengal.
27. Extracts from Coote's Journal of the Battle of Plassey.
28. Mr. Caillaud's case.
29. Bengal regulations.
30. Agreements and regulations respecting Lord Clive's Military Fund.
31. Letter from Mr. Francis to Edward Lord Clive. Dated from Calcutta, 21 August 1776.

This letter, from Philip Francis to the 2nd Lord Clive, contains some passages creditable to the writer's intelligence and humanity, and concludes with a singular invitation to the young man (only 22 years of age) to put himself at the head of an Indian party. "I fear," the writer says of India, "it has hitherto been considered

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

"rather as a property than a dominion, and that the views of the governing power have had but little relation to the real duties of a government." He concludes, "You have a name to support, which is revered in India, and I have no doubt that there is a powerful party of your father's friends, who will be ready to unite and act under you, whenever they see you resolved to assume the character of their chief, which justly and naturally belongs to you." Lord Clive's answer to this letter, but not the letter itself, is printed in Parkes and Merivale's "Life of Francis."

(Packet 1.) Papers, Parliamentary and otherwise, relating to the defence of Lord Clive.

(Packet 2.) Memoranda and drafts of Lord Clive's despatches.

(Packet 3.) Accounts and private memoranda of Lord Clive.

(Packet 4.) Native correspondence, 1765-6.

(Packet 5.) East India House examinations, 1767.

(Packet 6.) Parker's trial, &c., Parker v. Lord Clive, 1769.

(Packet 7.) Accounts H. S.

(Packet 8.) East India affairs, 1754-66, containing :—

(A. 1.) Extracts of letters from the East India Company's servants in Bengal, relative to treaties and grants from the country powers, from the year 1756 to 1766, both years inclusive.

(A. 2.) Extracts of letters to the East India Company's servants in Bengal relative to treaties and grants from the country powers from the year 1756 to 1766, both years inclusive.

(A. 3.) Extracts of letters from the East India Company's servants at Fort St. George, relative to treaties and grants from the country powers, from the year 1756 to 1766, both years inclusive. Also, copy of a letter from the Nabob of Arcot to the Company.

(A. 4.) Extracts of letters to the East India Company's servants at Fort St. George, relative to treaties and grants from the country powers, from the year 1756 to 1766, both years inclusive. Also copy of a letter from the Company to the Nabob of Arcot.

(A. 5.) Extracts of letters from the East India Company's servants at Bombay, relative to treaties and grants, from the year 1756 to 1766, both years inclusive.

(A. 6.) Extracts of letters from the East India Company's servants, relative to treaties and grants; from the country powers, from the year 1756 to 1766.

(A. 7.) General state of the revenues including customs and duties on trade at the East India Company's several settlements, from the year 1755 to 1766.

(B. 1.) Abstract of the state of the expenses incurred by the East India Company at their several settlements and factories on account of the wars and disturbances in the East Indies; extracted from the respective books, according to the different periods, from 1754 to those last received, and continued to 1766 by estimates formed upon the best advices.

(B. 2.) Company's general letter to Bengal, Jan. 24, 1765.

(B. 3.) State of expenses incurred by the East India Company on account of the wars and disturbances in the East Indies, for vessels with advices, and for passage and incidental charges on His Majesty's troops; and also for recruits raised by the Company, from 1754 to 1766, inclusive.

(B. 4.) General abstract of the totals of the several accounts of expenses incurred by the East India Company, occasioned by the wars and disturbances in the East Indies from 1754 to 1766, both years inclusive, distinguishing each year.

(B. 5.) State of the revenues arising from the districts ceded to the East India Company, and also an account of the sums received by the Company from the nabobs or country powers; extracted from the respective books, according to their different periods, from 1753 inclusive to the grant of the Dewany.

(C. 1.) Copy of a letter from Mudjum at Dula, the present Nabob of Bengal, to Lord Clive and the gentlemen of the select committee, on Lord Clive's arrival in May 1765.

(C. 2.) Copy of a list of presents received by several persons from the Nabob and his ministers, according to the narrative, delivered into the select committee in June 1765 by Mahomed Reza Khan.

(C. 3.) Copies of all letters and correspondence carried on between the commanders of His Majesty's land and sea forces, and the servants of the East India Company, from the time of the surrender of Pondicherry to the delivery of the said place into the hands of the East India Company.

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

(D. 1.) An account of the number of ships with their tonnage and number of seamen employed by the East India Company, between 1st Jan. 1766 and 1st Jan. 1767.

(D. 2.) An account of the number of privates enlisted as soldiers in the service of the East India Company, and sent by them from Great Britain to their settlements in the East Indies, from Jan. 1st, 1761, to the present time, distinguishing each year.

(E. 1.) Minutes, dated Jan. 6, 1767, and delivered to the Duke of Grafton by the Chairman and Deputy Chairman of the East India Company.

(E. 2.) Minutes, dated Feb. 6, 1767, and delivered to the Duke of Grafton by the Chairman and Deputy Chairman of the East India Company.

(F.) Copy of titles to the charters contained in two books from the Rolls Chapel.

(G. 1.) Copy of a plan sent to the East India Company by their servants in Bengal for trading in salt, beetle-nut, and tobacco, referred to in a letter from the Directors to the Select Committee in Bengal of the 17th May 1766.

(G. 2.) Minutes of Council of War, and their answer to the letter of George Pigott, Esq., Governor of Madras, previous to the delivering up of Pondicherry to the said George Pigott, Esq.

(G. 3.) Copy of a petition to His Majesty in Council, of Admiral Cornish and other officers who served in the East Indies in the expedition against Pondicherry.

(G. 4.) Observations on Mr. Hastings's plan for the administration of justice.

(G. 5.) Mr. Hastings's plan for the administration of justice.

In addition to the above-mentioned folios and labelled packets (in board), the Clive Papers in Sir Edward Strachey's Collection comprise:—

(1.) Letter book of letters from Colonel Caillaud to Henry Vansittart, Esq., of the year 1760.

(2.) Bundle of miscellaneous letters; including notes from Sir Eyre Coote, Colonel Caillaud, Mr. Kelsall, Hen. Vansittart, Harry Verelst, Warren Hastings, and other actors in Anglo-Indian history.

(3.) Bundles of private letters, chiefly on domestic matters, that passed between Lord and Lady Clive, and Sir Henry Strachey, from 1761 to 1781.—Very interesting as evidences of the gentler qualities of Clive's character, the excellence of his wife, and the affectionate relations that existed between them and Sir Henry Strachey.

(4.) The Carnac papers that came into Sir Henry Strachey's hands on the death of General Carnac. They comprise General Carnac's letter-books for the years 1760, 1, 2, 3, and 4; collections of official letters addressed to Carnac during the same period; and a brief memoir (on a single sheet of paper) of General Carnac's services in India. Of these papers, when he had perused them, Mr. Elphinstone observed that they had "afforded much general light, though no new facts."

(5.) The official papers and correspondence of the second Lord Clive during the term of his government at Madras.

Together with many purely domestic and personal letters, written by the second Lord Clive, the collection comprises letters of the same writer, which, though penned in confidence that they would not be published, might at the present date be offered to the world for the more complete illustration of his father's story. One of these papers is the letter which he addressed to Mr. Pitt, asking for a peerage in consideration of his father's services, and observing that the honour would have been conferred on the victor of Plassey, had his life been prolonged. "I cannot forbear to add," the petitioner remarks, 3rd August 1794, "that I have been repeatedly informed by those who were in the most unreserved confidence of my father that he personally solicited this honour of His Majesty, who was graciously pleased to say he would take the request into his most serious consideration. If his death prevented the attainment of this desirable object to himself, I hope I shall be pardoned the ambition of being anxious that so distinguished a mark of His Majesty's favor should now be conferred upon his family."

To account for the comprehensiveness and multifariousness of this part of the Sutton Court collection, it may be observed that Sir Henry Strachey continued to act as Lord Clive's confidential secretary after his Lordship's final retirement from India, and that he was also an executor of Lord Clive's last will. On his death all Lord Clive's papers passed into the hands of his executor, from whom they were not subsequently taken by his representatives.

In connexion with this set of Indian documents it should be remarked that the library of Sutton Court preserves a copy of the printed brief, delivered to counsel, for the defence of Warren Hastings, on the occasion of his famous trial. Together with its printed index, this brief, of prodigious bulk, makes 24 folio volumes. By its side appear other volumes (manuscript) of additional evidence relating to the subjects of the inquiry.

(b.) Sir Henry Strachey's Papers relating to American affairs during the War of Independence.

This group of papers would have been far larger and more fruitful of startling revelations, had it not been for circumstances unfortunately common in the history of manuscripts carelessly stored in country houses. During the last illness of the late Sir Henry Strachey (the second baronet), some of the most important of the first Sir Henry Strachey's American documents were withdrawn from the library of Sutton Court, conveyed to the United States, and there sold. One of the writings thus taken from a muniment room in Somersetshire, was that remarkable document which, soon after it had come by purchase into the possession of Mr. George H. Moore, an American scholar and librarian of the New York Historical Society, was published in fac-simile at New York, in 1860, under the title of "Treason of Charles Lee, Major-General, second in command in the American army of the Revolution. By George H. Moore." The effect of this publication equalled the hopes of its editor, who, at that time unable to give a particular account of the means by which the paper had been acquired, commended it to the attention of historians, with an assurance that it was "In Lee's own handwriting, unmistakeable and real, and indorsed in the handwriting of Henry Strachey, the then Secretary to the Royal Commissioners." Stript in a moment, of his reputation for frankness and guileless generosity, which American historians had delighted to attribute to the singularly treacherous and selfish adventurer, Charles Lee was forthwith clothed with the infamy, of which no future discoveries can relieve him. It is strange that, when Lee's damnable "plan" was taken from Sutton Court, together with other writings of similar interest, though of inferior value, a withdrawal was not made of the manuscripts noticed in the following list.

(1.) Letters from Governor Tryon to the Earl of Dartmouth.

(a.) New York, 3 Jan. 1774. Enclosing New York Gazette, and describing the change of feeling occasioned in New York by the destruction of tea at Boston. "From the general appearance of the united opposition," the writer says, "to the principle of the monopoly and the importation duty in America, I can form no other opinion than that the landing, storing, and safe-keeping of the tea when stored, could be accomplished but under the protection of the point of the bayonet and muzzle of the cannon, and even then I do not see how the sales and consumption could be effected."

(b.) 7 January 1774. Enclosing copy of the speech he intends to deliver on Tuesday next at the meeting of the Assembly.

(c.) 2 February 1774. Enclosing the addresses of the Council and General Assembly, with his answers.

(d.) 1 March 1774. No change in the position of affairs.

(e.) 31 March 1774. Enclosing papers relative to the Canadian claims to lands within the government of New York.

(f.) 6 April 1774. Enclosing a return of lands granted in this government pursuant to His Majesty's proclamation of 7th Oct. 1763, from 7th July 1773 to 5th April 1774:—one of the grants being of 5,000 acres to Capt. John Small, to the westward of Crown Point.

(g.) Same date. Enclosing the minutes of council in the land and state departments, to the said date.

(h.) Same date. Papers and depositions on the subject of the outrages of the Bennington mob. Petition of Benjamin Hough and others for protection against the violence, and cruelty, and oppression lately committed by many of the inhabitants of Charlotte county and part of Albany.

(i.) 7 April 1774. The writer and his family embarked this day in the Mercury packet, for England. Colden, Lieut.-Governor. The General Assembly prorogued on 19th March to 17th May. The printed Acts and Journals of the House of Assembly show the provision made for the King's forces, and the liberality extended to the Governor, in compensation for part of his heavy losses by the late fire at Fort George.

(k.) London, 11 June 1774. Enclosing account of the present state of the government of New York.

(l.) 16 June 1774, London. In favour of Col. Fanning, the secretary of Governor Tryon.

(m.) 18 August 1774, London. Explaining the circumstances of his claim for near 14,000*l.* on the public purse; and requesting that the warrant of the Treasury for 6,000*l.* be made out as a compensation (on a moderate estimate) of his losses by the fire; and that the reward for his arduous public services he left to the favourable countenance of the King's minister, and the beneficence of his gracious sovereign.

(n.) 4 October 1774, London. The death of Sir Wm. Johnson having made a vacancy in the Council at New York, the writer nominates Mr. James Jauncey, jun., Col. Wm. Bayard, and Mr. David Colden (the Lieut.-Governor's son), as proper gentlemen to act in that capacity.

(o.) 17 February 1775, London. Enclosing draft of a new charter for King's College, New York.

(p.) 29 March 1775, London. Respecting a misunderstanding caused by the King's warrant of Dec. 17th 1760, giving orders for the precedence of the Civil Governors and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces in America.

April 1775, London. Governor Tryon's memorial to the King, and petition for compensation for his losses in the King's service during ten years in America, which he computes at 13,000*l.*

(q.) 12 April 1775, London. Calling attention to points necessary to be settled in respect to lands lying to the westward of the Connecticut River, as well as those depending between the New York and New Hampshire governments, as those claimed under titles from Canada.

(r.) 17 April 1775, London. Urging that the patents for lands, purchased of the Indians may be carried into execution; and stating the case of proprietors under the Indian sales.

(s.) 4 July, 1775, New York. The writer has arrived again at New York on 25 June, when he received the "diminished authority the Lieut.-Governor had to transfer to me." After describing the condition of "general revolt" throughout the colonies, and the consequent humiliation of His Majesty's civil governors, he observes, with respect to the desperate character of the situation, "If it were the wish, it is not in the power of any one province to accommodate with Great Britain, being overawed and controlled by the General Confederacy. Oceans of blood may be spilt, but in my opinion America will never receive parliamentary taxation. I do not meet with any of the inhabitants, who show the smallest inclination to draw the sword in support of that principle:—a principle, I apprehend, the extremity which threatens America will not induce her to accept."

(t.) 5 July 1775, New York. The intelligence of the Parliament's refusal to receive the memorial and representation "has given fresh alarm to the inhabitants of this city, and called forth the discontent of many who were the supporters of those petitions."

(u.) 7 July 1775, New York. After resolving to address the Governor, and obtaining an appointment (for 6th July) for the presentation of their address, the Mayor and Corporation of New York relinquished their purpose, at the last moment, at the order of the Provincial Congress. "The intimidation and apprehension," says the writer "under which the mayor and corporation have acted on this occasion is a melancholy evidence of the impotence of His Majesty's officers and ministers of justice in this province, and of the despotic power with which congresses and committees can controul any body of people among the inhabitants of America."

(x.) 7 August 1776, New York. Describing the rapid progress of the rebellion. Colonel Skeene has been taken through the province under a military guard; Captain Nordbergh (taken prisoner at Lake George, on April 12th last), reports that the provincials have taken about a hundred cannon and some mortar pieces at Crown Point; several armed boats are being built and fitted out on the lakes; the continental troops at Tyonderoga, Crown Point, and Fort George, may be about 3,000; the boat belonging to the Asia man-of-war (the only King's ship now in the harbour) has been seized and set on fire by the mob; the King's stores have been frequently broken open and plundered; eleven hundred riflemen, with ammunition from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia have lately passed through the province; Captain Sinclair has been arrested in this city by order of the Provincial Congress; everything is conducted in

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

the committees and congresses with secrecy. "Unhappy, therefore, my Lord," the writer continues, "constrained to adhere to my former sentiments on this subject, I would, with the greatest deference submit it to the wisdom and beneficence of His Majesty and his ministers, whether it might not be expedient, in compassion to the unhappy prejudices of opinion and wild delusion of His Majesty's American subjects, to hold forth some further conciliatory measures, and also to grant a repeal of the duties on tea."

(y.) 9 Aug. 1775, New York. Provision can be sent from this port to Boston. The regiment, raised by Mr. McDougal, has left for Albany, in consequence of enclosed secret intelligence from Tyconderoga.

(z.) 8 Sept. 1775, New York. Masons and carpenters have gone up Hudson's river, to build a fort and battery on the east bank, above the high lands, about 60 miles distant from this city; and an armed sloop is being fitted out in the river.

(a. 2.) 16 Oct. 1775, New York. Agitation in the city, consequent on the recommendation of the continental congress, "that this provincial congress should take into their considerations the expediency of seizing and securing crown officers." The writer, on receiving intelligence of this recommendation, gave notice to crown officers, kept out of town all day, and in the evening went in the Asia's boat to Long Island, where he lay at Mr. Axtelle's at Flat Bush. On the morrow he returned to New York, and wrote to the mayor once and again.

(b. 2.) 18 Oct. 1775. On board the Halifax packet. In consequence of renewed intelligence of intention to seize crown officers, the writer has gone on board the Halifax.

(c. k.) 18 Oct. 1775. On board the Halifax packet. Montgomery's rebellious expedition is despaired of; and a battery of the enemy, which opened against Fort St. John's, has been silenced by superior force. Ethen Allen, the notorious New Hampshire incendiary, was taken on the Island of Montreal with 30 New England men and some Canadians, by a body of natives from Montreal. Eight or ten soldiers of the Royal Artillery have been made prisoners on their way from Montreal to St. John's.

(d. 2.) 18 Oct. 1775. On board the Halifax. The governor has not received any of the King's salary from the commissioners of customs at Boston, since Jan. 19; and the salary of New York province has ceased since Sept. 1.

(e. 2.) 11 Nov. 1775. On board the Duchess of Gordon. Governor Tryon has been on board the said ship, under the Asia's protection, with Mr. Kempe, Attorney-General, and Mr. Barrow, Dep. Paymaster of the Forces. Is certain that "the spirit of rebellion, in this province, and especially in the city, has greatly abated during the last fortnight." He awaits the arrival of 5,000 regulars to re-open commerce and restore the constitution. "The sword, my lord, is drawn, and it is that which must establish a constitution." Urges, however, that America should receive assurance that "the principle of internal taxation in America should not be exercised by the British state until a plan has been agreed upon for the representation of America."

(f. 2.) The same date. On board the Duchess of Gordon. With inclosures "that will abundantly testify the anarchy of this province and the malignant spirit that is spread through the country." Fort Camblér fell into the hands of the rebels on the 18th of last month. The writers states the two chief military objects of the enemy on the Hudson. He has received the king's warrant for his return.

(g. 2.) 14 Nov. 1775. On board the Duchess of Gordon. Intelligence has reached New York, from Col. Schuyler at Ticonderoga, that the fort of St. John's has fallen to the enemy, and its garrison made prisoners.

(h. 2.) 6 Dec. 1775. On board the Duchess of Gordon. The house and printing office of Mr. Rivington, of New York city, whose publications have incensed the disloyal multitude, have been attacked and plundered by a body of Connecticut people; "near 100 of their horsemen, with Isaac Sears, Samuel Broom, and other turbulent fellows at their head," who, after sacking the printer's place of business, were allowed to leave the town without molestation.

(j. 2.) 7 Dec. 1775. On board the Duchess of Gordon. Giving particulars of the siege and capitulation of St. John's. Has received accounts of the capitulation of Montreal. Has engaged three skilful gunsmiths to quit their trade, on condition that they shall be employed at the Tower. There is only one workman now remaining in America that is capable of the business of gun-welting, as I am informed.

(k. 2.) 3 Jan. 1776. On board the Duchess of Gordon. Approving of the investment, "at this momentous season, of some great and distinguished person with powers, similar to those of a viceroy, both in the civil and military departments in each province," with power to grant the King's pardon to the deluded and reclaimed. "Under such circumstances, I am confident, the Royal Standard, guarded at first with some regiments of regulars, might be erected with the greatest success." Enclosing copy of his letter to General Howe, of the 13th December.

(2.) 6 May, 1776. Commission of Henry Strachey, Esq., to act as secretary to Lord Howe and General Howe, appointed, "Commissioners for restoring peace to the colonies and plantations of North America."

(3.) Same date. Copy of the King's general instructions for the conduct of the Commissioners, appointed for restoring peace to the colonies, &c., in North America. Chief powers given to the Commissioners:—
a. To issue proclamation of offers of pardons, and to grant pardon. b. To declare colonies at peace with the mother country, and consequently relieved of the restraint imposed on the commerce and intercourse of the rebellious colonies. (c). To confer with the assembly of any colony on the means of making provision, &c. for the expenses of government, in accordance with the resolution of the House of Commons of February 20, 1775, to the end that "so long as such provision shall be made," the government of Great Britain may "forbear in respect of such province or colony, to levy any duty, tax, or assessment, or to impose any further duty, tax, or assessment, except only such duties as may be expedient to continue to levy or to impose for the regulation of commerce, the nett produce of the duties last mentioned to be carried to the account of such province or colony respectively." (d.) And to confer with the governments of colonies for making requisite changes in their respective constitutions.

Special instructions given to the Commissioners to insist that the colonial governments award reasonable compensation to those of his Majesty's faithful subjects in America who have suffered loss from the rebellion.

(4.) Same date. Copy of the additional and separate instruction respecting the 11th Article of the General Instructions, and received therewith. Whereas the Commissioners are directed by the said Article to use their best endeavours to induce such propositions to be made by the colonies of Connecticut and Rhode Island for the necessary reform of their respective governments, as may entitle the said colonies to the royal favor and clemency; the Commissioners, in every proposition made to that end, are to insist,—(a.) That the colonies repeal all laws now on their Statute Books under the respective heads of Courts, Militia, and Privileges of the People, as restrain the subjects right of appeal to the Privy Council in civil cases, or impeach the royal authority to appoint commanders of their militia, or declare a right in the people to be exempt from the controul of acts of the Supreme Legislature of Great Britain. (b.) That the said colonies submit to be put under that form of government, which has been adopted in other colonies, originally established under royal charters, but being at the present time royal governments, and that their governors be appointed from time to time by commission under the Great Seal of Great Britain; or, if that should meet with difficulty, that they submit to such alterations to be made by explanatory charters, as shall be necessary to restrain persons, elected governors of the said colonies, from entering on their offices, until approved of by the Crown. (c.) And, that till such propositions be made by the said colonies, or there is reason to believe that such propositions will be made by them, the Commissioners shall avoid conference with the said Colonies, unless it shall appear highly desirable, for the chief object of the Commission, to confer with their delegates.

(5.) 7 May 1776. Separate instruction to the American commissioners.

To propose that the colonies of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, the three lower counties on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, should agree to contribute a just proportion of the expenses incurred in the defence of the King's dominions.

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

That the proportion of such contribution be adjusted and settled in the following manner:—

At the close of every session of Parliament there shall be transmitted, by the King's command, to the governors and commanders-in-chief of the said several colonies, an account of the sums granted by Parliament in that session for the service of the army, the navy, and the ordnance, distinguishing the charges of each establishment, and specifying the particular sums voted for defraying such charges.

A copy of such account shall be laid by order of the governors or commanders-in-chief before the general court or assembly of each of the said colonies respectively; and every governor shall be instructed to make a demand of the said general courts or assemblies respectively of the specific sum which it is agreed that each colony shall contribute as their share and proportion of the said expenses stated in that account.

The Commissioners are particularly instructed to use their utmost endeavours to obtain, from the representatives or delegates of the said colonies, an engagement on their part to raise and pay, as the annual contribution of the 12 provinces aforesaid, a sum equal to 10 per cent. of the money annually granted by Parliament for the said military, naval, and ordnance services; and the Commissioners must not, on any consideration, accept of a less proportion than five per cent. of the sums so granted for the said services.

The Commissioners are instructed to propose that the amount of the whole sum which the said colonies, or any number of them, shall agree to contribute annually, be divided and allotted amongst them in the proportions, and according to the plan of repartition settled by the continental Congress for cancelling the paper money issued by their authority, and that whatever sums of money the said enumerated colonies, or any of them, shall so agree to contribute, be raised by their representatives in their general courts or assemblies by such taxes and imposts, upon such articles as they shall think proper, save and except upon goods and commodities of the growth, produce, and manufacture of Great Britain, or Ireland, and except upon flax seed, cotton wool, beaver and other furs, pot and pearl ashes, indico, fustic or other dyeing woods, and such articles of the growth and produce of the said colonies for which bounties or premiums are granted by Parliament on the importation of the said articles into Great Britain.

That the said several contributions be levied and collected in such manner as the said general courts or assemblies shall direct, and that the money shall be paid within 12 months after such demand shall be made, as aforesaid, into the hands of such person or persons as His Majesty shall appoint to receive the same.

The Commissioners are to propose, and to contend, that the grants of contribution by the said general courts or assemblies, be made free and clear of all appropriation whatsoever; and they must not, on any account, consent to any appropriation of such grants, beyond a general destination, and application of the money, to the purposes of defraying the charges of the military, naval, and ordnance services in North America.

The Commissioners may give assurances to any person or persons, delegated and appointed by the said colonies, or any of them, to treat with the Commissioners on this matter, that as soon as any agreements or engagements for such contribution as aforesaid shall be concluded, the same shall be transmitted to His Majesty, and that His Majesty will order them to be laid before the Parliament; and the Commissioners may also give assurances that immediately after such papers shall be laid before Parliament, a Bill will be proposed for repealing all the taxes and duties which have been laid on the colonies by the authority of Parliament, except such duties as were laid only for the regulation of commerce, and which it is necessary to continue for that reason; and also for declaring that for so long as the said colonies shall contribute their share of the expenses of the establishments before mentioned, in conformity to such agreements and engagements, no taxes shall be laid upon or levied in the said colonies by the authority of Parliament, except only for the regulation of commerce; and that in such Bill, it shall be proposed to make a provision that the net produce of all duties, which it shall be found expedient to continue or to impose for the regulation of commerce as aforesaid be carried to the account and paid over to the receivers of the said colonies respectively.

In case an offer of contribution should be made to the Commissioners provisionally, and upon condition that such an Act of repeal and declaration should be passed by Parliament before the agreement for such contribution should take place, the Commissioners are authorized to receive such proposal in like manner as if no such condition had been annexed thereto, and to transmit it to His Majesty's Secretary of State for the colonies.

If, on the part of the colony of Georgia, an offer should be made to contribute such a proportion as shall appear to the Commissioners to be reasonable and adequate to the condition, circumstances, and situation of the said colony, the Commissioners are authorized to accept and agree to such offer, in the same manner, and under the same conditions and regulations, as before specified, with respect to the other 12 provinces.

(In Lord Howe's handwriting.)

A true copy of the separate instruction received by me on the 8th of May with Lord North's letter of the 7th inst., 1776.—Howe.

(6.) No date. (On vellum, The.) Memorial of the Loyalists of New York. To the Right Honourable Richard, Viscount Howe, of the Kingdom of Ireland, and His Excellency the Honourable William Howe, Esquire, General of His Majesty's Forces in America, the King's Commissioners for restoring peace in His Majesty's colonies and plantations in North America, &c. &c.

May it please your Excellencies.

Impressed with the most grateful sense of the royal clemency, manifested in your proclamation of the 14th of July last, whereby His Majesty hath been graciously pleased to declare "That he is desirous to deliver his American subjects from the calamities of war, and 'other oppressions,' which 'they now undergo;'" and equally affected with sentiments of gratitude for that generous and humane attention to the happiness of these colonies, which distinguishes your Excellencies subsequent declaration, evincing your disposition "to confer with His Majesty's well affected subjects, upon 'the means of restoring the public tranquillity, and 'establishing a permanent union with every colony as 'a part of the British empire.'"

We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, inhabitants of the city and county of New York, beg leave to inform your Excellencies that altho' most of us have subscribed a general representation with many others of the inhabitants; yet we wish that our conduct, in maintaining inviolate our loyalty to our Sovereign, against the strong tide of oppression and tyranny, which had almost overwhelmed this land, may be marked by some line of distinction, which cannot be drawn from the mode of representation that has been adopted for the inhabitants in general.

Influenced by this principle, and from a regard to our peculiar situation, we have humbly presumed to trouble your Excellencies with this second application; in which we flatter ourselves, none participate but those who have ever, with unshaken fidelity, borne true allegiance to His Majesty, and the most warm and affectionate attachment to his person and government: That, notwithstanding the tumult of the times, and the extreme difficulties and losses to which many of us have been exposed, we have always expressed, and do now give this testimony of our zeal to preserve and support the constitutional supremacy of Great Britain over the colonies; and do most ardently wish for a speedy restoration of that union between them, which, while it subsisted, proved the unfailing source of their mutual happiness and prosperity.

We cannot help lamenting that the number of subscribers to this address is necessarily lessened, by the unhappy circumstance that many of our fellow citizens, who have firmly adhered to their loyalty, have been driven from their habitations, and others sent prisoners into some of the neighbouring colonies; and tho' it would have afforded us the highest satisfaction could they have been present on this occasion; yet we conceive it to be a duty we owe to ourselves and our posterity, whilst this testimony of our allegiance can be supported by known and recent facts, to declare to your Excellencies, that so far from having given the least countenance or encouragement to most unnatural unprovoked rebellion, that ever disgraced the annals of time, we have, on the contrary, steadily and uniformly opposed it, in every stage of its rise and progress, at the risk of our lives and fortunes.

Here six hundred signatures appear on the parchment: other signatures, on loose sheets of paper, were appended

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

to the memorial. Pieces of these sheets, much torn and defaced, are preserved at Sutton Court.

(7.) 22 June 1776. Eagle off Halifax. Letter from Lord Howe to His Excellency General Howe; announcing their appointment as Commissioners for restoring peace to the British colonies and plantations in North America, and enclosing copy of His Majesty's instructions.

(8.) 22 June to 30th August 1776. Journal kept by Henry Strachey, Esq., during the first ten weeks of his residence in the United States. Under date July 12, 1776, the writer says, with respect to the Commission and Lord Howe's declaration of June 20, "General Howe's opinion was that the declaration would produce no effect, as the Congress had declared the colonies to be independent states, and had disavowed the authority of the King as well as the Parliament of Great Britain."

(9.) 3 September 1776. Off Governor's or Nutten's Island, New York. Letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to C. D'Oyly, Esq. Announcing the taking of the works on Long Island. The British lost in the affair only 50 killed, and a few marines, prisoners. The enemy lost above 3,000, two thirds of whom were killed. The rebels have made a precipitate retreat to New York, which is indefensible and very unhealthy. In such a moment of discomfiture Congress ought to treat for peace; "but it is impossible to ascertain how much longer the political conveyance and military phrenzy of this unhappy country may last."

(10.) 7 October 1776, Whitehall. Letter to Lord Viscount Howe. Conveying His Majesty's approbation of the measures taken by Lord Howe for making the object of his commission known to the American colonies, though they have failed to produce the desired effects. The Commission, though unsuccessful, and his Lordship's action afford singular proofs of His Majesty's reluctance to employ coercive measures for bringing his rebellious subjects to a proper sense of their duty.

(11.) 4 November, 1776. Letter from Lord George Germain to Lord Viscount Howe. Enclosing copies of the King's speech at the opening of the Parliamentary session, 31st October 1776.

(12.) 6 November 1776. Letter from the same to Lord Viscount Howe and General Sir William Howe:—Acknowledging the receipt of dispatch from the Commissioners.

(13.) Abstract (in Mr. Strachey's handwriting) of correspondence between the Commissioners for restoring peace in America and the Secretary of State:—(a.) 30 Nov. 1776. Sir William Howe informs the Secretary of State that the expedition to Rhode Island is ready to take place, and proposes plan for the next campaign, with an army increased to 35,000 men. (b.) 14 Jan. 1777. The Secretary of State replies that the King will not decide on the General's plan for a campaign, till the receipt of the next dispatches, when Major Balfour will be sent out. He hopes to augment the army to 35,000 men, rank and file; promises 7,800 men; has reason to believe that Dr. Franklin will procure no open assistance from foreign powers. (c.) 20 December, 1776. Sir William Howe announces the taking of Rhode island, and gives particulars of the enemy's strength, south of Delaware, in Jersey, and at Peekskill. In another letter of the same date he proposes to act, next campaign, in Pennsylvania, with 10,000 men, leaving 2,000 men at Rhode Island, and 7,000 at New York. As these operations may be of the last importance to the nation, he requests the Secretary of State to point out any general plans most advisable. The northern army is not expected to reach Albany before the middle of September. (d.) 8 March 1777. In answer to the last letter, the Secretary of State approves Sir William Howe's amended plan of operations; and recommends a warm diversion on the coasts of Massachusetts's Bay and New Hampshire. He laments that, instead of the 7,800 promised, only 2,900 may be expected from England. (e.) 30 January 1777. Sir William Howe presses for reinforcements, another campaign being certain. 20,000 men are required, though 15,000 would give a superiority. Philadelphia is the principal object. If the reinforcements are small, the operations must be curtailed. If none come, the operations must be confined to Jersey, a small corps being left at Rhode Island and New York. (f.) 26 March 1777. The Secretary of State informs Sir G. Carleton of the plan of General Burgoyne's expedition, the object of which was to proceed with all expedition to Albany, and put himself under the command of Sir W. Howe. (g.) 19 April 1777. The Secretary of State informs Sir W. Howe that he is unable to send greater reinforcements; and that a regiment (400 men, part of the promised 2,900) is ordered to Canada.

(14.) 14 January 1777. Letter from Lord George Germain to Lord Howe and Sir William Howe. The writer hopes that the Commissioners' proclamation has had the desired effect. "Those who shall neglect the present means of obtaining His Majesty's forgiveness, and refuse to make that wise and dutiful submission, to which they have been graciously invited and exhorted, must expect to become the objects of his severest displeasure." The number of persons "who have attested their allegiance bearing-but a small proportion to that of those who continue refractory and disobedient," the Commissioners are right in forbearing to declare the whole province at peace.

(15.) 17 February 1777, New York. Letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Mrs. Strachey, in England. "Another campaign," he writes, "here must certainly be fought, and that I think must end the rebellion, but then the peace business will be so extensive that I shall not see the conclusion of it. It is, however, within the possibility of accident that everything may be soon settled."

(16.) 3 March 1777, Whitehall. Letter from Lord George Germain to His Majesty's Commissioners for restoring peace. The writer has learnt with satisfaction from the Commissioners' dispatch (of 30th November) that the terms of their proclamation have been embraced with avidity in the "neighbouring provinces;" and hopes that the unexpected success of the rebels at Trenton, since the date of that dispatch, "will not so far elate them as to prevent them from seeing the real horrors of their situation, and tempt them to disdain to sue for pardon."

(17.) 3 March 1777. Letter from Lord George Germain to the Hon. Sir William Howe, K.B., Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces, &c. &c. Requesting that aids and facilities, consistent with prohibitions in the Restraining Act, may be afforded to the agent of Sir Robert Harris (Treasurer and Commissioner of the Farmers General of the French revenue, for the purpose of supplying them with British plantation tobacco, for the use of the manufactories), who is about to start for New York, to buy any tobacco which may be made prize of by His Majesty's ships or troops, and also to buy tobacco in any part of the colonies of Virginia and Maryland that may be restored, by the Commissioners authorities, to His Majesty's peace.

(18.) 18 May 1777, Whitehall. Letter from Lord George Germain to Lord Howe and Sir William Howe, K.B., Commissioners for restoring peace, &c. His Majesty would have heard with the completest satisfaction that the rebels in general had paid that attention to your proclamation which it deserved, and that their eagerness to sue for the royal mercy had at least kept pace with his gracious inclination to grant it." With respect to the Commissioners' proposal to proclaim a general pardon, the writer of the dispatch remarks that the King gives them full liberty of action, and "though the guilt of those persons, who have declared the colonies independent, and who have in consequence of such declaration treated with foreign powers, in the hopes of engaging this kingdom in a war, is so aggravated and atrocious as to render them objects of the King's severest displeasure, His Majesty, however, will graciously condescend to receive even those criminals to his mercy, provided that the general good can thereby, and by that measure only, be promoted."

(19.) 20 May 1777, Whitehall. Letter from Lord George Germain to Lord Howe and Sir William Howe. Acknowledging the receipt of letter, bearing date of March 25, and announcing that "it gave His Majesty great satisfaction to find that so considerable a number of his deluded subjects, altho' not the leaders nor principal instigators and abettors of the rebellion, had availed themselves of the opportunity given them by your proclamation of returning to their duty."

(20.) 12 June 1777. Letters from Lord George Germain to the Commissioners for restoring peace. In consideration of difficulty, which the Act for restraining the trade of the rebellious colonies has thrown in the way of disposing of ships and cargoes, made prize of and carried into New York and other ports not restored to His Majesty's peace, an Act has been passed authorising the carrying of the captures therein mentioned

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

SIR H.
STRACHEY,
BART.

into any part of His Majesty's dominions in North America, &c. Copies of the Act are enclosed.

(21.) 14 July 1777. On board the Eagle. Letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Charles D'Oyley, Esq. "No honorable peace," says the writer, "can in my opinion be now attained, till the rebel armies are subdued, or till our forces have possession of every province. Washington, by never putting himself in a situation to be beat, may prevent the former, and the latter can only be effected by your sending out a considerable reinforcement of troops."

(22.) An Insignificant Journal of Insignificant Events from the 14 November to 3 December 1777. Written chiefly on board the "Eagle," by Henry Strachey for the amusement of his wife in England; this journal rarely touches public matters, but it contains some pleasant anecdotes, illustrative of the once famous Dr. Fothergill's benevolence.

(23.) 21 February 1778. Copy of letter from General Sir William Howe to General Washington. Replying to the charges of cruel treatment of rebels, prisoners to British power, preferred against British authorities. The writer insists that these complaints, as well as other accusations of cruelties practised upon the American officers, prisoners at Philadelphia, are totally "without foundation." After disposing in this manner of the charges against British officers, General Howe remonstrates indignantly with General Washington on the barbarities systematically and openly perpetrated by Americans upon the soldiers of the mother country. Amongst other instances of cruelty mentioned with fervour by the writer, is the treatment of "a number of 'invalids, who were taken about two months ago in the brig Symetry near Wilmington on Delaware." The letter continues, "It appears that those defenceless prisoners, lame, sick, and wounded, were beaten with clubs; that two of them, the deponent and Grierson, were wantonly thrown overboard into the river, the latter of whom was drowned, and that William Savage, an invalid of the 17th regiment, in a state of extreme debility, was left all night in the long boat, where before morning he was so much frost-bitten that the skin and flesh dropped from his hands and feet. It was unnecessary to add that the unfortunate man perished in consequence of such merciless treatment." Passing from outrages on the persons of helpless prisoners, General Howe concludes his epistle with some warm reflections on the persecution to which the loyal Americans are subjected, with the connivance, if not at the orders, of the revolutionary leaders, by their fellow countrymen. "You are no ignorant," the writer urges, "that numbers, even of the most respectable gentlemen in America, of that description have been torn from their families, confined in jails, and their property confiscated. . . . Nor can it be unknown to you that many have suffered death from tortures inflicted by the unrelenting populace under the eye of usurped yet passive authority; that some have been dragged to trial for their loyalty, and in cruel mockery of law condemned and executed; that others are now perishing in loathsome dungeons, and that penal edicts are daily issuing against all who hesitate to disavow by a solemn oath the allegiance they owe, and wish to pay to their Sovereign."

(24.) Packets of intercepted letters, from French Canadians to relatives in France, kept by the secretary of the Commissioners on account of their allusions to proceedings of Congress and political matters.

(c.) Sir Henry Strachey's papers relating to the negotiations for the Treaty of Paris.

(1.) 25 July 1782. Commission to Richard Oswald of the city of London, to act as the Commissioner of Great Britain for arranging, with the Commissioners of the United States, terms of peace between Great Britain and "certain colonies in North America."

(2.) 10 September 1782. Letter from Mr. Oswald containing a draft of minutes for a treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

(3.) Same date. Abstract of a paper respecting the boundaries of certain colonies in North America, referred to in the above-mentioned letter.

(4.) 5 and 8 October 1782. Abstract of letters from Mr. Oswald of the said dates.

(5.) Letter (undated) from Mr. Townsend to Mr. Oswald. Expressing dissatisfaction at the slowness of the negotiations between the English and American Commissioners; the dilatoriness of the latter being said to contrast strongly with Dr. Franklin's expressions of desire for dispatch. It is observed that, though Congress has given them the fullest powers, the American Commissioners grant nothing that is required of them. Mr. Oswald is desired to be strenuous in his exertions "for the individuals who have shared the fate of Great Britain."

(6.) 20 October 1782. Paper in the handwriting of Mr. Henry Strachey, endorsed. This paper was marked "Duplicate" in 1840, when the correspondence was placed in the hands of G. W. Featherstonhaugh, Esq., when he was preparing his report on the Boundary Question, afterwards settled by the Ashburton Treaty. The paper of which it was the duplicate may have been that "written" by Lord Shelburne "himself." It was carried off, with the larger part of this correspondence, to America, under the circumstances already mentioned.

"Lord Shelburne's Instructions to me written by himself at Lord Grantham's and delivered to me there on Sunday, October 20, 1782. Present: Lord Shelburne, Mr. Townsend, Lord Grantham, Mr. Orde. Sunday, 20th Oct. 1782."

Urge our right to all Back lands, the claim of the provinces having been bounded by the Proclamation of 1763, and acquiesced in.

Urge the right of the King to the soil under the charters however understood.

Urge the French boundary of Canada.

Urge the boundary established by the Quebec Act, which was acquiesced in.

Urge all this with a view to obtain some compensation for the refugees, either by a direct cession of territory in their favour, or by engaging the half, or some proportion of what the back lands may produce when sold, or a sum mortgaged on those lands, or at least a favourable boundary of Nova Scotia, extending it, if possible, so as to include the province of Maine; if that can't be, the province of Sagadahock, or at the very least to include Penobscott.

Urge the just boundaries of West Florida.

But it is understood that if nothing of this can be obtained after the fairest and most strenuous trials it may be left to the Commissioners to settle, and the American propositions accepted, leaving out the right of drying fish on the island of Newfoundland, and confining them to what hitherto they have used, a drift fishery, and expunging all the last article except what regards the Mississippi, administration having no power as to the Act of Navigation.

It must appear authentically that every instance has been used in favour both of the refugees and of the debts prior and subsequent to 1775, and most favourable terms obtained, if possible, in the way of absolute and positive engagement; if not, in the way of recognition.

Mr. Strachey to return as soon as possible.

The refugees are of great importance; but, if the province of the Main be left to Nova Scotia, and the Americans can be brought to join us in regard to West Florida, there are resources which may satisfy them, but the debts require the most serious attention,—that honest debts may be honestly paid in honest money,—no Congress money.

Some security as to American courts of justice, in lieu of their right of appeal, which subsisted when the debts were contracted.

(7.) 23 Oct. 1782. Copy of a letter from Mr. Townsend to Mr. Oswald, undated, but apparently of the given date. The British Commissioner in Paris is instructed to insist on a more extensive boundary to the south-west of Nova Scotia, than the one proposed by the plan of treaty, transmitted on the 7th inst. Great Britain extends her pretensions to the province of Maine. In order that the King may be enabled to make some compensation to the refugees, Mr. Oswald must insist on the British claims to back country. It is strange that the American Commissioners, notwithstanding the fullness of their powers to negotiate, should use language, implying that they can only receive proposals, "as if a treaty were not an instrument of mutual cession." The recovery of the debts due to British subjects before the war must be secured, if possible. The American demand to have the privilege of drying fish on Newfoundland must be resisted, as the privilege would be fruitful of disputes.

(8.) 26 Oct. 1782. Letter from Mr. Townsend to Mr. Oswald. Stating that West Florida is certainly an object for attention; and that the writer would gladly adopt means to ensure Great Britain's repossession of it. The writer does not think that a quiet evacuation of New York has been guaranteed.

(9.) 4 Nov. 1782. Copy of a letter from Richard Oswald, Esq., to the American Commissioners. The

SIR H.
STRACHEY,
BART.

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

American Commissioners are reminded that they have been repeatedly urged by the writer to stipulate "for a restoration of the property of all those persons under the denomination of loyalists, or refugees, who have taken part in the present war." Mr. Strachey, since his arrival in Paris, has strenuously pleaded for the unfortunate loyalists. These demands for justice to a special class of sufferers, "extend not only to all persons of the above-mentioned description who have fled to Europe, but likewise to all those who may be now in any parts of North America, dwelling under the protection of His Majesty's arms or otherwise." Before the negotiations can proceed further, Great Britain must have assurance, satisfying her concern for these adherents to her cause.

(10.) 7 Nov. 1782, Paris. Copy of a letter from the American Commissioners (Messrs. John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, and John Jay) to Richard Oswald, Esq. . . . Refusing to accede to his demands in behalf of the fugitives and loyalists. Should their inability to comply with his proposals "induce Great Britain to continue the war for the sake of those who caused and prolonged it," it is hoped that "the utmost latitude will not be again given to its rigours."

(11.) 8 Nov. 1782, Calais. Letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to the Right. Hon. Mr. Townshend, accompanying a draft of terms for the treaty, and a map on which are drawn the boundary line originally sent to Mr. Townshend, and two other lines proposed by the American Commissioners after the writer's arrival in Paris. The American Commissioners have conceded the right of drying fish on Newfoundland; but insist on the right to fish in the Gulph of St. Lawrence, and in all other places where they and the English used formerly to fish, and also to dry on the shores of the Isle of Tables, Cape Tables, the Magdalen Islands, and on the shores of any unsettled bay of Nova Scotia. The recovery of the property of the refugees and of the debts due to British subjects, before and since the war, were contended for firmly. The debts prior to 1775 appear to be safe, but debts of a later date are declared irrecoverable in law, on the ground that they were illegal. Nothing can be obtained for refugees now under the protection of the British army. There is nothing for refugees of all other kinds but what the minister has in Canada. The American Commissioners will not stipulate for the quiet evacuation of New York, on account of their treaty with France, which provides that America shall not make a separate peace or truce; but they are confident that, on sight of the provisional treaty signed by them, General Washington will not obstruct the evacuation.

(12.) 23 Nov. 1782. Letter from Lord Shelburne to Hon. Mr. Townshend, accompanying a copy of a letter from the writer to Mr. Oswald, to be forwarded to Mr. Strachey. The writer says "Fitzherbert must exhibit confidence to the French about the fishery."

(13.) Copy of a letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Mr. Townshend. Announcing the failure of the appeals made by the writer and Mr. Oswald to the American Commissioners, in behalf of the fugitives and loyalists, and asking whether "Mr. Oswald shall sign the treaty 'without any provision for the refugees.'" The American Commissioners insist on their right to dry fish on the unsettled parts of Nova Scotia. Mr. Fitzherbert, who has taken part in the conferences, has no hope of seeing an accommodation of the differences. No date to this letter, which seems, however, to have been written about 25 November.

(14.) 29 Nov. 1782, Paris. Copy of a letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to the Right Hon. Mr. Townshend. The writer is pleased with the minister's expressions of satisfaction. The article for the refugees is more advantageous than modifications sent from London. Mr. Fitzherbert has done much in securing the treaty. Indeed, without him there would have been no treaty.

(15.) 29 Nov., Paris. Copy of a letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Mr. Secretary Townshend. Announcing the final agreements on the several articles of the treaty, and enclosing a list of the altered articles, with remarks on the alterations.

(16.) 29 Nov., Paris. Copy of a letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Mr. Nepean. The writer hears with delight that his conduct meets with Lord Shelburne's approbation, and thinks that "what is now accomplished must give satisfaction, as it is much beyond the most sanguine expectations." Much has been gained for the refugees, especially in respect to their debts; and it is well that there is no list of exceptions, "which certainly would have been humiliating, how"ever cloaked." If it is not a good peace, it is the best that could have been made under the circumstances.

(17.) 30 Nov. 1782, Paris. Copy of a letter from Mr. Richard Oswald to the Right Hon. Thos. Townshend, &c., &c., &c. Enclosing the articles of the treaty, signed and sealed, and mentioning the latest alterations in them.

(18.) 10 Feb. 1783, Whitehall. Copy of a letter from Henry Strachey, Esq., to Mr. Fitzherbert. On the position of the ministry, the aspect of the political affairs, and the manner in which the treaty has been received in England. "I have," says Mr. Strachey at the conclusion of the long letter, "this moment read a copy of the petition intended to be presented to the House of Commons from the loyalists, saying that the 5th Article will not have any effect in their favour, and, therefore, praying compensation for their losses. My idea is that the earnest recommendation of Congress is equivalent to our King's recommendation to Parliament, and that all the refugees, except the few who are particularly obnoxious, will recover their estates."

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

III.—The Kirkpatrick Papers, consisting chiefly of official writings left by the brothers, Colonel William Kirkpatrick and Colonel James Achilles Kirkpatrick.

(Colonel Achilles Kirkpatrick was for several years the Resident at Hyderabad, and his elder brother, Colonel William Kirkpatrick [Sir Edward Strachey's maternal grandfather] was Military Secretary to the Marquis of Wellesley, when his Lordship was Governor-General of India. Colonel (afterwards General) William Kirkpatrick was the author of a "Persian, Arabic, and English Vocabulary." "4to," published, in 1785, and of an "Account of the Kingdom of Nepaul." 4to," published in 1811.)

(1.) Captain James A. Kirkpatrick's private letters, books, 12 in number, from 3 Dec. 1794 to 5 June 1805, containing copies of such unofficial, though in some cases important, letters as he wrote, during the above stated term, to his friends and also to agents for his private affairs, from Hyderabad. The majority of the letters entered in these registers are strictly domestic, whilst a considerable minority relate to commissions to tradespeople and other matters of insignificant business. Both in his letters to Col. William Kirkpatrick, and also in his letters to other possessors of his confidence, copied into these books of record, whenever the writer touches on politics he has recourse to cypher.

(2.) 31 Jan. 1798. Copy of answers to certain queries proposed by Lord Mornington to Major Kirkpatrick relative to the French corps in the service of the Nizam.

(3.) 8 July, 1798, Fort William. Despatch (chiefly in cypher), covering 80 pages of closely written letter-paper, from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Assistant to the Resident at Hyderabad, written on the occasion of the publication, "by the Governor-General of the Isle of France, during the residence of two ambassadors of Tippoo Sultan on that island, of a proclamation purporting to be a declaration of certain propositions communicated to the French Government in the name of Tippoo Sultan by his ambassadors, then on the spot." Also a despatch of the same date (chiefly in cypher) and on the same occasion as the above-mentioned letter from Lord Mornington to Colonel William Palmer, Resident at Poonah.

(4.) 8 July 1798, Fort William. Letter from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to J. A. Kirkpatrick, Esq., Acting Resident at Hyderabad, "You will not," the Governor-General observes, "communicate to Azim ul Omrah my determination to support the succession of Secunder Jah until the death of the Nizam shall have taken place, or until you shall have received information from the minister that it is likely to happen within a very short time."

(5.) 13 July 1798. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to the Hon. Jonathan Duncan, Governor in Council, at Bombay.

(6.) 14 July 1798, Fort William. Letter (private) from Lord Mornington to Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick. Announcing that the office of Military Secretary has been reserved for the Colonel; and suggesting that he should visit Hyderabad to assist his brother in the execution of arduous duties, "You will perceive," the Governor-General writes, "that I have made the earliest effort, which circumstances would

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

"admit, to avail myself of a favorable crisis for the "restoration of the Triple Alliance, and of the general
"balance of power in India."

(7.) 18 July 1798, Fort William. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain Kirkpatrick, Assistant to the Resident at Hyderabad.

(8.) 25 July 1798, Fort William. Letter from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to J. A. Kirkpatrick, Esq., Assistant to the Resident at Hyderabad. Written on the arrival of intelligence from Europe of the probability of an early peace with France, which renders it needful for the Governor-General and his agent at Hyderabad, to adopt new measures for the extinction of the French party at that Court.

(9.) 11 August 1798, Fort William. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad.

(10.) 25 August 1798, Fort William. Letter, chiefly in cypher, from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad.

(11.) 6 Sept. 1798, Calcutta. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad.

(12.) 2 Nov. 1798, Calcutta. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad.

(13.) 11 Nov. 1798, Fort William. Letter from the Governor-General, Lord Mornington, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad. His Lordship has addressed letters to the Nizam, to Azim ul Omrah, and to Meer Allum, on the occasion of the execution by His Highness of the 6th Article of the late subsidiary Treaty, which letters the Governor-General wishes to be delivered and read in open Durbar.

(14.) 29 Nov. 1798, Fort William. Despatch from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad. Containing instructions respecting particular affairs, and also the writer's general policy at that court. The Resident is enjoined to be "peculiarly careful to abstain from all appearance of a disposition to interfere in the internal arrangements of the Nizam's government;" and to "avoid all invidious display of power."

(15.) 9 Nov. 1798, Fort William. Despatch from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad. Covering 34 closely written folio pages, this long epistle opens with a repetition of the expressions of the Governor-General's lively and high sense of Captain Kirkpatrick's services, both before and since the ratification of the new subsidiary treaty with the Nizam. "It was," the writer observes, "always my intention that my letter of the 18th September conveying to you the appointment of 'resident as the reward of your merit on that occasion' should be made matter of public record." After these courtesies and encomiums, Lord Mornington reveals with singular fullness and precision his plans for the reduction of Seringapatam. Whilst showing how much his hopes for the success of that enterprise depend on the cordial co-operation of the Court of Hyderabad, the Governor-General instructs the resident how to address the Nizam so as to obtain from him the largest possible measure of material support.

(16.) 31 Aug., Fort William. Letter in cypher from Lord Mornington, Governor-General, to Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad.

(17.) Folio, No. 1. Aug. 1798 to Dec. 1798. Described on the back of one of the covers by Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, "Private Letters from my 'brother James Kirkpatrick';" the letters being written by Captain James Achilles Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, to his brother Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick at Calcutta. Containing copies of letters from some of Captain James A. Kirkpatrick's correspondents; also a copy of a letter (of 20 folio sheets) written apparently for publication as a pamphlet, to "Carnaticus" by "Asiaticus," the latter being an admirer and champion of Lord Cornwallis. Another copy (MS.) of this tract is described in pencil, "A reply 'to a Pamphlet, being an attack on Lord Cornwallis's 'Mysore Campaign of 1791.'"

(18.) Folio, No. 2. 2 Jan. 1799 to 18 April 1800. Letters from Captain James Achilles Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, to Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick. The historical interest of these letters is small. Several of them are written partly or throughout in cypher; but the student would not experience much difficulty in dealing with the passages in cypher, the key to the characters being given in notes of explanation written here and there over words in cypher. These explanatory annotations seem to have been made by Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, when he arranged the letters, or by the reader who examined them in 1827.

(19.) Folio No. 3. 25 April to 29 Dec. 1800. Endorsed by Lieut.-Colonel Kirkpatrick with the words, "Letters 'from my brother James Kirkpatrick.'" Together with letters written from Hyderabad to Lieutenant-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, by Captain James A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad; this folio contains copies of those of the letters of his correspondents, which Captain Kirkpatrick sent to his brother, for his information on political and official affairs. The transcripts comprise copies of letters to the Resident at Hyderabad from Colonel Palmer, Resident at Poonah, H. Colebrooke, Resident at Naypoor, Colonel Bowser, whilst operating with Colonel Wellesley against Dhondiah. There are also copies of letters written by Captain Kirkpatrick to his correspondents, and transcripts of copies of letters which they had received from important persons. Amongst these are copies of letters from Colonel Wellesley to Colonel Bowser, during the operations against Dhondiah, i.e. 1, dated 8 Aug. from the camp at Killar, respecting Noor Khan's solicitations for the "pay for his people;" 2, dated 30 Aug. from the camp at Yellahaul, about the measures against Dhondiah; 3, dated 20 Aug. from the camp at Wooby, on the same subject. One of Colonel Palmer's letters to Captain Kirkpatrick, marked very confidential, runs thus, "Colonel Wellesley's proceedings are but little 'calculated to remove the apprehensions formed here 'of the designs of your court. What occasion can we 'have for reinforcement and fresh supplies of ammunition? And why reconnoitre the fort of Dhurwar in person after having been civilly admitted into it by the 'Killedar, which I know he has done, though the subject is too delicate for me to notice publicly of any officer, much less of a brother of the Governor-General. 'But it will perhaps be brought forward by this Durbar 'in a way which will compel me to report it. In the meantime, I have no right to animadvert myself on 'the Colonel's conduct, whom I am not instructed even 'to correspond with.'"

(20.) Fol. No. 4. 9 Jan. to 24 Dec. 1801. Inscribed on one of the covers by Lieutenant-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, "Private letters from my brother James Kirkpatrick." The proportion of copies of letters from official comrades preserved in this volume is comparatively small, and there is little of historic interest in letters of the Resident at Hyderabad to his brother, who, towards the close of the year, moved from Calcutta to Madras, on his way to Europe, for the restoration of his broken health. One of these letters relates to questions of the etiquette that ought to be observed in the household of the Resident at Hyderabad. The folio contains also eight copies of official letters addressed on public and official affairs of no great moment to the Marquis of Wellesley.

(21.) 10 May 1779. Extract from a letter from the Resident at Poonah to the Right Honourable the Governor-General.

(22.) 11 Sept. 1799. Letter from Major John Malcolm on the history and present state of the commercial intercourse of the East India Company and the Government of Hyderabad.

(23.) 29 Oct. 1799. Official letter (dated from the Council Chamber, and signed by G. H. Barlow, Chief Sec. to the Government), announcing to Lieut.-Col. William Kirkpatrick his appointment, by the Governor-General in Council, to be Secretary to the Government in the Secret Political and Foreign Department.

(24.) Nov. 1799. Memorandum, in the writing of J. A. Kirkpatrick, Esq., on "The changes produced in 'the political situation by the conquest of Mysore; 'and on the system of measures necessary in consequence."

(25.) 10 Nov. 1800. Fort William. Copy of a letter from Marquis Wellesley to Captain Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad. Written on the conclusion of the treaty, negotiated by Captain Kirkpatrick, 12 Oct. 1800. It acknowledges in warm language the value of Captain Kirkpatrick's "eminent services in accelerating the destruction of the French influence at 'Hyderabad in 1798; and in bringing the Nizam's 'force into the field with so much promptitude and 'alacrity during the war in Mysore in 1798." The letter concludes with a declaration of the Governor-General's intention "to submit to the Court of Directors" his "earnest recommendation that Captain Kirk-

SIR E.
STRACHEY,
BART.

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

"patrick should be rewarded by some honourable mark
"of public distinction."

(26.) 1 Jan. 1801. Official letter (dated from Council Chamber) to Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, announcing his appointment, by the Governor-General in Council, to be Resident at Poonah vice Colonel Palmer, resigned. Also, a copy of the Governor-General's minute, of the same date, on the appointment of Lieut.-Colonel Kirkpatrick to that office.

(27.) 22 Jan. 1801. Political Paper by Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, entitled "Memo"randum on The Pashwa."

(28.) 8 Jan. 1801, Teheran. Letter from Major John Malcolm respecting his mission to Persia, and giving particulars of the new treaty with that country.

(29.) 20 June 1801, Fort William. Certificate of Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick's length of service, viz., 29 years, 8 months, and 24 days, at the above date.

(30.) 6, 12, 14, 16, 19, 23, 25 March, and 12 and 29 of May. Nine despatches addressed by Colonel John S. Collins, the Resident with Sindia, to Marquis Wellesley, on the above given dates. With the exception of the despatch of 29 May, which is dated from Camp near Cheky, and the despatch of 12 May, which is dated from Camp near Adulabad, all these despatches are dated from Camp near Serowleh.

(31.) 28 Feb., 12 March, 26 March, 5 April, 18 April, 19 April 1801. Official letters, marked A, B, C, D, E, F, dated from Benares by Captain W. D. Knox on a deputation to the Rajah of Nepal; the first two of the series being addressed to Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick, and the rest being addressed to N. B. Edmonstone, Esq., Secretary to Government, Secret and Political Department. Also copy of a letter (date not given) from Mr. N. B. Edmonstone to Captain W. D. Knox, expressing the Governor-General's satisfaction with the result of Captain Knox's action as political agent with Abdicated Rajah of Nepal, and announcing his appointment by the Governor-General to be resident at the Court of Nepal. The writer then conveys at great length and with corresponding minuteness the Governor-General's instructions to Captain Knox, respecting the functions and objects of his new office.

(32.) Jan. 1802. Paper entitled, "A view of the pro"gress of the survey of Mysore and its present state." By Captain Mackenzie.

(34.) 2 July 1803. N. B. Edmonstone, Esq., Secretary to Government to Major A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, containing severe reflections on the duplicity and selfishness, which are always discernible in the action of the court of Hyderabad, whose "con"fined and despicable views must never be suffered
"to affect the operation of that just and comprehensive
"policy" of the Governor-General's arrangements with the several states of Hindostan.

(35.) Sketch of the Battle of Assye, 23 Sept. 1803. With an explanation of the plan of the battle.

(36.) Hyderabad correspondence from January 1787 to September 1805, in seven folio volumes; containing copies of all despatches addressed during that period by the Political Resident at Hyderabad to the Governor-General of India, with translations into English of documents accompanying the said despatches; also with minutes of instruction from the Governor-General to the Resident, extracts from the Resident's correspondence with official persons, and other papers.

Volume I. Private and semi-official correspondence, 1787-1794.

Volume II. Hyderabad correspondence relating to the intrigues of Tippoo Sultan at that court, 1796-7. Opening with an extract of a letter, addressed by Captain William Kirkpatrick (dated Hyderabad, 5 Feb. 1796) to the Honourable Sir John Shore, Bart., Governor-General, Fort William, with translation of enclosure, attested by James Achilles Kirkpatrick. The volume contains,—(a.) Extract of letter to Lord Hobart, President in Council, Fort St. George, from Captain William Kirkpatrick, 11 February 1796. (b.) Extract of letter from Major William Kirkpatrick to the Governor-General Sir John Shore, 21 March 1796.

Volume III. Hyderabad correspondence, 1800-1. Opening with a copy of Lord Mornington's minute (12 August 1798), "of such measures as appear most "advisable for the purpose of frustrating the united "efforts of Tippoo Sultan and France." This elaborate statement of policy covers 100 folio sheets, written closely on both sides. The volume contains also,—(a.) Copy of a general defensive alliance, concluded at Hyderabad, 20 May, A.D. 1800, but not ratified by the Governor-General. (b.) Letter of instructions, covering

32 closely written sheets from Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General, to Captain James Achilles Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, 15 June 1800, respecting the negotiations for a treaty between the East India Company and that court. (c.) Captain Kirkpatrick's reply to the Governor General, setting forth the difficulties of the negotiation, and defending the course hitherto pursued by him in the matter. (d.) Draft of the—"enlarged perpetual subsidiary Treaty (1 Sept. A.D. 1798) between the Hon. East India Company and His Highness Nizam ul Mulk Asoph Jah Bahadur, settled by Captain James Achilles Kirkpatrick, by virtue of the powers delegated to him by the Right Hon. Richard Earl of Mornington, &c., the Governor-General. (e.) Letter of explanatory observations on the said treaty addressed, 26 May 1800, by Captain J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, to the Marquis of Wellesley. (f.) Draft of the "treaty of perpetual and
"general defensive alliance" (12 Oct. 1800) between the Hon. East India Company and His Highness the Nawaab Nizam ul Mulk, Asoph Jah Bahadur, Sonbadar of the Deccan, settled by Captain James Achilles Kirkpatrick, Resident at the court of His Highness, by virtue of the powers delegated to him by the Marquis Wellesley, &c., Governor-General. (g.) Letter (signed N. B. Edmonstone, Secretary to Government) to Major J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, conveying the Governor General's instructions to the Resident to intercede, in the name of the British Government, with His Highness the Nizam, in favour of Meer Allum.

Volume IV. Hyderabad correspondence, from 28 October 1802 to 5 July 1803.

Volume V. Hyderabad correspondence, semi-official, 1804. With the exception of a despatch to Marquis Wellesley (7 Dec. 1804), complaining of bad faith at the court of Hyderabad, and another to Major-General the Hon. Arthur Wellesley (30 Jan. 1805), describing the disorders prevalent at Hyderabad, and giving reasons for an increase of the subsidiary force there, all the letters of this volume are addressed to N. B. Edmonstone, Esq., secretary to Government. In one of these letters to Mr. Edmonstone (9 Oct. 1804), covering 124 folio sheets, Major J. A. Kirkpatrick gives a very vivid picture of the state of affairs at Hyderabad.

Volume VI. Hyderabad correspondence, from 6 September 1804, to 11 August 1805. Containing 34 despatches, addressed by Major J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, to Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General, with translations of documents, enclosed with them. Also official letters from the same writer to N. B. Edmonstone, secretary to Government, Fort William, Hon. M. Elphinstone, Resident at Nagpoor, Colonel Close, Resident at Poonah, and Capt. Thomas Sydenham, Acting Resident at Poonah.

Volume VII. Hyderabad correspondence, from 11 July 1803 to 5 Sept. 1805. Containing copies of 68 despatches from Major J. A. Kirkpatrick to Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General, with translations of enclosures. Also official letters from the Resident at Hyderabad to N. B. Edmonstone, Esq., secretary to Government, Fort William, Colonel Barry Close, Resident at Poonah, and to E. Trissell and E. Warring, Esqs., acting secretaries to the Residency at Poonah. The early part of this volume contains several entries, under the heading "Diary," consisting of memoranda of passing occurrences, which the Resident at Poonah reported shortly afterwards to the Governor-General. The substance of these "diaries" is in every case repeated in the official letters. They repay perusal, however, as their descriptive force is heightened by their comparative freedom from the formality and stiffness of official correspondence. For instance, those of them which were penned in August 1803 afford vivid illustrations of the agitation and movements of Hyderabad, during the last illness of His Highness the Nizam, and the period immediately following Secundah Jah's accession to his father's sovereignty.

(37.) March 4, 1805. Letter from General the Hon. Arthur Wellesley to Colonel Close, Resident at Poonah, about the recent unfortunate occurrence at Sindia's Durbar, and the difficulties occasioned by Mr. Jenkin's alternate precipitancy and irresolution.

(38.) 4, 5, 7, 9, 16 April 1805, Poonah. Official letters from Captain Thomas Sydenham to N. B. Edmonstone, Esq., Secretary to Government, Political Department, Fort William.

(39.) 17 May 1805. Copy of a despatch from Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General, to Lord Lake; marked "Official and Secret." After announcing that Doulut Rou Scindia has rendered a sufficient apology for the

SIR E.
STRACHY,
BART.

SIR E. STRACHEY, BART.

late outrage to the British Embassy, and that therefore the need for pursuing him has disappeared, the writer enjoins Lord Lake under all contingencies to advert to "the possibility of our being compelled to employ 'arms' against Scindiah, Holker, and 'other freebooters.'" Instructions for the disposal of the army follow; the probability that the British troops may be soon employed "against Scindiah or any freebooter" being steadily kept in view.

(40.) 23 May 1805. Letter from John Lumsden, Esq., Chief Secretary to Government, Fort William. Containing directions for checking and reducing expenditure at the Residency of Hyderabad.

(41.) 17 June 1805. Letter from Major J. A. Kirkpatrick, Resident at Hyderabad, to John Lumsden, Esq., Chief Secretary to Government, Fort William. Respecting new orders and arrangements for the reduction of expenditure at the Residency of Hyderabad.

(42.) 1 July 1805, Poona. Copy of despatch from Captain Thomas Sydenham to Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General, with enclosures. And 20 July 1805, Poona. Copy of despatch addressed by Colonel Barry Close, Resident at Poona, to Marquis Wellesley, Governor-General.

(43.) 21 September 1805. A short account of the arrangement agreed upon by the Court of Directors with the private creditors of the Nabobs of the Carnatic. With private letter from Mr. John de Fries to Lieut.-Colonel William Kirkpatrick.

(44.) A classified collection of Persian metaphors.

(45.) A narrative of the Mahratta War, in three chapters, covering 61 sheets of letter-paper, by Major John Malcolm, whose signature is attached to the third "Memorandum."

(46.) Plan of the action of Laswarry; with a description of the affair, and a list of the English killed or wounded in the battle. Anonymous.

The Anglo-Indian MSS., preserved at Sutton Court, comprise also official journals and correspondence of Sir Edward Strachey's father, Edward Strachey, Esq., of the Bengal Civil Service, chiefly belonging to the period when, as assistant to Colonel Close, the Political Resident at Poona, he was attached to General Wellesley's staff. Of these writings mention may be made of the following:—

(a.) Account of the Battle of Assaye, with description of the field, by Edward Strachey; with note in pencil to his friend Elphinstone (the Hon. M. Elphinstone, afterwards Governor of Bombay), asking for corrections of the narrative. (b.) Mr. Elphinstone's description of the same battle (dated Sept. 27, camp near Assaye), in answer to the above-mentioned note. (c.) Official letters from Colonel Close, at Poona, to Edward Strachey, Esq., on a mission to the Southern Mahrattas (July 1804 to November 1804). (d.) Three papers of Hints and Suggestions for obtaining further knowledge of "the more southerly 'parts of the Deccan' and of 'Maratta History.'" (e.) Letter of official instructions, signed Arthur Wellesley, and dated camp, Jan. 30, 1804, to Edward Strachey. (f.) Copy of part of a private letter, dated 5 Nov. 1804, from Edward Strachey, Esq., to General Wellesley. (g.) Mr. Edward Strachey's official letter-book, from 8 July to 18 August 1804. (h.) The official letter-book of the same civil officer, from 20 August to 23 Nov. 1803. Also the following letter:—

Sir, Seringapatam, Dec. 5, 1804.

I have perused the copies of your letters which you sent to me, & your despatch of the 25th Nov. I am fully satisfied that you did everything in your power to bring your negotiations to a speedy & successful conclusion; & I am convinced that they failed from causes which were not foreseen when you was despatched on your mission, & which you could not controul.

The result of your mission, however, although not exactly what I could have wished, is not unattended by many circumstances of public advantage. We have gained an accurate knowledge of the sentiments & intentions of all the Southern chiefs, we know the real points of difference which exist between them & the Peshwah, & them & the Rajah of Kolapour, & between each other, & we are enabled to form an opinion regarding the best mode of negotiating with them hereafter. I consider these advantages to be important, & that the public are indebted for them to your zeal, intelligence, and ability.

As it does not appear to me that I shall have occasion to detain you for any greater length of time from the duties of the office to which you have been appointed in Bengal by His Excellency the Governor-General, I beg you to commence your journey to Calcutta whenever you may find it convenient to yourself.

I have the honour to be, Sir, with great respect and esteem, your most obedient & faithful servant,

ARTHUR WELLESLEY.

SIR E. STRACHEY, BART.

E. Strachey, Esq.

Mr. Strachey had been sent by General Wellesley early in the year 1804 to the camp of the Mahratta Chief Dowlut Row Sindia, to act there under the orders of Major Malcolm, or to take his place and carry out his instructions if the Major should be obliged by illness to leave his post.

Besides the documents already mentioned, the Sutton Court Collection comprises a considerable number of papers which, though of slight historic value, would be interesting to connoisseurs of literary curiosities. James Mill, the historian, Peacock, the novelist, and Edmund Burke are amongst the notable persons, some of whose private letters may be found in Sir Edward Strachey's library. Mention may also be made of an autograph note from George III. to the master of his household, Sir Henry Strachey, and a letter written, in 1592, by Queen Elizabeth to James of Scotland, beginning, "My dear brother, the care of your estate with feare of your neglect so afflicts my mynde as I may not ouerslip the sending you a nobleman to serue you for a memoriall of my readinis and desiar of your spede." . . .

In conclusion, I may be permitted to express my cordial sense of the kindness with which I was received in Somersetshire, by Sir Edward Strachey on the occasion of my visit to Sutton Court, and my obligations to him and his brother Lieutenant-Colonel Strachey for the assistance they have afforded me in the preparation of this report.

JOHN CORDY JEAFFRESON.

A MANUSCRIPT VOLUME BELONGING TO SIR GEORGE WEBBE DASENT, D.C.L.

SIR G. W. DASENT.

It is an 8vo. sized volume, of more than 250 vellum leaves, containing (amongst other things) copies, in English and in Latin, of the Statutes and Ordinances of the Fraternity and Gild of St. Peter on Cornhill; of the Charter of King Henry IV., relating thereto; and of the title deeds of the various houses, and land, and rents belonging to it. King Henry IV., in the 4th year of his reign, gave license to William Aghton (the parson of the church of St. Peter) and three other persons to found the Fraternity and Gild, and to found a Chantry in the church. Four days afterwards the licensees executed a deed, declaring that they had founded the Gild; and 5 days later the wardens, and brethren, and sisters of the Gild executed a deed, declaring that they had founded the Chantry. After the copy of this deed come the statutes of the fraternity in English, and also the statutes in Latin; these latter are a little variant from the English, as might be expected from the saving clause at the end of the English form. Between the two sets of statutes are a few entries, in Latin, of gifts by will of divers houses and sums of money to the Fraternity.

Preceding the documents relating to the gild, are copies of the documents relating to various messuages, &c., given to the rector and parishioners for religious uses. The real estates held by the rector and parishioners, and the real estates held by the gild, were as follow* :—

I. Two tenements with cellars, &c., in St. Botulf's Lane, in the parish of St. Andrew Hubert, in the ward of Billingsgate, between the tenement of the Abbat and Convent of St. Mary of Graces by the Tower of London, on the south and east, and the corner tenement, then late of William Eynesham on the north, and Botulf's Lane on the west; and three shops, &c., in the said lane south of St. Andrew's Church, given by the will of John Waleys alias Coneyburgh by his will dated and proved 11 Hen. IV., he had bought them from Robert Whittingham and William Waunstable, citizens of London, who had them from William de Bergh, rector of the church of St. Christopher, London, Drugo Sakeville, and John Bryan, chaplains, who had them from John Beaufront and Margery, his wife, which John Beaufront had them from Sir John Chidlock, Knight, who had them from Richard de Chesham, citizen, and John Forster, chaplain, in 37 Edw. III.

II. A tenement in the parish of St. Peter's Cornhill, in the corner contiguous to the church of St. Peter, one head extending towards Leadenhall toward the east,

* The portions held by each will be seen by the English Table of Contents.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

and the king's highway in the north. This was given by the will, dated A.D. 1410, of Richard Stondone, called Manhale, citizen and candlemaker, who purchased it from John de Cantebrugge, citizen and fishmonger, who purchased it from John de Bartone, parson of the church of Black Notteleye, in Essex, who purchased it from the said John de Cantebrugge and Agnes his wife, which Agnes was executrix of the will of Robert de Manhale, citizen and candlemaker, who took it under the will of John of Oxford, formerly rector of the church of St. Peter's Cornhill, who had built on a piece of land 48 feet by 12 feet belonging to the commonalty of London, and who, in 18 Edw. III., obtained a release from the Mayor and Corporation.

III. A tenement with two shops adjacent on the east side of Wood Street, in the parish of St. Peter, West Cheap, bounded on the north by the tenement of the Goldsmiths of London. This they obtained by devise from John Lane, mercer, who took a conveyance from Alice, widow and executrix of the will of Robert Warwick, who purchased them from Alice, widow and executrix of the will of Robert de Memmes (or Mymmes), who bought them from John de Thorpe of Herwyth and Nicholas, his wife, which Nicholas had them by descent from Hamoalti Castle, her uncle. (Fo. 252b.)

IV. A tenement on the west side of Gracechurch Street, called the Garland on the Hoop (fo. 51b and 238). Sir Simon de Cryel, Knight, and Matilda, his wife, conveyed it to Roger le Avenere in fee. In 52 Hen. III. the said Matilda, daughter of William de Estforde and widow of Simon de Criele, released it to the said William de Avenere in fee. In 1273 Roger Avenere by his will gave the property in shares to his sons Walter and Stephen, who, in 1292, partitioned the property more exactly, Stephen taking the capital messuage and a certain number of ells of land, and Walter taking the remainder. Under Stephen's will his daughter Cristine ultimately took his share; and under Walter's will, in 1350, Cristine took his share in tail. In 32 Edw. III., Cambins Pedewardyne, son and heir of Cristine, conveyed the property to William de Kingstone in fee.

V. A tenement in Bridge Street, in the parish of St. Magnus, by London Bridge. (Fo. 49b and 250b.)

VI. Three shops situate opposite to and on the south side of the chancel of the church of St. Peter's: these seem to have been built on land previously granted to Robert Parry by Sir Hugh de Nevile, and are in the conveyance by Sir Hugh said to be at La Ledenhalle, and to extend in length from the king's highway toward the west as far as Hugh's land towards the east. (Now St. Peter's Church is on the west of Gracechurch Street, and Leadenhall is on the east, so there is a topographical difficulty which I cannot explain.)

VII. Certain tenements called the Horsemill, on the east part of Gracechurch Street.

VIII. A tenement called the Harrow, in the east part of Gracechurch Street, between the tenement of Sir John de Nevill (31 Ed. 3.), called the Ledyhall, on the east and the king's highway in the west:—and other tenements and rents, for the pay of chaplains and maintenance of lamps in the church.

Most of the documents are mentioned as being inrolled in the Court of Hustings, and these inrolments will be found in the books at the Guildhall of London. Much of the real estate came under the will of William, son of Henry Eliot (of Chesthunt), called William of Kingston, fishmonger, dated and proved in 49 Ed. III. This William was apprentice of Adam of Kingston, fishmonger. In 44 Edw. III. a question arose regarding the status of this William of Kingston, and in that year he obtained an inquest at Chesthunt, and the jurors (fo. 101b.) found that he was not born there, and that one Elias at Mille of Hertfordingbury, the great grandfather of the said William, was not born in Chesthunt, but was adventitious, and purchased lands of Robert Elyot in Chesthunt, and that Elias had a son William, who had a son Henry, who was father of the said William de Kyngston, whom they declared to be a free man and not the Lord's naif.

In 1312, Alderman Picot by his will directs that his sons are to go to school till they can compose and versify reasonably well.

The will of Hugh de Kent, in 1347, citizen and furrier of London, mentions his late wife, Matilda de Caxton, who was buried in St. Peter's on Cornhill.

In the will of Peter Masoun, citizen and tailor of London, dated and proved in 1412, one Gerard Lewes, one of the Wardens of the Fraternity of Tailors of St. John the Baptist, is mentioned.

In a deed of 5 Ric. II. the Monastery of St. Mary of Graces, by the Tower of London, is mentioned.

At fo. 259 is a copy of an award made in 1416 in a dispute, where it was decided that the tithes of one inn, called the Ledyndorsh, should go to St. Peter's, and that the inhabitants of the inn and certain other persons should have certain ecclesiastical rites and benefits in the church of St. Peter; but, a portion of property being within the parish of St. Martin of Oteswich, the rector of St. Peter's was to pay 2s. 4d. yearly to the church of St. Martin. This is followed by copies of various instruments and pleadings in the suit.

At fo. 279b is a copy of an exemplification of a decision of the Lord Mayor in a dispute between the rectors (or rather the parish men) of St. Peter of Cornhill, St. Magnus the Martyr, and St. Nicholas of Coldabney, which of the rectors should have the post of honour in the annual Pentecost processions; where the decision was in favour of the rector of St. Peter's, that church being founded by King Lucius, A.D. 199, and being the Metropolitan See for 400 years and more. This document is translated (from one of the Guildhall Books) at p. 651 of Mr. Riley's "Memorials of London and London Life in the 13th, 14th, and 15th Centuries."

The Wills in the volume are as follow:—

- 1273. Roger Avenere.
- 1305. Walter le Avenere (son of Roger).
- 1312. Nicolas Picot, alderman.
- 1321. Philip de Rafford.
- 1326. Robert Pany, plaisterer.
- 8 Edw. III., Hugh de Waltham.
- 9 Edw. III., William de Mymmes.
- 1347. Hugh de Kent, furrier.
- 1360. Robert de Manhale.
- 1370. William Bysshop, glovemaker.
- 1375. William de Kyngestone.
- 1382. John Foxton.
- 1388. Robert Warrewyke.
- 1410. John Waleys, alias Coneysburghe.
- 1410. Richard Stondone, alias Manhale.
- 1412. Peter Masoun.
- 5. Hen. VI. John Lane.

The portions of the volume which are given below are, the Table of Contents (in English), abstract of the will of William of Kingston, and the Statutes of the Guild, in English and in Latin.

The Statutes of 37 Hen. VIII. and 1 Edw. VI. transferred to the Crown the properties whose title deeds are recorded in the volume; and the volume itself would naturally fall into the hands of the Royal Commissioners, from them it doubtless passed to an alienee of some of the property. To Sir George Dasent, the owner of the volume, I beg to return thanks for having entrusted it to me for the purposes of this Commission.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

To the lightiz maynteynyng Hugh of Waltham yaf by testament irollid xiijs. iijl. quit rente out of the shoppes and solers therabowe that is bytwyn the chief entre in to the helme in the est and Michael chirche of Cornhulle in the west	105. b.
Hugh of Waltham purchased these xiijs. iijl. of William Dyer and Kateryne hys wif by her dede irollid	106. a.
To the Sustynyng of honeste Prestiz Nicholas Pycot mercer and alderman yaf by testament irollid vj marcs of sterlingis out of all his tenementiz in Bysshop gat Warde out take his chief yme	113. a.
The Kyngiz chartre Edwarde the secunde confermyth this yift	111. u.
Petur Masone yaf by testament. irollid to the persone of seynt Petre in Cornehulle afore seyid a yerly quit rent of vij l. of sterlingiz out of all his tenementiz in Collichirche parochie atte old conduyt of london	203. b.
John Foxtone yaf by testament irollid to the persone of seynt petruz afore seyid alle his tenementiz in lymstret Warde	119. a.
These tenementz be now annexid to Seynt Petrus brethirhede	138. a. et 154. a.
John Conyeseburgh yaf by testament irollid to the persone of seynt Petruz afore seyid and to the Wardeyns of seynt Petir brethirhede alle his tenementiz in Seynt Andrew Hubert parochie bysyde estchep	169. a.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

E. G. W.
ASSENT.

Richard Manhale yaf by his testament to the persone of Seynt Petrus afore seyð and to the Wardeyns of Seynt Petriz brethirhæd alle his tenementz in Cornhulle Warde	186. b.
Cecile Manhale releessed this tenement to th'afore seyð persone	189. b.
William Kyngistone by testament irollid to the persone aforeseyd . alle his tenementz in Seynt Petre parochæ aforeseyd and a tenement in bruggestret of london	1 folio. a.
The Kyngiz chartre Henry the fyfte confirmeth alle thafore seyð possessionz to the persone afore seyð	102. b.
John Lane by his testament enrollid yaf Syre John Whytby persone of Seynt Petris his tenement in Wodestret	213. b.
The whyche tenement this J. Lane purchacid of Nicholas Chivallo draper of london to hym to John Stavertone and other	210. a.
And aftirward had the same bi reles of Simon Bolde joiner Petre Penne skynner and William Downe clerk	221. b.
And aftirward bi reles of John Stavertone and other	223. a.
Simon Bolde and N. Chivall had this tenement of Alison Warwik	226. b.
This Alison had hit of Robert Warwik's executor	228. a.
Robert Warwik had hit of Alison William Mymmes executire	230. b.
William Mymmes had hit of John of thorp of Herwyk	232. b.

The presten charge.

Nichole Picotiz prestiz charge	113. a.
Petur Mason prestiz charge	204. b.
Chesyngne and presentinge of this prest	204. b.
Foxtone prestiz charge	119. a.
John Conyeburgh prestiz charge	169. b. et
Chesyngne presenting and	170. a. et b.
inductyng of this prest	171. b. et
	153. b.
Richard Manhalez Almesse	188. a.
William Kingiston prestiz charge	1 folio b. et 4 a.
Chesyngne presentyngne and inductyng of this prestiz	4 a. et b.
The personiz reward and charge in Kyngestone diryge	2 ^e . folio a.
The lampe kepyngne and reward therefore	p ^e . fo. b.
William Kyngestone rentes keperezh and the reward theirfore	3 ^e . a. et b.
Whanne the brugge maisterz schalle have and whanne not here reward of Kyngestone rente	4 ^e . b.
The mesur of Seynt Dunstons chirche rente by south the horsmyl aley	31 ^e . a.

Foxtone rente purchaz,

John foxtone purchaced of John lilie	121 a.
John lilie purchaced of John Writele and John Nortone	122 b.
John Writele and Johne Nortone purchacid of John lilie	124 a.
John lilie had by descent aftyr his fader Godefray lilie	124 a.
Godefray lilie purchacid of Thomas of Kauntbrygge	125 a.
Thomas of Kauntbrygge purchacid of Alexander Seour	127 a.
Alexander Seour purchacid of Sir Hugh Neville knight	128 b. et 130 a.

Conyesburghie rente purchaz.

John Conyesburghie purchacid of Robert Whytngnam and of William Wanstall	173 b.
Robert Whytngnam and William Wanstall purchacid of William bergh persone of Seynt Christoforz and othir	175 a.
William bergh and his felawez purchacid of Thomas Pounce and Richard Pounce	177 a.
And this William bergh, &c. had releess of Johne Beafrount	178 a.
Thomas Pounce and Richard Pounce had releess of John boterelle and Richard lunde	179 a.

Sir G. W.
DASENT.

Thomas Pounce Richard Pounce Johne boterelle and Rychard Lunde purchacid of John Beafrount	181 a.
John Beafrount purchacid of Sir John Chidiok knyght	179 b.
Sir John Chidiok purchacid of Rychard Chesham and John Forester	182 b.
The kiechyn of an house of this rente John beafrount toke fore a certayn terme of yers of the abbey of the Tower hill	183 b.

Manhale rente purchaz,

Richard Manhale purchacid of Johne Conyesburgh, &c.	196 b.
John Conyesburghie purchacid of Richard Stondoun	191. b.
Richard Stondoun purchacid of John of Cauntebrugge	192. a.
John of Cauntebrugge purchacid of Maister John of burtone	193. b.
John of Burtone purchacid of Robert Manhalez executurz	194. b.
Robert of Manhale had it be testament of Sir John Oxenford, sum tyme parsone of Seynt Petrus abovesaid, and he band it to the Chambre of london	201. a.

Kyngestone rente purchaz Thre shoppes.

William Kyngestone by his wif Sara Peny that was sum tyme the wyff of Richard Peny had entre into the thre shoppis that now holdyth Johne Mogun and at lastte by Henri Penyz releesse sone and heire to Robert Peny	17 b. et 8 b.
Sare Peny had estat of lyve by Robert Penys testament	13. a.
Robert Peny purchacid of Johne Grey lond vjs. rente that these thre shoppis grund was charged with at that tyme	9. a.
Robert Peny purchacid these aforeseyd thre shoppis grund of Syr Hugh Neville knyght	10. a. et b.
John Mognuez owne tenement at that tyme Nichole Hornz tenement is assigned to here by yere iiijjs. to the aforeseyd thre shoppiz grund discharge ward ayence the lord of the ledyn halle	12. a.
Nichole horn had the tenement that this day is Johne Mognuz owne of Walter Peny	14. b.
Walter Peny had it by testament of his fadyr Robert Peny.	13. a.

Bawdry tenement and hors mille alley.

William kyngestone purchacid of William Bisshopis executors the tenement that sum tyme were Jordanz Baudry and also horsmyll aleye	16. a.
William Bisshopz testament yaf his executor poer to make such sale	17 b.
Leticie Bisshop releessed aftyr this sale to William Kyngestone	29 b.
William Bisshop purchacid of Jordanez Baudryez executor the same Jordanez tenements that was the northside of the horsmille	19 b.
Jordan Baudry purchacid of Peryz blithe	20 b. et 24 b.
Peryz blythe purchacid of Johne Robert Penyz sone and heire	25. b.
Robert Peny had it of Geffray blythe	21. b.
Walter Peny releessed to Jordan baudry thaforeseid tenement	28. a. et b.
Geffray blithe purchacid of laurence atte horsmille sone and heire to Symond atte horsmille	24 a.
William bisshop purchaced of Peryz blithe the horsmille aleye self	25. a.
Peryz blithe had releess of Johne Perry sone to Robert Penyz and eir of alle that tenement that geffray blithe yaf Robert Peny	25. b. 27. a.
Peryz blithe releessed the horsmille aleie to William Bisshop	29. a.
How the southside of the horsmille is demened and alienyd	31 and 32 a. and 33 a.
Paganell Calender purchacid of Geffray blithe Pelli Chandelere had it be hys Alys his wyffe that was Pagan's douter —herry husband after hym.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

The Harowe rente.

William Kyngestone had the harowe rente of Robert Stratford, &c.	35. b.
Robert Stratford, &c. had it of Robert of Harneioie, &c.	36. a.
Robert of Harneioie had it by testament of hughe of Kent	38. a.
Hugh of Kent had it of Henri Robert Penys sone and heire	41. b. et. 42. a.
Robert Peny had it of Philip Uffardex executourz	44. a.
Philip Uffordiz executours had it by testament of Philip of Ufford	46. a.
Philip of Ufford had it of Katherine Bogeis Katherine bogeiz had it of Nut Henrie sone of Gure	46. b. 48. a.

Brygggestret.

William Kyngestone had this tenement in brygggestret of Richard Sterre	49. b. et. 50. b.
--	-------------------

The garland.

William kyngestone had the garland rente of Cambyn Pedewardyn sone and heire to Cristine that was doghtyr and heire to Stephane Avenor	51. b. et. 52. b.
This same Cristyne was heire to her em Walter Avenor in a parte of the same garland rent	54. a.
These ij brethirs Stephane and Walter had the garland rente bi testament of here fader Roger Avenor	57. a.
Roger Avenor had it of Sir Symond Cryall knyght	58. a.
The marke of quit rente that goith out of the garland rente by yere was yewe out of the ground that now holdith there Thomas Remy in parcelle and John Sadler in parcelle	101. a.

Seynt peturz fraternite.

The Wardenez of seynt petrus brethired beth persone capaces bi the name Wardenez of Seynt Petrus brethirhed	131. b.
Seynt Petrus brethirhede hath leve to finde a perpetuall Chanterie of ij prestez for to pray for this fraternite	132. a.
This self fraternite is laghfull and licenced to be funded	131. a.
This fraternite is funded	133. a.
The abovesaid pepetuelle Chaunterie is fundid	134. a.
William Aghtone hugh Rybred John of bury Peryz Masone William brampton and William Askham had leve to make ordynance of the fore seyð brethirhede and Chanterie	132. b.
Ordinances of these afore seyed brethirhed and Chaunterie were wrytte first in englysh	135. b.
These same ordinances were aftr ward engroced in latyn and bygineth	147. a.

Of the prestiz self.

The charge of prestiz of thafore seid chaunterye what thei schall sey aday	148. a. et b.
How this prestiz shall praye by name a yere aftr a brothir or a sustyr obit	140.
What he mot have nedly that wilbe prest of this chaunterie	148. b.
How he schall be atte service day with note	149. a.
What salarie ech of these chauntery prestiz shall have by yere	150. b.
How these chaunterye prestez shalbe perpetuelle	150. b.
Yf any of these chaunterie prestez forfete notori leche he schall be warned thriez fore to amend hym and thane yf he will not amende hym he shall be put out	151. a.
Noon of these prestez shall have any other benefice nere officie than of the Chaunterie	151. b.
Fore what absence these Chaunterie prestez may be prived	153. a.
Who and how on shall be admittyd to be a prest of this Chaunterie	153. a.
Who shalle the and who admitte shall this Chaunterie prest	152. a. & b.

Of the brothirhed self.

Who and how on schalbe received in to this brethirhed	154. a.
Of the clothyng and assemblyng of this brethirhede	155 et 156.
Chesying of this brethirhed Wardenyz	157. a.
Of this brethirhede Wardenyz accompte fore to make	157. et 158.
Of goyng to dyryge and messe of a brothyr or a suster obit	158. b.
Of the yevers to this fraternite	159. a.
Of the keypyng of the brethirhed tresor	159. b.
Of levynge of this tresor	160. a.
Of this brethirhed almesse axinge and yevyng	160 et 161.
Who should be put out of this fraternite	162 a. et b.
Of strife and debatis quenching in this Fraternite	163. a.
By wham and how nywe ordynancez may be maad in this brethirhed	164. a.
The Kynges Charter zifyying lycens to make a fraternitie and statutus and to purchays and put it to mortmayn wythe many privilegges	131.
Of the bundiz of Seynt Petrus parosche aforeseid.
Of the ledyn porche an jugement	159. a.
Of the tailorz halle an jugement	274. a.
Of the vernicle alle the Christofores	284. a.
Of the personz of Seynt Peturz afore seid Goyng in generall processionz.
Thofficiallz of londone jugement	292. a.
A record in the chambre of londone	296.
The Mairez of londone exemptionacione of this record aforeseid	297. b.
The popiz bille upon this jugement	399. b.
Tharchidekne of londone Process upon thaforseid bille	300. b.

Endenturz of yerz.

The endenturz of Wodestreet	211. a.
Moysauntz endenture	235. a.
Bryghtz endenture	238. a.
Tokys endenture	242. a.
Mogunz endenture	244. b.
Bradenhamz endenture	248. a.
Mawseldiz endenture	250. b.

The true tenors of all the charters and writings concerning lands and tenements which William, son of Henry Eliot, called William de Kyngeston, late citizen and fishmonger of London, by his will proved, proclaimed, and inrolled in the husting of London, gave to the rectors and parishioners of the church of St. Peter, on Cornhill, London, and their successors, rectors, and parishioners of the said church.

1375, 49 Edw. III. Will, in Latin, of William, son of Henry Eliot, called William de Kyngeston, citizen and fishmonger of London.—His body to be buried before the altar of the Holy Trinity in the church of St. Peter, on Cornhill, where his tomb was already made. To Sir John Mausyn, the rector, and his successors, and four of the worthiest parishioners and their successors, all his lands and tenements in the parishes of St. Peter and St. Magnus the Martyr of Bridge Street, to find for ever two fit chaplains to celebrate divine service at the said altar for the souls of himself and his two wives, Sara and Aleanor, and his father and mother, &c., and to find two as often as needed for the elevation of Christ's body at the masses of the said two chaplains, and to find one lamp to be for ever burning day and night before the high cross in the said church of St. Peter, and o pay yearly to the parish clerk 2s. sterling for attending to the said lamp, and yearly to the fabric of the body of the church 3s. 4d. The rector and his successors are to have yearly out of the said tenements 10s., and not more, to say Placebo and Dirige and one solemn Mass on the testator's anniversary, and to pay 4d. to each of three other chaplains to celebrate yearly in the said church for the said souls.

Of the tenements: three are in Graschurchestrete, in the said parish of St. Peter, one being between the tenement of Gunnore Horn, and the tenement late of Sir John Nevyle, Knight, on the part of the north, and the tenement of William Bishop, Glover, on the south, and extends from the King's highway on the west to the tenement of the said Sir John Nevyle on the east. Another is situate between the tenement which John Ashwell, hostler, holds on the south, a tenement of the heirs of Cecily Bogeys on the north, and a tenement

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

O. W.
RENT.

formerly of the said Sir John Nevville, called the Ledenhale, on the east, and the King's highway on the west. And another is situate between the tenement of Sir Roger de Lukenore, Knight, on the north, a tenement formerly of Geoffrey Aleyn on the south, and extends from a tenement, late of the said Roger, toward the west, to the King's highway towards the east. And one tenement in Bruggestrete, in the parish of St. Magnus, between the tenement of the heirs of John Mokkyng on the north, a tenement formerly of John Beuer on the south, and extends from the King's highway on the west to a tenement formerly of the said John Beuer on the east.—He gives to the rector and four parishioners aforesaid the reversion of all the tenements which were of William Bishop, in the said parish, of two shops with the appurtenances, and eight shops and four cellars, with gardens and all appurtenances, viz., after the death of Robert Bishop, son of the said William Bishop, which reversion he lately bought of Lettice, widow of the said William Bishop, and William Stoket, executors of W. Bishop's will, for the sustentation of the said chaplains, and to find and lamp, and to pay for other things as above mentioned. The aforesaid two chaplains are each to have yearly 7*l.* sterling. The rents of all his said property are to be collected by the said four parishioners; who are thereout to make the payments directed by the will. Immediately after the testator's death the rector and eight of the said parishioners, and the executors of the will, are to choose the four parishioners, and the four are at the end of every year to render an account (between Michaelmas and All Saints) of their receipts and expenses to the rector and four other worthy parishioners, and the executors for the time being alive; at which time one of the four collectors is to be chosen for chief worker for the ensuing year, and so from year to year for ever, and the chief worker shall have 6*s.* 8*d.* for the year; the other three are to have 3*s.* 4*d.* each.—He gives twenty pounds of silver for the support and repair of his said tenements when necessary, which money is to remain in a box in the custody of the four collectors until the tenements need repair; and in the meane time the collectors may make loans to poor parishioners on sufficient security. If it happen that the said tenements for any sum of money are let to farm beyond his bequest aforesaid, then he wills that the said sum of money be put into the box under charge of the four collectors, for repair of the tenements and for loans to the poor parishioners. The said two chaplains are, within two months after testator's death, to be chosen by the rector and collector, and presented to the Bishop of London or his official, and by them be inducted to the Chantry, and be canonically instituted, and so toties quoties. If any said chaplain behave improperly, or is not present in the said church in the canonical hours on Sundays and feast days (except for reasonable cause), then, unless he amend on warning from the rector and the four, he is to be removed, and another chaplain to be appointed in his place, and presented to the Bishop, &c. &c. He wills that the Wardens for the time being of London Bridge shall once in every year, viz., between Michaelmas day and All Saints day, inspect the tenements, and see if the chantries and other things comprised in the will are properly carried on, and cause all defects to be amended by the collectors; and that each of the bridge wardens shall have for his trouble in that behalf 3*s.* 4*d.* yearly, at the feast of All Saints. If the said chaplains or either of them cease the Chantry service for one year, or if the said tenements and reversions are not sustained and looked after, so that they do not support the said chaplains and pay the expenses as aforesaid, then he gives all the said tenements and reversions to the Mayor and Commonalty of London and their successors, for the support of London Bridge; to hold to them and their successors to find and support the said two chaplains to celebrate divine service in the chapel on London Bridge, and for the support of the said bridge for ever.—And whereas Robert Pykeman, late citizen and fishmonger of London, by his testament read, proved, and enrolled in full Husting of pleas of lands and tenements, holden in Guildhall on Tuesday next after feast of St. Hilary the Pope, 25 Ed. III., bequeathed for the support of a perpetual Chantry in the church of St. George the Martyr, near Eastcheap, 6*l.* marks to be taken by the rector of the said church and two good men of that parish yearly from all his (Robert's) then lands and tenements in the City of London; and that sum is not now sufficient to get a chaplain, therefore he (William de Kyngeston) gives to John Melton, rector of the parish of St. George, and his successors, and four worthy parishioners, the tenement with the appurtenances which he has in that parish of St. George,

to make up a stipend of 10 marks per annum for a chaplain to celebrate in the said church for the souls of himself and his wife Alianor, and all, &c.; and also to pay yearly for one at the altar of St. Mary, in the said Church of St. George, 6*s.* 8*d.* for the sacrament of the Mass; and to pay for bread, wine, and candles yearly, as well for other chaplains as for the rector celebrating in the said church 4*s.*; and to pay for the light (ad lumen) of St. Mary in the same church 8*d.* yearly; and for the light of the Holy Cross over the high beam (super alt. & trobem) 12*d.*; and for the light of St. Nicholas and St. Catherine in the same church 6*d.* yearly. And the said rector of the said church of St. George, and his successors, shall, out of the said tenement, have 5*s.*, and no more, yearly, to say Placebo and Dirige and one solemn Mass on the testator's anniversary; and to pay three other chaplains yearly on the same day in the same church 4*d.* each, and to the clerk of the same church 6*d.*, which tenement is in St. Botolph's Lane, which the testator lately purchased from Hugh Causton and Thomas Yrlond, citizens of the said city. And he wills that the rents of the said tenement shall be received by the said rector and four parishioners of St. George; and the residue of the said rents he leaves to the fabric of the said church of St. George, and the supply of other wants in the said church, as books, vestments, lights, and such things; to hold the said tenement to the said rector, John Melton, rector of y^e said church of St. George, and his successors, and the said four collectors and their successors, for the purposes aforesaid. And if the said Chantry shall cease for one year, or the said tenement be not upheld, or the said payments not maintained, then he gives the said tenement to the Mayor and Commonalty of the City of London, and their successors, for the support of London Bridge, and for the perpetual memory, in all divine offices used and to be used in the chapel of St. Thomas, of the souls of himself and Eleanor his wife, and his father and mother, and all faithful dead for ever. He appoints as his executors his wife Alianor principal executrix, Gilbert Meldebonne, and Geoffrey Venner, the elder, fishmonger, co-executors, and Gilbert Beauchamp and Ralph Vouble, fishmonger, to be supervisors. He puts his seal; William de Walworthe, then Mayor of London, Richard Lyonis and William Wodehous, then sheriffs of the said city. Dated at London, Saturday in the feast of the Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr, in the aforesaid year.

Whereupon the said Alianor, who was the wife of William, the son of Henry Eliot, of Chesthunt, aforesaid, came and made claim on the tenement in the parish of St. George, next Eastcheap, and said she had an estate for life therein by gift in the testament of John Rous, her former husband, &c. Byllnyngsgate.

William, son of Henry Eliot, of Chesthunt, who was apprentice of Adam de Kyngeston, fishmonger, of London, was admitted to the liberty of the said city, and prays, &c.; in the time of John Lovekyn, Mayor, and Thomas Maryns, the Chamberlain; and it is entered in the green paper of purchases of liberties and apprentices, viz., Tuesday next after the feast of St. Hilary, 22 Edw. III. Padynghon.

This testament was proved, proclaimed, and inrolled in the Husting of London for pleas of lands and tenements, on Tuesday next before the feast of St. Margaret the Virgin, 49 Edw. III.

Mem.—That the 12th of July in the said year the said William de Kyngeston died.

Fo. 131. Here begin copies of the muniments concerning the fraternity and gild of St. Peter, of Cornhill, London.

4 Hen. 4, April 26. Westm.—The King, of his grace, and at the prayer of his consort Joan, gives license to his beloved clerk, William Aghton, parson of the church of St. Peter, of Cornhill, and Richard Ryebrede, John Bury, and Peter Masone, of London, that they may found, in honour of God and St. Peter, a fraternity and gild of themselves and others, and that the brothers and sisters for the time being may from year to year choose two or four wardens, who may bear the name of Wardens of the fraternity and gild of St. Peter of Cornhill, and by that name be capable of taking and holding lands, tenements, rents, &c., which to the fraternity and gild, or to the wardens for the time being, to the use of the gild may be devised, acquired, or otherwise given, and of suing and being sued in all courts, and of doing all things in like manner as liege and lawful men. And further, that the wardens, brothers, and sisters, and their successors, may found a chantry of two chaplains, to celebrate divine offices for the King and his consort

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

* The last part of this word has been erased.

St. G. W.
DASENT

during life, and their souls after death, and souls of his father and mother, deceased, and for brethren and sisters of the fraternity and gild, and their successors during life, and their souls after death, in the said church, according to the rules of the said William, Hugh, John, and Peter, and Wm. Brampton, and William Askham, of London.

By the King, and for 20s. paid into the hanaper.

BUBBEWYTH.

133. 4 Hen. 4, May 1. Wm. Aghton, parson of the church of St. Peter of Cornhill, London, Hugh Ryebrede, John Bury, and Peter Masone of London, after reciting the King's letters patent (above).—They the four and Wm. Brampton and Wm. Askham, aldermen and fishmongers of London, and many others, brothers and sisters, who by their devotion have begun to be members o' the gild, have in the said church begun, made, founded, and established, a perpetual fraternity and gild in honour of God and the Apostle Peter.

4 Hen. IV., May 6. John Whitby, clerk, John Hulle, William Flodgate, Walter Palmer, wardens of the fraternity and gild of St. Peter of Cornhill, and William Brampton and William Askham, aldermen and fishmongers, of London; Wm. Aghton, parson of the church of St. Peter of Cornhill, Hugh Ryebrede, John Bury, Peter Masone, John Brygge, Walter Riche, Richard Ykelyngton, John Stachisden, John Waleys, otherwise called John Corysburge, and Richard Stondone, otherwise called Richard Manhale, brethren of the said fraternity and gild, and Aleanor Aghton, Alice Gregory, and Agnes atte Hale, sisters thereof—after reciting the King's letters patent (above), declare that they, with the assent of the other brothers and sisters, have founded a chantry of 2 chaplains for the purposes mentioned in the patent (following the words of it):

In God's name, Amen. Here follow the statutes and ordinances of the fraternity and gild of St. Peter of Cornhill, London, by virtue of the Charter of King Henry IV., founded by the common assent of Wm. Brampton, Wm. Askham, aldermen of London, Wm. Aghton, parson of the said church, Hugh Ryebrede, John Bury, and Peter Masone, of London, and the other brethren and sisters of the fraternity and gild, as well fishmongers as others; which statutes and ordinances, in the mother tongue, for the greater edification of the simple, at present (ad nunc) are made as below inserted.

1356. fyrst ordeyned it is that by the same fraternite shalle be mayntened and sustened on honest and able preeste devoutly syngyng in the same chirche of Saint Petre for the bretherne and the susterne of the same fraternite quyke and deed, and for alle Christen; And that the same preeste for the tyme beyng be charged to seye his mass evere day, but resonable cause it lette, with a special orisoun, deus qui caritatis, or a memorye for the quyke, and on other deus venio largitor for the deed, outtake his and solempne festes, in the wyche he be spared but of his devocioun, and also to say evere day feriale in the same chirche after noon placebo and the Dirige with ix. lessons: And the same specialle orisoun abovesayde for the same deede bretherne and susterne with the comendacioun sayng: And every Monday and Fryday feriale a masse of Requiem or a memorie for alle the saules of the forseyde bretherne and Susterne, and for all Christen saules. And every Monday, Wodnesday, and Fryday vij. psalmes penitenciale, and xv.; and letanie with prayers and orysouns that longen there to for the lyves and the soules forseyde, save only whenne thes psalmes and latenie been sayde in other divine service of the day; and that the same preeste be able of cunning, that is to say, of redyng and syngyng, and of covenable understanding and honest of conversacioun. And that he be present and helpyng at all divine service done with note in the forseyde chirche for his tyme, but if grete and resonable cause it lette, and that yit with leve of the parson of the same chirche for the tyme beyng.

ij. Also it is ordeyned that this same preest shalle reherce every brethers and Sistres soule from the tyme of his deyng un to the yeris ende next syng, or do be reherced every Sunday openly atte bedes in the forseyde chirche of Saint Petre, and specially to pray ther or do to pray for it by name, and afir that yeris ende alwey in generalle.

ij. Also it is ordeyned that this same preest shalle reherce by name eche brother and sister of this fraternite quyke and dede in the pulpit afir the offertorie eche yerre atte the masse of Requiem that shalle be do in that forsaide chirche solemnly for the deede of this fraternite, with this salme for the quyke Deus miseretur nostri, as the custome is in Sondays in parochie chirches, and with the psalme for the deede De profundis, also as custome is in parochie chirches the Sondays; And that the preest abovesaide be dwelling in the same parochie of Saint Petre a forsaide, or nyghe ther to: And that he take every yerre for his sellarie x. marcs and clothynng ones in the yerre yif it be hoole clothynng or hodyng, sayyng the state of the same fraternite.

iiij. Also it is ordeyned that though this preest fall in age or feblinisse of body or any other secknesse, and noughte thurgh his owen mys reule qwerfore he may noughte fulfille the charges and thordinances aboveseyde, he shalle nevertheles have his salarie alhole als longe as he levythe. But if he be ony tyme, that god forbynd, on notorie lechour, or an nyghte wandrer, or oute of mesure; or taverne or althous (alehouse?) haunter or otherwyse criminous or mysproute or debate maker in chirche or ellys where, and he amend noght his vices withinne the warnynges that the parson or wardeyns that shall be for that tyme yewe hym ther of warnyng, but he is fondyne afir warde defauly ther inne, and ther of convict, by honeste and trewe wittenesse by fore the forsaide parson and wardeyns excuse hym, yan shalle the parson in presence of these wardeyns and parisshe of Saint Petres chirche aforseyde denunce hym pryvyde of alle manere righte to this aforseyde chaunterie and of alle thynges that longethe ther to, and, with owte ony othir processe of lawe, chese and sette inne on othir honest and able priest in his stede: And if this preest take upone hym ony othir office, chaunterie, or benefice, than anon afir that, withe outene ony more processe, shall the parson and wardeyns aforseyde chese and sette in his stede an other honest and able preest.

v. Also it is ordeyned that this preest no tymes at ones ne at diverse tymes absente hym out of Saint Petres Cirche abovesaide over xl. dayes in a yerre, and yit nevere with out leve of the parson abovesaide and for resonable cause, and in honeste companie and place wele knowene, and, er than he go out, especified to the parson aforseyde: and if he withe oute resonable cause aproved by the parson abovesaide be oute ayens this ordenance, or withe leve or withe out leve: thanne upponne payne of privacioun of his Chaunterie aforseyde, he shalle paye for eche day over the xl. dayes ld. to the forseyd Saint Petir Chirche Werk; nevertheles if he be aweye, xx. dayes in a yerre over the xl. dayes above lmynt, thanne shall he withe oute ransome be put out of the Chaunterie aforseyd by the forseyd parsones sengle denunciaioun here of ymaked, or to this preest self if he be present, or to the bretherne and susterne parosshens of Saint Petir Chirche aforseyd; and, withe out more ado, in his stede shalle be put another honest and able preest.

vi. Also it is ordeyned that no man shalle be sette in this Chaunterie, nadmitted ther to, till he be preest in feist lawe-fulliche emade, and till he in feist shewe sufficient letters of his ordir and alloweables, and till he in presence of the parson and wardeyns abovesaid have made god abyhest openly, and an othe that he will ever kepe for his power obediently alle the ordinances of this Chaunterie als fer as it longythe to him.

vij. Also it is ordeyned that theleccioun of this preest shalle evere partyne onliche to the parson and wardeyns abovesaide alle to geder; but in cas that they may nought alle be present, or nought alle accorde in on, thanne for that tyme shalle the parson for that tyme and the wardeyn that accordethe with him chese this preest. And ever shalle this preestes admissioun and induction longe to the parson al one, but yf ony man here afir of his devocioun endewe this preest and othirwyse ordeyn for hym, and to the forseyd preestes sustenance and mayntenance and to othir almes. Also it is ordeyned that every man or woman that be reseyced in to the forseyd fraternite here afir shalle paie to the wardeyns of the same fraternite at his first entre as they accordene with the same wardeyns, and every quarter afir that yerre iij*d.* And that no manne ne womanne be reseyced in to that fraternite but that he or she be known of good loose, fame, and condicioun; and that he ne she be reseyced in to the forseyd fraternite but if it be by assent of the Wardeyns and vij. or vj. othir discrete perones of the same fraternite: And also that the wardeyns of the same fraternite for the tyme beyng shalle kepe and susteyne the tenementz called Foxtons rent in the parisshe of the forseyd chirches of Saint Petir, And also all othir rentes and tenementz

St. G.
DASENT

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

that in time to cumme shall be yeven or purchased to the use of this fraternite, yielding ther of trewe acompt to the sustenance of the forseid preest, savant alle weys the Wille and the devys of Johne Foxtone ther of summe tyme emade.

viii. Nota bene. Also it is ordeyned that the morowe preest of the forseid chirche for the tyme beyng shall have in mynde and pray specially like als he hath do to fore this tyme every day in his masse for every brother and sister of the same fraternite both quyke and deede, takyng in helpe of his sustenance as the Wardeyns of the same fraternite and he mowe resonably accordene un to the tyme that withe the grace of god and by the almes of the same fraternite a chaunterie of two preests may be yfunde after the lycence of our forseyd lord the kyng contynyd in the forseid Chartre.

ix. Also it is ordeyned and accorded that every brother and sister of the same fraternite byquethe in his testament summe almes as he goodly may and wille of his deuocioun to the same fraternite, un to tyme that the forseid Chaunterie of ij. preestes be sufficiently endowed.

x. Also it is ordeyned that ones every yere ayens the fest of Saint Petir and Poule that the same fraternite that is to seye every persone ther of shalle have the lyvere, be it hool clothyng or elles hodyng, atte ordinaunce of the same Wardeyns for the tyme beyng; and that every persone kepe his clothyng and livere two yere duryng, withe outene yevyng it away to prentys or to any other man or woman that is nought of the same fraternite; and every yere atte same fest alle the bretherne and Sisterne of the same fraternite shulle come in the same lyvere to the same chirche of Saint Petir and there here a solempne masse in the worshippe of god and Saint Petir, and offir atte offeryng tyme of the same masse what at is her deuocioun.

xj. Also it is ordeynad that the Saturday next sunyng affir the fest of Saint Petir and Poule, all the bretherne and sisterne of the same fraternite shulle come and assemble to gedir at the forseid chirche of Saint Petir in Cornbille, in the lyvere of the same fraternite, and ther have and here placebo et dirige solemply saide be note, for alle the soules of the same fraternite and for alle Christen soules: And the Sonday next affir, afore mete tyme, they shulle ben alle present in the same chirche in the lyvere aforseide, ther to here a solempne masse of Requiem for the same soules, atte wiche masse all the forseid bretherne and sisterne shulle offir for the same soules, and atte wiche masse the preest of the same fraternite openly in the pulpit shall reherce and recomende to alle good prayers by name all bretherne and sisterne quyke and deed of the forseid fraternite, and all Cristene; and in this same Sonday shall alle this fraternite have and hold a fest or a semble as the Wardeyns for the tyme beyng wilene ordeyne; And that every persone atte that same tyme shulle paie for her lyvere als it comythe to, and here quarterage also, if he owe any atte that tyme, and for the fest also, that is to seye, every man xijd. and for his wyfe viijd.; and every body for his gest in the same manere, and for the assemble as the Wardeyns resonably ordeyne; And that every body that grauntythe to come to the forseid fest or assemble and then be absent, pay redily as othir of here condicioun that be present; and that atte same fest or assemble every yere shalbe ordered and chose iij. other ij. sufficeaunt persones of the same fraternite to be wardeyns of the same fraternite, to governe and reule it in good manere moste profitable to the encrease and worshippe of the same fraternite, of the whiche iij. or ij. wardeyns, half shalle be chosene of the Fysshmongers, and half of the parisshe of Saint Petir aforseid: and that the wardeyns of the same fraternite that were the yere afore, Witheinne two monethes next foloweyng affir the forseid fest or assemble so i holde shalle yene of alle the rentes and quarterages and entres also that fallithe to the same fraternite for her tyme, good and trewe acompts to the newe Wardeyns ordeyne for the yere comynge in audience and presence of the same fraternite; atte wiche acompt the forseid olde Wardeyns shulle deliver in to the hondes of the newe Wardeyns for eche entree of her tyme atte leste xj. viijd., and of other thynges also alle that they have in honde longeyng to the same fraternite, by endenture or by writyng in the papir or book of the same fraternite; Wittenssnyng what that is so delivered; and so to do every yere continually up[on] the payne that if the olde Wardeyns be negligent and yewe nought her acompt withinne the tyme abovesaid, than thilke wardeyns so beyng negligent shulle paie to the box of the same fraternite, and stande to the awarde, as the wardeyns thanne last echose for the next yere comyng

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

withe assent of the companye shall ordeyne, havyng consideracioun to the hydryng and harme that the forseid fraternite suffrithe by that cause, but if they have resonable excusacioun of here taryng.

xij. Also it is ordeyned that thre tymes in the yere atte leste, bysyde the tyme abovesaid, all the fraternite abovesaid shulle be assembled to gedir atte signement of the Wardeyns of the same fraternite, to paie her quarterage and to do her other duets as afore is declared, and to entercomune, and to make mocion, ordinance, and declaracioun to gedir en encresyng in worshippe of the same fraternite; and what manere persone of the forsaide fraternite, at swyche tyme be absent and ne come nought, he so beyng absert shalle pay atte every tyme half a pound of wax to the use of the forseid fraternite, but if he have a resonable excusacioun of his absence or elles grace of the Wardeyns abovesaid.

xij. Also it is ordeyned that in the frosaid papir or boke every yere atte acompte shal be writen there aller names that enterdy the this brethered fro tyme of the last acompte tyll that tyme, and alle ther names that in that same tyme have dyed of this fraternite, and also qwhat advantage or worshippe and by whame hath bytyd this fraternite in tyme aforseide, and alle other memorandys that longene to this fraternite and be by tyd it also in that tyme, and this papir or book shulle be gurd with a crossebond and selde withe her selles that be wardeyns for the yere and withe v. or vij. seles the worthier menne that have be wardeyns of this same fraternite that be present atte tyme and alle ther names that thus settene her seles shalbe knytte slyly to the bucles under the wax, eche mannys name under his owene sealle; and whanne this papir or book aforseide bee thus bundene and sealed, he shall be layde upp with the Tresour of the same fraternite.

xiii. Also it is ordeyned that if ther be any brother or sistir of the same fraternite deed, that alle this same fraternite shulle come and assemble hem to gedir in her livere of the same fraternite atte forsaide chirche of Saint Peter, to go to gedir to the chirche ther as they ben warned by the wardeyns or by the bedelle of the same fraternite, and on the morowe to come ayen to gedir on that same maner, and ther to offre for the soule and alle cristene scules; and if ther be any of the same fraternite that comethe nought as is aforseide, he that is so faillyng and defectyf fundene, shalle renne in the payne of half a pound wax to pay to the use of this same fraternite, but if he have a resonable excusacioun of his absence or better grace of the wardeyns aforseide.

xv. Also it is ordeyned if ther be any brother or sister deed, and what brothir of the same fraternite wille have the companye of the same fraternite to gethir to come to the dirige and to offir atte masses of the deed, the executors and frendes of the deed shall warne ther of the bedelle of the forsaide fraternite, and he shalle warne and doo come togedir the fraternite at suche tyme in maner aforseide; for the wiche travaille the forsaide bedelle shalle have of the frendys of the deed xijd. or elles as they mewe accorde.

xvj. Also it is ordeyned the box and the tresour of the same fraternite shall abyde alwey in holde withinne the forsaide chirche of Saint Petir, and the keyes there of shulle abide on in the keypyng of the wardeyns of the same fraternite the wiche wardeyns be also parochenis of Saint Petir chirche aforseide, and other in the keypyng of the parsons of Saint Petris cherche aforseide; and alle other keyes of the same tresour shulle abyde in the keypyng of two or iij more discrette and sadde manne bretherne of the same fraternite duellyng in the parisshe aforseide.

xvij. Also it is ordeyned that eche of the bretherne and sisterne of this fraternite shalle have at her nede apone a sufficient caucioun til oon or ij or iij monethe day xls., or iijj or v marcz of this tresour abovesaid, as fer as it wille streche, but nought with out sufficient caucioun that wille nought payen in keypyng, and that atte all tymes be able to yelde ayeyn clerly the levede same atte leste.

xviii. Also it is ordeyned that if ther be any persone of the same fraternite yfalle in myschief and poverete by godys sonde, and nought thurgh his owene evelle governance, and may nought susteyn hym self by his labour and connyng, nether by his aver and frenshippe, thanne hym shalle be rewarded of the same fraternite viijd. to his sustenance, if the box may suffice ther to and to the remenant of the charges of the same fraternite; It is ordeyned nether theles that no persone shall have the almose aforseid, but if he have stonde atte leste vij yere in the same fraternite, and atte all tymes trewly payde his quarterages to the mayntenance and Nota.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

sustenance of the prestes and almose of the same fraternite in manere aforesaid, and also have honestly and goodly obeyde atte alle tymes to the wardeyns of the same fraternite for the tyme of their wardeynshippe, comynng to here summaunce to feste, to assemble, to dirige, to offering, in manere abovesaide, and fulfilling alle ther ordinaunces that bene for the honeste and encrece of the same fraternite.

xix. Also it is ordeyned that who so aske this almose aforesaid, he shalle first meve and shewe his nede to the wardeyns that thanne be, and they shalle assigne hym to be atte next assemble, or at a nother after ward, after that any resonable cause mevette hem to do, ther he for to have an answer; and the mene while the Wardeyns shulle enquire byside, where they hopene best to be enfourmed ther of, whedir his sugestioun be trewe or nought; and howe they fynd it they shullene trewely certifie the compagne atte thilk assemble, and do hym come thanne forthe afore alle the compagne and to be seid and knowe, that they may aftirward, if it nede, enquire thurgh the same fraternite of this compleynauntis governance and conversacioun wiche it hathe be afore that day; and if he be founde good and honest, thanne atte next assemble this compleynaunt shalbe receyved to the almose aforesaid, and in none otheir wyse.

xx. Also, it is ordeyned that if it may be founde preyvd that any of the same fraternite be any comune contectour, hasardour, lechour, chider, fals usurour, or use the any othir shrewed taches, and thanne ther of be resonably warned and reprevd onys twyis thriys by the wardeyns of the same fraternite withe vij or viij the more discrete and wele consciencyd mene of the same fraternite, and he thus warnyd and reprevd wille noghte be correctyd, thanne he that so is founde defectyf and wille noghte be corrected, shalle be put out of the same fraternite for evermore by the self autorite of the wardeyns and of the bretherne next aforesayde.

xxj. Also it is ordeyned that if any persone of this same fraternite withe oute resonable cause withholde any tyme thre yere his quarterage that he is ordeyned for to pay to the prestes sustenance and othir almose of this fraternite, and at the thre yere ende wille noghte make assethe ther of to the wardeyns of this fraternite that bene for the tyme, thanne he that thus withholdeth his quarterages shalle be put oute of the same fraternite un to the tyme that he paye alle that he hath so withhold, and make goode seurte to kepe wele evere afterward evenforthe his power alle the ordinaunces that be for the honour and the profit of the same fraternite.

xxij. Also it is ordeyned that if ther falle any debate distaunce or discensioun by twene any persones of this same fraternite, the partie pleynlif shalle pleyn hym first to the wardeyns of the same fraternite, and the same wardeyns withe help and fortheryng of othir discrete and wele consciencyd bretherne of the fraternite shulle do here trewe and tentif diligence to make, unite, and accorde by twene the parties so beyng in distaunce in the beste manere that they kunne; and if they mowe noghte make hem at oone, thanne the same wardeyns and bretherne alle that thus have examyned this distaunce and the circumstaunces and the causes ther of, shalle frely trewely and saddely witheoute any delay als ofte als it is for to do, for the honour and treuthe and also for the salvacioun of the parties conscience and catelle, and for confusioun of all suche malice and wrong, recorde and witnessse atte common lawe ayens the partie that they have founde in defeaute if they be required ther to honestly and lawfully by the partie that the wronge is do to.

xxij. Also it is ordeyned that ever here after fro yere to yere, and als ofte als it be for to do for the honour of good (sic) and profit and worshippe of the same fraternite, if it be leffulle to the wardeyns of this fraternite for the yere beyng withe the avyse of the more discrete persones of the same fraternite ther to named and choseyn by the othir bretherne and susterne of the same fraternite for the tyme beyng Frenedes and lovers of the same fraternite, to add to these aforesaide ordinaunces and to alle othir ordinaunces that here after ben for to make in this same fraternite outir more or lasse, and to take also fro suche newe statutes als hem shalle seme beste for to do for Godys worshippe and goode estate of this same fraternite.—These aforesaide ordinaunces shall we amende, and in to Latyn and othir better forme translate, Whenne we have leisir ther to; and thus us for to do. We at this tyme ordeyne and reserve us power by the virtue and autorite of our aforesaide liege lordys chartre.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

Johannes Waleys, alias dictus Johannes Conyesburghie, civis et pulter Londonensis, obiit xxv^o die mensis Aprilis, anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo}, nono et legavit huic fraternitati totum redditum suum situatum in parochia Sancti Andree Hubert juxta Estchepe, London, et ordinavit quod Capellanus Cantarie hujus fraternitatis foret inductus et institutus Canonice.

Ricardus Stondone, alias dictus Manhale, civis et talge Chaundellor, london, obiit xiii^o, die mensis Marci, anno domini millesimo CCCC. decimo, et legavit huic fraternitati totum redditum suum situatum in parte boreali cancellie sancte Anne in ecclesia sancti Petri predicta, et eidem Cancellio contiguum.

Johannes Butiler, civis et hostillarius, London, obiit xxv^o die mensis Septembris, anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo}, duodecimo, et legavit huic fraternitati vis. viiij. sterlingorum.

Petrus Masone, civis et Scissor, Londonensis, obiit xx^o die mensis Decembris, anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo} duodecimo, et concessit huic fraternitati suffragia sui perpetui Capellani divina celebraturi in ecclesia sancti Petri predicta.

Hugo Rybrede, civis et piscenarius, London, obiit xiii^o die mensis Maii, anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo} xiii^o, et legavit huic fraternitati decem libras sterlingorum.

Richard Tutforde, civis et horner London, obiit in festo Sancte Marie Madalene, anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo} xiii^o et legavit huic fraternitati, vis. viiij. sterlingorum.

Philippus Bernard, civis et vinetarius London, obiit vii die mensis Octobris anno domini millesimo CCCC^{mo} xvi^o et legavit huic fraternitati, xxx. sterlingorum.

Universet singulis Christi fidelibus ad quos presentes litem pervenerint, Willelmus Brampton et Willelmus Ashkam, Aldermanni et Piscenarij, Londonienses Willelmus Ashtone persona ecclesie sancti Petri de Cornhulle, London, Hugo Rybrede, Johannes Bury, et Petrus Masone de London, salutem in domino sempiternam. Cum Johannes Whitby, clericus, Johannes Hulle, Willelmus Flodgate, et Walterus Palmer, custodes fraternitatis et Gilde Sancti Petri de Cornhulle, London, ac fratres et sorores fraternitatis et Gilde predictarum vigore et autoritate literarum patenium domini H. regis Anglie et Francie quarti post conquestum, Cantariam de duobus Capellanis in honorem dei et ipsius beati Petri apostolorum principis divina pro salubri statu predicti Domini regis et Johanne consortis sue regine Anglie dum vixerint et pro animabus suis cum ab hoc luce migraverint ac pro animabus patris et matris ejusdem domini regis neonon pro salubri statu omnium et singulorum fratrurn et sororum fraternitatis et Gilde predictarum, et successorum suorum fratrurn et sororum carumden fraternitatis et Gilde dum vixerint, et pro animabus suis cum ab hoc luce migraverint, ac animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum in ecclesia beati Petri de Cornhulle London, celebratur perpetuum juxta ordinationem nostram fundaverint prout in eorumdem custodum, fratrurn, et sororum literis inde confectis plenius continetur.—Noveritis nos vigore et auctoritate earumden literarum regiarum Christi nomine per nos primitus invocato quasdam ordinationes ad perpetuum firmitatem Cantarie predictae fecisse facimus que de facto et realiter in forma que sequitur.

1 ca^m. Inprimis ordinamus et statuimus quod per antedictas fraternitatem et Gildam imperpetuum manuteneantur et sustineantur idonei et honesti duo Capellani qui nuncupentur Capellani Cantarie Sancti Petri de Cornhulle, London, et qui devote divina celebrent in ecclesia Sancti Petri predicta pro dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde fratribus et sororibus tam vivis quam defunctis ac pro cunctis aliis Christianis imperpetuum.

2 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum teneantur celebrare missam cotidie cum hac oracione pro vivis Deus qui caritatis: et cum oracione pro mortuis Deus venie largitor; nisi causa rationabilis id impediatur aut solenne festum. In festis enim solemnibus nec sint astricti nec prohibiti celebrare.

3 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum teneantur dicere quolibet die feriali in ecclesia supradicta post prandium Placebo et Dirige, cum novem lectionibus et oracionem Deus venie largitor ac cum commendacione sequente pro defunctis fratribus et sororibus fraternitatis et gilde predictarum ac pro cunctis aliis Christianis defunctis.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

4 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum dicant qualibet feria secunda que ferialis est missam vel saltem memoriam de requiem eternam pro defunctis fratribus et sororibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde ac pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum.

5 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum dicant qualibet feria secunda et qualibet feria quarta et qualibet feria sexta septem psalmos penitenciales, et quindecim psalmos graduum cum letania et precibus et orationibus ad letaniam pertinentibus pro salubri statu et animabus omnium predictorum, nisi cum dicti psalmi et letania dicuntur in aliis divinis officiis que de die dicuntur.

6 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui singuli sint omnino imperpetuum conversacionis laudabiles et honeste persone et sufficientis et habilis sciencie legendi cantandi atque racionabilis intelligencie.

7 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum intersint omnibus divinis serviciis que per notam dici contigerint in ecclesia supradicta, indutique superpellicis aut aliis vestimentis ecclesiasticis congruis auxilientur in eisdem serviciis nisi grandis et racionabilis causa per rectorem ecclesie supradicte approbata id impediatur.

8 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum teneantur singulis diebus dominicis per omnem anni circulum a die quo sibi constiterit de obitu cuiuscunque fratris aut sororis antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde continue numerandi recommendare inter missarum sollemnia tempore quo preces dici solent ad populum ut recommendari facere nominatim animam ipsius fratris aut sororis sic defuncti, et in generali animas fundarum et ceterorum omnium fratrum et sororum earundem fraternitatis et Gilde ac omnium fidelium defunctorum.

9 ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum teneantur annuatim in solenni missa de requiem eternam in ecclesia predicta celebrata per notam pro animabus fratrum et sororum fraternitatis et Gilde predictarum astare ibidem in pulpito predicte ecclesie et dicere ad populum in materna lingua Oremus pro Romana ecclesia et pro papa N., pro archiepiscopis et episcopis, et specialiter pro episcopo huius civitatis N. et pro rectore ac ministris huius ecclesie, et pro terra sancta, pro pace universali ecclesie Christi Jhu, ac pro rege nostro N. et pro regina ac ceteris quibuscunque de regali stirpe natis et dominis et dominabus huius regni, pro mayore vicecomitibus aldermannis et communitate huius Civitatis et presertim pro salubri statu universorum fratrum et sororum de fraternitate et Gilda Sancti Petri de Cornhulle London, videlicet N. N. N. etc. et omnium aliorum pro quibus nos altissimus suam vult implorare clemenciam et presertim omnium illorum qui has predictas fraternitatem et Gildam continueant diutius in futuro. Et tunc conversi ad orientem dicere debeant Pater Deus miserere nostri cum precibus et orationibus dici consuetis pro vivis. Iterum ad populum dicere teneantur similiter in materna lingua Oremus pro animabus patrum, matrum, compatrum, commatrum, filiorum, filiarum, filiolorum, filiolarum, fratrum, sororum, benefactorum nostrorum, et presertim eorum qui has fraternitatem et Gildam primitus inceperunt fecerunt fundaverunt stabilierunt et hucusque continuaverunt videlicet N. N. N. &c. ac omnium eorum qui ubicunque dormierunt in Christo: et mox ad orientem conversi dicere teneantur psalmum De profundis, cum precibus et orationibus consuetis ibi dici pro defunctis.

x ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui imperpetuum percipiant annuatim pro sua sustentacione de custodiis antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde singuli decem marcas sterlingorum ad quatuor anni terminos in Civitate London usuales, per equales porciones, una cum vestitu semel in anno sive sit et esse possit ille vestitus integer sive capivum, salvo statu antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde.

xi ca^m. Item, quod iidem Capellani et successores sui in perpetuum habeant singuli libere bene in pace et quiete post decessum Alicie Lillie, bonum et honestam cameram cum aisiamentis necessariis camere in manso illo quod nunc inhabitat et ad terminum vite sue tenet eadem Alicia. Interim autem iidem Capellani et successores sui sumptibus suis propriis et expensis moram trahere teneantur in parochia ecclesie Sancti Petri predicte vel prope illi parochie.

xii ca^m. Item, quod si aliquis Capellanorum predictorum vel successorum suorum imperpetuum quancunque debilitate corporis fuerit impeditus vel ita senio sit infractus vel in quancunque infirmitatem ceciderit nullo notorio causatam suo malo regimine quo minus ordinacionem permissam non valeat observare per omnia nullatenus a Cantaria predicta seu percepcione stipendii supradicti quomodolibet expellatur hac causa, set oret devotus iuxta posse suum pro statu et animabus predictis percipiendis et percepturis annuatim quamdiu vixeret de predictis custodibus sine contradiccionem quancunque supradictum stipendium integrum nec in aliquo diminutum.

xiii ca^m. Item, quod si aliquis predictorum capellanorum vel successorum suorum aliquando, quod absit, publicus aut notorius fornicator aut comensacionibus et ebrietatibus aut noctivagiis deditus vel alias criminosus aut in gestura nimis incompotus vel inordinatus vel in apparatu nimium excessivus sediciosus vel in ecclesia vel parochia sancti Petri predicti predicta, vel alias in populum dei omnipotentis Jesu Christi, tunc sit delinquens Capellanus post trinam monicionem inde sibi factam per antedictos rectorem et custodes qui pro tempore fuerint iterum in eodem vicio vel eisdem viciis culpabilis sit reus et super hoc coram eisdem rectore et custodibus convictus extiterit testimonio fide digno eo ipso a dicta Cantaria et ejusdem iuribus et pertinentiis universis per dicti rectoris in presencia dictorum custodum denuncacionem simplicem inde factum eidem sic culpabili si presens extiterit vel fratribus et sororibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde parochianis ecclesie supradicte de ipso sic culpabili amoveatur pro perpetuo et privetur tam facto quam jure, aliqua quancunque juris solemnitate in hac parte minime requirenda, quod que alius capellanus habilis et idoneus modo el forma premissis per eosdem rectorem et custodes qui pro tempore fuerint ad dictam Cantariam loco Capellani sic privati eligatur et per ipsum rectorem predictum admittatur el inducatur in eandem.

xiii ca^m. Item, quod quancunque aliquis Capellanorum predictorum vel successorum suorum aliud beneficium ecclesiasticum vel officium quodcumque vel aliam Cantariam fuerit assecutus, statim post hujusmodi assecucionem beneficii vel officii vel Cantarie alterius predictam Cantariam fraternitatis et Gilde sancti Petri et re et facta quancunque alia juris solemnitate in hac parte minime requirenda, quodque tunc predicti rector et custodes alium idoneum Capellanum eligant, quem ad dictam Cantariam sic vacantem ipse rector antedictus admittat el inducat in eandem.

xv ca^m. Item, quod nullus antedictorum Capellanorum vel successorum suorum ullo modo ab ecclesia Sancti Petri predicta quocumque tempore se absentet ultra 40 dies in anno seu interpolate seu continue numerando et tunc in locis et causis honestis duntaxat ac dictis rectori et custodibus qui pro tempore fuerint notificatis et expressatis primitus per hujusmodi Capellanum et per eosdem approbatis si absentet, quodque si aliquis huiusmodi Capellanorum predictorum aliquando seu licentia vel ut predictus seu non licentia sit | ultra 40 dies in uno anno se absentet a predicta ecclesia Sancti Petri absque causa racionabili et iudicio prefatorum rectoris et custodum qui pro tempore fuerint approbata, solvere teneatur sub pena privacionis Cantarie sue predictae, omnibus appellacionibus diffugiis subtilitatibus et solemnitatibus juris quibuscunque cessantibus penitus et summo in hac parte pro quolibet die absence sue huiusmodi unum denarium applicandum fabrice navis ecclesie Sancti Petri predicte. Si tamen, quod absit, pro 20 dies ultra 40 dies superius limitatis absque causa racionabili et predictorum rectoris et custodum iudicio approbata quocumque anno a predicta ecclesia dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde Cantarie Capellanus aliquis se absentet, extunc sit eo ipso privatus et jure et facto tam officio et loco quam eadem emolumento ejusdem Cantarie, ac alius idoneus in locum sic privati subrogetur modis et forma superius expressatis in proximo capitulo precedenti.

xvi ca^m. Item, quod nullus unquam admittatur ad dictam | fraternitatis et Gilde Cantariam quin sit prius in sacerdotali ordine realiter et canonice constitutus et sufficientes literas suorum ordinum exhibeat, quinque prius sponte sua coram prefatis rectore et custodibus votum Deo voveat et sacrosanctis dei evangelii corporale prestat juramentum se a tunc in futurum quamdiu fuerit intulatus in Cantaria predictarum fraternitatis et Gilde semper pro posse suo fideliter in omnibus obedire observaturo omnes ordinationes ejusdem Cantarie quatenus ad ipsum pertinet, nec unquam ullam eorum ordinationum vel fraudulenter vel maliciose quomodolibet infracturum.

xvii ca^m. Item, quod electio singuli Capellani Cantarie prefatorum fraternitatis et gilde semper et imperpetuum pertineat ad antedictos rectorem et Custodes et successores suos Rectores et Custodes hujusmodi qui pro tempore fuerint; admisso vero hujusmodi Capellani et in ipsius predictae Cantarie corporalem possessionem 149.

ota quod te sacer os non test ab bus esse quiescent
a rectoris.

150.

152.

153.

151.

SIR G. W.
DASENT.

inductio ad solum rectorem predictum et successores suos pertineat nisi quod omnipotens annuat | alicuius devocio aliquem hujusmodi Capellanorum dotaverit in futurum et aliter quam predictum esse ordinare voluerit de eodem. Si tamen predictus Rector et Custodes omnes qui pro tempore fuerint in electione alicuius Capellani ad prefatarum fraternitatis et Gilde Cantariam quocumque modo vacantem per octo dies quacumque de causa dissentiant, et omnes concordare non valeant extunc ea sola vice quociens sic acciderit ipse Rector qui pro tempore fuerit et dictorum custodum quot quot cum eo concordant* in hac parte eligant idoneum Capellanum qui in dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde Cantariam inducatur in forma premissa. Quod si omnes Custodes dissentiant in hac parte a Rectore predicto, tunc ea sola vice quociens in hunc modum acciderit, solus ipse Rector qui pro tempore fuerit plenam solum potestatem habeat eligendi admittandi et in sepe dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde Cantariam inducendi Capellanum idoneum.

154.

xxvii. ca^m. Item, quod antedictorum Capellanorum | sustentacionem prefatam et ad alia inde similiter pietatis opera faciendi, quilibet vir et quilibet mulier qui et que recipiatur amodo in fraternitatem et Gildam predictas solvat antedictis Custodibus ad primum suum introitum sicut cum eisdem poterit convenire ad minus vis. viiij., et quolibet anni termino principali exinde consequenti tres denarios; quodque nec vir nec mulier recipiatur in dictas fraternitatem et Gildam quocumque de causa, nisi notus et nota bonorum et landabilium nominis sive fame conversacionisque et condicionis honeste, nec sine assensu et voluntate custodum predictorum qui pro tempore fuerint et aliorum septem vel sex discretiorum et consciencie sanioris fratrum earumdem fraternitatis et Gilde; ac quod iidem Custodes successive pro tempore suo curant et manuteneant illud tenementum quod in parochia Sancti Petri predicta sitinatum vulgo vocatur Foxtone | Rente ac alia universa tenementa que quondocumque dari legari acquiri seu quovis alio modo concedi et assignari contigerit ad usum sive aliud commodum earumdem fraternitatis et Gilde, reddendo inde annuatim in forma subsequenti fidelem computum ad sustentacionem Capellanorum predictorum et ceterorum operum pietatis faciendorum inde per antedictas fraternitatem et Gildam, salvis semper voluntate et dispositione quondam Johannis Foxtone de tenemento suo predicto nuper factis.

xix. ca^m. Item, quod semper amodo quousque prefata Cantaria de duobus Capellanis sit dotata sufficienter quilibet persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis existens det et leget in testamento suo ad sustentacionem prefatam caritatis intuitu aliquam porcionem de bonis sibi a Deo collatis.

155.

xx. ca^m. Item, quod singulis annis semel ad festum sollicit Sanctorum Apostolorum Petri et Pauli | quilibet persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis existens habeat liberatam earumdem sive integrum vestitum sive Capucium juxta ordinationem Custodum earumdem qui pro tempore fuerint, quodque omnis persona que prefatam liberatam receperit servet eam usque in finem duorum annorum extunc plenarie complendurum, nec infra duos illos annos det eam alicui qui vel que non sit de fraternitate et Gilde predictis.

xxi. ca^m. Item, quod in ipso die festo predictorum apostolorum omnes et singuli patres et sorores predictarum fraternitatis et Gilde in dicta liberata sua conveniant ante prandium ad eandem ecclesiam Sancti Petri predictam et ibidem audiant unam solemnem missam in honorem Dei omnipotentis et Sancti Petri apostoli celebratam, quodque singuli fratres et sorores hujusmodi offerant ad ejusdem misse offertorium quod et quantum sua queque suadet offere devocio.

xxii. ca^m. Item, quod in annis singulis imperpetuum sabbato proximo consequenter post festum apostolorum | predictorum omnes et singuli patres et sorores predicti commorabuntur et convenient ad predictam ecclesiam sancti Petri post prandium in liberata sua predicta, ibidem habituri et audituri solennes exequias mortuorum cum nota celebratas ibidem pro animabus fundatorum ac ceterorum et singulorum fratrum et sororum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde ac omnium fidelium defunctorum, quodque tunc in crastino dominica sollicit proxima sequente festum apostolorum predictorum iidem fratres et sorores omnes veniant ante prandium ad eandem ecclesiam in liberata predicta ibidem tunc audituri devote unam missam solemnem de Requiem eternam pro predictis animabus ibidem tunc celebratam cum nota offerentque singuli fratres et sorores predicti ad ipsis misse offertorium pro eisdem animabus, et post hec orabunt omnes devote pro recitandis et edicendis eis consequenter in pulpito ecclesie supradicte modo et forma premissis Capitulo nono. Peractisque sic divinis ibidem officiis antedictis tunc antedicti fratres et sorores omnes procedent inde ad comunium sibi faciendum juxta ordinationem predictorum custodum qui pro tempore fuerint, utque tunc statim ibidem post prandium solvant singuli pro liberata sua predicta secundum quod computat, et quarteragium suum predictum: similiter et pro ipso comunio solvet quilibet vir 12*l*. et quilibet mulier octo denarios: quecumque vero persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis illuc adduxerit extraneum vel extraneam, solvet predicto modo pro adducto suo viro 12 denarios, pro femina sic adducta 8*l*. Si predicti Custodes qui pro tempore fuerint quandocumque paraverint aliquam potacionem pro commodo fraternitatis et Gilde singuli predictorum fratrum et sororum qui predicte potacioni interfuerint solvent pro ea potacione quod vel quantum iidem Custodes racionabiliter ordinare voluerint.

1556.

xxiii. ca^m. Item, quod quecumque persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis existens promiserit se venturum ad comunium vel potacionem predictam et non venerit ad eadem, solvere teneatur Custodibus antedictis quantum ibidem presens solvit alia persona sexus consimilis pro comunio vel potacione predicta.

xxiiii. ca^m. Item, quod ad minus ter in anno extra tempus superius expressatum omnes predicti fratres et sorores convocari debent imperpetuum annuatim per Custodes antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint ad solvendum suum quarteragium et cetera eorum debita eisdem fraternitati et Gilde secundum quod est declaratum superius capitulo decimo octavo, et ad interloquendum et co-ordinandum emolumenta et honorem earumdem fraternitatis et Gilde; quodque quecumque persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis existens quocumque tempore convocacionis predicte se absentaverit ab eadem sine causa racionabili solvere teneatur supra | sortem superius assignatam pro quolibet absentia sua tali dimidium libram cere melioris ad usum dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde nisi meliorem gratiam possit consequi a predictis Custodibus.

xxv. ca^m. Item, quod in singulis annis semper ad dictum comunium vel potacionem factam ut predictorum dominica proxima post festum apostolorum Petri et Pauli elegantur unanimi assensu fratrum et sororum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde quatuor aut duo sufficientes viri de predictis fraternitate et Gilde Custodes earumdem qui sic electi teneantur et onerentur in domino Jesu Christo pro anno tunc proximo consequente gubernare ac regere predictas fraternitatem et Gildam cum suis pertinenciis commodiori modo quo sciverint aut poterint ad honorem et emolumentum earumdem in Deo et propter Deum omnipotentem, de quibus quidem quatuor aut duobus Custodibus una medietas eligetur et erit de Piscenariis, altera vero de parochianis ecclesie Sancti Petri predicte. |

xxvi. ca^m. Item, quod hii qui fuerint custodes antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde anno tunc proximo precedente statim saltem infra duos menses proximas consequentes post dictum comunium reddant in audientia et presencia omnium fratrum predictorum si omnes tunc convenient, sin autem in eorum presencia quos ad hoc convenire contingit de omnibus et singulis tenementis redditibus quarteragis introitibus et ceteris quibuscumque qualitercumque spectantibus ad dictas fraternitatem et Gildam bonum justum et fidelem computum Custodibus earumdem electis pro tunc proximo futuro anno, deliberabuntque tunc in manus eorumdem electorum Custodum quicquid super exitus et expensas earumdem fraternitatis et Gilde habuerunt tunc in manibus et potestate sua, eorum et vadia si qua ceperint sub nomine dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde, neque non quoruncumque debitorum eisdem fraternitati et Gilde veram eisdem electis Custodibus per singula noticiam facient tunc ibidem et hujusmodi compoti tunc statim scribetur in libro fraternitatis et Gilde predictarum in perpetuum testimonium et memoriam de hujusmodi liberatis et statu earumdem fraternitatis et Gilde in quo ipse tunc extiterint.

xxvii. ca^m. Item, imperpetuum singulis annis observetur tam computus antedictus quam ipsis et tempus et inscripcio supradicta sub pena quod si predictarum fraternitatis et Gilde Custodes qui fuerint de anno tunc preterito proximo in hujusmodi sui compoti reddicione negligentes extiterint nec reddiderint computum suum hujus modi infra tempus superius expressatum capitulo proximo precedente, extunc hujus modi Custodes sic negligentes saltem si non habeant seu negligencie sive more causam racionabilem stabunt humiliter et benigne tam in alto quam in basso judicio laudo et arbitrio Cus-

SIR G.
DASENT.

157.

158

* Concordant is supplied in the margin.

G. W.
SENT.

todum tunc electorum pro futuro anno proxime consequente ac solvent ad usum fraternitatis et | Gilde predictarum quicquid et quantumcumque sic electi tunc Custodes predicti cum assensu et saniori consilio ceterorum fratrum predictorum consideratur de regatione et dispendio que predictae fraternitatis et Gilde ea occasione sustinuerint et incurrerint ordinabunt.

xxvii. ca^m. Item, quod si qua persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis in fata decesserit, et amici persone hujusmodi desiderant quod antedicta fraternitas conveniat ad ejusdem persone officia funeralia, tunc omnes et singuli fratres et sorores antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde in earundem liberata, et hora per earundem Custodes vel Bedellum qui pro tempore fuerint assignata, conveniant ad ecclesiam Sancti Petri predictam ut exinde pergant simul ad eam ecclesiam in qua tunc celebrabuntur exequie predictae persone defuncte, et in crastino reverire teneantur omnes et singuli fratres et sorores predicti modo et forma premissis ad ecclesiam supradictam, nec non offerre tunc pro anima cujus officium ibidem tunc agetur et | pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum. Quodque si quis premunitus et summunitus ad hujusmodi funeralia non venerit et fecerit ut est dictum, solvet ad usum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde dimidiam libram cere melioris nisi causam absencie sue talis rationabilem habeat vel meliorem gratiam de predictis Custodibus. Quodque Bedellus predictus pro labore summunionis hujus habeat de amicis sic defuncti vel defuncte, tociens quotiens pro eis sic laboraverint, xii. denarios sterlingorum.

xxix. ca^m. Item, quod impetuum annuatim in libro predicto tempore compoti supradicti ad honorem omnipotentis dei et predictorum fraternitatis et Gilde annotetur nomen fideliter et cognomen etiam et hobitus cujuscumque ad usum earundem fraternitatis et Gilde dantis legantis sui quovis modo quicquam assignantis una cum specificatione sic dati legati sui assignati anno tunc proxime precedente cumque ceteris memorandis quecumque contingerint easdem fraternitatem et Gildam similiter illo anno.

xxx. ca^m. Item, quod pixis et thesaurus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde una cum supradicto libro semper salvo ponentur in ecclesia sancti Petri predicta in Cista quadam ad hoc specialiter deputata, quodque claves eorumdem remaneant semper omnes et singule in parochia sancti Petri predicta sub forma que sequitur, una scilicet in manu Rectoris ejusdem ecclesie sancti Petri qui pro tempore fuerit, alia in manibus Custodum predictorum fraternitatis et Gilde parochianorum similiter ejusdem ecclesie qui similiter pro tempore fuerint, ac alie singule in manibus ceterorum singulorum discretiorum fratrum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde parochianorum ecclesie supradicte.

xxxi. ca^m. Item, quod thesaurus predictus in summis tam minutis commodetur pauperibus fratribus et sororibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde cum id petierint ad mensem ad duos vel ad tres menses; sed nunquam ulli quicquam de thesauro commodabitur predicto nisi sub cautione que in omni tempore et foro reddere sufficiat clare prompteque summam pro qua jacet, quodque Custodes earundem fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint parochiam ecclesie sancti Petri predictae requisiti super hoc convocabunt ceteros qui dicti thesauri claves tunc servant, et ipsius pauperis petitionem in hac parte adimplebunt benevoli, ac sit capta cautio ponetur et servabitur sub custodia supradicta capitulo proxime precedente.

xxxii. ca^m. Item, quod si quicumque laudabiliter et honeste conversacionis persona de fraternitate et Gilde predictis incidit | in tanta indigentia quod non possit sustineri questu manuum suarum neque scientia sua neque rebus suis, tunc habeat de predicto thesauro qualibet septimana viii. ad sustentacionem suam, cum autem thesaurus predictus sufficiat ad hoc quod sequitur et ad alia onera supradicta tunc hujusmodi persona indgens habeat inde ad sustentacionem suam qualibet septimana xiiii. Provisio tamen quod nulla unquam persona recipiatur in hanc elemosinam que non prius ad minus septem annos modo et forma superius expressatis soluerit ad sustentacionem piorum operum predictorum ac qua tenus ad ipsam pertinuit in cunctis adimpleverit singulas ordinationes antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde.

xxxiii. ca^m. Item, quod quicumque persona petit elemosinam predictam moneat et significet suos et statum et pauperiem primo Custodibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint, et tunc illi assignabunt eidem persone quod sit personaliter ad dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde proximam | congregacionem tunc futuram vel ad aliam ulteriorem secundum quod eos facere monuerit aliqua causa rationabilis, ibidem habiturus responsum sue petitionis; medio vero tempore Custodes predicti diligenter inquirent et inquire faciant diligenter in locis illis in quibus super hoc valeant melius certiorari an predictae persone suggestio sit rationabilis et vera vel non, et quid et quomodo in hujusmodi sua inquisitione de predicta persona petente compererint certificabunt expresse fideliter et distincte toti comitibus fraternitatis et Gilde predictorum ad earundem supradicte persone petenti prefixam congregacionem, producentque tunc personam predictam petentem coram predicta tota comitiva que tunc ibidem convenit, ut videatur et noscatur sic egens, atque ut si opus extiterit extunc per universum corpus fraternitatis et Gilde predictorum festinatum fiat scrutinium diligens et fidele super antedictae persone | petentis conversacione ac regimine cujusmodi fuerit in retroactis temporibus tam penes antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde ordinationes et regimina quam penes alia quecumque, quod si denique sit inventa supradicta persona conversacionis et regiminis honestorum et laudabilium et in ceteris singulis approbandis tunc ipsa persona sic petens admittatur benigne ad habendam predictam elemosinam; quodque si hujusmodi persona petens ut predictum in propria persona sua comparere non possit in hujusmodi congregacione sic prefixa nichilominus fiant inquisicio et scrutinium supradicta modo et forma premissis, et si tunc nichil inventum de ea obstat sibi, statim in forma premissa per consortem sive prolem suam sive alium idoneum procuratorem suam sit admissa in elemosinam supradictam et eandem percipiat ut predictum qualibet septimana solis modo | et forma premissis concedi debet et distribui elemosina supradicta.

xxxiii. ca^m. Item, quod si obit aliqua persona existens de fraternitate et Gilde predictis repertiar et convincatur rea sedicionis voluntarie vel frequentis litigii vel inhibiti a jure ludi alearum vel hujusmodi ludi cujuscumque vel lenocinii vel luxurie notorie vel convicii vel perjurii vel usure vel cujuscumque alterius mali moris unde posset oriri scandalum et infamia predictis fraternitati et Gilde, et si sit super hoc rationabiliter monita et arguta semel bis et ter per Custodes earundem qui pro tempore fuerint, adhibitis secum tandem septem vel octo sanioris et discretioris conscientie viris confratribus eorumdem noluit aut negligit sic monita et arguta corrigi et abrenunciare publice ac notorie suis iniquis excessibus unde convicta fide digno testimonio predicto | modo sepius est arguta; tunc sic convictam monitam et argutam ac se in hujusmodi corrigere negligentem antedicti custodes et confratres qui pro tempore sic adhibiti fuerint auctoritate sua propria virtute hujus nostre ordinationis eis in hac parte concessa repellent et ejicient a dictis fraternitate et Gilde, et ab earundem singulis et universis honoribus et emolumentis imperpetuum.

xxxvca^m. Item, quod si qua persona qui se fore de predictis fraternitate et Gilde sponderit quodcumque sine causa rationabili per tres annos subtraxerit et non soluerit quarteragium quod solvendum a singulis harum dictarum fraternitatis et Gilde fratribus supra ordinavimus ad sustentacionem Capellanorum et ceterorum operum pietatis earundem fraternitatis et Gilde, et ad finem trium annorum hujusmodi congrue requisitis recusaverit inde et pro tanto satisfacere Custodibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint, expellatur ab ad eisdem fraternitate et Gilde et earundem honoribus et emolumentis universis et singulis, quousque | plenarie satisfecerit Custodibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint de omnibus arreragiis sui quarteragii sic subtraxit, atque bonam et sufficientem securitatem eisdem Custodibus exhibuerit sua sponte de fideliter observando semper a tunc in futurum pro posse sua universas et singulas ordinationes que concernunt honestatem aut commodum fraternitatis et Gilde predictorum.

xxxvica^m. Item, quod si qua lis vel dissensio inter quoscumque fratres vel sorores antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde quacumque ex causa emeris, pars actrix, prius quam procedat ad communem legem in ea parte sequendam, ponet querelam suam coram Custodibus earundem fraternitatis et Gilde qui pro tempore fuerint, et mox iidem Custodes advocata sibi parte rea, et examinatis per eosdem causa et circumstantiis hujusmodi dissensionis, adhibentes secum si forsitan opus extiterit, alios discretos et sane conscientie viros fratres earundem fraternitatis | et Gilde apponent omnem suam diligenciam ad sopiendam litem eam et controversiam et ad reformandam pacem amorem et concordiam inter hujusmodi partes sic distantes meliori et celeriori modo quo sciverint aut poterint, quodque si quod absit sic agentes hujusmodi discordiam fratrum vel sororum predictorum sopire nequiverint, extunc iidem Custodes et fratres predicti qui premissis examinatione et cause talis cir-

SIR G. W.
DABENT.

162.

ca^m. xvii.

163.

STR C. W.
DASENT.

164.

cumstanciarumque snarum ventilacioni presentes interfuerint ibunt omnes una cunctis dilacionibus et quibus eumque fictionibus postpositis penitus et omissis quocumque ac quocienscumque fuerit faciendam ad honorem veri dei et ad veritatis explanacionem atque ad salvacionem catallorum consciencieque parciū hujusmodi necnon in subversione quicquid talis malicie ac injurie, ibique libere sponte fideliter et constanter contestabuntur coram quocumque iudice vel arbitrio contra partem eam quam defectivam et culpabilem in hujusmodi examinatione sua invenerint. Provisio tam quod ad hoc et si faciendum sint requisiti pro tempore honeste ac legitime per partem eam cui sit injuria sic illata et per seipsos primitus modo premisso fideliter inquisita.

xxxvij ca^m. Item, quod amodo statim et semper de anno in annum ac quociens ad honorem dei veri ac honestatem et commodum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde fuerit faciendum propter difficultatem quancumque sen defectum quencumque quicquid premissarum ordinationum nostrarum propter quencumque vel quodcumque in dictis fraternitate et Gilda de novo emergentia vel emergens unde prius in eisdem fraternitate et Gilda remedium non exstitit ordinatum et tantum ea vel id indigeant vel indigeant emendacione, liceat antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde Custodibus pro anno et tempore illo existentibus una cum consilio et prudencia proborum discrecorum et sanioris consciencie virorum fratrum earundem fraternitatis et Gilde ad hoc nominatorum et electorum ex unanimi assensu et voluntate ceterorum fratrum antedictarum sepe fraternitatis et Gilde pro tempore illo existentium amicorum et benevolorum antedictis fraternitate et Gilde super hujusmodi difficultate et defectu ac emergentibus vel emergentibus remedium congruum non minus fidei boni quam rationi consentaneum apponere statuere ordinare, ac sic premissis ordinationibus nostris et statutis aliam ordinationem aliud statutum et alias ordinationes alia statuta superaddere, ac universis et singulis condendis imposterum ordinationibus et statutis in hiis prefatis sepiissime fraternitate et Gilda superaddere, et ab eisdem diminuire, ac eadem ordinationes et statuta sic condere corrigere declarare interpretare in competenciore formam redigere ac etiam totaliter immutare si sit opus, secundum quod eis videbitur melius faciendum pro veri summe dei honore ac bono statu et utilitate predictarum fraternitatis et Gilde quociens et quando eis videbitur melius expedire, dum tamen ordinatio sua hujusmodi consonet bone fidei et rationi ac fraternitati et Gilde predictis sit utilis et honesta ut predictum. In cuius rei testimonium nostra premissa ordinationes et statuta, lecta distincte fratribus et sororibus antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde palam omnibus, et eisdem in materna lingua intelligibiliter declarata, et ab omnibus approbata, necnon unanimi assensu et voluntate universorum eorum tam piscenariorum quam aliorum fratrum predictarum fraternitatis et Gilde pro ratam et firmam ordinationem et statutum antedictarum fraternitatis et Gilde vim obtinentibus et obtenturis imperpetuum hic inserta sigillorum nostrorum impressione separatim communimus. Datum Londoniis Septimo die mensis Augusti anno regni prefati domini nostri regis quarto.

A. J. HORWOOD.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF PHILIP BRYAN DAVIES COOKE, ESQUIRE, OF OWSTON, CO. YORK, AND OF GWYNSANEY, CO. FLINT, NORTH WALES.

Together with documents that came to him from the ancestor who in the seventeenth century founded the Third House of Yorkshire Cookes, and with writings that gradually accumulated in his muniment-room before the close of the last century, Mr. Davies Cooke preserves at Owston Hall the more numerous and important collection of records that descended to him from the remoter ancestors to whom he is indebted for his Welsh estates. He is also the fortunate possessor of a collection of manuscript volumes, that contains a few works of especial moment to historical inquirers, and several noteworthy specimens of the mediæval illuminator's art and the mediæval transcriber's industry.

Himself a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and a scholar whose tastes have caused him to acquire a considerable knowledge of archaeology, Mr. Davies Cooke takes an antiquary's interest in writings which only illustrate the growth of his properties or commemorate the domestic doings of his progenitors, as well as in the Liber Landavensis, the Beauchief Chartulary, and the other choicest ornaments of his library. His care for records, in whose preservation or decay history cannot be imagined to have any serious and urgent interest, has recently caused him to arrange in their chronological order more than six hundred writings which, though most of them have no relation to the purposes of Her Majesty's Commissioners on Historical MSS. comprise a minority of documents that afford testimony on matters respecting which there is a need for further information.

Amongst the ninety-six writings of the Yorkshire folio, into which Mr Cooke has gathered most of his documents relating to that county, may be found parchments of the sixteenth century that exhibit the signatures of Clyffords, Vavasours, Fytzwilliams and earls of Northumberland. The same folio also preserves, together with some interesting evidence respecting their status and official employments, the signatures of two or three members of the family of Westington or Washington, from whom the American president is believed to have derived an honourable and justly valued descent.

More than five times as numerous as these selected Yorkshire documents, the Welsh writings, which an adroit hand has arranged in three folios, afford a much larger proportion of historic material. A careful examination of the records of these folios will be a profitable labour to the genealogist or local annalist who is collecting facts about the families of Mutton, Throckmorton, Mostyn, Puleston, Conway, Davies, and other houses of North Wales. Particular attention may also be claimed for the wills, preserved in this part of the collection, which, like other documents to be found in the same folios, exhibit the jealousy with which the Welsh gentry of the Elizabethan and Caroline periods guarded their rights in church pews and church graves, and the manners in which they transmitted those rights to their children and others.

In setting forth the noteworthy MSS. of this numerous collection, I place the manuscript books and the unbound documents in two separate lists. With respect to the history of the writings enumerated in the former of the two catalogues it should be observed that, whilst consisting chiefly of the moiety of the MSS. of the Llanerch library, mentioned in my note on the Liber Landavensis, they comprehend a few works which, like the eighth earl of Northumberland's "Book of the Four Gospels in English," and Walter Stonehouse's "Sketch of Turkish History," came from other sources to the Owston Library.

(a.) Manuscript Books.

(1.) Original MS. of the Liber Landavensis; fully and carefully described in the Archaeologia Cambrensis, in 1868, by the Rev. Arthur W. Hadden, of Barton Rectory. Written by an unknown scribe at Llandaff during the Episcopate of Urban, A.D. 1107-1134, and during the later part of that episcopate, the Book of Llandaff remained in the possession of the Bishop and chapter of Llandaff till the seventeenth century, when, at some date between the years 1619 and 1627, Bishop Field lent it to Selden, on whose death it passed, in an irregular manner and under singular circumstances set forth minutely by Mr. Hadden, to Sir John Vaughan, one of Selden's executors, who appears to have transmitted it to his grand-daughter Letitia, who married the well known antiquary Robert Davies, Esq., of Llanerch and Gwynsane, two adjacent estates in cos. Denbigh and Flint. After a considerable period, during which the history of the MS. is covered with uncertainty, the Book of Llandaff reappeared in the Llanerch library in 1696. When that library, after the death (without issue) of Mr. John Davies, great-grandson of Mr. Robert Davies the antiquary, was divided between his two surviving sisters, the Liber Landavensis, together with other MSS., went to Mary Davies, who married Philip Puleston of Hafod-y-Wern, co. Denbigh, esq., and whose only child, Frances, married Bryan Cooke, of Owston, co. York, M.P. for Malton, the grandfather of the present Mr. Philip Bryan Davies Cooke, of Owston, the greater part of whose collection of MSS. came to him by the same way from Robert Davies, the antiquary of Llanerch and Gwynsane.

(2.) Liber Sanctæ Mariæ of Holmcultram (or Coltram or Coltran) Abbey, Cumberland. Produced in an early period of the 13th century, this MS., in a binding of the 15th century, contains the Enchiridion of St. Augustine and the De Vita Contemplativa of Prosper. Description of the work on the fly-leaf, "Liber Sæ Mariæ de Holmcultram. Et Continentur In Hoc Volumine Enchiridion aug. Prosper De Vita Contemplativa." The vellum has suffered from age and damp in a few of the concluding sheets, but otherwise the volume is in good condition.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

B. D.
COKE,
Esq.

(3.) Gesta Alexandri Magni. Small 4to.; of a late period of the 13th century. Much injured by mice, and mutilated.

(4.) Old Testament and Apocrypha in Latin. On delicately thin vellum in modern leather binding, small 4to. Executed in France, in the 13th century. Abounding in marginal annotations by various writers. The last page exhibits the commencement of the prologue to the Gospel of St. Matthew; indicating that the book originally comprised the Gospels.

(5.) Bonifacii Decretalia. Vellum in leather cover; large folio. Of the 14th century.

(6.) Durantis Speculum Judiciale. Vellum in leather cover; large folio. Of the 14th century. Abounding throughout in marginal annotations.

(7.) Festival Sermons. Vellum sheets in modern leather bindings; small folio. Incomplete. Of the 14th century.

(8.) A Book of Offices, Prayers and Devotional Essays: small 4to., profusely embellished with pictures of considerable merit, though deficient in delicacy. Containing the "Hore Beatæ Mariæ Virginis," preceded by Prayers and Memorials of the Saints, including Thomas à Beckett, whose murder is the subject of one of the illustrations, this collection comprises the Penitential Psalms, Litany, Vigils of the Dead, Commendations &c., &c. Of English execution. A work of the later half of the 15th century. On a fly-leaf, at the opening of the volume, this inscription—"1694 S^r John Conway gave this to "R. D." (Robert Davies of Gwysaney.)

(9.) Commonplace Book, large 4to., containing forms for writs of various kinds, and memoranda of legal processes; together with notes of reckonings in money, &c. The greater part of the writing is of the 15th century; but the later entries of the volume were made in the 17th century.

(10.) Manual, small 8vo., of Prayers and Devotional Exercises, on vellum, finely written and embellished. Some pages are missing: and a mischievous hand has removed some of the embellishments. Of the 15th century.

(11.) Natura et Registrum Brevium: vellum sheets in old leather binding; large 4to. This repository of legal forms and rules belonged to "Thomas Castell of "Strond Inne," in the 15th century, in the earlier part of which century it was compiled.

(12.) Volume, small 4to., paper, in oak boards; described in the Owston Catalogue as "Liber Antiquus De "Mendacio." A collection of discourses on the several vices, such as arrogance, hypocrisy, falsehood, blasphemy, detraction, evil-speaking, usury, simony, avarice, luxury, sloth. Of a late period of the 15th century. Incomplete.

(13.) Folio of Homilies: vellum, in the original binding of oak boards, covered with hog's skin. Of the fifteenth century.

(14.) Account Book (10 Henry IV. to 4 Henry V.) of the County of Chester. Folio; vellum. Much injured by mice; and otherwise mutilated and defaced.

(15.) The Chartulary of Beauchief Abbey, co. Derby, noticed by Mr. Richard Gough in his British Topography (vol. i. p. 293), and at greater length by Dr. Pegge in his History of Beauchief (1801). "My principal assistance," Dr. Pegge says, in his preface to that work, "has been "drawn, especially as to the deeds and temporal estate "of the Abbey, from a register or chartulary, on vellum, "containing 113 leaves, 4to., lent me by Robert Davies "of Llanerch in the county of Denbigh, esq. Of this "I got intelligence from Bishop Tanner's Notitia Monastica, p. 82, and by the favour of his kinsman, my late much honoured friend, the Rev. Sneyd Davies, "D.D., archdeacon of Derbyshire, I obtained the use of "it from Mr. Davies most valuable library. As this "MS. has been of such singular service, it may not be "improper to annex here a few general observations "upon it." Still held in its original binding of oak boards, this MS. of the 15th century has undergone no change since Dr. Pegge had it under his careful observation.

(16.) A Treatise on Logic, of a late period of the 15th century, with some notes on Music that were entered on the last sheets of the book in the 16th century. Something of the history of this manuscript is indicated by the name "Alexand. Capel," written in red ink into the initial letter of the first chapter of the treatise, and by the following note (also in red ink) at the end of the tract. "Iste liber constat dño Johi Hychecockes em^t "a dño Johē Ashby Bachulario artū in aula Vitrea "cōmōrte p dōs dñs. In aula bē mⁱ pⁱs. vid." To the writer of this memorandum in red ink (who may have been dominus, i.e. "don") Johannes Hychecockes himself) may be attributed the several red lines and points that appear in the MS.

(17.) A breviary, duodecimo, written at the close of the fifteenth century on vellum, and bound in a cover of the sixteenth century.

(18.) The Four Gospels in English, on vellum, 12mo., with this inscription by the hand of Henry Percy, the eighth earl of Northumberland, on the fly-leaf, "This "booke was given me by the lorde Burghley highe treasurer of Englande the fourteenth of Januarie anno "dñi 1574. H. Northumberland." Beneath this inscription appears the following memorandum, "And "after gyven by the same Hari Erlelle Northumberland to Sir Edward Fyton of Gawsworth his cosyn. "E. Fyton." It cannot be stated positively who the writer of this second note was; but he was probably descended from the Fitton of Cheshire who married a coheiress of Harbottle of Beamish, co. Durham, which lady was a sister of Eleanor lady Percy, the mother of the 7th and 8th earls of Northumberland. He may have been the Sir Edward Fitton, President of Connaught, mentioned in Mr. Froude's History of England, vol. ix, p. 195.

(19.) Small quarto volume, described in the Owston catalogue as a Common Place Book of Divinity.—Written on vellum throughout, this book contains: 1. Four pages of music. 2. Brevis compiliatio super Psalmos, sen compendiosa Expositio super Psalmum; two hundred and eighteen pages. 3. Speculum sacerdotum secundum magistrum R. de Leycestre quondam Cancellar Cantebrig, eighty-three pages. 4. Numerales magistri Willelmi Lincoln ecclesie cancellarii; fifty-one pages. 5. A Latin Poem in hexameters and pentameters, being a brief abstract of Bible History from Genesis to the Acts; nine pages. 6. Tractatus Domini Pape (scil. Lotharii) De contemptu Mundi; twenty-three pages. 7. Liber Artis Predicandi, sen Compilacio notabilium pro predicantibus utilis et devota; fifty-three pages. 8. Penitentiarum Magistri Willelmi de Montibus; four pages. 9. Quedam Notabilia moralium beati Gregorii excerpta pro vilitate contemplatorum; two hundred and nine pages.

(20.) A Book of British and English History; opening with an English version of the narrative of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum," and ending with the reign of Henry the Sixth.—Of the 15th century.—This volume, in the 16th century, was the property of Lewis Dollyelly of Ruthin. At the beginning it has fly-leaves from a lectionary of the 12th century, and several (inserted) pages of medical receipts.

(21.) Book of days and facts, 12mo; vellum, sheets and binding: of the 15th century. Opening with a calendar of the festivals, this diary and manual of useful information gives a collection of wholesome maxims (in Latin), taken for the most part from Scripture or familiar prayers, rules for knowing at what times the sun rises and sets throughout the year, rules for predicting the comings and goings of the moon, data respecting the division of years and months, tables for calculating the wages of servants, memoranda of the dues and customs of merchants, orders for diet and medical treatment in the several months of the year, lists of dangerous, i.e. inauspicious days, tables of divers weights and measures useful for merchants or house-keepers, "A charme for a stech," directions how to catch fish and birds, and similar pieces of serviceable instruction. In the notes on the divisions of time appears the following original of a familiar rule, xxx days hath November, April Juyn & December; Feueyrill xxviii, And all the Remenant xxxi.

And thus y^e shalle know how many dayes belongeth to enicher month in the yere, as after the rewles of the Estchequer at Westminster in London, secundum auditoem.

One of the entries of the manual shows it to have been compiled at least as late as Henry the Sixth's time.

(22.) A book, octavo, of Homilies for all the Sundays in the year, written on vellum in the 16th century, or at the close of the 15th century.

(23.) Folio, of the sixteenth century; of Welsh poetry and genealogy.

(24.) Welsh Poetry. Of the Sixteenth Century. Half folio.

(25.) Welsh Poetry. Of the Sixteenth Century. Small quarto.

(26.) Calendar. Of the later part of 16th century.

(27.) St. Paul's 1st and 2nd Epistles to Timothy and the Epistle to Philemon, translated into Welsh. Sixteenth century.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

(28.) Welsh Pedigrees. Small quarto. Torn and defaced in places.

(29.) The booke of the issues and profettes of the Rectory or parsonage of Mould; due and payable to the Ryght Worshippfull Sir Edward Stanley, knyght in Ao. RE. Elizabethhe vicesimo quarto.

(30.) A Common-place Book (small 4to) of matters relating to the law, containing forms for agreements, warrants, indictments and other legal instruments. Originally drawn (as the list of the sovereigns of England on the opening page indicates) in the time of Henry the Eighth; but containing additions made during the reigns of his children. The entry on the last page is dated 1595. On the fly-leaf of the volume appear the old lines, beginning,

Who wille ware in purchasing
Consider the poyntes that ben following.
First se that the lande be clere
In tyth of the syllyer,
See that he not in pryson be
And that he be in goode mynde and memory,
And that it stande in no daunger
Of no womanis dower,
Se that thy sellar be of age
And that it be in no mortgage, &c., &c., &c.

(31.) Leicester's. Commonwealt; Or the Copie of a Letter written by a Mr. of Art in Cambridge to a frend in London concerninge some talke past betwene worshipfulle and grave men about the present estate and some proceedings of the Earle of Leicester and his Frendes in England; contrived, spoken, and published with most earnest protestation of all dutifull goode-will and affection towards her excellent Majestie and the Realme for whose good only it is made common to many. Anno Domini 1600. This well-executed copy (small 4to) exhibits on the fly-leaf, facing the title page, the inscription, "Ex dono Symon Thelwall."

(32.) Small octavo volume, styled on the fly-page "A Sermon Booke, 1616," and containing, in addition to abstracts of theological discourses, numerous receipts for cookery and memoranda relating to births and deaths of persons: The later entries of the volume being made so late as the eighteenth century.

(33.) Turcarum Historiæ; a sketch of Turkish history, in the handwriting of Walter Stonehouse (B.D. of Wadham College, Oxford, and rector of the half of the parish church of Darfield co. York from 3 Oct. 1631 to 17 July, 1655), and containing a title-page thus inscribed, "Turcarum Historia Generalis, eorum ortus, bella, et victoriæ quas Christianis habuerunt, atque mirabiles processus, vsque ad Othmanum qui Primus Turci Regni fundamentum posuit 1613." At what age Mr. Stonehouse made this collection of facts in Turkish history appears from the following postscript to the sketch, "Ista collegi Gualterius Stonehouse Coll. Wad- ham scholaris anno 1613, ætatis mee anno 16." The Turkish memoir covers two hundred and thirteen pages, i.e. rather more than half the volume; the remainder of the book containing some genealogical, historical, and domestic memoranda, by the pen of W. Godfrey, and a piece of parochial church history by Mr. Walter Stonehouse, entitled, "Ordo Successionis Rec- torum Medietatis Ecclesiæ parochialis de Darfield in comitatu et diocesi Eboracensi ab anno Domini 1228 ad annum 1631." To analysts of Yorkshire this last-named sketch would prove interesting and serviceable, and it has claims to the attention of the general historian. "Gulielmus Jackson," the writer observes, "institutus fuit 30 die Junii Anno Dom. 1534 et anno 26 regni regis Hen. 8. ad presentationem strenui viri Thomæ Bosuille armigeri, filii Joannis Bosuille, qui Gulielmus Jackson, propterea quod contra legem habuit uxorem, deprivatus fuit Eboracensi Maii 23 Anno Dom. 1554 et anno primo Mariæ. Et restitutus fuit ad eandem medietatem Anno Domini 1560, annoque primo regni Elizabethæ reginæ, et Joannes Drax qui ei successerat, remotus." The circumstances attending Mr. Walter Stonehouse's institution to his rectory are also noteworthy. Continuing the church-history of Darfield in the vulgar tongue, Mr. W. Godfrey says, "Walter Stonehouse died y^e 17th of July 1655, having been parson of Darfield 23 yeares 9 monthis and 14 dayes, and John Millward succeeded him being presented there-vnto by Oliver Cromwell Lord Protector of England. . . . The fanaticke party being then prevalent that none durst question his title. Soe from the year 1655 till 1660 he" (i.e. John Millward) "held it without any disturbance; butt King Charles ye Second's restitution to his kingdome altering the face of y^e times, Mr. Rogers getts a presentation pretending a lapse upon the "King's title, and therevpon had institution, induction, and possession of the church. But Henry Perrepoint lord-marquiss Dorchester, lawfull patrion" (sic) "brought a querre," (sic) "impedit against him, Millward keeping y^e possession of y^e hous, which Rogers could neuer attaine from him, though in my hearing he much endeoured to perswade him too, which would not take with him, in which respect (when my Lord had outed Rogers what by law as after by composition), he enjoyed Ralph Eyton next incumbent to lett Millward inioy a whole yeares profittes which he had."

(34.) Verosimilia Historico-Prophetica De Rebus Novissimo Die Eventuris E. Sacris, Utriusque tam Veteris quam Novi Testamenti Oraclulis Collecta Pio Et Accurato Studio Cujusdam εραθισταως την ινδοειαν τον κυριον. Una Cum Dissertatione Gravissima Flavii Josephi quod non armis sed miraculis populum sum Deus vindicare ac tueri solet. A.D. M.DC.XXVII.

(35.) A commonplace-book (folio, paper loosely stitched into a vellum wrapper) of sermons and moral discourses. Of a late period of the seventeenth century.

(36.) A Dictionary of legal terms, and common-place book of matters relating to law. Seventeenth century.

(37.) An account-book of personal expenses (for the pocket) having on its fly-leaf the date "Feb. 27th 1656;" together with the couplet—

He that spends more then he doth know
Will be quickly in the beggars row.

(38.) Collection of Welsh poems. Quarto. Seventeenth century.

(39.) Account-book of Ralph Eaton, M.A., Brasenose College, Oxon, 1658-1663. In an older hand-writing this book is described on its cover, "A Pupill Booke of Accounts." The accounts are chiefly remarkable for the smallness of the sums which the Brasenose tutor lent his pupils, and of the bills which he was required to pay for them. The following statement of receipts and disbursements for "John Janion Lancas- ter, pleb. fil., admissus Bal. A. 4, 1660," is an example of hundreds of similar memoranda:—

Rec. from Jo. Seddon for his vse	-	5	18	0
Ap. 6th. Lent him	-	-	0	1 6
1 pd. for a round cap	-	-	0	3 0
26th. Lent him	-	-	0	1 0
Jan. 13. For a lock and key to his study -	-	0	1	0
Jan. 17. Pd. for glazing his study	-	0	2	0
Jan. 29. Lent him to bye a combe	-	0	1	0
Battles	-	2	1	4
Pd. Mr. Beckford for chamb. and bed	-	0	10	0
Bookeseller, pd.	-	1	1	0
Landress	-	-	-	-
Lent him	-	0	2	0
Caution monie	-	4	0	0

(40.) A sermon on 13th verse of the 8th chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Romans. Dated 7 April, 1672.

(41.) Susanna Pack, Her Booke, Anno Dom. 1674. A cookery book. Small quarto.

(42.) Folio, of twenty sheets stitched in paper-cover, and having the following inscriptions on the flyleaves: 1. Sir Robert Southwell's Inscription: "Mr. Bar- low's directions to me for the reading the English History in order to the study of the law at my going to Lincoln's Inne, Oct. 1656." 2. "Transcribed out of y^e original written by the present B^p of Lincoln's owne hand. It was lent to me by John Percivale of Lincoln's Inne, esq^r, who borrowed it from his uncle, Sir Robert Southwell." This second inscription being by the hand of Robert Davies, June 1680.

(43.) Bibliotheca Seldeniana Sen Catalogus Librorum Doctissimi et (qua patet Orbis Christianus suo merito) Clarissimi Jo. Seldeni τὸ μακαρίτη, qui in Bibliotheca Bodleiana Oxon asservantur. Folio.

(44.) A Cookery Book, inscribed on the inner side of its cover, "Mr. Margaret Turner [of Kirk Leatham] Junior her Book 1709."

(45.) Miscellaneous collection, small 8vo., of sacred and secular poems, passages from Dr. Tillotson's sermons, and receipts for cookery. Eighteenth century.

(46.) A collection, on one hundred and forty-two unbound leaves, small 4to., of extracts from Josephus and Greek authors. Of the eighteenth century.

(47.) A quarto volume, of sixty pages, containing Latin poems and small tracts. No date: but the transcriber, whilst withholding his name, says on the title-page, "This book (as I remember) was all transcribed

P. B. I.
COOKE
Esq.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

"from some MSS. lent me by Mr. Henry Dodwell." Of the eighteenth century.

(48.) An Inventory of Goods belonging to the late Mr^e Puleston, deceased, delivered at Oulton and taken January 9th 1750. Folio.

(49.) Catalogue (folio) of the books in the library at Owston Hall, made 2nd March 1752.

(51.) A Proportion of Gunns and Gunners Stores for a ship of each rate in her Majesty Navy Royall. An undated manual; of the eighteenth century.

(52.) A collection of receipts for cookery. Of the eighteenth century.

(53.) Eunomia Apologia. A small quarto, of twenty-nine leaves. In writing of the eighteenth century.

(54.) A Catalogue of the Books in the Llanerch Library made 1778.

(55.) Index to Abstracts and Descriptions of sixty-four deeds and papers relating to the manor of Ewlowe, co. Flint, from 1352 to 1799.

(56.) The Blessedness of the Righteous in death. A sermon preached at the funeral of Mrs. Charles Noel, wife of Charles Noel Noel, Esq., M.P., in the parish church of Exton-Rutland. By the Rev. Gerard Noel, 14 December 1811. A copy presented to Edward Viscount Kingsborough.

(57.) Catalogue, 4to, of the books in the library of Owston Hall, made in September 1851.

(b.) Documents.

28 Nov. 1272. A lease, drawn in French, from Robert de Monthaut, steward of Chester, to Gronon ap Einion; whereby, in consideration of VI^s for the entire time, the lessee obtains from the lessor a grant for twelve years next to come, of certain arable lands in Mohautesdale, formerly held of the lessor, for life, by William le Cleerke, at the same rentes and services formerly rendered and paid by the said William. Dated at Robert de Monthaut's manor of Kenyngdale.

13th century. Grant (undated) of certain pieces of land, near the field of Trumflet, by William, dean of Doncaster, co. York, to William, son of Reginald de Trumflet and his heirs for ever, at a yearly rent to the grantee and his assigns of eight pence.

2-3 Hen. V. The account of John Frankys, feodary of the honor of Pontefract from the feast of St. Michael 2 Henry V. to the same feast in the next year. Compot' Johis Frankys Feodar' Honor' Pont' A festo S^{ci} Michis Anno RR. Henrici quinti post conqum Angl^e scdo vsque idem fm tunc p^{re} sequi anno revoluto. Complete and in good condition, so that it can be read at a glance, this vellum roll contains many particulars as to the topography and buildings of the town of Pontefract in the early part of the fifteenth century. It should be examined by antiquaries especially interested in that borough.

—Hen. VII.—Letter, preceded by the sign manual of Henry the Seventh "to owre trusty and welbelovyd" John Pillesdon, Squier."

"By the king.—Trusty and welbelovyd, we grete you yele. And haue vndre stande aswel by the writing of oure trusty and welbelovyd knyght for oure body Sir Edward Pikerings as by other reportes made vnto vs theeffectual and good assistance that ye as oure loving and true subget yane vnto him for the repressing and subduyng of a riotte lately attempted ayenist him in that country. For the whiche youre trewe acquitall We thanke you hertely praying you of your good contynuaunce in the same. Whiche we shal not forgette but singularly remembre in suche thinges as may bee to youre wele and furtheraunce hereafter. Geuen vnder oure signet at oure manoir of Shene the "xixth day of May." Date of year not given.

20 Oct. 1502. Charter, under the signature and official seal of John Longford, knight and chief steward of the lordships of Bromfeld and Yaille, appointing during pleasure John Puleston, sen., esquire, to be the said chief-steward's, deputy-lieutenant of the said lordships, with an annual salary of liiis. iiijd., and all profits and aduails pertaining to the same place of lieutenant.

6 Hen. VIII. Copy of the petition and bill presented for the royal signature to Henry the Eighth by John Peyleston, one of the gentlemen-ushers of the king's chamber, for a fresh grant of the annuity for life of xx marks out of the issues of the king's lordship of Denbigh, which annuity was granted to the petitioner by Henry the Seventh, in the second year of his reign, in consideration of the grantee's services in said king's "triumphal victory."

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

18 Mar. 1535. Bond whereby Simon —, Richard Coke, Richard West, Henry Hart, yeomen of Westminster, co. Middlesex, are bound in the sum of xx^{li} each as sureties for John Pylston, senior, John Travers, and Katharine Eton, and whereby the same John Pylston, John Travers, and Katharine Eton are each bound in the sum of forty marks that they, the said John, John and Katharine, wi^{ll} abstain from doing or causing to be done hurt or injury of any kind to any of the king's people.

28 Hen. VIII. Lease for forty years (from Henry the Eighth to Peter Stanley, esq., one of the gentlemen ushers of the king's chamber) of the manor of Eulowe, co. Flint, together with all the profits and issues of the court there, and of the mines of sea-coal, and of the king's mill at Flynt, and all perquisites of the court of the town of Flynt, together with the tolls of the markets and fairs held there, &c. &c. &c., at a yearly rent of xx^{li}. xs., and for the said mill iiiij marks, and for the profits of the said court of Flynt, &c. &c. xxiis. iiijd.

24 July, 1538. Mandate, under the signet and sign of Henry the Eighth, to the keeper of the king's park of "Marsley otherwise called the Holt," directing him to deliver or cause to be delivered "oon buk of season" to the king's "trusty and welbelovyd serraunte Syr Thomas Henneage knyghte of our prive chamber."

11 May, 1538. Mandate under the signet and sign of Henry the Eighth to the keeper of Holt Park, "to deliver or cause to be delivered vnto oure dere and "welbelovuede Dame Elizabeth Savage or the bringer "herof in her name oon buk of season, to be taken of "oure gift within our greate parke of Holt."

16 January, 1540. Patent of the grant for life, in consideration of good service, to the king's welbelovyd servant Robert Davys, yeoman of the king's guard, of the office of recorder of the king's lordships of Bromefeld, Yale and Chirke, co. Denbigh, lately held by Edward ap Ryce, deceased; together with all the ancient and customary wages and perquisites of the office.

28 April, 32 Hen. VIII. Copy of the patent of a grant in perpetuity, to Henry ap Harry of Llanhassa, co. Flint, gentleman, and Peter Mutton of Melleden, co. Flint, gentleman, of certain lands and possessions in the aforesaid county, and in the diocese of St. Asaph, including,—(1) the house, site, &c. of the suppressed monastery of Basingwerke (on the expiration of a lease of the same for twenty-one years) to Hugh Starkey from 14 May 29 Hen. VIII.; and (2) the house, site, &c. of the suppressed priory of Friars Preachers, vulgarly called the Black Freres of Ruthand.

31 Oct., 1542. An indenture of a curiously worded agreement between John ap David ap Howell (son and heir of David ap Howell of Bersham in the lordship of Bromfeld co. Denbigh) gentleman, and John Puleston the elder of Wrexham co. Denbigh, esquire, made in anticipation of the marriage of the said John ap David with Jane Puleston, daughter of the said John Puleston. By this deed "the said John Puleston covenantheith and "graunteth to brynghe the said Jane Puleston his "dochter to the church dure in y^e same state as she is "nowe, and ther wed and take to hir husband the said "John ap David, and also to arey hir to hir wedyng "accordyng to hir degree, and also to paye the said John "ap David the somme of six and thritty poundes xiiis. "iiijd. . . . and also to fynd the said John ap David "and Jane his wiffe meates and drynkes and logyng "the space of oon yere immediatly folowynge the "marriage, and at the yerres yende to delvyer and geve "to the said John and Jane resonable Beddyng."

28 November, 1542. Letter from Margaret Almer to her husband. An epistle of purely domestic interest.

31 November. Letter from Margaret Almer, addressed "To my louyng husband John Almer at Schor—"ditch by onde bishops gate and neres the spittyl "howse at the Kynges hed thus bilbe deluyered with "speid." Domestic.

12 Sept. Letter from Jhon Pylston to "his worship—"full father Mr. Peece Pylston at Wryxam." A private note about the personal expenditure of the writer, who says in conclusion: "As for any newes non but that the "frenche king is gone from bullen with no more harme "doing then I hane writto to you in my last letter."

16 Oct.—Hen. VIII. Precept to the king's bailiffs in the county of Merioneth, for the payment of arrears due from certain holders of offices and farms, in respect of the same, together with a schedule setting forth the names of the defaulters and the amounts due from them.

25 August, 36 Hen. VIII. Account on vellum roll of all the fines and amerciements accruing to the king at

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

the Great Session, co. Denbigh, held at Wrixham before Nicholas Hare, knt., justice of the said lord king, co. Denbigh.

8 Dec. 1548. The last will and testament of David ap Gruffith ap Llewellyn of Gwesany, of the lordship of Moledale, co. Flint. Containing the following bequests,—"Item, I do bequethe all my burialles sheattes (sic) and kneeling places in the sayde church of Molde amongst my saide three sonnes aboussed for evermore, but only excepted that Margaret verch Ievan ap Res haithie the hieste seate of one of the benchese next to the alter of the southe syde of the church:—"Item, I do bequeath to Janet of Llyn two yardes and a half of Yorkshier clothe to make her a cloke one hooge (sic) with a reade hedde. . . . covered and two sheetis with a pillowe. Item iiiii cheeses, Item one heffer with a wite face, Item a hoope of every maner of corne beyng in the bearne:—"Item, I do bequethe to Margaret verch Robert one sheppe:—"Item, to the church-workes iiis. iiiid. at the sight and wyll of "myne executours and ouerseers:—"Item, I do bequeeth vnto my gostly father Sir Dayd two shalynges."

5 Jan. 1 and 2 Philip and Mary. Indenture of agreement between Peers Pylston of Boras Hova, co. Denbigh, and Bryan Bate of Lyons in the same co., whereby the said Peers in consideration of a payment of xx marks conveyed to the said Bryan and his heirs for ever, "oon "closse of grounde called the Gorsfelde in the township of Boras Hova aforesaid."

11 Feb. 1555. Charter embellished with miniatures of Philip and Mary, with coats of arms, &c., granting to John Davys and his heirs for ever nineteen acres of land in Broughton, Marton, and Tredeismowen, in the commot of Colleshulle, co. Flint, and a messuage or tenement in Broughton aforesaid, to hold of the grantees and their heirs, as of the manor of Est. Grenewiche co. Kent, by fealty in free rocade only and not in chief, at an annual rent of vis. iiiid., to be paid at the feast of St. Michael the archangel in each year, at the receipt of the Exchequer.

List of "The Peeces of landes that John Puleston "sergiant doth assign to hys sone and heyre and to "Jane Almer dochter and heyre off John Almer to ther "lyfrey."—No date.

16 May, 1558. The last will and testament of John Darve, who bequeaths his soul to "Almightie God and "to oure blessed ladye Saynte Mary and to all the "celestiall company of heaven," and directs that his "body shall be buried in "the mynster of Chester."

Containing the following bequests,—"vnto the church "whiche is to the buylding of the same xxs. —vnto the "churche of Sainte Michaelles vis. viii. and to Saincte "Brides vis. viiid., and to Saincte Martyns vis. viiid. "and to Saincte Johnes Withowte Norgate vis. viiid."

The testator continues, "also I bequeith vnto my buryall, "In prims to Sir Thomas Synlowe vs. to pray for my "sowle, Further I leve and bequeithe a cowpell of "oxson that I boughte the laste yere to the building of

"Mouilde Church where I dwell; Also I bequeth a "bullocke that I boughte of the Royde vnto the mend- "ynge of the hys waie betwixt my howse and the "Mold. . . . Also I bequeth vnto my brother in lawe

"John ap Edwards a wood-knyfe and my best cote "garded with veluet sad color; Also to my uncle Wil- "liam ap Edward a gowne which is furred with lame "(& lamb) throughowte and fared (sic) with blacke conye;

"Also I bequeth vnto my father-in-lawe "Thomas Salysbury of the Flynte a jerken of salten "furred throughowte with lambe and fared (sic) with

"sables; Item, another jerken of veluet lyned with "taffeta embroidered which I bequeth vnto my cousyn "John Payth constable of Harden:—Item, also I be- "queth vnto my brother Roberte iii yerdes of crym- "sen saten with all the rest of my garmentes to bestowe

"them at his discretion." The testator also bequeaths his "cheyne weying vii ounces and a half" to his son Robert, who, however, is not to have possession of the ornament until he shall have "come to his age."

The testator's brother Robert, wife Jane, and son Robert are appointed full executours of the will: i.e. without an overseer to audit and pass their accounts.

22 August 1558. Return of an inquisition taken at Wentbrigg, co. York, before William Hamond, escheator to the king and queen in said co., by virtue of a writ of diem clausit extremum directed to the said escheator on the death of John Parke, yeoman.

5 Aug. 4 Elizabeth. Indenture of an agreement between Richard Washington of Ardwick, co. York, and Christopher Wraye of Cusworth, in the same co.; whereby the said Richard bound himself and his heirs to pay a certain yearly rent of seven shillings and eleven pence, out of the Evans Manor in Ardwick, to Richard Bannister of Llantwaite, gent., or his heirs: and the said Christopher bound himself and his heirs to pay a certain rent of two shillings and eightpence, issuing out of the same manor, to William Copley of Sprodburgh and his heirs.

13 December, 1567. "Memorandum, &c. &c. I Wil- "liam David ap Rees ap Llewellyn of Gwernafael, co. "Flint, gentleman, and with the consent of Ellis ap "David ap Rees clerico vicar of Molde, Ithall ap "Gruffith Lloyd, John ap Edward ap Richard, gentle- "men, Hoell ap Robert ap Gronowe, and Robert ap "John Frances, yeomen, churchwardens there, have free- "lieve given and granted to my welbeloved con- "seigne Robert Pryse of Molde in the said county "gentleman all my right, title, interest and clayme in "and to my kneeling places and my burying-place "and all my prehemynence in the said church and "churche-yard of Molde aforesaid. To have and to "holde to the saide Robert and his heires in as large "and ample maner as I the said William and my "ancestors have hithervnto had and enjoyed. In "witness whereof to this my presente writing I have "putt my seal in presens and withe the consent of "the said vicar and churche-wardens." Followed by signatures of witnesses.

19 Nov. 1568. Copy of writ, under the privy seal, granting to Mary Adams an annuity of ten shillings a year out of a third part of certain lands in Owston, Skellow, and Carcroft, co. York, formerly pertaining to Henry Adams, gentleman, deceased (who at the time of his death held the said one third of the queen, by knight's service, as of the duchy of Lancaster), and now in the queen's hands by reason of the minority of Philip the son and heir of the said Henry; to enjoy the said annuity during the minor's nonage. With further grant to the said Mary of the custody and marriage of the minor.

12 Feb. 14 Elizabeth. Patent of commission under the Great Seal to Thomas Salusbury, esq., Bartholomew Massye, gent., David Jones, gent., John Davies, gent., and John Price, gent.; to make a survey and extent of the lands, messuages, &c. known by the name of Gronantes More in the parish of Llanassap, co. Flint, and to certify the barons of the exchequer respecting the same.

13 Nov. 1573. The last will and testament of Evan Davies, of the parish of Wrexham, co. Denbigh: with a list of debts and debtors to the testator's estate.

29 April, 17 Elizabeth. Assignment to John Hill, gent. of London, of a lease, from the crown to William ap Edwards, of certain lands and tenements; including (1) an acre of land in Gwesany, co. Flint, formerly granted for the maintenance of a mass in the parish-church of Mould, and (2) a meadow called "the churche-meade," "sometyme assigned to maintain a light in the "church of Llanfer co. Merioneth, parcel of the posses- "sions of the late chantry there."

31 May 1576. A true note of all the particular sommes of money whiche John Puleston, esquire, hath at any time receaved of Edward Jones merchant tailor from xxvi daie of January, 6 Elizabeth, until the last daie of Maie 1576.

1 Aug. 1578. Indenture of agreement between Roberte Davyes of Gwizaney, co. Flint, gentleman, and George Ravenscroft of Bretton, in the same co., esquire, in consideration of the already solemnized marriage of the said Roberte Davyes and Katherin, daughter of the said George Ravenscroft, and for the assuring a fit provision for her and her offspring by the said marriage.

23 May 1579. A release and quitclaim executed by James Westington, of Adwicke, to Leonard Wray, of Adwicke, gentleman, in respect of the said James's right, &c. in a newly built mansion-house, with garden, orchard, fishery, dove-cote, and adjoining croft, in which the said Leonard is now living. The parchment exhibits the signature of James Westington, so spelt.

20 April 1581. Exemplification (under the signature and seal of William Flower, esquire, alias Norroy King of Arms, and Principal Herald of the east, west, and north parts of England, from the river Trent northward), to Robert David, esq., of North Wales, of his ancient arms, together with a grant to the same Robert David of a crest to be borne with the same arms.

18 April 1583. Articles of an agreement made at Hawarden, co. Flint, between Roberte Davyes, serjaunte-at-arms, and his nephew Roberte Davyes, gent., of the one part, and John Wynne of Tours, gent., and John Wynne his son and heir of the other part, at the mediation of Roger Brereton, George Ravenscroft, Edward Morgan, Penes Graffith and Thomas Evans, esquiers,—

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

for the final settlement of a controversy respecting right and title to seats and burial-places in the church of Mould, co. Flint.

14 April 1585. Last Will and Testament of Robert Davies of Mould, co. Flint (proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 3 March, 1586), who bequeaths to his nephew Robert Davies "all such benches, seats, knilling places and buriales whatsoever, whiche I have, or in any wise ought to have in the said parishe church of Mould.

2 March, 28 Elizabeth. Licence, under the Great Seal, to Thomas Cartwright, alias Vycars, esq., to alienate lands, &c. in Maire, Arksaye, Bentley, and Brodesworth, co. York (held in capite of the crown), and to convey the same in perpetuity to Leonard Wray, William Adam, Thomas Bosseville, Alexander Metham, and Robert Mote, and their heirs and successors.

23 July 1588. A release and quit-claim executed by Richard Washington, of Adwicke-super-Straat, co. York, Esq., to Leonard Wray, of the same place, gentleman, in respect to all the said Richard's title, &c. to a mansion in Adwicke, to which property Richard's father, James Washington, renounced all claim by a writing in May 1579. This instrument exhibits at its foot the signature of Richard Washington, who spells the name as it was spelt by its most famous bearer.

6 July, 40 Elizabeth. Copy of a lease for two thousand years, granted by William Earl of Derby to Thomas Ravenscroft of Bretton, co. Flint, esq., of certain lands and tenements, &c. in the lordships of Mould and Hawarden and elsewhere, co. Flint, at a pepper-corn rent: the consideration for the grant being the payment of a sum of three hundred pounds.

1599. The True and perfecte acquit betwixt Thomas Ravenscroft and Robert Davies, esq., touching the purchase of certaine landes in Mold, Hope, and Hawarden. The annual rent of the landes being xli. xis. id., and the "said landes being purchased at xli^{me}. yeares rent," the purchase-money amounted to iiiiixxlii. iiii. iiid.—heavy sums being also paid "to Mr. Ireland and Mr. Sparke by way of a gratuite" and "to Mr. Edward Stanley for confirmation of the bargain."

The entire sum invested for the annual rental of

xli. xis. id., being cccc iiiixli. xiii. xd.

Petition of John Puleston of Harod-y-Werne, co. Denbigh, Esq., and at present prisoner in the common gaol of King's Bench, to Lord Keeper Egerton. Representing that having commenced a suit in Chancery against William Burthenshaw, attorney, and the widow of the petitioner's brother, Roger Puleston, late of Heigate, who on the said Roger's death entered on his land by "countour of fayned conveyances," and having on examination of witnesses obtained grant of publication of the said suit, the petitioner has been wrongfully thrown into prison by means of a bill of Middlesex, where "he lyeth in the common Gaol without bedd being lxviii yerres of age and without money to supply his wants, so that he is like to perishe accordinge to the expectation and desire of his aduersaries:" and Praying for a writ of privilege out of Chancery for his enlargement and better following of his said suit. Endorsement in the Lord Keeper's own hand-writing. No date.

18 June 1600. The last will and testament of Edward Griffith ap Ievan, of Lleweny, co. Denbigh, written by himself. Bequeathing to his brother John Griffith, of Bristol, an annuity for life of xxli., which is not to be paid him should he take any steps to set aside the will, the testator leaves his messuages, houses, lands, &c., &c., in Lleweny and Hewllan, co. Denbigh, as also in Killowaine and Bodegan, and in Raynol, Pengwerne, Bodewithan, and other places, co. Flint, to his nephew Piers Mutton, of Lincoln's Inne, in London, for life, with remainder to such person as the said Piers may appoint. The testator directs "his bodie to be wrapped in linnen clothes and so to be putt in earthe and buried withoutt cofin or anie covering but earthe amongst christian burials yf it maye," and further directs his "executor to geue a hoope of wheate of Denbigh measure to everie servant man and woman dwellinge" in his howse at the tyme of his decesse. Probate granted in the prerogative court of Canterbury, 4 December 1601.

11 August 1612. Grant of arms and crest by Norröy King of Arms to Philipp Adams of Owston, co. York; the letters of donation opening with the statement, "Forasmuch as autiently from the beginninge it hath bene accustomed in all Common Wealthes to distinguishe the vertuous actes of worthy men as well in Peace as Warr with sundry remembrances of their "good deserts, amongst the which the most chiefest hath bene the bearinge of signes in shields, called armes, being evident demonstrations and tokens of their valoure and good desertes."

23 July, 16—, Memorandum of a sale (by John Griffith, late of Arthinvent, to Dame Jones, for the use of Robert Davies of Gwysaney, Esq.) of "one benche or Pwe in the middle Ile of the south side in the church of Mould and adjoining or ling vpon the fourth stone pillow of the same Ile."

28 September, 1612. Deed of release and quit-claim, whereby Sara Snead of Hope, co. Flint, spinster, conveyed to Robert Davies of Gwysaney, co. Flint, Esq., all her right and title by inheritance or otherwise in certain "seates, roomes, benches, kneeling-places buriales and burying places in the south Ile of the parishe church of Mould in the said countie of Flint scituat, lying and being there betweene the wall of the said south Ile of the one side and in the upper end, and seates, roomes, benches, kneeling places, buriales and burying-places of the said Robert Davies of the other side, and the seat, benches, kneeling-place, buriall and burying-place of David Wynne of Towre gentleman in the lower end."

27 April 1615. Certificate of acquittal signed at a Session of Sewers, held before Edmund Sheffield, Knt., John Eastofte, Nicholas Waller, Robert Portington, Richard Washington, esquires, and Philippe Adams and John Rabie, gentlemen, commissioners; acquitting Richard Bannister of Hungerfitt, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, and his heirs, from obligation to send men to "labore and worke yearlie in cleansing and scowring of the Milnedyke called Bentley Milnedame." The signatures of Richard Washington and five others of the commissioners still apparent at the foot of the writ.

23 June 1616. Indenture of conveyance, whereby Sir Robert Swift, of Tristopp, co. York, knight, and dame Ursula, his wife, conveyed two-thirds of "one cottage" called by the name of Hoxon Hall and a good yeard "therevnto adjoininge . . . being in Bulne in townshipp of Owston," to William Walker of Owston, co. York, husbandman.

6 Dec. 1620. Certificate and protest, addressed to Samuel Goodeeve, D.C.L., chancellor of the Consistory Court of St. Asaph, by seventy inhabitants of the parish of Mould, co. Flint. Protesting against the action of the churchwardens of the said parish in attempting to erect a "most inconvenient, vnfit and discommodious seat" in the same place in the church of the said parish, where the churchwardens in the previous year set up a seat which was removed on account of its unfitness and "discommodiousness."

Undated List of the holders of seats in Mould Church, headed "The Names of suche as have there partes of certaine seates in the church of Mould." From the entries of this record it appears that some of these occupants of church sittings acquired their lands and seats from the same source.—e.g., "(5) David ap Jon Blethin and Griffith ap Jon Blothin have likewise vsed one seat jointlye after the tenure of there said landes holden after Gavel kinde. (6) Bethn ap Gwin and Res ap Gwin so hold ther landes after the custome of gavel kinde and so there seats in the saide church jointlye. (7) Res ap Hoell ap Madoc and Lewis ap Hoell ap Madoc do likewise hold there landes after the like tenure, and so there seat jointlye in the said church."

April 1621. Information presented to the Right Honourable the Lord President and others his Majesties Council, in the marches of Wales, by Marmaduke Lloyd, esq., his Majesty's attorney attending the said council, against John Conway, gentleman, Peter Drihurst, and eight others. The persons charged by this information are accused of causing an unseemly riot in the parish church of Ruthlan, on Sunday, 25 March 1621, on the occasion of the funeral of Thomas Conway, of Ruthlan, co. Flint, gentleman, whose body they buried in defiance of lawful authority in the grave of the Mutton family, in the chancel of the said church, although another grave in the same chancel (being the grave of the deceased gentleman's nearest ancestors) had been opened and prepared for the reception of the corpse. This outrage is said to have been perpetrated in contempt of and malice against the said Thomas Conway's brother-in-law, Peeter Mutton, of Llewene, in the county of Denbigh, esquire, who was present in the church, and vainly protested against the conduct of the rioters, who are alleged to have been armed with staves, daggers, and other weapons. The disorderly business, which had its origin in a dispute concerning

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

right of interment in a particular grave, was attended with some hard fighting, in which the rioters "with their feet and fists gave" their opponents "diverse" and "sundry sore and murderous blows, thrusts, and" "punches in diverse partes of these hodies." The information covers eight and a half foolscap pages with close writing, and the paper is endorsed with a memorandum that the defendants were bound to their good behaviour in sums of money varying from cl. to liii. xlii. liii.

13th August 1621. Depositions taken at the dwelling-house of David ap Evan in Sainte Assaphen in the countie of Flint, the xiiith day of August, 1621, before John Lewis Clerke, Roger Willins, Foulke Morgan, and John Willins, gentlemen, by vertue of a commission to them directed from the kinges Majesties Council in the marches of Wales, for the examination of witnesses in a cause there depending at issue betwene Marmaduke Lloyd, esq., his Majesties Attorney, Enformer against Jenkin Conway, gent., Peter Drihurst, and others defendants. Covering forty-eight closely written pages of foolscap, these depositions, respecting the circumstances of the affray in Ruthlan church, on the occasion of the funeral of Mr. Conway, illustrate in a notable manner the way which the Welsh gentry used to bury their dead under their church seats, have property in the said seats and in the graves beneath them, and convey by deed or will or formal institution their property in the same to purchasers or others. The first of a series of witnesses in this business—John Worrall of Ruthland, co. Flint, yeoman, aged ninety years or thereabouts—deposes "that aboute twentye yeares agoe this deponente" "was presente in the churche of Ruthland, Mrs. Anne Conway, mother of the sayd Mr. Peeter Mutton and the sayd Peeter of Llewenny, esquier, Thomas ap John ap William servaunte of the sayd Mrs. Conway, and William Mutton, clerke, nowe lyving, being likewise presente in the saide church, and then after the sayd company had sayd their prayers, the sayd Peeter Mutton beinge then newlye come from London and cominge to the sayd parish of Ruthland to his lands, The said Thomas Conway took the sayd Peeter Mutton by the hand and ledde him to the sayd seate now in variance sayinge vnto him 'brother Mutton here is a seate wherein youre grandfather and father were buried, the which I bought of my cosen Richard Mutton sonne of Peires Mutton Vaughan, And I doe freely bestowe this seate and buryng place vpon you, for I have nothinge elles to bestowe vpon you,' and therppon the sayd Thomas Conway did deliuer the possession of the said seate vnto the sayd Peter Mutton nowe liveinge, and therppon Mr. Edward Griffith said to the sayd Mr. Mutton that he was to thank his brother Mr. Thomas Conway for that kindness." From a previous part of this deposition it appears that the Peter Mutton "nowe liveinge," (Thomas Conway's brother-in-law) was a grandson of "Pyres Mutton seriente-at-arms."

20 Dec. 1621. Deed, executed by William David of Northopp, co. Flint, whereby in consideration of a sum of money he conveys to Robert Davies of Gwesany, esquire, all his (the said William's) "seate-place, kneeling-place and buriall-place standinge and beinge in the South Ile of the parish church of Mould within the countie of Flint, and also all that 'his' seate-place, kneeling-place, and buriall-place being in the middle Ile of the said church" formerly pertaining to his deceased brother Edward ap David or his late father David Gruffith ap Eignon.

16 May, 1622. Letter from Richard Budd to Robert Davies, Esq., offering to sell for a sum of viii. xlii. liii. the fee-farm of an acre of land in Gwesany and a piece of land in Albert Meleden, together yielding an annual rent of xxiiid.

27 June, 1622. Charter of exemplification (with the great seal attached thereto), made at the request of Sir John North, knt., of a brief of 33 Edw. I., directing Reginald de Graye, justice of Chester, to make an extent of the manor of Ewlowe, and take a valuation of it; and also of the extent, as made by the said Reginald de Graye, of the king's lands at Ewlowe, by which there appear to be 480 acres of common land of the yearly value of xviii., and two water-mills, &c. &c., worth xls. per annum &c. &c., the whole being of the annual value of xxlii. xliii. liiiid.

15 April, 1631. Acknowledgment (signed by John Davies and delivered to Robert Davies of Gwesany, Esq., in the presence of John Wynne, Griffith Williams, and Gruffith Lloyd) that it has been proved to the said John that he has no right to a certain seat in the south aisle of Mould Church through his deceased mother Anghard werch John Robert, as she sold her right in the same to the said Robert Davies, Esq.

1632. The humble petition of the parishioners and inhabitants of the seuerall parishes of Nerquis and Treythlin, To the reuerend father in God John by God's Providence Bishopp of Sainte Assaphen. This undated paper (which appears from its contents and penmanship to have been drawn in some year of Charles the First's reign) exhibits a remarkable picture of spiritual destitution and clerical neglect. The services, it is alleged, being either neglected or performed at irregular and inconvenient times in the churches of the said parishes, the parishioners are compelled to waste their time on Sundays in waiting vainly for clerical offices, or are tempted to pass it in godless diversions, when they do not neglect to assemble themselves at their churches. "That in regard thereof" runs the petition, "most of the youthes and yonger sorte of people in either parishes doe commonly haunt the bare with greyhoundes and houndes vpon the Sundayes in the morninge, or doe vse to play a the foot boole, and boole, tennis and bowles within the severall churchyards of both parish churches, in regard they stay soe longe for service, when it is lastly redd in their church, and that the th'elder sorte doe commonly fall to drinking or some vnlawfull games and some of the elder sorte dryven to returne home stainging to longe for longe for meate." No, or only few, sermons have been preached in the churches for sixteen years past, during which time also the "catecizinge of children" has been almost totally neglected. The date of this paper is shown by a subsequent paper, dated 5 Dec. 1640.

18 Aug. 1638. Return of an inquisition taken at Lans-thwaite, co. York, before James Washington, esquire, the king's escheator in the said county, by virtue of a writ of diem clausit extremum directed to the said escheator on the death of Thomas Slyman, late of Hangthwaite aforesaid. The parchment is so rotten and defaced that the greater part of the writing is illegible. The signature of "James Washington, Esq." at the foot of the return is perfect.

4 May 1640. Two copies of an award made by Richard Washington and Christopher Wormely, esquires (acting as arbitrators at the request of certain dissentients), respecting a dispute about a right of way from Carcroft to Ouston, co. York. The arbitrators set forth in precise terms the proper course of the public path.

12 Nov. 1640. Letter from John Wynne, of Nerquis, to the Rt. Worshipfull Lieutenante Colonel Davies, at Bridgewater House, London. Respecting the spiritual destitution and clerical neglect of the parishes of Nerquis and Treythlin.

5 December, 1640. Letter from John Wynne, esq., of Nerquis, to the Right Worshipfull Lieut.-Colonel Davies at Bridgewater House, respecting the clerical neglect and spiritual destitution of Nerquis and Treythlin, which had occasioned eight or nine years earlier a petition to the bishop of St. Asaph from the inhabitants of those parishes. The alleged grievances are attributed to the want of an additional curate for the churches of Mould, Nerquis, and Treythlin. Mr. Wynn urges that the two neglected parishes "may have service and prayers redd in either church in due tyme, and according to the constitutions of the church, which can not neid be done without a curate in either church, for truly these three laste Sundayes of all it was paste half an hower after xii of the clocke and neerer one of the clocke in the eveninge, before service was ended in Nerquis church, although the younge man that is the curate (I must confess) takes as much paynes and is as diligent and carefull as man may be, yet hee can doe noe more than what is possible, he beginneth to read service in those churches in the winter season aboute sunne rising constantly, and before hee can come and end service in thother church it wilbe neare one of the clocke in the eveninge. * * * * And in regard thereof hee is driven often to hire a boie or felowe that holds his ploughe all weeke to reade evening prayers for him in one of the churches, which I conceyve to bee both vnhand-some and intollerable."

8 September, 1641. Seven bills of "The Charges of the Lady Valentia's funeral, September 1641."—Daughter Sir Richard Bulkeley, knt. of Beaumaris and Chedale, Grizel lady Valentia, was the wife of Sir Henry Power, knt. of Bersham, co. Denbigh, constable of the castle of Maryborough, knight mareschal of Ireland, &c. &c., who was raised to the Irish peerage as Viscount Valentia, co. Kerry, March 1620, and died s. p. 25 May, 1642, eight months after the death of her ladyship. Lady

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

Valentia's funeral was solemnized in Dublin at great costs, the charges for the ceremony exceeding 300*li*. (or, at a rough computation, 1500*l*. of present currency), besides the expenditure on hospitality, of which these bills take no notice, (charges for white wine, wafers, cakes, and spices being excepted.) Some of the items of the account of Bartholomew Droape, merchant draper of Dublin, who was the undertaker of the funeral, merit attention:—e.g.

	For my lo. Archbishop, 10 yards broad cloth.	46 03 0
For 4 men 36 yds, at xxvii. yrd.	For Mr. Archdeacon, 10 yards brode clothe.
	For my lord Valentia for a cloake, 7 yards.
	For Sir Henrre Spotswoode, 9 yards brod clothe.
	My lord Archbissoppes wife, 12 yards Towers Groggram.
For 3 weemen 40 yds at 14s. yrd.	Mr. Archdeacon his wife, 12 yards Towers Groggram.	28 00 0
	Lady Spotswoode, 16 yards Towers Groggram.
	Arbella Eaton, 10 yds brode Tamelletto.
For 3 weemen 30 yds. at 6s. 6d. yarde.	Mrs. Marye, 10 yds. brode Tamelletto.	09 15 0
	Griseld Spotswoode, 10 yrdes Tamelletto.
	For the pulpitte cloth, 3 yds dim. at 13s. yrd.	02 05 6
	For the table cloth, 3 yds at 13s. yrd.	01 19 0
	For the cushen, 2 yrd dim. duple bays at	00 06 0

The bills of charges sent in by Albon Leveret Athlone, officer of arms, for fees to officers of arms who attended at the funeral, and for "escutcheions" used in the pomp, amounted to twenty-four pounds two shillings.

Car. I. (P). An undated copy of an old Extent of the Lands in Owston, during the minority of Sir Wm. Adams.

Copy of the Earle of Strafford's Last Speech on the Scaffold.

13 June, 1659. Memorandum of an agreement between Ursula Soutley of Soutley, widow, on behalf of her infant son Robert, and John Puleston of Havod-y-Werne gentleman, that the recent interment (with the said John Puleston's consent) of her late husband John Soutley "in a chancell on the north side of the church " of Wrexham, " shall not affect in any way the title of the said John Puleston to the said chancel, who maintains that it belongs to him; and that John Puleston shall abstain from using the said " chancell " for purposes of interment till Robert Soutley, the minor aforementioned, shall have attained the full age of one and twenty years. Signed before witnesses at Wrexham.

1660. A True and Perfect Duplicate of all sums of money Taxed, Rated, and Assessed within the Hundred of Mold, in the county of Flint, by virtue of an Act of Parliament, entitled an Act for the speedy provision of money for disbanding and paying of the Forces of this kingdom by land and sea.

29 Mar. 1662. Charter of general pardon, under the Great Seal, for all treasons, rebellions, &c. &c., granted by Charles the Second to William Adams, of Ouston, co. York, esquire.

10 March 1664. The Genealogie of y^e Auncient and Worshipfull Familie of the Pulestons of Puleston, co. Salop, and Puleston of Emrall co. Flint, and Puleston of Havod-y-Wern co. Denbigh, together with other stemmes and branches proceeding thence, faithfully transcribed out of the bookes of Robert Davies, of Gwysaney, esq., Edward Puleston of Alington, esq., and Owen Salusbury de Riig, esq., by John Salusbury de Erlystocke. A lengthy and carefully executed chart on a roller.

28 Oct. 1664. A quitclaim executed by Thomas Speed in respect to all his interest and whatever title he may have had in a particular seate or pue in Holt church, in the deanery of Wexham, co. Denbigh. "I Thomas Speed in the countie of Denbigh, gentleman, doe hereby disclaime from any right, title, or interest, which I heretofore have hadd or now have of in and to one seate or pue situate in Holt Church, being the uppermost seate in the Middle Ile of the said church and on the north side of the same Ile, having often heard and now believing that the right of the saide seate is now in Robert Davies of Gwesany in the countie of Flint, esqr."

26 Feb. 1663. Letter from Mr. Thomas Hughes, of Skiviocke, to Mr. Davies of Gwesaney, in which the writer asks permission to use the seats belonging to Mr. Davies in the parish church of Skiviocke, co. Flint.

4 Oct. 1669. Paines and Bylawes made by the Jury impannelled and sworn att the Court Baron of the Honourable Robert Earle of Suisey, holden att Thorpe the fourth day of October in y^e one and twentieth yearre of his now Ma^{ties} Raigne, annoque Domini 1669, before Isaack Bates, steward there.

2 Sept. 1676. Three letters respecting a seat in Holt Church, belonging to Mr. Robert Davies of Gwesaney, which he is entreated to allow Mr. Humberston, of Holt, to occupy. The letters are of interest, as they show the jealousy with which persons regarded their rights in church seats.

12 March 1680. Copy of a letter of the said date from Mutton Davies, of Gwysaney, esquire, to Thomas Edwards of Rhual, esquire, containing a particular account of a dinner given to a party of gentlemen, "by Mr. Chiffins," (i.e. Chiffinch), "whose chamber is under the 'the king's,'" and of Charles the Second's unexpected appearance at the party "about an hour or two after 'dinner, about candle-light (for it was in Jan., and 'we dined late.'" Noticing the King's gracious demeanour, the writer observes, "He pleasantly said he 'came to drinke a glasse of wine with us, and it should 'be to the happy meeting of his parliament at Oxford, 'where he would go as far as any man (that was his 'expression) for the preservation of the protestant 'religion as by law established, and the utter extirpation of popery, whereupon Sir Tho. Vernon said, 'Amen, and Presbytery too,' to which the K. enjoyed 'with all my heart, for I have smarted from those 'people already."

16 Aug. 1682. Official Copy of Further Depositions of Witnesses in a cause depending in his Majesties high Courts of Chancery at Westminster, between Sir Godfrey Copley, Barrt, and others, complainants: Martin Wickham, and Edmund Wingfield, gentlemen, and others, defendants; taken at Long Houghton in y^e county of Yorke, before Ralphe Eaton, clerke, and John Dickon, gentleman, by virtue of a commission to y^m and alsoe to William Langton and Richard Kellans, gentlemen, directed.

6 December 1698. An Account of moneys paid by Henry Cooke, esq., to John Adams, esq., for y^e purchase of y^e manor of Owston. With Mr. John Adams's receipt at the foot of the account.

13 April 1725. Acknowledgement by Mr. Thomas Beech, that his mother's grave was dug in a certain ground by the permission of John Puleston of Havod-yuern, esq., and that he (Thomas Beech) has no right to inter corpses in that ground.

Undated letter from Edmund Burke to Lady Crewe on the arrangements of the Committee for the relief of the French clergy.

7 June, 1799, to 13 February, 1820. Eleven letters of various dates, between the said days, from Earl Fitzwilliam to Colonel Cooke, M.P., Owston, Doncaster. . . . Private letters, relating chiefly to Yorkshire interests, but touching occasionally on matters of general politics.—In letter, dated from Milton, 6 Jan. 1802, the Earl says, "Cobbet, the famous Peter Porcupine in America, who wrote down Jacobinism there, and saved that country by his exertions, is going to publish a Weekly Paper here; pray, let me recommend it to you; His genuine principles (and he is not to be put out of them by anything) are as Anti-Gallican as Anti-Jacobinical. We want a little of this stuff, or 'we shall be ruined.'" Also a copy of long letter (not dated) addressed by Earl Fitzwilliam to the Earl of Carlisle, in explanation and vindication of the writer's policy in Ireland, which appears (from statements in the viceroy's epistle) to have filled the Cabinet with apprehensions and "dismay."

9 Sept. 1807. Declining the compliment of a lady and author who wishes to dedicate her forthcoming book to him, Warren Hastings writes: "So much use, and so much more of abuse, has been made of my name, that I never see it in print, but with painful sensations; and this renders me the more tender of obtruding it upon the public on occasions not necessarily demanding it; and, for a stronger reason, on any occasion which of itself might subject me to blame, I think I should deservedly expose myself to blame, if I should directly authorize my name to be prefixed to a literary composition, which I had never seen, in a character which, so placed, would imply a recommendation of it. But I have not only not seen your book, but (pardon me, madam) I have

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

P. B. D.
COOKE,
Esq.

"only a faint conjecture, that I recollect the mind and person of its author. I think I do recollect both; and if I am right in that recollection, I am not sure that my vanity might have got the better of my discretion, and inspired me with a feeling of pleasure, if by chance I had met with such a distinction paid to me in it, without having been directly instrumental to it. But the question becomes very different, when I am called to give my express authority for it; or if I were in any way to predeclare my assent to it."

Other papers, of biographical interest, though scarcely of historic significance, may be found in the Owston Hall "Letter Book," which contains (in addition to letters noticed in the preceding list) epistles written by William the Fourth, his brothers, their R.H.H. the Dukes of York and Kent, the Princess Sophia of Gloucester, Prince de Joinville, the Dukes of Norfolk and Wellington, Lords Liverpool, Sidmouth, Palmerston, Lismore, Sligo, Bridgewater, Redesdale, Fitzwilliam, Combermere, Glenelg, Kenyon (Ch. J.), Peter Isaac Thellusson the first Lord Rendlesham, Sir John Sinclair, Sir Robert Peel, William Wilberforce, Telford the engineer, Chantrey the sculptor, Repton the landscape gardener, and Reinagle the painter.

In conclusion, I would record my sense of the kindness with which Mr. Davies Cooke received me at Owston Hall, and my obligation to him for the assistance he rendered me in the examination of his interesting collection of manuscripts.

JOHN CORDY JEAFFRESON.

MISS
FLARINGTON.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF MISS FLARINGTON, OF WORDEN HALL, CO. LANCASTER.

Some of the most important of the manuscripts at Worden Hall have been printed for the Chetham Society. The "Derby Household Books, comprising an Account of the Household regulations and expenses of Edward and Henry, 3rd and 4th Earls of Derby, together with a Diary containing the names of the guests who visited the latter Earl at his Houses in Lancashire," were edited in 1853 by the Rev. F. R. Raines, who added thereto a valuable introduction and copious notes. The "flarington Papers, comprising an account of the shrievalty of William flarington, Esq., A.D. 1636; and documents relating to the Civil War;" and (in an appendix) Letters taken from the flarington Correspondence between the years 1547 and 1688, were printed for the society in 1856, under the editorship of Miss flarington herself.

The earliest document at Worden is the grant (temp. Hen. I.) of the church of Layland to the abbey of Evesham. There are other deeds of later date relating to that abbey. The grant of the church of Layland is by Robert Bussel, one of a family who were ancestors, in the female line, of the flaringtons. Here may be noticed a deed signed and sealed by Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, and documents signed by Kings Henry VII. and Henry VIII., Queen Elizabeth, and Kings Charles I. and Charles II. An original letter by Oliver Cromwell is copied in full. Sir Henry flarington (born n 1471) is supposed by Mr. Raines to have "not improbably filled the office of Secretary to Edward 3rd Earl of Derby, as a manuscript volume of letters addressed by his lordship to various individuals, and containing transcripts of letters to the Earl from Henry VIII. and his Council, together with copies of several grants and other matters connected with the Derby family still remains at Worden." This volume contains copies of some interesting documents, particularly those relating to the Pilgrimage of Grace; the depositions about slanderous words against Anne Boleyn are slightly referred to in Mr. Raines's volume.

In the Appendix to the volume of flarington Papers (mentioned above) are printed four letters by Richard Bradshaw and nine by James Waynwright. A note prefixed to the Appendix states that these letters were "taken from a bundle of papers belonging to the family of Bradshaw of Pennington. Richard Bradshaw's letters are about 50 in number and addressed from Hamburg to Sir Oliver Fleming, Mr. Secretary Frost, the Lord President, the Council of State, and others, during the year 1650. Waynwright was Bradshaw's agent in England. There are 130 letters from him written between the years 1650 and 1659. Very few of them have yet been examined."—As State Papers during the time of the Protectorate are not very abundant, I have thought it better to give copious extracts from all the letters. Richard Bradshaw was British resident at Hamburg and elsewhere at least from 1650 to 1658, and was latterly addressed as "Embassador from his Highness the Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England."

Among the "Letters of State written by Mr. John Milton," is one from Cromwell to the Hamburgers, dated April 2, 1650, announcing the appointment of Richard Bradshaw, to be his resident at Hamburg; and at the end of May he wrote another letter to them urging them to protect Bradshaw against insults from Royalist exiles. From some anonymous depositions printed in Peck's Desiderata Curiosa, pp. 486-490, it seems that, in January 1653, there was really a conspiracy to murder Bradshaw. James Heath, in his Chronicle, styles Bradshaw "a bold fellow, like his kinsman * who preferred him." Bradshaw's letters seem to indicate that he was a fussy self-important man; he is continually asking for "a smart letter" from the Protector or the Council, and is evidently much mortified at the little notice taken by his employers of his querulous epistles. It must, however, be admitted that the fate of Dr. Dorislaus at the Hague in 1649, and that of Ascham at Madrid in 1650, justified some apprehension on his part of an attack on his person.—It will be seen that in his letter of the 24th of Sept. 1650, he says, "That elegant and sweet epistle of the Lord General's I will shortly have abroad in Latin manuscript." Here he refers doubtless to Cromwell's letter giving an account of the victory at Dunbar, on the 3rd of September, and intimates his intention to have it translated into Latin, and to circulate manuscript copies of it.

In November 1652, he was sent (as agent) to the King of Denmark, and resided at Copenhagen. In April 1657, he was sent on a mission to the Emperor of Russia, but did not remain long, as in Feb. 1657 we find him back at Hamburg.

Waynwright's letters are a little occupied with the affairs of the English merchants; but they also contain domestic news. He notices the apprehension of some persons for corresponding with Captain Tytus; the defeat of the Earl of Derby in 1651; a picture (seemingly a portrait of Cromwell) painted by Lely; the death of Cromwell's mother; disturbances by the Anabaptists and Fifth Monarchy men and the blasphemous utterances of James Nayler. He quotes what he calls the old proverb,

The King of France with 40,000 men

Went up a hill and then went down again:

and refers several times to the varying temper of the Protector towards or against accepting the kingly office; and in June 1657, tells of the solemn proceeding in Westminster Hall where he "was sworn Royal Protector." In February 1658 the Protector is said to be weeding his army; and in April following, the town was disturbed by plots against him. Some of the Bradshaw letters are by his own hand, but most of them are fair copies in small handwriting. Some of them have numbers attached; but the value of those numbers in the present manuscript is not ascertainable.

The handwriting of Waynwright is not good, and his sentences are badly framed. There is one letter from Reginald Waynwright, and there are three from Thomas Leigh, who was agent for James Waynwright. The last letter in the packet is from Ja. Dogett, but is of no interest.

Miss flarington very kindly allowed me to bring the Bradshaw and Waynwright letters to London; thus adding to the obligations which her hospitalities at Worden have imposed.

Richard Bradshaw's letters.

(No. 6.) 1650, June 18, Hamburg. To Sir Oliver Fleming. . . . I enclose you the Europäische and for what more I have from the Eastern parts do (because of haste) refer you to mine per this post to Mr. Secretary Frost. The last letters brought abundance of good news from all relations at home. . . . The smart handling of Montrose hath turned the edge of the fury of this people from the English now to the Scots, whose King (it's said) was the 14th present with 3 great ships at an island in the entrance of this river, but staid not longer than a day; if it were he, it's probable these late north west-winds have put him off the coast hither; it may fall out that Admiral Dean may meet with him ere he lands in Scotland, where if he were, I think we should be at more certainty for proceedings. . . . P.S. . . . I am struggling with this Senate, who

* Richard Bradshaw was nephew of President Bradshaw.

Miss
INGTON.

stroke the Parliament with one hand and strike them with the other; but I shall have them at a better pass ere long, and in the meantime hold the right of the Commonwealth of England, though it vexeth me a little to see such a M*— state to give the Parliament respect by halves.

(No. 3.) 1650, June 19th, Hamburg. The same to Mr. Gamaliel Act'on. I am with yours of the 22 curr^t st. n.; thereby perceive the Polish Queen's bounty to Cockram; it will not maintain his Master's war; the interest and principal will be paid when he comes to the English Crown again; I wish honest men want not till then; I understand Sir John Henderson and some other poor Scots have bills of exchange from their master upon Cockram, but I believe he hath wit enough to keep the whole money to himself; for if neither the Scots nor English suffer him to return, that money will be little enough to maintain his Irish lady and her Hangbys. I have already writ to the Council of State of your condition at Danzick; but I conceive it will be requisite that yourself with some others of the best affected there address yourselves to the Council by letters, setting forth your present condition and future fears; for except you own the present power by especial application, its like enough they will not otherwise take notice of you; and although you may have but a few well affected amongst you that will willingly own the present government in England, yet those few may prevail for the States' interposition with that government in your behalf; if you send such a letter to me signed with as many hands as you can get and directed to The Most Honourable Council of State appointed by authority of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of England sitting at Whitehall, I shall give it a cover to my Lord President. I perceive you have had a full relation of the Scots smart dealing with Montrose. Their new King may by this be in Scotland, if he kept footing; for it is 16 days since he parted from Holland with three or four great ships; but it is reported he was this last week with those ships at Heylegoland in the entrance of this river, but stayed not. It is a great question upon what terms the Scots will receive him when he comes; as it is how he will get thither; for Colonel Dean with a gallant squadron of ships lies ready on that coast to receive him. I suppose you have the news brought hither per last post from England of Lieut.-General Cromwell's arrival, the taking of Clonmel in Ireland, with the advance of our gallant army near the borders of Scotland, 5,000 horse, 10,000 foot, effective; likewise we have it that Popham is joined with Blake, and have demanded the ships from the King of Portugal which Rupert detains under his command, which, because not delivered, our fleet have seized part of their Brasile fleet going in. This last particular I have not from the State but from merchants of good credit at London, who write the news came but to the Parliament the day of the posts departure. We have it here also a current truth amongst the Portugal merchants, so that I believe it true. Our resident there is also said to be aboard our ships.

(No. 5.) 1650, June 21, Hamburg.—To Mr. Strickland. My last to you is of the 15th instant; I have now yours of the 14 dicto, thereby do perceive the differences in Holland grow higher daily and that there is a resident expected at the Haghe from the Pretender. Sure the province of Holland will have no hand in his reception. It will not suit with their sending of a Commissioner to the Parliament. It is here certainly reported, the P. with 3 great ships were, the 15th and 16th of this month at Heylighen Land. . . . The English company here have chosen me their deputy. This court (as being the chief) hath the power of electing all the officers for all the other branches of the company, London, Rotterdam, &c. We suffer not here any to bear office that have not subscribed, neither shall we permit such to sit in court for the future, being so commanded by the Parliament. I wish we knew who are well affected men at Rotterdam, that we might use none but such. To-morrow we shall proceed to the election; I shall try to defer the choice of the officer at Rotterdam, until we know certainly from some there who are the well affected, that such only they have the power in their hands as here now they have it, &c.

(No. 11.) 1650, June 18th, Hamburg. The same to Mr. Secretary Frost.—The letter to the senate I forbear to deliver, because in the beginning it titles me Resident and towards the end Agent; though both may import the same thing, yet there is a vast difference betwixt them according to the customary acceptation of them in this country, where an Agent is far inferior to a

Miss
HARINGTON.

Resident, and only appointed for the writing of news and sending of letters recommended to his care; such a one lives but like a private person, and sometimes lives here under a Resident, having the same relation to him as a factor hath to a merchant employing him; and, therefore, in regard the style of agent would lay me so low as to serve the Senate for a ground of their undervaluing and disputing place, I forbear the delivery; and hereafter, if need be, I shall move the State for another letter that keeps only to the word Resident. Those expressions in the beginning of the letter, studia vestra tam propensa tamque egregia,* &c., I humbly conceive very high and undeserved by such as yielded nothing but (as it were) by force; but this I humbly submit to the wisdom of the Council. I shall now make another address to the Senate and demand their positive answer, whether they will give me the place and respect of Resident at all times or not; if they refuse or delay to satisfy me herein, I shall give account thereof to the Council per next post; but I presume I shall have a fair answer, which I much desire, that I may not trouble the State any further with this business. In the Council's letter of the last of May, I am commanded to prosecute the prisoners. If you look over my letters of the 21st and 28th of that month, you will find the accounts I gave their Lordships of the mock banishment inflicted on those that carried away the deputy and merchants; being all they suffered, notwithstanding I pressed them often to do exemplary justice. That which I much desire to know is, if the State be satisfied with the manner of their proceeding with those prisoners and the Senate's answer to me that they were not accountable to any but the Emperor for their justice, of which I certified you in the predict letters and since. If the Parliament be satisfied herewith (and so the Senate will make account if they hear nothing to the contrary) I suppose they will proceed in the like manner with them that assaulted the minister, whom they begin to say already they cannot find guilty. I shall do my duty in pressing them to do justice, and afford real protection to the Parliament's subjects here; but let me say what I will, the Senate will do what they list, and in the mean time give as fair words as can be desired. If I could but out draw them to be as respectful of the Parliament's subjects and friends as I find them of their enemies, I should be much better satisfied than I am, though much more may be expected from them, and perhaps friends too, ere long. The Secretary of the S. Go. (as appears per the enclosed) is upon parting from his master; he is very desirous to have employment and accommodation from the Commonwealth of England. In his letters he tells you he's Swedes envoyé into Holland and how instrumental it was for the closure 'twixt the Scots and their King. If the Council please to accept of his offer, and to accommodate him with an allowance (which I perceived at first was the thing aimed at), I believe he might be of good use to get from the secretaries of most Princes transactions of State in those eastern parts. I have enquired after him and he is to me reported a very honest, religious, and well affected man to the Commonwealth of England. A little money (if the Council so think fit) might be well employed that way; I have kept him up all this while without any engagement, only now you see he puts me to it, I must either engage to him or presently loose him, and I suppose it is not expected I should pay for intelligence out of my own allowance; I shall find that bare enough at the year's end for the defraying of my own charge, being necessitated to keep many servants about me, otherwise I must not look forth of doors, but live in the nature of a prisoner; but that mine enemies here shall not have me at whilst the State of England hath more power and command than their enemies, let the Senate be as neutral as they will; they here are threatened daily and will take no notice; but if a hair of my head peruse (perish?) within their jurisdiction, [I have] told them often it will be required at their hands. Some of the chief of the Senate and a . . . have sent to me to keep within doors much, but I know their drift and have [sent them] word I came not to Hamburg to be a prisoner or live like such; when I fear to go abroad with the servants I have within their command (and out of it I mean not to go as yet) I will send to demand a guard, and shall expect it from them. If we beat Blew-cap and his master, as I doubt not but with God's blessing we shall, if they will quarrel, I am confident I may go through this Senate's commands with a rod in my hand without danger, and then the dispute for

* Bradshaw uses the letter M for the word Malignant.

* These words are from the Parliament's letter of the 31st of May 1650.

Miss
HARINGTON.

the place will be laid aside. I am very much your debtor for the abundance of good news in both yours. From some merchants I have it that Colonel Blake and Popham were joined at Lisboa, and had made stay of the Brasile fleet going in here; but because you speak it not I dare not credit the other, though I wish it, for till then I believe we shall not have such correspondences as is meet. It is credibly reported that the Grand Master from Breda was at Heyligoland, a small island in the mouth of this river, the 14th present, with three great Dutch ships, one 40 piece ordnance; only staid to take in fresh water and some provisions, but departed again the next morning. If so I hope Admiral Dean will salute him on the Scotch coast; for since, the winds here have been and still are contrary that he cannot go far. That news I have from the east countries, &c., you have enclosed.—P.S. Jones (of whom I writ to you at my first arrival to be a great obstructor of my reception with the Senate) is come here again lately; he gives out he hath credentials, but I believe is only a factor from Cockram, who is yet at Danzick; what business he may have here I yet know not, but they say he hath brought over a covey of young ladies with him; if his master supply him not to live more honourably then formerly, it's like he will set up a trade. The Parliament are so sharp with such ladies in England that they fly from thence hither.

1650, June 18, Hamburgh. To Mr. Secretary Scott.—I find myself debtor to yours of the 24th ultimo, wherein you are pleased very much to engage me by your kind acceptance of my respects to you by the ships. I am yet struggling with this Senate to get and keep right. I shall not let go a puntilio due to the Commonwealth of England, and doubt not but shortly to have what is reasonable and not in a precarious way, but as becomes. I have weekly accoompted to the Councell for my transactions here, which occasions me so seldom to trouble you, lest I needlessly burthen you with papers which are here always at your service; but if you signify your pleasure as to a particular address to yourself, I shall willingly give it weekly. In the mean time that I detain you not I presume to refer you to mine this week to Mr. Frost. . . .

(No. 12.) 1650, June 25, Hamburgh. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—I hoped with these to have sent you the Senate's positive answer to my late renewed demand touching respect at all times as Resident, but they promise it to-morrow. In the mean time I send you here a copy of the paper I sent them since I received the Council's commands to require due respect. . . . According to the command of the Council at the last general court here, I signified the Council's pleasure, touching those of the company that did not engage, and declared to them they were not to sit and vote in Court as others who had subscribed, nor to expect protection from the Parliament. Whereupon all that had not engaged, departed the court grommeleunt; and at parting I also declared to them (according to command in the Council's letter) the danger of corresponding with Charles Stewart, or any his instruments in this city, to be no less than treason; to which one Medcaulf (a most imbittered Cavalier) made answer in the hearing of the Court, that he thought there were none in court worthy to correspond with such a noble Prince; for which calling him presently to account, laying before him the danger he had run himself into, in so openly declaring that for a worthy act which the Parliament have made and declared treason, thinking he would have recanted; but he persisted, further affirming it was his opinion, and he knew no reason why he should be sorry for it. Whereupon the court proceeded to sentence him to prison till the Parliament pleasure were further known concerning him; offering to accept of bail, but he refused, and so was committed to the officer in open court; but before he came to the officer's house (the place where the Company's prison is) he made an escape, for which the officer is suspended his place, and to be further punished, if he bring him not in before the next court, which I believe he cannot, for that I hear Medcaulf went presently (with some other of his feather and as deep in for vile language as he, one having said several times in the English house, since the engagement was subscribed here, that they were all rogues and perjured villains that had engaged to the chief burger master, one of little affection to our republique, if not a great enemy) and desired protection against the Court, which is against their oaths as free men.

What the City will do in it, time will discover; the Court must and will shortly put them to it, for that by the articles of agreement with the Company, the Senate are to give the Court assistance to compel refractory members; we shall have some bussling about this business, which will occasion a clear discovery of this Senate's real respects to the Parliament. I verily believe they will deny the Court their assistance, and then the Malignants being many will grow very high. We shall, if they wave the Court's commands and orders proceed to disfranchise them, which is according to the rules in Court. Not doubting but the State will approve of our just proceedings therein, and will be pleased to signify their further pleasure for our proceedings against and with such contumacious persons, that they may be cut off from trade at London and here, which will be the only means to curb their insolency; and this I pray you move the Council in with all speed, (otherwise they will not value being put out of court and the Parliament's protection, if the city protect them) that if this City deny us their assistance, we may know to carry the business to the pleasure of the State; the Senate's loose expression of their neutrality is the rise of all this stomackfullnesse in the Malignants. Also I desire to know, if any will yet engage, if I shall receive their subscriptions, for I am not yet specially impowered; yet if any will come in, in the mean time, I shall not refuse them. This day we have here news by a letter from Madrid of the 8th instant st. no. to one of the Senators, that Mr. Ascome and his secretary should both be slain at his table in his own lodging at dinner, the same day or shortly after his coming to Madrid, by four or five English papists, in the absence or treachery of his guard the King had given him; one of senators sent me word of this by my secretary this day; if it should be true, I suppose by this time you know it; I should much lament the death of the gentleman and the State's loss, but I hope to have better news from you next post. However, the report goes here with much credit, and the Malignants are not a little heightened by the report of so cruel a murder, threatening to do as much by me ere long; but I praise God I fear them not, neither shall slacken my hand in my just duty whilst the State think fit to command me here. . . . P.S. The sad news of Mr. Ascome's death is confirmed at instant by the Antwerp post, to be done by the Irish villains. I hope the Parliament will think of securing the rest abroad, that are every day in the same danger.

(No. 9.) 1650, June 29, Hamburgh. To the Councell of State.—In his letter of the 18th current he acknowledged their letters of the 31st of May and 6th of June, together with the enclosed to the Senate, which he did not deliver for reasons given in his letter. Sends copies of his said letter and of his letter to Secretary Frost by Mr. Hochstetter, a merchant of the company and very well affected to the Parliament's service, that in case the letters had miscarried the copies might supply the want of them. He also sends copies of his Protest and Demand to the Senate and of their answer. . . . A friend tells him that the Senate have written a letter to the Parliament by the last post (about the Company) . . . I hear that the Senate have, or are about to declare against the companies Continuing here or at least that none shall stay, but such as shall apply themselves to serve their interest; . . . however, their late dealings with our Court and Company plainly discover what they aim at. For several Malignant members of the Company having committed great offences against the State and struck at the very being of the Court and the privileges of the Company, and then the Senate being desired (according as they are obliged by the concordances or their agreement with the Company) to assist them, that those offenders might be brought to the city prison and put in chains and so proceeded against by the Company according to their orders. The Senate instead of affording the company what they are tied to by the articles, so required the Company to give them an account of their proceedings in Court, wherefore they commit to prison, with other such like unreasonable demands, which is a gross breach of the Company's privilege which they so fairly promised to maintain in their answer to my proposals. I find the Senate of late fall off more and more from their pretended respect; I hope a short time will sufficiently unmake them. The news of Mr. Askam's sad fate hath much heightened the Malignant party here. . . . I hold it my duty to put your Lordships in mind of the daily hazard of my life amongst them, especially since in this their answer, which they gave to my paper, they have in effect declared that the vile language and threatening of Blincko with his party, though attested in the face of the Senate by two witnesses, is not worthy taking notice of to punish him, except the act had been perpetrated. If your Honours think fit to hold a corre-

Miss
HARINGTON.

Miss MINGTON.

spondency with this Senate, they must (by a very sharp letter from the Parliament) be made sensible to be real in actions as well as specious in pretences; otherwise he that serves you here may shortly sacrifice himself without effecting his desire for the preservation of the honour of the Parliament and the Company's just rights. . . . Refers to the bearer for further information, and promises another letter in three days.

(No. 6.) 1650, June 29, Hamburg.—To the Lord President. This bearer, Mr. Bethell's partner, a very cordial servant to the State, being upon departure for England, I durst not omit by him to present my service. (The contents are much to the same effect as the last preceding.) P.S. Good news from the north with a smart letter would set all straight here quickly. But at present here are Babells of concept for the Scotts King, who as this Senate believe will have the Parliament in his pocket shortly, which makes them so high.

(No. 13.) 1650, June 29th, Hamburg. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—A letter to the same effect as the two last.

(No. 7.) 1650, July 2, Hamburg. To my Lord President.—I have now writ again to the Council the present condition myself and the well affected here are in with the Senate and city, since the putting of Non-subscribers out of Court and the news of Mr. Ascom's death. From my arrival I have by each week's post truly certified your Lordship and the Council what manner of entertainment I have found with this Senate. If I could content myself with such an outside formal respect as this Senate think fit to give the State of England suitable to their neutral maxims, and suffer the Malignant merchants in the English House and in the very face of the Court to sleight and speak reproachfully of the present government in England, I might probably find more safety to myself; but I must be faithful, though I perish in the doing of my duty. . . . The reports this people have of great forces with the Pretender in Scotland and their hopes to see great matters done by them, puts the Senate at this distance. The Parliament have their complements, but their enemies their hearts, though I am daily threatened, especially since the news of Mr. Ascom's death. . . . Complains sadly of his position and urges that a smart letter from the Parliament should be sent.

(No. 14.) 1650, July 2, Hamburg. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—A letter to the same effect as the last.—Says, that while he had assurance that the Senate would punish assassinations, he used to venture abroad with half a score of his own servants and some of the well affected merchants; but now, he does not see how he can do it any more without being prodigal of his own and servants' blood.

1650, July 2, Hamburg. To Mr. Frost, junior.—About Mr. Anscom's death, and the writer's opinions about it.—This people generally hate the government of England, nay so high are they now grown since the closure at Breda, as that the very Senate begin to show they fancy a speedy fall of the republic of England; otherwise they would never so sleight me, as of late they have done.

(No. 7.) 1650, July 2, Hamburg. To Sir Oliver Fleming.—On the same subject, and complaints of his own position.

(No. 10.) 1650, July 2, Hamburg. To the Council of State.—Complains of the Maglinant Non-subscribers, and of their threats to him, and of the Senate's countenance of them. . . . Upon Saturday last the merchants acquainted me that Binko (whom the Senate in their answer say comes not within their territory), was walking confidently amongst them upon the Exchange. Whereupon I sent my secretary to acquaint the Burger-master with it, and to desire that he might be apprehended; but they so posted him from one to another that in less than two hours time he could not have an officer to accompany him for his apprehension, in which time the villain slipped away; and yesterday I certified the Burgermaster of one Doctor Browne, on English Papist here, of the threatening language he used to one of the servants of the English House, as it's set down in the enclosed paper, with all letting him know that if through the Senate's neglect to punish such affronts, I should miscarry under their protection, it would not be smooth words would satisfy the Parliament, but that my blood would be required at their hands; which plainness of expression I found myself inforced to use, having seen so much of their countenance to my enemies. Whereupon the Burgermaster thus replied, that he desired me to spare him with such protestations, as he termed it, for that he was not accustomed to such ways, and that tales were reported to me to cast me into fear, and that he would report it to the Senate, and if the party could be convinced of what I alleged, he should be punished, but in regard there is only one witness to testify it that was not sufficient, and therefore I must have another and put in good security for the judiciary expense, keeping of the party in prison, and indemnity of the City, and then I might prosecute. . . . Says whatever they pretend, they will not willingly make the State of England their enemy. If Breame, or some other place might be thought upon for the Company, and six months warning given, according to the Company's Articles with this city, I am very confident the Senate would in another manner apply themselves, before the six months were expired. It was Queen Elizabeth's way, and took good effect when the Company only were injured in their privilege; if some speedy course be not taken, to preserve the honour of the Parliament and rights of the Company, it will shortly grow a more difficult work. . . . P.S. This Senate and city expect great matters from the Pretender and his blue caps, which makes them keep this distance; they have their hearts, but if it please the Lord to prosper you there (as I trust he will), the Parliament shall have store of compliments from this Senate.

Miss
HARINGTON.

(No. 4.) 1650, July 9. To Mr. Gamaliel Acton. . . . —I have some trouble here with the desperate malignant English as well of the Company as others, but I shall shortly curb their insolence. . . . The Malignants heighten themselves much with expectations of great matters from the Pretender and his blue caps, but truly they have little cause. Honest Cromwell, now Captain-General (the Lord Fairfax having laid down his commission, as I suppose by this time you will hear) is by this day near Edinburgh, in all probability, for he set forth of London the 28th June, his army of 16,000 good horse and foot, being all ready upon the borders for him. He is by order of Parliament to enter Scotland, though a Commissioner came lately from the Parliament to ours to assure they had no purpose to invade England, yet that will not impede the march of our army. We have no certain news from Lisboa, but it's thought that King's neutrality, or rather partial dealing will occasion our breach with him. Our affairs go well in Ireland; only the plague rageth in many parts. The French are pirates to all the world; we shall have war with them. The King of Spain will certainly severely punish the murderers of our Resident. The State of Holland close with us, and Spain earnestly seeks our friendship.

(No. 8.) 1650, July 9, Hamburg. To my Lord President.—About his disagreeable position as Resident, and the enmity of the Senate to the Republican Government of England.

(No. 15.) Same date. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—. . . I am glad our new Captain General is gone to the army, from whom I hope shortly of good news. From Lisboa we have it by shipping that that King joins with Rupert, and hath clapt up all the merchants, seized their goods, and was then the of June ready with 70 sail of ships to fight with our fleet; but till I hear it from you I shall not credit anything. From my correspondent at Nurnberg last post brought me the enclosed, which are truly translated. We had best heed of trusting the Spaniard too far, though I think, as affairs stand now with him, he may desire our friendship at present; but the wolf will be a wolf still. The poor Danzick merchants are grossly abused by the Malignants, as per the enclosed book and extract appears. . . . P.S. At the instant I am told by a friend that the next week the whole Burgery are here to meet, to determine against the Parliament party, in favour of the Malignants. If the State hasten not they will be before them in that puntilio of honour in disclaiming first. This city, from the grave formal Senator to the meanest Burger, are generally the Parliament's implacable enemies. Our State will find it so whatever may be pretended. If I and the well-affected here suffer by the rude hands of the multitude, it will be too late then to say more care should have been had of us. . . .

(No. 11.) 1650, July 9, Hamburg. To the Council of State.—About his disputes with the Senate, they disputing to give him place as Resident (under pretence that he sought it as Deputy to the English Company); and their countenance of the Malignants who have so incensed the Burgers of Hamburg, that he is daily desired by the few friends the Parliament has in that city not to stir out of doors, they having so much threatened his life, whereof the Senate will not take notice. . . . I have been here now above three months, and yet never received a civil visit from the Senate, except when some of the Senators came to me about business. Neither have I yet seen that well-bred gentleman who is here called the States of Holland's Resident, but if I had frequented the taverns I might there probably have met him.—Sends enclosures from his correspondents at Nuremberg and Dantzic, and urges an allowance for the former, or he will be lost. For the supply of his own next three months' expenses he draws a bill for 200*l.* upon the Council.

Miss
HABINGTON

1650, July 16th, Hamburg. To Mr. Strickland.—Acknowledges Strickland's letter of the 8th (15th) announcing his resolution for [return to] England.—I hope these will find you in the Parliament of England. I desire you will permit me by them to bid you welcome to your country and charge, as likewise with all due thankfulness to acknowledge the kind respect I found in your weekly correspondence whilst you were in the Haugh, together with your ample expressions of readiness to befriend me in the House, or where I shall have occasion to use so good a friend. I presume before these come to your hands, you will have seen my Lord President, and that you may from his Lordship have notice of the petite[s] querelles 'twixt this Senate and myself, chiefly about punctilios; their resolved neutrality or rather disaffection to the present government of England, together with their fantastical expectation of great matters from the Pretender lifts them up above all modest bounds.—They are the State of England's cordial enemies; but, according to the old Hamburger mode they will give the Parliament a Dutch compliment, whilst they affront their Minister here, as I have fully and really accounted to the State. I am confident a smart letter from the Parliament would set all straight, and much advantage the Company here, of which I have writ to my Lord President and the Council. At the least I conceive it may not be amiss to try the working of a letter, before I be called off; though the desperadoes here rage and brave, especially since Mr. Ascom's death; yet that I weigh not; if the Senate be but once made sensible to give a due respect I shall deal well enough with the other, though the Earl of Newcastle were here to head the Malignants, of whose coming they boast.

(No. 9.) 1650, July 16, Hamb. To the Lord President.—In my former of the 2nd and 9th instant, I certified what a bustling the Senate and City made at the putting of Non-subscribers out of court, and what abetting and countenancing there was of them to see, if by that way they could enforce the Court to sit down with any affront from their Malignant members rather than vindicate themselves; but, finding their way did not take, but that the Court held the Senate to it, for the giving of them assistance to punish refractory members according to articles, and that they would rather run all hazards than suffer their privileges to be so trampled, the Senate are now come down, and have yielded to imprison one Clarke for his contempt and abuse of the Court, and became suitors to the court in behalf of Medcalf, who hath submitted himself in court, and hath desired me to become an humble suitor to the State on his behalf, to pardon him for his rash and unadvised speeches, of which I certified the Honble. Council in my letter of the 25th June. Thus holding them to it, I hope by degrees, if it shall please the State to send a smart letter to the Senate (as I have formerly desired) to find a suitable respect from the Senate, and to live here in much more safety, if the State shall think fit to continue me, which I humbly desire to know in regard the time for the shipping now draws on, that I may be at a certainty whether to send for my wife or to stay her at home.—Refers to his letter by that post to Mr. Frost and the copy of his reply to the Senate's answer which he will not send them till he knows the Council's pleasure.

(No. 16.) n. d. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—Part of a letter on the same business.

1650, Aug. 6, Hamburg. To Mr. Sargt. Dendy.— Let me entreat you to mind your servant Compton that, in his absence, if there should be any change of messengers, he may not suffer for his service here; by the first shipping I intend to return him, which will be about November next; the present believed report here is that our army is totally routed, and the general slain, which news the Malignants affirm to be come by a ship from Scotland in seven days to Lubeck, a city in the Baltic Sea, 40 miles hence, but I hope our next post will bring us better news. Sends his service to Sir Oliver Fleming and Mr. Strickland.

1650, [Aug.] 27, Hamburg. Mr. Secretary Frost.—I have this day received yours of the 16th present, with the enclosed books, being full of joy with all the honest party here at the good news of our army's being in safety and better condition than their enemies, for by letters from Amsterdam and some parts of the north of England, it hath been all this last week reported and with very confidence believed by the credulous and M. D. that our army was wholly routed, 10,000 slain, and our general killed or taken, and though yours and several others, letters from London, say there hath not been any other engagements then what is in the printed you sent me in French, yet still the Dutch believe their former report, and lay great wagers, carrying themselves very insolently in their boastings and revileings of the Parliament, especially the Scotts Malignants, who familiarly call the Parliament rebels, and say their day is come. But it would be to little purpose for me to take notice; they know what vile language I have been forced to put up, and before the State of England have leisure to signify their resentment of my usage, I shall not have anything to do with this Senate, hoping a little more time will open a way to due preparation or removal hence.

(No. 11.) 1650, Sept. 3, Hamb. To my Lord President.—Since the last post Mr. Misselden arrived here, from whom I received your Lordship's letter of the 7th ultimo, being much to my comfort that my services is accepted of, though the Council have not yet leisure to consider of my complaints touching my usage here. The Company were never upon better terms with this city than now they are. . . . All this last week here past a current report grounded upon letters from Amsterdam and other parts that the Parliament's army were wholly defeated, the general taken, and the Scots advanced into England, all London and the nation in an uproar, as by a paper here printed appears, which Sir Oliver Flemming can English to your Lordship; it is scarce credible how the generality of the Burgers rejoiced at it, and insulted over the well affected English; some being so audacious as to send halsters to some of them; but it would little avail yet for me to take notice of their malignity to the state of England, but I hope shortly they will be remembered when greater concerns are over. Mr. Misselden is well accepted here, and I doubt not but he will prove very serviceable to the Company. Some difference there is lately fallen out betwixt the Company at London and the Company here touching the way of paying their great debts. Those of London would have it done by way of imprest upon all goods, which is most oppressive to young men, and would undoubtedly be the roadway to ruin trade, which is so low already as many profess they are not able to live upon it. But the merchants here, consisting only of trading men, who must employ their capitals though the trade be low, offer to pay the Company's debts by pole or an equal tax, each man to pay 2 per cent. of his whole estate, which is the most conscionable and expeditious way and least hurtful to trade, which is of so great concernment to the Commonwealth, if it should be oppressed with impositions, so as our neighbours would soon eat us out of it; but the old Senators who have great estates in the Company . . . will not hear of an equal tax, for then they could not escape, but will have on their way of imprest, which less concerns them, being they can withdraw from trade when they please, having already got estates; and, as we hear by some merchants from London, they have made an order in that Court thereon, assuming a power they have not to make orders without this Court, which is the head Court of the Company, that none shall ship goods with them there that will not submit to the imprest. This court writ to them about it the last post, but we fear they will not let fall their design before this Court applies to the State to suppress them in that destructive way, and enjoin them the equal tax. Mr. Bethel can inform your Lordship more particularly of this business. . . . The Generalissimo of Sweden is now at Stode, and expected here daily; his secretary will visit me in hopes of the Council's resolution concerning his employment, for intelligence of which I formerly writ to Mr. Frost. The Governor of Ge-laxtatt (a garrison town upon this river belonging to the King of Denmark) goes on very fast in repairing the block houses there to command all shipping; and that King permits all commissioned captains by the Scotts King to bring in their prizes there to have them adjudged. Of what evil consequences this may be to the trade of our Company here and the whole Commonwealth, I submit to your Lordship's judgment.

(No. 22.) 1650, Sept. 3, Hamburg. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—I have yours per last post with the enclosed declaration emitted by the Scotts. My opinion is they are already weary of their King, seeing they must hold him upon so hard terms, and now the stool of repentance must occasion the quarrel; they have the wolf by the ears; but a Scott knows how to make a virtue of necessity. I hope our General will know how to deal with

Miss
HABINGTON.

Miss
KINGTON.

them, if they come once to a treaty; we have experience what faith they keep. The proverb saith, They are good servants but bad masters. All this last week here hath been a report of the total rout of our army (&c. as in the last letter). Truly your welcome news by this post hath been as life from the dead to our well affected, who see what they must find from these malignant people (stirred up to this madness by our malignant English), if our army should miscarry; but our God will disappoint their expectations that so desperately rage without cause. This week the Generalissimo is expected here from Stode, where he and his followers drunk healths for Cromwell's overthrow with 12 pieces of ordnance in the street, firing them at each health, and hanging him up in a cage, drinking themselves all drunk for joy. This I am certainly informed of by a friend. The other side of the river over against Stode the general of Geluckstatt goes on a pace with repairing the block houses. I do not hear the two Portugal ships have yet left the river; they slowly proceed on the other three yet on the stocks. The last post saith from Dantzick that the Muscovites are all up in arms against their Emperor; it's thought Culpepper is knocked in the head amongst them. Crofts of the bedchamber is gone Ambassador to the King of Poland, but here is no money. Cockram (it's said) is stolen hence privately with all the money he got in the east parts, without paying any debt. . . . P. S. The two great ships are departed the river.

(No. 23.) 1650, Sept. 10, Hamburgh. To Mr. Secretary Frost.— If the Scots could fight as well as talk, the business had been over ere this . . . I perceive by yours now the Council will defer their writing to this Senate until the armies' success be known, which is but what I expected they would conclude upon; and if I had their letter the Senate would give no answer upon it, or alter their garb and distance before the success of the armies be known; so there is no time lost. The last week's current news of the rout of our army put them presently upon countenancing the Malignants again, and sending some of their old messages to the Court to accopt to them wherefore we had imprisoned Peter Clerk; and in effect they were as high as ever, but they shall have their answer

News from Dantzic, of the 10th Sept., st. no., thus: The L. Culpepper (so called) here arrived from Moscow; he hath got from the Emperor 200,000 Rix dol. (50,000l. sterling), value in corn and furs for his master the King of Scots. At his appearance Mr. Walter Long left this city, and is gone for Elving. Here hath been extraordinary great rejoicing at the believed report of the total rout of our army. Several Scotch merchant ships richly laden are hence departed for Holland, and in Hollanders names to be sent for London. Those of the Scottish nation being commanded to depart our Commonwealth will be forced to seek new correspondents, it may be of concernment, to look after their goods coming so in Hollanders names I desire to know what the Council please to order me in the business of Medcalf, who submitted himself, and desired me to intercede for him . . . I suppose they will remit his offense; he carries himself well since for ought hear of. I pray let me know if the Council will please to leave the business to me Capt. Compton, one of your messengers, whom I took over with me hither with consent of my Lord President and Mr. Sergeant Dandy, (Dendy?) with promise from them both that his place should be kept for him till his return, hath had some late hints given him that if he haste not home his place will be gone

I am confident the State hath not a more honest and able man for such a service My service to Mr. Strickland, and let me know when he returns for Holland.

(No. 24.) 1650, Sept. 17, Hamb. To the same.—The last post brought yours of the 6th instant. I am sorry all that we can do will not bring the bragging Scott to try it with us; doubtless they must feel the smart of a winter war as well as ours; only I fear our horse will find more want than theirs; I doubt not but ere long God will discover their hypocrisy and juggling to the world, and then they will feel what a good bargain they have of their convert. By this time I fear the weather will force our fleet from Lisbon; and then if great care be not taken, Rupert and the French will do a world of mischief. In my last I told you this Senate begin again to demand most unreasonable things from our Court, to the razing of the very foundations of the Company's privileges, as that we should accopt to them particularly for our imprisoning of Peter Clerk, and that we should let fall a suit which hath long before my coming depended in our Court by one of our merchants against Blincko (that villain I long since wrote you of), who hath most notoriously cheated a poor widow and her children, and whom the Senate smoothly promised in their paper which I sent you, to punish if he came within their jurisdiction for calling the Parliament murderers, and threatening to kill me; but so far are they from doing that justice, as they now interpose for him against the privileges of our Court and right of the poor widow, only because he falsely pretends he is molested in court for his being (a loyal subject) to his King.—He comments on the Senate's action in this matter.—This Clerk is a broken merchant, one that hath cheated divers men out of great sums, and adjudged a perjured person by the Court, when it consisted of Non-engagers as well as others, for his palpable breach of his oath to the Company being done since my coming, all the Malignants being against him in court, both for his imprisonment and disfranchisement as a perjured person, not one dissenting, though they would gladly have favoured him if they could for shame and with the safety of their own oaths have done it. Yet this man do the Senate thus highly countenance against the Court, because they when backed by the Non-engagers and Malignants, most of whose names you may see to this enclosed copy of a letter they sent to the Company at London, when they were by authority of the Council's letter to me put out of Court, I have noted the considerable men and traders amongst them thus (mark), the rest are broken men and pretences This Clerk being such a wicked incendiary, I conceive the only way will be for the Council or the Parliament to require him of the Senate as the Court's prisoner, and to command me to send him over by the next ship. I make no question but the Senate would deliver him if the Parliament do require him; they might, if they were not infected with his malignancy, and deeply engaged to stand by him in his contest with the Company, think themselves well rid of him in such manner. The truth is he hath such wicked counsellors and abettors both amongst the English and Burgers, and so supplied by them with money to maintain his affrontings of the Company, that if he be not taken off shortly he will go near to procure an edict from the Emperor to banish all the Engagers hence; and if such a command should come, I make a great question if this Senate would not execute it of least trample on the Parliament's subjects by reason of it. Now that there is little hopes shortly to see the issue 'twixt us and the Scots, and that the Senate grow thus high, I hope the Parliament will no longer delay to signify to the Magistracy here, their resentment of their dealing and that smartly You shall find Clerk at the close of his paper, puts the Senate in mind of their letter to the Scots King at that time, or presently after they gave me audience; undoubtedly if that letter were known, it would appear what manner of respect and entertainment they intended me, notwithstanding their specious pretences at my audience. I have little news from any part this week. Some say the Swedes court have contented, at least for the present quieted, their peasants; the like in Moscow; but it's verily believed that the chief officers amongst the Swedes will not long hold together What I wrote you last touching the repair of the block houses at Keluxstatt is certain.

Miss
HARINGTON.

A short letter of the same date and on the same subject to my Lord President. He refers him to the above letter sent to Mr. Secretary Frost.

(No. 25.) 1650, Sept. 24, Hamburgh. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—The last post brought me yours of the 13th current, confirming the good news we had here a few days before of the great victory the Lord of Hosts gave to the people of his love, and truly in covenant with him, over those hypocritical pretenders to both, gloriously manifesting to the world which side appealed to him in truth; methinks this signal mercie (never to be sufficiently acknowledged) looks equally to the great concerns of state and Church, and I hope it will be an opening of the eyes to those that have not hitherto seen the Lord's mighty outgoings with his people, and his unparalleled owning of the authority he hath most eminently and providentially set over them for their good; if any yet be blind it is because the Lord hath left them. That elegant and sweet letter of the Lord General's I will shortly have abroad in Latin manuscript; this malignant city (to whom the State of England have showed so much respect) will not suffer anything printed in favour of the Parliament, without such a curtailing as renders it to their disadvantage; but before your letter came I had the news so confirmed as that I confidently dispersed it to the most considerable parts of Germany, Sweden, Poland, &c.; though these countries want faith to credit anything against their desires You say in yours that now you suppose there will be no need of any letter from the Parliament to this city, for that their eyes will be opened to see their interest; truly in reason you might well suppose so; but you know not the grandeur of this magnificent magistracy; it is not the friendship of such an inconsiderable state as England that they so much regard. In their conceit their walls are as high as yours, and their strength by sea not inferior. A man would smile to see how they swell in their ruffs at the news of our armies' success, which yet they believe not, but in a trembling manner, least it should prove true; and they are generally so enraged at the news, that since they heard it, the Senate have been much higher in their actings against the Company than before; but I shall hold them to it, and doubt not but to make them strike very shortly . . . My last week's letter certified you how they carried it to that time; and now I shall account to you what they have done since the news of our great victory, that you may see how little they value such tidings. The next day after the chief Burger Master Muller (a notable enemy to the state of England, into whom the former deputy, Mr. Avery, distilled the principles of malignancy) clapt an arrest upon some goods belonging to a merchant of the Company, without acquainting the Deputy, being flatly against the very letter of the 13th article of our concordance with them; whereupon I sent to him to know the reason of that arrest, requiring it to be taken off; but he answered that he should not take it off, for that it was legally imposed; and further, in the pride of his heart, said that the English nation here were subjects to the Magistracy of Hamburg in all civil as well as criminal cases; which expression I not brooking, sent him a answer suitable; that afternoon three of the senators came to me with the enclosed paper, and yesterday they had the enclosed answer to it.—Long complaint of the Senate's dealings in respect of the Company We have little news from any of the eastern countries. Crofts is returned from the King of Poland to Danzick, but not a penny hath he got, only 300*l*. to bear his own charge; what he, Culpepper, Cockrom, or any other such needy messengers get, they have the wit to keep it from their new master. There is another small collier of Newcastle, brought into Kexlustax by such a small picarone as I formerly wrote you of. Had I received any answer to my first advice, or command from the State, I should have sent to the Governor to know by what authority he makes or suffers our ships to be made prize; but the Council being silent in it, I know not how to proceed; yet I intend to send to-morrow to the Governor to know the reason of his proceedings if I can. Cockram hath left his chaplain here, a priest that hath called the Parliament murderers as often as he prays or preaches; some of our archest Malignants of the Company as Clem. Clarke, Geo. Waytes, Thomas and Will. Leeg (Legge?), George Wakefeilde, and some others not so considerable, have agreed with him for their chaplain. Mr. Bethel, knows them all; it would do well their principals at London had notice of it, and some course taken to break that confederacy; they have all left our congregation, and this mal. senate will not assist the Company to reduce them. Just now, upon the departure of the post, comes the Senate's answer, which in effect is that they will not deliver the prisoner Clark to the Court except, &c.

Miss
HARINGTON.

To-morrow I intend to demand him for the Company in the name of the Parliament.

1650, Sept. 24, Hamb. To my Lord President.—On the same points as the one of the same date to Mr. Secretary Frost.

(No. 26.) 1650, October 1, Ham. To Mr. Secretary Frost.— . . . Some friends wrote me of Mr. Rushworth's coming to London; I much desire to hear from you of the occasion; for I cannot believe but some extraordinary business hath brought him to the Parliament. I dare not think but all is well, being our army advanced to Stirling; yet I shall be great with conceptions tell your next settle me in the right touching that particular. As to your desire touching the consultation and resolutions taken by the eastern Princes and States upon notice of our great victory, it is somewhat early yet to satisfy you therein; in general the news saddened their spirits. . . . They have a new crochot on foot, that undoubtedly Spain and France will quickly agree, and they here declare it already done, so as those two great kingdoms with the Emperor, Sweden, Denmark, Portugal, and all the world if you will, are resolved to swallow up little England's Commonwealth.—More complaints against the Senate.—His wife is now coming over.—Haltermann that would have killed our minister will be brought to trial about 12 months hence. . . .

The worst is for him but a banishment as the other had. n.d.—To my Lord (The bearer of the letter was his wife who had come over in one of the company's ships) . . . I am a novice in politics; my reach is no further than how I may faithfully and most effectually discharge the duty of my place . . . P.S. The villain that would have murdered Doctor Elburrow I believe will shortly be set at liberty; being the Senate find the Parliament distasted not their mock banishment of those that stole away the Deputy and merchants; they will do the like again on this prisoner, who hath such encouragement that he demands a great sum of money from the Company for keeping him thus long in prison.

Hamb, 1650, Oct. 1. To my Lord.—Davies, about whom I formerly wrote your Lordship, put in a plea to the sheriff's court at Chester, that Mr. James Peisley (the man in whose name my bond was taken) hath not taken the engagement, and therefore that I should not have execution against Davies or his surety. Peisley hath lived in Ireland since before the Act for engagement, and was never in England since, neither know I where to find him in Ireland; I hope such a plea will not be admitted in behalf of Davies, to out me of so considerable a debt as 400*l*. by bond; I pray your Lordship's favour in it that I may not be defrauded by him whom I and other men know is an arch enemy to the state of England, and who I believe hath not yet taken the engagement, though I think he will do anything when called to it; but he useth these delays in hopes to prevail with Peisley for a piece of the debt, to seal him a release of the bond; and truly I might fear that, being Peisley is a needy man, and Davies hath attempted it already.

1650, Oct. 1. Postscript to Mr. Frost's last letter of that date.—The Senate still refuse to deliver the Company their prisoner Clarke, except they engage to return him to them, which is clear to out themselves of any power to dispose of their own prisoner; and the truth is, though I intended it, yet I dare not require him in the name of the Parliament, least they refuse me also as Resident and so the affront be removed from the Company to the State of England. This Clarke hath most grossly abused the Parliament as well as the Court even since he was their prisoner by authority of the Court, so as he knows he deserves a halter if he were sent for England, which makes the Senate thus appear for him, to keep him out of the Court's power, but especially out of my hands. The Court have power by charters that if any of the Company be stubborn offenders and will not be reclaimed by fine and imprisonment, to send such in chains for England, as they have done many, and were never opposed by the Senate till now that they think they may do what they please. The villain is so high and animated by the malignant English and Burgers, that he lately sent a peremptory demand in writing to the Overhold (a court next in power to the Senate, and above them in some things) that they would forthwith cite me and the Court (which he calls a confederacy) to answer before them wherefore we had imprisoned him. . . . I pray haste the Council's pleasure touching the pirates that bring in our small vessels to Keta-lookstat. It being in the King of Denmark's country I have and shall forbear to send to the Government before I have a command for it, lest he slight my demand. . . . Whilst I am writing comes notice to me that the Senate have caused the arrest to be taken off Mr. Gore's goods, and that some hints are given to an eminent merchant as if Clarke should be brought to our Court without their condition of returning him

1650. Oct. 8, Hamb. To Mr. Secretary Frost.— . . . I have now only to acquaint you that the last week, Haltermann that assaulted our minister came to his trial at the Nether Rile (which hath the power of a sheriff's court) where, that it might sufficiently appear how much this city respect justice and the republic of England, they have given this sentence, that Haltermann shall be quit, the Company to pay all his charges in prison, and to give him one hundred rix dollars for the wrong they have done him; thus they will at last make the Parliament sensible how little they value them or the Companies staying here. The Company made a protestation of which he sends a copy. The result was that the Senate said they were displeased with the sentence and would, if the Company appealed, see them righted, and would send Peter Clarke to the company freely as their prisoner. . . . This news is come from Stockholm, that three ships, in which the Generallissimus and Koningsmarke had all their treasure got in Germany to a very great value, were lately

Miss
HARINGTON.

MISS FARINGTON.MISS
FARINGTON.

cast away upon that coast, nothing saved, and some say both of them lost, but that not certain; thus their healing at Stoad comes home to them; we cannot certainly learn yet if the Portugal Ambassador with the Queen of Sweden hath prevailed for shipping for his Master, which was his great errand. I pray haste the Council's pleasure touching the small vessels made prize at Ke-luxstat. I hope your next will give some notice of our fleet at Lisbon and of the success of our army at Sterling bridge, and that I shall at last see a smart letter to this city from the Parliament. . . .

(No. 27.) 1650, Oct. 15, Hamb. To Mr. Secretary Frost.— . . . Last post I certified you of a strange sentence in one of this city's Courts quitting the villain that assulted our minister (&c. as in the last) Our resolutions to quit the city rather than lie under such injustice and reproach, brought the Senate to a consideration that they had now tried with us to the height, and that further they could not go without apparent loss of the Company and making the state of England their enemy, which were matters of more moment than so slightly to incur; so as the Senate now give good words and promise fairly to do justice to repair the disgrace; but whether that will be done or no is yet doubtful. . . . I have not yet had one visit from the Senate except when business brought some of them to me, neither have I seen the Hollands Agent; but I am certainly informed that all the Residents in town had agreed before my coming not to visit me. But their spirits will come down when they see how little the state of England values them, and I despair not to see our Commonwealth courted by her neighbours. I should be glad to hear that our army were possessed of Sterling and of some good tidings from our fleet. From the eastern countries very little these two last posts. Since the peace of Germany they all desire to settle themselves. It is certain that Culpepper got 200,000 Polish gelders from the Muscovite, and is at Dantzick with it, in furs and corn; but it was got before his Master's fortune was known in those parts. I much desire to know the Council's pleasure concerning the king of Denmark's making prize of our small ships brought into his town of Ke-luxstat. The Portugal Ambassador with the Queen of Sweden is very private in his negotiations, but it's certain his chief business is to get shipping, which as things go now I hear not that he is like to obtain. I wrote you in my last of the loss of three ships, with much plunder got in poor Germany. Those gallants carried with them their cage wherein they had Cromwell at Stoad, to act the like foolery at Stockholm; but their great loss will spoil their sport. I cannot learn that any of those provinces or states purpose any further assistance to the Scots King, whom they look upon now unfortunate beyond support, and are at gaze to see that commonwealth of ours prosper in spite of their envy and undertakings to abet their enemies. There are some mutterings in Holland (as I hear) of some dangerous designings against the state of England. I hope the Parliament have as good intelligence as their enemies. . . . P.S. The Court's prisoner Clerk still persists in his railing against the State and Company; I know no way but for the Parliament to require him as the Company's prisoner, and command me to ship him for England in their ships, and I conceive it likewise very needful the State require exemplary justice on Halterman, that the Senate slubber not over the business as they did the punishment of those that took away the Deputy and merchants, and that I may have justice against Blincko and Brown.

1650. Oct. 29, Hamb. R. B. To my Lord President.— . . . About the Company, and also about a debt that Peasley owes him, who lived in Ireland, but he knows not if he is alive since the plague hath so raged in Ireland, and especially in Dublin where he lived before the infection; asks his Lordship to give two lines to my Lord Deputy or Governor or Dublin, and says that Mr. Wainwright will convey it to Dublin.

1650. Oct. 29, Hamb. To the Council of State.— . . . For the dangers he has run from the malice of the blood-thirsty English fugitives he refers to the letter from Luneburg (post).—I understand by late letters from Lisboa that Prince Rupert is returned thither, and now being Admiral for the King of Portugal, he expects a speedy conjunction with the French; those letters also say that there is but few of the Sugar fleet wanting; yet from Holland they write your ships have taken 15 sail of them, and the Zealanders 3 or 4; the same letters from Lisboa say that two of your ships met with the 2 ships that went hence for the King of Portugal, and with them a merchant ship of this city, which merchantman was once in your ships' power, but pretending himself bound for another port, he quickly got leave, and now the merchant owners here laugh in their sleeves at it, boasting how easily they got free from the Parliament's ships, and that whilst they were busy with the merchants' ship, the other two great ships for the King got into the harbour of Lisboa, which I thought good to give your honour notice of. . . . Capt. Lawson and Capt. Pasie, departed this river yesterday; I gave them notice of two ships of this town laden with goods and horses for Lisboa; here is a couple of Bowyers laden with cheese which expect your honours' order for a convoy for Scotland.—This last week here past one Doctor Gracke, agent from the city of Lubeck to the Parliament, to clear some ships belonging to that place lately taken trading for Portugal. I have been told by some who have seen his letters credential, that they fully own not the Parliament of England, so as he being told it here, intends to stay at Amsterdam until other letters come to him; though he was here some time and declared his purpose to visit me, yet he did it not, being diverted by the enemies of the State. . . . The Lord Culpepper is come lately hither from Dantzick with a considerable train, which the Muscovite and Polish gilders furnished before his Master's success was known; what he designs I cannot yet discover; but I believe the Senate will present him as an Ambassador passing, and the disaffected English will labour to detain him here some time to give them countenance and work with the Senate on their behalf now in the absence of Cockram. . . . I humbly desire to know your pleasure whether I shall give the engagement to any here who desire to subscribe it, as some merchants do; our Minister hath not yet taken it, for want of power to receive his subscription, which is something of scandal to others; I believe he will readily submit when required to it.—Our Church government goes on in the Presbyterian form, by Elders and a Consistory solemnly supported; here be some could wish those formalities were laid aside, and the power of godliness more pressed. . . . I desire to know your pleasure touching the town of Gluckstat on this river, where small English vessels are daily brought in by commissions from the King of Scots, and some by sea rovers; but all are freely admitted by them to put to sale whatever they bring in; and the town lately sent Capt. Lawson word (because he had seized a small ship under their fort which had formerly been taken from Scarburrowe and was never judged a lawful prize, yet by him re-delivered because the seizure could not so be warranted, neither was of value to make a dispute) that all men tho' pirates should be free to come in there and put to sale what they brought, which is directly contrary to the 11th article of the agreement 'twixt the Parliament and the King of Denmark in 1645.

A short letter of the same date to Mr. Secretary Frost. 1650. Oct. 23. Copy of a letter from Luneburg.*—Signed Na. Ca.—This serves only to inform you that here lately arrived in this city an English gentleman with whom I have had some converse, from which (by some circumstances which did occur in our discourse) I do conjecture that he is designed to attempt something against the person of the Parliament's Resident now with you, concerning whom he is almost mad with rage to think that he alone should be left living abroad of all the Parliament Agents, and should with so much confidence and resolution assert their proceedings and so discountenance the Malignant party as to turn them out of the Court; all which and much more of your proceedings he hath perfect intelligence; there are of his society two or three other gentlemen having their attendance (attendants?) whom he expected here from Brunswick, but since writes me from Hamburg that they have met him there: I pray you, Sir, be pleased to acquaint the Resident with what I have written; and yourself I conceive it behoves likewise to be cautious, for he takes special notice of your activeness for the Commonwealth of England.

1650. Nov. 5. Hamb. R. B. to Mr. Secretary Frost.— . . . We are wholly here now taken up with the news of the Prince of Orange his death, and the Scots King quitting his Presbiters both passing for current truths; doubtless if so those countries will think of a speedy closing with England's Republic. The taking of the Sugar fleet, as my last certified, is still current news with us. . . . The Lord Culpepper went hence yesterday for Holland: what respect he hath had either from the Senate or the disaffected English hath been done privately; he is much discontented, and hath little hopes

* This is the copy of letter referred to in the letter of October 29th in the preceding page.

Miss
BARINGTON.Miss
BARINGTON.

of his Master : he now (as I hear) wisheth himself with the Parliament again. . . . Nov. 5th which here we have kept solemnly.

1650, Nov. 8, Hamb. R. B. to Sir Ol. Flemminge.—Complains of Flemming's long silence and (as usual) of his own position.

1650, Nov. 8, Hamburgh. R. B. to the Lord President.—. . . I hope by this time Mr. Rewe (or Rowe) is returned, and that your Lordship will please to order him to write to the Vice-Chamberlain touching the plea Mr. Davies hath put in to bar my judgment in the Sheriff's Court upon my bond of 400l.

Same date. To the same. . . . My wife brought me a letter from one Capt. Clarke, pitifully complaining against one Mrs. Windall for her unjust persecution of him, charging her to have misinformed your Lordship, the Council of State, and Committee of Indemnity concerning him to his great prejudice, desiring me to certify your Lordship my knowledge of him and service done by him for the Parliament.—Speaks highly of his services in Ireland, and in Cheshire, Lancashire, and Wales.—Speaks doubtfully of the integrity and good affection of Mrs. Windall, whom he has known for a long time.

1650, Nov. 12, Hamb. R. B. to Mr. Secretary Frost.—. . . I have set on foot a new process against Halterman, and hope at last to have justice. . . . I must now acquaint you with a late message from the King of Denmark, brought me by one Marsellia of this town, his Agent, being to know whether Capt. John Lawson had seized a small ship at Gluxstätt by my order or with my knowledge, and whether I would own the act, and promise satisfaction should be given for the damage thereby sustained; to which he received answer from me, that the ship was not taken by my order, but that I had notice from the captain since, with the reasons why he seized it and the grounds of his redelivery, &c., &c.—Details of their conversation regarding the King of Denmark protecting pirates.

1650, Nov. 26, Hamb. R. B. For the Lord President.—I have by this post enclosed to Mr. Frost papers from the Senate and merchants interested to mediate on their behalf to the State for license to trade to Berhadus; I shall only entreat that my letters and papers may be read at the Council as soon as they come to hand; and if it shall seem good to the State to grant their desires, I shall be glad of it, being the first request they have made to me for my intercession.—A great deal more upon the subject.

In May, An^o 1649, Capt. Browne Thomas, upon the coast of England, took a small vessel of about 100 tons, laden with coals belonging to Mr. Harrison and Sanderson of Scarborough, brought her into Glückstatt, and there, whilst some merchants of this town in behalf of the owners sued unto the Court of Admiralty for restitution of the ship and goods, according to articles of agreement 'twixt the Parliament and the King of Denmark made in 1645, the ship and goods were suffered to be sold by the pirate that brought her in without adjudging her prize.

In August 1650, Francis Panter, an English pirate of 30 tons, 3 guns, pretending commission from the Scots King, upon the coast of Norway, seized a small vessel of about 40 tons, laden with fish, and brought her to Glückstatt, where he sold ship and goods belonging to John Stoppes of Yarmouth, to the value of 350l. sterling.

In Sept. 1650, or October.—One Capt. Smyth, a Newcastle man born, but one that hath long served under the King of Denmark, stole a hoye out of the river Tease, laden with coals, belonging to James Watson of Wapping, and sold the same at Glückstatt.

1650, Dec. 3, Hamb. R. B. to my Lord President.—. . . I have formerly writ touching the town of Glückstatt which is certainly in the possession of the King of Denmark, and certified the late transactions betwixt the Governour there and myself, desiring to know the Council's pleasure upon the whole. I have no more at present but to present your Lordship and the Hon. Council with the enclosed book, which being the first fruits of Germany upon a subject they dare none own, notwithstanding the railings of Salmassius, I have hastied it warm from the press, having not time to apparel it.

1650, Dec. 3, Hamb. To Mr. Secretary Frost.—Complains of Frost's silence for five or six posts.—I enclose the book I promised you in my last, in the sheets only, as it comes from the press, not having time to bind it up; I am told of another that hath adventured upon the same subject to vindicate the long trampled liberty and right of the people; sure a treatise from ourselves in Latin to clear up our late proceedings would bring about thousands. . . . We have it here, the Scots should have juggled themselves together, and Scotti liko have patcht up all interests into a new nothing for a second bout; whilst I hear nothing but good from amongst ourselves I shall not much trouble myself for what the Scots can do.

P.S. The letters which Mr. Witherings gives his covert unto come charged with postage, but if you please to write franco upon your letters, and to permit mine by Mr. Waineright from the country to come in your paquet, they will so come free; otherwise I still pay from Antwerp, and always hence hither.

1650, Dec. 3, Hamb. R. B. to Mr. Robert Coytmere.—The inclosed, Capt. Lawson desired me to direct to you for dispatch to him wherever he is. All the news I have for you here, is that these dull Dutchmen begin to see into the long abused rights of the people, as you may see by a book I send my Lord President by this post

To the Lord President.

The first part of a letter in which the writer asks the President's aid to obtain for him payment of a great sum of money long since disbursed by him for the service of Ireland, or at least to be permitted to secure it by doubling upon Delinquents' estates. He encloses a petition to Parliament about it. Also to get payment of arrears for his service under Sir William Brereton, and something to repay his losses to the value of above 7,000l. in time of war.

1652, April 20, Hamburgh.—My Lord President. It having pleased God to give us a safe arrival here upon the 13th of this month, in the ship Lion, accompanied with all the merchant ships, &c. . . . Mr. Lysle, Mr. Dury, after a short refreshing here took their journey hence for Lubeck the 16th inst., to ship themselves thence for Stockholm. . . . My arrival being upon the entrance of their feast of Easter (which they here very solemnly observe), I must suspend the delivery of the letter from the Council until their superstition be over; that I may with the more advantage present it to the Senate at their next sitting. I have only at present to signify unto your Lordship that the Senate gave order to salute us at our landing with some ordinance: the like respect we received from two of the King of Portugal's ships lying in the river ready bound for Lisboa, (which as I was told) was done by order of his ambassador here lately come from Sweden. . . . P.S.—The ship Lion rides at Friborrow ready to depart with the first wind for Scotland.

A short letter of the same date addressed to Mr. Speaker, announcing the arrival at Hamburg of himself, Mr. Lysle and Mr. Durie.*

Letters from James Waynwright at London, to Mr. Bradshaw, at Hamburg.*

1650, June 8, London: James Waynwright to Mrs. Kath. Bradshaw at Chester.—The wind delays the posts on both sides.—Business matters.—Wines at London are 20l. a pipe for canary, 14l. for sherry, and 18l. for Malaga.

1651, March 28. . . . We have no news from Scotland; from Ireland, Coll. Husen in Westmeath hath taken 500 prisoners and slain some 300; near a hundred commission officers, whereof the Earl of Westmeath and Castlehaven son; we have many of your acquaintance in Lanc., Chester, Salop, and Wales, of the gentry secured upon suspicion of holding correspondence with the Scots, and some receiving commissions from that Scots King; I believe many are clear; Mr. Wm. Ashurst, Shuttleworth, Holland, Egerton, Houlst, Bradshaw, Booth, Standish, Lo: Millnes, Chumley, Kilmurry, Hen. Leigh, Lo: Harbart, Sir Thos. Middleton and son, and many more in these counties and in North Wales. A ship cannot pass between Silly and Ile of Man, but taken.

1651, May 2.—As to which you mention I suppose Gowen hath writ you, being now late and newly come from Whitehall: our master's son, Mr. Casle, Mr. Jenkins, Dr. Drack, and some others being apprehended for holding some correspondence with Capt. Tytus, as our Lord Ambassador writes from Holland, in which they have done exceeding foolishly if true, and I cannot pity them, because they have been formerly sufficiently warned thereof and promised the contrary. . . . We expect a sudden engagement in Scotland, if that the King will come out. . . .

1651, April 4.—He acknowledges Bradshaw's letters of the 8th and 9th of March; what he writ about the corn therein, he (W.) did certify there wants nothing but

* Waynwright's letters have indorsements of Bradshaw.

MISS KINGTON.

a warrant for money to the Council of State from the Committee of Irish and Scots affairs.—I have been Tuesday and Thursday there and no private business is heard nor no time to draw up the report. . . . In a P.S. he mentions his brother Henry.

1651, April 18. Mentions his own letter of April 11, and Bradshaw's of April 5; and says that he has the warrant for the corn money, but it runs to be paid out of the next proportion of money allotted for Ulster, which will not fall due these 2 months. . . .

1651, April 25.—Acknowledges Bradshaw's letter of the 16th.

1651, June 6. . . . You will hear that Syllye is surrendered; tho' the terms be not so honourable as we could wish, yet those that relate to trade rejoice at it; the next place you will hear of the Island of Man, which I hope will prove less difficult; our condition in Ireland is very good in the field; the deputy's forces, and Ulster forces and Leinster entered into Connaught, and of each side of the rebels. From Scotland; we have taken the field; the Scots are come over Starling; we expect some servis (service?) there speedily, I suppose this month if they do not retreat. You have heard that the Portuguese Ambassador is gone without any conclusion or hope of any. For matters at home, we go from step to step on in our new government, and hope to accomplish it at last, or leave it in a good posture to our executors.

1651, June 13. . . . From the North, the Scots are entrenched; and our army would gladly fight them, but cannot at present. Ireland prospers. I hope this year will clear that nation; since our army went into Connaught they have taken many places, whereof one is Sligo. I think the Lord Ambassador of Holland is by our ships gone for home. You will hear of what terms Syllye (Scilly) is taken; next I hope will be Man. Those rogues have taken a ship out of the harbour of Dublin worth 4,000*l*.; and another escaped wherein a chapman of mine, Mr. Preston, was near concerned, but is safe. You will hear of Mr. Casle, Mr. Jenkins, Dr. Drack and Mr. Love are in the Tower; and since, Mr. Robinson and Mr. Jackson, all ministers, besides many lay men. Mr. Love is assigned for his trial before the High Court [of] Justice next Friday; very unhappily it is that such godly men should have any compliance against the present government and should come of that stage; many honest hearts are sad.

1651, June 18. My last to you was of the 11th present, and since is come to hand yours of the 9th June, with the inclosures, which were delivered to Gowen, he being not yet gone for Chester; and to him I must refer you, who I do presume will give you account of all things, and in particular that of the Lord President's. . . . This day Mr. Love was called to the High Court of Justice and had his charge; pleads not guilty, and to-morrow is to appear again. I fear it will go ill with him, having been imprudent, and some others, all godly pious men.

1651, July 4. . . . We have no news here; our Embassadors are here arrived; made their reports to the Parliament, but nothing done; the Scots army, upon ours moving toward them, retreated to their old trenches. From Ireland very good news; all Connaught is reduced, and the enemy dispersed, save Galoway (Galway) and Limbrick, being both besieged.

1651, July 11. . . . For news, little this week from the north; only we cannot make the Scots to fight, and fear this summer will be spent in waiting of them; this day, the Parliament being petitioned by the city himself and most of the godly ministers for a pardon, had it in debate from morning to 2 o'clock, and carried it in the negative, that he shall die; which is the saddest news, and am sorry. I should be the first to write it you. . . . More sad hearts in his behalf and more means used by the godly then have been in London for any since these troubles; but I perceive he hath in God's account finished his course. . . . We have lost a merchantman in [the] Strays, worth 200,000*l*. taken by the Turks, which falls very heavy of many men.

1651, July 24. . . . I know not what to write you, except it be the great news from Scotland which I know will be welcome to you and all good men. Upon Friday last was took Calender house of this side Starling; they would give no quarter; wherein there was some 60 persons, put them to sword and fired the house in sight of the Scots main army, and at that time sent over the river about 5,000 horse and foot, and met with a brigade of some 5,000 Scots under the command of Sir John Browne, major-general, routed them, killed 2,000, took 900 prisoners, 53 colours, and the Major-General Brown prisoner; upon which the main army retreated over Starling, and our army hastes after them at one place or another. I believe the controversy is ended before this, there is nothing from any other place. My Lord President tells me you are sent for hither, and if a ship is not gone yet is with all expedition; and this was in answer to my pressing of him for answer to your letter.

1651, Aug. 1. . . . Our army now are 15,000 strong over the river, and have taken the island and castle of Garvie, and lie within five miles of the Scots army which are intrenched in a wood, and upon the 27th of the last was to march up to them, fight them if they could; since then, not a word, only my thoughts are we shall have all Scotland except the mountains. Mr. Love is not yet pardoned; I hope we shall obtain it before your arrival in England.

1651, Aug. 8.—Mentions the news as above, and says the Scots be intrenched in a town or wood of the other side Starling, and must either fight, starve, or run away.

1651, Aug. 22. . . . The enemy is got into the heart of England almost; we believe he is as far as Birmingham; there our last intelligence left him with a considerable force, not certainly known, from 15,000 to 25,000 reported; he brake over and made his way at Warrington, tho' we had 10,000 horse and foot, under Lamb[ert] and Harrison. I hear of little loss. The General is not yet come up; we are making a force out hence to meet him; we believe that he is going for the west, and that he is come for his destruction. I cannot tell what else to write, but that it was a foul temptation for our General to let them come in. . . . P. S. This was a sad day. . . . Mr. Love's head] was cut off upon Tower Hill.

1651, Aug. 29. My last to you was of the 22nd ditto, and since then is come to hand yours of the 19th present, wherein I do perceive you have a cloud of the royal stamp; still that if they have an ince (inch) will bear witness and make it an ell. I believe every week will lessen their comfort and add to their misery that have nothing else to keep up their hearts. This week, upon Monday last, the Earl of Darbie and about some thousand more were left in Lancashire to raise forces; but some part of the Lord General's army being there under the command of Col. Lilborne, one of the army who had 10 troops horse, one regiment of foot, some from Chester and Liverpool, met with them upon the 'foresaid day in and about Wigan, where there was a desperate dispute for an hour, fought while they could stand, wounded the Earl, but he escaped, routed all the rest, killed the Lord Withington, Sir To. Tisley, Sir Wm. Throgmorton, Sir Francis Gammell, Coll. Bointon, Col. Trollop, Col. Gerald, Major Anderton, divers others; 400 taken prisoners, many which are either officers or gentlemen; the rest fled into Cheshire towards Wales, but will not I believe escape; we lost 10 men, but more wounded. This is the first earnest. The King is got to Woster with his army, some say very strong; he hath fortified Woster, and intrenched at Upton within eight miles; there, some say, will choose whether he will fight; the Lord General is about Woster, I think about 30,000 horse and foot; some say the King is 20,000 or above; it may prove a winter war, as they do lye; we shall put sore at it; the next week will scarce tell us anything, being all our old shouldiards are very (weary) except our fresh men, which is not to be confided in. I cannot tell you what more to write, but what I write, take it for truth. Present my service to your lady; tell her she will never see Sir Francis Gammell more; if brother Henry want the news, I pray acquaint him with this; good Lord a darbie went away with a lodye face; there he was sore cut, as they write me.

1651, Sept. 29. . . . Darbie's defeat was an earnest of our great victory. I know no man hath escaped but the Scots King, Buckingham and Poynes and Hynd the great rober, who was his scout master general. I had thought I had in several letters writ you of the receipt of 200*l*. from the Council upon your bill of exchange. Great matters have been moved in Parliament but all defer'd, and a fast concluded next Tuesday for direction and a blessing in the settlement of these common wealths. This quarter will tell how you shall be governed, and what great man we shall have either as King or Protector; we must have some such thing; I do not see how it will be avoided; tho' modesty and other circumstances may keep us from it. I wish it to-day rather than to-morrow; then we shall have a period to all our troubles. . . . P. S. Darbie will be tried at Chester and die at Boulton; our design is now for his island, which I shall rejoice in it were in our hands; we braie so much musheffe (mischief?).

1651, Oct. 25. (To Richard Bradshaw in Chester.) The enclosed were sent yester night. I have little to write but to convey the enclosed, and shall be glad to

MISS HARRINGTON.

Miss
HARRINGTON.

hear of the taking of the Isle of Man, and that the fleet is got off from Bewmoris (Beaumaris). Here is no news. The Commissioners for Scotland are appointed; the Lord St. Joanes, Sir Hen. Vayne, Major Galowaye, Cols. Deane and Tichborne.

1651, Nov. 1. (To R. Bradshaw in Chester.) For debentures in Drury House for delinquents' lands you may buy for 18d. per li.; and so am told no surveys yet come up, nor no sales and therefore can not advise how sold onst (once) within one month. The King landed in Holland and was conveyed from thence to France, who is now in Paris. We expect the Dutch embassy here; I wish they may not kiss our great toe or that our state be not flattered by them to the common prejudice, but that they hold to what they have begun.

1651, Nov. 8. (To R. Bradshaw in Chester.) I thank you for your news, which is as seasonable as welcome from the Isle of Man, and Lymbrick (?) Mr. Orome is not yet come home; my man tells me that next week he is expected. For delinquents' surveys, here is Sir George Bynion come in near London sold for 28 years' purchase; it may be others farther remote may come cheaper. I writ you last Saturday that the Boyar would go away Monday following; but he fell down last Sabbath day, so I am prevented of sending what you order.

1651, Nov. 15. (To R. Bradshaw in Chester.) Yesterday this was the question in Parliament whether this was not a fit time to consider to put a period to this Parliament; and it was carried in the affirmative, and not above two voices, upon Tuesday. You will have the time, and so proceed from step to step. Many that have ruled know not how to live as subjects or fear the lest; I perceive our army will have to go on. I hope it will be for much good. No Act of Oblivion yet considered of. We hear of three ambassadors that are coming from Holland.—P.S. No post this week from Hamburg.*

1651, Nov. 29. (To Richard Bradshaw in Chester.) Your hint of a head makes me a little fearful, excuse it, I do write in the dark. I perceive there is something in the Parliament's last vote either against men's honour or profit, that none shall continue chairman of any committee of Parliament above one month, and it shall extend to the President of the Council. (Therein I am confident they are deceived, for there is neither profit nor honour, as the parties suggest, that were the cause, but a favour and great ease; I need not tell you it will be profit.) Mr. Orome hath paid the other 40l.; but the last payment he tells me is but your servant and cannot pay if (for 2) months longer. The Holland ships are not yet come, and there is but one day that remains wherein their liberty consists. We have had no letters now of two weeks from Hamburg.

1652, April 30. To R. Bradshaw at Hamburg. Our ships, before Dunkirk and Graveline, and part of our fleet gone westward to fetch in the French, who are out of the west part of Ireland and England; they are all in pieces (?) in France this week; though the last week expectates of agreement. I wish we can but get a foot plain, you will hear terrible things speedily.

1652, June 18. The Ambassador was heard at Council yesterday; two commissions about taking of their ships (and one to treat, but not to conclude). Pre- tence is that he came away in haste, and the provincial lords could not meet. This contentis not us, nor is neither satisfaction or security, both which we must have. Our fleet is tumbled out of the Downs, as in fair weather they may, tho' wind is contrary; the Dutch fleet, about 50 sail, lie between Ostend and Newport. I suppose in less than three days, there must be some things done, which may prove very fatal. We want not for means; men and ships we have; the success is God's. High and insolent they are; I doubt not but God will pull them down. From France; the Dukes of Orleans and Lorraine are complied with the King, and they say are agreed; yet do not believe it can continue or hold with the rest of the princes; those two dukes have only served their own turns. The Lord General Cromwell is Capt. General of England, Scotland and Ireland; Lieut. Gen. Fleetwood hath married his daughter; Ireton, I believe he will be Lieut.-General of Ireland; we are not to have any Lord Lieutenants or Lord Deputies. The Lady Bradshaw sent me yesterday two kittings; the messenger told me they were to be sent beyond sea.

* This letter is sealed (not with Waynwright's coat of arms but) with a circular seal having thereon a rudely engraved shield (in the form of a heart) partly pur pale, on the dexter side the cross of St. George, and the sinister side being simply vert (for Ireland I suppose).

1652, June 25. My last to you was of the 18th ditto, since then is come to hand yours of the 15th ditto. I can write you little of news; the Dutch are deferred till next Tuesday to receive our answer. I fear we shall have no peace with them; as that they are incapable to make a peace such as we must have, but they must break with other nations; we shall be sure to hold to our act. There is 2,000 foot soldiers put aboard our fleet; we are very well appointed, if God give a blessing. We have had much thunder here in this land; some hurt done in several counties; as Monday at Lowton beyond Bruerton of hill, 11 men killed in a church; at Grantom the steeple rent, and many sore hurt, and some frighted; of the last Lord's-day a church beyond Rumpford part burnt; an wood in Darbeshire set of fire, burning and not to be quenched, and many particular (?) men and cattle killed; the Lord provide for us a better place than this world, and give us grace [to] fit us for it.

To Bradshaw at Copenhagen, Hamburg.

1652, Jan. 14.—I have yours of the 25th from Copenhagen. I made a better conclusion of yours to me than many that heard your letter read in Parliament, with some of them I was with that night; they understood by yours that your delay was not for good. You writ nothing about the feasts in your letter to the Parliament that the King would not be interrupted in. I hope mine came to your hands in time, wherein you might perceive how directly they follow the patter[n] of all such persons, their old master the late King, who was necessitated to keep up his party by the refuge of lies. This I need not hint to you, being so well known as it is to you. For truth, those gentlemen and I had good sport to understand the foolery of the Dutch; and indeed to an ingenious man it is resemblance of their ruin, if we may observe providence. You may laugh as well as me to see such fools as give out they have taken the Isle Waight [Isle of Wight], or burnt several towns in Kent, and beaten our fleet up the river. There is no colour of truth in any; but our fleet having been out all the summer, came after the fight to see Road or thereabouts, to wash themselves and make them clean, and this is all. I hope you concluded the same: let them laugh and vapour that wins. Not one ship hath they taken we know of, but what I writ you formerly; their fleet blown home with shipwreck of seven of their men of war, &c., &c.

1652, Jan. 21. I doubt not that wonder of the Dutch will not obstruct your proceedings; if the King well consider what it is and of how little concernment it is to the Dutch who are no where in our channel, except it be in St. Martin's Road, waiting for their merchant ships to convey them home. Our ships at present come safe to harbour in the west, and some clearly through the channel into the Downs; as with this week three Maligo and Canaries men, and one Straitsman that knew not of them; others went into Plymouth.

1652, Jan. 28. I hope your next will tell us better that the Dean (Dane) hath released our ships; if not, I believe he will repent, and it will be his ruin. I must confess he hath cause to fear us, for his staying our ships is the stinking'est action that ever prince did show, and cannot be forgot.—Our narrow seas is cleansed of all the Dutch by our winds, that our own ships come into the Downs all along the channel. Our fleet; before the next I shall tell you of 80 sail gone to sea. My Lord Bradshaw is Lord President of the Council, yesterday the first day. There is a gent. from Hamburg was heard to-day,—gave our state the strangest titles that ever any did; it is thought hath something to say in the behalf of the Dutch.

(Indorsed in Bradshaw's hand? "Of the receipt of my quarters allowance from the State from Mic. last to first Janry. 200l.")

1652, March 4.—To R. Bradshaw at Hamburg.— We have taken and sunk of the Dutch above 100 ships. We have some 68 merchants, some 20 men of war, and sunk we know not how many, but many merchants, and since the fight we took one laden with silver and wool from St. Lucar, that held one of our frigates five hours, but another frigate came up, and she surrendered. . . . I believe the Dutch have lost near 5,000 men, we near 2,000 slain and wounded, lost not one ship but the Sampson. As I writ you, we have 40 more ships will be out this month, whereof 26 are gone to sea. General Bleake upon his brush in the thigh is feverish, but no fear. . . . Have received yours of the 10th and 21st Feb., with the enclosures to my Lord Bradshaw, which I have sent up, &c.

Miss
BARRINGTON.

1654, March 31. Yours is come to hand of the 14th present, and therein I delivered yours to Ottington and Mr. Doggett. . . . I was upon some public occasions at Whitehall yesterday, and then took occasion to speak with Mr. Frost, who hath not money, nor doth he know when he shall so. Cols. Twisleton and Ellis are both fled into the country, and therein do shift with Pen. . . . This day we hear our peace is concluded and agreed and sealed, but it is private and not public, but I have it from a good friend that knows. For other news, the French Ambassador had audience this week, and we believe shall have a compliance there.

1654, April 7th.—Money matters. . . . Our peace is now concluded, signed, sealed, and delivered with the Dutch; no publication thereof yet, but positively done, and so to the Deane (Dane), but the accounts of the loss our merchants suffered not yet stated, but referred to four discreet men to be stated and concluded, and the Deane to pay it. The French Ambassador is hugely courted, hourly (?) rewarded, far beyond the Dutch. Our merchant ships are all discharged this week.

1654, April 21. . . . From Hull, our ships do not stir here till the peace be published. It is come back from Holland signed and sealed, and yesterday done by my Lord Protector, but yet not published or proclaimed. Here is upon the north coast many Dutch men of war, the Black Swan, 42 pieces of ordnance, and a pinnace of 14 guns we lost this week, set on by 12 Dutch men of war; and a recompence that Capt. Smith in the Torrington frigate, met with an East India ship going out of 800 tons, 26 guns, worth some 50 thousand pounds brought into our river; since one lost. We hear a Brest man of war, and one of ours in St. George's Channel, in a frigate, were seen both on fire. The Dutch are now as the devil is when he is near casting out the blusters, or like a white livered man, takes all advantage to destroy his enemy, tho' never so cowardly, as 12 men of war upon one ship.

1654, April 28. . . . I may write you of a publication and proclamation of the peace between the Dutch and us upon the 26th present, to 12 days after to cease hostility in the Narrow seas, and from hence to St. Vincent's Cape six weeks, and from hence to the Straits 10 weeks, and from hence beyond the Equinoctial, eight weeks. . . . Yesterday was the Embassadors feasted at Whitehall in great state by the Protector; in short time I believe his Highness will be Emperor of Great Britain and King of Ireland; some thing must be answerable to his power.

1654, May 5.—I have here enclosed sent you the original articles of peace between the Dutch and us. . . . The French, and Spanish, and Portugals are all in post haste to settle a peace with his Highness; I do believe the French will first have it. I was this day a long time with my Lord Bradshaw, who wished me to remember him to you; he is come back from his circuit; he is still the honest man, I mean a true Englishman from bottom to top. There is ordinance come forth that all hostilities ceases in all places of this side and beyond the line between us and the Dutch the 4th present.

1654, May 11. An account of what wine he has sent by Mr. Hen. Smyth with bill. 3*l*. 7*s*. for 6 gallons 3 quarts and 1 pint of canary, with bottles and hamper.

1654, May 12. . . . I am told by a good hand our peace is ended with France, and concluded and ingrossing; which is strange, but that we count the Cardinal is our friend, and that we fear war with Spain. Letters of mark are granted to some persons; for relief against him, our fleet still are sheathing our frigates.

1654, May 14. Has received Bradshaw's of the 6th ultimo, and the 4th of the present.—As you writ that the Court is satisfied you received no such letter from the great Duke or his agents; for Mr. Secretary did not impart any such things to me. I do perceive by yours that the Muscat are fallen of Livornia and other parts, as you mention; what his intent is therein we here cannot imagine, now he knows he shall not succeed the inheritance of the King of Poland, which he always expected. I perceive a little fear will serve the Duke of Brandenburghe, and as little confidence is to be had of his trust. I shall have a care of your letters to Gowen Hudson; that to Sir George Fletwood was by my man delivered to his own hand; and that to Mr. Doggett; your former letter was given him. . . . Our high Court of Justice met upon Thursday, and adjourned till Monday, and then they are to be sworn; tho' I think then they will adjourn till after the term, because all the Judges are concerned. . . . You will hear of the design and contract the French made with the Governor of Ostend, and how he served them; received them into the town, and cut off some 1,200 of them; we have and do weekly lose ships to the Biskeners; this week one Barbadoes ship, 22 guns, sunk, and two taken by one of their frigates.

Miss
BARRINGTON.

1654, May 19. . . . Has received Bradshaw's of the 9th of May.—Hoped and expected the Lord Whitlock had been at Hamburg; his friends are very intent after his safe being at Hamburg, which if he had been come I know you would have writ. For the 200*l*. of Mr. Frost, I have received; and what Mr. Doggett demands I shall observe your order. . . . Gowen Hudson hath been at Hull. . . . I never knew such a spring, as to a bad in land trade, since I came to London, but there is cause for it; as to England, the taxes suck up the ready money and corn and cattle so plentiful yield nothing; to Ireland, the removal of the inhabitants, the Irish, into Connaght; and so in Scotland, the stirs there obstruct trade, and I believe will be little better for 13 years; so by consequence will fall heavy of the merchants if our inland trade be bad. For news, never less; only we have been extreme close in finishing the manner and matter for electing a new Parliament according to our engagement in the Instrument; by the first of June the writs to go out into the three nations; we expect peace with France. Our fleet is upon some design we may not know. I believe the law will not be prepared before the next term to come forth.

1654, July 14. Yours is come to hand of the 4th, and therein is little to write, only to take notice that you kissed the hand of that virtuous lady that was the Queen of Sweden. . . . The 12th of July is past; so far as the time and place will inform us of, election of members of Parliament is gallant; all the counties about us, men of interest and gallantry; not such when the fire is kindled will carry all their babes and run away by the light thereof, but such as must live and die with us; for London is an example; Ald. Foot, Ald. Langlye, Ald. Adams, Ald. Aveye, Ald. Richeriet, and the Recorder. One of my Lord Bradshaw's gentlemen told me to-day, he is chosen in Staffordshire; if not there, in Cheshire or Lancashire; without doubt next post will tell you. I shall not tell you what the book hath: the death of the Ambassador of Portugal's brother, and others of the complotters of treason. You will hear from the Company of Hamburg had a court this day about you. I believe Townlye will wave the place with shame, and that you will accept of it with civility and modesty from the Company, and go on as you did before, and that is their request to you as I hear.

1654, Aug. 18. A short letter, nearly half torn off.

Three letters from Tho. Leigh, London, to Richard Bradshaw, the first imperfect and signature gone.

1654, Sept. 29. His master (Wainwright?) having gone into Lancashire has ordered him to acquaint Bradshaw that he hath laboured with Col. Twisden and Capt. Ellis for their money to be paid, &c.—For the picktur, you shall have it sent per first Boyer.

1654, Oct. 6.—. . . . Inclosed is one from Mr. Codington. The picture you writ for [I] have bespoken of one Mr. Lilly (Lely) the best artist in England, who hath undertaken to do it rarely. For your next allowance, it will be paid out of the Exchequer; for all public treasure is to be paid in there, and all to be issued out there; what moneys Mrs. Booth send for shall be paid there. The Lord Protector came to some harm that he got by a fall, but I hope is past the worst and almost well. The House is much fuller than it was, and I hope will accord for the future. They have made a vote that no peace nor war is to be made for the future but by and with the consent in Parliament; there is not any other news; they are very private, and none of their passages made public till what they do come to be an Act; they have appointed a Committee to consider how to make Ireland one with England, and to have the same laws and immunities, and for that purpose do intend to call it West England.

1654, Oct. 13. Hath according to his master's and Bradshaw's instructions been earnest with Coll. Twiseldon, and has gotten 50*l*. more of him, and 150*l*. from Ellis since his master's departure; shall not let them be at quiet until they have completed the whole money; and for Bartlet he has laid with Capt. Compton, but hears he hath a protection from the Council.—Stone is not yet come up, nor can I hear of him as yet, but will observe this order when he comes; for Mr. Samuel Row, he is now aboard with the Lord Bradshaw, and I do not know how to get him your letter, but as soon as possible shall procure it him. I have bought you a curious picture, exactly done by Mr. Lilley, who drew it for his Highness, and hath since drawn it for the Portuguese and

MISS
FABINGTON.

Dutch Ambassadors; it cost me 12l. present money; I could [have] had it cheaper, but not so good.

Letter from James Wainwright to Mr. Bradshaw.
1654, Nov. 17. I shall not as to matters of Parliament, refer you to Mr. Needham, whom I met at Westminster, and well remembered you. I never knew him to be the man, for all your writing, that he was politician till now. This day the Lord Protector's mother is dead, a very old woman, at Whitehall. What the issue of all our affairs here may be, they so ebb and flow, I cannot determine; but I gather will be well if they get over to-morrow, which is a negative or no about the militia, and a Monday religion, what negative here we hope in neither any, except it be that no errors shall be tolerated, nor any bill offered to misemploy the Militia, which I do very believe His Highness will do neither.

1654, Nov. 3, London.—Tho. Leigh to R. Bradshaw, and another letter on the same page from James Wainwright. Leigh's letter is on money matters, the picture and provisions. Wainwright writes, "I am returned out of the North, where I met with many of your friends, in particular at Wrexham, as I came with my Lord Bradshaw, where we did remember you, and commanded me to do it to you, and finding him remote from home we were singular merry. For news here they are upon the Instrument, finished all save two articles, Religion and Militia, which are committed to [a] committee of 10 persons of the House, who are to choose 10 divines, 10 commanders, and treat with His Highness, and bring in report, that is to religion; this day the Lord Craven's petition was read and committed, who I believe will have relief."

1654, Dec. 22. The fleet at Portsmouth is now gone to sea yesterday, as they writ from hence.

1654, Jan. 26, London.—Reginald Wainwright to the same. Indorsed by Bradshaw, about his brother Henry. Answered 13th of Feb.

1654, Feb. 23. James Wainwright to the same.—. I writ you in my last that Townley was in England; I saw him this week of the Exchange, but spake not with him. We begin to be troubled with some Quakers and Anabaptists, and some that are for 5th monarchy, that my Lord Protector might not reign, but Christ personal, and such like camerows and sryre stuff, whereof some have been called to account for their ill discourse of langish (language?), and been desired upon their promise or parole or surety for their good behaviour, and would embrace none of these, as Col. Rich, Col. Harrison, Mr. Karye, Mr. Carnegie being the head of those factors, and they are secured and sent westward to several prisons. We are now settling the old Militia through the nation in the hands of such as are of certain trust and sound principles.

1654, March 2. For matters of our state affairs we have none, but are all very quiet; some persons are a little moved, those of some private congregations to whom those four gentlemen were of that I writ you the last week. We cannot describe to you the place to which they are gone.

1654, March 16. Yours is come to hand of the 6th, and therein I perceive you have strange camerows fomented and affirmed for truth to you, which would be, if true, very sad, tho' it is very improbable, I presume, to you. Some designing we have had here in England, and the designers friends in all parts I perceive have been acquainted therewith, which is discovered and manifest to us, and the persons, tho' not all, but such as were to put it afoot, persons of hot spirits tho' of good estate, but men that value their principles and their designs above life, estate, or what else ought to be dear to them: examples thereof we shall have all made, I hope, and at last weed out those that will never be quiet under any government but such as they must choose. I cannot nor need not particular, but will leave you to the book. I believe all is quiet by this time, as to force of the enemies party, tho' not of our side, to find out them that are concerned in this plot which are far more than yet we know.

1655, March 30. The French have made an embargo of our ships, some say a seizure; I believe they expected their friends here would have done more than yet is, and so you shall hear the old proverb, "The King of France and 40,000 men went up a hill and came down again;" and the next letter will tell us it is taken off.

1655, April 6.—Yours of the 27th March is this day come to hand, and perceive that you are jealous of us that this plot was not real; all men that have any understandings do conclude that the persons in the plot were real, for they are like to lose life and estate, and most of them are considerable estate; there is several commissions granted to several persons of worth who are gone to try them for their lives, Salisbury, Shrewsbury, York, and Newcastle.

We have writing [that] the embargo is still continued of our ships, and that for our English goods there shall no judge meddle [or] upon any pretence release without order from the Council at Paris. The ambassador here assures our State that it will be taken off, and upon this he engages his honour; so that we see that it was in order to the success of their friends here, and we are suspicious of our friends in Holland to have broke also if it had taken in resulting to pay the East India Company the loss adjudged, according to the articles of peace, and in providing ships, which will now be converted to other uses.

1655, April 13. For news we have none this week; next may produce something of them that must die in this plot; the embargo is taken off in France; it was as I writ you the old proverb. I believe we shall have peace; for the Spaniard you will hear more hereafter.

1655, April 20. About his brother Henry. I think we shall have peace with Spain, if not already done, as I am informed.

1655, April 27. You will hear of an Ambassador from Spain now at Dunquirk, for whom we have sent a couple of ships, to convoy him over; with the French yet is nothing public, tho' I am assured (?), or my intelligencer informs me wrong, there is a good understanding the parties in this last plot will never I believe be in any more, and I hope none else in the blow but such as are weary of their lives.

1655, May 4. Our poor Chester merchants, whatever is matter, do not prosper; they have lost two ships to the Brest men, now one coming from St. Sebastians and the other going. For France; the treaty holds still with France, and we do expect a conclusion; with Spain, I fear war. We have great hope that His Highness will accept of Kingship, which all men desire generally, and by that means we hope to come to a settlement. Our lawyers do press hard for it, and some refused to act in some great places.

1655, May 11. The gallant reception of the Spanish Ambassador Wednesday last was had.

1655, May 18. We have had a great rumour of having a King; it hath been so long in expectation that the people of these parts begin to despair for the benefit that will arise thereby; some are of opinion good, and some bad; but we ought to acquiesce with what God will have, and account that rest. As to the French, we are as uncertain in our peace, though many affirm it is concluded. The Spanish Ambassador hath had several private audiences, and, it is said, no very good encouragement for his stay. You will hear that General Blake hath taken nine ships of the inhabitants of Tunis, killed them 1,000 men, and burned the vessels, and landed near that town; this is confirmed by the second post from [the Straits.—News from Spain, and of the silver fleet.

1655, June 15. Here is little in these parts; there are in most counties of this nation many of bold stamp of cavaliers singled out and secured; it will be too long to tell you all the most eminent of that faction; there is some alteration in some places of trust, but yet not much; we expected a greater, and we hope it will be, that His Highness will take some other title, and give a more higher to our laws, either Kingship or Emperor.

1655, June 22. Now at 10 o'clock is yours come to hand; we did expect the Swedes had interrupted your letters that none came until now.

1655, June 29. Has spoken to Mr. Cottingham about Sir Wm. Bruerton's business, who will this or next week have execution against him, and for those other gentlemen Ellis and Twisleton. Except we have a contrary wind to stay old Rowlings he will be gone upon Monday next. These parts here have had an eye towards the Swedes; many thought her for Holland, and our Malignants for Scotland, which was far-fetched. For news here, none; but still we are taking up the old delinquents and securing them; the reason in state we know not; they are them most considerable over all the nation. We have news this week from the Venetian that the Grand Signor hath cut off our Agent's head, Sir Tho. Bondish, and several other merchants; we do not believe this, because none of our English from any part write it; but we fear there is no smoke but some fire, that they and their estate

MISS
FABINGTON.

185
NGTON.

may be feared, and occasioned by that matter that Col. Bleake did do at Tunis. You will hear that our West India fleet have taken Sancto Domingo in high Spaiola; we are apt to believe it, because a ship from St. Kitt's (St. Kitt's) brings this word arrived at Bristol, and saith a shallop came in there before he came away, and left our men in possession; we hope it is true. The Lord Henry and his Lady are at Chester on their way for Dublin.

1655, July 6. . . . Rowlinge deserves thanks from you for what he hath already done, to stay me almost two weeks. I was afraid to see him upon the Exchange. I leave this to your consideration when he comes to Hamburgh. . . .

1655, July 13. . . . For Sir Wm. Bruerton, I took out execution for the city, and did believe he would have been last Tuesday at Chester feast, but lost that expense; I have ordered to take out one for Westminster, where I hear he comes each week. I perceive by yours that the animosity in your Company is still kept up on foot; I well hoped the young fray (fy?) had sowed their wild oats; more they have and they will dispose of them; I wish it were otherwise. . . . For news, here is none worth your notice; sometimes the Turk and sometimes the Spaniard seizing the merchants' estate and persons, but I believe it is particular men's design to get such reports to make their own market for their commodity. . . .

1655, Aug. 3. . . . I marvel that Rowlinge should not be arrived. . . . If you will have me to pursue Sir Wm. Bruerton, you must write a letter to him, to take off that lenity your lady hath had toward him. . . . I think he intends not to pay you, and if that may be taken off I think you will have your money, &c.

1655, Aug. 10. We hear that the King of Swedland is crowned King of Poland; but we do not believe it, because you do not write thereof. . . .

1655, Aug. 14. . . . I was with another citizen in commission to take your sister and your cousin Hulston's acknowledgement of a Fine; but when we sent for her and him, she refused, because you had not appointed her money or security for the same which was not well ordered by Sam Hilton.—Major-General Venables is living, and safe come to Portsmouth after the fleet; some evil will be found either in the sea or land Commander we know not where yet it will fall, but I suppose of Penn. Some hardship our men were in by the misdoing of some in command; I fear it will be of them that in their opinion are always wise in their own opinion, and so are many that are of unsound principles that think they may do anything, tho' contrary to commission; such deserve no lesser punishment then their demerit. I believe His Highness will consider it.

1655, Aug. 17. . . . You will in a short time hear great things from the Indias; for what we lost was but small; the dishonour was more.

1655, Sept. 7. . . . Part of our fleet is come home, and part left to guard Jamaica; Col. Venables is dead, which is our greatest loss; some say that the Spanish fleet is come to the Canaries; this I do not believe.

1655, Sept. 21. News here is little but what you must expect long since; the Spaniard hath not only made an embargo, but a seizure of all our merchant's estate, goods, and books, and counting houses in Spain, and secured and confined their persons; some application hath been made to His Highness by our Spanish merchants; the reason of state is in the dark to him; all without the line is without the peace, but his Highness is moved at it; and for the miscarriage there, hath sent to the Tower our two generals Venables and Penn; and truly if found faulty, as I believe the one is, it is just he should suffer: and have sent for General Munke out of Scotland, of whose gallantry and ability His Highness hath sufficient proof.

1655, Sept. 28. . . . Your son was with me to know if I had order to supply him with neseagys for Oxford. I told him no; but if he was going, whatever Mr. Arthur and he agreed was necessary, I should supply them with money.

1655, Oct. 5. . . . We shall war with Spain. General Bleak (Blake) is likewise come home safe. Venables and Penn still remain in the Tower. The Venetian ambassador came hither yesterday. Preparations making for a new fleet to the West Indies, and General Munk I perceive will command all by land and sea. Much damage will fall of our English merchants in Spain and Italy, and also the Turkey trade, except we command those seas.

1655, Oct. 12. We have had long western winds, I perceive by Swadle and like to continue; we have a world of ships that are in the Downs bound for Virginia and Barbadoes for eastern wind. It is matter of sorrow that the two generals should so miscarry, but we must submit to the hand of God; the Spaniard did speak out at large, but now it is in real and more manifest, because he hath made as sure (?) in Flanders, which is far worse than in South Spain. I wish we may ride the fore horse; if we have peace with France, then I hope we shall bring him of (on) his knees, which is confidently reported, which will advance us in the Straits for harbours and the Council of Spain is a sour council; the issue we cannot tell what may prove. . . . I am glad the King of Swedland prospers against the Pole; we see by experience in our time how God follows unjust princes. . . . Our preparation is great for the West Indies and South Spain; the King of Spain hath already taken some Newfoundland ships; Bleaks (Blake's) fleet is come home, but do not hear of him except he be in Ireland where he is safe we hope.

1655, Oct. 19. . . . I writ you the posting of your letters are free. . . . Here is little, but only the difference between the Spaniard and us doth heighten and grow higher; for the Spaniard hath set out men of war, and have taken some of our ships, this week, Ostenders and Dunquerkers the issue I believe will be good, and that you will hear we shall redeem our miscarriage in Jamaica to his sorrow, and so in other places. I writ you General Bleak (Blake) is come, and all his fleet now safe. Nothing else but that I have ordered Mr. Cottington to outlaw Sir Wm. after judgment, for he cannot be met with; then you know what condition he is in; must, if he suffer it, apply himself to His Highness for his pardon; but of this more hereafter. . . .

1655, Feb. 8. . . . I perceive my brother is come away for England; I hope he hath effected his business.

. . . . For Mr. Baron, I gave him your compliments in as much reality as his was to you; . . . I see him often in my shop to take a pipe of tobacco, and that is all the opportunity we have to speak of you. . . . Your brother Edward is now in town. . . . For news, I perceive you were as barren as me, or else you forget me to acquaint me whether Dansicke was taken, or where the King of Sweden is; we have it here the Lord Whitlock and Sir Christ. Park are to come as Ambassadors to him; our seas begin to be full of small picarones, Dunkirkers, and Ostenders; all under those names.

1655,* Feb. 29. My last was of the 22nd present; since then is come to hand your of the 19th February, . . . It was corant two weeks ago that the Lord Whitlock and Sir Christopher Parke were designed for the King of Swedland. As to that you desire to know concerning the braie with Spain; the Spaniard hath in all his dominions proclaimed war against England, and prohibited all commerce; and this week His Highness hath sent to the Hamb., Turkey, East India, Muskovia, and Eastland Companies to make choice of five in each Company, to consider of a way of raising of money to maintain 45 sail for convoy and to preserve the narrow seas, by laying 2½ per cent. more outwards, and 1 per cent. inwards, of all goods and merchandise; and to your question, there is an order, all ready past the Council but not published, that all goods of the Spanish growth shall be confiscated; then there will be no permitting of trade as to home merchants of any goods whatever, nor foreigners or our neighbours, if that they be known or can be discovered to be the Spaniard's, the consequence will be great trouble to us and to the Dutch to examine and they to clear the Spaniard of all interest in any goods aboard their ships. . . . His Highness is perplexed with stone often.

1655, March 7. . . . Our fleet being fitting, and many gone to Portsmouth westward, the Dunquerker and the Ostender do some mischief to the North; taken many collars (colliers) and some of Hull. This last week a pinnacle of ours, being over against Dunquerke, met with three of them pirates, set upon it, but it was in hearing of the Speaker frigate, and she came in to her relief; and after, four pirates more came out of Dunquerk, none less than 20 piece of ordnance, full of men, boarded the frigate two times, and she cleared herself of them, and then shot her between wind and water, but she recovered that, and afterwards that frigate sunk three of them by her side, and maimed the rest. We only lost 22 men, and both the frigate and pinnacle came home; this is a good hearting to us, and will make them tremble for meddling with any more except necessity force them. The Spaniard is resolved to defend himself or keep what he hath; he will have a fleet of some 45 ships, as we hear, and hath publicly

Miss
HARRINGTON.

Miss
MARINGTON.

declared open war in all his dominions, as I formerly writt you. You will hear, as to our own peace, the major generals have settled each county with militia therein appointed, and this week His Highness sent for the Lord Mayor and Common Council to acquaint them therewith, and that he intends to do the same for the City and Middlesex, but thought to acquaint them therewith.

1655, March 21. Our fleet is gone, and the Ostenders and Dunkirkers are very brief of our coast in the Channel; they have this week taken a Barbadoes man, and a Virginia man they fired; the merchants may thank themselves. His Highness offered them a way to maintain 45 sail for our coast by raising a new imposition, and they thought they had raised sufficient as to the old customs, and would not admit of any new way of impost for a time; these gentlemen never yet knew the necessity as we inland tradesmen did, ventured all we had for the Parliament as you well know; now the war is violent at sea as it was then at land, they will not admit of a general tax, it may be, concerns them least that most opposed it, so there will be little pity from us that had a feeling in the English and land war, when they feel that [which] we did they may repent; but whether it may not be too late, I leave you to judge.

1655, March 14. In yours I find the great success of the King of Sweden against the Pole. We fear the fleet is not gone from Portsmouth, because the wind this week was so bare, tho' it is now ready; the fire ships being come to them, the first fair wind they set sail.

1656, April 4. I thank you for your news which is here positive at our Exchange that the King of Swedland is blown up, lost 10,000 foot and horse. Our fleet is certainly gone for one place and some for others; Jamaica and coast of Spain are the places we design our fleet; you will hear the Plate fleet is arrived in Spain, and we do believe it, though we have some to contradict it; it will a little advance trade, tho' it hinder our peace, and may encourage them to their own ruin in time; I am of that opinion, tho' it may be I shall not see it.

1656, April 8. You will have heard the Spanish fleet is come home, some say rich, worth five millions, some say seven millions; ours will fall short of it; some have it there is a great death in Jamaica. The Dunquerkers and Ostenders do pester us; ships of good defence of 16 or 20 guns. Hugh Peters have done something that pleases not His Highness, and is discharged the Court.—Foreign news.

1656, April 25. Our fleet is before Lisbon, some say to necessitate the King of Portugal to a compliance ample, which is not finished by him, I mean not assigned, the articles agreed of. Nothing from Spain or Jamaica, or any other part of the West Indies.

1656, May 2. There is 3 ships of the Plate fleet come; two more are expected, but not by us met with; there is hope, if they now come, our fleet is got in their way; the Spaniard is enraged against us: hath prohibited all our manufactures by what conveyance whatever, tho' by the Dutch or any other nation. We have a strong report here that the King of Sweden is pursued, but I do not believe it, because you give us some hopes the other way. To put a period to all future hopes, if any, for Ch. Steward, is to accept of his mother's advice; but I think, let him embrace any opinion, that family is laid aside by all sober Commonwealth-men of this nation, both high and low.

1656, May 9. I am heartily glad the King of Swedland is alive, not only in relation to this State, which is great, but the affairs of the Protestant cause in Europe. I know there is a tacit understanding between him and our Protector. The Dutch and Deame (Dane), do devise all fables that are colourable against the Swede.—Good news from Jamaica and from Portugal; the messenger is despatched away, some say with a very hard message, that if he will not assign what is agreed of, his fleet hath order to right this interest of him as to force him to make good our faith.

1656, March 23. The Barons of the Exchequer hath committed Alderman Avery prisoner to the Fleet this week at the suit of His Highness; the debt is great; the State wants money; he being a counsellor was by his Company chosen treasurer; he accepted it and put in his son; he hath played the D., and counterfeited two receipts, containing 10,000 pounds, for which he is now in durance. The beginning of your letter I do not understand; if I had had your key to have known what b 8 meant, I should [have] opened all the rest. All our major-generals are now in town, and it is thought by some it is their conception a King and a Parliament. I do not yet believe it, tho' I wish it once in seven years it may be. God's time is best.

1656, May 6. You will hear of the proclamation from His Highness in favour of your Company; of our loss, per the Dunquerker and Ostender the last week, and since some more, many of them fishermen. No news from that high and mighty Prince of Spain, nor from our fleet, or Portugal or West Indies.

1656, July 25. Good store of ships are come from the Straits and East Indies this week of consequence. Our writ for a new Parliament is gone out the 20th August to have their election. We have nothing from our fleet of the coast of Spain, as also from Jamaica.

1656, Aug. 5. We have blocked up Ostend and Dunquirk, at each port some six men of war and shallops suitable; you will hear of some fears to fall of with Holland, which is groundless and not to be expected, tho' outwardly they bear us no goodwill, tho' they may animate on our war with Spain; for therein is their sweet and profit, and our loss of trade, and our expense of our fleet upon their coast.

1656, Aug. 8. For news, some small dispute been between the Council and my Lord Bradshaw, about his Commission for Chester as judge; would have in his patent, but as formerly did refuse, some other gentleman as Col. Ludlow, Rich, and some others demanded of them security for to keep the peace; all refused.

1656, Aug. 15. Thank you for your noble news, tho' we had it from the Swedish Ambassador at Court two days before the post came. Here is little but great designing about our election of Parliament men in several burroughs they have chosen; the grand day is upon Wednesday next. I hope the Lord Bradshaw will be one, and such men of public interest.

1656, Aug. 22. There is nothing either from our fleet or Jamaica or from Dunquerke, and therefore now you may conclude they are kept in. Our election of knights and burgesses will not be perfected till the next: here in these parts we have some unequal proceedings. You will hear of more hereafter. In the city of London, very fair and clear.

1656, Aug. 29. At Gowen's request I have drawn of you 100*l*., payable to Mr. Hen. Stampeel and John Browne. You will hear Mr. Edw. Bradshaw is chosen for Chester, and that for the county the Lord Bradshaw is left out by a will from above, I mean the court. For what you writt about the Pole, of 100,000 men, we hoped that they had part been slain and part taken, the rest routed; but I perceive the Swede will find it a heavy burden to carry on that war. Some miscarriage in the sheriffs about elections and undue returns made by them.

1656, Sept. 5. For news, our whole election is not come in; that I cannot send you a perfect list; Lanc. did but choose the last day but one, the 3rd present, in regard of the assise the 4th present. Sir Henry Vane is under durance. Nothing from Jamaica or the coast of Spain. We shall have our fleet home before the end of this month or beginning of the next from Spain.

1656, Sept. 26. For the news here, I suppose either Gowen or your brother will write you. There is some certain persons that His Highness and Council do not think fit to intrust in the Parliament with the government, and so hath given them a quietus est; and some others that were admitted take pet and leave the house; tho' there will be a sufficient number left to do that work, yet little doing in Parliament. From our fleet upon the coast of Spain or Jamaica, little or nothing; but our fear is of the King of Scots in Flanders making preparation for some of these nations; so we have it from the Court, tho' I do not believe he is so fool-hardy to attempt it, when the natives are so reviled (?) in sivell (civil) interest with the Protector; it is good to fear the worst.

1656, Sept. 19. Your brother is here, is in good health, and is admitted into Parliament; tho' there is 140 gallant men missed of them, for causes best known to His Highness, debarred of coming into the House, in all counties more or less: we do not yet know the reason.

1656, Oct. 10. I writ you in my last of the taking, firing, and sinking of 6 galleons of the Spaniard, by 6 frigates of ours, near Cadiz; two we have in possession, worth about, as is valued, 1,000,000*l*. The Parliament hath done little but chosen certain committees, passed some Acts as to the exclusion of Charles Stuard, and protection of the person of His Highness; those excluded members were such we could not intrust

Mrs
MARING.

188
INGTON.

the affairs of the Commonwealth as now it stands; certain others are gone that were admitted, but summoned in again

1656, Oct. 18. . . . Our Parliament doth proceed as great bodies do, slow in motion, but sure, and I hope to good purpose. Yesterday your brother went into the House

1656, Nov. 14. . . . My last to you was of the 7th, yours of the 4th present came this evening at 7. I sent my man presently with Mr. Scobell's letter, which was delivered to his own hands, and that to the Admiralty he delivered with his own hands and had audience, being then sitting; and the Commissioners of Admiralty, after the reading of your letter, did promise him, I should have it next week. Mr. Frost was not in his chamber and could not be found. I will apply him next week. For Townlye, if he went over without licence, it was high presumption, methink none should persuade him or that he should hearken to any. . . . You have here friends and foes; some wish you so well as that you may continue or come off with credit and honour; others wish you may fail therein. . . . I thank you for honest Ja. Harrington's letters. . . . Our Parliament is silent, nothing yet come out, but it is thought altogether some are tampering to farm Customs and Excise; the issue we cannot write you, but we believe there will be a book of rates for the Excise. There shall be no door open to deceive the State. Our silver is in coining. . . . We have had many ships cast away off these coasts this two weeks by tempests.

1656, Nov. 21. . . . The Parliament are still in preparing small Acts, we hope for the good of the nation; the government not yet come in, tho' some hot dispute in some acts that tends to our desires, but it will not take, and I fear will not this Parliament (and if not) then I suppose the 10 next months will put a period thereto. We desire that we may have the Protector King, and be in his heirs; revolutions are dangerous, or elections. There is no licence granted for Spain; I know not what you mean by that; if you or any merchant will hazard to trade there with Spain, he may, and bring in the goods as formerly, and so some have and do still do; but it is there under the Dutch. For your own particular, I have an order from the Admiralty to the Commissioners of the Navy to pass a warrant upon the treasurer, but yet have been put off this week

1656, Nov. 28. . . . I have now I hope settled your Admiralty money, which have been some trouble, by the Committee of the Navy to the Treasurer, who this week granted such a warrant that the Treasurer would not issue out any money; so this day I have got it altered [more] by interest of respect than any other thing; the first money in the Treasury, I shall be paid. . . . It is true our treasure from Spain is fallen short, as you writ to the State, tho' not to the officers and seamen; for the Protector and Parliament look smilingly each of other; there is no other cause. Yesterday he met them in the Painted Chamber, passed some eleven Acts, and prayed them to haste, and if they wanted time should condescend to enlarge it; there is talk here of a King, but it is no otherwise then as people will have it, not any intent of the Parliament yet or of him; but I wish it were, there is nothing of the government yet brought in.

1656, Dec. 3. Gowen Hudson to Richard Bradshaw. Private business and money matters.

1656, Dec. 12. James Wainwright to the same. . . . The Parliament is still sitting, and after the 10th present is for 3 months more under the disposing of himself; I believe he will let them sit till their 6 months be out, and therein hopes to effect them things that are necessary for the Commonwealth; this week much debate is among them about Ja. Naylor, a shaker, that doth blaspheme, doth ascribe he is the son of God, that Jesus Christ that should come in the flesh; many women follow him for the flesh, and adore him; there is Mary Magdalen that wiped his feet with her hair; the Parliament have voted him a blasphemer, but are now about a way to execute punishment, tho' I fear they cannot do anything of concernment sufficient to his fact.—From our Spanish fleet or Jamaica not one word.

1656, Dec. 26. . . . For news here little; the next will tell me you are deputy of the Company. There is little worth naming, as that of James Naylor, the quaker, the Parliament had been troubled with concerning him his censure, and some part executed, the rest suspended till to-morrow. . . . The Protector hath discovered much as to his opinion in point of each man's principles, and so hath erected for four counties in the north, Northumberland, Westmoreland, Cumberland, and the Bishop's rule of Durham, to associate in a presbiterary way, and cast off the Anabaptists and Quakers.

1656, Jan. 9. (Imperfect and not important.)

1656, Jan. 30. . . . The Parliament is got over one great affair, the bill of decimation, wherein was wrapped the Major-Generals to be settled by a law; then, our full moon, I mean our government in one person, and England would have been swallowed up with these stars in time; but after two weeks debate it is thrown out of the Houses. I do presume the Protector was aware of it; the next thing will be money, or else the Royal title, I cannot tell which first. We have lost a ship of wine to Dunkirk, Canaries; a ship of provision for Jamaica, and also a ship of butter.

1657, March 26th. . . . Yours of the 9th March is come to hand, and for the dissolving of the Parliament I commend [you] therein, and should have done no less if it had in my case (own case?); a many of [] spirits of the army threatening of him, which are since met with and discharged. I believe the Parliament did but fright him, for they could do His Highness no harm, but it would redound of themselves. It is the malignes (Malignants?) that rep[ort] our change to be such; they are in all places beyond the sea, and have an influence where they are, and they like frogs, or like Cain, discover their father's nakedness, for which they are and like I hope to continue blasted. . . . We do hear the news of the peace of Denmark and Swedeland, and are sensible of the Swede's enlargement; the Swede I hope will be of such concernment will make all faces to tremble to withstand him; when Providence carries him so successfully as he hath been in Denmark; we are sending him some 6,000 foot from hence. . . . You will hear of a plot, but we have it from first beyond sea, and make it good here; they are all pretty well secured, and we in peace. . . . I pray you mind and give your answer the most part of what moneys to them that did rob you of the State's money; may be had for expending a little money.

1657, May 15. (Imperfect.) The Protector hath declined Kingship; the [Parliament] I understand hath done nothing but met and adjourned. This mor[n]ing, . . . and adjourned till Tuesday, some think they will pass the bill [of the] Protector, securing to the people their rights and liberties according to the ancient laws of England.

1657, May 22. Yours is come to hand of the 12th present, and therein I find that James Harrison doth not give you that respect he ought. . . . Your bill was presented to the Council, where Sec. Thurlow is a member, and have had Gowen to solicit him therein time after time, but nothing in answer. I will assure you, if the Secretary do not answer your expectations, I will have access to the Protector, and acquaint him to whom I can go before him. . . . Here is little save that of His Highness, that the Parliament hath voted him Royal Protector, and given him all the immunities, and chosen a Committee that he shall surrender all to the people due to them under all the Kings and Queens of England. . . . The Dutch are in heaps in our channel against France; we have landed our men in France for Dunquerk, and have our great ships, which are our castles, ready to go over thither; the issue in God's hands; but the French much rejoice at our men's arrival, and nothing too dear for them there, but are much respected and our commanders honoured.

1657, May 29. Received yours of the 16th from Lubeck, being of your journey toward the Great Duke; yours was delivered safe to the Lord Whitlock. I had a letter from Mr. Hochestetter this post of what you writ. . . . I am this week with Secretary Thurlow, who did this week promise me to procure me the moneys or a warrant. . . . General Bleak came up to the Canaries, where they found the Spanish galleons, in all 16; they burnt and sunk and blew up 10, and took 6; no goods, but killed men and destroyed the materials, we lost some 50, and about 100 wounded; the Spaniards lost some 4,000 men; our fleet is almost ready for Dunquerk; our men in France much made of. The Parliament is to conclude all by the 20th next, and not to sit longer. I perceive His Highness takes nothing of the hott weather.*

1657, June 26. . . . I was forced to make known your cause to the Lord Protector, who gave order to the Secretary to take care of payment, which indeed he did, or else had paid me out of his own money. . . . This day

* There is a short letter of no importance addressed to Mrs. Bradshaw dated 19th January 1657.

Miss HARRINGTON.

MISS
BARINGTON.

in London and Westminster was solemn day of rejoicing; His Highness was sworn Royal Protector in Westminster Hall before the Judges, the Parliament, and all the great officers of State; and had all the formalities as all the Kings had but a Crown: I left out the Lord Mayor and Council of the city of London who were there; and the Parliament afterwards adjourned till January, but presented him a new Instrument of government that he swore unto; and first presented him with a robe, a Bible, sceptre, and sword; but the crown was wanting; before they meet there is to be 70 lords chosen to make another house. The Spaniard came this last week upon Calais and burnt most suburbs (suburbs) and were beaten away with loss of some 300 men. The Spaniard hath taken a great city in Portugal, to the danger of that kingdom.

1657, Jan. 29. To Bradshaw, ambassador with the Emperor of Russia in Mimmilin. . . . We have it here that the great Duke is dead; and that may be the cause you heard nothing from those parts. . . . The Cavaliers are taken hold in these parts; some design they had, but it is prevented if any; they are generally secured all over the nation. . . . The two Houses of Parliament began to sit the 20th ditto, but not done anything, nor yet can agree what name or title to be called; upon this point they are; the other house would be Lords, and the Commons are not yet advised to receive that title from them, or give it them, there was a fast two days ago, and it is referred to a grand Committee of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of the three nations.

1657, Aug. 14. To R. Bradshaw, public minister to the Emperor of Russia at Mitto. News that General Bleak having been long sick at sea, came home, and in sight of Plymouth died; part of our fleet being come home to guard him the rest are with Mountague. The Portugal prevails against the Spaniard, besieged the town they lately lost, and beaten the Spaniard, have the garrison. We lost a ship or two considerable to Dunquerque from Canaries with dry goods, come from the East Indies, that was sunk.

1657, Aug. 21. To R. Bradshaw at Mitto. . . . Little news; some loss of shipping to the Dunquerkers and one great ship split off the Isle of Sillye, laden from Barbadoes with sugar, and another in the Straits taken by Triploer (Tripoli) men. The Lord Protector is now at Hampton Court taking physic. There is in Shropshire two young gentlemen Papists come lately from Charles Stward, at Bruges (?) with commissions to raise horse, and to be obedient to their chief officer; they are apprehended and sent to the Tower. I will acquaint my uncle Joliffe one of that Company, and acquaint him what you writ. I think your old friend Mr. Francis Ash is gone. I am sorry you are so environed with the plague, and so remote in a strange country and at such a distance. . . . We have it from Hamburg that the Swede carries all before him, and that the Dane will not fight him but expects help from the Emperor of Germany. I do believe that the Dane before this rues his undertaking.

1657, Sept. 4. To Lady Kathren Bradshaw in Hamburg. I writ you in my last as to that you sent to the Lady Bradshaw. It was delivered the Secretary Thurlow, and this day he sends me word he will take care for what is needful for the Resident; a physician, minister, and cook; all which I would have taken off his care if he would have given me order, but he will give you account. . . .

1657, Sept. 4. To R. Bradshaw (indorsed by him "Of Mr. Sec. Thurlow promising to send me a Minister, a Physician, and a Cook. R. B.") I am forced to make my complaint to the Secretary who tells me he will procure pay this day. The Secretary told me he would give account of providing a physician, a minister, and cook, to send you, or else I had taken order therein; for you must proceed on in your voyage to the Emperor, if he will receive you. I did your respects to the Lord Bradshaw and his Lady to his own hands this day at Yold Hall. This day General Bleak was interred; a very great solemnity, by water from Greenwich to the Abbey at Westminster, in artillery form. The Portugal Embassador was upon Tuesday received; the Dutch with some 100 sail are gone to Brazil against him; many knowing persons say we cannot be at peace with the Dutch and at wars with Spain. His Highness sent down to the East India and all other merchants to know the affronts put upon them by that people since the peace; this nation is much troubled to receive affronts from them, and to carry and convey and assist the Spaniard in all his designs, the French are drawn down to this side France, near Calais; the Spaniard near Dunquerque; what that design is, we believe for Dunquerque.

1657, Sept. 11. To R. B. Ambassador with the Emperor of Russia at Mitto. . . . The Spanish war goeth on, and great fear we shall fall out with the Dutch, by many; but all judicial persons say we shall never do good of the Spaniard till we have a war with the Dutch; and both would do better then one at once; for they supply the Spaniard with all necessities. . . . The Spaniard hath sunk us a great ship in the Straits, worth 60,000*l.*, and taken a small one, worth some 12,000*l.*

1657, Sept. 18. To R. B. at Mitto. . . . Dunquerque is besieged by the English and French, both by sea and land, and there is each day very hot disputes; I believe in short time you will hear we have recovered it from the Spaniard; and then Ostender, there is 20 sail before it, and some 25,000 men horse and foot, by land before it; I perceive by the carriage of the Dutch to us and his near relation to the Spaniard, that we shall not long hold friends; nor cannot war with Spain and be friends with the Dutch, who send him all their assistance and support against us.

1657, Sept. 25. To K. B. at Mitto.—No letter from Hamburg these three weeks. We conceive Dunquerque is the cause, those ports so full of soldiers and the town close besieged, having this week obtained the great fort Mardick, and have this week sent 4,000 old soldiers, with our great mortars and some battering cannon: we hope the next will tell you the town is ours and in our possession; the fort is by the French delivered us: we think this way we shall balance with the Dutch, who are gone to Portugal to block up Lisbon, and help the Spaniard to gain Portugal, that we may have no port to befriend us against the Spaniard. His Highness will by land draw near them with the assistance of the French, and by sea have both sides of the Channel: these rods will make them bethink themselves, and shake hands with the Devil, and come home again, for they hate the Spaniards with a perfect hatred, and yet this they do against us. . . . Some report the Duke of Buckingham hath married the Lord Fairfax only daughter.

1657, Oct. 2. To R. B. in Freuvenburge . . . Mardick fort at Dunquerque is ours, and I hope the next letters will tell you the town is ours, if the French quit themselves like men; we have sent 4,000 old foot lest they flinch.

1657, Jan. 1. [To Lady K. Bradshaw.] As to the young men, Dr. Chamberlin's sons, one of them is but fit for the resident's service, and him I have agreed and engaged for to pay him 100*l.* per annum.—Money matters.—I have entered your son in the Temple, and given security there as of the last term.—My service to the Ambassador.

1657, Feb. 12. To R. B. in Russia. My last was of the 5th present; therein I writ you His Highness had dissolved his two houses of Parliament; the original cause was from apathy in the army, and some other fanatic spirits in the city and nation conceived to be encouraged from some discontented persons in the Parliament; which persons some are discarded the army, and the other in custody. It was against the present government settled in the last Parliament. . . . I have some ground we shall have peace with Spain upon some good terms upon both sides desired. I hope His Highness will keep his former interest, tho' he lay down Mardicke. You will have a Parliament called in short time of real Lords and Commons, according to the [] will of the nation.

1657, Feb. 19. To R. B. at Memmel. . . . Thank you for your news. I perceive you did hear of the great news of the Swede taking the Island of Funer, and the great riches, besides the many nobility and gentry of Denmark there. His Highness [had] it at least 10 days ago by a special messenger. . . . The Lord Rich, his Highness' son-in-law, is . . . shall have a Parliament once within nine months, called and constituted according to the ancient rights of the nation in the late King's time; some say 1st of May; I believe the 1st of Sept. next. The ancient burroughs, and cities their ancient number, and the Peers of the nation that have not forfeited their rights. His Highness' wedding his army; his own regiment of horse he hath begun with, and cleared the regiment of all the officers, and so through the nation, that were abettors of a late petition offered to be presented to the late Parliament.

1657, March 5. To R. B. at Memmel.—I have yours of the 3rd of February, wherein I perceive you had writ to me of the news between the Swede and the Emperor of Russia, intending a peace, but that hath not yet come to my hand: which news I perceive may be begot from

MISS
BARINGTON.

Miss
HARRINGTON.

the Swede's success in Denmark; that you must have before this come to hand is here matter of much joy in our court. I do believe you will stay now, and carry on that matter, for the Swede is victorious. For your business with Mr. Sadler, I have now Mr. King [] in town. There is no redemption of your barn, it is in the leasing the tithes, and your friend hath no power to sell it; your rent you will have. Mr. King hath farmed the tithes, and a lease of them for 21 years; and when you come and will have them and your barn at the farm of the State, he will resign it, and hath promised it before witnesses. . . . His Highness hath been troubled with his army; many high-flown men in their heads, colonels, majors, and captains, but all are cashiered; whatever any maligner may suggest or think in expectation to have by any of these things, he is a fool and besotted. . . . no news, but some losses of merchant ships to the Spaniard at St. Sebastian's.

1657, March 19. To R. B. at Hamburg. . . . We are now handsomely rivetted in the socket as to peace; since our Parliament was dissolved His Highness sent for the Lord Mayor and Aldermen and Common Councilmen, and acquainted them with the affairs of the nation and foreign affairs, and [] that he and his army would sacrifice their lives for the public [and] them, and they received his graciously [] and have put out remonstrance and sent him a petition therewith, they would live and die with him and his army, and he hath given them the Militia within the line, and we are forming the same that in all reason he, his army, as it is now formed, and the city needs not, by the blessing of God, any power within or without; and therefore you may laugh at all reports that may seem to look any other way but a settlement in peace and security in these nations. . . . I believe the Swede, having ended his quarrel with the Dane, and made his own terms with him, will not now matter the Russe or Pole. I shall be glad to hear that you are safe at Hamburg;—perhaps in a very short time we shall crown His Highness King of Great Britain.

1658, April 9. To Bradshaw at Hamburg.—Yours of the 30th of March is come to hand that speak you at Hamburg, of which I am very glad. . . . It seemeth that the Russ would hearken to your entertainment and give you a reception. . . . I shall to-morrow know the Secretary's pleasure. . . . It were very good the Swede and Russe were settled in a peace, and it would not be worse the Pole were made peace with. You will find the Swede will into Germany to keep off the Elector; so we conceive it is the design of all the Protestant princes; and I do believe we and France and the Swede so understand one another that will be their great design to break the House of Austria. . . . Mr. Palmer came this week; I think upon Monday last went aboard the ships; not past Harwich can they be yet. The wind is north-east; was never the like known in man's memory. Almost half a year there except a day or two out and in there again. . . . We have taken two of the best frigates of the Spaniard at St. Sebastian's, one off the coast of Ireland, now in Kingsale, 26 guns, 200 men; the other, not much less, brought into Dover pier within one week. It is credible we shall have writs out for a new Parliament about the 1st of June; but I cannot tell you he will take Kingship before, tho' it is desired for the security and honour of our nation.

1658, April 16. . . . About your return to Russia, I have been this week four times myself at Whitehall to wait on the Secretary; but sometimes [he is] at his house at Kensington, sometimes in physic, and sometimes with His Highness, that each time I come back without audience. I have sent up to-night, and writt a line of submission; if I have answer I shall acquaint you in the bottom of my letter. . . . If we have anything of your certain going to Russia you may expect that accommodation that is fit for your service, according to our best skill, and that by the first ships. I will not leave him till I know certainly his advice and therein his concurrence; for one that can the Russia tongue will be difficult; if you have a good scholar for your minister may do that who understands the Greek tongue. We here shall endeavour a peace with the Russe and Pole, that we may be ready for Germany to prevent the Elector. . . . You will have a high Court of Justice to order, some of our persons here that are in prison, and a Parliament, as I writt you in my last. F. S. The Secretary of State sends me word that it is not yet resolved by His Highness of your embassage to the Emperor, but when it is resolved he writ me I shall have timely notice to make provision for you, which in ten days I shall hear. They want some letters from the King of Swedland, that prevents their resolutions which the King refers them unto.

1658, April 23. . . . I am not so fully of opinion the Swede is for Poland as Germany; I perceive the Swede is a great Prince; he moves all the eastern part of the world; I wish it may continue in his hands, that motion; for that point we writt you about Kingship may happily be out of affection; and we here in London having a desire of that title may set it abroad on the world beyond our judgments; if we do not embrace that title [it] is more the present peace and quiet of the nation than any disaffection to the thing, and happily you may hear of it before you are aware.

My Lord Bradshaw will next week return his serguett (circint) then your letter will be delivered; Col. Bulkye is not in London. . . . For news, our great plot, long been under the hatches, is now come up on the decks, and cries Who is for my Lord Protector; for our Malignants will lose their lives, and I hope the rest will pay a good part of their estates towards the army by way of decimation; we have such a generation that will not leave their principles tho' it be to their utter ruin. A Court [of] Justice is expecting; the persons are prepared for it.

1658, April 30. . . . Yours of the 20th is come wherein you write that the Swede and Pole will have a treaty. I perceive that by yours it will not take unless the House of Austria be taken in. I believe it will be a very sore war, and unless the Swede be assisted by the French and His Highness, it will be too hard for the Swede. It is not yet resolved what the Council and His Highness will do as to your return. I partly perceive they have a great desire that the Swede may be free of trouble from the Russe, because of the other great design on Germany. . . . The High Court of Justice is erected, to put some of these unquiet spirits out of the world that nothing will quiet but death; there is some report here since the French army came down into Piccorderie (Picardy) that Ostenders should be delivered to their fleet, which is before it; I believe if it be not done, some intention was as to that. We do almost each week hear more or less ships taken by the Biskeners; all the pirates and rogues are got thither; they beed at each ship that goes that way that they are able to carry.

1658, May 8. . . . We have had no post since the 30th of April; we conceive it is by reason of a design between the governor of Ostend and the French upon a contract to deliver up that town to the French, who were admitted into the town with 1,200 or 1,300 of the town; but when they came into the town, they had planted their ordnance; so they cut them all off; and the forces being called down to them parts, we believe that hindered our post this week. . . . I wish there was an end of plots, which spoil trade and make men fearful of dealing. . . . I have observed this three years each spring we have had one or more of these plots.

1657, March 12. . . . We have found out the Dutch [] to convey the Scotch King and his party for Scotland, taken hisse [tr eofes] . . . other did escape us at they went into Dunquerque, and 40 sail more to come to conduct them and convey them over; so that I believe there will be a breach; our state here is for a King, and none fitter then His Highness; the body of the city is now with him: the Lo. Mayor, aldermen, and common council not returned now at 9 o'clock, and therefore dare not stay my letter; next will tell you the cause of their being there at Court. The army and city are resolved to gratify his desire, and in that point are resolved to live and die in it.

1658, May 21. . . . Yours is come to hand of the 11th I cannot tell what I might write to Mr. Harrington. It is probable I might write you were to return to the Emperor of Russia. . . . I writt you the last post, the King, Queen, and Cardinal of France and some 40,000 horse and foot are come to Calais, and there is the court, and have, behind D [] taken with our assistance two forts; the town is begirt both by sea and land; there was no loss but only the regiment of foot. In Ostend [] a ship or frigate we had hoped the company's ships might have been [] but I perceive that the winds are not at sea as at land. Upon Saturday last, the old party had laid a train to have burnt the city of London in several places, and cut the throats of the chief, and been in a body able to have done spoyle; above 10,000 listed, but God discovered it, and many are apprehended and in prison. The High Court of Justice next week will go on to purpose with the first party, and I think they upper Bench with this latter party. You see what, desperate persons we have still left among us like tinder will take hold of any temptation. This day the train bands and artillery of the city did get into a body to show themselves if occasion be, what they may be, I mean able to do; some 8,000 foot, besides horse, complete in Finsbury fields, where most of our new lords came to view them.

MISS
HARINGTON.

1658. Aug. 20. J. Wainwright to Mr. Gowen Hudson, at Chester. Foreign news and money matters.

1658. Aug. 21. To Mr. Bradshaw at the Assize in Lancaster, at Capt. Porters.—Graveline was to be delivered if Dom John came not to relieve it before yesterday. Newport is begirt with our forces: the King of Swedland and General Wrangle, with 6,000 foot, are embarked about Keolne, and are either for Sound or Sprusia. His Highness doth mend very well. Your shipping will be ready within 14 days after the last of this month. I pray upon the receipt of yours send this to Mr. Samuel Row. P.S. The Dutch are very high with His Highness, which we think doth trouble him, because he is not in a fitting condition to answer them. The West Indies hath mighty impoverished his fleet within this four years.

1659. May 17. James Dogett to R. Bradshaw.—Money matters.

(Temp. Henry I.) Richard Bussel, with the assent of his brothers Albert and Geoffry, gives the church of Lailand, in frankalmoign, to the church of Evesham and the monks there. Witnesses: William, presbiter of Preston; Lidulf, presbiter of Croftune; Aneuna de Langton; Geoffry, Ralf, Osbern, chaplains; Robert the deacon; Osbern, son of Eadmund; Orm the son of Magnus; Warin his son; Sunein child; William, son of Alan; Uchtred, son of Sunein; Orm the son of Sunein; Arturus de Astuna; Sunein de Pennerdham, and Adam his brother; Sibilla and Mahald, sisters of Richard Bussel and many others.

(Temp. John.) Robert Bussel grants to Henry de Quallay, son of Huctred, for his homage and service, 20 acres of land in Layland, viz.: the moiety of all that land which lies between these bounds, beginning at the highway, &c., &c.; and if not 20 acres there, he will make it up from his waste of Layland; To hold of him Robert, &c., to him Henry and his heirs of his daughter Margaret, by the rent of 1 lb. of pepper. Witnesses: John de Mar, Simon de Herys then seneschal; War. de Waleton; Robert de Clapton; Richard Banastre and others (named).

1277. Adam, Abbat of Cokersand and the Convent thereof grant to William de Bykslad land in Hoton. Witnesses: Dominus Henry de Lee, then Sheriff of Lancashire; Warin de Waleton; William de Mara; Adam Banastre; Thomas Banastre; John de Thorp; John de Clayton and others. Green seal of the Abbey; oval about 1½ inches high (rubbed) apparently one small figure over another.

6 Edw. III. A deed with seal of the arms of Harington; viz., a chevron between 3 leopards' heads.

12 Edw. III. John le White, vicar of the church of Lailand gives to the Abbat and Convent of Evesham certain land in Lailand. Small seal of the vicar, Virgin and Child.

There are some other deeds relating to the Abbey of Evesham.

1501. May 22. Will of Sir William Harington.

20 Hen. VII. May 21. Manor of Richmond.—“H. R.” To our trusty and well beloved squier of our body Henry Harington, steward of our manor and lordships of Penwortham, Oswalton, Ecclestone, and Layland, co. Lancaster.—As we intend to have all manner retereysd lyveries and cognizances to be clearly repelled and utterly set apart within our said Lordships; at the next court to be holden within the said lordships, ye calling before you the tenants and inhabitants, take oath of them that they will not be retained by oath, promise, or otherwise to any person, or wear any living or cognizance, but only our badge of the red rose, and to be wholly retereiged unto us to do unto us service, under your rule and leading.—If any refuse to take the oath he is to be put in warde without bail, till ye have certified us of his name and demeanour, and know our pleasure.

31 Hen. (VIII.) July 12, Oking. “Henry R.”—Henry be the grace of God King of England and of France, Defender of the faith, Lord of Ireland, and in yerth next under God supreme hed of the Church of England, to Henry Harington, Kt. for our body, steward of our manors, &c. of Penwortham, Oswalton, Ecclestone, H. . . . , and Layland, co. Lancaster. After reciting the letter above, which, in the beginning of his reign he renewed by special writing, the same to endure during pleasure,—the king says, “Divers reteyn “our tenants enterprising to lead them without special “commission and license.” At the next court he (Harington) is to take the oaths of them not to be retereiged.

Folio, paper, 16th century, 39 leaves. Temp. Hen. VIII.—Containing copies, by a secretary, of documents by Edward Earl of Derby.—Appointments of stewards.—Orders about horses, &c. Copies of deeds by him (some blanks left for some deeds, but the note of contents in the margin.)—Leases.

A few notes of interest from the above volume are given below.

24 Hen. VIII. The Earl to the wife of Thomas Norris. Her husband is dead and she is at liberty eftsoons to marry again. “Forasmuch as ye be my “widow,” he recommends Jno. Ryghley, one of his soldiers of the Pele, who is desirous to marry her; he and his ancestors have served the Earl of Derby and his ancestors.—The inducement held out is that she and he shall hold the tenement late of the husband, Thos. Norris.—At the foot is a memorandum by Jno. Ryghley that he agreed, if he married her, to pay a gressum after his ability.

A letter from the Earl of Derby to the officers of the Isle of Man.—Reciting that there was open war between England and Scotland, and that he (Derby) must take care of his isle.—He tells them, when God sends convenient wind and weather to repair to the isle and stay there all next somer.—Their office is not to be occupied by deputy.

25 Hen. VIII. June 9. The Earl of Derby to the Abbat of Whalley.—Hearing that the Lord of the Out Isles, with help of Skots, intends to trie and enter Man, and do displeasure, he tells the abbat “to cause 20 tall “men and good archers of his tenants to be put in redi- “ness as footmen, well harnessed after the manner of the “country in white jackets, with my bage (badge) of the “legges of Man of red cloth before on the brest, one “behind on their backs, and pass to the isle in company “with 20 other persons that I have written to Roger “Sherbourn to prepare.”

A letter from the Earl of Derby to Thomas Cromwell. Many of his (Derby's) friends and neighbours and servants came to London at this present time, according as they do universally forth of all other parts of the realm, partly to fyn, and the other part to be put in the order to be made knyghts by the King's grace or by his assigneys.—Asks him to set forth such as he (Derby) shall give to him their namys, floyng which shall be vere mete for the order to be made by the King's grace, with the sworde, and the residue to be put to their fynes with his (Cromwell's) favour.

The Earl of Derby to the King; concerning certain depositions and sayings of such persons as heard Sir James Haryson speke divers unfyting and slanderous words as well by the King's Highness as the Queen's Grace.—Whereas Sir W. Harington lately wrote to Edward, Earl of Derby and Sir Henry Harington telling the King's pleasure that a certain lewd and naughty priest inhabiting these parts should be take for speaking unfyting and slanderous words of the King and Queen and sent to the King, and to take the examinations of those who heard him;—he says that they were examined at Ley in the county of Lancaster on the 10th of August in the 23rd year of the King's reign. Sir Richard Hoghton, Sir William Layland and Thomas Howcroft and others of the council of the Earl being present; and Sir Henry Harington has attached the priest and sent him to His Highness.

The deposition.—Sir Richard Clerke, vicar of Leghe, deposed that at Croston in the house of John Blackstons, the 21st of July in the 23rd year, read a proclamation concerning Lady Katharine, Princess Dowager, that Sir James Harrison hearing the said proclamation, said that Queen Katherine was Queen, and that Nan Bullen should be no Queen, nor the King to be no King but on his beryng. Sir James Haworth says that Harrison said Who the devil made her Queen? and as for the King (he) shall not be King but on his beryng.

Letter to Sir William Fitzwilliam concerning the same. Telling him that he sends the deposition.

Letter to William Dalton. Tells him to bring up those who Sir Henry Harington shall name.

25 Hen. VIII. The Earl of Derby to Lord Dacres.—I perceive by your letter directed to Sir Robert Bellincham, Kt., dated at Naward on the 11th of August, that you be informed by the Lord of Northumberland that the Scottish King intendeth to invade this our Sovereign Lord's realm, wherefore ye desire him in the King's

MISS HARINGTON.

MISS MARINGTON.

name with all the horsemen he may muster upon an hour's warning to be in readiness to resist the same. And forasmuch as Sir Robert is steward to my lady, my mother, and me, of our tenants near to Farness and far from the borders of Scotland, I desire to be contented that Sir Robert with the tenants aforesaid and such other as he can make, may serve the King under me, if any such case shall fortune, ye having otherwise sufficient number and power for the borders and marches of the realm.

A letter to Sir Robert Bellyncham, mentions the letter to Lord Dacres, and asks Sir Robert to send to Dacres to learn his further mind herein.

Anno 28 Hen. VIII. The Earl of Derby to Sir W. Fitzwilliam, Lord Admiral and Treasurer of the King's household.—Whereas the King's Commissioners have valued not only the glass and bars in the church windows of Borisogh, and in the hall and chambers of the Prior with the paving, but also they have valued all other goods there, at a higher price than they be well worth.—Asks for a reasonable deduction. As his ancestors, who were founders, lie buried there, he would be glad that the church might stand in good reparation, altho' the priory do continue as it is suppressed, intending to find some priest there at his own cost to do divine service for the souls of his said ancestors and for the ease and wealth of the neighbours.—He asks Fitzwilliam's help to buy the bells and lead there. And whereas his (Derby's) uncle Sir James Stanley is steward of the Priory, &c., &c.

28 Hen. VIII. Oct. 10, Windsor. The King to the Earl of Derby.—Divers traitors have lately assembled in Lincolnshire and thereabouts; we have prepared for them, and doubtless they will be subdued.—Yet being the event of such enterprises is uncertain, put yourself and all people about you in readiness.

n. y. (28 Hen. VIII.), Oct. 14, Knowsley.—The Earl of Derby writes about the above to divers, and tells them to put themselves in readiness.

28 Hen. VIII. Oct. 15. Two letters by the King to the Earl of Derby.—He has appointed Lord Shrewsbury as his lieutenant, and sent him with forces against the rebels.—He has told Rutland and Huntingdon to join; and therefore he is to get ready and meet them.

Letter by the Earl of Derby to my Lord Steward, the King's Lieutenant upon the said letter.

A letter devised to the gentlemen and staid; not sent by reason of the King's letter.

28 Hen. VIII. Oct. 20. The King's Commission to my Lord.—Commission to the Earl of Derby to levy men in Lancashire and thereabouts.

The third letter to my Lord by the King with the said Commission; 20 Oct. 28 Hen. VIII.—Insurrection and assembly are lately attempted in the borders of Lancashire, specially about the Abbey of Salley and other parts thereabouts; inasmuch the Abbat and monks be again by the traitors of that assembly restored to the possession of the said abbey as we be informed.—Orders to gather forces and proceed to suppress the rebellion; try to apprehend the captains and chief doers, and incontinently cause them like traitors to be executed; specially going with all your forces to the said abbey in case there be not more need of redress in other places. And if ye shall find the late Abbat and monks thereof remaining in the possession of the house, having received it again at the hands of such traitors and rebels, we will then ye shall take the said Abbat and monks with their assistants forth with violence, and without any manner of delay, in their monks apparel, cause them to be hanged up as most errant traitors, &c.—The Earl of Derby is not to go to the Earl of Shrewsbury as before appointed.

A letter to the gentlemen upon the same, sent by my Lord.

(28 Hen. VIII.) Oct. 23, Latham. Copy of the first letter of my Lord Derby to the King.—He and the gentlemen have met, and they intend to go towards the Abbey on Saturday next, and execute the King's orders. In order to surprise, he has caused it to be noised that he is going against other rebels.

The Earl of Derby to the Lord Privy Seal. On the same matter. (A like letter was written to the Earl of Sussex asking money for the wages.)

n. y. Oct. 23, Latham. A letter to the King written at the same time.—A servant of the Earl's was taken by the rebels and compelled to swear service to them, and made to bring a letter to the Earl, who sends it to the King as it was delivered without knowledge of its contents.

MISS MARINGTON.

n. y. All Saints Day, 4 p.m. A second letter from the Earl of Derby to the King.—On Monday he was at Preston intending to go to Salley, and Monday at night he had appointed to have lodged at the Abbey of Whalley, four miles from Salley. About 9 on Monday came one Berwyke the King's herald-at-arms to him and having the King's coat armour upon his body delivered him a letter directed to him (Derby) by the Earl of Shrewsbury, the Lord of Rutland, and the Lord of Huntingdon.—The effect of the letter is that they certified to the Earl of Derby that the Lord of Norfolk and they had stayed the commons of Yorkshire, and that every man was sparoed and retired into their own houses, and that the Lord of Norfolk was departed to the King, and that they were informed from Lord Darcy that he (Derby) with his retinue had appointed to be upon the said Monday at Whalley Abbey; and as all things were well staid they charged him in the King's name that he should sparple his said company without doing any molestation to the said Commons or any of them.—A like charge the Herald gave in the King's name.—After counsel with Lord Montegale and a number of others, he sparpled the company assembled, and so departed homeward. And the same Monday in the morrow some of the Commons of the borders of Yorkshire near to Salley, with some of the borderers of Lancashire near them, assembled and unknown to him took the Abbey of Whalley where he was to have lodged; and when they heard he had received such a letter as aforesaid, they sparoed their company the same day. The roads to Whalley and Salley are very bad, but he would have gone but for that letter.—Another insurrection in Westmoreland and Cumberland and the northern part of Lancaster.—They intended, he believed, to have come that way if they had not been afraid of him and others assembled at Preston; the circumstances whereof he fears are too tedious to write to the King of all that he has heard and known thereof, with the false and feined letters and devices that hath been feined by that assembly and others; which letters and devices they sparple abroad among the King's subjects, by setting them on Church doors and otherwise.—Therefore he has made articles signed by him and sends them to the King.

The Articles mentioned (more than a page). The rising beyond Lancaster was thought to be 5,000 or 6,000, but found to be under 3,000. He sent James Walton and Thomas Brydoke to the rebels to declare that the Earl advised them to go home and submit to the King. To this Atkinson, the captain of the assembly, answered. They had a pilgrimage to do for the Commonwealth, which they would accomplish, or jeopardy their lives to die in that quarrel. And when they threatened to burn the house of John Standish, the Earl's servant, now Mayor of Lancaster, if he would not join them, the Earl said he would not let Standish come. If they did him harm, the Earl would be revenged. Atkinson said some of Standish's friends had promised to bring him over to them, and had failed, so they thought his surties forfeited. The Earl's servant told Atkinson that if they would not be advised, that then if they would send a bill to the Earl, signed with the hands of 12 of the chiefs of their rebellion persons to fight on Bentham More, the place where they were accustomed to muster, and within their own stanghe, the Earl would meet them there on a day appointed, and determine the quarrel by battle.—Their reply was that they would not fight with the Earl, except he interrupted them of their pilgrimage; and if the Earl would fight with them, if he would resort to the Lord Lieutenant, then they would fight with him and them.—Also the Commons of Cartmell have put the Prior into the late Priory of Cartmell, and as it should seem, and as he and others say, against his will; for he stole away from them, and came to the Earl at Preston before he knew of any stay taken with the Commons of Yorkshire.—Sir Robert Bellyncham, Kt., and others taken prisoners have come away to the Earl. The Abbat of Furness and the deputy steward of Furness have privily come to the Earl out of Furness by a boat into Lancaster, and so to Latham; but they were not taken; howbeit such strength of rebellion came unto those parts, and the county is in such case, that they were afraid to be taken by force.—If he had the battail on Bartham More, or if any rescue had come to Salley, the Earl would have wanted the strength of Cheshire; and in future enterprises of the kind, very necessary; the more so as the inhabitants in Lancaster near the borders of Sally are not to trust to; most of them show themselves rebels; whereby the Earl's strength, that he trusted to, is diminished. Lord Montegale and Sir Marmaduke Tunstal came from their houses which stand between Lancaster and Westmoreland, for fear of being taken by force by the rebels, and came to the Earl at Preston.

Miss
MARINGTON.

Letters and seditious devises moved by the commons.—Be it known generally how of late we have received, &c. direct unto us in this manner, Maister Povertye the conductor, protector, and maintainer of the whole commonalty sendeth you all greeting in our Lord everlasting.—They intend the defence of the faith of Christ by licence of Henry VIII., who tho' styled Defender of the Faith, yet by certain heretics of their time they see it confounded, not ashamed in open preaching to blaspheme the honour of God by spoiling and suppressing holy places, as Abbeyes, Churches, and Ministers of the same, and despising the laws of Holy Mother Church; blaspheming also our Lady and all other Saints, &c.—They call on all from 16 years and above, upon pain of death and forfeiting of goods, to be in readiness to aid them in maintaining the faith of Christ and his Church, the honour of the King and of the Commonwealth.—Ends, and ever God save the King and send him good council.

Letter written to the bailiffs and constables.—Well beloved we greet you well. And whereas our brother Poverty and our brother Rogers goeth forward openly for the aid and assistance of your faith and Holy Church, &c., for the reformation of such Abbeyes and Monasteries now dissolved and suppressed without any just cause, and have sent to us for help.—We command you under pain of deadly sin to be at Stoke Green beside Hauksie Kirk on the 28th of October by 8 o'clock, in your best array, as you will answer for it at the dreadful day of doom, and on pain of pulling down your houses and losing your goods, and your bodies to be at the captain's will—there we shall take further directions concerning our faith, and good and laudable customs and such naughty articles now admitted, namely: First, that no infant shall receive the blessed sacrament of Baptism unless a tribute be paid to the King: Secondly, that no man under 20l. lands shall eat bread made of wheat, nor capon, chekyn, goose, or pig, unless to pay a tribute to the King: Thirdly, every plowland to pay a tribute: with other extreme and urgent causes.

The oath of the honourable men.

Ye shall not enter into this our pilgrimage of Grace for the commonwealth, but only for the love that ye do bear unto Almighty God, his faith, and to Holy Church militant, the maintenance thereof, to the preservation of the King's person, his issue, to the purifying of Nobility, and to expulse all villain blood, and evil counsellors against the Commonwealth from his Grace and his Privy Council of the same.—That ye shall not enter into ours the Pilgrimage for private profit, or to no displeasure to any private person, but by counsel of the Commonwealth, nor slay nor murder for no envy, but in your heart put away all fear and dread, and take for you the cross of Christ, and in your heart his faith, the restitution of the Church, the suppression of these hereticks and their opinions, by all the holy contents of this book.

An order for Religious Houses.

The religious persons to enter their houses again and unto all the goods there or elsewhere. And thereupon a Bill made and indented, the one part to be delivered to the fermor, and the other part to be kept by the convent. And there to do Divine service as the King's bedemen, to such time as our Petition be granted, and to have both vitall, corn, and all other things necessary of the fermor. By bill indented [] they are to record what they take during the time of our pilgrimage, and the time they do divine service of God. And we trust in God we shall have the right intent of our prayer granted of our most dredde sovereign Lord pientiously and mercifully. And that no person nor persons do move no fermor, nor alienate nor take away any manner of goods of the aforesaid houses, upon pain of death.—By all the wholl consent of all the herdmen of this our pilgrimage of Grace.

We desire and also charge and command you, upon pain of death, and for the love you bear to God, his faith, and Church militant, &c. (recites the same form as in the oath of honourable men down to "Privy Council"),—That ye nor none of you give aid, or approbance to the Earl of Derby or any other except ye presently know him, or those assured and sworn to or for the Commonwealth; and that ye fail not all and every one of you, above the age of 16 years, to be in Clidero More upon Monday next in all your best array by 9 of the clock. Now, god (good) men, and ever, and now or never, for God, the King's grace and yourself, and all you hereafter. And also we charge you curiates to pronounce this to your whole parish. By all, &c.

n. y., Oct. 28, Doncaster.—The copy of the letter sent to my Lord from my Lord Steward, the King's Lieutenant, my Lord of Rutland and my Lord of Huntingdon. (Signed by Shrewsbury, Rutland, and Huntingdon.) Where my Lord of Norfolk, and we that be here have stayed the Commons of Yorkshire, so that every man is sparpeled and retired whom (home) unto their own houses, and my said Lord of Norfolk departed unto the King's grace, and as we be informed from the Lord Darcy your Lordship with your retinue hath appointed to be on Monday next coming at Whalley Abbey,—My Lord, the premises considered that all things be well staid, we desire and pray you, and nevertheless in the King's name charge you, that ye sparpele your company without doing any further molestation to the said Commons, or any of them.

Preston, Sunday, 30th Oct., 11 o'clock.—The letter my Lord sent to the gentlemen immediately upon the same.—After mentioning the receipt from Berwick the King's herald of the last above letter, and the proclamation of it at Preston, he desires them to go home, but to be ready to serve the King when he (Derby) shall command. . . .

Latham, Nov. 13. A letter sent to Sir Richard Hoghton.—Whereas Hoghton sends words by his servant Alexander Clayton that he has had warning that the rebels of Dent Sedbar and those parts are coming to see his houses, Derby thinks they will not dare, and even if so, he thinks he and Hoghton and the Cheshire men can resist them. . . . Nevertheless he advises Hoghton to make good espials. He (Derby) will do the same; asks H. to send any information he gets, and also to stop the rebels at straits and passages "where ye be like to annoy them." Derby will then come up quickly.

A letter sent to William Fitton, Deputy Steward of Furness, the tenor whereof followeth the next letter sequent.

Latham, Nov. 17. A letter sent to the gentlemen of Furness.—As it is thought that the commons of the barony of Kendall intend to come unto Furness and Cartmell, and there take men sworn to them according to their unlawful appetite, and levy money, corn, and victuals. . . . he (Derby) has written to William Fitton, his deputy at Furness, desiring him in such case to assemble his strength, and call all Derby's servants and tenants, with the aid of all the gentlemen of the country there;—and that he endeavour to withstand the enterprise and take as many as possible by dint of sword or other politic means.—If he can not do this, let him keep his strength wholly together. . . . and if they invade the county from Lancaster towards Preston, then he is to come after them and advance towards the Earl of Derby, who God willing will meet them ere they pass the county, to their displeasure.—Asks the gentlemen to join the deputy, &c. &c.

28 Hen. VIII. Nov. 15, Windsor.—The copy of the King's letter to my Lord by Sir James Layburne's servant, and received the 20th of Nov.—The King has determined to recompense those that went with Derby, or were ready to do so. Therefore he (Derby) is to publish this intent,—get the gentlemen and townships to send certificates of the men they brought, and send them to the King.—Derby is to tell the distances, and what recompense he thinks right.

28th year. Nov. 6, Windsor.—The King acknowledges and thanks the Earl of Derby for his letter of All Hallows and the Articles, and approves of what he has done.—As the malice of the rebels may revive, he is to keep his forces in readiness, so that in the very beginning either with violence or good means he may suppress it, or at least hold his ground until the King (on advice) may send succour. Derby is to make espial in Yorkshire and other counties.—He (the King) has sent letters of thanks to some of the gentlemen; Derby is to deliver them and thank all.

28th year. Nov. 10, Westminster.—The King to the Earl of Derby.—Notwithstanding his clemency since the retirement of the rebels, he thinks some of their captains may be held in esteem, and a new rising be attempted.—He thinks it right to have a main array there, and take order for the direction of the people. He has appointed the Earl of Shrewsbury, Lord Steward of the Household, to supply in such case the room of his Lieutenant, and has sent him the Letters Patent. 2ndly. To have the picked men in readiness at an hour's warning in case of a new attempt. 3rdly. He has sent letters according to the minute inclosed to the gentry of Lancaster and Cheshire, and some to be sent to such

Miss
MARINGTON.

Miss
flarington.

as Derby shall think fit.—He (the King) will provide money when required.

Nov. 27. Richmond.—The same to the same.—He has read Derby's letter of the 19th Nov. to the Earl of Sussex his brother, whereby he sees the good behaviour of Lord Montegle, and that his subjects there complain that their charges were not paid. The King tells Derby to cause a book to be made of all such as prepared themselves to serve him in his (Derby's) late journey towards Salley, to give the distances, and the number of days, and the King will send money.—And forasmuch as by the tenor of the traitor Aske his letters unto John Atkinson, captain of the Commons in Kendal, it appears, that Aske is trying not only to keep the King's subjects in Yorkshire in rebellion, but to stir up those in Lancashire and Cheshire and others, Derby is to keep his force in readiness to advance at an hour's warning to such place as the case requires.—He (Derby) is make espials, and find out the tendencies of people, and to apprehend seditious persons.

A copy of the examination of Percival Sanders, William Charnok, and others, sworn and examined before Edward, Earl of Derby, Sir Alexander Radcliff, Sir W. Leyland, Sir Thomas Halsall, and Bartolmew Hesketh, Justices of the Peace in the county of Lancaster (2 pp.).

Deposition of Percival Sanders, William Charnok, Hugh Parker, John Yate, and Robert Boules.—Hugh Parker and others with coloured faces and disguised, went into houses, and swore people to God, the King and Commons.—Hugh Parker was only 16, he said he had been at one Bankes's house to get his head rounded; he then went to an alehouse, where John Pyper and John Yate were; they had been playing games and had blacked their faces; when they had done play, John Yate put on his harness, and said they would go to Bankes's house, and see if he would be sworn; he would not, but he lent his harness to Pyper: they went to W. Charnok's house; (he and Percival having previously refused to be sworn); Charnok was sworn; then they went to Percival, and swore him; then they went back to the alehouse, where the two remained. Hugh Parker thought it was play and no harm.

John Yate deposes to the swearing.

Robert Bankes says, about 10 o'clock in came a minstrel and John Yate, their faces black and coloured, and fiercely came to him, and said he must be sworn; he refused; they threatened him with death; he had only seven small children with him who cried, and were frightened. So he swore; they took his harness. He went to one Collinges to inform, but the two came in and swore Collinges.

Latham, Nov. 7. A letter sent by my Lord (Derby) in the King's name to all the mayors, constables, and others, the King's officers in the co. of Lancashire.—A watch is to be kept.—None are to pass except those known. Persons speaking ill of the King or Council are to be taken.

A letter sent to the King from my Lord.—He (Derby) has published the King's letter, as ordered, and told the gentlemen to send particulars of service.—Some have done so, and some have not.—He sends the book thereof.—Some came 30, some 20, and some 10 miles, some served 5, 4, 3, and 2 days.—He asks that the money to be sent may be sent by a treasurer, and not by his hands.—He will advise with the treasurer, and cause perfect books to be sent to the King.

29 Hen. VIII. Letters sent to my Lord Admiral.

1. Knowsley, May 1.—Thanks for kindness in the matter of creation of the earldom, &c., according to appointment with the Earl of Sussex. He (Derby) has sent his servant the bearer T. T. to declare by the advice of his Council in the Law, his title to the lands in Holland, which the Prior of Holland held of him at will from year to year, and to ask the Admiral's endeavours for a lease to Derby of the of the suppressed Priory of Borscoghe with the demesne lands of Borscoghe and Merton belonging to the same.—He (Derby) wants to see the King this summer, and asks what time is convenient.

2. A letter to the Lord Privy Seal (of no importance).

3. A letter to the Lord of Sussex about the Holland lands, and the lease of Borscoghe Priory.

33 Hen. VIII. A letter from the Earl of Derby to the Person of Thornton and his deputy.

Whereas Derby and his ancestors have time out of mind had a chapel donative within his parish of Thornton, and were never interrupted until his predecessor did so;—Sends an abstract of an injunction taken before Sir Andrew Winsor, Kt., and others, shewing his title.—

Asks the person to let the priest enjoy his right; if not he (Derby) must and will defend his right.

33 Hen. VIII., May 1. A patent to Thomas Kynaston of the stewardship of Malor sar fenche.

34 Hen. VIII. Last of May. A patent to Gilbert Holme of the keeping of the town of Lyverpool.

Miss
flarington.

1548, July 2, 2 Ed. VI. Lease by Cranmer to John Comforde and Robert Eyllot, gent., servant to him, of the rectory of Blackburn, formerly let by Hen. VIII. to Richard Greame, Esq.—Signed T. Cant.; and his seal, and the seal of the chapter.

1550, July 2. Memorandum of plate and jewels delivered by Antony Browne, the King's and Queen's Majesty's Serjeant-at-Law, to Sir William flarington. (Plate, six score ounces.)

1551. Inventory of the goods of Sir Henry flarington at his house of flarington Worden.—Among these are "Grotes of the Gunhole stamp" and "Grotes of the "Gunstone stamp." Plate remaining in the charge of Mr. A. Brown: (some was with the executors) weight besides the poiz of the chalice, 306 oz.—Debts to him, 805l. 18s. 2d.—Corn and grain, 253l. odd. Cattle 66l. odd.—With this inventory is "The charge of all the "money, jewels, plate, apparel, of Dame Dorothy "flarington found by the said executors at the time "of her death."

1559, last of July. Inventory of the goods of Thomas Talbot of Hawdley.—Among the items is a great gold chain weighing 20 oz. worth 80l.—Silver plate of all sorts weight 104 oz., 34l. 18s. 4d.—The sum total was 791l. 13s. 4d.

1560, Dec. 16. Confirmation by R. St. George, Norroy King-at-Arms, of the arms of flarington, and change of the crest.—Arms: 1st and 4th, argent, a chevron gules between 3 leopards' heads sable; 2nd and 3rd gules, three cinquefoils of the first.

A silver seal of Matthew Parker as Dean of Canterbury. A cross charged with a saltire, impaled with or a chevron between three keys and three estoiles.

1565, Dec. 20. Copy will of Anthony Broune. He was of Southwold co. Essex, and Justice of the Common Bench, and one of the sons of Weston Broune.

1567, Oct. 2. Will of Dame Joan Browne, widow of Sir Antony.

1578. "Elizabeth" and signed by Burghley, Ant. Dudley, Sir F. Knollys, Sir C. Hatton, Sir T. Wilson, and others.—Bond for 16,000l. to Sir Horatio Pallavicini. It was advanced by England to Holland to aid in the expulsion of the Spaniards.

Some papers about the Priory of Penwortham.

8 James I., July 13. "R. Salisbury," certifies that William flarington, son and heir of William flarington, came and sued livery of his lands.

1642, July 1, York. Charles I. to William flarington of Worden, and to William flarington his son.—They have done good service in putting into execution the Commission of Array, but are threatened with arrest and to be carried out of the county.—He tells them not to go, but to wait on him personally while in those parts.

Elegy in memory of Mrs. Frud. Mostin, wife of Col. Roger Mostin, Esq., who died 1647.—Begins,

What bifront fancies doth my mind resolve.

(About 60 lines.) And

An epitaph in 8 lines,

Stay, passenger, before you draw too neere,
Be sure you spend a groan or drop a tear.

For here the mother lies whose fruitful womb

A birth did promise of such joy to come;

In such a mother and so sweet a boy

Heaven thought that earth would take too great a joy.

Therefore her child is born the Earth to stir

To good, and Heaven is brought to bed of Her.

North Riding of Yorkshire.—A certificate that on the 3rd of Nov. 1656, George Miggison and Ann Scarth solemnly engaged themselves to one another to be man and wife according to a late Act of Parliament.—Signed by Geo. Marwood.

A letter by Oliver Cromwell.

1657. Sept. 30. Oliver Cromwell to the Houble. Col. Rich at Liverpool.—I do well assure you that before this I sent you an order to be assisting in the expedition against the Isle of Man; but hearing nothing from you I doubt whether my orders came to you. But now I thought fit to send this desire that (Col. Lilbourne being employed another way) you would be assisting to Col. Duckinfield in this service, whoe is the commander-in-chiefe. I rest your very loving friend, O. Cromwell.

Miss
BARINGTON.

21 Car. II., May 7. "Charles R." Order for payment to Sir Thomas Morgan, Governor of Jersey, of 350*l.* for repairs of Castle Elizabeth, Mont Orgueil, and St. Aubins. (Addressed to the Commissioners of the Treasury.)

ALFRED J. HORWOOD.

P. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF F. BACON FRANK, ESQ., OF CAMPSALL HALL, CO. YORK.

A large number of folio volumes are occupied with the Collections of Nathaniel Johnston, in the latter half of the 17th century, for a Civil and Ecclesiastical History of Yorkshire; and there are many folio volumes compiled by Mr. R. Frank, in the middle of the last century with the like object. Johnston's Collections are from various sources: he attended Sir William Dugdale in some of his Visitations; and, as might thence be inferred, the volumes abound in pedigrees and genealogies. He seems to have visited various public and private repositories, and to have diligently copied deeds, records, and letters. He had access to Sheffield Castle, where were once deposited the large mass of Talbot papers, and he copied an immense number of the letters and papers which he found there, and filled nine or 10 volumes with his transcripts, working them up into lives of Francis, George, and Gilbert respectively 5th, 6th, and 7th Earls of Shrewsbury. The originals of these, I suppose, are mostly, if not all, in the College of Arms.* As Johnston's handwriting is rather small and difficult to read, it may be remarked that the Marquis of Bath is fortunate in possessing fair and legible copies of these volumes. Lodge printed many letters from the volumes in the College of Arms; but many more of equal and greater interest remain unpublished.

Mr. Hunter, the historian of Hallamshire, had access to Mr. Frank's manuscripts.

Mr. Hopkinson, of Lofthouse, was employed with Johnston to arrange the Talbot papers; and his MS. volumes now in the possession of Sir Matthew Wilson, Baronet, of Eshton Hall, show that he copied much from Johnston's volumes.

The items of the volumes of this Collection are so numerous that it must suffice here to say that they illustrate pretty fully the topography and antiquities of Yorkshire; and contain much regarding Lancashire, and Westmoreland. "Lodge's Illustrations" will best indicate the value of the Talbot papers. There are a great many political and satirical poems, some of which may perhaps be unpublished.

Many original Talbot papers are in this Collection; most of them are not very important, and the blank paper of them has been used by Johnston for his notes and transcripts. But a few are really good. For instance, in the volume marked No. 8, there is an original memorial (on behalf of the French King) to Queen Elizabeth, to dissuade her from putting to death Mary Queen of Scots; and there are some other papers about Mary. Among the letters is one in 1559, from Matthew Farker to Sir W. Cecil, about his power of visitation as Chancellor of the University of Cambridge; and a draft by Cecil's hand, in 1572, of a letter to the Vice-Chancellor; a holograph letter by Sir Walter Raleigh to the Countess of Shrewsbury, and a letter in Spanish by the Count Olivares.

There are notices of the expected arrival in England of Philip of Spain in the reign of Queen Mary; and of the burning of heretics in her reign:—of military affairs in the Low Countries in 1568 and 1604;—and a long letter by Robert Earl of Leicester to the Earl of Shrewsbury about Queen Elizabeth's communications with the King of Spain regarding the Low Countries:—a letter by Dolu to Nau, the secretary of Mary Queen of Scots, concerning some embroidery work that his mistress was about, and some treatises of the period about that unfortunate Queen:—several curious letters about the squabbles between the Earl of Shrewsbury and his wife:—an original certificate in 1596 of Henry the 4th of France having taken the oath and made promise to keep the treaty which he had made with Queen Elizabeth:—a letter of King James I. to the Earl of Shrewsbury, just before starting to take possession of the English throne:—notice of the great frost in January 1607, when people crossed the Thames over the ice at London Bridge;—accounts of some very curious customs in certain Yorkshire manors:—and a singular narration to Thomas Wentworth (afterwards Earl of Strafford) by his father. A letter of 1639 states King Charles' special directions for Dr. Robert Jenison to perform divine service and sermons in a certain manner in a certain costume; and the King's requisitions to the Lords of the Covenant at Berwick.

The letters by and to Johnston give some good information, not only on English, but on foreign affairs, during the second half of the 17th century.

A fine heraldic volume was once the property of, and was most likely compiled for Sir John Reresby. Lastly, must be specially noticed, a beautiful manuscript, on vellum, of Chaucer's poem of Troilus and Cressida, written, perhaps, during the poet's lifetime, and for one of the royal family.

Vols. 1, 2, 3, & 4 contain Nathaniel Johnston's collections for the life of Francis, 5th Earl of Shrewsbury.

Vols. 5, 6, 7, 8 contain his collections for the life of George, 6th Earl of Shrewsbury.

Vols. 10, 11, 12, contain his collections for the life of Gilbert, 7th Earl of Shrewsbury.

Vol. 1 begins in 1549, and ends with the will and death (1559) and funeral of Earl Francis. In the volume is a cotemporary copy of the King's instructions to the Earl for the view of church goods, dated 3rd March, 7 Edw. VI. (7 pp.) The volume contains about 130 leaves.

Vol. 2 is intitled Historical Account of the Life of Francis Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury, containing the most remarkable transactions of that most noble Earl, with the public occurrences of state during his administration, he being Lord President of the Council and Lord Lieutenant of the northern parts of England; diligently collected from original letters and the most approved historians, who have recorded the memorials of that age; by Nathaniel Johnston, M.D., 1674. It is dedicated to George, Marquis of Halifax (pp. 1-326 and an index).

Vol. 3 is a continuation of Vol. 2, and is occupied with the years 1555-1557. It contains the correspondence of Earl Francis, Lord President of the Council of the North. Here are the original orders by Philip and Mary in 1555 to the Justices of the Peace of the co. of York, for the good government of her Majesty's subjects within the shire. The document has the autograph signature of the Queen (pp. 329-556).

Vol. 4 contains copies of letters during the time of Francis, Earl of Shrewsbury, Lord Lieutenant and President of the North in 1557.—The Earl of Shrewsbury's letter to the Council, and others.—Letters to him by Cecil and others (32 pp.).—Copy of Queen Elizabeth's Commission to him and others to visit the northern dioceses (20 pp.).—Copy of the King's instructions to the Earl (3 pp.).—Correspondence (24 pp.).—Accounts of the Earl (2 pp.).—The Earl's letter, addressed to Lady Pope and her son (3 pp.).—The Earl's letter to Mr. Blunt.—Memoranda of letters and accounts of the Earl (14 pp.).

Vol. 5.—The life of George, the second of that name, Earl of Shrewsbury. This is a draft for one of the other volumes.

Vol. 6.—Historical account of George, the second of that name, Earl of Shrewsbury, 1557-1577.

Vol. 7.—A continuation of Vol. 6.—1578-1587.

Vol. 8.—Folio. The life of George, second of that name, Earl of Shrewsbury: (The following remark is by R. Frank, 1759.) I take this volume X. 7. on the cover to be the rough draft of what is transcribed with alterations in E. 2, but it seems to contain more.—Begins, Having despatched the life of Francis, Earl of Shrewsbury.—Ends, Concerning the last will of Elizabeth Countess Dowager of Shrewsbury, 1608, preceded by her life and death.—In the volume is an inventory of his goods.—A cotemporary copy of the examination of William Wharton before the Earl of Shrewsbury at Sheffield, June 19th, 17 Eliz. (12 pp. signed).—He performed a secret service touching the Queen of Scots; he was directed by Walsingham to the Earl of Huntingdon, President of the North parts, and to Sir John Foster, Lord Warden of the Middle Marches. He says that he came to Sheffield only to impart the same to the Earl of Shrewsbury.

Original memorial (3 leaves) to the Queen (on behalf of the French King) to dissuade her from putting Mary Queen of Scots to death*.—Begins, Madame, nous avons

P. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

* See the preface to Lodge's Illustrations of British History.

* See Camden's History of Elizabeth, sub anno 1581.

P. B.
RANK,
Esq.

fait entendre au Roy nostre maître vostre bon frere la responce qu'il vous pleust nous faire sur ce que de sa part nous vous avons prid et remonstre touchant la Royné d'Escoce.—Signed by Belleure, De laubespine, Chaneuf (Chateaufneuf?).

Reasons why the French King should recommend the Queen of Scots cause, by way of proposition and answer (11 pp.) Begins, First, he seemeth to be bound in honour, &c.—Answer 1st. It may be answered by the way and as of yourself.—(It is indorsed, A discourse touching the imprisonment of the Queen of Scots.—Another hand adds, "Shewing that the French King is in honour bound to maintain the government of her son in Scotland, and that her Majesty cannot but in all policie and reason detain her prisoner.")

Vol. 9.—Historical account of Gilbert, seventh and last Earl of Shrewsbury.

Vol. 10.—A volume unbound, stated to contain, Extracts of letters and several other things out of Francis, George, and Gilbert, Earls of Shrewsbury's charters and letters at Sheffield, Nov. 1674.—Also an account from Mr. Jessop, of towns, hamlets, &c., in the parish; and from Mr. Walker of some occurrences in the war temp. Car. I. (from p. 361 to p. 475). The Civil War papers are not there.

Vol. 11.—Life and letters of the Earl of Shrewsbury. At the end are copies of letters from Arabella Stuart to the Earl and Countess of Shrewsbury in 1603 (8½ close columns). Gilbert, Earl of Shrewsbury, died in 1616 in Broad Street.

Vol. 12.—Letters to the Earl of Shrewsbury to 1609. This volume contains some original letters.

Letters by Thomas Wilson, Thomas Bayly, the Earl to his servant Baulwin, William Dickinson to the Earl, John Huls to his fellow bailiff Dickinson, Anthony Bradshawe to the Earl (1599) about Mr. Babington's lands in Kingston and in Derbyshire and elsewhere.

1599. An agreement (2 or 3 lines at the head are gone) signed by Gilbert, Earl of Shrewsbury, and Michael Neuwers. It is agreed that Michael should make a striking clock about the bigness of that which he made for the Earl 6 years past; it is to be made by the last of December next. The cover or case of it to be of brass, very well gilt, with open breaking through all over, with a small fine hand like an arrow clenly and strong made, the . . . or whole dial plate to be made of French crown gold, and the figures to show the hour and all the rest to be inhamled (enamelled?) the fynest and daintiest that can be, but no other colour than blew white and carnalian; the letters to be somewhat larger than ordinary; the price of the clock must be 15*l.*, which makes (with?) the earnest already given 16*l.*, but the circle I must pay for, beside the gold which shall make it; the sides of the brass case must not be sharp but round, and the case very curiously made.

1585. A goldsmith's bill made up by W. Clark "for the use of my master Alderman Martin."—The Earl sold broken plate to the value of 28*l.* 1*s.*, and 25 barrels of steel at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* each, making with the plate 361*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*; and he got back a white panyer cover, a white bowl at 5*s.* 8*d.*, and white charger at 5*s.* 6*d.*, several parcels of gilt plate at 7*s.* 8*d.*; and a dozen of spoons, and 29*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.*

1599, July 4. The Earl to Wm. Cartwright of Ossington, Esq. (seemingly his land agent).—Petition to the Earl by William Dawson, one of his tenants in Glossop; he has got the hatred of some people because, according to the Earl's command, he had ploughed and sown some of the Earl's land. Asks support and favour in the matter of compounding for his farm.—John Booth to the Earl; about Mr. Talbot's men being at Glossop (land business). Letters by Edmund Stephenson; M. Hyldyard about Thompson the deer-stealer, and the petition to the King by Dighton and Brabant against Sanderson;—Roger Ormeston;—Francis Fletcher to Mr. White asking how White's ancestors came to land in Stokbardolf from the Bucktons; he replies that it continued in Whotton and his ancestors from King Henry the First's time until 1 Hen. VII. (as it appears by evidences from time to time); and in 1 Hen. VII. one Dominicke Buckton married the sister and heir of Henry Whotton, the last he thinks of that line.—1585, Jan. 23. The Earl to the Lord Treasurer about a suit against one Clarke for the guild lands of Chesterfield.—1586, March 27. Richard Crompton and Francis Fitzherbert to the Earl about their award in the controversy between Mr. Woodward and Beardmore.—1595. Edmund Stephenson to the Earl, giving the results of his inquiry about the nonpayment of tithes; tithes of wool and lambs of the demesnes of Basley were not paid to Mr. Frechevyle and to the parson of Stutely.

P. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

—John Booth.—1584, March 1. Bristol. Thomas Celi to the Earl. Says he has come out of the hands of his enemies, having suffered imprisonment almost 12 years for conscience sake, "and for answering for my prince "a duty did bind me considering my place; I was a "poor servant of her . . . and of her Majesty's "guard." He laments the break between the Earl and his lady, and refers to a dispute about lands between himself and one Henry Barford, and ends by saying that "Barford did never look for my return again, for "he well knew that I was condemned to perpetual "prison in Sivell (Seville) by the Pope's ministers."

—John Booth.—The Earl to Burghley, asking favour in the matter of his estate in the guild lands of Chesterfield, wherein he had been greatly abused by one Clark.—1584. The Mayor and Aldermen of Bristol to the Earl about his lands in Chewes.—1584. Wm. Carte (land).—Thomas Bawldwin.—1583. Richard Derneley.—1609. Geo. Treloured.—1582. L. Shrewsbury to the Lord Treasurer and Earl of Leicester (land).—1582. Thomas Barnabe.—1582. Philip Okcover to the Earl (land).—The Earl to Thomas Bawldwin in Coleharbert in Thames Street, London.—Wm. Kyneveton.—Henry Leeke.—1589. Wm. Cardynall to Lord Talbot.—The Earl to the Lord Treasurer about a law suit.—1587. The Earl to Lord Burghley, Lord Treasurer.—1607. John Hacker (law).—1609, Sept. 26. Francis Babington to the Earl, asking for his annuity granted by the Earl.—Richard Lathom to the Earl about sale of iron; (it was 12*l.* per ton).—1609. Humphry Briggis of Houghton.—1606. W. Leyte.—John Hercy to the Countess of Shrewsbury.—1602, Aug. 16. Frances Cave of Nottingham to the young Countess of Shrewsbury at Worsoppe; asking her to take the writer's daughter as one of her women.—1609. Geo. Moore.—1570. John Parke, a bailiff.—1603. William Cumberland to the Countess.—1609. John Marten to Roger Mynors.—1603. Thomas Woodward.—1586. Edward Bagshawe.—Thomas Fysher.—1594, July. Emmanuel Hoestetter, of Koswick, to Nicholas Williamson at Sheffield; sends the bearer Stephen Murr, and (because he is not perfect in his English words) his son with him; his allowance is 13*s.* 4*d.* a week; his wages here is above 2*l.* by the year standing owner that his avails is worth about 6*l.* more.—1595. William Dickinson, bailiff of Sheffield, to Mr. Coke, my Lord's Secretary, in Broad Street.—1603, Oct. 12. Wynchester. Jo. Hercy to the Earl. I have here enclosed 3 letters, two whereof from my Lady Arbella to your Lordship and my Lady, the other from my Lord of Warwick. I received them all this day at 2 o'clock. I wrote unto your Lordship yesterday. My Lord Cecil was all day so busied attending the King's Majesty and sitting in Council, it was this morning before I could have his Lordship's hand to the post.—1594, London. John Harpur to the Earl.—Bernard Harles to Lord Darcy at Aston; says that his master the Lord Lieutenant is gone post to London and passed this day through Doncaster in great haste to Newark; the cause is, he understands, the extreme sickness of Lord Warwick.—1609. H. Butler.—W. Rokeby to the Earl asking the Earl to forgive the sons who were wild, and call home the youngest and discipline him. (With this are 3 pp. of Rokeby's writing about children, religious and moral).

Vol. 13.—This contains some original letters:—William Vessey to Lady . . . John Bouth to Lord . . . William Cumberland to Lord . . . 1589, Oct. 14. Ashburne. Robert Hurte vicar and 4 others to Lord . . . It appears by the collectors for the money or caryage to Her Majesty's free School at Ashburne that no good will be done without his Lordship's further warrant. They ask him to give to the Justices within the county of Derby further commandment as may be to them a more sufficient warrant for the better dispatch thereof.—1585. Thos. Sutton.

1580, March 8.—Thomas Heron to Lord (Shrewsbury). Has seen the Lord Treasurer and told him that Lord (S.) was bad of the gout. The Treasurer was the same, but has recovered and was to the Court on Saturday last. Has told the same to Lady Talbot, as it had been said that he should be up here about Her Majesty's person. The tenants of Stoke Verdon in Wiltshire have sent to him, because the great storm of wind this winter has thrown down some part of their houses, to have his Lordship's favour for some trees for repairs . . . Since Lord Warwick's death it is thought there will be much contention about his will, which was not so well perfected but that Lord Huntingdon and other of the kin will seek to overthrow it. By the last will my Lady hath most part of his lands to her and her heirs to give where she will; and which was made in

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

the extremity of his sickness not two days before his death. One Treswell, a pursuivant at arms, can not yet have his coat at arms till your Lordship's hand be put to this warrant for Her Majesty to sign afterwards; and therefore the heralds requested me to send it. Any news here are none certain; but it is much doubted that out of S (turn) practising with the King of Spain; for that of late certain ships (turn) to and fro out of Spain thither, and that the King of Scots is yet in Denmark (turn) hear not of his return back again; and out of France there is little from thence, but that the Leaguers have advanced the King of Spain's colours in all their ensigns.

Griffith Heyntun to Lord (Shrewsbury). Lord (Shrewsbury) can have six tall men from his Lordship at Noychurch to await on him.

1603.—Week ended 28th May being Saturday. Brief note of Matthew Ford the Clarke, his bill of his daily disbursements for accates and other things within his charge spent in the week &c. 30l. 0s. 4d. Other items are given with the costs making a total of 42l. 4s. 11d. Among them are 42 quarts of claret at 7d. the quart, and 1 quart of sack at 8d.

Robert Pensur (or Penser) at London to the Earl of Shrewsbury. As for the wine of Lyons and the wine of Orleans, I shall not fail to provide you for them when they come. The Treasurer of Wars of Calais hath sent unto your Lordship 20 dozen of quails.

Letter to Lady (Shrewsbury?) about Kimberworth having played her false.

1604. W. Wyngfeld (a servant) to the Earl.

Several pages of payments of wages.

Bri. Hord to Henry Butler.—Lady Shrewsbury thanks him for the 100l. he sent her, which Mr. Dando did send by her man. She wants him to send as much more as possible.

1612. The Earl to John B[utler]; telling him to get Henry Butler to pay John Smithson 5l. for his charges in going hither (Broadstrete).—Below is the receipt by Smithson.

Roger Powlford (a tenant) to the Earl.

Jests of her Majesty's progress.

Tuesday, Aug. 31. From Oatlands to Chobham; and to Bagshot to bed.

Wednesday, Sept. 1. From Bagshot to Mr. Daubeney or to Finchampsted to Mr. Harrison to dinner, and from thence to Mr. Backhouses or Dabscottes to bed; one day.

Thursday, 2 Sept. From thence to Barville, Mr. Pleyden's to dinner and to Aldermaston to bed: 2 days.

Saturday, 4 Sept. From thence to Mr. Fuller to dinner, and to Mr. Doleman's to bed: 2 days.

Monday, 6 Sept. From thence to Mr. Choche to dinner, and to the Lord Chief Justice, to bed: 2 days.

Wednesday, 8 Sept. From thence to my Lord of Hartford: 3 days.

n. y. Edward Nedeham, at Worksope, to the Earl, who wished Thomas Hawke to be spared that year to be constable. Nedeham says that the constabulary goeth not by Houserow here at Worksope, neither by any man's choosing, but only by ancient custom as is set down in an old record, and for freeholders only: so that your Honour hath not any tenants that serveth; but because Thomas Hawke hath purchased a freehold, whose turn is now to serve, yet he may have a deputy to do that service for him; and if he be employed about your Honour's business, I will see about it the best I can. Also that office will be no hindrance to him, for by reason thereof he shall be free from taxes and all other suits or cessments for the King for this year, and the said office will not come about for 30 or 60 years to him again. Further, by the record, no heir under age nor widow is charged to serve.

n. d. Whereas we are given to understand that Sir William Mallory one of our counsel in the north was employed in the last of July last in our service in Ireland, and at that time was attended upon by Christopher Mallory his son with others, and also that his said son in his returning home (being alone) was upon his way very cruelly murdered by one Michael Cubbedge, servant to Sir Edward Yorke, and one Johnson, yet not suffering him to alight from his horse; for which fact they stand indicted of wilful murder: and yet notwithstanding (as we are informed) the said Johnson is bailed by Sir John Savile, Kt., and Ralph Beiston, Esq., to the evil example of others: We have therefore thought good to will and command you and every of you before whom the said Cubbedge and Johnson shall receive their trial, to proceed against them in the course of justice without any manner favour or partiality, and that you regard Sir W. Mallory herein so far forth as in justice you may; so as the gentlemen of whom we have a very good opinion have no cause of further complaint herein. (In a different handwriting: This was given out to be the copy of her Majesty's letter, but not a trew copy).

1580, May 6, Aston.—Warrant (in Latin) under the hands of Darcy, Sir John Darcy, Kt., Lord Darcy one of the justices of the peace for the West Riding of Yorkshire to attach Gilbert Dycanson of Sheffield, yeoman, William Craven of the same place, yeoman, and William Sparrow of the same place, yeoman, to find bail to keep the peace toward Thomas Heiwood of Sheffield, draper, who goes in fear of his life.

Petition by George Holmes, Godfrey, and George Waynewright, tenants of the colepits of Kymberworth Park for the last 30 years. For the last 3 years colepits have been sunk at Marsburgh to their damage. They are behind 16l. 10s., a years rent. The Marsburgh people have ceased [working] so that the sale of the Kymberworth coles is amended. They ask for a year's grace.

1584, April 10.—Receipt by Francis Babington of 33l. 6s. 8d., being half a year's annuity of the Earl's benevolence.

Vol. 14. This volume contains a number of Shrewsbury letters, &c. On the backs of them Johnston has written notes. Among the letters are—1549. Cuthbert Marshall to the Earl of Shrewsbury, Lord President of the Council of the North. I have received the King's letters to me directed, charging me to make certificate of such secretaries as I have in custody unto his Lordship and the rest of the Council. The Lord Archbishop of York, late Lord President, committed to my charge a Scot, called James Charters, almost two years past, who as yet doth remain with me, but his ability or worthiness I do not know, for he seemeth to me to be very poor, and as far as I know is no heir, nor hath any lands: yet, truth is, he was delivered to Lord Wharton pledge for one John Charters, Lord of Emerfield, four miles from Dumfries, which John I am informed is a man about 20 marks land English, and first in these ways became assured man to the King, and since he hath returned to the Scots again, and so remains at this present.

1555, Jan. 29, London. Robert Swyfte to the Earl of Shrewsbury.— It is spoken here that on Sunday last news came to the Queen that the King would be at home in the latter end of this next month; the ship that should wait his Grace over is commanded to be ready to be set forward with all speed; besides that Spaniards begin to come in again within these three days at every tide since. There was burnt in Smithfield on Monday last seven men and women. The citizens of London have bought 3000 quarters of rye in Danske, whereof came yesterday 1000, and the rest is coming; but it is sold here at 20s. the quarter, and it was thought that if it had not come, the lack thereof had been intolerable.

1554, June 11, London. Robert Swyfte to the Earl Tuesday last there landed at Falmouth a Marquis who came out of Spain, and Saturday last my Lord Treasurer took his journey towards Southampton to meet him there and to have intelligence with him in all things touching the preparation for the marriage; but since the landing of the said Marquis there is no such hope of the Princes shortly arrival here as was afore looked for. It was appointed that the Queen should have removed on Wednesday next to Oatlands and provision fully there made; now commandment was given to the officers to the contrary, and she will not remove until she hear news from Spain. Yesterday, I being at Court, came a post from Portsmouth to the Council that on Friday last there passed along your ships in the narrow seas 80 sail at least of French ships without any question or other matter making to our said ships, and at this present lie between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight. If the Prince come not in shortly I pray God save the Isle of Wight from the danger. This day was arraigned in the Kings Bench the Lord John Grey, and after long hath confessed his judgment and thereupon condemned. On Thursday last was married at Richmond Basset the Queen's maid to Mr. Hungerfurthe, son and heir to Lord Hungerfurthe's son and heir, at which day the Queen shewed herself very pleasant, commanding all mirth and pastime.

1584, Aug. 3, Nonsuch. Copy Council letter to Sir John Zouch, Francis Curzon, Sheriff of Derby, and John Harper, or any two of them, about William Cavendish, the night before the Earl came, having carried off the staff

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

from the house of Shottesforde (Chatsworth?) whither the Earl had repaired to look after the things belonging to him and his son-in-law, Henry Cavendish.—They are to go to Shottesford and take bonds from William Cavendish to appear and answer before the Privy Council.

1587, last of Feb., Bampton. Nicholas Clark to the Earl of Shrewsbury, on business.

1589, Feb. 23, White Ladies.—Edward Gyffard to the Earl; about game in Shiffnal Park.

1596, July 4, Neustede. Sir John Byron to the Earl; asking for employment for one Roger Barber.

1596, Nov. 11, Walton. Humphry Ferrers to the Earl.—We furnished 47 men out of Derbyshire for Sir Edward Bowes into Ireland. Staffordshire did the like, who had from Sir Charles Blunt of the armour which went to Cales to furnish their men withal. Ferrers asks the Earl to recall from Capt. Cany such armour as he had for the County of Derby, which wanted help to furnish the train bands. He mentions many absences.

1596, Nov. 27, Asheburne. Humphrey Ferrers and John Maners to the Earl.—Account of musters in the shire of Derby had in obedience to letters from him and the Queen.

1603. Expenses for the week ended on the 23rd of July 1603, at Hampton Court and Whitehall, from the 17th to Saturday the 23rd of July, at Richmond (3 pp.).—At Hampton Court from the 17th to the 23rd of July. The 23rd is at Whitehall.—Meat, fowl, birds, bread, and beer, &c., and the prices.

1603, Jan. 3. Sir Robert Duddely to the Earl.—The great need which he has for his income which the Earl holds. Asks for 200*l.* immediately.

1607, Jan. 10. John Heron to the Earl. . . . The King on Thursday last removed to Theobalds and came last night back to Whitehall. It is said he and the Prince to-morrow (notwithstanding the extremity of the frost) will return to Theobalds and so to Newmarket. The Queen's Majesty and the household continue at Whitehall. The Thames harbour frozen over ever since New Year's Eve in some one part or other about London. On New Year's Eve it was frozen at London Bridge, that many men, women, and children did go over on the ice from the Old Swan into Southwark. The next day the tide had somewhat weakened the middle part of the ice in that place, so that people durst not so boldly to adventure over: but then they went over about Paul's Wharf, and ever since the tides have ever more weakened the ice between the Bridge and Queenhithe and hath driven it more towards the Temple, so that from thence to Westminster, and especially from Westminster to Chelsey and so upwards, it is all frozen, and so strong that men go upon it as if they were walking the street, and cross over at Lambeth ferry, both men and horses. The Thames is likewise all frozen over beneath London Bridge.

1607, Feb. 17. John Heron to the Earl. Last night the Lord Chancellor received a letter from Lord Cavendish giving intelligence of my old Lady's death, and that she made the Lord Chancellor one of her overseers. . . . Lord Arundel is at Arundel House. Lord Pembroke is with the King either at Royston or Newmarket. Mr. Hacker is restored to his former place.

1607, Oct. 29. Gervase Helwysse to Mr. Cooke, attending on the Earl of Shrewsbury:—about an outrent due to him as lord of a manor.

1608, Jan. 9. John Heron to the Earl. The King this day removeth to Theobalds. The Queen continueth at Whitehall. The proclamation concerning Parliament was proclaimed in Cheapside this day. Lord Cavendish and Mr. Henry Cavendish are both here in London. I sometimes see Lord Cavendish and his son in the Court, accompanied with the Lord of Kinlosse. I often see Mr. Henry Cavendish in Cheapside among the Goldsmiths, and towards the Exchequer. On St. John's day last Lord Cavendish, Mr. Henry Cavendish, and Lord Kinlosse were all at dinner at Sir Henry Maynard's at his house in the Strand, there was also with them Sir W. Bowyer.

Personal answers of Francis Oglethorpe of Pontefract Castle, of the diocese and province of York, and Articles of Information objected against him by His Majesty's Commissioners for Causes Ecclesiastical (1 p.).

Many letters from Samuel Johnston to his brother, Nathaniel Johnston. In 1664 are several letters from him, and also in the following years up to 1671. He seems to have practised as a Doctor, and his letters are all about patients and physickings. In one letter he says that Dugdale has promised to send him (Nathaniel) his History of Pens and Imbanking, and his History of St. Pauls.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

1664, Dec. 3. Samuel Johnston to Nathaniel Johnston. (He seems about to start for Tangier.) You will see by the enclosed I have spoke to Mr. Dugdale, who says if my brother were a scholar and inclined that way he might easily attain to what you desire he should; and has named an ingenious limner with whom we must treat about taking my brother Henry for a certain time and teaching him.

Vol. 15. Folio, 17th century. Begins with the pedigree and genealogy of John More of Tainton in the co. of Oxford, compiled from charters, &c., by his third son, in 1639. Commences with Laurence de la More, 1188.—Arms, Azure, a fess dancetty compony sable and gules, between 3 étoiles argent.—Copies of a few deeds, &c.—Pedigrees and arms of Lake and Beal.—Other pedigrees.—Copies of Inscriptions from churches.—A letter by J. Thoresby.—Copy of Articles between the King of England and the King of France for the marriage of the Prince of Wales with Henrietta Maria, sister of the French King, November 20th, 1624 (3½ pp. in English).—Letters by Chr. Townley in 1664; with extract from the feodary's book of Yorkshire.—Letters by Francis Bovill, 1666, with Inquisition.—John Hopkinson in 1671 to Dr. Johnston; asking if he has the original of a deed which he had from Dodsworth.—Pedigree of Dodsworth, and other pedigrees.—Yule in York (a broadsheet).—Yule in York—"Our Saviour is come."

Begins, Man's tears and wofull plaint hath pierst the lofty skies,
With gladsome news in glittering robe from heaven an angel flies.

(six verses of four lines) and burden to each,

The ayre therefore resounds, Yule, Yule, a babe is born,

O, bright and blazing day, to save mankind that was forlorn.

The Meaning of Yule in York (five verses of six lines).

Begins, O, famous York rejoice, and thinke of thee no shame.

The burden is—

True Israelites resound, Yule, Yule, a babe is born,

O, bright and blazing day, to save mankind that was forlorn.

The significations are given of the characters, viz., True Israelites, Children, Shalms, Nuts, Sergeants, Rejected drafte, Distaffe on Rock (A broadside, c. James, 1).
1666. London, Nov. 13. A circular letter by W. Dugdale, Norroy, to Charles Barnby, W. Ramsden, and five others, directing them to show descents and arms.

Thirty letters by Dugdale to Johnston, 1667-9, about visitation matters and literary matters.—Many letters from Henry Johnston, his brother, at London, Charles Townley, J. Hopkinson of Lofthouse, J. Gibson at Kirklees, Miles Stapylton of Carlton, Phil. Monckton and John Copley, at Skolbrooke on pedigree matters.

1624, Nov. 20.—Copy of the Articles between the Commissioners of King James and those of the King of France concerning the marriage between the Prince of Wales and Henrietta Maria.
Drafts of letters by Nathaniel Johnston about heraldic matters.

Letters by H. Corbett, Master Stapylton, and others.
Vol.—Folio. Heraldic Collections.—Conversation between Strafford and Monck about restoring the King.—1636, July 26 (at the end it looks like April 16, 1639). Strafford to Wanesford, M. R. in Ireland (a long letter).—Sir Edwin Sands report touching impositions, April 5, 1614.—An account of the proceedings and speeches at the opening of Parliament 5 April 1614.—Copy of Sir Edward Stanley's letter to my Lord Wentworth, 25 Oct. 1631, and the Lord Deputy's answer to Sir E. Stanley.—Other letters by Stanley to him, 1631 and 1674.—Letters by the King.—Arms and account of the family of Watterton, of Watterton, co. Lincoln;—account of them from the time of King Edward I. to 1670. In the time of Edward III. John Watterton married Katherine daughter and heir of Thomas de Burgo or Burgh, of Walton, near Wakefield (6½ fo.); followed by transcripts from evidences and records (1½ pp.).

Thomas Wood to Lady Wentworth.—Condoles with her in her sickness, "seeing that you are one of the quorum of God's Saints of the second ranke."

1663, Nov. 26. Copy of order at the Queen's Council Chamber, Denmark House, about fines of copyholds and the income of Tanshelfe.

W. Gee to Mr. Stanley.—4 Eliz. John ap Ryce to the Earl of Shrewsbury, arguing against the attempts of some persons to make Radnor a town corporate (2 pp.).

Notes on the "Discourse of the rise and power of Parliament." (Petyt F) (1 p.).

F. B.
FRANK,
ESQ.

Notes and arguments on the Earl of Derby's case.

Vol. 17.—Folio. Miscellaneous political things.

Sir Charles Sedley's speech in the House of Commons 23rd of Dec. 1690. Begins, We have provided for the army. (3 p.)

The King of France's declaration in favour of James the Second, after his deposition.

Copy of a letter, not dated, from Amb. Rookwood to Lord —, excusing his non-attendance personally; he sends the bearer.—“Lord D. will certify that the case “is true in all parts, and that the unfortunate Bagnall “is my son, and will give such an account of him and “me as may make your lordship compassionate us “both, and thereby take a weight of affliction from an “old man of four score.” And copy of Lord Dover's certificate to that effect.

Copy of a letter of the Marshal of Luxembourg to the King of France upon what happened in the fight of Steenkirk; from the camp at Hosies, Aug. 4th, 1692. (8 pp.) On the last page is a copy of the King's letter to the Archbishop of Paris (Aug. 10), directing a Te Deum. (4 fos.)

List of ships lost or damaged since 1688, stating the tonnage, captains, time, place, and manner.

Reasons of the House of the Estates of the kingdom of Scotland for declaring the Crown vacant. It is sent with a letter from Edinburgh (6th of April 1689), from [—], to Mistress Elizabeth Beale, at the Iron Balcony, Leicester Street, near Leicester Fields. The writer says that the House decided for a new election for Edinburgh, under certain terms.

Account of the battle of Oct. 4th, 1693: Marshal de Cattenat against the Duke of Savoy.

Letter from the Confederate Camp at Rebeck, July 27th, 1692.

1693, July 15th. Account of Sir Giles Rooke's engagement with the French fleet.

Relation of the victory over the Confederates at Nie-worde, in Brabant, by the King's army, commanded by the Duke of Luxembourg, translated from the French copy, Paris, Aug. 12, 1693 (5½ pp.). Copy by N. Johnston.

A list of the forces according to the Establishment for the year 1693.

Some counsellors' opinion about those of Lord Dunbarton's regiment, who were to be tried at Bury for desertion (1 p.).

The four points in Mr. Ashton's trial, and the lawyer's opinion thereupon (1 p.).

“It may be your turn next,” or Mr. (Henry Nevill) Pain's case. (6 pp.) Begins, When I see another man's house on fire. (He was tortured in Scotland by Thumbkin and Boot. The Case says he was a Roman Catholic Englishman. It is an argument against the legality of torture. The letter describes the torturing.

Copy by N. Johnston of Mr. Paine's letter from Edin-bro' Castle, 23rd Dec. 1690. (Macaulay, cap. xvii., notices one of Dec. 3, 1692.)

1692, Jan. 25th. Edinburgh, antè meridiem. Copy of answer by some ministers who conformed to Episcopacy, and presented an address to the Committee of Overtures to the questions put by the Assembly, whether they believed it to be the lawful general assembly of the Church of Scotland, &c. (1 p.).

1693, July 29th. A letter unsigned, giving a letter from Cadiz, dated the 23rd, containing an account of the French King's army, and victory between Beaumont and Phillipville; and the victory in Flanders by Marshal de Luxembourg over Tilly, and the capture of the Straits fleet by the French.

1693, Aug. 25th. Torbay. (The signature is gone.) To Mr. —.—A storm in the bay of Biscay damaged the ships, especially the Victory, Ossory, and Duchess, which had like to founder at sea.—High winds at Torbay.—Lord Berkeley has lost his flag of Admiral of the Blue, and Sir Giles Rooke is this day to hoist it. Lord Denbigh has likewise lost his rear flag, and consequently must be disgusted. The Greenwich took a privateer of eight guns and 60 men upon the coast of Ireland; the Bilbao fleet sailed away for the westward yesterday morning. The winter squadron will not be made up till we arrive at Portsmouth.

Two or three fragments of letters giving foreign news.

A news letter from Edinburgh.—Notices the proclamation against the exportation of copper and brass.—Merchants have brought up a quantity of provisions to export to Holland and Flanders, which we can very well spare.—Accounts from Dalkeith and several other parts of strange apparitions, the inhabitants being much pestered with wizards and witches.

Plymouth, 3rd. News from the master of a ship from Oporto.—Engagement between Portuguese and French ships; and a French ship in port seized by way of reprisal.

1693, Oct. 12th. Defeat of the Duke of Savoy by M. de Cattenat.

A letter from a sailor (the signature, as before, torn off). He tells of the death of Sir John Asbby, Admiral of the Blue, who is to be buried on Tuesday. Capt. Cotton of the Northumberland is dead.—Lord Berkeley the Admiral of the Blue is to remove out of the Neptune into the Victory.—More than 1700 are sick in the fleet.

1559, March 30th. Christ Church College Cambridge.—(Indorsed Dr. Parker to Mr. Secretary,) M.P. to Sir William Cecil one of the Queen's Council and Secretary to Her Majesty.—He says that the matter which the Vice-Chancellor delegated to them is in hand. Though some doubt is made if Cecil's authority of Chancellorship extends to College statutes, for any order beyond limitations contained in them, so may they doubt of Cecil's delegation. Though Bishop Gardiner would not be so restrained in his doings (whether upon warrant of the Queen's letters of commission or by authority of his office he leaves to Cecil to determine) our statutes and charters prescribe here to officers that they must in ples (pleas) procedo summarie et de plano sine strepitū judiciali, that scholars may the sooner be restored to their books; yet here be wits which being thereto admitted would entangle matters, extremis juris apicibus, that controversies might be infinite and perpetual, never to have an end. Says, that, according to ancient custom they shall proceed to hearing, cutting off all superfluous and perplex solemnities of their cavillations, and so defer the matter to Cecil's understanding to be resolutely determined.—Says he will write secretly if occasion require: without doubt the University is wonderfully decayed, “and if your visitation intendeth to be shortly executed in some like “sort as has been practised, it will I fear somewhat “ruffle the state thereof, that it will not be recovered “in years, and yet authority must bridle wilful and “stubborn natures: and high time it is here. I trust “the prudence of the visitors for good will towards “you will diligently note how ye received the university “after others for comparison of the sequel well hoped “for at your hands. Except it be looked to in time, “the Queen's Majesty shall not have half sufficient “ministers for the year, (which I pray God may be “many) to uphold Christ's faith in her realm. Youth “here is of some inclination, if they had three or four “good heads resident to lean on to, to comfort them “against some sour talkers in their stoutness.”—Excuses himself for not writing in Latin.

1607, Aug. 30th. Examination and confession of of Daniel Wastenes of Ashkam, for stealing deer in the forest of Warsop taken before the Earl of Shrewsbury; and a bond in 40l. to appear before the Earl five days after notice; his complices were Gervas Eyre of Ashkam, Edward Chambers of Bethamshall, and Bryan Beltony of Ashkam, and a servant of Bryan Beltony.

1597, Aug. Sir Anthony Mildmay his observations on the state of France during the time of his residence there as Ambassador of Her Majesty (1 p.). Begins, The King is a man of a very good and tractable nature.—(He gives an account of the king's qualities and of the factions).—His expectant successors are the young Prince of Condé, the first prince of France; the Prince Conti, and Count Soissons his uncles, who will allege against him bastardy, and that uncles are to be preferred to nephews, &c. (The other pretenders are mentioned.)

1623, Sept. 23, Madrid. Olivares to [—]. Begins, Mucho e estimada la merced que vm. me a hecho con su carta, y aunque me e turbado mucho, es oldgado yñifinto dever por quantos cuminos nos haze. Dios merced de liberal principe, guardele Dios como la Christiandad amenester: penada esta su Alteza de ver, el vñin principio que a hecho la embarcacion y assi quida con cuydado de sus oraciones. Seo yo la buena llegada de principe que rreconoze sus obligaciones y save pagar sus deudas las que yo tengo de cuydado de V. M. son muy grandes, y desseo que sea segure de que olgare siempre de cumplir con ellas. Suplico a V. M. de un muy cumplido recado al almirante y somismo, al Conde de Carlei, al Capitan de la guarda y a Don Roberto y que vean si soffrea aqui en que servirles. Guarde Dios a V. M. como desseo.

S. Conde de Olivares.

1592, Feb. 26th. Copy of Lord Lumleys proxy to the Lord Treasurer for the Parliament of 25 Eliz. (in Latin).

F. B.
FRANK,
ESQ.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

A cotemporary copy of the Patent of Ed. VI. of the manors of Edington Romney, Tynehedde Romseys, Edington Rectoris, Tynehedde Rectoris, Staple Ash-ton, Bratton and Imber, alias Inner (co. Wilts), East Pennard and West Monkton (co. Somerset), Stockland (co. Dorset), Decenna de Lee and Goddesfelde (co. Southampton), and Nuttingbarns (co. Middlesex), to William Earl of Wiltshire in fee. (At the head it is said to be to the Marquis of Winchester.)

A cotemporary copy of the last will and testament of Robert Earl of Leicester written with his own hand. Middleborough, 1st of August 1587. Begins, First I take it to be the part of every true christian (11 pp. and a short codicil).—At the end of the will he says. Ended the 5th of July 1587. The codicil is dated the last of September.

16th Century.—Account of Lincoln from the earliest times, by W. Lambard (6½ close pp.).

1594, May 19th.—A short account of Wolsey (Indorsed Certain notes out of Cardinal Wolsey's Life). (6½ pp.).

A paper indorsed.—This was part of Sir Thomas Stanhopes will, temp. Elizabeth, either contained therein or a Schedule annexed thereto, (4 pp.). (It is a narration of the bad behaviour of his eldest son John.) In another hand, "A discourse of my wives behaviour sins the tyme of this my long and grievous sicknesses" (7 pp.). (A long account of her bad behaviour to him, and her endeavour to make his children disobedient.)

A treatise answering the objections made against the Queen of Scots title and right to the Crown of England, if Her Majesty that now is die without issue, &c. made A.D. 1567. Begins, After I had perused the little book you sent to me the last day and had found it so full of lying slanders and malice. Ends, hath cause the more to pray for them to God to make them good (7½ close pp.).

17th Century.—Instructions to Sir Nathaniel Johnson, Knight, Captain General and Governor in Chief over the Islands of Nevis, St. Christophers, Mouserrat, Antigua, Barbouda, Anquilla and the rest of the Caribbee Islands in America lying to leeward from Guadaloupe to the island of St. John de Porto Rico, Nov. 1686 (14 pp.).

Copy (17th century) of Patent 8 Ric. II. part 2, to Symon de Basle, constable of Dover Castle.

A few Shrewsbury papers.

Draft Letter holograph, 3 pp., by Cecil. Indorsed 15th June 1572 from My Lord to the Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge.—He says he hears that when the Vice-Chancellor and other heads of the Colleges met in the Regent House according to the Statute authorized by the Queen's Majesty for the naming eight of the most metest for the four ordinary lecturers out of which number the Regents and Non-Regents in that congregation should choose four, Mr. Beacon, the senior proctor who should have received the names eligible, omitted the same, and in an oration declared in Cecil's name that it was his orders that as well the persons eligible for lecturers as all other officers to be named as Heads of Colleges should be named expressly by fourteen Heads of Colleges, or in the absence of any of them by their presidents; and therefore nomination then made by four being, as he said, void, the congregation broke up, and nothing was done. Cecil denies any such order, and orders the Vice-Chancellor to proceed to the election according to Statute. If any proctors refuse to comply they are to appear before him.

The Earl of Cassilles being commanded to deliver in writing under his hand the true state of the case, it is as followeth (3½ pp.).—(It is a statement to the King complaining of the troops taking free quarters on his estate, and his being denounced as a rebel.) It begins,—The Marquis of Athol, the Earls of Marr, Murray, Dearth, Caithness, Strathmore and others, having been confirmed by H. M. Privy Council to raise and convocate the highlanders with their respective bands, and also their whole vassals and all others under their commands, and march with them into the town of Stirling, &c. and in their march to take free quarters, and were indemnified for what they should do in that expedition by killing, wounding, &c., &c.

An Establishment list containing the several pensions which are to be paid out of our revenue of Ireland. Total 9,111l. 8s. (1 p. by N. Johnston.)

Latin verses on Edward VI. and Edward V. by A. D. Bond, President of Maudlin College, Oxford.

Venit ut æthereas Edwardus sicut ad ades,
Obvius huic quintus mox Edoardus adest;

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

Atque statim cupiens complexus et oscula jungens,
Postquam se lacrymis jam satiasset, ait—
O tu cui nostrum venit cum nomine regnum,
Quam volui fato te meliore frui;
Sed puer infelix mihi factus es hæres
Nominis et regni (proh dolor!) atque necis;
Me confect æper, te sævus sustulit ursus;
Heu! malè sanguineis cadimur ambo feris.

Vol. 17.—Thirty-seven letters from Sir William Dugdale to Dr. N. Johnston, concerning his visitations of Yorkshire; in 1665 and 1666, and two in 1678. His deputation to N. Johnston, Dr. Eyre, and Mr. Hopkinson to visit certain families, named in a schedule,* in Yorkshire. One of Dugdale's letters in 1678 is very interesting and important, and therefore the greater part is here printed, although the gist of portion is given in Dugdale's autobiography printed by Hamper in 1827.

1671, Nov. 21, London. Copy of letter by W. Dugdale to . . . Enquiring about the funeral of Sir John Hewit, when a coat of arms sword, target, helm, and penon and standard were carried; the addressee was there and saw it, and was told that a young man named Johnson from London laid him in state.

There are some lists of places where Dugdale sat on business matters. Henry Johnston was with Dugdale as a student or assistant.

1678, June 11. Herald's Office in London. W. Dugdale to Dr. Johnston. . . . I well remember that after Mr. Dodsworth and myself had by the favour of Sir Thomas Cotton gleaned out of that rare collection which his worthy father (Sir Robert Cotton) made, all that we thought proper for those volumes relating to the monasteries which are printed, Sir Thomas told me that he had 2 large bales of ancient papers of State and other things of note which had never been opened since they were so packed up by his father, and that if I would take the pains to sort them whereby they might be useful, he did not doubt but that I might find in them something more for my purpose. Whereupon I adventured on the work, and found 2 lieger books within the bundles, which pleased me so well that I did not stick at the putting all those papers into order, they being all papers of State, many of them Cardinal Wolsey's papers, Cromwell's, Cecil's, Walsingham's, and other secretaries, with letters from all the chief of the nobility in the reigns of Hen. 8, Edw. 6, Q. Mary, and Q. Elizabeth. Those which related to France, Rome, Germany, Denmark, and Scotland, I sorted by themselves; so likewise all others in order of time; amongst which I found very many letters betwixt the Queen of Scots and Duke of Norfolk, most in cypher and de-cyphered. All of them I disposed in such order, when I caused them [to be] bound up in large volumes to the number of about four score, with clasps; Sir Thomas paying the bookbinder; but as I did not expect it (though he was a man of 6,000l. per annum estate), he never offered me 6d. for my pains therein. . . . It is now above a 12 months since I heard that your brother was got in a cloyster; but I could not learn where. I am sorry that he hath thus buried himself alive, considering how well he might have lived in the world and been a comfort to his friends by his honest labours, having so dexterous a hand at etching and paynting.

Letters relating to the Earl of Shrewsbury; from him to stewards, and from them to him.—Hopkinson's letters concerning the Northern Marches.—Thomas Talbot, M.P., in 1658, to Dr. N. Johnston.—Mr. Bright's letters concerning his family.—Westby's, of Randfield, Sir W. Dugdale, D. Corbet, and Mr. Townley's letters.—Mr. Hutton's letter from Oxford. 1666. Mr. Buckley to Dr. Johnston, about his collecting the Earl of Shrewsbury's letters together, &c.

1643. Fran. Wortley to his father (or father-in-law). He laments their difference of opinion on the affairs of the kingdom, but hopes it will not lessen his fatherly love; but is bound to tell him it is a great grief he should engage in illegal and unwarrantable commissions, viz., of array, andoyer and terminer.

A corrected draft of a letter (by a judge of the King's Bench) to (the officers of the College of Arms). Hugh Fitzwilliam had got a pedigree from the Herald's College whereunder he claimed manors of William Fitzwilliam deceased. Philip Copley and other owners alleged that Fitzwilliam got the pedigree by collusion with William Harvey, late Clarencieux, and by cutting and interpolating records. The Duke of Norfolk summoned Fitzwilliam to appear; he would not appear; therefore the Duke gave F. Copley a proper pedigree of Fitzwilliam. Copley has brought an action on the case

* The schedule is not there.

F. B.
FRANK,
ESQ.

against Fitzwilliam in the King's Bench. The writer of this letter directs the officers, or the greater part of them, to bring books and records.

(R.) Two letters by John Hopkinson to N. Johnston. 1658, March 22. York House, Strand. Thomas Talbot, M.P., to (N. Johnston) asking him to search his MSS. for such things as concern Talbot's family from the time of Edward I. to the Conquest.

1665. Henry Corbett to his brother N. Johnston several.

1660, 1665, 1666. Letters from Christopher Townley on pedigree business.

Letters from William Horsley.

1666. Matthew Hutton of Brasen-nose College sends extracts from a MS.—Three other letters by him. Letters by J. Bright.—Two letters by Thomas Braylesford, and 12 by J. Hopkinson.

1642. Sept. 9 (?). "Derby" (James, Earl of) appoints Sir John Girlington high-sheriff of Lancaster to be Colonel of all foot forces within the hundred of West Derby and Leyland, for the King's service and defence of the county palatine. (Seal.)

(S.) 1677. [Sir] Thomas Herbert to (). Is obliged by the addressee's approbation of his travels, which being in countries little known to Greek or Roman poets or historians, made the descriptions less accurate, and served only as guide to those that followed.*

A paper headed, Concerning the collegiate church of Ripon containing a copy of a charter by Aëtbalde to the church of Ripon. (3½ pp.)

Epitaph and arms from Crux Church, York, for Thomas Herbert, Esq., Lord Mayor of York, ob. 14. April 1614.

Concerning Beverley Minster (12 pp.).

Thomas Herbert at Petersgate to Dugdale, about the Herberts; with Herbert pedigree.—Several letters from Herbert to Johnston, about pedigree and antiquities.

Notes of letters by the Earl of Shrewsbury (about 20 narrow leaves).

Copy of a note concerning Halifax by John Waterhouse of Shipden, Lord of the Manor of Halifax; and a list of the vicars from the first institution; beginning with Ingoland Turbat, 1274, ob. 1315.

Extracts from a MS. of Dugdale, taken from a parchment roll temp. Edw. III., in the possession of W. Turton of Alrewas, co. Stafford, 1664 (in French). Services which Philip de Somerville is bound to do to his lord the Earl of Lancaster for lands (6½ pp. including a translation into English). Sir Philip held of the Lord the manors of Whichenoure, Sirescote, Rideware Netherton, Coulee, at lower reliefs than other tenants; but he was to find and maintain a bacon flitch, hanging in his hall at Whichenoure, ready at all times, except Lent, to be given to every man or woman married, after the day and year of their marriage passed, and to be given to every man of religion, archbishop, bishop, prior, or other religious, and every priest after end of a year and day from the time of profession, or dignity received. (After stating the mode in which it is to be claimed.) The demandant was to come with trumps, tabors, and other manner of minstrelsy. The bacon was laid on one half-quarter of wheat, and upon one other of rye. The demandant was to kneel and take oath that since his marriage he would not have changed, and that if he were sole and she sole, he would take her; and his neighbours are to swear that they think he says true. Other ceremonies.—Curious custom for the manor of Briddeshall: the holder is to go to Talbury on Christmas Eve.—Custom for the manor of Tatenhall and Draycot: at St. Peter's day in August the holder is to go to Tubury and hunt.—Services for Tunshalle, Newbolde, Cosyntone Knapton, and Mously.

1584. Draft of letter by the Earl of Shrewsbury to the Lord Treasurer, asking him to advance Dr. Robinson, once tutor to his children, to be Dean of Lincoln: Mr. Wickham, then dean, is, he hears, about to be translated to some other living.

Vol. 19.—A folio volume of original letters.

1590, March 12th. Strand in London.—Sir Thomas Manners (to the Earl of Shrewsbury). Regarding a proposed marriage between his daughter and the son of Mr. Markham of Sydebrough.

1568, Sept. 8th. London.—Hugh Fitzwilliam to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—After formal compliments and remarks, he notices the movements of the Duke of Alva against the Prince of Orange, posting himself strongly at Maastricht, "which standeth on a river that the "Prince must needs passe," or at Luk (?) hard by, a bishop's town: at his request the bishop gave him permission to enter to fortify it. The magistrates shut the gates on the Spaniards, and made proclamation to defend the town as holden of the Empire, and that hath nothing to do with the Duke or his master. Therefore the Bishop fled to a strong castle of his own called Bullie; so the Duke passes the river with his army to lie between the Prince and Luk.—Speaks of the Duke's measures to plague the Protestants.—Proceedings of the Prince of Orange and Prince of Condé, Cardinal Chatillon and the Admiral his brother, and the young Duke of Brunswick.—(At the end of the letter) As for Scottish news, the troubles be certain; but for any particulars I can not write other ways than in my former letter (3½ pp.).

1673, June 17th. Whitehall.—News letters to Heneage Finch, Earl of Winchelsea.—Sir Robert Shirley was summoned to the Council to answer the complaint of Mr. Doughty and other dissenters for words spoken at Ashby-de-la-Zouch. The King discussed it; is well satisfied with Sir Robert.—Reports of Dutch vessels being on the North Coast.—Our fleet is still about the buoy at the Nore.—Irish letters tell of the Virginia fleet safely arrived at Galway.—Report that the Earl of Norwich (a catholic and incapable) transmitted the management of the office of Earl Marshal to the Earl of Carlisle. This day the King and the Duke of York went to view the camp at Blackheath. The Duke of York has given up his commission of High Admiral; the office is put in commission, viz., Prince Rupert, Lord Chancellor, Lord Treasurer, Lord Privy Seal, Duke of Buckingham, Duke of Lauderdale, Duke of Ormond, and Secretary Mr. Vere Chamberlain; Mr. Seymour as Treasurer of the Navy, and Mr. Pepys as Secretary.

1613, Jan. 1st. German news.—Dutch letters. Amsterdam letter.—On the 30th of December were in the Downs 300 sail of ships outward bound.

1673, June 19th.—News from Rye of seven French men-of-war plying to eastward. This morning Lord Clifford gave up the staff of the Lord High Treasurer.—The Lord Chancellor is in consultation with all the judges.—He gave directions to the Clerk of Assize in all the counties certain orders à propos of the Act for suppressing the growth of Popery, allowing more time for persons concerned to do what was required. The French letters on the 17th mention that Brown, who stole away Mrs. Ramsey, was executed.

1673, Feb. 17th.—House of Peers orders for the reinforcement of the army in Ireland.—House of Commons business.—Dutch letter.—Hamburg letters.—On Saturday Sir Samuel Barnardiston was duly elected for the co. of Suffolk.

1673, Feb. 21st.—House of Commons business.—French and Dutch letters.—The King's orders for disbanding several raised regiments and reducing other companies in garrison to 50 in each company, and those in his guards to 60.—In daily expectation of the ratification of peace from Holland.

n. d.—A news letter giving news from the camp before Grave (1½ p.).

1604, June 6th. Bomoll (Bomeile). R. North (to Lord Talbot).—Mentions the surrender of Grave. The Governor, Mons. Emert, wrote to Count Hallocke to tell him to take no care of it. He wrote the same to my lord; he thought himself secure. The Prince of Parma attacked it on Tuesday, at Emert's private suggestion, and on Saturday the town was surrendered. My lord has Emert prisoner with him at Bomeile. My lord intends to proceed against him by accusation as a traitor. Had the wretch held out for 10 days, the Prince must have raised the siege for want of victuals. My lord is at Bomeile, and will go to Gorcum and some other town in Holland until he hears out of England from Sir Thomas Heneage.—My lord, hearing the Prince had sent to besiege Venloo, sent Shenks with 1,000 foot and 600 horse. If Shenk can get in, he hopes to keep it a year at least. He sends commendations to the Countess of Shrewsbury and the addressee's wife (1½ p.).

n. d., 16th century. A news letter unsigned.—The Lord Treasurer, Lord Admiral, Mr. Vice-Chamberlain, and Mr. Secretary have recovered from their sickness. The Earl of Ormond should before this time have been in Ireland.—Sir J. Perrot is going into Wales. The Council sit hard daily. Her Majesty's navy is 44 ships of her own, besides merchants and others.—Present orders for victualling 10,000 men for three months.—This day the French ambassador, M. Bravoy, was with Her Majesty.—French and Spanish news.—News from Flanders.—My Lord of Cumberland is very well and in good favour.—Mr. Spenser, my Lady Strange's brother,

F. B.
FRANK,
ESQ.

* The 4th edition of Sir Thomas Herbert's Travels in Africa and Asia was printed in folio at London in 1677.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

and one Mr. Trench, were made knights on Ashwednesday.—Sir J. Hawkins is stayed from his journey being ready to go forth (1 p.).

Remembrances whereof Her Majesty is to be informed from the Earl of Shrewsbury about a voluntary deed executed by the Earl in favour of Charles and W. Cavendish (1 p.).

1586, May 8th. Greenwich.—Certain things pronounced by Her Majesty, in the presence of us whose names are underwritten by Her Majesty's commandment as orders, to be performed by the Earl of Shrewsbury in the causes of controversy between him and the Countess his wife. Signed by T. Bromley, Canc., W. Burghley, and Fra. Walsingham (1 p.).

1586, May 12th. Greenwich. "Elizabeth R." to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—About a dispute between him and his wife regarding his younger sons, notifying her directions (as above).

1586, June 15th. Chelsey. George, Earl of Shrewsbury, to Mr. Secretary.—He charges the Secretary with having favoured his wife and her children in her causes, now she has so apparently manifested her devilish disposition in maintaining her wicked servant Beresford in practising, to the utter ruin and destruction of him and defamation of his house and name, by his false speeches . . . whereof he now stands convicted.—He asks that the Secretary will help him, and further his suit with Her Majesty to punish her as procurer and maintainer of the slander and destruction of her husband, and to be banished the court as a woman not fit for that honourable place.—Asks him to advise his son Gilbert to leave that wicked woman's company.

1563, Aug. 3rd. W. Hamerton to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Sends three proclamations in print, "with one" hole shete of paper reporting such common occurrences as be in London or thereabouts.—He or his house don't come to London, only one of his servants now and then.—He sends letters by the carrier of Derby, by whom, 15 days ago, he sent another letter enclosed in one to Mr. Rolleston. (P.S.)—The Earl of Warwick standing at the breach in Newhaven was sore hurt; and the Constable of France offering a reasonable and honourable end, it was taken by the said Earl with conditions honourable.

(The following is the shete of paper referred to above.) 23rd to 30th of July.—Died and were buried in London and the suburbs, 399, most young people and youths, of which number of the common plague 320 persons. The number of children born and christened in the same week, 52. The Queen and a certain number with her remain at Oatlands, but the Queen's household have remained at Richmond. About 14 days past Sir N. Throckmorton was sent by the Queen on a message to the French Court; who came home to the Court at Oatlands on Saturday the last of July.—Tuesday and Wednesday last the French army made a great battery at the walls of Newhaven, and scaled the walls, but the English manfully repulsed them; by estimation of people in London the French lost 5,000 or 6,000.—The Lord Admiral was at Portsmouth and thereabouts all last week preparing for Newhaven, but the men are dismissed because of the peace between the English and French at Newhaven. On Friday, July 30th, there was a proclamation in print for seizing Frenchmen; the people were so earnest that the matter was dangerous. The Treasurer and the Mayor of London addressed the Queen, and on the following day another proclamation on the subject, which he sends.—Surrender of Newhaven to the French on honourable terms; the Earl of Warwick as yesternight came to Court with two honourable persons of France, as it is universally talked in London. Sir Hugh Pawlet and the others remain at Newhaven until the Queen's pleasure be known.—Names of those slain or dead of the plague at Newhaven: Tremayne the elder and younger, Francis Somerset, brother to the Earl of Warwick; Dr. Jeane, the physician; Cuthbert Vaughan, John Hersey, Mr. Robinson, water baily of Newhaven; John Zouch, Capt. Saunders, Bromefeld, master of the ordnance (he died in England of his hurt within three miles of Portsmouth); Capt. Sawle, Bodeley, Layton of Berwick, Chidley, Wever, the master of defence; John Ormesby, John Duckson, Drury with the stumpe legg; Mr. Appleyard is sore hurt; divers others dead.—On the 2nd of August the Mayor of London made proclamation against dogs and cats in the street for the avoidance of the plague, except they are led; if not they are to be killed. Officers are appointed to murder and bury the same.—The common people grudge at the Frenchmen, and want them out of the irealm.—Sends another proclamation of the 3rd of August about the Frenchmen.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

1586, June 17th. Court.—Fra. Walsingham to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Reply to the Earl's letter of the 15th of June. He says he only acted according to law, and not favour. In a postscript he negatives the Earl's intimation that the Countess had used her money to buy favour.

n. y., Oct. 16th. Colharbert. (The signature is torn off) to Lord —. . . Here is no speech but of killing the Spaniard both by sea and land; for Sir Richard Grinfilde (Grenville) hath taken a Spaniard very richly laden with pearl, gold, and spices, 300 tons, and 200 Spaniards aboard her, which I think by this time are all come to Plymouth, "so that it is thought this shippe" will make Sir Walter Raully a saver by his voiage.—Two letters from Mr. Laue in Wingandecioa, declaring the fertility of soil not inferior to England; the same temperature; no gold or pearl; earth good, but wants cattle and manuring; and therefore it is thought the voyage will have had success.—Lord Leicester has not spent a penny in preparing for his reported voyage to Flanders.

1586, July 7th. Chelsey.—(Copy of a letter to the Queen by the Earl of Shrewsbury.) Complaining of his treatment at Court, and of Henry Berisford's slanders, and against the cunning devices of his malicious enemy his wife, and her children.

Serment prêté de . . . de Ryn, signé de Messieurs les Secretaires d'Etat. (French.)

1596, Oct. 19th. An original certificate that Henry, King of France, &c., in the presence of Gilbert Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury, K.G., Ambassador of the Queen of England, has taken the oath which His Majesty ought to take according to the treaty of the 24th and 25th of May last past against Spain, the terms of which follow: And that, on the 19th of Oct. the King executed a deed of that date promising to keep the treaty between him and Elizabeth, and that he had done it in the church of St. Ouen. The Duke de Montpensier and many others (named) assisted. Signed by Nicolas Neufville, Louis Potier sieur de Gesore, and Pierre Forget sieur de Fresne.

1565, Oct. 18th. Oxford. Francis Talbot to his father (in Latin). It is dated from St. John's College. He says that Mark Robinson is in London, or he would have written.

15— (the rest of the figures are torn away), July 16th. London.—Paul Forteny to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—On business.—At the bottom of the letter another hand says to the Earl that the writer had been sent by the Queen to Newhaven to the Earl of Warwick, who was then sick, and with whom he continued six weeks, and left his lordship in good health last week.—And Mr. Paul Forteny shewed him the Earl's letter, for which he returns thanks.

15—, March 14th. Westminster.—R. Leycester to the Earl of Shrewsbury (holograph).—Apology for delays in writing.—News.—Our Parliament ends to-day, Wednesday, and his hath begun in very quiet and well ordered time. There have byn no specyall matters past, but a few common causes, and very many pryvatt. The matters in France stand yet on hard terms; the King deserves of accord, but the conditions are not liked of the other side as it seems, so they proceed by force still, and the Prince of Condé with the King of Navarre joined to Monsieur, whereby their . . . being as they are, it is likely their demands will be the more hard at the King's hands. As soon as any particular matter cometh worth the sending, your lordship shall hear. The commissioners that come from the Prince of Orange Her Majesty has answered, and doth deal in this sort: She doth send forthwith to the King of Spain, and to his governor also at the Low Countries, to persuade if it may be a surcease (surcease) of armes, and withal to move the King to be pleased to hearken to some good accord of these differences between him and his subjects, and doth lay before him what danger will else like to ensue to his states in these parts. She doth also let him understand how greatly it hurteth her and her realm to see those countries of Holland and Zealand to be ruined and their ancient manner of government to be changed, as, indeed, it doth greatly import this realm; for the chiefest of our traffic is and long hath bin with them. She doth also persuade the King so to settle that country (to the which she will also be his best meane), as that the natural born subjects, nobles, and others, may enjoy their due privileges allowed and granted by all their former lords and princes hitherto; and that the towns and countrys may be governed as they have been by the natural born subjects of the country; and that this late usurped government of the Spaniards may be changed and withdrawn out of those parts, as a thing she is fully persuaded otherwise will be the only cause of further danger and trouble to his estate, and that for her neighbours begin to grow jealous in all places of their manner of dealing by the Spaniards, as it appears as well by Naples, Cecill, Millain, and elsewhere that be under his dominion; the Spaniards have almost converted their whole states and people also in a manner. And therefore Her Majesty doth, as a good sister and neighbour, use all the best advice and means she can to him for some speedy reformation, that he may peaceably and quietly enjoy these his countrys as well to his own profit as for the benefit of his neighbours and allies, specially this realm. This course she doth take to the King himself and to the governor in the Low Countries. And here is presently a gentleman called M. Champeny, who was sent to Her Majesty about these courtes, who is a very wise and sufficient man every way, as I have seen here since Her Majesty's raine. And Her Majesty has dealt very plainly with him, and yet finds him a man ready and willing to do all good offices, &c. . . . Her Majesty is in very good health, &c.—In a P.S., he says that he has moved Her Majesty about D. (Dr.) May, and hopes soon to see him placed to his contentment and Shrewsbury's desire. (2½ pp.)

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

1576, Nov. 20th. Court. J. Becon to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Thanks him for his favour in advancing Mr. Dr. May in the church.

1576, March 22nd, London.—Dolu to Nau, Secretary to the Queen of Scots, Dowager of France. (In French.)—Thanks for his letter of the 16th of this month, and will not refuse the offer which he makes by his letter, seeing the little hope he has of being able to get his passport. Anyhow, he will still delay to send his papers by Hannibal, until the Ambassador has his audience of the Queen of England, and she shall have entirely denied his passport. Having heard that the Queen, his mistress, desired to recouvrer ung danger he has got the finest he could with the cassets, which he has sent by the carrier. Arrived here he has found good citrons, and having told the perfumers that her Majesty would be glad to have some, he has got half a hundred, and hopes she will like them: if not he may keep them for himself. P.S.—He asks what he shall do with the dry sugar comfits which M. de Vergier sent him, and to tell Her Majesty that about a week ago the Earl of Lester (Leicester) being sick, and the Ambassador knowing that he was seeking every where for dry comfits (confiture seiches) and could not get them, he was desired to send him half a dozen bonnettes, which he found so pleasant that it seems one could not have done him a greater pleasure.

1580, May 7th, Buxton. Thomas Bayly to Mr. Thomas Baldwin.—A Latin letter, giving an account of Yorkshire and Lincolnshire gentlemen (many of whom are named) coming with cocks, dice, cards, and balls and music to contend at Buxton; they did not end until Friday.—The Buxton people seem to have lost the most matches.

1585, Oct. 8th, London.—Fra. Walsingham to the Earl of Shrewsbury. . . . News of 18 Spanish ships taken to Plymouth, and most of their lading seized; and Captain Drake has burnt towns in Spain.

1586, July 7th, Greenwich.—Fra. Walsingham to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—He has received from Sir Edward Stafford the enclosed, wherein he is given to understand the good success the Earl's suite is like to have, notwithstanding the desperate case it stood in.—He sends the letter.—Offers further assistance. P.S.—This day he has received orders from Her Majesty for Bassford's (Beresford's?) imprisonment.

1586. The Earl's answer to the articles set down under the hands of the Lord Chancellor, Lord Treasurer, and Mr. Secretary (1 p.).

(1586, Aug. 4th), Richmond.—Lady Shrewsbury to the Earl.—Argumentative and polite, but defensive. (1½ p.)

Copy of a letter by the Earl of Shrewsbury to the Queen about the Cavendishes (1½ p.), with corrections and additions (by Walsingham) (½ p.).

Copy of a letter to Mr. Secretary Walsingham (by the Earl of Shrewsbury) about his wife's estate. Says he perceives by Walsingham's letter of the 3d instant that he has received an estimate in value of his wife's lands sent by the Lord Treasurer (½ p.).

1592, Oct. 2nd, Bruges.—A news letter about the Spanish in the Low Countries (1½ p.).

1594. A short news letter from Dieppe.

1599. (Indorsed, June 1599.) A news letter from Bommell. Begins, Since the enemies retrayte from before Bommell there hath been a change of a General; the Marquis of Bergaw coming in the place of the Admirare.

1599, July.—A receipt of drynke and broth given to me by Sir Robert Germayne.—A morning drink.—The broth I am to take at dinner.

1600, Jan. 29, Charterhouse.—W. Mill to the Earl of Shrewsbury.

1602, July 31st, Paris, (Copy in Italian).—Marshal Biron's head was cut off in the Bastille; only sixty persons to see it; he behaved very boldly, but in such a way that it looked half despair.—Gives a short account of the sentence, and his words there, and his behaviour on the scaffold,—he would not be bandaged,—he got a soldier to cut off his hair.

1603, Feb. 21st, Oxford, Logis de Mr. Greene, merchant draper.—J. Basire to Mr. Cook, secretary to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Speaks of his discomfort on his first arrival at Oxford, but a gentleman has befriended him, and got him leave to study six hours a day in the public library.—He hopes to get on well.

1603, last of March.—Holyrood House. "James R." to the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Thanks for the Earl's letter received by the bearer hereof, "assuring ye that as ye "have uttered your tender affection and most dutiful "care to serve us, whereof we had never any distrust, "so we shall at all occasions make it known unto you "how far we respect your friendly courage in all the "process of that which is past intestine the disease of "our late dearest sister the Queen." As to the Earl's request that he will visit him on his way, he will not refuse (¾ p.).

n. y. March 8th, Mile End.—W. Raleigh to the Right Honourable the Countess of Shrewsbury.—Right excellent Lady, if I had not hoped long or this to have bynn restored to that poure of fortune as I might thereby rather have shewed good effects of my desire to honor and serve you then have sorted with thos that only make payment with ceremony and protestations, I had not so longe forestood your Ladeshipps attendance, or left myself so many dayes under the judgment of ingrattitudes for the disposition which I have ever nourished to performe sumewhat the better to valew my seaffe in your favorable opinion, being as yet left poureless ether thorough myne own ill destiny or the strenght of countervorkinge hath also withelme me from thos whom I have most honored, and perswaded me rather to accompanye myne own disgrace their agayne and evermore to present but the withered leves of an unprosperous and blasted fortune; other fault or forgetfulness I homble beseech you to excuse, and that yow wilbe pleased to beleve that as your virtue and excelent spirritt have bynn the adaments which have drawne mee to honor and reverence the same, so did I never admire any of thos the more whom the tyme had bewtified and declared for happy, or ever preferred that polletike care of seaffe estate, as in respect thereof to relinquish any dewtye or indevor that might witness my uttermost thankfulness and zealous affection; esteeming the contrary only to proceed from a cowardly forgetfulness of forepored fryndlines and forgone honorable regards; butt havinge now, right honorable ladye, so longe deferred the performance of my dewtye, lookinge each day after other to have sounde mean thereby to have made the better offer of my service, I am driven first to intreat your favorable conaite by these messengers, being ever as reddy to be disposed and as farr commanded as any whom you have most interest or power over. Your Ladeshippes to be commanded, W. Raleigh. (Seal of red wax with the arms of Raleigh.)

n. y. May 29th. Gervase Clifton to the Earl of Shrewsbury, in Latin, with some verses.—Thanks him for the watch which he had sent to him.

n. y. Sept. 3rd, Paddington.—Ellenor Gyfford to the Countess of Shrewsbury.—Excuse for not having waited on her.—Has had the small-pox; when the frost has withered away the green leaves, and therewith drawn away the danger of infection, then she hopes she may without fear come. (Seal of nine balls, four, three, and two.)

n. d. (Indorsed, To the Princesse.) Begins, Royal and Excellent Lady.—Apologises for his wife not being able to wait on her.—He refers to "a letter which he once "received, written by a fayrer had than mind, but "the ink had so much gall in it as it was not worthy "of thanks; and so the King your father, and the "Prince your brother thought." He speaks of Lord and Lady Harrington. (¾ p.)

1604, April 16th, s.n. Rouen, in extreme haste.—J. Basire to M. Cook (in French). Asks favour for

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

John Symons.—Speaks of his faithful service during the wars, of which he (Basire) was witness.

1607, Feb. 28th. Copy of the Archbishop's letter to the King of Denmark (Latin).

1639, July 23rd, Berwick.—Richard Steward (Dean of Chichester, and clerk of His Majesty's closet) to (the Archbishop). The King has heard him read the Archbishop's letter, and Dr. Jenison's submission; the King is pleased; tells him to write that Jenison may be sent back to Newcastle but so only as under a legal title of one of the curates there, so that besides his preaching he constantly performs all other canonical duties of the Ministry, and make certificate of his performance thereof; this only during the King's pleasure; which caution is to be kept upon him until the Archbishop hears further from the King. Since he has acknowledged that he once caused a disturbance in divine service by giving the blessing unseasonably, the King says he is constantly to read the said service in his hood and surplice, so that (according to the rubrick) immediately after the Nicene Creed is ended, he go up to the pulpit in hood and surplice and so preach, and when the sermon is ended, he is to come down and end service with the blessing in the place appointed by law. Or, if the Archbishop thinks it too great labour for him to read the whole service in his own person every day, he is to preach, yet the King says that constantly when he preaches he is to read at least the second service throughout in his own person, and preach likewise in hood and surplice.—P.S. Gives news. About ten or twelve days since the King sent for the chief lords of the Covenant to wait on him at Berwick; after many delays a good number came, of whom the King required four things; first, to slight the works at Leith, and restore the ordinance to the Castle at Edinburgh; second, To cancel their Generals' Commissions; third, To disband that regiment which contrary to the articles they keep in pay under Col. Montreir; fourth, To immediately dissolve their Tables at Edinburgh which yet they have kept up.—On Saturday they are dismissed, and enjoined to return on Wednesday with answers. Before they went, Lord M. Hambleton told them that if they scrupled to assent he should ask the King to return to London and leave the business to him and other Scotch lords of the King's party now in Berwick, and he made no doubt in a short time they should be able to bring them upon their knees.—Yet in doubt whether the King will enter Scotland or no.—His best servants wish he should not; for the hopes of doing good there are very faint or none, but there are very apparent causes of fear, and those of a very dangerous nature; for in Edinburgh the streets are still full of tumults, and the pulpits of rebellion . . . A few day since Lord Balmeno durst raise 300 horse, and with them hinder the provost of Edinbro' and other Covenanters (who perhaps liked it well enough) from waiting upon His Majesty upon special command, and durst say that they were not to trust too many of their friends at once with the King;—and the why he should trust his royal person with them I see no ground at all, especially since they have already packed the members of the ensuing Assembly, so that there will be scarce any of that body who is not sworn to maintain the late rout at Glasgow.

[1596, Sept. 13, so Indorsed].—Copy of a letter from Queen Elizabeth to Henry IV. of France (in French). Telling him that she had ratified the treaty, and asking for his oath to be given to the Earl of Shrewsbury to observe it, and saying that she thinks she shall not have cause to regret having associated with him.

Copy of a complimentary Latin letter from the Earl of Shrewsbury to the King of France (Indorsed, An elegant letter, I suppose to Henri.)

Henry Earl of Derby sent with the Garter to Henry III. of France, and his train of above two hundred persons hath laid out and disbursed as follows, &c. Total 463*l*. 15*s*. (These expenses were all for post horses carts, and carriages.)

17th century, John Craven. A Latin letter to proceed M.A.

17th century.—Notes of Dr. Richardson's sermons.

Manor of Churley held by Sir Ralph Stable, temp. Hen. VI.—A commission was issued to two justices of the peace of Derbyshire to inquire from him the reason he killed a fine deer and cut off his head and stuck it on Lyche's gates, bow-bearer to the King, in contempt of him, with these verses:

Loo Love Lyche, for thy sake
My head it stands upon a stake;
If the bee lyche that man saine
Thou can sett it on againe.

(1639?) Folio of 1 page. Begins, Being examined by Mr. Alexander Davison, Mayor of Newcastle; Sir Jacob Ashly, Kt., and Mr. John Marsh, Alderman, concerning five particulars, upon a jealousy that in some late sermons on Psalm xxxvii. 5, "Commit or roll thy way upon the Lord," or otherwise, I should give encouragement to some who either do favour or are suspected to favour the Scottish condition at this time,—I do, as in the presence of God, give this answer (to the 5 points). Signed Robert Jenison, Doctor of Divinity. He exculpates himself.

1657, Aug. 24th, Holdenby.—Jonathan Hardy to Dr. Devereux, at Leeds, Yorkshire.—News. (1 p.)

1672. Copy of oath by an M.P., that he had not, since Jan. 1st, 1672, taken any money of the King or his officers.

1672, April 30th. List of His Majesty's Navy. (1 p.)

1675, April 3rd. Protest of the Lords on Wednesday, April 3rd.—Address about the Duke of Lauderdale.

1677, May 5th and 8th, Whitehall.—Two news letters, (2 pp. each letter.)

The honourable request of all cutters and worker of cloth (to the Earl of Shrewsbury), against repeals of the Statute, 5 Eliz., touching tanners of leather.

Suggestions or a draft for an Act to alter that Act (1 p.).

Commodities that will grow by means of the Commission. (Apparently suggestions for a census to be taken every 7 years, and a fee to be paid by each person.)

(Indorsed, For Sir John Parker.) Reasons why the six clerks should not speak against such office as to approve it necessary and for the good benefit of the subject (8 reasons, 1 p.).

Temp. Charles II.—A few notes of proceedings in the House of Commons.

The state of the controversy between Lord Cromwell and All Souls College. (3½ very large folio pages.)

A lewde letter against preachers. 14 verses of 4 lines each. Begins,

In this deceitfull wicked age when knaves do run their race,
And play their parts uppon a stage with visours on their face,
If you delight to have a slight, yourselves from them
to save,
I shall you learne how to discern who is a very knave.

In the margin, opposite various verses, are the following names, being the names of the persons satirized:—Jewell, Nowell, Yong, Beamond, Bishop of Bath Horne, Huntington, and other famous preachers, Maydcalfe, Grindall, Knox, Beaton.—The last verse is,—

What will you more, there is such store of genty!
knaves so sligg,
That with their knacks I could fill sacks, be they never so bigg;
And since they all both great and small, are whelmed with wicked wares
You may this learne well to discern that they be all but knaves.

Printed paper of one page in double columns.—Certain philosophical preparations of food and beverage for sea men in their long voyages, with some necessary approved and hermetical medicines and antidotes fit to be had in readiness at sea for prevention or cure of divers diseases. Ends with a Latin quotation,—Ut deus per naturam, sic natura per ingenium philosophicam. H. P. Miles.—He recommends macaroni, not unlike the cuscus in Barbary, with which he furnished Sir F. Drake and Sir J. Hawkins in their last voyage.—Various eatables, water, and medicines are preserved from corruption by a philosophical fire;—He recommends certain medicines prepared by him. (H. P. was probably Sir Hugh Platt, a list of whose works is in Lowndes's Bibliographer's Manual.)

Vol. 20.—Folio paper, 16th century. Three leaves of table; and leaves numbered 5-125, and 4 additional. The first leaf and some others are absent. The volume contains forms of Canon Law proceedings on English affairs (with names of the persons concerned). Edward Carne, LL.D., is mentioned as an official. The proceedings are temp. Hen. VIII. The volume has the autograph signature of Samuel Lawson, about the middle of the 17th century.

Vol. 21.—Contains poetry and miscellaneous papers.—Copy of a long letter of 7 pages and more, perhaps by N. Johnston. (He was commanded by the corporation of Pontefract to present an address of congratulation on the Restoration.)—Copy of Monmouth's letter to the King, and about his being restored to favour; 1683.—Observations by Dr. Plot; and a catalogue of curiosities found in his (Plot's) travels through Staffordshire; 30 in number.—Relation of the motions of the comet in 1680, given by M. Cassini at Paris, Jan. 17th 1681.—An Address to Charles II.—Sir F. Winnington's speech March 22nd 1674. Begins, The King cannot pardon treason.—The Earl of Shaftesbury's speech to the Peers. Begins, You are appointing the consideration of the state of England to be taken.—Anagrams and two poems on Sir Thomas Wentworth, Kt., and three poems on Lady Katherine Wentworth [by Henry Liddle] also on Elizabeth Layton.—Inscriptions on Roman and Greek Medals.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

A letter in 1654 from C. Johnston to his father N. Johnston. He sends a Latin epitaph on Heneage Earl of Nottingham. In his letter he tells how the Archbishop had given a license to Mr. Chambers of Ripon without a certificate from a physician as to ability, to the prejudice of the faculty; he and others think of a remonstrance.

Anagram on W. Lyster.

Two Parliaments dissolved, then let my harte
As they in factions so it in fractions part.

(A poem of 2 pp.)

Mr. Thweng's speech at his execution.
Oliver Plunket's speech at his execution.
Eight verses of eight lines each, signed John Morgan.
Begins, Phyllis altho' my fate denies
My frequent opportunities.

1677, Aug. 11, Oxford letter (unsigned, as the end of it is cut off).—Giving an account of the Duke of Ormond's entertainment at Oxford.

1. Oxford verses to the tune of the Pyramidas (7 verses). Begins.

Near the Bear where's a bawling

There dwelleth a P[aulin]

A mercer by trade and a saint by his calling

When good living came up and pretending went down

O Townsman be careful you be not too vehement

For fear lest you send out your trade to St. Clement.

2nd part. Now try it again.

My brave merry men. (15 verses.)

A Yorkshire dialogue between a man and his wife, and a lasse, &c. Begins,

Dorothe now let's gang into the hurne

And fetch me hame a sute of furne.

(Between 70 and 80 lines.)

Notices of speeches in the House of Commons after the Bill of Exclusion was rejected in the Lords, Nov. 16th 1680.

A ballad of six verses (all except the last two lines are printed in the State Poems).

Let ye divell angle the Parliament

When they are drunk with brandy

And did think to circumvent

Thomas Earl of Danby

6. Of a subject I near did hear tell

Nor any in the land be,

That deserves a halter half so well

As the Earl of Danby.

For he who taught the people and the press

To [clothe] rebellion in a gospel dress.

(Indorsed) Dr. Wildes verses (to me). (3 columns very small.)

George Blagrove's Christmas Card. Begins,

I have been troubled heretofore

For following Lady Une

Wherefore I will do so no more

But sing some other tune, (9 verses of 8 lines).

End, I'll say round heads are better made

Than Cavaliers that square it

And I'll not call a spade a spade

For Veritas odium parit.

And now for to conclude my say

Crumwell is prince elector

And will defend us from all wrong

For he is Lord Protector.

This government which now we have

No earthly power can mar it

Methinks it is most brave

But veritas odium parit.

The Elysium Isle or the curious toy (1½ p.); (by W. Brathwaite, upon Hornby Green). Begins,

Quaint joys, brave boys, Harry bring out your bowls

But first the bottle to refresh dull souls

The Authors farewell to the Elysium Isle. Begins
Farewell Elysium Isle, thou curious toy (2 pp).

Verses. Dr. Wilde and Wanley. Begins

And thou my Wanley art to blame

Amongst the swans my goose to name, (20 lines.)

Cowley once thought, as well he might

He should have shin'd in Plato's light; (8 lines.)

Jack Denham tempting laurel scornes

Since greater pride his brow adorns; 8 lines.)

Davenant is silent, I suppose

Because his muse sings thro' the nose; (6 lines.)

Poor Wilde did once on loyal string

His Georgicks and his carols sing; (14 lines.)

End. Not doubting but to their desire

Thout prove a kind (a Bell) fryer.

R.W.

Verses to the Rev. Robert Wilde, Doctor in Divinity (1 p). Signed, Nathaniel Wanley. Begins

What sullen wary shepherd's voice is this.

My second and last paper to Mr. Wanley. (4 pp.)

Honestly done howsoever thin the stuff

You sent be course the measure's big enough.

Let merchants trade to foreign lands

And balance ships with Indian sands

We have a golden mine that stands

For many (18 verses).

Medico-Juridico-Theologaster.

To Athens barbarous, unknown to Rome,

No Englishman; whence did the mushroom come.

(3 pp. of poetical abuse of some doctor, written in a feigned hand. The address on the letter is blotted out.)

Proposition by Nathaniel Johnston for printing his collection for illustrating the Antiquities of Yorkshire in five volumes in five years, 1640?

To John Kay alias Poet Nimby. A defiance.

And is this all, thou great baboon of wit

That lewdly imitat'st as Hopkins writ? (25 lines).

Rochester's censure of the poets. Begins,

Sir, tis granted I said Dryden's Rhimes

Were stol'n, unequal, nay, dull many times.

Ends, And some few more whom I omit to name

Approve my sense, I count this sense for fame,

(4 pp.)

A large Alphabetical index to the classics.

Nomina burgorum, villarum; et eorum dominorum, de com. Ebor. 9 Edw. II. (151 pp.)

Vol. 22.—Folio; pp. 74—574 . . . Begins with a summary of Acts of Parliament relating to Religion or the Ecclesiastical State of the Government, from 3 Car. I. upwards (74—101). Then come some collections out of the Paper Office. The remainder of the volume is occupied with papers upon the business of Magdalen College (temp. James II.), and some letters to N. Johnston, who was consulted about it; including letters by Philip, elect of Aureliope and Obadiah Walker; part of Johnston's work, The King's visitatorial power asserted, &c., by N. Johnston, Doctor of Physic, fellow of H.M. College of Physicians in London. By H.M. special command.—Letters by Robert Brady.—Copy of the King's writ and other documents connected with the matter.

Vol. 23.—The laws of the Marches,—p. 1, Jus gentium, p. 2, the Statutes of the 12 knights of England and 12 of Scotland,—followed by the other treaties and documents. Printed by Bishop Nicolson in Leges Marchiarum (8o. 1705) as far as p. 106 of that work.

Folio.—Copies of leases, &c., by the Duchy of Lancaster, chiefly to the Frestons of Alftofts, co. York; temp. Eliz.

Folio of 452 pages.—Extracts from Inquisitions, Escheats, Extracts, &c., from early times to Queen Elizabeth.

Folio copy of Domesday for Yorkshire, with index.

Folio. Alphabetical ordinary of arms. (131 pp.)

Folio. Copies of Inquisitiones post mortem; Yorkshire.

Folio.—1-290. Inquisitiones post mortem from 1542 to 1628, "from a manuscript of the late R. Thornton, "recorder of Leeds, lent me by his daughter." At the end is an index of places and persons.

A folio labelled Patents, of 721 pp., by N. Johnston. Pp. 1 to 10 blank; at p. 11 is a collection out of Mr. Le Neve's books of patents, from Edward I. to 9 Jac. I., relating to lands granted in Yorkshire only, with index. There are several indices in the volume for different reigns. The entries are very short.

A. 1. Abstracts or memorials relating to English History, from William I. to Charles I., inclusive.

2. Some memorials relative to the names, divisions, &c., of the several counties of England.

3. Some account of the several bishopricks in England and Wales, and their ecclesiastical sub-division.—(The writing of the volume is about 1650.)

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

A. 3. Folio by N. Johnston, in three parts; pp. 1—226, extracts from Shrewsbury letters.—MS. of the Earl of Huntingdon.—Notices from Kennett.—Extracts from the Register of Bermondsey Abbey, penes D'Ewes; &c., &c.
Part 2. Extracts from Dodsworth's MSS., chiefly (apparently) about estates in capite.

Part 3. Alphabetical index of what relates to the churches, &c., of York.—Notes of Churches, Gildhall, &c.

A. 4., or rather (D) A. 1. Introductory to the antiquities and history in general (by N. Johnston). Begins with British affairs on the descent of Cæsar. (About 180 pp.)

B. 1. Folio. A transcript by Charles Fairfax in 165½ of Book F. of Thomas Lord Fairfax, containing collections for the family of Fairfax.—Extracts from various cartularies and other old MSS. to p. 136.—At p. 137 the names of all the Mayors of York from the 25 Edw. III. to 16 Car. II.—Pedigree of Thwaites of Hardingham.—The writ and pleadings when Sir Thomas Widdrington was made serjeant.—Various pedigree referred to previous pages.—Genealogy of the Earls of Richmond.—Description of a storm on Oct. 13th, 1666, which began at Claythorpe.—Copy of roll pedigree of Beckwith.—Copy of pedigree of Fairfax and his lady, who was a De Vere.

B. 3. Folio. Miscellaneous.—Table of contents.—Copies of letters by Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Essex, 14th Sept., 41 Eliz.—Another letter (without the date) of advice to the Earl from a friend.—Account of the Earl of Essex at the Council Board in a letter dated 6 June 1600.—The Earl of Essex his buzze, made on his decayed estate by Mr. Henry Cuffe, his secretary. Begins, It was a time when silly bees could speak,
And in that time I was a silly bee. (15 verses of 6 lines.)

End, Five years twice told with promises perfumed
My hope-stuff'd head was cast into a slumber,
Sweet dreams of gold I dreamed, and then presumed Amongst the bees tho' I was in the number.
Waking I found Hive hopes had made me vain
'Twas not Tobacco that [had] stufft my braine.

Account of the Earl of Essex's trial and execution, after the beheading "his eyes opened but y^e other parts "not moved," 35—80.—Letters, &c. Trials of Brook, Markham, &c.—Trial of Sir Walter Raleigh at Winchester, 89—106.—Five letters from Raleigh (all printed).—Giles to Lady Raleigh.—Kemish to Sir W. Raleigh.—Raleigh's account and apology.—Kemish to Raleigh, dated 8 Jan. from Oronocua.—Information in the Star Chamber against the Earl of Bedford for publishing a pamphlet in hoc verba (to make the King independent of Parliament).—A treatise and abstract of the laws of England. Begins, The use of the law consisteth principally in these two things, 175—214.—Bacon's proposition for reducing the laws of England and Scotland to conformity, 5 leaves arec.

B. 4. Yorkshire collections by Nathaniel Johnston, added to by R. Frank.—Table of contents at p. 11.—It consists chiefly of ecclesiastical antiquities and history; a few pedigrees and arms.

B. 5. Folio. Pedigrees and genealogies. Some of N. Johnston's letters are bound up in the volume.

C. 11. Eleven large volumes.—The first and second volumes consist of pedigrees; some from Dodsworth in N. Johnston's hand.

C. 3. contains good pen and ink drawings by Henry Johnston (brother of N. Johnston) from tombs, churches, houses, curiosities, &c.

C. 4. has drawings of seals with the arms put under letters of the alphabet; but is not much filled; some are from Dodsworth.

C. 5. A similar collection.

C. 6. History of England.—Table of Monasteries, religious houses and hospitals sometime in England and Wales; some arms are drawn in the margins.—The places, dedications, founders and tymes, order and value.—Wives and issues of the Kings of England since the entrance of the Danes in 1017.

A general collection of all the officers of England with their fees in the King's gift, namely, &c.; together with the valuation of the several livings as well of all the bishops as deans in England, with the tenths that every of them payeth his Highness yearly.

C. 7. Folio. Notes from books and papers lent to N. Johnston by various people.—Extracts from books. Pedigrees, &c. (pp. 1—160.)

Pp. 163—260. Pedigrees and arms in Lancashire alphabetically arranged.—Pp. 335—358. Pedigrees from

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

Glover; copies of two letters by Dugdale.—Pp. 359—415. Stafford. Copy of Arms taken in the visitation of the county of Stafford, in 1603 and 1604, by W. Dugdale, Norroy king at arms (with an index).—Pp. 419—425. Several pedigrees.—Pp. 427—473. Extracts out of Glover's Somerset Herald, visitation of Staffordshire (ex libro Gul. Dugdale, Norroy). At the beginning are forms of processions, and drawings for funerals of persons of various ranks; these extend to p. 445.—p. 447. Roll of the Barons of Parliament, 10 Jac.; they are placed according to precedence. The first two are Francis Lord Ros and Lord Spencer of Wormleighton.—Proceedings for the Parliament, 5 April, 12 Jac.; fees at the creation of a Knight of the Bath, &c., &c.—p. 455. Forms for creation of a Pursuivant at arms, (with sketches).—The accomplishments appertaining to a Herald at arms at his creation, with drawings; the ceremony, oaths, &c.—Copy of warrant for coats of arms for all the heralds.—Copy of papers delivered to Thomas Ross, Esq., by W. Dugdale, Norroy, 1663. (Answers to questions about the arms of eldest sons, in two columns).—Order of the funeral of Ed. Earl of Derby, in 1572 (in six columns).—Certificate of Sir Francis Russel Lord Russel (his death was in 1588).—Notes of proceedings at certain funerals, and forms for others with charges and fees, namely, Lady Lumley, Mr. Dacars, the Archbishop of Canterbury at Croydon, Lord Darcy, Sir John Hayward, 1636, Sir Thomas Thynne in 1634, Sir John Campbell, sometime Lord Mayor of London. At p. 465, opinion of Garter and others, 10 Jac., touching baronets. Order of placing lords and ladies according to their degrees.—Cases of precedence.—Officers to noblemen.—Service belonging to great estates.—Definition of an esquire.—Gentlemen.—At pp. 471 and 472, the barons. (Then come some blank leaves). Pp. 495—515, Pedigrees.

C. 8. (the paging is 609—1140). Contains good pen and ink drawings of tombs, arms, seals, and inscriptions from churches, houses, &c., in Yorkshire. At pp. 769—773.—W. Wentworth of Wentworth Woodhouse was baptized 3rd of July 1562; he gave this information to his son Thomas Wentworth, who was baptized 13th of April 1592, and was 12 years old in 1604. He told his son that he before his birth was foreshowed and marked to advancement; and had revealed to him before he was born that he should have one son. Old Sir W. Gascoigne, born in Henry VII. time was rated at 800*l.* at least per annum; old Sir William lived over 100, and splendidly like an earl; he left his inheritance to young Sir William, who lived riotously and brought the estate to a low ebb. Sir William the younger came to Wentworth to hunt the buck before the narrator's father was born; the buck was taken near the house, his father's mother being great with child, she came out with her mother-in-law to bid them welcome. Sir William Gascoigne had a strange gift to conjecture things beforehand, and he swore with a great oath that she was with child of a boy, and swore that he would with the tip of his finger dipped in the buck's blood mark that boy for his own on his mother's cheek, saying it would be a boy and the beard would hide the mark. She resisted; he swore he would mark her with his whole hand; then she submitted. (His father showed him the mark under his beard.) After the death of young Sir William Gascoigne, his son William Gascoigne, Esquire, had divers sons who all died minors, and the narrator's mother became sole daughter to him of such lands as were left and not entailed to heirs male. (By failure of male heirs they also came to his mother.) His father went to Bowlin, where the old lady, grandmother to the narrator's father's wife at first sight took a fancy to him; so the marriage took place. He had four daughters; he fell into a fever and his life was despaired of, and being alone in bed had a vision of a fair woman who said she came from God, and that her name was God's Pity. She told him to go to St. Anne's well at Buxton and wash there; she told him things to come which he could not reveal; his wife and mother coming up stairs, the woman vanished; he told them of the vision, he went to Buxton, and afterwards had a son (the narrator) and saw him grow up to 27.

C. 9. folio. Liber Rogeri Dodsworth, 1635. At the beginning of the volume is the following note by T. Fairfax. "I have in my hands 140 MSS. of Mr. Dodsworth in pastboard covers, and eleven more covered "with leather, and some other printed books in folio, "all of which I received of Mr. King."—Arms of Dodsworth and Harrison quarterly, impaled with Sandwith.—In writing of the 16th century, alphabetical list of names of several families with the arms they severally bore of all the counties in England, folio 1 to 264;

F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.F. B.
FRANK,
Esq.

where the alphabet begins again and is continued to folio 326. (The arms are only in blazon.)

C. 10. Folio of 522 pages, contains pedigrees from Glover, Archer, St. George, Dodsworth, Dugdale, Hopkinson, and Townley (Visitations of Yorkshire and some of the same of Lancashire, &c. as will be seen by the index), pp. 1-39. Barons;—then alphabetically arranged to p. 223. There are a few drawings of seals; all by N. Johnston. Five leaves in Hopkinson's hand are inserted, namely, Barons belonging to Ranulph, Earl of Chester in Henry II.'s time. Crew, Baron Montacute; azure, a lion rampant or.

Warren de Vernon, Baron of Shipbrook.

Nigel, Baron of Halton.

Robert Stockport, Baron of Stockport.

Hugh de Lacy, Baron of Wick Malton.

Venables, Baron of Kinderton.

Hammond Massey, Baron of Dunham Massey.

David Clinton, Baron of Maipais.

Descents of the Barons De Lisle, Tyson, Haulton, Hilton, Vesey, &c. &c. This volume also contains (as indorsed) the descent of the Lacies, Earls of Lincoln from a MS. of Mr. Parkes the antiquarian.

C. 11. folio. This volume contains chiefly pedigrees of the nobility and gentry, mostly of Yorkshire and of some in Lancashire, Cumberland, and Westmoreland, and other counties, with index.—p. 468, &c. Extracts from Domesday.

The Red Book of the Exchequer at p. 539.—Names and arms of Yorkshire knights who served under King Edward I. in Scotland and elsewhere.—p. 291 coats of arms in trick by a different hand.

E. A folio volume containing pedigrees, &c. of the family of Foljambe,* of Alwarke (about 150 pp.). A large collection for the family of Reygate who were for many years possessed of the manor of Stilston, co. York, now called Sterton.

Account of the family of Clarell of Tickhill, pp. 209-336.

Account of the family of Fitzwilliam to p. 348.—Continuation of the account of the Clarell family, pp. 362-379.

Account of the family of Brito or Breton (27 pp.).

The same of the family of Londham (about 22 pp.).

E. 1. and G. Two volumes folio. Transcripts from Dodsworth's Collections.

E. 2. The contents of this volume are described by R. Frank as extracts from Foljambe deeds, and extracts from Sir Francis Hungate's and Sir Godfrey Copley's deeds.—Account of musters at Tickhill and Strafford in 1542.—Ecclesiastical taxation, 8 Ed. III.—Notes by N. Johnston of various places.—Extracts from deeds of Lord Strafford, Wortley, Savile, Fitzwilliam, and Copley.—Notes of Reresby and other families.—Extracts from the deeds of the Percys, Woods, Watsons, Jacksons, Wentworths, and Layton.—Extracts from Halifax parish register and Sir Robert Hillyards deeds, and deeds of St. Leonard's Hospital, York, apparently from Dodsworth.—Divers franchises of the Archbishops of York (with index by R. Frank).—Collections relating to various churches in York.—Excerpts from Florence of Worcester (pp. 390).

E. 2. Epitome of Procopius translated by Sir H. Holcroft, printed in 1603.

Extracts from an ancient MS. of Metham lent me (N. Johnston) by Motham (sic) of Metham.

E. 4. Antiquities of the families of Farnival, Verdun, and Talbot.

Catalogue of N. Johnston's MSS., and about 60 pages relating apparently to King James II. and Magdalen College.

E. 6. Liber Valorum.—(16th century). Latin names of dignities, prebends, rectories, vicarages, churches and chapels within the metropolitan church, city, and archdeaconry of York.

F. 1. 1st part. Index and Collections for Yorkshire, by N. Johnston.

F. 2. Extracts from Dodsworth's MS. marked +. Extracts apparently from early Plea Rolls.—A large collection of epitaphs and arms from the Cathedral and other churches in York by Dodsworth, 1612.—At pp. 424-498 is a copy of a book of Charles Fairfax, transcribed from the original of the Dean and Chapter of York by one who was incumbent of Topcliff. It is headed Receipts of the rents and revenues of vicars choral of the Metropolitan Church of York.—Other parochial antiquities; extracts from rolls; arms of the nobility and gentry.

G. 1. Collections for various families, under names, not alphabetically arranged.—It begins with Musgrave; each family has one page allotted to it. (Index of names by R. Frank.) (264 pp.)

G. 2. Transcripts from Dodsworth, disposed under the surnames of the families they refer to.

G. 3. Parochial Antiquities of Osgodcroft.—The volume contains several collections of ancient deeds from Mr. Dodsworth, &c., relative to the antiquities chiefly of the wapentake of Osgodcroft, Upper and Lower divisions, &c. Richard Frank, 1751.

G. 3. Collections for the towns in the wapentake of Staincross (445 pp.), with an index by R. Frank.

H. Folio volume, containing a list of several towns in the county of York.—Appended to each is an extract from Kirkeby's Inquest, and copies of old deeds and other documents from the collections of Dodsworth and others relating thereto.—There is an index.

H. Part 2. This volume seems to consist of transcripts from Dodsworth, of deeds, &c., relating to religious houses in different parts of the kingdom. It has a table of contents by R. Frank.

I. 2. Collections for Ainsty wapentake (193 pp.), and index by R. Frank.

I. 3. Collections for the wapentake of Barkston and the liberties of Knaresborough and Ripon; with an index by R. Frank. It contains extracts from Dodsworth and others, deeds, seals, and pedigrees, &c. (228 pp.)

K. 1. Folio. Account of the wapentakes of the East Riding, Buchross, Dickering, and Holderness.—Extracts from Nomina Villarum, Kirkeby's Inquest, and Dodsworth's MSS. by N. Johnston; and a few additions by R. Frank; pp. 486, and indices.

K. 2. Collections for the wapentakes of the Ouse and Darwent, Howdenshire, Harthill, and Hallchild.—A similar collection from other books and a few pedigrees. (528 pp.)

K. 3. Collections for Laugbergh and Whithy Strand, Whithy Liberty, Richmond, Gilling. (572 pp. and a small index.)

K. 4. Contains accounts of the wapentakes of Bulmer, Pikerig, Lillie, Ridale in the North Riding; and in the second part accounts of the wapentake of Bridforth, and the liberties of Allerton, and Biland Abbey, in the North Riding. (523 pp. with index.)

L. 2. N. Johnston's collections for the wapentakes of Clare, Morley, &c., and index. (547 pp.)

L. 3. Collections for the wapentake of Shyrack, Staincliff, and Ewcross (393 pp.), with index by N. Johnston.

M. 1. Folio. Miscellaneous collection, with an index of contents, 5 pp.—Pp. 58-60. Extracts from the cartulary of the Priory of Monk Bretton, in the custody of Francis Wortley, Kt. and Bart. 1638.—At p. 232. Particular survey of demesne lands of Nostell Abbey in 1539.—Charters, records, pedigrees.—At the end are indices of persons on 6 leaves, and of places on 10 leaves, in double columns.

M. 2. Folio.—Table of contents and indices of places and persons, pp. 162-203. Charters of Fountains Abbey.—At the beginning are extracts from Close and Escheat Rolls from King John to Queen Elizabeth.—Extracts from Bernards (?); survey of the House of Knaresboro.

M. 3. Folio.—A miscellaneous collection of old evidences and other antiquities, in records, decrees, inquisitions, &c., with some other observations, lent to me (R. Frank) by Dr. Richardson, of North Biesly, in 1746, and extracts from books. (From a MS. of Mr. Hopkinson, of Lofthouse, near Rothwell.)

M. 5. Folio.—Foundation of Hemsworth School, 1543, by Robert Holgate;—Statutes;—his (R. Holgate's) will; constitution of the hospital by the executors in obedience to the Queen's letter.—Thomas Cartwright's Will, so far as relates to his charities, 1597.—The will of Jo. Smyth.—Succession of rectors of a moiety of the church of Darfeld, from 1288 to 1631.—1558. Will of Otho Sager, vicar of Warmfield, relating chiefly to the hospital by him founded at Kirkthorp.—Mr. Fountain's will relating to the hospital at Luton in Craven.—Will of Thomas Cartwright alias Vicers of Scawsby, 1597. Index of names of townships heretofore belonging to Fountains Abbey, or in which they had lands, &c., extracted from a Coucher Book of the Abbey now belonging to . . . Messenger of Fountains, lent by Dr. Burton; with table.—Account of the Vipont family (a few leaves).—Extracts from the Harleian MSS. of all relating to Yorkshire.—Abstracts of old deeds lent by W. Mellich, co. Notts.

* In the 1st and 2nd volumes of Nichols's Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica are about 70 pp. of "Notices of the family of Foljambe," during the reigns of King Henry III. and Edward I., chiefly from "the private charters of the family, by Nathaniel Johnston, M.D. 1701," from a transcript among Mr. Gough's MSS. in the Bodleian Library.

